National 4-H Week Ideas

National 4-H Week is a time when our whole country is reminded of the experiences of 4-H membership. People may feel that 4-H is good but may not know just why they feel this way.

This special week for 4-H is a special time when we should make sure all people know about 4-H and understand why the development gained from project work and other aspects of 4-H is that from which each and every young person in the world could benefit.

How do we tell others about our 4-H experiences? How do we show them the value of these experiences? What can we do? A number of clubs participate in some special activity during National 4-H Week.

One good way to gain ideas is to learn what is being done to tell others about 4-H and how effective it is. A sampling of activities this year conducted by clubs during this special week would provide many ideas for every 4-H club in Kansas.

The Kansas 4-H Journal would like to gather some of these ideas and present them to you about the time you are looking for ideas next year. With the 1965 National 4-H Week fresh in your minds, now would be a good time for you to send us a report of what your club or county did, plus some pictures for use in a feature article in the Journal.

So-send us your ideas and we will bounce many your way when you are ready to pick up the ball and plan for next year's National 4-H Week.

OUR COVER

We spent some time with the Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sleichter and family, Route 4, Abilene, during the 1965 Kansas State Fair.

Their children; Jerry, a college freshman; Diane, a high school freshman; and Kathy, a nine-year-old first year 4-H member, are active members of the Willowdale 4-H Club of Dickinson county.

Turn to page 5 and take a trip around the fair with the Sleichters.

Overnight Spent Camping

Forty Ford county teenage 4-H members recently had an opportunity to get a taste of camping along with a chance to make new friends.

They were overnight campers at the Southwest 4-H campgrounds on the Ford county lake. All took part in regular camping duties and each group took part in activities such as swimming, skiing and educational sessions.

Sponsored as an activity of the Ford county 4-H Council, a recreation committee of the council was the planning committee. Members of the committee provided most of the equipment other than regular camping equipment. Among their responsibilities were planning and conducting a night party, weiner roast and vespers.

Water skiing lessons were one of the highlights of the entire camping session. Before the boys and girls were allowed to enter the water, a film was shown that explained the basic techniques of skiing and a skiing lesson was given on shore.

Ford county club agent, Bill Lotz, reports that it was surprising the number of boys and girls who had never tired skiing. In one group more than half of the 4-H'ers had never been on skis. After the day of lessons and many spills, though, 15 boys and girls who had never been on skis had become skiers.

Boats were provided by local farmers who were interested in 4-H and in promoting water safety.

Ford county agents say that an overnight teen camp could work for your county. It stimulates the interest of the older 4-H'ers to continue in 4-H and remain active.

A Winning Demonstration

Mary Lou Obermeyer, Marshall county, says, "You don't have to ask Mom where your blouse or shirt is—see to it that it is ready to wear by doing it yourself"-and she shows how in her grand champion demonstration.

Mary Lou is a member of the Balderson Boosters 4-H Club. She stressed work and time saving methods and use of correct equipment in her demonstration at the fair this year.

To make her point, Mary Lou told about her family. She said ironing shirts and blouses for her family for one week would take an eight hour day by using methods and procedures many homemakers now use.

As shown in the picture, Mary

Lou demonstrated the use of work saving methods. A comfortable chair is of prime consideration and an adjustable ironing board is necessary if you desire to sit while working.

Mary Lou warned that these are days when all of us are trying to find ways to get things done with less effort and more efficiency. She demonstrated placement of ironing equipment to save time and work—the clothes basket, clothes caddy for hanging garments, a table within reach for folded articles.

Mary Lou also warned about using long extension cords. A cord of more than ten feet will cut down the heating capacity of the iron.

The $4\frac{1}{2}$ minute method of ironing a shirt was stressed by Mary Lou in her winning demonstration. She shows how to save work and time, too.

So—as Mary Lou says—aching feet and legs aren't proof of best ironing, but using correct equpiment, methods and procedures will be a real start on making the job easier and still have a well-pressed look.

'Trick or Treat' for UNICEF

Many Kansas 4-H clubs will "Trick or Treat" for UNICEF this Halloween. UNICEF is the United Nations Childrens Fund which sponsors help for children around the world.

Funds for UNICEF buy milk, medicine and other needs for children. One nickel will buy 25 glasses of milk, 25 vitamin tablets or vaccine to protect 5 children from TB.

Kits of materials may be ordered from the U.S. Committee for UNICEF. The kits include identification stickers, collection containers, planning suggestions and information posters and hand-outs.

County Extension offices in Kansas have additional material for 4-H clubs wishing to "Trick or Treat for UNICEF." Orders should be placed now.

Greeting cards may also be purchased from this U.S. Committee.

New, Revised Bulletins Ready for Distribution

Written for you and revised with you in mind are several bulletins distributed by the Extension Service at Kansas State University.

Headlining new bulletins is one on "Experimenting with Electricity," to be used in one phase of the electric project. Two more bulletins are in the planning for the electric project.

"4-H Judging," with information and suggestions, will be of interest to every 4-H'er whether or not they particularly are interested in judging.

Younger members and their parents will find the bulletin "4-H Projects for Younger Members" of interest and of guidance.

"Junior Leadership a Guide for 13 to 15 Year Olds" will be helpful to older 4-H club members. Soon there will be a bulletin for "Older 4-H'ers."

Rounding out other recently new or revised bulletins are "Let's Learn to Knit," "4-H Entomology Manual," and "Knowing Trees as Individuals."

Requests for these free bulletins or any bulletins distributed by the Extension Service should be made to a County Extension Office.

CONFERES ATTENDING the fourth annual Farm Bureau sponsored citizenship seminar for high school students, held at Rock Springs Ranch, August 17-21, assemble for a picture, upper photo, in front of the meditation chapel. A total of 323 young people and adults participated in the conference. Nine were faculty speakers, 279 were high school juniors and seniors sponsored or co-sponsored by 103 county Farm Bureaus, 21 were junior counselors who attended the 1964 seminar, and 14 were adult members of the seminar administrative staff. Through the media of lectures, films and panel discussions, students became better acquainted with the American Heritage and the advantages of our political and economic systems. At the lower right of the picture is Dr. George S. Benson, Chancellor, Oklahoma Christian College, a conference speaker.

Twenty-one junior counselors assisted in program activities at the Farm Bureau citizenship seminar. Counselors participating were selected because of their outstanding citizenship activities in their communities following attendance at the 1964 seminar. In the lower photo, left to right, top row, are Christine Stucky, McPherson; Danny Buck, Kendell; David Leebrick, Atwood; James Hoobler, Wamego; John Van Dalsem, Fairview; Charles Newcom, Langdon; Donna Crawford, Lincoln; Marilyn Seacat, Ashland. $ $ $ 4-$\mathcal{H}$ Recreation $ $ $ $

By Dick Tomkinson Extension Specialist in 4-H

Easier to use and more beneficial is the goal of the newly revised "Sources for Recreation." Not only are more areas covered, but many new resources are listed.

Wtih new officers elected and plans being completed for the new 4-H year, the revised bulletin could be of help to your club.

Divided into such sections as a thletics, camping, crafts, drama, music, outdoor cookery and social recreation, it differs from the old bulletin in that the new one is divided into sections and is enlarged.

It's not too early to start making plans for club days. If members are interested in getting a one-act play selected, music for a dance or games for a model meeting, contact some of the sources in "Sources for Recreation."

Start a recreation pleasure chest if your club doesn't have one. Start with this newly revised bulletin and write for some of the fine material—such as catalogues and literature listed in it. Ask club members to buy books, equipment, musical records and other things the club could enjoy.

Next year the recreation leader of committee can pass this pleasure chest on to the new recreation leaders or committee and they can add new supplies.

In addition to listing material, the bulletin also lists organizations and businesses who have information regarding places older 4-H'ers and adult leaders can receive recreation training. Scholarships for teenagers to the Co-op sponsored recreation training camps and for adults to attend the Kansas Recreation Workshop are available.

A good place to start planning recreation for the coming year is to get a copy of "Sources for Recreation." No matter what kind of recreation the club plans, a resource will be available for assistance. It's free—ask your county extension office for one.

"Candy, Peanut and Goodies Hunt" is a good game for young 4-H'ers. Hide wrapped candy, peanuts in shells, suckers and other goodies in a certain area, i.e., front and back yard of the meeting place. Give each 4-H'ers a sack to collect and put goodies in.

Explain to them where the "hunting grounds" are. On the signal go, 4-H'ers can rush out of the building and hunt for candy and peanuts. Complete the evening by having the "goodies" serve as refreshments.

Suggestion—Use candy that is wrapped and peanuts in shells. Save some goodies to give to 4-H'ers who don't find much.

Happy hunting!

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT PROJECT

Listen to Darlene Werner, Kingman county

"The Personal Development Project is ideal for teen-agers. It is the answer to many problems and a real challenge to the individual.

"My first work in the project was in the Expression phase. This work helped me with humorous readings and participation in musical numbers.

"Work in the Personal Development Project has helped me choose a career. I am majoring in speech pathology in colloge.

"I urge all teen-age 4-H members to have the experience of this project work."

The people at Southwestern Bell Telephone Company are proud to have a part in this 4-H project by sponsoring awards for outstanding work.

Ideas That Work

Members Profit from Grooming Schools

Saline County 4-H members were better groomed this year at the County Style Revue.

The reason—two grooming schools were conducted to help the boys and girls in choosing their clothing and mcdeling it property. Girls learned about modeling, posture and cleanliness from a former 4-H'er. Boys had an evening session and learned about a basic wardrobe and hints on choosing clothing.

Parents and leaders attended both sessions and were invited to participate in the questions and answer sessions.

"Hobo Night" Increases Attendance

To encourage attendance at their annual Activity Night, the Mulvane 4-H Club, Sedgwick county, conducted a Hobo Party.

Members dressed as hobos and created extra fun and excitement with contests, games, songs and dances for club members, new members, 4-H families and guests.

Linda Davis, 4-H member, strummed her guitar and led a hootenanny consisting of folk songs which the members knew.

Later members provided weiners and buns for a weiner roast. The Activity Night committee furnished potato chips, cold drinks, marshmellows and relishes.

After eating, everyone participated in games and contests. Worst dressed boy, girl, mother and father were selected by popular vote.

4-H'ers Clean Up After Flood

"It's slick!" were the words on the lips of 18 Harvey county 4-H'ers and leaders who came to the aid of a flood stricken 4-H Building in mid-summer.

Water rose to a height of 22" in the building. When the water receded it left approximately 2" of silt on the concrete floor and in the kitchen cupboards.

After the kitchen, floor, walls and restrooms were rid of the remainder of the flood, 4-H'ers bailed water out of the dairy barn by hand while leaders cleaned the showcases.

Progressive Dinner Success

An evening of good food and recreation recently was enjoyed by 42 Harvey County Junior Leaders. A progressive dinner was the event with the first stop being for an appetizer of tomato juice and crackers.

Main course stop consisted of barbecued beef, mixed vegetables, tossed salad and zwiebach. Homemade ice cream and cookies were served at the dessert stop.

Final stop was a recreation room where the group spent the remainder of the evening.

Sheep Fitting, Blocking Taught

Special ability and skills with special tools are required in blocking sheep.

A. C. Hartman, Wyandotte county 4-H sheep project chairman, at his recent sheep fitting and blocking school, stressed that it is good shownmanship to groom and block all show sheep.

Blocking, a method of trimming wool to give the sheep a blocky appearance, is desired for fat lambs showing in 4-H competition.

Hartman instructed members on the use of blocking stand, wool card, shears, brush, curry comb, sharpening stone and hoof trimmer.

Counties Swap 4-H'ers

Four Rice County 4-H'ers recently were swapped for four Santa Clara County, Calif. 4-H'ers for 10 days.

Exchangees found similar facts about

4-H in their respective counties and states, but they also found dissimilar things. One item of interest to Rice County 4-H'ers was that fair premiums Editor's Note: The Kansas 4-H Journal thrives on ideas—those that have been tried successfully by clubs throughout the state and that can be used by other clubs and members. Brief accounts of a community service project, an unusual club meeting, a unique handling of a project are just a few of the topics we can use on the "Ideas" section of the Journal. Send them to the Kansas 4-H Journal, Kansas State University, Manhattan. Copy deadlines are on the first of the preceding month.

in California sometimes go as high as $200 for a top fair booth.

California enjoys a total membership of 37,000 4-H members; she has 10,000 leaders and 1,500 clubs.

Probably the most different thing about California 4-H and Kansas 4-H is the 4-H Council in California is composed entirely of leaders.

Both sets of delegates returned home with new ideas and a hope to perhaps have another exchange soon.

Burdett Conducts Community Fair

At the first Burdett Community Fair, 4-H exhibits and exhibitions were featured throughout the program. The fair, sponsored by local businessmen, was an outgrowth of the Burdett Blue Ribbons 4-H Club Fair conducted the previous five years.

The evening program included a 4-H square dance team and livestock type and fitting and showing demonstrations. A free barbecue supper was served to approximately 500 persons before the program.

Cooking project members sold their exhibits to help furnish the township hall for club meetings.

Ideas In Brief

WYANDOTTE COUNTY . . . The first fair entomology judging contest was conducted for members of the entomology project. Participants were required to identify species and judge the quality of the collections.

LABETTE COUNTY . . . Plates of cup cakes and cookies were presented to Labette County 4-H Journal sponsors, Parsons State Bank, Commercial Bank and Altamont State Bank, by members of the Thrifty Thrivers 4-H club. Each members of the club made something to put on the plates.

ROOKS COUNTY... A special weight guessing contest was conducted during the Woodston Sunflower 4-H club's tour for the second year. All members, leaders and most parents participated in the judging contest with the winners receiving prizes furnished by Woodston Businessmen.

SEDGWICK COUNTY . . . Corrine Christensen, Mount Hope 4-H club, reports that all music has two things in common-Sound and Movement.

RENO COUNTY . . . To make Salem 4-H club members and their families safety conscious, warning flags to be used where needed were distributed.

SALINE COUNTY . . . David Jarvis, Willing Workers 4-H club, demonstrated "The Proper Care of the Planes" at an August meeting.

MANHATTAN . . . Citizenship Shortcourse participants were the only group this summer to tour a foreign embassy in Washington, D.C.

BROOKVILLE . . . After the square dance contest conducted annually at the "Red Circle" auction, participants and viewers square danced and waltzed. Parents set back and watched while members of the younger generation gyrated to the swim, frug, dog and freddie. Bidders from nine states attempted to purchase livestock and sewing machines during the auction.

HARVEY COUNTY . . . Jack Young, Halstead Go Getters 4-H club, says that two lights should be used on a subject when taking a flash picture but be sure not to have the subject face the lights.

PAWNEE COUNTY . . . Forty-four persons representing 10 families attended a recent Pawnee County IFYE reunion honoring present IFYEs and host families.

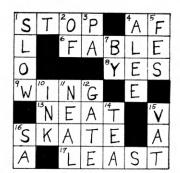

HARVEY COUNTY . . . A new roll call was tried recently at the Highland 4-H club. Each members had his foot measured and paid a penny an inch for it. Lucky 13 4-H club members answered roll call with "The subject I hate." "What I would do with $1.98" was a recent roll call of Walton 4-H club.

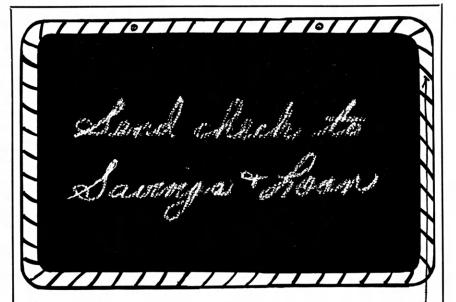

SALINE COUNTY . . . Mustard Seeds 4-H club members kept tradition going when they sponsored the seventh annual family picnic.

Miller, Butler county.

At right—Jerry Jones, Doniphan county, exhibited his telephone radio at the Mid-American Fair. Sound comes out the receiver when off the hook, otherwise from each side of the box. The barrel is a lamb brooder of original construction by Bob Walsten, Reno county. The small drum with control panel is a mock-up of a bulk bin alarm built by Scott Buchanan, Rice county. The alarm sounds when grain fills to a set level and is re-set when the bin level is lowered.

4-H Electric benefits the family. It is practical work of constructing and repairing electrical projects for the home and farm - for convenience and more comfortable living.

Many ideas are presented at Kansas fairs. Here is a glimpse of some of the projects constructed by 4-H members with the help of their leaders.
