Wheat Growers Ask Farm Bureau Parley

DODGE CITY — The Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, which has clashed with the Kansas Farm Bureau in the past over farm programs, has invited Farm Bureau officials to an Oct. 19 conference to seek agreement on proposed legislation. George W. Meeker, Garden

City, president of the growers said that the conference will take place when the resolutions committees of both organizations will be preparing material for their annual meeting in November.

"Wheat growers have been disturbed by charges that farm organizations can't agree on what they want in legislation," Meeker said.

Hybrid Wheat On Market By 1970

NEWTON — Area farmers left the Newton Experiment Field's Fall Field Day with hope of someday having a hybrid wheat that could conceivably push production up another 10 bushels per acre.

Dr. R. W. Livers, Fort Hays

Branch Station, said hybrid wheat is a promising prospect, although it is still several years in the future.

Talking about grain and forage sorghum varieties, Jim Ball, KSU foundation seed instructor, said that in general, the later maturing the hybrid, the greater the yield if environmental conditions permit the hybrid to reach maturity.

Choosing the correct maturity group and then selecting a hybrid with good potential within that group is one of the most important factors in sorghum production. This holds true for either forage or grain types, he said.

Alfalfa varieties of the future will need to be resistant to diseases and insect pests common to the area if they are to be competitive, Dr. E. L. Sorensen, KSU alfalfa breeder, said.

The best method of obtaining these is through mass greenhouse plantings which can be combined with recurrent selection to increase resistance.

He said techniques have now been developed for adding resistance to the potato leafhopper and summer blackstem as well as pea aphids and spotted alfalfa aphids.

Stressing the need for farmers to follow manufacturers' recommendations for applying herbicides, Oliver G. Russ, KSU weed science research, outlined the use of chemicals in controlling weeds in grain and sorghum and soybeans.

Don M. Gronau, Newton Experiment Field, said that chemicals can not replace cultivation practices.

Even though herbicides will kill the weeds, some soils show a definite need for cultivation to permit moisture penetration and aeration.

He said pre-emergent chemicals in soybeans are no substitute for good tillage. Herbicides should be used as a companion to cultivation, he said.

Farm Programs Likely To Turnabout

Washington farm planners appear likely to execute an about-face this fall and tell U.S. farmers to cut acreage to be planted in corn and soybeans for 1968 harvest, but to boost the amount of land seeded with high-quality cotton.

The Department of Agriculture already has announced the 1968 wheat program, which reduced acreage allotments (the maximum a farmer can plant to be eligible for federal subsidies) to 59.3 million acres from 68.2 million this year.

The feed grain program is yet to be decided, but observers believe Washington may lop off as much as 10 million acres from this year's total allotment of about 133 million acres.

Cotton acreage, trade sources think, could be lifted next year as much as 60% from the amount being picked this year. The expected backpedaling on feed grains acreage would follow last year's call by the Agriculture Department for farmers to plant more corn, sorghums and soybeans.

Stocks of these grains and of wheat were dwindling, and Washington figured that with continued good consumption, the U.S. would need big crops to meet domestic and export demand and to maintain "adequate" reserves.

Instead, requirements fell, particularly in exports as other grain-growing nations reaped bountiful harvests and wooed a bigger share of world markets with cheaper prices. Meanwhile, near-excellent weather is helping U.S. farmers turn out predicted record harvests of wheat and feed grains this year.

As a result, prices have dropped sharply. Wheat, for example, brought $1.50½ a bushel in Kansas City, down from $1.93½ a year earlier; on the same day, corn sold for $1.24½ a bushel in Chicago, down from $1.50½ a year before. Farmers are exerting pressure on Washington to "do something" about the falling prices.

The proposed turnaround in cotton stems from a reverse situation. On Aug. 1, 1966, the start of the 1966-67 cotton year, the U.S. had a record surplus of 17 million bales.

So the Agriculture Department and cooperating farmers cut acreage, and by Aug. 1 of this year the surplus had been worked down to 12.5 million bales, or nearly enough to meet last season's domestic and export needs.

But the stockpile is largely low-grade stuff, which textile makers don't want.

Farmers will be asked to expand acreage next year and concentrate on producing long-staple cotton used to make shirts, pillowcases, bed sheets, thread and other items.

Prices for 1 1/16 inch long staple fiber for delivery early next year are about 10 cents above the average U.S. crop loan rate of 22.8 cents a pound.

Agriculture secretary Orville Freeman plans to consult his Grain Advisory Committee this month on possible corn acreage cuts and later on will hold field meetings with growers and farm organizations to solicit views.

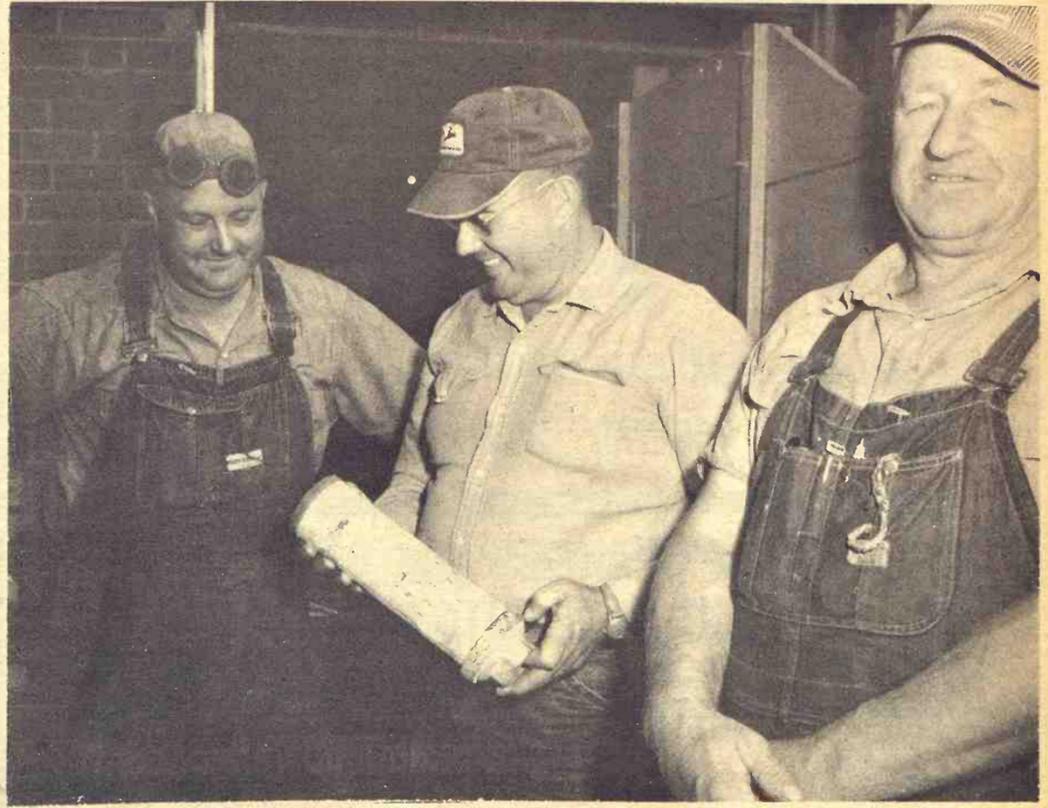

One worry: U.S. exports of corn since Oct. 1, 1966, declined to 409.1 million bushels from 610.6 million in the year-earlier period as a result of stiffer competition from Argentina, South Africa, Thailand, Rumania and others. Argentina says it expects to export a third more corn this season than last, its largest volume since the late 1930's.

Grain men will also be asked for opinions on a new soybean program. About 1 billion bushels are expected to be harvested this year, coupled with a carryover supply of 100 million bushels on Aug. 31, the end of the 1966-67 soybean season.

It's estimated that demand in this new season will be about equal the 875 million bushels consumed last season, so the carryover on Aug. 31, 1968 would be pushed to about 225 million bushels.

Washington is expected to eliminate some of the soybean program options in a new feed grain package. The guess currently is that soybeans will be stricken from the list of substitutes allowed in the 1968 feed grain program.

Feeders Profit Problem To Control Feed Costs

By Wilton B. Thomas
Kansas State University

Prospects are bright for higher finished cattle, hog and sheep prices this winter. But prices for feeder animals will also be above those of a year ago. So the farmer-feeder will have to take advantage of lower feed costs and make good use of home-produced feed to show a profit in 1968.

Three key steps can help you shoot for low-cost gains. First, select the most economical feed grain or combination of feed grains to fit your situation. Make the best possible silage and hay from available feed crops. Then store it in the best practical manner to maintain top quality.

High quality silage will be important during the 1967-68 feeding season, and probably for the next several years. Maturity and dry matter content are among the most important factors in silage quality. A realistic goal for corn silage is to get moisture content down to 65 percent when the crop is ensil-

ed. A slightly higher moisture content may be acceptable with sorghum silage.

Silage Lost Is A "Profit Leak"
Silage which is allowed to spoil in storage costs Kansas farmers thousands of dollars each year. Some of this loss is unavoidable, but much of it is unnecessary.

The amount of feed value lost from silage between harvest and feeding is greater than you may realize. This is because much of the loss is unseen.

Oxygen-free storage offers the best protection for your silage. With moisture content at 65 to 70 percent at time of ensiling, you can figure on losing only 1 ton of nutrients in 20 or 30 with this type of silo. At the other extreme, losses will be 1 ton in 3 when feeding from a stack, if the feed is used within 3 to 5 months.

Losses with other types of storage are as follows: well-managed trench or bunker, 1 ton in 5; conventional upright silo, 1 ton in 10; shallow uncovered earth trench, 1 ton in 3 or 4.

How do these types of storage compare in cost? You can figure it out by adding the cost of the silo and the value of the feed lost. Data in the table below is based on 15 years depreciation for the silo and equipment, and a value of $8 per ton for the material put in storage.

Quality of feed is critically important in determining the best investment in a silo. Oxygen free storage undoubtedly provides highest quality silage, followed closely by the conventional upright silo. Stacked silage, or that in a shallow trench, may be adequate on an emergency basis.

Well-managed trenches or bunkers enable the farmer wishing to avoid high investment to store silage satisfactorily. Conventional upright silos combine maintenance of high feed quality with acceptable long-term costs.

Changes in Relative Feed Costs

Attention to least-cost rations is unusually important this year because of changes in feed grain prices. Feed grains were abundant last year, but pasture, silage, and hay were generally scarce and high in price. Feed grain prices may be as much as 10 percent lower this year. Hay prices should be 25 to 40 percent lower, and plenty of silage will be available.

So, on a nutrient basis alone, some of the roughages may be lower in cost than feed grains. Grain sorghums and corn, for example, contain approximately 80 percent digestible nutrients. At $1.60 per hundred, they provide nutrients at $2 per hundred.

Alfalfa hay, or good prairie or brome hay, contains approximately 50 percent digestible nutrients. At $20 per ton, or $1 per hundred, this also comes to $2 per hundred pounds of nutrients. But the hay also provides more protein, vitamins, and minerals.

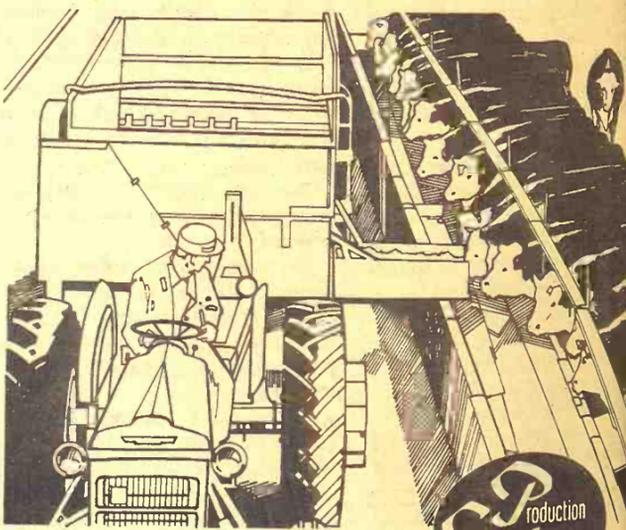

Where silage is available in quantity, it may be a particularly economical feed for use this season. Wheat will probably be priced where it competes with sorghum grain in least cost rations.

Summing it up, feeders who take advantage of the abundant feed supply to get low-cost gains should profit from feeding livestock this winter. Those who experience high cost gains will probably have difficulty showing satisfactory profits.

Here's Detail Of '66 Record Income - Who Made It, How It Was Spent

Realized net farm income for Kansas farmers during 1966 was sharply above a year earlier and a new high for the State, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

This increase resulted from sharp gains in cash receipts from farm products marketed, particularly livestock, and somewhat higher Government payments to farmers.

These were only partially offset by the increase of 10 percent in farm production expenses.

In the first half of 1967, however, cash receipts from farm marketings were slightly below those a year earlier.

The state's realized net farm income totaled $586 million during 1966 for a 64 percent increase over 1965 and 40 percent above the 1960-64 average.

Kansas realized net farm income during the 1949-65 period had ranged from a low of $83 million in 1957 to a previous high of $468 million in 1962.

Realized net farm income was 32 percent of realized gross farm income in 1966 compared with 24 percent in 1965.

Realized net income per farm during 1966 averaged $6036, compared with $3619 during 1965, and a range from $711 to $4461 in the previous 16 years.

Cash receipts from marketings totaled $1533 million, an increase of 27 percent over 1965.

Crop sales totaled $556 million, up 14 percent with considerable increases being shown for sales of wheat, sorghum grain, corn and soybeans.

Livestock and livestock product sales totaled $977 million, 36 percent above 1965 with receipts from cattle, calves, hogs, dairy production and eggs showing substantial increases from a year earlier.

Income from Government payments to farmers totaled $226 million, representing 13 percent of the state's cash receipts compared to 15 percent in 1965.

Production expenses on Kansas farms during 1966 reached a new high of $1235 million compared with $1118 million during 1965.

Included in the expenditures were current operating expenses such as seed, livestock, feed, fertilizer, hired labor, machinery operation and miscellaneous expenses totaling $824 million.

Depreciation and consumption of capital goods totaled $206 million, and taxes, interest, and rent paid to non-farm landlords amounted to $205 million.

Crop Reports — Help or Hurt?

Farmers have been asking a lot of questions about government crop and livestock reports: Who makes the reports? How? Are they accurate? Do they help or hurt farmers?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture makes most of the reports that farmers are concerned about. The USDA prepares forecasts and estimates of many kinds — including crop production, stocks on hand, the number of livestock on farms, pig crops, cattle on feed, etc.

Farmers supply facts. Most of the information for these reports is supplied by farmers and ranchers — the men who grow the crops and raise the livestock. Many thousands of farmers serve as volunteer unpaid reporters for their communities. They receive, fill out, and return questionnaires to state offices. Crop specialists from these offices also make careful field studies to note crop development, soil moisture, and other factors that affect yields. Specialists also interview farmers, using scientific methods like those employed by public opinion polls.

The crop and livestock reports issued by the USDA are about as accurate as the information supplied by farmers. Most reporting farmers turn in good reports. A few try to gum up the works by careless or false reporting. Most of these poor reports are spotted and thrown out by the USDA statisticians.

Forecasts of corn production are begun on July 10 and revised each month until December. The first forecast reflects conditions as of July 1. Later estimates are adjusted to reflect the progress of the crop each month. Forecasts of soybean

Wishes It Would Rain

Duane Durlinger, Hebron, Nebr., prepares wheat ground. He says the area has been exceptionally dry and has not had a sizeable amount of rain since June.

production are begun on August 10.

Other sources of information. Elevators and mills report amounts of grain on hand at the first of each quarter. The CCC reports stocks on hand each week. The Meat Inspection Division reports the number of livestock slaughtered. Hatcheries report numbers of eggs set and chicks placed, etc.

Prices of crops sometimes fall after crop reports are issued, but prices rise about as often as they go down. Prices go down when supplies are large or increasing. Even if there were no government reports, the big grain companies would know when crops are good or poor; they have employees at many different places. Some travel continuously during the growing season and make their own forecasts of crop production.

Advertising pays. While no one likes to see the prices of his products go down, lower prices are usually necessary in order to sell larger amounts. Producers of soybeans, corn, and wheat are dependent upon buyers in many parts of the world. These buyers want to make their purchases where supplies are large and prices lowest. They have to plan their purchases several months ahead. When they see reports of good crops in the United States, they send more of their orders here. More orders make for bigger exports, helping to prevent greater price declines.

Most businessmen, including many farmers, want more (rather than less) information about their industry. They want the information to help them plan their purchases, production, and sales. They know that they need all the information they can get, in order to stay in business and make a profit.

NFO Now Talks Of Wheat Holding

NEWTON — Plans for a national meeting to discuss wheat holding action were discussed at an area meeting here of the National Farmers Organization.

Vincent Koestel, NFO grainman from Abbeyville, Kans., explained the proposal to more than 100 area farmers and stockmen gathered at the Newton livestock pavilion. Other area meetings are scheduled and the matter will be discussed at the state NFO meeting in Wichita October 27.

Koestel said a grain holding action would be applicable to wheat as well as sorghum would call for a sign-up of 50 per cent of the grain that the farmer would normally sell. The grain would be placed in an NFO grain bank to be held for a price of $2.00 a bushel. The sign-up contracts, Koestel said, will be mailed to NFO members next week.

Why It Pays To Supplement Pasture With Good Formula Dairy Feeds

Grass alone cannot give your cows all the food values they need for sustained high production.

When you are feeding cows bred to be top milk producers, the need for proteins, minerals, vitamins and unidentified factors in the ration is very important. This need is even greater in late summer and early fall when pasture may be close-cropped and dry.

CO-OP Nutritionists know that dairy farmers must have proper feed to get maximum results at lowest possible costs. That's why CO-OP Dairy Feeds are Profit Checked for results. CO-OP Dairy Feeds are formulated to give a ration that will best supplement the shortcomings of the dairymen's forage program and will produce 100 lbs. of milk at the lowest feed costs.

• CO-OP Dairy Feed-12 is a high TDN, well-fortified dairy ration that contains essential vitamins and minerals. It is recommended to be fed with excellent, high protein pasture or with liberal amounts of high quality all-legume hay.

• CO-OP Dairy Feed-14 should be fed to producing cows, dry and freshening cows, heifer or bulls on very good pasture or very good quality legume hay.

• CO-OP Dairy Feed-16 is a well-fortified, well-balanced ration that is preferred by thousands of dairymen who demand an efficient dairy feed for a variety of feeding conditions.

• CO-OP Dairy Concentrate-32 can be fed on top of the grain to dairy cows or may be mixed with farm grains to produce a well-balanced and fortified ration.

• CO-OP Dairy Concentrate-50 is designed for mixing with farm grains to produce an efficient, high production ration.

Come in and let us show you the CO-OP Dairy Feed best suited for your dairy herd.

Less Left After Paying Bills

By Gary L. Vacin
Kansas State University

Farmers will handle about as much money in 1967 as in 1966 when farm income reached near-record levels. But rising production expenses will take a bigger bite out of what farmers have left over after paying their bills this year.

Gross income will be about the same as in 1966. Expenses, however, are estimated more than $1 billion higher. As a result, net income may be down 5 to 10 percent from a year ago.

Production expenses continued to increase during the first 6 months of 1967. The index of prices paid by farmers for commodities and services — including interest, taxes, and wages — was up 1 percent during a 4-week period in mid-June.

The rise in costs was mainly responsible for a drop in net farm income from the near-record level of about $16.6 billion in the first half of 1966 to a rate now estimated around $14.8 billion for the first half of 1967.

Expenses increased about $11 billion from the mid 1950's to 1966, or more than 50 percent. About 40 percent of this increase was due to higher prices.

Taxes and interest payments have also shown an upward trend. Farmers are paying about 7 percent higher taxes per acre this year than last. This reflects higher assessments based on a further rise in land values.

Interest payable on farm real estate debt the first half of this year was about 12 percent higher than in the corresponding interval last year.

Combined taxes and interest make up about 10 percent of total farm costs, up from 6 percent in 1950. These items have accounted for about a sixth of the increase in total production costs during the period.

Farmers are receiving lower prices for most farm commodities than last year. This adds to the pressure on net income exerted by rising production costs.

Overall farm prices averaged more than 5½ percent lower than the unusually high levels during the same period a year ago. Prices for livestock products are averaging nearly 7 percent lower.

Lower crop prices reflect a somewhat weaker foreign demand for several major crops. Exports during the fiscal year ending June 30 are expected to average only modestly about the $6.7 billion recorded for fiscal 1966.

Still, the outlook for agricultural exports over the long run indicates further gains to possibly $8 billion by 1970 and $10 billion by 1980.

On the increase so far during fiscal 1967 were exports of cotton, tobacco, and oilseeds. Exports of grains and animal products — commodities produced by most Kansas farmers — were all lower than the corresponding period of fiscal 1966.

Looking to the future, farmers can expect a continuation of the trend which has seen a decrease in the number of farms with a low volume of sales in favor of those producing higher total sales. And a sound farm management program will become increasingly important to farmers in the years ahead.

Swine Group Meets Sept. 28

MANHATTAN — Roland Paul, executive vice president of the National Pork Producers, Des Moines, will be the featured speaker at the semi-annual meeting of the Kansas Swine Improvement Association on September 28.

The 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. meeting will be held in Weber Hall on the Kansas State University campus, Manhattan, reports Dr. Berl A. Koch, secretary of the group.

During the morning business meeting, the KSIA will discuss changes in their constitution and plans to broaden their membership to encourage participation from all sections of the state, Koch says.

After a "Dutch treat lunch, Paul will report on a pilot "Check-off" program in Iowa and Illinois designed to get producers to give active financial support to a national program of pork promotion, research, and marketing techniques.

There will also be afternoon reports from KSIA standing committees which include disease prevention, promotion, legislation, marketing, and test station. KSIA President Jasper DeVore, Arkansas City, will preside at the meeting which is open to anyone interested in expanding and improving Kansas pork production.

Mississippi has become the leading beef cow state east of the Mississippi river in a spectacular jump that has seen the state increase its sales of cattle and calves from $87 million in 1964 to $145 million in 1966.

Cattle has become the second largest source of farm income in the state, ranking only to cotton, which grossed around $170 million in 1966.

In comparison, Kansas' cattle industry in 1966 had gross values of $543 million.

Fred On Riots And Prosperity

I think we have to come up with some better answers for these riots or they will continue to grow in number and intensity. The Negro has for over 100 years been treated as a second class citizen. He has had to accept the lowest job and the lowest pay. There has been lots of talk about his lot, but very little action. Since he has slammed a brick through the window of "the establishment" he has begun to get some concrete action. However the government, the dear old benevolent government, doesn't have all the answers. The poverty programs at best can only be "stop gap" affairs. They cure nothing.

In my mind there are two very definite ingredients missing in our present solutions. The first one is that we, in our local communities, have to accept the Negro as a creature of God, a brother of Christ. We have to show him loving concern, a decent job, with decent pay.

Secondly, we have to build prosperity in America and in the world so that decent jobs with decent pay are available. The base of any nation's economy is agriculture. If this base is exploited as it has been in America, then the total economy is severely shaken as any man on the streets of America can tell you today. We see giant corporations, giant chains constantly looking for new ways to build dividends. The Declaration of Independence states, "But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security."

from the G&G Area

Our government to-day must act now for the common good. It must quit coddling the giant and establish justice. We too — the common man must act — first get down on our knees — then get up and demand justice.

Grange, NFO And The Dirty World

Having had Grange insurance, I was surprised when Mr. Newsom, Master of the Grange, said we are "lily white" and do not engage in the dirty world of business. He is probably ashamed of his insurance company or a man of questionable integrity.

I am also certain that Grass & Grain has the same knowledge that Grange is in the insurance business and am surprised that you would indicate that you are not.

You have many times mentioned NFO hog-buying stations in Kansas, so apparently Mr. Staley had a lapse of memory when he spoke to Mr. Resnik. It would appear that Farm Bureau has the officers with the highest integrity after all and is an organization I shall join at once.

Farmers Union Design To Bolster State Farming

SALINA, KANS. — A new state effort to bolster family farming in Kansas was proposed here last week by a legislative committee of the National Farmers Union of Kansas.

The committee sent a letter to Gov. Robert Docking suggesting the creation of a rural resources development commission.

The primary purpose of this commission would be to coordinate and direct all agricultural research and promotion within the state.

It also would define rural resources, and in general would seek to improve the economy and promote rural economic development.

List Farm Evils

The letter to Docking indicated several things the group considers to be endangering the economic health of agriculture in Kansas.

How Public Payrolls Jumped

The number of state and local government employes in Kansas increased 10-fold over the population increase, from 1956 to 1965. And monthly payroll costs jumped almost 24 times as fast, according to the national research organization, Tax Foundation, Inc., has reported.

Kansas with its 6 percent population increase, ranked 40th in state growth rates for the 10-year period. The state was 10th in state-local government workers' payroll increase rates, according to the national research organization.

The foundation said the 63 percent rise in overall state-local government employment accounts for a "substantial part" of the huge increase in expenditures in the period.

Education, the most costly function of state-local governments, accounts for one-half of their personnel service outlays, the foundation estimated.

It said since World War II, the average annual salary of full-time employes has increased at the rate of 4.8 percent per year. For the employe in a private industry, that rise has been 4.3 percent.

Another large increase was noted over the country in federal civilian employment, felt mainly in states and cities rather than in the District of Columbia.

Only Kansas and three other states declined in federal government civilian employes. During the decade, Kansas fell about 5 percent in that area, dropping from 23,083 to 22,229.

No. 1 was that farmers cannot purchase and own land at existing market prices for agriculture purposes. Nor can farmers afford to pay going wages for labor.

"Agriculture is suffering significant losses of management personnel because of the large out-going migration of young people from rural areas," the letter said. It continued:

"The economic condition of Kansas agriculture cannot be corrected by any technique of good management.

"The rush of nonfarm interests into agriculture is undermining the independent farmer, and unless something is done by the Kansas Legislature to forestall it, Kansas agriculture will be moving rapidly into the dominance of the sharecropper system with all of its social and economic evils."

Farmers Own Few Acres

The committee said it was estimated that out of 50,271,000 acres of farm land in Kansas, only 9 million were farmer-owned.

"It is the lack of farm-generated capital, more than any factor that is creating the vacuum which will permit huge billion-dollar, out-of-state based corporations, to take over Kansas agriculture," the letter contended.

"We ask you to help us find a way to assure independent farm operators that they will be able to stay on their farms and obtain the necessary capital without being beholden to rich, off-farm interests and corporations. If we fail in the next session of the Kansas Legislature, the family farm system in Kansas will become a thing of the past."

The Farmers Union group held a meeting here prior to sending the letter to the governor. Copies of the letter were sent to the members of the House and Senate Agriculture committees.

The letter was signed by Cyril Habiger, Bavaria; Ivan Wyatt, Clements; Howard Rawjewski, Victoria; Robert Anderson, Kinsley; Wayne Worthington, Burrton; Glen Strenad, Cuba; Philip Doyle, Beloit; Ivan Stotts, Bvers; William Overmiller, Bellaire, and Albert Otte, Downs.

Mrs. W. Hauserman, Longford,
Sends Prize-winning Recipe

Mrs. Wesley Hauserman, RI, Longford, is the contest winner. Mrs. Hauserman's recipe appears below:

EASY CASSEROLE

Place in a skillet:
2 tablespoons shortening
1 medium onion, chopped

Cook until tender. Add 1 pound ground beef. Cook over medium heat, stirring with a fork to break up meat. Cook until lightly browned. Spread in bottom of a greased casserole. Spread over meat-onion mixture 1 can (1 pound one ounce) cream style corn. Spread over corn 3 cups seasoned mashed potatoes. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

Mrs. D. G. Boeckner, Moundridge: "I enjoy your recipe column very much."

MOCK SOUR CREAM

Blend in electric mixer or blender the following ingredients until smooth:
1 cup cottage cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons skimmed milk

Use in place of dairy sour cream. May be stored in refrigerator. If it is too thick, add a little cream.

The following recipe is from Mrs. Eldon Thorman, Clay Center:

ORANGE SALAD

2 packages orange gelatin, dissolved in 1 cup boiling water
2 1/2 cans frozen orange juice, diluted with 1 can cold water

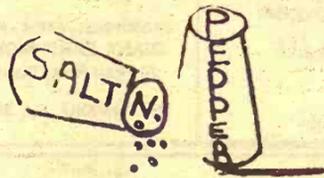

Stir well and it will start to set almost immediately. Add 1 teaspoon pineapple flavoring. Fold in 2 sliced bananas, 1 can mandarin oranges, drained and 1 small can pineapple tidbits, also drained.

Clara M. Buchman, Alta Vista: "Have been reading some of your recipes in Grass & Grain. I always keep all of them. Thought I'd send one of mine."

CHERRY JUBILEE DESSERT

Use an 8x10 or 9x9-inch glass baking dish. Cream 1 stick margarine and blend in 1 1/2 cups powdered sugar in mixer until light and fluffy. Add 2 eggs, one at a time, beating after each, until mixture is light and fluffy. Crush 1 cup vanilla wafers and spread over bottom of greased baking dish. Add batter from mixer over crumbs and smooth level. Pour 1 can cherry pie mix over batter. Whip 1 pint of whipping cream or 1 envelop of Dream Whip and spread over cherry pie mix. Add 1/2 cup cookie crumbs as top layer. Refrigerate overnight.

My 19-year old, attempting to lower his caloric intake, was moaning about the temptation of eating. "Just pretend this house has no kitchen," I told him. Eying my 16-cubic foot, avocado refrigerator he said, "just how do I do that, with the 'Jolly Green Giant' standing there?"

Bake Souffle In Pastry Shell For Unusual Dessert

3 tablespoons sugar
Dash salt
Blend cornstarch and milk in saucepan. Add margarine. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken and is smooth. Beat with spoon to remove any lumps. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla. Beat egg yolks and sugar until thick and lemon colored. Gradually stir into cornstarch mixture. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, one minute. Cool five minutes. Meanwhile, prepare pastry shell. Beat egg white and salt until stiff but not dry. Gently fold in cooled sauce. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake on low rack in 350-degree oven about 50 minutes, until puffed. Serve with apricot dessert sauce. Serves six-eight. (Note: If not served immediately, heat in 350-degree oven about 20 minutes to repuff filling.)

Apricot Dessert Sauce:
Combine 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt in small saucepan. Gradually blend in 1 cup apricot nectar, then add ½ cup light corn syrup. Stirring constantly, cook over medium heat until sauce thickens, comes to boil and boils three minutes. Remove from heat. Add 1 teaspoon margarine stirring to blend. Makes 1¼ cups.

Cheese Biscuits
For a delicious accompaniment for a soup and salad lunch, serve baking powder biscuits made with shredded cheddar cheese.

The familiar souffle can be baked in a pastry shell for an unusual delicious dessert. The slow baking called for in Souffle Pie produces a souffle of even moistness and light, fluffy texture. Serve immediately after baking, topped with a fruit sauce. If serving is delayed, the use of cornstarch in the recipe makes it sturdy enough for repuffing by warming it in the oven.

Vinyl-wrapped Walnut Veneer Used For Bedroom Furniture

You may be interested in "Wonderwood" if you plan to shop for bedroom furniture this fall or winter.

It is not a substitute material. It is a registered name for genuine walnut veneer with the durability of vinyl finish and the heat resistance qualities of aluminum foil backing.

Introduced at the spring market, the suite of bedroom pieces created considerable buyer interest. The groupings are keyed to functional apartment-scaled walnut pieces, moderately priced for young marrieds and bachelors.

"Wonderwood" has one of the really new finishes for hardwood case goods. It is virtually soil, spot and stainproof. Alcohol will not discolor it. It is highly resistant to cigarette burns. Even lipstick and crayon marks sponge right off.

This vinyl walnut-wrapped veneer consists of three plies. The top ply is a tough transparent vinyl. The middle ply is a thin layer of genuine walnut veneer. The bottom underlay is aluminum foil which disperses heat and cold.

It has the appearance of fine well-rubbed, matte-finished walnut. If a high luster is desired, additional high-lighting can be achieved by lightly waxing the original finish. Later, if the matte finish is again preferred, the wax can be removed in much the same way as floor wax.

Vinyl wrap-around walnut veneers also are being used by rado and tv cabinet manufacturers. They are especially able to large screen television cabinets because of the all-around protection given by the vinyl finish and the richness of the warm walnut grain and color.

Ragweed Harvest

A 25-man crew was at work near Pittsburg recently to harvest a rare crop — ragweed. Gary Robinson (left) field foreman for Stemen Laboratories of Oklahoma City, and Clayton Adair, farm labor supervisor for the state employment service, discuss the project.

The "money crop" came off a 40-acre field and will be used in preparing a vaccine for hay fever and other allergies. The ragweed was mowed and gathered before wilting but before it dried out.

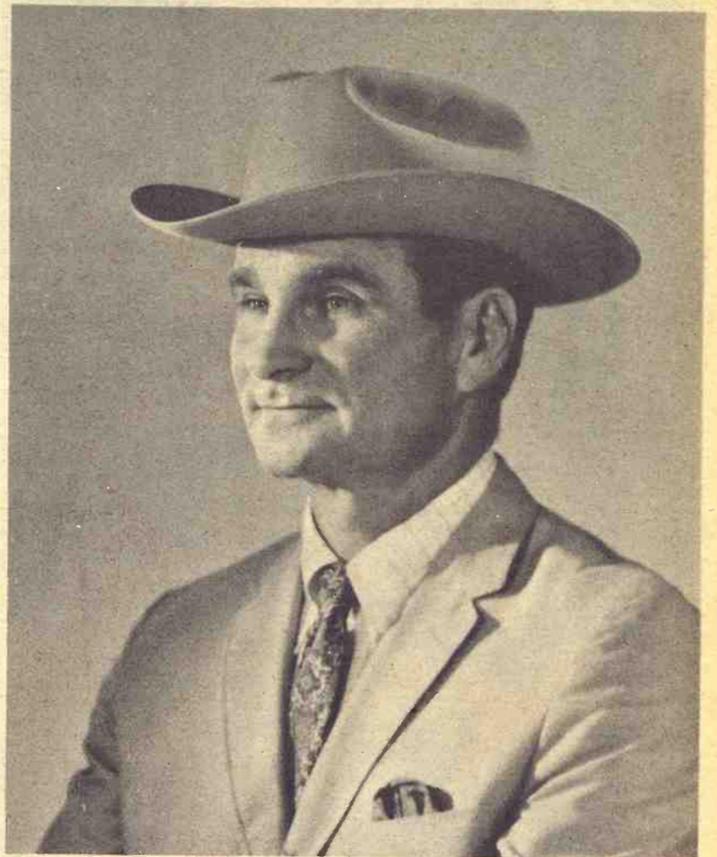

The field had a thick stand of ragweed, a variety that grows about 14 inches high. John Carlson, a rural Cherokee County farmer, cut and winnowed the crop.

Apparently the firm's demand for ragweed is strong. Other pastures with concentration of the weed are being sought by the company.

ASKS FOR LIMITS ON JUNIOR COLLEGES

Build no new community junior colleges or area vocation technical schools in Kansas, at least until 1969. A subcommittee of the Senate Educational Committee has recommended such a moratorium.

The subcommittee also recommended a study be made to divide the state into junior college and area school districts, a higher level of state support for junior colleges but not up to the level asked by a juco association, higher basic tuition rates at the schools, and reduction of charges made on out-of-county junior college students.

County Agent Darold Marlow Cited

Darold Marlow, Wabaunsee county agent, is one of two Kansas extension agents who will receive Distinguished Service Awards from a national association of county agricultural agents.

The awards will be made at Omaha Thursday, September 21. The other Kansas agent is Otis Griggs of Hutchinson.

Marlow has been in extension for 17 years, coming to Alma as county agent after brief service in Butler and Montgomery counties.

His extension program covers a variety of activities. Work with the Wabaunsee County Cattlemen's Association includes an annual spring dinner meeting, a fall Bar-B-Que, and an all-day beef tour. He also helped organize a county artificial breeding association, and a dairy herd improvement association.

This livestock-minded agent has also encouraged herd performance testing, beef production contest participation, watershed planning, range management, brush control, and windbreak and woodlot tree planting.

He has also assisted with such economic development projects as a shooting preserve, fish farm, golf course, rural water district, and campsites.

His county 4H program started in the early 1950s with the development of County Fair facilities, and organization of the first 4H rodeo in the state. Other popular 4H activities include annual 4H trail rides and the indoor 4H rifle range.

$20 Hogs In Early '68

By R. L. Coppersmith
Kansas State University

Hog prices, which have been up and down like a roller coaster the past 3 years, may be about ready to settle down a bit. Variations will continue, but they will be much more gradual.

Look for prices to drift from $19 to $20 as we move into the fall and winter, then ease back above the $20 level during the first half of 1968.

Farrowing intentions for fall pigs — June through November — were reported to be 3 percent less than last year. This would place the total pig crop for the year at 1 percent below 1966.

National Junior Show At Wichita October 2-3-4

A record number of cattle, sheep and hogs is expected for the 35th Kansas National Junior Livestock Show to be held here Oct. 2, 3 and 4, said publicity chairman Don Alldritt.

The three-day event is the state's largest junior livestock show and sale offered to more than 30,000 youths active in 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters throughout Kansas.

Last year, 675 head of livestock made the show and total sales were more than $106,000. Predictions are that the show and sale will feature some of the finest quality of livestock ever exhibited, Alldritt said.

This movement is mild compared to the wild fluctuation from a low of $15.40 in January 1965 to a high of almost $29 by November the same year. Prices were still around $26 as late as August 1966, but then dropped to around $17 last April.

The December through May pig crop was up 5 percent, while the late spring crop was down 2 percent. Thus, late fall marketings likely will drop below year earlier levels. This will help head off the price slump we frequently see in November, when marketings usually peak.

See U.S. Corn Bushels At 4.7 Million

The Agriculture department has estimated this year's crop of corn for grain at a record high of 4.7 million bushels and the wheat crop at 1.54 million bushels, also a record.

A corn crop of this size would be 14 per cent larger than last year and 25 per cent above the 1961-65 average. Such a wheat crop would be 18 per cent more than last year and 27 per cent above average.

Corn production was forecast at 4.652 million bushels last month. Production last year was 4.1 million and for the 5-year average 3.76 million.

Wheat last month was put at 1.5 million bushels. Last year's harvest was 1.3 million and 1.2 million for the average.

Fall Crop Prospects Top-Notch

Prospective production of Kansas major fall harvested crops is expected to be larger than last year and average, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Although some crops were hurt by dry weather during August, a record high corn yield per acre, a record large sugar beet crop and the second largest sorghum grain, soybean and hay crops were indicated.

Prospective crops of corn and sugar beets on September 1 were larger than a month earlier, but for sorghum and soybeans, prospects declined as dry weather caused deterioration in some sections of the state.

Progress of fall maturing crops was behind usual as the result of cool weather and moisture deficiencies in August.

In much of western Kansas dryland crops were suffering from lack of moisture, but most irrigated crops were doing very well. Seedbed preparation for fall seeding continued during August and early September rains permitted start of seeding operations in some areas.

Sorghums and Corn

Sorghum grain production is expected to total 152,656,000 bushels, 9 percent more than last year, 22 percent above the 1961-65 average and the second largest crop of record.

The yield per acre is expected to average 47 bushels per acre, 2 bushels below last year but still the second highest of record.

By September 1 only about three-fifths of the crop was headed compared with an average of three-fourths, and an early frost could reduce yield prospects in many late fields.

Corn production is estimated at 71,330,000 bushels, 20 percent more than last year, 21 percent above average and the largest crop since 1960. The prospective yield of 70 bushels per acre, if realized, would be record high.

Development of the crop was behind usual with only 37 percent of the crop dented by late August compared with the usual 58 percent.

Other Crops

Soybean production as of September 1 was forecast at 19,778,000 bushels, down 4 percent from last year's record crop but 36 percent above average. The prospective yield of 22 bushels per acre is 0.5 bushel below last year but 3.5 bushels above average.

Hay production is expected to total 5,280,000 tons, 30 percent larger than last year and the second largest crop of record.

Alfalfa hay production is estimated at 3,385,000 tons, up 30 percent from last year, and wild hay production, at 1,052,000 tons, is 51 percent above a year ago.

Prospective dry edible bean production of 130 thousand cwt. was somewhat below last year and average.

Broomcorn production, at 100 tons, is about half of the crop of a year ago and far below average.

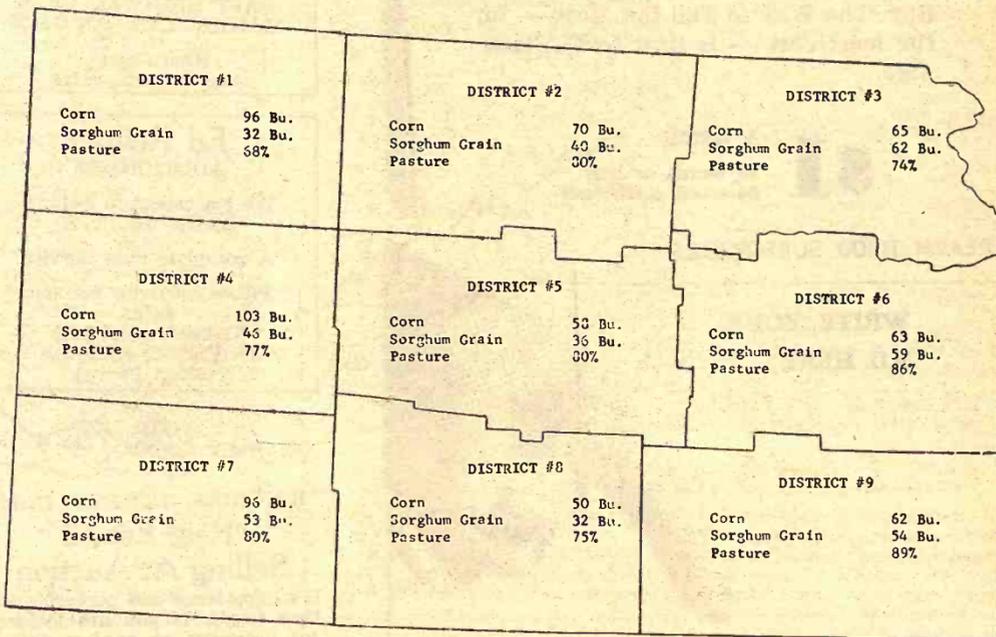

Old crop soybean stocks on farms on September 1 totaled 516,000 bushels compared with 91,000 bushels on September 1, 1966.

Milk production on Kansas farms during August totaled 134 million pounds, 5 million pounds below a month ago. Egg production during August totaled 73 million eggs, down 1 percent from the same month last year

Parking Crimp Doesn't Halt KSU Students

MANHATTAN — A further squeeze on student parking space at Kansas State University apparently has little deterred students from buying permits which will allow them to try to be there first for a decreasing number of spaces available for students cars.

A new zone-system of allotting parking stalls for faculty, staff, visitors and students left only 400 parking spaces for students on campus.

Despite the discouragement, nearly as many students as last year have paid $3 for permits, altho there will be less than a third as many students' parking spots that there were a year ago.

Last year about 3500 student parking permits were purchased, and over 2000 were sold enrollment week with students continuing to purchase the stickers.

The change to zone parking was obviously an attempt by the administration to ease the parking problem by discouraging students from using cars on campus, but stopping short of an outright ban.

The driving students it appears do not discourage easily.

Western Pastures Show Decline

Condition of range feed in the western two-thirds of the state was "about average" at the beginning of this month, the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says.

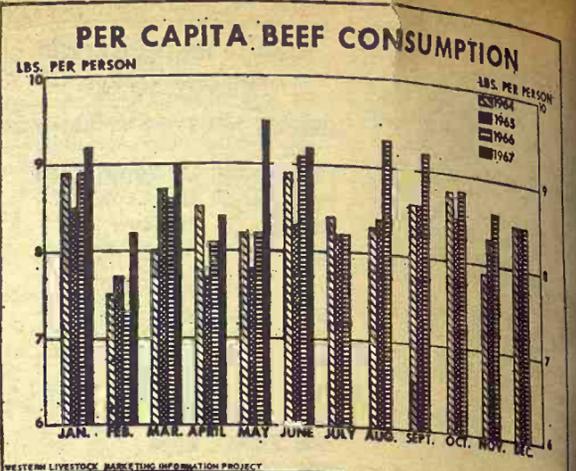

KCLRS inspectors noted insufficient August rainfall caused a "substantial" decline in condition from a month earlier, and said grass in many sections was brown by Sept. 1.

However, they said livestock feed furnished by the ranges continued "fairly good" in most areas due to good growth from rains earlier in the summer. Stockwater supplies were mostly ample.

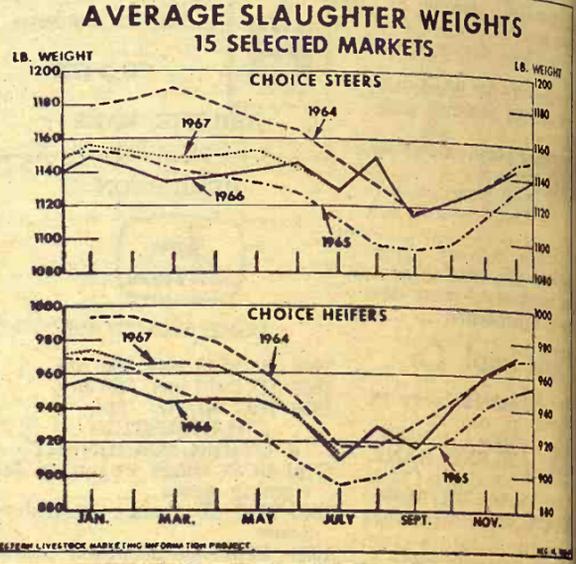

Cattle condition remained fairly good and the percentage of expected fall marketings sold or contracted by Sept. 1 was termed average.

Sheep and lambs were reported at 84 percent of normal condition, down 3 per cent from last month, 3 per cent above the same date last year and equal to the period average.

Prospects for fall and winter grazing are favorable, and a good hay crop is being harvested in most areas.

CONSUMPTION — Monthly per capita beef supply has continued to exceed year earlier levels. Beef consumption in the first half was about 2 1/2 pounds per person more than last year but is expected to be close to year earlier levels during the last half. Per capita beef consumption this year will be 1 to 2 pounds per person more than 1966 record 104 pounds.

State's Population Inching Slowly

If Kansas doesn't get a hurry on, it'll be another 30 years or more before the state hits the three million population mark. Kansas finally went over the 2 1/2 million mark this year, according to figures certified to the State Department of Agriculture by county assessors. The exact count was 2,236,750. The increase was slightly more than 16,000, about two-thirds of one percent, slightly less than the average gain since the state first hit the two million mark in 1955.

Kansas from 1883 to 1955 to move from one to two million.

In 1966 it was pretty much a case of the populous counties getting larger but the smaller ones decreasing. Only 34 of the state's 105 counties had gains. The largest was in Sedgwick, 14,339. Johnson county gained over nearly 7500 and Shawnee close to 5000. Douglas and Saline had increases of more than 2000.

Wichita's gain of 12,253 gave the state's largest city the largest gain. The top 10 cities in the state:

- 1. Wichita 281,110
- 2. Kansas City 169,793

- 3 Topeka 120,467
- 4. Overland Park 65,890
- 5. Hutchinson 40,081
- 6. Salina 38,024
- 7. Lawrence 30,901
- 8. Prairie Village 30,277
- 9. Leavenworth 26,866
- 10. Manhattan 23,850

The top 10 county list varies slightly from the city list with Johnson — the bedroom adjunct to Kansas City — in second place; Montgomery — with Coffeyville and Independence — in seventh; and Butler — with El Dorado, Augusta, and a large rural population — in tenth.

The state now has 33 towns with a population of 10,000 or more. Besides those in the top 10 listed above they include, in order: Pittsburg, Great Bend, Emporia, Shawnee, Coffeyville, Junction City, Newton, Garden City, Olathe, Dodge City, Liberal, Ark City, Hays, Parsons, Atchison, El Dorado, Ottawa, Independence, Chanute, McPherson, Leawood, Winfield and Roland Park.

By comparison three neighboring states with comparable populations have less towns of 10,000: Iowa with about half a million more people has 24; Nebraska with 1.5 million has only 10; and Oklahoma with about 2.5 million has 22.

Chances For Feeders' Profits Boosted

By R. L. Coppersmith
Kansas State University

Cattle feeding profit prospects look relatively good for the rest of 1967 and the early months of 1968.

Anticipated good prices for fed cattle and a small decrease in total feeder cattle supply point to a $1 to $2 increase in feeder cattle prices by November. These factors should add another dollar to feeder prices by next April or May.

Rainfall during most of 1967 has been adequate in most states except for a small area of Texas and part of North Dakota. Many old time western cattlemen say they have never seen the pastures stay green for so long.

Crop reports indicate a record corn crop and increase in grain sorghums. Prospects for silage and hay crops are good. With a prospective good fed cattle market and good feed conditions in the offing, we can expect feeder cattle to come off range later, and perhaps heavier this year.

Total feeder cattle supply will be down slightly in the months ahead. Number of cattle and calves on farms January 1, 1966 was below a year earlier. The inventory is declining moderately again this year.

Cattle slaughter so far this year has been large relatively to beginning inventory and probably will remain up during the rest of 1967. Imports from Canada and Mexico are running less than a year ago. The 1967 calf crop is a little smaller than last year.

Cattle slaughter during July-December would have to be down about 5 percent from 1966 to prevent a further reduction in total cattle numbers this year. If present slaughter prospects materialize, there will be about a half million fewer total cattle January 1, 1968, than a year earlier.

Total supply of feeder cattle is down slightly from last year. This year's calf crop of slightly more than 43 million is about 400,000 below 1966.

Imports of live feeder cattle during 1967 will be down 200,000 to 300,000 head. In addition to the smaller number of young animals available for feedlot replacement during the rest of the year, makeup of the supply is somewhat different than a year ago. More heifers but substantially fewer steers are available.

The supply of feeder cattle is large enough to permit replacements of feed at year earlier levels for the rest of 1967. This would significantly reduce the number of yearlings available in 1968.

He Closes With Two Fair Wins

TOPEKA — Roger Gatz, 18 years old, of Hiawatha, was closing his 4-H club career with two winners in livestock entries at fairs and a check for $916.65 for his grand champion shorthorn steer at the Mid-America Fair here.

Gatz has reached the age limit for 4-H participation and said he could not remember how many prizes and honors he has won through the farm club work.

His 873-pound champion was sold at the final 4-H event for $1.05 a pound.

Gatz arrived at the sale just in time to lead his steer into the auction ring. He had been in St. Joseph, Mo., where another of his shorthorns was reserve grand champion at the Interstate fair.

Frills For Charolais Show At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY — Closed circuit television, monitor screens and zoom lens cameras will be used to bring on-the-spot judging to viewers at the American Royal Charolais show, which will be held in connection with the 4th annual Charolais congress October 13 to 15.

Jerry Litton, general manager of the congress, said that television will be used to give close-up views of each animal as it is being judged. The close-ups and a circular, rotating judging class schedule will appear on monitor television screens which will be stationed throughout American Royal viewing stands.

Charolais herds from throughout the United States will be competing at the American Royal in what is expected to be the largest show in breed history. Females will be judged October 14 and bulls will be judged October 15. The judging will be followed by the Royal Select sale, which will be held in the Municipal Auditorium October 15. The Charolais congress is expected to attract more than 2000 persons to Kansas City. Last year, about 2000 persons attended the show and more than 6000 attended the sale.

In addition to the show and sale, an educational and entertainment program is scheduled for the event. Speakers and

Estate Auction
Grosses $300,320

BLUE RAPIDS — Don Roche had one of those auctions that any auctioneer hopes to get now and then.

Roche handled one of the largest estate sales ever in the G&G area, getting a gross of $300,320 for the Kester Hammett estate, which involved the sale of 1709 acres of land, three postoffice buildings, and a variety of houses and apartments in Marysville and Blue Rapids.

The 1709 acres of land brought in the bulk of the money, averaging about $110 an acre to total $185,700. About two-thirds of the land was in pasture.

The largest parcel was the 740-acre Hammett ranch south of Blue Rapids which brought $111,000. The land has 253 acres in crops and the rest in grass. Buyer was Harold Lawless of Blue Rapids.

A 325-acre tract south of Blue Rapids grossed $25,700 from June Russell of Omaha, Nebr. This land had 140 acres in crops and the rest in grass.

A 484-acre plot northeast of Fostoria in Pottawatomie County brought $37,000 from Henry Prinz, the tenant. More than two-thirds of this land was in grass.

The fourth land sale was of 160 acres east of Olsburg, which brought $12,000 from Leer Brothers. About 100 acres of this section was in crops.

The three postoffices which sold grossed $79,500. Mrs. Eva Kinze of Manhattan paid $30,500 for the Blue Rapids building, C. M. Clark of Barnes

Japan, Best Wheat Customer, Continues Buying

Japan, which has become this country's No. 1 customer for farm exports, will be buying even more in the future.

This was the word from a group of Japanese millers who visited the Kansas City Board of Trade as part of a tour they are making of the United States. The group was being guided by representatives of Great Plains Wheat, Inc., a US wheat growers organization.

Five Japanese millers, representing the bulk of that nation's flour milling industry, were included in the visiting group. In addition, there was an interpreter from Tokyo.

Two things are contributing to Greater food consumption in Japan. Number one is an expanding economy, and the number two is a small but steady increase in population, the visitors said.

Wheat production within Japan actually is decreasing annually, while the country produces little or no feed grains and must depend entirely on imports.

Japan's marketing year runs from April 1 to April 1. Last year the country imported 6 million metric tons of milo and corn, mostly from the United States. Withing five years, the imports will reach 10 million tons, the millers said.

Last year, 4 million metric tons of wheat were imported. This total, they said, would increase at the rate of about 4 per cent a year over the next five years.

Thailand competes with the United States on the feed grain basis with Japan. Argentina also does on a minor basis.

$24,750 for the Hanover building, and Mrs. Stella Hammett $24,250 for the Waterville building.

Five commercial properties and 21 residential lots also sold and most of them went for less than $1000.

Prepare Ewes For Fall Lambs

Put your fall lamb crop "on ice" by making sure the ewes are fully prepared for the lambing season ahead, V. E. McAdams, Extension livestock specialist at Kansas State University, says.

The lambing season is one of the most critical periods in the ewe flock operation, the specialist says. So good management now will help you toward the goal of a high percentage lamb crop. In addition, you'll want to shoot for that early May market with 100 to 105-pound lambs.

McAdams says the ewe flock should be checked by actually feeling the animals' condition down their backs. If the backbone is reasonably covered with fat, the ewes are in good condition to lamb and suckle their lambs satisfactorily.

But, if the ewes are thin, they will need supplemental feeding of ½ ton 1 pound of grain daily to prepare them for lambing. Yearling ewes lambing for the first time should have some grain to give them the extra energy they need to produce their lamb.

If ewes are in thin condition and don't milk well, poor lamb performance may result. Look for problems with parasites if ewes are thin.

Sheep numbers are down compared with last year, McAdams points out. So the lambs marketed in the spring of 1968 should demand a higher price than the past season.

ANNUAL SPECIAL CALF & FEEDER SALE SEPT. 30

Along with our regular hog and cattle sale. We already have some good consignments for this special sale a week from Saturday. If you have cattle you want to run through on this special, please let us know this week so we can advertise them.

We had a good sale, although receipts were slightly under a week ago, but with prices holding pretty solid. Light cattle sold strong to higher, but in keeping with the trend on heavier feeders, they were somewhat down from a week ago.

Fat hogs surprised us by jumping ahead of the general market. We had a top of $19.25 which was higher than a week ago. We have buyers for your fat hogs, so help us get enough of them to fill their orders every Saturday.

See Slaughter Cattle $2 Higher By Year's End

By R. L. Coppersmith
 Kansas State University
 Cattle feeders will probably market 2 percent more cattle during the July-September quarter than last year, but slaughter cattle prices are expected to be $1 to $2 higher by the end of the year.
 Strengthening the market will be an improvement in the overall economy during the rest of the year, resulting in higher consumer incomes. Competition from other meats will not be severe.
 Total slaughter the first 6 months of 1967 was up only slightly over 1966. Large slaughter of fed steers and heifers about offset the downtrend in cow and heifer slaughter.

 On July 1, there were 8.7 million head of cattle on feed in the 32 major feeding states, a decrease of 2 percent from the same period last year. There were 8 percent more cattle weighing more than 900 pounds, but 5 percent fewer cattle weigh-

Kind and Weight	Oct.-Dec. 1967	April-May 1968
Choice Steers: 1000-1050 lbs.	$26-$28.50	$27-$29
Choice Heifers: 900-1000 lbs.	$24-$26.50	$25-$27
Plain Steers (Standard Grade)	$21-$23	$22-$24
Cows (Commercial Grade)	$17-$20	$18-$21

ing less than 900 pounds.
 Marketings during late 1967 will probably decrease from last year in both fed and non-fed cattle. Marketings during October-December will come from cattle on feed July 1. These are lighter weight cattle which were down about 5 percent in numbers from a year earlier.
 There were about the same number of steers and steer calves on feed July 1 as a year earlier. Heifers and heifer calves were down 6 percent from last year, however, while cows on feed were down 22 percent.

Sell Or Buy Cattle & Hogs By Auction Tuesdays

Our market this week on 1408 cattle was very good considering the sharp drop in other markets around the circuit. Light weight cattle weighing up to 700 pounds were selling steady. Heavier cattle were steady to 50¢ lower. Killing cows and bulls were steady.
