Alma Mater

I know a spot that I love full well.
'Tis not in forest nor yet in dell;
Ever it holds me with magic spell,
  I think of thee, Alma Mater.

K. S. A. C., carry your banner high!
K. S. A. C., long may thy colors fly!
Loyal to thee, thy children will swell the cry,
  Hail! Hail! Hail! Alma Mater.

There's a song that my heart would sing,
Telling of homage that love could bring,
Clear and impassioned its notes shall ring,
  I sing of thee, Alma Mater.

Bright beams a beacon across life's sea,
Guiding my bark whereso'er it be;
Emblem of truth and constancy,
  I turn to thee, Alma Mater.

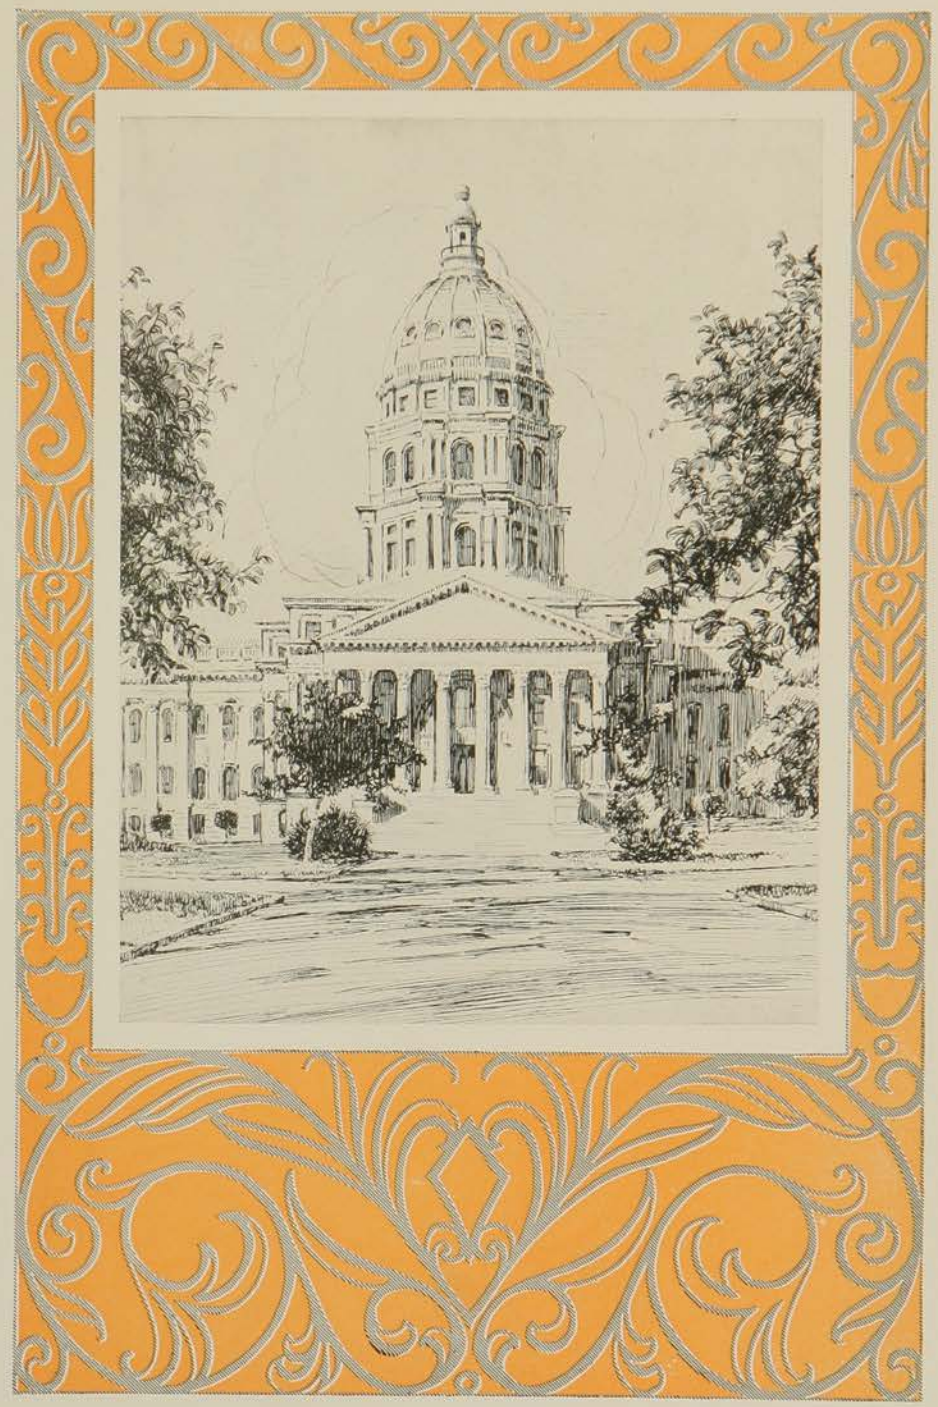
GREAT IS THE GLORY OF KANSAS. HER FAME HAS GONE OUT AFAR AND AMONG ALL THE STATES THERE IS NONE HER EQUAL. WITH WISDOM HAS SHE MADE HER LAWS, CLEAVING UNTO THAT WHICH WAS GOOD AND FORSAKING THAT WHICH WAS EVIL. WITH A VISION OF JUSTICE HITHERTO UNDREAMED OF, SHE HAS BUILDED HER DEMOCRACY.

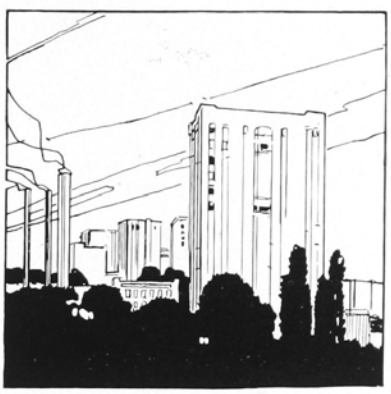
TO KANSAS, GREAT IN HER GLORY, STRONG IN HER WISDOM, AND POWERFUL IN HER DEMOCRACY, WE, THE CLASS OF 1916 RESPECTFULLY DEDICATE THIS, THE EIGHTH VOLUME OF THE ROYAL PURPLE.



Foreword

A Chronicle of the Events of the Past Year, a Portrayal of our College Life as it Exists, a Glimpse of the Spirit of K. S. A. C.—this is the Royal Purple of 1916

CITIES



KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City, with a population of 100,000, is the metropolis of the state, and the county seat of Wyandotte County. The area of the county is approximately 154 square miles, of which Kansas City occupies 19 square miles. The topography of the country is mostly rolling, with fertile valley and rich upland, liberally productive in general farm crops, live stock, fruit and garden truck.

Ranking fifteenth in the United States as a manufacturing center, Kansas City is conspicuous for its high value of products in proportion to population. This situation, coupled with the great number of homes owned by the occupants, makes for satisfaction in home life and contributes to permanent growth and general stability of property values.

Schools, churches, hospitals, transportation facilities, are all sources of pride to the citizen of this city.

TOPEKA.

Topeka, the beautiful and cultured capital of the great state of Kansas, is the county seat of Shawnee County. It is impossible to do her justice in the few words that can be devoted to her here.

Topeka offers every reward of the business world. She has every advantage desired for one seeking a home. She is rich in educational facilities. She is often said to be the political, the social, the educational, the industrial center of the great state of Kansas.

A city of 50,000 hand-picked, lively, prosperous, and contented citizens; with more churches and schools in proportion to its population than any other city in the United States, and being the capital of the greatest state in the Union, Topeka has every reason to be proud. Kansas is proud of Topeka.

LEAVENWORTH.

Leavenworth County, of which Leavenworth is the county seat with a population of 25,000, is the oldest county in the state, and occupies an important and advantageous position both as to commerce and agriculture. The county is rich in resources; the agricultural lands are not excelled in fertility, and as a live stock producing section, it offers unlimited advantages.

Leavenworth has not grown to her size and prominence by eras of boom, but, on the other hand, has had a natural and steady growth, the result and effort of her own people. In quality of homes, schools and churches, no city of her size outranks her.

Leavenworth is the home of the largest military post in the United States; of the Natioanl Soldiers' Home, and a Federal penitentiary.

WICHITA.

"Watch Wichita Win" is the slogan that has inspired the people of Wichita to make of their city one of the most enterprising commercial centers of the entire Southwest. As a distributing point, Wichita is without a rival in this vast territory.

Located as she is in the midst of the great farming and stock raising country, surrounded by a territory rich in all of the natural resources, equipped with the best transportation facilities, provided with a climate that has no equal, and backed by citizenship that believes in her future, Wichita is destined to become one of the greatest of our inland cities.

In her marvelous commercial growth, Wichita has not neglected the social and educational features that are so necessary for an enlightened people. Her schools, churches, hospitals, libraries, parks and clubs are not excelled by cities of much larger population. But Wichita must be seen to be appreciated.

DODGE CITY.

Dodge City is the metropolis of that vast territory known as Southwest Kansas, and is the capital city of Ford County. She has nearly 5,000 people and is still growing rapidly.

A traveler seeing Dodge City for the first time can hardly realize it is in western Kansas. He sees a town with paved streets; a modern lighting system with the wires underground; a modern telephone system; a court house built of dressed stone; a high school building that cost $100,000, and many other improvements that are found only in modern cities.

Dodge City is probably growing faster than any other city her size in the state, having spent over half a million dollars in building operations during 1915. The home building has kept pace with the business growth, and prospects are promising for a bigger and better Dodge City.

COFFEYVILLE.

Coffeyville is a prosperous city of 18,000 inhabitants, situated two miles from the Oklahoma line in Montgomery County, and although located in a splendid farming district, it is a factory town, having, perhaps, more factories than any other town in the state.

Among the large industries, Coffeyville has four railroads, two interurban lines, three oil refineries, one zinc oxide plant, five flour mills and elevators, two foundries and machine shops, four brick plants and many other smaller factories. The payroll of these concerns exceeds $200,000 monthly.

Coffeyville claims the second largest outgoing tonnage in the state, the best and cheapest light and water system in the state, and a White Way that is second to none. She has good schools, good churches, good paving, and is a city noted for her beautiful homes.

MANHATTAN.

Manhattan is situated in a beautiful valley at the junction of the Blue and Kansas Rivers, and is surrounded by one of the finest agricultural sections of the West. She has a population of 8,000 enterprising citizens and is the county seat of Riley County.

As a city of beautiful homes and well-kept streets, Manhattan has a state-wide reputation. The State Agricultural College brings to the city each year, over three thousand of the choicest young people of not only Kansas, but of all the states in the Union. The superior educational advantages have been largely responsible for the select citizenship of the city.

Social advantages are of the highest quality. Eighteen denominations have fine church properties valued at over a quarter of a million dollars. A free public library, two first-class hospitals and a city park of forty-five acres, Eureka Lake with its play grounds and park, and many surrounding points of interest all go to make Manhattan a desirable place in which to live.

WINFIELD.

To be judged the most ideal second-class city in the state of Kansas in which to rear children, is one of the greatest honors that could come to a city, and this honor was won in 1915 by Winfield, the county seat of Cowley County. When the judges who selected Winfield as the winner, saw the ideal school system, the provisions for playgrounds, and the splendid social environment for which this city is noted, they were glad to "tie the blue ribbon" here.

Besides being a model home town, Winfield ranks high as a commercial center. She lies in the center of the great oil and gas district. She has the largest per capita wealth of any city in the state. She is situated in a rich agricultural region that is helping her in a steady growth. The business men of this city realize that the farmers also, are necessary for a city's growth and all work together for the interests of the whole community.

College Year

Arrival

It is usually raining when the students arrive—a gloomy, drizzly rain that makes the new student long for home and mother, and causes the Senior to sigh and say "'Twas ever thus." It was raining when he first came to Manhattan and it has rained at the beginning of every school year since.

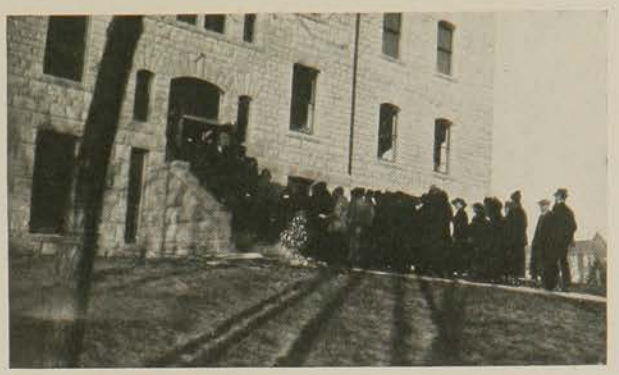
The weather is not bad enough, however to discourage the members of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. They are at the stations in full force, to rescue the wild-eyed Freshman from imaginary evils.

And right nobly do they work—assuring enterprising students that the President is really not keeping roomers this year, hunting lost pocket-books for distracted girls, and helping students, old and new, find rooming places.

Meanwhile the stations keep watch over the newcomers. What strange creatures! Some are timid and retiring, others fairly fling their high-school monograms in the face of the world. And what changes take place! Do the old stations recognize in the dignified Senior of today, the Freshman of four years ago?

Registration

This painful, but necessary step, or rather standstill, takes place in the Gym. First the powers that be, divide the sheep from the goats—the upper classmen enter at the right-hand door and the under classmen at the left—that is, they attempt to enter. As a rule, all are compelled to stand in line for an hour or two before they are really admitted. Presumably this is to take away all inborn ideas of personal liberty and make the student properly submissive. Immediately upon entering he must write down his past history and answer all sorts of prying questions concerning measles, mumps, chicken-pox, and even his age. This is also very subduing, and by the time the student reaches the main floor of the gym, he hands his money over to the Registrar without a murmur.



At last he is ready to be assigned—but the assigner is not ready for him—there is a long line of students ahead of him. So he works out his own assignment with fear and trembling, lest the classes be closed ere he gets it checked. In his turn he goes before the assigner and presents the schedule that he has made. The assigner critically scans his punch-card and finds that four or five grades have not been recorded. So the student hunts all over the campus in search of the lost grades. This usually takes about a day. By the time this matter is straightened, the classes he wishes to get into are full. He is given the best assignment possible, has it checked, and is permitted to leave by the north door. He finds that he has six first hours and not an afternoon off, but—he thanks goodness he is registered and assigned.

Chapel

Chapel is generally defined as a period of one-half hour kindly provided by the Administration for pleasure and recreation. The time is usually spent in campus strolls, or in trips down to Aggieville for eats. In the springtime, Lovers' Lane is in high favor with couples, but in the winter it is said that the Museum is the last resort for the worst cases. Occasionally, seemingly by mistake, some of the students wander into the Auditorium where a few of the Faculty are assembled to hear words of wisdom from celebrated speakers.

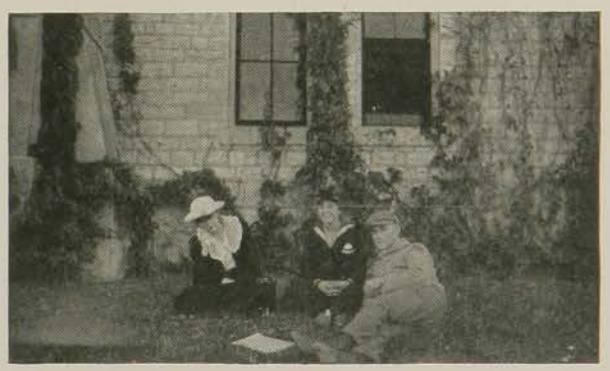
The most of the students, however, seldom attend the chapel exercises unless there is to be something exciting. If it is rumored that the Juniors are going to take the Senior section, the students arrive in a body to see the fight. If a clever farce is to be put on, featuring students in faculty roles, again, the students attend in large numbers. But as for the regular chapel programs—why, really—we would rather go strolling.



Freshman Caps

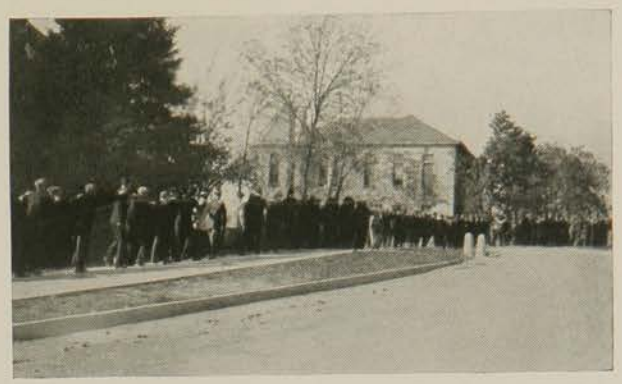
The art of wearing Freshman caps was introduced by the present Senior class. With their unexcelled wisdom, they saw the the desirability and the fitness of being so adorned, and of their own free will, purchased and wore the caps. The '17 class was, as usual, rather backward, and failed to follow the noble example set them. The '18 class, however, revived the custom and in the spring of '15, little purple caps were seen everywhere on the "greene" of the campus.

So it is that the wearing of Freshman caps is an established custom at the College. When the Freshmen arrive, they are informed with great politeness that it is desired they purchase and wear Freshman caps. Alack—some of the Freshmen object, and thereby hangs—a paddle. The upper classmen formulate a set of rules requiring the Freshmen to wear the caps on Tuesdays and Thursdays; also on the days when athletic games are played on the home field. In order to assist the Freshman laddies' memories, the paddle is brought into play. Occasionally it is necessary to toss some of the more stubborn in a blanket, but paddling suffices to make most of them see reason. Say! They are paddling the capless Freshies down in Aggieville. Got your paddle? Come on!

First Annual Home Coming Day

If there was ever any doubt in the minds of the students as to the loyalty of the Old Grads to K. S. A. C., it was banished last fall when the Alumni came in from all parts of the country, in response to an invitation to come and help celebrate the First Annual Home-Coming Day.

A football game is always a drawing card, and a football game with K. U. is the biggest drawing card for former Kansas Aggies that we have to offer at K. S. A. C. Never is there a time when the Aggies feel so closely united as when K. U. invades their camp, and never is there a time when we are so glad to see the Old Grads. back, for they always bring the pep. Hence, Saturday, October 23, the date of the K. U.-Aggie game, was chosen last fall as the First Annual Home-Coming Day.



An S. O. S. call was sent broadcast over the land beseeching the aid of every former Aggie to come and help us "Beat K. U." A special invitation was sent to all men who had ever played on an Aggie team to come early in order to be present at the big pep meeting on Friday evening preceding the game, at which time the official athletic "K" was presented to each man who had never received his emblem.

"That was some pep meeting, believe me," was the way Coach Bender put it. The Auditorium was filled to the doors, the band was there; so were Mike Ahearn and Stub Broddle, and never was there such a meeting in the history of the College. After 2,500 people had nearly exhausted themselves from yelling, Professor Dickens came on the stage, followed by a number of the Old Warriors that had helped to put K. S. A. C. on the map in athletics. As each one received his letter he gave a few words of encouragement to the team.

The day of the game dawned bright and fair, and visitors literally swarmed into town. The K. U. rooters, accompanied by their band, came on a special train. They were met at the station by the Aggie band and over a thousand students, and all marched to the campus to the music of the two bands.

The afternoon brought greater crowds, and by 2 o'clock, five thousand people were banked around the field. The bands in decorated sections, the profuse display of the colors of both schools, and the great array of rooters made a perfect setting for the game.

As the Aggies came on the field to the tume of "Aggie Loyalty," every Aggie was on his feet and everyone felt something unusual was going to happen. The game started off like a whirlwind. The K. U. bunch was completely surprised by the wonderful attacks of the "Wildcats." The first half of the game was plainly an Aggie victory, and when Randels tore through the Jayhawker line, and ran eighty-five yards for a touchdown, joy was supreme in the Aggie camp. Late in the third quarter K. U. scored a touchdown but failed to kick goal, leaving the score 6 to 7 in the Aggies' favor at the end of the third quarter. Although K. U. was able to pile up nineteen points in the fourth quarter and win the game, the score doesn't tell the story. It was one of the greatest games ever played between the two schools. The fight displayed by our team showed that all they lacked was size to be champions. Verily, John Bender has started something at K. S. A. C., and he will have a FOOTBALL team next year.

The Second Home-Coming Day will be held next year on the date of the M. U.-Aggie game. All Old Grads are invited now, and a record-breaking crowd is expected.

Exams

Wouldn't you like to go to College if you didn't have to study? One Senior girl remarked that that was her idea of Heaven—College life with all its fun and frolic, but without the everlasting feeling she had to study and get ready for Exams.

But her Heaven is not here, and the Exams we have always with us. It is rumored that by studying hard all term, students may receive Exemptions from their Finals. We, however, have never experimented and still continue to burn the midnight oil during Final Week. Not that it does any good to study—the Prof. will be sure to ask something you do not know, anyhow. Studying is a mere formality to ease the conscience, so that when you receive your yellow flunk slip you can say: "It was all the Prof's fault; I did my part. I studied."

For the good of the underclassmen, lest they be led astray by our words of wisdom, we give the following warning:

"And so he never studied or stayed up late to cram,

Or got the blues, or worried—but he flunked in his Exam."

Politics

Politics—the word savors of intrigue and cunning. It brings pictures of stuffed ballot boxes and sly mismanagement of money. Yet it is the interesting game of politics that controls College affairs at K. S. A. C. Did you think when you were voting for Class President, or member of the Students' Council that you were doing the selecting? Well, Sonny! You weren't. It was all decided long before you cast your little vote. Politics decided it.

Politics is a game played by those who are interested in the management of affairs. If everyone became interested in these affairs, the word "politics" with its present meaning, would become obsolete. But the affairs of the college are of vital concern to few, hence "politics" is still a stock word. Truly this game is an interesting pastime. If you win, sweet is the victory; if you lose, bitter is the defeat; yet there are those who love to play this game of politics.

Dr. MacArthur

"Anything the matter with the Auditorium?" you ask. Oh, no. That's just the debaters warming up for the coming contests. They have the Auditorium on certain afternoons and take turns in convincing the empty seats.

You feel sorry for the seats? Well, it does keep the seats in a rather undecided state of mind. They just get to thinking one way when the next speaker proves conclusively that the first man's argument was all wrong. Then the first speaker upsets the dope again. Yes, I suppose the seats do get rather weary—but it is good training for the boys and girls.

The Team at Colorado

Girl debaters? Why, yes and nothing to be horrified about, either. They make fine debaters—they always have something to say. You thought girls were talkative enough without instruction along that line? Maybe they are.

"Leave this keen encounter of our wits
And fall into a slower method."

What Debate Makes of Them

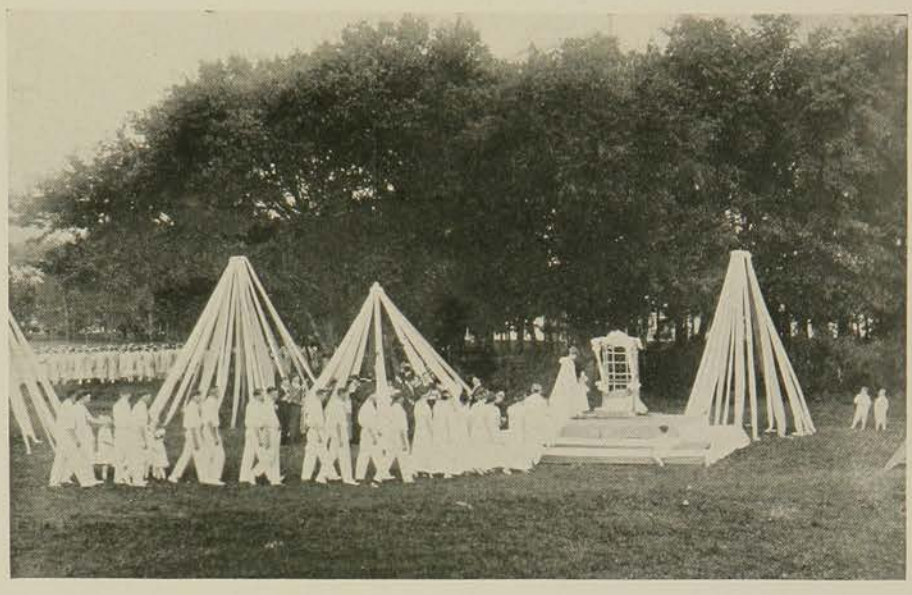
BLANCHE AND GEORGE

Fussing

If one were to ask which of all forms of amusement receives the whole-hearted support of the students at K. S. A. C., the answer would come back—"Fussing." This means of passing the time not only is in high favor with the students, but is also approved by the faculty. The Dean of the College recently advised the boys to select a wife while here; to get one with brains if possible, but at any rate to select a wife. This appealed to the boys as being excellent advice, and they proceeded to follow it enthusiastically.

Everywhere, on the campus, about the town, in the country, we see man and maiden strolling, apparently engrossed in each other. They are engaged in earnest conversation (presumably the boy is trying to determine the amount of the girl's brains). We will not disturb them. They are "Fussing."

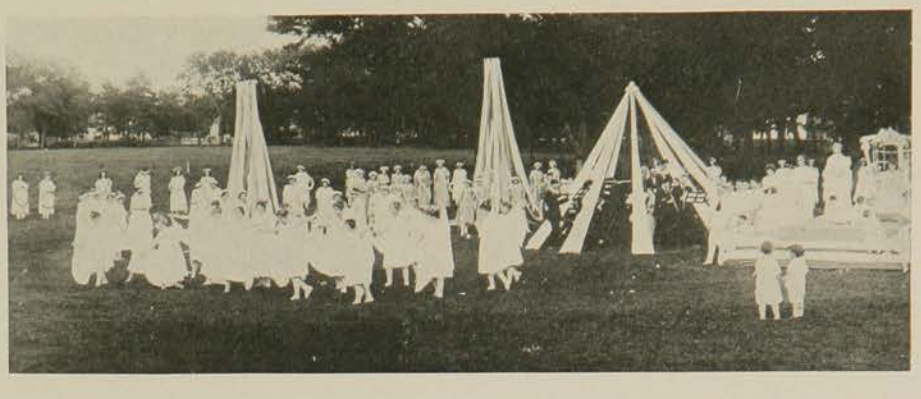
MARK AND———



The May Féte

The day set for the crowning of the Queen of the May dawned bright and clear. Everything was propitious. The sun was brighter, the air was clearer, the sky was bluer than ever before. Even the campus was changed. Workmen were busily engaged in erecting grandstands to seat the immense crowd which would witness the event. Groups of students were arranging for their various "stunts." Under the group of trees on the lower campus, the great white throne was being constructed.

At chapel hour, knots of students were to be seen loitering near the scene of all these interesting activities. The wise words of even the most learned of dignitaries could not lure them into the Auditorium. They were determined not to miss a single one of the little incidents that constantly occur in the preparations for such an important event.



As the day passed, everything assumed a gala appearance. Pink and white blossoms adorned the throne. Great yellow and golden butterflies fluttered on one of the booths. Another proudly flaunted streamers of the college colors. Bright ribbons waved in the rapidly filling grandstand.

At the appointed hour, the trumpets sounded, the college orchestra began the strains of Processional from "The Queen of Sheba" by Gounod, and the long procession came into view. The pageant was led by one hundred and fifty hoop-bearers, dressed in robes of blue, green, pink and yellow. Long streamers fluttered from their hoops, which were wound in colors corresponding to the robes. As the hoop-bearers neared the throne they halted, and stepping back, formed an aisle for the entrance of the royal party. Groups of children came first, strewing roses in the pathway of the Queen. They were followed by the crown-bearer who carried the crown of pink rosebuds and mignonette on a satin cushion. The Queen, whose blonde beauty was enhanced by her lovely gown of white, walked in, followed by her trainbearers and attendants. After the entrance and crowning of the Queen, fifteen girls dressed in flowing white robes sang a song of welcome, and a response was sung by one of the attendants to the Queen. The girls then danced before their Sovereign Lady and the four Maypoles were wound with the college colors.

The May Fete has become one of the most enjoyable customs of our college. It has developed from a very simple affair to an elaborate pageant in which a large number of the college students take prominent parts, and to which people come from far and near. There is probably no event of the college year that is more appreciated by the College people and their guests, and it deservedly holds an important place in the Spring Calendar of our College Year.

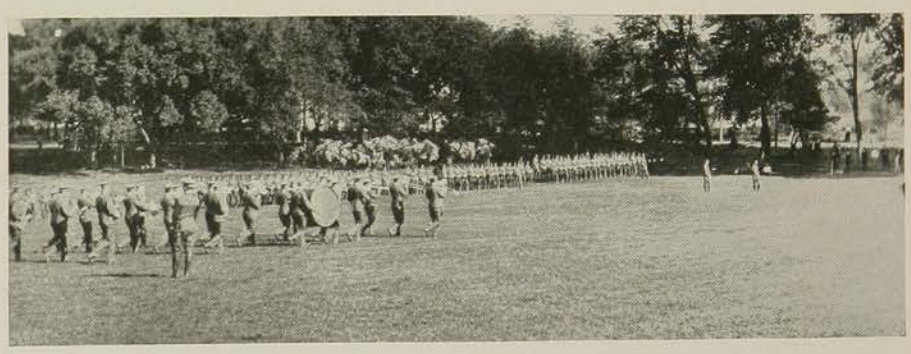
The Inspection

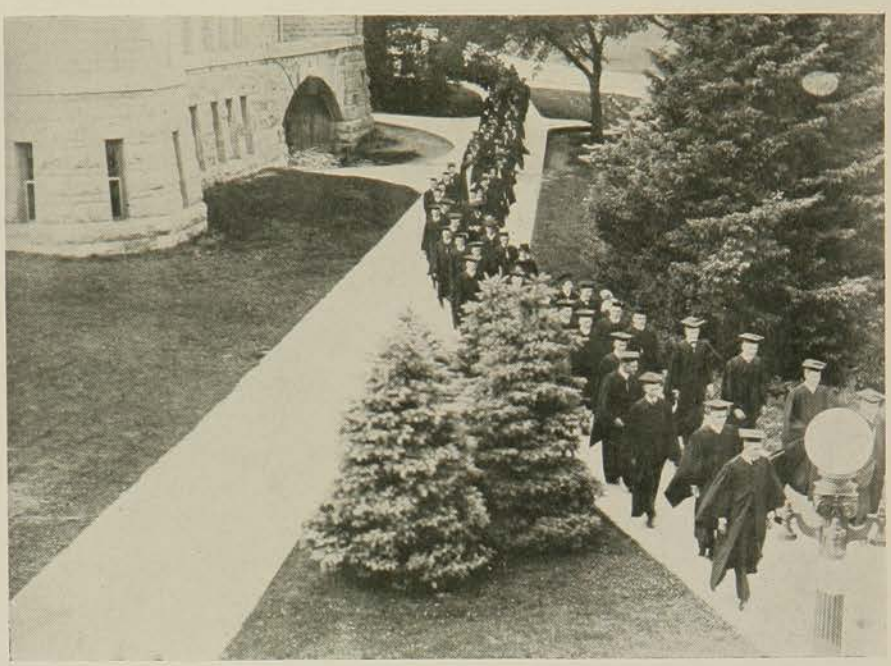
"Distinguished institution" is an honor that the military department of every land-grant college in the United States strives with might and main to secure. This honor is conferred annually upon the ten colleges having the best trained cadet corps. High ranking officers from the regular army make a tour of inspection each year and put the cadets through all the difficult maneuvers known in military tactics.

By their splendid work in drilling and the good condition of their equipment, the boys secured "Distinguished Institution" for K. S. A. C. for the first time in 1914, and as might be expected, the officers in the spring of 1915 made great preparation for the inspection, which took place May 10th and 11th.



Major Andrew Moses of the General Staff, Washington, D.C., assisted by Captain Oden of Fort Leavenworth, made the inspection last spring and was so well pleased with the showing made by our "rookies" that the coveted honor was again awarded to our school. If this honor is won three years in succession by any college, the Military Department is given additional equipment by the Government. From the present condition of affairs, we feel safe in predicting a third successive victory this year.

On Monday evening, the first day of the inspection last year, a reception-dance was given by the cadets in the Nichols Gymnasium in honor of Major Moses. This was conceded by all to be the most beautiful reception of its kind ever given at this College. The cadets in their full dress uniforms, the visiting men in evening dress, and last, but not least, the "Aggie" girls in their best costumes, made a sight long to be remembered.



Commencement

It is June. The wind that rustles the leaves in Lovers' Lane murmurs it, and the bees that croon over the campus clover hum, "June, June." The staid Senior in cap and gown also realizes that it is June—Commencement time in June, and his heart is half sorrowful, half glad within him. The Campus stretches out before him in all its glory; it seems to him that it was never so beautiful before. He thinks of the campus strolls, of the College buildings by moonlight, and a thousand happy memories come crowding to his mind. For four years the joy and the work of College Life have been his. Now he is a Senior, and this is his graduating day. The past fades away and the future confronts him. He sees the world's work and is glad, for surely as a College graduate, with all the high ideals of youth, he will be able to do his share.

It is his graduating day; the line forms for the last march; with his classmates he goes with stately tread to the Auditorium. There, before his admiring family and friends, he receives his diploma, which shuts him forever from undergraduate affairs and makes him an Alumnus of K. S. A. C.

History of 1916 Class

THE Class of 1916 has always been a most singular body. While we would refuse to brag, there are so many distinguishing marks which point out this class that they must be related. For history is history, and if the members are inherently wonderful, they must not refuse to admit it. This class was organized in the fall of 1912, with George Schneider as temporary chairman. Of course a constitution was necessary, and here the class was fortunate indeed, for it had as members some parliamentary geniuses, in the persons of Jay Stratton, Ralph St. John and Florence Justin. In a short time the finished constitution was reported to the class and was adopted, after much heated discussion. Mr. Schneider was elected president, and the class was well launched on its journey through College.

The next thing necessary was to get acquainted, so a committee was appointed to plan the first class party. This was held on the eighth of November, and though it cannot be said that it was the most enjoyable party ever attended, for Freshman parties never are, it did start, in the class, a feeling of fellowship and unity.

The remainder of the year was a busy one. The members of this ever-industrious class began immediately to be leaders. A remarkable amount of interest was shown in athletics. Though in football they did not excel, this defect was made up for in basketball and baseball, where the Freshman easily won the championships for class athletics. The basketball team was especially good, and included three of the later Varsity stars, Adams, Leonard, and Ramsey.

At the beginning of the winter term, 1913, the woman suffrage rule started, and, we are glad to say, the girls have ever since remained as prominent workers in the class. Mary Polson was elected to the presidency for the winter term and Verda Harris was chosen for the same office at the spring term election.

Shortly after the beginning of the winter term, a movement was started which gave the Class of 1916 a permanent place as the leading class on the "Hill"—the one with the most class enthusiasm and pride. This movement was the voluntary adoption of Freshman caps, to be a mark of distinction for this body. For a long time the upper classmen had been attempting to force upon the Freshmen the wearing of class caps, but this President Waters would not allow. This class would not have submitted to force, either, but when approached with calm reasoning, the hats were soon adopted. And so the Class of 1916, of its own volition, adopted this mark of distinction. The members of the class and of the faculty now admit that this act did more to cement the friendly feeling, to make this class act as a unit, than did any other one thing that the class has ever done.

The class began its Sophomore year with increased numbers and with greater enthusiasm. After a close election, R. P. Ramsey was chosen president for the fall term. It was during this term that a change came in the nature of the organization. A new element, consisting of people who had heretofore taken little interest in the affairs of the class, began taking an active interest. This was an excellent move, for it brought a greater interest and a better understanding among the different factions of the class. Larger attendance at class meetings resulted, and finally the new element became strong enough to pull the class offices.

For the winter term, P. H. Wheeler was given the reins of class leadership. In this term came another chance for the '16s to show the sort of material of which they were made. The question of a class dance was engrossing the minds of all the classes on the Hill. Along with the dance question came also the permission for the use of the college gymnasium as the place in which to hold the function. The two things together, permission for class dances and for the use of the college gymnasium as a place for dances, seemed to the faculty an enormous concession to make to the students at one time.

The Senior class wanted to be the first to give a dance, and they insisted on the use of the gymnasium. But the sly Sophomores, recognizing the problem the faculty was facing, asked simply for permission to dance. This was granted, and they danced, the first class in the history of the College to hold a class dance. What did they care if they must dance in Aggieville Hall? They had once more led all the classes in spirit, and they were happy.

Preston Hale was elected spring term president, and the business of the Class of 1916 ran smoothly to the close of its second year.

Junior year is, of course, an important one. Mr. W. C. Calvert was made the class executive for fall term. He made such a good president that he seemed to be the very person for manager of the 1916 Royal Purple, and he was granted that place. Much time was spent in the business of arranging committee finances for the class this year. It was during this term that the finances of the class were put on a firm basis, with an up-to-date card index system, which made it easy to tell those in "good standing" with the treasurer.

For the winter term, Jay Stratton was made class president. The important business now was the selection of committees for the Junior-Senior party. George Ferrier was made chairman of the affair, and he made an excellent selection of a committee.

Here was another chance for the '16 class to establish a precedent. For years the Junior-Senior party had been in the form of a banquet. This was never a very enjoyable affair: however, no other Juniors had ever considered changing it. The Class of '16, with its characteristic good judgment, saw that a change should be made in the mode of entertainment. A request was made to the authorities for a Junior-Senior Prom. The argument offered by the committee for this request was so forcefully put that permission was finally granted by the faculty for the first Junior-Senior Prom ever given at K. S. A. C. Nearly everyone present was willing to testify that this was the most enjoyable Junior-Senior party that had been held at K. S. A. C. for many years. And, of course it would be, for the entertainers were the Juniors of the '16 Class. The Prom was held May 14, during the administration of J. S. Garlough, who had been made our "Shepherd" by the election at the beginning of the spring term. It was very appropriate that he should be chosen as the guard of the Shepherd's Crook for the year 1915-16.

After three years of active life in their college career, it was not to be expected that the '16s would lag in the fourth and last lap. From the first day in the fall term to the time this was written, the class has been full of "pep" and has made history that will stand as a monument to its memory in the years to come. Never was there a class with more harmony of opinion and action, and never has a class put forth a stronger effort in the cause of its Alma Mater. George Ferrier was elected fall term president, Wilma Burtis the leader for the winter term, and T. K. Vincent for the spring term. Each has made an excellent president, handling the class affairs with ease and assurance. During this year the Seniors have been recognized as the leaders of College sentiment. Where they led, the others followed. It is their most sincere wish that their example has been a worthy one for later classes to follow.

It would not be fitting to close without a few words concerning athletics. In class athletics the '16s have always shown an active interest. This is not only true of the boys, but also of the girls, who have maintained an excellent girls' basketball team. In the year 1915 the '16 team was the class champion in girls' athletics. The passing of the '16 class takes from the college athletic teams some of their most valuable men. On the roll of the 1916 Class are found the names of the following "K" men: Shull, Gunning, Denman, Cromer, Baird, Moore, Skinner, Hartwig, Bayer, Jones, Adams, Ramsey, McIlrath, Leonard, Hodgson, Ferrier, Vandenberg, Frizzell, Welsh, Lovett, McGilliard and McGalliard.

And now it is with a feeling of deepest regret that this class is preparing to leave its Alma Mater, to become a small part of the great body of alumni which looks to K. S. A. C. as its lifelong source of inspiration. But the Class of 1916 will never become scattered, for it has formed a permanent organization, with Harold M. McClellan as life president, John L. Garlough as vice-president, and Price H. Wheeler as secretary-treasurer.

May the spirit of comradship and good fellowship gained here remain forever with the members of the Class of 1916.

Class of 1918

Motto—"Let Service Be Our Aim." Colors—Blue and Gold.

THE members of the Class of '18 continue to display the ambitious and energetic spirit with which they entered college in 1914. As Sophomores they are taking a very active part in college activities. The Sophomore football team was undefeated during the fall of 1915. The girls' basketball team was awarded the Askren prize trophy for the year 1916-17. The most significant project undertaken by this class is the erection of a cement "K" on Prospect Heights. This is to stand as the class memorial. It is planned to have it erected during the spring of 1916 so that the members of the class as well as those in later classes may be benefited. Two social functions have been enjoyed by the class during this year. In the fall a large representative body hiked to Wildcat. During the latter part of the winter term the first class dance was given. Entertainment was planned which was congenial for all of the members. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing by those who cared to do so.

In their earnest desire to promote college and class activities, the Sophomores are not idlers when it comes to classroom work. The honors among these students run high. We hope that when graduation time comes our number will not have decreased appreciably from the three hundred ninety strong members which make up the present roll.

FRESHMEN

Freshman Class

Motto—"Be On the Job." Colors—Dark Blue and Red.

ON September twenty-third, nineteen fifteen, there met for the first time the present Class of 1919 in A-74, and we immediately set to work to gain the good-will of both the instructors and our fellow-students by adopting the following as the object of our class: "To lead all classes in enthusiasm and hard work."

We have already shown our "pep" by taking an active part in the activities of the college, in football, basketball and track. Judging from the showing made by our football, basketball and track teams, we may expect our class to come out with a baseball team and make it four straight.

In football the Freshman team, captained by Johnny Clark, made an excellent showing against the Varsity, and we have no doubt that several of the faces seen in the Freshman squad now, will be over in the Varsity when the next Royal Purple is printed.

The basketball team under "Slim" Fullington as captain, has demonstrated to the whole college that the Freshmen have caught the fighting spirit of the Aggies, and there is no doubt that several of this year's Freshmen will make their "K's" next year.

In track the Freshmen have shown up well, and Collier, the speedy sprinter, will no doubt win much honor for himself, his class and his college.

Social events so far have been two in number. Last fall we hiked to Wildcat. The memory of that event will always remain in our minds. In the winter term we had a mixer and dance in Nichols' Gymnasium. Everyone who was present will testify that they spent an enjoyable evening and a few upper classmen will testify that they, at least, had an interesting time.

So, as we look back over the events that have taken place in the short time that we have been here, we feel confident that we have a bright future before us.

When we are out of college we may look back and say with the other students of K. S. A. C. "The Class of Nineteen, the Class that lived up to their object—'To lead all classes in enthusiasm and hard work.'"

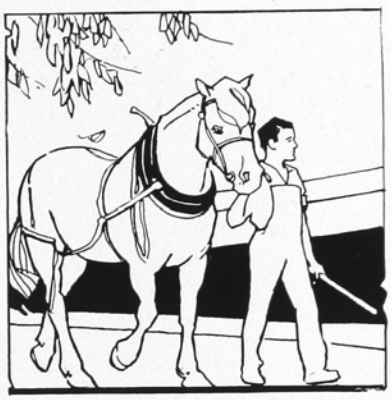
School of Agriculture



School of Agriculture

AS a department of the College, the School of Agriculture fills a unique place. Its name may be somewhat misleading to those who do not define terms with care, for, to such the term "School of Agriculture" may be confused with that of the degree course given by the college. It is in fact a sub-collegiate school, a continuation school for those graduates of the eighth grade in rural and city schools, who do not wish to prepare for college, but who do wish a vocational course leading toward better efficiency in the trades, in the home, and on the farm.

We are proud of the real service that it renders our state, for it brings to us a large number of young men and women beyond high-school age who need special training and who appreciate the opportunities here afforded. It frequently happens that these students, by coming in contact with the advantages of our great College, have their dormant ambitions awakened and desire to enter College.

The student activities include three literary societies, a football team, two basketball teams, three organizations, and a "whole school" organization, all helpful in developing leadership among the members. The school is completing its third year of existence. It has an enrollment of more than five hundred each year, and is this year graduating its second class.

When the School of Agriculture was established, the college literary societies limited their membership to college students only. This eliminated students in the School of Agriculture. On October 27, 1913, twenty-seven young men organized the Lincoln Literary Society. They stated as their aim, "The improvement of all concerned in debating, social development and literary culture." All men students in the School of Agriculture are invited to visit the society, and if interested, to join. The society now numbers thirty-five active members and is steadily growing.

The Farmers' Short Course requires twenty weeks for completion; the first ten weeks of each winter term for two years. The Second Year Class, winter, 1916, numbers fifty-one. Almost every one will complete the course and receive the certificate. These young men represent the best class of the young farmers of the state and will add a decided strength to the already large group of Farmers' Short Course graduates of the Agricultural College, who are known for their success as farmers and their ability to co-operate with the college, and other agricultural leaders of the state for the advancement of every agricultural enterprise.

Engineering Short Course

BEGINNING the winter term, 1915, the Kansas State Agricultural College offered for the first time courses in traction engine operation, concrete construction, shop practice, and road building, for those who have not the preparation, time or means to take any of the regular engineering courses offered by the college. The work is not intended to take the place of the professional courses but is designed to meet the needs of young men who wish to gain a practical, working knowledge of general repair shop practice, blacksmithing, carpentry, concrete construction, road building and other kindred subjects. The new courses are bringing gratifying results and are gaining in popularity.

There are large numbers of young women, who from lack of time are unable to take an extended college course, but who realize the need of special training in home-making. The twentieth century demands of home managers, an understanding of the sanitary requirements of the house, a knowledge of values, absolute and relative, of the articles used in the house, quick attention to details, good judgment in buying, and a ready adaptation of means to the end in view. The purpose of this course is to furnish this training.

The 1915 "K" Men

2nd Row—Cave (Assistant Coach), Slattery, Sullivan, Oliver, Coach Bender.
3rd Row—Moore, Ptacek, Capt., Skinner, Hartwig, Bayer, McGalliard.

"JAWN" BENDER, Coach

Coming to K. S. A. C. full of ginger and vigor, Coach Bender built up an Aggie football team that outfought the Kansas Jayhawkers, tied the Missouri Tigers, and repulsed the aerial attacks of the Oklahoma Sooners. He is the Aggie idol. His personality radiates enthusiasm. With many veterans coming back and a star Freshman squad to pick from, Bender expects to boost his fighting "Wildcats" up high in the 1916 athletic circles.

Speedy, heady and full of fight "Cap" Skinner possessed the ideal qualities of a "Wildcat" leader. He was a star in running down punts and in catching "Sully's" forward passes. His decision to finish the season, even though he had a broken shoulder, set a splendid example of self-sacrifice before his men. This was his second year as a "K" man. "Cap" is a native of Manhattan.

"CAP" SKINNER, End

RANDELS, End

The honor of being the first Aggie to cross the Jayhawker goal line in three years belongs to "Stiff" Randels. "Stiff" dodged and stiff-armed his way through the entire Kansas eleven in his sensational 80-yard sprint across the chalk-lines. Anthony, Kansas, is proud to be his home.

BAYER, Tackle

A Wildcat athlete who fought his way into the Aggie athletic hall of fame is "Hennery" Bayer, the steady left tackle of the Bender eleven. Bayer's ability to stop opponents' plays before they had fairly begun made him a great favorite with the rooters. He calls Toronto, Kansas, his home.

BARNES, Halfback

The "never-say-die" spirit of "Bert" Barnes won for him the captaincy of the 1916 Wildcat eleven. Barnes was a strong cog in Coach Bender's secondary defensive and was a consistent gainer when given the ball. He has the ideal football build. He is a general favorite in his home town, Bellaire, Kansas.

HARTWIG, Fullback

No Wildcat player played a more aggressive game than did "Swede" Hartwig, the fighting fullback. His team-mates showed their appreciation by voting him the most valuable man on the team. As a reward he was presented with a beautiful silver loving-cup. He is a favorite son of Goodland, Kansas.

DODRILL, Tackle

The heavyweight of the Aggie squad was "Tiny" Dodrill, who alternated with Bayer at left tackle. "Doddy" won his letter by his tackle-swings in the contest with Bennie Owen's Oklahoma Sooners. Although not fast on his feet, the big tackle was a stone wall on the defense. He lives in Stockton, Kansas.

SULLIVAN, Quarterback

The football situation at K. S. A. C. looked rather gloomy at the start of the 1915 season until Coach Bender succeeded in unearthing a new quarterback, "Sully" Sullivan. It was "Sully's" headwork and ability to return punts that won many yards for the Bender eleven. He resides in Wamego, Kansas.

McGALLIARD, Halfback

A hard hitter and a shifty runner, "Mac" McGalliard has proved himself one of the best open field runners that ever donned an Aggie football suit. Coach Bender started him in almost every contest and "Mac" put up a whirlwind game. He hails from the city of Troy.

WRIGHT, Center

To "Rasty" Wright is given the honor of being the nucleus of the Wildcat machine. Through his accuracy in handling the ball, "Rasty" fitted in well with Coach Bender's direct-passing style of play. He was the most consistent player on the team and never was out of the game a minute. His home town is Newton, Kansas.

MOORE, Guard

Playing opposite Baird and showing the same plugging style of play was "Tom" Moore, a Manhattan boy, who played right guard. He was always found at the bottom of every scrimmage, fighting fearlessly for his Alma Mater. He opened the way for many Aggie gains.

PTACEK, Tackle

It was "Pete" Ptacek who made those ten-yard gains on tackle swings in the game against the Oklahoma Sooners. "Pete" could get up plenty of speed and few opponents like to stop his huge bulk when it has attained its full momentum. He is an Emporia product.

SLATTERY, End

Taking the place of Captain Skinner, when injuries forced the Aggie leader out of the game, "Slats" Slattery played an important part in holding the Missouri Tigers to a 0 to 0 tie. He was speedy and aggressive and used his head to good advantage. Jewell City is his home.

BAIRD, Guard

One position that entered into Coach Bender's many worries was left guard, which was held down by "Dad" Baird, an all-around athlete of Formosa. Baird was not the spectacular kind of player but always played a steady game that made him a favorite with the Aggie rooters.

OLIVER, Halfback

Although only a second-string man on the Bender eleven this year, Oliver demonstrated enough football ability to place himself in line for a regular job next year. He hits hard and low when carrying the ball and is adept at running interference. He calls Howard his home.

ALEXANDER, Quarterback

Another substitute that developed experience to use in the 1916 Wildcat campaign was "Alex" Alexander who played quarterback in the absence of Sullivan. "Alex" has weight, fight and speed and with experience should develop into a future Aggie star. He resides in Council Grove.

WILDER, Halfback

The speed demon of the squad was Wilder, halfback and end. Wilder is one of the best half-milers in the Middle West and his swiftness, combined with an ability to dodge and use the stiff-arm, made him the ideal open-field runner. Manhattan is home, sweet home to him.

HARWOOD, Fullback

Coming into his own as a substitute for "Swede" Hartwig, Harwood showed enough class to cinch himself a place on Coach Bender's 1916 eleven. Harwood has the build to make anybody's eleven, and the experience that he has gained this year will make him a valuable man. He is an inhabitant of Norman, Nebraska.

The 1915 Season

TO weld the lightest football squad that ever represented the Kansas Aggies into a winning football machine was the job that confronted the new Aggie mentor, "Jawn" Bender, at the start of the 1915 season. Bender analyzed the situation and decided to counterbalance the lack-of-weight handicap by sending on the football battleground a light team with instructions to fight to the finish, dubbing his lightweights the "Wildcats." Picking only men that would come up to his combative ideal, the coach produced an A-1 Aggie eleven, one that was feared by every school in the Missouri Valley.

Of the eight games payed during the season, the Bender men won three, tied one, and lost four. Southwestern, Friends, and Washburn felt the sting of defeat, while the Kansas Jayhawkers, the Nebraska Cornhuskers, the Oklahoma Sooners, and the Emporia Normals triumphed in victory and the Missouri Tigers were held to a tie in a game in which neither side could score.

Two of the Missouri Valley contests, those with the Missouri and Kansas elevens, will occupy lasting places in Aggie athletic annals. The spectacle of the Aggie "Rabbits" holding the heavy Missouri Tigers to a scoreless tie will long be remembered in Columbia, Missouri. The fact that the Wildcats outplayed and outfought the Jayhawkers for three quarters, having a 7 to 6 lead over their heavy opponents at the end of that time, but finally succumbed, fighting to the last, before the attack of the everchanging Kansas backfield, will live long in the hearts of Aggie rooters.

THESE played a great part in the Aggies nearly winning the championship of the Missouri Valley. Coach Merner not only knows how to make men work for him by the force of his own personality, but also, forms friendships with the men, which is a great factor in bringing good work from them.

Little "Shrimp" Adams played his third year at forward and was captain of the fighting '15-'16 squad. He was the Aggies' star on the free throws. Next year's team will surely miss the old Adams-Reynolds machine. These men were easily the best pair of forwards in the Missouri Valley.

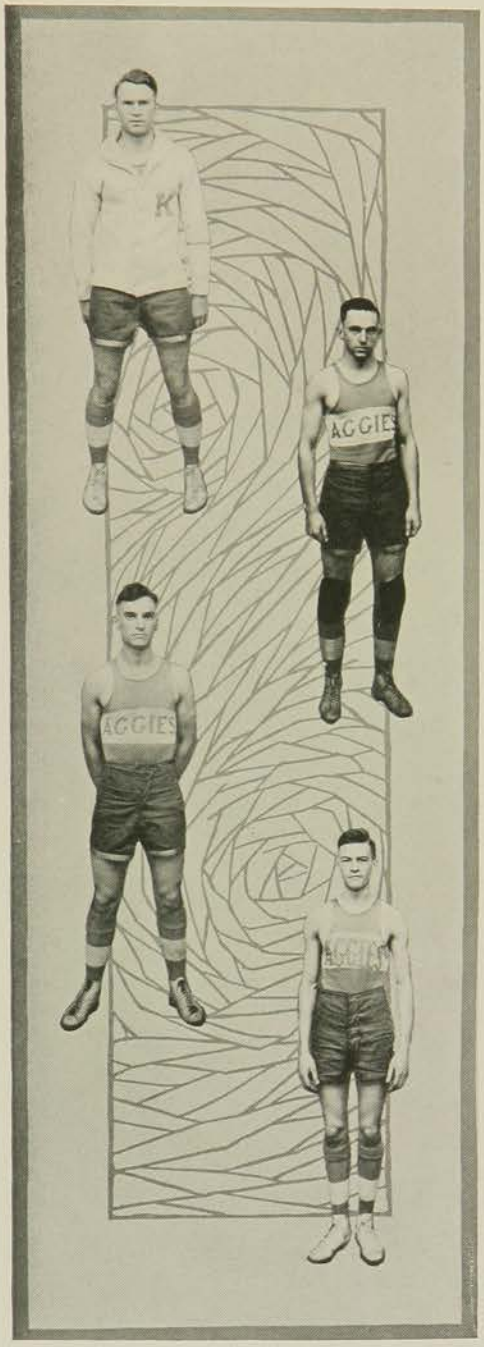
1916 Basketball



The fighting spirit of the Aggies was never more forcefully exhibited than by the fighting squad of basketball players that represented the Purple and White of K. S. A. C. this season. The Merner team scrapped their way into the topmost circles of Missouri Valley basketball, defeating Kansas University, Missouri University, Washington University, and Ames.

The Aggies' hard luck came on their invasion of Nebraska to play the Cornhusker quintette. Both games were lost to the Nebraskans by the narrow margin of one point. If the Aggies had been looking for alibis they most certainly could have had one in the fact that the Nebraska court was much smaller than any to which they were accustomed.

Fighting "Slim" Ramsey was going at top speed from the first sound of the referee's whistle until the final shot of the time-keeper's gun. He was mixed up in almost every play. Reynolds garnered more points than any other Aggie. He was "right" in every series except the Missouri contests and his worth to the team was clearly shown when the team was able to make but little progress without his goal-shooting. "Mac" McMillan played at guard with Ramsey, and played such a steady grade of basketball that the team elected him to the captaincy of the 1917 team. "Wamego" Leonard played the center of the floor and was expert at shooting long-distance goals. McIlrath "subbed" for Leonard in good style, outclassing many of the tip-off men of the Valley. Van Trine is a small, speedy player. It is almost impossible to guard "Van" when he is shooting a basket near the goal. Gunning made a name for himself in the first Missouri contest, when he entered the game at a crucial period and fitted perfectly into the Merner machine. "Beez" Cushman is fast on the floor and this, combined with his height, made him a constant source of worry to the opposing guards.

Although the Aggies did not win the championship of the Missouri Valley, the strength of the team was shown when Hamilton of K. U., Lowman of K. S. A. C., Brewer of Missouri, Merner of K. S. A. C., and Referee Quigley chose the following as an All-Missouri Valley team:

Adams, Capt	Aggies	L. F.
Reynolds	Aggies	R. F.
Williams	Missouri	C.
Ramsey	Aggies	L. G.
Speelman	Missouri	R. G.

The Freshman Varsity

EXCEPT for the good material found in the Freshman Varsity, the outlook for the next year's basketball team would not be very bright as many of the '15-'16 team graduate this year. Men of this year's Freshman Varsity who will be fighting for places on next year's team are Fullington, a lengthy forward from Clay Center; "High" Willhoite and Clark of Manhattan, Guilfoil and Knostman of Wamego. Wells is a former Fairmount College star, while Wooster did good work for Emporia. Keeper is from Frederick and showed up well as a forward. These men should prove valuable material in the building up of another great basketball machine.

Coach Merner

Before Coach Carl J. Merner took the Aggie track team in charge, there was no record of an Aggie track team ever humiliating K. U. There's one now, a 56 to 53 defeat, accomplished by the Merner men of 1915.

Captain Coith

Although he was kept out of all but two of the 1915 meets on the advice of a physician, Captain "Herb" Coith's work in the quarter-mile, mile, and relay in the 1914 season put him in the Aggie Athletic Hall of Fame.

1915 Track Season

TO have come within two points of defeating Kansas University in track would, in itself, have marked the track season of 1915 a success. But Coach Carl J. Merner was not content with an "almost won," so in the second meet with the Jayhawkers he pointed his athletes into wresting a 56 to 53 win from the Kansans, and that on Lawrence soil, too.

The team was one of the best balanced aggregations that ever wore the Purple and White colors of the Kansas Aggies. Holroyd, Osborne, and Crumbaker in the sprints; Wilder, Weaver, and Teeter in the distance runs; Smith and Marble in the weights; Frizzell, Vandenburg and Welsh, in the hurdles; Edwards in the pole vault; Frizzell in the high jump;Wilder in the broad jump: and Osborne, Essick, Lovett, Grandfield, and Holroyd in the mile relay, formed a team that found but one equal in the Missouri Valley.

In the first meet with the Kansas Jayhawkers, the result of the contest hinged on the relay. With the Aggies far in the lead in the second lap, one of the Aggie runners became confused because of the small track and, before he could recover, the lead was lost, and with it the relay and the meet. The Merner men piled up such a large score in the second engagement with K. U. that the winning of the relay by K. U. could not win the meet for the Kansans.

In the Missouri Valley Conference meet the Aggies scored 21 points, taking fourth place.

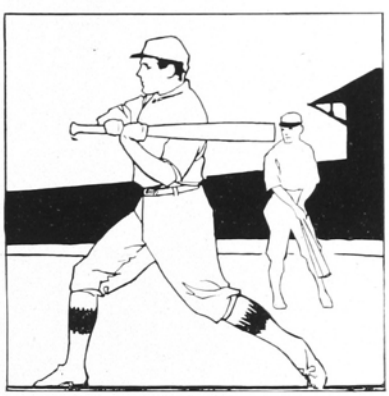
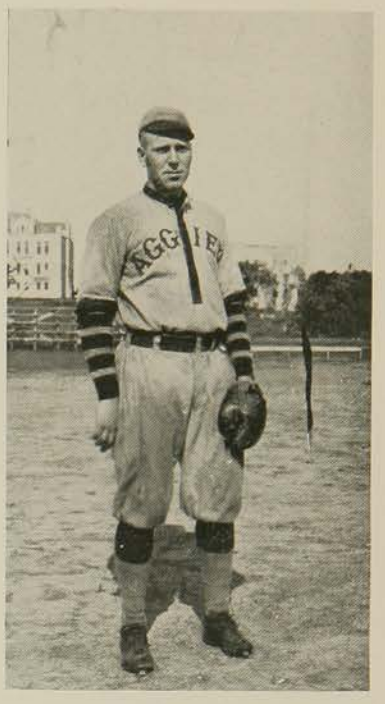
BASEBALL



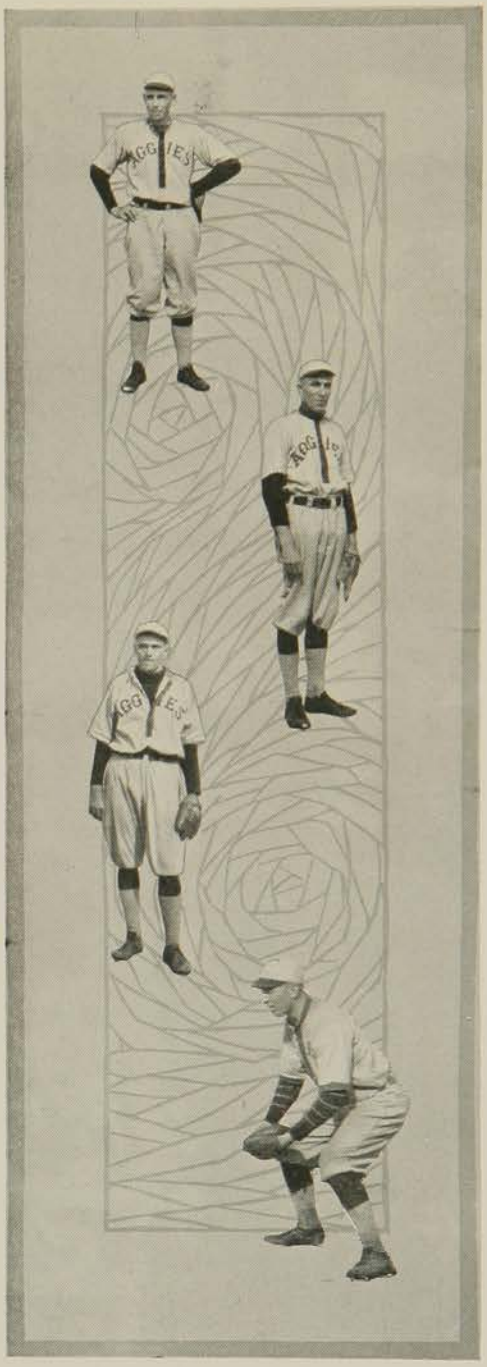
Coach Lowman



"Big" Briney

Coach Lowman's last year as coach of baseball was a success from every standpoint. With Briney as captain of the team they developed such men as Reynolds, Denman, McMillan, Frank, and Haucke, and although unable to make an exceptionally strong team the first year, they got them to working together in good shape. No one was ever more popular with the players and fans than was Coach Lowman and there was always a cheer from the grandstand when "Big" Briney came to bat.

1915 Baseball



Lack of material was a serious handicap to the success of the 1915 Aggie baseball team, but even with the small amount of material available Coach Lowman had a team well above the average. "Iron Man" Hodgson did the major part of the pitching and was a good man to have at bat in a pinch, too. Ferrier, the other Aggie flinger, did good work for a first year man and will doubtless be one of the mainstays of the team this year. Captain-elect Frank Reynolds played his first year on the team and was a hitter and fielder of exceptional ability. "Chief" Haucke did most of the catching for the team. The "Chief" had a good peg to second and was a fair hitter, usually timing his blows when hits meant runs. "Mac" McMillan, although a little weak with the stick, showed good form around first base, grabbing the wild heaves from the infielders like a veteran. "Doc" McClymonds completed his three years of service on the team and his last year was easily the most successful of his baseball career. He played shortstop. "Stubby" Broddle, the midget lead-off man for the Lowman nine, had a good year in the field but had the common failing of not being able to pound out blows at opportune times. "Beany" Frank alternated with McMillan at the first station and is good material for this year's team. "Jud" Denman showed plenty of fight when subbing for Briney at third base. He is leading in the fight for that position this year. McGalliard played utility roles during the season. His pinch hitting resulted in the Aggies taking many close contests from their opponents. "Red" Agnew played second base for his third consecutive year and was always there with the fighting spirit that made him popular with Aggie fans. "Nick" Enns, although not a phenomenal player, was always working and plugging with the best that was in him. He was consistent in the field and his batting ranked him as one of the best players on the team.

Likely material out for the Varsity this year are such men as Breckheisen, Sullivan, Hewey, Williams, McLeod, Jordan, DuBois, Newton, Grubb, Sherwood, Scott, Griffiths, Hickok, and Harvey. The team will be greatly strengthened by the return of "Dicky" Richardson, a former Aggie star.

The Kansas State Collegian is the official student publication of the college. It is published each Wednesday and Saturday of the school year and contains all the news of, or especially interesting to, the students and faculty of the Kansas State Agricultural College besides many feature stories and special articles about the College in general.

Not only is the Collegian read by all the students and instructors at K. S. A. C., but it goes to more than four hundred and twenty-five high schools over the State.

The Kansas Industrialist

FOUNDED April 24, 1875, The Kansas Industrialist, the official publication of the Kansas State Agricultural College, is the oldest paper published by any Kansas college and is among the oldest papers of any sort in the State. In many respects it is unique among college papers. It contains alumni notes and is sent free to graduates of the College. For the purpose of giving effective publicity to College affairs, it is sent free also to Kansas newspapers. The material in the paper is written largely by students in industrial journalism, who help also in the mechanical work on the paper in the printing plant. The Industrialist has received high commendation from printers and publishers not only in Kansas, but in metropolitan centers.

John A. Anderson, who, as president of the college, changed the institution from a classical to an industrial institution, founded The Industrialist as an exponent of agriculture and industrial education.

The paper was published by the printing department under the direction of A. A. Stewart, a young man who had formerly been a student in the college but had given up his studies to devote all his time to the superintendency of printing.

Printing had been introduced into the curriculum of the college as an "industrial" in 1873, and when The Industrialist was started a number of students were taking the work. According to the catalogue, it was intended primarily for girls, but the enrollment consisted to a considerable extent of boys, though the first issue of the paper announced that "two young ladies captured the printing department's dinner bucket and confiscated the lunch." Mr. Stewart went on to say that "they returned the bucket."

The paper has always been printed by the department of printing, which is the oldest teaching department of its kind existing in any American college. In this department instruction in news writing, newspaper management, and other journalistic matters was given for many years. In 1910, the Department of Industrial Journalism was organized and the head of the department, Charles Dillon, became managing editor of The Industrialist. The paper has since that time been edited by the Journalism Department. The President of the College, Dr. Henry Jackson Waters, is ex officio editor-in-chief. Nelson Antrim Crawford, professor of industrial journalism and superintendent of printing, is the managing editor. Dr. John Daniel Walters, senior professor in the College, is local editor. Miss Ada Rice, '95, M.S., '12, assistant professor of the English language, is alumni editor.

DEBATING, at the Kansas State Agricultural College, is under the control of and financed by the eight literary societies and is open only to their members. However it is the avowed intention of the literary societies to throw debate open on equal competitive terms to all members of the undergraduate student body as soon as plans can be worked out and approved, whereby the expense shall also be shared by those who are not members of the societies.

The Debating Council has adopted an extensive policy whereby many people are trained, but each one debates only once in a year, rather than the intensive policy, so common at other schools, whereby a few receive an excess of training and debate several times each year. Of course, following this policy, the Aggies cannot expect to win a majority of their debates, but the Council feels that the value of the training given to the larger number of students under this policy is infinitely greater than the value of a record of unbroken victory if that record be made by one or two teams debating again and again. The Council believes that the student body, knowing this, will support their teams just as enthusiastically and will realize that a victory under these conditions will mean much more than it would if debating were conducted in the ordinary way.

This is the first year to witness the complete expansion of this extensive policy with the following results: K. S. A. C. has had twenty-four men and twenty-four women on her debating squads and eighteen men and eighteen women have taken part on the platform in intercollegiate debates. This is the largest squad maintained at any college in the United States. Ten of the fourteen debates have already taken place and K. S. A. C. has won two of them. Of the twelve teams, only three have had more than one member who had ever participated in debate before. Next year there will be a much larger number of veterans and the outlook is correspondingly better.

For the past three years a scholarship of one hundred dollars has been awarded to the person who has done the best debating work in the preceding year. This was awarded to W. A. Sumner '14, in 1913-14, to Joseph B. Sweet '17, in 1914-15, and to Jay L. Lush '16, in 1915-16. For next year two scholarships, one for women and one for men, have been established, thus completing that separation between men's and women's debating which is a part of the new policy.

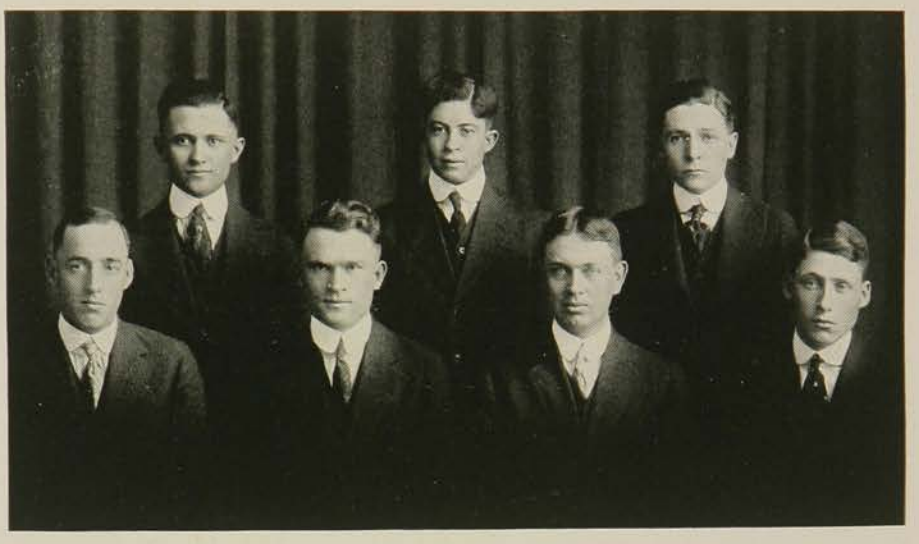
JUDGING TEAMS

K. S. A. C. Stock Judging Team



Cromer Gwin Lawson
Hale McIlrath Dr. McCampbell Willhoite

THE greatest honor that can come to a student in animal husbandry at K. S. A. C., and the one for which all real live and ambitious students strive, is a place on the stock judging team that represents K. S. A. C. at the American Royal and International Live Stock Shows held at Kansas City and Chicago each year. Only Seniors are eligible and a place on the team means a reward for efficient work in stock judging during the entire course of four years. It means that the members of the team have ranked high in the other work of the course, for a member of the stock judging team must maintain a high standard in all other work to maintain a place on the team. It also means that these men have strong personalities, as the success of the team depends in no small degree upon the ability of the members to impress the judges who are practical men with what they may have to say to justify the placings they have made.

Teams from ten to fifteen of the leading agricultural colleges and universities of the United States and Canada compete at the International each year. Kansas teams have won their share of the honors in these contests. The team that represented K. S. A. C. at the fall shows in 1915 was a credit to the College and to the state.

Grain Judging Team

J. R. Mason H. R. Sumner J. J. Bayles
Prof. S. C. Salmon, Coach J. V. Quigley

The Kansas Grain Judging Team won first place at the International Dry Farming Congress which was held in Denver, Colorado, last fall. This was the third consective year in which Kansas took first honors and the silver loving cup became the permanent property of the College.

HONORARY

Alpha Zeta

AZ

THE fraternity of Alpha Zeta is a national honorary agricultural fraternity. Among its members are men of national and international fame. Its purpose is to bring together agricultural students of high ideals and scholarship, and by their association to round its members into more cultured and efficient men in technical agriculture. Any student of agriculture is eligible for membership upon maintaining a certain scholastic standing, giving evidence of leadership, and showing ambition to go forward and obtain proficiency in his chosen work. Alpha Zeta strives to raise the standard of agriculture, and to inpsire its members and under-classmen as well, to greater effort, higher ideals, and more true fellowship in the pursuit of agriculture.

The Women's Press Club of the Kansas State Agricultural College was organized by the women of the College who are either taking the course in Industrial Journalism or are doing special work along that line.

The primary purpose of the organizarion of this club was to petition for a charter to the national sorority of Theta Sigma Phi and install a chapter here. Theta Sigma Phi is an honorary sorority of journalism women. It has ten chapters at present. The petition of the Women's Press Club is well under way and there is no doubt the chapter will be installed here soon, as the preliminary transactions have already been approved of by the national organizer.

Society Lyceum Committee

The Society Lyceum Committee is composed of one representative from each of the eight Literary Societies of the college. This committee attends to the business management, and secures the talent for the course.

Quantity is always sacrificed for quality in the course and the best talent of the Lyceum and Musical Bureaus is collected to form one of the strongest Lyceum courses in Kansas.

The course for the season of 1915-1916 consisted of eight numbers, representing a total cost of over twenty-five hundred dollars.

In addition to the regular course the committee secured the Coburn Players who during the spring term gave a matinee and evening performance.

Jayhawker Saddle and Sirloin Club

Colors—Black and Gold Motto—"Better Live Stock for Kansas"

The Jayhawker Saddle and Sirloin Club was organized in the winter term of 1914 and has made rapid progress in its work. The club is composed of Senior, Junior, and Sophomore students in the Animal Husbandry Department in the Division of Agriculture. The purpose of the organization is to promote the breeding of better live stock in Kansas, in order that she may be a better competitor with her neighboring states.

Meetings are held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month during the College Year. The club has secured a room in the Agricultural Hall, equipped with the best live stock papers and magazines and other furnishings necessary to make a reading and studying room comfortable. The third annual Stock Judging Contest was held March 4, 1916, with 125 contestants.

Veterinary Medical Association

Organized October 20, 1906

The object of this Association is technical training along Veterinary lines, together with such literary and social training as may accompany it. Meetings are held twice each month in the evening and consist of a program and regular business meeting. Members of the Veterinary faculty aud other men prominent in Veterinary and allied lines appear before the Association in these meetings as well as the members themselves. Upon graduation, the members in good standing are presented with sheepskin diplomas in recognition of their work.

Rooters' Club

Founded Some Time Ago

Colors—Purple and White Motto—"The Aggies Fight"

Flower—The Pepper Plant

Assistant Yell Leaders—Umbehr and Kendall

Hey, you! Where's your button? Two bits! In this way the Rooters' Club solved the financial problem for the year. These buttons at "two bits" a throw entitled the purchaser to a year's membership in the Rooters' Club and to all of its many privileges. President Waters purchased the first Rooters' Club button and the students and live members of the faculty took care of the rest.

Fifteen hundred raving, howling, fighting rooters—Some Gang! Do the Aggies Fight?—Whell Yes!!!

College Life

Dedication

"T. K."

TO THOSE—

Well-meaning and thoughtful individuals, who have so earnestly and thankfully endeavored to cause the hair of the Editors to assume that shade that marks the polar bear, and who have caused those sleepless nights, those dateless nights, those nights unhampered save for work.

TO THOSE—

Who allowed the Editors to run this book their own sweet way, we, the Editors of College Life of Royal Purple, Vol. VIII, most humbly dedicate this section of the book.

—The Editors.

Jay Stratton: "Say, Mike, did you know Satan was dead?" (Mike says nothing, but reaches in his pocket and gives Jay a nickel.)

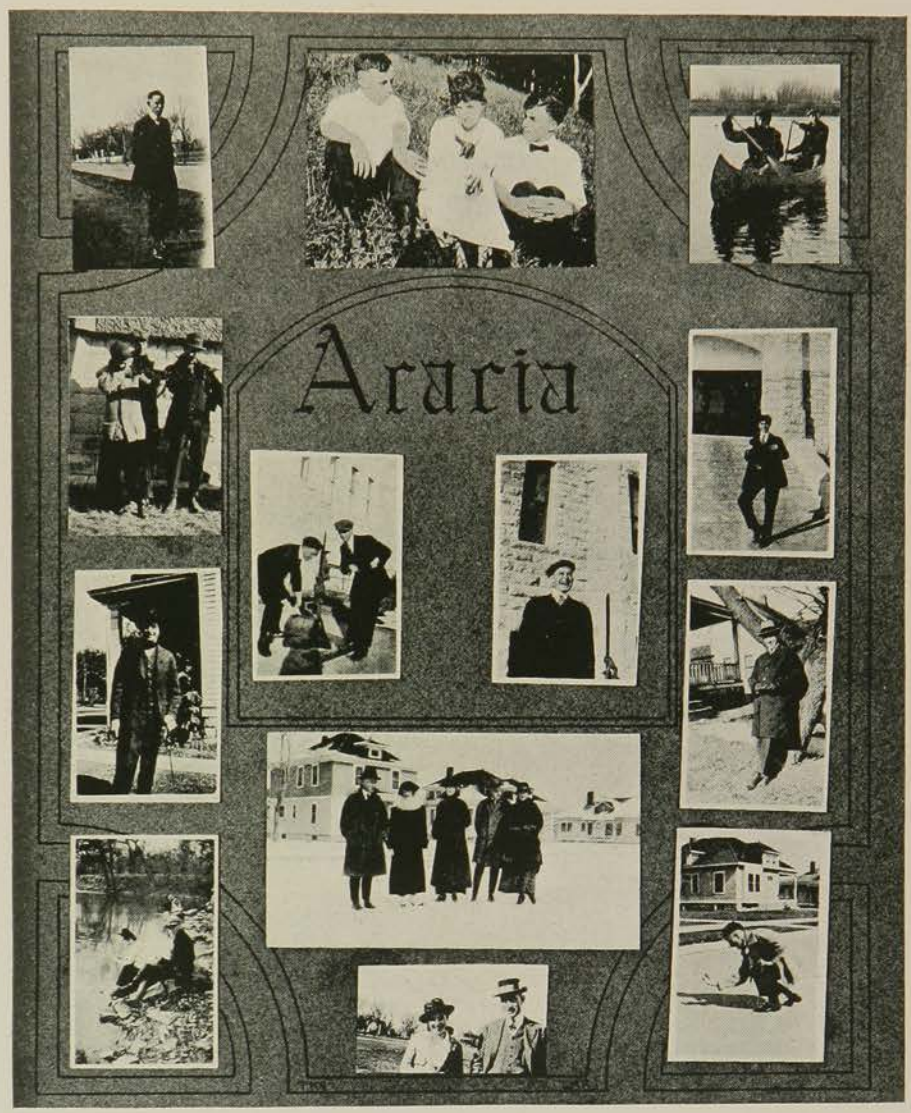
Jay: "Thanks, but what's that for?"

Mike: "Why, you said Satan was dead, didn't you?"

Jay: "Yes, but———"

Mike: "Well, in Ireland we always give money to the orphans."

Professor Roberts went shopping one day and purchased a new pair of trousers. He brought them home, but forgot to tell his wife of the fact. Next morning Mrs. Roberts went upstairs and found a pair of trousers lying on the bedroom floor. She immediately rushed to the phone and called the Professor to see if he had been absent-minded again.

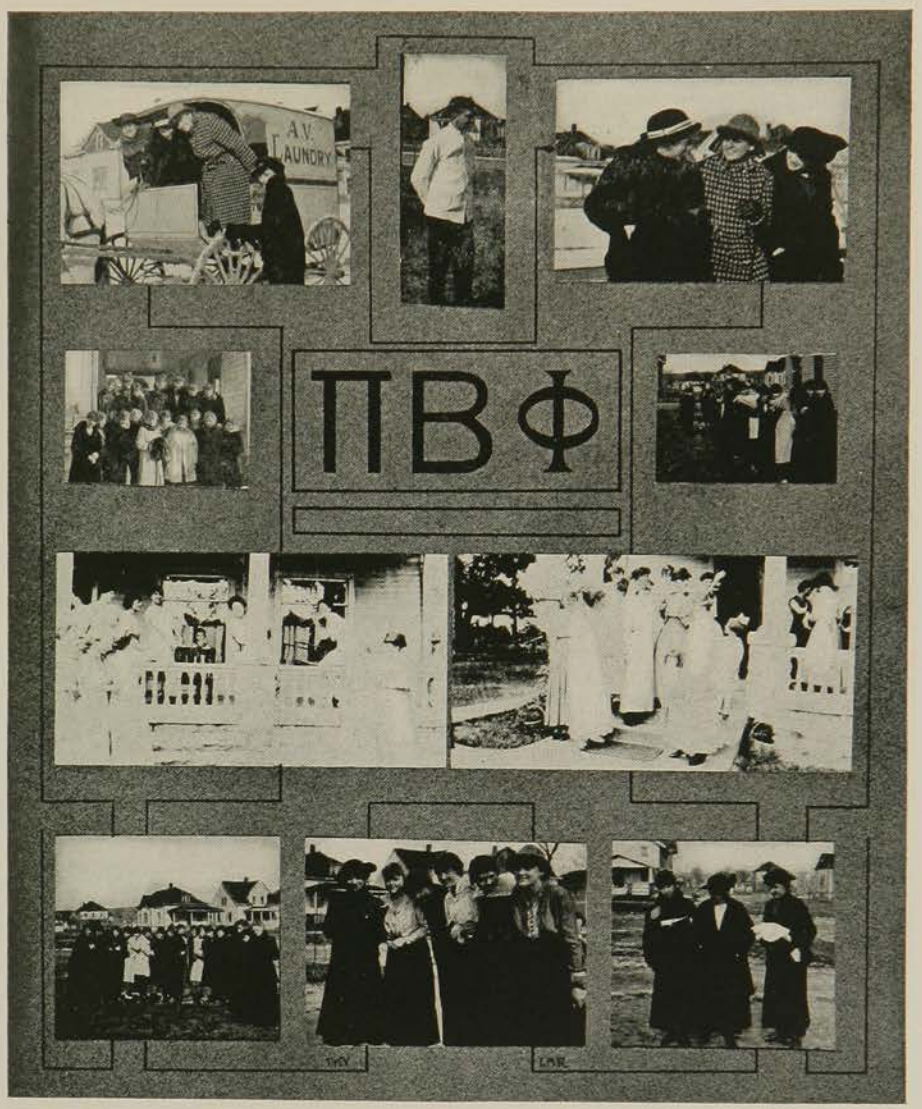


It was during assignment, Fall Term, '15.

Ralph St. John: "I have so much outside work this term that I would rather not take Civics."

Throckmorton: "Very well, St. John. But here's a good four-hour subject, American Government. Shall we put that down?"

St. John: "Yes, indeed; anything so that I won't have to take Civics." And he left, blissfully unaware of the joke.



You can always tell a Senior
For he's so sedately gowned.
You can always tell a Freshman
By the way he struts around.
You can always tell a Junior
By his worried looks and such.
You can always tell a Sophomore—
But you cannot tell him much.

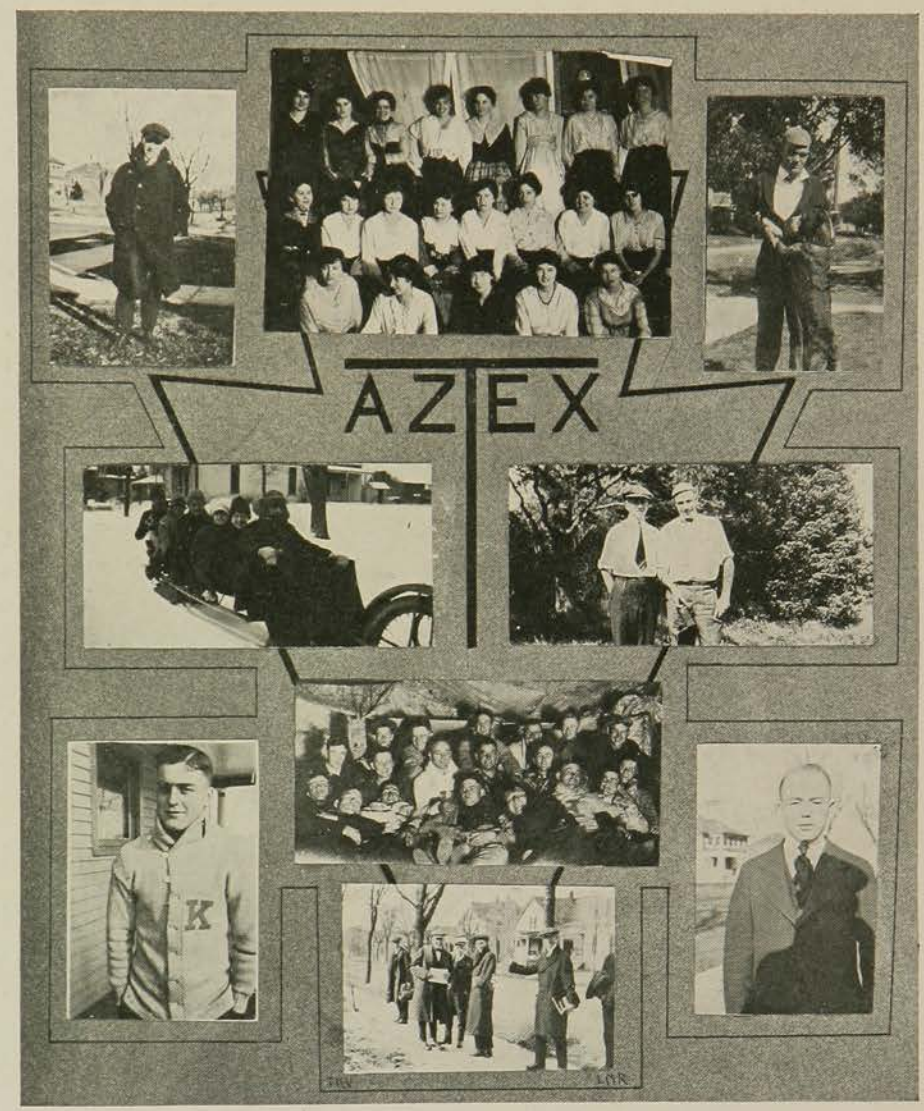
AT THE JUNIOR PROM.

He: "Don't you like to dance?"
She: "No; it's just hugging set to music."
He: "But what don't you like about that?"
She: "The music."

Supposed to have been written by one of our Freshmen last fall and copied by the Kansas City Star.

Winter time is coming, coming on the run,
With its cold blasts and dreary days of snow;
The clouds begin to hide the dreary sun
Which is fast disappearing, sure but slow.

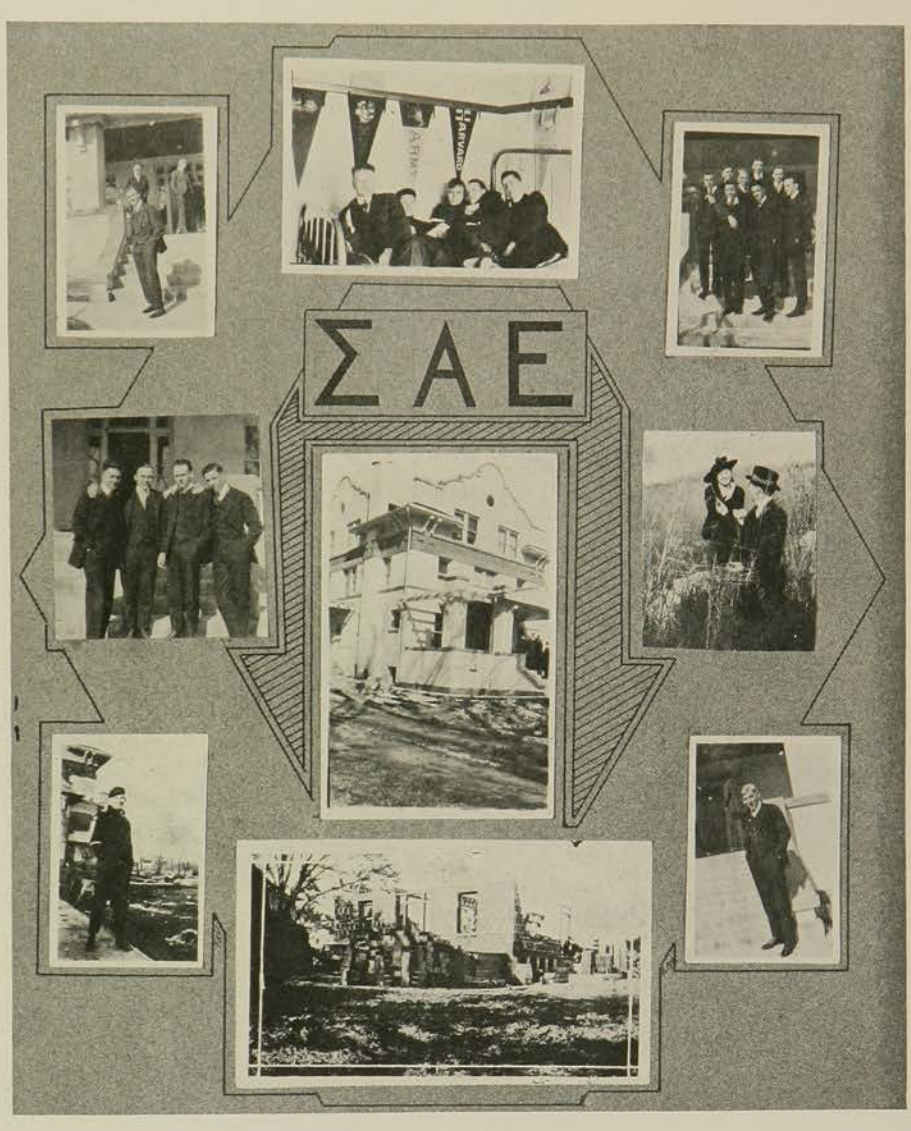


Dr. Nabours: (Lecturing to a class on the benefit of working one's way through school)—"When I started in back East I was working for eight or ten cents an hour. But when I got through I was mak ng five dollars an hour."

Seeber: (In audible whisper)—"I'll bet they were exhibiting him."

HEARD FROM THE FRESHMAN SECTION

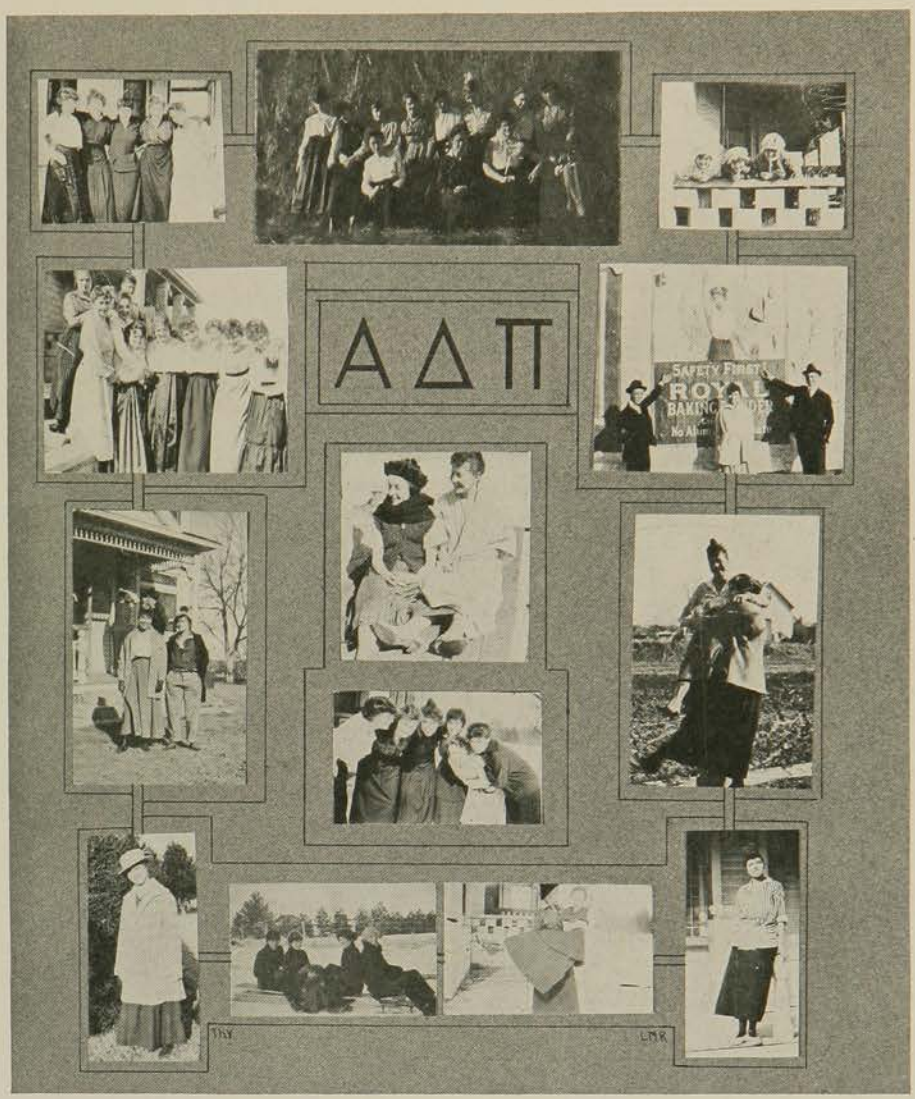
Seniors, Seniors, I've been thinking,
What a grand place this would be,
If, when you have used your note-books
You'd bequeath them all to me.



IN BUSINESS LAW

Prof. Taylor: "When is a common carrier not liable for damages caused to goods in shipment?"

Bayer: "When the damage is caused by an act of God or some other public enemy."



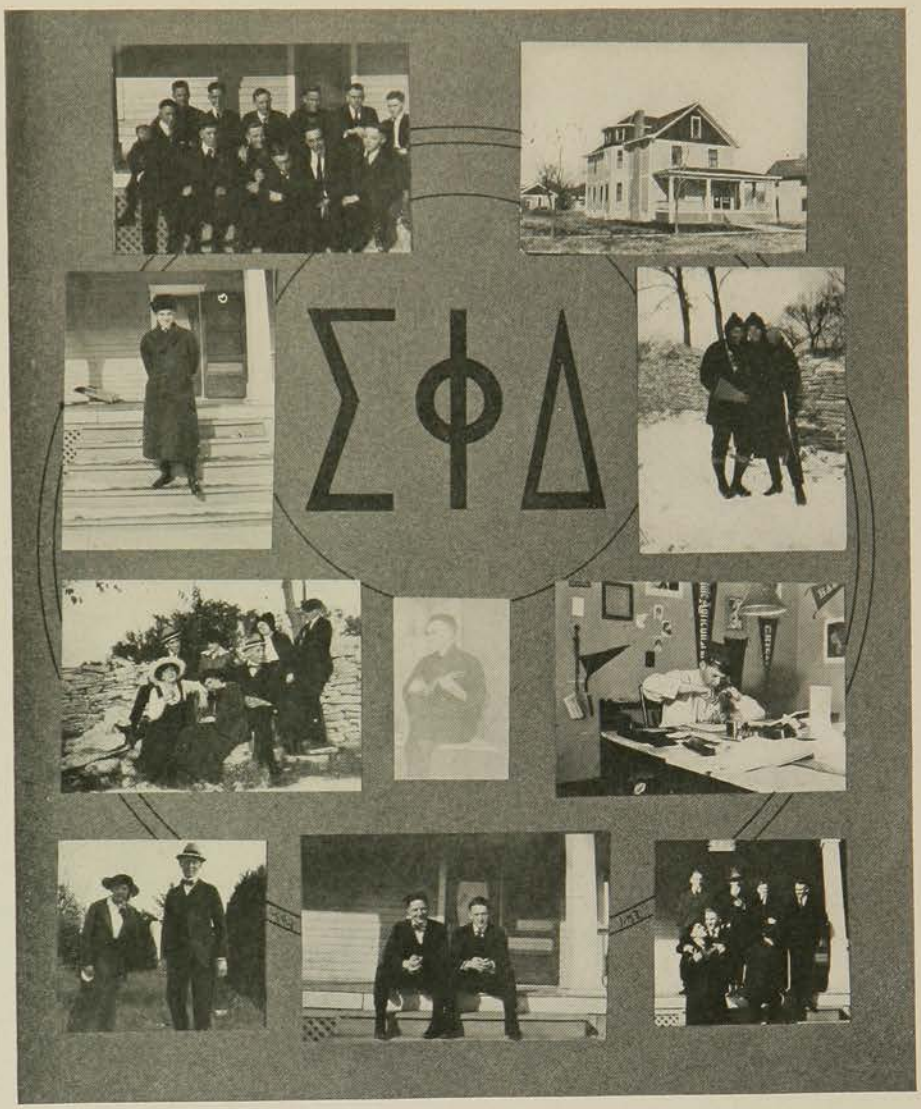
Malcolm Aye went to sleep in class, after securing the promise from the man beside him to awaken him when the professor called on Aye. The professor was lecturing most interestingly when suddenly the man next to Aye accidentally nudged him. Suddenly awakening, Malcolm interrupted the busy hum of the professor's voice by announcing, "I don't know a thing about it, Professor, not a thing."

Holton: "Why is it that some children never go to school after they have finished the first grade?"

Van Zile: "A great many of them quit to go to business college."

Prof. Dickens: "Will you tell us the effect of stalk on scion, Mr. Sharp?"

Sharp: "Why—er—er—if you turn stock into an orchard, they might trample on the young scions."



A TRUE STORY

Patterson: (In A. H. class)—"Today we will study the Duroc Jersey."
Dowling: (Who slept through roll call and has just awakened)—"Here!"

Rules of Etiquette for Rushing Week

1. It is best to stand till the rushee is seated.

2. If a rushee spends a night at the house, for Heaven's sake don't ask to borrow any of her clothes. Wait till she's pledged.

3. Mention those of your members who are prominent in College activities as if you were really acquainted with them.

4. If the dinner consists of several courses, appear accustomed to it.

5. Don't make a mistake and kick the rushee's foot under the table, when you're trying to kick the guy who is talking about that scrape you all got into last winter.

6. If you come out with any extra silverware, stick it in your pocket and slip it to the cook after the company is gone.

7. Eat your salad with a fork.

8. Don't request the butler to bring in the toothpicks.

9. Speak to all Freshmen on the campus for fear of cutting a new rushee.

10. Girls! Kiss the rushee every chance you get.

11. If he looks like a freak, but still is nterested in athletics, nab him.

12. Learn those frat songs.

13. Don't mention last year's grade average.

14. Tell the rushee about the night every one of your girls went to a swell dance.

15. When walking with a rushee, speak to only the "swells" that you meet. "Hightone" common folks. This rule must be obeyed!

VANITY FAIR ???

How the Royal Purple Staff Will Spend Their Salaries

AS SEEN BY THE PUBLIC	AS THEY REALLY WILL (According to Testimony)
"Bill" Calvert— Buy a 1000-acre orchard with a nice little bungalow.	"Bill" Calvert— $198 of it for living expenses and the remaining $2 for a good time.
Price Wheeler— Purchase a seat in the U. S. Senate.	Price Wheeler— Will use his to get home.
Geo. Ferrier— Establish an endowment fund for a girls' dormitory at the University of Nebraska.	Geo. Ferrier— Most of it for good times, dances, etc., and the remainder to buy the hind tire of a Ford.
Millie Branson and Eva Lawson— Join a Cook touring party to Europe and bribe the Kaiser to bring about peace.	Millie Branson— Pay her organization assessments for Royal Purple pictures. Eva Lawson— Buy a nice remembrance of the College, probably a souvenir spoon.
Harold McClelland— Establish an "H. M. McClelland" school for the military training of the youth of America.	Harold McClelland— Buy his new spring clothes.
L. A. Maury— Contribute $6000 to Sigma Nu house fund and with the remainder purchase a cattle ranch in dear old Texas.	L. A. Maury— Pay his $11 Class Book assessment.
Harlan Sumner— Use his salary as a nest-egg to make a "pile" in Wall Street.	Harlan Sumner— Will buy an A. Z. key and a new collar.
Florence Justin— Will spend part of her fortune going on the stump making speeches opposing P. H. Wheeler for Senator and the rest adopting fat little orphan boys.	Florence Justin— Will spend her salary for a good tennis racket.

FRED KORSMEIER and MARY POLSON—
Will combine their fortunes for the advancement of Art; Fred to play the violin while Mary sings in grand opera.

G. M. SCHICK—
Use his salary trying to reform the corrupt members of the staff.

T. K. VINCENT—
Buy a palatial home and a Detroit Electric for his wife.

L. M. REUDY—
Take a course in architecture at Armour Institute of Technology.

FRED KORSMEIER—
Buy a set of violin strings.

MARY POLSON—
Will use her salary on a pleasure trip to Lincoln, Nebraska.

G. M. SCHICK—
Will take a trip to Hiawatha, Kan.

T. K. VINCENT—
First installment on a diamond ring.

L. M. REUDY—
Buy a new set of drawing instruments.

It was during Farm and Home Week, December 28-31, 1915. A number of farmers had come on to the campus early to watch the milking. They finally strolled up to the calf barn and stood watching the calves at breakfast. The following conversation was overheard:

First Farmer: "This must be that there new thing we've been reading about all fall."

Second Farmer: "What thing do you mean?"

First Farmer: "Why, this must be that new cafeteria."

Have You Heard?

That a certain Hort professor was threatened with violence at the first of the year for not wearing a Freshman hat?

That Chuck Gartrell's trunk was sent to the Tri Delt house one day last term?

That a certain college professor pretended to be a drummer and got a room in a crowded Topeka hotel while the rest of the K. S. A. C. delegates to the State Teachers' Convention had to seek rooms elsewhere?

That Mr. Beetle is a very good student in Entomology?

That Professor Swanson wears a rubber collar?

That someone mistook the new Sig Alph house for a church?

That one of our Hort profs has been named "Modest Mike" because he insists on planting shrubs to cover the ankles of the buildings?

The Vet Rosary

The hours I spent with thee dear horse,
Are as a string of bones to me;
I look them over each one apart,
My Bonery, My Bonery.

Each bone an ache, each ache a pain,
The name of which I do not know,
In vain I search McFadden's through
And then, at last, the name I learn.

O memories that bless and burn,
O wearing toil and bitter cram,
I strive at last to hit that quiz,
To lose my self in that exam.

In Leap Year

There was to be a meeting
That night, without a doubt;
Dean Van Zile told Sir Kammeyer
He could not be left out.

"But listen," said the man then,
"That really cannot be,
Because I have no jitney
To come here after me."

"Well, but I have a jitney,"
The dean was heard to say,
"And I will have my driver
Just come around your way."

And so the thing was settled.
The jitney got her, and
Drove up to Mr. Kammeyer's
At her express command.

The driver then dismounted
And opened up the door,
And stood beside politely
For quite a while, or more.

"Why don't you go in for him?"
The Dean then asked the man.
"How can he know you're out here?
Hear you he hardly can."

And then the man looked at her
And his surprise was great
"Why! aren't you going in there.
To get your precious date?"

Out-Scarabing the Scarabs

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Jay Stratton	Commander-in-Chief
Price Wheeler	Court Diplomat
Wilma Burtis	Royal Assenter
Florence Jones	Official Court Giggler

Scene One

It is a balmy night in June. The Scarabs, cream of the College, are entertaining with their annual Initiation Dance. Needless to say, the affair is painfully exclusive.

Finally intermission arrives, the time when these worthy representatives of our aristocracy must needs refresh themselves. They all depart for the College Inn.

Scene Two

Soon the party starts on the return to the dance, which is in Elks Hall. Hark! What is the sound that reaches the ear? Music, without a doubt! But from whence? Ah, the Woodman Hall, to be sure! Scornful references to "Crumb dance," "Public Dance," "Roughneck dance," etc., are heard issuing from the perfect lips of these passing social lights, who draw their robes of exclusiveness a little more closely about them and hurry past this place of doubtful reputation.

Scene Three

But not all! Four members of this party are slightly more venturesome than the others. They pause, listen to the beautiful strains of melody issuing from that famous Woodman Hall piano, and are lost.

"Come on, let's go up and look in," suggests Jay.

"Oh, yes; that would be great," chorus the girls.

"Well, if you think no one will see us go," agrees Price.

So, after a glance around, ascertaining that no one is watching, they dodge into the stairway, and are gone.

Scene Four

The royal four walk grandly down the passageway to the door of the dance hall. But suddenly a huge bulk of a woman, fierce and determined, blocks their path. Ignoring her, our heroines peek through the open space at the assembled crowd, and pass some joke about those they see inside.

But suddenly, "Halt!" comes from the doorkeeper.

The four blink, then look interested.

"You can't come in here," she announces, fire in her eyes.

"Why?" ask our friends, becoming somewhat astounded.

"Do you know the password?" she asks, closing the door.

"Password!!" (Chorus).

"Now you listen to me, young people. We're not goin' to have jist anybody comin' in here. This is no public dance!"

(Quick Curtain.)

Behind the Scenes

Jay—Looks admiringly toward the closed door and vows he'll make a date with that woman some day. She's interesting.

Price—Faints dead away.

Wilma—Firmly grasps Price by the collar and starts downstairs.

Florence—Giggles.

Faculty Song Book

Miss Kennedy's Song

(Any old tune will do)

(Inspired by a lecture in Sanitation and Public Health)

Pediculosis holds full sway
Upon your heard this very day.
Adenoids and tonsils make you quarrel,
Make you delinquent and immoral.

Love of adventure makes germs move,
New worlds to conquer and conquest they love;
They try to jump from you to me,
So I must be careful, don't you see?

Dr. Reisner's Song

"Reuben, Reuben"

Teachers, teachers, I've been thinking
What a bum place this school is;
Where the system used in grading
Flunks no one in any quiz.

Prexy, Prexy, hear my pleading,
My new system do install;
The Normal Curve of Distribution
Gives the right grade to them all.

Students, students, you won't like it,
But it's surely got to be;
Some of you must be the flunkers,
One or two may get an "E."

BOLD BAD MEN

MILD MEEK
WOMEN

Victor Ile's Song

"Glory, Glory, Hallelujah"

Now, listen here, you students, when you first come to this class,
You are very dumb 'tis true but then you all will hope to pass,
You must keep your notebooks daily, let the movies go to grass
Or I will flunk you sure.

Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Or I will flunk you sure.

Oh, first you put the lesson, then you leave a vacant line,
Then you take down the assignment which I think is mighty fine,
Then the next two lines leave vacant just as I give you the sign,
But I will flunk you sure.

Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
But I will flunk you sure.

Dr. Macarthur's Song

"Coming Through the Rye"

If the Freshmen and the Sophomores
Ask me for advice,
I will make of them debaters
In a very trice.

Every laddie has a lassie,
Nane they say hae I;
Yet I make some good debaters,
And for the lass just sigh.

Mrs. Van Zile's Song

(To her own tune)

My advice to you, my girls,
  Is—choose your husbands with care;
For men are very wicked now;
  I beseech you to beware.

Yet do not be disheartened,
  Or stay close at home and mope,
For there are some nice, good men
  And while there's life there's hope.

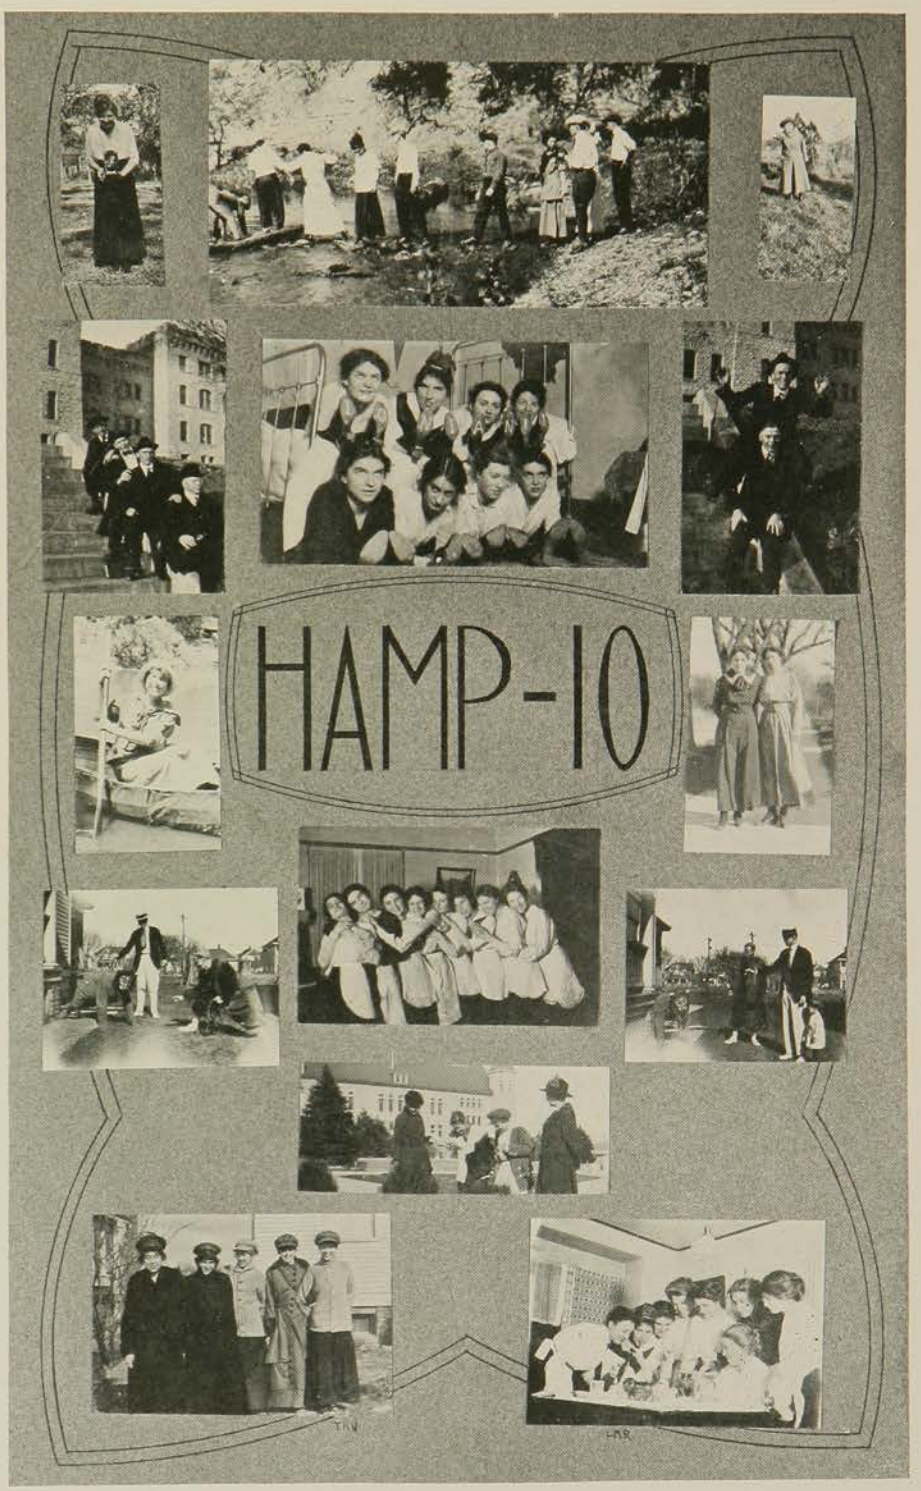
Sometime in a rose garden,
  With a sweet and winning tone,
A good, true man will find you
  And claim you for his own.

Hello Everybody:

I didn't want to write this letter but Mamma said you would like to see my picture. I was sore when this was taken because the photographer's daughter kissed me. I don't like kisses, nor girls either. I like funny stories though. I will tell you some when I see you.

With love to all, I am,

Yours truly,
DON JORDON.



HAMP-10

A Sample Question From "Mike" Ahearn's Final Exam in Kitchen Gardening

"Name One Hundred Trees and Shrubs."

Some of the answers—

By Amy Gould—

100 Trees

1. Green trees—25 kinds.
2. Blue trees—5 kinds.
3. Single trees—1 kinds.
4. Double trees—2 species.
5. Tall trees—several kinds.
6. Short trees—not many kinds.
7. Evergreen trees—6 kinds.
8. Never green trees—(Owing to climatic conditions.)
9. Christmas trees—(Santa Claus kinds.)

10—Canker worm trees—Elm.

25, plus several, plus the rest, equals 100 trees.

50 Shrubs

Not acquainted with shrubs, but know several scrubs.

By Minerva Cooper—

Some trees are tall—about 20 of this kind.
Some trees are short—about 20 of this kind.
Some trees are bushy—about 20 of this kind.
Some trees are evergreen—about 20 of this kind.
Some trees are crooked—about 20 of this kind.
Some shrubs are beautiful—about 10 of this kind.
Some shrubs are flowering, not pruned, in need of pruning, and are dead.
Some perennials winter kill—about 25.
Some annuals go to seed—about 15.

With much gratitude.

Love

There is one man at this College
  That I love with all my soul,
And this affection shall increase,
  As long as ages roll.

In sooth, this true affection
  Is so very broad and strong,
I think of him with rapture
  And sing a bit of song.

The reason for this feeling
  Is very plain to see,
He gave one "E" at Finals
  And that one was to me.

Dear Kiddies:

I think it's nice to be young, don't you? There are so many things to see and so many people to see me. They all say, "Isn't she a darling," "Such big black eyes" or "Such a bright child; so observing, you know." I don't know what they mean but I guess they are right.

Lovingly,

WILMA BURTIS.

Matrimonial Advice

A Series of One-Minute Interviews with Prominent Faculty Members.

Question: "Do you consider the days spent in college the ideal time for the selection of a life partner?"

Cortelyou: "By all means! I believe in co-educational institutions, largely for that reason. I met my wife in college, and I advise other young men to do likewise."

Miss Fecht: "Not guilty! I know nothing about these things, so how could I give an opinion? I have nothing against it, however."

Nabours: "Teachers or students? Why don't you ask someone who has tried—I mean succeeded? I think that coming to me with this question is much the same as asking students why they fail."

Hughes: "I have never tried, so I don't know. I had my wife chosen before I started to college. If you choose her early in life and can bring her up in the way she should go, it is much to be preferred, for she will not have gone to college and learned to deceive you as college girls do." (Mr. Hughes then kindly drew a curve showing how the chances are much more plentiful early in life, and dropped considerably after graduation. He also demonstrated how the curve drops to nothing if the matrimonial aspirant becomes a school teacher.) "As to correct age, any time you can get the man to say the proper thing is the proper age."

Price: "The answer is, Mrs. Price and I belonged to the same class."

Miss Dunton: "I am afraid I can't give you any information. What are you up to, anyway?"

Jackley: "Er—ahem—why—I should say—that—perhaps—in the majority of cases the college would be the ideal place. The student is changing his standards and ideals, and wants someone to equal those ideals. In some cases it might not be so good, but as a rule I should say that the college is the place."

Reisner: "Yes, I should say that by all means the man who chooses his wife at college stands a very fine chance of getting a fine wife. I am strongly in favor of it."

Macarthur: "Well, you see, if I should say that it was, people would wonder why I didn't."

Porter: "I don't know how those things work out generally, but they didn't in my case. On the whole, students had better wait till they get a job. But choose whenever the lightning strikes, not at any particular time."

Davis: "No, ma'am, there is no ideal time. The time for such things is not ideal, but opportune. If I had done anything like that I would have been a bigamist seven or eight times over. I will add, that marriage should begin in indiscretion and end in woe, and it always does."

Ahearn: "I think it is the best time, that college is the best place on earth, and that Lovers' Lane is the ideal place. Furthermore, get a D. S. girl if you can, and best of all, a red-haired one. If you want the sum total of my views. I think that every man and woman should get married, whether they like it or not."

Iles: "Yes, it's all right. But a man shouldn't let that selection interfere with his choice of a career and pick out one before he is able to hold a good job."

Emerson: "My life partner? You mean me? Oh, as to students, I consider the college field a very good field. Not Harvard, however, for it is not a co-educational college. On the other hand, though, I think the student is mature enough."

Fitz: "Well, I didn't, although some of them thought I was going to."

Miss Rice: "I think it is, if you are going to select one. Your chances are much better and for making the glue stick. I know from long observation, not from experience."

Winship: "I fancy that this is a subject that students consider most in college life. Since it is so universal and common, I see no reason why it should not be proper. College is a good place. Of course it depends on the student and his ambition. Some attend college when they are not mature enough to decide their life work, hence they are not mature enough to select a life partner. Yet the choice of a life partner might help the selection of this work."

Dear Sir:

I understand that you want an organist and music teacher, either man or woman. Having been both for several years, I beg to offer my services.

Hello Kids:

See my new skirt! Mamma just got it from the dressmaker's. Isn't it nice and long? I'm grown up now. I would have been last winter but Mamma wouldn't let me have long skirts. Well, I must go to school now, so

Good bye,

Dear Little Friends:

I wanted to write to you and send this picture so you could see that I look like a soldier man. Papa says maybe I can be a big soldier some day and fight Indians. I wouldn't be afraid of them, all right, for I would cut 'em with my sword. I must stop now and go to play soldier with the kids across the alley.

THE IDES OF MARCH

"LAMBS"

Dear People:

My! but this is a big world. I guess maybe there's scads of things I don't know yet. Just now Daddy came out here with a little black box and said, "Be still, son, while I shoot you." You just bet I was scared. I don't know what he did to me. I hope it won't keep me from growing up quick, 'cause I don't like ruffled white waists. I want a collar and tie like Daddy wears.

Hopefully yours,

Dear Friends:

I want to write and let you know that I am feeling good. This picture is me in my new white dress. I have a cookie in my hand to keep me from being scared at the picture taker I had a fight yesterday and Mamma said she thought I would be a football player some day.

This is all I can think of now.

Good bye,

EMMET SKINNER.

Dear Boys and Girls:

I didn't want to have my picture taken, but Mamma said I must. So they fixed my hair (it's naturally curly, you know), and put on my new dress (with braid on it). Then the picture man said "My, hasn't she got pretty coloring. Look here, little girl," and I looked, and that was all.

Good bye,

RUTH ADAMS.

A little pink rose was skinny Nettie
As she carefully plied her way
'Twixt the pebbles and the boulders
Where the Wildcat ran at play.

"Ah!" quoth Nettie, smiling brightly;
"Best of all, I love to wade,"
And she pulled her wide-brimmed Panama
O'er her nose to give her shade.

Then she stepped across so lightly,
Holding fast unto her hat,
'Til she slipped upon a "horrid" rock
Then into the stream she sat.

Quick she rose—a dripping maiden,
To the Primpy Place she hied
Where, by God's own sunshine,
Her petticoat was dried.

SUFFRAGETTES

Dear Little Friends:

I am very happy today. Do you know why? I will tell you. It is because Mamma just put my name on the Cradle Roll at Sunday School. When I get big enough I will go every Sunday. Maybe I will see some of you there.

Our Advertisers

ROYAL PURPLE desires to thank the few Aggieville and down-town business men, whose advertisements appear on the following pages, for their ready support, and to beg its readers to remember those who have helped it and the College. These merchants have contributed their support with the sincere belief that the students would be just in recognizing and showing their appreciation of it. The fact that more of the local firms are not herein represented makes more conspicuous those who are. As worthy of notice are the out-of-town advertisers who have shown their confidence in the student body. Most of them are located where it is possible for students traveling to and from Manhattan to stop and visit them. Do so and tell them that their support is appreciated.

"Bureau" Supremacy Commands Attention!

LOOK back over the past years and ask yourself what other Engraving Institution, specializing in college annuals, has wielded so wide an Influence over the College Annual Field?

Ask yourself if College and University Annuals are not better today because of BUREAU PROGRESSIVENESS and BUREAU INITIATIVE?

You know that the BUREAU OF ENGRAVING, Inc. inaugurated the system of Closer Co-operation with college annual boards in planning and constructing books from cover to cover.

Our marked progress in this field commands attention. Our establishment is one of the largest of its kind in this country. Our Modern Art Department of noted Commercial Art Experts is developing Artistic Features that are making "Bureau" Annuals Famous for Originality and Beauty.

And again, the help of our experienced College Annual Department is of invaluable aid. Our up-to-the-minute system, which we give you, and our Instructive Books will surely lighten your Burden.

A proposition from the Natural Leaders in the College Annual Engraving field from an organization of over 150 people, founded over 17 years ago, and enjoying the Confidence and Good Will of the foremost Universities of this country, is certainly worth your while.

Is not the BUREAU OF ENGRAVING, Inc., Deserving of the Opportunity of showing what it can do for - YOU?

STANOLIND

GAS ENGINE TRACTOR OIL

Proper lubrication is the big thing in tractor maintenance. Your tractor is only as good as the lubrication you use.

Stanolind Gas Engine Tractor Oil, especially designed to meet conditions where kerosene or distillate is used as fuel, furnishes the correct lubricating body for cylinders and external bearings of tractors and stationary gas engines. It will withstand high temperature without material change.

Its use will eliminate the common complaint of scored cylinders and undue wear of frictional parts, which is mainly due to the fact that operators of tractors oftentimes use too light bodied oils, or oils not suitable for this particular service.

It is equally serviceable for lubricating the bearings of all classes and types of harvester machinery.

POLARINE

With automobiles as well as tractors it is the oil that counts. Inferior lubrication means extravagance in gasoline and a shorter life to your car.

Polarine affords better lubrication and is more dependable under extreme working conditions than any other oil. It flows at zero and maintains the correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

I battled with the North Wind,
As I came up College Hill.
He rushed on me with vigor,
And I told him to be still.

But he heeded not my warning—
This bold, bad wind of the North.
He clasped me in his strong embrace
And swayed me back and forth.

I broke away in anger
And up the walk did race;
Yet, nevertheless, I rather liked
That North Wind's strong embrace.

SUITS THAT TALK

Our suits talk ths wearers' prosperity.

Give yourself a boost—young man—going forth into the world, by wearing our good Clothes.

The young man who is correctly attired is usually "adhering" where the other fellow fails.

High Grade but not High Priced

Our suits this year at $20, $25 and $30 are certainly the best suits at the price we have ever seen in all our years of experience in the clothing business.

ROCKY FORD DAM

He Capitalized Himself at a Quarter of a Million Dollars

WENTY-FIVE years ago R. S. Kellogg came to the Kansas State Agricultural College as a student. Today R. S. Kellogg is drawing $10,000 a year as secretary of the National Lumber Manufacturer's Association. This is the same as an income of four per cent on $250,000. By education Mr. Kellogg capitalized himself at a quarter of a million dollars.

Hundreds of other men have capitalized themselves—it's the way to money and reputation for MEN WITH BRAINS.

If you are going to capitalize yourself for the biggest amount possible, don't forget that the Kansas State Agricultural College offers you the means. You can study there the things that will enable you to draw a good income and at the same time to serve your State and Nation.

These are some of the subjects in which you can take courses:

Agriculture
Veterinary Science
Architecture
Cixil and Highway Engineering
Agricultural Engineering
Electrical Engineering
Mechanical Engineering
Home Economics
General Science
Industrial Journalism

The College Catalogue will tell you about the courses and the student activities.

In Conclusion—

This is the end, and you are free to criticize. Of course we want you to be pleased with our efforts. If you are, it will help a little if you tell us so. If you are not pleased we won't worry, for perhaps you could not have done better. We have tried to make our book representative of the whole school. The best suggestions and most appropriate remembrances have been gleaned from various sources. We realize how futile must be any attempt to put on paper the real K. S. A. C. This book is only an effort to suggest the spirit of our school, and we hope it will also serve as a memory book which will enable you to remember your fellow students a little longer.

We could not close without mentioning a few of the people who have done so much to make this volume a reality. First in the list must appear the name of Mr. J. J. Sher, of the Bureau of Engraving. His ideas and art creations have been used profusely in this book. His constant attention to every detail of the art work since the book was first started, has made this part of our work a pleasure instead of a burden as is usually the rule.

Mr. Colgate Buckbee, who makes it possible for the Bureau of Engraving to furnish the excellent quality of cuts, has our sincere thanks for the service rendered to us.

The Union Bank Note Co. deserves the praise for the publication of our book. Mr. Leo Crabbs of this company has given his best efforts and attention to every page.

To Prof. N. A. Crawford of the Department of Journalism, we are deeply indebted for many useful suggestions and valuable ideas.

To Mr. W. C. Calvert, our business manager, should be given much praise for his untiring efforts to lighten our burdens. His encouragement and aid in times of need has made the task seem lighter.

Every other member of the staff has done his or her best to help make this volume a success. It would take too long to give to all the praise they deserve.

Lastly, we desire to express our appreciation of the support that we have received from all of the members of our class. Their manifestations of confidence in our efforts and their loyalty at all times has been the greatest asset we have had.

Editor-in-Chief.
