Big Area Angus Day Is Set For April 20

CHAPMAN — Final plans have been completed for the 42nd Annual Better Livestock Day, sponsored by the Geary-Dickinson Angus Association. This year's event, held annually since 1926, will be Thursday, April 20, at the Andy Schuler farm, Chapman, Kansas. The Schuler farm is located 7 miles southeast of Chapman or 9 miles southwest of Junction City.

Recognized nationally as the oldest and largest Angus Field Day in the Nation, this event has annually attracted 1000 4-H and FFA youths in the morning judging contest.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and a type demonstration, conducted by Dr. Don Good, Head of the Animal Husbandry Dept. at Kansas State University, will begin at 9:00 a.m. The judging contest, consisting of four bull and four female classes will follow with Dr. Good and Dr. Calvin Drake, also of K.S.U., making the official placings.

A large traveling trophy will be awarded to the high FFA, 4-H boy and 4-H girl teams. Other trophies to be presented will include a trophy to the winning Chamber of Commerce team and also a trophy will be awarded to the high individual judge in the adult division. Cash prizes will be awarded in the weight guessing contest which is under the direction of Jesse Lawrence and Bill Crites.

Over 70 head of Angus cattle will be exhibited and used in the judging contest according to Paul Gwin, chairman of the selection committee.

One of the highlights of the day will be the noon meal which will feature smoked barbecued Angus beef prepared by Dr. David McIntosh of Manhattan, and served by the wives of the members of the two-county group.

Gaylord Munson, program chairman, has announced the afternoon program will be headlined by Under Secretary of Agriculture, John Schnitker, Washington, D.C., who will speak on "Problems Current to Agriculture of Today."

Other speakers will include Dean Carroll Hess, Dean of Agriculture, KSU, who will discuss "Opportunities in the New Agriculture"; J. F. Reid, Livestock agent of U.P. Railroad, will speak on "Meeting the Challenge of Transportation"; Dr. Drayford Richardson, Prof. of Animal Husbandry at KSU, will talk on "Beef Cattle Nutrition."

The Chapman High School Music Department will provide special entertainment for the day. The public is cordially invited to attend this educational event.

Half Million To Surface Quarter Of Turnpike

The Kansas Turnpike has received low bids of $485,085 for resurfacing more than one-fourth of the 236-mile turnpike.

A major part of the turnpike southward from Topeka will be involved in the work. In addition plans call for several miles of overlay and spot work on the 60 miles between Topeka and Kansas City, Kansas.

Blacktop Construction company, Emporia, made a low bid of $144,075 for 25,500 tons of asphaltic concrete for Lyon County. Ritchie Brothers of Wichita was low at $174,990 on 27,000 tons of asphalt to be used in Chase and Northern Butler Counties, and at $166,020 for 28,500 tons of materials to be used in Southern Butler and Sumner Counties.

Extra Feedlot Weights Attract Meat Imports

DES MOINES, Iowa — Every pound of excess weight added to a steer in a feedlot attracts another pound of imported lean beef, a livestock industry leader declared here.

John H. Guthrie, president of the American National Cattle-men's Assn., in a talk prepared for the annual convention of the Iowa Beef Producers Assn., said:

"For months we have urged feeders to avoid piling on extra pounds in hopes the market will turn upwards shortly. Meanwhile our excessive tonnage gives an excuse for U.S. importers to argue that they must bring in additional lean meat to blend with our extra trimmings."

Guthrie, a feeder and rancher near Porterville, Calif., told the Iowa stockmen that "overfinishing any place in the country creates imbalances in the total beef supply, some of which the modern feeding industry can correct by its own self-discipline in finishing and orderly marketing."

Guthrie warned that the feeding industry might be creating a "monster" because "any animal capable of being fed is being bought for feeding. Instead of allowing it to go directly to slaughter as lean beef to fill our big hamburger and processingmeat demand."

He pointed out, however, that increasing labor costs in American packing plants meant a decreasing demand for processing beef here. "Our packers simply cannot pay the high labor costs for boning and compete with the low labor inputs of imported products."

"We could literally give the packers a lean animal and they still could not compete," Guthrie said. "The only way they could be competitive in the markets for lean animals would be for the entire cattle price level to rise, but this does not look likely if feeders continue to overfeed their cattle."

Here's April Price Forecast

Kansas livestock men have the best price prospects for April, according to the Market Forecast report issued this week by Kansas State University agricultural economists.

Wheat is another product that should enjoy a good month price-wise.

The situation by commodities is as follows:

LAMBS — Steady to Slightly Higher. Some seasonal increase as quality improves.

FEEDER CATTLE - Steady to Slightly Higher. Slight seasonal increase as grass season approaches.

HOGS — Steady to Slightly Higher. Good demand, higher quality, and declining receipts may bring some help.

WHEAT — Steady to Slightly Higher.

Continued dry weather and increased foreign food needs spur price prospects.

FED CATTLE — Steady. Large receipts and heavy weights will prevent much upward trend.

CORN, GRAIN SORGHUMS, AND SOYBEANS — Steady. Weather is critical factor. Greater acreage to be seeded in 1967.

SOYBEAN MEAL — Steady to Slightly Lower. Weather is critical factor.

EGGS — Slightly Lower. Continued high production during the next several weeks.

ALFALFA HAY — Slightly Lower. Weather is critical factor.

GRADE A AND MANUFACTURING MILK — Slightly Lower. Normal seasonal price drop as production increases.

FARMERS OUTLOOK

L.H. Simerl

First Hog, Then Beef Improvement

In recent months, hog prices have been lower than we expected. The principal reason: Farmers sent far more hogs to market than they reported on government surveys. Let's look at the record — as shown in the quarterly Pig Crop Reports, and hog slaughter:

In June of last year, reports from farmers to the USDA showed a spring pig crop of 47 million head, 10 percent more than in 1965; in ten Corn-Belt states, farmers had 45 million hogs and pigs on hand, only 7 percent more than a year earlier.

In September, farmers in the ten Corn Belt states reported 46 million hogs and pigs on hand — again, only 7 percent more than a year before.

The December Pig Crop Report showed a fall pig-crop total of 39.8 million head, 9 percent more than a year before. And it showed an inventory of hogs and pigs on hand December 1 totaling 55.1 million, also 9 percent more than a year earlier.

Slaughter Rates Up. Now, check slaughter. The August kill was 9 percent more than in 1965; September, up 8 percent; October, up 12 percent; and November, up 7 percent. Up to that time, slaughter was in line with expectations, based on the Pig Crop Reports.

But a big change appeared in December. That month, commercial hog slaughter was 28 percent greater than the year before. January slaughter was up even more — 33 percent. February was about 22 percent over the level of the year before.

Other Factors Helped Depress Prices. During the last 5 months of 1966, beef output was up about 6 percent from the previous year. January output topped the previous-year figure by 8 percent; February was up about 13 percent.

The production of poultry meat during the last 5 months of 1966 topped the level of the previous year by 11 percent. January production was up about 9 percent.

Imports of meats also increased during 1966 — up about 26 percent from the previous 12 months. (They totaled 1273 million pounds for the year. At the same time, poultry output was 8811 million pounds and red meats — beef, pork, veal, lamb and mutton — totaled 32,095 million pounds.)

Housewives March. Last fall a small number of housewives staged protests about what they called "the high prices of meats and other foods." Their actions and the resulting publicity undoubtedly made many women overly sensitive about meat prices. When they trimmed their purchases, prices had to be marked down in order to move the meat farmers were bringing to market each week.

More recently, some factory workers have been laid off, and there has been some talk of a possible business recession. Families have cut their spending and increased their saving. Some business firms have been having economy drives — tightening up on such things as expense accounts for officials and salesmen.

In summary — all major livestock price-making factors have been unfavorable in recent months. At least some of them (notably beef output) should become less bearish during the remainder of this year. We expect moderate price improvement — first for hogs, later for cattle.

Pigs can contract atrophic rhinitis right after birth. With this disease showing up in at least half the herds, that's wasting a lot of feed.

There's a new drug combination in CO-OP Pig Feeds which does something about atrophic rhinitis: Tylan and sulfamethazine. Tylan has been a ready answer for steady weight gains and scours control. Sulfamethazine acts against the major cause of atrophic rhinitis - bordatella organisms. The sulfa compound also increases scours protection and further promotes growth.

If you're farrowing soon, ask for the scours control and weight-gain insurance you need in CO-OP Pig Pre-Starter.

If you're buying feeder pigs, you can cover them too. Get Tylan and sulfa in CO-OP Pig Starter Complete.

Ask your Co-op feed man about Tylan and sulfa for all pigs up to 75 pounds.

Farm Debt Pacing Income Gains

PRATT — At a Pratt County Farmers Union meeting last week, Republican Rep. Bob Dole, a member of the House Committee on Agriculture, said. "What is especially alarming in agriculture is the increase which occurred in farm debt.

According to the President's economic report, combined real estate and other debt of farmers increased $4.2 billion during 1966 (from $41.6 to $45.8). This works out to an average of $1220 increased indebtedness per farm, whereas the real dollar increase in net income per farm amounted to only $323.

Naturally some farmers would be willing to endure additional indebtedness when incurred under a program of investment calculated to improve future net income from expanded or more efficient farm operations. However, the record over the past six years does not reveal improvement in net income commensurate with increased indebtedness.

"The accumulated net income per farm improvement over 1960 for the past six years amounted to $5290. At the same time, net indebtedness per farm increased $4540, leaving a net income excess of only $750 for the six-year period," Dole said.

"It is recognized that while farm debt has been going up, farm equity has been going up even more. But most of this increased equity represents inflated farm land values. Although these may offer a source of comfort to farm land owners, the fact remains that the farmers must still pay off indebtedness. Without adequate net income to do so, he is left with no choice except to liquidate some of his equity or go out of business.

"Looking at the farm economy as a whole, net farm income (in terms of inflated dollars rather than real dollars) increased by $900 million. At the same time, total farm debt increased by $4.2 billion. And almost all ($820 million) of the $900 million increase came from increased federal government payments to farmers — not farm improvement in the market prices of their products.

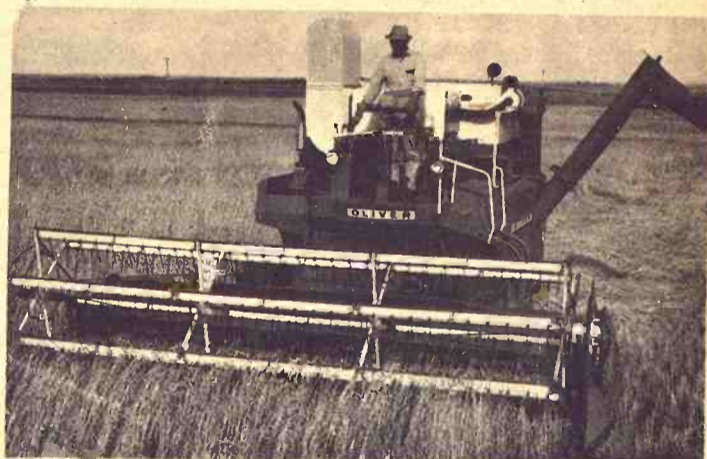

Congressman Dole also added, "Under the Administration's inflationary policies, costs of farm production increased $2.5 billion during 1966; farm land prices went up an average 8 per cent.

'Allow More Feed Ground,' He Urges

An increase of 7 million acres in land planted to corn and other feed grains was urged last week by the president of the Corn Refiners Association "to avoid very high prices for meats, poultry and other foods."

In an open letter to the secretary of agriculture, Robert C. Liebenow called for a corn crop of 5 billion bushels. He demanded that cooperating farmers be required to reduce their base acreage of corn no more than 10 per cent, instead of the 20 per cent now called for to qualify for price support loans.

Immediate action to increase corn acreage is imperative, Liebenow said, "to avert what threatens to disastrous shortages and a resultant catastrophe." He accused the Department of Agriculture of using "legerdemain" in estimating this year's corn crop at 4.6 billion bushels.

"To predict a corn yield of 4.6 billion bushels in 1967 the department had to assume an average yield of 77 bushels an acre," Liebenow said. "Amazingly enough, this is 3.2 bushels per acre above the highest yield on record which was 73.8 bushels per acre in 1965." In 1966 the yield per acre was only 72.1 bushels.

The Department of Agriculture has eliminated payments to farmers for voluntary diversion of acreage in feed grains but the 20 per cent cut of base acreage remains. Policy makers for the department apparently fear the depressing effect on prices that returning presently idle acres to cultivation might have.

Liebenow was not the first to warn against the consequences of a short corn crop this year. Herbert J. Waters, assistant administrator of the Agency for International Development who heads its office of war on hunger, said earlier this month that "it is evident that there must be a marked increase in production of feed grains."

Aside from the need for feed grains in U.S. foreign aid programs, he said, commercial demands at home and a raising export requirement indicate a significant increase in production. "Otherwise, rather drastic cuts will have to be made in utilization rather than for foreign assistance," Waters told the American Meat Institute earlier this month.

In his letter, Liebenow said, "The department is gambling on the most favorable set of circumstances possible in estimating a 4.6 billion bushel crop of corn for 1967."

He added that if a drought such as was experienced in 1934 and 1936 took place this year, the corn production could be 3.5 billion bushels or lower.

From PURINA Research...

BIG NEWS FOR HOGMEN!

Purina researchers have announced improvements in Purina Early Weaning Chow, Baby Pig Chow and Pig Startena.

A series of 34 separate research tests on 827 pigs proved the following benefits:

12.4% faster gains
5.2% savings in feed
5 % reduction in scours

Test pigs gained an average of 1.18 lbs. per day on the new ration... only 1.05 lbs. on the old formula. It took only 200 lbs. of total feed to produce 100 lbs. of pork with the new formula as compared to 211 lbs. of feed on the old ration.

Research also indicates these improvements aid in the maintenance of weight gains in the presence of rhinitis. New and improved Purina Early Weaning Chow, Baby Pig Chow and Pig Startena now are available at our Store with the Checkerboard Sign.

Minimum tillage systems farming puts a crop in fast and right, and holds a lot of money-making benefits for you if your land and crop plan are right for it. The time-saving story is obvious—fewer trips through the field. But just as important is the increased ability of the rough soil surface to hold moisture, reduce weed competition. Seed germinates faster, seedlings emerge quicker, tilth is better because compaction is reduced—all adding up to high yields with increased profits. And Allis-Chalmers has the row widths and spacings to put you into a profitable minimum tillage system all the way! ## Farmland Picks New President To Succeed Young Farmland Industries is going to get a new president next September.

The Kansas City-based co-op supplier has named a man who just joined the organization four years ago to succeed Homer Young, who will retire.

The new president will be Ernest T. Lindsey, who joined Farmland — then known as the Consumers Cooperative Association — from a petrochemical vice-presidency with the Celanese Chemical Co. at Corpus Christi, Texas.

Ernest Lindsey

Lindsey will become only the third president in the co-op's 38-year old history. Young was named president in 1961 after Howard Cowden, the founder, became chairman of the board.

Young has been with the company since 1931. He became assistant general manager in 1949.

Lindsey was named executive vice president for manufacturing and production in March 1966. He started as assistant general manager in the same field.

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Cream sugar and butter well. Add 1 egg. Add flour, baking powder, flavoring and marmalade. Drop by teaspoons onto greased pan. Bake at 375 degrees for eight to ten minutes. "Very good; something new in cookies."

Blanch Rindt, R1, Marion: "First I want to say we really enjoy Grass & Grain. It keeps us posted on so many markets, etc. I am sending a recipe that I have used for many years and we enjoy it very much."

BLARNEY STONES

2 cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
Sift together; add 1 cup boiling water and stir hard. Fold in beaten egg whites of 4 eggs. Also 1 teaspoon vanilla. Bake in pans lined with wax paper at 350 degrees. When done remove from pans. Cut into pieces about 2x2-inch or whatever size wanted.

ed. Ice on all sides and top with icing made with powdered sugar and milk or cream and vanilla. Then roll in salted peanuts or coconut. Peanuts can be crushed with rolling pin. "I bake mine in two pans about 7 1/2 x 7 1/2 inches. It makes 24."

This recipe is from Mrs. Paul Rombeck of Blue Rapids:

Bring to boil. Pour over powdered sugar and 1 cup chopped nuts. Pour over cake while both are hot. (Note: "Start frosting five minutes before cake is done so both will be hot. This is rich and good.")

Mrs. Melvin Carlson, 1925 Riley Blvd., Manhattan: "My husband started getting Grass & Grain before we married. Now that we are married I beat him to the mailbox when it comes. Thank you for a wonderful paper. Here is a recipe I would like to share with other readers."

Manhattan Hatchery 1967 Chick Buyers Guide

We offer this year the choice of four breeds that have proven most profitable. H & N, which we feature, again leads the parade because H & N are easy to raise and work with; and they produce best with proper management.

DIAMOND LAYERS (100 Series) is the same bird we have sold for several years, and it, too, has gained in favor. This bird is superior to most top crosses and at a price much lower.

CALIFORNIA WHITES. Probably on its way to becoming the most profitable cross in America. It is bred and produced by one of the outstanding poultry breeders in America.

CORNISH ROCK. The top broiler cross. It will run at least 1/4 lb. heavier than any other bird at a given age.

Now Available - Nasturtiums With The Blooms On Top

For years nasturtiums hid their flowers under their leaves, thus annoying gardeners who preferred to look at bright flowers rather than green foliage. Now plant breeders have produced nasturtiums with the blooms on top — held well above the foliage. All the new nasturtiums varieties are of this type. Look for such names as Cherry Rose, Cherry Scarlet or Jewel Mixed when you buy seeds. The first two are separate colors, of course, while the third, as the name implies, is a mixture including these two colors plus many other tints and shades. Jewel Mixed is considered an improvement of the popular Dwarf Gem nasturtiums. Plants are a foot high, of the dwarf bush type and may grow 1½ feet across. Flowers are plentifully produced and are, of course, excellent for cutting.

Look at the accompanying illustration to see how lovely they are in simple arrangement. Then remember they're as easy to grow as dropping the seeds in the soil — anywhere there is full sun and the soil is not rich.

Room Divider

For an effective room divider, use open bookshelves. Filled with good books and a few attractive ornaments they provide a homey touch, too.

Smoother Ironing

For smoother ironing, rub your hot iron over a piece of waxed paper a few times.

Use Tea Ball To Hold Spices

Use a metal tea ball to hold spices and herbs that are to be discarded after making preserves, stews, soups and chowders.

Reroofing Is No Project For The Do-It-Yourselfer

Even if you're an experienced do-it-yourselfer, you shouldn't tackle reroofing.

Although professional roofers can maneuver the height and pitch of a roof with ease, it is a dangerous place for amateurs. What's more, reroofing demands skill. For these reasons, it is best to turn the job over to a qualified contractor.

Modern roofing, which is the result of extensive research, now offers homeowners the best roofing material for their money. Correctly applied by a contractor, a good roof will give long-lasting trouble-free service. Asphalt heavyweight shingles, for example, provide a durable weathershield against snow, rain, wind and sun.

Since installation costs are about the same for all shingles, it is economical in the long run to reroof with heavyweights. Their added weight and thickness assure a stronger, more durable roof and the manufacturer stands behind their performance.

Tuna On A Tray

Happily, modern living makes fewer demands of formalities at mealtime. Occasionally, it's fun to serve the family in front of the fire... or during a favorite tv show. And it's on such occasions that tuna really comes into its own. Tuna casseroles are convenient one-dish meals that carry easily into another room. They're easy to eat from a tray. Hearty, delicious and nutritious! A serving of tuna provides the same first class protein as a comparable serving of lean meat! Break the monotony of mealtime — Once in a while, serve "tuna on a tray."

Handy Item For Gardener

As the gardening season opens the experienced gardener readies a few necessities and keeps them handy. For instance, two sturdy stakes and a good strong line the length of the longest row to be planted in the garden.

This combination is to be used, of course, to plant straight rows, the line stretched between the stakes at either end of row.

A Dry 1966

Any listing of extremely dry years in Kansas would include 1936, 1956 and now 1966. This past year was the driest of record in the northeastern division of Kansas and precipitation ranged from 54 to 84 percent of normal in the nine divisions in the state.

Statewide, 1966 was the fourth driest year of record: precipitation averaged 19.5 inches compared to 14.9 inches in 1956, the driest recorded. The graph shows, by geographic divisions, how 1966 moisture compared with the long-term mean (1931-1960), with the flood year 1951 and with 1956.

tween rural electric cooperatives and municipal utilities over the right to serve rural areas, now before the state legislature, has been carried into the city election here.

So has the water rights conflict between Russell and Hays.

Charles Boyle, attorney, has made the two conflicts the main planks of his platform in challenging re-election of Mayor Roger Williams.

Boyle said, "I believe city utilities should not be competing with private enterprise."

The City of Russell has extended its utility lines into rural areas near Russell, and the Smoky Hill Rural Electric Cooperative Association has protested to the Kansas legislature that Russell is infringing in its area of service.

This association and other electric cooperatives are supporting proposed legislation that would require cities to get state corporation commission approval before furnishing electricity outside the city limits. Present law exempts cities from approval.

Dollars For Pigs, But No Porkers

A G&G area project which would have sent 108 white pigs to Vietnam in a People-to-People program has struck a snarl.

Instead of pigs, the project committee is going to have to send money to buy pigs.

The change has disappointed men who cooperated with the program, but the priorities of war forced the change.

The "Pigs for Peace" committee at Downs was notified by the U.S. Air Force that it couldn't furnish transportation as agreed.

Dan Vander Giesen, chairman, said the government explained that escalation of the war has taken all priority on Air Force aircraft.

So the 108 white hogs were sold last week at auction at the Vander Giesen farm near Downs. Included were purebred Yorkshire and other good breeding stock.

Instead of sending the pigs, the committee will send the money from the sale to Vietnam to buy pigs there and give them to needy farmers.

The pigs — 98 of them are bred gilts expected to farrow in May — represented approximately a $7000-$8000 investment, said Jim Finley, son of the former Downs minister who started the idea.

Finley thought it possible the sale of the pigs would bring in more money than the $7000-$8000 estimated value because "those pigs were picked as the best out of about 10 different herds of hogs, and the owners had lowered the price for the People-to-People project."

The work, time, feedyards, water, care, processing and other items were contributed without pay by the Pigs-for Peace committee.

Vander Giesen's public statement of the change in plans admitted the committee was disappointed but not discouraged because the new project "will do much good, but with less meaning."

"We still have a great project, a great aim, and thousands of people know what we stand for and hope to accomplish," he said.

Finley said the major disappointment is that the delegation can't see the farmers who receive the pigs "and show them we really do care and this isn't just a government program."

The pigs were to be received by his father, S. Ben Finley, who is working in Vietnam under the Agency for International Development.

Finley wanted them to start a breeding station. Each Vietnamese farmer who receives pigs would pledge to return one from the first litter to extend the project.

The Pigs-for-Peace committee has been told by AID officials that pigs can be bought in Vietnam. The younger Finley said he hadn't any idea how the quality would compare with the Kansas project pigs.

He Can't Spill Anyone's Milk

PAOLA — An NFO member can hold milk from his own farm from the market but he can't spill someone else's.

So said a Miami County judge last week to F. Gordon Miller, 29, of Stilwell, Ks. Miller was accused of dumping 1500 gallons milk from a truck and was convicted of maliciously destroying the property of another. He was fined $116.75 and sentenced to 60 days in jail, then released on six months parole.

Miller was arrested after Olin Crotchett, driver of the truck, complained his path on a country road was blocked by a pickup truck and that 1500 gallons of milk were dumped from the truck he was driving. The milk truck was owned by the Greater Kansas City Pure Milk Producers Association.

Political Pressure From U.S. Farm Capacity

The job of trying to help feed a hungry world poses many problems for the United States. But the bountiful production and agricultural know-how in this country also exert some powerful political and propaganda pressure all over the globe. This is the assessment of knowledgeable sources in Washington who point out that the United States, using only 5 per cent of its labor force, feeds not just 5 per cent of its labor force, but its own 200 million population, 60 million in India and 100 million in other parts of the world.

The fantastic food production record in this country is dramatized by the observation that the American farmer can now produce more before breakfast than he could in an entire day 30 years ago.

The political leverage inherent in this situation is focused on two surces — the underdeveloped countries which because of their population explosions, look to this country for help, and the Communist nations which are woefully inept in agriculture despite all their boastings that their system is the wave of the future.

For example, well-informed quarters in Washington believe that one of the greatest deterrents to Red China intervening in the war in Vietnam is its severe food crisis.

Food shortages are developing on Mainland China following another poor crop year.

China already has purchased more than 4 million tons of wheat for delivery in 1966 and 1967 and it appears likely that total imports for this period will at least equal the 6 million ton level of recent years.

In addition, Red China spends about 40 percent of its foreign exchange on imports of fertilizer which it gets mostly from Japan and Western Europe.

Thus if Peking becomes involved in a major war, Japan and Western Europe as American allies certainly would cut off the supply of fertilizer to the Chinese mainland which would precipitate a major domestic crisis.

The pinch on China is evident by the fact that it must feed 750 million persons with production from about the same amount of land that this country uses.

The sharpest challenge to this country is what to do about feeding India where demands for food continue to grow.

It is no secret that the United States is disenchanted with the poor job India has done in procuring fertilizer, a key element in the production of food.

Several American companies have been asked to build fertilizer plants in India but they all turned down the request with the explanation that they got burned badly on previous ventures there.

It is estimates there will be another billion people in the world by 1980 or 1982.

It is obvious that the United States alone can't meet this challenge on supplying food.

The only recourse appears to be the "exporting" of American know-how, new farming techniques, and expert management.

The spelling may be off, but the meaning is clear on this sign near Quenemo. A farmer put up the sign in his cornfield to discourage fishermen from digging for bait on his property.

Bigger Overseas Incomes Mean More U.S. Exports

MANHATTAN — U. S. agricultural exports are booming. Roughly $6.8 billion worth of farm products were shipped abroad in 1965-66, almost twice the 1954-55 total.

One big reason for the soaring exports is an income explosion in Europe and Japan, says L. Orlo Sorenson, associate professor of economics at Kansas State University. More than 70 percent of our dollar exports and approximately 54 percent of total exports of agricultural commodities in 1965-66 went to these areas.

Per capita income in Japan and Europe has risen sharply during the past 10 years, he says. The result has been a growing demand for food products. Dietary shifts to more animal products require an increase in food grain imports. The growth in commercial exports of feed grains and oilseed products from the U.S. reflects an increase in this kind of demand.

USDA figures provide numerous examples of expanded agricultural imports by countries with rising per capita income. In 1960, Spain imported about $65 million worth of U.S. farm products, almost entirely under food-for-peace programs. By 1965, Spanish imports had doubled. Virtually all these sales were through commercial channels. Per capita income in the country increased from $290 to $517 during the period.

The USDA points out that foreign countries increased their imports of U.S. agricultural products about 11 percent for each 10 percent increase in per capita income between 1938 and 1961.

While commercial exports have skyrocketed, yearly sales under government financed programs, particularly Public Law 480, have hovered near the $1.6 billion figure since 1956. In fact, shipments under aid programs in 1965-66 were down almost $40 million from a year earlier.

A new trend in U.S. agricultural exports during recent years has been the shift in the destination of aid shipments. Half of our food-for-peace exports went to Europe in 1955, for example, compared to only 10 percent in 1965. Japan, an important recipient of PL-480 shipments in 1955, is now entirely a cash importer of U.S. farm products.

Countries in the Near East and Asia received less than 20 percent of our food-for-peace shipments in 1955. These nations accounted for more than 60 percent of total aid shipments 10 years later.

Cowherd Serves As Cancer Lab

MANHATTAN — An isolated herd of 20 Holstein cattle is being used in leukemia research by veterinary doctors at Kansas State University. The cattle — all infected with cancer — are studied to determine leukemia causes and early diagnosis which may save human lives.

Dr. Embert H. Coles, director of the research, says leukemia in cattle causes reactions "very much the same" as in man.

The Kansas division of the American Cancer society is financing part of the research.

The veterinarians have been at their tedious task two and one half years. So far they have confirmed that an abnormally high white blood cell count is one reason to suspect leukemia. But methods must be found to discover the disease earlier.

For example, the research has shown that cattle with normal blood count can have hidden leukemia which doesn't show up until too late.

Recently we slaughtered nine cattle believed to be negative in signs of leukemia," Dr. Coles says. "Postmortem examination revealed five had cancers in their kidneys. We are missing something. So we are now working on other methods of identifying leukemic animals."

Some of the new research approaches:

- Leukemic cells from animals' blood or lymph fluids are examined under electron microscopes for identification of virus-like particles.
- Proteins in the animals are being studied to determine if changing levels might indicate cancer. So far they don't.

K-State and the University of Kansas Medical Center are co-operating to determine what effect serum and tissues from cancerous cows have when injected into mice.

Lafin Angus Top At $1285

OLSBURG — The Lafin Brothers Angus sale topped at $1285, with the top bull selling at the price to Spence Angus Farm, Beatrice, Nebr.

The second top brought $1150, Walter Dunlap of Parker, Ks., being the buyer.

Bob Lafin reported buyers from three states at the sale.

The first 12 bulls to enter the auction averaged $707. Lafin said half of the bull offerings were just yearling bulls. The female sale was one of the highest in the area this spring in spite of the dry weather, he said.

Top female and second top both went to Warren Poston of Manhattan. He paid $600 for one and $500 for another.

David Karnowski of Emmett was the volume bull buyer, buying six of the top quality bulls.

Marvin Cottrell — Phone 889-4461 or 889-4665

Attention was first called to the leukemic herd in 1964 following complaints by its South-east Kansas owner that the cows lacked appetite. Investigation revealed no nutritional deficiencies. Then it was discovered the animals had a high incidence of leukemia. About 20 of the original herd of 50 was infected.

Here was a research "gold mine" that Dr. Coles and his colleagues immediately recognized. The university purchased the herd and isolated it for study.

The herd has other unusual advantages. It has been a closed herd for 18 years. Complete breeding and production records since 1949 are available. Artificial insemination has been used exclusively since 1959 with the herd.

Horse Dies At Age 49

A Morgan gelding, which lived to be 49 years old died recently at a ranch near Topeka. The bay horse was owned by John Harvey of Topeka. Named Star, the horse was born in July 1918 on the Cimarron K-Diamond Ranch, Oklahoma. Star was sold to the U. S. Army as a 4-year old, but was discharged because he was beginning to buck whenever near a band.

Bob Crosby, famous rodeo performer, owned the horse from 1926 until the early 1940s when Crosby rode Star into a fence while in a rodeo. Harvey owned the horse since the accident.

Wrong Figures Cool Cattle Prospect

By Robert L. Coppersmith
Recent revisions in cattle numbers have darkened the previously bright outlook for prices during the next few months.

USDA's Statistical Reporting Service originally estimated total cattle on farms on January 1, 1967, at 104.5 million. The revised estimate placed the number at approximately 108.5 million.

The revision was made on the basis of data obtained from the 1964 Census of Agriculture and other data which have become available since the original estimates were made.

In short, there were more cattle than previously estimated.

Thus, anticipated price increases are unlikely during the next 60 to 90 days.

The effect of the new estimate will dampen any undue optimism that may have existed earlier in the year. With more beef cows on farms this year, we can expect a larger calf crop. Thus, feeder cattle prices will not reach previously predicted levels.

There were 7 percent more cattle on feed January 1, 1967, than a year earlier. Thus, farmers can look for fed cattle prices to continue weak for the next 60 to 90 days before showing improvement. Prices of feeder cattle and calves may show some strength this spring, but no great rise is expected.

Two Blocks To Car Theft

General Motors Corp. will take two steps against car theft in making its 1968 model automobiles.

One will be installation of a buzzer device that warns a driver when he leaves his car if he has left the key in the ignition switch. The buzzer is activated when he opens the car door.

The second is the locating of the car identification number on the instrument panel, visible from the outside, as well as on the engine and transmission. Roche said this will aid in recovery of a stolen car and also serve as a deterrent to theft.

Debate On Crossbreed Gain

A debate on purebred cattle vs. crossbreeds sparked the fifth annual convention of the Oklahoma Hereford Breeders' Association at Tulsa.

Charles E. Ball, editor of Farm Journal, said Texas cattlemen have been realizing 5 per cent heavier gains from crossing Herefords and Angus and cited one example of calves from a Charolais-Angus strain averaging an extra 72 pounds at weaning time.

"Beef people are passing up a chance for a 20 to 25 per cent increase in pounds of gain," Ball said.

Dr. Rufus Cox of the Animal Husbandry Department at Kansas State University took sharp issue with the advocates of crossbreeding.

Any gains made from crossbreeding, Cox said, fade out after one generation.

"This is nothing new," Cox said. "We've had cycles or waves of enthusiasm for crossbreeding for the last 125 years. The crossbreeder needs a 17 or 18 per cent premium on his cattle just to break even."

Cox said crossing purebreds might produce a short term gain, but after the second or third generation it would destroy years of progress made in the beef industry.

Wonder What It'll Bring?

Big Response To Manz 2-Day Sale

ESKRIDGE — Angus cows with calves averaged out $250 and springers at $200 in the K. W. Manz herd dispersal north of here March 20. Yearlings in the 450 head herd brought $140 to $184, most of the buyers coming from Clay, Geary and Washburn counties.

While most of the stock was purebred, all animals were sold without papers. Angus predominated. Purebred Angus bulls went at $315 to $515.

The sale of machinery was held March 23, with another turnout of bidders from many counties in Grass & Grain area. Some of the outstanding machinery sales included a 1959 IHC 101 combine which sold for $2020. A 1963 International 560 diesel tractor brought $3540. A

LIVESTOCK COMMISSION
COMPANY

St. Marys
Kans.

We sold 3145 cattle and 739 hogs last week. The market was definitely lower on all classes of cattle. The plainer cattle with flesh were the hardest hit. The better kinds of yearlings and calves carrying good condition found a very good outlet. Our hog top was $18.50.
