For the Spirit. THE FAIR AT BOULDER CITY, COL.

It was a lovely afternoon in the latter days of September, that we steamed out Denver en route for Boulder City, to attend the annual fair of the Industrial Association of that city. The road follows the Platte river for fifteen miles or more, where abounds beautiful scenery, lovely groves, and undulating plateaus, and broad reaches of green meadow, where hundreds of cattle browsed contentedly. Here and there irrigated farms exhibit their broad domains, and substantial farm houses present a picture of thrift grateful to the eye. Towards the East the plains stretch out boundless, level and changeless, while toward the West a semicircle of dark purple mountains embrace the scene, tier above tier, height beyond height, wooded, and dark, and gloomy, all topped by the snow slashed summits of the Snowy Range, cutting the blue Italian-like sky with jagged peaks, crowned by the glittering glory of a Sep-

The weather was unparalleled, balmy as June, the sky had been perfectly cloudless for more than a week, and the sunshine poured down warm and golden, sweet as the peace of God. We passed Erie, quite a little town, loated on this road. There are extensive coal mines in this vicinity. Four miles from Boulder City we came upon Valmont, at the foot of a precipitous hill, or bute, (as they call it,) of rock; it is only a hamlet. Here, our party in order to get a better view of the fine scenery on Boulder creek, as we approach the mountains, ran forward and took seats in the engine room. There is something grand and wild in this close proximity to the panting, hurrying locomotive, that beautiful creature of intensified life, whose breath is fire, whose nostrils belch forth smoke, whose glittering ribs flash in the light, whose speed is of the wind, whose strength passeth understanding, who glides like a bird over dreary waste and fruitful prairie and deep forests with untired energy, linking together the antipodes, engrafting the civilization and refinement of the East, upon the sturdy, vigorous life of the West. But I wander. Just at dusk, September 30th., we reached the beautiful little city of Boulder, claiming about three thousand inhabitants. We took quarters at the Boulder House, Mr. Brainard proprietor. It is a very pleasant and comfortable house and Mr. B. is a model landlord, looking sedulously after the comfort

The fair ground is situated over a mile from the principle parts of the town. It is commodity to the principle parts of the town of the principle parts of the town of the principle parts of the town of the principle parts of the principle parts of the town of the principle parts of the principle par

They seldom go unrewarded; sooner or later the reward comes.

The second day the palm was borne off in the trotting race by Hannah, owned by Mr. Estabrook of Denver. These were the most excit-ng races of the fair. Thursday, early in the morning, we drove up the famous Boulder canon, which claims some rectly up among the hills, between rocky bastions, scarred by time, and towering to the height of hundreds of feet in perpendicular grandeur. Twenty times we crossed Boulder creek, a stream that comes foaming down its rocky bed in noisy, foamy abandon, filling, the defile with deafening sound as it leaps from boulder to boulder. Sometimes the canon turning abrubtly seemed to present an impassi ble barrier before us, but, the road winding disclosed an opening and a new beyond, with ever some new and surprising feature of picturesque grandeur. Massive crags reared their lofty heads, stretching up from the very roadside to a perpendicular height of two or three hundred feet, bald and bare save here and there a hardy fir, clinging to some crevice in the solid granite, drawing strength and nutriment from heaven knows where; ferns clustered among the fissures and brilliant mosses lent a glow to the sombre rock. Beyond, high mountains reared their forms covered with tall pines, swaying in the upper breezes. The road is of the solid rock, sometimes built out upon a trestle work, sometimes wandering quietly by the side of the streams. Here and there are places wide enough to allow one team to pass another, though sometimes great caution is another, though sometimes great caution is needed to prevent accident in so doing. We found a delightful little spring bubbling from the living rock, right by the road; the water was pure and clear as crystal and very cold. It was very refreshing for the sun began to pour down its fervid rays upon us though the mountain air was sharp and cold.

At length we reach Boulder Falls, at the very good, sometimes excavated from the side

THE GRANGE NOT PARTISAN.

We omphatically and sincerely assert the orthreneated truth taught in our organic law that the Grange, National, State or subordinate, is not a political or party organization. No Grange, if true to its obligations, can discuss political or religious questions, nor call political conventions, nor nominate candidates, nor even discuss that merits in its meetings.

even discuss their merits in its meetings. Yet the principles we teach underlie all true collities, all true statesmanship, and if properly carried out will tend to purify the whole politi-cal atmosphere of our country. For we seek disturbing element to farm life throughout the carried out will tend to purify the whole politithe greatest good to the greatest number.

We must always bear in mind that no one, by becoming a Patron of husbandry, gives up that inalienable right and duty which belongs will read carefully, and we hope that to every American citizen, to take a proper in terest in the politics of his country.

On the contrary, it is right for every member to do all in his power legitimately to influence or good the action of any political party to which he belongs. It is his duty to do all he can in his own party to put down bribery, corruption and trickery; to see that none but competent, faithful and honest men, who will unflinchingly stand by our industrial interests are nominated for all positions of trust; and to have carried out the principle which should al ways characterize every Grange member, that THE OFFICE SHOULD SEEK THE MAN, AND

NOT THE MAN THE OFFICE. We acknowledge the broad principle that difference of opinion is no crime, and hold delay the mis, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all that "progress toward truth is made by difference of opinion," while "the fault lies in bit terness of controversy."

We desire a proper equality, equity and fairness; protection for the weak, restraint upon the the strong; in short, justly distributed burdens and justly distributed power. These are American ideas, the very essence of American independence, and to advocate the contrary is unworthy of the sons and daughters of an American republic.

We cherish the belief that sectionalism is and of right should be, dead and buried with the past. Our word is for the present and the future. In our agricultural brotherhood and its purpose, we shall recognize no North, no South, no East, no West.

It is reserved by every Patron as the right of a freeman, to afiliate with any party that wil best carry out his principles. OUTSIDE CO-OPERATION.

Ours being peculiarly a farmer's institution, ve cannot admit all to our ranks.

Many are excluded by the nature of our or ganization, not because they are professional men, or artisans, or laborers, but because they have not a sufficient direct interest in tilling or pasturing the soil, or may have some interest in conflict with our purposes. But we appeal comes much as possible by arbitration in the to all good citizens for their cordial co-operawe may eventually remove from our midst the last vestige of tyranny and corruption.

We hall the general desire for fraternal harmony, equitable compromises and carnest cooperation as an omen of our future success. CONCLUSION.

It shall be an abiding principle with us to relieve any of our oppressed and suffering brotherhood by any means at our command.

Last, but not least, we proclaim it among our purposes to inculcate a proper appreciation of the abilities and spheres of woman, as is indicated by admitting her to membership and position in our Order.

Imploring the continued assistance of our Divine Master to guide us in our work, we

> An Abiding Principle of the Grange. One of the most beautiful features in the France is the fellowship and brotherly feeling that it develops among its members.

It strengthens the bond of friendship and orings neighbors and farmers generally into close bonds of union, which results in mutual profit and improvement. Anything that tends to foster charity and sympathetical kindness, and brighten the mystic chains that bind heart to heart, is a blessing. Prominent among the objects of the Patrons of Husbandry is the development and cultivation of fraternal harmony. Its platform inculcates the doctrine of charity, in these words: It shall be an abiding principle with us to relieve any of our oppressed and suffering brotherhood, by any means at our command.

The Grange while cultivating the virtues lispensing charity, and strengthening the bonds of good fellowship among its members, wages no warfare against any other interest whatever; but, on the contrary, as declared at St. Louis, all its acts and efforts as far as business is concerned, are not only for the benefit of producers and consumers, but, "also for other interests that tend to bring these parties into speedy and economical contact."

Let the Patrons of Husbandry abide by all the great principles enunciated at St. Louis, and the Order will continue to grow until it spreads over the whole country and takes in every farmer .-- Observer.

Patrons do not go to Law.

The Pacific Rural Free says:
Farmers have long been aware of the folly, and worse than folly of coing to law, but the lack of business and social intercents with their neighbors often prevents a proper moder-standing of right and manual interest; encourages suspicion and jenicity, and too often leads them to rush this the centre, and sometimes thiving the whole neighborhood into active partisans. But, thanks to the influence of the Order of Patrons of The bander, this country, generally, is rapidly disappearing The Order has brought farmers into close communication with each other, has developed mutual confidence and respect; and without the assistance of any secret charm has proluced a change which is now substituting arbitration for law. Arbitration is one of the grand principles of the Order, and is already producing important material results, as well as promoting peace and harmony in many

Extending his remarks beyond the immediate question before the meeting, though quite relevant thereto, Brother Allen entered into a brief but very interesting discussion of the business feature of the Order, pointing out some of its gravest defects as developed by the experience of our own state agency during the present year, which has not been sustained as it was expected it would be. The subject will no doubt be taken up and thoroughly discussed at the next meeting of the State Grange, on the 20th inst. Brothers Lespanesse, of Iowa, and Smith, of Virginia, made interesting state ments of the progress of the business feature of the Order in their respective States. The meeting was brought to a close with a motion by Brother King, seconded by Brother. Smith, for the appointment of a committee to draft a memorial to be presented at the next meeting of the State Grange, with a view to secure action upon the question before the meeting. Brothers Miller, of Bluffton, King and Samuel, of St Louis, were appointed that committee. - Rural World.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, our city was the scene of a shocking accident. Mr. David Walton, and N. J. Powers were employed in weatherboarding the grain elevation situated along-side of the railroad track near the depot, and were on a scaffold thirty feet from the ground. It suddenly gave way, when both men fell on the track, the scaffolding falling on top of them. Walton had his left thigh broken, his left forearm broken, the wrist dislocated, and his scull fractured. Powers' shoulder blade was broken in three places, his right arm broken above the elbow, and he received severe contusions about the head. Both of the sufferers are hard working mechanics, in limited circumstances, and this calamity is indeed a grevious one for them to bear. Drs. Irwin and Turner set the broken limbs, and dressed the wounds of the sufferers,—Sabetha

We learn through Ed. Taylor, yard master of the Missouri Pacific railroad, of a serious accident that cocurred on the Galveston, Harrisonburg & San Antonio railroad, to an old citizen of Leavenworth, in the person of Mr. Kellett. He is well known to a large number citizens as the contractor of the Missouri Pacific railroad from Kansas City, to Leavenworth. He was a man of high moral worth, and was loved and respected by all who knew him. He was at the time of his death, General Business Manager of the above named road. It will be remembered that Mr. Taylor's brother was killed on the same road about three months

The next day after the death of Mr. Kellett an engine containing four men ran into a herd of cattle, and was thrown from the track. The engineer had three ribs broken, the fireman had a leg cut off, and the conductor had his arm broken. D. C. Norway, formerly road-master of the Kansas Central, was on the engine at the time, but escaped with a few

The farmers of Howard county are in fayor dence, and so the matter rested until Wednesday night of last week, when some avenger made such an onslaught on this fifteenth amendment as to almost knock him out of the constitution, and did actually knock most of the constitution out of him. As he approached his house late in the evening, a dark figure sprang up from behind a rock pile in the yard where he had been concealed. Without an instant's delay the murderous crash of the deadly shot gun startled into endless echo the sleeping spirits of the night, and the air was full of whist ling buckshot. Bob did not catch all that was intended for him, but two found lodgment in his breast, while he found lodgment on the county, met with a sudden death last Saturday ground. A position on the ground was no sprang to his feet, and on his flying course to Enterprise he outran the report of the gun. In order to be safe, the Association fixes the rate at one-fifth higher than the average rate of all the companies in Michigan. The difference in the construction of buildings, and danger from prairie fires, adds something to risks in Kansas as compared with Michigan. Now in view of the facts as they stand, what is our duty? We answer, stand by our Reform party, until it shall finally triumph. The people have not made up their minds to restore power, to an organization whose last president was Buchanan, and whose last statesman was Tweed. We repeat, let us here in Kansas stand by our Reform party, victory certainly is ours. Then let us demonstrate to the world, that here in Kansas at least, we mean to elect honest men to office, regardless For Secretary of State-Nelson Abbott, of of what their former party affiliations may have been.

MEAN AND COWARDLY.

The SPIRIT OF KANSAS has a way of saying what it pleases, without asking the paid tools, and stipendiaries of any of the parties. And by so doing we occasionally displease some one who imagines that he carries all the world in his pockets; though the load in that department be at the expense of his brains.

Now it seems that we have displeased the little hop-step-and-jump that presides over the Kansas Tribune, and the Ottawa Journal. In the issue of Oct. 8th, of the latter paper, we find the fol-

In other words, let those that will go to law, pay the fiddler. No one can deny that it is unjust for innocent persons to be taxed to pay costs made by those that are always going to law to vent their spite at the expense of the county. The laws are unjust, and we as citizens demand that the laws should be repealed at an early day. Let us have laws for the whole people and not for a few. It is said that lawyers made the laws to suit themselves; we do not make this charge. One thing we do know, that court is in session a good part of the year, and our county taxes are enormously high; there is a screw loose somewhere. We are on the reform now, and will expect our law makers to sift out these matters and see to it that good and just laws will be enacted, that will be just and equal to the whole people. We also demand that fees and salaries of our public servants be reduced to a fair and reasonable rate for labor actually performed. Also that all useless offices be abolished, (and that there is a great many of them we do not doubt.) We also demand the number of our representatives be reduced about one-half, and that the legislature meet once in three years, and that they receive for their services not less than $5.00 per day. The idea of sending so many representatives to the capital every winter, at $3.00 per day, is an infernal humbug; it seems to us ridiculous. Our best men will scarcely be prevailed upon to go and spend their time, and perhaps come out in debt, by being away from their business. Reduce salaries of other offices and add to our representatives salaries, to give them a fair compensation for their labor, and no more. We do not believe it just and right that the many should be taxed to support a few pubing millions can scarcely eke out a hare ty; and we can have it at a very small cost if we will but just work on the eration will accomplish what we want, SPIRIT OF KANSAS. The News this evening compute the London, Oct. 21.—Advices from Berlin represent an uprising of public sympathy for Count Von Arnim, on children, and the cost and loss by public the control of the cost and loss by public the cost an punishment of all at $2,000,000, and that the courts would have around them 3,000 crying women and 9,000 crying children.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The returns of the Department of Agriculture, show, that the wheat crop is equal to or greater than last year in all of the States, except Maryland, Viginia, Texas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas. In Connecticut, Delaware, South Carolina and Illinois, it is about equal to last year's crop. Other States increased their yield, and the New Engand States almost reached it.

The police have arrested a gang of book thieves who have been making extensive depredations in the Committee rooms of the Capitol. Thirteen tee rooms of the Capitol. Thirteen hundred and fifty pounds of documents have been recovered; most of them are valuable volumes and can't be replaced.

The Von Arnim Case.

London, Oct.17.—A dispatch from Berlin says the Count von Arnim case is becoming more intelligible. It appears that Bismarck became indignant at the count for preferring monarchy in France to a comparatively liberal and pacific republic and then determined to remove him. Not wishing, however, to offend the count, Bismarck wrote letters which he expected would induce the count to resign. Von Arnim reletter now represented to be so fearfully YANKTON, October 17 .- A party of seven persons, five of them residents of Yankton, who left ten days ago for the fornia Pacific Railroad Company's bonds, have petitioned that the company be thrown into bankruptcy, and ask the United States District Court to issue an injunction restraining it from mortgaging or encumbering its property.

Explosion in a Pork House

New Albany, Oct. 20 .- This morning about 7 o'clock, the boilers in the pork house of Mitchell & Co., exploded with terrible force, tearing the boiler shed to atoms, and severely scalding four persons, one of whom has since died.

The boilers were blown into the air to the height of 50 feet, and carried 200 feet from their original position. The fire from the furnace set the building on fire, but it was soon extinguished. The engineer says there was but 45 pounds of steam. This appears incredible when the effects of the explosion are witnessed.

The firm will at once place new boilers in their establishment, and soon be ready for business operations.

Indianapolis, October 19.—The Secretary of State has received official returns from 78 counties, giving a total Democratic majority of 14,733. The 19 counties yet to hear from gave a Democratic majority for Secretary of State at the last election, of 815; the majority in the same counties will be largely increased this year. Sanders majority for Congerss in this distict over Coburn is 566; Holman's majority in the 6th District is 2,467. The total Independent vote on State tickets, so far as received is 13.559. The democrat leave. Quesado, who was making a speech at the time said, that having no country of their own they were obliged to obey the illegal orders of those who imagined they had power to prevent an innecent gathering.

Victories. The election in Khox country for representative, resulted in a tie vote, and Gov. Hendricks has ordered a new election to be held on the 7th of Nov., Leaving Knox out, the Legislature stands: Senators—Democrats, 23; Republicans. Republicans, 34; Independents, 3. House—Democrats, 52; Republicans, 37;

Independents, 10.
Gov. Hendricks received dispatches nerve to elect the Democratic ticket, and mustered every vote they could and mustered every vote they could command. That this would be done, all knew as soon as the State Conventions had met; yet, with a short-sight-edness inexplicable, the Republican managers have treated the temperance men cavalierly, ignored the issue in their platforms, and have attempted, as the Chairman of the State Commitation.

Lamon, our excellent photographer, has gone to Texas on a business trip to be absent several months. R. E. Weeks occupies the rooms vacated by Mr. Lamon.

Henry Attenbur, conductor on the M. P. R. R., met with a serious accident while coupling cars at Independence, on Tuesday. We have not learned the particulars.

The pork packing season is near at hand. The Lawrence packing houses are preparing to do a large business in this line. Remember this, you that have fat hogs.

The way the beef is being pounded into barels at the packing house, is astonishing. A Texas steer is knocked down, cut up, and made ready for packing before the breath is hardly out of him.

There is some talk of ignoring the old poor farm bridge and building one directly south of Massachusetts street. The old bridge has been inspected and found to be unworthy of the expense of repairs.

Edward Featherston and Edward Snyder, had a preliminary examination before Judge Smith last Saturday, for homicide. They were held to appear at the next term of the District court. Bail, $2,000 each.

A musical club was organized at the Conservatory Tuesday night. They style themselves the Lawrence Choral Union. Officers were elected and things generally were arranged for a permanent organization.

In 1873 it cost Douglas county one hundred and thirty-eight doilars to publish the Sheriff's Proclamation for a general election. This year it only costs ten dollars to publish the Sheriff's Proclamation of general election. "He who runs may read."

There will be a grand rally of Reformers of the city and and county in Lawrence on the day and evening of Friday, the 30th instant. Gov. Cusey, Marcus Parrott, Judge Goodin, and other distinguished speakers are expected to pe present and address the meeting.

Sin is often the result of physical ill health and feeble stomachs. During one-third of our time the process of digestion continues. #### A Cure For Consumption

A correspondent writes as follow about the sanitary power of a well-known plant: "I have discovered a remedy for pulmonary consumption. It has cured a number of cases after they had commenced bleeding at the small piece of butter; season with peplungs and the hectic flush was already on the cheek. After trying this remedy to my own satisfaction, I have thought philanthropy required that I should let it be known to the world.

HAY-CAKES.—Hay-cakes, composed of hav and straw, very finely cut, well It is the common mullen, steeped strong and sweetened with coffee sugar, and drank freely. The herb should be gathered before the end of July, if convenient. Young or old plants are good dried in the shade, and kept in How to Churn.—To avoid greasy butter, churn with pressure instead of taking away strength. It makes good blood, and takes away inflamation from the lungs. It is the wish of the writer the strength of the writer the wr Europe should publish the receipt for benefit of the human family. Lay this up and keep it in the house ready for

Cabbages as a Market Crop.

The profits from cabbages often run from $500 to $800 per acre in the neighborhood of large cities and manufacturing towns. The New Albany, Ind., Ledger says that the extent of cabbage culture near that place is extending widely, and speaks as follows of its "The average size of the cabbage field of each is four acres-few cultivating less—and many cultivating as high as five acres. At 10,000 cabbages per acre, each man would cultivate 40,000 heads. On the bottom between this city and Bridgeport there are about fifty-five cabbage fields of the size named, employing as cultivators, in one capacity or another, not less than 400 persons. Upon each of these lifty-five fields an average crop of 40,000 cabbages are produced, making the total crop upon the entire bottom be-tween New Albany and Bridgeport 2,200,000 head—an immense product for 200 acres of land, about the amount cultivated in the vegetable. This immense crop of cabbages is nearly all shipped south. Most of it goes direct-ly to the city of New Orleans. Shippers purchase cabbage of the farmers by the barrel. Each barrel contains from twelve to twenty-five heads, as to size. The average price during the season has been $2 per barrel."

Corn in England.

The N. Y. Tribune contains the following: It would be strange indeed if we should be indebted to England for a variety of corn hardy enough to resist severe frosts. A statement is, however, published in the English papers that "Cobbett's thousandfold ac-climated Indian corn" has been successfully adapted to the cool and variable fully adapted to the cool and variable climate of England, in which heretofore our corn could not be grown or ripened. William Cobbett will be remembered as the English liberal sgittor who for some time had his residence upon Long Island. His son, Whiam Cobbett, has long been endeavoring to introduce the growth of corn into England, and now it seems that he claims to have succeeded. We learn that upwards of three acres of this acclimated corn is now growing at Houndslow, wards of three acres of this acclimated corn is now growing at Houndslow, near London, and that it has successfully withstood some severe frosts with great hardihood, and is now very promising. If our neighbors in the East have really produced a frost-proof corn so prolific as it is made to appear by the sounding title given to it, and which we have queted it will go to which we have quoted, it will go to shake our faith in our permanent dependence upon Europe as a market for our surplus crop of this cereal, and on the contrary, cause us to look thither for a supply of seed of so valuable a plant. But we are somewhat doubtful as to the truth of this statement.

Moths in Carpets.

One can never be quite sure that their carpets are not being consumed by moths, except for a few weeks after having taken them up and thoroughly cleaned, unless something is used to prevent their growth or to destroy them. This often necessitates the taking up and cleaning of a carpet that otherwise would not need the renovation. With an ingrain or three-ply this needless labor may be saved by laying down a damp cloth, and over it thordown a damp cloth, and over it thoroughly rubbing the edges with a hot flat-iron, this will kill the moths, if any have accumulated. But with the tapestry, brussel, or velvet, the ironing is not effectual; besides it injures the carhowever, by removing the tacks, one side at a time, rolling back, and examining the edges. If there are any moths, they must be brushed off and burned; and to effectually destroy the life of all deposits, the edges of the carpets must be ironed, as before stated, but on the wrong side. The edge of the carpet lining should be thoroughly looked to, and the exposed edge of the floor washed, and while damp sprinkled with salt. If the carpet is to be folded the salt is the salt be salt be salt be salt by under in any place, sprinkle salt be-tween the folds and see that the floor is well covered with salt for an inch or two under the edge of the carpet all around. If salt was always put under the edges of carpets before tacking them down, moths would have but slight chance to trouble them.

flamation from the lungs. It is the wish of the writer that every periodical in the United States, Canada and not be drawn across the butter, but pressed down upon it.

HINTS TO DAIRYMEN.—Few dairy-men are aware of the amount they lose in the quantity of cheese, to say nothing of the quality, by not taking care of their milk. It would astonish many of them, if they were informed that they sustain a loss of from six to twelve per cent. in quantity, by their own carelessness or ignorance, which they might save by a little more care, and thus add the amount they lose in price per pound by not having a prime article, which, in many instances, exceeds ten and often twenty per cent., and it will be readily seen that the loss thus sustained would do a good deal to-wards banishing hard times, which so many are complaining of at present.

A fond mother in Ralls county, Missouri, has named her daughter Mazin Grace. A neighbor inquired how she came to select such an odd name. "La," came to select such an odd name. "La," says she, "I got it out of the hymn book." The neighbor expressed surprise, and said she had never seen the name in any hymn book she had ever used. "You haven't?" said the mother of Mazin Grace. "Why, don't you recollect that familiar old hymn, commencing 'Mazin Grace,' how sweet the sound?"

A Wisconsin Bee Keeper.

A visit to the apiary of Mr. T. T. English, at this time of the year, is productive of about as much pleasure as anything we can now think of. The grounds surrounding his dwelling are dotted all over with hives of bees, each dotted all over with hives of bees, each a community living and working within itself, with a unity and industry that may well be pointed to as an example for a higher type of intelligence. Although he devotes but a small share of his time to the management of his apiarry, we believe Mr. English to be one of his time to the management of his apiary, we believe Mr. English to be one of the most successful bee keepers in the State. He now has 165 hives (about all his limited space will permit him to keep,) from each of which he receives an average of 20 pounds of as clear, pure honey as can be made. His total product this year will he at least 3.000 product this year will be at least 3,000 pounds, from which he will realize in the neighborhood of $600.—Baxaboo Republic.

Bee House for Winter.

I would like for some of your many readers who are familiar with bee culture, to advise me as to the best plan for constructing a cheap house for win-tering bees. I herewith suggest my plan, though I have never tried it, and I plan, though I have never tried it, and I simply ask the question will it do? In the first place, hives are usually made of very thin lumber, hence, through the cold winter months, many of our bees freeze out, or at least they die out to a great extent. I notice the lumber of great extent. I notice the lumber of which most of the hives are made is not over seven-eights of an inch thick, which is entirely too thin to stand this temperature.

My plan is this: Enclose the apiary with a picket fence; seal up the inside close, so the cold winds cannot get to the bees; make a roof sufficient for shelter, the front to be furnished with a broad plank, so that it can be easily removed on warm days when the bees are likely to play out. Then to protect the bottom say we use dry straw underbottom s broad plank, so that it can be easily removed on warm days when the bees are likely to play out. Then to protect the bottom say we use dry straw underneath and between the hives.

This is my plan for constructing a neath and between the hives.

This is my plan for constructing a cheap house for wintering bees. As there is so much interest taken with bees, I would think it to the interest of those engaged in it to invent some plan by which they can be better protected during the winter. I hope some of your correspondents who have had some experience in this matter, will give us some instruction on the subject.—Cor. Parral Sim.

ease of the times, and many professing Christians, have careful it, to their shame sand sorrow. Good cotton or stuff gowns are not good enough now-adays; girls must have silks and satins, and there's a bill at the dressmaker's as long as a winter's hight, and quite as dismal. Show and style and smartness run away with a man's means, keep the dismal. Show and style and smartness run away with a man's means, keep the family poor, and the father's nose on the grindstone. Frogs try to look as big as bulls and burst themselves. A pound a week apes five hundred a year, and comes to the county court. Men burn the candle at both ends, and then say they are very unfortunate—why don't they put the saddle on the right horse, and say they are extravagant? Economy is half the battle in life; it is not so hard to earn money as to spend not so hard to earn money as to spend it well. Hundreds would have never known want if they had not first known waste. If all poor men's wives knew how to cook, how far a little might go. -Cor. Farmers' Journal.

A Large Crab Tree. When lately visiting (said Sir R. Christison, at a late meeting of the Edinburgh botanical society) a friend at Kelloe House, in the parish at Endrom, a few miles eastward from Dunse, I a few miles eastward from Dunse, I was shown a erab tree, which appears to me to deserve being added to Mr. McNab's memoranda of large trees in Scotland. Crab apple trees are more frequently met with in hedge-rows in Berwickshire than anywhere else in Scotland where I have been; nossibly because nowhere clsa in Scotland do neage-rows abound as fences. The tree in question, according to the information supplied by an old man upon the estate, stood with several others in a hedge-row, but the hedge-row was cut down to improve the highway. This particular tree was, however, so large, even at that time, very many years ago, even at that time, very many years ago, that it was left standing in a convenient triangular space, in front of Kelloe gate little fruit formed on it, in consequence of the sharp frosts in May. It is well known in the surrounding country, whose inhabitants visit it from a considerable distance when it is in flower. It continues to be perfectly healthy in every part .- The Garden.

Mutton Sheep and the way to Breed and Handle Them with Profit.

Cotswolds. But the reason why these should be selected is not given. Is it because the mutton is better? In most of our markets we do not understand that these breeds, or even the Downs, which, in England, sell for two to four cents per pound higher than ordinary long-wools, will fetch better prices than large, fat Merinos. This is the discouraging feature of our markets for mutton—quality goes for nothing. We to do is to grow roots—turnips, beets and carrots—and keep our sheep grow-ing in winter as in summer. How siming in winter as insummer. How simple these things seem when we are left free to follow mere theory, and do not trouble ourselves about facts and actual experience! The practical man knows that in any part of the United states where corn can be grown roots cannot be produced profitably—they require too much labor, and in ordinary seasons are a very uncertain and poor yield.

Living beyond their income is the ruin of many of my neighbors; they can hardly afford to keep arabbit, and must needs drive a pony and chaise. I am afraid extravagance is the common dis-they are not more profitable than good REAL ESTATE AND LOAN AGENCY. J. K. RANKIN, Pres. Merinos. Indeed, unless the fleece of the long-wool varieties commands a higher price in the market than the Me-rino wools, the growing of the latter must be the most profitable. We have before argued that Merinos will bear confinement in winter on dry feed bet-ter than the long-wools, and for this farmer's own mutton—the cheapest and best meat he can provide—it ought to be the best breed for this special purpose. And here it will pay, as we have heretofore shown, to keep the Downs, though their fleece is less profitable than hose of other varieties.

It is also true that for early lambs for city markets, any of the English breeds and their crosses are more profitable than the Merinos. The difficulty here is to get suitable ewes to breed the lambs. The pure Downs or long-wools will cost too much, while most of what we call common sheep are lawrely of we call common sheep are largely of the Merino blood, and do not furnish milk enough for our purpose. But ewes half Southdown or half Cotswold would answer admirably if bred to full In style and quality of workmanship we blooded rams of these breeds, for the production of early lambs, which would sell in New York at 7c to 10c per lb.—

The Young.

The young are to be the successors of the old. In a few years, at most, those middle-aged men and women who now constitute the working force and moral and social power of the Grange, will grow weary and become comparatively inactive, even though they still feel their love for the Order strong within them. Then, if no pains have been tak-en to enlist the youthful in our ranks, en to enlist the youthful in our ranks, and to interest them in, and qualify them for our great work of informing the minds, cultivating the tastes, and thus elevating the characters of the farming classes, the Grange itself will decline in numbers and sink into a mere business, money-saving machine—an eye-sore to all good Patrons, and a discredit to the Order. I rejoice, therefore. credit to the Order. I rejoice, therefore, to see that our friends are bringing out the social features of our organization, in the various picnics which have lately been held in the Middle States. Let these be followed up in the approaching long evenings by "socials," "re-unions," and "visitations" of Granges in near vicinity to each other. And, when these are hot conventeat or practicable, let each Grange arrange, within itself, for "conversation meetings," where short addresses and essays, recitations, declamations, acted charactes, tableaux, and even despatic and operatic exhibiand even dramatic and operatic exhibi-tions may be introduced. Another source of amusement and improvement for all—but especially for the young— will be found in the establishment of manuscript literary journal in each Grange. Let an editor or editors be selected, who have the full confidence of the members for their ability, imparticularly imparticularly. at the meetings appointed for that pur-pose, or at the time alloted during the regular Grange meeting. They should act as mentors and kind critics, as well as editors, by privately pointing out to each writer errors in composition, taste or facts, and showing how to correct and avoid them. Of course, every communication should be received as confidential.

Such a manuscript journal will aid in Some of our cotemporaries treat this problem as a very simple one. We are to do as the sheep breeders do in Canada and in England—get the best mutton breeds, among which are mentioned the Lincolns, Leicesters and Cotswolds. But the reason why these amusements, but instruction also. In the follows of silvers the failure of original articles, the editors and their friends should always have a well filled package of selections

A REPRESENTATIVE AND CHAM-PION OF AMERICAN ART TASTE!

Prospectus for 1875—Eighth Year.

THE ALDINE,

THE ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA, Issued Monthly.

'A Magnificent Conception wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artits, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an artjournal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light, and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume can not duplicate the quality of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there is the chrome besides!

for ten times us cose; and then, there is the carome besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

struction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details that can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure, and animal subjects, sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment, worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

PREMIUM FOR 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attenuou.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

will be welcome in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life, that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural, no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

THE ALDINE ART UNION. THE ALDINE ART UNION.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures, which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 oubscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

TERMS. One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union. $6.00 per annum, in advance.

(No charge for postage.) Specimen copies of the ALDINE, .50 cts. THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publisher, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of JAMES SUTTON, President.

CANVASSERS WANTED. Any person wishing to act permanently as a local canvasser will receive full and prompt in-formation by applying to
