The Editors.

The City Council held a special meeting Monday evening to discuss the matter of the city tendering a banquet to the editors. The following is a report of the meeting:

Mr. C. C. Thacher first told how many editors were expected to be present; that it was expected that all would be privately entertained; that sufficient carriages to carry them about would be contributed. This was all the editors of Lawrence had the cheek to ask of its liberal citizens. Outside of all this it was desirable that the city give a reception in the

Mr. Bowes endorsed the views of Mr. Speer. Mr. Prouty explained the program of the editorial convention.

Mr. Hamilton showed the mercenary view of the question.

Mr. Grovenor said he did not recognize any editorial convention visited this city twenty years sgo, and so far as he knew, had never done the city or himself any good. It private individuals wanted to entertain them, all right, but for one he objected to the city doing any such thing.

Mr. Geo. Innes believed in advertising, and briefly told why. He moved an appropriation make it a business to go around stoning win-

Atter considerable discussion a vote was finally taken on Mr. Innes' motion to appropriate $250, which was defeated by a vote of 7 to 3,the ayes were Bangs, Dicker, and Innes.

And so the editors of the State will have no reception on behalf of the city of Lawrence. It would have looked a little better if the Council felt they could not entertain these representative men, it they had at least passed a resolution welcoming them to the city and expressing regret that they could do no more. Mayor Bowersock is down on the program to deliver an address of welcome to these editors on behalf of the city, and he will give them a right hearty one, but be has to do it without the sanction of the Council. MR. EDITOR :- That subscriber of yours who had the SPIRIT stopped because of "too much Christianity" in it must be in an unenviable state of mind. If there is any one word that will express the whole of Christianity that word is LOVE, or some of its equivalents; such words as benevolence, charity, kindness, patience, peace, gentleness, meek nees, temperance, all have their root in the same soil.

Now, as long as those words represent the spirit of the SPIRIT it ought to be welcome in any family. What would a paper be that brought weekly the opposite influences into a ception every business man along the street household-a paper that would bring hatred, felt indignant at the action of the Council, and malignity, strife, censoriousness, fret(ulness, war, brawling, discord, drunkenness? How to Cook Rice.

Rice is becoming a much more popular article of food than heretofore. It is frequently Association at Liberty Hall, to be followed by substituted for potatoes at the chief meal of the day, being more nutritious and much more readily digested. At its present cost, it is relatively cheaper than potatoes, oatmeal or grain-grits of any kind. Why can't religious people, like good physistrawberries, candies, etc. We think this is clans, take some of their own medicine, and practice once in a while what they are preaching all the time? It is a little less than disgusting to go through the details of a squabble among ministers and church members. For example :- The Andover faculty, when they could not get Dr. Smyth into a professorship, because the visitors pronounced him unsound in his theological views, actually enaged him, or talked of enaging him for a year to do what the visitors had pronounced him unfit to do-If Dr. Smyth ought not to teach the Andover boys for five years because he is heretical, why ought he to teach them for one year? It is a trick of which an academic faculty should be ashamed. Again. The Home Missionary Society met to elect officers. There was a strong feeling against Dr. Sterrs, and the chances of re-elecagainst Dr. Sterrs, and the chances of re-election were against him, when, behold! Mr. Beecher marched into the room with a cohort of voters behind him, having been previously informed as to how matters stood, and actually drowned out, sunk out of sight, overwhelmed all opposition, just as they do in Tammany nominations, when a fight is won by strategy that cannot be won honestly, and triumphyntly re-elected their man. ly re elected their man.

People look upon things very differently and according to circumstances. When a boy who could play ball longer than he could study arithematic was asked how he liked his teacher, he replied, "I don't like him at all. Why, he does nothing in the world but stand up there and ask us fellows questions all day. One would think he didn't know anything at all."

A shrewd lawyer asked the judge for a merciul sentence for his client on the ground that he was a single man. "And pray," said the judge, "what has that to do with the matter before us?" "A great deal, Your Honor," was the quick reply, "for the prisoner was too conscientious to marry, and this ought to be considered in passing sentence." The judge was considerably beforged and asked further explanation. "Why, Your Honor," said the lawyer, "my client knows that he is a "onsummate scoundrel, and he has persistently refrained from marriage lest his children should follow in his footsteps, and the point I wish to make is that, although he is guilty, he has saved society from inevitable evil by remaining single." A PROBLEM, [Bessie Chandler, in St. Nicholas for June.] Sandy and Ned were brothers;

Ned was older than Sandy;
And they were busy dividing
A stick of peppermint candy.

Ned was earnestly trying
To make the division true,
And he marked the place with a fish-hook,
Where the stick ought to break in two.

But, alas, for little Sandy, And his poor painstaking brother! "Twas a long and short division— One piece longer than the other. Ned gravely looked at the pieces

And their quite unequal length, And he wrestled with the problem With all his mental strength. And, at last, he said, "Oh, sandy I can make it come out right, If I take the piece that's longest, And bite off just one bite"

Their four eyes beamed and brightened At this plan so very hardy, Of disposing of the problem And distributing the candy.

So Ned ate the pieces even-'Twas the simplest way to do it;

And he cheated little Sandy—
And they neither of them knew it!

To church the two together went,
Both, doubtless, on devotion bent,
The parson preached with finent ease,
On Pharisees and Sadduces,
And as they homeward slowly walked,
The lovers on the sermon talked,
And ne-he deeply loved the maidin soft and tender accents said:

Are Pharisee and Saiducee?'
Sne flashed on him her bright black eyes
In one sweet look of vexed surprise,
And thus he hastened to aver,
He was her constant worshiper.
'But, darling, I insist, said he,
That you are very fair-l-see,
I know you don't care much far me,
And that makes me so sad-you-see''

ONE of the most remarkable instances of dishouest freight discrimination is afforded by the Pacific railroads' rates for the transportation of wool. The lowest rate for bringing California wool from San Francisco is two and three-quarter cents per pound, and yet the same railroads contract to bring wools from Australia to Boston via San Francisco for two cents per pound. That is to say, their rate of transporting domestic wool over the 3,000 miles of road from San Francisco to Boston is two and three-quarter cents; but they will bring foreign wool 7,280 miles by sea, and then carry it over the same 3,000 miles of railroad, all for two cents.

Bogus Butter.

We do not now raise the question as to the effect on health of oleomargarine. That would depend on the material used and the methods of manufacture, and to a great extent on the mental and physical organization, or the ignorance or the faith of the consumer. Our present purpose is to emphasize the fact that the article-whether named oleomargarine or what not, and whether built up on a basis of hogcholera, lard, or refined soop-grease or decent point in a certain populous city at which one might stand and without stirring a step throw stones into the windows of not less than five small shops where the stuff is sold for butter. Go into these places; search for any sign; peer about on tub or package for some plain brand such as a State statute requires, and you will not find it; and should you venture to intimate suspicion you would stand a good chance of being summarily ejected. And this is a sample case of thousands.

So oleomargarine worms its way. And it is polluting even the dairy fountains. A conscientious correspondent who has looked into the matter very carefully told our readers awhile ago that the stuff is slyly shipped to creameries and worked in with the legitimate product of the faithful cow. There are indifferent honest farmers making butter on their own premises who are not above buying this bogus article at a shilling a pound for the purpose of "extending" their goods to be soid at thirty cents. It not, why the advertisements in papers that penetrate the rural districts offering "oleomargarine in small quantities?" It is the treachery of the whole manufacture and trade, that we object to, and not the compound itself. If it will take its proper place in the open market, and stand or fall on its merits, nobody would deny to it a fair field, It in a straightforward way it can compete, however sharp y, with cow butter, nobody could reasonably object. But since it comes as a rat that gnaws in the dark, as a sneak-thief, as a law-breaker, as a piratical craft that, with fair surface showing, salls the commercial seas, it ought to have a quietus in the shape of a killing tax, such as is now proposed in Congress, since no other means have been found effective.

sneak-thief, as a law-breaker, as a piratical craft that, with fair surface showing, sails the commercial seas, it ought to have a quietus in the shape of a killing tax, such as is now proposed in Congress, since no other means have been found effective.

In answer to the specious pretext that it only competes with second or third-rate butter, and does not really affect prices of first-quality goods, and therefore must have the beneficer of lifting the general dairy to a higher level, we note that about the time that Professor Arnold was speaking for his cilents before the Ways and Means Committee in Washington, a leading commission merchant of this city was sending a check to one of his consigness of choice butter, with the explanation that the sharp decline—twelve cents per pound within a week—was "on account of the arrival of a large quantity of lard-butter from the west." This coincidence, suggestive and curious, militates against the showy argument referred to, which has been from the first the leading stock in trade of advocates and others selfishly interested in oleomargarine. And their number is legion, and increasing day by day. The statistics are too much underground for even census experts, but one writer estimates s manufacture and sale in this city alone that threatens to extinguish the dairy industry of the Empire State." However that may be, it is certain that the encroachment is aggressive, and it seems to be powerful enough to have beguiled lately to its defence one hithto in high favor as an apostle of honest dairying.—N. Y. Tribuns.

The Moral Advancement of the Race. As an advanced science implies an advanced art—the progress of the two being ever conditioned upon each other—so the great advances of the sciences and arts imply a corresponding development of human intelligence. The principle of action and reaction prevails in the world of mind as in the world of matter, and while the human intellect, by cogent applications of its powers, has established multitudinous differentiations in things once inextricably intermingled, a corresponding differentia. tion and specialization of its own powers has inevitably resulted. But specialization of functions being the direct evidence of its greater perfection, it is incontrovertable that the multiplication of specializations of knowledge by human inquiry has resulted in improvements of the powers of the human mind. The strain now put on human power to keep pace with the advances already made is an as surance that there will be in the future no lack of occasion for continued mental development. All departments of human enterprise have in truth been already so marvelously developed as to defy the complete grasp of any but specialists of more than ordinary capacity. Croakers may find fault and stigmatize the advance of the age as mainly material. Never did carping criticism have poorer ground for its averments. The material advance is fully matched by the moral advance. Proofs of it are so multiplied as scarcely to deserve enumeration. Liberty to think boldly and to give free utterance to honest convictions is fast becoming a sacred principle of society. Liberty of person and equal justice—irrespective of rank and wealth—are now almost everywhere recognized as divinest principles of government. The sick and the unfortunate, instead of being left to die without aid or to pinethrough a miseraalists of more than ordinary capacity. Croaksick and the unfortunate, instead of being left to die without aid or to pine through a miserable existence, are now everywhere provided for at the expense of those whom fortune has subjected to less severe trials. Sumptuary laws are now not only known to be useless but their principle is condemned. Private war has almost ceased to be waged; and the duty of revenge, once sanctioned by religion, has given place to the duty of torbearance and forgiveness. The well-being of one's neighbor is now universally felt to be the good fortune of one's self. Vast accumulations of wealth, instead of being squandered in the purchase of places and useless decorations for elevating one's self above his fellows, are now employed in educational, industrial, and eleemosynary toundations.—[From the "Future of Mind," by Peter Bryce, M. D., in "Popular Science Monthly for June.

Feeding Horses.

An old horse in spite of the care and twelve quarts of meal, a day persisted in keeping thin. This was the experience of last winter. During the summer, on grass, there was some improvement in condition. Counseling with a veteran horseman at the beginning of this winter, in regard to this horse he surmised that ragged, or sharp teeth were the cause, and suggested that we have the opportunity to file them off, using an instrument called a "float" made especially for this purposecharge one dollar. It was done, and now on three quarts of meal a day with oat straw the same horse is getsuet-is everywhere under false pretence. The ting fat. For example: There is a The grinders wear uneavenly, having sharp points on the outer adges, which lacerated the mouth, making it so sore that the animal will not masticate its food, or will not eat enough to keep in condition.

Another horse, which was fed eighteen quarts a day, as he was a large ani-mal and doing hard work, could not be kept in condition. Various remedies were tried to improve the looks of his coat and to increase his flesh. One of the changes was increasing his daily feed from fifteen quarts of oats to eighteen. At last it occurred to me that he was overfed, which made his

IT has not been necessary this year for ships to try a winter in the Arctic Ocean in order to experience the perils and hardships of icebergs and icefloes, for hundreds of merchant vessels have unwillingly endured them in the It month of May, and in latitudes not as high as that of Liverpool. Early in the mouth, the steamer Glamorgan, arriving at Boston from Liverpool, reported that she passed au iceberg 500 feet high, on which were a number of polar bears, and then moved 160 miles along the edge of an ice-field, passing fully a hundred large peaks, some of them carrying bears. The Steinman, about the same time, passed sixteen large icebergs, and was driven by them a hundred miles out of her course. Presently came news of a half a dozen steamers and a score of sailing vessels caught in a field of ice covering several hundred square miles, and as effectually locked up for the time as was the Jeannette when she drifted to her doom. The parallel went still further in the case of the sailor Rescue, crushed and lost in the ice, though her crew escaped, while, less fortunate, the Western Belle was destroyed by an iceberg and her Captain and thirteen men were lost. Probably, other disasters will be reported, judging from the accounts of narrow escapes given by those vessels who have come through. Fortunately, the safety of the Peruvian, with her 1,100 people, is at last assured.

For man it is now known to be one of the best if not the best liniment ever discovered.

We feel positive the ery man can have perfect success in avery case if he will only use good common sense in applying KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE, and persevere in bad cases of long standing. Read below the experience of others.

FROM COL. L. T. FOSTER.

Youngstown, Ohio, May, 10th, 1880.

Dr. B. J. Kendall. & Co., Gerns:—I had a very val table Hambletonian colt which I prized very highly, he had a large bone spavin on one joint and a smaller one on the other which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two Veterinary Surgeons who failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendally Spanish and the Cleage Express, I determined at once to try it, and got our druggists here to snnd for it. They ordered three bottles; I took them all and thought I would give it a thorough trial. I used it according to directions, and by the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame, and the lumps had entirely disappeared. I used but one bottle and the colts limbs are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles, who are now using it.

Very Respectfully.

B. J. KENDALL & CO.. GENTS:—In justice to you and to myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months, It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me, its sale will be very great.

Respectfully yours,

CHAS. E. PARKER.

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.
Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendal's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better, but when I puthim on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—Having got a horse book of you by mail a year ago, the contents of which persuaded me to try Kendall's Spavin Cure on the hind leg of one of my horses which was badly swollen and could not be be reduced by any other remedy. I got two bottles of Kendall's Spavin Cure of Preston & Ludduth, Druggists of Waseca, which completely cured my horse. About five years ago I had a three-year-old colt sweenied very badly I used your remedy as given in your book without roweling, and I must say to your credit that the colt is entirely cured, which is a surprise not only to my-self but also to my neighbors. You sent me the book for the trifling sum of 25 cents, and it I could not get another like 'it I would not take twenty-five dollars for it.

B. J. Kendall & Co.—Gents: I have tried your Spavin Cure on a chronic case of bone spavin, which has been treated by two of the best doctors in the land. The case was fired twice, and I can safely say that Kendall's Spavin Cure did more good than anything which I ever tried. I believe to be a good remedy for a great many difficulties. Ring-bone and bone spavins I am sure it will cure if taken in time. It is also good for scratches, grease heel, etc.

Yours respectfully,

Dr. J. B. Kendall & Co., Gents:—I have used your "Kendall's Spavin Cure" on a bone spavin and am pleased to report that it has taken the enlargement completely off. It took only one bottle to perform the cure. I am confident if it is properly used it will do all you claim for it.

Yours truly,

STATEMENT MADE UN-DER OATH.

To Whom It May Concern:—In the year 1875 1 treated with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure.' a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's egg, and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he never has been very lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with Kendall's Spavin cure.

Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for benefits had profits which I have derived from your invaluable and far famed Spavin Cure. My cousin and I had a valuable stallion, worth $4,000, which had a very bad spavin and was pronounaed by four eminent yeterinary surgeons beyond any cure, and that the horse was done for ever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect, the third bottle cured it, and the horse is as well as ever. Dr. Dick, of Edinburgh, the eminent veterinary surgeon was an uncle of mine, and I take great interest in assisting his profession.

B. J. Kendall & Co.—Gents: I tried your Kendall's Spavin Cure and it had the desired effect. It cured the spavin, which other treatments had failed to do. I did not use quite one bottle of your liniment. After the spavin was removed I drove the horse and his mate over 500 miles, from Linn county, Iowa, to Harlin county. Nebraska, with a load of about 2,000 pounds, and made the trip in four weeks. Please send me your Treatise on the Horse, price 25 cents.

Dr. B. J. Kendell & Co.—Gents: Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of Kendell's Spavin Cure, and having a valuable and speedy h rse which had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement and a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me $100.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE!

ON HUMAN FLESH it has been ascertained by repeated trials to be the very best liniment ever used for any deep seated pain of long standing, or of short duration. Also for Corns, Bunions, Frost-bites, or any bruise, cut or lameness. Some are afraid to use it on human flesh simply because it is a horse medicine, but you should remember that what is good for Beast is good for Man, and we know from experience that "KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE" can be used on a child 1 year old with perfect safety. Its effects are wonderful on human flesh, and it does not blister or make a sore. Try it and be convinced.

Patten's Mills, Washington Co., N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878.

B. J. Kendall, M. D.—Dear Sir: The particular case on which I used your, "Kendall's Spavin Cure," was a malignant ankle sprain of sixteen months standing, I had tried many things, but in vain. Your "Kendall's Spavin Cure" put the foot to the ground again, and, for the first time since hurt, in a natural position. For a family liniment it excells anything we ever used.

Yours truly,

REV. M. P. BELL.

Pastor M. E. Church, Patten's Mills, N. Y.

Bakersfield, Vt., Dec. 23, 1879.

B. J. Kendall & Co.—Gents: I wish to add my testimony in favor of your invaluable liniment, "Kendall's Spavin Cure." In the spring of 1872 I slipped on the ice and sprained my right limb at the knee joint. I was very lame, and at times suffered the most excruciating pain. I wore a bandage on it for over a year, and tried most everything in my reach, but could find nothing that would give me permanent relief. When I overworked, it would pain me very much. In April, 1878, I began to think I should be a cripple for life, but having some of "Kendall's Spavin Cure" thought I would try it. I used one-third of a bottle and experienced relief at once. The pain lett me and has not troubled me since. I feel very grateful to you, and would recommend "Kendall's Spavin Cure" to all who suffer with sprains or rheumatism.

Yourstruly, MRS. J. BOUTELL.

Kendall's Spavin Cure is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is pene-grating and powerful to reach any deep-seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or any other en-argement if used for several days, such as spavins, splints, ourbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any ameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man, and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects. It is used full strength with perfect safety at all seasons of acting mild and yet certain in its chees. At least think gives positive proof of its virtues. No rember a part of the year.

Send address for Illustrated C'roular, which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success, to our knowledge, for beast as well as man. Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All Druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors.

Horticultural Notes.

Mr. W. R. Phillips, of Millford, Delaware recommends the following varieties of peaches for marketing purposes, and which will ripen in succession as enumerated: Early Alexander, Troth's Early, Mountain Rose, Crawford Early, Foster, Old Mixon, Princess, Red Rareripe, Stump the World, Crawford Late, Beer's

The secretary of the Indiana Horticultural Society, having invited fruit growers to name what they considered the best variety of apples received a number of replies. The largest number of recommendations were for Maiden's Blush; Ben Davis and Early Harvest came next in favor; then followed Rambo, Winesap, Rome Beauty, and Red Astrachan.

Are you troubled with cut-worms? Save all the tin cans and strawberry boxes you can find, and taking out the bottoms set them over the plants, or around the shrubs, vines, or trees se. Then vermin can't crawl over a smooth surface nor will they travel far over a dead-wood surface. We have bought the strawberry boxes in the flat, without bottoms, and used them several years.

If there is one branch of horticultural work that is less undersood than another, we would say it was pruning. Many owners of orchards get an idea that fruit trees need pruning to induce fruitfulness, and go sinto the orchard without well defined system or plan, with only a determination to cut and slash, and the result is a mutilated tree, and often scars are left that are causes of decay. That judicious pruning induces truitfulness we do not deny, but that, as very often done, it causes decay and rules for pruning—only general principles can be given, and the orchardist must exercise a great deal of caution and common sense, or else damage is most sure to ensue. The advice we shall give in this article is not for the experienced horticulturist, but for those not well posted in this branch of herticulture. If a large number of limbs are to be removed, they should be cut away in early spring before the leaves open, as pruning while in leaf may induce fruitulness, it will also tend to shorten the life of the tree. Trees should be properly pruned, formed while young, and the nursery is the place for such work, because if in the nursery is the place for such work, because if in the nursery the tree is allowed to grow lots of brush, it will be necessary to cut them away after being set in the orchard, which not only checks the growth of the tree, but often leaves large sores that cause decay. If trees are carefully and properly pruned while young, they will require but little more than to have water sprouts cut out after being set in the orchard. If an orchard has been allowed to grow a lot of brush and large limbs, we believe it better to allow a large portion to remain rather than adopt the plan of cutting out all limbs that should not have been permitted to grow. On small trees the new shoots starting out may be pinched or rubbed off during May, and in addition to this the water sprouts should be cut out, which should be about the extent of orchard not pruning for May, unless it be to remove and trim broken limbs.

George E. Rice, living near Farmer Village, N. Y., has a pear tree two feet in diameter, and forty high. It bears from ten to twenty bushels of fine fruit every year, and is remarkably hardy and sure. It is a seedling and sixty-two years old.

A successful Boston florist says that he seldom failed to root slips of the most tender and rare plants. The frost does not appear to have hurt the fruit as yet. Peaches will be plentiful, appless middling crop, cherries, plums, gooseberries, and strawberries light crop; blackberries, raspberries, and also grapes appear to be setting fruit well, and we are in hopes we will have a good crop.

peas, it is few, if any, that will be missed.

Cantaloupes do best upon sod land or any good, warm, loamy soil. For early crop, a light, sandy loam is best. A large shovelful of well-rotted stable manure to the hill is the usual allowance. These should be at least five test spart; they are best made with the hoe, but for large plantations, where labor is scarce, they may be made with the plow, and the planting be done with the hoe. They should be in no case covered more than 1½ inches deep. If the ground is dry at the time of planting, the earth directly over the seed should be packed solid with the back of the hoe.

Superstitions About Cats. In Ireland, it is considered highly unlucky for a family to take with them a cat when they are moving, more especially, too, when tells us that, in the northeast of Scotland, if a cow or other domestic animal was seized with disease, one mede of cure was to twist a rope of straw the contrary way, join the two ends, and put the diseased animal through the loop along with a cat. By this means the disease the animal life was so saved by the cat dying. This, of course, was only one of the extensive charms of which the leading idea was that of substitution. A remedy for erysipelas, lately practiced in the parish of Locharron, in the Northwest Highlands, consisted in cutting one half of the ear of the cat, and letting the blood drop on the part affected. Alluding, moreover, to the numerous other items of folk-lore in connection with the cat, there is a popular notion that a May cat—a cat born in the month of May—is of no use in catching rats and mice, but exerts an injurious influence on the house but exerts an injurious influence on the house through bringing into it disagreeable reputes of various kinds. Mrs. Latham, in her "West Sussex Superstitions," says that a May cat is supposed "to be inclined to melancholy, and to be much addicted to catching snakes and bringing them into the house. I had heard that this west-country belief existed in our village; and very lately, observing a very dejected-looking cat by the fire in a cottage, said, in jest, 'I should think that cat was born in May.' 'Oh, yes,' said the owner of it, 'that she was, and so was her mother; and she was just as sad-looking, and was always bringing snakes and vipers within doors.'" In Huntingdonshire there is a common saying that "a May kitten makes a dirty cat." The supposed ill-luck attaching to a cat born in the month of May is no doubt founded on the old notion that May was an unfortunate season for births of any kind, in allusion to which there is an old proverb, which says—

May chets Bad luck begets.

According to a curious notion, still extensive ly credited by out-North country peasantry, black cats are supposed to bring not only good luck, but also lovers—in illustration of which we may quote a well-known rhyme on the subject: Whenever the cat o' the house is black,

The lauses o' lovers will have no lack. Mr. Henderson, speaking of this superstition Mr. Henderson, speaking of this superstition, tells us that an old North-country woman on one occasior said to a lady, "It's na wonder Jock—"'s lasses marry off so fast, ye ken what a braw black catthey've got." It is considered unlucky to dream of a cat, a piece of premature death of the tree we are ready to assert. It is very hard to lay down definite folk-lore prevalent in Germany, where it one dreams of a black cat at Christmas, it is an one, of some alarming illness during the following year. Equally unfortunate, too, is it red a few days ago at Winston, a small town on the Rock Island road, in Missouri, famous as the scene of one of the James gang train robberies. A little eight-year-old boy, the son of George Sea, was sent to the house of a neighbor named Stout, on an errand, and on capt. J. B. Moore, Concord, Mass., is authority for the statement that a gentleman in Salem "with plenty of manure and water" raises the asparagus, peas, corn and other vegetables needed in a family of seven, also the summer keep of two cows. and hay and mangel wurtzels enough to winter them, all on one acre of land.

A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker writes: "Tell your readers to put one pint of salt and one pint of soft soap (it ought to be farmer's soap) to ten gallons of water, and use it on currants and gooseberries. I'll warrant them a full crop. Put plenty of ashes—coal or wood—around the reots to increase the size of the berries."

Good crops of strawberries can be grown on the same land for several years in succession arriving there, found no one at home.

THE prisoners at the military prison, Leavenworth, struck for more substantial food a few days since. They made no riotous demonstrations, but simply refused to work. The diet was improved and the men resumed work. They had been complaining about the slimness of the diet for some time, but no attention was paid to them, and the thing finally resulted as above stated. The government furnishes a priscner the same rations as a man on duty, and the blame rests with the commissary sergeant. The men complain that their breakfast consisted of nothing more than a sort of hash, the principal ingredient of which was bread, and not any too much of that, and that only about a bushel of potatoes was issued to a hundred men.

THE Wichita Eagle relates that one of Seagwick county's prolific moth. ers, while in the postoffice at Wichita last Saturday, remarked that she had not been in town for seven weeks. When asked what the matter was, she gently laid back a covering from her arm, disclosing the face of a young but fair-haired future voter, with the remark: "That's what's the matter, and this makes the fifteenth." The old cabin is now used as a dairy.

ACCORDING to Missouri newspapers, first-class farm land may be had in that State at prices that will be more than paid by the first crop. Some of the figures given are interesting. John Vogel, a farmer of Grundy county, near the lowa border, raises 200 bushels of beets on two acres, and sells them for $160. For this at any time he can get eight acres of choice land. W. Gilbreath, of Clarion county, last year bought forty acres of prairie land for $600 and raised $800 worth of corn on it. In many localities good land may be had for $5 an acre. Nevertheless, immigrants go in greater numbers to Kanas. Nebraska, and other States and Territories. Missouri has not been advertised, and is little known to the newcomers from Europe.-N. Y.

A few hours later a magistrate ordered him to be suspended again by the feet, and in that position he remained until he was unconscious. In the evening, still refusing to confess, he was held with naked arms and breast against a redhot stove. A brother of the lad, who implored the local authorities to jutercede and put an end to the torture was himself thrown into prison by order of that functionary, and heavily ironed. On the third day, by order of higher officials, who had been informed of these doings, the two brothers were released. Such occurrences are not rare among the densely ignorant country population of eastern Europe.

A PECULIAR prayer meeting was held in the Third Baptist Church, St. Louis, following the exploit of its pastor, the Rev. Dr. Lofton, who was then sick from a whipping received while drunk on a railroad train. It is urged in his defence that he had been ill from nervous prostration, and was on his ing it to the Court of Appeals, on the way to the South for rest when the question of the law's validity. The contents of a rock-and-rye bottle overcame him. The congregation took this charitable view of the case, and the prayers were, in substance, that of food made in imitation of a wholehe might speedily recover, and that the some article in common use," says the sorrow might do him spiritual good, court, "which imitated article is so re

By and by the American people will wake up to the great folly that has been perpetrated in the passage of this iniquitous bill (the new anti-Chinese bill). It will be remarkable to hear Californians crying out for a repeal of this bill; and yet that is not unlikely to happen before half of the ten years that we see this bill go upon the statute book of the nation.-New York Christian Advocate.

FRAU MATERNA visited a fire engine house in Cincinnati, the other day, and was much interested in all the arrangements, but especially in the "joker," or electric knob which sounds the alarmgong. This innocent looking button she was induced to touch, with no premonition of the result. "The next instant," says one of the firemen, "all men up-stairs came flying down the waxed poles, and the horses tore out of their stalls into their places like mad. I thought the women were going to jump through the ceiling, but when the scare was over they clapped their hands and shouted and laughed; and then I had to do it all over again."

AT the monthly banquet of the Social guage: Temperance Union, Boston, last Friday, the Rev. Phillips Brooks spoke forcibly on the subject of prohibitory mighty." legislation, than which, he urged, there is one thing far more important, namely, the preservation of that liberty in which self-control can live, be educated and grow. Everything which makes it possible for a poor man to find some healthy stimulus outside the grog-shop will have an inestimable influence in bringing about total abstinence. We may close our grog-shops just as completely as we can, but if we do not open places where the poor, hardworking, unfortunate people can resort they will find places of their own in spite of all the laws that can be made."

> JOHN A. MARTIN has recently perpetrated a cruel joke on some of the Kansas men, who saw and knew it all, in early days. On his leturn from Washington, he reported an interview with President Arthur, in which the latter told of having been a resident of Kansas, in the early days of the Terri-Kansas, in the early days of the Territory, and related an incident of a stage ride from Lawrence to Leavenworth, in company with Gen. Laue and others. Now comes John Speer, and says he was in the stage at the same time, and remembers the occasion. The fun of it is, that Col. Martin made up the story, expressly for the purpose of find-ing out how, many them is a stage at the cars had departed. He accordingly went to the nearest telegraph office, and, to allay the anxiety which his non-appearance might occasion at home, compiled and dispatched the following message: "Missed the train, and although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes when the train, and although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes when the station five minutes although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes went to the nearest telegraph office, and, to allay the anxiety which his non-appearance might occasion at home, compiled and dispatched the following message: "Missed the train, and although conscientiously using all the speed he could, he arrived at the station five minutes alter the cars had departed. Missing a Train.

A school boy in this city went out of town one Monday morning to visit a youthful friend, and was strictly enjoined to return on the following Saturday evening. He had-to quote from one of his letters to his family-"a redhot time," and when Saturday came around be packed up his trunk with great reluctance and amid loud expressions of regret from his friend that he must depart so soon. He had to drive about three miles to catch the train, and

The Bad and Worthless are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best, and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up of any imitation of butter, no matter and people of the country had expressed the and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the

Mrs. Garfield's Dress.

Mesers. Strawbride & Clothier will to-day and during next week exhibit in their corner show window at Eghth and Market streets, the black brocade dress to be presented to Mrs. Garfield by the Woman's Silk Culture Association. It is not generally known that the handsome and appropriate present is essentially Ameri can, both as to its donors and manufacture The silk was grown in fourteen States by twenty-six American families, the venerable mother of Bayard Taylor being one of the contributors. It was recled by the association, and woven by Hamil & Boothe, at Paterson, M. J., by an American weaver, and is the first fine brocade ever produced in America. In width it contains 28,000 threads. Thirty six hundred needles on a Jacquard loom were used in making the design, which is that of immortells, intertwined among irregular pyramids of Spanish lace, the flowers apparently standing out in delicate relief. Strawbridge & Clothier expect to receive the order to make the dress up some time within the next fortnight.—Philup some time within the next fortnight .- Phil adelphia Press.

Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious kidney, urinary, or liver diseases, as they only relieve for a time and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of disease so effectually that it never returns.

SAMARITAN NERVINE.

SAMARITAN NERVINE.

Cures Alcoholism, Drunkenness and the habit of Opium Eating. These degrading habits are by fur the worst evils that have ever betallen suffering humanity. Thousands die annually from these noxious drugs. The drunkard drinks liquor not because he likes it, but for the pleasure of drinking and treating his friends, little thinking that he is on his road to uln. Like the Opium Eater, he first uses the drug in small quantities as a harmless antidote. The soothing influence of the drug takes strong hold upon its victim, leading him on to his own destruction. The habits of Opium Eating and Liquor Drinking are precisely what eating is to alimentiveness, as over-eating first inflames the stomach, which reduubles its cravings until it paralyzes both the stomach and appeate. So eveay drink of liquor or dose of opium, instead of satisfying, only adds to its fleree lires, until it consumes the vital force and then itself. Like the gluttonous tape-worm it cries "Give, give, give!" but never enough until its own rapacity devours itself. Samaratine Nervine gives instant relief in all such cases. It produces sleep, quiets the nerves, builds up the nervous system, and restores body and mind to a healthy condition.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Nervous Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart. Asthma, Bronchitis, Screfula, Syphilis, diseases of the Kidneys and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, N. rvous Debility, caused by the understeins of youth, permanently cured by the use of this invaluable remedy. To you, young, middle-aged, and old men, who are covering your sufferings as with a mantle by silence, look up, you can be saved by timely chorts, and make ornameuts to society, and jewels in the crown of of your Maker, if you will. Do not keep this a secret longer until it saps your vitals, and destroys both body and soul. If you are thus afflicted, take Dr. Richmond's Samaratine Nervine. It will restore your shattered nerves, arrest piemature decay, and impart tone and energy to the whole System.

The sudden appearance of half a dozen cases of smallpox near the Institution under circumstances which make it probable that there will be others, justifies the closing of our school three weeks earlier than the usual date. While we know the sentiment of those who have formally invited him to the city which bears his name, will be to extend to him all the condolence with the power of feeling and language, there will prevail everywhere in our midst the regret that so sad an event should have interfered with that manifestation of profound respect which would have been manifested by every citizen toward the venerable gentleman had he been able to accomplish his

DECORATION DAY.

How it was Observed in this City.

The observance of Decoration Day really commenced on Sunday. In response to an invitation from Washington Post, G. A. R., Dr. Marvin preached a sermon appropriate to Memorial Day. The pulpit and organ were covered with elegant bouquets Dr. Spring and Dr. Jones occupied the pulpit with Dr. Marvin. The church was filled to its utmost capacity. Dr. Marvin chose as his text the seventh verse of the fourteenth chapter of Romans :- "For none of us liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself." The address was finished and scholarly, and was listened to with the deepest interest throughout.

On Tuesday, Decoration Day proper, the usual order of things was changed. At ten o'clock a detachment of the G. A. R., with mail, tree of charge by addressing with stamp or the Big Springs Band, and accompanied by a large number of citizens, proceeded to the cemetery and decorated the graves. This was a great improvement on the old way of doing, when everything was crowded into one short 3-29 6m People have confidence in a management afternoon. There being plenty of time, every grave was found and decorated. There was a great abundance of flowers, and we do not remember that the cemetory ever looked brighter or prettier.

The procession in the atternoon was an unusually fine looking one. The G. A. R. in uniform, uniformed Patriarchs, Odd Fellows in regalia, firemen in uniform, Young Men's Social Club, with bright badges, all helped to add a pleasing effect. The speaking took place at South Park, the stand being erected in the south end. It was handsomely decorated. A background, back of the pictures, had on it pictures of Washington, Lincoln and Garfield, surrounded by floral wreaths, and the whole background covered with little flags or banners, representing the various army corps. In front of the speakers desk, and high above the platform was a broad panel, supported by a pillar at either end. These pillars were twined with white and black dloth. In the center of the panel was this inscriptton:

"The hopes and fears, the blood and tears that marked the Nation's strife, Are now all covered by victory that saved the nation's life."

The following was the program as carried out:

Burgiars.

Newmark's clothing store was entered last Saturday night by burglars, who coolly exchanged their old worn-out clothes for new ones. About twenty-five dollars' worth in al was taken. As the old clothes were carefully piled against the back door, and the Buzzard's Roost tribe did not hear of it first, the police captured the old clothes. Only two sets of shutters, one window and two iron bars were broken in getting in, and of course that would not make noise enough to be heard a mile off. which is about the distance a policeman must walk if he goes over his whole beat at night. Beside this nearly every dry goods box along the whole street was rolled and tumbled into the middle of the road. A long ladder was carried several blocks and placed against Dr. Jones's house and a shorter one carried from there to a distant part of the city. The turning of boxes over and carrying of ladders, was probably the work of boys, but if we had sufficient police protection at night they never could have done it without meeting with a formidable obstacle. The question that a business man asks when he hears of the rolling and tumbling of dry goods boxes from Winthrop street to Berkley is, how much noise would it take to rouse the police and the special watch man?

Sunday night there was another burglary. The L., L. & G. depot was entered, the safe opened by the regular combination, and the inside tills opened, and $81 stolen. Of course the party who robbed the sate must have been some one conversant with the office.

A colored boy, an old employee of Billy Wiedemann, slipped into his place Sunday morning shortly after the store was opened, and robbed the till of $8. He was caught in the act and on Monday fined $5 and costs for petit larceny, the money stolen having been recovered.

Marshal Prentice does his whole duty, and o we believe do our police, but one man after 12 o'clock at night cannot hunt stray cows, watch five miles of streets, and be on hand at the slightest disturbance. Give us more po-

DURING his recent residence in Brazil, Mr. Ernest Morris investigated the composition of the deadly Woorari or Tucuna poison universally used by the Indian tribes of the Upper Amazon. Its ingredients, character, and operation have been much discussed, and of late years physicians have made some practical use of it. The Indians make two grades of it, one of which they use in obtaining game, and the other, which is much stronger, in war. In tipping their arrows for the former purpose, care is taken not to make them too deadly, for game impregnated with the poison soon putrifies. Mr. Morris rejects the supposition that salt is an antidote. He says that he has often tried this remedy upon monkeys and cats, but has always lost his patients. He does not believe that there is any known antidote when the poison is pure and new.

of May 3, "Contributor" favors us with a fine talk as usual, for I find all her articles sensible and instructive. About books she well says they are a great moral force in helping to form the character of the young especially. That is true if the books they read are moral and teach morality; but the great trouble is, there are so many of the popular books in market now that do not teach morality, and a great many not already formed in the mind of the by the example of parents, such books will lead them not only to adopt the views of those wicked books but follow their teachings practically and become thieves and robbers and scape graces of all kinds, just like the heroes of those books. I don't believe there are a half dozen men in any community that would advocate reading Tom Payne, Voltaire, or indeed any such books in school if they would speak their honest sentiment. I think when the teacher has a certificate of good moral character we might trust them to use their judgment in this matter; but some people are very much afraid the Bible will be read and studied too much. I wish it were read and studied more, and its teachings practised better than the best does.

I don't know sister "Contributor," but I will have to correct your quotation from St. Paul; he used "moderation" where you use "toleration." There is some difference in the two words, and I am not so certain that Paul would give the advice you put in his mouth, from the fact that he disputed daily in the synagogue and other places where the true Gospel of Christianity was not known, or false doctrine taught. Paul was not very tolerant even with his brethren when they did not teach the truth in Christ, as he understood it; nor do I believe any Christian should be so tolerant as not to have a fair understanding of all the duties we owe to God, to our fellows and to the world, and the doctrines taught in the word of God, and then defend them against skepticism of all kinds in a kind and good spirit. "Persuade men," as Paul says, not compel them, or try to do it, but give them good and sufficient reason for the faith that is in you. R. A. SALINA, Kan.

A POPULAR M. P. invited a distinguished company to dinner in London. Three of the guests elected to dry, brush them again and let them dry, brush them again and let them dry, and repeat this a third time. The carriage deposited them at their destination, and the oldest gentleman, on alighting, said to his two compan-them bake until nicely browned, bastions, who were M. P's., "I'll pioneer ing frequently. To fry sweetbreads, you; I know the way up stairs." But here the Butler intervened, and said, "Down stairs please gentleman" Ac-"Down stairs, please gentleman," Ac-"Down stairs, please gentleman," Ac-cordingly down went the trio, and Tomato sauce, stewed mushrooms, aswere ushed into a small room, where sat a lady and a gentleman, divided by are favorite accompaniments. sat a lady and a gentleman, divided by a table, on which was a dish of oranges. Conversation flowed rapidly, all sorts of topics being discussed, till at last the hostess said, "I am sorry my lady is indisposed, as she would liked to have seen you." Then spake the eldest, who is a distinguished official of the House, "I think we have made a mistake." "So say all of us," was the mixed rejoinder; and with many regrets and apologies the company separated. Then it was discovered that the banquet was next door. Meanwhile, the noble Lord who entertained the three angels unawares tells the story with unrivalled unction.

EDITOR SPIRIT:-I never was better pleased with the SPIRIT than with your issue of the 17th inst., especially with your remarks on Christianity. The subscriber's objection to your paper is ludicrous in the extreme, if, as he says, he is a Liberal. He certainly is mistaken; he does not know himself; he ought to change his name; he is a bigot; and then his objection "too much Christianity!" As well might he say the sun has too much light and heat, or the ocean too much water, vinegar too much sour, honey too much sweet, or the rose too much beauty. A farmer's paper have too much Christianity in it? Can any one put too much Christianity in his busibusiness? Can our lives have too much of the spirit of Christ in them? Can we do too much good in the world? Christ went about doing DEAR HOUSEHOLD:-In your issue good. Is Christianity a thing to be put on of a Suuday and laid away during the week? Nay verily. We ought to take our Christianity with us, mix it in our business, even if we are edituse it; politicians never. And yet it would not hurt them, and certainly it would do them good; and we would have better laws, and have them better obeyed, if all our politicians and offimore that actually teach immorality, cers were Christians. We would not and if a strong attachment for right is hear of prohibition not prohibiting, nor any of our laws being broken and shild by the reading of the Bible, and defied if all would follow the teachings of Christ, and do as he would wish to be done by.

The Jersey Red Swine.

Jersey Red swine were most probably descendants of the old Red Berkshire, retaining some of the characteristics of that breed as it existed some thirty years or more ago, when the white markings were supplied by red. They had been improved, as all other distinct breeds were, by careful selection by the farmers of New Jersey, until they had newacquired qualities as distinct as those of the Essex, Suffolk, or any other well-known breed with marked and fixed traits. The prepotency of the full-blood Jersey Red was such as to appear and generally prevail over the peculiar. ities of other breeds with which it is crossed,a fact which seems to support the belief that the Jersey Red of to-day is a lineal descendant of the famous old Red Berkshire, which all breeders will understand is very different from the trim, black, restless Berkshire of this day,

It is a fact that many farmers of New Jersey, after trying other well known breeds, have returned to the Jersey Reds as the best and safest for the pork-raiser. The characteristics of the breed are, as described by the oldest and largest breeders, a good coat of fine red hair, occasionally interspersed with a fleck of black; broad faces; thin pendant or wilted ears; good shoulders; large developed hams; broad, straight back, and excellent middle pieces, the whole supported by fine symetrical legs, with which they rise and travel with apparent ease, even when well fattened, and very seldom showing lameness, which has proven a serious objection to many other breeds. They are apparently mange proof, and fatten at any age from pighood up, until exceedingly heavy weights are stained; good leeders, making them net from three hundred to four hundred pounds each when from seven to ten menths old, and from five hundred to nine hundred pounds each net when from one year to twentyafter trying other well known breeds, have pounds each not when from one year to twentypounds each not when from one year to twentytwo months of age.

One Jersey farmer raised and slaughtered, during the past sixteen years, four hundred and sixty-three hogs, about twenty-one months old, that averaged five hundred and thirtyeight pounds, and dozens of crops of pigs nine mouths old dressed three hundred to three hundred and seventy-five pounds average.

The most notable qualities of the Jersey Red are healthfulness and docility. It was these traits that induced me to try them, preferring, like others, a hog not so liable to cholera, even if not so handsome as some fancy breeds.

are healthfulness and docility. It was these traits that induced me to to try them, preferring, like others, a hog not so liable to cholera, even if not so handsome as some fancy breeds. They are also very easily cared for in consequence of their remarkable docility—a trait which seems to show that they are the descendants of a breed well cared for. But their fectundity is also remarkable. Litters are rarely below ten pigs in number.

The Jersey Reds now begin to be sufficiently well known to make their own way into public favor. Practical farmers of Indiana who have tried them find them very desirable for crossing in smaller breeds. In nearly every case where a practical hog-raiser has tried them, he has expassed surprise that the breed has not been better known and introduced into the west before. The Jersey Red is an American breed, as is the Poland China. In the judgment of those best qualified to judge, it is deatined to equal that justly renowned breed of hogs, and, in some parts of the country, surpass it. It comes from a healthy, anti-miasmatic region, an inherited tendency to fatte the those characteristics it is safe to say that it will gain and retain, especially in the northwest among hog-raisers, a place equal, if not superior, to that of breeds which, however excellent, are not so well adapted to our climate and care. The individual who affects to sneer at Jersey Red swine, never having seen them, commits the same error that others did years ago in attempting to deride Jersey cattle out of existence. He simply publishes his own ignorance and incapacity. No really good breed of stock can be successfully and permanently talked up or down. It is bound, finally, to rest upon its clear and undoubted merits.

Upon these the breed of Jersey Red swine are content that itshall stand. J. P. Luce, in Swines Breeders' Journal.

A Great Southern Industry.

A Great Southern Industry.

Sheep-raising and wool-growing would be highly remunerative in Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama, and other parts of the South; and this would be one of the easiest industries for people to engage in who have not much capital to begin with. But the South, in common with large portions of New England, is devoted to another industry, which is always incompatible with sheep-raising and wool-producing. anything else, I think, that can be attributed to the South generally. I found plenty of white Republicans and black Democrats there; and there is, as in the North, almost every subject. The South is so large, and its life and thought so varied and complex, that a real observer will be slow to impute many things to this part of our country in general. But in regard to this business the South is really "solid."

The popular devotion to the rearing of dogs recalls the animal worship of the ancient Egyptians. I was often on the point of asking, "How much doyou make a year on your degs?" They are so numerous, and are increasing so rapidly; they occupy a place of such prominence in the general life of the South, and so dominate public sentiment and influence public morality, that one is constantly inclined to the conviction that their rearing and care must be among the most important and valuable pursuits of the people. I was told that there is a dog tax in some of the States, but that when the assessor of taxes goes his rounds that their rearing and care must be among the most important and valuable pursuits of the people. I was told that there is a dog tax in some of the States, but that when the assessor of taxes goes his rounds that their propersists to owning a dog. A vigorous effort was made in the legislature of one of the chief Southern States, a few years ago, to enact a law to limit or discourage the rearing of dogs, and to stimulate the production of sheep and wood. But a colored member of the legislature made an eloquent and enthusastic detense of dogs-rearing, and talked sentimant, and quoted what the production of sheep and wood. One More Swindle.

The Crawfordsville, Indiana, Journal tells of a new plan for "taking in the farmers," adopted by some of the sharpers in that vicinity. The scamps hunt in pairs and this is their game: Noticing the advertisement of stray horses or cows, one of them goes to the advertiser and asks to see the animal. His request being granted he informs the advertser the animal is not the one for which he was looking. The fellow goes back to his "pal," gives him a description of the animal, and the "pal" then goes to the advertiser and describes the horse or cow accurately and gets possession. Then the swindler Surgeon Bradley says, in the British Medical Journal, that being tormented by one of the most distressing symptoms of hay fever, incessant sneezing, and having tried all remedies suggested, in sheer desperation, he plugged This is the rearing of dogs. I did not find his nostrils with raw cotton. The effect was instantaneous; the sneezing ceased, and after repeatedly testing the remedy, he concludes that it is worth knowing and recommending.

he did veto, would have gained him the highest respect of all statesmen and the approval of the whole better portion of American citizens. All expected, at least hoped, that he would veto it, as he did the first, as being "a breach of our National faith." But he has missed the opportunity. He has signed the bill. Great anxiety is now felt as to what he will do with reference to the ignor bill—his second great opportuiquor bill-his second great opportu-

The advertiser generally makes the purchase, and in nine cases out of ten, subsequently has to give the animal into the possession of the owner, losing the mouey he has paid the imposter. It ought to excite the farmer's suspicion, when the pretended owner, after coming a long distance to hunt his stray, should be willing to sell it at such a sacrifice.

Dr. Cressy, in his recent lecture before the Connecticut Bosrd of Agriculture, said that any case of founder can be cured if taken within thirty hours of the attack.

The effect of it-for we do not suppose the champion gubernatorial veto manufacturer will refuse to assent to the bill-will be to reduce the number of the immense army of liquor sellers. There are to-day nine thousand of them on Manhattan Island—a community equal to a good-sized fown. It would be a benefaction and a blessing to shut up onehalf of these poisonous pestholes; and this the new Excise bill will do unless Mr. Cornell, in carrying out seme corrupt Tammany bargain, shall veto it.

carrying out seme corrupt Tammany bargain, shall vetoit.

The excise legislation, however, which the city needs, which the Heraid demands and which sconer or later we shall have, must go beyond the present bill. We want, first of all, a law that shall, if possible, make the business of liquor-selling respectable. The fee for a license should be placed so high that the men who hold one should have an interest in seeing that the law is enforced. Again, the law should be so framed that it will protect the community against the liquor dealer on the one hand and the fanatical prohibitionist on the other. The bill that has just been passed is a good one, for the reason that is a step in this direction. But it is only a step, and the road to a genuine, salutary reform is a long and rugged one. Any advance on the way is to be welcomed and approved, and for these reasons it is to be hoped the bill which has run the difficult gantlet of the Legislature will meet with no obstruction in the Executive branch of the State government.—X. Y. Herald.

of the State government.—N. Y. Herald. Popular Science Monthly for June, 1882. The June "Popular Science Monthly" begins with an article by Judge J. B. Stallo, of they are small and inferior, but even now Cincinnati, entitled "Speculative Science," are cheaper than the old ones. Yesterday and if the title is dry the paper is not. It is a they could be bought for $2.00 per bushel. reply to an attack upon "The Concepts and Two weeks more and we shall live on the fat Theories of 'Modern Physics," by Professor Newcomb, in the "International Review." Professor Newcomb carried his criticism to lengths of disparagement, which the author offered plentifully, and plenty of Texas peachthought required his attention, and he has left his critic in a not very enviatle plight. The until further notice Mr. E. B. Good will make article is witty and pungent, but brilliant and solid; and, besides its skillful polemics, it throws much valuable light upon fundamental questions in speculative and historical physics. "The Eye-like Organs of Fishes," by Dr. Ernst Krause, editor of the German scientific periodical "Kosmos," describes some remarkable formations, almost exactly resembling real eyes in appearance, that have been observed on the bodies of certain small fishes living near the bottom of deep seas, the nature and objects of which are a puzzle to naturalists. In "The Appointment of College Officers? Protessor F. W. Clarge criticises the manner in which the selection of presidents and professors is usually made by the boards of trustees of collegiate institutions, where the denominational orthodoxy of the candidate is too likely to receive more consideration than his educational qualifications, and suggests a kind of plan of "civil service reform" in the matter, in which fitness for the work belonging to the position, be it that of president or professor, shall be the determining principle. The article following this is a defense of "Physiological Experimentation," by Dr. William B. Carpenter, in the form of an answer to the assertion that Sir Charles Bell mails his physiological discoveries by the aid of anatomy alone. Dr. Carpenter shows that Bell's knowledge was very incomplete and inaccurate, and not to be compared in exactness with what has been gained by vivisection. The next paper is an explanation of "The Zuni Social, Mythic and Religious Systems," by F. H. Cushing, who, as the newspapers have widely informed the public, has made a special study of the subject to the extent of having become a Zuni himself for the purpose. Professor Daniel Kirkwood furnishes an interesting account of "Astronomical Panics," closing with a notice of the one that has grown out of something Mr. Proctor said about a comet pitching into the sun. Mr. W. Le Conte Stevens closes his very full account of "The Stevenscope: its Theory," which is made plainer by abundant illustrations. Not the least in interest and importance of the articles in this number is "Dr. von Dollinger's review of the history of "The Jews in Europe," and the treatment they have received at the hands of the Popes and Christian nations. Miss Elisa A. Bowen, who appears to be a model among model teachers, tells, in "Chemistry in High Schools," how she has taught the science to her pupils by setting them to work out the experiments for themselves. In "A New Theory of the Sun" Mr. C. W. Siemens suggests an hypothesis under which the solar energy may be maintained perpetually without any loss, by the ever recurring restoration to the sun of what it gives out. Other articles are "The Future of Mind," by Peter Bryce; an illustrated paper "About the Molds"; "The In roduction of Domestic Animals"; "Hydrodynamics and Electricity," illustrated; and "The Cause of Tubercular Disease." The portrait and biographical sketch are of Mr. Darwin, and the lacter is the fullest account of the illustrious naturalist that has been given in the United States. The editor also has an article on Darwin and his place in modern science; and, under the title of "A Very Modern Reproach," fortifies the position taken in a former editorial concerning the defects of our present system of morals.

The foreman of an Iowa newspaper got a description of a young ladies' concert mixed with a "short-horn sale." The report as printed in the paper said: "The concert given last evening by sixteen of Storm Lake's most beautiful and interesting young ladies was highly appreciated. They were elegantly dressed, and sang in a most charming manner, winning the plaudits of the entire audience, who pronounced them the finest short horns in the country. A few of them are of rich brown color, but the majority are spotted brown and white. Several of the heifers were fine-bodied, tight-limbed animals, and promise to prove good property." The foreman is now traveling for his health.
