ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

For stimulating guidance and constructive criticism, the investigator expresses gratitude to Dr. Arlynn Lake Cheers.

Special thanks is extended to J. D. Lewis, manager of the Grambling Evaluation and Training Center of Grambling, Louisiana and the entire professional staff at the GET Center. Without their cooperation, this follow-up study of the GET Center would not have been possible.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this study was to conduct a follow-up of the clients of the Grambling Evaluation and Training (GET) Center at Grambling, Louisiana. The investigation grew out of the sentiment expressed by the professional staff of the GET Center for the need of such a follow-up on the clients served since its establishment in 1967.

The Training Center has been in existence for six years, and during this period, no evaluation of the GET Center had been made by way of a follow-up of the clients whom it served.

Statement of Problem

The purpose of the study was to account for the clients served by the Grambling Evaluation and Training Center in terms of a follow-up.

Specifically, the objectives of this study were:

1. To discover the present activities of the clients served by the Grambling Evaluation and Training Center over the past six years.

2. To discover what percentage of the clients served by the Grambling Evaluation and Training Center is gainfully employed.
