Famous Ocean Queens To Retire

The long-time standards of luxury ocean travel, the Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain's Cunard Steamship Co., will not be in service much longer. Cunard has said it will take the Queen Mary out of operation in October, and the Queen Elizabeth will be retired in 1968. Cunard is building another luxury liner — likely also to be called the Queen Elizabeth — but it will not be ready until early in 1969.

The new ship, called Q4 while in construction, will handle the same number of passengers — about 2000 — as the two older Queens but will weigh about 58,000 tons, about three-fourths the gross tonnage of the older ships. The smaller size will make Q4 adaptable to small Caribbean cruising stop-over ports, while the Queen Elizabeth and Mary have been restricted in their ports of call by their sheer size.

New international maritime safety requirements would also require major alterations to the older ships, which Cunard decided would be too costly to undertake. The Queen Mary was launched in 1936; the Elizabeth, in 1949. The scrap value of the two ships is about $1.8 million each. Cunard, however, will consider offers from other firms, British or otherwise.

Presently there are only about a dozen passenger liners of all flags crossing the Atlantic. One is the United States Lines' SS United States. High costs, increased jet air travel, and limits of the high-sea market have reduced luxury ocean travel in the past two decades.

Manitoba has had heavy snows and rains since April 1, with a total of four to five inches of moisture. Saskatchewan, the province farther to the west (between Manitoba and Alberta) has had more than normal moisture and cold weather. And there still is lots of snow to melt in the northern part.

USDA Seers Revise Wheat Guess Upward

The Agriculture Department forecast this year's important winter wheat crop last week at 1.195 billion bushels, up 3 percent from indications a month ago.

This estimate compares with last year's production of 1.057 billion bushels, last month's forecast of 1.062 billion and with the 1961-65 average of 970 million.

No forecast will be made on spring wheat until later, but assuming crop of 320 million bushels — the amount the department has said is possible — total wheat production would be 1.515 billion bushels.

The department increased this year's planting allotment about 32 percent in a move to get a much larger crop than last year. The nation needs more this year because long-existing surpluses have been used.

The Kansas winter wheat crop has an indicated harvest of 10,876,000 acres with a yield of 18.5 bushels per acre and total production of 201.2 million bushels.

Last week official and unofficial estimates of the Kansas crop varied widely, from 141 million bushels to 214 million.

May 1 Wheat Guess: 201 Million Bushels

The crop experts have revised their guess as to the 1967 Kansas wheat crop, estimating that the condition as of May 1 would lead to a crop of 201 million bushels.

The April 1 forecast was for a Kansas crop of 197 million, indicating that a month that included some unseasonal freezes but a generally drouth-breaking moisture had not made the estimate any more pessimistic.

A crop of 201 million bushels would be a little better than 1966 but below the recent average.

The forecast, from the Kansas Crop Reporting Service, is for an 18.5 bushel yield on 10.876 million acres to be harvested. Abandonment of wheat has been quite heavy in western, southern and some central sections where precipitation was extremely short. Damage from insects also contributed to the acreage loss, particularly in southwestern sections where cutworms have been extremely active.

The Reporting Service rated the condition as 77 percent of normal. The accompanying chart shows the Service's estimate of crop condition in each county. The percentage system of condition assumes that 100 percent would be optimum crop conditions — perhaps 30 bushel yields for dryland areas in counties of average Kansas rainfall.

Thirty of the state's counties were rated at less than 70 percent of normal. Most of these are concentrated in the southwest and southcentral areas which includes many of the counties with largest wheat acreage. The state's largest wheat county, Sumner, with 340,000 acres still in wheat, was rated at only 56 percent of normal. Major wheat counties like Harper, Kingman, Ford and Sedgwick figured little better and some were worse.

Best wheat among the major producers appears to be thru Abilene, McPherson and Great Bend. McPherson's crop was rated at 87% of normal, easily the highest for any county with more than 200,000 acres in wheat.

The 1967 wheat crop was hurt by drouth conditions during most of the winter and spring but widespread mid-April rains brought considerable help to many parts of the state. Crop development was rapid following the rains but late April freezes tended to offset gains.

Near the end of April the 1967 wheat crop was one of the furthest advanced of record, with many fields fully headed in southern sections and some heading in the north central areas.

Additional freezes since May 1 have caused some further damage to the wheat crop.

Winter barley and rye also were headed in southern parts of the state. Soil moisture supplies available for plant use in wheat fields in mid-April over the western two-thirds of the state were 16 percent less than a year ago and 22 percent below average.

Here are the number of acres left to be harvested in each county along with the condition (based on 100 percent as optimum) as of the May 1 forecast date:

Banish Household Enemies

Mold, Mildew and Rot

It's strange, when you think of it, that the warm weather which brings so many pleasant things outside your house, is also apt to bring within the house, mold, mildew, and rot. You can, however, keep your house sparkling fresh if you observe proper precautions.

Remember that mold and mildew are living parasitic organisms that thrive in dark corners such as you find in closets; in damp, warm atmospheres, as in laundry rooms or bathrooms and in closed areas such as in storage rooms. They feed on tiny bits of organic matter they find in such materials as natural fabrics, wood, paper, leather, and food scraps.

The key to preventing mold, mildew and rot with their accompanying musty odors, lies in carefully observing two rules:

Keep everything clean, dry and well aired, especially in hot weather, and spray items susceptible to mold and mildew once a week with an effective disinfectant and deodorizer.

When you spray do so long enough for the surface to become wet.

To repeat, anything that collects moisture, or is in a close, warm area is a potential danger spot. Keep rooms aired; be sure soiled linens are dry before placing them in the laundry hamper. Spray clothes you've been wearing before putting them in closets.

Preventing mold and mildew will eliminate the source of the musty odors. After spraying the offensive areas, spray the room itself to give it a pleasant scent.

Spring Starts In The Kitchen

Perhaps the only disease which science will never conquer is plain old-fashioned spring fever. It's strange indeed that the season traditional for a complete overhaul and tune-up job for the entire home also brings those wonderful warm days that make even the most trivial task seem much too overwhelming to tackle.

One way a spring fever-afflicted homemaker can achieve seemingly major accomplishments without a great deal of effort is to start spring in the kitchen. Rearranging shelves, cabinets and drawers is not too difficult and also brings happy dividends in terms of finding lost treasures such as the gaily pressed long ago written off as lost, or a two-year supply of little stoppers which had been hiding.

Shopping for new equipment can be the best part of kitchen reorganization. New curtains, potholders and shelf paper go a long way toward making the kitchen seem brand new. And necessities like aluminum cookware are now available in striking new designs, colors and work-saving non-stick finishes that will bring spring right into your kitchen.

Students Lagging In Paying Loans

Loaning money to finance a college education may be a good deal for the student, but it's running into problems for the lender.

The U. S. Office of Education reported last week that the nation's colleges are having trouble collecting federally-financed loans they have made to students.

The rate of loan default is running close to 4 per cent, considerably higher than commercial loan deficiencies. The defaults are occurring in the program begun in 1958 under the national defense education act. Federal funds are advanced to the colleges, which select the students who will receive the loans.

Students may borrow up to $1000 a year for four years at low interest. Loans averaged $560 during the last academic year. Students have 10 years to repay the loan after they leave school.

U.S., Europe Grain Trade Pact Is Altered

Trade negotiations between the U.S. and the European Common Market approached a deadline the past weekend with an apparent compromise likely on grain trade.

Deciding that no agreement was possible on how much grain Europe would guarantee to be allowed into it, the U.S. backed down from its requirement that the Common Market import a fixed amount of grain.

In return the European nations apparently will agree that there will be no freeze on farm subsidies, nor will any price be set for animal feed grains, such as corn and barley.

The U.S. had wanted a guarantee that the Common Market would import 13 percent of its grains from major exporters such as the U.S. and Canada. The 13 percent level is about the amount of grain that has been imported in Europe, but hopes for expansion of their grain production, especially by the French, had left Europe willing to guarantee only 10 percent.

The latter level is not likely to be acceptable to the Senate, which must approve a trade treaty, so U.S. negotiators decided to drop the guarantee in exchange for European concessions.

Removal of the access requirement left only two major American demands: a somewhat higher world price for wheat and an undertaking by European countries to give wheat to the hungry countries as part of the international food aid program.

The Common Market had been demanding strict organization of the entire world market in grains. It wanted all producers to make commitments on price supports and a world price fixed for secondary feed grains.

The demands were unacceptable to the U.S. and they were dropped by the Common Market in accepting American compromise.

What will emerge from the negotiations will be simply a 3-year extension of the existing international wheat agreement, where only the world price is controlled, together with the additional element of food aid.

Mrs. Paul Rombeck, Blue Rapids, Winner Of Prize

Mrs. Paul Rombeck of Blue Rapids wins the prize this week. Mrs. Rombeck writes that this recipe is "delicious."

MALTED MILK CAKE

Sift together:

- 1 cup flour
- 1½ cups chocolate milk powder
- 1 teaspoon salt

Add:

- 1 cup sour cream

Beat one and one-half minutes then add 2 eggs, one teaspoon vanilla and beat one and one-half minutes. Pour into greased and slightly floured pan. Bake at 350 degrees 40-45 minutes.

Mrs. Paul Linholm, Smolan: "I would like to send my recipe for Coconut Bars."

COCONUT BARS

- ½ cup brown sugar
- ½ cup butter or oleo
- 1½ cups flour

Mix well and press in 9x13-inch pan. Bake 10 minutes at 275 degrees. Beat 2 eggs well and add:

- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1½ cups coconut
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Pour over baked mixture and bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. While still warm spread with following icing:

- 1 cup powdered sugar
 - 2 tablespoons oleo
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Cut into bars.

Mrs. Fred Wafler, R2, Council Grove: "I like the many recipes in Grass & Grain. I have experimented with pie crust recipes and finally worked out one of my own. This crust handles nicely and is always the same. I have a crisscross cutter and enjoy making pies. I never used a recipe that I like as well."

DELUXE PIE CRUST

- 3 cups flour
- 1¼ cups Crisco
- 2 tablespoons sugar

- 1 teaspoon salt

Blend the above ingredients, then add slowly the following liquids:

- 1 egg beaten
- 1 teaspoon vinegar
- 5 tablespoons ice water

Mrs. Clifford Bergmeier, Wakefield: "Here is my recipe for Puff Cookies. They are very tasty and make a soft cookie and freeze real good. We sure enjoy Grass & Grain. I always turn to the 'Our Daily Bread' page before reading the rest."

PUFF COOKIES

- 1½ cups white raisins
- 1 cup water

Cook these two ingredients until water is gone, then cool. Mix:

- 1 cup shortening
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 beaten eggs

Cream these ingredients together. Sift together the following:

- 3½ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda

Add to cream mixture and mix well. Add raisins, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped nuts. Make into balls and roll them in a mixture of 4 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Put on cookie sheet and bake at 375 degrees for 10-12 minutes. These are better to handle if dough is chilled before made into balls.

The Woman's Page Editor of Grass & Grain thought the readers might like to see a couple of oldtime recipes. This recipe for Salem Chicken Pye was taken from the Gold Medal Jubilee Cookbook of 1855.

SALEM CHICKEN PYE

To make a Chicken Pye. After you have Trust your chickens, then break their legs and breast-bones and raise your crust of the best Paste, lay them in a coffin close together, with their bodies full of butter, then lay upon and underneath them, currans, great Raisins, Prunes, Cinnamon, Sugar, whole Mace and Salt; then cover all with good store of butter, and so bake it; then pour into it white wine, rosewater, sugar, cinnamon and vinegar mixt together, with the yolks of two to three eggs beaten amongst it, and so serve it.

At the wedding of Nellie Curtis, granddaughter of Martha Washington, a cake baked from the following recipe was served at Mount Vernon in 1799:

MARTHA'S NO SUGAR CAKE

"First take 20 eggs, ye divide ye whites and ye yolks, beat ye whites a good while till they be in a frothe, ye work two pounds of butter till it creame, ye put in ye whites of ye eggs by ye spoonfull and stir well together, ye add ye yolks of ye eggs, well beaten, two and one halfe pounds of wheate floure, five pounds of fruit, ye add one-fourth ounce or more nutmeg, and one halfe pint milch and cold coffee. Five and one quarter hours will bake it." Signed Martha Washington.

Pants Climb High On Fashion Ladder This Year

Pants and variations on the theme shift into high fashion gear for summer '67, reports the National Cotton Council. Designers, tossing out all the old taboos, create trouser fashions in cotton for every occasion. Pantsuits, jumpsuits, mini trousers and all part of the current pant craze. Travel with ease from the supermarket to the most elegant soiree. Cottons burst forth with a new vitality, adding the ultimate pizzazz to the new trend. Tapes, ducks, voiles and cotton crepes appear in an endless array of swirl prints, polka dots, oriental designs, stripes and bigger than life blossoms. Devil-may-care colors like bright orange, hot pink and pungent yellow mix freely with each other and/or team up with summer white. Going along with the brights are the sophisticated color combinations of brown and white and black and white.

Traditionally thought of as a sporty fashion, pants take on elegant airs as well. In this mood is a cocktail romper whipped up from an orange and white printed cotton and studded with glittering beads. The one-piece fashion, belted above the waist, wears its full-blown harem pants with great aplomb.

Pants off time travel in disguise, hiding under dresses or concealing themselves in voluminous folds of material. Masquerading as skirts are the wide legged party pants or long evening jumpsuits that reveal their true identity only with a quick turn or wide stride.

Pert and pretty are the short pant dresses that pre-empt the position of last year's short and top ensemble or the casual dress. The fresh, crisp look of a yellow cotton duck polka-dotted in pink starts the creative wheels turning for one designer who creates a sleeveless, one-piece pant dress with stand-up collar.

Last but not least is the conventional pantsuit that now takes its place as a classic. One of the best versions for summer is a rainsuit crafted from a rope-printed cotton in red and yellow. The neatly tailored fashion sports a belted 7-8 coat and straight-leg pants.

spoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup milk
Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs in a small bowl until very thick and light — about five minutes. Gradually beat in sugar. Add vanilla. Add flour to egg mixture a small amount at a time, blending by hand or at low speed of electric mixer. Bring milk and butter just to a boil. Very quickly stir into the flour mixture, blending thoroughly. (Batter will be thin.) Pour quickly into an 8 or 9-inch square pan which has been greased and floured on bottom only. Bake at once at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Cool. Split; fill and top with strawberries. Garnish with whipped topping.

Glad Most Popular

Leading all other summer-flowering bulbs in popularity is the gladiolus. The colors available are countless and they will grow in almost every section of the country.

It is safe to plant gladiolus outdoors as soon as the soil is warm enough to spade and there is no danger of the soil freezing again. Plant the bulbs about three to five inches deep and six inches apart. Repeat plantings every two weeks through spring and early summer for a continuous display of flowers.

How Farm Economy Multiplies Itself

Every dollar of Kansas farm income in 1965 "turned over" about four times, a Kansas State University study shows.

Gross farm income for Kansas in 1965 was $1488.7 billion. Through the income multiplier, this farm income generated almost $6 billion of economic activity in the state.

K-State economists estimate the Kansas farm income multiplier for 1965 at 3.98, an alltime high. This is almost triple the estimated non-farm income multiplier of 1.34.

The farm income multiplier shows the impact of an increase in farm income on total income, says Frank Orazem, professor of economics at Kansas State. A multiplier of 3, for example, indicates that each dollar of farm income generates $3 of income in the total economy.

The multiplier does not generate additional income simultaneously. We don't know exactly how long it takes for the multiplier to show its effect, says Orazem.

We do know that the sectors of the state's economy are linked together like a chain, he says. Farming is one of the most important links.

"In 1965, Kansas farmers spent $1,114 million for operating expenses, more than ever before," Orazem explains. "It takes a thriving agribusiness industry to keep farmers supplied with feed, fuel, fertilizer, and chemicals. This industry in turn, provides income and employment opportunities in other sectors of the economy."

Farm income helps keep feed mills grinding, gasoline stations pumping, fertilizer and chemical stores operating, etc. The money that changes hands in these operations is reflected in the farm income multiplier.

Even though farm population has dropped steadily during recent years, farming still plays a vital role in the state's economy. Orazem points out that about 88 percent of farm income was absorbed by the non-

Time And The Rivers

A thin strip of land only 100 feet wide separates the Red River (top) from the Cane River which flows thru the center of Natchitoches, La., oldest settlement in that state. Residents of the area fear that erosion will eventually cause the Red River to break thru into the Cane, possibly flooding Natchitoches and the Cane River valley.

farm sector between 1950 and 1965. The non-farm sector, meanwhile, contributed only about 10 percent of its income to farm income during this period.

A good year for farmers is reflected throughout the economy. This was true decades ago, when farmers were more self-sufficient and less dependent on purchased goods and services. It's even more evident today, when 65 to 75 percent of their income goes for production expenses.

When farmers have a bad year, on the other hand, the pinch is felt not only in the farm sector, but in other sectors as well. When farm purchases decline, so does employment and income in industries supplying farmers' production needs. These workers, in turn, cut down their expenditures, putting still others out of work. This chain reaction eventually reaches every sector of the state's economy.

Answers For The Anguished Cook

Here are some pertinent answers for the cook:

1. Can you warm up leftover rice — what is the best way to do it?

YES — Simply turn rice into an aluminum saucepan — add

May 16, 1967

Grass & Grain

a little broth or bouillon for parsley flakes for extra glamor and heat over to wheat, tightly covered. Aluminum will give gentle even heat, eliminating the danger of scorched spots or messy sticking.

2. Why do some recipes say brush milk on top pastry crust before baking?

To give an even pretty browning to crust.

3. Why do cookies stick to the pan?

Insufficient greasing, improper cleaning — too much sugar in recipe or too high bottom heat. If you use a non-stick aluminum cookie sheet, you'll be assured of even heat and no sticking.

4. Why is it that every time I fry breaded foods the bread-ing slides off minutes after it hits the hot fat?

Let breaded foods stand at least 20 minutes after they are crumbed before slipping into the hot fat. Be sure, too, that the surface is completely covered with crumbled mixture.

Whenever I scald milk or cream, it sticks to the pan — can this be prevented?

By rinsing the pan with cold water before adding the cream or milk.

Cotton Pant Dress

Pants in all their many guises are the most sought after fashions for summer. Of all the many variations, none is more versatile than the perky pant dress. The one pictured is shaped in yellow cotton duck polka-dotted in pink. For contrast, the belt and high collar are striped in the same colors.

LETTERS—

from the G&G Area

A Scale To Read From Truck Cab

Is there a law which requires that a scale used in the buying of grain, livestock, etc., be so installed that it can be read by the seller without his getting out of the truck?

L.V.W. ESKRIDGE

Not that G&G can discover. There are regulations concerning retail scales which require the scale to be readable to the customer from any reasonable angle. But you'll have to get out of the cab and go in to look at the truck scale.

He's With Fred

In regard to the letter of L. V. Drapal (G&G May 2), I think the letters that Fred Kilian has written in Grass & Grain have been sharp and to the point. I think too many of us farmers today are sleeping in our selfish pride and are not aware that the agricultural ship is sinking.

Area Study Shows Net Per Farm At $9556

Farm income was up 8 percent last year for one group of farmers in north central Kansas, reports John H. Coolidge, farm management economist at Kansas State University.

Average net income per farm during 1966 was $9556 for the 407 members of Farm Management Association No. 1. This compares to an average income of $8795 on these farms in 1965.

Average living expenditures for 151 of these families who keep home account books was $4506. This compares to $4251 in 1965. Income taxes and life insurance were not included as living expenditures.

Higher livestock income was a major reason for the improved net income in 1966, says Coolidge, who heads the K-State Farm Management Association Program. Average gross livestock income was $22,416, up from $18,599 a year earlier. Cattle and hogs were the main livestock enterprises grossing $13,069 and $5757 respectively, per farm.

Total receipts from crops averaged $8060 per farm, down slightly from $8180 the previous year. Wheat averaged 20 bushels; grain sorghums, 48 bushels and corn, 87 bushels per acre.

Total farm expenses averaged $26,373, up 16 percent from 1965. Some of this increase was due to more purchased feed and fertilizer and higher machinery costs, says Coolidge. Farm expenses per $100 of income were $73.40, up 2 percent from a year earlier.

Some farms in the Association were much more profitable than others. Average net income on the most profitable one-fourth of the farms was $22,551, compared to only $1,400 on the least profitable one-fourth. Total expenses per $100 of gross income on the two groups of farms were $62.67 and $87.15 respectively.

Farms where cash crops are the main enterprises were the most profitable during the year, netting $14,000 per farm. Other types of farms and their average net income include beef-hog $11,715; crop-dairy $10,501; cash crop cow herd $10,249; and cash crop other beef $7297.

Larger farms were more profitable than smaller ones. Farms with more than 1200 acres averaged $13,749. Farms with 961 to 1280 acres averaged $8755; 641 to 960 acres $6800 and less than 641 acres $5800.

The families which keep home account books spent 34 percent of their net farm income for living expenditures in 1966. This is down from 34 percent 3 year earlier.

The breakdown of average expenditures for 1966 is as follows: food purchased $1300; housing plus repairs $850; autos $280; clothing $540; education and recreation $450; medical care $502; gifts and contributions $464; auto expenses $249; telephone and electricity $143. Savings and life insurance not counted as family living costs, averaged $697 per farm.

Counties included in Association No. 1 are Clay, Cloud, Dickinson, Ellis, Ellsworth, Geary, Jewell, Lincoln, Marion, Marshall, Mitchell, Osborne, Ottawa, Phillips, Republic, Riley, Russell, Saline, Smith and Washington.

Fieldmen for the Association are Clarence E. Bartlett, Center; Laurenz S. Green, Concordia; and Hal D. Bryant, Lincoln.

Advance's High-Tonnage Champion

ADVANCE 14

ADVANCE 14 is one of the most important developments in hybrid sorghum in recent years. Yields of from 15 to 31% over RS-608 and RS-610 are not uncommon. Although Advance 14 was first introduced only three years ago, consistently high yields in all sorghum-producing areas have pushed it to the forefront faster than any sorghum in our experience. Highest yields will be obtained on good soil where rainfall is ample, or under irrigation, but it also produces excellent yields under dry-land farming.

COOP SWINE FEEDS

Balancing nutrition for maximum profit doesn't come naturally. It takes a lot of know-how. The kind of know-how earned from continuing research, development and testing.

With feeding costs running about 80% of total swine investment, it pays to follow a feeding program that has the know-how already built in. Like the feeding program you can get at your Co-op.

See your Co-op feed man soon.

Soviet Crop
To Lag — But Not Enough

One of the magic numbers for the Soviet Union is the grain harvest last year, which reached a record high of 171 million tons.

Soviet authorities have been hoping for a repeat this year to prove to a skeptical world that after half a century they have licked this nagging central problem of their society.

Such an announcement would be a big boost to their 50th anniversary celebrations next November.

On the basis of present estimates, however, the longed-for breakthrough will not occur. Using Soviet data, experts at Radio Free Europe in Munich, whose forecasts have been accurate in the past, believe this year's harvest will fall 20 million to 25 million tons short of the 1966 record.

The outlook is for a decrease of 25 percent in the controversial "new lands" opened up under Nikita Khrushchev's orders in Siberia and Kazakhstan.

Instead of the promised bounty, the virgin lands have produced only four bumper crops in 13 years. This disappointment was one of the factors in Khrushchev's dismissal in 1964.

In the more stable areas of European Russia, the harvest forecasts are for a decrease of 10 to 15 percent.

One of the ominous developments has been a recurrence at the end of April of dust storms in the lower Ural mountain regions and in Western Kazakhstan. Khrushchev's critics accused him of creating a vast dust bowl in these regions.

The experts at Radio Free Europe do not believe this expected shortfall will mean a massive return of the Soviets to the international grain market, but it will mean a slowdown in efforts to rebuild their grain reserves.

Squeeze On Farms 'Down Under'

WELLINGTON, N.Z. — New Zealand farmers are expecting a $300 drop in their average incomes during 1967 as part of the country's economic belt-tightening.

Agricultural experts say that some farmers, after a successful season in 1966, will "sit" on their earnings, waiting for a return to better prices for their produce, though others, particularly credit-needy farmers on new properties, will be hard-pressed to make ends meet. Credit is more difficult to obtain as money in New Zealand becomes more scarce.

Sheep, cattle and dairy farmers will be affected by the sharp fall in the price of wool, meat and butter exports to Britain.

Lamb prices have dropped disturbingly and are likely to fall further. The price of butter on the British market also has dropped, with little hope of a rise.

Farmers have been advised to abandon non-profitable maintenance, such as fencing and the repair of farm buildings, and to spend money only on what is likely to bring returns.

Tax On Feed, Fertilizer Dropped In New Mexico

A sales-tax rule in New Mexico has been dropped because it couldn't be carried out.

At issue were feed and fertilizer purchases. Ranchers and farmers in the state never have been required to pay a levy on them on the ground that the goods usually are used in productive activities and aren't considered as sold at retail.

Last year, however, the legislature specified that the state sales tax should be collected on feed and fertilizer sales to persons who don't farm or ranch for a living, such as part-time poultry raisers, home gardeners, and the like.

Grain and feed dealers have since objected, arguing they couldn't discriminate among their customers by deciding who was or wasn't a full-time rancher. The present legislature repealed the provision.

No taxes were collected under the 1966 amendment because it wasn't to have become effective until this July 1.

Lakes Are Filling

An increase of 55,166 acre-feet of water stored in seven U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reservoir projects has been announced by the Corps' district headquarters.

The report for April shows the total amount of stored water in the district of Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska to be 1,163,091 acre-feet. Rainfall in early and mid-April caused streams in central Missouri to overflow moderately, the Corps said. There were no reports of flooding in Kansas.

Pomona Reservoir, west of Ottawa, Kans., is at full conservation level, and Milford Reservoir, on the Republican River northwest of Junction City, Kans., is in the process of initial filling.

Tuttle Creek Reservoir, near Manhattan, is steadily regaining its conservation pool, the Corps said. Kanapolis, on the Smoky Hill River near Ellsworth, is nearly full.

Remember Area Pioneer Cowman

The man credited with building the first stockyards in Abilene, Kans., has been elected to the Hall of Fame of Great Westerners at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center at Oklahoma City. He was Joseph G. McCoy who was born in 1837 and died in 1915.

Joseph McCoy

McCoy and four others were elected to membership in the Hall of Fame at the May meeting of the center's trustees. The board noted that "it is fitting that during this centennial year of the opening of the Chisolm Trail, this man (McCoy) should be honored in the Hall of Fame."

"He deserves most of the credit for getting the longhorn cattle from Texas started moving north over this trail to the railroad at Abilene," the citation noted.

McCoy purchased cattle in Texas at $2 to $4 a head and sold them to the eastern markets at $30. He built stockyards at Abilene and sent riders out through the Southwest to advertise the market.

Cattle soon started to move in all directions but mostly over the route which soon became known as the Chisolm Trail.

Historians have noted that by the time the stockyards were finished, 10,000 head of cattle were waiting within 20 miles of Abilene to move in. More than 35,000 head moved into Abilene the first year.

Deer Abound

State traffic safety officials say abundance of deer is causing some traffic safety problems on highways. These two antelope were seen near US81 between McPherson and Lindsborg. Come fall hunting season, they'll be harder to find.

Modern Touch To Rustling Doesn't Nudge Judge

MARION — A page of cattle rustling history from the Old West with the modern touch of a court appeal based on lack of insulin was reenacted Saturday.

The Kansas Supreme Court upheld the six-year-old conviction of Ross Hansen of Marion for grand larceny of cattle. He had based his appeal on the grounds his confession was improperly admitted as evidence.

Hansen was taking insulin for a diabetic condition and received no insulin while in jail for almost 24 hours. Because of the lack of insulin, he claimed, he was not in possession of his mental faculties when the confession was made.

But the court said Hansen's statements had been made voluntarily and were supported by substantial evidence.

If insulin shock had occurred, said the doctor, the sheriff's officers could easily have recognized it.

Hansen was arrested for cattle rustling after Marion County Sheriff Ezra Bernhardt, and the Kansas Brand Inspector, found two cows in an Abilene feedlot that had been sold by Hansen.

The cattle were owned by Ed McGinnis of Marion who reported them stolen after checking his own feedlot.

The county attorney at that time, Dean C. Batt, said the sheriff traced the cattle to the Wichita Livestock Association where they had been sold to the Excel Packing Co.

The packing company sent them to Abilene for fattening, still unaware that the cattle were stolen.

DEATH IN GARDEN CITY FEEDLOT ACCIDENT

A 43-year old farm laborer, Ignacio Jimenez, was killed in an accident at the Brookover Feed Yard at Garden City. He was crushed between a fence post and a truck.

Carlton, Dillon Co-ops Merge

ABILENE — The merging of the Carlton and Dillon co-ops has been approved by both organizations.

The Carlton Farmers Union Co-op Association approved the merger last week by a vote of 252 to 49. Dillon patrons had previously accepted the agreement.

The new organization will be known as the Farm Co-op Association and headquarters will be in Carlton. Manager will be Albion Visser at Carlton and John Meuli Jr. of Dillon.

New directors of the association are Frank Myers, Verlin Bogart, James Wendt, Wayne Cook, Fred Lorson, John Bonfield, Clarence Lauer, Carl Woods and Clinton Anderes.

Officers are Myers, president; Bonfield, vice president; and Woods, secretary-treasurer.

TIP TOP VOTE ON CONSOLIDATION

HILLSBORO — The Tip Top Dairies of Hillsboro is holding a special meeting of members here Thursday, May 18, to consider a consolidation and plan of reorganization between Tip Top and Southwest Milk Producers Association of Wichita.

How Long Is Best In Feedlot? 196 Days, 785 Pounds

How long, from the standpoint of optimum muscle growth and quality of meat, should steers be held on feed? Some feeders hearing this question discussed at Kansas State University's 54th annual Livestock Feeders Day were encouraged to wonder if they might not be overdoing the feedlot process in producing and marketing meat animals. For they heard that the optimum slaughter time for a group of test steers was: At the end of 196 days on full feed, averaging 785 pounds alive and grading choice. The researchers had set out to determine the stage at which a beef animal will produce the most desirable carcass, taking note of the fact that true growth involves an increase in muscle, bone and organs, and should be distinguished from increases by fat deposition. Optimum time to slaughter, they emphasized, is when muscle growth and quality are at their most desirable combination. In the test, 64 half-brother Angus steers were placed on full feed immediately after weaning, then groups of 8 steers were slaughtered periodically from 0 to 224 days. It was found, significantly, that as skeletal and muscle growth tended to slow down (maturity), fat deposition within the muscle rapidly increased. The steers weighing 785 pounds and grading choice after 196 days on full feed came closest to the ideal, researchers said, with steers being fed longer being penalized by the presence of excess fat in their carcasses.

Meat Research Center In Nebraska

An abandoned missile range tower on the old Hastings, Nebr., Naval Ammunition Depot is a backdrop for a small part of the 2000 cattle now grazing on the grounds of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Animal Meat Research center. The depot was deactivated last year and the USDA now has 35,000 acres for its research programs.

Pasture, Feed Conditions Lag

As bad as Kansas wheat conditions are, pasture feed conditions are even worse.

So reckons the Kansas Crop Reporting Service, noting the

May 1 condition of state pastures as 72 percent of normal (or optimum). Wheat crop conditions were rated at 77 percent.

While pastures were considerably improved from a month earlier, they were still below average. Grass was fairly good in eastern areas but has been slow starting in western sections because of persistent dry weather.

Growth was stimulated by mid-April rains but was held back by subnormal temperatures and freezes during late April. Cattle were being placed on native pastures in most areas altho in some western sections grazing was limited.

Cutting the first crop of alfalfa had started in some southern counties by May 1 with some premature cutting elsewhere to harvest frosted fields. Pea aphid and spotted alfalfa aphid infestations have been severe enough in some localities to cause damage.

May 1 stocks of hay on Kansas farms was estimated at 652,000 tons, the smallest stocks for the date since 1960.

When you have a castle for a distillery, you'd better make a noble Bourbon.

Col. Taylor built our distillery like a castle back in 1887. And, ever since, it's kept us on our toes.

Because any Bourbon made in a castle, had better be some Bourbon.

And, obviously, ours is. More people drink Old Taylor than any other premium-priced Bourbon in the country.

Sure, a castle is an extraordinary place to make Bourbon.

But, then, there's nothing ordinary about our Bourbon.

THE TRAFFIC RECORD

Motor vehicle deaths during 1966 were up an average 7 percent nationally over the previous year, according to National Safety Council's final estimates for the year. Only four states showed percentage decreases or no change. Kansas was among the states which showed a 10 percent or more increase.

No Edge To Any Feedlot Area

Cattle apparently can be fed in any part of Kansas with near equal results, experiments conducted by Kansas State university indicate. A report on these experiments was part of the program at the 54th annual Livestock Feeders day at the university.

Certain opinions have developed over the years on the advantages one part of the state may have as compared as compared to another in cattle feeding, but these have not been substantiated by scientific information. So the livestock specialists at the university set out three years ago to see if they could get a definite answer.

It was reported that differences exist, but they are small and the explanations as to why are not clear. It will take further research to get a full explanation.

The procedure used in the experiment was to set up similar sheds and feedlots in four locations, Colby, Garden City, Manhattan and Mound Valley.

There are branch experiment stations at each of these places. Steer calves from the same breeding from one ranch have been used in all trials. The calves were wintered on sorghum silage and second cutting alfalfa hay. They were finished on alfalfa hay and sorghum grain.

In brief, the results obtained after three years of trials include:

Satisfactory and economical gains were experienced at all four locations each year.

Wintering gains were higher at Mound Valley two of the three years, but analysis indicated significantly lower finishing gains at Mound Valley. Total gains are indicated to rank in the order of Garden City, Colby, Manhattan and Mound Valley.

There were significant differences in proximate feedstuff analyses. However, these differences did not account for differences in animal performance. Nor was it possible to detect any appreciable differences in the performance of the cattle because of climate.

RUBBER-TIRED PACKER WHEELS AT A LOW PRICE

If you are one of the many who are still farming with 2-row planters and listers with steel packer wheels and have hesitated about going to the expense of complete new outfits, we would like for you to consider the following items that we have been building and had in the field for the past several years, with very good results.
Our rubber-tired packer wheels will adapt to your outfit and sell for $75 per pair.
They save an extra operation of packing.
We will soon have a supply of our all steel fertilizer units that can be mounted on your machine.
We have a few 3 point mounted blades in 6 and 7 foot sizes

Profits Up For Harvest Brand

PITTSBURG, Kans. — Record sales and profits during 1966 have been reported by Harvest Brand, Inc., a manufacturer of minerals and feed supplements located here.

Net earnings were $171,000 as compared with $135,000 in 1965. Sales for 1966 totaled $5,007,000 as against $3,427,991 for the previous year.

As part of the operations at Pratt, Kans., the company processes and packages manure for use by home owners in fertilizing house plants. Manure from feedlots is spread out in rows to dry and to be treated with chemicals to deodorize it. The manufacturer tried changing the term manure to compost in the labeling. Sales dropped until the term manure was restored to the package.

New Beef Semen Plant

A $125,000 frozen beef semen plant has been opened on the Coddling Cattle Research Ranch south of Foraker, Okla. Charles Coddling Jr. said the plant will make possible breeding more than 10,000 cows annually to a single bull thru scientific breeding with frozen semen.

'Ouch,' Say Mitchell, Osborne, County Farmers Over Land Valuations

BELOIT — Farm land in Mitchell and Osborne County has been appraised at inflationary values, two Osborne County farmers told a group of Mitchell County farmers at Beloit.

Richard Sigle and Melvin Wilcoxson said Mitchell and Osborne counties were unfortunate because a man from Ohio evaluated the land.

They contended that the Ohio resident was unfamiliar with the current inflated price of land in Osborne and Mitchell county.

"Land was appraised at abnormal and inflationary prices and not on justifiable value.

"Land lost in the Webster and Glen Elder lakes created a false market by people being forced to buy land and relocate elsewhere," they declared.

Russell and Rooks counties had local appraisors who knew the value of the land, its productivity, classification, earning capacity and other factors," Sigle added.

Sigle and Wilcoxson have organized a group of property owners and farmers to protest taxes in Osborne County.

The Mitchell County Taxpayers league is now circulating petitions to keep the revaluation figures off the tax rolls of Mitchell County for one year or until counties are equalized properly.

Fort Riley To Fill Again

Look for Fort Riley to fill back up with soldiers this summer. The Army, which announces things on its own time, didn't confirm the story, but the Army Times — a weekly newspaper without official status but usually in the know about military matters — said last week that the 24th Infantry Division, now in Germany, will relocate at Fort Riley.

The newspaper said the plan would be to position two brigades of the 24th in the U.S. — presumably at Fort Riley — "where they can be easily air-lifted back to Europe."

Under the plan, one brigade will remain in Europe at all times and once a year the three brigades will be in Germany for exercises involving the entire division. The rotation plan also provides that the three brigades would succeed each other on temporary duty in Germany. The movement to Fort Riley would involve about 17,000 soldiers.

Fort Riley has its facilities ready, but has been without a full complement since the 9th Infantry Division went to Vietnam in late 1966.

Mexican Seed Boon To Grain Problem In India

India may be working its way out of grain shortage with high-yielding wheat seed imported from Mexico, a cheaper way of digging irrigation wells, and breaking an old prejudice against killing rats.

The Mexican seed, dwarf varieties like Sonora 64 and Lerma Rojo, has been crossbred effectively with native Indian plants, and Indian farm experts are now saying that yields of 5 tons a hectare (over 60 bushels an acre) are within reach.

Even in good years India has had to import a third of its grain requirements. In its best year — 1964-65 — India averaged about 12 bushels per acre.

The country has about 33 million acres in wheat, about 10 million irrigated.

The Mexican breeds require much water, but recent development of a shallow cavity tube well which can be sunk for around $130 should increase irrigation. The Indo-Gangetic Plains has shallow subsoil water, often less than 15 feet under surface.

Nick In Farm Price Index

Prices received by Kansas farmers at mid-April were lower for crop, livestock and livestock products than last month and generally below a year ago, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The mid-April all-farm products index stood at 232 percent of the 1910-14 base period average, 8 points less than last month and a year ago.

The all-crop index was down 11 points from last month though 15 points more than April last year.

Price increases from a month ago were noted for sorghum grain, cows, steers and heifers, calves and lambs. Prices for other crops were lower than last month, while livestock product items were steady to lower.

Meat Prices

The meat animal price index, at 339 percent, was down 3 points from last month and was 43 points below April a year ago.

Oppose Transfer Of Allotments

Leaders of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers are protesting a proposal to permit transfer or sale of wheat allotments.

George W. Meeker, Garden City, association president, said Kansas wheat growers are opposed to the proposal.

"We believe it would encourage an invasion of agriculture by nonfarm capital and big corporation farming," Meeker said, adding that this would be detrimental to the interests of commodity producing farm families.

modity producing farm families.

"An allotment could lose value if farm programs were changed, Meeker said, "and purchasers might find they had bought a pig in a poke."

A proposal to allow transfer or sale of wheat allotments reported to be in agricultural committees of the U. S. Senate and a House of Representatives.

The executive board of the Kansas Wheat Growers association instructed Meeker to present the objections at a meeting of the wheat and feed grain advisory committee in Washington.

Reflecting the season, our sale last Saturday was lighter, as expected, but the market was active and strong. We have a good sale coming for this Saturday, with buyers asking for feeder cattle in the 700 to 900 lb. range. If you have cattle at this weight, you will have some good buyers for them this coming Saturday.

Also, we need MORE HOGS. While we know most farmers are now in the busy days, we think you'll profit by getting your hogs to us so we can continue to supply our regular buyers. Compare hog prices at any buying station with prices we are getting for you at our Saturday auction, and you'll agree this is the place to sell your hogs.

Bill Would Aid Farm Bargainers

Pending legislation aimed at protecting farmers' right to bargain collectively with processors has drawn broad support in congressional hearings the past few days — so broad, in fact, that observers here were hard put to recall any speech of unity before on any question by spokesmen for the various farm interests.

At stake is Senate Bill 109, sponsored by Senator George Aiken of Vermont and others, which is designed to prevent processors and handlers from interfering with the rights of farmers to organize for price bargaining purposes.

Speaking out in support of the bill were leaders of the major farm organizations and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. Testimony was heard by the Senate Agriculture Committee, with a bi-partisan group of senators joining farm groups in pushing the bill. Included with Senator Aiken were his colleagues Lausche of Ohio, Church of Idaho, Williams of Delaware and others.

Farm organizations presenting testimony in favor of the bill included the Farm Bureau, National Grange, Farmers Union and some commodity groups. The National Farmers Organization (NFO), which has been militantly pursuing the collective bargaining goal, was understood to be supporting the bill, too.

The legislation would not require farmers to bargain with any particular group of farmers, but it would prohibit by law any actions designed to break up or interfere with such bargaining groups.

A spokesman for the Grange said his group supports the bill in hopes that "American agriculture might have not only the benefits of improved bargaining associations, but also protection from any aggressive tendencies directed against the associations."

Reiterating the Farm Bureau's support of the measure, President Charles Shuman said the bill has one simple objective — to prevent unfair discrimination by buyers against farmers who are members of bargaining associations. A new era is dawning for American agriculture, he said, but it is being implemented by the efforts of farmers and ranchers working through their own organizations — not by new controls or increased subsidy payments from the government.

In his testimony before the committee, Secretary Freeman warned: "Farmers' bargaining position will continue to erode," unless the Congress acts "as those who buy farm products decline in number and increase in size and economic strength."

"As this process continues, the farmers' side of the marketing system will become weaker if nothing is done to strengthen it."

"Farmers who organize co-operatives or bargaining associations or who join such co-operatives all too often become the targets of processors' discrimination and intimidation. They have been harassed. Production schedules have been disrupted. Their contracts have not been renewed. They have been denied production assistance and the same treatment accorded other producers."

"Farmers who join bargaining associations have been black-listed," Freeman continued, adding that in too many cases farmers come hat-in-hand to those who buy and all too often they have no alternative but to take what "processors, packers, handlers, canners and others are willing to pay for their livestock products.
