WAR TIME THANKSGIVING ON THE HOME FRONT

"We thank God for our young people; that those who have found graves in war have died in honor, and that those who live, live in fidelity. For this maturity and steadfastness of youth--for this strong fiber of tomorrow's America--we are grateful."--Frank W. McDonough, Editor, Better Homes and Gardens.

PRESIDENT ALEFS REPORTING

"The National Convention is the most inspiring meeting I have ever had the pleasure of attending. The fellows you meet are 'tops'. When a group of boys get together and conduct their meeting in such an orderly manner, it's pretty swell. Most of the delegates present were State Farmer members and nearly all were state officers. If all of you fellows will cooperate in building and executing strong chapter programs of work, and give your support to the state program of work, the Kansas Association of Future Farmers of America will get something worth while accomplished this year."

TEXT FOR A SERMON

Of the twenty-five chapters failing to file Programs of Work with the state office by November 1, 1943, TWENTY were not in attendance at the district FFA Leadership Schools.

1943 DISTRICT FFA LEADERSHIP SCHOOLS

The first district FFA "Officers Training School" was sponsored by the Shawnee Mission chapter in 1931. Each year since, with the exception of 1942, district FFA Leadership Schools have been conducted in Kansas.

The 1943 district FFA Leadership Schools were held in twelve centers, the centers being selected with a view to equalizing the travel distance. Thirty-two chapters did not attend any Leadership School. This is not surprising when one considers the tire situation, as well as the polio situation, during the time the Leadership Schools were being held. The fact remains, however, that the FFA officers and advisers from the chapters not in attendance, did miss out on considerable inspiration and worth while information of very great value in the proper conduct of FFA chapters.

The purpose of the FFA Leadership School might be classified in three categories, namely: (1) ritualistic improvement; (2) broaden knowledge of the FFA; (3) exchange of ideas on building and executing a worth while program of work.

The 1943 FFA Leadership Schools were organized in such a manner as to give maximum emphasis to boy participation. A majority of the local chapter advisers brought their FFA officers to the meetings prepared to participate, while a few came totally unprepared. Much credit for the success of the 1943 FFA Leadership Schools must be given to the state and national FFA officers who assisted, and to the cooperation of the local chapters assigned special roles on the program.

The following rankings will be of interest to all FFA members and advisers who attended a Leadership School, and should prove of interest to all Future Farmer members.

The high five individuals in the state in the FFA Information Contest:

The FFA Creed was given at each of the 12 Leadership Schools, except at the Colby school where the boy who was prepared to give the Creed was prevented from attending by public health regulations. More use should be made of the FFA Creed by local chapters. This is one of the finest--if not the best--youth organization Creeds extant. Kansas FFA members should be especially proud of the Creed, since it was written by a native Kansan. E. M. Tiffany, the author, was born and grew to manhood on a farm near Lyndon, Kansas. He graduated from the Lyndon High School, received a B. S. from Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, in 1915; taught a few years in Kansas High Schools, and at the time of writing the FFA Creed, was in agricultural education work in Wisconsin. Every FFA member in Kansas, as well as every adult FFA leader, should be grateful to Mr. Tiffany for his splendid contribution to the idealism of the Future Farmers of America.

The following FFA members contributed to the success of the district FFA leadership schools by reciting the FFA Creed:

Bill Dagget, Lawrence Chapter

Much credit must be given the following FFA boy leaders for the success of the Leadership Schools: Third National Vice President George Stelter, the state officer group--Alefs, Lukert, Overbaugh, Jarrett, and Sawatzky and immediate past state officers, Thalmann and Barnes. In the opinion of you executive adviser, Erwin Thalmann did the best job of presenting the state FFA Program of Work and the relation of the local chapter thereto, of any of the boy leaders. Kenneth Kruse, Fairview chapter, was "tops" in presenting the FFA Creed--letter perfect, pronunciation, enunciation, timing, and emphasis excellent.

The Moundridge chapter placed four boys--first, second, third, and fourth in the FFA Information contest at the district FFA Leadership School held at Buhler. All the boys were named Goering, but were not all brothers. Three of them were officers, one a substitute.

Discoveries (?): FFA officers (and advisers) know too little about the FFA; Ritualistic performance can be improved; parliamentary procedure should be given more emphasis; and more use should be made of the FFA Creed.

Leadership Schools (Concluded)

Announcement: A Fifteen Year History of the FFA in Kansas (if the printer ever gets it printed) will be made the basis of part of the next year's FFA Information Contest.

The state office is awaiting suggestions as to method of improving the FFA Leadership Schools in 1944.

WHY I PLAN TO REMAIN ON THE FARM*

by

Dale Sterner, Chapman, Kansas

(Winner of First Place in 1943 State FFA Public Speaking Contest)

Because I believe in the future of farming, I plan to remain on the farm. Agriculture, man's oldest industry will continue to be one of the most important as long as humanity exists. Food and clothing, two of the necessities of life, are the products of agriculture. History clearly reveals the definite relationship between a healthy civilization and a progressive agriculture.

I am happy to be identified with the occupation of farming which is playing such a vital part in our present emergency. Everybody is interested in good farming for if the farm is not well managed, the people generally will not have enough to eat and clothes will be too costly. Our national leaders recognize this fact and become alarmed when any phase of agriculture shows disintegration.

In choosing an occupation one must carefully consider several essential factors. It is a study of these factors that convinces me to make farming my life's occupation. Living things inspire me to activity. I enjoy tilling the soil, the growing of crops and the production of animals. The relationship and continuity of growing things on the farm are a never ending source of interest and satisfaction.

In addition to loving this life, I am proud to become a link in the chain of agricultural ancestry of my family. My father, my grandfather, and my great grandfather were farmers and I have inherited the love of the soil which induced my ancestors to become successful farmers in their respective generations.

I am physically qualified to become a farmer. Having been raised on the farm I have experienced typical farm labor at all seasons of the year and am glad to be able to do the hard work which is associated with farming.

Another reason for choosing farming as my occupation is that the vocation of farming is economically sound. Many occupations offer an uncertain future. It is a generally accepted fact that the prosperity of the community, the state and nation depends upon the prosperity of its farmers. Increased farmer purchasing power results in the consumption of manufactured goods, which in turn creates jobs for non-farming people. This makes for a general national prosperity.

*The winning speech in the state public speaking contest is never printed in the Kansas Future Farmer newsletter until after the Regional contest. Lack of space prohibited the publishing of Mr. Sterner's speech in the September and October issues.

Why I Plan To Remain on the Farm (Continued)

The farmer is expected to, yes, is required to feed the nation in times of war and of peace. The cave men lived by the hunt but it took all the time of everybody to get enough to eat. Even so, they often failed, and famine, misery and anxiety were the common lot of man. We have found a better way. By good farming less than half the people need to think of the food supply while the rest can go about their business doing other things essential in furnishing the comforts and luxuries of life. It was a great thing to get this food business organized upon a safe basis and those who undertake to provide it must not neglect their responsibility. They must know their business well, and all of us must know and appreciate the full meaning of farming. I am glad to be associated with a vocation that has always been essential to the well being of mankind.

Again, the farmer is independent as far as independence is enjoyed by any class. He sets his own time to begin work and to do the jobs which constitute his task. Organized labor does not dictate to him. Independence is truly a blessing to the individual and one which the majority of workers do not have.

The rugged, wholesome environment of the farm gives the background for the development of leadership. Many of our leaders of the past have had a farming background. One day in New York City two young mid-western men were being shown through the offices of one of the five largest industrial corporations in America. The guide pointed to the long rows of private offices occupied by the outstanding and well paid officers of the company and said, "More than 75 per cent of those men grew up in the rural areas of the middle west."

The farm offers a splendid place to establish a home and to raise a family. The home is the essential factor in the business of farming. It is a part of the experience of the tenant farmer, as well as of the farmer who owns and operates his farm. Farm children early in life are taught to assume responsibility. Their experience is varied and wholesome. The surroundings are pleasant, the air is pure and life is lived as I think our Creator intended it to be lived. These advantages of the farm home, too often unappreciated by many of us, are frequently sought by successful business men when they establish residences outside the city limits. These suburban homes are established primarily to give their children the advantages commonly found on only the farm.

The farm is the place to grow the family's food supply. We all recognize that food is man's first necessity. By growing the food supply on the farm, one is assured of sufficiency, as well as high quality of products. An adequate diet is essential. Every man is a cog in our national emergency machine. In time of war, even sickness is an asset to our enemies. If a man is sick, and fails in his work, the machine refuses to function properly. We must exert every effort to maintain health and we know that good food is playing a vital role in maintaining the health of the nation.

Finally, I must and I wish to earn my living. Income is one of the measures of the success of a business. Intelligent, planned farming produces a reasonable income, and more than that, a reasonable security. The farmer who practices diversification has many sources of income. Very seldom is there a complete failure on the farm. While the net income of the farmer is lower than that earned by many workers, the security of the vocation of farming is one of its most important compensating factors.

Future Farmers, together, let us strive to create that respect for farm life which you and I possess because we love farm life, the farm life that is too frequently misunderstood because of misrepresentation. With faith let us look forward and with courage let us work toward the dawn of a new and better day for the vocation we love.

Why I Plan to Remain on the Farm (Concluded)

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

There is no question but what a meeting of the House of Delegates of the Kansas Association of Future Farmers of America next spring would result in unlimited good for the FFA, but whether or not such a meeting should be held is a mooted question. Some FFA adult leaders believe such a meeting would be in order if conditions remain the same. Any favorable development in either the war situation or the tire situation would enhance the possibility of holding a House of Delegates meeting. The state office plans to seek local adviser opinion on this question soon after the holiday season, and will be guided largely by the recommendations of the local FFA advisers. It is not too early to give the subject careful consideration.

CHAPTER NEWS

SENECA: Officers for this year are: Joe Krogman, president; Leonard Gress, vice president; Paul Wempe, secretary; Harry Droge, treasurer; Herman Smith, reporter....We have 25 Future Farmers at the present and hope to raise our membership to 100 per cent. We hold a meeting each Monday. The program at our meetings consist of discussing what other chapters are doing, fun skits, talks by members, debates, specials, and parliamentary procedure practice. We have a guest speaker at most of our meetings....Our officers attended the Leadership School held at Sabetha, and won fourth place in the FFA Information contest....We are planning a parent-son banquet for this fall....On October 26, our chapter was host to a joint initiation of Green Hands for the chapters of our county. Sabetha and Centralia met with us. All three chapters took part in the initiation ceremony and program. Lynn Lukert, of Sabetha, vice president of the Kansas Association, talked to us about, "The FFA in Kansas." The show, "The Green Hand," was shown to the group by Mr. Pitman.

--Herman Smith, Reporter

BURLINGTON: Our officers attended the Emporia Leadership School this year. The officers are: Neal Kelly, president; Jim Jaumerig, vice president; Wayne Keith, secretary; Edward Heywald, treasurer; Jarold Sparks, reporter; W. H. Patterson, adviser; Bill Thompson, watch dog....We had our annual watermelon feed this year which was attended by a number of new members....We have purchased a new hoist and a number of other improvements are being made about the shop....Our chapter is going strong and Mr. Patterson, our new adviser, is getting things done.

--Jarold Sparks, Reporter

A New York City boy on arrival at Camp Phillips near Salina, Kansas, wrote home, "This is a big, wonderful country. No matter how far west you go there are still evidences of human life."--Lyons News.

GEORGE STELTER REPORTING

Immediate Past 3rd National Vice President

I wish to take this opportunity to discuss with you Future Farmers of Kansas some of the major activities I have taken part in since I became your representative on the National Board of Trustees.

First, I wish to remind you that our organization is strictly democratic, and all business is handled by the National Board of Trustees or on the convention floor; every measure which is proposed by any authorized group must be reviewed by the boy officers and recommended.

Being your regional representative I have had the privilege of doing things and meeting people which otherwise would not have been possible.

As I had only about 100 days in which to do a year's job, I was kept mighty busy. The trip to Washington, D. C., to attend a meeting of the National Board of Trustees and to review and pass on the American Farmer Degree applications, was the first event of major importance. While in Washington, we had the privilege of visiting with Mr. Claud R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture. I had a very enjoyable dinner with Dr. J. C. Wright, Assistant Commissioner of Education, and as your representative, was privileged to view many sights which no civilian could today hope to see.

My return trip to the east and southern region where I had the great honor of being the guest of the Virginia Association of Future Farmers of America and attending their joint Rally with the Future Home Makers of Virginia, might be listed as the second event of major importance. While in Virginia I had the opportunity of visiting extensively with Mr. Henry C. Groseclose, better known as the Founder of FFA.

The third activity of major importance had to do with the preparation for and the holding of the 16th National Convention of the Future Farmers of America at Kansas City. You doubtless do not realize the great amount of work and preparation necessary to the holding a well organized national convention.

I traveled over 10,000 miles in the interest of the National Organization of Future Farmers of America, and received $408.30 for travel expense.

Serving you as your 3rd National Vice President has been the richest highlight of my life, an experience I will never forget. I cannot find words adequate to express my gratitude to you fellow Future Farmers for allowing me this privilege.

It was my pleasure to assist state Executive Adviser, A. P. Davidson, with four of the district FFA Leadership Schools. I sincerely regret that conflicting dates with the meeting of the National Board of Trustees and the FFA convention made it impossible for me to attend more of the district FFA Leadership Schools in Kansas

In closing, I merely wish to say, "thank you."

--George Stelter

Not long ago in a little town in southern Pennsylvania the postman went for a walk one Sunday afternoon. He wore his gray postman's uniform and walked out into the country. He never came back. Several days later an old farmer came to town and during a conversation was heard to remark: "When I was a huntin' t'other day I seen one o' them danged Confederates in the woods, so I shot 'im."

MY TRIP TO THE NATIONAL FFA CONVENTION

by
Robert Johnston

Lynn Lukert, State Vice President, and I drove to Kansas City with State Executive Adviser A. P. Davidson Sunday afternoon, October 10. When we arrived at our hotel we met Irwin Alefs, our state president. We checked in, then went to eat dinner, and spent the evening in getting acquainted with other FFA delegates and state and national officials.

Monday morning we went to the auditorium and registered. After the opening session of the convention we had the afternoon off. Being farm boys we went out to the stockyards to look around. There were only about 45,000 head of cattle on hand as compared with the 65,000 head of a week or so later. Monday evening Mr. Davidson and I ate at one of the cafeterias while Irwin and Lynn enjoyed a banquet. However, Mr. Davidson and I attended the program which followed the banquet and arrived in time to enjoy the pictures shown by our fellow Kansan, George Stelter, National 3rd Vice President.

Tuesday was the important day for me when I was awarded the American Farmer degree in the afternoon, and named Star Farmer of Kansas that evening.

I sincerely hope that many more boys may receive this degree in years to come. Next year I hope the convention will again have normal attendance with many of our members now in the armed forces home and present at the meetings.

I would like to thank Mr. John Mathre, my vocational agricultural instructor and chapter adviser, and everyone who has helped me win the American Farmer degree.

1942 FARM, FOOD, AND FIBRE FACTS IN THE U.S.

by E. J. Johnson, Acting Federal Agent, Agricultural Education.

Farmers do not get decorated for producing food.

Farmers' hens laid an average of a billion eggs a week.

Food from 42,000 acres eaten by workers building a 35,000 ton battleship.

Food from a quarter section eaten by workers building a bomber.

Food from 43 acres eaten by workers building a tank.

We eat 52 pounds of fat yearly or 39 per cent as much as a soldier.

We eat 104 pounds of sugar yearly and 29 per cent is produced in continental U.S. and 15 per cent comes from the Phillipines.

Fats are needed by men and for munitions and hogs produce more fat than beef, with the same amount of grain; therefore we produced leaner beef and hogs that are larger and fatter.

Milked 25 million cows or enough milk to fill a lake 150' wide, 31' deep and 75'miles long.

We send overseas to Lend-Lease and our armed forces 50 per cent of our cheese, 58 per cent of our dried skim milk, 32 per cent of our evaporated milk, 80 per cent of our dried milk powder and 15 per cent of our butter.
