NO FAVORITES FOR THE McKEE BOYS

Miles McKee, Kansas State University livestock expert, can't be accused of playing any breed favorites, judging by the 4-H fat steer entries by his two sons, Dave, 14, and Richie, 11. Dave will show an Angus and Richie a Hereford. Both animals are 16 months of age and their condition shows the McKee boys know something about their business.

 It's Fair Time *****

Unmistakably this is Fair Season in the G&G area. Practically all counties in the area have fairs, some of them relatively quiet affairs used as a late summer showpiece for 4-H activities, but most of them expanded to include both open class and 4-H exhibits plus carnivals, variety shows, and other outside entertainment.

Some of the festivals have outgrown the county fair designation and attract exhibits and customers from a multi-county region. Salina, Abilene, Belleville and Herington all have fairs that are legitimately billed as regional fairs.

Attention is focused on livestock competition in most fairs, with many a young stockman eager to win a local ribbon that will justify a trip for greater competition at statewide fairs at Topeka and Hutchinson.

The local fair season, however, is in its glory right now. A few fairs have already been completed but most of them are scheduled for this week and next. Several more are set for the final 10 days of the month.

Here's the schedule in the G&G area:

Feeders Ask To Keep 7% Tax Credit

The U.S. Senate Committee Finance was urged to continue investment credit on federal come tax returns by National Livestock Feeders Association President G. L. Hadley and Executive Secretary Don F. Magda.

The two officials requested seven percent investment credit be retained on purchases up to $25,000 per year, emphasizing this would be most meaningful to farmers and livestock operators, as well as small businessmen.

They pointed out that agricultural income has not benefited from nor caused inflation, and that removal of investment credit would further hinder efforts to bring agricultural income on level with other segments of the economy.

Credit helps farmers keep equipment updated, even when equipment prices have increased considerably more than prices of the farm products sold, the Committee was told.

"Farmers and livestock operators need an increasing amount of newer and larger equipment to replace the rapidly declining farm labor force and availability of hired farm workers," the NLFA executive stated.

We Believe

The dignity of man is best served when people work together to help each other . . . this is as true economically as it is politically or socially.

Economic tools should be used to solve economic problems.

Cooperatives . . . owned, controlled and used by farmers are an economic tool.

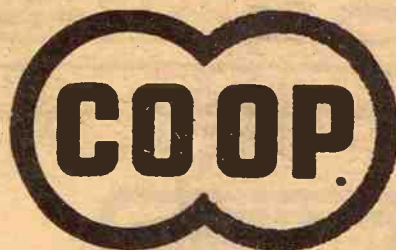

The farmer cooperative is an integral part, an extension of each member's farm business.

Cooperatives are good for the community . . . the savings remain and are generally spent in the community.

As cooperatives are better understood, they will play a greater role in:

- Stabilizing and improving the rural community
- Keeping farmers in control of the farm business
- Benefitting both producer and consumer
- Demonstrating how cooperative international trade will benefit the many rather than the few

"We Believe" is reprinted from the plaque hanging in the directors' rooms of co-ops. We believe Fair Time is a Good Time to expose this creed to all our farm people.

Farming is a good life...

And there's nothing like the county Fairs to prove this.

We of Farmers Co-op are interested particularly in the activities of the young farmers in our three counties — Riley . . . Pottawatomie . . . Wabaunsee

Winner Of Prize Is Mrs. Helen Moore, Holton

Winner, Mrs. Helen Moore, R 2, Holton: "This fruit dessert is delicious made with fresh peaches, although canned ones may be used if well-drained."

CREAM FRUIT PIE

Mix together:

1 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt and 1 beaten egg with enough sweet cream to make a soft dough.

Line a 13x8-inch baking dish with the dough. Place sliced peaches, five or six, depending on size and thickness desired. Then pour mixture of 1 beaten egg, 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour over peaches. Bake in a 350-degree oven until custard is done.

Mrs. Louis Carter, Morrowville: "I enjoy your recipes very much and am sending one that is good to fix for Sunday dinner or any time."

CHICKEN RICE CASSEROLE

1 fryer chicken, cut up and skinned
1 can mushroom soup
1 can cream of celery soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 stick of oleo
1 soup can of milk
1 cup minute rice

Mix all ingredients and place in casserole with cut up chicken. Bake in slow oven at 275 to 300 degrees for 2½ to 3 hours.

Mrs. Laurence Griffie, R 1, Frankfort: "Here is one of the simplest and most delicious pickle recipes I have ever made."

REFRIGERATOR PICKLES

4 cups sugar
4 cups vinegar
½ cup salt
1½ teaspoons turmeric
1½ teaspoons celery seed
1½ teaspoons mustard seed
3 onions, sliced thin
cucumber, sliced thin

Mix sugar, vinegar and spices together. Do not heat. This syrup is cold. Wash and sterilize three large peanut butter jars. Slice 1 onion into each. Wash and slice enough cucumbers to fill jars. Stir syrup well and pour over cucumbers and onions. Screw on lids. Refrigerate at least five days before using.

KEEP IN REFRIGERATOR AT ALL TIMES — THIS IS COLD.

Mrs. Albert Johannes, Marysville: "Here is a fresh peach pie recipe as peaches are almost in season."

GLAZED FRESH PEACH PIE

Bake pie shell first.

Crush:

3 ripe peaches

Add:

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup water

Cook over medium heat until thick and clear. Let this cool then slice 4 peaches into the baked pie shell. Pour cooked mixture over the fresh peaches. Chill. Top with whipped cream or dessert whip or serve with ice cream.

Mrs. Lloyd Olson, R 2, Morganville: "I like the Grass & Grain paper very much. Here is a good recipe to serve for club."

PINEAPPLE SURPRISE

(Serves 8-10)

Roll into fine crumbs:

1 pound vanilla wafers
Divide crumbs into three parts. Put ⅓ in bottom of square dish. Beat together until creamy then pour over crumb layers:
½ cup butter, creamed
2 eggs

1½ cups powdered sugar
On top of this place another layer of crumbs. Whip 1 pint of whipping cream and fold in 1 can (No. 2) crushed pineapple. Pour over second layer of crumbs. Top with third portion of crumbs. Refrigerate several hours before serving, or overnight, if preferred.

Mrs. Paul Rombeck, Blue Rapids, describes this recipe as "delicious and pretty."

STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE SALAD

2 packages strawberry gelatin (3 ounce size)
2 cups boiling water

2 packages frozen strawberries (regular size)
1½ cups pineapple, drained
1 cup slivered almonds
½ cup sour cream
1 4-ounce package cream cheese

Dissolve gelatin in water; add frozen berries (may need to work with hands). Add pineapple and almonds. Pour half into 8-inch square pan. Chill till set. Soften cream cheese. Beat with cream and spread over first layer. Then spoon on rest of gelatin. For luncheon leave spoon near spoon out or you could cut into squares and serve. "Always forward to seeing the recipe each week."

Quick Way To Chop Nuts

To chop nuts in a hurry, place them in a small plastic bag and pound them with your rolling pin.

To Iron Sheers

To iron a sheer blouse or dress, pin a dampened turkish towel firmly to the ironing board cover and iron the garment over it. This method gives better results than placing the cloth over the garment, for it allows you to see the material while ironing it and keeps you from ironing wrinkles in the clothing.

Now Is The Time To Buy Nectarines

Among the fruits on the market, one that is gaining in popularity is the nectarine. It's a cousin of the peach because it looks similar and tastes something like a peach. The skin is smooth and tender. The name comes from the Greek, "nekteer," or "the drink of the gods."

You'll see them through September. Right now is the peak of the season so through August the quality will be highest and the price lowest.

Homemakers Programs To Be Presented At Field Days

MANHATTAN — Special programs designed to appeal to homemakers are planned at four Kansas farms next month during the third annual Kansas Farm Management Field Days.

Several local women and Extension home economists from Kansas State University will discuss topics ranging from wigs to home furnishings at the August 5 and 8 events.

Giving an allowance to children will be the theme of a talk by Mrs. Elinor Anderson, Extension home management specialist, at the David Hirt farm in Anderson County August 5. Mrs. Winona Starkey, Extension home furnishings specialist, will discuss how furnishings fit into the home.

The August 5 program at the Herb Niles farm in Coffey County will feature a demonstration of the wear and care of wigs by Mrs. Eileen Reimer, Lebo, and Mrs. Ramona Bartee, Osage City. Mrs. Deborah Hobbie, Extension family life specialist, will talk on sex education for children. Mrs. Wayne N. Baxter, Larned, will show and tell how to use and enjoy antiques in the home August 8 at the Lester Ideker farm in Pawnee County. Mrs. Dorothy Neufeld, area Extension home economist, will talk on "Investing for Your Future."

Speakers and their topics for the August 8 program at the Ralph Opie farm in Barton County are Mrs. Elinor Anderson, "Laws That Affect Consumers and Property Owners in Everyday Living," and Mrs. Geraldine Howe, Extension home furnishings specialist, "What's New For Your Home."

Sponsored by the Kansas Extension Service in cooperation with several local and area organizations, the field days are designed to give the general public an opportunity to visit some of the top farms in the state and see why these operations are successful.

Visitors may examine the facilities and listen to subject matter presentations at each of these farms and also the Robert and Harry LeRoy farm near Great Bend and the Ward Feed Yard, Inc., at Larned August 8.

The field days begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude with noon luncheon programs at Burlington and Larned.

Neat Storage

Perforated hardboard panels, which can be installed on walls or the inside of closet doors, provide neat and easily accessible storage. Special fittings, hooks and brackets — which fit in the perforations — hold a variety of items, including clothing, utensils and tools.

Humidity May Cause Carpet To Buckle

Probably you haven't noticed the slight increase in the size of your carpet when the humidity in the air rises. Excessive humidity and damp weather may cause temporary buckling in your carpeting.

This will probably disappear with a dryer atmosphere. If it should be a problem, consult your carpet dealer. A carpet layer can usually solve the problem just by restretching a carpet in installation.

Keep Salad Fresh

When storing leftover salad in the refrigerator, keep it fresh and crisp by placing an inverted saucer in the bottom of the salad bowl to take care of excess dressing.

Palm Oil A Trade Threat To Soybeans

Increasingly keen competition for oils crushed from American soybeans and cottonseed is seen in the rapidly growing volume of imported palm oil.

Palm oil, shipped in for the most part from Malaysia and Indonesia, now accounts for only a small part of U.S. fats and oils supplies, but government students of world agricultural trends expect a tripling of output in Southeast Asia by 1975.

This could be sufficient to dent U.S. production dominance of the domestic and export market for edible oils. U.S. supplies of palm oil reached a low in 1965, when 7 million pounds were imported, to around 200 million pounds this year. Last year's imports were 103 million pounds, more than 90 percent of the total coming from Malaysia and Indonesia.

Palm oil comes in duty free and even with shipping costs added sells for less than domestic edible fats and oils. Most palm oil goes into shortening, competing with soy oil. Soap and margarine makers use the balance.

The Congo once was the major supplier of American palm oil imports, but the political and economic uncertainties after achievement of independence sharply reduced Congo palm products trade. Malaysia and Indonesia have not only expanded oil palm acreage but have built refineries to refine oil from the fruit immediately after it is picked, which improves quality and acceptance by American buyers.

Lots Of Farm Related Jobs

It is a common misconception that there are fewer opportunities in agriculture today because of the decrease in number of farms.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth," says Vernon Geissler, assistant director of the Kansas State University career planning and placement center.

"More jobs are being offered by agri-business firms than there are graduates to fill these positions," comments Geissler. "This is reflected in the starting salaries offered to Kansas State University agricultural graduates. The average monthly starting salaries have increased from $465 in 1963 to $768 in 1969. Generally, the range of offers this year has been from $550 to $800.

In all, 155 firms sought KSU agricultural graduates this past year through on-campus interviews.

While only 10 percent of KSU seniors are students in agriculture, nearly a fourth of all firms interviewing prospective employees this past year through the KSU career planning and placement center have sought agricultural graduates.

Geissler says that in spite of the fact that K-State's College of Agriculture enrollment has doubled since 1963 "it is not keeping up with the demand and with technological changes which are taking place. There is no reason," he says, "not to expect this trend to continue."

Young Farm Workers Eyed By Labor Dept.

NEWTON — Farm labor practices on Harvey County farms are being questioned by the Agriculture and Child Labor Div. of the Federal Dept. of Labor of Wichita.

Agricultural Extension Agent Jack Barnes said he was made aware of the investigation when a Harvey County farmer notified his office that an investigator had stopped at a farm where the farmer was doing some custom work for another farmer.

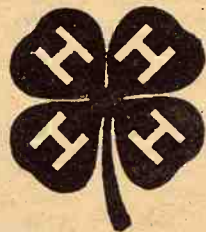

The investigator informed the farmer that he was in violation of the new law regarding child labor on farms when he permitted his son to drive his equipment while he was doing custom work on any farm other than his own. A preliminary warning was issued.

Barnes explained that under a recently enacted federal law, youths in the 14 and 15 age bracket are required to have a special course (offered by the extension service) on tractor operation and safety, before they can "hire out" as tractor operators. Even though the youth was working for his own father, the fact that they were working on a neighbors farm means the boy could not legally operate the tractor.

Extent of the survey or investigation was not known, Barnes stated.

Some Jolted By Feedlot Report

Cattle feeders were jolted heavily by the USDA's July cattle on feed report indicating a 15 percent increase over the level of feeding of a year ago. The Crop Reporting Board said 10,397,000 head were on feed for slaughter market in 22 major feeding states as this month opened and forecast that marketings will be up 11 percent during July-September 1969 over the same period last year.

Reaction to the report in trade circles was immediately bearish, adding a darker complexion to the markets, which had been sharply lower in the two preceding weeks.

The big jump in feedlot numbers evidently was due to sharply increased placement of cattle on feed. The report said placements during April through June, 1969, were up 17 percent from the same quarter a year earlier in the 22 states. Fed cattle marketings in the quarter were 3 percent larger than a year earlier.

Views on what the big increase might mean to fed cattle prices later this year were mixed. The American National Cattlemen's Association said in its weekly analysis that "the increased numbers of cattle on feed does not mean beef production will increase by a like amount. It is beef tonnage that counts. However, it does mean it is extremely important for the next 120 days that feedlots stay current and cattle be marketed regularly at light weights. This will be the major factor affecting the market and fortunately is a key variable that cattlemen can control."

Discuss Acre Limits On Sugar Beets

Sugar beet producers will be sounded out on the possible need for 1970 farm acreage allotments at an informal public hearing July 22 in San Francisco.

The secretary of agriculture also will seek grower views on the level of next year's acreage requirements, methods for allocating among state and allotment areas within states and ways of determining individual farm proportionate shares.

The law requires establishment of farm acreage allotments if the agriculture secretary determines production from a crop will result in a surplus over and above area requirements with a normal carryover. The marketing of sugar beets within the individual proportionate shares is one condition producers must meet to qualify for sugar payments.

Sugar beet acreages were not restricted for the 1967, 1968 and current year crops. Three years ago, 1,191,007 acres were planted. Preliminary figures show total plantings of 1,495,000 acres in 1968 and the current estimate is for a jump to 1,650,000 acres this year. The 1968 crop produced about 3,502,000 short tons, increasing the sugar inventory January 1, 1969, to around 2,651,000 tons. This was about 415,000 tons more than supplies on hand 12 months earlier.

Applying the 1964-68 acreage yield of nearly 2.3 tons per acre to indicated planting this year suggests production of 8,777,000 tons of beet sugar. As the sugar beet quota is now 3,216,000 tons, this would mean a greater buildup of supplies by the start of next year.

Warns Of Poisoning Hazards

Many chemicals can pass through the skin in sufficient amounts to produce poisoning. Because of this, the hazards of accidental poisoning by penetration of chemicals through the skin are of particular concern in the safe use of pesticides.

Oil emulsions of pesticides will penetrate the skin more readily than water emulsions or mixtures of these materials.

Frank G. Bieberly, chairman of the Kansas State University pesticide committee, added that water and chemicals that dissolve readily in water do not generally pass through unbroken skin.

Spraying in the wind, fogging or aerial applications may deposit pesticides on the skin and saturate clothing. Removing the shirt during hot summer days increases the degree of exposure and chances for contamination of the skin.

Skin contamination may result indirectly by coming in contact with objects that were previously sprayed.

For protection from accidental poisoning by penetration of chemicals through the skin, Bieberly suggests the following practices: (1) Read the label and observe safety precautions when using pesticides, paints, cleaning fluid or other household chemicals. 2) Wear rubber gloves and other protective clothing as directed on the label. 3) If chemicals are spilled on the skin or clothing, wash the affected areas thoroughly with soap and water and remove chemically soaked clothing as soon as possible. 4) When spraying or dusting, avoid contact with skin and prolonged inhalation of mists or dusts. 5) Avoid direct skin contacts with sprayed plants for several days.

Feeding Poor: 'Not Is It Good For Me - But Is It Good?'

The trouble with trying to doctor poor folks' diets with high-protein additives for their own good is that they will reject it unless the food tastes just the way it always did and doesn't cost any more.

And, added Robert D. Stuart, Jr., president of the Quaker Oats Company, to a Senate committee studying "nutrition and human needs," the protein fortification of cereal foods such as cornmeal and grits does change their flavor, texture and appearance, and raises the cost by a third.

He spoke of tests conducted this last year among cornmeal users, some at "very low income levels," toward ending malnutrition and added:

"The results were very discouraging. The concept of high-protein cornmeal is of very little interest and there was virtually no interest in such a product unless it tasted exactly like cornmeal, which it wouldn't, and was identical in cost."

But Stuart also complained that because of tightening food and drug administration standards, even if his company could produce a cornmeal enriched with soy flour that looked and tasted exactly like virgin cornmeal, it could not market such a product under the name of cornmeal.

And he insisted that cornmeal consumers, "malnourished or otherwise," would be very hard to persuade to switch to something called "cornmeal with soy flour," or some such name, even if the product were better for them.

This led Stuart to suggest, despite "reservations about this as a government role," that Washington may have to switch from subsidizing research and food manufacturing to subsidizing advertising and promotion of consumer education.

"When you hope to sell something which departs from traditional consumption patterns — or even give it away — it makes little difference; the difficulty is even greater and the promotional effort must be substantially larger," he said.

Stuart told the committee headed by Sen. George McGovern (D-SD) of a 6-year project to popularize "Incaparina," a high-protein mixture of grains used in Colombia to make a thin gruel called "Colada."

He said the project only now is barely breaking even financially, although 20 servings cost only 20 cents and the mixture provides as much nutrition as a glass of powdered whole milk and costs one-seventh the price.

"The basic point is that it is extremely difficult to gain consumer acceptance for any new product," Stuart said. He added that where prices must be kept so low, it is hard to convince the consumer, particularly the poorly educated one, "that she should try something new."

As for trying "Incaparina" in low-income areas of the United States, Stuart said it would be virtually impossible to gain acceptance of it, because it doesn't resemble any familiar American food. He added that the Quaker Oats Company has had no success trying to promote it in Latin American countries other than Colombia.

Court Test Of Pro Rata Tax On Automobiles

Atty. Gen. Kent Frizzell said the state will challenge a 1969 automobile assessment act on the grounds it violates the Kansas and U.S. constitutions.

An original quo warranto action is expected to be filed within two days with the Kansas Supreme Court. It will name Ronald F. Dwyer, state property valuation director, as defendant.

The law was aimed at closing loopholes in present procedures for assessing automobiles by prorating the tax based on the number of months the vehicle was owned.

"My reasoning is that a great percentage of county officials have indicated the law is impossible to administer. They complained about some of the gross inequities and we feel there is a genuine question whether the bill provided due process or equal protection," Frizzell said.

"I feel it is a matter of sufficient importance, since it's a revenue measure, that an early decision should be obtained," he added.

The state will contend that the act violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which assures due process of law and violates the Kansas constitutional guarantees of uniform and equal taxation.

The Legislature was attempting to remove that provision of the law which allows a person to buy a new car after Jan. 1 and still pay personal property tax on his old vehicle.

It also would have eliminated the loophole through which a car owner could sell his car on the last day of December and not purchase a new auto until after Jan. 1, thereby escaping the tax.

The new act would require the tax to be paid on the basis of number of months a new car was owned during a particular year.

Kansas Income At Top Of Plains

The average Kansan will be earning more in 1970 than any of his neighbors in the Northern Great Plains states, Jack Lacy, director of the Kansas Department of Economic Development, said today.

Speaking before the economic education workshop at Fort Hays Kansas State College, Lacy said business expansions in Kansas, stemming from industrialization, will account for the job increase and better payrolls.

Lacy said U.S. Department of Commerce figures now set the average annual income for each Kansan at $3333 a year, topping Missouri, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska.

Only Colorado ranks higher than Kansas, and it leads by only $38 a person.

Lacy said the rate of gain in Kansas is 54.2 percent, compared with 48.2 percent in Colorado, indicating that Kansas will lead the list next year.

"Throughout most of this century, an important economic race has been waged across the Great Plains," Lacy said.

"The continuing capacity of nonfarm economy in Kansas to provide expanding employment for manpower helps take care of areas where manpower is available because of increased mechanization on the farms."

Income per person listed by the Department of Commerce:

Kansas $3333; Colorado $3371; Missouri $3221; Nebraska $3220; Wyoming $3139; Montana $2917; South Dakota $2916; Oklahoma $2860; and North Dakota $2808.

MCPHERSON FIRM ADDS TO PRODUCTION

Wheat Stores Back To Levels Of 1964

Wheat exports in 1969-70 are expected to increase from the 542 million bushels shipped during the year ended June 30, to the United States still is expected to wind up with its largest surplus since 1964, says the Agriculture department.

The carryover on July 1, 1969, of 811 million bushels, slightly more than had been predicted and most since 1965, the department reported. A year ago the carryover was 539 million bushels.

Lagging exports, due mostly to a glutted world market, have helped boost the stockpile. The 542 million bushels shipped in 1968-69 were a 10-year low, compared with 761 million a year earlier, and the record of 861 million bushels in 1965-66.

Exports this marketing year were expected to range from 500 million bushels to 600 million, many reports said. Thus, allowing for domestic use, the wheat carryover by next July 1 would be 832 million to 882 million bushels, the report said. This would be the largest stockpile since 1964.

The report said wheat used for livestock feed last year totaled 176 million bushels, the most in 20 years, and that this could exceed in 1969-70.

Find Vaccine For Feedlot Cattle Disease

Protection from a growing feedlot cattle disease, whose symptom is simply "sudden death" was announced recently by Franklin Laboratories, Deerfield, Ill.

Commonly called "over-eating disease," the malady is technically known as enterotoxemia. It is caused by types of organisms are commonly involved in enterotoxemia. A triad of deaths — Clostridium Perfringens Type C and D. The new biologic replaces two separate vaccines that were formerly needed to develop immunity against these two organisms. It is known as Clostridium Perfringens Type C and D Bacterin Toxoid.

The trend toward increasing amounts of grain in the cattle feedlot ration provides an ideal environment for growth of the perfringens organisms. As a result the growing incidence of enterotoxemia losses among feedlot cattle is a matter of mounting concern to feedlot operators everywhere.

The new Franklin product develops antitoxins within the animal to neutralize the toxin poisons that result from a heavy grain ration. The high-energy rations stimulate production of the perfringens organisms, and this rapid growth throws off toxin (bacterial poison). These are in turn absorbed by the animal, causing death. Usually these sudden deaths are the symptoms of an onslaught of enterotoxemia, and they occur more frequently during the latter part of the feeding period when rations are stepped up to the highest level of grain concentrates.

To provide a high antitoxin level that will protect cattle from this "sudden death" disease, Franklin recommends that cattle be vaccinated as they arrive at the feedlot with a second shot about 10 to 21 days later. A "booster shot" is advocated about two months, when a prolonged feeding period is scheduled.

Production of the new vaccine is now underway.

July 1 Grain Stocks Highest In Several Years

July 1 stocks of major Kansas grains in all positions were the highest for the date in several years, but most were below levels of the early 1960's, according to the Kansas Crop and Live-stock Reporting Service. Old crop wheat holdings were the highest in four years but lower than mid-year holdings in any year from 1952 through 1965. Total feed grain stocks were the largest since 1964 but only about three-fourths the volume reached in the early 1960's. Soybean stocks were the highest of record for July 1, over twice those of a year earlier.

Old crop wheat stocks in all positions on July 1 totaled 145,545,000 bushels, 58 percent above a year earlier and largest for the date since 1965. Off-farm stocks of 126,043,000 bushels were up 63 percent from a year earlier, and farm-stored wheat of 19,502,000 bushels up 35 percent. July 1 stocks of old crop rye in all positions were 330,000 bushels, 38 percent below a year earlier and smallest since 1957.

Stocks of the four major feed grains — sorghum grain, corn, oats and barley — in all positions totaled 113,303,000 bushels, 26 percent more than a year earlier and largest for July 1 since 1964. Sorghum grain stocks in all positions at 57,701,000 bushels were 9 percent above a year ago and largest since July 1, 1966. Off-farm stocks of 39,735,000 bushels were 5 percent above last July and farm stocks of 17,966,000 bushels were 20 percent larger than a year earlier.

Total holdings of corn on July 1 were 52,368,000 bushels, largest for the date of record and 52 percent above a year earlier. Off-farm stocks of 37,059,000 bushels were 72 percent above a year ago and farm holdings of 15,309,000 bushels were 18 percent higher.

Stocks of old crop oats totaled 2,220,000 bushels, 31 percent higher than a year earlier and largest for July 1 since 1962. Off-farm holdings totaled 510,000 bushels and farm stocks 1,710,000 bushels, both up moderately.

Old crop barley in all storage positions on July 1 totaled 1,014,000 bushels, 18 percent above a year ago but the third smallest since 1957. Off-farm holdings of 755,000 bushels and farm stocks at 259,000 bushels were both moderately above last year. All stocks of soybeans on July 1 totaled 7,616,000 bushels, largest of record for July 1 and more than double a year earlier. Storage in off-farm positions of 6,420,000 bushels was nearly triple a year ago and farm holdings of 1,196,000 bushels exceeded last year by 61 percent.

KAWG Plumps For Value Of Certificate

Wheat certificates worth $1.52 a bushel on 43 percent of the producer's normal yield are being mailed to Kansas farmers for the 1969 crop, according to an official of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers.

President Ray F. Uehling, Ness City, said "The recent announcement on parity produced a certificate for wheat producers 14 cents above last year's value."

The certificate in the current farm program gives wheat farmers 100 percent of parity on that part of their wheat used domestically for food, he explained.

Uehling said, "In addition to providing a price of $2.56 a bushel for domestically used wheat with the market at $1.04 as it has been, the certificate program provides a kind of insurance for persons whose wheat was destroyed by drought, disease or insects."

ance for persons whose wheat was destroyed by drought, disease or insects."

The association has supported the certificate program as a means of improving wheat producer income. It also has urged establishing an export certificate program as a means of improving wheat producer income.

It also urged establishing an export certificate and facilitating movement of wheat into export channels as another means of improving wheat grower income.

End Of Beef Surge Drops Price Index

Prices received by Kansas farmers at mid-July 1969 were down moderately from the previous month but moderately above July last year, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Wheat, beef cattle and calves were down considerably from a month earlier and most other grain prices eased downward.

However the sorghum grain price was up slightly and prices of hogs and poultry items were up moderately.

Compared with July last year, prices for beef cattle, calves, hogs and eggs were up sharply and other livestock prices were up moderately, but wheat, barley and rye prices were down moderately.

The index of prices received by farmers for all commodities was 245 percent of the 1910-14 base period compared with 255 last month and 227 a year ago.

Crop Prices

The crop price index was 136 percent at mid-July, 10 points below June and 11 points below last year.

Wheat at mid-July averaged $1.09 per bushel, 10 cents below June and 11 cents below July 1968.

Corn averaged $1.15 per bushel, 1 cent below a month earlier but 1 cent above July a year ago.

Oats at 70 cents per bushel were 3 cents below June and 2 cents below a year ago. Barley was worth 78 cents per bushel, down 1 cent from June and 13 cents below July last year.

Sorghum grain brought $1.76 per cwt., up 2 cents from a month earlier and equal to July last year.

Soybeans averaged $2.44 per bushel, unchanged from June but 3 cents below July last year.

Livestock Prices

The livestock and livestock products price index in July was 370 percent of the 1910-14 base period, 9 points below June but 52 points above July 1968. The meat animal price index at mid-July was 446 percent compared with 464 percent in June and 379 percent in July last year.

Hog prices, at $24.90 per cwt., were $1.20 above June and $4.20 above July 1968.

Beef cattle brought $27.90 per cwt., compared with $29.70 per cwt. the previous month and $23.70 per cwt. in July last year. Steer and heifer prices averaged $30.00 per cwt., $2.00 below June but $4.70 above a year earlier.

Calves, at $32.20 per cwt., were down $1.40 from the previous month but were $6.70 above July of last year.

The dairy price index was 314 percent in July compared with 312 in June and 306 percent last year.

Egg prices averaged 28.0 cents per dozen, up 2 cents from June and well above the 21.4 cents a year ago.

Prices Paid

Prices paid by Kansas farmers for protein supplements and mixed feeds at mid-July were about the same as a month earlier.

38% Of State's Dairy Cows Bred Artificially

Dairymen rely less on artificial insemination now than they have in the past.

More than 77,000 dairy cows were artificially inseminated in Kansas during 1968. This compares with 84,631 in 1967.

In addition there were 6722 dairy cows bred with beef semen in 1968. In 1967, 7305 dairy cows were bred with beef semen.

Approximately 38 percent of dairy cows in the state were bred by artificial insemination. While in the United States more than 48 percent were bred by artificial insemination, Kansas has always been below the national average.

By using the very best sires available, dairymen could increase production. The average dairy cow in Kansas produces only 8,100 pounds of milk, so drastic and immediate plans should be made to increase production of the average dairy cow in the future.

Dairymen should breed to bulls having a high repeated difference on milk, preferably above 400 pounds of milk. If low repeatability (not conception rate) bulls are used, then only ones with very high predicted difference should be used. Young sires should not have over 20 percent usage in a herd.

Dairymen should take the time to study predicted difference, repeatability and type on daughters of bulls they are using in a herd.

Preserving Food By Radiation Loses Supporters

The once-heralded use of radiation to extend the shelf life of foods has been shelved by the Agriculture Department.

An order to meat packers last week followed an earlier determination by the Food and Drug Administration that gamma radiation needed more study as a preservative process for meat products such as canned bacon.

Bacon was the last product authorized for radiation testing. A decade ago the Army, with cooperation of the Atomic Energy Commission, launched an ambitious food irradiation project.

Sample quantities of a variety of foods were treated and test eaten. High military officials pronounced the irradiated rations tasty, but lower ranking military people were less enthusiastic.

Irradiated food was never produced in commercial quantities. Now the government says more data on possible health hazards will be required before it will approve production for general consumption.

'69 Calf Crop To Be Only 1% Over 1968

Mid-year livestock surveys showed an expected record large Kansas calf crop of 1,819,000 head in 1969, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

However, the expected lamb crop of 246,000 is the smallest of recent years and indicated wool production for this year of 2,682,000 pounds is the smallest in two decades.

Calf Crop

Calves dropped in Kansas in 1969 are expected to total 1,819,000 head, 1 percent more than the previous record set in 1968.

This year's calvings have been favored by relatively good weather and ample livestock feed in nearly all sections of the State.

The 1969 calf crop would represent 94 percent of the cows and heifers 2 years old and over on January 1 this year, equaling last year's record high percentage.

This percentage is not strictly a calving rate since the January 1 inventory of cows and heifers 2 years old and over does not include all heifers calving during the year and includes some cows that died or were slaughtered without calving.

The number of cows and heifers 2 years old and over on Kansas farms at the beginning of this year totaled 1,935,000, up 1 percent from the number a year earlier.

Lamb Crop

The 1969 lamb crop in Kansas is indicated at 246,000 head, 13 percent less than a year earlier and the smallest crop of recent years. The lamb crop percentage (number of lambs saved per 100 ewes 1 year old and over on January 1) this year was 103 percent, the best in more than two decades. The number of ewes 1 year old and over on Kansas farms on January 1 this year was 239,000 head, down 16 percent from a year earlier.

Wool Production

Wool shorn and to be shorn from Kansas flocks in 1969 is estimated at 2,682,000 pounds, down 16 percent from a year earlier and the smallest clip for any year since 1949. The number of sheep shorn totaled 330,000, the smallest in 20 years. Average weight per fleece is estimated at 8.1 pounds, about 5 percent less than a year earlier and the lightest in 5 years.

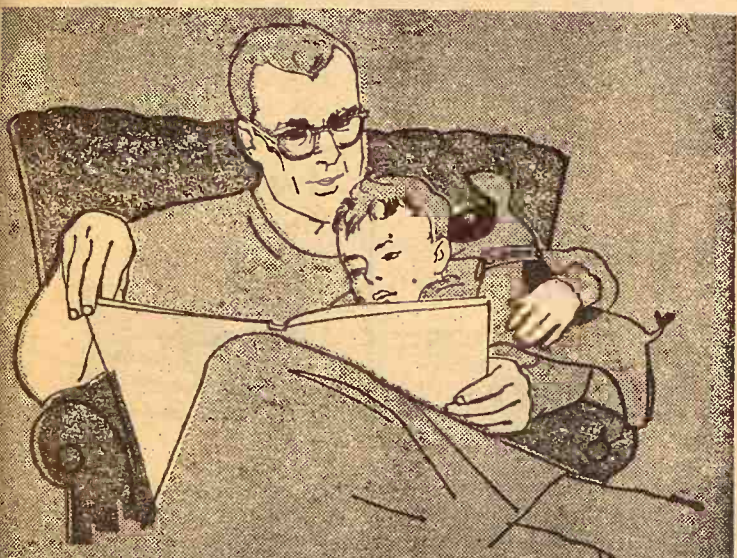

United States — Calf Crop

The 1969 calf crop for the United States is estimated at 44,473,000 head, 1 percent more than a year earlier.

HORSEMANSHIP

The fastest growing 4-H competition at many fairs is in horses. Here, Jill Peterka, 13, Manhattan, shows an entry she'll have at the Riley County Fair. She has 4-H projects in horsemanship and veterinary science.

Facing the Future ...together

Perhaps your young son is more interested in Peter Rabbit or the Reddy Fox right now than he is in a cow-calf operation or feeder stock. This will change—and what will life on a farm or ranch be like when he's your age?

No one knows. But this much is certain: The Land Bank has been helping farmers and ranchers adjust to new conditions in this changing world of agriculture for more than 50 years. Because there's been a Land Bank, people have had extra help and guidance—during good years, during lean years. Because there's been a Land Bank, they've been able to make better use of new machinery, new methods, new technology. Because there's been a Land Bank, life on the land has been better—more profitable, more enjoyable.

You—and your family—face a better future together because one thing will never change—there will always be a Land Bank at your side, ready to help out whenever there's a need.

Not Enough Storm Coverage In G&G

My husband and I both enjoy reading Grass & Grain, but I was rather surprised to open the July 1 issue and find not one line of news about storms in this area.

Here in the south half of Dickinson County on June 21 there from the G&G Area

was plenty of storm damage besides tons of tree limbs. The county agent estimated over 250 barns destroyed or damaged and our neighbors were ones to have the who's top blown off theirs. Also our neighbors south had the attic blown off their two-story house.

We were lucky. We only lost barn roof shingles and had an old grain bin full of used lumber blown across the road into a neighbor's wheat field.

Navarre and several square miles of this area had no electricity or telephone for four days, so it was back to kerosene lamps and camp stoves for some. Those with gas stoves were lucky to eat hot meals. We were also fortunate to have cistern water, as some had no water without their electric pumps. Foam chests were our refrigeration and that wasn't the best on hot days. Most people moved their frozen food elsewhere.

With all the storms we've had, maybe this wasn't even news, but I was nevertheless surprised to find no mention of anything like this in your paper.

Mrs. Kenneth Shank

Now if the rest of you card players want to stay in the same game it is your privilege — but deal me out. I have found a better place to play. I can in turn deal the cards and call the shots. Most of you have been invited to sit in and bargain with the rest of us. The invitation is still open. The returns have been quite good and all are watching to keep the game honest. We don't have to pedal our program thru shark infested waters (Congress). We do need more players.

Dealing With Same Card Sharks

I can't see much advantage to the Co-op plan to cut wheat controls. In fact it is tied in with many shortcomings that have made the farmer the goat rather than the beneficiary of government programs.

Some Congressmen have been the recipients of large government payments — for which the smaller commercial farmer is catching it in the neck. Also this same Congressman has allowed wheat to be an international commodity at which foreign governments have benefited at the expense of the American farmer. Now to allow this same Congressman to allot acres — thru the Secretary of Agriculture — and to contract with a regional marketing firm for orderly sale and shipment of grain — is still dealing with the same card shark.

Some Other Facts On Small-Town Hospital Use

A recent article in Grass & Grain dealt with the allocation of Hill-Burton federal funds for the construction of hospitals. It stated what medical men in particular have noted, that the built-in bias in favor of rural hospitals has resulted in crowded city hospitals being unable to meet the criteria for grants, while many rural hospitals built with the federal grants have low occupancy rates.

It should be noted that not all small town hospitals have low occupancy rates. The hospital at Belleville had a 75% occupancy rate in the last published figures, and the one in Beloit 83%. The Horton Community Hospital had a 106% rate. How about that?

Of course there is some substance in the generalized acknowledgment that small town hospitals are not overutilized. The one at Council Grove has only 50% rate, and one in Dighton, western Kansas, has averaged little more than a third full.

Recent allocations to small towns have tended to be for long term care facilities. Baldwin City, Dighton, Hanover, Washington, Smith Center, Lincoln and Beloit are all sharing in these funds, for facilities which small towns will continue to need.

It was with a great deal of pleasure that we were in your fine city on July 26, to attend the Shorthorn Junior Field Day.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank you very much for donating the fine trophy for the champion cow and calf pair that we won.

We think very highly of organizations like yours that are behind our livestock industry. Again we say thanks to you, the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, your agriculture agent Mr. White, for making our stay so enjoyable.

SHOUTING WITH AND AT DIRKSEN

A confrontation between Senator Everett Dirksen and about 200 Illinois farmers and their wives resulted in brief shouting and fist-shaking match. The farmers had driven from their home state in a caravan of tractors to protest low farm prices and lack of voice in farm programs.

Dirksen told them he was one of 20 senators supporting a bill to take up to 10 million acres of farmland out of production and to end existing farm programs within five years. He was answered with shouts of "no, no," and the shouting got louder before capitol police plucked Dirksen from the midst.

Inflation Hinge On Farm Income

The nation's farm economy moved up briskly during the first half of 1969, but whether the pace continues the rest of the year depends on what happens in the Nixon administration's campaign against inflation, Agriculture department sources say.

It's a pretty iffy thing right now," an official said. "I'd hate to go out on a limb that farm income for the year would be as high as indications have been."

Super-hot consumer demand, mainly for meat despite rising prices, boosted farm income prospects during the first half of the year, a department report showed.

Economists said the rate of net income for 1969 during the first half was 15.6 billion dollars, about 1 billion more than the rate of a year earlier. If the pace continues, farmers would net the most since the 16.3 billion reported in 1966 and the second highest since 15.9 billion in 1948. The record net was 17.1 billion in 1947.

Higher prices for livestock — an average of 11 percent more than in the first half of 1968 — contributed much to this year's outlook. Livestock cash receipts totaled about 13.4 billion dollars, compared with 12.1 billion the first half of 1968. Cattle gained 750 million, and hogs 250 million, the report said.

There was no protection on per farm net income, but a spokesman said if the first-half rate continued it would exceed the record $5,044 per farm average in 1966.

One of the reasons for the per farm boost involves a continuing decline in the number of farms. Sources said that unofficial estimates place the number of farms at around 2,976,000 — the first time in this century that they have dropped below 3 million. Thus, as total net income rises — or even remains stable — the average per farm increases.

The report also pointed out some fallacies in the per farm averages. "For example," the report said, "farms with sales of farm products under $2500 in 1968 averaged about $1060 per farm in realized net farm income while farms with sales of $40,000 and more averaged over $24,000."

The report also noted that off-farm income — employment in town — has become increasingly important.

A message from the President of NFO

OREN LEE STALEY

"Prices are set by those who have the power to set them."

How do you know how much you'll have to pay for gas when you pull in to a filling station?

When your wife buys groceries at the supermarket, who tells her green beans are five cans for a dollar?

And when your son orders a hamburger at the drive-in, how does he know how much it will cost?

Simple.

The price of gas is posted on the pump. The grocer stamps a figure on every can of beans. And the drive-in menu spells out how much hamburgers are. Each business sets a price on the products it sells.

Except farmers and ranchers. They take whatever a buyer will give them. Not because they like doing business this way. But because buyers determine what prices farmers will be paid. Whether those prices cover cost of production or not! Farmers either like it...or lump it.

But you don't have to take your lumps any longer. You can profit from NFO. National Farmers Organization. With NFO you'll join other farm producers in 48 continental states. And bargain collectively with buyers. And start having a say in farm prices.

NFO is new. If you know us only from hearsay, get the facts. Use the coupon. Now.

National 4-H Agent Honor To Great Bend Man

GREAT BEND — The National Assn. of Extension 4-H Club agents has voted its distinguished service award to William Van Slike, Barton County Extension 4-H Club agent at Great Bend. William Fultz of Garden City, president of the Kansas association, announced the award will be presented when the national organization meets at Charleston, W. Va., in November.

Van Slike has been an extension agent since 1950 and served in Republic, Clay and Finney counties before he moved to Great Bend 13 years ago. He holds degrees from Kansas State and Colorado State universities.

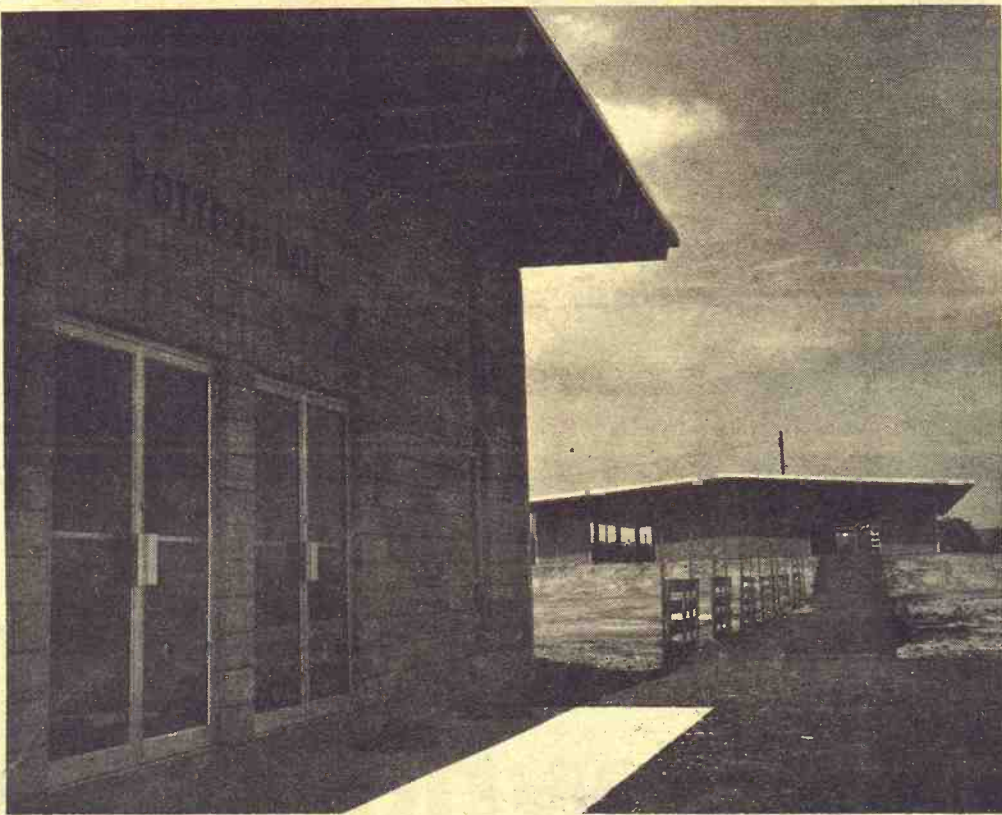

Only two other Kansans have won the national distinguished service award. They are Cecil Eyestone, a member of the 4-H Club staff at Kansas State, and Merle Eyestone, director of Rock Springs, the organization's state leadership training center.

August 4 through 7

We in the farm machinery business see in the local county fairs a trend toward more interest in farming on the part of the new generation on the farms. A fair is like the finals in a tournament. It winds up a year of training. With the prizes bigger than ever, we anticipate greater interest and greater rewards for those who participate. Naturally we are concerned with youthful achievements. These youngsters from 4-H and FFA are the customers we'll soon be meeting.

Rabbit Plant Growing

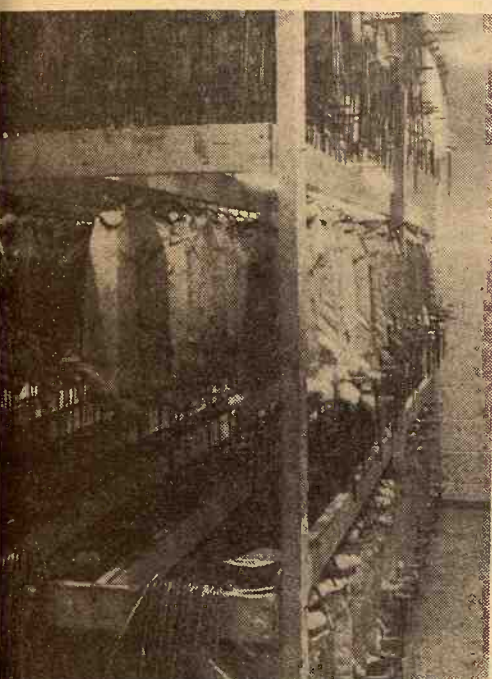

A rabbit-dressing plant at Hill City, which got its start from a hobby of Dr. Carl Kobler, is now dressing 5000 rabbits weekly, after its opening just a few weeks ago.

At left, production manager Larry Money inspects a pen of 300 rabbits awaiting processing. Money says that rabbit meat can be produced for 18 cents a pound, and the company pays a producer 26 cents a pound, liveweight at the pickup station.

Feed conversion rate is 3.2 pounds of feed to 1 pound of gain. The plant buys only white rabbit fryers. Cost of setting up a rabbit producing operation is $11 to $12 per doe, Money says.

The Hill City plant, called Kansas Food Products Inc. and financed thru a $300,000 SBA loan, markets the frozen rabbits under the label Hillcrest Ranch Raised Tender Rabbit.

At bottom is pictured a rack of hides and furs which go to a glove maker. By-products from rabbits include brains, which are dried and used in determining coagulation point of blood; blood, which goes into serum for research; fur, to a California firm which makes gloves and felt for glove liners; heads, for mink food; and offal, cooked and sold for other animal food.

YOU CAN'T HAVE A FAIR WITHOUT A POP STAND

Charles White, Riley county agent, works on construction of a pop stand before the Riley County Fair opens. Bob Newsome, county extension director, looks over plans.

Who's behind the big mix-up in cattle feeding?

Kansas Soya. It's a mix-up that fattens both your cattle and your bank balance. Kansas Soya custom-mixing. Precise, scientific cattle feed preparation that follows whatever formula you specify.

But maybe the formula you're using now isn't turning out the results you want. In that case, the men at Kansas Soya can supply the feedlot-proven formula that will give you maximum gain. Or, if you mix your own ration, we'll furnish the best protein supplement available: Sunflower Soybean Meal or Pellets that are processed from prime soybeans, nature's richest source of protein. At Kansas Soya, you'll also have grain bank facilities and automated in-and-out truckloading.

If we bring your order to you, you'll find that Kansas Soya delivers according to your timetable. Not curs. And not just the first delivery, but every delivery. All we need to know is when and where.

Give us a call and we'll give you the facts. Call collect and find out why Kansas Soya is making such a stir in custom-mixed cattle feeds.

Soviet Growth Rate Slows

The Soviet Union has released figures indicating a pickup in economic growth in recent months but the growth rate still falls short of its goal.

According to official statistics on the first six months of the year published in Izvestia, the government newspaper, the industrial sector overcame several difficulties caused in part by bad winter and recorded a 7.2 percent growth rate for the second quarter in comparison with the same period last year.

Industry had expanded at a 6.9 percent rate in the first quarter. This meant the over-all rate for the first half of the year was 6.9 percent over last year, and behind the planned rate for the year of 7.3 percent. This is a very slow rate for Soviet industry which last year was growing by 9 percent and in 1967 by 10.4 percent.

In general, the statistics could bring little encouragement to officials and economists who have been complaining about bottlenecks and wastes of resources.

Another key index of the economy — over-all profits — showed only a 7 percent rise. Last year the figure was 17 percent. Profits are important because the economic reforms inaugurated by the current leadership stress profits as an indicator of efficiency.

The agricultural sector, the economy's perennial problem area, has had a difficult first six months, the report indicated, but may yet record an average yield for the year.

Co-op Role In Training Farm Unskilled Labor

Farmland Industries, Inc., has signed a $200,000 federal contract to design a pilot program to train 300 unskilled rural workers for jobs in their own locales.

The program was conceived to increase opportunities in rural areas, according to a Farmland spokesman.

Farmland is the first subcontractor under a $500,000 contract signed in June by the Cooperative League of the USA and the Department of Labor under provisions of the 1962 manpower training and development act.

Farmland, with headquarters at Kansas City, is a regional farmer's cooperative for 2000 local co-ops in a 14-state area. The Cooperative League is an association of cooperatives that includes farming.

The $200,000 15-month pilot program with Farmland provides for rural workers to be employed by member co-ops in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska.

There the workers will be paid regular salaries while they receive on-the-job training for careers in various types of employment.

The program designed by Farmland will be administered through supervisors at the places of employment, and a week at Farmland's own school here.

The contract also stipulates that of the 300 trainees, 195 must qualify as "disadvantaged." The Labor department defines a disadvantaged person as one who is poor, does not have suitable employment, and is either a school dropout, a minority-group member, younger than 22, older than 45 or handicapped.

Robert Beasley, spokesman for Farmland, said the program is aimed at reducing the number of untrained rural workers who flood urban areas looking for employment.

If the program is successful, it may solve the manpower shortages experienced by the individual cooperatives, Beasley said.

Dr. J. D. Miller, director of Farmland's school division, praised the on-site training aspect of the program over the more standard classroom technique of instruction.

"It is important to realize that the worker will be trained on the job with the same equipment he will be expected to work with after he finishes training," Dr. Miller said.

Raise Catfish For Profit From Livestock Feedlot Waste Conditions?

Now there's another "cash crop" for the rancher or feedlot operator — turn that reservoir or lagoon into profits. Raise catfish.

It's been found that manure and other cattle-raising wastes that are dumped into lakes create ideal bacteriologic conditions for feeding such fish. With some supplementary feeding, catfish grown in this atmosphere are saleable on the commercial market.

While the optimum temperature for growing catfish is 84 degrees, with reservoir depths of up to eight feet, the fish can be grown in considerably colder climates. In the warmer climates, where ponds can be as shallow as three feet and the fish raised in one season, cattle feedyard operators have averaged $270 per acre of pond each year.

In the cooler climates, deeper ponds are needed to prevent winter kill of the fish, and the growing season is shorter, so two seasons may be needed to bring the fish up to commercial weight of about three pounds. But if catfish are a bonus crop anyway, this doesn't matter as it does for the farmer whose only source of income is catfish.

The initial investment to prepare the pond for catfish production is about $200 to $1000 per acre, depending on how much excavation has to be done to build a pond, and whether or not a well has to be drilled for a water supply. Fish are stocked at anywhere from 1000 to 3000 per acre of pond, depending on the fertility of the pond, and cost between one and 10 cents apiece, depending on the size of the fish.

If the fish weigh half a pound at the time they're stocked, an acre of pond will have 500 to 1000 pounds of fish in it, and feeding costs are about six or seven cents apound for the life of the fish, so total feeding costs run $35 to $110 per ton.

It costs $10 to $20 per acre to harvest the fish crop, and $22.50 per acre to keep the proper chemicals in the water so it is bacteriologically balanced for best fish growth, although this cost is less where animal wastes flow into the pond as nature then keeps a better bacteria balance.

Total cost of production runs about 25 cents per pound, and the prevailing market price is between 35 and 50 cents a pound. Fish sold live for re-stocking will bring higher prices.

Disease can be a problem in catfish raising, particularly if the water isn't tested frequently and its chemical content analyzed. The most common disease is Ichthyophthiriasis or simply Ich. It is cured by adding chemicals such as formalin to the pond. 'Ich' causes white nodules to grow on the catfish, keeps them from gaining weight, and makes them unfit for human consumption.

The fish demand an adequate oxygen supply, and water can grow extremely short of oxygen if it's either over-populated with fish or the weather is hot. For this reason the pond must have a source of fresh water, so that under these conditions the pond can be aerated and the fish aren't damaged.

Additional information on catfish raising can be obtained from either Catfish Farmers of America at Little Rock, Ark., or the federal government's Fish Farming Experiment Station at Stuttgart, Ark.

Consumer Resistance Slowly Caught Up With Beef Price

After several weeks downward adjustment from peak beef prices of the last several years, the livestock market at most G&G area auctions firmed up last week.

Most market analysts seemed to think that the downturn for several weeks was simply a matter of consumer resistance building up slowly and finally forcing prices back from early June peaks.

The marketings during the period were steady enough, what forced marketings there were because of heat in feedlots was not more than routine, and even the government report on increased numbers in feedlots seemed to affect the futures market more than it did the live market.

Consumer demand for beef was unusually strong when prices started to rise last March. It remained strong, even though rising prices until the early June peak.

The cattle market has been unusually stable for two years before the zephyr of spring 1969. Choice grade cattle ran around $24 to $28 thru most of 1967, and averaged $1.50 to $2 more than that in 1968.

During this time wholesale prices on choice beef carcasses in Chicago varied very little, seldom straying more than a dollar from $45 a hundred.

Prices generally hit $30 in March on live weight marketings, strengthened considerably in April, and even more in May. Most markets had their peak prices in early June, generally around $35 to $36, and then the market fell back to about the mid-March level.

Dressed beef wholesale prices hit $55 a hundred toward mid-June but last week Chicago wholesale prices were back to about $48.

There were signs last week that the market might strengthen a bit, but most cattlemen seemed to be guessing that it would not rebound to the early June level. Futures quotations not suggest that the professionals are betting that way.

Scientists Lean To Biology, As DDT Turmoil Grows

The current attacks on DDT and various other insect and weed killers have many farmers more than a little concerned.

Few people in agriculture will deny there are not some fundamental social and ecological problems related to the use of chemicals which primarily are used to save crops from bugs and weeds.

But there will be considerable stubbornness from them, if they figured grain that wholesale bans on DDT and the like return farming to no controls formulate that all on weeds and insects.

They may breathe easier, knowing that even if DDT fades from use, the insects will hardly take over the world, for potential replacements are on the way.

In fact, U. S. entomologists appear close to an important advance in man's age-old war against the insects that devour his crops.

This attack won't be spearheaded by the well-known chemical insecticides but by an expanding arsenal of biological controls based on weapons provided by nature.

If the approach succeeds, it may sooner or later reduce use of chemical insecticides — and any resulting pollution of the environment.

The effort will include:

- Massive deployment of bugs that are harmless to man but prey on crop-destroying pests.

- Large-scale sterilization of adult insects to disrupt their reproductive cycle.

- Use of synthetic copies of the nature scents secreted by pest species to lure bugs to their destruction.

Such biological-control methods are showing high promise in field tests. And some USDA officials predict that in certain parts of the country biological warfare, coupled with limited use of chemicals, will soon make possible the almost-complete eradication of the cotton boll weevil, now probably the nation's costliest single pest.

By the early 1970s, some experts say, insecticide producers might find their domestic farm market — now calculated at around $110 million annually — leveling off or shrinking.

In the long-run, tho, such de-emphasis on farm insecticides might indirectly benefit the chemical industry. It might help prevent current clamor against bug-killers such as DDT from swelling into a drive for tougher restrictions on chemical pesticides generally, including weed-killers.

Not everyone is as optimistic about biological control possibilities as Federal researchers are. Many farmers, insecticide makers and state legislators resisting restrictions on DDT are distinctly skeptical. They contend it may be several years before effective alternatives are really ready.

And they question the practicality of releasing sterilized adult insects, claiming that with some species it would be necessary to deploy as many as 50 times the normal insect populations.

At any rate, Government entomologists are pushing confidently ahead, armed with knowledge of past successes. As long ago as 1888, one Agriculture Department pioneer found a ladybird beetle in Australia that preys on a pest called the cotton-cushion scale, then threatening to wipe out California citrus groves. After two years of beetle shipments from Down Under, the scale was brought under control.

Interest in biological methods waned following the spectacular successes of DDT during World War II and the rapid proliferation of chemical insecticides in the postwar years.

There were about 25 Government scientists working on biological controls in 1938, but by 1955 the number had declined to only a half-dozen or so.

Soon after that, however, interest in the biological approach began to revive, and some notable victories followed.

In recent years, massive releases of sterilized male screwworm flies have reduced the population of this Southern and Western cattle pest; annual savings to livestock producers from Florida to California are estimated at $120 million.

And the Japanese beetle, which once chewed on nearly 300 species of U. S. plants, has largely succumbed to a dusting program that spread a disease that attacked the Nipponese invader.

Today Uncle Sam has over 170 entomologists, chemists and other specialists busy on biological control projects.

One important center, the Federal Entomology Research Laboratory at Columbia, Mo., which opened in 1966, has just this year begun producing sufficient wasp eggs for experimental use against the cotton bollworm in Texas and the apple-boring codling moth larva in Indiana.

In part, the resurgent interest in biological control springs from increased public concern about chemical dangers. DDT and some other long-lasting chemical insecticides, rather than breaking down harmlessly within a few weeks after spraying, often retain their potency for long periods — up to 15 years in cases of especially heavy DDT applications.

If these chemicals enter the chain of food production, they can build up in fatty tissues of animals and human beings with possibly harmful consequences.

In theory at least, other chemical insecticides might offer alternatives to DDT. There are two newer insecticide families, the organic phosphates and organic carbamates, which break down in hours or days after application. But they are more costly than DDT, and some of them also show signs of declining effectiveness.

In the case of the cotton crop, many experts now believe the solution to its problems lies in biological-plus-chemical suppression of the boll weevil. With the need for weevil spraying reduced dramatically, natural enemies of the bollworm could recover. "This would reduce the need for bollworm spraying by 75%," asserts Theodore B. Davich, chief of the Federal boll weevil lab at State College, Miss.

Ottawa Co. Fair Thru Wednesday

MINNEAPOLIS — The Ottawa County Fair will have no charge at the gate this year, the fair running three days August 4 thru August 6.

A cutting horse contest will be a Wednesday feature. Preliminaries will begin at 5 p.m. and finals at 7 p.m. Harold McCullick, in charge of this part of the program, says he expects some of the best cutting horses in the nation to take part in the local show.

Horseback competition events for local riders will follow the cutting horses, with barrel racing, rescue races, pole bending and other events open to all.

WEATHER GUESS

About normal rainfall and above average temperatures are in store for the first part of August, according to the prediction of the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Clay Co. Fair August 20-23

CLAY CENTER — The annual Clay County Fair will be held here Aug. 20-23 and will feature a horse show, an automobile-motorcycle thrill show, a barbecue, a performance by the Grand Ole Opry and a free watermelon feed.

Can't Tax Only Part Of Property At 30% Value

A county cannot knowingly apply a 30% assessed valuation on specific property, even tho that is recommended by law, if the county clearly is assessing most property at much less than that assessment goal.

The Kansas Supreme Court in effect made that ruling when it said that Beardmore Drilling Co. was entitled to recover part of its taxes because the oil property had been assessed at 30% of justifiable value in Hodgman County but the general assessment ratio on real estate in the county was only 14% of actual value. "Uniformity in taxation im-pies equality in charging the burden of taxation and this equality cannot exist without uniformity in the basis of assessment as well as in the rate of taxation," the court said.

"Mere excessiveness of assessment or error in judgement or mistakes in making assessments will not invalidate an assessment, but inequality or lack of uniformity, if knowingly excessive or intentionally or fraudulently made, will entitle a taxpayer to relief.

"Good faith alone on the part of the taxing officials will not justify assessments which are in fact discriminatory."

Stamps Losing Grocer Favor

It appears that trading stamps and other gimmicks are losing favor to grocery managers, and promotions will increasingly emphasize price.

A recent edition of Progressive Grocer says that the number of Supermarket Institute stores using trading stamps has shrunk from 78% in 1961 to 44% currently. Stamp usage is down in other stores to about 30%.

USDA Props Peach Prices

The Agriculture Department says it would buy peaches in major Southern producing areas to help raise sagging prices.

Officials said fresh peaches purchased would be distributed mainly to state institutions, including hospitals and nursing homes. The amount to be bought will depend on marketing conditions and availability of qualified outlets, the department said.

Only Ford Sales Are Up

The new car sales of the big four auto companies continued to sag from a year ago with the exception of the Ford Motor Co.

The four auto makers reported their dealers sold 203,146 new cars during the period July 11-20, or an average 25,393 for each of the eight selling days. This was down 5 percent from mid-July last year when 241,773 cars were sold in nine selling days.

After adjusting for the added selling day last year, General Motors Corp's daily selling rate was down 7 percent, Chrysler's Corp's rate was off 18 percent, and American Motors showed a 19 percent decline. Ford's sales rate was up 7 percent from a year ago and was a record for mid-July.

Junior Shorthorn Field Day Held At Manhattan

Many fine examples of the modern-type beef Shorthorn were seen in classes at the sixth annual Kansas Junior Shorthorn Assn. field day.

Combinations (cow and calf, and steer and heifer), buy a calf and show a calf classes, and the traditional steer and heifer classes of the reds, whites and roans had much quality. Dr. Miles McKee of Kansas State University placed classes and explained his judging reasons.

Dinah Crockett of Kinsley had the best cow and calf combination, and Georgia Grathwahl of Hiawatha showed the best steer and heifer combination. The champion heifer was shown by Kent Scott of Ransom.

Stanley Lock of Brown County had the champion steer. In the buy a steer and show a steer competition, Bill Poovey of Westphalia showed the champion. In the corresponding heifer class, the champion was shown by Bill Kimmell of Kiowa.

'I Told You So'
Telegram From KFB On Wheat

As the price of wheat at country stations dropped to $1 or less last week, the Farm Bureau sent an "I told you so" telegram to Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

The telegram, over the name of Kansas Farm Bureau president Ray Frisbie, urged that hearings be held immediately to investigate the failure of the International Wheat Trade Convention to accomplish its announced purposes and to determine how the U.S. could withdraw from the convention.

The American Farm Bureau opposed ratification of the Wheat Trade Convention when it was ratified by the U.S. Senate a year ago. Farm Bureau was one of the few organizations opposed to the wheat agreement, and Frisbie's telegram — and presumably more telegrams from other state Farm Bureaus — reminded Fulbright of the stand and of the current price of wheat, lowest since 1941.

"We have been played a sucker in wheat export trade," said Frisbie. "I am convinced that the International Agreement has worked to our disadvantage. It we are to get our fair share of world trade in wheat we can't let our efforts be shackled by an

Higher Auto Insurance Rate From State Farm

State Farm Mutual Insurance — largest writer of auto insurance in Kansas — has raised auto rates by an average 12.8% citing "a mounting number of accidents, increasing hospital, medical and auto repair costs, plus the inflated costs of everything insurance pays for throughout the country."

On a typical policy with $50 deductible collision insurance and usual coverages on a late model car driven by an adult driver, annual costs will be increased from $8.40 to $22 per year.

Rates in most of the G&G area will go up $12 to $15 per year, tho slightly less than that average in Wichita and somewhat more in Kansas City.

Whether you drive or fly, find it easy to get to the Management Field Days being held at Kansas farms early this month. Two field days are planned for the year — August 5 in south central Kansas and August 8 in the central part of the state. So these events are within easy distance of most Kansans.

Host farms for the August event are the David Hirt farm in Barton county and the Herderson county and the Herderson place in Coffey county.

On August 8 the spotlight is on the Lester Ideker farm, the Ward Feed Yard, Inc. in Barton county and the Ralph Opie farm, the Robert and Harry LeRoy in Barton county.

For those who fly, free transportation will be provided from local airports direct to the farms.

Pilots wishing to visit the farm should land at Garnett, Niles farm, Emporia; the Ideker farm or Ward Feed Yard, Larned and the LeRoy or Opie farms, Bend. Transportation leaves airport at 9:00 a.m.

The north-south runway at Larned Airport is being re-surfaced and may not be ready by August. However, about 1,800 feet of northwest-southeast and north-southwest runways are still in Paul Neeland, airport manager.

Road signs will be erected to help you find your way if you plan to drive. Here are directions to the farm:

HIRT FARM — 2 1/2 south, 2 west of Harris.

NILES FARM — 1 west, 2 north, west of the intersection of U.S. Highway 75 and 50.

IDEKER FARM — 5 north, 1/2 north, 1 east, 1/2 south of the K.T. station in Rozel.

WARD FEED YARD, INC. — 1/2 southeast of Larned.

LEROY FARM — 4 west, 1 north, 1 1/2 west of REA building on Highway 156 at west edge of Great Bend.

OPIE FARM — 3 west, 1 north, of television tower, 5 north of Great Bend on Highway 281.

The field days are designed to give the general public an opportunity to visit some of the top farms in the state and see firsthand how these operations are successful.

Sponsors are the Kansas Cooperative Extension Service and several local and area organizations.

Both field days begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude with noon luncheon programs in Burlington and Larned.

ONE OF THE EARLY FAIRS

Walnut Timber Rustling? Big Values On Logs

Walnut log prices are climbing to record heights as foreign and domestic buyers compete for supplies to meet demand for furniture and other wood products.

The big demand bulge has more than doubled prices of the dark, rich wood in the past five years. The Government says prices for prime walnut logs, 24 to 28 inches in diameter, climbed last year to $1367 per 1000 board feet in Southern Indiana from $770 in 1963. Lumbermen in the midwestern black walnut belt say prices have jumped further this year.

These climbing prices already have pushed up costs for many domestic processors, and the industry is calling for restoration of export quotas to curb demand. Meanwhile, the higher prices have triggered an increasing rate of tree thievery.

As far as domestic walnut users see it, exports to France, Switzerland, West Germany, Italy and Japan are the main cause of the walnut price boom.

U.S. exports of walnut logs last year measured out at 22 million board feet, a third more than in 1967 and 75% more than two years ago. The exports, representing the largest outflow of walnut logs in any one year, exceeded domestic consumption for the second consecutive year.

Domestic use of walnut logs dropped slightly last year to 14.3 million board feet, the lowest in a decade. U.S. consumption five years ago was 20.7 million board feet. The recent trend in furniture to Mediterranean-Spanish styles, which use heavier and coarser grain woods such as pecan and oak, accounts for much of the decline, along with higher walnut prices.

In spite of the reduced domestic needs, walnut continues to be the most used hardwood in furniture. And there are signs that U.S. furniture fashions are turning a little more to increased use of walnut. Meanwhile, it is the leading wood in European furniture styling. Even at current high prices, there continues to be a steady overseas demand for U.S. walnut logs.

Because of higher labor costs, the American woodworking industry is geared to high-speed operations, including sanding operations. As a result, veneer can't be cut much thinner than 1/36 of an inch in dry thickness or the powered sanders would grind through it. In contrast, Europeans and Japanese employ low-cost labor to sand veneer by hand, so they cut veneer to 1/50 of an inch or less and thus get more from each log.

Some of the walnut logs exported to Japan come back as facing on plywood for such uses as cabinets and bookcases. Some of the Japanese veneer on ply-

DAMAGE AT STATE PRISON

The roof of a building at the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing was destroyed by fire, presumably set by inmates, in another in a series of outbreaks at the prison this summer.

Garden Crops Suffer In South

Summer vegetable crops in much of the South have just about disappeared because of an extended drought.

And when the rains finally came in July, it was too late in many places.

County farm agents throughout the region report that vegetables such as butter beans, okra, tomatoes and the like are dying for lack of water.

Most of the corn crop is gone in south Georgia, Florida and Tennessee. Some farmers say they will be lucky to salvage a crop equal to 20 percent of last year's production.

For a time, the tobacco crop in Georgia and Florida was endangered because of the extended drought, but most farmers irrigated because this is their "money" crop.

As a result, flue-cured tobacco is in excellent condition and is bringing in record prices in south Georgia and in the Florida Panhandle.

Some sections of west Tennessee haven't had rain for more than a month. Some 37 counties in the state have asked to be declared disaster areas by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Tobacco is a major crop in middle and east Tennessee, but because of the hardy nature of the variety grown there, it is expected to come back if there is enough rain soon.

Tennessee's corn, other vegetables and pastures have been damaged considerably.

Most of the corn grown in the South is for the table, and little of it is used to feed cattle. So the loss of this crop is not expected to have an effect on livestock prices.

One thing the heavy rains accomplished was to bring back pastures which were dying because of a lack of moisture.

No Wheat War, Says USDA

Agriculture officials said the United States has no intention of engaging in a wheat-price war with European Common Market countries.

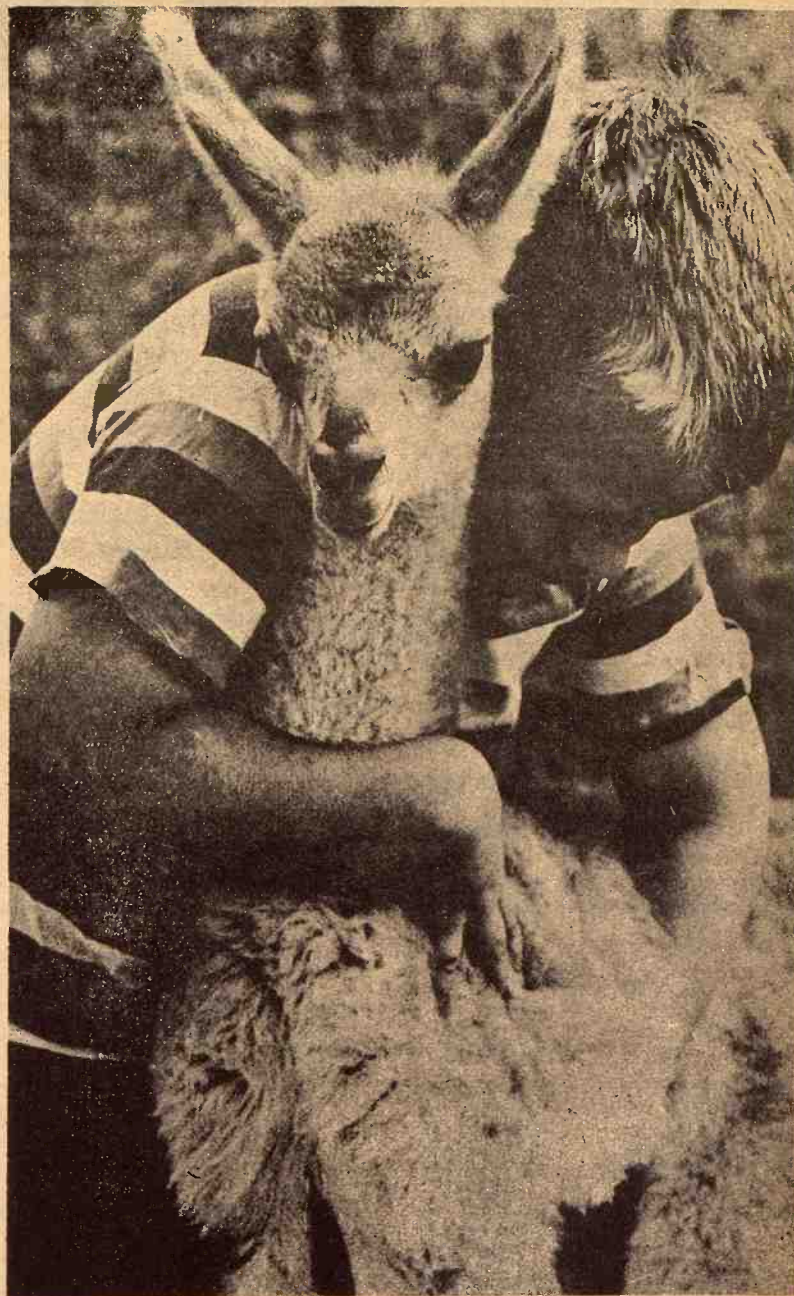

The officials added they did not think that keeping its prices competitive meant that the United States was conducting a price war.

The comment came as West German Agriculture Minister Hermann Hoecherl, speaking in Bonn, accused Washington of starting what threatens to develop into a full-scale wheat price war.

The United States on July 18 cut its prices on wheat sales to European markets about 18 cents under the minimum set by the International Grains Agreement.

U.S. officials said the recent American price cuts have not resulted in any recognizable increase in export sales.

"There has been so much talk about the market situation and the need for price cuts to the Far East that many buyers are just waiting to see what finally develops and if there is any possibility of further price cuts, one official commented.

NEW AT THE ZOO

A new addition at the Manhattan Zoo is a cross between a female guanaco and a male llama, both of them natives of the South American Andes. Peanuts, as the offspring is called, will probably be used as trading stock to bring some other animals to the Manhattan zoo, tho perhaps with some protest from Gregory Witt, son of zookeeper Bill Witt.

New State Meat Packer Offers Stock

A new Kansas beef packer is trying to sell some 385,000 shares of common stock to reduce debts, expand facilities, and provide working capital.

The company is Kansas Beef Industries Inc. of Wichita, a corporation formed by the merger of Excel Packing Co. of Wichita, two other Wichita firms, Dunn Packing and Circle E Ranch; and two Philadelphia groups, Fleekeop's Midtown Meats and BFL Realty. The six companies a year ago had combined sales of $98 million and profits of $917,000.

The combined group has about 430 full-time employees, including 140 sales people in Philadelphia.
