According to Don Kendall, associated press farm writer, Butz has mentioned the Vietnam issue but it has had a second billing to the agricultural scene. Now, Butz has changed his tune and stated, "Uppermost among everyone's concerns today is Vietnam. We are committed. There will be no turning back from the decisive effort to defuse the Vietnam conflict and bring peace."

policies, Butz said in speeches in Washington and in the Midwest that President Nixon needs unified support during "the critical weeks ahead" as U.S. forces step up action against the enemy.

Butz also repeated earlier claims that he expects farm income to set a record of $7.5 billion this year, that farm exports are thriving, that farmers' prices are recovering, that administration-backed programs are working and that the In defending White House war country "is moving forward positively" on all fronts.

The attention paid by Butz to nonfarm issues is not a suprise. It is part of the Nixon farm strategy this year to play down agricultural issues by themselves and to concentrate on broader subjects.

Clayton Yeutter, who directs farm tactics for the Committee for the Reelection of the President, recently told a farm editors' conference that the Vietnam war will be a more crucial issue among rural people than government farm policy.

Other topics which Yeutter says rank uppermost among farm people, some according to geography, include: inflation, drug abuse, campus unrest, crime, school busing and the "attitude and makeup" of the U.S. Supreme Court.

But the Democrats will not let the GOP off as easily as Yeutter and Butz would like.

A planning group of the Democratic Policy Council, for example, already has offered pegs for what could be part of the party's national farm plank later on.

Although described Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien as only a view of the planning group's members at this stage, the list of items shows that farm programs, corporate farming,

But the Vietnam war and its most recent developments will get larger billing on the farm front as it is expected to be nationally, according to the GOP game plan.

Unanimous Jury Ruling Not Needed

The recent ruling by the United States Supreme Court that persons on trial for noncapital crimes may be convicted by a less-thanunanimous jury could eliminate the "shred of doubt" appeal used by many defense lawyers.

The decision, in cases from Louisiana and Oregon, said the centuries-old practice of unanimous jury verdicts is not required by the U.S. Constitution. Even a 9 to 3 verdict is permissible, said Justice Byron R. White for the court.

Only four states, Oklahoma and Montana in addition to Louisiana and Oregon, apparently now have laws approving conviction by a less than unanimous vote. The court's ruling could spur others to follow the Justice Thurgood Marshall, a dissenter, said the ruling "cuts the heart out," of an important safeguard of the Bill of Rights. Protesis were entered also by Justices William Douglas, William J. Brennan and Potter Stewart.

The majority opinion was produced by White and the four administration appointments: Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and justices Harry A. Blackmun, William Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr.

White said the essential function of the jury is to interpose a group of laymen representing the crosssection of the community between the accused and his accuser.

"In terms of this function," he said, "we perceive no difference between juries required to act unanimously and those permitted to convict or acquit on votes of 10 to 2 or 11 to 1.'

The Oregon law approved today allows 9 to 3 conviction.

CHAROLAIS-ANGUS CROSS WINS

The champion and second-place live steers in the fourth annual Beef Empire Live and Carcass Show were Charolais-Angus crosses, and both were owned by Garden City Ranchers. The champion steer (which placed fourth in the carcass judging) weighed 1,214 pounds live, and dressed out at 772 pounds. It had a 14.54 square-inch rib eye area, and graded choice-minus. The second-place steer weighed 1,142 pounds live, had a carcass weight of 742, and a rib eye area of 17.27. This steer graded good-plus, which kept it from rating high in the carcass category.

Rain and colder than normal temperatures failed to dampen the enthusiasm of spectators and participants at the fourth annual Beef Empire Live and Carcass Show in Garden City.

Departing from the traditional steer show format, animals are not washed, combed, or clipped. Larry Henry, Finney county Extension agricultural agent and superintendent of the show's live division, says the show emphasizes important economic traits.

All animals entered in the show are fed under normal commercial feedlot conditions. They are not fed special rations. They continue to gain weight right to show time. They are not broken to lead. They are not groomed or fitted.

John Dohogne, general manager of the program, called the Beef Empire Show an educational event designed to help cattlemen to learn how to more economically produce cattle that meet the demands of the modern beef consumer.

Proof of the success of the effort is in the results of the judging over the

The annual Beef Empire Show is a departure from the traditional steer show. To the casual observer, it probably resembled a Quarter Horse cutting contest more than a steer show. Cattle are fed under normal feedlot conditions, and are not groomed or pampered in any way. Dr. Don Good, head of the Kansas State University animal science and industry department, picks the top 20 steers and top 5 heifers from the more than 200 entries.

Do-It-Yourselfer Can Handle Vinyl Asbestos Tile

Flooring isn't an item you buy every day so it is helpful to know something about the products available and methods of installation.

Vinyl asbestos tile is good for the Saturday afternoon do-it-yourself jobs. It comes in easy to handle squares and some types come adhesive-backed. Sheet resilient floors of vinyl or linoleum usually require professional installation but there are fewer seams to attract and hold dirt. Some also have soft undercushions of vinyl foam.

One product in sheet flooring features a special wear surface that retains its shine longer than ordinary vinyls without any waxing. In fact, most waxes won't even stick to the surface and the only maintenance required is sweeping and an occasional damp mopping.

Brighten Kitchen With Enamel

Enamel paint and a little imagination will brighten your kitchen economically. Begin by choosing colors from the bright side of the color wheel.

Paint the walls, windows, doors and cabinets. And don't forget the insides of your cabinets. When these kitchen items have an enamel finish, they'll wipe clean with the wisk of a damp cloth.

Keep Soil Off Window Shades

To keep fingermarks and soil off window shades and cut down on the work involved in keeping the shades clean, sew a strip of clear plastic over hem of the kitchen and bathroom window shades. It hardly shows yet can be wiped clean in a jiffy and keeps the shade underneath immaculate.

To Clean Fork Tines

Use a pipe cleaner to apply silver polish between the tines of a fork. The inside of the tines can be cleaned efficiently.

Takes Away Stains

To remove ugly discolorations from a teapot, fill it with strong boiling bluing water and let stand a few hours. Wash in usual way.

To Wash Fiber Glass Drapes

When washing glass fiber drapes, do so by hand in a tub or sink by themselves. Rinse the receptacle after each washing. Mild soap and warm water is all that is necessary.

Male Cooks Will Enjoy Fixing Turkey Roasts

possibly going into the business of building complete vehicles rather than providing the key components, which is GM's approach.

GM's plan is to supply in-dependent distributors and fabricators in developing countries with the essential components for the vehicle, allowing them to make and put together the rest in their own country. The GM-supplied componenets are mainly the drive system — the engine, transmission, axles, suspensions and steering equipment. The components used in the cars GM will assemble in Malaysia are made by its Vauxhall Motors Ltd. subsidiary in England.

The prototype car displayed al helore pouring cold water in looked like a small military vehicle. The sheet metal was boxy. The vehicle had a cargo carrying area, no doors and a canvas seat. GM officials said it had seat belts and an energy-absorbing steering column.

E.M. Estes, group vice president in charge of GM's overseas operations, wouldn't put a price tag on the vehicle but said it will "be well below the least expensive vehicle now produced by General Motors any place in the world." GM has a $1,600 version of its Opel Cadet; it's clear the company is eving a price much closer to $1,000, although Estes wouldn't confirm Estes, who used to run the Chevrolet division in the days when splashy car previews and styling hoopla were in vogue, kidded about the unveiling of the stripped down vehicle in GM's styling auditorium. "What we're showing you is less glamorous but possibly more exciting," he said.

The engine is Vauxhall's 76.5cubic-inch, four-cylinder unit that develops 37 horsepower. The carrying load of the vehicle, including passengers, is 1,300 pounds.

Estes indicated that the company was trying to come up with a vehicle unat would overcome the problem of high cost, which keeps four-wheel motor-driven vehicles out of the reach of all but a few in most of Asia and Africa GM sees its vehicle as a General Motors Corp., in a bid to repalcement for "the animal car, stablish a base in developing bicycle, motor scooter or even a

Because of the effect on the price, GM decided against offering a fourwheel-drive vehicle — at least initially. Company officials said no other auto maker currently is offering a four-wheel vehicle for developing countries in the price area GM is aiming for.

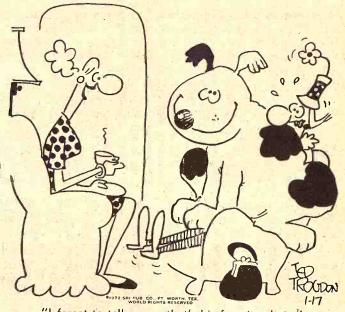

NATURAL GAS FOR WESTERN KANSAS FARMERS

The Federal Power Commission has granted temporary authority to Northern Natural Gas Co. to supply gas to farmers in Southwest Kansas for irrigation pump power.

Earlier, farmers complained that no new hookups could be made because supplies from the firm had been committed to areas outside Kansas. About 19 farmers who had put down irrigation wells were left without a supply of gas to run the pump engines.

The development of the big feedlots and the rapid growth of cattle feeding in the Plains States not only has revolutionized the beef industry, but has had a major impact upon the feed grain business as well.

More cattle are being fed than ever before. Beef production in the United States has doubled since 1950, but it is growing most in new places such as Texas, Kansas and Nebraska rather than in the Corn

The most recent cattle-on-feed report issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture showed that as of April 1, the number of cattle on feed in 23 major cattle feeding states in this country was up 9 percent from the same date a year earlier. Iowa, which is the No. 1 feeding state in the nation, recorded an increase of only 1 percent.

Texas, which ranks No. 2 in cattle feeding, had an increase of 19 percent; Nebraska, which is No. 3, showed an 11 percent increase.

Kansas which is No. 4, had the biggest increase in the nation at 35 percent.

California, the No. 5 state, had a 19 per cent increase. Colorado was up 8 per cent. Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota registered decreases, while Missouri had no change from the previous year. Illinois was up 1 per cent, Ohio 1 per cent and Indiana 6 per cent.

The increases as recorded for April 1, were in line with the trend in recent years, and they explain why so much of the meat packing industry has moved closer to "sources of production," while the big Trade so they capacking plants and stockyards at the over a large area. terminal markets have been on the

The drastic shifts in beef feeding also have made major changes in the movement of feed grains, of which the Kansas City Board of Trade is cognizant.

Milo Stays Home

(milo), followed by Kansas and then Nebraska. Before Texas became big in cattle feeding, most of its milo shipment to other states for cattle and poultry feeding.

The experiences of one of the world's major grain firms with offices in the Kansas City Board of Trade are indicative of the recent developments. This firm had a branch office in a city in Northwest Texas which bought more mile than any other of its branches in the United States. As time went on, virtually all the milo produced in that area went to feedlots also within the areas. The grain firm eventually closed the office. Now milo and corn actually are being shipped from Kansas City to that same part of Texas still exports milo. But now since the feedlots are major competitors for the supply, not nearly as much is available for sale overseas. Because of the proximity of Texas to Gulf ports and the obvious freight advantages, exporters tried to fulfill their orders from the state. Now they have to move farther north to Kansas, Nebraska, and even Missouri.

Some relatively large Texas exporting firms which once fulfilled all their orders from within the state have been forced to open brokerage offices at the Kansas City Board of Trade so they can procure grain

The feedlots also account for large was available for export or for amounts of wheat being fed. In this marketing year, which ends June 30, it is being estimated that 240 million bushels of wheat will have been fed. This is a national figure. However, it is well known that feeding has been heavy in the Plains States where wheat is the major crop, and where it is costly, because of location, to bring in corn from the Corn Belt. Wheat for feeding also is shipped from Texas and Oklahoma to Arizona and California feedlots.

Because the big cattle feedlots can save on freight by buying local milo, seek to scramble up the ladder via they create a local market price education, the competition for which is higher relatively than the professional and technical jobs price of corn in corn surplus areas. might grow stiffer, perhaps even As a result, overseas buyers of feed leaving less competition for more grains this last year have found corn menial jobs. a better buy. College Education Doesn't Always Guarantee A Job

"Go to college, son, get a good education and you'll always have a good job." That counsel has been given to millions of young Americans.

The assumption is made that a good education equals a good whitecollar job and security, while a poor education means much less pay in a blue-color job and a much greater likelihood of unemployment.

Shrewd observers of employment trends now realize that while this is often so, it isn't necessarily so. Bluecollar workers are capable of making "big" money, while some professionals are without jobs.

Moreover, as mobile Americans

Meat Imports Up, Still Below Quota

Meat imports are up from a year ago but are running well below the rate allowed under quota arrangements for all of 1972, according to Agriculture Department

A total of 242.9 million pounds of meat, mostly chilled or frozen lowgrade beef, was imported during the first quarter of the year, up 3 per cent from January-March 1971, officials reported.

The total for all of 1972 allowed by 'voluntary restraint" agreements with supplying countries is $.24 billion pounds, an increase of about 7 per cent from the 1971 restraint

Officials say shipments may pick up later, but at the first quarter rate only about one billion pounds would be imported this year. In 1971 foreign suppliers failed to meet their 1.16-billion-pound limity.

The low-quality beef, mainly from Australia and New Zealand, is used primarily for manufactured products such as hamburger.

Some consumer spokesmen and urban members of Congress have urged opening the import door wider to help ease housewife complaints about meat prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and other administration officials, prompted by objections from livestock groups, have overruled such action.

The March import total was 75.2 million pounds, down from 80.6 in February and about 87 million in January, according to USDA records.

For the first quarter as a whole, Australia shipped 101.6 million pounds to the United States, up 25 per cent from a year earlier; and New Zealand 39.4 million, down 1 per

Fund Shortage Could Cost 12 Kidney Patients

The state's kidney disease dialysis program may be broke May 31, leaving 12 persons being kept alive with dialysis machines to finance one month of treatment themselves - at a total cost of $10,000.

Dr. James Mankin, who supervises the two-year-old program for the State Dept. of Health, said if money runs out May 31 there will be no new funds until fiscal 1973, which begins July 1.

The program cost about $100,000 in appropriated $136,715 for fiscal 1973.

One person on the program gets $2,590 per month in state aid for dialysis treatment, Dr. Mankin said. 'His case is so expensive because he

The person receiving $2,590 a month used up his major medical insurance benefits long ago, Dr. Mankin said.

Five more persons are eligible to enter the program as soon as funds are available.

A dialysis machine is used to "clean" a patient's blood when his kidneys stop functioning properly. A person whose kidneys have been destroyed by disease could stay alive only a few days without dialysis treatment.

There are three accredited dialysis centers in Kansas, and two more in Kansas City, Mo. The centers furnish dialysis machines under a contract with the state, Dr. Mankin said.

American consumers owed about $4.1 billion to national banks under both kinds of credit plans as 1971 closed, an increase from $3.5 billion a year earlier.

'It's a good steady increase," said one official in the office of William Camp, comptroller of the currency. The report documents show the nation is moving toward the cashless society that many bankers envision.

At the end of 1967, consumers owed only $985 million under national-bank-credit-card and revolving-credit plans. The number of national banks which issued credit cards at the time was 187.

Now, 740 national banks under the comptroller's jurisdiction issue credit cards and 701 offer "instantmoney."

The "instant-money" plans operate in various ways, but a common plan is the deposit of additional funds in a member's account if he should overdraw, provided he is willing to pay in-

The figures do not include statechartered banks.

An upsurge in the number of persons using such credit, rather than an increase in the amount they borrow, appears to have caused last year's overall increase.

There were 13.8 million credit cards with outstanding balances at the end of 1971, but national banks had issued about 25 million credit cards. Bank-Americard and Master Charge are two of the most widely used of the bank-charge-card

The $3.2 billion owed through credit cards, compared with $2.7 billion in 1970, came out to an average balance of $235 a card.

Under "instant-money" revolving credit plans, there were 1.5 million accounts with outstanding balances at the close of 1971. Customers owed

$817,538, or an average of $539 per

In 1970, these credit plans produced $798 million in outstanding credit at year end. In 1967, the figure was $349 million.

The report showed that the number of national banks offering credit cards may have reached a saturation point. Six months ago, there were 745 banks issuing such cards, but five had dropped out by the end of the year.

Flint Hills Rodeo Schedule Outlined

STRONG CITY — Flint Hills rodeo days are like all noisy holidays sacked up for one mighty blast. The 35th presentation of Flint Hills Rodeo gets under way Friday, June 2 with the first showing Friday

This is a professional rodeo planned and executed by the two otherwise rival communities of Strong City and Cottonwood Falls. Elmore Stout, Chase county cattleman has been president of the rodeo association for several years. Evelyn Jackson is the permanent secretary and Bob Mushrush of the Exchange National bank in Cottonwood are the 1972 ramrods of the festival; but just about everyone in the two towns will be participating.

Saturday will be the big day, with a horsemanship contest starting at 9:30 a.m.; a parade at 2 o'clock, the second rodeo performance at 8 and a cowboy dance at the municipal building in Cottonwood Falls.

Something new will be seen Sunday at a 10:30 a.m. cowboy church service featured by worship on horseback as well as in the stands. John Miller will give a sermon on "Christ and the Cowboy."

Final showing of the rodeo will be Sunday afternoon, the only matinee.

Unemployment Drops Below Four Percent

Gov. Robert Docking said unemployment in Kansas in April dropped below 4 per cent for the first time in over two years.

He announced the jobless rate last month was 3.9 per cent.

The governor announced that employment in the state rose to 833,800 with seasonal increases in trade and services, coupled with an increase in manufacturing and construction.

Docking said the March to April job increase could be traced to significant increases in the durable goods segment of manufacturing and in construction.

Average weekly earnings of factory workers in the state hit $152.68 in April, with more overtime credited for an increase of 2 per cent over March. The weekly earnings were $6 a week or 4 per cent higher than April 1971.

The hourly earnings of Kansas factory workers went up 20 cents from last year.

Docking also had an optimistic outlook.

"The outlook is for additional job gains in the next two months, with manufacturing and construction forecasting large increases," he said. "Farm employment is expected to surge upward also by midyear and support the already accelerating nonfarm job growth."

Moisture Storage Makes Difference

Where are those raindrops going? Into or off the land? Are they part of to cut through heavy residue. soil moisture reserves or of murky flood waters?

Raindrops striking the bare soil act like a miniature bomb, explains Carlyle Thompson, researcher at the Fort Hays Experiment Station.

A small crater is formed with tiny soil particles thrown a fraction of an inch into the air. This loosened soil becomes part of the sediment in runoff water.

However, when crop residues on the soil surface lessen the impact of the falling raindrop, the effect of its force is decreased.

Thompson says water is the most important factor limiting dryland crop production in Kansas. Therefore, the objective of many farmers and researchers is to devise methods to control water runoff, increase moisture penetration reduce evaporation. This will result in greater moisture storage, thus increasing the yield potential.

No simple procedure will increase moisture storage on cultivated fields, but Thompson believes a few steps that will help can be taken:

Farming to keep the soil surface moderately rough and trashy will help decrease runoff. Trashy residue includes living and dead plant material. Practices such as contour farming and terraces aid in slowing down water movement, allowing more time for water to soak into the soil.

Moisture penetration is slow on silty loam and silty clay loam soils in Kansas. These fine textured soils seal over after a rain begins. This is Grass & Grain where trash is important. Residues left on the soil surface provide good soil tilth and aid in moisture penetration.

Evaporation is important because it accounts for the largest percent of moisture loss from soils. Evaporation occurs at a slower rate from a mulched surface than a bare surface.

Other tips in storing moisture: o Don't till unless weeds are taking out more moisture than you will lose through tillage.

o Soils generally dry out as deep or slightly deeper than worked. When a tillage is performed, be sure the weed kill is thorough. Tillage tools, singly or in combination. should be used so that weeds are o Selected herbicides, applied singly or in combination with tillage, can enhance moisture storage.

e Learn to cope with residue, large amounts of residue may sometimes require some revisions in planting equipment. For example, a rolling coulter may need to be added

The survey also indicated:

o Spending the extra three cents for an airmail stamp doesn't necessarily guarantee quicker delivery. In the case of 45 per cent of the letters in the survey, the airmail letters were delivered at the same time as first-class ones.

e Considerable variations exist in delivery time, often not related to Broken Leg Heals distances involved. For example, letters mailed from Los Angeles to Washington reached the capital faster than those mailed from Washington or New York to Los Angeles.

o In three of the test cities, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Houston, the Postal Service handled local letters in an average of one day. The average time in St. Louis was 201/2 hours, compared to 33 in Washington.

o Since the Postal Service does not generally operate on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, Friday is the poorest day to mail letters. In most cases they are not delivered until Monday morning; in at least a dozen cases delivery was delayed until Tuesday.

"We are trying to improve the weekend problem which has been acute," Jones said.

In the survey, half the letters had zip codes and half didn't. A comparison of arrival times of each pair of letters showed:

Topeka physician who ently treats snakebite cases e is unaware of any snakebite in the state since then, though ossible such deaths have oc-He and Parrish attribute the death rate to quality and vill be charge glability of medical treatment to the fact that most bites in sas are by copperheads, cially in the eastern part of the ile noting that copperhead bites cause extreme pain and illness sometimes permanent physical age, the physician said he had heard of a copperhead bite ing death to a human adult. echnically, there are eight es and subspecies of poisonous tes native to Kansas: the timer stlesnake, the prairie rattlesnake, utter dish, min wl set western diamondback ratdividual salia snake, the western massasauga, lesert massasauga, the northern perhead, the broadbanded rhead and the western cotton > moccasin. fact, since some of those, inng moccasins, rarely appear in sas, the greatest danger is from more common varieties of er and copperhead. Of these, the er is the more poisonous, but the erhead seems to inflict more

e vast majority of snakesbites, course, are by nonpoisonous snakes, though any snakebite should be checked by a physician or paramedic in case of infection.

It is important to identify the snake when a person is bitten, to establish proper treatment. The simples method is to kill or capture the snake, if time permits, leaving the head intact for examination. If the head is destoyed, the rear half of the snake's body may be used to establish identification.

The most important concern, however, is to get the victim to someone who can treat the bite. Physicians stress the danger is not as immediate as many old wives' tales would have us believe. Speed of treatment is urged because more of the venom may be removed by suction the sooner the victim is tended to. Most victims are not in danger if they reach a doctor within a couple of hours after the bite.

In general, larger snakes are more venomous than small ones, while smaller persons are more susceptible to venom.

What this means, is that a snakebite is potentially more dangerous to a child than to an adult. According to Parrish's findings, the great majority of poisonous bites in Kansas are suffered by children and farm workers.

Most snakebites in Kansas occur during the months of May, June, July and August. It is at the beginning of this period that snakes are most venomous, having stored up venom during hibernation.

Nearly all snakebites occur in the daytime, between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m., Parrish faound.

The first symptom of a poisonous snake bite is a severe aching pain or numbness in the immediate area of the bite. Dr. Powell said some patients have described the pain and numbness as being similar to that following a heavy concussion particularly a gunshoat wound.

Recommended first aid includes a tourniquet above the bite; keeping the bitten area motionless if possible; cooling, but not freezing the bitten area; and suction.

Physicians now feel that incision of the wound, as recommended in many first aid manuals, should be made only by a knowledgeable person, since in most cases the dangers of a faulty incision are greater than the snakebite itself. Suction of the wound is effective even withouth the incision.

The tourniquet should stop blood flow in the affected vein, but not in the nearby arteries. Anyone applying such a tourniquet should find an arterial pulse before the application, then make sure it is still there afterward.

Some physicians advise loosening the tourniquet every few minutes, but most feel this only speeds the flow of venom to the body. They advise keeping the tourniquet tight until medical help arrives.

Remaining motionless is advised unless it prevents the victim from reaching help quickly.

There is some disagreement over the application of cold to the snake bite area. Most physicians now feel an ice bag should be applied to the immediate area, but that the entire limb or area of the body should not be subjected to freezing, as was common in the past.

Once the vicitm has been brought to a physician or to a hopsital, proper procedure is to administer the "Three A's" - antivenin, antibiotics and antitoxin for tetanus.

Most antivenin available in this area is derived from horse serum. Some persons are allergic to this sort of serum, so allergy tests must be made prior to treatment.

Most physicians stress that persons who have been bitten by snakes they believe are poisonous should "keep their cool," since even if the snake was in fact a pit viper, the recognizing an approaching tornado but this is the age of television so why not use one as a tornado detector.

You turn on the set and let it warm up. Then switch to channel 13. This higher frequency does not normally indicate a tornado. Next step is to adjust the brightness control until the screen is almost black. Don't get it too dark for then nothing will show.

Now dial the channel selector to channel 2. Do not reset the brightness control - you might "turn off' a tornado. Channel 2 is the lowest frequency on a TV and the best one for receiving a tornado signal. Lightning appears as bright flashes or streaks. Color TV shows colored lightning, but a white tornado.

If the screen becomes bright and remains continuously bright, or the darkened picture is visible and remains that way, look out. A tornado is close by and it's time to seek shelter.

An approaching tornado will brighten the screen, but the screen will dim as the twister moves away.

Any TV set will work. Sets can pick up signals from a funnel 15-20 miles away, giving you as much as 30 minutes warning.

Weller, a self-taught electronics In Alfalfa & Grass expert, discovered the system.

How it works

He explains that a tornado funnel acts much like a huge vacuum tube. And like a gigantic pulse generator, it radiates signals that a TV picks up. Channel 2 is the nearest TV has to the frequency of the tornado's pulse generator. Therefore, as the tornado funel approaches, its "signal" overwhelms the normal TV signal at that frequency and produces the brilliant white light on the screen.

If a storm knocks out the electricty so a TV set doesn't work, what Weller suggests using a battery operated AM transistor radio.

You turn the radio to the low end of the dial where it picks up the same storm signals as the TV.

Lightning makes intermittent static on the radio. A tornado makes steady, continuous static. To get accustomed to the noise produced by lightning (or a tornado) on a transistor radio, place the radio next to the TV and watch and listen to the effects during an electrical storm.

Best part of the Weller method is that it works at night when you can't see a tornado cloud.

Harvesting Early Saves Protein

Harvesting the hay crop early may aid dairymen to increase their plant approaches full bloom or and have identification. maturity.

Ralph Bonewitz, Extension dairyman at Kansas State University, points out a drop of 5 percent crude protein in one ton of alfalfa hay means a loss of 100 pounds of crude protein. In order to supply this amount of protein to a dairy ration, the dairyman will need to feed an additional 225 pounds of soybean oil meal per ton of the late cut and lower protein hay.

This can amount to approximately $12 per ton of hay. In addition, the cows will eat less of the late cut hay than of early cut hay, thereby increasing the grain needs with late

In making hay crop silage and haylage, the legumes and grasses should be cut early so material will be high in protein. "Plan now to be ready to harvest your hay crop on time," says Bonewitz.

"Cutting the alfalfa crop at bud to first flower maturity could add many dollars to your profits this year. Now is the time to start the formulation of a top quality winter's feeding program.'

worldwide shortage of calves cattle for fattening pens is being along substantially by a European appetite for beef. of the ign Agricultural Service says in mort, farmers in the European nunity show no signs of being to keep pace with the demand. e deficit, Stenswick said, has wide implications for both importing and exporting tries, including the United which is both. y is in the most trouble-some among the European countries, wick said. Imports of calves eeder cattle have become an spensable" part of Italian production, rising from 30,000 in 1966 to an estimated 1.2 on last year.

lowever, the report said, the rate talian calf imports has slowed e other countries in the comnity and in Eastern Europe nete for supplies.

e of the reasons for a scarcity of e cattle for fattening is a perent European taste for veal, ning that calves are slaughtered

Last year, says Stenswick, calves accounted for about 36 per cent of the total slaughter market, compared with an 8-per-cent rate in the United States.

"Stated another way," Stenswick said, "if the percentage of calves now being slaughtered. . were lowered to the rate prevailing in the United States, beef production would jump by an estimated 2.32 billion pounds or about 24 per cent of 1971 EC beef and veal production."

Another limiting factor, he said, is the relatively low cost to European farmers of feeding calves compared with the higher expense of turning out finished beef animals.

Thus, Stenswick said, European farmers can sell of calves and turn a quick profit and not have to worry about buying high-priced feed grains necessary for producing beef.

The European shortage has revived interest in U.S. calf exports to Italy, which bought more than 9,000 dairy calves from American producers in the mid-1960s.

However, Stenswick said, the price difference between European calves and U. S. imports is still relatively small, thus reducing the possible competitive advantage for American producers.

"If calf imports into the EC taper off as expected, European calf prices can be expected to rise quickly, and the margin between U.S. and European calves may re they grow into more mature again make these shipments profitable," Stenswick said.

Beloit Vo-Tech School To Offer Masonry Courses

A nine months training program in bricklaying and concrete masonry will be offered at the North Central Kansas Vo-Tech School, Beloit, starting Aug. 21, Director Bob Severance has announced.

This vocational offering will provide both background information as well as considerable "hands-in" experience that will qualify the student to meet the demands of bricklaying and masonry trade in the future.

This program will further complement the already existing Carpentry-Cabinetmaking program which has been in operation for the past eight years.

Test Links Ex-Smokers And Weight Problems

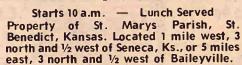

The common notion that people who give up cigarettes are likely to gain weight has been elevated from folklore to statistical fact.

Drs. George Comstock and Richard Stone did it by comparing the medical measurements of 501 men who were checked over twice, five to six years apart. They calculated the risk to be 40 per cent. Being statistical, their study could provide no answer to the prime question of how cigarette smoking could interfere with the accumulation of body fat and thus keep smokers thinner than they would be if they didn't smoke.

However, six of seven ex-smokers recently revealed a diminished basal oxygen consumption to investigating scientists. This, said Comstock and Stone, could cause weight gain even in the absence of an increase in food intake or a decrease in exercise.

Their study did not deal with the psychological theory that some exsmokers compensate by eating more or exercising less or both. Either is a sure way of getting fat or Comstock is an epidemiologist at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and Stone is in the medical department of the American Telephone Company. Their hope was to turn up reassuring statistics for smokers who tell their doctors they don't stop because they're afraid of getting fat.

Instead they raised a new question which, in their words, is: "Do the hazards of obesity outweigh the benefits of becoming an exsmoker?" These hazards don't, they said, for two reasons:

"First, subcutaneous fatness is not necessarily associated with increased risk of mortality. Second, and most cogent, are the reports that mortality and morbidity are decreased when cigarette smoking is stopped, in spite of the fact that most of those who stopped probably gained weight."

The 501 men were technical telephone workers. They were between 40 and 59 years old when checked over the first time. Weights were recorded, fat folds of upper arms and abdomen were measured, and they detailed their smoking habits.

Five or six years later these routine examinations were repeated. They revealed a general trend toward weight gain. But the gains were the most among the men who had stopped smoking cigarettes between examinations.

The more cigarettes they had smoked before giving up the habit, the more weight they gained. For example, 17 men who had smoked 25 or more daily gained an average of pounds. The gains could be measured in thickened fat folds.

KPL Sells Land On West Bank Of Rocky Ford

MANHATTAN — Remember the fantastic fishing you've enjoyed at Rocky Ford? Well, it may be a thing of the past.

Recent action by the Kansas Power and Light Company of Topeka, may have eliminated fishing along the Blue River's west catfish. bank.

By selling 27 acres of shoreline land to a private real estate firm, the power company wiped out plans which the Kansas Fish and Game Commission had for purchasing and developing the area for sportsman.

Although KP&L had formerly granted public access to the west bank, it is uncertain whether access will be allowed under the new ownership.

"It is indeed unfortunate the KP&L has chosen to sell this unique site for private development while expressing little interest in the thousands of Kansas sportsmen and citizens that have utilized the area to date," said Fred Sears, Colby chairman of the Commission.

"We only hope this action does not represent the Company philosophy natural resource management or the sportsmen of Kansas," Sears added.

The Rocky Ford area, localed: downstream from Tuttle Creek reservoir, is well-known for its excellent fishing. In years past, it has produced many fine catches of walleye, flatheads and channel Marvin Fisher, Abilene, didn't want to be seen with his old combine but he did mention that he might ive this old Gleaner Baldwin combine away if somebody would take the "whole thing." Fisher bought this combine in 1937 and used it till seven years ago when he suffered a heart attack, "I never owned a slf-propelled combine. This is one of the few combines in full contact because people use the bin to make a feed wagon." Fisher still has the belts in his garage and if the old Ford motor runs it might be nossible to cut wheat this summer if you're ambitious.

Swing By Summer New operating regulations permitting greater lending power by the farmer-owned Farm Credit System are expected to be in full effect this summer.

New Farm Lending

Program In Full

The regulations implement legislation passed by Congress last year that updates operations of units in the system, including the federal land banks, banks for cooperatives and production credit associations.

Under the new package, for example, federal land banks will be able to lend up to 85 per cent of the market value of land of farmer to buy. Currently, the limit is 65 per communities of up to 2,500 population.

Another feature will permit loans for the first time to build nonfarm rural homes in "open country"

A spokesman for the Farm Credit Administration said Tuesday local and district boards in many areas are expected to give priority to approval of the land bank and home building features.

However, he said, not all districts and local units will approve the new rules at once. There fore, he said, some areas will begin operations under the expanded authority before others

The FCA, which oversees general operations of the system, formally approved the regulations last week and now is in the process of getting them published officially.

Dry Cleaners Folding Up

Wichtia dry cleaning establishments are being raken to the cleaners. Changed life styles, and altered modes of dress have taken away much of the dry cleaning business.

In the last 12 months a half dozen Wichita dry cleaning operations have folded, the most recent being with its three branch plants. Other the department.

large firms have shut down several branch outlets and others have changed hands. Industry people attributre the situation to several factors, including:

• New fabrics that require minimum care and, often times no dry cleaning.

• Inflation.

• Higher labor costs.

 People wearing clothes an extra time or two - to economize - before sending them to the cleaners.

• Radical changes in dress styles of the young.

• Proliferation of self-service laundries with their own dry cleaning machines.

• Delcine in the Wichita population.

• A common theme - the city's economy.

"Go by Wichita State University and let me know what the girls are wearing," said Jack Stephens, owner of defunct Royal Cleaners. "They're wearing blue jeans and sweat shirts where they used to wear matched sweaters and skirts of wool," he said. "The youth market is gone.'

"The market is flooded with washand-wear fabrics and the double knits. Our business is down," said Joseph K. Welch, owner of Welch's Cleaners. Earlier this year, Welch sold a half dozen Cowboy Cleaners outlets he owned. They were purchased on a long-term payout basis by managers of the plants. Two other Cowboy Cleaners outlets were closed.

Kansas Employers Alerted To Fake Inspectors

A Labor Department spokesman has issued a warning to employers in Kansas to beware of phony inspectors who claim to represent the department's Occupational Safety Hazard and Health Administration (OSHA).

Robert J. Borchardt, area OSHA director, said instances of imposters have been reported in Nebraska and Kansas. The FBI has been alerted, Borchardt said. Impersonating an OSHA inspector is a federal offense. The official said bona fide inspectors carry credentials bearing their pictures, which employers should insist on seeing.

In some instances, Borchardt said, the phony inspector is followed by a salesman who "just happens to have the safety equipment the employer was ordered to provide."

Ag-Business Dept.

The Agri-Business department at Cloud County Community college will be expanded in the fall with the addition of a part-time instructor, the expansion of a course and the addition of two new courses.

Steve Reedy, vocational agriculture instructor at Concordia high school, has been hired on a part-time basis to coordinate the new Ag Management course and the expanded Ag Career Experience course. These courses are open to sophomore career agriculture students. On-the-job experience will be in various agri-businesses and farms in which the student will study the management aspect of the business.

Reedy has a Master of Science degree from Kansas State University in agricultural education with a minor in animal science.

Another new course designed for but not necessarily limited to agribusiness students is principles of vehicle maintenance which will be taught by Michael Wentz, auto mechanics instructor at Concordia high school.

Persons interested in the Agri-Business department at the college Royal Cleaners, which closed along should see Lee Doyen, chairman of

HOMESTEAD NATIONAL MONUMENT

Warmer weather makes the Homestead National Monument in Nebraska a popular tourist attraction. This museum is located about four miles northwest of Beatrice. It's built on the Daniel Freeman homestead which may have been the first filed. It's impossible to determine who filed the first claim, since application papers were not stamped with the minute and hour of filing, only the date. Daniel Freeman's homestead was filed at the Brownville, Nebr., Patent Office as Entry No. 1, Patent No. 1 (Dated January 1, 1863).

This homestead cabin, which was erected in 1867 in a neighboring township, was moved to the museum in 1950. Its furnishings and tools were used by pioneers of the area. They give some indication of the pattern of life followed by homesteaders on the prairie.

Corn Surplus Up Even With Record Export Marketing

The USDA says we will have a corn surplus despite the marketing of "probably close" to 5 billion bushels, over 10 per cent more than last season.

The 3 million ton sale to the Soviet Union last year didn't dent the surplus. It's estimated that we will have a 1.25 billion bushels carryover by next October 1.

The estimates were included in a feed situation report issued by the Economic Research Service. Last year's record corn crop of 5.5 billion bushels is the biggest factor in the current outlook. Officials say larger livestock consumption plus gains in exports are the reasons for the increased disappearance.

Relatively high cattle and hog prices currently are stimulating feeding of corn and other grain.

The estimated carryover of oldcrop corn next October 1 is estimated at 1.25 billion bushels, compared with 663 million last fall. However, the reserve last year was down mainly because of the smaller 1971 crop, reduced sharply because of blight.

In recent years, the report said, the corn carryover has averaged more than 1 billion bushels at the beginning of each new harvest in the

BRINGS BACK MEMORIES

This sod breaking plow is one of many agricultural implements of the homestead era on display here. Early day household articles are also on dispray.

The Homestead Act made it possible for settlers to acquire farms of 160 acres free of all charges, except for a minor filing fee. To become full owner, a settler had to live on the land and cultivate it for 5 years. Later acts made land even easier to get, especially for veterans of the Army and the Navy. Largely because the supply of public land suitable for homesteading was exhausted, remaining public lands were withdrawn from homesteading in 1935. Occasionally since then, small areas in Alaska have been opened to veterans for homesteading.

November, the CPI has risen at a

The April report said grocery prices declined two-tenths of one per cent. Biggest declines were for meats, fruits and vegetables.

Food prices normally show no change in April, the report said.

"Beef and veal prices declined, the first time since November. Pork prices fell substantially for the second consecutive month," the report said.

In other major categories, housing costs rose two-tenths of one per cent, clothing increased fourtenths, transportation was up twotenths, medical care also rose twotenths and recreation costs increased five-tenths, the bureau said.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of nearly 50 million rank-and-file workers rose 2 cents per hour and $1.10 per week to $132.83 weekly.

After adjustment for the rise in living costs, the weekly pay gain amounted to a rise of six-tenths of one per cent, the bureau said.

How They Run," "Once Upon a Mattress," and "From Rags to Riches." Designed particularly to please the youngsters are two musical plays for children, "The Emperor's New Clothes" and "Rumpelstiltskin." Both plays are adaptions of familiar fairy tales by Wesley Van Tassel, the artistic director of the Continental Theatre Company. Two other productions are popular musicals. "Once Upon a Mattress" is a lively and often-produced recent Broadway musical based on the old fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea," while "The Fantasticks" blends satire and romaticism, bright comedy and serious verse, into an evening of popular entertainment for high school and adult audiences.

"See How They Run" is a rollicking London farce that has been produced widely in America. Rounding out the Company's repertoire is an old fashioned melodrama, "From Rags to Riches," a classic from the turn-ofthe-century

Food Price Drop Helps Hold Over-all Cost Of Living

Food prices dropped last month and helped hold the April over-all rise in living costs to two-tenths of one per cent, the government reported.

Gasoline prices and mortgage interest rates also declined, the report said.

'The increase was primarily due to higher prices for men's clothing, used cars, restaurant meals and most household services," said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Despite the higher cost of restaurant meals, grocery prices declined, it said.

The two-tenths rise was figured on both an actual and a seasonally adjusted basis, the report said.

The previous month's rise was also two-tenths on an actual basis, and was figured as no change on a seasonal basis.

The April rise brought the consumer price index up to 124.3 of its 1967 base of 100. This meant it cost $12.43 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases five years ago.

"During the five months since the wage-price-rent freeze ended in

Credit Not Given To Women, Says Congresswoman

To the consumer credit has become a way of life. Credit cards keep America rolling.

With credit in hand, one would think that any person could buy almost anything on credit approval. Not so says Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich. "Banks, credit-card companies, finance companies, stores and even the federal government discriminate against women in extending credit. They discriminate against women in all stages of life whether single, married, divorced or widowed; rich or poor; young or old," she said.

She quoted from a letter from a Detroit women who was single and had been employed 30 years by General Motors Corp. But was unable to obtain credit to buy a "Lenders who refuse to extend credit to single women explain this policy by saying that a single woman might marry and then stop working," Mrs. Griffiths said. "But the truth is that a single woman is a better credit risk than a single man."

Married women, too, are discriminated against, she said.

"Regardless of a wife's income, many lenders will not permit her to open a charge account, borrow money, or buy a car. These lenders will extend credit only to the Japanese imports and so offset their competitive advantage

"When a wife goes through life without establishing her own credit, stores won't even cash her Social Security checks," Mrs. Griffith said.

She described the case of a woman who was abandoned a year ago by her husband.

"She earns $7,800 a year to support herself and her three children," Mrs. Griffiths said. "Sixty dollars a month is deducted from her paycheck to repay the debts which her husband left. She receives no child-support payments. She cannot even get credit to buy a sewing machine."

Mrs. Griffiths criticized the federal government for backing mortgages when the lender refuses to allow for the full amount of a married woman's income. She said this is a common practice.

Japan's Exports Under U.S. Study

Japan's export bubble could be burst if United States studies show unfair competition.

Japan has the kind of problem the United States would love to have.Its exports are booming, its balance of payments is strongly in its favor.

But for peculiar reasons, Japan's export power is making some of its trade competitors and partners unhappy. And recognizing that this is so, some Japanese officials are, if not unhappy, genuinely worried. One fear is that foreigners, especially the United States, will retaliate again against the flood of goods that the Japanese are unloading on U.S. docks.

The United States, for example, is now undertaking an extensive study of why Japan is able to export has been dancing to the tunes played place. by the weatherman; but the principal question in the corn outlook 1971 corn now under loan can be still seems to be. What price will be redeemed at a profit this year. The necessary to get farmers to with-draw enough corn from the loan to CCC, or placed under reseal loans. meet market needs during the next Prospects for Next Year fifteen months or so? This question can be considered in two parts: (1) from now until the 1972 crop 4,800 to 5,000 million bushels. The becomes available about October 1, and (2) the marketing year beginning October 1.

excess of any foreseeable needs, even if the new crop is short. On April 1, corn stocks totaled about 3,344 million bushels, according to USDA estimates. Requirements for domestic use and exports from April 1 to October 1 may be 2,000 to 2,050 million bushels, which would leave may prevent the planting of a 1,300 to 1,350 million bushels for considerable acreage in corn. Yields carryover on October 1. That would be more than a fourth of the amount that will be used and exported the probability of less favorable during the marketing year beginning October 1.

Farmers Are Redeeming Corn

is under price support. At the first of April the CCC owned 154 million bushels. There were 172 million bushels of 1969 and 1970 crop corn under reseal loans. Farmers held 797 million bushels of the 1971 crop under loan. Probably 125 to 150 million bushels of this corn will be needed for domestic use, exports and working stocks before October Farmers already had redeemed 119 million bushels by April 1. Now that prices have moved up a few cents, they may be willing to sell the remaining 125 to 150 million bushels their 1972 corn.

The price of corn in recent weeks that will be needed in the market

Probably less than a fifth of the remainder will be delivered to the

If the weather is near-normal this summer, corn production could be lower figure is based on the belief that farmers will plant less corn than they reported on March 1; also The total supply of corn is far in that average yields will be lower than last year.

Acreage may be reduced from March 1 intentions because (1) farmers may set aside more land under the feed grain program than they expected to at that time, and (2) excessive rains in many areas per acre may be lower than last year because of the later planting, and weather during the growing season.

The needs for corn during 1972-1973 may be around 5,000 million Most of this prospective carryover bushels. If the corn crop falls short of requirements, the deficit will be made up by withdrawing 1971 crop from reseal loans. The redemption price for this corn a year hence will be about four cents higher than at present.

If the 1972 corn crop substantially exceeds the amount needed for domestic use and exports, the excess will be placed under price-support loans. If the quantity placed under loans leaves less for the free market than is needed, prices will rise enough to make it profitable for some farmers to redeem and sell

All this assumes that the price support loan rate will hold at the present level of $1.05 a bushel national average. There is some talk among farmers and Congressmen about raising the loan rate. This possibility may be a major reason for the relatively high prices for 1973@ corn futures in recent months. May (1973) futures at $1.35 are equivalent to about $1.29 to farmers in central Illinois in June next year.

Summer Feedlot Internship For K-State Students

Three Grass and Grain area students are taking advantage of Kansas State University's in ternship with a feedlot operation.

During internship the feedlot management personnel will train the student in four phases of the operation — feed milling, cattle feeding, tending cattle, and office work - according to Dr. Ed Smith professor in animal science. The students will spend two weeks on each phase.

College credit of three or four hours can be earned by the student through work at the feedlot.

Pay for the student is left up to the individual feedlot employer and student. Usually a student can expect to earn from $400 to $500 a month, Smith indicated.

The three students are James Cherry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Cherry, Girard, who will be Fairleigh Feedlot in Scott City; Francis D. Hlaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hlaus, Wilson, who will be at Hays Land and Cattle Company, Hays; and Gery Burkholder son of Mr. and Mrs. Georg Burkholder, Abilene, who will be located at Ingalls Feedlot, Ingal

FARMER'S DAUGHTER

Peggy Engle, Abilene, found a tractor and baler waiting after graduation from high school. She is helping her father, Oliver, bale operation north of Abilene. He's spraying a feed preservative on the

the first cutting. Oliver Engle farms 2 quarters and runs a dairy alfalfa as it passes through the baler. "It helps hold nutrients and vitamins in the hay and most important the cows clean it up."
