Published by the students of Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, Manhattan, Kansas. This yearbook attempts to portray college life in the transition from the provincialism of the pre-war period to the expanded interests of a new internationalism.

Dedication

This book is dedicated to the student whose final briefing was not for the maturity of life such as we are getting at college. It was for the flight over Nagoya that quiet night last spring. It was for the last painful hour in the foxhole near Mt. Cassino. It was for an ever-widening ripple in an ocean half a world from home. This book is also dedicated to our determination to build a world in which sacrifices such as he made need never be necessary.

There's a new student at Kansas State. He brings new theories, new needs and new, challenging questions.

Some say you can spot him by his discharge button, but a more infallible way is to observe his attitude in class. He is serious and constructive. The questions he asks reflect his recognition of the need for an intelligent understanding of problems at hand. He seldom deals in snap judgments—thorough study and research are the basis for his conclusions.

It may be true that he looks much like any ski-sweated collegian on the campus, but mentally he is different; for the past few years have changed him. The people and the cultures he saw in Europe, Asia, India or Japan have enlarged immeasurably his conception of human possibilities and frailties.

Our "new student" is not only changing the campus atmosphere; he is altering the world atmosphere. No longer is the world a place where man merely exists and hopes for the best Fate may will him. The new student has had enough of Fate and defeatism. Interested in world affairs, he is demanding world logic in place of provincial prejudice.

Yes, there's a "new" student—a "new" campus—and a "new" conception of the world.

The administration of the College is changing to meet the needs of the "new student." Comprehensive courses, the counselling service, the Institute of Citizenship and widespread curricula revision are indicative of this change. Many former instructors who served in the armed forces returned during the year and new professors were added to swell the faculty roster. The "new student" has found many friends among the administrative officials and faculty who help him shape his future.

MILTON S. EISENHOWER'S third year as president of Kansas State College finds him active and enthused over the future of the College and deeply interested in "the new student at Kansas State."

Eisenhower Expands College Program

A NEW era began on the Kansas State campus when Milton S. Eisenhower became President of the College three years ago. Since he took office new curriculums have been introduced in an expanded college program, a series of comprehensive courses have been devised and plans have been made to increase the college classroom and housing facilities.

For the first time in the history of the state a joint meeting of industrial and agricultural leaders was held this year. The three-day convention which the President hopes will become an annual event was held in an attempt to bring new ideas and friendlier relationships to both industry and agriculture throughout the state.

Many state leaders attended the sessions, and important men of the nation were brought to the campus for the meeting. Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, was one of the most prominent.

Besides many campus duties, President Eisenhower has been called to Washington, D. C., several times to help in reconversion activities. Two of the major problems he has cooperated on are the reorganization of the United States Department of Agriculture last summer and the settling of the General Motors strike by serving as a member of the fact-finding board appointed by President Truman in December. In February, President Eisenhower was offered the position of assistant secretary-general of the United Nations Organization. He declined in order to fulfill obligations to the College.

In March President Truman appointed Eisenhower to the Food-Famine Board, national advisory group. Because of his heavy schedule, Eisenhower declined several other offers of administrative positions.

The first graduate of Kansas State to be appointed President of the College, President Eisenhower received his degree of bachelor of Science in 1924 when he was graduated in industrial journalism. Since becoming President of Kansas State, he has had two honorary degrees conferred upon him—an honorary degree in law from the University of Wichita and a doctor's degree in science, honoris causis, from Colorado A. and M.

Mrs. Eisenhower is also a former student of the College where she is now first lady. President and Mrs. Eisenhower have two children, Milton Jr., and Ruth, who live with them in the 18-room President's home located on the campus.

Farrell, Price Assist The President

WHILE all these changes are being made on the campus, President Emeritus F. D. Farrell remains active in the affairs of the College. After serving as President for 18 years, Doctor Farrell felt that a younger man was needed to direct the College through the war years so he resigned in July, 1943.

Doctor Farrell took an active part in the first annual Industrial-Agricultural Week last fall. He regularly teaches several courses in agricultural industries and in the conservation of natural resources, as well as conducting research on rural institutions.

Besides his regular duties, Doctor Farrell serves on several important College committees, including the Federal Post-War Relations committee. The work of this group is designed to aid the President in securing much needed federal aid for the construction of new buildings and to help in the education of returning veterans. Another assignment is as a member of the committee that manages patents and promotes research carried on by the College.

Doctor Farrell received his bachelor's degree from the Utah Agricultural College, and his doctor of agriculture degree from the University of Nebraska. The degree doctor of laws was conferred on him by the Washburn Municipal University of Topeka.

Assistant to the President is C. O. Price, now in his twenty-sixth year as presidential adviser.

A large part of the business that passes through the President's office is handled by Mr. Price. Whenever the President is called out of town it is the assistant's job to keep the machinery of the College running smoothly.

Mr. Price has served as adviser to three Kansas State Presidents, and is an experienced hand at the job. In the time that he has been at the College he has watched it grow, and has done his part helping with plans and projects which promote the interests of the school and its students.

Last year the Presidential office suite was remodeled to obtain additional space and to make the entrance to the outer office face the long corridor through Anderson Hall. When the porches were removed from the front this year several more offices were provided.

Dr. F. D. Farrell is President Emeritus and a professor in the Department of Economics and Sociology. He also has several important committee assignments having to do with College administration.

C. O. Price, genial assistant to the President, is the man behind the scenes, keeps things running smoothly. He is serving under his third Kansas State President.

Governor Visits Campus Frequently

DURING the year Kansas Staters had many opportunities to see Gov. Andrew Schoepfel. He took part in the annual Homecoming events and presented the crown to the Homecoming Queen.

Governor Schoepfel was on the campus several times during the year to attend meetings and conferences that had headquarters at the College. He showed a high degree of interest in the work being done at Kansas State to further the agricultural and industrial interests throughout the state.

Among the conferences that he attended was the first annual Industrial-Agricultural Week that was held on the campus. This conference brought many of the leading men in agriculture and industry throughout the state and nation here to study ways and means that industry and agriculture could progress and add to the wealth of Kansas.

When the state-wide corn show was held in Manhattan, Governor Schoepfel was on hand to participate in the event. The corn show was conducted to study the improved varieties of corn and the new methods of raising corn in Kansas and the other great plains states.

GOV. ANDREW SCHOEPEL (right) discusses the corn show with Fay N. Seaton, Manhattan editor. Governor Schoepfel was a frequent visitor on the campus this year.

This is the home of the Kansas official governing body. The capitol is located in Topeka.

THE ruling control board of all state schools is the Board of Regents, composed of nine prominent Kansans who are appointed by the governor for a term of four years.

The board meets every month to determine the policy of each of the state schools which they govern. All new plans for building or expansion at Kansas State as well as matters of policy must pass through the Board.

Serving as head of the Board this year was Willis N. Kelly. Several times during the past year the Board or some of its members have been visitors to the College campus; during Industrial-Agricultural Week the Board met in Manhattan.

Kansas State has been under the control of the Board of Regents since 1863. One of the first changes it instituted was the shift of College teaching policy from emphasis on the classics to practical and technical training.

Thackrey Is Dean

Dean Russell I. Thackrey assists the President with the administration of the College, serves as chairman of several College committees, is Director of the Summer School and is in charge of all public relations for the school.

DEAN R. I. Thackrey was appointed dean of Administration two years ago to assist President Eisenhower in establishing curricula which would meet the post-war changes of the College.

Dean Thackrey received his Bachelor of Science and Master's degrees from the College, and was head of the Department of Industrial Journalism and Printing from 1940 until 1944. In May, 1943, he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Navy and remained in the service until called back to the College in the fall of 1944. President Eisenhower requested his return so that he might aid in drawing up the veterans' program and in correlating the various changes in curricula. Another of Dean Thackrey's duties is that of being Director of the Summer School.

The Dean is chairman of many faculty committees. As chairman of the Educational Adjustments committee he serves on a general committee on education which promotes teaching methods and courses that encourage integrated habits of thinking, urges the liberalization of technical curricula and has charge of courses not leading to a degree.

Dean Thackrey is chairman of the Public Relations committee and as such heads the five sub-committees which coordinate all public relations of the College. He chairs the committee on honorary degrees and a committee which coordinates the work of the comprehensive courses. Other committee assignments include work on budget, College calendar and student assemblies.

During the spring semester of this year, Dean Thackrey taught a course in the journalism department. "Formation of Public Opinion" was its title and it dealt with propaganda, pressure groups and other ways in which the press and communication agencies mold opinion.

College Administrators

THE first contact which each prospective student has with Kansas State College is with the Office of Admissions, headed by Dr. S. A. Nock. This office sends out College catalogs, records high school transcripts and advises all new students as to entrance requirements. Every application for enrollment at Kansas State must be approved by the Director of Admissions.

The former vice president of the College, Doctor Nock has travelled extensively and holds degrees from Haverford College, Carleton College and Tartu University, Estonia.

The position of College Comptroller was added to the College administration last fall. A. R. Jones was appointed to the office as supervisor of the college spending program. His duty consists of the planning and disbursing of all funds of the College which are used for supplies and equipment.

This year much of his work has centered upon the housing problem; he was instrumental in obtaining the hundred trailer houses which are being used by veterans and their families until adequate housing may be secured elsewhere.

Comptroller Jones handled the collection of student fees and paid refunds for laboratory fees not entirely used during the year.

Director of Admissions is the title now held by Dr. S. A. Nock. He was formerly vice-president of the College.

A. R. Jones was named College Comptroller this year to supervise the college spending program. Much of his time was spent on the housing problem this year.

Miss Mary Kimball is College Registrar. Her job is to supervise and keep up to date all the College records, grades, graduation lists.

Aid Students In Various Ways

CONNECTED with the Office of Admissions is the registrar's office. The position of registrar is held by Miss Mary Kimball who was appointed to the job of "keeper of the records" in 1944.

Through her office all records of present and past students may be obtained. With the return of many servicemen who were formerly enrolled, her duties have increased greatly. This office supervises the registration of students, keeps records of all grades, records enrollment figures and prepares graduation lists.

Second semester of this year the prewar schedule went into effect and registration of students was in Nichols Gymnasium instead of Anderson Hall.

The job of supervising the campus coeds belongs to Miss Helen Moore, Dean of Women. Her job includes the now difficult problem of helping women students to find rooms while attending college.

Offering advice and helping the college woman solve any problems that come up during her college career keeps Dean Moore busy with conferences while in her office on the hill.

Hours and rules for women's houses are given out through Dean Moore's office. If any women want to work while attending school, the Dean helps them secure a job.

Dr. A. A. Holtz is Dean of Men, YMCA secretary and professor of economics and sociology, although almost any student on the campus knows him as "Doc."

Doctor Holtz' office maintains a student employment bureau for use by any student. As men's adviser Doctor Holtz has had supervision over men's housing. This year, with the sudden increase in enrollment and the return of many veterans with their families, housing has become a real problem. Trailer Town, or Campus Courts as it has been named, was established on the campus; part of the stadium was converted into a men's dormitory; and other facilities were created to supplement inadequate apartment and rooming space.

Other administrative duties of Doctor Holtz include membership on several important campus committees.

K-STATE'S DEAN OF WOMEN, Miss Helen Moore, has the job of supervising campus coeds. She gives help and advice to women students throughout their college careers.

DR. A. A. HOLTZ is Dean of Men, and YMCA secretary at the College. "Doc," as he is known to most college students, is constantly sought by students to help iron out the difficulties that arise in college life.

Any facts concerning the history of Kansas State may be secured from Dr. J. T. Willard, Kansas State College historian.

Alumni Secretary Kenney L. Ford keeps tab on all Kansas State alumni, plans the reunions and writes the Alumni News for The Industrialist.

Three Assist With College Administration

Dr. R. R. Snook, head of the Department of Student Health, supervises the medical service which is available to each student upon payment of the student activity fee.

For any information that concerns the history of Kansas State, Dr. J. T. Willard is the man to see. Officially known as historian, Dr. Willard has served the College all but 16 of the 83 years that it has been operating.

During the time that Dr. Willard has been with the College he has served as professor of chemistry, dean of the Division of General Science and Vice-President. In 1940 he published a book, "History of Kansas State College."

Alumni Secretary Kenny L. Ford keeps the records of all Kansas State graduates up to date. With the end of the war and the return of many men to the United States it is up to him to encourage all K-Staters to return to school and complete their college training.

Dr. R. R. Snook is the Director of the student health department. He supervises physical entrance examinations that are required of all students attending Kansas State. Dr. Snook is assisted by Dr. Fred H. Morley who is new to the campus.

Woolf Is Counselor

Prof. M. D. Woolf, director of the new student personnel department came to Kansas State this year from the University of Wisconsin.

A NEW department was set up at Kansas State during the past year. Known as the department of student personnel, it is directed by Dr. Maurice D. Woolf, who is new to Kansas State.

Dr. Woolf came here from the University of Wisconsin where he conducted an office similar to the one just established at the College. A professor of psychology, Dr. Woolf received his bachelor's degree at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, and his master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Missouri.

The new department was established especially to give aid and advice to returning servicemen. However, all new students will be interviewed by the department and given tests to determine the fields for which they are best fitted. From now on, all new students enrolling in the College will be required to take the tests. From the results of the tests, students will receive advice in choosing the curriculum best fitted to their abilities.

Doctor Woolf maps out the College program that will give the student the greatest benefit, and will require the length of time he wants to spend in school.

To help each student achieve his professional choice, Dr. Woolf this year set up a Freshman Counseling Program under which each freshman is assigned a faculty adviser who guides the student in his curriculum, vocational objectives and adjustment to college life. A complete record on the student's college career is kept in Dr. Woolf's office, to be used later in job placement of the individual.

New students are given tests and advice made available by the counseling office. From now on all students enrolling at Kansas State for the first time will be required to take the tests.

School Of Arts and Sciences

THE sight of many veterans on the hill marks the beginning of post-war plans for the School of Arts and Sciences. For with the returning veteran comes a large increase in the school's enrollment, and it is again the largest school in the College. Second semester the enrollment of the school was over 1200 students as compared to 800 first semester and less than 500 last year.

In land grant colleges, such as Kansas State, the classical studies are replaced by work in the sciences and in professional and vocational subjects. It is the province of the departments grouped in this school to give this basic scientific and cultural training.

The School of Arts and Science is divided into 17 departments and two new options in the field of general science that students may follow in securing their college degrees. Option A offers opportunity for major work in English, language, speech (including dramatics and radio) and art. Option B includes major work in economics, sociology, psychology, personnel management and guidance, history and government.

Dr. Rodney W. Babcock is dean of Arts and Sciences and during his 16 years here he has won a warm spot in the hearts of every student.

Assistant Dean L. E. Hudiburg received his B.S. degree at Kansas State Teachers' College and his M.S. here at Kansas State. Recording cuts, straightening curriculum entanglements and changing assignments are only part of the activities carried on by Assistant Dean Hudiburg.

Perhaps the most drastically changed curriculum on the campus is found in the School of Arts and Sciences. This year new comprehensive courses designed to give the college student a wider view of world cultures, thoughts and actions were introduced in this department. The four comprehensives, which together cover the main fields of study, were designed and prepared by College faculty members from nearly every department.

Center of much student activity and many social functions is Anderson Hall which houses the major part of the College administrative staff and the offices of the School of Arts and Sciences.

Dean Rodney L. Babcock is head of the largest school on the campus. All of the departments of the Arts and Sciences School are under his supervision.

The courses that were set up starting this year were Man's Physical World, Biology in Relation to Man, Man and the Cultural World and Man and the Social World.

These courses are planned to complement the student's major field; through them every student will have contact with all of the general fields of knowledge.

The basis of Man's Physical World is to present as complete an idea as possible of the entire non-living world. It is designed to provide students with a brief working knowledge of the subject matter of the physical science fields designated as astronomy, geology, physics and chemistry.

Biology in Relation to Man is concerned with the study of life and life processes with special emphasis upon man's place in the world of living things and his interrelationship with them. Life is interpreted as an integrative process which results in a dynamic whole.

The comprehensive which deals with relations among men is known as Man and the Social World. The subject matter of this course is derived from four major fields of social sciences—history, political science, sociology and economics. The course is intended to develop a keen sense of the responsibilities and duties of a citizen, and a desire to participate actively in the affairs of the community.

Where we get our culture, and what makes it, is the problem studied by students taking Man and the Cultural World. It deals with the use of scientific spirit and scientific methods of evaluating experiences. It is an orientation to the world culture's history, philosophy, religion, literature, music, art and architecture.

The professors who were instrumental in laying out the new comprehensive courses were headed by four men. Prof. A. B. Sperry directed the work on Man's Physical World. The work on Biology in Relation to Man was directed by Prof. M. J. Harbaugh. Dr. Fred Parrish headed the group that planned Man and the Cultural World, and Dr. W. E. Grimes was chairman of those who planned Man and the Social World.

The work of helping direct the Arts and Sciences school is the job of Asst. Dean L. E. Hudliburg.

These professors head the various departments in the School of Arts and Sciences: Prof. M. F. Ahearn, Dr. D. J. Ameel, Prof. W. F. Baehr, Dr. L. D. Bushnell and Dr. A. B. Cardwell.

EIGHTEEN department heads aid Dean Babcock and Assistant Dean Hudiburg in the administration of the School of Arts and Sciences.

Prof. M. F. "Mike" Ahearn is head of the Physical Education Department. For 26 years he has been Director of Athletics at Kansas State, and although he has reached the retirement age, he was asked to continue in this capacity until a younger man could take over. In March Hobbs Adams was named the new athletics director.

This year Dr. D. J. Ameel took over as head of the Department of Zoology when Dr. J. E. Ackert retired.

W. F. Baehr, a graduate of the University of Illinois, is completing his third year as Professor and College Librarian.

The head of the bacteriology department is Dr. L. D. Bushnell who first came to the College in 1908. During his service here he has conducted a great number of research projects.

Dr. A. B. Cardwell, physics department head, has returned from a leave of absence. While he was on leave he did war research in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

A botany class taught by Prof. A. L. Goodrich takes advantage of a sunny afternoon to examine leaf specimens on the campus.

Prof. H. W. Davis, Dr. W. E. Grimes, Dr. H. T. Hill, Dr. E. L. Holton and Dr. H. H. King head departments in the School of Arts and Sciences.

For the past 25 years the Department of English has been under the direction of Prof. H. W. Davis.

One of the few dual positions on the campus is held by Dr. W. E. Grimes, head of both the Department of Economics and Sociology and the Department of Agricultural Economics. Doctor Grimes is often called upon by agricultural and economic committees in Washington to give his opinion on economic problems of the nation.

The speech department is headed by Dr. Howard T. Hill who has served the College for 26 years.

The Department of Education is headed by Dr. E. L. Holton who received his A. B. degree at Indiana University and his Ph.D. at Columbia University.

Dr. H. H. King is head of the chemistry department. Nearly every student comes in contact with this department sometime during his college career, no matter what field he is in.

In 1944 Prof. R. R. Lashbrook became head of the Department of Industrial Journalism and Printing. He is one of the few Kansas State graduates to return to his alma mater as a department head.

A class in physics sets up an experiment to make actual experience a supplement to text book theories.

Each spring and fall students in freehand drawing classes take advantage of the weather as they relax beneath trees to sketch the ivy covered buildings.

NEW to the campus is Prof. L. O. Leavengood who this year assumed the duties of the head of the Department of Music. Professor Leavengood came here from Arizona State Teachers' College, Temple, Ariz. where he was head of the department of music. He was graduated from Kansas University, took graduate work at the Mozarteum Academy at Salzburg, Austria, and received his degree of master of music from the University of Michigan.

Prof. L. E. Melchers is the head of the Department of Botany. Professor Melchers obtained his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Ohio State University. Since coming to Kansas State he has traveled over a large part of the world studying plant life in other corners of the globe. Professor Melchers is also plant pathologist for the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Head of the Department of Modern Languages is Dr. Fritz Moore. He received his doctor's degree from the University of Illinois in 1932.

Dr. F. S. Parrish who received his Ph.D. from Yale heads Kansas State's department of History and Government. Besides directing the work in his department, Doctor Parrish was instrumental in the establishment of the new comprehensive courses.

Head of the department of Entomology, Dr. Roger C. Smith also serves as entomologist for the Agricultural Experiment Station. During the war Doctor Smith was on leave of absence as an allocations specialist in biology and agriculture for the Federal Manpower Commission.

Dr. W. T. Stratton who received his college training at Indiana University is the head of the Department of Mathematics. In order to give students a sound background in mathematics, the courses in the department have been revised.

Last year Major Delos C. Taylor took command of Kansas State's Department of Military Science and Tactics. He was not new to the College, as he received both his bachelor's and master's degrees in Civil Engineering here. He had been on the staff of the military department at Kansas University when he was transferred to Kansas State.

It is in the School of Arts and Sciences that students of the other four schools of the College take basic required courses in history, English, speech, languages, biological and physical sciences, physical education and the comprehensives.

Offering the broadest field of learning, the school is the largest and perhaps the best known on the campus.

FOUR OF THE other department heads are Dr. F. L. Parrish, Dr. R. C. Smith, Dr. W. T. Stratton and Major D. C. Taylor.

School Of Agriculture

WITH the opening of Kansas State College on September 2, 1863, the school of agriculture opened its doors and admitted the first students.

The school is one of the most widely known of its kind anywhere in the world. Many of the leading colleges of the country have teachers in their agricultural department who were trained at Kansas State.

With the war over and enrollment on the increase, the School of Agriculture is making plans to help returning veterans and new students get the most from their college work. One of the first jobs of the department will be to regain the teaching staff that it had before the war. Nearly one-third of the faculty members in the School of Agriculture are or have been in the armed forces.

To meet the needs of returning veterans, the School of Agriculture is establishing a special two-year vocational training program, and is setting up refresher courses.

In the different departments of the division many "firsts" in research have been developed.

Among these the first attempt to systematize the forecasting of farm prices was made at Kansas State. The first egg laying contest that was ever held in the United States was conducted by the poultry department.

For 35 years the milling department has been functioning and at the present time it is the only one of its type in the world. Another first at Kansas State College was the work to find the effect of alfalfa upon the moisture of the subsoil. Since the research was carried on it has resulted in the saving of many thousands of dollars for Kansas farmers.

As a result of a governmental order to all mills to increase flour output by using more of the whole grain, the College mill had to make extensive changes in its milling equipment. Famine relief in European countries was the immediate aim of the federal order.

The North border of the campus is outlined by the two agriculture buildings. West and East Waters Hall are home for all students of agriculture who attend Kansas State.

Dean L. E. Call is the director of the College extension farms and the dean of the School of Agriculture.

In the College dairy herd is a cow that is the eighth highest producing dairy cow of all time for four-year-old cattle. Some of the leading research of the nation is done at Kansas State on the problem of sorghum production. The School of Agriculture conducted the first experiments in the nation on the method of preparing seedbeds before planting crops.

Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and dean of the School of Agriculture is Dean L. E. Call. Dean Call has an important part in presenting Farm and Home Week which is one of the outstanding events of the year for Kansas farmers,

As dean of this school he is in charge of 1,400 acres of farm land used to carry on the work and research of the College. The land is spread throughout the state, and in this way problems concerning different sections of Kansas can be studied.

Assistant to Dean Call is C. W. Mullen, associate professor of agronomy. Assistant Dean Mullen has been one of the leaders in formulating plans for refresher courses and vocational training programs for the returning veterans.

The school has made many plans for growth and development in equipment and buildings. High on the list of new things will be a main central building connecting the two wings of East and West Waters Hall.

The Department of Milling Industry has already received an allotment of $10,000 from the Kansas Legislature to be used to modernize the mill which is operated in connection with the milling department.

Money has been appropriated to build a small animals laboratory where all experimental animals will be housed.

The actual administration of the School of Agriculture is divided into seven departments representing almost every phase of agrarian operations known to man.

Many courses are planned for those who have either been graduated already or feel the need for some instruction.

Besides their major field of work, students in Agriculture may choose electives in animal husbandry, agricultural economics, soils, crops, dairy husbandry, horticulture, milling and poultry husbandry.

Assistant Dean C. W. Mullen has been instrumental in planning refresher courses and vocational training programs for veterans.

The animal husbandry farm just north of the College proper is but one of the experimental farms operated by the College to study farm problems under practical conditions.

THROUGHOUT the year many training programs and conferences were conducted by the School of Agriculture in an attempt to keep those who have left the College in contact with the latest developments in agriculture.

Industrial-Agricultural Week which was held for the first time this year is one of the most important conferences that the school helped to stage. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and Milton S. Eisenhower, in his role as assistant to Anderson in reorganizing the United States Department of Agriculture, were prominent in the week's activities. Industrial and agricultural leaders throughout the state attended the four day session designed to foster cooperation between the two groups. Schools for the training of grain, poultry and livestock inspectors are held in cooperation with the College and the State Department of Agriculture.

The Department of Horticulture of the College is recognized as one of the most outstanding in the nation. This in itself is an achievement, since Kansas is not widely known for its horticultural products. The department which is now headed by Dr. W. F. Pickett was the first separate department to be established in the School of Agriculture.

This department is developing and enlarging constantly. In 1943 a new experimental farm was purchased and set up with 57 acres devoted to the study of small fruits and vegetables. A judging team from the horticulture department was the first team ever to represent Kansas State in an intercollegiate judging contest. The department since then has won many honors.

Included in the duties of the faculty members is the responsibility of landscaping and maintaining the plant life of the entire campus. Under their care are placed over 4,000 trees representing 185 species.

Among the prominent students who have received degrees from the horticulture department here are the directors of horticulture departments at Purdue University, the University of Arkansas and the National Central University at Chungking, China.

The department works in close cooperation with other departments in the mid-west area. Several experiments are being conducted in connection with the University of Missouri.

A LEADER in its field is the Department of Agricultural Economics which was established at Kansas State as a separate department in 1919. Dr. W. E. Grimes is the head of this department which deals with the economic problems that face the American farmers.

Like others in the School of Agriculture, this department has worked out many research problems. Rating high on this list is the fact that problems of fair taxation of farmers was first studied by the men in this school, and they devised a method of determining the actual worth of an individual farmer. They established a means of studying farms and determining their profits, losses and progress made. This method is now used in many schools of the nation.

Problems of business and rural life are reconciled through study of economic forces involved in farm management, marketing, taxation, land utilization, agricultural finance and other closely related subjects.

Included in the roster of outstanding graduates are the president of Colorado State College and the director of the Colorado Agricultural Experiment Station. Graduates from the department are directors of departments in agricultural economics at New Mexico State and Washington State College.

Students in horticulture study the various evergreens grown in the formal gardens on the campus. Experimental work done in these gardens is integrated and coordinated with additional plant study on the horticulture farm.

Prof. J. A. Shellenberger, Prof. R. I. Throckmorton and Dr. A. D. Weber head departments in the School of Agriculture.

THE Department of Poultry Husbandry has an outstanding record for its research work. Head of the department is Prof. L. F. Payne who has done considerable poultry research. Dr. D. C. Warren, geneticist for the department, is considered one of the outstanding men in poultry work. In the past year Dr. Warren produced a new strain of White Plymouth Rock chickens that are superior to any strain that has ever been developed.

Another department in the school of Agriculture that has a commercial plant in connection with its academic work, is the dairy division. The College has installed a complete creamery to enable dairy students to study methods of manufacturing dairy products.

Prof. F. W. Atkeson is head of this department which has done much research on dairy breeding and the manufacture of dairy products.

Under the care of the division are nearly 150 head of cattle on the College dairy farm, including four outstanding breeds.

A special 12-weeks Freezer Locker Operator training course for veterans, one of the first of its kind in the United States, was offered in the spring under the supervision of the School of Agriculture.

Students enrolled in the department of Dairy Husbandry learn to judge dairy cattle from the College herd.

Not all work is the motto of the agriculture school. This scene was taken at the annual Ag Barnwarmer, an all-division event which is held each year for students and faculty.

THE Department of Animal Husbandry is headed by Dr. A. D. Weber. This department operates a College farm for the study of feeding trials and production of livestock under actual farm conditions.

Experimental farms are located over the state so that students of the department may study livestock conditions in different areas.

Processing of meat is one of the research problems being carried on by the department.

Judging teams made up by agronomy students have won many trophies and are rated high in comparison to the other schools of the nation.

The Department of Agronomy, which conducts the study of soils, is headed by Prof. R. I. Throckmorton.

Notable contributions to the nation's agriculture have come from this department. Included in research done here is the first work ever done on brome grass value. Soybeans and their production methods were first studied by members of this department.

Students and faculty of the agronomy department were first in the United States to work on the rotation and deferred method of grazing native grasses. Breeding of improved hard winter wheat was started by this department also.

Numbered among the prominent graduates of the department are the dean of the School of Agriculture at the University of Maine and the director of genetic work at Harvard University.

The only school of its type in the world is the honor held by the Department of Milling Industry. This is very appropriate since Kansas is the top ranking milling state in the nation and is also the leading wheat producing state in the United States. Equipment and milling techniques have been developed by workers of the department which is headed by Prof. J. A. Shellenberger.

The first research and publication on formulae for determining the capacities of silos was done here at Kansas State by the dairy department. The College leads all other schools in work on the use of sorghums as a feed crop.

School of Engineering And Architecture

WITH more and more of our nation's servicemen returning home, colleges all over the nation are speeding up their educational programs to a pace that they have never attained before, even during the war. This is to enable the returning veteran to complete his education and establish himself as a useful citizen.

In line with this accelerated program, the School of Engineering and Architecture at Kansas State has introduced immediate changes in its curriculum for the returning veteran. In addition to the revision of courses, many new training opportunities are offered.

Included in the new program is a three semester course for industrial draftsmen and a four semester course for architectural draftsmen. Other four semester courses are offered in commercial art and in farm mechanics. It is now possible to complete a course in welding in three semesters under the accelerated program.

Three courses offered take only two semesters for completion. They are for radio servicemen, electricians and surveyors.

Upon completion of one of these short courses, the student will receive a certificate of merit, rather than a degree.

Through his work as administrator, Dean R. A. Seaton has brought recognition to the School of Engineering and Architecture.

After receiving his Bachelor of Science and Master's degrees here at Kansas State, he attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and later received his degree of Doctor of Science from Northeastern University. Dean Seaton is also the director of the Engineering Experiment Station which conducts research on engineering materials under actual working conditions.

An able assistant to Dean Seaton is Prof. M. A. Durland. He is also a graduate of the School of Engineering at Kansas State. Included in his duties is the responsibility of advising engineering students in the selection of courses throughout their college career.

There are eight divisions in the School of Engineering and Architecture and they cover many phases of the engineering field.

The curriculums give fundamental preparation for entering upon work in the several branches of the professions with opportunity for specialization through options and electives. Each curriculum leads to the degree of bachelor of science in the branch of the profession that is selected.

Engineering Hall with its tall smoke stacks sprawls across the area north of the proposed site of the Student Union building.

For 42 years Dean R. A. Seaton has been serving with the Engineering school here.

THE mechanical engineering department under the supervision of Prof. Linn Helander is one of the biggest fields in engineering.

The curriculum is designed to prepare students for research, design, production, operation and sales positions in industries that use power and machinery. Because of the breadth of this field students are allowed to specialize in phases of particular interest to them during their junior and senior years by choosing optional and elective courses.

Design and construction in the engineering field is covered in the architectural engineering course offered here. The department, headed by Prof. Paul Weigel, works from the standpoint of superintending building construction, general contracting, structural design, estimating construction costs and specification writing.

Kansas State has many graduates working and serving throughout the industrial field.

Architectural engineering is closely related to the study of architecture in which the student learns to draw plans for engineering projects. For this reason the curriculum of the two fields is so integrated that by attending school a fifth year students may receive a degree in both architectural engineering and architecture.

The curriculum in architecture, while stressing architectural design, includes training in building construction, properties and use of building materials, and professional practice. The aim is to train students for efficient service as draftsmen and designers and provide a foundation for independent practice.

One of the rapidly changing fields in engineering is that of electrical engineering. With the new inventions brought on by the war and with peacetime production able to secure plenty of goods once again, this field is destined for great improvements and changes.

Heading the Department of Electrical Engineering is Prof. R. G. Kloeffler. Students who receive a degree from this department have a good foundation in mathematics, science, drawing and survey.

Department heads in the School of Engineering and Architecture are Prof. W. W. Carlson, Prof. L. E. Conrad, Prof. F. C. Fenton, G. R. Pauling, and Prof. J. W. Greene.

THE electrical engineers are equipped to enter any of the fields of power, communication or allied type of work upon graduation.

One of the most technical courses on the hill is that found in the department headed by Dr. J. W. Greene. Chemical engineering has always rated high in popularity with students.

The aim of the department is to prepare students for work in design, construction and chemical plants. This department includes in its studies the strictly chemical industries such as manufacturing of acids, alkalies, lyes and like materials. However they also go into the study of processing plants such as those that process rubber and petroleum.

Through the use of many experiments the problems of engineering are made clear to the engineering student.

Other fields that are considered in the outlines of this department are such plants as glass works, soap and the huge paper industries of the nation.

The planning of cities and the building of roads are some of the problems that are worked out by civil engineering students. As director of this department, Prof. L. E. Conrad tries to prepare students for work in technical fields as well as regarding the many municipal problems that face our cities today. The first two years of a "civils" course is devoted to the studying of drawing and surveying with many of the elementary phases of engineering added. The junior and senior years are given over to the technical knowledge of the field.

The Department of Agricultural Engineering under the direction of Prof. F. C. Fenton typifies the growing importance of engineering and power machinery in agriculture. The curriculum offers courses in research and sale of farm machinery, rural electric service, drainage and irrigation which help the student to prepare for the modernizing of the business of farming.

Authorization for a campus television station is expected from the FCC soon. When federal permission is granted, construction of the station which is to be located in the basement of Illustrations Building will begin. The station should be in operation within ten months after construction is completed.

Prof. Linn Helander, Prof. R. G. Kloeffler, Prof. C. E. Pearce, Prof. C. H. Scholer and Prof. Paul Weigel head departments in the School of Engineering and Architecture.

PROF. C. E. Pearce is in charge of the Department of Machine Design. Work in this course not only enables students to do actual designing, but it also prepares them to be directors of training schools in industry. Students enrolled in the course take classes in engineering drawing, machine design and airplane construction and design.

The Department of Applied Mechanics is headed by Prof. C. H. Scholer. Here all engineering students study statics, with applications to stress in structures. Such topics as center of gravity, moment of inertia, how materials behave when subjected to tension, compression, shear and bending are discussed and tested. Fluids, hydraulics, concrete mixtures, highway and airport materials and airplane stress analysis are also investigated.

Another member of the engineering school is R. F. Gingrich who is superintendent of maintenance and is in charge of the Building and Repair department which repairs all campus buildings.

Prof. A. L. Pugsley is the Assistant Director of the Engineering Experiment Station.

Many of the courses in engineering are supplemented by practical work in the shops. Students build and design the tools with which they work. The Department of Shop Practice is headed by Prof. W. W. Carlson who directs the prospective engineers in the arts of wood-working, carpentry, metal work, forging, blacksmithing metallurgy and shop practice.

With the return of many veterans in the spring semester the need for more room at the Engineering Building was brought to sharp focus. Plans are in process for building an additional wing on the Engineering Building so that more students may be handled with ease.

The engineering school operates an experimental farm for trial of engineering features under practical conditions.

Recently the school purchased a Link trainer so that all students interested in airplanes will have opportunity to work with them in the class room.

School Of Home Economics

TRAINING in the School of Home Economics aims at two objectives. One is merely a general education that will help a woman become a better housewife and a more useful citizen in her home community and the other objective is aimed at placing a woman in one of the various technical fields open to home economics graduates.

The curriculums are made up to fit the needs of these students who want to teach or to enter a graduate field of study in professional or technical work as well as for the many who will apply their knowledge to the problems of the home or in industry and social service.

Many fields are covered in this school. Scientific principles underlying food and nutrition, the sanitary requirements of the home, textiles and home furnishings, and the wise expenditure of time money and energy. Physical and mental health, the application of artistic standards to the selection and construction of clothing, the guidance of children and an understanding of family relationships come in for their share of study. Instruction for those women enrolled in certain specialized courses is provided through the college cafeteria, home management houses, and women's dormitory.

Managing this school at Kansas State is Dr. Margaret

M. Justin who is a widely known authority on home economics. Among many outstanding contributions to her field is the writing and publishing of numerous books dealing with problems in home economics. Also much of her time is taken up by traveling and speaking to home economists throughout the nation.

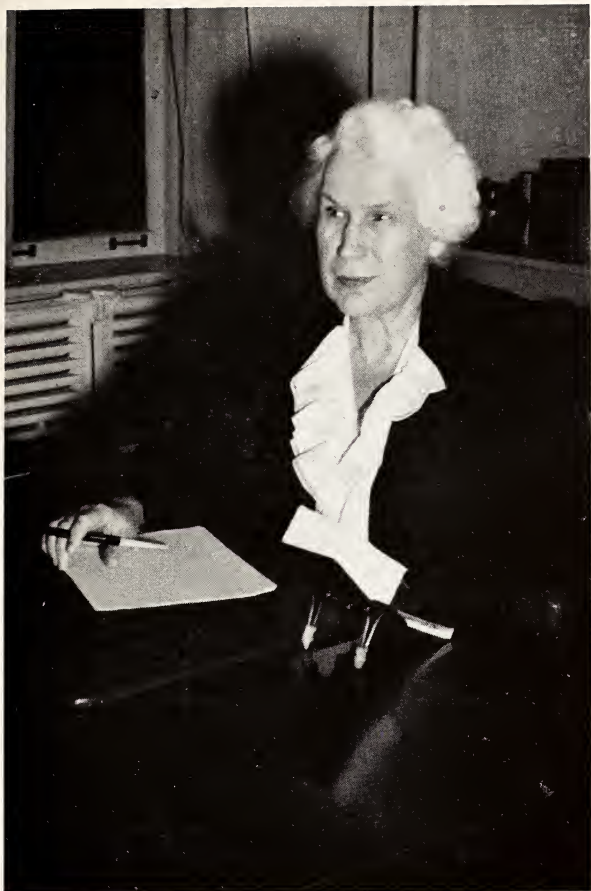

Assistant to Dean Justin is Dr. Martha M. Kramer who is always ready to give aid and advice to girls taking courses in home economics.

In keeping with the speeded-up College program, it is now possible to obtain a degree from the School of Home Economics in two and one-half years of actual College attendance. There were several reasons for placing the home economics school on such a program. First, there is a need for women trained in home economics in the industries of the nation. A new demand has developed during the past few years for nursery school supervisors and for dietitians. This need will continue to be felt for some time due to the shortage of women graduates in the field since many of them dropped from school during the war period.

Another reason for speeding up the course is that many of the women now enrolled are veterans' wives and will want to finish college when their husbands do.

Calvin Hall is the home of the home economics school at Kansas State. Most of the home economics functions that occur on the campus take place within this building.

DR. MARGARET JUSTIN, dean of the School of Home Economics, has written and published many books used by high schools and colleges throughout the United States.

ALTHOUGH some changes have been effected in the School of Home Economics, they have not been as drastic as the changes being carried out in the curriculums for men.

One innovation is the inclusion of a new comprehensive in home economics. It is offered as an elective to women enrolled in other schools so that they may have an opportunity for background work in foods, clothing, family health, house planning, consumer buying and all other phases of home economics.

All four of the arts and sciences comprehensive courses have been placed on the curriculums of the home economics women. Thus they will receive a much broader outlook through their college training.

There are seven departments established for the administration of the home economics school; they offer work in almost every phase of homemaking.

The subject matter is broad enough so that home economics graduates have training in personality development, post-college adjustments, housing, recreation and family life.

The instructors in the school feel that the practical side should be emphasized since over 90 percent of the graduates of the school marry within five years after graduation.

Many events are staged by the School of Home Economics during the year. Outstanding among these is the annual Hospitality Days which is a week-end of open house by all departments in the school. Exhibits and demonstrations of the work of the students and the research carried on in the seven departments are on display for visiting high school girls of the state and townspeople.

The increasing importance of journalistic training for women in the field of home economics has been recognized, and a special course combining home economics and journalism will be offered next year.

DR. MARTHA M. KRAMER is assistant to Dean Justin. As adviser to the women in the School of Home Economics, she helps students plan their courses at registration.

THESE DEPARTMENT HEADS keep the School of Home Economics running smoothly. They are Prof. Dorothy Barfoot, Mrs. Leone Kell and Dr. Josephine Kremer.

TO GIVE students an appreciation of art and to develop skills that may become a hobby or a career is the plan of the Department of Art, under the direction of Prof. Dorothy Barfoot. In the department students learn principles of drawing and crafts. They make leather goods, work in pottery and develop a taste in color and design.

The study of child behavior and guidance, physical and mental health and family relationships is carried out in the Department of Child Welfare and Euthenics. Mrs. Leone Kell is acting head of the department. Included in the work of the department is the operation of a nursery school that gives students instruction in child behavior and guidance.

Directing the Department of Household Economics is Dr. Josephine Kremer. Students have an opportunity to study the effect of social and economic forces on the home and its management. Housing, family finance, consumption, equipment and home management are a few of the problems presented. The home management houses which are owned by the College give home economics students practice in management of a home.

OTHER MEMBERS of the home economics faculty are Prof. Alpha Latzke, Mrs. Lucile Rust and Mrs. Bessie Brooks West.

CONSUMER problems in clothing and textiles are studied by the women enrolled in courses in the Department of Clothing and Textiles. Miss Alpha Latzke heads the department which provides professional training for positions as teachers, extension workers, research workers, textile chemists, clothing consultants and purchasing agents for institutions and department stores.

Mrs. Lucile Rust is in charge of the courses in home economics education. These courses apply the principles of teaching to the selection and development of home economics subject matter.

Preparation for cafeteria, tearoom and lunchroom managers, dietitians and directors of residence halls is provided in the courses offered by the Department of Institutional Management. Mrs. Bessie Brooks West is head of the department. Most of the courses offered here are intended primarily for dietetics majors.

Dean Justin is now the acting head of the food economics and nutrition department which provides work in foods and dietetics. She has been temporary head of the department since the resignation of Dr. Martha Pittman.

STUDENTS PREPARED the food and did the serving in the College cafeteria second semester as a part of their training in dietetics work.

School Of Veterinary Medicine

ALTHOUGH the enrollment in the School of Veterinary Medicine is limited to 200 students by the State Board of Regents, it is one of the most important divisions in the College.

Recognized as one of the outstanding schools in the nation it is one of but ten veterinary schools in the United States.

During the war the school operated on a full war-time basis with many of its students in uniform. Now with returning servicemen starting to fill the roster the accelerated program will continue to meet their needs.

The curriculum in the veterinary school is only four years in length; however a year of pre-vet is required. This preparatory course may be taken either here or at some other college. Here it falls under the School of Arts and Sciences.

Like most of the other divisions at Kansas State a change is being brought about in the teaching of the subjects. In the future veterinary students will take a number of the comprehensive courses now installed on the campus. This will supplement their purely professional work with broadening courses that will round out their education.

Heading this school is Dean R. R. Dykstra who has been with the College since 1911 and has directed the department for 27 years. Born in Holland, Dean Dykstra came to the United States as a child and first received a degree as a registered pharmacist.

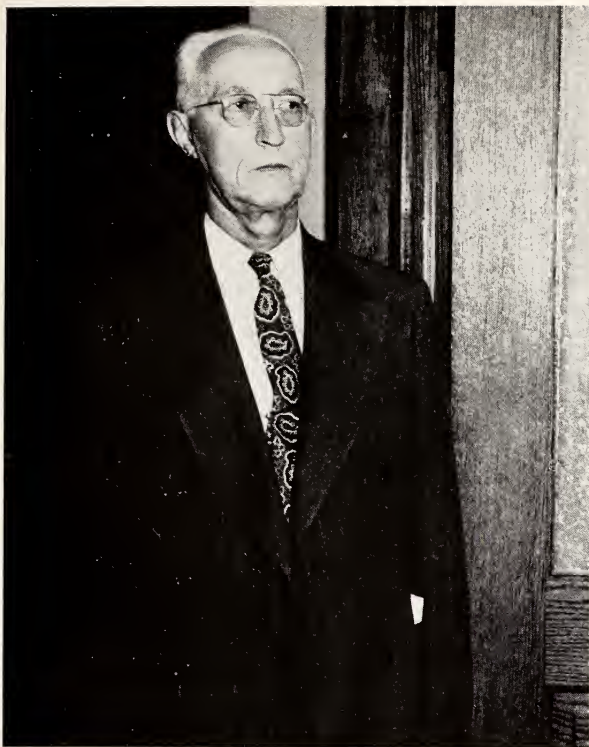

Later he studied veterinary medicine and received his professional degree from Iowa State College.

Dean Dykstra taught at Iowa State and also served with the federal government before coming to Kansas State. Dean Dykstra has the distinction of being the first and only veterinary school dean at Kansas State since the title was created.

In addition to his many other accomplishments Dean Dykstra is also active as a lecturer, demonstrator and author. The veterinary reading room which is supported by donations from the alumni was founded by Dean Dykstra in 1934 and is one of the few in the nation.

Veterinary Hall became more active and crowded than ever after the disastrous fire that destroyed the Veterinary Hospital in February. Classes held in the other building and materials kept there had to be moved to this building.

For 27 years Dean R. R. Dykstra has been directing the work of the Kansas State veterinary students.

For 70 years Kansas State has offered a degree in veterinary medicine. An outstanding advancement in educational teaching practices was installed in the School of Veterinary Medicine nearly 30 years ago. This is the practice of using visual education to put ideas across to students. Today the department has a library containing 25 films, several thousand slides and a large number of X-ray photographs. Much of this material has been developed here at Kansas State by members of the faculty.

Dean Dykstra was aided most of the year by Mrs. Margaret Daum Wall, an instructor in the school. She left in February to join her husband. At that time Mrs. Maxine Caley who was previously employed in the dean's office was appointed assistant to the dean.

To gain practical knowledge, an animal hospital is operated in connection with class room lectures. Dr. E. J. Frick, professor of surgery and medicine, is in charge of the hospital.

Destroyed by a disastrous fire in February the hospital was immediately cleaned out by the vets and other provisions were made for the animals.

Through action of the state Board of Regents and President Milton S. Eisenhower, immediate appropriation of $94,000 to repair and re-equip the building was obtained from the state war emergency fund. Approval by the state trustees and the governor of the request for funds was necessary before the appropriation was secured. The urgency of the request was evidenced by the fact that any restriction of the activities of the veterinary medicine department affects state-wide agriculture. Through the department's inspection of animals, contagious diseases are often discovered and checked before an epidemic spreads throughout the state. Such diagnostic work was temporarily suspended at the damaged clinic.

Although the school has no official assistant dean, Mrs. Margaret Daum Wall served at this post until February when she was succeeded by Mrs. Maxine Caley.

Students working in the pharmacy laboratory receive training in mixing and administering prescriptions for ailing animals.

Annually thousands of animals from many parts of the state are treated in the hospital.

There are four department heads that work in close cooperation with Dean Dykstra in managing the school.

Dr. E. J. Frick is in charge of surgery and medicine. This department works in the veterinary hospital which is equipped with every modern appliance for surgical operations and treatment of animal diseases. Members of the clinical staff and students in the department go on calls into the surrounding country to treat patients; thus the students come in contact with animal diseases and their treatment.

Dr. E. E. Leasure is the head of the Department of Physiology. He has been with Kansas State since 1926.

His department offers courses in comparative physiology, problems in physiology, urine analysis, pharmacodynamics, and anatomy and physiology.

Heading the Department of Anatomy is Dr. William M. McLeod who has served at Kansas State since 1919.

Here classroom instruction consists of lectures, recitations and actual dissection of the part discussed.

The fourth department in the School of Veterinary Medicine is the Department of Pathology, administered by Dr. Lee M. Roderick who received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. This department presents courses in histology, pathology and meat inspection.

Many plans are being laid by the school for increasing the enrollment of the department since it can handle only 200 students and this year over 2000 inquiries were received concerning admittance. Two hundred students are enrolled in pre-vet and only 60 of these can possibly be admitted as freshmen.

Included in the plans is the erection of two new buildings which would raise the present enrollment to at least 300 persons.

The first plan is to rebuild and enlarge the Veterinary Hospital.

The other building being planned for the veterinary school is a new $750,000 classroom building to be located just west of the Veterinary Hospital and in line with the Military Science Building.

Like all other schools on the campus, it is making plans to give refresher courses to the returning G.I.'s who want to brush up on their technique.

Veterinary medicine department heads are Dr. E. J. Frick, Dr. E. E. Leasure, Dr. William M. McLeod and Dr. Lee M. Rodrick.

Although at present plans are not complete, it is believed that the greatest demand for courses from the veterans will be for graduate work and for refresher courses in the regular school.

These refresher courses will re-acquaint the veteran, who has spent most of his time on one particular phase, with general veterinary practices and recent advances, thus giving him an opportunity to learn new methods.

Although residents of Kansas are given preference over all others, there are many students in the department who come from all over the nation and many come from foreign countries.

Many of the veterinary students are older than the average college student and some have already received degrees in a related field before coming to Kansas State to study veterinary medicine.

January saw the graduation of the last class of veterinary students until January of 1947, three semesters from now.

The clinic fire necessitated the cancellation of the spring post-war refresher course for veterinarians who had been out of touch with the practice during the war. Fifty per cent of the work in the course was to have been done in the animal hospital.

Students perform an operation in the veterinary clinic. The building was later destroyed in the largest fire on the campus since 1934.

DEAN H. UMBERGER is the dean of the Division of College Extension. His job is to carry the work of the College to those Kansans who cannot attend.

The Division Of the College and the public.

Frank O. Blecha, district agent, is supervisor of the Farm Labor program in Kansas. The Department of County Agent Work, headed by Prof. Harry C. Baird, provides a contact between the United States Department of Agriculture and the rural population.

The 103 county agricultural agents stationed throughout the state are supervised by the district agents. The program carried on by these county workers is as broad as the interests of rural life.

The Department of Engineering Extension is in charge of Prof. John M. Ferguson. The function of this department is to assist in the application of engineering principles to various phases of agriculture. One- and two-day schools for farm building and machinery repairing are held in the various counties.

Dr. George Gemmell is head of the home study department. This department makes it possible for many people not on the campus to receive college credit through correspondence courses. These subjects taught by Doctor Gemmell and his five staff members are courses that must first meet the requirements of the College departments.

THE Division of College Extension is active in every county in Kansas. Information on agriculture, home economics and engineering subjects is made readily available to the farm people of the state through the institutes, training schools, publications and radio programs planned by the extension service.

Six major departments in the division work together to provide a two-way communication system between Boys' and girls' 4-H Club work in Kansas is headed by J. Harold Johnson, state club leader. The present 4-H Club program is designed to develop wholesome citizenship and leadership among rural young people and to provide them with the opportunity to participate in the adoption and spread of better farm practices. During the war their contribution was the production and preservation of food. They also engaged in emergency drives and campaigns, leadership and morale-building activities and in health improvement.

A program for the circulation of agricultural material is carried on in the Department of Extension Publicity and Information directed by L. L. Longsdorf, extension editor and program director. Daily scripts are sent to commercial radio stations, transcriptions are distributed to 28 cooperating stations, and news service is given to weekly and daily newspapers, to the state farm press and national farm and home magazines. Through radio station KSAC much agricultural information is given to the public. Visual aids have been used extensively to spread extension information.

Supervision of home demonstration work is the work of the Department of Home Economics under the directorship of Miss Georgiana Smurthwaite. In 51 counties home demonstration agents function in programs of interest and need to the farm families. Home economics specialists working with Miss Smurthwaite hold group meetings and schools within the counties and furnish information for home and community use.

The department of extension agricultural specialists is in charge of Prof. L. C. Williams, who is also assistant to Dean H. Umberger. The agricultural specialists conducted demonstration meetings, tours and other field activities under farm projects.

Each year the Extension Division is host to farm men and women from all parts of Kansas during Farm and Home Week. Critical housing conditions made it necessary this year to curtail the week's activities.

THE NEWEST building on the campus is the Military Science Building which houses ROTC offices and is headquarters for the extension workers.

Dr. Harold Howe joined the faculty of Kansas State in 1925, and was recently appointed director of the Graduate School.

The Graduate School

THE Graduate School is unique among the schools of the College in that it is a school superimposed upon existing schools and departments.

Here at Kansas State nearly every one of the 42 departments of resident instruction offers courses at the graduate level. Consequently the Graduate School has intimate connections with practically every department on the campus.

Dr. Harold Howe was appointed dean of the School July 1, 1945. He has been on the College staff since 1925 when he was appointed instructor in agricultural economics.

At Kansas State there are two plans for receiving a master's degree. The first plan requires 30 semester hours of graduate work, including a master's thesis of six to ten semester hours. The second plan does not have a thesis as a requirement. However, 32 semester hours of work are required as well as a written master's report covering two semester hours of research on a problem in the major field.

Kansas State has conferred more than 1,600 master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees since the School was established.

Fields of work leading to a degree of doctor of philosophy are bacteriology, chemistry, entomology, plant genetics, genetics, milling and parasitology.

Graduate work is offered in nearly every department of the College. Work is offered both semesters of the regular College year and during summer school.

Summer School

SUMMER School is headed by Dean Russell Thackrey, one of the few men on the campus to hold a dual position. Thackrey is dean of administration and this year succeeded Dr. Edwin Holton as dean of Summer School.

The tri-mester schedule is being continued for the benefit of returning veterans. Summer School is divided into two eight-week sessions. A student attending Summer School may enroll for either session, or may get a full semester's work by going the entire summer.

With the world growing smaller every year—at least as far as man's thinking is concerned—Kansas State faculty members feel that a course in American citizenship is needed. One course is offered now, and by next fall a new Institute of Citizenship department will be in full swing.

The course in American citizenship is planned to help the student realize an appreciation for democracy, what it means and the duties it involves to members of a democratic society.

Dr. Robert A. Walker is director of the new Institute of American Citizenship, and Prof. Carl Tjerandsen is associate director.

While taking the course, students work with study groups over the state, and part of the campaign will be to awaken the citizens to the benefits and dangers of the democratic way of life.

The director of the Institute of American Citizenship is Dr. Robert A. Walker who is a professor of political science. Associate director is Prof. Carl Tjerandsen who is a graduate of the State College of Washington. He also holds a master's degree from the University of Washington.

On hot days during Summer School, classes are held under trees on the campus. Prof. E. A. Amos held his journalism class on the lawn south of Kedzie (below).

FACULTY MEMBERS of the School of Arts and Sciences met many times during the school year to discuss administrative problems which have arisen in the various departments.

Add to Faculty Roster

DURING the past few months much of the spare time of faculty members has been occupied with meetings and conferences to draw up satisfactory plans to meet the large increase in enrollment. The increase that came during the second semester of this school year is expected to continue during the next few years, and the faculty is formulating plans to meet the needs.

Twenty-one new additions to the faculty were announced when the second term began, and eleven faculty members returned from leave of absence for military service at that time. New appointments were made throughout the year to take care of the additional enrollment and to relieve the faculty of their overloaded schedules.

The College Social Club, an organization for women faculty members and wives of faculty members, meets once each month and provides a means for women connected with the College to become acquainted. The meetings are usually held in the afternoon, but twice this year the women entertained the faculty men with a dance in the evening.

The project of the club for the year was to raise money to build more women's dormitories. Mrs. Milton Eisenhower was president of the organization this year; Dean Helen Moore was vice-president, and Mrs. W. W. Crawford was secretary-treasurer. As program chairman, Mrs. R. A. Seaton planned the meetings, and Mrs. Verne S. Sweedlun was social chairman.

Council Is Governing Agency of SGA

THE Student Council consists of nine members who are elected each spring by the students of their respective schools. Each of the five schools has representation in proportion to its enrollment. The Council is the official governing agency for all students and as such establishes all rules and regulations for the student body.

For the first time in several years, the Student Council published a Student Directory in book form which listed all first semester students and their addresses.

Another Council action was the leasing of the Avalon Ballroom in Aggieville so that student groups might rent it for dances. Many Student Governing Association varsities were held there this year, too.

Last spring a movement to install a point system to limit the number of activities which one student may participate in was begun and culminated in the fall when the system was formally put into effect.

In an effort to maintain good public relations throughout the state and to encourage high school students to attend K-State, the Student Council devoted much of their time this year to the preparation of publicity material. Several student teams represented the College on tours to various high schools of the state. In connection with this policy, the Council also purchased copies of The Royal Purple and sent them to many of the larger high schools.

Homecoming festivities were sponsored by the Student Council. The Homecoming Ball on Friday night was the first all-school ball of the year. Men on the Student Council escorted the queen and her attendants Saturday afternoon when they were presented at the half.

One of the most popular actions of the Council this year was the securing of an extra day and a half for Thanksgiving and a half-day preceding the KU game.

The Council helped sponsor the all-College mixer and published the K-Book in connection with the YMCA and the YWCA. Routine duties of the Council were the holding of class elections and Student Governing Association meetings and making committee appointments.

Officers for the year were Merle Eyestone, president; Ralph Stuesser, vice-president; Stanley Stuart, treasurer; Ruth Hodgson, recording secretary; Virginia Stoecker, corresponding secretary. Mary Lou Markley, Rachel Gossard, Dean Tiemann and Dorothy Wilson completed the Council for the first semester. Ole Rollag, Wendell Bell and Eunice Stoltenberg were named to fill positions left vacant second semester.

Committees Guide Student Activities

THE Faculty Council on Student Affairs approves the work of the Student Council, and offers aid and advice in handling the more difficult problems.

The Apportionment Board, composed of both student and faculty members, divides the activity fees paid by students at enrollment each semester. Money is apportioned by the board to the athletics department, the various school publications, the student council, and to all other organizations which derive their support from the fund.

Committees Adjust College Program

CHANGING teaching methods and making curricular adjustments that are needed at the College to meet its resident-instruction responsibilities is the job of the Educational Adjustments Committee, headed by Dean R. I. Thackrey.

The Campus Development Committee gives advice to the President after consulting three subcommittees, the Architectural Plans Committee, the Residence Halls Committee and the Student Union Committee. Dean R. A. Seaton is the chairman.

Planning new and modernizing old buildings for Kansas State is the job performed by the Campus Development Committee, composed of Dean R. A. Seaton, Prof. Paul Weigel, C. O. Price, Dean R. R. Dykstra, Dean R. W. Babeck, Dean L. E. Call, Prof. L. R. Quinlan, Dr. Martha Kramer.

The "new student" participates in campus activities as a part of his training for world citizenship. His social and intellectual faculties are enlarged while working as a part of the student body—in athletics, dramatics, debate, music or publications. A particularly significant activity this year has been an all-school project in world affairs—the International Security Assembly. Through the ISA he has learned the mechanics of the United Nations Organization and has studied international problems as they affect each individual country. His volunteer participation in campus activities is a preview of his active interest in future world affairs.

Eager for the week's whirl of activities to begin, rushees (left) arrive early and move their belongings into the college dorm which is their headquarters during the Panhellenic rushing period. Rush week activities this fall were attended by 174 women, an all time high.

Their Dreams Come True

Rushees climb the steps to the Pi Phi house for an afternoon tea (left). Summer returned unexpectedly and the trick of the weather is demonstrated as women in new fall outfits carry their coats or leave them behind altogether.

The freshman physical is one exam which no amount of cramming helps. Students attired in "angel robes" (left) relax as they wait in line at the student health department.

Questions on the personality and aptitude exams puzzle students and seem to take more energy than the physicals. A group of freshmen (below) ponder over personality questions and try to figure which answer they should use.

Students have their cards checked (right) for the registrar's office before they go to their assigners. When fall enrollment was completed an increase of 45 percent over the previous year was registered.

The veteran's service desk (right) does a booming business as more and more service men come to the campus. Former students, returning to finish their courses, and new students just beginning to work for their degrees receive advice during registration.

Election of class officers was held (left) as soon as school began. Independents walked away with the freshman election, but the Greeks held the edge in the upper class groups.

First Post-War Homecoming

The Homecoming Ball, held on the eve of the Nebraska-K-State game found the Wildcats ready to celebrate. Students packed the dance floor at the first all-school formal of the year (below).

Candidates for queen were presented during intermission by Prof. Bill Troutman (right). Balloting took place at the dance, but the queen and her attendants were not announced till the following day.

After the ball was over Wildcat enthusiasts, attired in formal dress, took part in a pep rally (right) near the stadium. All week long "Don't forget the bonfire" had been the by-word on the campus. Not until the end of the Homecoming dance was time or place of the rally announced.

Celebrated

The press box (right) was a lively place as reporters sent in their stories, coaches gave instructions to the field and talent scouts watched for new finds.

October 10 was an unforgettable day for 35 Purple Pepster initiates who were forced to wear freakish costumes including spit curls and lots of war paint and pull little red wagons (left) full of edibles for the actives.

The actives have rounded up a group of ghoulish pledges in Anderson Hall (left) and demand songs and other entertainment for the benefit of passers-by. Many a professor was startled to see the semblance of a first class side-show pull her little wagon into the classroom.

The Gold Diggers' Ball, sponsored on December 1 by the Purple Pepsters, found the gals asking the guys, calling for them and providing them with a variety of vegetarian cor-sages (left).

Strictly sports and a gay affair The Gold Diggers' Ball seems to be, judging from the cameraward smiles (below). After intermission, the Purple P's crowned Leonard Banowetz the King of Pep for 1945-46.

Dean L. E. Call places the Ag Barnwarmer crown on Vonda Gates as she and attendants Cleolis Bradley, Mary Lee Newton, Mary Elizabeth Mustard and Ruth Fenton reigned at the dance. It was held October 27 in the pavilion between East and West Waters Halls. Candidates for barnwarmer queen were nominated by the women's groups on campus and were subjected to a series of tests on agricultural subjects before the queen was chosen.

Halloween parties provided a wonderful theme for late October parties. Sig Alphas (right) give out with song as they entertain dates in a sawdust floor, mural-walled setting.

Thursday morning's crowd in the Canteen found students perusing the week's Collegian. Second semester enrollment made necessary a shift of booths and the addition of several tables to increase serving capacity there.

Chem labs and sociology recitations as well as all the classes of the ags and vets had one good point about their location—accessibility to the dairy counter which is in West Waters and offers ice cream and other dairy products for sale.

Students Broaden Socially

Each semester the YWCA holds a college sister party with all YW members as "big sisters" to the new students. During the year, smaller group parties are held and the little sisters are entertained. New members (right) become acquainted at one of the meetings while they test their memory for names with games.

The Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Ephrem Kurtz, presented matinee and evening performances when they appeared through the artists series in November.

Several hundred Kansas editors were guests of the News Bureau and journalism department at a free lunch in Kedzie Hall and received complimentary tickets to the Homecoming football game when they came to Kansas State for Editor's Day.

Clinton P. Anderson, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture, was introduced by President Eisenhower to students and state leaders at an all-school assembly during the first annual Industrial-Agricultural Week. Earlier in the year, Eisenhower had served under Anderson in reorganizing the United States Department of Agriculture.

The State

Victor Conquest sounded the keynote of the three-day session in his talk on the need for research in industry. Conquest, a representative of the meat packing industry, came from Chicago to speak to the representatives of farm and business in Kansas.

The meetings of Industrial-Agricultural Week were planned to build better relations between farm and industry. Featured speakers were Dean A. A. Potter, head of the School of Engineering at Purdue University (seated left of President Eisenhower), and Harold Vagtborg, director of Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City (right).

Dr. A. B. Sageser and Lois Meisner, big-wigs of the International Security Assembly program, greeted Dr. Charles Moolman of the Union of South Africa Information Service (left). Dr. Moolman was one of the first of a series of speakers who came to Kansas State to represent other countries to students.

Reginald Davidson, British Consul at Kansas City, spoke at an all-College assembly in October. In the evening he had dinner at the Tri-Delt house, (above) and led an informal discussion with the women who are representing Great Britain in the ISA.

During the year, meetings were held for chairman and delegates of each country represented in the ISA study of world peace problems. At these meetings (right) plans were made for the all-College sessions, and discussions brought out questions to bring before the Security Council, World Court or General Assembly.

Peace Problems

Presiding chairman at the first plenary session of the assembly was Dr. Harold Howe, dean of the Graduate School (right). Doctor Howe presided at the meeting until regular officers were elected.

Climaxing a semester of International Security Assembly activities on the campus, the first plenary session of the "United Nations" was held in the College Auditorium December 13 (right). The meeting was planned to give students and visitors an outline of how the United Nations are organized and how they work. During the session, George Woods, delegate of Norway, was elected Secretary-General, an interesting sidelight, since the election took place some time before the real United Nations Organization elected a Norwegian representative as Secretary-General.

The rules committee (below) had been hard at work for two semesters, and the night of the first general assembly, they saw the plans they had formulated come to life.

Turbaned Indians marched into the auditorium with Great Britain. Before the evening was over, however, India had won the fight for a seat in the General Assembly, although opposed by the mother country. Poland also won a seat, but Italy's petition for membership was rejected, largely because of the attacks made by Yugoslav delegates.

ISA is Miniature of

A Chinese gong sounded as delegates of China shuffled into the auditorium in their coolie outfits (left). Dressed in native costumes, singing national anthems, and carrying banners and flags, each country represented made themselves known to onlookers.

Before the December meeting, Lois Meisner, chairman of the planning committee, and Dr. Sageser, faculty adviser, inspected flags that had been received from nearby Fort Riley and local collections and from the respective embassies. International interest was created by the College program, as flags were loaned by the countries, speakers were sent to the campus during the year by foreign consular services, and a photographer covered the meeting for Great Britain.

Final plans of strategy were made during the demonstrations before the first plenary session was called to order (above). Pages for each country carried messages back and forth from the country to its official delegates who were seated in the pit.

Spokesman for Russia (right) pleaded the case as that country petitioned to remove Argentina from the assembly. Though unsuccessful, the arguments aroused gave the South American country an uncomfortable evening.

United Nations

With the flag-bedecked stage as center of activity, the work of the Rules Committee, Secretariat, Security Council and presiding chairman was carried on before the public eye.

Members elected to the World Court of the ISA try on their robes and prepare to hear the disputes brought before them. Their first case involved a complaint brought by Yugoslavia against Italian occupation of Trieste and Fiume, in which the court granted the territory to Yugoslavia. In April a territorial dispute over Honduras was presented to the court for solution.

Oran Stepanek, (above left) professor of literature and Slavonic languages at the University of Nebraska, discussed the problems of central Europe when he spoke here in January. He was sponsored on the campus by the women of La Fiel and Maisonelle who represented Czechoslovakia in the ISA.

ISA Settles World Problems

Dr. T. Z. Koo, adviser to the Chinese delegation at San Francisco and internationally-known Christian leader, was brought to the campus jointly by the YMCA and the ISA in January. Besides addressing the students several times, he entertained them by playing several solos on a simple Chinese instrument which he holds (left).

Members of the Security Council (left) held many sessions prior to April 9 to decide which issues they should take a stand on at the general ISA assembly. The World Court and the Economic and Social Council also voiced their opinions at the general assembly on atomic control, international air commerce and world sovereignty.

Farm and Home Week was curtailed this year so that any available rooms might go to new students enrolling for the second semester. However, nine programs were held in connection with agriculture. Most of their meetings were lecture-discussions (above) with demonstrations and other visual aids supplementing them.

An outstanding feature of the week was the Dressed Turkey Show (above right) held in connection with the poultry conference. Almost fifty entries were received from turkey growers throughout the state. A wheat show, meetings of the Kaw Valley Sweet Potato Growers' Association, the Kansas Crop Improvement Association and the Rural Pastors' Conference were also scheduled.

College Host to Visitors

Fifty-five men enrolled in the frozen food locker school February 11 to learn to manage locker plants. Thirteen College departments cooperated to staff the school. The College plant in the former livestock pavilion was completed during the school session so the students could observe its construction (above and below right).

Valentine's Day decorations formed an appropriate setting for the second annual Anderson Dinner, (below) which was held February 14 to honor presidents of campus organizations. Six of the presidents, representing a variety of organizations, spoke. Evan Griffith, Manhattan businessman and an alumnus of the College, was toastmaster.

Music students (above) invade the Canteen to bring the Christmas spirit to K-State with carols; even Santa Claus joined in the singing. Christmas carols also sounded from the tower of Anderson, to add atmosphere to Christmas festivities while students trudged through the snow to classes.

The Christmas Spirit

The Christmas assembly was sponsored by the YW and the YM, and presented a program of readings, pantomimes, solos and group singing. The Women's Glee Club (below) sang carols and traditional Christmas melodies. Jane Fagerberg, (left below) was soloist with the Glee Club.

Decked out in tux and formal, students wait in line to get their wraps after a fraternity dance at the Avalon.

A bridge, sponsored by the Women's Residence Halls Committee, was held the afternoon and evening of December 15 at Van Zile Hall. Students made up the greater part of the crowd in the afternoon, but in the evening faculty and townspeople took over.

Takes Over Early

Smart college clothes were modeled by members of the Home Ec Club, as part of the program for delegates of the Future Homemakers of America conference. "Around the Clock" was the theme of the show, and it portrayed a day in the life of the college girl from the time the alarm sounds in the morning until it is set again at night.

A tea, given by Dean Margaret Justin and Dean Helen Moore at the home of the former, honored women of the faculty.

FMOG Johnny Aiken meets his fans. Chosen by the College women as their Favorite Man on the Campus, Aiken (representing Farm House) was presented at the Snow Ball sponsored by the Home Ec Club.

Runners-up for the FMOG title were Sigma Nu Louis Norris and Sig Alph Larry Watts, here reading fan mail after the ball was over.

With a background of snowmen and fir trees, the ski-sweatered band played for the Home Ecs' Snow Ball. Candidates for FMOG were elected by each fraternity and each independent men's organized house. Campaigning that women's organizations never dreamed of when plugging their candidates caused excitement for weeks in advance.

A heavy snow last spring transformed the campus into a great white way, and the shrubbery and trees, weighted with snow, formed grotesque figures (right).

Let It Snow . . .

A late-comer (below) shuffles down snow packed paths made by earlier arrivals. Shrubbery was almost entirely snowed under. Students had to dig deep in their wardrobes for their winter outfits, since spring weather had previously fooled them into thinking that summer was on its way.

Familiar scene on the College campus about noon each day is the line at the College cafeteria (above left). Student dieticians plan and cook the meals, which illustrate the best in diet. Second semester the line grew longer as more and more students found it a good place to eat. Perhaps the most well known man on the campus is Harry Morris (above right), who directs traffic through the College campus. At his post by Anderson Hall, at the center of the campus, he greets many students every day on their way to and from classes.

Seniors march down the aisle of the auditorium to their seats before the graduation ceremonies begin. The diplomas they received represent many hours of work, and they are proud of their achievement.

Seniors in caps and gowns wait in rec center until time for the graduation program to begin. Underclassmen, still hard at work preparing for their finals, are either envious of the seniors or oblivious to them, as they are absorbed in last minute cramming.

Second semester registration came close to the peak of pre-war years. Students waited in line for hours before actually beginning to enroll. A line, three and four wide, extended from the east door of Nichols gym, past the cafeteria and the campus gates to the Canteen.

Registration was held in Nichols gymnasium for the first time since the beginning of the war. When the final figures came through, it was found that men outnumbered women two-to-one. This still did not reach the pre-war four-to-one estimate, but it turned tables on the proportions of the preceding semesters.

Enrollment Leap . . .

New students were divided into groups (left) and taken on a tour of the campus by guides who were already enrolled at the College. Ice cream was served at the dairy bar to all students taking the tour (left below). A group of students receives instructions (below) on the mechanics of the College Post Office boxes.

The critical housing crises, brought on by the sudden increase of enrollment, made necessary emergency housing units. Bunks and lockers were installed under the east wing of the College stadium, which had not been used since it had been barracks for the AST and Air Cadets. Work was done on the west side of the stadium, and it was ready for use by the fall term.

Trailer town or "Campus Courts" was organized and furnished living quarters for 100 married veteran students. It looks as if kindergarten had invaded college (left) as veterans' children play in the town within the college campus.

... Brings Housing Crisis

Housekeeping and meal planning goes on in reality (left) as well as in the classroom as wives of students keep house in trailers while their husbands are in school. An air view of the Trailer Town (below) shows it in relation to the College campus. A Mayor and Council were elected by the citizens to keep the town running in order.

Candidates for St. Pat (left above) were chosen by each of the six schools in the engineering department. They are Dale Carver, Otis Cross, Harry Blaylock, Chester Stewart, Bill Bixler and Dennis (Pat) Murphy. St. Patricia candidates, posed by their pictures in Engineering Hall, are Pat Murphy, Betty Burton, Carolyn Glover, Kathleen Pettersson, Elaine Wichers and Eda Mae Hancock.

Sigma Nu's do a bit of rushing as they offer cigarettes, a light, reading material and a line to a prospective pledge. Fraternities do not have a regular rush week as the sororities but carry on informal rushing throughout the year.

Couples wait to be "married" at one of the booths at the Y Carnival. This year, they cramped the students' style a little. Advertisements declared that each person could only take one husband or wife during the course of the evening.

Bingo furnished a calmer form of recreation at the Y Carnival. Tired of dancing, jail and pitching games, students relaxed to a dignified game of bingo.

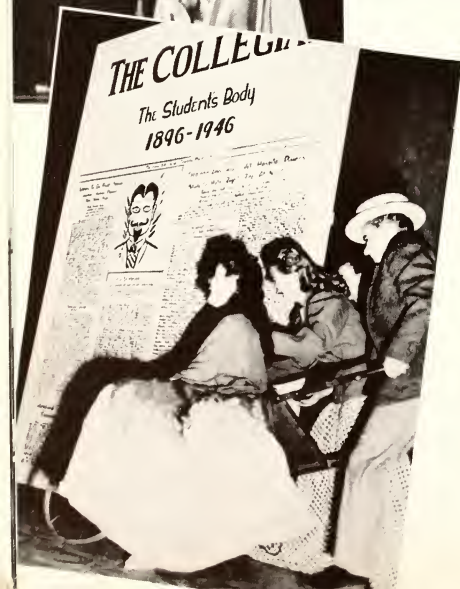

Kappa Sig's poetic interpretation of "The Lone Ranger Goes Greek" (above) nearly brought the house down March 2 at Y-Orpheum, and was awarded first prize in the men's division. The portrayal made a few revisions in the story of Helen of Troy, ending "and we thank for this detail of history unfurled, the staff of Comprehensive — Man's Cultural World." A minstrel show by Alpha Xi Delta (extreme left above) tied for second in the women's section.

Pink elephants on parade, a fiery Satan, bodyless faces shining in the dark and other descriptive phases of a hangover were depicted by the Deltas in their version of the "Lost Week-end" which placed second. Fluorescence caused by black light radiation produced the startling effects.

Prize-winning skit for the 1945 Y-Orpheum was the ADPi skit entitled "Varga Calendar Girl." Twelve models represented the months of the year as they stepped from an Esquire magazine. "December" walks across the stage (right) as a sextet of can-can girls recite the jingle for the month.

It was still a man-scarce campus last March when the Kappa act "Things Are Rough All Over" placed second by showing the Kansas State coed football squad preparing for the KU game (left). The skit ended by the announcement that the war had ended and a man appeared on the scene.

Y Sponsors Two Features

Gambling coeds tried their skill at pitching pennies at last year's Y-Carnival (below). Other features of the event were the auctioning off of the services of several faculty members and the cake walk.

Another Y project, this time sponsored by the YW, was the all-school carnival which was held for the first time March 10, 1945. The jail, (below) superintended by a first class sheriff and deputy and assisted by Hairless Joe and Lonesome Polecat did a good business during the evening.

A fire in the Veterinary Hospital February 19 caused about $100,000 damage before firemen battling the blaze with inadequate equipment could bring it under control. The blaze completely destroyed the roof (right) and damaged the school's hospital and clinical facilities. All of the animals were saved from the burning building. One of the animals (above) died the following day, but the fire was not entirely to blame, as the cow had just undergone a caesarian operation.

Vet Fire Is Costly

The skeleton building was examined (right) the next day by the vet students and by the rest of the campus that had turned out the night before to help carry equipment and chemicals from the burning building. Through the work of the vets, the building was cleaned and ready for repair without waiting for outside laborers. The State War Emergency Fund approved $75,000 for the repair of the building and $19,000 for equipment.

Hold Royal Purple

THE 1946 Royal Purple Beauty Queen, Betty Clason, was presented to the students by RP Business Manager Dick Dodderidge. The ceremonies during which the queen and her attendants were crowned was broadcast over radio station WIBW.

KANSAS State's first post-war social season was highlighted by the Royal Purple Beauty Ball. Hundreds of students crowded Nichols Gymnasium on January 12 to dance to the music of Charley Clay's band while awaiting the presentation of the beauty queen and her three attendants.

Th 18 candidates were chosen by the sororities and independent groups. Glamour photographs of the women were sent to Bing Crosby for judging. From the pictures the actor-crooner selected "the fairest of them all," the Royal Purple Beauty Queen of 1946. The identity of the queen and her court was kept a close secret until late in the evening.

Dick Dodderidge, Royal Purple business manager, introduced the excited candidates to the dancers. At 11:20 p.m. Clay's theme song was played and radio station WIBW broadcast the crowning ceremonies with music of the band filling out the program.

Diminutive Betty Clason was presented to the students as Crosby's choice for this year's Royal Purple Beauty Queen. The small and vivacious queen represented an Independent organization, Amistad. First attendant to the queen was blonde Betty Porter of Annex II. Melba Norby, the candidate of Alpha Delta Pi, was chosen second attendant, and third attendant was Ruth Peddicord, of Clovia.

NICHOLS GYMNASIUM was filled January 12 with dancers awaiting the announcement of the queen. A winter carnival theme was used in the decorations with snowmen and evergreen boughs lending to the atmosphere. Stage decorations included a white backdrop with glittering purple letters spelling "Royal Purple Beauty Ball."

Kansas State College
Manhattan, Kansas

Dear Mr. Dodderidge:

With the aid of my staff of beauty experts we have selected Betty Clason as Queen with Betty Porter, Melba Norby, and Ruth Pettlicord as attendants.

We hope this meets with your approval. Selecting from single head photos depends entirely on camera results, so we hasten to console the other contestants with the admission the camera is not always flattering.

Have been on my ranch in Northern Nevada so have no chance to have a picture taken judging the photos, sorry.

Best wishes for a big time at the Beauty Ball.

Sincerely,

Bing Crosby

Kansas State Players

KANSAS State Players met once a month this year to discuss new plays and the productions just finished. Everyone interested in dramatics could attend the meetings, but to achieve membership in the Kansas State Players, one had to do active work on a College play.

The dramatic organization, with Dean Tiemann as president and under the direction of Prof. Earl G. Hoover, sponsors all the College plays and is in charge of the box office and ushering at the Manhattan Artist Series.

Last spring the Kansas State Players presented a melodrama which was given March 2 and 3, 1945. The setting was on board an American pleasure steamer, S. S. Imperial, in South American waters.

Flook Assists Hoover

Members of the cast were Georgianna Bacon, Craig Bracken, Bob Eschenburg, Carol Halbower, Roy Drown, Kay Guhl, Roberta Ince, Rosemary Ensign, Lou Jean Fletcher, Betty Carr, Ruby Wilson and Shirley Pray.

On May 4 and 5, of last year, the players presented "Over 21" which is a comedy by Ruth Gordon.

Paula, a brilliant Hollywood writer, follows her husband to camp and succeeds in pushing him through OCS. Her husband, Max Wharton, is a 40-year-old newspaper editor who after the first day decides that men over 21 weren't cut out for the Army education system.

Many of the humorous situations result from the visit to the Whartons of the strictly military Colonel Foley, his wife and enthusiastic mother-in-law.

Despite the efforts of Robert Drexal Gow, a newspaper publisher, Joel I. Nixon and his secretary, to discourage the prospective lieutenant, he is graduated 271st in his class of 352.

"Over 21" Is a Success

Margaret Ann Cadwell was assistant director, and Dean Tiemann was stage manager.

The cast included Betty Caldwell, Paula; Craig Bracken, Max Wharton; Arma Jo Smith, Jan Lupton; Ralph Fogleman, Pay Lupton; Dean Tiemann, Colonel Foley; Dorothy Wilson, Mrs. Foley; Pauline Flook, Mrs. Gales; Embert Coles, Robert Drexal Gow; Seymour Cohen, Joel I. Nixon; Jo Ann Scheu, secretary.

Seymour Cohen and Betty Caldwell, as Joel Nixon and Paula in "Over 21," have an argument while the secretary (Jo Ann Scheu) tries to settle it with a quick phone call.

The cast of "Kiss and Tell" portrays a dramatic moment (top) where the two mothers of the play fight a verbal battle. Craig Bracken, Pat McCrary, Phil Kiser, Roy Drown, Mary Matthews and Ed Vogel look on as Pauline Flook and Mrs. Zella Barber go into their act. Dexter and Corliss pause between battles (above) for a kiss while the irate father of Corliss looks on. Craig Bracken, Phil Kiser and Pat McCrary play the parts.

Written by F. Hugh Herbert and presented by the Kansas State Players under the direction of Earl G. Hoover.

Prof. Earl G. Hoover (right) has directed the productions of the Kansas State Players for the past three years.

Cast members of Kansas State Players donned stage costumes and theatrical grease paint November 2 and 3 for "Kiss and Tell," the first major production of the year.

Adapted from the radio series of Corliss Archer, the stage production, "Kiss and Tell," was a smash hit on Broadway, and the student interpretation of F. Hugh Herbert's comedy was enthusiastically received by the College audience.

McCrary Heads Cast

Patricia McCrary starred as the adolescent Corliss Archer in this teen-age farce, while Dexter Franklin, her ardent admirer, was portrayed by Phil Kiser.

The entire play takes place on the Archer's back porch where many complications arise. The peaceful family life of the Archers was disrupted by a series of misinterpretations due to the secret marriage of Corliss's brother, Lenny, to the girl next door, Mildred Pringle. The situation furnished much suspense and the irate father and understanding mother were at a loss to know what would happen next. Unpredicted humor was added to one of the performances when a stray cat from the audience nonchalantly walked up on the stage.

Hoover Directs Players

Earl G. Hoover, assistant professor of speech, has directed the productions of Kansas State Players for the past three years and was responsible for much of the success of "Kiss and Tell."

Under the direction of Professor Hoover and his assistant, Elizabeth Flippo, backstage crews spent many hours working on the set representing the screened-in-porch of a modern American stucco house.

Stars behind the scenes included lighting, stage, property, costume, make-up and business crews with O. D. Hunt, Dean Tiemann, Doris Marshall, Suzanne McGrath, Jo Ann Scheu, and Marlyn Hurd in charge.

General Attends Plays

The K-State Players presented seven one-act plays in February. A distinguished member of the first-night audience was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was visiting his brother.

Four men gathered around a bridge table in "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," directed by Elizabeth Flippo.

After an automobile accident, a young girl miraculously passes a crisis because of her fiance in "When the Sun Rises." Craig Bracken directed with Pat McCrary, Don Carttar and Rosemary Leonard.

"When the Sun Rises" a young girl miraculously passes the crisis after an automobile accident. Don Carttar and Pat McCrary (left) played in the emotional drama. An insane asylum furnished the setting for "Gloria Mundi" (below) with Carol Jean Heter, Dick Warren, Don Larson, Elizabeth Flippo, Morleen Finch, Betty Jo McCaustland.

The play "Rehearsal" took a turn about and showed behind scene activities to the audience. Rebecca Tice, Louise Beim and Rosemary Ensign (right) practice their parts.

A whale boat in search of oil was the setting for "Ile." Roy Drown both directed and acted in the play with Kathleen Kerr, Kenneth Jennison, Joe Weis, Charles Smith and Kay Wortman.

The action in "Gloria Mundi," directed by Ben Stewart, took place in an insane asylum. Dick Warren and Carol Heter appeared as doctor and nurse. Patients were played by Betty Jo McCaustland, Morleen Finch, Elizabeth Flippo and Don Larson.

A colonial American setting was made for "Londonderry Air" directed by Janey Hackney. A hired girl (Rebecca Lamoreaux) was thrilled by the tales of an Irish vagabond (Jerry Collins). Beverly Pribble had the role of a widow and Dale Olsen played her son.

The scene changed to a 17th century French dungeon for "Minuet" directed by Ed Vogel, Betty Carr, Joe Neidig and Kenneth Jennison.

The audience was given a view of the problems that go with a play in "Rehearsal," directed by Jo Ann Scheu. The cast included Marilyn Larson, Rebecca Tice, Rosemary Ensign, Norma Jones, Rose Marie Jones and Louise Beim.

Janey Hackney (extreme right, below) director of "Londonderry Air" watched the dress rehearsal from behind scenes. Rebecca Lamoreaux, Beverly Pribble and Dale Olsen take their parts seriously.

Versatile

Twirlers Jean Braden and Marjorie Diek (left) led the marching band on to the football field with Drum Major Dorene Hague at the fore.

FROM the first roll of the drums and ring of the trumpets as the College Band marches on the football field to the last singing note of the organ at the Sunday afternoon vespers, music plays an important part in college life. So it is at Kansas State. The Department of Music, under the direction of Prof. Luther Leavengood, has contributed much to campus activities.

A football game has never really begun until the wine and grey clad band members march smartly onto the field. Strutting majorettes lead the band about the gridiron, and then they stand, their twirling batons a circle of silver in the afternoon sunlight, while the band forms the letters K. S.

School spirit is roused at a basketball game when the skillful baton of Prof. Lyle P. Downey exacts a rhythmic beat as the cheerleaders stand and lead the crowd in a musical chant of Beat K. U., or the band may play a stirring version of the Kansas Aggie song while students sing.

Professor Downey's musicmakers have their more staid moments, however, when they consider for a while serious music, as was shown in their annual spring concert given in May during National Music Week when they played marches and overtures.

Choral Groups Offer Music Training

THE music department boasts of a new activity this year, the A Capella Choir, composed of about sixty-five members. With their first public performance in the Christmas Vespers, the choir sang its way into the esteem of students and townspeople. Dressed in robes and each member carrying a lighted candle, the choir came from the rear of the Auditorium in a very effective processional to thrill the hearts of Christmas lovers with their carols.

Every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday the singers go to Calvin Hall at five o'clock for practice under the direction of their capable director, Prof. Luther Leavengood. More than for public performance, the choir functions for individual enjoyment and training.

The A Capella deserves blue ribbons for their part in the Passion Chorologue presented at the Easter assembly. This chorologue, which caught the fancy of students and faculty alike, took the audience through the Last Supper, the Betrayal, the Trial, and the Crucifixion of Christ. Assisted by the Women's Glee Club and Prof. Richard Jesson, organist, the choir succeeded in passing the "Easter Spirit" to K-Staters.

Organ Vespers Presented

Also initiated onto the campus this year through the music department was a series of six Sunday vespers, One a month from November through April afforded a long span of enjoyment for interested audiences. All of the vespers were played by Prof. Richard Jesson except the February one when a guest organist, Mr. Carl Weinrich from New York, played the services.

Andor Foldes, concert pianist and former accompanist for Joseph Szegeti, famed Czech violinist, presented an assembly recital of contemporary American music on February 29. His recital ranked high in the diversified assembly program of the year. In the afternoon Mr. Foldes gave a lecture recital for the public in the auditorium using the subject "Piano Literature."

Kansas Staters love to warble! The College Women's Glee Club of sixty voices is a top music activity on the campus. Opportunities for tryouts are afforded all students who are interested. Participation in the Christmas Vespers, the Easter and Christmas assemblies, and intermission numbers at Y-Orpheum and several other programs aired the glee club's versatile repertoire before the student body. A lovely appearance was given as each time the women wore white dresses or formals. Director of the Glee Club is Miss Hilda Grossman, associate professor of voice.

Mu Phi Epsilon Reactivated

In addition to the Pro Musica Club, organized this year for all music majors, the Mu Mu chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary music sorority, was reactivated on the campus during the second semester after two years' inactivity. Nine new pledges were taken into the organization in March. Mu Phi Epsilon had been active on the Kansas State campus for twenty years prior to its temporary suspension during the war.

Supplementing student music during the year were the artists brought to the campus by the Manhattan Artist Series. Although these concerts were not sponsored by the music department, music fans reaped the benefit of several evenings of absorbed listening. In the early fall Teresita Osta and Lois Bannerman, dancer and harpist respectively, graced the stage, winning the hearty applause of the audience. Later the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra presented a varied concert.

In February Leonide Massine started the new semester with his Ballet Russe Highlights. Presentations included Chopin's "Les Sylphides," Tchaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite," Debussy's "Clair de Lune," and others. Massine and his troupe of seven world-famed ballet stars brought a new type of entertainment to the College. Instead of presenting complete ballets, he included only the high spots of the most popular ballets.

Thibault, Templeton Please

Conrad Thibault, Metropolitan baritone, thrilled a "full house" in March with melodies ranging from the operatic to the popular. Several encores were completed by the charming star of radio and stage before the audience withdrew its demands. April 3 brought pianist Alec Templeton to the Auditorium (standing room only) to satisfy a waiting and eager audience.

Unreserved approval of the concert series was evidenced by the exceptional attendance and enthusiastic interest.

A GREATER enjoyment and appreciation of music is gained by the students enrolled in the College Orchestra under the direction of Prof. Lyle P. Downey. Although the orchestra is small the members have gained valuable experience in their study of varied orchestration.

Orchestra Is Small

On May 5 to 9 America observed National Music Week. All over the nation schools and organizations paid homage to music and its creators. At Kansas State the week was filled with concerts, recitals and guest artists. The faculty piano quartet began the festivities with a concert. Charles William Stratton, associate professor of music, presented the works of old and new masters in his piano recital. Marches, chorals and overtures sparkled in a concert by the College Band. Dr. Earl Harper, director of the School of Fine Arts at the University of Iowa, spoke to students and faculty at a music assembly. Fredell Lack, a young American violinist, painted musical pictures before an audience of students and townspeople. The week was climaxed by the annual spring song fest of the a cappella choir.

Taylor Heads ROTC

Major Delos C. Taylor, who is the Commandant of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Kansas State College, arrived here in December, 1944, to take over his duties as Professor of Military Science and Tactics. He was not new to the College, however, as he received his bachelor of science and master's degrees in civil engineering here. After several years of coaching in Kansas high schools he joined the engineering staff at the College.

Taylor was commissioned a captain in the coast artillery reserve in 1940 and since then has served on the military staff of both Kansas State College and Kansas University.

Advanced ROTC

CAPT. SILAS R. BARTON recently arrived at Kansas State to assume the duties of Second Lt. Clarke P. Colman who is leaving the Army after five years of service. Lieutenant Colman has been at the College since November, 1943. Captain Barton is from Omaha, Neb., and has recently served in Europe.

A familiar figure to all ROTC men is Tech. Sgt. Roy E. Wilson, who has assumed various positions at the college since 1921. He has had charge of the rifle team for the past few years. Last spring his team won third place in the William Randolph Hearst rifle match and third place in the Seventh Service Command Headquarters rifle match.

Training Renewed During Spring Semester

SECOND semester of this school year an advanced program in ROTC was again offered at Kansas State. The program had been discontinued since the spring of 1943. A quota of 75 was set this year due to lack of men on the teaching staff. Before the war there were approximately 200 students enrolled in the advanced program; this semester there were 49. Any returned enlisted serviceman who has had one year of service is eligible for the training, as well as students who have four semester credits in basic ROTC.

The military science staff is looking forward to the addition of the air corps, veterinary corps, corps of engineers, and signal corps to its department. These arms of service have been recommended by Major Taylor, President Eisenhower and the Committee of Officers of the Seventh Service Command.

Another year will bring forth the spring inspection with college women as honorary cadet colonel and attendants. The custom has been inactive during the past few years due to the war. Scabbard and Blade, and Mortar and Ball, honorary military fraternities, will also be reinstated.

The Board of Student Publications consists of three faculty members and three students who regulate the activities of the Collegian and Royal Purple. This year's members are Jean Selby, Prof. R. R. Lashbrook, Prof. H. W. Davis, Prof. E. T. Keith, Betty Engle and Eunice Stoltenberg.

Board Governs Student Publications

Prof. R. R. Lashbrook, head of the journalism department, is chairman of the Board of Student Publications.

THE Board of Student Publications chooses the editors and business managers of The Collegian and the Royal Purple, approves the budgets of these publications and has general supervision over them. All major contracts must be approved by the board.

The board consists of three student members and three faculty men—Jean Selby, Betty Engle, Eunice Stoltenberg, Prof. H. W. Davis, Prof. E. T. Keith and Prof. R. R. Lashbrook, chairman. The student representatives are chosen by the student body each spring at the time of the Student Council election.

Applications for editor and business manager of both publications may be made by any student in school who meets the scholastic requirement. In selecting students for these positions, the board considers previous experience and personal qualifications.

The Board of Student Publications awards gold "K's" to those staff members of the paper and yearbook who earn them by their work on the respective publications. Twenty-eight members of the Royal Purple and fourteen from the Collegian staff won "K's" this year. Two other students received keys for their work on both of the publications. The awards were presented at the annual Publications Banquet which was held at the Country Club April 25.

Students receiving "K" keys for their Royal Purple work were Dorothy Cochran, Tess Montgomery, Dee Preusch, Nancy Diggle, Bonnie Woods, Gene Spratt, Mary Frances Zink, Bob Hilgendorf, Marlyn Hurd, Hannah Bacon, Pat Grentner, Dorothea Ward, Barbara S. Baker, Barbara Bross, Shirley Baker, Jean Hanly, Patty Piffer, Dave Eisenberg, Jo Ann Scheu, Eda Mae Hancock, June Sorensen, Ida Fredrick, Ann Huddleston, Barbara B. King, Jean Holmgren, Ruth Muirhead, Jane Hackney, Bonnie Waters and Virginia Harper.

Keys for Collegian work were awarded to Betty Brown Burton, Barbara Blaine, Marjorie Setter, Betty Hogan, Mary Ellen Rose, Dorraine Dorf, Jean Wainscott, Elizabeth Stark, Helen Clegg, Maxine Crawford, Alicemahree Meade, Bill Hofsess, Betty Swan and Jack James.

Dick Dodderidge and Gene Spratt received their award for work on both of the student publications.

Graduate manager of student publications is C. J. Medlin. His position is as adviser to the staffs of both publications. He also superintends the business and advertising end.

an army school in Biarritz, France, from July through December, and returned to his job here the second semester. A royal welcome was afforded him as journalism students made a large sign saying, "Welcome Home, Chief," and floated it above the door to Kedzie.

Mrs. B. L. Werts Monahan was named acting graduate manager in Medlin's absence during the first semester. A recent graduate of the Department of Industrial Journalism and Printing, she gave invaluable aid in formulating basic plans for the Royal Purple as well as advising the Collegian staff and superintending the business office of the publications.

Winners of K-awards, the Board of Student Publications and honored guests attended the 1945 Publications Banquet (below). The presentation of other less serious awards to various staff members has always constituted an amusing part of the informal affair.

Collegian Returns to Pre-War Status

THE first semester Collegian was in a period of postwar reconversion. During the war years, it was staffed mainly by women journalists but the paper's size was increased from the small tabloid of last year to the full-sized four-page sheet. Having been printed in the College print shop in Kedzie Hall for more than a year the paper again emerged from the presses of the Manhattan Mercury-Chronicle.

Spokesmen of the "voice of the K-State students" were Jean Wainscott, editor-in-chief, Elizabeth Stark, associate editor, and Maxine Crawford, society editor. The sports page received the masculine touch with Dick Dodderidge and Dale Sorenson handling the athletic side of campus life.

Women were also in charge of The Collegian business staff. With Dorraine Dorf as business manager and Betty Brown Burton as advertising assistant, each edition has its share of local and foreign advertisements.

An outstanding feature of the first semester sheets was the much discussed humor and gossip column, "We Can't All Be Lucky," written by Joe Neidig.

Regular Collegian reporting during the fall semester was done by fourteen students in the industrial writing class and six advanced journalism majors. The I. W.'s directed by Instructor Jane Koefod, covered regular College beats to dig up news and feature articles.

The editor, Jean Wainscott, was kept busy with a big paper and a small staff. During the semester she directed the publication of two featured issues of the Collegian—the International Security Assembly number, and the eight-page pre-war style Homecoming edition.

The ISA issue contained a report of the International affairs of each country represented by student groups taking part in the December plenary session.

Prominent running stories of the period were the International Security Assembly, the Manhattan Artist Series and news of the K-State veterans. Stories of the ex-servicemen received special attention and were constant large space raters. Top single stories were the announcement of Bing Crosby as judge of the 1946 Beauty Ball, and class elections.

January 8 marked the golden anniversary of the Kansas State student newspaper which began in 1896 as the "Student Herald."

Through paper policy national and international news happenings were soft-pedaled in preference to student activities. Current events were not forsaken, however, as Roy Allman and Bill Hofsess alternated in turning out a weekly news round-up, "Outside the Ivy Walls."

Editor Jean Wainscott breathed a sigh of relief when the eight-page, pre-war style Homecoming edition of The Collegian was in the hands of its readers.

Budding journalists of the Industrial Writing class start out to cover their beats. IW students are responsible for most of the routine reporting for The Collegian, and they also bring in many special stories.

The Collegian, the students' weekly paper, was greatly expanded both in size and in staff during the second semester. An increased enrollment in industrial journalism expanded the reporting staff while the general College enrollment boost brought about a permanent six-page paper.

Men were still overshadowed on the staff as they had been during the war. Elizabeth Stark, assistant editor first semester, became editor, and Helen Clegg became assistant editor. Elizabeth Ann Schlicter served as copy desk editor, Alicemahree Meade covered campus society from the social editor's desk and Dick Dodderidge kept the students in touch with Wildcat athletic activities.

The dirt column which was a weekly feature, was entitled "Pants and Shorts," and was written annoyously. "Outside the Ivy Walls," a column on state, national and international happenings, was written by Jack James, while Dick Dodderidge offered sports side-lights in his column "Chalk Talk."

The work of business manager was increased second semester, in order to support the six-page paper. Betty Brown Burton handled the business for the paper and Barbara Blaine was her assistant.

Second semester editor, Elizabeth Stark, had a greatly increased staff to handle Collegian reporting duties. Besides 40 industrial writing students, over 10 advanced reporters turned in copy. These embryo journalists scoured the campus each week to meet a Wednesday morning deadline.

Several top stories and "scoops" were featured in this period of Collegian publication. At the semester's start the huge Kansas State enrollment increase gained top heads while the visit of General Dwight Eisenhower, the Veterinary blaze, and the St. Pat Prom were really front page material. Outstanding running stories were the housing situation, the second series of ISA meetings and student elections.

Kansas Day, January 29, found K-State journalists getting a full taste of newspaper life. Twenty-five students traveled to Topeka and became full-fledged newspaper men and women for a day. The student editorial staff consisted of Dorothy Cochran, editor; Elizabeth Stark, city editor; Dee Preusch, copy desk; Alicemahree Meade, society editor; and Dick Dodderidge, sports editor.

Royal Purple Staff

"There's a new student at Kansas State" is the theme around which the Royal Purple staff under the direction of Dorothy Cochran, editor, has built the 1946 yearbook. In the opening section and on the division pages, as well as through the informal pictorial and written copy of the entire book, the theme is interpreted to depict the changes necessitated by the needs of the new student.

Dorothy Cochran (top left) as editor of The 1946 Royal Purple, supervised the editorial staff of more than thirty students, planned the theme, designed page layouts and checked the proof. RP photographer both this year and last, is Dec Preusch (left). Her job is one of the most strenuous, since she took almost all of the informal shots used in the book. Assistant editor Tess Montgomery points to an RP deadline (below left). Many and varied editorial jobs, including the planning of the feature section, fell into her capable hands. Others responsible for photographic parts of the Royal Purple are (below) Prof. E. T. Keith, who took all of the Big Six athletics action shots and developed all pictures the first semester; Floyd J. Hanna, who photographed all of the individual athletes and organizations and took the campus views; Lawrence W. Blaker, who supervised the individual pictures of the class section and made the photographs for the division pages; and Jack Curtis, a veteran and former RP staff photographer who printed and developed all second semester pictures.

Plans Postwar Book

The book is divided into four sections—administration, activities, organizations and classes—which, in carrying out the theme, are entitled "These are his advisors," "He's active on campus," ". . . and he belongs" and "These are his classmates."

A veteran was selected to symbolize the new student; he is pictured on each of the division pages to unify the various sections.

Dick Dodderidge, business manager of the yearbook, and his staff not only arranged for 32 pages of advertising, but distributed the books and sponsored the Royal Purple Beauty Ball.

This year, under the direction of Dave Underwood and Hannah Bacon, greater emphasis was put on soliciting out of town advertising. These "foreign" contracts were arranged for by personal contact and business letters. Marlyn Hurd handled the local advertisements.

Another job of the staff was to make purchasing arrangements with hundreds of new students. Royal Purples are bought through the first and second semester activity books so students arriving for second semester had to make a back payment.

Perhaps the most tedious work was done by the office staff. The office managers were Pat Grentner and Bonnie Waters. Mary Frances Zink was the class editor. All the indexing was done by Dorothea Ward and Beverly Pribble. Janiece McCoy and Virginia Harper typed identification on almost all of the group pictures.

This year 2,700 copies of the Royal Purple were sold. That is an increase of 1,100 over last year's sales.

Collegiate 4-H Club Publishes Yearbook

MARJORIE TENNANT, Margaret Ramsdale, Pauline Wahn, and Jim Shaver were special features editor, editor, business manager and artist respectively for this year's Who's Whoot, publication for Kansas 4-H'ers.

THE major project of the Collegiate 4-H Club each year is the publication of the Who's Whoot, a 4-H yearbook distributed over the state which recounts 4-H club activities of the year. Many counties in the state are represented by pages of snapshots portraying their club activities.

The annual contains more than 100 pages and will be distributed to 4-H'ers during the annual 4-H Round-up which will be held on the campus again this year for the first time since the war began.

The annual is paid for largely through advertising, but each county pays a nominal sum for the inclusion of their own material on the county pages. During the year members of the staff make trips to Kansas towns to sell advertising. The Who's Whoot is printed at the Capper Printing Company in Topeka.

Margaret Ann Ramsdale, editor, is a senior in general home economics from Sedgwick County. She has been active in 4-H work for several years. Last year she was assistant editor of Who's Whoot.

Other staff members are Pauline Wahn of McPherson County, business manager; Doris Galloway of Cloud County, county pages editor; Marjorie Tennant of Riley County, special features editor; Lola Warden of Hodgeman County; collegiate editor; Merle Eyestone of Leavenworth County, advertising manager; and Jim Shaver of Sherman County, artist.

Featured in the 1946 book will be a section about the state camp site purchased this year. Scenes of the camp and sketches of camp activities will be included in the section.

Other features of the book will be the work of the Collegiate 4-H Club, state 4-H leaders, county 4-H activities, outstanding club members, state champions, trip winners to Washington, D. C., and to the National 4-H Club Congress and Capper scholarship winners.

College Has Several Publicity Outlets

THE Industrialist is the official College newspaper.

Prof. Ralph Lashbrook, head of the journalism department, is editor. Kenney Ford, Alumni Secretary, edits a page of news items about former students and graduates. Assistant editors are Mrs. Jane Koefod, Fred Parris and Ted Peterson.

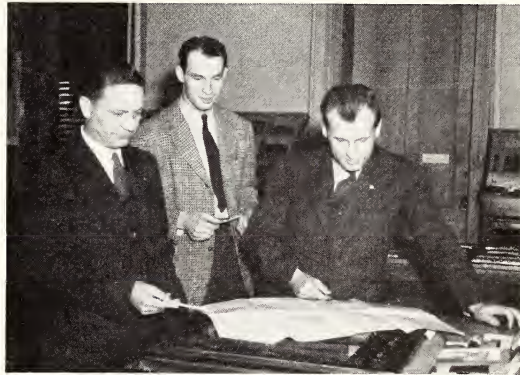

The Industrialist serves as the link between alumni and their College by recording recent activities on the campus as well as by carrying notices of alumni reunions and news of former classmates. The Industrialist is published weekly during the college year.

The Kansas State College News Bureau located on the second floor of Kedzie Hall acts as a press service for all Kansas newspapers, radio stations, press associations and home town papers. As such the News Bureau furnishes hundreds of stories each year about student activities.

Prof. Ralph Lashbrook is director of the News Bureau. New to the Bureau this year is Ted Peterson, a 1941 graduate of the University of Minnesota who has been in public relations work in the army for the past several years. Fred Parris is sports publicity director. Students who assisted in the News Bureau this year are Helen Clegg and Cleolis Bradley.

Prose, poetry and art by Kansans and others from surrounding states comprised the first post-war issue of The Kansas Magazine.

Prof. Robert Conover of the English department is editor of the annual publication, and Prof. John F. Helm of the architecture department is art editor. Prof. Ralph Lashbrook is chairman of the Kansas Magazine Board. During the past years Kansas Magazine contributors have been well represented in the publishing world with several new books.

MEMBERS OF The Industrialist staff check proof in the backshop before going to press. They are Editor Ralph Lashbrook, Fred Parris and Ted Peterson, assistant editors.

KANSAS MAGAZINE board members determined policies for the new issue of the magazine as they lunched together at the College Cafeteria. They are Prof. John F. Helm Jr., Prof. R. R. Lashbrook, Prof. Robert Conover, Mrs. Margene Falen, Prof. E. T. Keith, Mr. Ted Peterson and Prof. C. J. Medlin.

Students Participate

KSAC, "The Voice of Kansas State College," is College owned and operated. Because of this fact the station broadcasts programs that are educational and informative and are slanted to entertain all the members of the farm family.

Lisle L. Longsdorf is station manager for KSAC as well as being director of publicity for the Kansas State College Extension Service. Grant Salisbury, program director, announces the "Farm Hour." He is assisted by Dick Cech who announces the "College of the Air" and Mrs. Olive Osborn who has charge of the "Homemakers' Hour." Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Holbert are the station engineers.

Many of the station programs feature College students. The Student Broadcasters, under the direction of Mrs. Ann Mall, write, produce and enact radio programs.

Fifteen students, enrolled in the Radio News class, write and present daily news broadcasts on College activities. Instructor Fred Parris supervises the class.

Programs to foster music appreciation are an outstanding feature of KSAC. "Music Collegiate" under Miss Hilda Grossman's direction, is a program featuring students of the College music department.

Occasional programs, centered around the International Security Assembly, YW and YMCA, were student directed and conducted.

When spring approaches, the debate squad starts its workout. Preparation for a debate tournament means meeting daily to practice for four to six weeks preceding the contest.

This year the Kansas State squad under the direction of Dr. Howard T. Hill and assisted by Dr. A. A. Holtz will go to the Pi Kappa Delta Forensic Tournament at the State Teachers' College at Kearney, Nebraska. Pat Collister and Leonard Banowetz are entered in oratory. To contest in Extemporaneous Speech are Rita Hollecker, Norma Moyer, John Tasker and Herbert Coles. Frank Lamar is entered in Panel Discussion. The same speakers will furnish programs for various local and near-by community audiences.

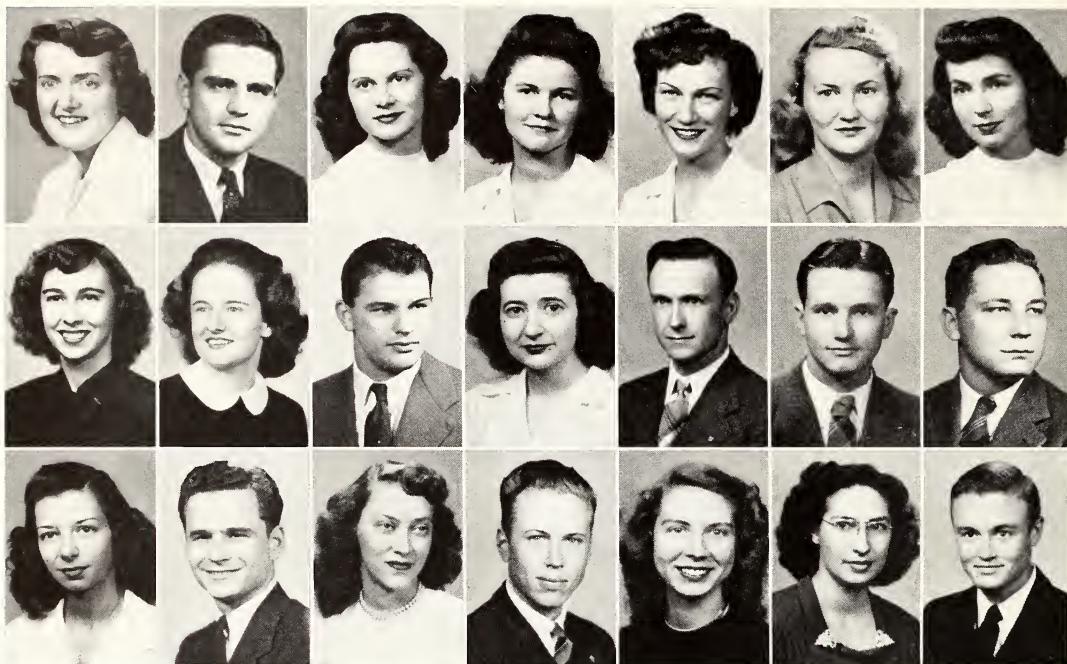

Student debaters get some pointers on speaking from Rev. John C. Friedl, Jesuit priest who is director of the Institute of Social Order at Rockhurst College in Kansas City, and who appeared at a College assembly in connection with a labor forum. Rita Hollecker, Norma Moyer, Herbert Coles and Frank Lamar take notes while he talks.

Last year's participation was in debate and oratory in the Missouri Valley Forensic League. Rita Hollecker represented the College in oratory, while Dorothy Wilson and Embert Coles took part in debate.

Outstanding Students Are Honored

THE biographies of twenty-one Kansas State students were sent to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges this year. Who's Who affords recognition to outstanding college students in America. Candidates for the publication are chosen on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership in extra-curricular activities and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society. Students of junior or senior standing or who are doing advanced work are eligible for consideration for Who's Who.

Eight men and thirteen women qualified for the book this year. Eight of the women elected were in the School of Home Economics.

Six students, each representing one of the schools of the college, were selected by their deans as "most representative students" and presented to guests of Farm and Home Week in February. Dean R. W. Babcock of the School of Arts and Sciences introduced the students over the campus radio station, KSAC, and gave brief resumes of their college careers. The students then discussed the activities of their respective schools.

Students chosen to represent their schools were Dee Preusch, Arts and Sciences; William Bixler, Engineering and Architecture; James Shaver, Agriculture; Ruth Fenton, Home Economics; Kenneth Middleton, Veterinary Medicine, and Rennie Tye, Graduate School.

Phi Kappa Phi Elects 45

ELECTION to Phi Kappa Phi, the highest honor the College may bestow upon students, was announced for 45 students and faculty members at Kansas State this year. Membership in the national honorary scholastic fraternity is based on a two point average over three years of college work for the fall tri-mester candidates and three and one-half years of work for the spring tri-mester candidates. Transfer grades are not included in figuring the grade averages. A maximum of ten percent of each school of the College may be elected to the fraternity.

The 1945 summer tri-mester candidates were elected to membership with the students of the fall tri-mester.

Prof. D. C. Warren was president of the organization this year. The Kansas State chapter of Phi Kappa Phi was founded in 1919.

M. F. "Mike" Ahearn (above), the founding father of Kansas State athletics, will retire from position as director of athletics at Kansas State July 1, after 26 years at the helm of Wildcat athletic policy.

Ahearn Retires

After 26 years of faithful and distinguished service as Kansas State director of athletics, M. F. "Mike" Ahearn will retire July 1. Hobbs Adams, back at Kansas State after three and a half years of naval service, was selected by the Kansas State athletics council and the Kansas Board of Regents as Ahearn's successor for the top Wildcat athletics post. Adams, head football coach at Kansas State since 1940, is a former University of Southern California star.

Ahearn, in his more than 40 years on the Kansas State faculty, has nurtured athletics from the early days when the genial Irish sports lover was head coach of baseball, basketball and football, to their present-day proportions. He will remain on the faculty as golf coach, assistant baseball mentor, and in addition will compile Kansas State athletics history.

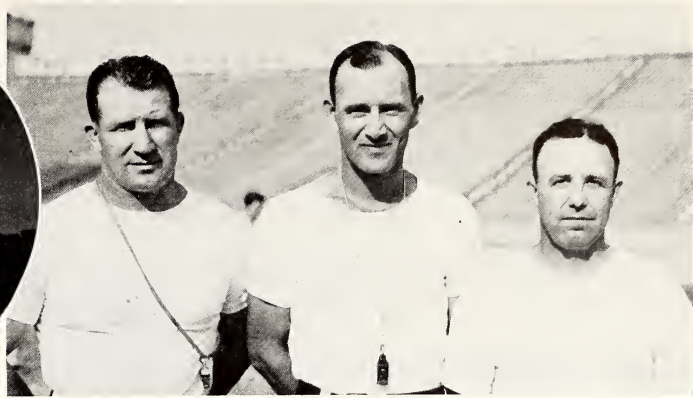

Kansas State's eight-man athletics council also greeted new members last summer when Prof. H. H. Haymaker of Kansas State and Mr. Jack Ballard of Topeka, alumni representative, were named to the board.

The eight-man Kansas State Athletics Council (below) is the guiding body of Wildcat athletics. Members of the Council are (standing) Dean R. A. Seaton, Mr. Jack Ballard, Prof. H. H. Haymaker, Dean R. W. Babcock. (Seated) Prof. R. I. Throckmorton, Pres. Milton S. Eisenhower, Dr. H. H. King and M. F. Ahearn.

End Coach Wally Swanson emphasizes a point to his wing candidates. Swanson was a former Wildcat star, served with the 101st Airborne Division.

All-Alumni Staff Directs Football

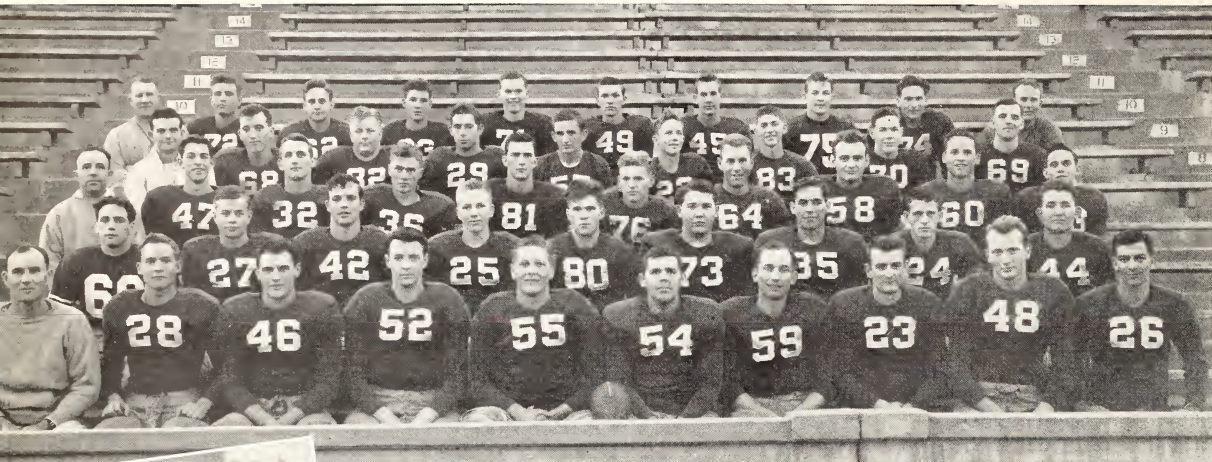

FOR the first time in the history of Kansas State football, the 1945 Wildcat grid machine took the field under the tutelage of an all-alumni coaching staff. L. C. "Lud" Fiser, energetic young head coach, held the distinction of being the first Kansas State graduate ever to hold the head coaching reins. Fiser moved up the ladder from Manhattan high school, where his football teams in his three-year reign had set an all-time high for stellar performances in that school. Disciple of the A. N. "Bo" McMillin double-wing system, Fiser added variations designed to give both fans and opposing clevers some hair-raising afternoons. Fiser, who yields the head coaching helm to Head Coach Hobbs Adams next fall, will remain on the pigskin faculty as freshman coach.

Fiser's assistants—Line Coach Fritz Knorr, End Coach Wally Swanson and Backfield Coach Mickey Evans—also are Kansas State grads. Knorr, Evans and Fiser were teammates on the Wildcats' 1929 grid eleven and Fiser and Evans played together on the 1930 baseball team. Knorr came to Kansas State in 1942 from Argentine high school in Kansas City. An instructor in the physical education department, he was promoted to the line coaching spot for the 1944 season and held the post for the 1945 term. Evans joined the coaching staff for the first time last fall and resigned this spring to accept a position in the physical education department at Oklahoma A. & M. College. Swanson, a great Kansas State end from 1939 to 1941, returned from service midway of the season and took over the Wildcat flankmen for the duration of the schedule.

Chancellor of the athletics exchequer is Frank Myers (above), assistant athletics director. Myers handles ticket sales, helps with sports schedules and keeps account of the Wildcat athletics finances, in addition to coaching baseball in the spring.

AL BANDY (upper left) was ace Wildcat ball lugger. He set a new all-opponent's ground gaining record against Oklahoma in his first varsity start. Guard Russ Hardin (lower left) was veteran lineman. A defensive standout, Hardin twice won All-Big Six honors, was Wildcat captain for 1945 season.

END COACH WALLY SWANSON, Head Coach Lud Fiser and Center Loren Schroeder plan some strategy against Nebraska's Cornhuskers.

Fail on Gridiron

OFF to a promising start with a 13 to 6 victory over Wichita University in the season opener, Head Coach Lud Fiser's freshman-studded 1945 grid machine sputtered badly in later games before running completely out of gas in the final two contests of the schedule. Basing their attack on a deceptive double wing system, Fiser's charges were offensively powerful, but lacked reserve strength and experience. They scored against all opposition until their offense bogged to hold them scoreless against Nebraska and Kansas Universities in their final two attempts. A first half team, they jarred both Oklahoma and Iowa State in the opening periods before bowing to superior reserve power.

Seven freshmen usually were included in Fiser's starting line-up and the Wildcats were sadly lacking in both weight and seasoning. The State passing attack, though, was highly regarded in the Big Six conference.

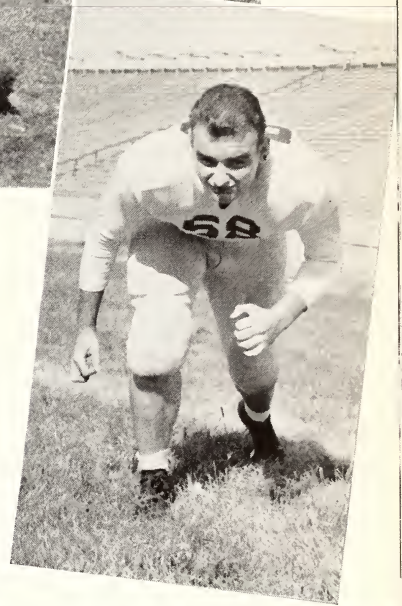

The season record:

K-State 13, Wichita 6	K-State 13, Oklahoma 41
K-State 12, Olathe NAS 34	K-State 15, Iowa State 40
K-State 13, Marquette 55	K-State 0, Nebraska 24
K-State 7, Missouri 41	K-State 0, Kansas 27

HALFBACK TED GRIMES roars off tackle for a substantial gain in the Wichita battle.

Kansas State opened its 1945 grid campaign on Ahearn Field against a determined Wichita University eleven. After both teams had scored in the second quarter, the game developed into a mid-field scrap. With only a minute of play remaining in the game, K-State launched an aerial thrust of 85 yards on four plays, which ended when halfback Ted Grimes flipped a 15-yard pass to end Bill Weaver in the Shocker end zone and Kansas State had a 13 to 6 victory in its initial try.

Olathe Navy Clippers Sink K-State

KANSAS State's gridmen started a seven-game victory drought with a 12 to 34 defeat at the hands of the Olathe Naval Air Station Clippers in their second start of 1945. The powerful sailor crew, packed with former college and professional stars, cashed in on breaks to hand the Wildcats their first setback.

End Dick Noyce grabbed a free ball and galloped 35 yards for one Kansas State tally in the third period. Halfback Ervin Patee went off tackle for 22 yards for the other Wildcat score in that contest. Center Erv Blaney of Olathe turned in the longest run of 96 yards, after intercepting a second quarter Wildcat pass.

HALFBACK BOB HOLLINGER (left) was K-State's 17-year-old speed merchant at a blocking back post. Harvey Haas, (center) one of five lettermen, was a strong defensive end, made second team All-Big Six selections. Bill Pritchard (right) was one of three Wildcat seniors and a forward wall stalwart.

Twin Defeats Plague Cats

A GAINST Marquette, in Kansas State's third start of the season, Coach Lud Fiser unveiled a passing star in fullback Dick Harris, freshman from Clay Center. Although the strong Marquette team was an easy victor, Harris' passes kept the Milwaukee eleven in hot water and resulted in two touchdowns for Kansas State, one by Ross Estes and the other by end Harvey Haas. Kansas State bowed 55 to 13, but Harris had found his stride.

The following Saturday, the Wildcats teed off on the Big Six course against Missouri University at Columbia. The Tigers, who subsequently copped the conference crown, tossed a powerful running game at a weak K-State defense and the result was a Missouri victory by a 41 to 7 count. The sole Wildcat score came on a pass from Ted Grimes to end John Watson in the Tiger end zone.

CENTER DICK HOOD (left) was outstanding defenseman. Benched by injuries in the Marquette game, he missed late season contests.

Sooners Get Scare

A REJUVENATED Kansas State team took Ahearn Field against the league-leading Oklahoma Sooners. No sooner had the 8,000 Parents' Day fans settled in the seats of Memorial Stadium than the Wildcats had taken the opening kick-off and driven, with power plays and a smooth-clicking ground attack, to cross the Sooner goal in eight plays. That first Wildcat drive covered 95 yards and ended when Ross Estes scampered across from the three. Seconds later a Dick Harris to Al Bandy pass brought the second Wildcat score after an Oklahoma fumble. Oklahoma tossed superior reserve strength into the fray in the second half to take a 41 to 13 victory after taking a scant 14-13 halftime advantage.

HALFBACK BERNARD WILLIAMS tries in vain to elude three Olathe Naval Air Station tacklers in Wildcats' second game of season.

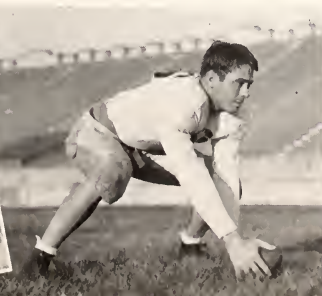

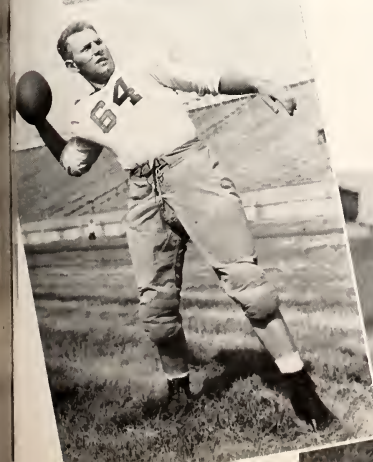

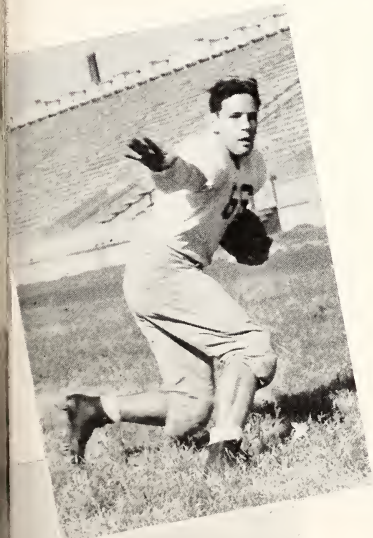

HALFBACK AL BANDY follows guard Russ Hardin on wide end sweep in the Nebraska Homecoming game. Erv Patee, on ground, has just dropped a Husker tackler.

Huskers Blank Wildcats

WITH Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and Governor Andrew Schoepel among the 11,000 Homecoming Day fans, Kansas State took Ahearn Field an even money favorite to stop the offensively weak Nebraska Cornhuskers.

It was not long after the opening kick-off, though, that the partisan crowd realized it would not be the Wildcats' day. A sharp and alert Husker eleven bulled to a first quarter score, then turned back two Wildcat drives that carried to the five and 12-yard lines respectively in the second period.

The last half was more of the same as the alert Huskers overpowered the lighter Wildcats and completely stopped the vaunted Purple and White passing attack. The final score was Nebraska 24, Kansas State 0, and Coach Lud Fiser's charges had gone scoreless for the first time in the season. Bad punting hurt the Wildcat cause in this battle.

Passes Click Against Cyclones

KANSAS State's gridmen traveled to Ames, Iowa, to meet the third place Iowa State Cyclones. Unleashing a powerful passing attack, the Wildcats fought the Cyclones for 30 minutes to take a 13-12 halftime lead, but again yielded to bad breaks and superior reserves in the final half. The Cyclones held a heavy 40 to 13 lead when the final gun sounded. Dick Howard, Cyclone halfback, sprinted 106 yards on a pass interception, then jogged 96 yards on a kick-off runback to hang up two of the longest runs in the nation last season.

Close Season At K. U.

THE jinx that had hovered over the Wildcat bench for six straight games was there again in Kansas University's Memorial Stadium when the Wildcats battled their bitterest foe, the K. U. Jayhawks.

Combining an explosive aerial attack with deceptive ground strategy, the Jayhawks scored once in the second and third quarters and took advantage of the rapidly tiring K-Staters to shove across two more scores in the final canto. The 27 to 0 Jayhawk victory mired Kansas State in the conference football cellar without a single circuit victory and closed the season on an unsuccessful Wildcat attempt for 1945.

Drive Near to Pay Dirt

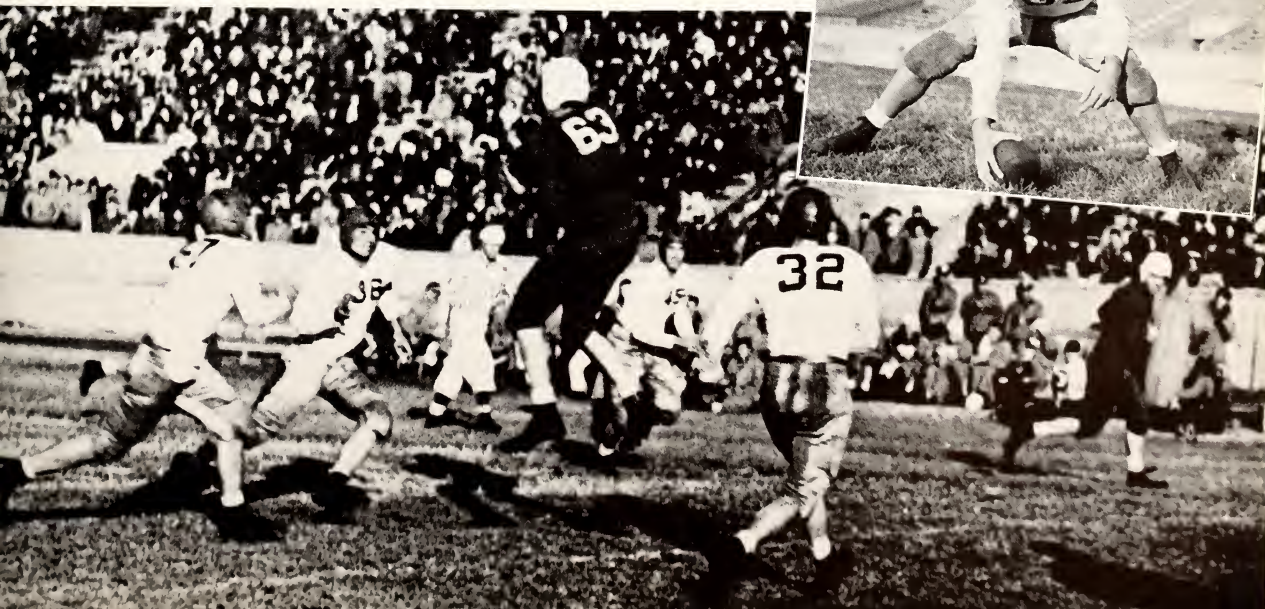

Late in the first half, the Wildcats drove to the Jayhawk three-yard stripe, but a fourth down pass went stale and the Jayhawks started to march. With thirty seconds left in the first half and with Kansas 16 yards from pay dirt, quarterback George Gear pulled one out of the moth balls and sent halfback Dick Bertuzzi scampering into the Wildcat end zone on the well-worn Statue of Liberty maneuver. From there on it was all K. U. as the Jayhawks completely dominated both offensive and defensive play in the second half to thwart the final K-State try.

The Wildcat offense bogged completely in the final half as both passes and running plays failed to gain a single yard in the last period against the Jayhawk defense.

BUD WEILER (above) veteran of five European battles, was Wildcats' big portside pass chucker and ball carrier.

Dull Cage Year

EXPECTING a large turnout of returning lettermen, Kansas State schedule makers posted a rugged 24-game slate for 1945-46 basketball competition, with 16 games during the first semester. The lettermen failed to materialize, though, and Coach Fritz Knorr, in his second year as Wildcat cage coach, had a heavy job all season. Second semester material losses only added to the problem, and the constant personnel turnover plus a lack of seasoned campaigners combined to spell a dismal season. The Cats won four games, lost 20, and finished in the Big Six conference cellar.

Cats Win Cage Opener

OFF to a promising start, Coach Fritz Knorr's experienced Wildcats took on a rangy band of Washburn university Ichabods in the opening clash and romped to an easy 46 to 31 victory on the scoring efforts of Forwards Dick Hood and Bill Schultz. Then the Wildcat difficulties began. Coach Bill Powell's Rockhurst college cagers of Kansas City eked out a 32 to 31 victory three nights later and the Cats were off on an 11-game losing streak.

Before Knorr could get his green crew back in its stride, the K-Staters had been bowled over left and right by all kinds of competition. Washburn came to Nichols Gym and gained revenge over the Wildcats in their first start with a 42 to 38 victory. The following week-end the Wildcats entered a tournament in Kansas City against three conference foes—Kansas university, Nebraska and Missouri. In opening night play, the Kansas Jayhawks thumped K-State 71 to 46 and in the consolation contest Nebraska romped over the Cats 62 to 47.

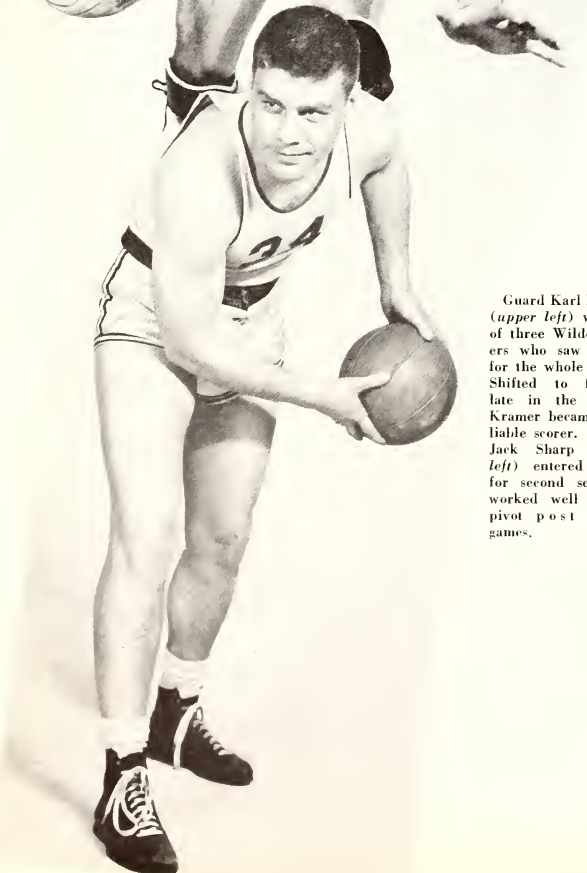

Dave Weatherby (right) was high Wildcat scorer. The tall sophomore forward ranked third in Big Six scoring race, made first All-Conference team.

One of Kansas State's all-time cage greats was Jay Payton (right) the Wildcats' All-Big Six guard. A good scorer, Payton played stellar defensive ball, amazed fans with deadly passing and sparkling floor play. He was elected 1945-46 K-State cage captain.

Forward Bill Schultz battles a Kansas University player, (above) when the powerful Jayhawks invaded Nichols Gym for a conference battle in December.

Bow on Road Trip

WITH five non-conference games under their belts, the Wildcats and Coach Knorr boarded a train for a four-game road swing to the west over the Christmas holidays. Their first stop was Fort Collins, Colo., where they met the strong Colorado State quintet in a pair of contests. Colorado State took the first scuffle by a 52 to 43 margin, then turned on the power to cop the second game 60 to 37.

Next on the Wildcat trip was Wyoming, boasting a roster full of returned veterans from the national championship 1943 squad. Paced by All-Americans Kenny Sailors and Milo Komeninch, the Wyoming quint whipped the Staters 43 to 27 in the first scuffle, then took a Christmas Eve feature attraction by a 62 to 33 score. Guard Jay Payton and Forwards Dave Weatherby and Bill Schultz were the Wildcat standouts in the four games on the road trip. Back from the journey, the Wildcats began preparing for another Kansas City tourney.

Losses Plague Cats

AFTER their Christmas road swing, the Wildcats went to Kansas City as the only Mid-Western entry in a four-team tourney which boasted Hamline, Eastern Kentucky and Marshall College as the other three contestants. The Wildcats met the powerful Marshall crew in the opener, bowed by a top-heavy 88 to 42 count. In the consolation battle they met Freddie Lewis and Company of Eastern Kentucky, and though showing improvement, failed under the baskets to drop their tenth straight decision by a 54 to 47 count.

The following Tuesday they opened the Big Six conference race against Nebraska and almost gained revenge for the earlier tourney setback. The Huskers rallied late to win 44 to 37, and hand the Cats their eleventh defeat of the term.

Guard Ken Oberg (upper right) stepped into the Wildcat line-up at the start of the second semester and turned in stellar performances during the last half drive. Bill Schultz (lower right) was Wildcat senior, high scorer, was graduated at mid-term.

State Tops Cyclones

AFTER absorbing 11 consecutive lickings, one of them in Big Six play, the Wildcats opened the home conference season with a 52 to 46 overtime victory over the defending champion Iowa State Cyclones in a hair-raising, well played battle. After leading all the way, the Cats watched a five-point lead dwindle to two points in the waning minutes, then saw Forward Jim Buck of the Cyclones sink a desperation toss from mid-court that was in the air when the gun sounded to tie the count at 46-all. The Cats, on the efforts of Forwards Bill Schultz and Dick Hood and Center Bob Toburen, slashed the nets to move to a six-point lead before the befuddled Cyclones could register in the overtime period. Schultz set a new conference free throw mark with 11 charity flips and the Wildcats set a new team free throw record making 26 of 30 tries from the charity line.

The stride hit by Knorr's charges in the Iowa State fray didn't last for long, however. In their next home battle they bowed to the Kansas Jayhawks 39 to 26, then fell victim to Oklahoma's Sooners at Norman by a 57 to 32 count. In their last home appearance of the first semester they took a first half lead on Missouri, but failed to finish and lost to the Bengals, 42 to 32.

Wildcats Close With Win

OPENING the second semester schedule, minus most of his first term regulars, Coach Knorr faced the difficult task of rebuilding his attack. With Ken Oberg, Ralph Barrett, Jack Sharp, Bill Richards and others carrying the heavy chores, the head man built around Jay Payton, Dave Weatherby and Karl Kramer, holdovers from the initial term. The first second semester outing was against Kansas university, and the fast-breaking Jayhawks showed why they were leading the league by whipping the Cats 68 to 43 in a rough battle. Rockhurst came to Manhattan for a return match the same week and repeated their earlier victory, thumping the Staters 31 to 28.

After a five-game losing streak, the Wildcats broke back into the win column, defeating Drake in a non-league affair 41 to 39 as Dave Weatherby shoveled in 28 points for his top performance of the year. Weatherby picked up another 25 points in the next battle against Missouri, but the Tigers won 58 to 47. Three days later it was Oklahoma again, and the strong Sooners routed the Cats 57 to 44 on the home court. Finishing up the Wildcats lost to Iowa State 74 to 39, to Drake 52 to 23, then closed with a victory over Nebraska 54 to 49.

K-State Welcomes Back Four Coaches

AS SPRING of 1946 rolled around, Kansas State welcomed back four coaches from military service and golfers took to the fairways for the first time since before the war. Back on the campus were Football Coach Hobbs Adams, Line Coach Bill Schutte, Backfield Coach "Chili" Cochrane and Basketball Coach Jack Gardner.

Coach Mike Ahearn worked his golfers for their eight-match schedule, and held intra-squad competition. The 1946 golf schedule:

April 13—Nebraska
April 19—Kansas U.
April 20—Oklahoma

April 26—Nebraska
April 27—Iowa State
May 11—Kansas U.

May 17—Missouri
May 18—Big Six Meet

Diamond Hopes High

AFTER a three-year wartime absence, baseball re-entered the Kansas State sports picture this spring with more than 80 diamond hopefuls reporting for the first practice session under Coach Owen L. "Chili" Cochrane and his assistants, Frank Myers and M. F. "Mike" Ahearn. Two early season eliminations cut the roster to a working squad of 32 players.

Only one letterman, Jim Prideaux of Manhattan, was on hand when practice began, but the diamond coaches had reliable performers for most positions, with an adequate sprinkling of former Wildcat squadmen and Ban Johnson stars.

Bad weather kept the candidates indoors for the first two weeks of workouts, but Myers and Ahearn, who handled the charges while Cochrane was absorbed in spring football, herded their squad out of doors in time to get in valuable workouts before opening competition.

Ten Games Scheduled

Faced with a rugged ten-game schedule against the cream of the Big Six baseball crop, pre-season workouts were rapidly intensified and the coaches ran their charges through intra-squad games with a vengeance. Besides Prideaux, Wendell Bell, former squadman at second base, showed promise. The Wildcats also had stellar performers in southpaw Pitcher Carl Shapley and big Righthander Don McGinness. Bob Ives, center fielder, hit the horsehide consistently, while Jim

Morrissey, a freshman first baseman, was a standout. Behind the bat, the Cats had stars in Larry Gryskiewicz and Tony Clementi, both seasoned performers.

The 1946 Schedule:

April 15-16—Kansas university
April 17-18—Oklahoma university
April 26-27—Kansas university
May 3-4—Iowa State
May 13-14—Nebraska university

M. F. "Mike" Ahearn and Frank Myers give a few tips to part of the 1946 baseball candidates at one of the early outdoor practices. More than eighty candidates answered the first call, and coaches divided the squad into two groups, each group reporting at different times for practice sessions.

War Veterans Bolster State Trackmen

Genial Track Coach Ward Haylett and ace pole-vaulter Ernie Nelson in a lighter mood. Nelson was Cat individual star, Pacific war veteran.

WITH returned war veteran letterman bolstering his hopes, Ward Haylett, Kansas State's internationally famous track coach, began laying plans for an active revival of the cinder sport.

The first indoor meet of the season was held at Lincoln, Nebraska, with the Wildcats, Nebraska and Kansas University as the competitors in a triangular affair. Loaded with returned vets and Navy trainees, the Husker and Jayhawk squads were too strong for Haylett's young hopefuls, and the Cats finished in third place. Dick Fuller, dashman, took the only Wildcat first with a win in the 60-yard dash. Ray Adece, lettered distance man, copped a second in the two-mile. Ernest Nelson and George Sherman, former Wildcat stars, tied for second in the pole vault. Harold Kiser, a 1941 numeral winner, picked up thirds in the high hurdles, high jump and broad jump to top the scorers. Other K-State point winners were Seth Antrim, fourth in the 440; Art Fletcher, fifth in the 440; Jim Cunningham, fifth in the half mile; George Leasure, third in the mile, and Jim Danielson, fourth in the high hurdles, third in the low hurdles and fourth in the high jump.

— Jim Cunningham (above left) was Wildcat half-miler and one of several returned war veterans who strengthened the squad. Ray Ades (above center) was Wildcat letterman, star two-miler. Harold Kiser (above right) earned frosh numeral in 1941, competed in hurdles, broad jump and high jump.

Three other meets besides the triangular opener were on the Wildcat indoor schedule. In the Big Six conference indoor meet, K-State finished in last place, with Art Hildenbrand taking a fourth in the half mile and Ernie Nelson tying for fourth in the pole vault for the only Purple and White points. In the Michigan State Invitational meet, Hildenbrand took fifth place in the half mile, Nelson tied for second in the pole vault and George Leasure romped home fifth in the mile. At the huge Purdue Relays, the Kansas State two-mile relay team took fifth.

 April 20—Kansas Relays

April 27—Colorado Relays
 May 4—Kansas U. Dual

May 11—Iowa State Dual
 May 17-18—Big Six Meet

Washburn Directs Intramural Program

Prof. L. P. Washburn directs the men's intramurals which provides an athletic program for students who do not take part in intercollegiate athletics.

POST war intramurals got under way this year. In spite of the decrease in enrollment of male students, during the war the men's intramurals continued and weathered the storm. This year brought out a large number of participants, which indicated the popularity of the activity. Once again Prof. L. P. Washburn directed the program and provided a well-rounded schedule of sports for those who did not take part in intercollegiate athletics.

The 1945 softball tournament was concluded with the Jr. AVMA and Alpha Gamma Rho as co-champions. Due to the proximity of final examinations, no play-off for the championship was held.

The volleyball tournament for 1945 was arranged so that the ten competing teams played a Round-Robin. The AGR's won the tournament easily, winning all of their nine games. The team displayed an excellent brand of volleyball.

There were sixteen teams entered in the intramural touch football tournament held in the fall. Eight fraternities and eight independent teams doubled the number of teams competing the previous year.

Delta Tau Delta defeated Alpha Gamma Rho to become fraternity champions in football. The College Club defeated the Blue Devils and annexed the Independent championship. In the play-off for the school championship, the College Club displaying a neat bit of football "know-how," won over the fighting frat team, 33-18, in an exciting game.

Leonard Jennison, representing the Wesley Foundation Athletic Club, showed the boys how to do it by "copping" the horseshoe pitching crown. The number of contestants was large, but there were not enough to have teams representing various groups on the campus. Team play-offs are expected to return next year.

Beta's Rate High

Seventeen teams were entered in what was to be an action packed intramural basketball tourney. The teams were so divided so that there were two groups each in the Independent and Greek divisions. After the original play-offs, Beta Theta Pi defeated Sigma Alpha Epsilon to become winner of the fraternity group; thus the Beta's earned the right to represent their division in the all-school basketball finals.

Leonard Jennison won the horseshoe pitching crown for the Wesley Foundation Athletic Club.

It was in the independent division that the excitement began. The Jr. AVMA team defeated all competition in their group and seemed assured of finishing in first place. They displayed a fine hand of basketball and seemed a "shov-in" for the all-school championship. But due to the ineligibility of one player, they had to forfeit their games.

Action in a volleyball game shows tense interest as the players watch the ball go over the net.

Intramural Schedule Provides Wide

THE basketball title went to the College Club, whom the Jr. AVMA's had twice defeated. The College Club then won over the Hubba Club to become Independent champs. What was expected to be a tough tussle turned out otherwise when the frat champ, Beta Theta Pi, was defeated by the College Club in the all-school championship tilt, 24 to 14. The College Club was in command throughout.

Delta Tau Delta defeated Tau Kappa Epsilon to annex the Greek volleyball championship. The House of Williams won the independent division title by defeating the College Club. In a nip and tuck final match the Delts defeated the House of Williams men. Members of the all-school winning team were Harry Merriman, Donald Neubaier, Henrion Buser, Derrill Bartley, Royden Kirkpatrick, and E. E. Perkins.

TKE Jack Dunlap (below) won the singles ping pong championship for the Greeks, but was defeated in the final round by Rosendo Cordero (second below) of Jr. AVMA who won the independent division and the all-school championship.

Sig Alphas Walter Gage and Bob Curry (left) won the fraternity play-off in the doubles division but were defeated in the final round.

Athletic Program

For the second consecutive year Rosendo Cordero, representative of Jr. AVMA, won the men's single table tennis tourney. He defeated Jack Dunlap, Tau Kappa Epsilon, to win the first place title. Kenneth Middleton and Bill Schwartz from Jr. AVMA copped the finals in the doubles division. They won last bracket games from Walter Gage and Bob Curry, Sig Alphas, who were winners of the fraternity group. Sixty-three men played in the singles tournament and 50 participated in the doubles.

Geyer Supervises Women's Intramural

Miss Katherine Geyer, professor of physical education, is director of the women's intramural program.

WOMEN'S intramurals are open to all women on the campus and furnish an athletic program for many students who are not enrolled in physical education courses but are interested in sports. Miss Katherine Geyer is supervisor of intramurals and is assisted by Miss Ruth Kriehn and Miss Eva Lyman of the physical education staff.

Pi Phi's Bonnie Smith, Shirley Gillan Anderson, Eda Mae Hancock, Marcellene Linschied and Peggy Phelan won last year's swimming championship.

Intramural sports were held after classes on week days. First semester the women participated in swimming, softball, posture and ping pong tournaments. Second semester brought basketball, dancing, volleyball and tennis contests.

Last year's swimming tournament was held in April of '45. The Pi Beta Phi team received the highest number of points and became "Winner of the Water" for that year. Many remember this date because announcement of President Roosevelt's death was made during the final meet.

For the second consecutive year Mary Hodgson, an Independent, is "champ" of the intramural ping pong tourney. Table tennis competition was open to all women students and for the past two years approximately 200 fans have played. Ten organizations participated this year and played for group winners. The round-robin winners competed in a final round for the first place title. This year, "Victor" Hodgson defeated Beverly Braeckveldt, representing Chi Omega, for ping pong championship.

The intramural volleyball tournament for 1945 was played last spring and was won by the Delta Delta Delta team. The Tri Delt nine have won the honors in this sport for two consecutive years. Approximately 10 teams batted the ball across the high nets in games that were played for practice. In the round-robin tourney each team played the other teams in the bracket for two 10-minute halves. Chi Omega, Kappa Delta and Delta Delta Delta were group winners.

Mary Hodgson, "champ" of the intramural ping pong tourney, won the title for the second time this year.

Sports Program

This year, intramural sports started with softball. The tournament brought forth lots of spirit and good competition. The Blitz Babes, a group of Independents, went through the last bracket undefeated. Fourteen teams competed in the games which were played on the green east of the cafeteria. Group winners were Delta Delta Delta, Blitz Babes, Keim's Kabana and Alpha Delta Pi. The Blitz Babe team defeated Keim's Kabana to win the high honors.

Misses Ruth Kriehn and Eva Lyman help phys ed majors judge the intramural contests. As professors in the physical education department, they help plan the intramural program.

Mrs. Edyth Jones is matron of the women's gymnasium, and a friend of all women taking part in intramurals or physical education classes.

Miss Postures at Kansas State for 1945-46 "walked straight" from the Delta Delta Delta sorority. The Tri Deltas rated highest in the posture contest last year also. Entries from seven organizations were graded in walking and standing positions. Twelve teams were judged by the physical education instructors. The highest grade possible, A, was granted to only two contestants, Marjorie McInteer and Eunice Stoltenberg. Six representatives of Kappa Kappa Gamma took second place, and Alpha Xi Delta and Chi Omega tied for third.

Blitz Babes Take Two

THE Blitz Babes went to the top and won the intramural basketball tournament which was played in March. From the round-robin tourney four group winners competed in a last round. The Blitz Babe sextet won from the Alpha Delta Pi team in the final cage game. Thirteen teams played in the toss-up tournament which took place in the women's gym. This is the second consecutive year that the Blitz Babes have won first place in basketball intramurals.

Pauline Reed was manager of the winning team. Other members of the top squad were Jane Rogers, Deloris Krien, Billy Newman, Betty Gwin, Jean Reneau, Shirley McMahon, Lucille Bohling and Louise Petrie.

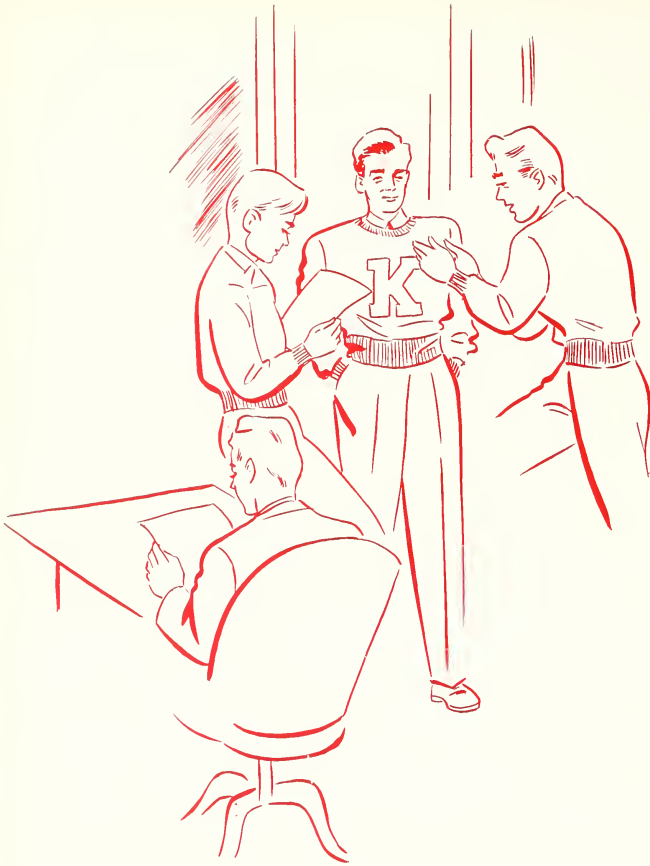

The Blitz Babe team proved that they worked well in water also when they won the swimming contest which was held in the women's pool in November. Five teams entered the water tournament. Contestants participated in nine different events. Competition in back crawl, forward crawl, breast, side and elementary back strokes; diving; relay and two stunt races was judged by physical education majors. Miss Lyman and Miss Kriehn had charge of the swimming tournament.

Alpha Xi's and AD Pi's played (above) in one of the play off meets in the round-robin tourney. Four group winners competed for the title, and the Blitz Babes won for the second consecutive year. Thirteen teams entered this year's basketball intramurals.

Winners of the swimming tourney held in the fall were Nila Jean Torrence, Louise Petrie and Marguerite Nebergall, who represented the Blitz Babes. Each team entered in the contest participated in nine events.

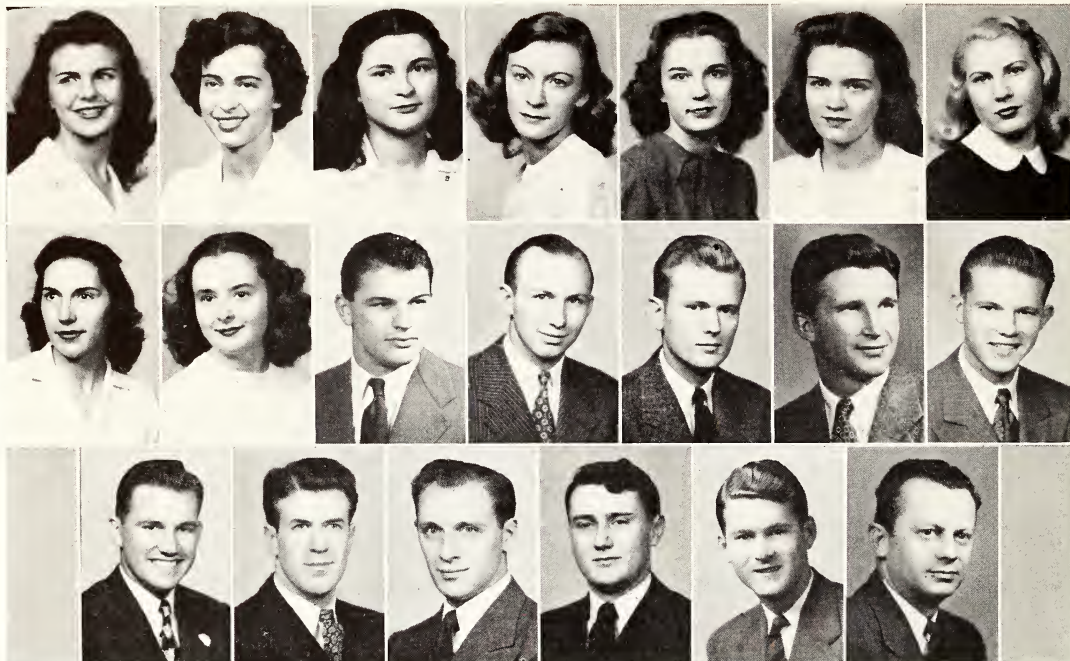

Meetings and appointments are a basic part of the new student's school life outside class hours, for he belongs to a variety of organizations. Departmental clubs, honoraries, religious groups, social organizations and other fraternal orders help him develop leadership which will be useful later. He belongs—yes, to the campus and its organizations; but more than all of this, the new student belongs to a new generation . . . the generation which will shape the destiny of tomorrow's world. During his four years at Kansas State the new student is shaping himself for a part in the largest organization of all . . . that of a peaceful world.

Interfrat Council Governs Greeks

REPRESENTING the social fraternities on the hill is the Interfraternity Council. Membership includes one representative from each fraternity. Jim Davis was this year's president of the group. Coordinating the activities of the fraternities and legislating for the welfare are two of the functions of the Council. The group also served as campaign managers for Greek candidates for class offices this year.

During the second semester, an all-Greek, competitive song fest was sponsored by the Council. Eleven fraternities and eight sororities entered the interfraternity sing which was held out of doors on the campus east of Nichols gymnasium.

Each fall the Women's Panhellenic Council supervises rush week. The organization's purpose is to foster cooperation and harmony among the eight sororities on the campus. Its officers are selected on a rotation basis. Composed of two girls from each sorority, a junior and senior representative, the Council concerns itself with inter-sorority problems and with any campus projects which affect the groups represented.

One of the major projects of the year was the revision of rush week rules, which will go into effect next fall. It was partly through the Council's effort and work that the pre-war Interfraternity Sing was revived in April.

Greek Pledges Coordinate Activities

REPRESENTATIVES of pledges of all social sororities and fraternities on the hill formed the "steering group" known as the Interfraternity Pledge Council. Two members of each Greek group met semi-monthly and on call to coordinate the activities of the Greek pledges. Meetings were rotated among the various chapter houses available for such use.

Springtime found the Council hard at work on a constitution for the group. Membership fluctuated as some left the campus for military service and some were graduated to the Interfraternity Council for active Greek members. During the second semester, several new members appeared at Council meetings, representing fraternities which were reactivated late in the school year.

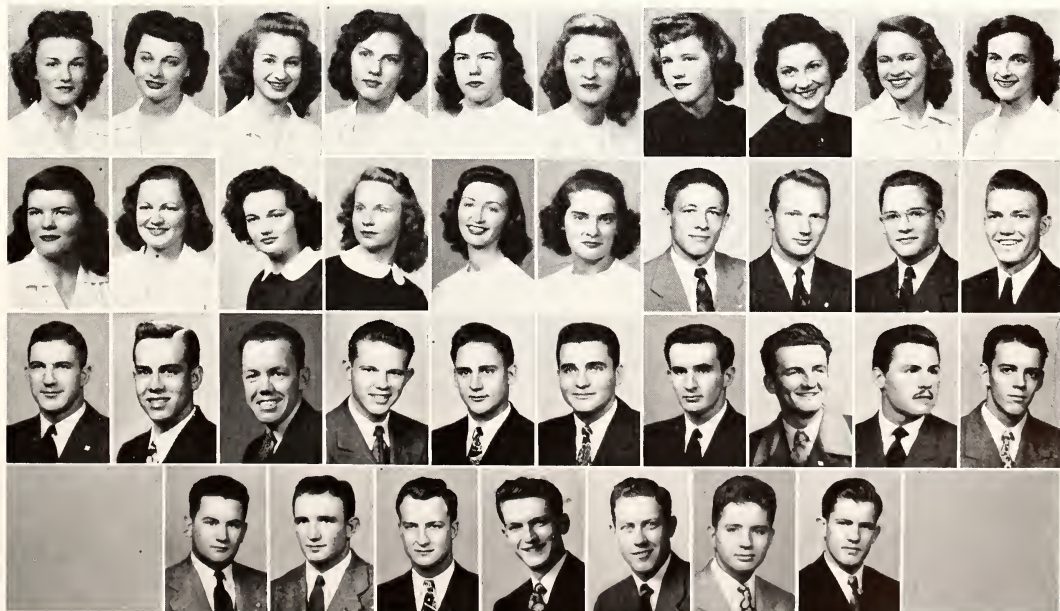

In the fall, the Council drew up a list of Greek candidates for freshman class officers. Later in the semester, it sponsored and arranged the Interfraternity pledge sneak held at the Country Club. A sport affair, the sneak consisted of supper, dancing to a juke box, and singing various fraternity songs.

Members of the Interfrat Pledge Council met at the Chi Omega house in January to make plans for the spring semester.

Social dancing was rated high on the list of Chi O activities. Designs of cardinal and straw hues were reflected under soft lights at the winter Chi Omega Sweetheart Ball, and a formal White Carnation Ball in April added to the spring gaiety.

SILVER THREADS of a twenty-fifth anniversary were woven throughout the year's activities of the Sigma Gamma chapter of Kappa Delta. The anniversary was celebrated with a dinner at the Country Club to which all chapter alumnae were invited. A formal Christmas dance at the Avalon brightened the winter months of the K.D.'s.

Taking time out from studies, the K.D.'s sprinkled a chili supper, a hayrack ride, and a scavenger hunt throughout their social season.

Prominent in ISA affairs, the group represented Poland in the General Assembly. Other activities included membership in the YWCA cabinet, and the secretaryship of the senior class.

THE seventy-fifth anniversary of Kappa was observed by the Gamma Alpha of Kansas State with a formal dinner at the Country Club in October. WHETHER basking in the cheery atmosphere of their old-fashioned Christmas formal dance at the Avalon, or frolicking at the numerous "date-affair" picnics in Sunset, the wearers of the wine and blue enjoyed a varied social season.

The golden arrow of Pi Phi hit the mark in many activities such as Prix, Student Council, Omicron Nu, Royal Purple staff, YWCA cabinet, Phi Alpha Mu, and Theta Sigma Phi. In turbans of turkish towels, the "Indian" Pi Phi's won their vote in the ISA. At the April session the Indians demonstrated a cure-all for the "Atomic-Ache."

IN spite of the mid-year loss of eight graduates and eight men to the armed forces, TKE had an eventful year. To start the ball rolling, a "Swirter Party" was featured at the chapter house, the men wearing sweaters, and the girls wearing shirts and ties. Formals and tuxes danced beneath revolving spotlights at the January TKE formal at the Avalon. A Homecoming buffet luncheon, open house, and smoker for alumni, and a "Frontier Days" house party in the spring rounded out the whirl.

The Collegian and Royal Purple staffs, Student Board of Publications and varsity basketball team included TKE members.

Officers of the Independent Student Party were Joan Butcher, secretary, David Neher, second semester president, Marjorie Bunge, treasurer, and Dick Smith, first semester president.

ISP Dance Has Latin American Theme

THROUGH the Independent Student Party, independent students from unorganized houses met with those from organized houses. The party served as a clearing house for Independent student business, acted as campaign managers during campus elections of class officers and representatives on the Student Council and the Board of Student Publications, and sponsored a spring formal at the Avalon.

This was the first year since the beginning of the war that Independent students have tried to organize for anything other than political activity.

Highlight of the Independents' social year, the spring formal was a gay replica of Latin America with silhouettes of bullfighters, cacti, and scintillating senioritas displayed against streamers of orange, black, red and yellow. Matt Betton's orchestra added to the mood with its medley of South American airs. Featured during the evening was a conga line that encircled the famous spring floor. Several hour dances in Recreation Center rounded out the Independent Student Party's extra-curricular program.

Dick Smith, first semester president of the Party, was succeeded upon his mid-year graduation by David Neher, vice-president. Marjorie Bunge was elected treasurer of the Independent Student Party last fall and served all year, as did Joan Butcher who was elected secretary. Profs. L. M. Jorgenson and William H. Honstead served as co-sponsors of the group.

VAN ZILE HALL, the women's dormitory (above) housed 150 women this year. Made of native limestone like the other campus buildings, it is located in the extreme north-eastern section of the campus. Sir Bernard Pares, noted British authority on Russian affairs, posed with women of Van Zile Hall (right) who represented Russia in the International Security Assembly.

Kansas State Meets Housing Crisis

AS the only residence hall on the campus, Van Zile holds a unique place in the housing of women students at Kansas State. One hundred and fifty women studied, worked and played in this spacious hall during the school year. Four fraternity houses were used as annexes to the Hall this year, but indications during the second semester were that the fraternities would reclaim their houses for the following fall semester. In order to provide adequate housing facilities for students, men's and women's residence halls are to be built when building materials are available, according to administrative officials.

Housing was a major problem at Kansas State because several hundred war veterans returned for the second semester. Campus Courts, a trailer town, was established for married veterans and their families. Located across from the Military Science Building in the extreme northwest corner of the campus, the project consisted of about one hundred trailers. They were former government vehicles and were painted olive drab. The town was arranged in small courts of five to ten trailers. A mayor and council were elected to govern the group.

The Memorial Stadium was home for a group of veterans who were quartered in the east wing during the second semester. They organized as Ed Klimek Hall and elected officers.

Many married veterans and their families occupied apartments, while less fortunate couples had to be content with a room or two. "Share-alike" housekeeping was popular if the lady of the house was working or attending classes at the College.

Many of the women residing at Van Zile took advantage of the cooperative plan by working at the dormitory. Housework, meal preparation, meal service and office work were some of the duties performed by the "co-ops." The women were directed by the senior dietetics and institutional management majors who are required to live at Van Zile Hall for one semester. During the first semester sixteen majors were in charge of administrative duties, and about half that number directed work through the spring semester.

Russia was the choice of Van Zile residents for their country in the ISA organization. The chairman of ISA activities was Jeane Greenawalt. Speakers on Russia were entertained at dinner during the year. At the first general session of the ISA in December, the group had the largest delegation and presented a picturesque scene in their Russian costumes.

A formal Russian tea, open house, a formal dance, and hour dances with other organized houses made the social life of Van Zile residents complete during the first semester. A social chairman and her committee planned the various parties with the enthusiastic support of other Van Zilers. Those women interested in sports entered into the intramural program of softball, basketball, table tennis and different types of dancing. Similar events and a formal dinner in honor of seniors made up the social calendar at the dormitory for the spring semester.

Made of native limestone, the Hall has an impressive and gracious appearance. The main floor is composed of the reception rooms, dining room, suites for the director and dietitian and rooms for the dietetics majors. The second and third floors include social rooms for the women residents as well as bedrooms. The spacious basement floor of the Hall was an ideal setting for table tennis, a game of bridge or dancing. On the first floor, the music room was popular on many evenings when a group was in the mood to sing. The several small living rooms proved convenient as places to receive guests or for talking over the day's activities.

Roberta Ince served as president of the Hall, and director was Miss Dorothy Hamer.

Van Zile Hall was built in 1927 and is located in the northeast corner of the campus. The dormitory was named in honor of dean of women emeritus, Mrs. Mary P. Van Zile.

Four Fraternity Houses Turned Into

FOR the second year Kansas State women occupied the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house and called it Annex I. Presidents of the house were Sue Kindscher the first semester and Lorene Smith the second semester. House Director for this Annex was Mrs. E. I. Taylor.

Among social activities at Annex I were a dance to celebrate Halloween and a Valentine party.

Canada, represented by the women of Annex I, was elected a member of the Social and Economic Council at the first general session of the ISA. Flags of their country were made by the group to display at the assemblies.

The Sigma Nu fraternity house was also used by college women for the second year. As Annex II, the house was home to 43 women. First semester president was Doris Myers and second semester Mary Shannon lead the activities of Annex II. Mrs. Blanche Twiss was House Director.

A faculty tea in honor of their housemother, an open house for the other Annexes, and hour dances established this house in the social whirl.

Annex II represented Panama in the ISA program, and a representative of the country was elected to the World Court at the general assembly held in December.

ANNEX II—Back row: Wilma Weyrich, Tennie Lay, Mary S. College Annexes to Accomodate Women

ANNEX III is an organized house for thirty women and it is located at 1224 Fremont, in the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house. House Director Mrs. E. G. Brownson guided the activities of this house during its first year. Norma Jean Mauk and Esther Breed were elected first and second semester presidents respectively. Betty Ann McCoy served as head officer for part of the first semester.

Chile was represented by Annex III in the ISA. Speakers who told about Chile, its customs and post-war problems were entertained by the women in February.

lighted social life at Annex III.

Annex IV occupied the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house at 221 N. Delaware for their first year as an organization of independent women. Mrs. Helen McCarroll was the house director. Presidents for the year were Vonda Gates and Jane Foster.

Brazil was the country chosen by Annex IV as their nation in the International Security Assembly. Their chairman of ISA activities was Vonda Gates.

Independent Students Unite Leadership

AMISTAD means "friendship" to many non-Greek students. Organized in response to a growing need for unified social activity among Independents living in houses which are not organized, Amistad has served this purpose successfully.

In its two years of existence Amistad has been hostess to many crowds at jam sessions and parties and has carried Australia to recognition in the ISA.

Amicossembly is an organization of the presidents and one other representative of each independent organized house for women at Kansas State. Mary Long, of Clark's Gables, was president. Miss Dora Gilmore served as sponsor and Miss Lucille Hackerott was adviser. The house mothers gave a dinner in Thompson Hall for the members at Christmas time.

Regular meetings of Amicossembly were held the first Wednesday of each month. The organization gave the houses an opportunity to work out their problems together and take part in activities as a group.

They sponsored a movie to help finance a dance in cooperation with other independent groups. Amicossembly wrapped Christmas packages for soldiers who were in the hospital at Fort Riley.

Arcadia And Aloha Have Active Year

ACCORDING to Webster, Arcadia means "peaceful and quiet," but according to the women of this Independent house, it is anything but dull.

A Christmas party with carolling afterwards is one of the annual affairs of the house. Other activities of the women of Arcadia this year were participation in basketball intramurals and in representing Sweden's interests in the International Security Assembly.

Housemother for the four years of Arcadia's existence as an Independent organized house has been Mrs. Grace Friel. Arcadia is located at 1222 Bluemont.

Aloha Cottage, the longest organized Independent house, celebrated its tenth birthday this year. Aloha is located at 1728 Laramie; Mrs. Ben Wohlberg is housemother.

An annual event at Aloha Cottage is the buffet supper for dates and out-of-town guests after the Homecoming game. Holidays and birthdays were marked with parties. This spring a tea was given for the other Independent houses.

CHATTERBOX, located at 526 North Fourteenth, housed nine independent women students during the first semester, but only five during the second semester. Mrs. Alice Spealman is the housemother.

Greece was the country selected by Chatterbox residents for their part in the International Security Assembly. They joined with the Pal O'Mie house to represent Greece in the ISA general assembly.

With springtime came an Easter dinner at the house.

Amicossembly Governs

Clark's Gable, home of 12 women students, is one of the newer independent houses, organized in 1941. Mrs. Edith Clark is housemother for the group which lives at 812 North Manhattan.

Christmas brought festivity to Clark's Gables. The women had a dinner and a party at the house and then went carolling with members of Arcadia and their dates. A Valentine's Day party for the women at Maison-elle and Skywood Hall, two other organized houses, was a February feature.

Clark's Gables was active in campus affairs this year, representing Luxembourg in the International Security Assembly and having a member of their group selected to the World Court.

14 Independent Houses

PAL O'MIE'S Irish friendship has been known on the campus since the house was organized, and a scrapbook which has been kept faithfully for eight years will prove it. The women of the house with their president, Margaret Lancaster, and their housemother, Mrs. Lillian Fuller, gave a tea for the members of Amicossembly. Impromptu get-togethers and hour dances were on their social calendar throughout the college year.

"Mystery Sisters" were chosen at the beginning of the school year, and their identities kept hidden until Christmas. Secret messages and services were exchanged, and at the Christmas party presents were given and the identity was revealed.

In the International Security Assembly the group is cooperating with Chatterbox to present the story of Greece. Pal O'Mie is located at 324 N. Fifteenth.

Kansas State campus, Coed Court has been active for ten years. The Sunday before Christmas vacation, Mrs. Pearl Power, the housemother, gave a breakfast in an atmosphere of candlelight and holly. Afterwards, the women had a gift exchange. Every birthday the occasion was celebrated by a dinner for the guest of honor.

Representing Belgium in the International Security Assembly, the group was able to get a position on the World Court and on the Economic and Social Council. Mary Hodgson led the women in their study for the ISA.

Independent Women Represent Various

OPENHOUSE for the women of other Independent organized houses was held at La Fiel, 1707 Laramie, this year in the form of a Christmas carnival. Seasonal decorations and refreshments were used and the afternoon was spent singing carols, playing progressive games and getting acquainted.

Hills' Heights at 1423 Fairchild is the home of 20 women. Miriam Dunbar was president this year and Mrs. W. H. Hills is the housemother.

Nations in Campus Version of U.N.O.

KEIM'S KABANA was active in the general assembly of the ISA in December as Yugoslavia, and was elected to the United Nations Security Council. Dr. Fritz Moore was faculty sponsor in their ISA work.

Women of Keim's Kabana enjoy a joint phone conversation.

Women of Pal-O-Mie, Coed Court, and Arcadia were entertained at a Halloween party in the dormitory of Keim's Kabana. A skeleton, "dug out of the family closet" was present for the occasion.

Keim's gave a picnic for the Blitz Babes and a Christmas party for their own group. Santa Claus was guest of honor.

The Moore th' Merrier's big event of the year was a semi-formal party at Christmas with all twelve girls, their dates, and their housemother, Mrs. T. H. Moore, having a marvelous time. With their president, Margie Jaedicke, in charge, they had another Christmas party just for themselves.

Dressed as little Dutch girls, and representing the Netherlands, they made a colorful showing at the December ISA assembly.

Women of Independent Houses Entertain

THE SHANTY, formerly known as Shane's Shanty, is located at 531 N. Manhattan and houses nine college women.

Marian Pearson served as president of the Shanty both semesters, and Mrs. C. W. Tague is the house-mother.

Social affairs at this Independent house centered about birthday parties held after hours when the women enjoyed refreshments, then sat around the fire and sang. During the pre-Christmas festivities, Mrs. Tague entertained the women with a Christmas dinner and party.

Maison-elle cooperated with neighboring La Fiel in representing Czechoslovakia in the International Security Assembly. The Czech delegates at the December meeting were successful in obtaining a position on the Economic and Social Council.

Elizabeth Flippo presided over Maison-elle activities and Miss Mattie Cassity is housemother.

With Many Teas and Holiday Celebrations

TRAMALAI, women's Independent house located at 1418 Fairchild, was named from a song title. Women of Tramalai entertained the women of four other houses with a tea. Other social occasions this year were a party just before Christmas and a chili party.

Kay Chalk was elected to preside over the fifteen women of Tramalai, and Mrs. T. H. Cousins is the housemother.

Skywood Hall received its name because of the position of the house—high on the hill and away from the street.

College women living there entertained dates at a Hallowe'en party last fall, and at Christmas they held an informal party just for the members at which they exchanged gifts.

Two Independent Men's Houses Active

ESQUIRE, one of two Independent men's houses, was organized just last fall. The seven men living at 1211 Laramie elected Lawrence McManis president. Mrs. George H. Gregg was their housemother.

Esquire members participated in the International Security Assembly by supporting democratic forces of a revised Italian government. George Krause served as chairman for ISA activities.

James Harrison presided over the sixteen men who resided at the House of Williams, 1126 Bluemont. Mrs. Katherine Williams is the housemother.

Two date parties, one at Thanksgiving and one at Christmas, highlighted their social activities.

Federation Coordinates Church Groups

PPROMOTION of cooperative social and religious programs in the College community has been accomplished this year by the Religious Federation. The council, which meets twice monthly, acts as a clearing house between all active religious groups on the campus.

Religious Federation is composed of two representatives from each church youth group and two each from the YWCA and the YMCA. The Rev. B. A. Rogers was elected as adult adviser by the student representatives.

"A Design for Living" was the theme of Religious Emphasis Week held October 28 to November 1. This was one of the four meetings sponsored yearly by the Religious Federation and the Ministerial Association. Dr. James S. Chubb, well-known Methodist youth worker at Nashville, Tenn., was the guest speaker. Dr. Chubb is associate secretary of the committee on evangelism of the Methodist Church and has spent much time working with college students throughout the country.

Meditations were held each morning during Religious Emphasis Week in the YWCA lounge. Students also participated in forum meetings each afternoon in Recreation Center. At an all-College assembly, Dr. Chubb spoke on "The Life of God." Many personal conferences were held with the speaker.

Cooperating with the YWCA and the YMCA, the Christian World Forum was held February 21 through February 24. Dr. Samuel Higginbottom and Dr. John B. Hanna were the forum speakers. Dr. Higginbottom is the organizer and president of the Allahabad Christian College in India. Dr. Hanna is the counselor for the Council for Social Action of the Congregational-Christian Churches. He was the representative for this group at the San Francisco Conference.

An all-College assembly was held during World Forum week at which time Dr. Higginbottom told about his work in India. At an afternoon forum in Rec Center, the missionary discussed economic, educational and social conditions in India. In the evening he spoke to the ISA group representing that country.

More than 250 College students attended a mass meeting at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday during World Forum week. "Why Bother with Religion?" was the theme for the discussion led by the guest speakers and based on questions raised by students. A supper followed the meeting.

An out-of-door union meeting was held by the Federation on May 5.

The fourth meeting of all the groups is scheduled for some time during the summer.

The Religious Federation sponsored meditations in Illustrations Building every Wednesday night from 9:10 to 9:30. Before an altar, students of all faiths came to unite in prayer.

Marjorie Knostman was elected president of the council; Doris Galloway, secretary; and Louis Emme, treasurer.

YM-YW Groups Bring Higginbottom and

THE YMCA was more than ever present on the campus this year due to the increased number of returning servicemen.

Under the leadership of Marvin Norby as president, this organization began each semester with a special welcoming program for the new students and returning veterans. Some of the services rendered by the YM were helping students find rooms and employment.

The group worked jointly with the YWCA in planning the Christmas and Easter assemblies and also in the Christian and World Forum Week with Dr. Sam Higginbottom, missionary to India, as the guest speaker.

With the coming of spring, the YM joined with the YW in presenting an evening of films from the Estes Park Summer Camp followed by an hour dance in the Recreation Center.

A March attraction on the campus was the YM-sponsored "Y-Orpheum" in which four social sororities and four fraternities competed for top honors with original skits. These eight entries were chosen from those submitted by all groups interested.

That old school spirit was instilled in members of the YMCA by Cheerleaders Kathryn Ashbaugh and Betty Carr at an early-fall pep rally in Rec Center.

Hanna to Campus for World Forum

THE YWCA was in a constant whirl of activities as usual. Under the guidance of Frances Ewart, the group entered many phases of campus life. An all-school mixer was sponsored in the fall as a get-acquainted affair. Throughout the year "Y" Dime Dances were held in Recreation Center to the music of popular records.

Unique feature early in the second semester was the annual "Y" Carnival. A little bit of everything was tossed into that social circle, such as bean jar guessing, cake walks, paper hats, food booths, fortune telling, dancing, and the highspot of the evening—an auction of coveted privileges and articles. Various groups bid to purchase a coke date with President Eisenhower, a reserved booth at the Canteen, special "stay out late" privileges, and the services of some professors on the hill as errand boys or phone answerers in organized houses.

The popular "Love and Marriage" series of lectures was repeated this year with Dr. Esther Prevey, psychologist and family life adviser from Kansas City, Mo., as the main speaker.

Dr. Sam Higginbottom relates some of his experiences in India to two interested students.

The London Conference is discussed by Dr. John B. Hanna and guests during Christian World Forum Week.

Methodists Have Large Student Groups

MORE than 1,500 students composed Wesley Foundation, an organization for all Methodist students on the campus. Worship, counseling and recreation were led by the sponsors, the Rev. and Mrs. B. A. Rogers. Hundreds of students met at the get-acquainted mixers and student dinners held early in each semester.

"Saturday Niters" started eventful week-ends at Wesley Hall. Sunday evenings students gathered at the hall for fellowship hour, religious discussion and supper. Hope Watts served as the president.

Kappa Phi is the national Methodist women's club. This year the membership on the campus was more than 130. Pledges gave a total of 140 hours of service to a local hospital, and in December the annual party for the people at the Odd Fellows Home was given. The president of the club was Mildred Socolofsky.

The Methodist Men's Club has been on the campus since 1932. John Scott was president this year.

Christian And Congregational Student

"WE MUST Be the World We Want" was the theme which opened a year of activity for members of the Christian Youth Fellowship. During second semester, the theme concerned "The Christian Witness in the World Today." Homer Spiers was president of the group.

Meetings of C. Y. F. are held each Sunday evening. Fellowship periods, forums and suppers are held in Kohler Hall at the Christian Church with vesper services in the sanctuary. Mrs. J. David Arnold was sponsor this year.

An Indian pow-wow was the theme of a student mixer at the first of the year. Four Indian "chiefs" were garbed in ceremonial headgear and led the group in an evening of Indian games. At Christmas the C. Y. F. entertained with a party and an evening of caroling. The service project this year was to send boxes of supplies to needy Filipinos.

Seven delegates were sent to the State Christian Youth Fellowship conference at Wichita in January. Jean Selby served as state secretary of the conference, and in October she represented the group as delegate to the International Christian Youth Fellowship Commission at Winona Lake, Ind. Delegates from all over the United States and from Canada attended the conference.

A special program and ceremony for the seniors closed the year's activities.

Groups Participate In Service Work

SIGMA ETA CHI is the Congregational Church women's sorority. The purpose of the club is to develop in the college women members Christlike attitudes and ideals.

The main service project of the club this year was the adoption of a foreign family. Each month a box of needed articles was sent overseas to the family.

The meetings were held every first and third Tuesday at the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Mary Eck Holland. Louise Wells was president.

Members of Kappa Beta, Christian Church women's sorority, were hostesses to the national Kappa Beta convention held in Manhattan in March. Delegates from all other chapters, national officers and advisers attended.

The main project of the year was the making of toy animals to be sent to the Colorado Christian home for children. The unique idea of assessing members two cents for each inch of waistline was hit upon as a method of raising money for the children's home.

The pledges were active in caring for the church nursery and in entertaining the actives at a Christmas party given at the Pal-O-Mie house. The town alumni entertained at one of the regular meetings.

Hope Leland was Kappa Beta's president, and Mrs. J. David Arnold was the sponsor, assisted by faculty advisers.

Baptists Have Varied Program

"WORLD Peace and Theta Epsilon" was the theme for the Baptist women's church sorority this year. Under the leadership of Frances Ewart, the president, and Miss Stella Harris, the faculty adviser, varied programs were held at the meetings. The patronesses of Theta E opened their homes to the group for their bi-monthly meetings which were devoted largely to speakers on current topics, book reviews, and discussion on youth camps.

A committee was named to consider possible expansion to Ottawa University in Ottawa, Kansas.

The women began the fall semester by having a rush tea at the Baptist Church on September 30. Later a breakfast was given in honor of the new pledges and was followed by the formal pledging. Initiation and a banquet with "Snowbound" as its theme provided other enjoyable times for Theta Epsilon members.

"Cupid's Court," an annual Valentine's Day celebration, was observed again this year. The king and queen of the court were selected by all "Theta E" members.

In May the senior farewell picnic was of special importance. The last meeting of the year was reserved as usual for a Mother's Day tea for all members' mothers. Farewells and plans for the next year were blended at the closing session of the sorority.

Many Active In Presbyterian Groups

PHI CHI DELTA, church sorority for Presbyterians, extended an invitation to all college Presbyterian women at the beginning of the school year. The first meeting in the fall was a pledging desert. Meetings were held regularly every two weeks, and the theme around which they were planned was "Building for a Full Life." Aylo Albertson presided over the meetings and Mrs. W. U. Guerrant acted as faculty sponsor. A "sharing" meeting where members presented a poem, joke or something of interest to the other members was held early in the year. Their Christmas party was one of their outstanding activities of first semester. Another project conducted by the women was gathering boxes of clothing and making headscarves to send to a community school in Kentucky.

Second semester found these women busy with pledging and initiation. In May they closed their year with the annual Senior Farewell.

The Westminster Foundation with Jeane Greenawalt as president, met two Sundays each month for a regular program, and once a month for social activities. During February the organization was host to the Union Meeting, a meeting for all young peoples' groups in Manhattan. A carnival held in February and a spring retreat headed the year's activities for the Foundation. Mrs. W. U. Guerrant, wife of the College Presbyterian minister, was faculty adviser for Westminster Foundation as well as for Phi Chi Delta.

Local Clubs Have National Affiliations

A GAIN this year the Catholic students' organization, the Newman Club, was active under the guidance of the Rev. Ronald Schott and the Rev. E. J. Weisenberg. Once a month the group met after early mass for breakfast and a business meeting with Dick Stockman presiding.

Delegates of the club attended an inter-collegiate Catholic conference in Leavenworth in February, and the club was represented in a symposium, "The World We Won," in which eight colleges participated.

Dances were held throughout the year, and the annual picnic in May climaxed the activities.

The Bishop James E. Wise chapter of the national Canterbury Club met every Sunday evening under the leadership of the president, Patt Fairman. Miss Emma Hyde, Miss Dorothy Barfoot and Robert Dubois were advisers of this group of Episcopalian students.

Members helped with the Sunday School, Boy Scout work and sang in the choir. The club entertained in the fall with a reception, and at Thanksgiving and Christmas, parties were given for students who remained in Manhattan at those times.

L.S.A., Gamma Delta Are Lutheran Groups

AT THE regional conference of the Lutheran Student Associations of America, two Kansas State students were elected regional officers: Dean Tiemann was chosen president, and treasurer of the district is Elmer Davis. The Lutheran societies in Kansas, Nebraska and western Missouri comprise the mid-west region.

Jane Fagerberg is president of the local organization which has as its two faculty sponsors Miss Inez Ekdahl and Dr. Verne Sweedlun.

Each year the LSA members have a Palm Sunday breakfast and a Christmas party. A traditional affair is their spring banquet which climaxes the year's events with a review of the preceding months, and the installation of officers for the coming year. In February the group inaugurated a Sunday evening fellowship hour at the church. Lunch was served, and a social hour and program followed.

Another activity of the society is the Little Ashram or regional conference held early in the fall. The name is taken from the national conferences, referred to as Ashrams.

Gamma Delta, a religious organization of approximately 25 students of the Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, holds its meetings on Sundays in the church basement.

A supper for its members preceded the business meetings conducted by the president, Norma Van Buren. Some form of entertainment and discussion usually follows, rounding out the meeting.

Pastoral adviser of Gamma Delta is the Rev. H. H. Frohn.

Home Economics Groups Recognize and

THE Home Economics Executive Council is the governing body of five clubs, Radio, Service, Publicity, Nursing and Freshman Home Economics Clubs. Members of the Executive Council are officers of the club as a whole and officers of the individual clubs.

This year the club sponsored the "Snow Ball" and the election of the "Favorite Man on the Campus." Proceeds from the Ball went to a fund for redecorating Calvin Lounge.

Hospitality Days, annual home economics open house, were held April 12-13. "Highlights of 1946" was the theme of exhibits viewed by Kansas visitors.

A program of visiting high schools to tell pre-college girls about "Careers in Home Economics" was initiated this spring by members of the College club.

found in the Margaret Justin Home Economics Club. Each woman is sure to find an interesting program.

Betty Swan was this year's president of the Executive Council.

Freshman counselors are chosen each spring by the Executive Council of the Margaret Justin Home Economics Club. They are chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and the ability to work with people.

Rachel Gossard led the counselors this year. These junior and senior women meet with freshmen in home economics to help them orient themselves to college life.

Miss Margaret Raffington was faculty sponsor.

Promote Scholarship and Leadership

OMICRON NU, a national honorary and professional society for junior and senior women in home economics, was established on the Kansas State campus in 1915. Promoting leadership, scholarship, service and research are the purposes of this organization.

On Scholarship Recognition Day, Omicron Nu gives an award to the sophomore woman who, during the previous year, has maintained the highest scholarship.

All freshman women and transfer students enrolled in home economics were entertained by members of Omicron Nu at teas in Calvin Lounge.

Hope Watts was president this year, and Miss Alpha Latzke acted as faculty adviser.

Freshmen in home economics had their own club, the Freshman Home Economics Club. Under the leadership of Mary Shannon, the group met regularly for discussion and social functions.

Just before Christmas the club gave a fashion show in Recreation Center. "Through the Week with the College Girl" was the theme. Sweaters, skirts, afternoon dresses, formals, and all the clothing necessities of college life were modeled by members of the club.

In these and many other ways the Freshman Home Economics Club has helped its members to learn more about all phases of college life, and of opportunities offered in the field of home economics.

Five Home Economics Clubs Render

WILMA VANCE helped the freshman club this year by serving as Junior Counselor. As president of the freshman group, Mary Shannon was the only freshman on the Margaret Justin Home Economics Club Executive Council. Miss Florence McKinney sponsored the group.

In January all the home economics clubs got together to plan the "Snow Ball." This proved to be an event of the year when every woman at the dance voted for her "Favorite Man on the Campus." At intermission Johnny Aiken was crowned F.M.O.C.

A newsletter for all home economics students on the campus was written by the Publicity Club. It explained the different courses and trends of home economics. The club also saw that the bulletin board in Calvin Hall was kept up to date.

Service to Campus and Community

TWICE each month Radio Station KSAC has a program sponsored by the Radio Club. Scripts for these programs are written by members of the club. They give valuable hints on foods, child welfare and clothing. A highlight of the year was the pre-Christmas candy making program.

By actual participation in broadcasting, the members get valuable training in radio and home economics.

Verona McKinley was president of the club. Mrs. Ann Mall was faculty adviser.

Service to the campus and community is the aim of the Service Club. Under the leadership of Irene Greer, the group did service work for local hospitals.

In the fall the women made stuffed animals for the children in orphans' homes in Topeka and Newton. The club's spring project was making curtains and re-decorating rooms at Fort Riley. Throughout the year the club met every two weeks. At these meetings they frequently heard guest speakers.

Dr. Gladys Vail was the faculty sponsor of the group.

Departmental Groups Promote Scholarship

SKILLED with the pen and blessed with superior scholarship are the members of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary society for women active in journalism.

A tea at the home of Mrs. Ralph R. Lashbrook in the fall served as an introduction of Theta Sigma Phi members to new students. In February a film, "Snafu," was sponsored by the group to raise money for the national convention which will be held in Chicago this June. Next year's president will represent the chapter at the convention.

During the spring semester Betty Carr, Dorothy Ainsworth and Bonnie Woods were pledged to Theta Sig.

Dorraine Dorf was president; Mrs. Jane Koefod was faculty adviser and Mrs. B. L. Werts Monahan was alumna sponsor.

A pre-professional club for women planning to enter nursing is the Home Economics Nursing Club. At semi-monthly meetings the women hear talks by people experienced in the nursing field.

Miss Avis Vanlew, director of nursing at the University of Kansas School of Nursing, spoke of nursing as a career.

Mrs. Mary Weeks, who served as an army nurse, told the club of her experiences in the army and of nursing in St. Louis.

Dr. Robert Snook, director of student health, described a good nurse from a doctor's point of view.

and Fellowship Through Their Activities

AN honorary society for junior and senior women in the School of Arts and Sciences, Phi Alpha Mu played an active role in this year's campus affairs.

At its bi-monthly meetings, the organization was concerned mainly with the preparation of a pamphlet explaining the various courses offered in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Social "get-togethers" included a spring tea in 1945 in honor of sophomore women and a fall party in Calvin Lounge to introduce new members to active members. At the former affair, Maria Norman was awarded the Phi Alpha Mu $25 award as the highest ranking sophomore.

Phi Alpha Mu was guided by Eunice Stoltenberg as president and Miss Stella Harriss as faculty adviser.

For a one-year-old organization, Promusica has had as active a year as a youngster could have.

Designed to bring music lovers together to study various types of music, the club delved into the realms of boogie-woogie and jazz as well as the classics.

Music for the monthly meetings was alternately provided by records and by student participation or by guest musicians. Many different types of music were presented, among them being Russian, South American, English and Australian airs.

A Christmas party was held at the home of Joyce Crippen after the members sang carols at the student hospital.

Beverly Jean Smith was president of the organization and Prof. Charles Stratton acted as faculty adviser.

Interest Groups Of Arts And Sciences

GREEN eyeshades and quill pens have no place in the Business Students' Association, a group which is vitally concerned with modern methods of the contemporary business world. Monthly meetings presented occasions for outside speakers to discuss opportunities for college graduates in business. Dr. W. E. Grimes was guest speaker at a "get-acquainted" meeting at the outset of the second semester.

First semester president was Shirley Gillan Anderson, who was succeeded by Clara Louise Dubbs the second semester. Dr. W. E. Grimes and Prof. Harry M. Stewart were faculty advisers.

"Put down six and carry two; gee, but this is hard to do!"—the familiar strain is suggestive of the activities of the Mathematics Club, an organization which opens its doors to all who are interested in figures—numerical, of course.

At its monthly meetings the group sought to supplement class work with discussions of such subjects as Plato's theory of mathematics or the laws of chance. A picnic in Sunset Park was a feature of the fall, with an hour dance in Rec Center in the spring.

The presidency of the club was shifted three times during the year, Everett May, Marn Johnson, and Rita Hollecker filling that position. Miss Thirza Mossman was faculty sponsor.

Provide Students With Varied Programs

THE women physical education majors created an organization two years ago to unite the women enrolled in the department. Their name, the "Phems," is derived from the first letters of physical education majors.

Play nights, a spring dinner for seniors, a fall initiation party for freshmen and transfer students, and a January party hosted by the playground class topped the social whirl of the Phems.

Managing women's intramural competition and refereeing the games were part of the Phems' assignments. Nila Jean Torrence was president of the group, and the Misses Katherine Geyer, Eva Lyman, and Ruth Kriehn were faculty advisers.

Answers to all the "where's," "why's," and "what for's" of future medical technicians are supplied by the Medical Technicians' Club, a veritable information bureau in itself.

The semi-monthly meetings are planned to bring to the club knowledge of vocations open to medical technicians, lists of approved hospitals where internships may be served, and guidance in choosing courses.

Eunice Stoltenberg was president and Prof. C. A. Dorf was faculty adviser.

Council Governs Engineering Students

JUNIOR and senior engineering students of exceptional scholarship, sociability and practicability are eligible for membership in Sigma Tau, an organization designed to honor outstanding students.

Sponsoring the annual St. Pat's Prom in March was the most important project of the year for Sigma Tau. St. Pat and St. Patricia were crowned amidst decorations of gayest green.

Homer Spiers was president and Prof. L. V. White served as faculty sponsor.

The Engineering Council is the governing body of the Engineering Association, a professional society for all engineering students. The presidents of the six engineering seminars, the editor and the business manager of the K-State Engineer, the manager of the annual Engineers' Open House, and one representative from the sophomore class complete the Council.

Control of the K-State Engineer rests with the Council, but there was little to be done along that line the first semester as the manpower situation made it impossible to publish the paper. However, the Council was able to locate enough strong-armed gentlemen to give the "K. S." on the hills southeast of Manhattan a thorough cleaning.

Bob Jackson and Claud Shelor served terms as president. Prof. M. A. Durland was faculty sponsor.

Engineering Seminars Growing In Size

THE student chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers is affiliated with the national A.S.A.E. and opens its roll call to agricultural engineers of all four class levels. An influx of such students at mid-year considerably increased the size of the seminar this year.

In its semi-monthly meetings, the society endeavors to bring to its members practical knowledge of their chosen field. Movies distributed by machinery manufacturers and structural companies developed that aim this year.

President for the first semester was Keith Pendergraft, who was succeeded by Otis Cross second semester. Prof. F. C. Fenton served as faculty sponsor.

Membership in the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects this year was opened to second semester freshmen in architecture or in architectural engineering as well as to the three upper classes.

Movies and discussions of housing, city planning, radiant heating, metals, and thermo glass for solar heating constituted some of the semi-monthly meetings of the seminar. The purpose of the meetings was to acquaint the students with the possibilities of the vocation they have chosen. Representatives of the architectural engineering field served as authorities on the subject and related topics.

Early in the fall a picnic in Sunset Park, a date affair, started the social activities of the group and a picnic in the spring closed the year for the A.I.A.

Engineering Societies Give Students

FOR the first time, mechanical engineering students of all four class levels were admitted to the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The group was divided during the second semester into three assemblies, one composed of juniors and seniors, one of sophomores, and one of freshmen.

A smoker at the former I.O.O.F. Hall in Aggieville, a spring picnic, a movie explaining the casting of zinc dies, and talks by representatives of industry filled the programs of several of the semi-monthly meetings.

Chairman of the society was Hubert Criss, and honorary chairman was Prof. A. J. Mack.

Inactive since 1943, the student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was reorganized last fall with Dr. John W. Greene as faculty adviser.

Industrial chemistry and chemical engineering students are eligible for membership in the institute.

Movies and guest speakers highlighted the monthly meetings. "The Romance of Glass" was presented in film form, and a spring picnic was on the list of things social.

The president of the group was Homer Spiers.

Valuable Training For Professions

SOPHOMORE, junior and senior students in electrical engineering belong to the student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Absorbing accounts and movies of television, fluorescent tubes developed during World War II, and diesel electric locomotives were presented at some of its meetings.

James Crooks represented the group at the southwestern division meeting of the national A.I.E.E. in San Antonio, Texas, in April.

Chairman of the organization for the first semester was Chester Stewart, and for the second semester, Duane Davis. Prof. R. G. Kloeffler was faculty sponsor.

Increased enrollment at the College brought a doubled membership to the student section of the American Society of Civil Engineers second semester.

Social activities were highlighted by a Christmas smoker at which presidents of the other five engineering seminars, faculty members, and freshmen in the Department of Civil Engineering were guests.

First semester president was James Newbery succeeded by Earl Perkins. Prof. E. F. Frazier was sponsor.

Veterinary Students Keep Abreast

THROUGH the junior chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association, veterinary students are kept abreast of the times and trends of current medical practices in their field. At the semi-monthly meetings of the organization, lectures were presented by members of pharmaceutical concerns on the newest drugs available and their uses; animal diseases and their control were discussed, and recent legislation affecting the practice of veterinarians were presented by authorities in the field.

Veterinary students of all four classes are eligible for membership in the Junior A.V.M.A., although pre-vet students, enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences, are not eligible. A tremendous increase in enrollment for the second semester in the pre-vet curriculum indicated heightened interest in veterinary medicine as a profession. However, lack of physical equipment, especially after the Veterinary Hospital was destroyed by fire in February, threatened to make necessary a more selective system for filling the quota for vet students.

In times past application of Kansas residents has been given preference, followed by application of students living in states which offer no veterinary training. By a decision of the Board of Regents early in the second semester, this policy was reaffirmed, notwithstanding a request by the campus Veterans' Association that World

Of Current Medical Practices

The fire in the Veterinary Hospital early in the second semester destroyed the $100,000 building, but classes and treatment of animals were carried on as usual by transferring the work to Veterinary Hall and to vacant parts of other buildings on the campus. Plans for replacing the clinic were immediately started by the College, request being made to the State Emergency Fund for an appropriation of $94,000.

The freshman class of veterinary students was returned to a two-semester course of study this year, while the other three classes continued to use the tri-semester plan as provided by the A.S.T.P. One of the largest classes in the history of the School of Veterinary Medicine was graduated in January, 70 men being awarded degrees.

In February an epidemic of rabies in Manhattan resulted in heavy traffic of animals for vaccination at the Veterinary Hospital. Figures published by the College authorities later in the year revealed that over 25,000 animals are treated at the clinic each year.

George Woods was president of the organization for the first semester and was succeeded during the second semester by James Middleton. Faculty sponsor was Dr. M. S. Cover.

Vets Entertain At Annual Javmarak

THE vets are not only adept at healing ailing animals —they know how to cure the "blues," too. The annual fall Javmarak held in the Avalon Ballroom with Charlie Clay and his orchestra chased "Old Man Gloom" right off the campus. Prominent social events of the spring included the annual banquet with awards to outstanding vets, and the senior dinner at which time the $300 Borden scholarship was presented to Isaac Levine for having the highest grade average of senior veterinary students during the fall term.

Initiation into the society was reported to be less rigorous than in previous years. However, the traditional rite requiring initiates to wear various bits of an animal's anatomy was retained.

For men interested in the dairying phase of agriculture, the Dairy Club provides good times as well as information about their field.

The Dairy Club met the first Tuesday of each month. At the meetings outside speakers told the men interesting facts and phases of the dairy profession.

To prove their versatility, Dairy Club members cooked and served dinner in West Waters Hall to the dairy men visiting on the campus Farm and Home Week.

In April, a picnic highlighted the social events of the Dairy Club.

Bill Reid was president of the organization this year. Faculty sponsor was Prof. F. W. Atkeson.

Six Agricultural Clubs Are Reorganized

REORGANIZATION of agricultural clubs formerly on the campus was the project of the Agricultural Association this year. The Horticulture Club, the Poultry Club, the Dairy Club, the Ag Economics Club, Klod and Kernel and Block and Bridle were all newly reorganized.

All these clubs are smaller groups of the School of Agriculture and share common interests. The Agricultural Association is an agriculture seminar to promote social and professional interests.

John Shaver was president and Dean C. W. Mullen acted as faculty adviser.

Vonda Gates reigned as queen at the annual Ag Barnwarmer this year. Sororities and organized houses each chose a candidate. These prospective queens took a series of tests concerning their knowledge of agricultural subjects and were required to milk a cow and clean chickens.

The Barnwarmer was held October 27 in the Judging Pavilion between East and West Waters Halls. Ags and their dates danced to the music of an all-Negro orchestra from Fort Riley.

Ag Clubs Sponsor Judging Contests

PROMOTING higher scholastic standards and providing activities for men interested in animal husbandry are the purposes of the Block and Bridle Club.

The club sponsored a livestock show during Farn and Home Week in February. In a fitting and showing class in the contest, members competed with each other.

The group helped in showing animals and compiling the results of the Student Judging Contest and the State High School Judging Contest.

Each fall the club publishes the Block and Bridle Yearbook telling of its activities.

James Shaver was president of Block and Bridle, and A. D. Weber was faculty adviser.

Klod and Kernel was reorganized this year under the leadership of Gordon Hoath. The club provides a common interest group for men in agronomy.

Every first and third Tuesdays the men met to hear speakers in their field of work.

In the spring, Klod and Kernel aided in sponsoring a High School Crops Judging Contest. The men judged entries and awarded medals to contestants from various Kansas high schools. They also sponsored a College Crops Judging Contest in which any student could participate. Application for entrance in the contest was based on former experience of the candidates.

Women's Honoraries Have Busy Year

MMORTAR BOARD, the national honorary organization for senior women, honored ten prominent K-State women this year by electing them into its membership. One of 72 national chapters, the local group was presided over by Betty Swan as president.

Early in December the women were hostesses at the traditional scholarship dinner designed to recognize and promote scholarship among undergraduate women. The three freshmen of last year with the highest grade averages were honored there and the highest ranking one, Ruth Ann Wolf, had her name engraved on the Mortar Board plaque which hangs in Recreation Center. Bonnie Volesky was second and Loreta Stricklin third.

pus tour in the fall, and sponsored an orientation program for all new students second semester.

Prospective members are measured according to scholarship, leadership, and service activities. Ruth Fenton, Marjorie Stewart, and Dorothy Wilson were elected at the mid-term.

Aylo Albertson is president of Prix and Miss Abby Marlatt is sponsor of the club.

The big project this year was conducting the Red Cross drive on the campus.

Cats, Pepsters Stimulate School Spirit

A NEW high in pep and enthusiasm was reached this year when the Purple Pepsters and the Wampus Cats, women's and men's pep organizations went all out for Kansas State and its teams.

Sixty-four Purple Pepsters, under the leadership of their president, Pauline Flook, and 38 Wampus Cats headed by "Yank" Banowetz, yelled their hearts out at football and basketball games and stimulated school spirit all over the campus. At this year's Gold-Digger's Ball, sponsored by the pepsters, "Yank" Banowetz was presented as their choice of King of Pep for 1945-46.

When the two organizations, the Wampus Cats and the Purple Pepsters, announced a snake dance or a bonfire, it was always bigger and better than any held previously. Once everyone was kept in great suspense when he saw signs all over the campus saying "Don't miss the bonfire!" Students were overcome by curiosity. Finally, after the Homecoming Ball on Friday night, the cheer leaders, attired in their formals, led a pep session around a huge fire near the stadium . . . in the early A.M.!

Veterans Seek Better Campus Conditions

THE Association of Kansas State College Veterans of World War II, commonly referred to as the Veterans' Association, is composed of returned veterans who are either students or faculty members. Since its formation in the spring of 1945, its membership has reached about 425. Presiding over the organization is Commander Hubert Criss, assisted by vice-Commander Ernie Phelps. Dr Maurice D. Woolf is faculty sponsor.

As a group, these veterans seek to obtain better conditions for the entire college rather than just for themselves, and they are becoming eager participants in the activities of Kansas State.

Wives of ex-servicemen who have returned to school are given the opportunity to meet other wives in Manhattan through the Veterans' Wives' Association. A tea is given each semester in honor of these women, new to the campus, who are then taken into the organization.

The Veterans' Wives' Association was organized January 9, 1945, as a social club. Sponsored by Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower and Mrs. Don Warren, the organization of 54 active members is headed by Mrs. Ray Hommon, president.

Collegiate 4-H Has 450 Members

TO MEMBERS of the Collegiate 4-H Club, the school year of '45-'46 means eight months chucked full of activities. Comprising the largest social and service organization on the campus are 450 former 4-H club members now attending K-State. Having served as president since last fall, Carol Jean Heter turned her responsibilities over to Johnny Aiken at the beginning of the second semester. All new officers were elected at this time.

Social dancing and other forms of recreation precede each of the regular meetings which are held on the first

As another undertaking, Collegiate 4-H cooperates with the state organization in holding the state 4-H Roundup here at the College in early summer.

Plans for a scholarship fund are being formulated this year. When they are worked out, some outstanding 4-H club member in Kansas will be awarded the scholarship to Kansas State.

K-Fraternity Becomes Active Again

THE Collegiate 4-H gave $4,500 in maturity value of United States war bonds towards building a new Student Union building.

The pre-Christmas holidays were highlighted with a dinner-dance for all members. Annual affairs on their social calendar are picnics held in the spring and fall and a semi-formal dance given each spring to climax the years' activities.

Serving as sponsors of the organization are two Kansas 4-H club leaders, Miss Elsie Border and Mr. Harold Johnson.

An additional page was added to the roll book of K-Fraternity second semester when its membership reached approximately 65. K-Fraternity is comprised of Kansas State athletes who have earned a varsity letter. "Keeper of the gavel" is Prexy Pete Hamlin.

With the increased College enrollment, the club became more active second semester and the members made plans to carry out some prewar traditions next year. In the fall, freshmen will be wearing their freshman caps, an old-time custom sponsored by the fraternity.

January 15 was the date of their banquet for active members and alumni.

Clubs Emphasize Student Interests

THE K-State campus attracts students from many lands foreign to America. The Cosmopolitan Club offers these men and women and our United States students a chance to work together in their interests in world-wide friendships. A larger membership this year brought an increase in activities. Social meetings and parties head this list with the annual "Feast of Nations" dinner again holding the spotlight. At this gala spread, tasty tidbits from menus written in many different languages are prepared and sampled by the members of the Cosmopolitan Club.

New inspiration was given to the club when three delegates, among them prexy Mariano Santiago, attended their organization's national convention at Urbana, Ill. These delegates met many interesting stu-

Beautiful Camp Miniwanca in Michigan holds the key for membership in K-State's Miniwanca Club. The fortunate students who have attended its inspiring sessions enjoy reliving their experiences at the meetings of the Miniwanca Club.

The Danforth Foundation grants fellowships and scholarships each year to selected Kansas State students. One freshman and one junior from the School of Home Economics and the School of Agriculture are given scholarships which cover two weeks at Camp Miniwanca for freshmen and four weeks for juniors. The Collegiate 4-H Club also sends a representative. These students receive leadership training at this camp on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Honoraries Encourage Participation

CREATIVE writers met and discussed their literary attempts at monthly meetings of the Quill Club, national organization for writers. Admittance to the club is by original manuscript. Short stories, poems, essays, radio scripts or short sketches may qualify a student for membership; pledging is held once each semester. During the year six student authors had selections published in "The Parchment," national organ of the society. Meetings consisted of perusal of members' manuscripts and an occasional pot-luck dinner at the home of C. A. Dorf.

Florence Cyhel edited "The Mirror," local publication of the society. Dorraine Dorf was chancellor, and Miss Ada Rice was faculty sponsor.

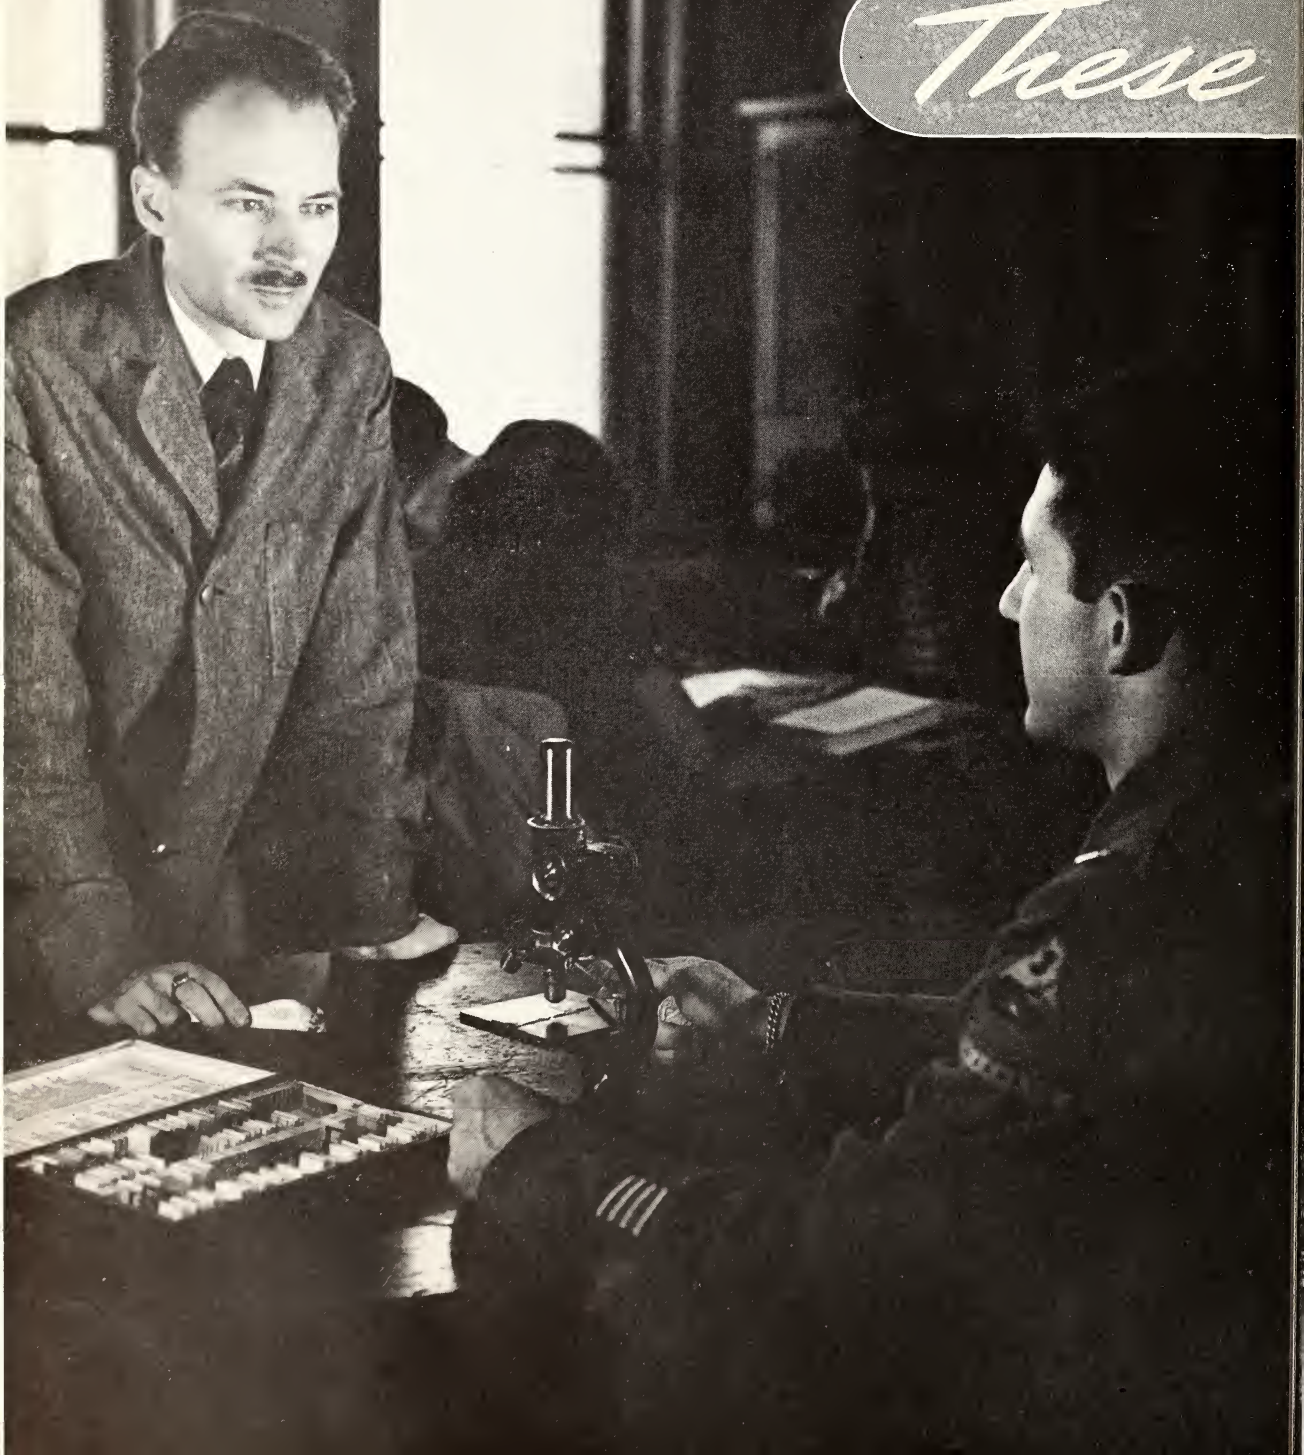

Participation in the Kansas State Players is the stepping-stone to Pi Epsilon Delta, national honorary dramatics group, also known as the National Collegiate Players.

Junior standing and adequate honor points, earned through K-State Players work, qualify students for membership. Points were awarded for all phases of theater work such as acting, directing, make-up, box office work, stagecraft and publicity. Those with enough honor points were initiated into the society in the spring and were feted at a banquet at the Wareham Hotel. Dr. Howard T. Hill and Prof. O. D. Hunt were made honorary members. President of the group was Pauline Flook and faculty sponsor was Earl G. Hoover.

are his classmates

His classmates haven't changed essentially from last year. They still frequent the Canteen and gripe about eight o'clocks. They campaign furiously for student elections, instigate innovations into campus life, take part in heated forum debates and turn out en masse for college varsities. These students are similar to their pre-war counterpart; yet like our new student, they realize that intelligent action is necessary to attain a permanent peace.

Happy in spite of their responsibilities as senior class officers are Roberta Ince, Ruth Fenton, Lois Meisner and David Underwood.

Seniors Have Farewell Dance, Sneak

Roberta Ince, Independent, was elected president, and the three Greeks were Ruth Fenton, Kappa Kappa Gamma, vice-president; Lois Meisner, Kappa Delta, secretary; and David Underwood, Sigma Nu, treasurer.

Many of the seniors bade the College farewell at mid-year. President Milton S. Eisenhower conferred degrees upon 111 graduating seniors on January 25. Seventy received doctors of veterinary medicine degrees, and the others received bachelors of science.

The largest class of vets ever to graduate, the group left school at mid-year due to the speeded up schedule that took effect in war time. As the vets work in classes, none graduated in the spring.

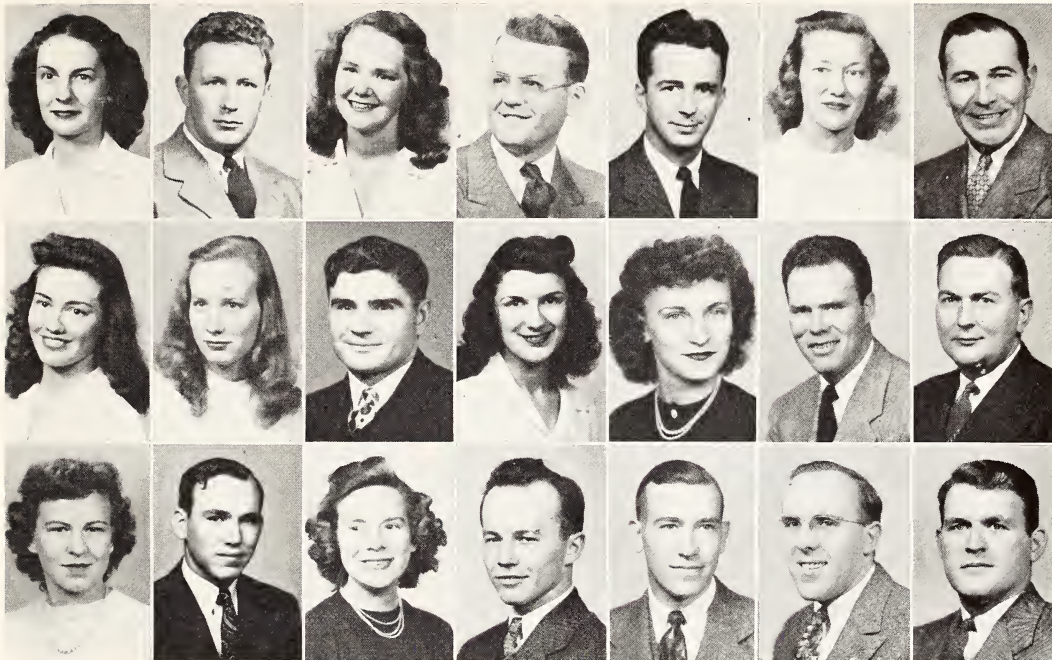

First semester brought the annual Senior Class Sneak in all its revelling, frolic and fun. The day started with a sport affair jam session at the Country Club. Lunch was followed by a picture show at the Manhattan theaters, and then seniors trudged homeward to make ready for the big "doings" of the evening. A dance was held at the Country Club for all seniors and their dates.

Climaxing the second semester class activities was the farewell dance presented at the Avalon Ballroom.

The Alumni Association gave a banquet at the College Cafeteria for graduating seniors on May 18, the night before graduation.

Seniors are always "free as larks" and the envy of underclassmen during their last week of school, since they take their exams early, and studying is a thing of the past.

 Webb, Venard C. Manhattan
Milling Industry
 Milling Industry Assoc. Pres.; Assoc. Veterans, Finance Officer.

Independent Student Party president DAVI D NIEHER . . . Who's Who . . . SGA Dance Manager . . . Student Council . . . Klod and Kernel.

Heavy Vote at Election

IN the heaviest poll since pre-war days, students divided their votes almost equally between Independent and Greek candidates for class offices. Of the sixteen offices, ten went to Greek nominees and six to Independents. Sixty-two percent of the student body cast their votes.

All junior class offices were won by the Greek party, and all freshman class offices went to Independent candidates. The senior and sophomore class offices were divided between the two parties.

We Enter Our 50th Year

This is our 50th year as commercial printers. We enter this year, not with flamboyant phrases but with humility and gratitude. We are grateful for Victory and for those who made it possible. We are grateful to the hundreds of our customers who have been patient with any unavoidable lapse in our service. We are grateful to the co-workers who have cherished our 50-year tradition of service, making every effort to maintain the same high standards, and helping to carry the load left by their co-workers who entered the armed services. Thanks to them, the year just completed has enabled us to serve more industries and businesses than ever before. We cherish your belief in us, in the service we render and the product we sell. We thank you, one and all, for trading with us.

GOING BACK TO UNCLE SAM!

Abe Lincoln was once asked how long a man's legs ought to be. He unhesitatingly replied that they ought to be long enough to reach from his body to the ground.

How far back should your abstract go? We think if you are going to look up the condition of your title at all, the search by all means should go back to Uncle Sam. One link short and you stand in midair. The patent is the foundation, "the root of the title," the books say. Make sure of your title from the ground up.

New Floor Cleaner
Removes Heel Marks

You can get rid of unsightly heel marks that disfigure your wood floors and linoleum. And you don't have to rub and scrub, either. Bruce Floor Cleaner, a product of E. L. Bruce Co., world's largest maker of hardwood floors, "dry cleans" them away . . . quickly, easily. Spots, dirt and old wax wipe off in a jiffy. And the wax base in Bruce Floor Cleaner protects and enhances floor beauty.
