The Leftovers

The fascinating collection of material that goes under an auctioneer's hammer at a farm sale often does not include many castoffs of year's past that nestle in the corner, hide behind weeds, or seclude in an old shelter.

Photographer Kenneth Greene of Tescott caught these pictures at various sales in the past year in Saline and Lincoln counties. Some of the items never left their seclusion, but others were snatched up by the curious scavenger and the insatiable collector.

At upper left, is an old buggy, or "spring wagon." At upper right, an old-time tractor, evidently homemade. At lower left, some water jugs, and to the right, a 2-man crosscut saw and an old trunk. There are lot of trunks at farm sales, and few people can resist the temptation to see what's inside.

Swing Again To Small Cars?

Sales figures indicate the American automobile buyer may be swinging back to the smaller, lower priced lines.

With taxes and the cost of living rising, some executives within the industry view sales for the month of May as indicative of a trend away from cars in the intermediate price field.

While sales for the industry as a whole in the U.S. market were off about two percent from May 1968, sales of both foreign and domestic compacts were up.

Most bottom-of-the-line cars of U.S. car makers also are ahead for the first five months of 1969, compared with the same span of record setting 1968.

Whether one month is indicative of an industry trend was a matter of conjecture, especially since May was the first full month in which sales of Ford's new minicar, the Maverick, were reflected. American Motors' Rambler, General Motors' Chevy Nova and its import Opel, Chrysler's Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart all were ahead in May, compared with May of last year. On the down side were Ford's Mustang, its British-made Cortina and its former bottom-of-the-line Falcon. However, Maverick's 23,520 sales gave the Mustang, Falcon and Maverick a net gain of 18,250.

Volkswagen of Germany reported it sold 52,047 new cars in the American market last month, highest for any month since a record 53,915 last October. Fiat of Italy reported record monthly sales for May, 4314 against 4004 last August and 2891 in May of 1968.

4-H Foundation Wants Bigger National Center

The National 4-H Club Foundation has announced a drive to raise $8 million for enlarging the youth group's center in suburban Washington.

The foundation, a non-profit corporation, has enlisted the aid of 112 business executives to raise money for the national 4H center project.

Plans include new dormitories, classrooms and a meeting center, officials said. The expansion will mean an increase in the center's capacity to 800 from 300 at present.

Howard C. Harber, Englewood Cliffs, N.J., chairman of CPC International, Inc., formerly Corn Products Co., is head of the fund drive's advisory council.

Clubs in all states have pledged support and plan to raise one fourth of the money. The balance — about $6 million — is expected to be contributed by business and industry, the foundation said.

The center, which is headquarters of the foundation, was opened in 1959. More than 20,000 youths and leaders come to the 124-acre campus in Chevy Chase, Md., for meetings and seminars.

Nationally, there are about three million 4-H members and around 400,000 local leaders. The program is supervised and assisted by federal-state extension services and is available to rural and many city youths from ages 9 through 19.

Two Good Reasons for Feeding Creep Chow

The calf, of course, gets the benefit of the extra energy, protein and other nutrients in Purina Creep Chow. He needs them if he is going to reach market weight quickly and bring top price. Purina research shows that creep-fed calves average 40 to 60 pounds heavier at weaning.

But mother cow also benefits from creep feeding. She isn't "suckled down" as heavily by a creep-fed calf, therefore, she is in better condition during the breeding season. Creep feeding can make a dollars and cents difference in the conception rate of your brood cows.

To learn more about how Purina Creep Chow can help you increase your herd production, drop in. We're at the store with the Checkerboard sign.

Surprising Corn Picture Could Get Brighter

A hot, dry July and August will really pop the corn market," predicts one grain analyst.

Translation: Because livestock are gobbling up much more corn feed than expected, and because farmers might have cut back acreage of this year's crop by more than they had planned, any indication of less-than-ideal growing conditions would send prices of the important feed grain surging upwards.

The price already has moved up sharply. A key grade of yellow corn on May 21 reached $1.35½ a bushel in Chicago. That was the highest price in nearly two years, 19½ cents higher than in March and 30 cents above the seven-year low, posted in 1968. Since then the price has eased only slightly.

Where the price goes from here depends on unraveling the answers to a lot of interrelated questions. For example: Will farmers sell their remaining 1968 corn at current prices, or will they hold on to it in hopes of even higher returns? Will farmers' actual 1969 plantings be in line with the government forecast, or be much lower because of bad spring weather and other factors? And just how much corn is out there in the country, anyhow?

The grain trade hasn't reached agreement on answering these questions, so near-term price trend predictions vary widely. A buyer for a major corn-using company says he "wouldn't be surprised" to see corn advance more than a nickel a bushel before it levels out. Other bullish analysts insist any climb in the next few weeks would be limited to two to four cents.

On the other side are those who think the price has peaked. With normal weather, they say, the current price is high enough to bring corn out of farmers' storage bins. A higher price, they add, would dampen demand for the grain.

On balance, though, the corn price outlook seems to be this: With normal or excellent weather, corn prices probably will ease somewhat in July, providing that planted acreage turns out to be in line with the government's planting intention report.

That's the great imperponderable of the moment. In its March 1 report, the government predicted 64 million acres of corn would be planted, the smallest area in nearly a century and 1% below last year's seedings. The forecast was based in part on the record signup of farmers in the feed grain diversion program.

But with prices rising this spring, farmers in some scattered Corn Belt areas have changed their minds, bought extra seed corn and planted fields they intended to retire. Normal "slippage" of farmers from early-spring diversion program sign-ups runs about 5%.

Still, the number of farmers suddenly made ambitious by higher prices could be more than offset by the number who had to change their corn-planting plans because of a late spring. Cool, wet weather probably resulted in switching of land out of corn in parts of Missouri, Ohio, northwest Iowa and other areas, farm experts say.

The Government predicts an end-season carryover on Sept. 30 of 925 million bushels, and it could be lower, analysts say. With a 1969 corn crop of, say, 4.3 billion bushels, and with consumption next season maintaining this year's pace of 4.6 billion, the carryover on Sept. 30, 1970, would be 612 million bushels, the lowest since 1953.

Such calculations are the normal pastime of grain analysts, but this year they're also trying to determine how much corn is available to feed the nation's growing demand for livestock. The problem arose when the government reported that U.S. corn stocks on April 1 were 3.01 billion bushels, 6% less than a year earlier and some 200 million bushels less than the trade had been expecting.

Had consumption actually increased that much, analysts are wondering, or had the Government overestimated last year's harvest and now is making up the difference by boosting the consumption rate? The question is important because the relation of available supply to demand in the next few weeks will have considerable impact on the price of corn.

Not all the corn stocks are available to meet demand. On April 1, only 1.9 billion bushels were in position to be sold; the rest was isolated from the market under government loans and other programs.

That amount of "free" corn was about 250 million bushels less than needed to meet demand and keep pipelines filled, according to L. H. Simerl, an agricultural economist at the University of Illinois.

If those figures are correct, it explains in part why the corn price has increased so much this spring, and it underscores the importance of farmers' selling policies to future price moves. To help ease tight corn supplies, the Government has moved to shake loose some of the stocks restricted from market.

Other livestock feeders will begin feeding more wheat and a little less corn now that a near-record wheat harvest begins to roll in. Wheat prices in some areas are lower than those for corn, and are expected to continue that way during the summer. The government has estimated that 200 million bushels of wheat may be fed to livestock in the 1968-69 season, about three times last year.

After More Funds To Aid Air Traffic

President Nixon asked Congress Monday to approve a $5 billion program to step up efforts to unclog the nation's airports and airways over the next 10 years.

He would have the federal share financed largely by an eight percent tax on domestic airlines tickets — a rise from the 5 percent passengers now pay. Nixon asked too that the tax on fuel used by general aviation be increased from two cents a gallon to nine cents.

The President also proposed new taxes of five percent on air freight waybills and $3 on passenger tickets for most international flights from the United States.

The construction program of airways facilities and equipment would be increased from a current average of $93 million a year to about $250 million.

Federal aid to airport development of $180 million in the fiscal year beginning this July 1 and $220 million in the next fiscal year were urged by the President. The annual average now is $63 million.

Airport development funds are matched by state and local governments, permitting financing of $5 billion in new and expanded facilities in the next decade.

Two railroad cars used by General Dwight Eisenhower during the campaign in Europe have arrived in Abilene for display near the Eisenhower Center.

Game Commission To Phase Out Quail Farms

A quail farm program, which once supplied much of Kansas' bobwhite for upland game hunting seasons, is being phased out.

Kansas no longer needs heavy releases of pen-reared birds to supply lucrative gunning for hunters. Kansas has progressed to a point where it is rated one of the few high quail harvest states in the nation.

Pen-reared birds never survived well in wild habitat anyway. Game biologists learned many years ago that the hardiest birds and those quickest on the wing are bobwhites which started life in a nest in wild cover.

Kansas' first quail farm, located near Pittsburg, was instituted in 1933. The second farm, the Calista Quail Farm, went into operation in 1935.

Top quail releases came in the late 1940s and early 1950s when about 40,000 birds were produced at the farms and the game commission purchased another 40,000 to 50,000 birds from breeders.

Originally, quail were released at about eight weeks of age, but commission employees found in an intensive quail survival investigation that few of the stocked quail were taken by hunters.

Two factors helped pen-reared birds fall prey to predators. They were too young at release time, and they were not conditioned to wild life. So birds were stocked at 16 weeks of age and given conditioning in flight pens before release.

In recent years, quail harvest in Kansas has averaged near three million with some years going over three million birds bagged. The all-time high harvest was 4,164,000 quail in 1966.

Pen-reared birds are more easily downed by gunners than wild bobwhite, yet banding studies show only one tenth of one percent of the stocked birds get into the harvest, game biologist Bob Wood said.

The Calista Farm operation began a slowdown about seven years ago. Farm superintendent Byron Walker could produce only half the birds, by holding them to 16 weeks stocking age that he could by holding them eight weeks. The phase-out went farther than that. This spring, for instance, only 20,000 quail will be released in wild habitat. Next spring the release will drop to 12,000 birds, Wood said.

Low Milk Output In 30 Years

The nation's May milk production of 11,046,000,000 pounds was 2 percent less than a year earlier and the smallest output for the month in 30 years, the Agriculture department says.

May production was less than a year earlier in 27 states, unchanged in seven, and more in 16, the crop reporting board said.

The lower production reflected the continuing trend to fewer milk cows. However, the report pointed out, output per cow continues to increase, with the May average at 869 pounds, a gain of one percent from a year earlier.

The report also said dairy pasture conditions on June 1 averaged 90 percent of normal, the highest for the date since 1922.

Mrs. Eddie Wenzl, Beattie, Sends Prize-Winning Recipe

Winner, Mrs. Eddie Wenzl, Beattie: "Here is an original meat-vegetable recipe. It has proved to be a favorite with my family, friends and neighbors."

MEAT-VEGETABLE DISH

Use 1/2 pound ham or ham scraps. Add 2/3 pound ground beef roast. Grind the two and mix.
2 carrots, medium size (grind)
1/2 medium size onion (grind)
1/4 small head cabbage
2 or 3 large stalks of celery, cubed
Grind all together and add 1 small can of tomato soup. Bake for one hour at 325 degrees.

Mrs. Cleo A. Schultz, Alma: "Here is a recipe I've just gotten from a pen friend in N.S.W. Australia. It's different so thought I'd let you try it too."

VERINA GARDEN SALAD

3 cups cooked rice, cold
1/2 cup chopped onions
1 cup cooked cold peas
1/2 cup cooked cold carrots, diced
1/2 cup whole corn kernels (tinned or frozen)
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Toss all together. Place in salad bowl lined with fresh garden lettuce leaves. Serve.

Need something new to give variety to your menu? Here are some recipes from various countries to provide that "something different."

INDIAN FRUIT DESSERT

(From India)

1 small package cream cheese
1 can fruit cocktail
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 can whipped cream (aerosol kind)

Blend cream cheese and juice from fruit cocktail until a creamy mixture. Add fruit, nuts, marshmallows, and chill. Just before serving fold in the half cream. Serve.

This may be served as a fruit salad but is served in India as a dessert as it is quite a contrast from their otherwise spicy meal. Fresh fruits and real whipped cream may be used, but the above is more convenient for the modern-day homemaker.

QUICHE LORRAINE

(French)

1 9-inch unbaked pie shell
1/2 pound sliced bacon
1 1/2 cups grated natural Swiss cheese (6-ounce)
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups light cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash nutmeg, dash pepper, dash cayenne

Prepare pie shell, refrigerate until ready to use. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Fry bacon until crisp; drain on paper towel; crumble into bits and sprinkle over bottom of pie shell. Then, sprinkle with the grated cheese. Beat the eggs with the cream, salt, nutmeg, pepper and cayenne until well combined but not frothy. Pour into pie shell. Bake 35 to 40 minutes, or until the top is golden and the center seems firm. Let cool for 10 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

CHICKEN ADOBO

(Philippines)

1 frying chicken
1 cup cider vinegar
1 whole garlic bud, pounded

3 cups water
2 tablespoons shortening

Cut chicken into serving pieces. Marinate for one hour in mixture of vinegar, garlic, pepper, and soy sauce. Put in pan, add water. Cover and simmer until about 1/4 of the liquid remains and the meat is tender. Remove liquid and set aside. Brown meat in shortening. Add liquid and simmer a few minutes.

DANISH POTATOES AND MEAT BALLS

(Denmark)

1 envelope instant mashed potatoes
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup milk

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1/4 pound ground pork
1 pound ground beef
1 egg or 2 egg whites
1 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup milk (about)

- ½ cup cold milk
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup juice drained from defrosted berries, heated to boiling
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- Red food coloring
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 cup cracked ice

Pour cold milk into blender container, add gelatin and hot juice. Cover and process at "stir" for about one minute. When gelatin is dissolved, add sugar, strawberries, egg yolks, and food coloring if desired and process on "liquefy" until strawberries are liquefied. By Beverly Macy

Had a difficult time getting to work one day last week. Our cat had a litter of five kittens on the floor of the car and I had to move out Mama and her brood in order to have transportation.

I'm already in the process of trying to find homes for the little ones. Suggested to one of the printers that he bring his children out to see the kittens and he said, "I'm afraid our little girl would want one." "Yeah, that's what I'm hoping for," I told him.

I told the linotype operator, who is studying for the ministry, that he should have a cat. "No cats!" he stated vehemently. "They're God's creatures," I said, and he answered, "So are wolves." Good point.

We attended a circus at a nearby shopping center and I watched a strange battle as parents with five youngsters, two of which had bought balloons at the circus, struggled to get into the family sedan. I never in my life saw such contortions as that family went through trying to squeeze into the car.

Goddard Looks To Wichita Water

After a 2-year search for an adequate water supply, Goddard has more than enough.

The city has two test wells drilled in the equus beds six miles east of Goddard along US 54. Now the city has found possibilities of water from another source.

Robert Hess, Wichita water department director, met with Goddard officials to explore the possibility of Goddard tying into the Wichita system.

"We knew Goddard was having trouble getting water," Hess said. "We feel that one metropolitan water system is best for the area."

Wichita has a 16-inch line along US 54 to Tyler road seven miles from Goddard. The city is studying the feasibility of extending the line another three miles. Some housing projects along US 54 have shown interest in tying into the water line.

"Goddard may have a 2-way choice in its 2-year search for water," said Mayor Wilbur Floyd.

Cost was estimated at $30,000 a mile to pipe water six miles from the equus beds into Goddard.

"You can be sure we will go the most economical and best way for Goddard residents," the mayor said.

The Goddard population has grown from 550 to 1000 residents in the last five years.

Spring Wheat Late But Looking Good

The 1969 spring wheat crop in the Northern states got off to a slow start, but is making good progress, says the Agriculture Department.

The Crop Reporting Board will not make its first production estimate of this year's spring wheat crop until July. But, the board said in its June crop report, early growth has been generally favorable.

Seeding was about 95 percent completed in Minnesota by June 1, about normal, and virtually done in North Dakota.

"The crop is making good growth and 10 percent of the hard red spring wheat and 4 percent of the durum was in the jointing stage," the report said.

This was somewhat behind the early season of 1968 but about average for June 1, the report said.

Some moisture shortages existed in parts of the spring wheat area, including South Dakota and Montana, but in Idaho, Washington and Oregon conditions were good to excellent.

Study Wave Of Vandalism In Eastern Kansas

Police in eastern Kansas are seeking a solution to a recent wave of vandalism in the area.

Damage estimates from county insurance officials total about $250,000 in counties including Miami, Johnson, Douglas Shawnee, and Franklin.

Police met two weeks ago in Topeka to determine how to deal with the problem. Stepped-up patrols in the area were tried but have not been successful.

Miami County Sheriff Jerry Miller said the Kansas Bureau of Investigation may be called in.

Police say heaviest vandalism occurs in rural areas where farm machinery, livestock, and household goods have been stolen or damaged.

The rash of incidents began around the first of April.

The vandalism includes breaking windows in schools and community halls, damaging school buses and breaking into

Emporia Has Headaches With Water System

EMPORIA — City manager Virgil Basgall said he expects to remember the summer of 1969 as "one long headache and a severe pain in the ear."

The city Friday started a $2.3 million city water system expansion project, which won't be completed until November.

More than nine miles of water main will be added to the system. Line will range from 4 to 20 inches and will be varied throughout the city to boost fire protection and water delivery capabilities.

"Unfortunately and unavoidably, much of it will be buried in some of the finest lawns and will pass beneath the driveways of many new homes," Basgall said. "I am expecting taxpayers to be something less than enthusiastic."

At times, dirty water will result. Although the water is merely discolored and can be cleared up by letting faucets run a few minutes, experience has shown customers become quite disturbed, Basgall added.

The expansion project is financed by $1.66 million in bonds issued by the city and $650,000 in federal funds. Included is $773,815 for the new water mains, an $889,750 addition to the water treatment plant and $238,000 for a new pumping station.

More Vandalism In Anderson Co.

COLONY — The Anderson County sheriff and insurance officials are seeking identity of paint-toting vandals.

Someone splattered paint on three schools and the board of education building of District 479.

Superintendent of the district, Carl Hendon, said damage was extensive and restoration of the buildings will be expensive.

Hit with orange paint were the Colony high school, the Kincaid grade school and junior high school, and the board of education building at Lone Elm.

In an incident at Princeton, vandals damaged a tree and memorial constructed by the parents of a boy killed in a car accident.

Police in eastern Kansas say vandalism in the area has resulted in damage to buildings, farm machinery and livestock and school buses. Some insurance of-officials estimate the damage total at close to $250,000.

Stockman-Legislator Bob Brown Rebuts Critic Of Meat Inspection

State Rep. Bob Brown, R-Emmett, has taken issue with a statement by Dr. Harry G. Kroll, president of Shawnee County Medical Society, who has criticized 1969 meat inspection legislation in a bulletin of the medical society.

Kroll said the enactment of Senate Bill 95 "denies any protection to the consumer of the meat products produced in Kansas."

Gov. Robert Docking signed the mandatory meat inspection bill into law April 24, to be effective Dec. 1, two weeks before the federal Wholesome Meat Act would take over inspection of meat in all states without state legislation.

The bill, designed to keep inspection of state-consumed meat in the hands of Kansas officials, gives inspection authority to the State Board of Agriculture and takes it away from the State Dept. of Health, which has supervised the program more than 30 years.

Brown said a majority of legislators felt that since the federal guidelines were established under the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, the state should also place the program under the supervision of the agriculture board.

"Kansas has always had one of the best programs of meat inspection of any state," Brown said.

"But we, as legislators, had to follow the federal act, or the government would have moved in."

Replying to statements by Kroll that Senate Bill 95 deletes use of veterinarians as inspectors and does not prescribe penalties, Brown said, "Ranchers and farmers are not going to have one darn thing to do with it. Veterinarians will be used to inspect meat."

"They must understand, though, we do not have enough veterinarians in Kansas to inspect all this meat. There's going to have to be outside, trained laymen to go in and inspect."

He added the bill does specify use of veterinarians and provides for penalties for violators.

Brown, one of the drafters of the bill that originated in the Senate Agriculture and Livestock Committee, pointed out that federal representatives, a Washington delegation of Congressmen from Kansas, and agriculture and livestock itcommittee of the Kansas Legislature had discussed the measure.

More Airline Training At Salina

SALINA — Salina municipal airport here will be used as a training base for Northwest Airlines, Minneapolis, Minn., on a 30-day trial basis.

Mike Scanlan, Salina, executive vice-president of the Salina airport authority, said Northwest will operate two Boeing 727-200's as training aircraft beginning July 1.

Trans World Airlines uses the airport runways for training. The facility is the former Schilling Air Force base.

Northwest is expected to base one plane at Salina while others will make daily flights from Minneapolis with new pilots to be trained.

Set Hearings For Last North-South Santa Fe Run

The Interstate Commerce Commission has scheduled a series of hearings on the proposal of the Santa Fe Railway to discontinue its last two passenger trains operating between Kansas City and Tulsa through Kansas, according to ICC Commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle.

Under typical ICC procedure, the Santa Fe will be required to keep the trains in operation for a period of four months pending the investigation and decision of the commission.

ICC examiner Edward J. Reidy will conduct the investigation and hearings on the following dates and at the following places:

Kansas City, Room 147B, Federal Building, July 28 and 29;

Ottawa, Kans., district courthouse, July 31; Chanute, Kans., district court room, Memorial Building, Aug. 1; Independence, Kans., district courthouse, Aug. 4; Bartlesville, Okla., Chamber of Commerce building, Aug. 5; and Tulsa, Okla., Room 323, New Federal Building, Aug. 6.

Rep. Joe Skubitz, R-Kans., particularly asked that hearings be held at Chanute when he called upon the ICC to make an investigation of the Santa Fe's proposal to discontinue the last two passenger trains operating between Kansas City and Tulsa.

150-bushel answer in a pull-type picker

It's Oliver's Time Making 83 for wide or narrow rows

Here is high-yield capacity in a 2-row picker with 4320 pounds of working weight. Power line, drives and gear boxes ruggedly built for today's larger tractors. And Oliver's famous long-lug roller-type gathering chains that can sweep the ground for down corn.

The Oliver 83 also gives you the right options to fit your kind of picking: Wide or narrow rows; 12-roll husking box for yields above 110 bushels — replacing the standard 8-roll box; big-capacity shelling unit interchangeable with either husking unit.

With this husker, you can crib ear corn at the start of the season, then switch to shelling attachment if you run out of crib room.

Other choices: Blade rolls with snapping bars similar to those used in combine corn heads; conventional spiral rolls. Blade rolls often save up to 5 or 6 bushels more per acre because ears never touch the rolls. However, conventional spiral rolls handle heavy trash at faster field speeds.

Douglas Health Dept Gives Birth Control Pills Free

LAWRENCE — The Douglas County Health Department is endeavoring to lower the county's birth rate to equal the death rate and is issuing free birth control pills to accomplish it, according to Dr. Dale Clinton, city health officer.

Any medically fit woman over 18, regardless of marital status, may obtain the pills. Girls under 18, meeting medical requirements, need parental or guardian consent.

"We'd like to stabilize the population and we are a long way from that in Douglas County," Dr. Clinton said. In May, 83 women took advantage of the program, up 13 from April, and the increase has been 5 to 10 percent a month, he added.

The program, costing an estimated $10,000, is financed entirely by state funds budgeted for birth control pills, other contraceptive devices and supplies.

Hangup For Curious Bull

STERLING — Curiosity kills cats, but it only gives bulls terrific hangups.

At least, that's what Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Yates, rural Sterling, discovered last weekend. They became worried when they noticed the 1200 pound bull had stood docilely beside a gatepost for more than a day.

On the gate was a 12-inch chain with a large S hook at the end. They had left the gate open so that the bull could get shade.

When Yates got to the bull, he found that the animal had apparently rubbed against the chain and managed to hook his eyelid. The blunt hook, about the width of a small finger, had torn through the eyelid of the bull.

After securely tying down the behemoth, Yates separated the eyelid from the chain. But the bull has a swollen reminder of the unhappy connection.

ly from state funds budgeted for birth control pills, other contraceptive devices and supplies.

"Probably half of my clinical time is taken up with this type of thing (birth control.) This being the month of June makes some difference — there are more marriages and more people thinking about marriage," said Dr. Clinton.

Pills are dispensed only on a doctor's prescription or after an examination by Dr. Clinton to ensure the woman taking them will do so in safety. No fee is charged for the examination by the health officer.

Dr. Clinton said most of the women taking advantage of the free birth control service are in their 20s. Twenty-five to 30 girls under 18 are enrolled.

"Quite a number of these are married or had come in for their pre-marital exalination," he added. "Pills were prescribed for a few unmarried girls considered mentally slow by doctors."

NFO On Side Of Farm Workers

The National Farmers Organization and two religious groups have supported legislation to extend the right of collective bargaining to farm workers.

In testimony before a Senate labor subcommittee, the three groups advocated placing farm labor relations under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board rather than a special farm labor board in the Agriculture department.

The Rev. Shirley E. Greene, Methodist minister representing the National Council of Churches, urged the strongest possible law to assure equality between growers and workers in collective bargaining.

Marvin Braiterman, speaking for the Commission on Social Action of Reform Judaism, said agricultural technology now converts the farm into a factory and eliminates any justification for excluding farm workers from the protections afforded other industrial workers.

Major Feeders Have 14% Gain

Cattle and calves being fed on June 1 for the beef slaughter market totaled 14 percent more than a year earlier in six major producing states, says the Agriculture Department.

Feedlots in Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska, and Texas contained 6,552,000 head on June 1, a gain of 2 percent from May 1, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Texas had 1,132,000 head on feed, up 57 percent from a year earlier; Arizona 444,800, up 35 percent; Colorado 652,000, up 25 percent; Nebraska 1,302,000, up 12 percent; Iowa 2,048,000, up 1 percent; and California 944,000, down 1 percent from a year earlier.

K-State Developed Urea Product Explained At Dairy Meeting

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. — When a starch-controlled urea product recently developed at Kansas State University, Manhattan, was fed to rumen fistulated identical twin cattle, rumen ammonia levels were lower than when the same cattle were fed equivalent amounts of urea and ground grain, Dr. Erle E. Bartley, K-State dairy scientist, told persons attending the annual American Dairy Science Association meeting at the University of Minnesota.

The product referred to by Bartley is Starea, the trademark name given it by W. R. Grace and Co. of New York. Bartley is one of the principal developers of the product. Others were Dr. Charles Deyoe and Dr. Harry Pfost of the K-State department of grain science and industry.

Rumen fermentation is a dynamic system where ammonia is constantly being produced, metabolized, absorbed or removed. The concentration of ammonia or microbial protein in the rumen at any given time depends on all those factors, Bartley said. High rumen microbial protein concentration may result from slower microbial protein removal from the rumen, and, therefore, not really reflect increased microbial protein synthesis, he added.

To test that factor several artificial rumen or in vitro fermentation studies were undertaken at K-State.

In the in vitro fermentation, ammonia cannot leave the "rumen" by absorption or passage and microbial protein cannot leave the passage. Therefore, ammonia levels and microbial protein levels of in vitro studies should indicate whether the lower ammonia level with Starea rations truly indicates greater conversion of ammonia to microbial protein.

Two in vitro studies comparing a corn and urea supplement with a Starea supplement were conducted. After four hours of fermentation the Starea supplements markedly reduced the level of ammonia compared with levels from unprocessed corn and urea supplements. The lower rumen ammonia levels were, at least in part, the result of more efficient utilization of this ammonia by its conversion to microbial protein, Bartley said.

Amino acid analyses were used to evaluate the quality of bacterial protein formed during in vitro fermentation. There were indications that bacterial protein contained more isoleucine, leucine, methionine, tyrosine, and phenylalanine when the substance was soybean meal or Starea rather than ground grain and urea.

"Since remnants depend primarily on microbial protein to meet their protein requirements," Bartley concluded, "it appears that Starea meets those requirements better than unprocessed mixtures of grain and urea. Also, Starea should be less toxic than mixtures of grain and urea because ammonia levels are reduced by Starea so the amount of ammonia should be lower."

Seek Shorthorn Lassie Entries

The Kansas Shorthorn Association is looking for entries in its annual Shorthorn Lassie contest. Nominations may be sent to Mrs. Carol Reynolds, Cuba, Kansas.

Entries must be 16-21 years of age, single, from a family which raises Shorthorns or has shown Shorthorn cattle. The applicant must become a member of the Shorthorn Lassies.

The Lassie Queen for 1969 will be chosen from the princesses, all of whom will be announced at the Kansas State Shorthorn Picnic on July 26.

You own a farm.

If you punched a time clock what would your hourly rate be?

If you were a factory worker, you'd average $3.01 an hour. But in recent years, top Wisconsin dairy producers were getting 63¢ an hour while those in other areas got as low as 37¢. Hog and beef-fattening farmers in the corn belt were making 81¢. But listen. If you consider the annual $8 billion net cash profit (from sale of all agricultural commodities in 1968) as a 3% return on investment, then farmers received no money for wages at all.

Can something be done? Yes. Through the National Farmers Organization, ranchers and farmers can combine their production into blocks and bargain collectively. NFO is working. Right now, NFO is bringing higher prices for farm production. And a better life for farm families.

Don't put your future in the hands of hearsay. Get the facts about the new NFO. Mail the coupon. Today.

Art Display At Belleville

BELLEVILLE — An "outdoor and indoor art show" will be held at the Belleville Centennial celebration July 3-4-5-6. The show is sponsored by the North Central Kansas Association of Artists.

Among the artists who will have works on display are Frantiska Palecek, Munden; Dorothy Johnson, Courtland; Hannah Stephenson, Downs; Gay Anderson, Mankato; Harriet Becker, Beloit; Marian Walker, Courtland; and Jan Melhus, Concordia.

National Alfalfa Buys Nebraska Farmland, Business

National Alfalfa Dehydrating and Milling Co. of Kansas City will expand its operations with the acquisition of substantial acreage of irrigated farmland in Central Nebraska, feed supply elevators and a cattle feedlot operation.

The expansion property will be exchanged for the issuance of an undisclosed number of common shares. It is expected this will amount to several million dollars' worth of new stock.

The property and operations of Charles R. Peterson of O'Neill, Nebr., will be acquired, including 8500 acres of irrigated corn-producing farmland; agricultural fertilizer, chemical and feed supply elevators with blending and distribution facilities in Nebraska and South Dakota; and a cattle feedlot operation to handle 50,000 head annually.

Clean Combines Between Fields

Noxious weeds can hitch a ride on combines and travel many miles to infest new areas, reminds a Kansas State University Extension specialist.

Kansas Noxious Weed Law requires that combines should not be moved from one field to another or brought into the state without first "cleaning such equipment free from all weed seed and litter."

For thoroughly cleaning the machine of weed seed including grease and dirt, John Ferguson, Extension engineer, suggests water and air pressure, vacuum, and solvent-and-brush cleaning methods.

Run the machine a period of time between fields to clean much of the material from it. And empty return elevator boots to help rid the combine of weed seed. The Law and these suggestions are for the protection of Kansas farms from further infestation of noxious weeds.

The Noxious Weed Law also prohibits sale or trade of screenings and other materials that contain weed seed. These waste materials should be processed or ground to destroy any viable seed.

Patrol Classes For Youngsters

SALINA — The Kansas Highway Patrol training center has been host to high school boys from 33 Kansas schools, the boys studying everything from history to defensive driving tactics.

Sponsored by the American Legion, the classes have been conducted by eight highway patrol instructors.

"The response of these young men has been terrific," said Capt. Tim Edwards, co-ordinator. "Frankly, we hope to let them tell us why we as law enforcement officers aren't reaching youth today."

"We hope, also to give them an idea of the problems of law enforcement and how they can help."

Floyd Rogers, Topeka, the Legion's director of youth activity, explained the organization's outlook:

"We're interested in building better citizens. We've been trying for a couple of years to draw attention to the problems of law enforcement. This gives us a chance to put our money where our mouths are — to show exactly what we've been talking about."

"When these boys go home, they will spread the word to others and in a way they can understand, and the possibilities in that are unlimited."

TV Station Wins Lottery Suit

Shawnee County District Judge Michael Barbara has ruled that a "Dialing for Dollars" program proposed by KTSB, channel 27, does not violate Kansas lottery statutes.

Kansas Atty. Gen. Kent Frizzell had said in an opinion earlier this year that such a program would be illegal. But Highwood Service Inc., a Michigan corporation which owns KTSB, informed the attorney general it would go ahead with the program anyway.

That prompted a suit, filed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Lance Burr, asking an injunction to keep the program off the air. Burr alleged such a program would contain the three elements of a lottery as defined in the statutes — chance, prize and consideration.

Highwood Service Inc. contended the program would not require any valuable consideration from viewers who played "Dialing for Dollars." The corporation's lawyers explained that persons within KTSB's signal would be called at random, and could win a jackpot if they were able to give the amount of money in the jackpot.

The corporation contended the only thing viewers would have to do to win is watch channel 27.

In his suit, Burr alleged consideration was present, because an increased viewing audience would increase KTSB's advertising receipts.

HOSPITAL DROPS EXTENDED CARE PLAN

Hutchinson's Grace Hospital is going to drop out of the Medicare Extended Health program for the aged. That part of the program covers recuperative hospitalization after more than three days of "acute" hospitalization. # GREENBUGS IN MILO

A SERIOUS PROBLEM NOW

Most sorghum fields in the Eastern and Central part of the state are infested with sorghum greenbugs. Colonies from winged greenbugs can develop rapidly and severely injure small sorghum plants. Fields should be checked carefully and frequently. Greenbugs are light green, have a narrow darker green stripe down the center of their backs. They will usually be on the underside of leaves or in the whorl.

PLANT SIZE

Emergence to 6 inches

6 inches to pre-boot

WHEN TO TREAT

Visible damage with colonies of greenbugs on most plants and 20 or more per plant. 15 on smaller.

When there is evidence entire leaves will be killed.

FOR THE CONTROL OF GREENBUGS BY GROUND (FARMER) APPLICATION, THESE MATERIALS ARE SUGGESTED:

MALATHION — 1 lb./acre — Temperature should be over 70 degrees. 7 day waiting period.

DIAZINON LIQUID — 1/2 lb./acre — 7 day waiting period. Ethyl Parathion, Phosdrin and Systox are recommended for aerial application, but are far too toxic for farmer application.

ASK FOR "SURE DEATH" Brand MALATHION W-E 5. It is preferable because it is made from CYTHION*, the Premium Grade Malathion. It has much less odor and users will find it easy to use and effective. Although made from premium materials, "Sure Death" Brand MALATHION costs no more than other brands.

WATCH YOUR MILO, AND TREAT IT WITH "SURE DEATH" BRAND MALATHION, made from CYTHION*

Broilers Riding Red Meat Coat

The rising consumer demand for more meat has extended the broiler chicken industry has boosted prices above a ago, the Agriculture Department says.

Wholesale ready-to-cook broiler prices averaged 28.2 cents pound during the first quarter 1969, up 1 cent from a year earlier. The trend has continued with April and May average 29 cents a pound, a gain of 1 cent from 1968. The department said in a summary report on poultry and egg situation that further price advances may develop later this year if implies of broilers and red meat materialize as indicated.

Broiler marketings in April and May were 8 percent more than a year earlier, and broiler chick placements indicate a supply margin will continue through July, the report said.
Egg production is expected to remain above 1968 levels through the summer. Output in May exceeded 1968 monthly rates for the first time this year and their gains are likely through next fall. Officials said more lets are being brought into ing production which should crease flock sizes by early mer. Also, they said, the rate egg output per hen has increased from a year ago.

Turkey marketings during the first half of 1969 — normally period of light production — be 10 to 12 percent less than year earlier. Indications are turkey poult hatchings in June major states may be about percent less than last year, least partially offsetting a gain in hatchings through April. This could mean that marketings
the big September-December turkey season could be about the same as during the period 1968. If production next fall at 1968 levels, the report said,
"moderately higher" prices could be expected.

CALL WAS KSU

DEAN FOR 21 YEARS

June at Manhattan, was dean of agriculture at Kansas State University from 1925-46. He joined the K-State faculty in 1907. After his retirement he spent most a decade in the Philippines on four different missions.
dairy-poultry science building
K-State is named for him.

City Manager Wears A Badge

RUSSELL — If residents here break a law in the near future, they may be ticketed or arrested by the Russell City manager.

The city manager, G. J. Boyd, has taken over as acting police chief.

The post became vacant when Robert O. Thomas resigned. He became a Kansas forestry, fish-and game commission protector.

Boyd said he thought it best to fill the post rather than move a policeman up to the job and then demote him if decides to give someone else
the permanent appointment.

In his new job, Boyd will have to take the trouble to join the Kansas Police Officers Association. He has been a member for 14 years.

Boyd took considerable experience with him to the police station. He was a miller, a policeman in the Marine Corps and was a part-time police chief and later acting police chief in Chadron, Nebr., where he was administrative assistant to the Chadron city manager.

acreage Cut Expected In 1970 Wheat Program

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department is still struggling to shape its 1970 wheat program. Still one official hints an acreage cut is expected.

Assistant Secretary Clarence Palmby spoke in Norfolk, Va. He said: "It is apparent now, even with the reduced allotment that has been in effect for 1969," that a larger buildup of surplus is ahead.

Palmby said: "It seems likely that we will need to seek a reduction in next year's wheat crop." He said an announcement is forthcoming.

Carryover wheat supplies on July 1 are expected to be at least 800 million bushels. This compares with 539 million bushels last year.

Palmby also took a swipe at the International Grains Arrangement, a trade treaty which fixes prices for various kinds of wheat in world trade.

Since it went into effect almost a year ago, many exporting countries, including the United States on occasion — have undercut the price minimums specified by the agreement.

Palmby said large world supplies have caused trade prices to drop slightly below those specified in the IGA.

Vandals Destroy Topeka Tornado Siren Controls

The tornado warning siren atop Burnett's Mound was vandalized recently at the height of a severe storm which could have carried a tornado.

Robert R. Jones, Shawnee County Civil Defense director, said that controls for the siren attached to a pole some distance from the siren had been "beaten to pieces."

"It was a senseless act. If a tornado had been sighted and we would have wanted to warn the city, the siren just wouldn't have worked," Jones said.

Jones said the damage was discovered, ironically, by someone who had gone to Burnett's Mound to place flowers at the tornado memorial.

"Something is going to have to be done to insure that this warning device isn't tampered with. We can't very well post a guard to watch the siren to ensure that it's working if we need it," he said.

Jones said Mayor Gene Martin is aware of the vandalism and is "planning appropriate action."

Glasco Voters Turn Down Swimming Pool

A 9-vote margin defeated the second attempt to build a swimming pool in Glasco.

The vote on the proposed $37,000 bond issue was 174 against and 164 in favor.

"It was heartbreakingly close this time," said Mrs. Jean Dar-nall, city clerk.

A similar proposal was defeated in 1963.

Ford Grant To Help Southwest Cattlemen

The Ford Foundation will help finance a co-op enterprise in an area of northern New Mexico and Southern Colorado which it is hoped will bring better income to several thousand farmers and hundreds of urban residents.

Mitchel Sviridoff, a foundation vice president, has explained the project, which, he says, will be centered around a cattle feeding facility. It is being initiated, he says, by English- and Spanish-speaking leaders seeking a solution to the region's economic difficulties. It is an area where many rural families own only a few head of cattle and small acreages of land. Many of the men must leave home for at least part of the year in an effort to support their families.

The Ford Foundation is making a $1,500,000 loan to the co-op, called the Southwestern Producers Cooperative, and this is expected to attract more than 3 million dollars additional financing from other sources.

As Sviridoff explains, by way of the co-op the farmers will retain title to their cattle through the fattening process and eventually the slaughtering process as well. Currently, and in the past, the farmers have raised only feeder cattle which they sold to someone else to fatten.

In the co-op, the farmer will raise the feeder cattle, then deliver them to a feedlot. Upon delivery, he will be advanced funds equivalent to those which he would have received if he sold the cattle on the feeder market. During feeding, the co-op will keep track of each member's account and at the end of all processing, will rebate to the owner the proceeds of the sales less the costs of fattening and slaughtering.

Theoretically, the farmer will get the profits from raising the feeders, from fattening the cattle and from the slaughter. In effect, the process will be the equivalent of packer integration in which the packing plant raises and fattens the cattle which it slaughters. Farmers have often complained about packers being involved in such systems.

The co-op feedlot will be built in LaJara, Colo., just across the state line from New Mexico. It will have pens for 15,000 head. The first cattle are expected to enter the feedlot in August.

Efforts will be made to buy the feed locally and this is supposed to be another way to help the area's economy.

40% Of Kansas Banks Still In Small Towns

The banks of Kansas have been following the people to the suburbs but they have not followed the population pattern by abandoning the rural community in the process.

A check of names of banks against population figures shows there are 251 banks in communities with fewer than 1000 people and 165 banks in communities with fewer than 500 people.

All things considered, state bank commissioner W. L. Weber says the condition of the bank business in Kansas is quite healthy.

Weber says the small banks perform a valuable service for rural communities, even though the number of businesses in many of these towns has declined over the years.

ed over the years.

Webber says Kansas banks — both large and small — have operated on a profitable basis in the past several years.

And there has been a substantial growth in total resources and total capital assets.

Kansas has 598 banks, of these 428 are chartered by the state and 170 are chartered by the federal government. This represents one of the largest number of individually owned banks in the nation.

In 1930, the total resources of the then 806 state banks was $250 million. The total resources of the 428 state banks in 1968 was more than $2.33 billion.

This means that while there were little more than half as many banks in 1968, total resources had increased nearly tenfold.

The comparison, however, does not account for the increase in dollar volume through inflation.

Dole, Pearson Broke Longtime Kansas Political Habit

During those past 50 years since March 3, 1919, to be exact — either one or both of Kansas senators had previously served as the state's chief executive.

But when Bob Dole, Russell Republican, took the oath of office in January he interrupted that tradition. He serves alongside another non-governor, Sen. James B. Pearson, Republican from Prairie Village.

Kansas' first governor to move to the Senate was James Madison Harvey, Republican from Vinton, serving from Feb. 2, 1874 to Mar. 3, 1877.

Both seats from Kansas remained in the hands of men who had not held the title of governor until March 4, 1919, when Arthur Capper, Topeka Republican, began his 30-year tenure. Capper was followed by Andrew F. Schoepfel, Ness City Republican, who worked his way up "through the chairs," including governor.

Schoepfel held the Senate post until his death in January 1962, when Pearson, the state's soon-to-be senior senator was appointed for the unexpired term. Pearson has since won two full six-year terms.

Another former governor, Republican Henry Allen, Wichita, served 19 months, succeeding Topeka Republican Charles Curtis, who resigned March 3, 1929, to become vice president under President Herbert Hoover.

Following Allen was Democrat George McGill, Wichita, a non-governor, who won the unexpired term in 1930, vacated by Curtis and held temporarily by Allen. McGill then won a full six-year term in 1932.

Republican Clyde Reed, Parsons, a former governor, took the seat away from McGill in the 1938 election, serving from January 1939 until his death in November 1949.

Harry Darby, Kansas City industrialist and Republican who had never sought the governorship, was the interim Senate appointee from Dec. 2, 1949 until Nov. 28, 1950, when he stepped aside for the advancement of then Gov. Frank Carlson, Concordia Republican.

Carlson retired Jan. 2, 1969, leaving the state's Senate seats in the hands of two men who have not served as governor.

Of the 27 men serving as U.S. senators from Kansas, six have been past governors, with one advancing to vice president of the United States.

Error In Story

Dear Sirs:

"The parents of our Dairy Princess informed me that a story carried in your paper had some misinformation in it.

"The story was carried with the picture of Miss Garnet Wilson, Shawnee County Dairy Princess. It stated that she was one of the ten who would compete in the State Contest. It should have said that she was competing in the District Contest."

USDA Buys Meat For The Needy

The U. S. Department of Agriculture June 12 bought 5,040,000 pounds of canned chopped meat, at an approximate cost of $2,615,000, for distribution to needy families.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing service announced that this program will be ended for the 1969 fiscal year after purchase of approximately 5 million more pounds of product.

Top price bid was 54.39 cents per pound. Total purchases for the program amount to 50,040,000 pounds at an f. o. b. cost of about $24,145,000.

Anyone Can Study Tax Records

WINFIELD — A Cowley County district court has ruled that all property assessment records are open to the public, opening the way for Ark City city attorney George Sybrant to make a study of 681 real estate sales in Cowley County in 1968.

Sybrant says there are "great, illegal and unlawful" discrepancies in appraised values of property in the county but he had been blocked by county officials in May from studying all assessment records.

Low Funds Hold Up Milford Dam Project

JUNCTION CITY — A project to construct public use facilities and collector ditch stabilization in the downstream area below Milford Dam here has been withdrawn, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has announced.

Bids were to have been opened last week in the Corps' Kansas City District Office.

Officials said the Corps' Missouri River Division office at Omaha, Nebr., asked for a review of the work after an indication the cost might exceed available funds.

Completion of a beach on one of the downstream pools hinges on completion of public use facilities, including access roads, parking, bathhouses and rest-rooms.

The work may have to be divided, with the collector ditches coming from maintenance funds and the public use facilities from recreational funds.

Corps officials said they hope the project can be completed later in the 1969 construction season.

Swipe Film On Sex Education

The G&G area has not missed the controversy over sex education in public schools, and antagonisms over the subject have spilled over into the summer after the school term has been completed.

At St. Marys, the controversy went beyond words. The St. Marys Star reported that "some rascal" had stolen a sex education film, "Fertilization and Birth," from the car of a member of a group called Parents on Sanity in Sex. The film was returned several days later.

Army Desertion Rate On Rise

The Army says the current desertion rate is up about 30% over 1968, but the figure is still lower than the rate during World War II and the Korean War.

The Army says it expects 50,000 soldiers to have deserted by the end of the current fiscal year.

Typical deserters, says Lt. General A. O. Conner, Army deputy chief of staff for personnel, are not philosophical or religious war objectors, but misfits "who, because they cannot get satisfaction from their commander because their commander is far enough along in his development to handle their problems will take off and go AWOL."

Conner said the Army has established a program to help overcome the problems of dissatisfaction and undisciplined personnel.

"We have opened up a training facility at Ft. Riley, Kans., said. "This is a rehabilitation facility where we're having a lot of good luck in taking a young man who has gone AWOL once or three times, put him under the right kind of leadership and right kind of trainers, and have turned them into useful soldiers."

Still Some Plus Factors For Beef Outlook

The cattle industry has been holding supplies in line, at a time when imports have decreased and consumer demand has surpassed expectations.

That's how a K-State economist explains the circumstances behind the current boom in cattle prices.

The trend in beef cattle numbers has leveled off since 1964, after an undulating increase which lasted about 20 years, Dr. John H. McCoy, K-State Agricultural Economist, says.

Average slaughter weights have declined. Average weight of choice slaughter steers has failed to drop from the corresponding month a year earlier only twice in the past two years, he points out.

This generally holds true for all slaughter cattle grades, McCoy adds. Average live weight of all cattle in commercial slaughter during March, 1969 was down 13 points from a year earlier.

After a five-year uptrend, imports dropped 40 per cent below year-earlier levels in late 1968-early 1969. Domestic slaughter began to trend downward. U. S. stock strikes were partially responsible for the import declines in early 1969.

Cumulative change in beef slaughter under federal inspection January to early May 1969 was 5 per cent above the same period in 1968. However, a decline in non-federally inspected plants cut the increase to 2 per cent.

The result: A relative shortage of beef in view of exceptionally strong demand.

Increases in employment, disposable income and consumer preference for beef are responsible for the higher demand.

Slaughter dropped below year earlier levels in early May, giving the market an added boost.

Looking ahead, McCoy sees domestic supply favoring continued strong prices. He expects imports to increase, but not exceed 1968 levels by any sizeable amount.

The economist thinks government, through fiscal and monetary policies, will dampen the growth rate of the economy. This may soften demand somewhat.

Coupled with expected consumer resistance to higher prices, this would limit further price advances. Another major key to whether price gains can be held, McCoy adds, will lie with producers and their control over supplies.

Citizens Arrest Of Wrong Man

A 33-year-old Wichitan chased down a speeding car and forced it to the curb. Then he tried to make a citizen's arrest.

Did he ever make a mistake?

The speeder was a Wichita police detective who was hurrying to investigate a case of reported auto arson.

The detective, Harold Norman, showed the enthusiastic citizen his badge, then charged him with opposing a police officer and reckless driving.

Officers said the man has some familiarity with the law and its applications. He's been arrested previously for vagrancy and an assortment of minor violations.

He was booked for another date in Municipal Court.

'Pueblo' Book By G&G Area Native And Others

An in-depth description of the ordeal of the USS Pueblo's captured crew will be made available in book form, a former member of the crew said in Wichita.

Steven Woelk of Alta Vista, who was wounded when the ship was seized by North Koreans January 23, 1968, told of the book in an interview.

Woelk, who was interviewed at the Wichita Veterans Center, where he has received job training counseling, said about 20 of the crewmen are involved in the writing of the book. They are collaborating with two lawyers and a publisher in Virginia, he said.

Woelk did not disclose who was to be the author.

He said he was interviewed in a 4-hour taped interview in Kansas City last month.

Woelk received hip injuries from shrapnel and is awaiting a medical board evaluation. He said he expects to be discharged late this month or early in July.

Rails Want To Hike In-State Freight Rates

Ten railroads operating interstate freight schedules through Kansas filed applications Tuesday for intrastate freight-rate increases with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The railroads are the Santa Fe, Chicago Burlington & Quincy, Rock Island, Garden City Western, Kansas City Southern, Kansas City Terminal, the Katy, Missouri Pacific, Frisco and Union Pacific.

The railroads asked the ICC to approve increases in their intrastate freight rates to the same level as the ICC permitted them to set on interstate traffic.

Under federal law, when railroads are denied freight-rate increases by the controlling state agency, the railroads may appeal to the ICC to override the state agency — in this instance, the Kansas Corporation Commission.

The ICC, effective November 1968, granted all railroads general freight increases of from three to 10 percent on interstate shipments.

These rates comprise the level to which the 10 railroads desire to increase their intrastate freight rates in Kansas.

The KCC, in 1961, granted increases on certain commodities in intrastate commerce.

Hail Losses Below Average

Despite three heavy hail storms this spring, damage to winter wheat so far appears to be moderately light — estimated at $670,000 according to three insurance companies that write almost half the policies.

The firms are the Farm Bureau in Manhattan and the Wheat Growers Mutual Hail Insurance and the Cimarron Insurance Companies in Cimarron.

Officials of the three companies pinpointed three main storm dates — April 17, May 21 and June 11 — that caused heaviest damage in south central Kansas around Wichita, in Allen County and in the Scott-Lane county area in the west.

Officials for the Farm Bureau and Wheat Growers said the dollar losses experienced by their policyholders were the lightest this year since 1963. Cimarron said wheat losses to its policyholders were about the same as last year.

These counties experienced the heaviest losses so far this year according to the companies — Scott and Lane and the Marion Morris-Dickinson area, estimated by Wheat Growers; Harper, Reno, Harvey and Lane by Cimarron, and Sedgwick, Harper, Reno and Marion by the Farm Bureau.

But a Farm Bureau official noted that the damage was relatively severe elsewhere.

"They really had a serious, rather vicious storm June 11 in Jackson County and in Brown and Donovan counties," he said.

Bids $8 Million Over Estimates For K. C. Stadiums

Kansas City's proposed sports complex — two adjacent stadiums with a movable roof that slides over either — got another kick in the chops last week.

Bids were opened, and the low one of $31.59 million was more than $8 million over estimated costs. There were only two bids, with two construction firms which were expected to compete with one another delivering a joint bid.

The contractors' figures were base bids only and did not include the cost of the proposed movable roof. Jackson County voters had approved a $23.5 million bond issue but cost figures, which have regularly been revised upward, indicated that the roof could not be included with the available funds.

The cost also does not include some access roads to the facility east of Kansas City, which local authorities have debated whether or not they will be included in the cost of the stadiums or become general highway costs.
