Davis has a chute of his own design, which he pulls behind a pickup to do his on-the-farm custom work. He recalls once doing 500 head at one time on a ranch near Abilene.

Poultry Honors For K-State's Loyal Payne

A Kansan, Loyal Frederick Payne of Manhattan, has been named to the Poultry Hall of Payne, a member of the Kansas State University poultry faculty for 40 years and head of the KSU department of poultry husbandry from 1923 to 1954, was one of six elected to the Hall of Fame this year by a special panel of 50 from the American Poultry Historical Society. Selections are made only every three years, and to date only 21 have been chosen.

As a result of this honor, Payne's portrait will be hung in the Poultry Hall of Fame in Jull Hall on the University of Maryland campus.

Picketers Find The Wrong Man

OTTAWA - Neighbors of a creamery worker here were surprised — to say the least when they saw a full-fledged picket line outside his home Sunday morning.

One neighbor was so surprised that she asked one of the protesters — members of Kansas Health Workers Union Local 1271 — why Bob B. Anderson was being picketed.

After a short discussion, the group of embarrassed health workers went to the home of their intended target, Bob A. Anderson, chairman of the State Board of Social Wel-

Bob A. Anderson offered them iced tea, but the protesters refused and left shortly after noon.

Bob B. Anderson, who was not home during the protest, was still chuckling Sunday afternoon.

Loyal Payne

was reared at Shawnee, Okla., and was graduated from Oklahoma State University in 1912. He served as superintendent of the OSU poultry farm for two years and then spent seven years on the faculty at Massachusetts University before joining the K-State poultry staff in 1921. He became head of the poultry department in 1923 and served in this capacity until 1954. He retired in 1960

Although his major interests in poultry were in administration and teaching, Payne did some important early research on reproduction and nesting habits of domestic fowl. He is author or co-author of three books and numerous bulletins, circulars and technical articles.

Payne organized the first baby chick show held in America, and took the initiative in organizing the Kansas Poultry Improvement Association in 1924 and the Kansas Poultry Industry Council in 1939. Under his leadership, KSU developed one of the highly respected poultry departments in the nation. His interest in books on poultry husbandry and science led to the establishment of one of the outstanding libraries on the subject at KSU.

DAKOTA CITY, NEBR. - A 7-year-old meat packing firm which had revenues last year of more than $500 million is one of the financial world's big success

Iowa Beef Packers Inc., with headquarters in this community oi 1,000 acres across the Missouri River from Sioux City, Iowa, was organized in 1961. Its stock was listed on the New York stock exchange for the first time in May.

The stock today hovers about $60 a share, compared with an equiva'ent 831/3 cents a share paid by original investors.

A fortune magazine survey of the 500 largest U.S. industrial corporations listed Iowa Beef 173rd and sixth in return on invested capital-26.8 per cent.

It also reported Iowa Beef had the highest sales per employe-$290,222-among the 500.

Iowa Beef had its start in Denison, Iowa, where its initial employment was 150 persons and killed about 5,400 cattle a employ about 500 persons at week.

It now has the nation's largest beef s'aughter plant, opened in 1966. A second automated beef processing plant opened in 1967 Seek Tractor here. Iowa Beef also owns plants in West Point, Nebr., Luverne, Minn., Emporia, Kans., and Denison and Fort Dodge,

Company officials say Iowa ceed 47,000 weekly when the West Point and Emporia plants, acquired in an exchange with Armour & Co. for a pork processing plant in Sioux City, get into operation. They are being remodeled. The West Point plant should start operation late this year, the Emporia plant in

Proposed Pool With Roof

A bond election will be watched with extra interest in the G&G area in August will be in Riley county, which will consider spending $400,000 for bonds to build this proposed swimming pool.

The proposed pool would have a mov-able roof, and the bond issue is noteworthy because it is county-wide. Counties in Kanpool business, with municipalities operating nearly all the public pools. The Kansas League of Municipalities said the only county swimming pool it could confirm in the state was in Greeley county (Leoti)

The reaction to county-wide bonds for a pool located in Manhattan is expected to be a severe test for rural voters who, at least in other parts of the G&G area, have become increasingly resistant to local government spending and are often critical of realistics which recommends are often critical of facilities which normally are constructed in larger population centers. County authorities are hopeful, however, that rural voters will judge the bond issue without prejudice. There is some precedent for this hope in Riley county. There is a county-wide park committee representing each town in the county plus rural access acceptance of the property of the county plus rural access acceptance of the county plus rural acceptance of the coun eas, organized three years ago. Park development plans for 17 locations in the county have been studied, and the county has title to park areas in Riley, Leonardville and Ogden. The county has constructed tennis counts at Ogden and built restrooms in nis courts at Ogden and built restrooms in Riley, Leonardville and Randolph.

The major county role in recreation, has been at Ci-Co Park in Manhattan, a complex jointly owned by Riley county, the city of Manhattan, and the Manhattan school district. The 97-acre area contains a football field, multi-diamond baseball complex, and fairgrounds and buildings. The park has been developed in the past six years and is often cited as a model of recreational planning and cooperation between governmental units. Tho the county owns about 60% of the land area, the three units have been equally sharing costs on roads, grading, sewers, walkways, water, lights and park-

Proposed use of the pool includes blocking time for Riley county and Blue Valley school districts as well as both public and Catholic schools in Manhattan. The Manhattan district includes the Ogden schools as well at several rural elementary schools.

The proposed pool is designed to function basically as an outdoor pool but the movable roof can be used to provide an indoor pool in winter, as well as wind and rain protection in the summer.

Cost of the pool is estimated at $600,000. but federal funds of $200,000 will be available from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. The $400,000 in county bonds would cost the taxpayer 75 cents per 1000 in valuation annually for 10 years. Backers of the bond issue have interpreted this rate to mean a $3 per year cost on an average house and 4c per acre on typical farm ground.

Observers have developed few opinions as to the reaction to the bonds in Manhattan as well as the rest of Riley county. The movable roof feature, of course, has attract-ed attention, and Ci-Co Park itself appears to draw favor from Riley countians who admire its general organization. Riley county's population is 35,000 and Manhattan's is

Let me read you a quote and I dare you to te'l me who said it. "If the nation is living within its income its credit is good." If in some crisis it lives beyond its income for a year or two it can usually borrow temporarily on reasonable terms. But if, like the spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds, is willing to make no sacrifice at all in spending, extends its taxing up to the limit of the people's power to pay, and continues to pile up deficits, it is on the road to bankruptey." That statement was made by Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Today the White House approves of wage increases but frowns on increases in costs of products made by in costs of products made by higher wages. We've spent the next several years' earning power already for cars, television sets, and luxuries that won't last that long. I read a notice recently that one mail order firm has more than $2½ billion in accounts receivable.

Each year we get new television shows for the season after a super build-up. Most, now, not only have sight and sound, but they smell. Very few are wholesome and inspiring — many are violent, vulgar, immoral, emphasizing the worst of human nature. In 1903 Teddy Roosevelt, in a Labor Day Address said "No a Labor Day Address said No man needs sympathy because he had to work. Far and away the best prize that life offers is the chance to work hard at work worth doing." What is the government attitude toward work ernment attitude toward work today? Turn on your television and you hear:

Did you get your unemployment check?

Are your Social Security
checks reaching you?
Are you receiving medicare benefits you are entitled to?
Now I am not opposed to any of these programs, but I am concerned about the emphasis they receive.

Just once I'd like to hear the President of the United States say on a nation-wide telecast that hard work, thrift, sacrifice, discipline, respect for others, and a belief in our Creator helped make this nation great.

We're so concerned about rights — and not much about responsibilities. The same government asks you to repeal right to work laws. During the transportation strike in New York City, the leader of the strike, on television tore up a court order and ridiculed the judge. What was done about it? It used to be that when you wanted something, you worked to earn it; now you stage a riot to get it given to you at some-one else's expense.

We oppose raising local taxes but we accept increasing Federal taxes, only part of which can ever come back, and with it may come government control on our institutions.

Add To Funds For Additional Non-Farm Income

Expansion of a loan program to help low-income farmers develop revenue-producing nonfarm enterprises on their lands was approved last week by the House Agriculture Committee.

The committee-approved bill, which has been sought by the Johnson administration, would make it possible for a farmer to convert his entire farm to recreation.

Under provisions of the existing program, the FHA has made loans for such things as ninehole golf courses, cutting and hauling of timber, farm machinery repair shops, small stores and boating facilities.

Counties With Ballot Voids

JUNCTION CITY, KANS. -County clerks in Scott, Geary, Harper and Chautauqua Counties report no candidates have filed for the posts of county attorney.

State law does not require a side in the county from which county attorney candidate to reside in the county from which he is elected, but he must move there at the time he takes office.

Election officials said a candidate could get his name on the general election ballot by securing write-in votes equal to 10 percent of the votes cast for his party's gubernatorial nominee in the 1966 general election.

There is no minimum required in the general election and the candidate receiving the most write-in votes is declared to take winner. He can decline to take the oath of office.

In the event no one is elected by write-in, the district judges in the four counties would fill the vacancies by appointment, if they could find someone willing

Incumbent county attorneys who have declined to run for reelection are Richard Medley, Junction City, Geary County, Robert Mulch, Scott City, Scott County; Wood Runyan, Harper, Harper County, and Dean Matthews, Sedan, Chautauqua Coun-

The Harper, Scott and Chautauqua County posts pay $5,050 a year. The Geary County post pays $7,038.

County officials said lawyers have declined to run for county attorney because of the low sal aries, which are fixed by state law according to the county's population.

Scott County also has one county commission position for which no candidate has filed.

Why Wheat Fell

Prices of wheat recently fell to the lowest level in several years. This development stirred much discussion and many questions concerning the reasons for the price decline, and the prospects for price improve-

Several things have contributed to the price weakness. Only a few of them can be discussed here. Some of them have been developing for several years.

Wheat Program Changed. Beginning in 1963, the government's wheat program was changed: Over a period of three years, the price-support level was cut from $2.00 a bushel to $1.25. The price reduction was offset by direct payments to wheat producers. These payments averaged 68 cents a bushel on the 1966 crop, and about 53 cents for the 1967 crop.

World Crops Bigger. World wheat production has increased greatly since 1965, when Russia, China, India, and many other countries had poor crops. In Russia, for example, wheat production jumped from 1.7 billion bushels in 1965 to 2.8 billion bushels in 1966. World wheat production climbed 11 percent. The production of wheat, rice, and other food grains reached a new high in 1967. Prospects for 1968 are generally good. India, our principal export market, has a big wheat crop this year. Consequently, space and the need for U.S. wheat are correspondingly reduced.

U.S. Supplies Increase. The United States has more wheat. Stocks on hand July 1 were around 545 million bushels up from 425 million a year ago. The winter wheat crop was estimated in June at 1,230 million bushels - 2 percent more than last year and 27 percent more than the 5-year 1962-66 average.

Exports of wheat have been slow lately, mostly because of the larger supplies available in other countries. The strike of workers on the St. Lawrence Seaway has blocked that export route, holding up wheat that had been moved into position to go out by the Seaway.

Total exports during the year ending June 30 apparently were around 750 million bushels (wheat plus flour equivalent). This amount is 2 percent more than the exports of the previous year, but 13 percent less than the record exports two years before.

U.S. Use Holds Steady. The amount of wheat used in the United States is about the same each year, except for variations in the amount fed to livestock and poultry. We use around 510 million bushels for food, 60 to 70 million bushels for seed. With the lower wheat prices of recent years, the amount used for feed has ranged from about 75 to 150 million bushels.

1968-69 Outlook. The U.S. wheat supply for this year may total about 2.1 billion bushels (old and new) — up 14 percent from a year ago. Total disappearance in this marketing year may decrease from the 1967-68 level because of smaller exports. The carryover a year hence may be near 650 million bushels - up one-fifth from the 1968 figure.

With this supply prospect, some strong new bullish market factors will be required to lift prices much above the pricesupport loan level of $1.25 a bushel, the national average.

Sees Meat Role In World Need For Protein Feed

Breakthroughs in production of livestock feed are lending encouragement that the world's need for high protein food can be met. Agriculture Secretary

July 23, 1968

Orvi'le L. Freeman says.

Development of improved varieties of rice and livestock feed for South Vietnam was cited by Freeman as an important step.

Freeman recently returned from a tour of South Vietnam. He made his remarks at the second world conference on world production at the University of Maryland.

Some authorities, Freeman said, have discounted the contribution that animals can make to the world food supply, particularly by agriculture in the tropics.

These people. Freeman said, tend to believe increases in livestock production can be made only by diverting to animals foodstuffs that otherwise would be eaten by people.

Freeman said livestock can be fed many foods that cannot be eaten by man, including forage, wastes, and cereal by-products, such as bran from rice.

Twin Auger Unit. For big stirring jobs, split the work of two units by addition of second stir plate and auger unit. Recommended for use in 24', 27' and 30' diameter bins where fast drying and filling is desired. Twin auger drive is standard on 33' and 36' diameter bins, optional at extra cost on all others.

Travel pattern of the single unit. In, out and around. Constant shifting of the vertical auger assures thorough stirring of all grain. In normal operation the BS & B AGRI-VATOR will circulate every bushel of grain in the bin within 18 hours. AGRI-VATOR reduces drying time

Silage and Haylage chopped finer with a Papec packs tighter, keeps better, handles easier. Big throat, heavy 6-knife cutting wheel, hard chrome knives, carbide edge shear plate, exclusive finger feed and toothed Inner feed rolls, power reverse on feed mechanism, easy-to-handle tractor seat controls and ton-a-minute capacity make the Papec your best choice in a forage harvester. Designed to solve tough bin drying problems, the AGRI-VATOR offers rapid, even drying and permits bin-filling at today's increased harvesting speeds. Every part of the AGRI-VATOR is engineered and designed for continuous, heavy-duty operation with emphasis on simplicity and dependability

Reduce expensive crop losses due to slow harvesting, field

All components are stressed for longer life. The vertical auger, a weak spot in most grain drying agitators, features a $1\frac{1}{2}$ diameter shaft with $\frac{1}{2}$ fliting to insure rapid grain movement and thorough mixing. The auger is driven by a husky 11/2 h.p. totally enclosed motor and is capable of driving through even compacted, moist grain. The AGRI-VATOR can be installed in approximately two hours by two men in almost any round bin. Standard replacement parts, if needed, are locally available through BS & B distributors-dealers. Simple, effective, economical - the new BS & B AGRI-VATOR provides a practical, reliable method of high-speed grain storage and drying operations.

Easier To Cultivate

It's easier to cultivate between rows of vegetables than it is to weed. What's the difference?

When weeding, you remove an offending plant, roots and all. When cultivating you just cut off the tops with the hoe or cultivator and the roots are left in the soil.

When weeds are tiny, cultivation is sufficient to kill them, if they're large, it's best to weed.

Preserve Pattern

If you have a favorite pattern which you use over an over, transfer it to a piece of nonwoven interfacing, making sure to mark all the darts and other guide lines.

This will outlast the tissue pattern. It also is easier to use and saves the disappoinment of finding that the pattern has been discontinued the next time you wish to replace it

Use Franks For Quick Meals

Here are some quick meal ideas using frankfurters to give you more time. Add franks cut into chunks to baked beans of Spanish rice. Or, to perk up salads add franks to potato salad, macaroni or rice salad or a tossed green salad.

Always good in a sandwich, are browned franks in buns topped with pickle relish, cole slaw barbecue sauce or chopped onions and mustard.

To Iron Sleeves

To iron sleeves without a special sleeve board, pin a clean towel around your rolling pin and slip the sleeve over this.

K-State Livestock Research Facilites About Rebuilt disastrous June 8, 1966, storm virtual'y wiped out animal husbandry research facilities at Kansas State University, Manhattan.

Now more than two years and $885,000 later, the research program is just beginning to get back on its feet.

Units for swine and sheep research are nearing completion and should be in use by September 1. Bids on the beef nutrition complex were called for July 18, however it will be yet another year before these facilities are built and put into use.

The three complexes — swine, sheep and beef - all are located about two miles northwest of the main campus.

With minor exceptions all facilities incorporated in the complexes merely replace facilities lost in the storm. But the disaster has had one bright spot the animal science and industry started from scratch with the result that the swine, sheep and beef plants are all 1968 models incorporating the latest in convenience, flexibility and labor saving devices

For instance, all pens in the beef nutrition complex are made of gates so that any rearrangement of space is possible. Further, the gate arrangement will make is possible to clean all lots, using a tractor, without moving the cattle.

All three units incorporate the latest in watering equipment, feed handling and mixing equipment and modern dipping vats.

In the case of the sheep unit, all facilities are incorporated under one roof, consolidating activities which formerly were carried on in several locations.

It was a disheartening inventory that Dr. Ron Good, head of K-State's department of animal science and industry, took the morning after the June 8, 1966, storm. While the university's livestock was virtually unscathed, there was almost nothing left of facilities for caring for the animals. Losses included the entire sheep unit and most of the beef cattle and swine units. Also lost was the farm superintendent's house, all hay storage units, the top off the purebred beef cattle barn, the farm shop, plus five windmills and five miles of fence. The grain handling and mixing unit was seriously damaged.

"For nearly two months after the disaster our staff was pressed just to feed and water the livestock daily. We hauled 4,500 gal'ons of water a day for weeks," recalls Good.

Because of the lack of facilities for caring for the animals, much of the livestock was sold off and research program in animal science cut back sharply. Now that new facilities are becoming available, animal numbers are being built back up and the discontinued research re-

Working closely with animal scientists on the planning and design of the swine, sheep and beef cattle facilities have been staff members in the department of agricultural engineering. The ag engineers have planned for latest waste disposal methods and have designed some of the facilities for extensive tests of waste disposal on concrete, dirt and slatted floors.

The new sheep facilities are all under one roof — a move expected to be a major labor saver. There are quarters for four students, an environmental room where temperature and humidity can be controlled and a laboratory for general use. The one lack is space for hay storage. At present what is left of an old barn will be used.

Disputes Low Insurance Profits

Automobile insurance companies are making exceptional profits, a University of Southern California professor of business administration contended today.

Citing his study of 641 corporations, 18 automobile insurance companies and seven multiple-line insurance companies, Dr. Richard Norgaard of U.S.C. told a Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee that the "insurance companies are earning greater risk adjusted rates of profit than 90 percent of all companies in the sample,"

"The automobile companies appear to be doing slightly better than the multiple-line companies," he continued.

Norgaard said these findings "are diametrically opposed to those recently reported by the American Insurance Association although the same basic data were used.

"The difference in results came about because of the techniques used to measure and interpret the data," he said.

Norgaard defined rate of profit "as the average annual return including interest, dividends, and security appreciation that the suppliers of capital receive divided by the initial market value of all the firm's securities.

Demo Candidate Logan Says

Phase Out Farm Programs barriers and import restrictions

A plan to phase out government farm programs and increase markets for farm productivity "at no additional cost to the government or consumers" was unveiled by Democrat James K. Logan, Lawrence, in Wichita.

Logan, running for the U.S. Senate nomination, outlined the program before an audience of 60, mostly attorneys.

His plan for wheat and feed grains calls for withdrawal from the International Grains Agreement "as soon as we can be free of it and that we enter no similar price agreement in the future.

"That we eliminate all acreage and production controls.

"That the free market be allowed to set price levels.

"To ease the transition and to prevent losses to farmers from precipitous land value and price declines, direct subsidy payments on a per acre basis should be paid to all owners of cropland devoted to these and competing crops," Logan added.

"The subsidies would be based upon the production histories of the land as determined from existing Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office records, supplemented as necessary to obtain a basis for comparison of land values for agricultural use.

"The level of the subsidies would be determined by the amounts freed from current agricultural appropriation by the change, possibly supplemented by a certificate system," Logan

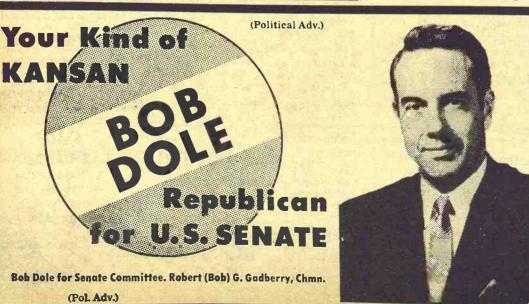

Logan said the intent of his plan is for subsidies to be phased out over a period of years, coinciding with estimated increases in farm productivity.

Subsidy payments would "go to all landowners whose property had a history of grain production" because all such land has been affected by the artificial values created by past programs, Logan declared.

Farmers not receiving enough help to remain in the farming business should receive additional assistance based upon individual situations "similar to those developed for the urban poor.

"One question in such cases," he adds, "would be whether to assist the individual to drop full time farming.

"These are the marginal producers who must either expand, sell out, or go to part time farming."

Logan contends overall benefits through his plan may be in different proportions, "but should be roughly the same as now realized prices since they are based on production history of the land."

Even though it would appear that market prices may be lower under his plan, Logan maintains that withous acreage restrictions the farmer can expand output.

"In fact, only an expanded output can drive prices down."

Logan added that export demand is responsive to price changes and this should provide a net gain almost immediately.

He also said that if the U.S. would not reduce current tariff

Spotted Mule

This Appaloosa mule colt was born on the Gordon Sutton farm west of Concordia. The mule's mother is a 6-year old Appaloosa mare which has never been broken. His father was a 2-year old jack named Dixie Joe. The colt was "purely accidental," said Sutton, and the jack father is no longer. "It has gone to the happy hunting ground," Sutton said.

For many, many years farmers from southern and western Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas have been hauling hay, corn and milo from Washington and Republic counties. Why? Because the always have it and they often we always have it and they often

We haven't had a serious crop failure since 1936. Now why don't you come up to the rain country, raise your feed here and feed it here instead of hauling it and trying to hang on where you are now? A let of where you are now? A lot of buyers have bought out our retiring farmers and are doing that very thing. None of them ever moves away.

Brown Spider add, Hum Warnings Again

The State Department of scholarship Health has issued a warning that Kansas should be on the lookout for dangerous brown spiders.

The department said is had received reports of a number of cases of people being bitten by brown spiders and that one death has been reported.

"The department issued this statement:

"The brown spider - or brown recluse as it is sometimes called — has a highly toxic bite. It is particularly dangerous because of its habits. It crawls into dim corners, shoes, blankets, rolled-up papers - any dark place where it may hide.

"The bite causes a mild sting that you may scarcely notice. It is followed by pain in two to eight hours. Then swelling, blistering, even hemorrhage and ulceration may occur.

"Be on constant alert. Brown spiders are not especially large as spiders go. They vary in actual size from about a dime to a quarter, but this includes the spreading jointed legs.

"The brown spider is plain light brown or rosy tan and rather transparent looking. There is a dark violin-shaped mark covering the region of the eyes and extending on back.

Use spray to help prevent brown spiders, especially in dark, cool areas. Direct the spray against baseboards, particularly in closets. Spray the foundation of the basement generously, taking care not to breathe the spray or get any on your skin.

"If, in spite of all precautions, a brown spider bites you or a family member call a doctor immediately."

Prospective farrowings for the September-November quarter are 86,000 head, the same as last year and 23 percent above the 5-year average. With pigs per litter projected on the basis of recent trends, the fall (June-Nov.) pig crop would be 1,224,-000 head compared with 1,198,-000 in 1967. The 1968 yearly pig crop, including both the spring and fall farrowings in prospect, is 2.6 million head, 4 percent above 1967.

Farmers indicated that 243,000 head of the 1,737,000 hogs and pigs on farms June 1 were being kept for breeding purposes, 7 percent more than a year earlier. The remaining 1,494,000 head on hand were being raised for market purposes, 7 percent more than the previous year.

Market hog numbers in all weight groups were above last year with the exception of those 220 pounds and over which showed a slight decline.

United States

The nation's pig crop, including both spring and fall litters, is expected to total 91,812,000 head this year, some 319,000 more than in 1967. The spring pig crop of 47,712,000 was down 1 percent from a year ago, but the expected fall crop forecast/ of 44,100,000 is up 2 percent from a year ago.

MARION COUNTY LEADS LOSS IN HEAD COUNT

MARION - Marion County has a population loss for the second straight year, altho there seems to be some dispute over the accuracy of the selfenumeration thru countywide assessment systems. The current Marion County population is 15,064 — down 104 from a year ago. Hillsboro, which had a slight gain, is the county's largest town with 2638. Marion's population is 2267 and Peabody

Fishing Records By The Minute

Kansas fishermen keep finding bigger northern pike. The record for the largest pike landed by a state fisherman changed four times in four months, most recently twice in 11/2 hours.

The current record is 16 pounds, 91/2 ounces, held by Wayne McCabe of Manhattan, fishing at Council Grove ervoir in the Richey Cove. Mc-Cabe broke a record held for 11/2 hours by Fred Bammes, also of Manhattan, who caught a larger one than Kenneth Brown, Manhattan again, had caught on June 18. At that time Brown broke his own record from February 15.

Combine In Chrome

The Agricultural Hall of Fame at Bonner Springs now has on display a combine with glass windows at its sides and chromed parts. An electric motor operates the unit to allow viewers to see how grain is cut and threshed. Washington Co. Resigns Itself To Revalue Program

WASHINGTON, Ks. - Washington County has apparently resigned itself to a countywide property reappraisal. The county commissioners had not ordered a reevaluation program in line with the state-required program that all property must be reappraised at 30 percent of actual value, but had hoped that a reassessment program in the early 1950's could be meshed with current state requirements. Officials of the Kansas Property Valuation department have turned that premise down, saying that formulas used and required figures were not down on paper as required by law.

A two-cent increase per bushel for about 40 percent of a farmer's alloted wheat crop has been announced by the Department of Agriculture.

Wheat certificate payments of $1.38 a bushel, compared to $1.36 last year, will be made to farmer's on the basis of their share of the total wheat used domestically. The payments are in addition to the average price support of $1.25 a bushel.

The program is designed to raise the price the farmer receives for wheat used domestically to full parity. The two-cent increase reflects a boost in this year's wheat parity, $2.63 a bushel on July 1, compared with $2.61 a year earlier.

The payments are financed by flour millers and other users of wheat who buy certificates at 75 cents a bushel to cover grain processed for domestic food.

Land Values Up 37% In Five Years

Want to buy some farmland at $7750 an acre? No, that's not land adjacent to a city bought for suburban development but real cropland. It's a typical price paid in California for avocado orchard land and must be about as valuable as land can be in the agricultural line.

The report says that from 1962 to 1967 the average dollar value of farm real estate rose 37%, with Kansas up 34% in that time.

Farmland values increased last year, despite the fact that credit was tighter and interest rates higher.

The report says that farmers themselves are the major buyers of farms, mostly for expansion. Only 7% of all farms sold in 1967 went to absentee own-

The government data shows that turnover in land is slow. Less than 3% of the farmland is on the market in a given year. And, since most land is purchased by farmers, one explanation for the increase in price is that farmers bid up prices on the rare occasion when nearby land is available.

In the study for the year ended in March 1967, there were 110,700 voluntary and estate sales of farmland in the U.S. Of these, 43% were in tracts smaller than 100 acres while only 6% were of tracts of 500 acres or more.

Farm foreclosures are almost non-existent. Only two out of 2500 farms moved were foreclosed. In the depression the rate figured 95 farms out of 2500. Now, of course, with land prices rising, most farms will be worth more than the mortgage. Therefore, if the owner has found he can't make it, he can sell, pay off the mortgage and usually have a little left of his original investment.

Land values vary by region, by types, such as bottom cornland or pasture, and whether it is irrigated or not.

In Nebraska, for instance, the market value on irrigated land was roughly twice that of nonirrigated and increasing in value at twice the rate of pastureland.

On the other hand, pastureland in Texas has gone up in value about 27% since 1964, while irrigated farms have changed only slightly. The reason given is that water is getting harder to get in Texas, wells must be dug deeper and larger power units installed. These added costs plus water uncertainty have tended to limit the increase in value on irrigated land.

One agricultural economist who has commented in the government's land price report is L. H. Simerl at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

"Some people 'blame' the rise in land prices on farmers' efforts to get more land to increase their income," Simerl said. "While there is some truth in this argument, a more fundamental factor is that rising prices for land reflect its competitive value as an investment.

"For many years," he continued, "returns on farmland have been comparable to those realized from corporation stocks, considering both yearly return and increase in market value. Farmland has been a far, far better investment than bonds of any kind or savings accounts.

"We do not expect prices for farmland to rise continuously. There surely will be periods of decline when the stock market goes down. But the long-time trend surely will be upward.

"The increase in the value of farmland usually is ignored when farm income is calculated and published. The increase in U.S. land value in 1967 was $17,700,000,000, according to USDA calculations. Realized net income for the year was reported at $14,500,000,000.

"A dollar increase in land value is better for many people than a dollar of cash income. The increase in land values will be taxable as capital gains taxed at no more than half the rates applying to current operating income. No tax is paid if the land is transferred to heirs."

On the question, "Will farmland pay for itself at these high prices?" Simerl made the following comment:

"Why should farmland pay for itself, when the buyer borrows to buy it? We don't expect to be able to borrow money to buy a bond and have the interest pay for the bond. Nor do we expect to borrow from a bank, buy corporate stocks, and wait for the dividends to pay the interest and principal on the bank loans."

Farm Points In Undelivered Talk By Humphrey

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey has promised that the American farmer would play a vital new role in his administration if he is elected President in November.

The vice-president outlined his program to give America's farmers "the same economic chance that others in our economy enjoy."

Expanding on his "open presidency" idea, he suggested that "people with a specific agriculture background" be located at "critical points throughout the government."

The vice-president's proposals were prepared for delivery at Rural America Day in Salina. The text of his major farm pronouncement was released as a campaign policy statement when the trip, which was to take him to Kansas and Missouri, was canceled at the direction of his personal physician, Dr. Edgar Berman.

Among other steps the vicepresident outlined "in order to take the case for agriculture to the American people," was a "sizeable increase in the lending authority of the Farmers Home administration to ease the farm credit situation.

He promised that he would "fight for federal tax reform to remove artificial incentives for the movement of non-farmers into agriculture," who he said now enjoy an unfair tax writeoff which gives them an advantage compared to independent farmers.

The vice-president promised that he would push for basic legislation calling for strategic reserves of major farm commodities, stronger farm cooperatives, and new export markets for our farm commodities.

"America has an obligation to escalate the war on hunger," the vice-president said, urging food stamp and commodity distribution programs in "every county where severe problems of hunger exist."

The vice-president urged "new concepts in farm bargaining power" which 4,447,943 farmers need and "they should have the right and opportunity to use it," he said.

Because of generally favorable weather to date, crop yields could offset the planting cuts. But the prospects of bumper harvests are pushing prices of the various grain crops down. Wheat price, for example, is the lowest in 26 years.

The government's first estimate of total crop production will be issued in August.

A consensus of experts is that farm production could at least match and possibly top last year's record of 116% of the 1957-59 average.

The weather during the balance of the growing and harvesting seasons will determine the size of the crops. But the experts agree that weather so far has given farmers a good chance of reaping record pro- the Pillsbury Co. of Minneapo-

This year, 305 million acres were seeded to the nation's 59 leading crops, down from 316 million in 1967. The main acreage cuts came in wheat (down 8% from 1967), where the government slashed farm program allotments, and in corn (down 8%) and sorghums (off 12%), where the Government encouraged idling of feed grain acreage by sweetening its diversion program incentives.

Wheat, oats, and soybeans, however, promise to give this year's crop total its biggest boost. The three grains probably will exceed their 1967 totals by enough to match anticipated declines in corn and sorghum production. Two other major acreage crops, cotton and hay, are expected to register gains from last year.

Estimates of fruit and vegetable production vary widely. The citrus crop harvested this year is off sharply from 1967, while peaches, pears, and some spring vegetables are higher.

HOGS START AT 11:00 A.M. CATTLE AT 1:00 P.M.

Because of the large numbers of calves received for the sale last Saturday, we had one of the largest sales ever. The market on cattle and hogs was some easier, but feeder cattle and calves off cows were about steady.

Prices on the heavier calves ranged from $28.50 to $29.50 cm; the lighter bunches went at $30.00 to $31.50 cwt.

Our fat hogs brought a top of $20, 35, about in line with the river markets. There was a good run both on butchers and feeding shoats.

We are expecting another good sale this coming Saturday. All of our buyers are back and they are looking for those good hogs and fram fresh cattle you have been bringing in. The following is a sampling of the sale last Saturday:

Green Bean Crop

dles Compton's crop.

When Carl Compton talks about his bean crop, he doesn't mean soybeans. He means green beans. Compton of Lamar, Mo., between Kansas City and Joplin, so far is satisfied with acreage conversion he started three years ago which has seen him put 140 acres into green bean production.

Compton figures the beans are a high-risk crop, but his return per acre is about $200. Seed cost is about $40 per acre.

Moreover, Compton had no sooner had 400 tons of beans harvested off his acreage than he replanted it to a fall crop of green beans. They'll be ripe about the middle of September.

The crop isharvested by mechanical pickers operated by a crew of the Stilwell Canning Co. of Stilwell, Okla., which han-

Salt Creek Watershed Project Still In Congressional Waiting Line

Full realization of the Upper and Lower Salt Creek watershed project in Lincoln, Mitchell and Ottawa counties hopefully isn't far off.

The Public Works committee of the U.S. House of Representatives has given the green light to the Upper work plan.

The Lower work plan has been approved by the Agriculture committee of the House. but must yet be voted upon.

The watershed district, though divided Upper and Lower, actually is a single district.

Public Law 566 provides that single watershed projects may not exceed 250,000 acres in size.

The Upper and Lower combined represent 293,945 acres -hence the district was divided to meet legal requirements.

"Although the Upper and Lower watershed projects have been approved by Congressional committee action, authorization of funds and technical assistance by the Administration is not expected for at least the remainder of the present administration," said Leslie Johnson, assistant state conservationist.

Johnson said this is due to Administration-Congressional disagreement over the provision of the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act of 1954 (Public Law 566), that each project must be approved by the House Committee on agriculture.

Part of the hurdle has been cleared.

Johnson said, in addition, that if a project plan includes a single structure (dam) costing more than $250,000, or has a capacity of more than 4000 acrefeet, it must be approved by the House and Senate committee on Public Works.

The Upper watershed plan calls for one floodwater retarding reservoir with a capacity of 5176 acre-feet.

The total work plan calls for 44 flood control structures, which includes the aforementioned sizable reservoir.

Proponents of the proposed flood control measures contend flood losses in the Salt Creek area average about $276,400 annually.

Congressman Bob Dole, who supports the watershed project, said: "Without federal assistance the full potential of the Salt Creek croplands cannot be realized."

Watershed acreage above the dams in the Upper district is 201,990, while it is estimated there would be 91,955 acres above dams in the Lower dist-

Total reservoir capacity in the Upper District would be 32,938 acre-feet. There would be 5588 acre-feet of water in reservoirs in the Lower district.

About 354 farmers are involved in the Upper district, and an estimated 160 in the Lower.

A large crowd watched a big run of cattle move through the ring last Friday night. Although we had plenty of buyers, prices looked $1.00 or more lower on cows and steady to 50¢ lower on stocker and feeder cattle compared to last week's run-away market. A good run of feeder pigs showed up and the sellers were very happy with the prices they received. The following is a sampling of the sales made last Friday.
