The intent of this report is to establish a handbook for use by the professional staff of Unified School District # 475 in Junction City, Kansas. The reason for this handbook is to present in an organized manner, the materials that are available for check out thru the Learning Problems Center and how to best utilize them to remediate academic or process deficits in children.

Each item in the Learning Problems Center was analyzed and classified according to an academic or process area. The academic areas (nos. 1-15 Table of Contents) listed are those encountered at the elementary grade levels. The process areas (nos. 16-21 Table of Contents) are derived from subtests of the I.T.P.A. (Illinois Test of Psycholinguistic Abilities) and collaboration with Dr. Larry L. Martin, assistant professor Kansas State University. The last section of the report is a write up section (no. 22 Table of Contents) which lists and briefly explains each item in the Learning Problems Center in numerical order according to its call number.

To use this book, look for the desired subject or process area listed in the Table of Contents. Under that general heading, select the specific area of interest. Turn to the page listed for the specific area to find all the materials available at the Center that deal with that area. Following the call number of each item is a statement as to the type of material and suggested grade level usage. In the process areas (nos. 17-21 Table of Contents) the grade level is omitted and instead the item is listed as either a Primary or Secondary Source. The term Primary Source indicates that the material was designed to remediate that specific process deficit. The term Secondary Source indicates that the material was designed to remediate a specific process deficit other than the one it is listed under but that it can be used in remediating deficits in this area.

For an example one subject area and one process area will be used. In the subject area Handwriting will be used. Turning to the Table of Contents, Handwriting is the second item and it is divided into two subheadings Manuscript and Cursive. Choosing Manuscript, turn to page 2 to find the first item listed. The first item, You Can Write, has two handwriting books in Teacher's Editions that deal with manuscript handwriting. To find out more about this item, use the call number H 1.3 or H 2.3 and look in the Table of Contents under Write-Ups to find the page number of the descriptions about H (handwriting), the call numbers are listed in numerical order for easy location.

For the process area, Directionality will be used. Using the Table of Contents, Directionality is found under the Heading of Sensory Motor. The items that can be used to remediate Directionality can be found on page 154. The first item listed has a call number of DM 97. Looking on the Table of Contents under Write-Ups the description of DM items begin on page 204. Follow the numerical order to 97 to find the description of item DM 97.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
Manhattan, Kansas

1975
ABSTRACT

This report deals with the over 3,000 items available for check out thru the Learning Problems Center of Unified School District # 475 in Junction City, Kansas. Each item was analyzed and classified under either an academic (subject) and/or process (methods by which we learn) area. Some of the subject and process headings are: Handwriting, Science, Arithmetic, Word Recognition, Phonics, Motor Control, Memory, Visual and Auditory. The general subject and process headings were then divided into more specific subheadings. For example, the heading Handwriting is broken down into two subheadings - manuscript and cursive. Under Arithmetic there are such subheadings as counting, place value, addition, fractions, etc.

In addition to being classified under an academic and/or process area, the item is also identified as to the type of material it is, such as duplicating master, taped lesson, game, etc. The write-up section at the end of the report lists each item in numerical order according to its call. In this section a brief description is given about each item.

The intent of this report is to establish a handbook for use by the professional staff of U.S.D. # 475 that presents in an organized manner, the materials available to them and how to best utilize them to remediate academic or process deficits in children.
