Progress Is Aspired By Youth.

Advancement and change is characteristic of the youth of today. By striving to improve his surrounding conditions, rural youth has made the farm a more desirable place to live.

Certain individuals and organizations, through their interest in 4-H Club work, have contributed much toward the advancement of rural life. With deep gratitude we recognize these efforts.

EXTENSION WORKERS

Extension Workers

The 4-H Club members in Kansas owe their success to the county agricultural agents, the county 4-H Club agents and home demonstration agents, who willingly guide the club work—be it success or failure. This group works under the supervision of the Kansas State College extension division, Manhattan, Kans., and the state leaders M. H. Coe, J. Harold Johnson, Miss Mabel Smith, Miss Mary Elsie Border, and Roger Regnier. Through the efforts of these people, 4-H Club work has been successful.

The members of the 4-H Clubs throughout Kansas greatly appreciate the time and effort of these people in the furthering of 4-H Club work.

Activities Promote Advancement

The numerous activities of 4-H Club work afford an opportunity for rural youth to advance through the service he renders within his community.

The following is a pictorial review of projects, fairs, camps, trips, and activities of 4-H Club members throughout various counties in Kansas.

ORIGIN OF 4-H CLUB WORK

We cannot give full credit for the establishment of 4-H Club work to any one person. Several men who were interested in American youth and farm homes worked independently of each other a good many years ago to get this great movement started.

In 1899, an ounce of seed corn was supplied to boys willing to plant and care for the grain and exhibit their products. This was done by William B. Otwell of Macoupin county, Illinois. At the Annual Farmers Institute that fall, 500 boys proudly displayed their corn.

The year of 1902 brought a very successful experiment. A. B. Graham, principal of the school in Springfield township, Ohio, with the aid of the Experiment station, furnished enough seed corn for the boys and girls interested to plant one-half a plot for demonstration. On the other half was planted the variety of corn commonly used in the community. Great contrasts in yields of the crops caused more such successful experiments.

The county superintendent of Wright county, Iowa, public schools, O. H. Benson, organized, in 1904, several clubs which were very similar to our 4-H Clubs of today. The boys and girls in these clubs carried projects such as livestock, poultry, crops, and home economics.

Through efforts by Dr. Seman A. Knapp, a representative of U. S. D. A. in 1913, several boys became interested in projects for fighting the cotton boll weevil. This was another step in the advancement of club work for rural America.

Although this movement started in only four states, it was soon spread to all forty-eight states, Canada, and the Hawaiian Islands. There are now more than 1,000,000 active 4-H members.

In 1916, Kansas' first state club leader was appointed. This was Otis E. Hall. At that time there were only a few more than 2,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H Clubs in Kansas and now that number has been raised to more than 20,000.

Kansas State College is host and hostess to a group of interested and enthusiastic youth the second week of June. These farm boys and girls, dressed in green and white uniforms, usually number over 1000.

They attend classes, participate in contests, and enter into an intricately planned program during the week. They enjoy the campus and become thoroughly acquainted with us during their stay. These members help make the event a great success as well as enjoying the program for the week. Collegiate 4-H Club members take an active part in the responsibilities for the week and plan to help the boys and girls know our campus.

The picture taken last year was the fifteenth annual Round-up group. This makes a spectacular group including the boys and girls with the state, county, and community leaders.

These boys and girls get together for classes and exchange ideas on projects, programs and other events. The radio broadcasts are important features of the Round-up and are enjoyed by all the club members.

The high point of Round-up week is the annual banquet held Friday night. Nowhere can more enthusiasm be centered than in Nicholas gymnasium on such a night when they have much fun as well as a meal and program.

It is wonderful to see these boys and girls make new acquaintances from all parts of the state of Kansas. These members gather ideas and are inspired to live a more rounded life than before.

SOCIAL PROGRESS

First place in the nation in the Social Progress contest sponsored by the Radio Corporation of America was won by the Kaw Valley 4-H Club of Shawnee county. The club with its thirty-five members under the leadership of Mrs. Will Jones and Mr. Glen Allen, was judged the most outstanding in the United States on the basis of the general activities of the club, the music appreciation and radio listening habits of the members, the social activities, the community welfare work carried on, and a radio play written by one of the club members.

As a national prize Shawnee county was awarded a combination radio and victrola valued at $450. Each of the Kaw Valley members was presented with a gold pin, and Mrs. Will Jones, local leader, Ruth Cochran, Margaret King, Marjorie Jones, Richard Scheetz, and Ray Wilkie, club members, were awarded trips to the National Club Congress in Chicago.

Progress Determines Achievement

Advancement and change result in achievement of various aims and ambitions. Recognition is given as an award for past services and a challenge for future achievement.

Embodied in the heart of the American youth is the desire to attain certain goals and ambitions. Recognition in 4-H Club work is reached through constant service and numerous sacrifices. Achievement is not an end but an incentive for higher ambitions.

Who's Who

The State Who's Who Club meets each day during Round-up week. Every 4-H Club boy and girl desires to be a Who's Who member. This club consists of the most outstanding boys and girls in the state ranking in the upper ten per cent in their county. These members must meet many requirements and are selected on their outstanding achievements.

Who's Who members are selected for leadership ability and project work and must have been a member of demonstration and judging teams. The impressive candle lighting initiation service held the last day marks the reaching of another goal.

CHICAGO TRIP

Fifty-seven state and national winners and nine adult leaders represented Kansas at the Seventeenth National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago last December. The group consisted of seven national winners, 20 state champions, and the remaining number were Rock Island and Santa Fe trip winners.

The week's stay was filled with educational and entertaining programs. Continuous daily programs afforded the delegates an opportunity to visit cultural and historic places of Chicago such as museums, art institutes, planetarium, Lincoln Park, and also representative commercial and industrial plants of the city. They included the International Harvester Company, mail order houses and Marshall Fields. The headquarters for the Kansas group were at the Congress Hotel.

The "4-H'ers" were given the opportunity to become better acquainted with their neighbor club members in Kansas as well as with others from all over the United States.

An outstanding event of this trip was the annual banquet at which time all national winners received recognition.

This educational and inspirational trip should be the goal of each club member.

WASHINGTON TRIP

Because of their superiority in junior leadership, four Kansas 4-H Club members received trips to the eleventh annual National 4-H Encampment at Washington, D. C., in June, 1937. Kansas delegates were Rosemary Parisa, Leavenworth county; Louise Shaffer, Russell county; Bob Schoffner, Geary county; and Fred Talbot, Riley county.

The delegates were privileged to meet and hear many outstanding speakers and take educational tours of Washington. Discussion meetings provided opportunity for all those present to participate.

For those who attended, this camp proved, not only a reward for good leadership, but an inspiration to continue leadership in 4-H Club work.

WASHINGTON TRIP

Four Kansas club members will represent their state at the twelfth annual National 4-H Encampment to be held at Washington, D. C., in June this year. Winners of this trip are John Kepley, Bourbon county; Marcella Beat, Kingman county; Patricia Beezley, Crawford county; and Oscar Norby, Jr., Pratt county.

MASTER 4-H CLUB

A group of outstanding club members organized a Master Club in 1929 at the seventh annual 4-H Club Round-up for Washington trip winners. Each year two boys and two girls are selected to go to Washington as a result of outstanding achievements.

The Master Club meets each year on Master Club day at the 4-H Club Round-up in June. New members are initiated and a banquet is held in their honor. The 1938 Washington trip winners are Marcella Beat, Kingman; Patricia Beezley, Crawford; John Kepley, Bourbon; and Oscar Norby, Jr., Pratt.

The trip winners spend one week at the National 4-H Club Encampment in Washington, D. C. There are many new experiences in store for them as well as learning what other states accomplish. These members are taken on many educational trips about the city to inspire them further.

The officers for the coming year are president, Bob Shoffner; vice-president, Violet Bauer; secretary-treasurer, Betty Brown; historian, Frank Zitnik.

AMERICAN YOUTH FOUNDATION

For the past 25 years the sand dunes of Camp Miniwanca have been the summer home and school for young people ranging from 11 to 25 years of age.

The camp is maintained under the auspices of the American Youth Foundation for the development of young people and for the four-fold planning of living; that is, physical, mental, social, and religious.

Youth Advances Through Knowledge

Youth is persistently striving for greater knowledge. Although activities provided in 4-H Club work contribute knowledge and experience, additional training is provided by colleges and other institutions of higher learning.

The desire to advance through knowledge is revealed in the large number of former 4-H Club members now enrolled in Kansas State College. A common interest in farm life is manifested in the Collegiate 4-H Club. The size, activities, and interests of this unique organization relate its value to the rural youth.

COLLEGIATE 4-H CLUB

The Collegiate 4-H Club

The Collegiate Club was organized in December, 1927, with about 60 members. In 1928, the club assumed the responsibility of publishing the Who's Whoot and organized a 15-piece orchestra. In 1929, a loan fund was established amounting to $1000 and has since been increased. This same year the club held a dinner-dance which has become an annual affair. A collegiate quartette also was organized in 1929 and has been continued since that time. In 1932, the club voted to elect officers twice each year and to recognize annually a few seniors who render the greatest service. Those seniors elected for the year 1937-1938 are Francis Blaes, Joe Wetta, Richard King, Violet Bauer, and Margaret Wilson. In 1933, the club offered $500 to the college for a talking picture machine for the auditorium. In 1934, the club sponsored the first statewide conference of Rural Life Associations which is now an annual affair. In 1935, they appropriated $250 for a portable project machine for talking pictures, and purchased 4-H Club dishes for the new 4-H Club building at the Kansas State Fair. In 1936, the club sponsored the second annual meeting of the American Country Life Association held in Manhattan. They sent Margaret Wilson as a delegate to the American Foundation Camp at Shelby, Michigan. In 1937, they were hosts to the annual meeting of the American Country Life Association in Manhattan. They also took an active part in the movement to secure a student union building for the college and contributed to the iron lung fund for Manhattan.

Each year the Collegiate 4-H Club sponsors radio programs besides being hosts to the many meetings mentioned above. The club also takes an active part in Round-up plans for the entire week each year. Besides these special club activities the club helps with many campus activities. Collegiate members as a whole are interested in furthering worthwhile work.

DINNER DANCE

Every Collegiate 4-H member looks forward to the annual dinner dance. The ninth dinner dance was held at the Presbyterian Church December 11. Francis Blaes, Dickinson county, presided as toastmaster. Judge Karl Miller of Dodge City was the featured speaker of the evening. His clever comparison of Kansas farming with European farming amused all in attendance and furnished them considerable food for thought. Professor Norman Webster entertained with witty readings.

For the third consecutive year the Spencer family "brought home the bacon" when Norman won the membership trophy.

The dinner, served by soft candle light, was in keeping with the blue and silver decorations of the holiday season.

After dinner the members swung out to Skippy Vincent's orchestra in the Avalon Ballroom, where blue and silver was repeated in interesting decorations.

COLLEGIATE

Three hundred forty members compose the Collegiate 4-H Club this year. These members are those men and women who have been former 4-H Club members.

The club meets twice each month for a business meeting and program following. There are many social functions held during the year with two special parties.

4-H CLUB

The annual dinner-dance is held in December and the spring formal in April. The activities of the Collegiate group are numerous and varied.

The members carry no projects but help further the ideals of club work by sponsoring youth groups that visit the campus for educational meetings and conferences.

The Fourth Annual Kansas Rural Life Association conference met at Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, February 24 to 27, 1938.

Each year the state association endeavors to bring together young people between the ages of 18 to 28 years for the purpose of considering the important problems that rural youth must face.

The Collegiate 4-H club of Kansas State College sponsored the conference. To President F. D. Farrell of Kansas State College, Dr. Eugene Merritt, Senior Economist of the Extension Service of the U.S.D.A., and Dr. E. L. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Youth Advisory Committee of the American Youth Commission go thanks for valuable assistance.

Officers elected for 1938 are: John Moore, Johnson county, president; Mildred Schrepel, Pratt county, vice-president; John Le Clerc, Rice county, vice-president; and Claude Kimbrell, Montgomery county, secretary-treasurer.

The retiring officers are: Orville Moody, Riley county, president; Evans Banbury, Pratt county, vice-president; Margaret Gilchrist, Franklin county, vice-president; and Robert Nason, Shawnee county, secretary-treasurer.

The Kansas City Stock Yards Co.

Two great educational and service institutions, the American Royal and the Kansas City Stock Yards Co., salute another great educational institution, the 4-H Clubs of Kansas, on completion of another year's commendable work.

The American Royal Live Stock and Horse Show, the "show-window" of the most fascinating of all industries, invites all 4-H Club members to participate in making the 1938 show an outstanding achievement.

The American Royal is your opportunity for eight days of pleasure and profit.

The Kansas City Stock Yards Co. invites all 4-H Club boys and girls to visit the great, open, competitive market at Kansas City.

The finest animals you can possibly grow will not bring 100% justified returns unless they are marketed through the proper channel—the open, competitive market—where many buyers and nation-wide demand assure the producer the highest possible price for his animals.

And remember, all price raises originate at the open, competitive markets.
