

1st THROUGH 5th WEEK

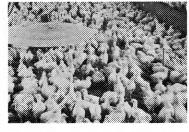

START CHICKS FAST

The day they arrive on CO-OP Chick Pre-Starter Complete. Feed the first 5 weeks or until you have fed 2 pounds per bird. CO-OP Feeds contain the coccidiostat proved best for high livability.

6th THROUGH 10th WEEK

KEEP 'EM GROWING

By feeding CO-OP Chick Starter-Grower. Feed until each bird has consumed 5 pounds. Your chicks will develop fast because CO-OP Feeds contain effective levels of balanced proteins, minerals, vitamins and potent disease fighters.

11th THROUGH 20th WEEK

DEVELOP TOP LAYERS

With CO-OP Pullet Grower Feeds. Feed either CO-OP Pullet Grower Complete or CO-OP Pullet Grower Supplement plus your farm grains. CO-OP Feeds develop your pullets into big framed birds which are prepared to lay at 20-22 weeks of age.

THEN COMES THE BIG DIVIDEND

It is in the laying house where the farmer-owned CO-OP Chick and Pullet Feeding Program really starts paying off. CO-OP Layer Feeds have extra amounts of nutrients which can improve feed efficiency and production when compared to poorly balanced rations.

No matter what type of laying operation you have – floor, cage, slats or wire—CO-OP Layer Feeds will give your hens the energy-protein-vitamin balance they need to lay all of the eggs they are capable of producing,

SPECIAL THANKS

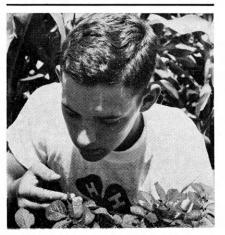

The Honor Roll section in this issue is dedicated to those who make possible the work of the Kansas 4-H Foundation. This financial support provides trips, scholarships, and other awards; leadership training; Rock Springs Ranch improvements; the International Farm Youth Exchange; and others.

4-H Club members, 4-H alumni, parents, and leaders may take a great deal of satisfaction in the part they have had in furthering this work.

The invitation is always open; in fact, 4-H'ers are urged to participate, thus helping themselves through the Foundation. Much can be done when many work together as one.

In addition to financial support many contribute time and energy in various services to support the Foundation program. For example, Donald Atha of Folgers provided art work and layout for the Honor Roll, Collegiate 4-H members hold a work day at Rock Springs to prepare it for summer operation, and county committeemen encourage support.

To all donors who make this great work possible, THANKS in behalf of all 4-H'ers, their families, and friends. You are helping build a better tomorrow.

Our cover picture is of Douglas Kelsey, 4-H member from Rossville, Kansas taken in 1960 by the National 4-H Service Committee.

It is presented here to demonstrate the fast growth the entomology project has made in the past several years.

One of our features this month is about the entomology project. It is on page 4.

Interest in the entomology project in Rice county is on the county-wide basis. Here leader Don Keesling, foreground, is working with project members on a collection tour.

Field trips are more enjoyable when there is a group. Here 4-H members at State Conservation Camp are collecting insects in a field.

Bugs... Bugs... Bugs...

Here's a project that goes hand-in-hand with almost any other 4-H project.

The entomology project is getting more popular every year. Exhibits have doubled at many of the fairs.

This project provides opportunities for 4-H members to work on an individual basis as well as with a club group or a county-wide group.

Adult leaders work with the 4-H members in about as many ways. In Rice county a leader works with the members on a county-wide basis.

Urban and Rural

Popularity of this project is due to its suitability to 4-H members in the city as well as the rural areas.

4-H members are amazed to find the many hundreds of kinds of insects while learning about them and their habits. This study provides a rich experience in project work.

Three Phases

The entomology project is divided into three phases: basic, intermediate and advanced.

Attractions of the project include collecting and identifying insects, studying control of them, making the equipment used, studying the life history of insects and preparing educational exhibits to tell others about the insect world.

In this way project work in entomology is a part of crops, livestock, garden, landscape design, clothing and woodwork. The display box is suggested as a woodwork project and plans for it are offered to 4-H members by the lumbermen listed on pages 9 and 10 of this issue.

Project Helps

"Insects In Kansas" may be checked out from the County Extension Office by clubs and project groups. Your county agent will have other sources of information about insects.

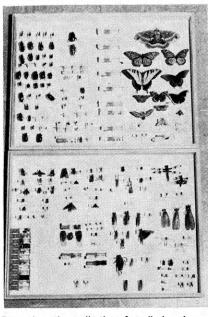

A leaders' Manual is furnished by the 4-H Club Department and is available to leaders from county agents.

county agents. 4-H Club groups and leaders report that many people in the county are potential leaders of the entomology project. Among those helping with individuals and groups are farmers, school teachers, businessmen, librarians as well as the extension agents.

Helpful Hints

This is the time of year when 4-H members and project groups should be making their plans to start collecting insects.

Although insects such as roaches and stored grain insects can be collected the year around, Dell Gates, Extension Entomologist, points out that May until frost is the best collecting period.

Group tours are popular for collecting insects. Also group meetings to make killing jars, collection nets and spreading boards are providing enjoyment for many 4-H'ers in the entomology project.

Letters

If you have ideas or 4-H Club experiences that you would like to write about or if there is something you like or dislike about the Kansas 4-H Journal, write to the Editor, Kansas 4-H Journal, Manbattan, Kansas. Leaders, parents, members, agents and 4-H friends are invited to write.

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the thumb nail sketches of the colleges in Kansas in your February issue. We have eight juniors and seniors in our Club so this issue was well read. Within a week after this issue came out, four different parents had called me to discuss it. We really appreciate what the 4-H Journal has done for us. Thank you.

> Mrs. Albert A. Redger Sitka, Kansas

Dear Editor:

.... I would like to suggest that I feel your readers would like to know a little bit about the junior colleges in the state because I think they are making a significant contribution to higher education. In addition to the public junior colleges, we have five church-related junior colleges which would be delighted to have additional 4-H members in attendance

> John W. Ferrell Director of Admissions Central College McPherson, Kansas

Dear Editor:

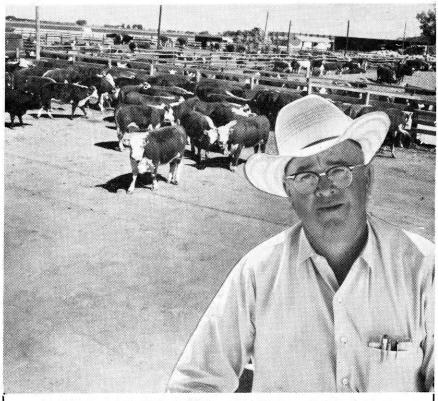

We have a request from the District Agricultural Agent in College, Alaska for the 4-H woodworking plans. We sent one each of all the plans we have. Please send some copies of all future woodworking plans to— Mr. Virgil Severns, Box B, College, Alaska.

If we had to walk awhile in the other fellow's shoes, perhaps we wouldn't criticize his gait.

The best way to get a job done is to get started.

You may not draw a check at the bank until you have made a deposit; so with life, you cannot take out more than you put in.

Grant Heidrick runs the growing feedlot operation for Tieman Cattle Company. As a new pen is put in use, they pave it a strip at a time, starting at the feed bunks.

'Cattle on concrete gain faster!''

says GRANT HEIDRICK, Ft. Morgan, Colorado

"With no mud to flounder in, feeder cattle stay right on the job of eating. On firm concrete footing, they eat more—as much as 5 pounds per head every day. They have an easier life so all the feed goes to making weight. We're getting to market as much as ten days earlier since we put in concrete.

"Naturally, our stock stay cleaner on concrete. We aren't docked at the market for dirty cattle. And we think we save on vet bills. Hoof rot and other mud-borne diseases have been reduced.

"Concrete saves money around the feed storage area, too. Our 22x80-ft. slab for ground hay storage paid for itself in saved feed the very first year."

Low in cost, concrete is a lasting investment in efficiency for beef feeders in every part of the country. Write for free 16-page color booklet showing concrete improvements around the feedlot. (U.S. and Canada only)

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION

811 Home Savings Building, Kansas City 6, Missouri

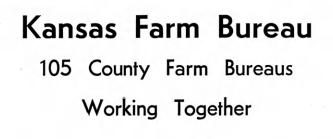

A national organization to improve and extend the uses of concrete

A major objective of Farm Bureau policy is to create conditions whereby farmer may earn and get a high per-family real income in a manner which will preserve freedom and opportnuity. We firmly believe that this objective can best be accomplished by preserving the market price system as the principal influence in allocating the use of farm resources and in distributing farm production.

It is abundantly clear from years of experience that needed adjustments are made more readily and the economic well being of farmers is better served in those areas of agriculture which have not been subject to government control and price support programs. Witness livestock, fruits, and vegetables which have remained free of government programs as contrasted to those commodities where government control and price support programs have been operative for many years.

We vigorously oppose all attempts to depart from the market price system in areas of agriculture still operating under this system. In those areas of agriculture where farm programs have led to a departure from the price system, we urge a return to this system as rapidly as possible.

SHARE YOUR "FUN" ACTIVITIES

By Dick Tomkinson Specialist in 4-H

Thinking that the games, musical games, stunts or skits, parties and other recreational activities you and your 4-H Club members enjoy might also be enjoyed by other 4-H boys and girls, we are asking you to share your "fun" activities with us.

Any 4-H member, junior leader, or 4-H leader can submit their favorite recreational activity to us. We will then have it printed in the monthly recreation column in the Kansas 4-H Journal. This way, you will be sharing your most enjoyable "fun" ideas with the more than 31,000 4-H members and 1,200 clubs in Kansas. You may share any good ideas you or your club enjoyed, a special party, tasty snacks, attractive decorations, or activities you have used that were successful. Club recreation ideas are eagerly sought after by people as they are always looking for recreation suggestions.

Each person, in order, must read his tongue twister as rapidly as possible three times; the person who does his the fastest with the fewest mistakes is awarded a prize. SO PROUDLY WE HAIL

There can be no finer evidence of America's sound present and promising future than is to be found in the 30,000 Kansas 4-H boys and girls, who are preparing themselves physically, mentally, spiritually and for citizenship in all these vital ways:

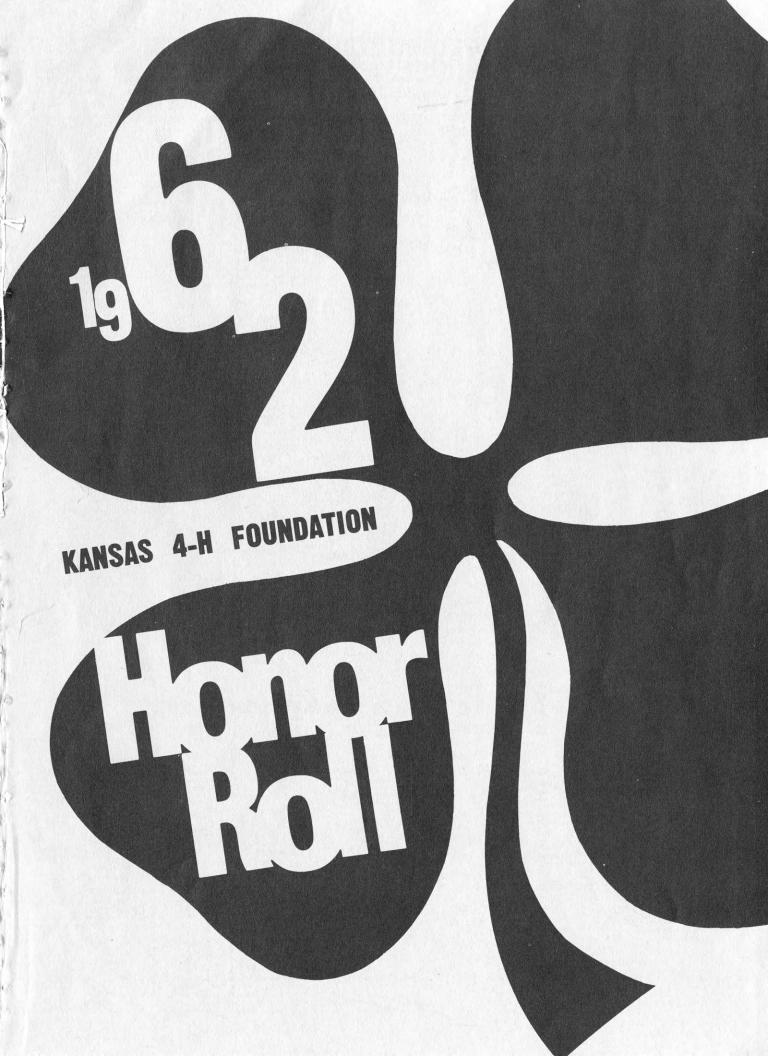

- Developing talents for greater usefulness!
- Joining with friends for work, fun and fellowship!
- Learning to live in a changing world!
- Choosing a way to earn a living!
- Producing food and fiber for home and market!
- Creating better homes for better living!
- Conserving nature's resources for security and happiness!
- Building health for a stronger America!
- Sharing responsibilities for community improvement!
- · Serving as citizens in maintaining world peace!

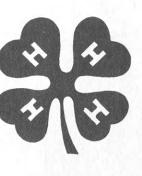

What nobler aims...what more progressive program for achieving them than in your own club work? Keep up the good work!

Investments in 4-H Youth Pay Permanent Dividends for the Good of All Mankind. Happily, the 1962 Honor Roll of donors to the Kansas 4-H Foundation is eloquent proof that more and more people have responded to the dynamic spirit of the 4-H program. This constantly growing list includes 4-H members and their families, 4-H alumni and friends of 4-H-all with a common awareness of the importance of this tremendously vital program to Kansas youth. Every contribution helps carry forward the supremely worthwhile activities of 4-H Club work -all influential in helping Kansas youth develop as increasingly well-trained, capable, progressive-minded and self-reliant citizens. To every individual, organization and firm on this Honor Roll, sincere thanks and congratulations on a wisely-contributed gift!

The Birthday

By Margaret Jacobsmeyer

"Hi Mom-I'm home," Larry exclaimed.

Mrs. Fletcher nodded and smiled and continued her telephone conversation.

Larry made a fast trip through the house, then he made a second slower trip. Everything looked the same as usual. Disappointed he returned to the kitchen. His mother was still on the phone.

"That's all right," she was saying, "I have time —it's Larry's birthday so we're having fried chicken for supper."

Larry's face brightened, but it clouded again as his mother continued.

"No, we aren't having a party—this is Early Bird's night and Mike is giving a demonstration ... yes, it's too bad it falls on the same day, but Larry's being very grown up about it ... he's eight ... I know—I can't believe it either—it seems like only yesterday that he was a baby..."

Larry hurried to his room. It made him feel funny when grownups talked like that. He hadn't been a baby for as long as he could remember. He could remember being little. There was the time he fell out of the tree swing and hit his head on the wagon Mike and Lyn forgot to put away. He could still remember crying and how the whole family gathered around to comfort him. He felt like crying now. Here it was his birthday and no sign of a cake or a present. It was just like any other day. He had known his birthday would be on the same day as the 4-H meeting, and it was all right with him that Mike wanted the whole family to be there for his demonstration, but he didn't think his birthday would be neglected like this.

"Larry," his mother called.

"I'm in my room." He quickly started to change his clothes.

"That was Mrs. MacDougal on the phone. She has an old antique organ she wants us to pick up. The way things are coming in for the auction we might get that new Fair Building. Are you going out to play?"

Larry shook his head. "I think I'll go down to the barn."

"Would you like a glass of milk first?"

"No—I'm not hungry."

His mother smiled. "I know—you want to have plenty of room for that fried chicken."

Larry managed a smile and nodded, but he didn't see how he'd be able to eat a bite.

Jinx was waiting for him at the back door with a stick between his teeth, but Larry passed him without a word.

The barn was dim and cool after the warm Spring sunshine but Larry didn't mind. He wanted to be alone and the barn was empty-even the cats had deserted it to soak up some of the welcome sun. He sat down on a bale of hay and stared at the floor. Everything was quiet, then all at once Jinx started barking. Larry listened for a moment. It was the bark Jinx used to greet someone he knew. It could be Mike or Lyn coming home. Or maybe it was Jan Perkins wanting to play with him. He didn't want to see anybodyespecially not her. She was partly to blame that his birthday was such a letdown. Ever since he could remember he had thought that when he was eight he could join 4-H, and she had to be the one to tell him that you had to be eight by the first of January to be a member. He could still feel himself getting red in the face when she told everybody that he thought he'd get to join. Old know-it-all-just because she was a year older than he-she hadn't even heard of 4-H before she became their neighbor. She was the last person he wanted to see. But his mother knew he was here. He looked around. There were still bales of hay stored in the loft. He could climb up the ladder and hide, and if Jan came she'd think he changed his mind about coming to the barn and leave. He had to hurry though. He scrambled up the ladder and climbed over the bales. They were stacked six deep but there was enough room to squeeze in between the last bale and the wall. The dust from the loft and the hay tickled his nose and made him sneeze. He strained his ears for any sounds from below and held his fingers tightly against his nose so he wouldn't sneeze any more. He remained quiet for several minutes listening to the little rustling sounds of the hay loft. Then he heard something else. It sounded like the barn door. He waited tensely but everything was quiet again.

"Larry?"

The unexpected voice made him jump. It was Jan. Well let her call.

"Larry—are you in here?"

He heard her walking around. She called several more times, then the barn door closed and he was alone again. He had a sudden idea. Why not just stay here! Then they'd be sorry they hadn't treated him better, and when they found him they'd make a big fuss over him. He could see them all gathered around him and comforting him. He was surprised how he could picture it all so clearly. Then he remembered. It had happened—a long time ago when he was little and fell out of the swing. He felt a feeling of shock and the first "H" of the 4-H Pledge flashed into his mind.

I pledge my head to clearer thinking.

He had never quite understood what that meant until now. He had to get back to the house. If Jan told his mother he wasn't in the barn she'd be worried.

He was half way down the ladder when Lyn and Mike rushed into the barn.

"Hey, come on," Lyn called, "this is no place to celebrate your birthday."

"I'll race you up to the house," Mike challenged. Larry dashed through the door before the other two knew what was happening.

"No fair," Mike puffed when he got to the house, "you had a head start."

But Larry knew Mike could have beaten him.

"Dad's home," Lyn said, "and I think I saw something on the kitchen table that might belong to you."

Larry made for the kitchen where his eyes took in the decorated cake and the packages in one glance.

"Mrs. Perkins decorated the cake," his mother said, "and Jan brought it over."

16-

"That's supposed to be your house," Jan explained.

She sounded almost shy Larry thought. "It's swell," he said, "thanks and thank your Mom."

"Aren't you going to open your presents?" his father asked.

"Yes Sir-r-r," Larry declared and started undoing a square-shaped package. "Oh boy — a camera!"

"Now maybe you'll leave mine alone," Mike said.

"Open the other package," everyone urged.

"It feels like something to wear." He lifted out a white sweatshirt decorated with the 4-H emblem and the words, "Early Birds". Larry looked puzzled. "I don't get it," he told the smiling faces around him.

"Simple—" Mike said, "—Jan tells everybody you think you get to join 4-H when you're eight it isn't hard for us to see that you're disappointed to say the least, so we act—we talk to Mr. Anderson who checks with the Extension Office which says we can take you into our club since Lyn and I are members — so Jan here is responsible for getting the machinery rolling and you are an Early Bird as of tonight."

"WOW-EEE!" Larry shouted.

"Seriously though—" Mike added, "Mr. Anderson's going to talk to you and tell you what you can take part in—I don't know if you'll get to have a project yet—"

'That's all right," Larry said. "When I can have a project I'll pick photography and I can start practicing now—come on outside Jan—I'll take your picture."

"Hmmm—" Mr. Fletcher said thoughtfully as Jan and Larry went out the door, "—I had the feeling that Larry didn't care for Jan."

Mrs. Fletcher smiled. "He has sort of given that impression, but I believe something happened to make him change his mind."

Roberta Overall of Sumner county is modeling her new 4-H uniform. She has chosen the rollup sleeve version with the convertible collar.

New Look For Girls 4-H Uniforms

Have you seen the "new look" in the girls 4-H uniform? It is now two-piece with several blouse versions.

The fabric is the same green and white stripe cotton coravan material. Girls may choose from the blouse style worn by Roberta (left) with a convertible collar or a collarless style.

The blouse may be made with roll-up sleeves or sleeveless. This makes the uniform very versatile.

The softly pleated skirt is comfortable to wear and very feminine in appearance.

Dorothy Reeves (right), Wyandotte county is looking at the latest fashion book to see the jewel neckline style which she will be wearing to National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C.

She will wear a single strand of white or pearl beads at the neckline, a white crocheted bandeau, white shoes, purse and gloves for dress occasions.

The one-piece 4-H dress may still be worn as is or remodeled by those who have them.

INVESTMENT IN YOUTH

Service is an important part of 4-H: Service to people and to the community.

Service to the 4-H Club program is the purpose of the Kansas 4-H Foundation.

Even though 4-H Clubs are more interested in service than the recognition they receive in contributing to the Foundation, questions about the recognition plan are received.

The recognition plan provides a permanent record of support given.

Recognition Plan

The recognition plan, established in 1954, provides Membership Certificates to those whose contributions come within the following minimum scale:

Organizations such as 4-H Clubs at $1.00 per member, business firms $100.00 and individuals $25.00.

Shares

"Shares" may be purchased in less amounts as desired. Special arrangements are made for those desiring to make major investments. Annual contributions are encouraged.

Memberships

Memberships have been received from 4-H Clubs, home demonstrations units, businessmen, farm people, foundations and trusts, and many others.

Several 4-H Clubs have purchased $100 memberships and also give yearly to the Foundation program.

Last year five 4-H Clubs were honored for long time support of 4-H Club work through the Foundation. These clubs have contributed seven years. They are Busy Bees, Washington county; Riverside, Shawnee; Rome Rockets, Sumner; Blackjack, Pottawatomie; and Carbondale Rustlers, Osage.

Each year, as memberships are sent in, special seals are provided for the recognition certificates. These are added to the certificates as illustrated here.

Being a hostess and helping everyone to be a part of the party is something you can practice in the Personal Development project. You can get experience before you are put on the spot.

Ideas That Work

In Appreciation

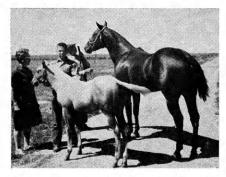

In appreciation-Karen Timmons, a member of the Mapleleaf 4-H Club of Stevens county, recently presented a Swedish tea ring to Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hubbard, publishers of the Hermes, in appreciation for their cooperation in giving publicity to 4-H activities. Karen has made more than 200 rings and has demonstrated making them at local club meetings, club days and State Fair.

Interest in 4-H and Horses

Mary and Rol Dixon have been cooperating with the Edwards county 4-H'ers in trying to improve the horse project in the county. In the picture above Mary Dixon, Lyle Dean Jensen with Lyle's colt and also Rol Dixon holding the sire of the colt. The sire of the colt is Mission George with the registration number P-153608 Rol and Mary Dixon are servicing all the 4-H'ers quarter horse mares free of charge if they will show their colt at the fair and also at the quarter horse show.

4-H in the Gay Nineties

Parents of members of the Nine Mile Club, Leavenworth county, conducted the parents' night meeting as it might have been done in the Gay Nineties.

Mrs. J. C. Benge, health leader, had her head tied up to cure the mumps. She told of many home remedies, from sulfur and molasses to goose grease.

Mrs. Emory Force was music leader. She played and sang "My Blue Heaven." Mrs. Charles Wood pushed her sunbonnet back to give safety hints for the horse and buggy. Mr. and Mrs. Mcgee Leipard gave a novelty comedy number. Mrs. Ed White recited a Thanksgiving poem. Alex Grabeal, complete with crockery water jug, gave a project talk set for each team) and two lines of players. Words are called out one at a time as in a spelling bee, the first player immediately runs to his cards and finds the first letter of the word and as soon as he is back in line, the next person goes for the second letter and so on. The team with the word correctly spelled first is the winner and receives five points. Play for several words and have the losing team do a stunt. (Do not use words with duplicate letters.) After each word is spelled, the letters will have to be returned to the pile for use in the next word, but substitute a whistle for every vowel in the word. If they misspell or forget to whistle instead of saying vowel, that person drops out and the person remaining the longest is the winner.

Chase County 4-H'er Uses Electric Project To Help Become a "Ham" Radio Operator

Larry Martin, 18 year old Chase County 4-H'er, is using his electric project to become a "Ham" radio operator right away ... and to help prepare himself for an electric engineer degree in the future.

As Larry states, "The electric project has aided me in learning the proper wiring techniques and construction procedures relating to motors, radios, lighting and other electrical devices. I feel that the electric project is a definite help to any 4-H'er—not only while working in electronics, but also with practically any other project."

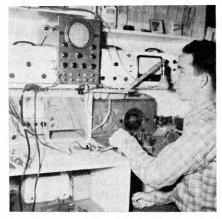

The investor-owned Kansas electric companies salute Larry Martin for his part electrical accomplishments and wish him well in the growing field of electronics.

Larry looks through his "spare parts" drawer for just the right piece of electronic equipment.

Larry has assembled all of his testing equipment from kits. His workshop is located in his room.

Larry gives a final check to one of his electric projects with an oscilloscope he also assembled.
