KLA Easing Out of State Government Role

The ties have certainly not been entirely cut, but there is little doubt that ties of the Kansas Livestock Association to the state government have been loosened not inconsiderably.

And both sides of what once appeared as a bitter feud between Governor Docking and officers of the Livestock Association show little inclination to revive it.

In fact Docking was the featured speaker at a Governor's Tour sponsored by the Association just last month. The Livestock Association made a recommendation of four men for State Brand Inspector, and Docking appointed one of them. Both sides seem to be anxious to have it appear that if there was a small disagreement once, it ended without a winner or loser.

Perhaps. But both contestants came out equal, the Governor came out a little more equal.

Kansas has had a livestock sanitary commissioner since 1905, and as early as 1909 the men who held that job was also secretary of the Livestock Association.

In 1919 that man, Joseph Hooker Mercer, got the dual role written into the law.

The principle was stretched more than it has ever been in late May when Governor Docking found a man of his own choosing among four names submitted for the post of state brand commissioner by the KLA.

Ward Warren of Silverdale, president of the association, said the KLA board of directors came up with the new list "as part of its policy to divorce itself from state government."

An earlier such move was the decision by the association to move its offices out of the state office building and into a private building in Topeka.

Joseph Mercer would have been flabbergasted. Mercer was one of only six livestock sanitary commissioners to have held the position since it was created in 1905. There have been 22 governors in that span.

Mercer held the job for 33 years, from 1909 to 1913, and again from 1915 to 1944.

Mercer told something of the organization's history and of his view of the role it would play in state government in a report to Gov. Capper in 1918.

"Back in 1884 there assembled a small gather of livestock producers in Emporia. The purpose of this organization was to combine the efforts of cattlemen in opposing the unjust treatment which the railroads of the state were meting out to Kansas shippers.

"It was in this gathering of Kansas stockmen at Emporia that the Kansas Livestock Association was born and during the past 24 years this association has answered its purpose of fighting for the interests of Kansas livestock producers whenever their rights have been in jeopardy.

"Having served as secretary of the Kansas Livestock Association for the past 18 years, and also having served as livestock sanitary commissioner for eight years, I am fully convinced that on account of the similarity of duties, these two offices should be filled by the same head."

Mercer said the move was practical, efficient, and economical and was aimed at removing the office "from politics." But that very law was at the center of a political wrangle thru much of Governor Docking's first year in office.

Docking said the law in effect delegated the governor's appointive power because the executive committee refused to give him any choice except to renominate A. G. Pickett as livestock sanitary commissioner.

The feud began in the 1966 gubernatorial campaign.

There were charges that livestock Sanitary Commissioner A. G. Pickett doubling as executive vice president of the KLA, attempted to promote the candidacy of Docking's Republican opponent, former Gov. William Avery.

Docking cut the sanitary commissioner's budget by $250,000, eliminating state support of the agency's calfhood vaccination program. The governor also applied pressure to get the KLA to move out of its leased quarters in the State Office Building.

But despite threats that he would go to court, Docking has been unable as yet to appoint a new livestock sanitary commissioner. And he has shown little inclination lately to revive the feud.

Pickett is no longer serving as an active officer of the KLA. The KLA board of directors has given him the title of vice president emeritus and taken away his title of executive vice president. Charles Esslinger of Manhattan has replaced him as executive vice president, the chief administrative officer.

There has been speculation that Pickett, 67, may retire next year. His term ran out March 31, 1967 but he continues in the office under a law which allows him to exercise all the powers of the office until a successor is qualified and appointed.

The board of directors of the KLA has a dual role as a state agency in its capacity as brand commission with the power to decide and award ownership of disputed brands.

The 1939 legislature enacted a law to require state registration of livestock brands. The 1947 legislature established a separate office of brand commissioner. Since that time, there have been three brand commissioners, including Heft.

The Democratic minority in the 1968 legislature tried to consolidate the offices of brand commissioner, and livestock sanitary commissioner.

As the law now stands each member of the seven-man livestock commission must bear the recommendation of the KLA's board of directors. Using the recommendations, the governor then appoints one member from each of the five congressional districts and another from the state at large. The seventh member is the president of the KLA.

Sens. Charles B. Joseph, D-Potwin, the Senate minority leader, and Joe Warren, D-Maple City, sponsored a bill that

Auto Callbacks Have Silver Lining

— To Some Surprised Dealers

When automakers find a basic defect in cars they've produced and have to call them back to remedy the fault, it means nothing but embarrassment and heavy outlays for free service. Right?

Wrong.

At least some dealers acknowledge that callbacks may have a silver lining. For often the car owner gets the defect fixed for free and then buys more service — or even new cars.

In fact, some dealers liken a model callback as good as a direct-mail advertising campaign. Dealer attitudes are sharply different from whas they were in early 1965, before the National Traffic Safety Bureau began to disclose publicly that some makers were recalling cars to check on suspected hazards.

Then many dealers feared public disclosure of callbacks would result in panicky motorists clogging service departments and would scare off potential new car buyers.

But these worries didn't pan out.

A certain amount of discretion is needed when trying to sell extra service to callback customers, dealers say. A man who has just learned he owns a faulty product may not be in the best of moods.

Obviously there is concern that some dealers may be selling some recall customers service they don't really need. But the Big Four automakers say they haven't had any unusual complaints.

Moreover, many motorists admit that part of the problem of service is just the trouble of getting the car to the garage. If it's called for some free make-good, many motorists agree that it's a good time to get maintenance done that is due but just inconvenient to arrange.

Some lead-ins are obvious. If a customer comes in for a safety check, the serviceman finds it open to suggest a front-wheel alignment. And while they're at, they often find tires that need replacing. Bingo. A sale.

In the past half year GM has called back nearly half a million 3-year old Pontiacs and over a million and a half 1965 Chevrolets. While these may have defects that GM and the dealers will make good, it also means a potential customer is entering the service station floor. A driver of a 3-year old is often a prime prospect to buy a new one.

Many dealers, of course, do not care to converse on the subject. But, at least privately, many of them admit that callbacks have not been the embarrassing problem they had first figured.

Some dealers shy from any attempts to mix selling with callback work. "It looks too much like chasing ambulances," said one G&G area car dealer.

First Foal At Age 18

A new mother at the age of 18 is Pet, a sorrel riding mare owned by Lloyd Taylor of Leonardville. The colt was 21½ weeks old when this picture was taken on the Glenn Taylor farm south of Junction City. The colt, called Rocky, is a buckskin with black markings and was sired by a buckskin stud owned by Taylor's grandson Rusty. Granddad and grandson are hoping for a filly next spring.

Sawdust To Control Dairy Heifer Intake

By this time most dairymen that pasture their heifers for the summer have already turned the heifers out. For most farmers this will mean less labor when it comes to feeding the heifers. But as the dairyman turns his heifers out, it will also mean an end to the grain that the heifers were getting since before they were taken off milk or milk-replacer.

Most farmers don't have the time to go to the pasture every day to grain their heifers. Consequently, the heifers do without the grain for possibly five months. This means that the heifers do not reach breeding weight as soon as they should.

Most dairymen check pastured heifers about once or twice a week and at the most every other day. If the dairyman brings the amount of grain that the heifers should have for that day plus the amount they should have for the days that he didn't show up, the heifers would fatter and possibly bloat.

The ideal solution to this problem would be for the heifers to eat just the amount of grain they are supposed to and save the rest for the future. Any healthy heifer will eat grain until she is full and this is usually too much unless the heifer has been put on full feed. What the dairyman needs is some way to control intake of grain.

This is where sawdust comes into the picture. As far as it is known, sawdust has no ill effects on cattle that eat it. Why couldn't sawdust and grain be made into a pellet together so that the pastured heifers could eat the pellets until they are full and still not get too much grain.

This is the same question that James L. Morrill, assistant professor of dairy science at Kansas State University, thought of about one year ago. Morrill has been experimenting with a pellet that is 35 per cent sawdust. The heifers on the experiment eat all the pellets that they want and still get the amount of grain that they should. Morrill is experimenting to see if the sawdust will have any ill effects on the heifers.

Morrill believes that there is real potential in the use of control intake. The obvious advantage of this way of feeding would lay in the fact that heifers pastured in the summer would get the right amount of grain everyday without the dairyman having to bring grain to the pasture everyday. The dairyman could bring a bulk amount of these pellets to the pasture whenever he came to check on the heifers and leave it in a self-feeder. By the trial and error method, the dairyman could see how often the feeder had to be replenished.

Another advantage would be that no matter how much the heifers varied in size, they would all get the right amount of grain. The larger heifers would, no doubt, eat first, but when they got full the smaller heifers could go up and eat their share. This would eliminate some of the "hogging" by the bigger heifer and the smaller heifers would have the chance to grow at the same rate as the larger ones.

There still has to be some research done before a dairyman can go to a saw mill for some sawdust and put grain and the sawdust in a pellet and feed it. For one thing the sawdust used Kansas State is white pine. Whether any other kind of sawdust will have an ill effect on cattle is not yet known.

Also the sawdust comes from lumber that is kiln-dried. Wet lumber or non-kiln dried lumber could harm the heifer. Sawdust that is screened to just a certain size is used in Morrill's pellets. Any other size of sawdust might not work for the pellet.

Morrill says that he would like to use a smaller percent of sawdust in the pellets, because 35 percent is really too much non-digestible material to be putting into a pellet. He believes that it would be better to have the sawdust per cent around 10 to 15. But at this level the heifers would consume too much grain. For this reason Morrill is still looking around for a substance for control intake.

It is possible that the heifers may be digesting some of the sawdust. Now it is not known whether this is possible. If the sawdust does have a nutritional value, it could be of more value than was originally thought possible.

40-INCH threshing-separating lets you

...harvest more and cleaner grain

yet it costs you no more than many 26 to 30-inch machines

When the crop is ripe, you want all the speed, power and clean grain you can get. Nothing less than the 40-inch threshing-separating capacity of the new Case 660 Multi-Crop. Yet with its greater power and many new features, it's priced far less than the 30-inch machines — and about the same as 26-27 "inchers."

Clean grain demands this big capacity — Case 40-inch cylinder, 4,480 square inches of separation area, 2,830 square inches of cleaning area. Multi-Crop versatility and capacity to spread your investment wide — over corn, beans, grains and grasses. Choice of 10, 13, 14-foot grain headers, 2 or 3-row corn head.

Now you get more than ever at the low Case price. Big 201 cubic inch Case gasoline engine that develops 65 hp, 35-gallon fuel tank that lasts all day. New optional variable-speed cylinder drive . . . remote control of reel and pickup speed . . . telescoping steering column. High-capacity top-driven 5-inch clean grain elevator. All-steel cleaning shoe. Flip-back comfort seat. New, sturdy sheet metal adds strength and rugged new styling. Get all the facts — see the new 660 today.

Dandy Jack Is Dead

One of the most photographed horses in America, Dandy Jack, is dead. The 24-year old horse owned by former Kansas governor and presidential candidate Alf M. Landon died last week.

Dandy Jack, with Landon astride him, appeared in numerous parades and television shows since the early 1940s. Landon, an avid horseman, sometimes rides as much as five miles a day. Landon said Dandy Jack's 34-year old mother still is living.

'Europe Won Chicken War'

WEZEP, NETHERLANDS — Common Market poultry production figures show that the poultry war of 1965 ended in a defeat for the United States, a poultry economist says.

Dr. J. Wilmink said that the production of broilers in West Germany nearly doubled from 1964 to 1966. The Netherlands showed the second biggest rise in the Common Market with a 90 percent jump in broiler production from 1964 to 1967, Dr. Wilmink says.

He credited the Common Market preferences with ousting U.S. and Danish imports from the rapidly growing West German market where poultry consumption per capita quadrupled since 1955.

He said that another factor was that Common Market production costs were at par with those of the United States.

West German production is supplemented by imports from the Netherlands which exports 75 to 80 percent of her broiler production of 163,000 tons — or more than the entire West Germany production — to Western Germany.

Wilmink said that adoption of U.S. production and slaughtering methods removed the advantage the United States had.

Wezep, employing 350, weekly slaughters and packs 375,000 broilers. It ranks in Europe behind its affiliated Boxmeer plant and Britain's Sun Valley.

The Netherlands exports of slaughtered poultry reached 92 million dollars in 1967.

Dwarf Wheat Plumping Asians' Harvest

Two years ago, the rains didn't come to the Indian state of Bihar and the wheat crop failed, causing widespread famine and, in turn, bitter riots by starving people. The U.S. shipped grain from its ample storehouses to help feed the hungry.

This year the Bihar farmers, clad in white and swinging scythes similar to those described in the book of Ruth, are harvesting a bumper crop of wheat. The rains came this year, to be sure, but the big difference is that some of the wheat yields are nearly 10 times greater per acre than they used to be.

The cause of this dramatic boost, in Pakistan and Turkey as well as in India, is hardy strains of Mexican semidwarf wheat. Farmers in these countries are harvesting yields of 50 bushels to 90 bushels an acre where they once got as little as 10 bushels. These yields compare with the average U.S. yield last year of 25 bushels an acre.

This super-yielding wheat is a derivative hybrid, the result of cross breeding several genetically different wheat varieties. In the U.S. researchers have hard at work for years trying to develop hybrid wheats that would give higher yields and possess other characteristics better than their parents. Hybrid corn, introduced in the 1920s, and sorghum hybrids, first marketed in the 1920s, and sorghum hybrids, first marketed in 1956, have greatly increased production of these grains. But, researchers say, wheat hybrids for U.S. farmers are at least several years away from being generally available commercially because of several technical problems in hybrid seed production.

The Mexican wheat strains were developed in Mexico by scientists from the Rockefeller Foundation who have been involved in agricultural research there since 1943. Bred into the hybrid, in addition to several Mexican strains and a U.S. type, is a gene from a Japanese wheat variety, Norin 10, that expresses itself in short, sturdy stalks capable of holding up heavy, lush heads of grain.

Short but Sturdy

The short stalk is necessary to the success of the hybrid, which responds to heavy fertilization with its startlingly high yields. Most other varieties of wheat tend to "lodge," or topple over, from the weight of grain heads when large amounts of fertilizer are applied to boost yields.

Both Pakistan and India are harvesting record wheat crops. The estimated 600 million-bushel Indian crop exceeds the previous record crop, in 1964-65, by 150 million bushels. Pakistan claims near-sufficiency in wheat production with an estimated 220 million-bushel crop. Turkey also has a bumper harvest.

In these three countries, a significant part of the acreage was seeded with the semidwarf wheat. About 6 million of India's million wheat acres were planted with the Mexican seed, as was 6% of Turkey's acreage. Semidwarfs accounted for 2 million acres of Pakistan's current crop. West Pakistan's Agriculture Minister Malik Kuda Bankhsh said in a recent New York speech that the hybrid is "a main catalyst of the Pakistan agricultural revolution."

If the semidwarfs continue to boost the wheat production of these nations, American wheat prices could be hurt. U.S. wheat and shipments to India and Pakistan alone have averaged more than 200 million bushels annually during the past four years, representing one-seventh of the average U.S. domestic and export consumption in that period.

Nelson Cornelius, grain analyst for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., says the Mexican semidwarfs "will be a significant price factor in two to three years when the U.S. probably will radically trim wheat aid shipments abroad." Mr. Cornelius theorizes the National Advisory Committee on Grains this spring recommended a 15% cut in the 1969 wheat allotments in part, because of the possible influence of semidwarfs on aid exports.

Thought traditionally suspicious of change, the three countries' farmers have taken to the hybrids quickly. In 1965, for example, a Turkish farmer from the Mediterranean port of Arsus planted 66 pounds of semi-

American friend. He doubled his yield on that plot and the next year 100 farmers in the area dwarf wheat sent him by an joined him in improving 60 tons of seed. In 1967, the Turkish government lent enthusiastic support by importing 72,000 tons of Mexican seed. Indian farmers last fall seeded 6 million acres with the hybrid, up from 700,000 acres a year earlier.

The semidwarfs have proved very adaptable to conditions in the Near East and the Indian subcontinent. They must be grown in areas of irrigation or heavy rainfall, but mature on schedule regardless of variations in climate. Moreover, the Mexican wheat resists rust and other diseases common to the areas where they've been planted.

Grow-Your-Own-Seed

Most important, perhaps, the hybrids are self-pollinating and thus self-propagating strains which breed "true" without a drop in vigor. Farmers can grow their own seed grain rather than purchasing new seed each year as must be done with hybrid corn and sorghums. Underdeveloped nations lack transportation facilities and seed industries to supply their farmers every year.

Scientists from the Rockefeller and Ford foundations are assisting Indian and Pakistani scientists in further adapting the Mexican semidwarfs to local conditions. In both countries, breeders have added native strains to the hybrids to achieve greater quality and resistance to local diseases. One Indian scientist has used radiation and chemical treatment to develop amber, high protein semidwarf mutants. Indians and Pakistanis prefer the amber wheat to Mexican hybrids that are soft red wheats.

The Mexican hybrids would have only limited success in the U.S. Much of the Great Plains wheat country is too arid for their growth, and they lack the milling and baking characteristics preferred by U.S. mills and processors for bread making. Dr. Horville Vogel, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist at Washington State University, has developed a semidwarf called Gaines, that is grown in the heavy rainfall area of the Pacific Northwest. Gaines is primarily used in cookie and cake flour.

The nicest thing about a Mix-Mill® feed processing system...

when you need it, it doesn't need you!

Your Mix-Mill® feed processing system stores, measures, mixes and grinds your concentrate, grains and other ingredients, and delivers fresh feed to the feeders automatically... electrically. It will deliver feed for two hours out of 24, 10 hours out of 24, or 24 hours out of 24... regardless of where you are or what you're doing.

There are dozens of other advantages which add up to this. A Mix-Mill® system will feed all of the hogs, beef cattle, dairy animals, or poultry you have on your farm... or plan to have... at less cost and with less labor involved than any other method available.

The nicest thing you could do would be to make us prove it. We'll be glad to. Just fill in the coupon, and get it in the mail today.

Open State's Largest Rural Water District

PAOLA — One of the largest rural water districts in Kansas was put into operation last week, as the switch was turned which started pumps sending water into some 200 miles of lines. The Miami County Rural Water District is the largest in Kansas.

Presiding at the dedication was John Schnittker, a Kansan now serving as undersecretary of agriculture. His visit was part of a 4-day program marking completion of a $110,000 urban renewal project in Paola carried out with private capital.

WICHITA POPULATION UP TO 282,400

Wichita's population is up to 282,400, according to the preliminary census figures. The Sedgwick county population is up 6000 to 352,603 persons. Wichita's gain was 1290 over the 1967 count.

Guilty In Area Bank Case

Two former officers of Talmage Kans. State Bank, pleaded guilty last week in U.S. District Court in Wichita to one count of attempting to defraud the bank of $1,386.

Charles E. Montgomery, Topeka, and Kenneth M. Chase, Abilene, were charged May 9 in a 10-count indictment with making false entries in the bank daily journal, embezzlement of bank funds and abetting attempts to defraud.

At arraignment before Judge Wesley E. Brown, the two admitted making a false entry in the bank expense ledger purporting to show the bank was indebted to Chase Montgomery Insurance Co. for $1,386.

The entry showed the amount was paid April 15, 1965, when the men were aware that the bank had incurred no such debt.

Each of the men pleaded innocent to the other charges.

Mrs. Harold Wernli, Gridley To Receive Beverage Server

Mrs. Harold Wernli of Gridley wins a beverage server for her recipe. She writes, "I save nearly all your recipes. Thought I would share my favorite with you. I got this one 25 years ago in a restaurant where I worked."

CORN RELISH

Mix together:

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon turmeric
- 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1 1/2 cups kernel corn

Cook and stir until mixture thickens and boils, then stir in 2 tablespoons minced green peppers, 1 tablespoon minced pimiento and chill. (Delicious and so simple to serve with meat.)

Mrs. Mabel Keim, R 1, Minneapolis: "A rich butter frosting! Vanilla, lemon or orange — make your favorite flavor for cupcakes and cake."

BUTTER FROSTING

- 1/2 cup cold milk
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1 envelope Dream Whip
  - 1 pound confectioners' sugar
  - 2 tablespoons milk
  - 3 tablespoons butter, softened
- Combine 1/2 cup milk, vanilla and Dream Whip in large bowl. Add half of sugar; blend well. Whip rapidly until thickened, about two minutes. At medium speed alternately add remaining sugar and milk. Beat after each addition. Add butter, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating well. Makes 2 1/2 cups, enough for an 8 or 9-inch layer cake or 24 cakes.

LEMON OR ORANGE BUTTER FROSTING

Prepare as above; omit vanilla and substitute 2 tablespoons lemon or orange juice for the 2 tablespoons milk. Add 1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind after beating in butter.

Two At A Time

Because teen girls outgrow foundation garments as rapidly as they used to outgrow shoes, it is wise to buy just two each of bras, girdles and garter belts at a time. This way, there will be a garment to wear and one to wash. By the time the garments are worn out, it will be time to purchase a new size.

Why Necessary To Scald Milk Used In Yeast Dough

Ever wondered why milk should be scalded before using it in a yeast dough?

Because scalding destroys any bacteria that might be antagonistic to yeast. If the milk is evaporated, however, the scalding is not necessary.

Take Precautions To Keep Leather Suede Looking Lovely

If you own a suede or leather jacket, dress or coat, follow these home-care tips to keep it looking lovely.

Never use detergent or cleaning fluids because they tend to remove color from suedes and leather. Keep leather clothes on a padded hanger and out of plastic bags. Like fur, leather needs air to prevent discoloration. Don't store clothes of these materials in a damp cellar or hot attic. Wear a scarf with suede jackets and coats to prevent hair oils from discoloring the collar.

Glamour and low maintenance have become twin keys to house sales, according to a well known housing consultant.

An example is the increasing use of plastic-surfaced hardboard paneling in new homes. The panels are available in a wide range of patterns, textures, designs and decorator colors suitable for any room in the house. They're considered minimal-maintenance materials, since they resist dents, mars and scuffs and can be washed clean.

Perforated hardboard panels are also being used extensively because they provide extra storage space — an asset in any home. The panels accept hooks and brackets from which a variety of items can be hung.

One of the most decorative hardboard panels available is filigree — an airy, open-work design that is used extensively for connecting doors, privacy screens and room dividers. The panels are sturdy, despite their delicate appearance and can be painted, varnished or shellacked to blend with the room's decor. They add a glamorous accent to any room.

Car Camping Provides Both Freedom And Economy

Car camping has been popular for a long time. It flourished with the Model-T, survived the depression, was held in check during World War II, and then took off down the highway like Bonnie and Clyde.

Freedom and economy are the two most potent selling points for car camping. Freedom reigns because you can go anywhere a set of tires will take you. If you don't like one campsite, you're free to pack up and drive to another.

Freedom and economy also enter into the purchase of a tent, which remains the traditional camping shelter. Cotton canvas is still the favorite tenting material.

Canvas permits air to circulate freely and this keeps you more comfortable and prevents moisture from forming and dripping down inside. New chemical finishes give canvas even greater resistance to wind, rain and mildew.

There are all sorts of shelters for on-the-move car campers. And for the fashion-minded, these are available in vivid or pastel colors.

Perhaps the most popular type is the tent trailer. This unit comes in styles to meet every budget. It has a dining area that converts into double-bed sleeping room and is equipped with pump faucet, cooler and stove.

Then there's a tent with a boot which attaches to the rear of a station wagon. It adds the wagon's load space to the tent interior, providing a second room.

The pop tent also is an excellent choice. Compact and shaped like an igloo, it pops into position in less than two minutes. This tent is completely portable and can even be moved from sun to shade when up.

Still another modern tent is the prairie schooner which looks like a covered wagon. The longest model — 12 feet — will sleep four and still leave a walkway and storage space.

Add Prunes To Meat Loaf

For a variation in meat loaf, add prunes, allowing 1 cup of chopped prunes for each 2 pounds of meat loaf.

Combine ingredients as usual and portion into baking pans. Press whole pitted plumped prunes in the tops of the loaves, arranging so that each slice of cooked meat loaf will hold one cooked prune. Bake and serve.

Here's A Cool Idea For Hot Days Ahead

Does warm weather cause your spirits to wilt by the middle of the afternoon? Prop up your feet and revive yourself with a 'coffee-on-the-rocks' break. Freeze-dried coffee and cold water will give you a fast start on iced coffee — you'll have fresh-perked flavor in a moment. If neighbors drop by to share your coffee break, pass a plate of cookies and prepare the coffee by the pitcherful.

ICED COFFEE

½ cup freeze-dried coffee
1 quart cold tap water
Ice cubes

Place coffee in pitcher or other large container. Stir in cold water. Serve in tall glasses over ice. If desired, serve with cream and sugar. Makes one quart or five-six servings.

Gardeners Wanting Tall Plants Should Consider Cosmos

Gardeners desiring tall plants for use against building or at the back of a border should consider cosmos — especially the Sensation Strain.

These plants grow 4 to 5 feet high, have delicate, fine foliage and bear single flowers of white, pink or rose.

In case you didn't know it — cosmos can be disbudbed by removing all but the tip bud on each stem and, if the plants are enormous blooms will result. Try this trick!

Cottons Capture The Look Of Summer

Spring's romantic fashion fling hasn't melted with the summer heat, but it has taken a more sophisticated turn.

Femininity is still the prevailing theme for summer, but the gimmicky frills that characterized much of early spring fashion have given way to more subtle expressions.

The look of summer '68 is fluid. Skirts float, drape and swirl . . . necklines plunge . . . and belts circle the waist or move higher to become an integral part of the silhouette.

Hemlines remain short, ranging from the top of the knee to four inches above in the better collections. The exception is in late day and evening wear, where the midi emerges as the most romantic look of the season.

Improper Humidity Causes Damage

If your home does not have the proper humidity, it can cause the floors to separate, furniture to pull apart and pianos to lose their tone.

Let Suedes Dry Slowly

If you wear suede, leather or fur and get caught in rain, let the garment dry slowly. A combination of heat and moisture will cause the skins to shrink and harden.

Make Certain Celery Is Crisp

A crisp stalk of celery should snap, crackle and crunch when you bite off a piece to chew at mealtime or snack time.

When buying celery, be sure to look for fresh, clean crisp-looking stalks of medium length, thickness and solidity. Branches should be brittle enough to snap easily. Look for good heart formation, too. Celery is just the thing to satisfy hunger pangs between meals.

California collections spotlight light cotton as the fabric that goes hand in hand with the feminine styles of summer. This naturally cool fiber turns up in textured versions as well as the soft sheers like voile, organdy and batiste.

White, is the predominating favorite, often spiced with a colorful belt for pleasing contrast.

Pretty Touch

When lengthening girls' dresses, cover the old hemlines with a strip of bias tape. The tape prevents breakthrough and adds a pretty touch.

Four Resign Over Welfare In Harvey County

NEWTON — Four members of an advisory board to the Harvey County welfare department resigned last week in protest against the 1969 budget.

Resigning were Preston Bacon, Jay S. Holstine, Paul Loyd, and Richard Nordstrom.

A letter explaining their resignation cited the gain in welfare and administrative costs in relation to population as a cause of their resignation.

Figures cited for 1961 showed a Harvey County population of 25,643, monthly case loads of 380, a budget of $459,892 including $27,602 for administration.

In 1968 the Harvey county population was 27,697, average case load was 440, budget was $851,022 including $118,000 administration costs.

The 1969 proposed budget of $1,025 million contains $127,000 for administration.

The four men also noted that the unified school district in the county which serves 4200 children has an operating budget of $1.8 million (not counting capital outlays) and the city with 16,500 citizens has an operating budget of $1.7 million.

I35W THRU McPHERSON OPEN BY CHRISTMAS

McPHERSON — A 20-mile section of I35W will be open for traffic before Christmas, contractors say. I35W presently runs out south of Salina, at the Assaria corner. Grading has been completed for the next 20 miles into McPherson county, and work orders on the paving will be issued July 1 and July 8. Contractors have 145 working days to complete the project before $350 a day penalties are applied.

CBS May Alter Election Returns

The Columbia Broadcasting System, whose prevailing projection in California last week went far wide of its mark, said that, it may alter its method of projecting returns.

Robert Chandler, director of operations for the CBS election unit, said the network is considering withholding percentage projections on the candidates until more of its sample precincts have been tabulated.

At one time on election night, CBS projected a California victory margin for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy over Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of 52 to 38 per cent. The actual margin, as it turned out, was only 46.3 to 41.8 per cent.

The CBS projections, issued long before the National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. even called a winner in the California race, created a widely accepted election night view of an overwhelming Kennedy victory.

Persons in the eastern part of the country, living in later time zones, had gone to bed before these projections were changed. In the aftermath of the Kennedy shooting, with attention deflected from the election returns, many persons never caught up with the fact that the Democratic primary contest was a close one.

KANSAS VFW OPPOSES TIGHTER GUN LAWS

The Kansas VFW has gone record in opposition to tighter gun control laws. A resolution passed at the Kansas convention in Great Bend noted that possession of arms is guaranteed under the Constitution, that gun registration and confiscation was used in Nazi Germany, and that registration puts too much power in the hands of a few when there is need for individual protection.

Can't Avoid Reappraisal, Lawsuit Says

TOPEKA — The State Property Valuation Department and the attorney general's office said last week they will file motions in four counties in an effort to dismiss reappraisal suits. Lewis Carter, attorney for the Property Valuation Department, said he has mailed dismissal appeals to courts in three counties — Chase, Butler and Chautauqua.

Carter and Dean Burkhead, an assistant attorney general, were to file a similar motion with the district court in Labette County.

Carter said the motions were based on grounds the courts lack jurisdiction of the subject matter.

The four actions had been initiated in an effort to block implementation of reassessment programs.

Reassessment is required under a 1963 law which says property must be assessed at 30 per cent of justifiable value.

CO-OP Feeds with Tylan and Sulfa Do It Best!

A fat hog is as outdated as the horse-and-buggy days. Consumers demand good, lean meat... and smart producers are increasing their net profit by supplying good, lean hogs. Leaner market hogs bring more money and yield the meaty cuts the consumer wants.

CO-OP Protein Concentrates, Complete Swine Feeds and Pig Feeds won't make a pig leaner, but when properly mixed and fed will make pigs gain fast and efficiently.

CO-OP Feeds are available with Tylan and Sulfa. Tylan and Sulfa work together, increasing weight gains and improving feed utilization in the presence of dysentery and atrophic rhinitis.

The CO-OP Swine Feeding Program will do a good job in your operation. Get together with a CO-OP Feed man and get all the details.

Out Go The Weeds

Kathy Starr and her mother Mrs. Marvin Starr of Soldier, Jackson county, hack weeds out of a field. They had sprayed first to kill the weeds.

Carbon Tet Out
As Fire Fighter

Carbon tetrachloride is no longer acceptable to the fire marshal as a fire extinguisher. The federal government moved recently to carbon tetrachloride prohibited for home use, fire marshal Arthur Ramey said.

Swallowing or inhaling fumes from these chemicals can be fatal thru damage to the liver, kidneys, brain, nervous system, according to the FDA, Ramey said.

The most familiar carbon tetrachloride extinguishers are small round tanks, usually made of brass, operated by hand pump at one end, state fire marshal said.

Jasper E. Pallesen, who supervised farm statistics for USDA in Kansas for the past years, was recently cited by the department of Agriculture for "superior service." Pallesen's honor was one of 11 made by USDA. He has been with Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service for 33 years.

Cutting Near Newton

One of the first into a wheat field in the Newton area was Melvin O'Keefe who cut a few acres on the John Winningham farm on June 14. That's Jim Winningham riding with O'Keefe.

annually over the next three years, the U.S. share 42 per cent of the total.

A 2-day Senate debate over the international agreement ended with members still arguing over whether it would help or hurt U.S. wheat producers.

Critics maintained that the plan for a guaranteed minimum price would encourage other countries to boost wheat production, thereby reducing overseas markets for American wheat.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, supported the treaty. He told the Senate it would help "do away with cut-throat competition" in international wheat markets.

Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture, said in a statement the agreement would mean "better income for U.S. wheat growers as well as additional assistance to the U.S. balance of payments."

Roth also said the arrangement would mean a higher return for U.S. farmers, at the same time giving "a timely boost for our balance of payments."

Roth also said the arrangement would mean a sharing of other countries in the responsibility for food aid for hungry nations.

He said this responsibility has hitherto been assumed primarily by the United States.

Wheat Agreement Senate OK's

The Senate has approved by a 62-21 vote the international grains arrangement.

Key features of the arrangement, which 52 nations are eligible to join:

- Establishment of a price range on wheat moving in international trade.
- Agreement by exporting nations to supply specified amounts of wheat to importing countries and, conversely, agreement of importing countries to purchase specified amounts of wheat.
- The pledge of purchasers to stay within the established price range in obtaining wheat from countries not parties to the pact.
- A food aid convention, under which a total of 4.5 million tons of wheat will be contributed to underdeveloped countries

Woodmen To Develop A Park At Milford

JUNCTION CITY — A 52-acre park and camping area at Milford Reservoir near Junction City will be developed by Charles Reynolds Camp No. 318, Modern Woodmen of America, Junction City.

The fraternal organization has leased the land in the Farnum Creek area from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. The Modern Woodmen have approved a $27,900 six-year development program for the area.

The 1968 construction includes water facilities, cleaning and leveling the area, seeding, re-alignment of roads and erection of six barbecue grills and six picnic tables.

Future improvements include toilets, picnic shelters, boat docks, development of a camping area, an enclosed shelter house and a swimming beach.

Long range plans call for an athletic area with baseball, softball, volleyball and golf facilities.

Harry Sullivan, Junction City, district director for Modern Woodmen of America, said the facility would be available to members from Junction City and camps throughout the United States and all other non-profit groups.

Pressure On Wheat Price

It all adds up to lower prices for Kansas wheat farmers in 1968-69.

June 18, 1968

Grass & Grain

The outlook is anything but bright for wheat prices as harvest gets underway in southern Kansas counties.

A number of factors — including prospects for a near record crop and a drop in exports — are exerting downward pressure on prices, says Don Pretzer, grain marketing economist at Kansas State University.

In short, the loan rate is expected to floor wheat prices in Kansas, he says.

Winter wheat production is estimated at 1.2 billion bushels, only 2 percent less than last year's record. Production of winter wheat — estimated at 300 million bushels — will push the total 1968 wheat crop to a record high.

Pretzer looks for carryover to total 545 million bushels on July 1, 1968, up 120 million bushels from 1967. This, too, has been pressuring wheat prices downward.

Secretary Freeman's National Advisory Committee on Grains has suggested a 10 percent required acreage diversion from the 1967-68 allotment of 59.3 million acres. Along with additional voluntary diversion, this should reduce the 1968-69 carryover by 50 to 100 million bushels. But the total supply available assuming normal production and use would still be large enough to exert a downward influence on price.

Exports may be the single most important influence on wheat prices, Pretzer believes. Competition from other wheat producing nations plus large world stocks point to a slump in U.S. exports from 750 million bushels in 1967-68. Exports of 650 million bushels seem more likely for 1968-69 at this time.

A legislative proposal directs the Commodity Credit Corporation to reduce "free supplies" by 400 million bushels in 1968-69. If passed by Congress, this could favorably influence short-run prices. Long term price effects would depend on purchase and release of the 400 million bushels controlled by CCC.

Opposes Iowa Cholera Action

HUMBOLDT, Iowa — Dr. S. D. Linn, president of the Iowa Veterinary Medical Association, is critical of Iowa legislative action which will prohibit vaccination of hogs against cholera after Dec. 1 in this state. He feels the incidence of cholera should be lower than it is before vaccination is stopped. An outbreak of cholera, he said, would be difficult to fight without vaccination.

Alfalfa Stimulates Milk Production

Dairymen expect increased milk production when cows are changed from stored feed to legume pasture in the spring, but until recently bloat made it difficult to assess the full potential of legume pasture.

Milk producing potential of alfalfa pasture, grazed freely by cows taking bloat preventive, was tested by Kansas State University dairy scientists. Bloat was controlled with poloxalene, the bloat preventive developed at Kansas State University in 1966.

Milk fat percentage usually declines when cows are changed from hay to succulent pasture, and this was the case with cows that went on brome-grass pasture. But milk fat percentage increased for cows on alfalfa pasture, Dave Stiles and Dr. Erle E. Bartley, dairy scientists at KSU, told members of the American Dairy Science Association this week in Columbus, Ohio.

Cows on alfalfa pasture produced more milk than those fed brome-grass pasture or alfalfa hay, Bartley said. Cows pasturing brome-grass produced more milk than those fed alfalfa hay.

While grain was fed according to milk production, grain intake was not related to production of cows pasturing alfalfa because cows on alfalfa pasture refused portions of grain throughout the trial; whereas, cows fed alfalfa hay or brome-grass pasture ate all the grain offered.

Cows on alfalfa pasture consumed considerably more forage (dry-matter basis) than those fed alfalfa hay or brome-grass pasture. The forage (dry-matter basis) intake of cows on brome-grass pasture declined markedly as the experiment progressed, probably related to the stage of maturity of the brome.

Increased milk production of cows on alfalfa pasture over hay is probably due in part to the increased intake of energy and protein by cows on pasture. Stimulation of milk production from pasture, generally a mixture of grasses and legumes, has been reported in previous research studies.

If cost of roughages in this trial is considered equal, milk income over cost of grain was higher for pasture-fed than for hay-fed cows. Weather conditions at the test site favored brome-grass; however, alfalfa pasture produced more milk, less body weight loss, and more hay for mechanical harvest in addition to pasture.

Best Bluestem Of The '60s

Pastures in the 14-county Bluestem area of Kansas were providing excellent grazing for cattle on June 1 this year, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Grass growth was good nearly everywhere in the Bluestem area as the result of ample rainfall this spring. Water supplies for livestock were ample, with most ponds full and streams running.

Condition of cattle in the area was reported as good as for any year in the 1960's. Pastures were reported 97 per cent filled by June 1, reflecting strong demand for grass at higher prices this year.

Pasture feed condition in the Bluestem area was 90 percent of normal, up 20 points from last year and 9 points above the 1962-66 average. Grass was in plentiful supply on June 1 following good rainfall during April and May.

Stock ponds were well filled in most areas but in a few places could use some additional runoff.

Cattle condition on June 1 was reported at 88 percent of normal, up 7 points from last year and up 3 points from average. Cows that wintered in the Bluestem area and those that were shipped in for pasturing are both doing well.

Reports indicate that some cattle have taken on considerable flesh already. Stockmen expect the peak marketings off grass this fall to be about September 10, a few days later than average.

Around 1 1/4 million head of cattle were on the Bluestem area pastures on June 1, up slightly from last year. Shipments into the area this spring were estimated to be 158,000 head of cattle, 3000 more than last year. Spring movement of cattle into the Bluestem area was at about the same time as in 1967.

The number of all cattle in the Bluestem area on January 1 this year totaled 1,109,000, an increase of 26,000 from a year earlier.

Combined Bluestem & Osage Pastures of Kansas And Okla.

The June 1 condition of grazing feed on the Bluestem pastures of Kansas and the Osage pastures of Oklahoma is well above both a year earlier and average. Spring rainfall has been ample and prospects for summer grazing are good. Stock ponds are mostly full.

Movement of cattle into the Bluestem-Osage area during January through May totaled 184,000 head, about the same last year but 20 percent below average.

The January 1, 1968 inventory of cattle and calves in the area was 1,256,000 head, up 3 percent from January 1, 1967 and 12 percent above average. Cattle on pasture in above average condition and are making good gains.

Too Many Too Late

We went overboard in our purchases of new John Deere 5020 and 1020 tractors.

If you ever wanted the big powerhouse 5020, now's your chance to get it.

The 1020 is row crop, stored under cover.

Our bosses tell us we MUST move these tractors off our inventory.

Come in and see Everett Hoobler. He'll sell them straight out or on trade.

WANTED:

A Salesman Who's Tired of Traveling . . .

If you're a successful salesman but tired of "living out of a suitcase" and regret spending so much time away from your family, then you're the man we want to talk to. If you've felt compelled to stay on your traveling treadmill in order to maintain a high standard of living, we'll tell you about a sound financial opportunity which awaits you in your own city.

If accepted you will be given a brief but comprehensive training course to qualify you to represent one of the nation's fastest-growing mutual fund organizations (assets in excess of $2,000,000,000) with offices from coast to coast.

No Western Kansas Switch To Mountain Time

Department of Transportation Secretary Alan Boyd has said the department had decided against moving the time zone boundary in Kansas.

The Kansas Legislature last fall petitioned the department to include the entire state within the central time zone.

Under Secretary Boyd's decision, the northwest corner of the state, which has been in the mountain time zone, will remain in that zone.

Secretary Boyd said that in a survey of those living in the affected area, only 4 per cent responded to the department's query but of that 4 per cent, 75 per cent wanted to remain on mountain time.

Because there was so little response combined with the overwhelming opposition to moving the time zone boundary, Secretary Boyd said it was concluded that moving of the boundary was not justified.

The secretary emphasized that the decision is not related to the operation of daylight time in Kansas.

Since the Kansas Legislature has not taken action to exempt the state from daylight time, the entire state would operate on it, he said. This action also includes the northwest portion of Kansas, which will remain on mountain time.

Expect Harvest Peak June 20

Unless moisture keeps farmers out of fields, the 1968 Kansas wheat harvest is expected to peak sometime around June 20.

The first cutting in southern Kansas indicated wheat was running better than forecast. Fields in Barber, Harper, and Sumner counties were running five bushels over June 1 estimates.

Harvest wages have run about the same as last year. Combine operators are receiving $1.50 to $2 an hour, with truck drivers getting $1.50 an hour.

Custom cutters are getting $3.50 per acre plus 5 cents per bushel over 20 bushels. On wheat flattened by rain, prices are higher.

CASHES GOVERNOR'S CHECKS AT ONCE

Arkansas Governor Winthrop Rockefeller has cashed the checks for his first 16 months of salary all at once. The checks totaled $10,544. Rockefeller had said he intended to give his salary to the state mental hospitals but later said he was having difficulty giving the money to the institutions without paying income tax on it.

Ease Limits

The membership of the Kansas City Board of Trade last week voted to revise the rules on futures trading in live feeder cattle. Essentially, the changes made are designed to make trading easier.

Major changes included revising the weights on feeder cattle to be delivered under futures contracts and providing for delivery of good cattle rather than choice grade.

POST OFFICE OAK — One of the many historical points in Council Grove, Kansas, is this large oak tree which Santa Fe Trail travelers used as a post office from 1825 to 1847. A cache at the bottom of the tree served as the post office. Council Grove is also the home of such historical points as the Kaw Mission, Council Oak Stump, Belfry Hill, Custer Elm, Father Padilla Monument, Hays Tavern, Hermit's Cave, Last Chance Store, Madonna of the Trail Monument and Monument to the Unknown Indian. — ENJOY KANSAS — TAKE A KANSAS HOLIDAY.

"Place of Meditation" Chapel on the grounds, Eisenhower Center, Abilene.

HOME ON THE RANGE — Here on the banks of the Beaver River about 17 miles north of Smith Center, Kansas, stands the crude homestead cabin in which Dr. Brewster Higley wrote the words to "Home On The Range." Higley, a doctor and a farmer, wrote the words during the winter of 1873-74. His neighbor, Daniel Kelly — a Smith County druggist, composed the music. In 1947 — 74 years later — the Kansas Legislature voted to make "Home On The Range" its official state song. The song was also a favorite of the late president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. — ENJOY KANSAS — TAKE A KANSAS HOLIDAY.

COWBOY CAPITOL — Dodge City, Kansas, is known as the Cowboy Capitol of the world as is symbolized by this famous Cowboy Statue which stands on Boot Hill. Many famous gun characters roamed the streets in Dodge City in its glory days of the 1880's. In 1884 alone, Dodge City shipped a half a million cattle on the Santa Fe railroad. Many of the old buildings still stand and are major tourist attractions in old Dodge City today. — ENJOY KANSAS — TAKE A KANSAS HOLIDAY.

Aviation Booms In Kansas

The aviation director for the Kansas department of economic development says aviation in Kansas is continuing to gain at a phenomenal rate.

Ray Arvin said latest Federal Aviation administration reports list 266 airport facilities in the state plus one heliport.

He said 66 of these are paved, 104 are lighted.

There are 109 publicly owned and 157 privately owned airport facilities and 195 are open to the public.

Commercial air service includes 12 scheduled carriers. There are 252 aircraft used for charter or taxi service.

Arvin said 3,734 aircraft are registered in Kansas and there are 11,502 active pilots.

What Is Difference Between Top And Bottom Management Records?

The annual reports of the six farm management associations in Kansas are complete for 1967, and the figures do not surprise many farmers in telling that net income (that is, gross sales less expenses) is down from 1966.

For all six associations, covering 2780 farm units, the net average was $7995 in 1967 compared to $11,079 in 1966 and $6845 for a 10-year average.

After deducting interest on investment, a new figure — roughly what a farmer's "salary" would be — is arrived at, which figured as low as $2210 in one association and as high as $6371 in another.

The main reasons for lower incomes in 1967 than in 1966 were lower prices on commodities sold, poorer crops and higher production expenses.

One part of the record keeping concerns the differences in the farms with the highest net incomes and those with the lowest. These usually are separated as to the highest 25% in an association compared with the lowest 25%. This affords an excellent opportunity to search for the reasons why.

In general, John Coolidge, extension economist who directs farm management at K-State, says the high income farms manage more resources, produce more and are more efficient.

They earn on the average four times as much for their labor and management. Often these farms are partnership deals.

This is the way he summarizes the differences between the high and the low income producers:

"The high income fourth of the association farms are 2-man farms of from 900 to 2400 acres, representing total investments of from $200,000 to $300,000. The larger units are on the western side of the state and the smaller on the east.

"On the average, the operators manage $184,000 in resources per man in the west; $120,000 in Central Kansas and $106,000 in the east. They produce $30,000 of gross income annually per man.

"Crop yields on the high income farms are only 15 percent higher than the average but they produce 65 percent more livestock and 61 percent more total gross income with 38.5 percent higher expenses.

"With their expenses ratio per $100 of gross income only 86 percent as high as the average, their net income was 2½ times as high and their return for labor and management was nearly four times the average for 1967.

"The uniformity of these figures emphasized the importance of a 2-man unit, high crop of adequate resources, the efficiency and large, well-managed livestock enterprises for higher incomes regardless of the area of the state."

Salina Trades For Land For New Golf Course

SALINA — A land swap between Salina and the Graves family has paved the way for construction of a 18-hole, $200,000 grass greens municipal golf course here.

The city will transfer 20 acres to the Graves interests, which will deed 40 acres of their property to Salina.

The two-for-one trade will enable the city to construct the 6245-yard, par 70 course on the west side of the former taxiway of the old Salina airport. The terminal building will be converted into a clubhouse, and the airplane parking apron will be used for automobile parking.

The airport runway will be available for other recreational uses, such as Grand Prix sports car races, model airplane clubs, and go-kart races.

The golf course will be financed 50 percent by city funds, from issuance of revenue bonds, and 50 percent by federal funds through the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

City officials hope to award a construction contract by mid-July, with completion before the 1969 season.

City Manager Norris Olson said the cost of retiring the revenue bonds will be met with green fees.

GM Way Ahead On Sales List

Hit by a 2-month strike last fall, Ford Motor Co. dropped from second to third among the largest corporations in the country, according to a Fortune magazine study.

General Motors continues to lead the list, based upon gross sales.

Here is the top 10 list (in billions of dollars):

General Motors	$20.0
Standard (N.J.)	$13.3
Ford	$10.5
General Electric	$ 7.7
Chrysler	$ 6.2
Mobil Oil	$ 5.8
IBM	$ 5.3
Texaco	$ 5.1
Gulf Oil	$ 4.2
U.S. Steel	$ 4.0

The top 500 companies in the U.S. in sales showed a nearly 8 percent increase in gross sales in 1967 altho profits fell by about 3 percent. The gross sales of the top 500 were $359 billion with profits at $22 billion.

GM had the top earnings, $1.6 billion, altho its profit fell by 9%. Standard of New Jersey was the only other corporation to make a billion. Texaco and IBM had the highest profit margins in relation to sales, more than 12%.

Ranking the companies by assets rather than sales or profits produced a more compact list, dominated by banks and insurance companies. Ranking by "sales" wouldn't work for commercial banks and "profits" would be excluded by mutual life insurance companies.

American Telephone & Telegraph is first on this list, with $37.6 billion in assets.

Trade Protection A Farm Threat

A protectionist philosophy growing in several sections of the economy looms as a real danger to U.S. agriculture, which already is being sorely tested. Dr. John A. Schnittker, undersecretary of Agriculture, said in Kansas City last week.

Dr. Schnittker said protectionism is apparent in the steel, fabrics, chemical and beef industries, the latter, of course, itself a vital part of agriculture. Orville Freeman, Agriculture secretary, has testified before a congressional committee on the peril of protective legislation.

"We are greatly concerned about it because of our position as an agricultural exporter," Dr. Schnittker said. "It is a very important issue, almost a crisis."

"If we cut off, or make it difficult, to import steel, fabrics and chemicals from Japan and Europe, they are going to retaliate in wheat, rice, corn and soybeans."

Exports account for roughly one-sixth of the dollar volume of the 40-billion-dollar agriculture economy, the undersecretary observed, and for the produce of one out of every four acres in grain production. Thus, any threat to these markets must be viewed as grave, he said.

"Right now it is nip and tuck what the outcome will be," he said.

Railroads Shed No Tears Over Loss Of Passenger Trains

The railroad industry says the nation's passenger trains may soon join the stagecoach in oblivion — and it doesn't appear to be sorry.

The fault lies with the modern American traveler who has deserted the trains for planes and automobiles, says the Association of American Railroads in a pamphlet responding to complaints of late trains, poor service and ancient equipment.

While the industry didn't exactly say "good riddance," it was clear railroad officials are shedding few tears.

The pamphlet, entitled "The Case of the Vanishing Passenger Train," says railroads are losing money on passenger service that could be better spent in modernizing for an expected heavy increase in freight traffic.

The railroads, frequent target of complaints from the public and members of Congress whenever a passenger run is abolished, doesn't think any more money should be spent to try to save money-losing trains.

"There is nothing to gain — and much to lose — by continuing these runs with present equipment," the pamphlet says.

New high-speed trains being developed with the help of the Department of Transportation are described as "an expensive experiment" in which the industry apparently has little faith.

"American railroad officials find it understandably difficult to buy the idea that there would be sufficient public support to warrant the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for new equipment on the long-shot gamble that it would bring people flocking back to the rails," says the pamphlet.

Western Ranges In Top Shape

Cattle are thriving on improved pasture in most areas of the West, the Agriculture department said.

Range conditions as of June 1 were fair to good over most of the 17 western states, the department said. Cool May temperatures slowed grass development in some areas, but ranges in the Southwest provided good to excellent grazing.

Prospects for summer ranges were improved by the late May and early June rains in most regions.

Condition of range feed was reported at 82 per cent, which is 3 points above a month earlier.

Cattle and calf condition in the 17 states was reported above average and the highest for June 1 since 1958. Higher conditions from a month earlier were reported in all states except Wyoming, Arizona and California.

The condition of range cattle in Texas was the highest for June 1 since 1941, the department said.

AUCTION SALE

Wednesday, JUNE 26

Machinery Starts 1 p.m.

Real Estate at 2 p.m. Approx.

We will sell at Public Auction all of our real estate acreage of approximately 1352 acres of farm and pasture land at the ranch headquarters located three miles east of Manhattan, Kansas on K-18 Highway in various tracts as described.

Real Estate — 1352 Acres of Riley County Land

GENERAL DESCRIPTION: This tract of land lies just southeast of Manhattan, Kansas. All of the pasture land has been rested from one to two years and is in excellent condition. All tracts have excellent water either with good wells or large ponds or both. We will offer these various acreages as described separately with the auctioneer holding the bid on each high bidder of each tract and then he will offer the entire unit for sale and whichever brings the higher bid, it will be sold.

Tract No. 1 — 160 Acres

The NE 1/4 of Section 27-10-8 consisting of 160 acres comprising about 90 acres of good bottom land with 27.6 acre wheat base with the balance in row crop and alfalfa with about 20 acres of meadow and balance pasture. Excellent improvements, consisting of a 3 bedroom modern home, large barn, hay barns, implement sheds, granaries, and other buildings. Has a large area with various corrals and pens making an ideal cattle feeding location.

Tract No. 2 — 480 Acres

The NW 1/4 and South 1/2 of Section 27-10-8 consisting of 640 acres which is pasture land. Watered by ponds & springs.

Tract No. 3 — 412 Acres

A tract of land and located in Section 27-19-8 consisting of approximately 412 acres of pasture land which is known as the Scott Pasture.

LAZY-T RANCH

Ambrose, Hunter & Lundberg

Route 3, Manhattan, Kansas

Tract No. 4 — 140 Acres

A tract of land located in Section 34-10-8 consisting of 140 acres of pasture land which joins the Deep Creek road to the North.

Tract No. 5 — 160 Acres

The SW 1/4 of Section 26-10-8 consisting of 160 acres of pasture land and known as the McLaughlin pasture.

TERMS: The Purchaser will buy this land only under contract with 25% down on date of sale when possession will be given with payment of 25% per year over a three year period or the purchaser may pay in full anytime after the first year. The Seller will retain the 1968 wheat crop and will give possession of this acreage after harvest. Purchaser will pay the 1968 taxes.

Bids July 27 For Courthouse

WESTMORELAND — Bids will be opened here July 27 on the sale of $295,000 in bonds to finance construction of the controversial Pottawatomie County Courthouse and jail.

The county commission accepted the low bid of Ransom and Co. of Wichita last spring but sale was blocked by a suit filed by three county residents.

Judge A. B. Fletcher Jr., Junction City, judge pro tem, dismissed the suit last month.

The county's bond advisors said interest costs have risen since the March bond sale and estimated the delay will cost "at least $10,000" extra.

County officials said building costs have risen about 6 per cent annually since a tax levy was adopted in 1960 to help finance the project.

Investment of the funds has produced 3 per cent interest.

The $295,000 in bond proceeds will be added to a similar amount derived from the special tax levy.

Auto Policies To Cover Risk Of Uninsured Driver

All companies writing automobile liability insurance in Kansas must offer uninsured motorist coverage in the policies effective July 1, a State Insurance Department official said.

Ron Todd, supervisor of the fire and casualty section of the insurance department, said this is the result of a law passed by the 1968 legislature.

He said the insured had the right to reject the coverage but must do so in writing. Otherwise the coverage will be added automatically to all policies that do not include this provision as the policies come up for renewal after July 1.

Todd said rates vary among insurance companies but the added coverage would cost about $4 a year on the average.

HOGS START AT 11:00 A.M. CATTLE AT 1:00 P.M.

In spite of the rainy day last Saturday, we had an extremely good sale. All classes of cattle were sold on a good, active market. The hog market was probably the largest we have had.

Steer calves weighing 300 to 500 pounds sold from $28.00 to $33.00. Heifer calves weighing 300 to 500 pounds went through the ring at prices ranging from $24.50 to $27.10.

The cow market was extremely good, and active all the way through. Good cows brought $18.25 to $20.00, a few heiferettes went at $20.00 to $23.00, and the shellies brought $16.50 to $18.00.

A very good run of feeder cattle sold on an active market. Feeders weighing 650 to 850 pounds sold at $26.50 to $28.00.

Following is a sampling of the hog market.

He Believes Minimum Tillage Way To Cut Corn Costs

By Gary J. Morehead

Minimum-tillage practices in the growing of corn and other farm crops have come about because the farmer is constantly looking for ways to improve his products and at the same time reduce his operating costs. This has become possible largely because of the adaptation of chemicals to farm use which enables a farmer to raise a weed free crop without repeated cultivation practices.

Wilfrid Johnson, a Riley County farmer, has employed a method of minimum-tillage for corn which at the same time makes flood irrigation possible before the corn seedlings emerge.

Johnson's system starts with minimum-tillage in the preparation of the seedbed. The crop residue from the previous season is chopped and mixed with the topsoil to a depth of six inches by a disking operation. At this time a dry starter fertilizer is broadcast on the field. Then anhydrous ammonia is applied by a knife-type applicator which at the same time serves to loosen the soil. Following this the ground is chiseled to a depth of nine or ten inches.

At planting time the ground is first blank listed in 40 inch rows. This operation involves listing the soil deep enough to produce ridges upon which the seed is then planted. After the ridges have been established by the listing operation the corn is planted by a furrow opener with the disk openers removed. By this method the corn is placed on top of the ridges at a depth of about two inches. An insecticide is applied during the planting operation to reduce insect damage as the seed sprouts.

Thus this system of planting corn leaves the corn plant on top of the ridges with a furrow between each row. Johnson believes that this will be better than having the plant in the furrow for several reasons. First he feels that the seedlings will have a better chance of emerging through the soil without the danger of crusting because any heavy rains will run off into the furrows thus leaving the ridges to dry off without excessive packing. Second he feels that by having the seeds on top of the ridges this will enable him to flood irrigate the field to start the crop off in the absence of adequate moisture. The water can be channeled down the furrows, thus preventing erosion of the seed out of the ground.

"Another advantage to the system comes when you can irrigate the crop at any stage in its growing period, Johnson stated.

Johnson feels that the percentage of kernels planted to the number of stalks that survive will be higher because you eliminate any coverage of the small plants that occurs when the crop is cultivated.

Immediately after planting Johnson applied a pre-emergence herbicide in broadcast manner. He feels that this application will prevent the growth of any weeds for the duration of the growing season. Broadcasting the field should prevent any weed growth in the field, thus eliminating the necessity of cultivating the crop.

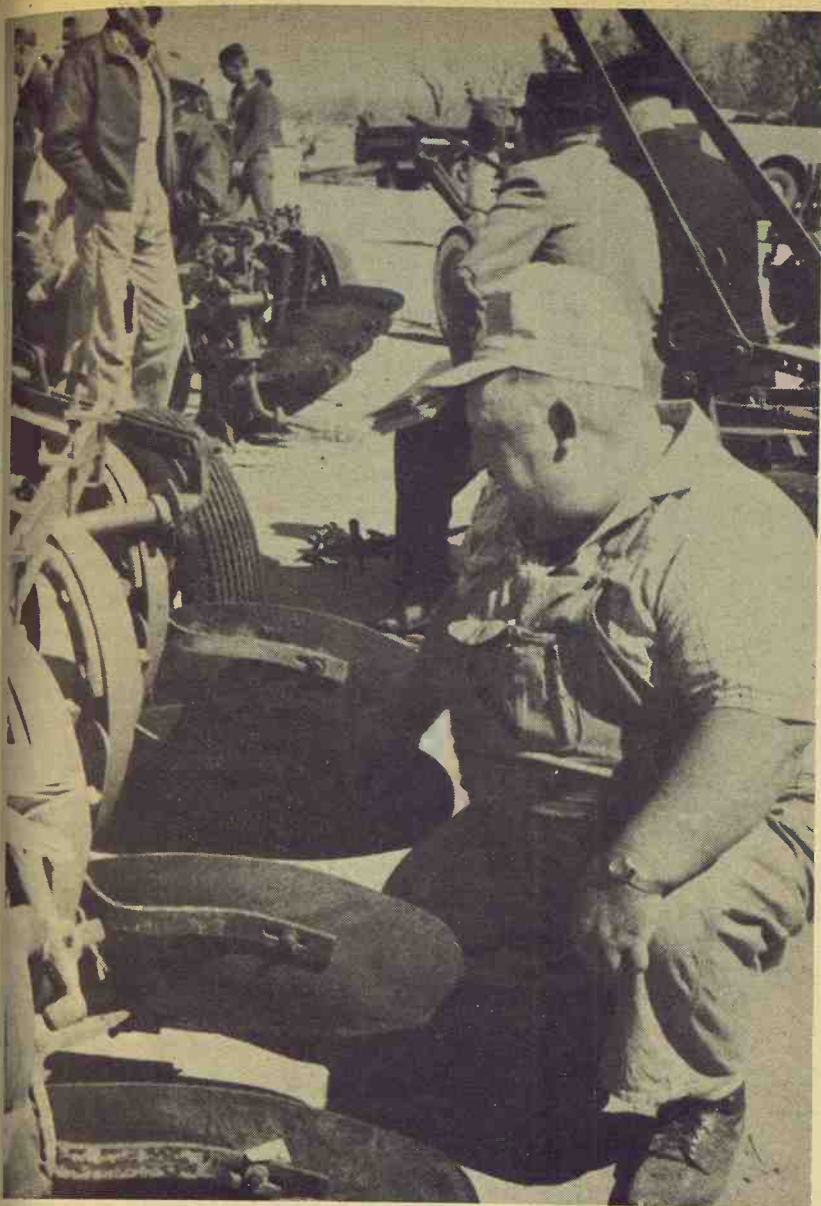

If by chance weeds were to start to grow in the early summer Johnson feels it will be possible to cultivate the crop with a conventional cultivator. This process would then add soil to the ridges which would continue to allow for flood irrigation.

Minimum-tillage practices have become popular in recent years because of the increased savings in labor and machinery costs afforded to the producer. Johnson feels that this system of corn production can save as many as three cultivations which were previously required in the conventional method of planting corn in the furrow. This will amount to a savings of up to five dollars per acre.

Johnson also feels that the yields can be increased due to the elimination of weeds by the broadcast treatment method. This could add five to ten bushels to the yield per acre.

Sell At St. Marys

Sell Or Buy Cattle & Hogs. By Auction Tuesdays

We had a good run of cattle for this time of year, and a large run of feeder pigs. All classes of stockers and feeders were selling steady. Killing cows and bulls were steady. We will have a sale June 18 and then be closed June 25 and July 2 to rebuild the loading docks. The following is a partial list of the sales made on June 11.
