

LOADS JAMESTOWN HONEY

Dave Park of Devine, Texas, loads supers of honey he has taken from his hives in clover fields near Jamestown and is ready to take them to town to process the honey, then ship it to Sioux City, Iowa, in 55-gallon drums. He has been coming to Jamestown for 7 years after accidentally locating the clover fields. Farmers who permit hives in their fields are paid in honey.

Set Two August Management Field Days

Visitors will have an opportunity to see firsthand why some of the top farms in the state are successful next month during the third annual Farm Management field days.

The spotlight will be on the Herb Niles farm in Coffey County and the David Hirt place in Anderson County August 5. On August 8 the attraction will be the farms of Ralph Opie and Robert and Harry LeRoy in Barton County and the Lester Ideker farm and the Ward feedlot in Pawnee County.

Sponsored by the Kansas Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with several state and local organizations, the field days are open to the general public.

Both field days begin at 9:30 a.m. Concurrent programs will be presented at each of the farms and the feedlot, where visitors may hear the operator tell about his farm business.

Extension specialists from Kansas State University will be on hand to explain the management decisions involved in handling each operation.

Herb Niles feeds high moisture grain in his deferred steer operation 16 miles north of Burlington. He adds moisture to rolled milo as it is blown into a silo, then feeds it as wet grain. Backgrounding cattle also will be discussed at this farm.

David Hirt specializes in swine production on his farm 14 miles west of Garnett. Pigs are carried all the way from farrowing to finishing. Hirt's modern feed processing unit has augers which move grain directly to the feeders. The farrowing house, nursery and finishing house were converted from old farm buildings.

Bob and Harry LeRoy, a father-son partnership, market roughage to commercial feedlots near Great Bend. Long-term leasing and farm partnerships will be discussed. The farm is located seven miles west of Great Bend.

Ralph Opie farms 620 acres of cropland nine miles north of Great Bend. About one-fourth of the acreage is irrigated. He aerates grain sorghums and sells during the summer at seasonal

Co-op Plan To Cut Wheat Controls

A Kansas-born plan to end government acreage controls on wheat and to put more responsibilities for controlling production on farmers themselves is expected to be offered in Congress soon.

The plan is being circulated by the Kansas Co-op Council and a giant new grain marketing cooperative called Far-Mar-Co. Spokesmen for the two groups said they hope a bill supporting their plan will be introduced soon in the Senate.

Basically, the plan would do away with the present system of acreage controls, price supports and direct payments used for years to curb production and bolster producer income.

Instead, farmers would be allowed to plant and harvest all the wheat they wanted each year, but they would be permitted to sell only the amount needed to meet domestic and export demands.

If a farmer produced more wheat than his bushel allocation for the year, he would have to store the excess at his own expense, not the taxpayer's, as is the case now for surpluses.

The plan was outlined to Nixon administration farm officials at the Agriculture department by J. H. Dean, Hutchinson, general manager of the 9-state Far-Mar-Co organization, and Hal Hellebust, Topeka, executive director of the Kansas Co-op Council.

Dean and Hellebust said they hope to gain support from several congressional farm spokesmen, including Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.), Sen. Milton R. Young (R-S.D.), Sen. Bob Dole (R-Ks.), and others. "We're going to keep at it," Hellebust said, "and are going to try to seek President Nixon's support, too."

The new wheat proposal comes as the Nixon administration is attempting to develop its own farm policy and a program to possibly replace the food and agriculture act which expires at the end of next year.

In addition, Chairman Bob Poage (D-Tex.), will begin House agriculture committee hearings soon on new farm legislation.

Hellebust and Dean believe their plan has a chance of support among city members of Congress as well as from farm members.

One reason is the apparent discontent among many Congressmen over large government payments to big farmers. These payments last year totaled about 3½ billion dollars including 786 million to wheat growers.

All these, as well as price supports, would be eliminated under the co-op plan, the Kansans say. In fact, they add, it could be called "The Consumer-Producer Farm Program for Wheat." The plan would operate this way:

• Early each year the secretary of agriculture would announce a national wheat marketing allotment for the following crop year. This would be apportioned to the states according to past production and classes of wheat — for example, hard red winter, soft red winter, and durum — and then among farmers on the same basis.

• Each farmer could grow as much as he liked but could sell only his share of the total market demand.

• The farmer would deliver his allotted bushels to a local elevator, which in turn would pay him an advance price equal to 50 per cent of parity, which would be around $1.38 a bushel this year.

• Under a contractual arrangement, a regional marketing firm approved by the government would be responsible for orderly sale and shipment of the grain at the highest prices it could negotiate. The farmer later would receive a final payment for his wheat.

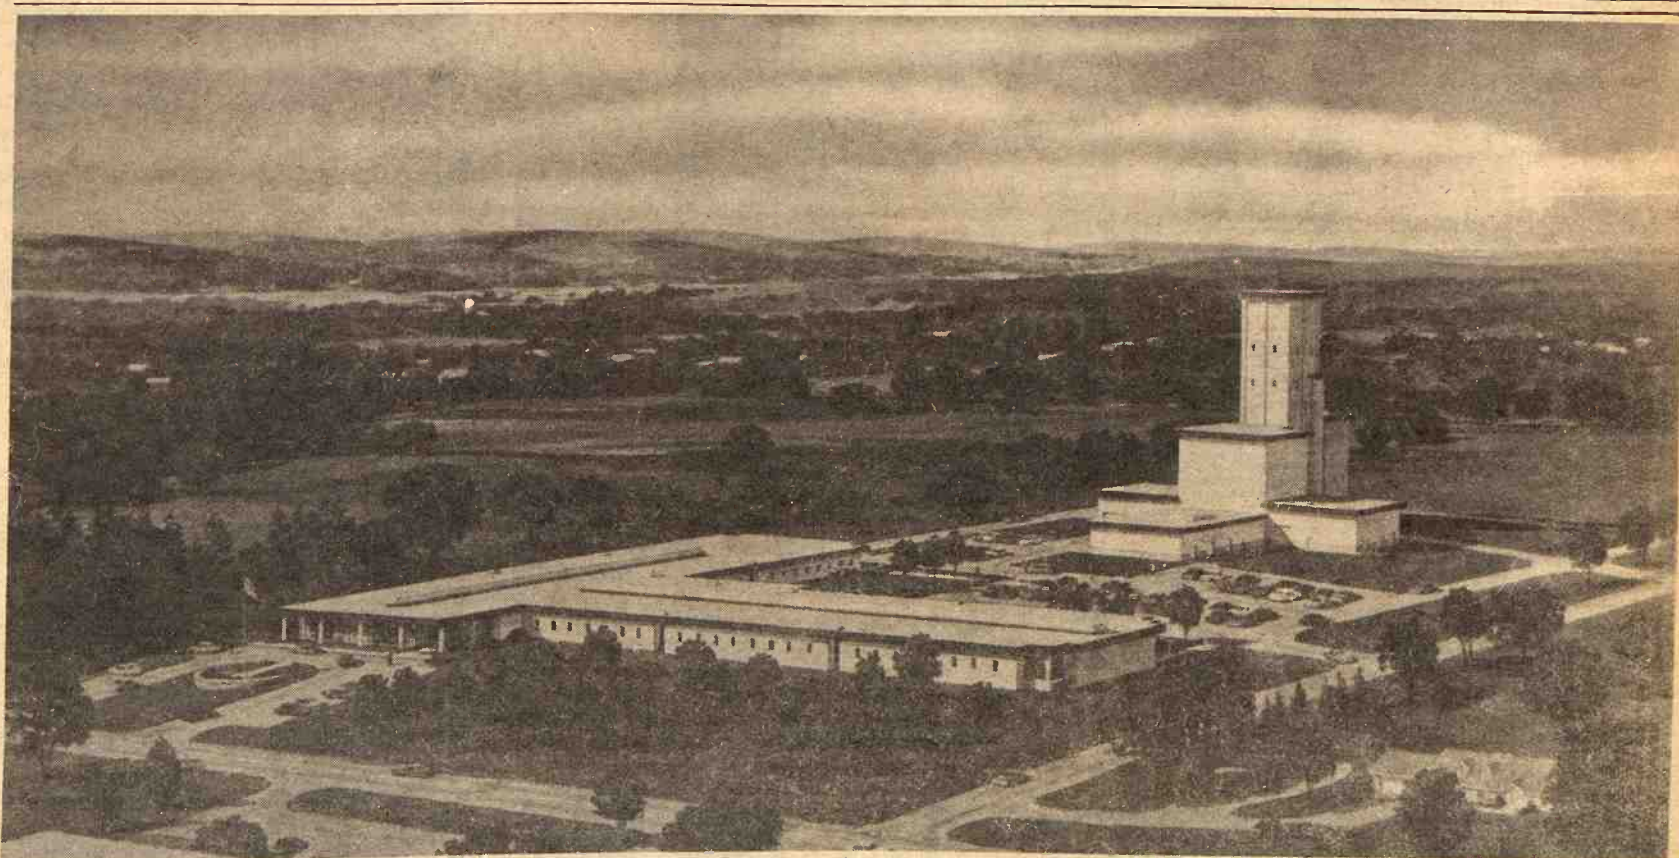

"Payments would no longer be made for the nonproduction of wheat," the Kansas plan says. "There would no longer be storage payments."

Supporters said the plan "will not appreciably" increase the cost of bread to consumers.

FEDERAL RESEARCH CENTER

This huge U. S. Grain Marketing Research Center, the only one of its kind in the world, is being constructed at Manhattan, Kansas. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of 1970. More than 150 federal scientists and technicians will be stationed here to conduct research related to marketing problems of wheat, corn sorghum, soybeans and other small grains. Offices and laboratories are shown in the foreground with a pilot plant and 150-foot high elevator in the rear. The Center is located on a 12-acre site about a mile from the world-famous milling and feed technology facilities of Kansas State University. Hentzel-Phelps Construction Company of Greeley, Colo., has the construction contract for $3,022,900. Construction began June 4 and is scheduled for completion in 18 months. Architects for the structure are Wolfenbarger and McCulley PA of Manhattan.

The Transportation Department is considering requiring some type of inflatable or otherwise "passive" occupant-restraint system on new vehicles not later than Jan. 1, 1972.

The most promising of such systems currently is an air-bag device, which has been tested by the department's National Highway Safety Bureau and by auto makers. The air bags, which might be stored in a car beneath the dashboard and in the back of the front seat, would pop open in front of occupants within a fraction of a second after a crash.

The bags would be intended to reduce death and injuries caused when occupants are hurled against a vehicle's interior during a violent crash. Besides cushioning the blow, the inflated bags would distribute impact loads over a large area of the body, allowing occupants to absorb higher crash forces safely, the department said. "Potentially injurious deceleration" would trigger the inflation mechanism, it said.

Current seat belts and shoulder harnesses offer substantial protection against the so-called "second collision" inside vehicles, but few people take the initiative to wear them. As a result, the department said, any new system must be "passive," meaning that it doesn't require any initiative by the occupants to be effective.

of what appears to be another bumper Kansas wheat harvest. Even while this harvest is still in progress, most producers are making plans for the 1970 wheat crop, notes Frank G. Bieberly, Extension agronomist at Kansas State University.

He naturally is interested in producing a high yield of grain which will be of a quality acceptable to and even sought by the miller and baker.

Three of the major factors which determine both yield and quality are weather, soil fertility, and wheat variety, the K-State specialist says.

The producer has little or no control over the weather, but he does have control over the other two factors. Therefore, his wheat production practices must include providing adequate plant nutrients to his crop.

They must also include the selection and use of varieties which will produce good yields of grain acceptable to the millers and bakers. In selecting a variety, it would be well to consider two relatively new Kansas varieties, Bieberly suggests.

Shawnee, released in 1967, probably is the variety with the best combination of good agronomic and quality characteristics. It yields well, has excellent straw strength, is resistant to Hessian fly and soil borne mosaic, is medium early, and has excellent milling and baking qualities. Shawnee is recommended in areas of the state.

The other relatively new Kansas variety is Parker, released in 1966. Parker is an early, short, strong strawed variety. Its straw strength was demonstrated this year when there was much lodging of taller, weaker strawed varieties. Parker is one of the top yielding varieties in the southern half of Kansas where it is recommended.

Farmers who are in the process of selecting varieties to plant this fall would do well to consider Shawnee and Parker, Bieberly says.

Worse Than The Market —

Mutual Funds Stub Toes

Many highly regarded mutual funds that less than a year ago were the rage of the stock market are now performing so poorly that their losses far exceed the decline in the market as a whole. Their performance — or lack of it — seems to puncture many widely held beliefs regarding the ability of funds to outperform the market. In fact, the poor showing of the funds seems to have intensified the recent market drop.

Many of the declines in asset value per share were more than 20 percent during the first half of the year, and some losses even exceeded 30 percent. In the same period the New York Stock exchange index fell only 8.1 percent.

Heavily emphasized in the funds' sales literature is the assurance that money invested in their shares will be professionally managed, the inference being that the investor will have more protection than if he invested on his own. A fee is charged for this management.

So poor has been the record of the majority of funds that the compilation of "best performers" is really a list of funds that have suffered the smallest losses. Only one major fund seems to have managed a gain in the six months.

Some of the severest declines were suffered by funds that not many months ago were surrounded by an aura of certain success after seemingly cracking the code that marked the road to profits.

The highly touted Enterprise Fund, which in 1967 ran up an astonishing gain of more than 113 percent, dropped 20.3 percent in asset value per share during the first half of 1969.

The Fletcher Capital Fund and the Fletcher fund, which are managed by the same firm that guides Enterprise, registered losses of 24.8 percent and 27.6 percent respectively. These losses have deepened since June 30.

Statistics compiled by the Nuveen Corporation, a brokerage house, reveal a story that apparently belies some of the popular claims of the funds, such as their alleged ability to cushion losses for small investors.

Nuveen analyzed the performance of 327 funds with assets in excess of one million dollars. Of these, only the Templeton Growth Fund managed to increase its asset value in the six months, advancing by 8.7 percent. The other 326 declined.

In fact, only 51 of the funds managed to do better than the Dow Jones Industrial average: that is, they managed to hold their losses to less than 7.5 percent.

Two funds, the Hubshman Fund and the O'Neill Fund, showed losses exceeding 30 percent. Thirty-two of the 327 posted losses of 20 percent or more, and 88 showed losses of 15 percent or more.

The poor showing takes on added significance because of the increasing power of funds and other institutional investors, such as pension funds, banks, trusts and insurance companies.

When asset values per share rise and fall they carry with them the fortunes of many thousands of people, for the industry has more than 9 million accounts.

The performance of funds also influences strongly the per share valuation of stocks in which they invest, and in this manner, it can be argued, their recent poor performance has deepened the sharp market decline of 1969.

Up Fee On Commodity Loans

"Commodity loan interest is unchanged, but service fees charged by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for administrative costs of handling price support loans will be increased," Chairman W. W. Adams of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee reports.

Interest rate on commodity loans will remain approximately 3½ percent, the chairman explained, but service fees per loan will be $8; an increase from the previous $4 figure, for grains and other commodities stored on the

Old Home Can Take On Brand New Look

Homeowners now have a chance to turn the appearance of their houses inside out. In fact, the appearance can go way out.

The same look of walnut, oak and other woodgrain panelings used in basements and dens is becoming a decorative element for the exterior of the home. So is practically any other desired visual effect — from staid old stone to psychedelic "pop art" patterns.

A new process makes it possible to coat metal siding with permanent finishes in woodgrain, brick, masonry or any three-dimensional, multi-colored effect.

That means houses can lose the stamped-out, prefabricated look often associated with aluminum siding. It also means that the image of mobile homes, one of shiny white boxes, can be changed to one of more permanence.

Besides being used to finish aluminum siding, the system can be used on metals for awnings and canopies, storage sheds, roofing shingles, decorative shutters or any other outside use. Extensive tests show that the patterns are impervious to weathering by sun, moisture and even salt spray. The need for repainting is eliminated and most dirt can be washed away with a garden hose.

The process is the outgrowth of a leading company's pioneer work in the development of printing processes that use finishes for a wide variety of interior and exterior applications.

You? Penny-wise and pound-foolish?

It's great to save money on cattle feed. But be sure it's an economy you can afford. Urea, often less expensive, is a safe feed additive to a certain level. Beyond that, it becomes toxic. That means many pounds of weight loss. So, while you appear to be saving money on feed, your cattle could be starving on synthetics.

That's why you'll need a good protein supplement if you're going after maximum weight gain. It costs no more to feed the best. Sunflower Soybean Meal or Pellets. They're carefully processed from prime soybeans. They're highly palatable and digestible. They're nature's richest source of protein.

If you want that hefty weight gain with fewer headaches, arrange for Kansas Soya custom-mixing. We'll follow your present formula or, if you decide it needs beefing up, build a formula for you that's feedlot-proven for lowest cost with highest gain.

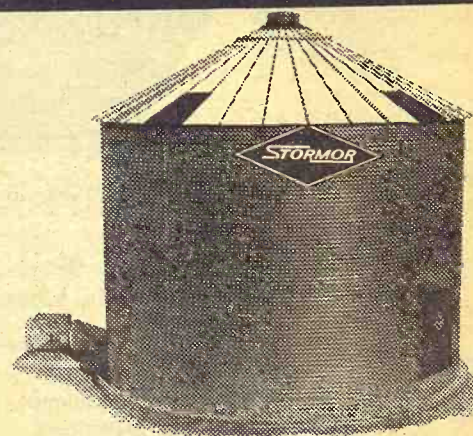

Maybe you mix your own feed. In that case, we'll deliver Sunflower Soybean Meal or Pellets whenever and wherever you need them. Or, if you pick up your order, provide automated in-and-out truckloading. And you can always use Kansas Soya's grain bank facilities.

Check Warranty When Buying Laundry Appliance

Shoppers need to be aware of two important considerations when shopping for a laundry appliance — the warranty offered on it and the type of repair service available. A good warranty is easy for the layman to read and to understand.

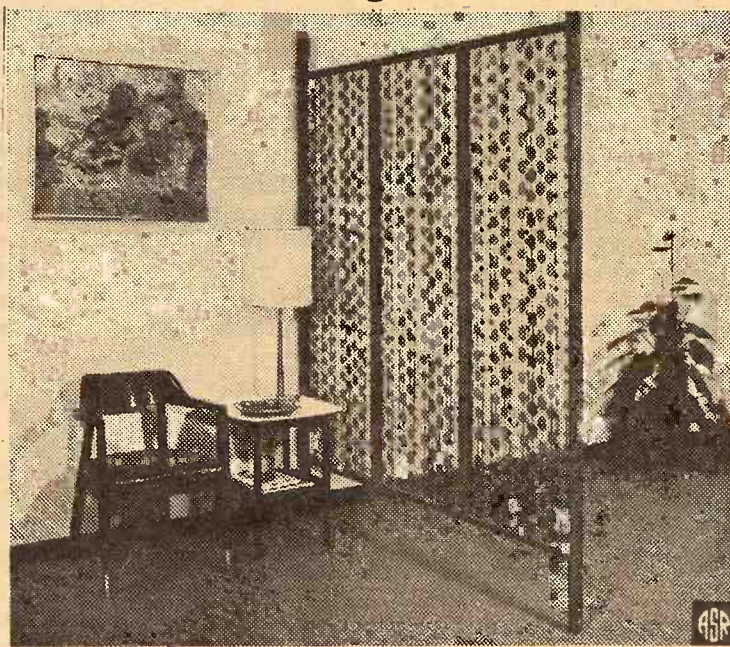

It tells under what conditions the company will repair or exchange the appliance or part of the appliance. There should be no small print or hidden exclus-ions to confuse the purchaser.

Even the most dependable appliance with the best warranty will occasionally need service, and it should be prompt. The serviceman needs to arrive with the necessary tools, parts and the know-how needed to make repairs.

He should provide safety and protection in the area in which he is working. When he leaves he should leave the area as neat and clean as when he arrived. The serviceman should also be courteous and willing to tell the consumer what was wrong and what was done to fix the appliance.

Translucent Panels Excite Interior Decorating Ideas

Colorful, translucent polystyrene plastic panels that simulate the appearance and feel of antique glass are now available in a range of distinctive patterns to offer imaginative interior design possibilities.

The tough, shatter-resistant plastic panels are produced in more than a dozen patterns ranging from classic hobnail to abstract modern design in single or variegated translucent colors. More than 50 combinations are available for room dividers, screens, folding doors, side lights, and luminous wall construction.

The ease with which the plastic panels can be installed make them doubly attractive. They can be cut with an ordinary wood saw or scored with a sharp edge and snapped to size. They can be cemented with any adhesive suitable for polystyrene plastic.

The panels are available from lumber and building supply dealers in sizes up to 4'x8'. Cost is about $.60 to $1.20 per square foot depending on design.

Pre-engineered room divider and folding screen kits assure professional quality at low cost.

Long Tunic Hides Figure Faults

The long, slim tunic is what everyone wants now; it's undoubtedly the best pants-mate ever invented. Tunics are feminine — long enough to cover any figure problems — long enough to make every wearer look taller and slimmer.

Outdoor Cook Can Have Controlled Heat

Controlled heat is the desire of every chef. And for best results for every type of outdoor recipe, a slow, even heat may be achieved by cooking with a minimum of charcoal. Cooking with a layer one briquette deep should be enough.

Avoid The Miseries On Vacation

Whether your vacation will be a short trip to a nearby lake or a jet trip abroad, a little planning can prevent the holiday from being spoiled by illness.

Ask your personal physician about any needed immunization. He may suggest another tetanus shot or a typhoid shot if your trip will take you into areas with uncertain water supply.

The American Medical Association advises watching your vacation diet. Eat light meals while driving across country and avoid heavy, rich meals, particularly if you are not accustomed to them.

It is also recommended that those who take medications regularly to take along an extra supply.

Remember, your vacation should be a holiday for rest and relaxation. Don't overdo it.

Winners Send Thanks

Letters of thanks were received from winners of "Our Daily Bread" recipe contest. The first to appear is from Mrs. Walter Erichsen, Junction City:

"I want to thank you for my Triumph Basket.

"Like you said, 'third time is a charm' for which I won the 'Daily Bread' prize with my favorite recipe."

Also heard from was Mrs. W. J. Kervitz of Alma:

"Would like to express my appreciation for the gift that I have just received. I am sure that I will find many uses for it. Keep up the good work. We look forward to the paper each week."

Successful Meals Take Planning

Planning is the key word to successful meals. The basic four food groups are: Meat, two or more servings, milk, adults, one pint, fruit and vegetables and bread and cereals, four or more servings each.

Best menus are planned around a single food that becomes the focal point of the meal. Blending of flavors in creating dishes and planning meals is an art. Aim for a variety of color, size shape, temperature, flavor and method of preparation in each meal. Balance strong flavors with bland ones and hot foods with cold ones.

Sandals Take New Look This Fall

There will be new developments in the sandal this fall. New on the fashion scene will be higher, chunky heels, broad straps and platform soles in red, snakeskin, natural cobra-print leather.

Barbecue In Well-Ventilated Area

Most outdoor chefs fail to realize the danger of charcoal fires which give off carbon monoxide. Charcoal should only be used outdoors or in well-ventilated indoor locations such as a fireplace with an open draft.

To Remove Tarnish From Brass

To remove dirt and tarnish from old brass hardware, unscrew it from the furniture, brush-scrub it with salt and vinegar (mixed in a ceramic dish) then wash it with soap or detergent suds and wipe it dry after rinsing. The next step is to oil the screws and reattach the gleaming pulls to the furniture.

Keep Grill Out Of Children's Path

When barbecuing outdoors, be certain never to grill in an area where children are playing. A careless child may inadvertently run into the grill, tip it over and be severely burned.

Food Supplies At Record Levels

While some people in the United States are not getting enough good food, most of our people are better fed than ever before. They are also better nourished than the people of any other nation.

Beef. There is a record supply of beef this year. There will be enough to provide about 110 pounds per person — 1 pound more than in 1968. Most healthy adults will get far more than 110 pounds, since young children and older people eat less than the average amount.

The 110 pounds of beef per person available this year is about twice as much as that available a generation ago. Back in the "good old days" of the 1930's, the annual supply of beef averaged about 54 pounds per person. The quality of beef is also far better today. It is more tender and uniform than the beef of yesteryear.

Although a few countries do have more beef per person than the U.S., those countries do not have the great abundance of other animal products — pork, poultry, eggs, and dairy products — that we do.

Pork. Pork supplies apparently will total about 67 pounds per person this year. This is not an all-time record, but it is the largest supply that has been available since 1959. Over the past 70 years, pork supplies have ranged from a low of 48 pounds per person in 1935 to a high of 79 pounds during World War II. The range was 55 to 75 pounds during most years.

Pork, too, is of higher quality now than in any previous year. It is leaner and has less waste.

Chicken. Broiler supplies so far this year have been about 6 percent greater than in 1968. The total for 1969 may be enough to provide 39 pounds of chicken per person — a new record and 2 pounds more than last year. This is nearly three times as much as the annual figure of 14 pounds per person available during the 1930's. Chicken was an expensive luxury then. Today, it is an economical meat for the millions.

Turkey. There will be enough turkeys to provide about 8 pounds per person this year — about the same as in 1968. The supply has been larger in only one year, 1967. Turkey is another good buy for any family. During the 1930's, the annual amount available was only about 2 pounds per person, making turkey something of a luxury enjoyed only once or twice a year by most families.

Eggs. Henfruit are not as popular as they were 10 to 20 years ago, when consumers brought 350 to 400 eggs per person each year. But there will be enough to provide some 320 eggs per person this year — an amount equal to the supply available during the 1930's.

Dairy products. The supply of ice cream and other frozen dairy products will exceed 5.5 gallons per person this year — a new record high. There will also be a record supply of cheese, and all the milk anyone wants.

Other foods. Supplies of most other foods — cereals, fruits, and vegetables — are also at or near all-time high levels.

And it looks like it will stay that way. No one is likely to offer him competition.

He owns a harness shop, and he doesn't know how far it may be to the next one.

The old harness shop, virtually unchanged since the early days, is the last wooden building on the Otis main street. Wooden buildings are not permitted downtown any more because of the fire zone.

Kaiser, who has had the shop since 1951, can't remember the last time he fixed a harness, if he ever did.

So he uses most of the same equipment to repair shoes, mend canvas, and fabricate various items from canvas and leather.

One job he often is called upon to do is to repair car and truck seat cushions.

A popular item in the Otis area, is an apron worn by field hands who buck bales of hay. He makes them of leather, and they are expected to last a long time.

Safety Risk At Beloit School

BELOIT — The Unified School District No. 273 board of education here is seeking space for 150 junior high school students next fall.

Arthur Ramey, state fire marshal, has informed the board the present junior high building should not be used for classes unless safety is updated.

The work would cost $50,000 to $100,000, according to John Bottom, superintendent of schools. The board decided the expenditure would not be feasible.

A $1,785,000 bond proposal to build a new high school and move the junior high to the present high school building was defeated last November.

Ramey told the board his inspection of the junior high was prompted by letters from parents.

Synthetics Continue To Vie Strongly With Farm Products

WASHINGTON — Synthetic and substitute products will continue to compete strongly with farm products in the years ahead according to a report from the USDA.

While traditional farm products will still supply the major market requirements for food, they are vulnerable whenever new technology offers a replacement with flower costs or new properties.

The report, incidentally, pointed out the difference between substitutes and synthetics. Replacement products made with agricultural products — such as filled and imitation milks and meat-like foods from soybeans — are called substitutes. Replacement products from nonfarm sources — such as saccharin for sweetening — are called synthetics.

Most replacement products in food uses are synthetics. Farm products in non-food uses face the greatest competition to date.

The dairy industry is under some of the heaviest pressure. Substitutes have taken over half the butter market and a substantial share of the coffee cream market. Now imitation fluid milk products are coming into the market and the raw materials for the imitations cost about 13 cents per half-gallon less than fresh fluid milk.

While the domestic demand for cattle hides has been constant for the past 10 years, there are now 69 leather substitutes available, most of which sell for less than leather, USDA officials point out. In addition, the substitutes usually have such properties as light weight, scuff resistance or dye fastness. By 1980 the domestic market will probably take less than half of the 46 million hides produced in this country.

Similar trends are taking place in the field of fibers, meats, citrus juices, fats and oils and sugar.

Charles Pence Takes USDA Export Post

WASHINGTON — Charles W. Pence, former director of Great Plains Wheat Inc., Kansas City, Mo., has been named head of the grain division of the Agriculture Department's new Export Marketing Service.

Great Plains Wheat, Inc., was formed more than a decade ago in an effort to promote overseas market development for wheat producers.

Joseph Halow, who has headed the organization's Washington office for about five years, was named acting executive vice president to succeed Pence.

Halow said that GPW plans to move its headquarters from Kansas City to Washington later this month in order to be closer to activities of the Agriculture Department and the national grain trade.

The organization is financed by wheat producers.

Pence is a native of Topeka and was graduated from Kansas State University in 1938 with a degree in agriculture. He was with the Farmers' Security Administration for three years before he served in World War II.

Following discharge, he was county agent in Wyandotte, Labette, Dickinson, and Saline counties and in 1952 he joined the Kansas Wheat Improvement Assn. in Manhattan and was named president in 1955.

Pence joined GPW in 1966.

File Suit For Cattle Deaths

HUTCHINSON — A $4340 damage suit has been filed in Reno County District Court against four corporations and 13 individuals claiming negligence in the death and injury of a dozen cattle.

The suit was filed by Haven cattlemen A. R. and Lynn Gefert. The Geferts said as a result of oil drilling operations on their pasture, several slush ponds were left abandoned with cattle wandering into the open pits last year.

Five of the cows died while others were injured. The Geferts maintain that the oil lease was left in a negligent manner. Most defendants in the case reside in Wichita or Sedgwick County.

Summer Santa

Grand Rapids, Mich. — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smoots of the Detroit suburb of Southgate were headed for a month's vacation when the wind caught the trailer they were pulling and smashed up their car.

The Smootses, their son and daughter and a neighbor boy escaped injury but feared their vacation plans had been shattered.

That's when William Krueer of Grand Rapids happened along. Seeing the wrecked car and trailer, he stopped and learned of the spoiled vacation. Then he handed the Smootses the keys to a late model car and to his cottage in Northern Michigan and continued on his way.

Due to the heat and still some people in the harvest fields, the run was some lighter than we expected. However, a good many cattle did get into the auction and found an active market.

While all classes of cattle sold some lower, we had buyers competing for all classes of cattle, especially the larger bunches of cattle.

If you have cattle to sell, contact some of us or bring them on in.

MISS KANSAS FROM HILLSBORO

Kansas' entry in the 1970 Miss America contest is Margo Sue Schroeder of Hillsboro. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Schroeder, Marion County auto dealer.

Margo is a sophomore at Wichita State University. Folks in Marion County weren't surprised that she won the Miss Kansas contest at Pratt. They expected her to win, and the 1969 Miss Kansas, Jane Kathryn Bair, of Parsons, has already predicted Margo will become Miss America in September. If so, she would become Kansas' third Miss America in five years.

Dead Mountain Lion Found In Chase County

An 80-pound young mountain lion was found dead at the Clements corner on US-50 by Darrell Spence who took the animal to Cottonwood Falls in his pickup truck.

Francis Towle, Chase County Sheriff, called the animal a mountain lion like the ones in the Rockies and cautioned ranchers and travelers that if the baby was here, the mother is close by.

Indian Quits Bureau Post

WASHINGTON — The first Indian to serve as commissioner of Indian affairs in a century has quietly resigned his post in protest over what he regards as the indifference of the Nixon administration to his people.

Robert L. Bennett, a Republican, charged that the President and his advisers "have completely ignored the Indians up to now."

"So far in 6 months, no top person of this administration has even visited an Indian reservation or held a meeting with an Indian group," Bennett said in an interview.

Bennett, who is the first career employe of the bureau ever to become commissioner, submitted his resignation a little over a month ago after he heard Secretary of the Interior Walter A. Hickel say on a television interview that the department did not need new Indian programs but new men to run them.

According to Bennett, Secretary Hickel never held any discussion with him on the department's Indian affairs activities during his first 5 months in office. Their only contact, the former commissioner said, was shaking hands when Hickel first greeted bureau heads.

State Backslides In Rank On Teachers' Salaries

Kansas has slipped three places in national ranking of average teacher salaries in 10 years, despite a 74 percent overall salary improvement.

The state's average teacher salary for 1968-69 ranked it 33rd among the states at $7217, according to a report of the National Education Association Committee on School Finance.

In 1958-59 Kansas ranked 30th, with an average teacher salary of $4,145.

Among the 50 largest school systems in the report, Wichita teachers were reported to be earning 77.8 percent of the amount an average city worker makes, based on 1967 figures.

Kansas schools spend $647 per pupil compared with the national average of $681, the study indicates. The Wichita budget per pupil for 1968-69, it was reported, was $448.91, slightly above the average for 79 major cities reporting. This compares with an expenditure of $319.92 for Oklahoma City and $426.20 in Kansas City.

USDA Holds Back On DDT Condemnation

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says it has no evidence DDT is unsafe even though the department temporarily has banned use of the pesticide in its own operations.

Sen Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., charged earlier that the department is unwilling to permanently end all use of the chemical because "the Department of Agriculture is locked in with the agricultural interests who use DDT."

But Dr. George W. Irving, administrator of the agricultural research service, says the department has found nothing to warrant canceling registration of DDT for interstate shipment under current regulations.

"To do that, we would have to find that DDT is either ineffective or unsafe," Irving said in an interview. "We have no evidence

THE ONLY ONE?

One of the few, if not the only one of its kind, is the Nekoma State Bank, in Rush County, still housed in a wooden frame building constructed in a style that must have predominated in the late 1800s and early 1900s. However, the style and construction are the only things old-fashioned about the bank. All banking methods are up-to-date, even to the point of having the accounts computerized by Data Center, Inc. at Hutchinson, explained Miss Loretta Moran, cashier, and sister of the bank president, F. A. Moran. The bank has deposits of more than a million dollars.

that it is either."

The department has ordered a halt to use of nine persistent pesticides — including DDT — in government pest control programs pending completion of a study in early August.

The temporary USDA ban affects only a small percentage of pest control programs involving use of DDT and the eight other persistent, long lasting pesticides, Irving said.

Concern over DDT's effects has been growing since early this year when the federal Food and Drug Administration seized 21,000 pounds of Great Lakes salmon found to contain DDT residues.

Irving said the effects on fish and wildlife do not enter into his agency's consideration of whether or not to register pesticides for interstate shipment, sale and use.

"There is nothing in our law which is explicit on that," Irving said. "That would be an extension of our authority that our lawyers aren't willing to grant us yet."

Nelson has urged Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin to cancel registration of DDT.
The senator said the department is sitting on a report condemning its use for aerial dusting and near lakes, rivers and streams, but this was denied by a department spokesman.

Test A Marketing Program To Get Carcass Premium

A pilot cattle marketing program in Archbold, Ohio, could possibly be expanded to encourage higher quality stock moving into the slaughter market, says the Agriculture department.

Usually, producers who sell cattle at livestock auctions do so on the basis of what the animals weigh and grade on the hoof. But the auction project at Archbold — started last spring — permits a producer to sell his cattle to a meat packer and then be paid in a few days on the basis of the actual quality and amount of meat in the carcass.

Cattle producers selling directly to meat packers have been able for the last four years to be paid on the basis of "grade and yield" after their animals were slaughtered, but an Agrieculture Department official said that to his knowledge the Archbold experiment is the first for auction markets.

Experienced cattle buyers can look at a live animal and tell closely its quality and how much meat it will produce, but the surest method is to examine the carcass after slaughter. Thus, the spokesman said, the producer can know exactly how much meat he has sold to the packer and can collect his price accordingly.

"This method certainly has the possibility of encouraging better than average types of cattle going into auction markets," the official said. "But right now it's still in the experimental stage.
It's being watched very closely."

The Archbold project was developed by Ohio State University marketing specialists in cooperation with a local auction company, the official said. Two sales on the basis of grade and yield have been held.

Judge Affirms Cattle Oiler Suit

A Ramona farmer, Frederick W. Mann, was awarded more than $85,000 in a trade secret infringement decision handed down in Geary County district court.

Mann filed the suit in 1967 against Gilmore-Tatge Chemical Co., with plants in Clay Center and Herington, and Merwin Gilmore and Harlan Tatge, Clay Center, owners.

He alleged the company manufactured a device to combat face fly in cattle after he had shown Gilmore and Tatge a similar device he invented on his farm.

Mann sought 10 percent royalty for all devices manufactured by Gilmore-Tatge.

Judge Albert Fletcher Jr.
awarded Mann a 5 percent royalty on each device and on all future sales.

Testimony during the trial showed that 17,099 of the devices had been sold with a value of $1,706,598. Mann's 5 percent amounts to $85,329.

Gilmore-Tatge's contention that the stand used for the device should not be included in the sale price was rejected by Fletcher. The firm said the stands on the 17,099 devices were worth $532,225.

Fletcher ruled the stand is an integral part of the device and allowed royalties on all component parts.

In a 1967 trial, Fletcher ruled Gilmore-Tatge had violated Mann's trade secret. The decision was appealed to the Kansas Supreme Court which upheld the lower court.

The second trial was to determine amount of damages. Both were conducted without a jury.

The face fly device involves application of an insecticide to the face of cattle through a reservoir-fed wick. It feeds liquid insecticide into a collar when the animal sticks his head through to obtain salt or other minerals.

Law Ties Some Poultry Plants

Federal-state cooperation has forced 27 poultry plants, found to be a danger to public health, to close down or clean up.

The Agriculture Department noted the actions in reporting progress of crack-downs on processors of unwholesome food since enactment last August of the wholesome poultry products act.

The law spells out how national officials can work with state authorities to assure strict inspection of the 13 percent of the nation's poultry supply that has been exempt from federal inspection because it doesn't move across state lines.

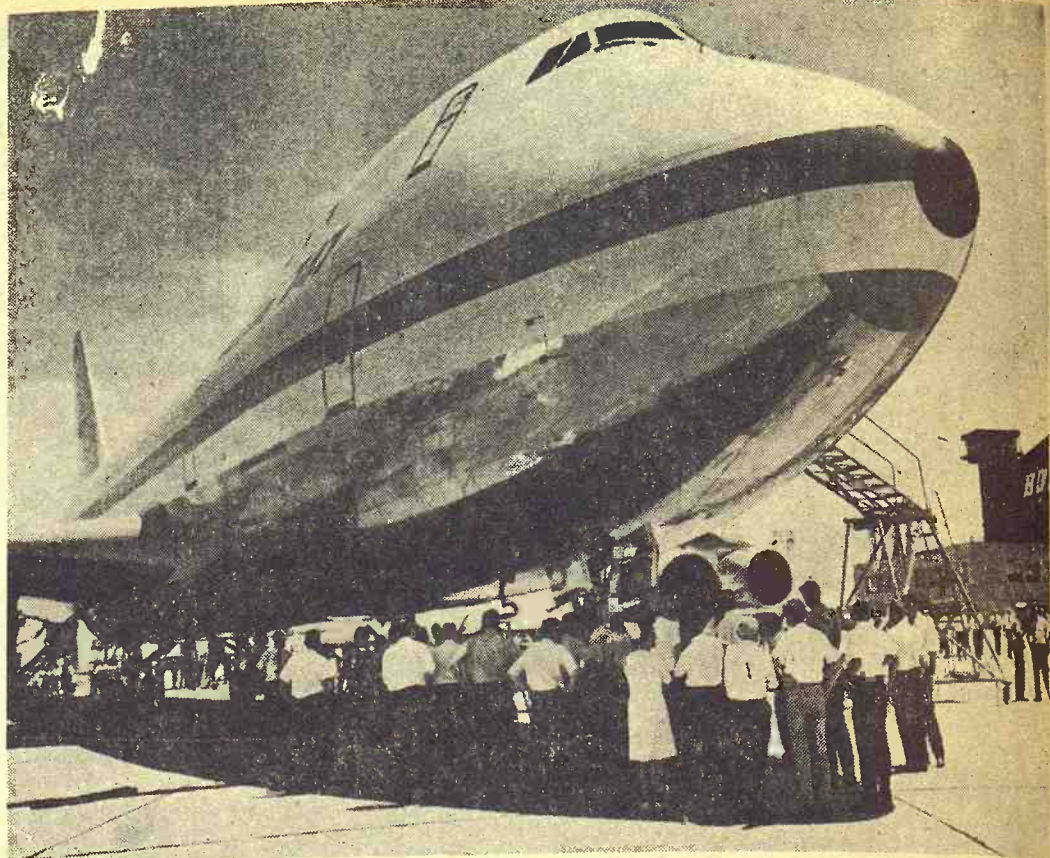

July 22, 1969

Grass & Grain

The law calls for a uniform national system of poultry inspection by August 1971. The plants ordered to close down or clean up before continuing operations were not identified by the Agriculture Department, but their locations by states and action taken were reported.

Connecticut, one plant closed, four corrected; Idaho, 2 plants closed; Massachusetts, six closed, five corrected; Missouri, one closed, one corrected; Nebraska, one closed; and Rhode Island, five closed, one corrected.

There are about 1900 poultry plants doing business wholly within state boundaries. All of those closed or disciplined were described as small.

NEW SUPERJET IN VIEW IN G&G AREA

Some folks in the G&G area got a glimpse last week of Boeing's new 747 Superjet, which landed in Wichita on a flight from Seattle to test airconditioning capabilities. It was a good day for it, as temperatures at Wichita's McConnell Field hit 106 degrees.

Five of the new planes are currently being tested, and Boeing says that 187 of them have been ordered by 28 airlines around the world. The first delivery will go to Pan American and is scheduled for commercial use in December.

The plane weighs 260 tons, costs $20 million, and the wings span two-thirds of the length of a football field. The tail section is over 63 feet high.

The 747 can carry close to 500 passengers, though its most likely configuration for commercial use will be around 350 seats.

Set Dates Of 4-H Wheat Shows

Friday, August 1, Wichita, and Friday, August 8, Garden City, are the dates and sites of the 4-H District Wheat Shows for 1969.

The program includes judging of physical samples of wheat and mill and bake samples in addition to educational presentations emphasizing quality wheat production and grain marketing, reports Don D. Pretzer, Extension economist in grain marketing, Kansas State University. Dr. Glenn M. Busset, state 4-H leader, KSU, will discuss the grain marketing projects at the Wichita Show.

The morning schedule at Wichita includes judging physical samples, refreshments with Kansas Wheat Commission as host, and a tour of the DeKalb research facilities including laboratories where hybrid wheat is being studied.

Dr. Busset and Myron Kranton, Hutchinson, assistant director of marketing for Kansas Wheat Commission, will appear on the afternoon program.

Awarding of ribbons and plaques will conclude the session. Howard D. Wilkins, Extension specialist in crop production, will judge the physical samples. The mill and bake samples are judged at various mills before the show.

Companies Oppose Compulsory Policy On Car Liability

Representatives of the automobile industry in Kansas have registered strong opposition to compulsory automobile liability insurance.

Their views were registered before the roads and highways committee of the Kansas legislative council.

"The committee is studying the feasibility of stronger proof of financial responsibility legislation.

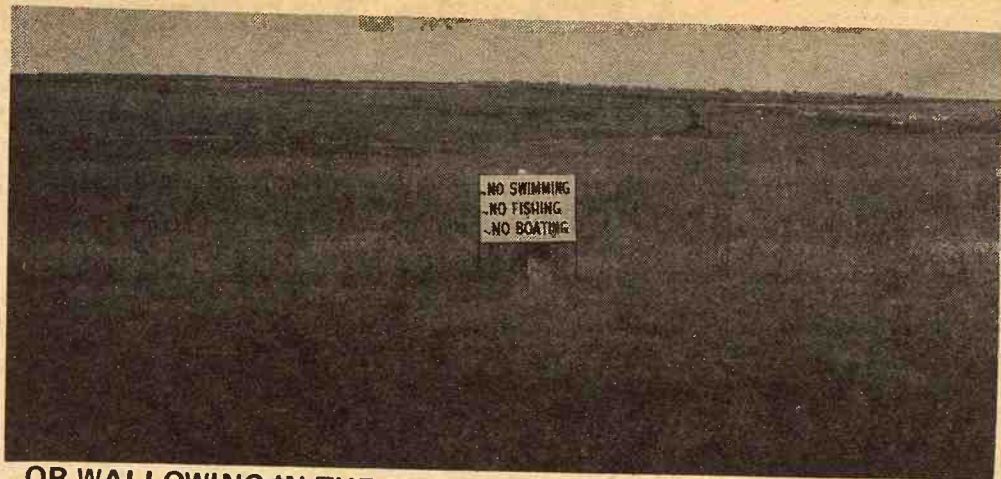

Among those appearing before the committee were L. M. Cornish, Topeka, Kansas Association of Mutual Insurance Companies; E. H. Morrison, Western Casualty and Surety Company, Fort Scott; Mark Bennett, Topeka, American Insurance Association; James D. Wallace, Topeka, Kansas Association of Independent Insurance Agents, and Ward Wright, Manhattan, Farm Bureau Insurance companies.

The insurance industry representatives said they believe recent Kansas legislation on uninsured motorist insurance coverage, and a 1969 law requiring persons involved in accidents and who do not have insurance to post proof of financial responsibility for three years, are steps in the right direction in solving any problems in Kansas.

Increased administrative costs at the government level with increased taxes, and higher premium rates were cited as reasons for opposition to compulsory liability insurance.

It also was pointed out that compulsory insurance legislation would not apply to out-of-state drivers and that there are other loopholes which would remain open.

U.S. To Be World Price Cutter

The United States plans to drop prices soon on some wheat for export to meet rising competition in the world market, an Agriculture Department source has stated.

The official would not indicate how much the price would be lowered, but he said it would be "enough to meet competition" from other major exporting nations, including the European Common Market.

There has been speculation on such a move after a meeting of the five largest wheat exporting nations — Australia, Argentina, Canada, the United States and the Common Market — on what to do about the International Grains Arrangement.

The IGA went into effect last year as a treaty fixing minimum prices for wheat in world trade. But because of large supplies and increased competition the price minimums have been abused almost from the start.

"We're not in a position now to say how much we might be prepared to spend on export subsidies to move our wheat competitively," the source said, "but I believe we will get competitive."

The official said the price adjustment is expected soon, perhaps momentarily.

The IGA minimum price for U.S. hard winter wheat — the most common type — edilever to gulf ports for export is $1.73 a bushel. Theoretically, this is what the U.S. exporter would receive on the world market.

In return for the guaranteed higher price, the exporter must pay the government an "inverse subsidy" equal to the difference between his cost of the wheat delivered at ports and the IGA minimum.

The official said the current cost of wheat to the exporter at the gulf coast ports is about $1.42 a bushel and the subsidy of 25 cents a bushel means that wheat is being shipped now for about $1.67½.

Consequently, he said, the United States already is undercutting the IGA minimum price for its largest class of wheat.

And the plan is to reduce the exporter's payment to the government, which would have the effect of underselling the minimum even more, he said.

Quarter Brings $289 An Acre

Two farms in two separate estates in north central Kansas brought well over $200 an acre in auctions last week.

The 160 acres southeast of Clifton brought $46,250 for the Marvin and Anna Lakin estate on July 14. Some of this land was bottomland, according to auctioneer Foster Kretz, and an unusually large number of bidders attended the sale. The property went to Clarence Burk, of north of Clifton, for an average $289 an acre.

A son, Clinton was the successful bidder for 240 acres southwest of Ames from the estate of Joe Dietrich on July 18. The price was $51,250. This was all upland, Foster Kretz, auctioneer, reported.

Cattle In Feedlots Ahead Of Prediction

Kansas agriculture continued to set production records this year, reports from Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Saturday.

Latest record established is the number of cattle and calves on feed in the state. The report for July 1 showed cattle in Kansas feedlots being readied for slaughter were 47 percent higher than a year earlier and about 33 percent more than the previous record set in 1966.

The number 618,000 head on feed July 1 was down in the usual season manner from 660,000 on feed April 1.

The rapid increase in major feedlots was shown by the 438,000 head of Kansas cattle in lots with a capacity of 1000 or more. This was about 1½ times the number in larger lots a year ago.

Growth of larger lots is proceeding at a much faster pace than predicted by Kansas State University Department of Agricultural Economics in a study completed late in 1968.

The smaller farm lots reported 180,000 head on feed July 1, up about 25 percent from a year ago.

Grain fed cattle and calves marketed for slaughter during the April-June quarter totaled 427,000 head, about 33 percent above last year. Cattle and calves placed on feed during the quarter totaled 395,000, an increase of 52 percent over last year.

Expected marketings of fed cattle during the quarter, July-September, is 410,000 for a 34 percent increase over last year.

Steers accounted for 65 percent of the cattle on feed, a total of 401,000 head, while heifers comprised the balance of 217,000. This was comparable to the steer-heifer ratio for 1968.

Breakdown of feeding periods showed 390,000 head of the cattle had been on feed less than three months, 52 percent less than a year ago. Those on feed three to six months totaled 215,000 head, 36 percent above last year. Those on feed more than six months totaled 13,000 head, compared with 6000 head a year ago.

Largest increase in feeders was in the intermediate size range of 700-899 pounds. This group was 309,000 head, for an increase of 6 percent.

The 900-1099 pound group also was up substantially with 146,000 head on feed representing a 46 percent gain. Only 4000 head on feed were in the under-500 pounds class, well below the 13,000 last year.

The 1100 pound class totaled 14,000 compared with 21,000 head last year.

The 22-state total of cattle on feed was 10,397,000 head, an increase of 15 percent from a year earlier, while national marketings in the April-June quarter were up 3 percent. Marketing intentions for the July-September quarter were reported up 11 percent over last year.

U.S. Gets Competitive For World Wheat Trade

The United States lowered its export price of wheat 12 cents a bushel in a move to meet rising world competition, the Agriculture Department announced.

The cut applied to hard, red winter wheat of ordinary protein content at Gulf and East Coast ports, the department said. Similar adjustments were made for higher-protein hard, red winter wheat — the most abundant type.

A reduction also was put into effect for soft red winter wheat.

There will be adjustments of export prices for the new crop of hard spring wheat after September 16 at Great Lakes, East and Gulf Coast ports. No basic changes were made in West Coast export prices, the department said.

The action signified officially a break in the minimum prices specified by the International Grains Arrangement, a treaty which went into effect last year setting up minimum prices for wheat in world trade.

Pressure has increased in recent months for a general reduction of IGA price minimums, because some major exporting nations have been underselling the minimums in an effort to dispose of large supplies.

U.S. officials met last week with representatives of the Common Market, Australia, Argentina and Canada on the I.G.A. price issue.

Delegates issued a statement then that "corrective action would be taken by some exporters to bring prices into proper competitive relationship" in an effort to maintain marketing and price stability.

A spokesman for the Agriculture department said that wheat was offered Thursday for export at Gulf ports at $1.67 a bushel — six cents below the IGA minimum — and that after yesterday's announcement the same wheat could be sold for about $1.55 a bushel.

The reduction actually was made in what is called the "inverse subsidy" exporters are required to pay the government — in exchange for higher prices under I.G.A.

Exporters have been able to buy on the market and ship wheat to the Gulf for a price less than they would get under the minimum price schedule. In return for this the exporter was required to pay the difference to the government.

The inverse subsidy — also called export certificate rate — for wheat shipped from the Gulf recently has been around 26 cents a bushel. As a result of the action, this rate was dropped to about 14 cents.

Sabetha Youth Wins Scholarship

The O. A. Cooper Company, Humboldt, Nebraska, has awarded its annual Kansas State University Feed Technology Scholarship to eighteen year old Galen James Rokey, son of Mr. & Mrs. Melvin Rokey, rural Sabetha, Kansas. He is a 1969 graduate of Sabetha High School standing third place in his class with an A grade average. The $800 Cooper award to Rokey is the fourth of such scholarship aids presented by the company to feed technology students at the University's Department of Flour and Feed Milling Industries.

Galen Rokey lives with his parents on a 320-acre Grade A dairy farm. A member of the Sabetha Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, Rokey was named in 1969 an Outstanding Young Kansas State Farmer. He was the sole recipient of this honor in Nemaha County.

The O. A. Cooper Company purpose in establishing the continuing scholarship program is to provide needed financial aid to young persons entering the formula feed industry. Over a four year curriculum the scholarship awarded Galen James Rokey will total $3200.

CRANE BUCKET TO SCOOP WHEAT

Overflowing wheat from a steel storage bin at Great Bend required the rental of a bucket crane from a sand company to scoop the overflow away from the tank after it had reached its maximum height. A shortage of boxcars and a bumper crop combined to spill more than 100,000 bushels on the ground in the kind of problem farmers don't mind having. The convenience of dock facilities on the other side of the tank made it more feasible to continue filling the tank after it had reached its capacity.

Wheat Marketing Certificate Raised 14 Cents Per Bu.

Congressman Keith Sebelius labeled as good news the U.S. Department of Agriculture's announcement that the domestic wheat marketing certificate value has been raised to $1.52 per bushel — 14 cents per bushel more than the 1968 crop certificate value.

"This means an increase to the Kansas farmer of approximately $15 million," the congressman said. Congressman Sebelius said nationally this decision meant payments of about $800 million will be made over the next three months to approximately 980,000 farmers who are participating in the 1969 wheat program.

"For the Kansas wheat farmers, this means a favorable announcement that represents a total of approximately $160,213,000. The over-all national payment will be about $7 million more than the 1968 crop certificate value. With our desperate farm income situation, this announcement is especially good news," Congressman Sebelius said.

Forecast Decline In Growth Of Oil Use

World oil consumption is still expanding rapidly but the rate of increase may be smaller in the future, the Petroleum Press service said.

It said the principal cause of the possible decline in the rate of increase will be less rapid growth of oil sales in Europe and the United States, where stiffer competition from other fuels is a factor.

The service said oil consumption of the non-Communist world in 1968 was 11.8 billion barrels, up 1 million barrels from 1967.

It attributed the strong expansion to favorable industrial and marketing developments, notably in the United States.

U. S. oil consumption, which rose 7 per cent in 1968, is likely to increase less than 4 per cent in 1969. U.S. oil consumption may rise only 4 per cent, a year throughout the 1970s, it said.

The 10.4 per cent rise in European oil consumption in 1968 should be regarded as an above-average performance, it said. The service expects non-Communist world consumption to increase an average of around 6 per cent a year throughout the 1970s.

Three States Lag In Campaign Against Cholera

All but five states have reached the final "stamping out" phases of the hog cholera eradication program, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Most recent entries into Phase III were Alabama during March, Kansas in April, and New Mexico on June 1. Mississippi re-entered Phase III on July 1.

Of the five states remaining in Phase II, Texas has a target date of August for entry into Phase III and Hawaii has obtained indemnity funds and plans to move forward in the near future. The other three states still in Phase II are Maine, New Hampshire, and New York.

Of the 45 States and Puerto Rico in the "stamping out" phases, 28 and Puerto Rico are in Phase III and 17 are in Phase IV. Twelve of the Phase IV states have been declared "hog cholera free."

Cholera Losses To Be Compensated

Officials of the Kansas Live-stock Sanitary Commission have reported a 1969 law providing indemnification to hog owners has been brought into use in controlling a cholera outbreak in the state.

The Legislature appropriated $75,000 for use for compensating owners of hogs destroyed in cholera control.

A. G. Pickett, state livestock sanitary commissioner, and Dr. John F. Hudelson, a state veterinarian, said six herds have been destroyed because of cholera. They said the cholera was brought into the state in hogs imported from Missouri before an embargo was placed on shipment of swine from that state.

Pickett placed an embargo into effect May 27 against shipment into Kansas of hogs from Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas because of cholera outbreaks in those areas.

The embargo was extended to hogs from Missouri on June 12 after a case of hog cholera was discovered in a shipment of feeder pigs from Missouri.

The Missouri Department of Agriculture acknowledged a hog cholera outbreak in that state for the first time on June 21.

"We put a restriction on shipment of hogs from Missouri as soon as we had any evidence of trouble in that state," said Hudelson.

"We feel lucky we had as tight a restriction as we did and that we didn't have any more cases of cholera than we did."

Pickett said any figure on the total amount of indemnification at this time "would be off the top of someone's head."

But he said the amount might run as much as $70,000, with the federal government paying half and the state paying half.

FIGHTS BULL TO SAVE CHILDREN

Danny Srna of Culver might have saved the life of his children, Phillip and Connie, when he headed off a Holstein bull which had started toward the children. The bull turned on Srna, rolling him about 30 feet, before he got hold of the ring in the bull's nose and hung on. The bull slammed Srna against a fence several times, breaking off a post, then stepped on him and fell on him. Srna finally got thru the fence which had been loosened. No bones were broken, but he was badly swollen, bruised, and cut.

should be accessible to all people. Realization of this ideal has, for a variety of reasons, not been fully achieved. . . .

To start the program, the AMA said it will support state and county medical society efforts to set up local programs to provide health care for the poor. This effort, the association said, might take advantage of government planning grants to employ experts.

Skyrocketing demand for medical services since World War II, the AMA said, had forced an expansion of the nation's health care system, but the system has not expanded fast enough.

"The burden this phenomenon is placing on our health system is affecting the entire population," the association added, "But the poor are affected more acutely than the remainder of our society." The AMA said it envisioned a program of comprehensive health care for the poor that would "promise only what it can logically expect to deliver."

partment cut five births in military hospitals by 23 percent over the last six years, the independent magazine, Armed Forces Journal, reports.

The magazine article said the program was not publicized by the department because of political, religious and moral sensitivity toward birth control in the United States.

The Pentagon had no comment on the article.

The article, "the Pentagon and the pill," said that without the program, military families would have had nearly 200,000 more children in the past six years. In addition, it said, obstetrical costs for the government would have risen by an estimated $76.4 million.

The journal said that under the program, birth control information, pills and contraceptive devices are being made available to about 1.5 million service wives.

Prior to the start of the program, the magazine said, military doctors prescribed family planning materials, but these had to be purchased by the military family from private pharmacies.

HORROR WHEN A TRACTOR TIRE BLOWS UP

An Indiana woman, Mrs. Anna White, screams with horror when she discovers the bodies of her husband Allen and son Carl, 13, who were killed when a tractor tire they had repaired exploded as they inflated it. White, 43, a farmer near Ellettsville, Ind., was struck in the left eye by a metal object and died instantly. The son, one of six children, was thrown 10 feet by the blast. His neck and ribs were broken and his lungs ruptured. Most of their clothes were blown off their bodies. The two had repaired the tire at the farm and hauled it to the station to inflate it. Mrs. White, returning from an errand, discovered the bodies.

Extend Blood Donor Age To 66

Americans in good health can be blood donors now until their 66th birthday anniversaries instead of the 60th or 61st as in the past, the American National

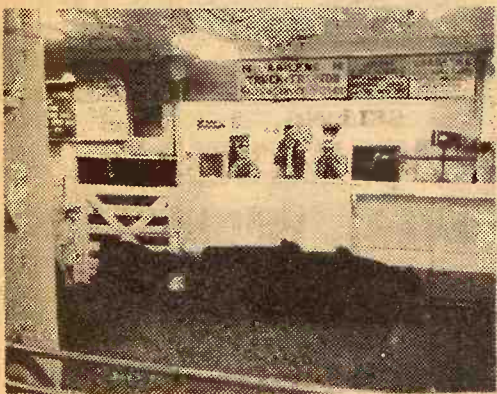

Red Cross and the American Association of Blood Banks in Chicago announced.

Dr. George Sabin, medical director of the Wichita Regional Red Cross Blood Center, said constantly increasing blood needs in this area and across the nation have made the age extension necessary.

Dr. Sabin noted that since Ap-

He emphasized that any healthy person can give a pint of blood without worry, and persons who are 66 may donate if they obtain written consent of their personal physician on the day of donation.
