ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The author wishes to express her sincere appreciation and utmost gratitude to all those who so generously provided their professional and personal assistance for the completion of this study.

Grateful appreciation is expressed to Dr. Daniel Y.C. Fung, the researcher's major professor, for his valuable guidance and confidence which he has placed in her during this study. Special appreciation is expressed to the members of the advisory committee, Dr. Frank Cunningham, and Dr. Curtis Kastner, for their assistance and guidance throughout her graduate program.

Appreciation is expressed to Dr. Don Hoyt for his help in the statistical evaluation and to Deborah Mangelsdorf for beginning the project.

The writer wishes to thank the National Science Foundation for their financial support throughout this project.

Appreciation is expressed to friends and fellow students who provided friendship, encouragement, and support during her graduate studies.

Last, but not least a very special thank you is given to the author's family who continually gave their encouragement, love, and patience during the past five and one half years of study.
