PASTURE DAM

Like most buyers, Mrs. Delma Slama, a rancher northeast of Greenleaf, observes the building of her small pasture dam. George Waterman, a neighbor, stopped by to see if he could get L.J. Zabokrtsky, the caperpiller operator, to do some dirt moving. Since Mrs. Slama's windmill fell down, the pasture hasn't had a source of water for the livestock.

DIGGING FOR WATER

This dam is only about 15 feet high, but should hold enough water to keep Mrs. Slama's cattle watered most of the summer. Before Zabokrtsky, Steele City, Nebr., had finished his excavation project he was pushing mud. But, the water will be supplied by rain.

Water For A Dry Pasture

A BLADE FULL

The roll bars on this cat provide good protection for Zabokrtsky and the way he handles the machine on steep banks he needs them. This is one of the busier times of the year for dirt movers.

Most Feed In Storage In 10 Years

Combined farm and off-farm stocks of wheat in Kansas on April 1 this year were about 10 percent below the previous 2 years, well above those in the 1966-69 period, but less than half peak stocks for that date in 1962, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Combined stocks of four feed grains were the largest for April 1 in a decade.

Wheat stored in Kansas on April 1 totaled 239,027,000 bushels, compared with 264,586,000 bushels a year ago.

Stocks this April were down seasonally from January 1. Off-farm holdings were 12 percent smaller than on April 1, 1971, but farm holdings were 5 percent larger.

Rye holdings on April 1 totaled 1,671,000 bushels, 18 percent greater than a year earlier and largest for April 1 on record.

Combined stocks of 4 major feed grains (sorghum grain, corn, oats and barley) in Kansas totaled 197,804,000 bushels. This was 31 percent more than a year earlier and largest in 10 years.

Sorghum grain stocks in all positions totaled 122,395,000 bushels, 62 percent larger than a year earlier and highest for the date in 8 years. Farm stocks were up 88 percent from a year earlier and off-farm stocks were up 50 percent.

Corn stocks totaled 68,593,000 bushels, compared with 55,812,000 a year earlier. Both farm and off-farm stocks were 23 percent above a year earlier.

Oat stocks totaled 4,483,000 bushels, down 9 percent from a year ago, but the second highest for April 1 since 1962.

Barley stocks were 2,333,000 bushels, up 2 percent from this time last year and largest for April 1

Soybean holdings totaled 11,110,000 bushels on April 1, 15 percent less than a year earlier and smallest for the date in 4 years but larger than in any year prior to 1969.

United States

The nation's wheat stocks of 1,215 million bushels on April 1 were the largest for this date since 1963.

Stocks of the 4 feed grains (corn, oats, barley and sorghum) on April 1, 1972 amounted to 126 million tons, 28 percent above a year earlier. Soybean stocks were 11 percent lower than a year earlier.

All wheat in storage April 1, 1972 totaled 1,215 million bushels, 14 percent more than a year earlier. Off-farm stocks, at 687 million bushels, were 1 percent more than a year earlier.

Farm holdings, at 528 million, were record high for the date and 37 percent above a year ago.

Rye stocks in all positions on April 1, 1972 totaled 59.1 million bushels, 41 percent more than a year earlier.

Sorghum grain in storage April 1, 1972 totaled 480 million bushels, 34 percent more than a year ago. Both farm and off-farm stocks were sharply above a year earlier.

Corn stocks in all storage positions on April 1, 1972 totaled 3,344 million bushels, up 32 percent from a year earlier. Off-farm stocks of 897 million bushels were 34 percent more than a year earlier and farm holdings, at 2,447 million bushels, were up 32 percent.

Oats stored in all positions April 1, 1972 totaled a record high 1 million bushels, 4 percent above a year's previous high. Oats stored on farms was 14 percent above April last year, while farm stocks were unchanged.

Soybeans stored in all positions totaled 551 million bushels on April 1, 1972, 11 percent less than a year earlier. Farm stocks were off 1 percent, and off-farm stocks were down 10 percent from a year ago.

Less Weed Spraying Over Fort Riley

FT. RILEY — Approximately 25,200 acres at Ft. Riley have been sprayed by airplane for the control of musk thistle, a noxious weed.

Fort authorities said this is a reduction of 16,000 acres from last year due to the "effectiveness of the spraying program in 1971."

Approximately 8,000 gallons of 2-4D Amine were sprayed at the rate of three pints an acre as recommended by studies conducted at Kansas State University. Prior to awarding the contract for spraying, an environmental assessment of its impact was made at Ft. Riley with information provided by officials of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, noxious weed division; Kansas Fish and Game Commission and the extension department of Kansas State University. According to the contract, spraying was stopped 300 feet from the water's edge of Milford Reservoir and 100 feet from the water's edge of streams flowing into the reservoir or other lakes or streams containing fish. Ft. Riley has been trying to eradicate the musk thistle since 1967.

Last year, the spraying of 2-4D on the military reservation caused concern in some areas.

As a result, a 13-member state pesticide advisory board investigated the situation and found no evidence that any of the 2-4D had entered Milford Reservoir.

Our exclusive double-thick twist ties your heaviest bales.

For keeps.

Extra-strength, double-thick twists. Exclusive with International self-stripping Lok-Twist Balers.

Your bales stay tied. For keeps. From rough handling in the field, through storage, until bales are fed.

Four wire double thickness makes a cushioned twist. At the loop. Then twists down toward the bale. No stretched, crimped or weakened wires. Wire ends tuck into the bale. Makes handling safer. No cut hands.

Baler operation is smoother, gentler because of our faster twisting cycle and slower needle cycle.

Look over our heavy crop balers—430 and 440 Lok-Twist models. Let your International Harvester Dealer show you how to avoid missed ties.

MUSTARD PROBLEM

This year many Grass and Grain area farmers are having problems with wild mustard in their wheat. Albert Roepke, Blue Rapids, is no exception. "I have a notion to plow it up and plant back with milo." Roepke pastured cattle on his wheat and says, "the cows eat the wheat but won't touch that mustard." "It just chokes the wheat out."

Reorganize 1st Division At Fort Riley

FT. RILEY — The 1st infantry division at Ft. Riley has been reorganized and enlarged.

Now designated as an "H-series" division, the Big Red One has added a company to each of its four infantry and three armored battalions and to the 701st maintenance battalion, military authorities said.

The over-all gain in personnel will be diminished because the 1st administration company was divided into two units. Authorities did not say what the division's strength will be when fully manned. The reorganization also made permanent a provisional aviation unit presently attached to the division.

The new companies added to the infantry battalions are designated for combat support. They will contain the heavy mortar section, 106 mm recoilless rifle platoon, redeye missile team, scout, ground surveillance and maintenance sections.

The same units have been moved into the armored battalions with the exception of a bridge section which replaces the recoilless rifle platoon.

CHAROLAIS MEN

Gerald, Byron, and Bruce McFadden, Manhattan, are Charolais breeders. Right now they have 60 head and will be selling some percentage bulls soon. Basically they are milo, wheat and alfalfa farmers. The three brothers farm 480 acres between Tuttle and Milford Lakes. They say there has been an increase in humidity and rain in this area since the two lakes were constructed.

Grain-Fed Cattle Hit Record High

Grain-fed cattle marketed from Kansas farms in 1970 totaled 1,337,000, up 11 percent from a year earlier and a record high, according to the Kansas crop and Livestock Marketing Service.

Grass-fed cattle marketed numbered 1,337,000, a decrease of 15 percent. Marketings of all cattle and calves from Kansas farms totaled 3,305,000 head during 1970, a decrease of 1 percent from a year earlier, but 6 percent above the average for the previous 5 years.

Shipments of cattle and calves into Kansas during 1970 totaled 2,134,000 head, an increase of 8 percent from a year earlier.

In 1970 Finney County again had the largest number of grain-fed cattle marketed with an estimated 119,000 head. Barton County ranked second with 110,000 head followed closely by Ford County with 106,000 head.

These top counties have been leaders in grain-fed marketings due to the concentration of large commercial cattle feeding operations in their respective areas.

An additional 8 counties marketed more than 50,000 head of grain-fed cattle each during 1970. There were an estimated 9,000 farms and commercial lots in Kansas producing grain-fed cattle for market in 1970.

Nemaha, Washington, Brown and Dickinson counties held the top 4 spots in number of cattle feeding farms.

Barber Co. Most Grass-fed Marketings

The number of grass-fed cattle and calves marketed during 1970 exceeded 20,000 head in 12 counties. Barber County led the list with 29,900 head, followed by Clark, Butler, Marion, Ness, Greenwood, Ford,

Grass & Grain

May 2, 1972

Cowley and Gove counties.

The county totals for grass-fed cattle and calves include those pastured on Bluestem and other tall grasses in eastern Kansas, those grazing on short grass ranges and wheat fields in central and western areas and some that were wintered primarily on forage with some additional light grain supplement.

County estimates of cattle marketings are based primarily on tabulations of numbers reported by farmers and ranchers on the assessor's annual statistical schedule.

Where grain-fed and grass-fed cattle marketings included duplications, the marketings were classified as grain-fed. Allowance has been made for incompleteness and the totals adjusted to the levels of an official State estimates of cattle and calves marketed.

Livestock Inshipments

Oklahoma was again the leading source of cattle and calves shipped into Kansas with 632,000 head received from that state during 1970. Texas was second with 420,000 followed by Missouri and Colorado.

Leading states supplying sheep and feeder lambs to Kansas stockmen were Texas, New Mexico, Missouri, Colorado and Oklahoma. Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas and Illinois were leading state sources of hogs shipped into Kansas.

Nearly one-third of the cattle and calves shipped into Kansas were destined for the southwest crop reporting district, where 695,000 head were received during 1970. The west central district received 295,000 head, followed by the southeast and east central districts.

Hog inshipments were largest to the south central district with 44,000 head followed by the southeast district with 37,000 head.

Sheep and lambs from out-of-state were brought mainly into the south central and southwest districts with 56,000 and 36,000 head, respectively.

These inshipments include animals destined for auction houses, farm or commercial feedlots and individuals as shown by Port-of-Entry Declaration Certificates. Livestock entering Kansas and destined for a terminal market or direct to packers are not included in inshipments data.

Monthly Cattle on Feed Reports

A program of monthly estimates of the number of cattle on feed in Kansas was inaugurated in late 1971 to supplement the previously available quarterly estimates. The first monthly report was for November 1, 1971. Congress appropriated funds for improving the estimating program following requests from the States' cattle feeders and their national organizations. November 1, 1971 also marked the first time that more than one million cattle and calves in Kansas were on grain feed for the slaughter market.

New Golden Growth Swine Program Means More Flexible Protection for Hog Raisers

Six different drug and antibiotic packages

Balanced amino acid content

Built around the Cooper Super Swine Supplement, SSS-40®

The Golden Growth program for taking pigs from four days to market weight is well known to countless hog raisers. Now, we've added new flexibility and strength to it.

The starting phase to 50 lbs. remains the same with Cooper Peppy Pig, Cooper Candy®, Medicated Pig Saver® and Vet-Aid® Hog Wormer.

However, in phase two, the 50 lb.-to-market stage, the hog raiser has several options. He may use SSS-40 Medicated. Research shows the medication in SSS-40 improved feed conversion and costs per pound of gain over 6% compared to other medicated rations.

Or he may combine SSS-40 BASE with any of the six different drug and antibiotic packages shown, while making maximum use of his own grains.

START WITH SSS-40 BASE	USE ANY OF THESE OPTIONS.
SUPER AM FOR SWINE	Promotes growth. Improves feed efficiency. Helps prevent bacterial enteritis. Helps maintain weight gains in presence of atrophic rhinitis. Helps reduce incidence of cervical abscesses. Stress feed.
SUPER AA FOR SWINE	Controls swine dysentery. Promotes growth.
SUPER 250 FOR SWINE	Prevention and treatment of bacterial swine enteritis. Reduces incidence of cervical abscess. Stress feed for feeder pigs.
SUPER T FOR PIGS	Promotes growth. Improves feed efficiency.
SUPER F FOR SWINE	Helps prevent bacterial scours and reduces early losses due to such scours.
NEW SUPER BMD FOR SWINE	Increases rate of gain. Improves feed efficiency. Helps prevent and treat scours.

Cooper I-I Hog Mineral for all feeding programs

Each of these packages, along with SSS-40, offers the latest in advanced nutrition. Each includes a correct balance of amino acids, so vital for quick, efficient growth. Your Cooper dealer can give you detailed information on the Golden Growth plan best suited to your operation. Why not talk to him today?

Butz Asking Hard Cash For Soviet Grain Sale

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, although optimistic for a Soviet grain deal later on, has served notice he does not favor "soft" credit to help feed Russian livestock.

Butz, who opened grain discussions with Moscow earlier this month, told a news conference he thinks the Soviet Union needs to warm up politically with the United States.

Soviet leaders have shown an interest in U.S. feed grains and soybeans because of rising consumer demand for more meat, milk and eggs. But they want "concessional" low-cost credit extending as much as 10 years.

Butz said Moscow was told such special treatment is reserved for less-developed countries in programs such as Food for Peace. The Russians, he said, showed no interest in regular commercial sales backed by the Commodity Credit Corp. which are limited to three years of credit.

However, Butz said he was optimistic some kind of sales agreement can be so worked out for the future and that the topic is on President Nixon's agenda when he visits the Soviet Union next month. "We know they're going to buy grain somewhere in the world," Butz said, "and we know we've got it. We think we're sitting in the driver's seat."

Butz was asked if the recent U.S. bombings of Hanoi and Haiphong would hurt chances of a grain sale. He said he could not give a simple yes or no.

"This grain is part of a larger package that were developing with the Soviet Union," he said. "It's an opinion that before we have a substantial grain sale with them there's got to be some evidence of thawing of political relations that currently exist."

May 2, 1972

BUX. MORE FARMERS USE IT THAN ANY OTHER ROOTWORM INSECTICIDE.

What makes BUX so special? A lot of things, including effective season-long control. Just a single application of BUX at planting time keeps corn standing tall right up to harvest. Besides that BUX offers several "extras." Extras no other rootworm insecticide can give you. It resists leaching in rainy weather. It's lower in toxicity than most other corn rootworm insecticides. You don't need special clothing or equipment. Just follow label directions. Corn treated with BUX can be fed to livestock. It won't bridge over in applicator hoppers or clog equipment. It doesn't have an objectionable odor like other insecticides. It's made with non-abrasive clay granules, so it's easy on equipment...making calibration easy too. So treat your corn to BUX. Before rootworms treat themselves to your corn.

STILL FEEDING

Ralph Bergsten, Blue Rapids, has over 100 cows in the feedlot. Not because he wants them there but because he's afraid that his dry pastures could still burn with the cows on them. Bergsten farms 1,200 acres of his own and rents a lot of pasture.

Farm Credit Act Seers Regulations, Backs Farm People

The Farm Credit Act of 1971 which has new rules for operation of federal land banks and other components of the $15-billion farm credit system should be adopted by May 18 and put into effect by the local land banks gradually this summer.

This landmark package should state many outmoded regulations, some that are over 50 years old.

E. A. Jaenke, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, which oversees the system nationally, enthusiastically calls the law "a completely new charter act" for the farmer-owned network of credit institutions.

About a fourth of the nation's agricultural credit needs are provided by the system. Farmers and their cooperatives last year borrowed $14.4 billion from land banks, production credit associations and banks for cooperatives, the three major units of the system.

The last bit of federal capital invested in the system was paid off several years ago. All operations now are privately owned and financed by farmer members and their co-ops. Money for loans is obtained on the commercial market and made available to borrowers. Jaenke described the new regulations as about 75 per cent rewrite of old provisions and 25 per cent new material, including broader authority for loans involving farm purchase, and rural housing.

Under existing rules, federal land banks, for example, can lend a maximum of 65 per cent of the market value to buy land. The new regulations will permit loans of up to 85 per cent of value.

The housing provision will permit federal land bank and production credit associations for the first time to lend money for non farm homes, in rural or open-country communities of up to 2,500 population.

Another new authority will permit loans for small, farm-related businesses which provide on-farm services.

Jaenke told a news conference the lending role of the system is expected to continue in about the same proportion as now, around a fourth of the total credit used by U.S. Agriculture.

"We don't plan to back away," Jaenke said. "But what happens in the future depends on what others in the credit field do. We think we have our costs shaved down and think we're specialists in agricultural credit. We think we can continue to do a good job."

As Jaenke sees it, many in the commercial lending field have backed away from farm loans in recent years, preferring to make loans for construction projects — supermarkets and shopping centers — or to consumers under short-term arrangements.

That has left a wider gap in agricultural credit needs, allowing the cooperative farm credit system to enlarge its operations. If insurance companies, banks and other commercial institutions show an interest in stepping up agricultural credit programs, the FCS can expect to see competition.

But Jaenke and associates believe American farmers will require twice as much credit by 1980. That means, they say, ample opportunity for all types of lending institutions.

Jaenke also said he could not estimate how quickly the new housing authority would be put into full effect or how much money might be loaned in the near future. About $2 billion will be available nationwide in the system under the formula set up in the new law.

The higher lending ceiling of 85 per cent for the federal land banks is expected to be put to use quickly, Jaenke said.

"Those that can qualify and have need for that additional credit will be using it," Jaenke said. "But we'll be looking hard at a man's background, assets and ability to repay."

In other words, Jaenke conceded that land bank associations will appraise a borrower's capabilities as closely as they do the land he wants to buy before lending the full rate.

Service. The number on feed as of April 1 was unchanged from the March 1 number.

Of the 1,050,000 cattle on feed, 803,000 were in large feedlots with 1,000 head or more capacity, and 247,000 were in farm feedlots of smaller size.

Cattle placed on feed during March 1972 numbered 190,000 head, 27 percent more than in February. Marketings of grain fed cattle for slaughter during March totaled 190,000 head, compared with 200,000 during the previous month.

Cattle feeders' intentions to market indicated 650,000 head were expected to be marketed during the April-June quarter of 1972.

Cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market in the 23 major feeding States are estimated at 12,792,000 head, up 9 percent from a year earlier.

Cattle and calves placed on feed in the 23 major feeding States during January-March 1972 totaled 5,876,000 head, 2 percent above placements in the same quarter last year.

Northeast Kansas Shorthorn Sale Grosses $9,209

The Northeast Kansas Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn Sale at Horton grossed $9,208 on 23 head.

James Mitchell, Denison, signed the top bull. He sold to Elmer King, Yates Center, for $730. King also purchased the second selling at $660. This bull was signed by John Grathwohl, Hiawatha. Only six bulls were offered in the sale. They averaged $509. This included a young bull twelve months old.

The females in this sale averaged $362. Roy Dannevik, Centralia, sold a cow and calf for $575. This was the top female lot. William Hoskins, Centralia, sold a pair for $500. Joseph Detrixhe, Ames, purchased both pairs.

The seventeen head of registered females averaged $362. Commercial cow and calf pairs sold for $380 to $400. Springer cows sold from $320 to $340 with some commercial heifers weighing about 500 selling from $155 to $220.

Milton Nagely, Abilene, was manager; and the auctioneers were Morris L. Pollman, Centralia; Bill Bredemeier, Seneca.

You'll find the Co-op way of financing offers more advantages to the borrower

Like other cooperatives, the Federal Land Bank is owned by its members. It operates solely for the benefit of the farmers who control it.

As a Land Bank Association stockholder, you benefit from economies of collective borrowing in the nation's money markets. Mortgage money is available to borrower-members on favorable terms.

In addition, you can get extra years to repay a Land Bank loan; payments are smaller and easier to handle. You may prepay part or all of the loan without penalty.

Whatever your need for long-term financing, a Land Bank loan can be customized to your exact requirements. We would welcome an opportunity to talk it over at your convenience.

East Kansas
Shorthorn Sale
$9,200

East Kansas Shorthorn Sale at the Fort Hays Branch Experiment Station, April 28. More than 1000 visitors observed the cattle exhibition from tests in progress and answered to Bill Duitsman, station superintendent, and John Brethour, project leader, review that results of nearly 30 beef cattle experiments conducted the past year. Additional tests included research in feedlot nutrition, crossbreeding, meat quality, disease control, cow-calf management, and backgrounding this old.

Wheat feeding tests showed an advantage to strong gluten over weak gluten wheats and that wheat seems to improve wheat utilization by cattle. Progress was reported in building a supplement to with an all-wheat finishing ration. It was found that substituting wheat for milo enables the feeder to use more heavily on non-protein-organic acids were effective in reducing mold in both grain and silage silages but did not improve value when compared to silages that had been properly made.

Both vitamin B1 and vitamin C helped prevent shipping fever and improved gains of calves during the stress period after weaning. Adding zinc to calf rations helped them through dehorning stress and appeared to promote healing. Several experiments were reported where other minerals were tested.

A new implant made from zanol (extracted from corn mold) compared favorably to diethylstilbestrol. This implant is presently more expensive but has the advantage of not being an estrogen.

The crossbreeding tests gave the visitors an opportunity to view some of the new breeds including Murray Grey (from Australia) and Maine Anjou (from France). Reports were made on calving difficulty with various crosses and their response to creep feeding.

Continued responses were announced from using cortisone-like compounds to improve carcass grade. Other reports included studies with Ruff-Tabs, Bloat-Guard, dust bags to achieve horn fly control, pasture supplements, pink control, sudangrass silage and urinary calculi control.

The afternoon program was a fast-moving question and answer session between Duitsman and his staff covering crop production, plant breeding, pesticides and many other agricultural topics.

Those who wish to study the beef cattle results in greater detail should obtain Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin 556 (59th Roundup Report) from their county agent.

Kansas State Fair Receives Funds For Beef Pavilion

HUTCHINSON — Two major construction projects for the Kansas State Fair will be begun this year with one of them scheduled for completion before the 1972 Fair opens in September.

The two projects were provided for in appropriations by the Kansas Legislature in its 1972 session. Funds will be available after July 1, 1972, says Wallace White, fair secretary.

$172,000 was appropriated for a new Beef Cattle judging pavilion. Since construction of this new structure could not be completed in time for the '72 fair, it will be commenced following the close of this year's fair and will be ready for 1973.

$40,600 was appropriated by the legislature for the improvement of streets and roads on the fair grounds. Construction will start after July 1, when the funds become available, and it is hoped that some of the improvements can be completed prior to the 1972 fair.

Dates of the 1972 Kansas State Fair are September 16 through 24.

Tune-up before a tractor pulling contest includes changing plugs on the "Monkey Business." Wayne Whiteley of Abilene bought this Montgomery Ward tractor after it had been sitting in the junk pile for ten years. It is at least 20 years old since none have been made after 1952. It is a stock tractor and won second place in the 5500 pound class at a contest at Salina.

Argentina Rations Beef After 1971 Production Slump

Next time you hear somebody complain about retail beef prices, you might mention what happened in Argentina, traditionally one of the world's biggest beef eating nations. In 1971, the Agriculture Department said, beef production in Argentina slumped to 4.5 billion pounds, a 21 per cent reduction from the previous year.

The cutback, partly as result of heavy slaughter of steers and heifers in 1969 and early 1970, brought meat

SPREADING FERTILIZER

Tim Hamilton, Barnes, says this little spreader throws an 18 foot swath and beats renting a big spreader. He farms 240 acres and has been filling out income tax forms professionally for 16 years. Hamilton is spreading some nitrate fertilizer before planting this field to milo.

146 pounds for Argentine consumers last year, down from 185 the year before.

On a comparable basis, the United States produced 21.7 billion pounds of beef last year for a per capita consumption of around 113 pounds.

If the same kind of slump had occurred in the United States — a one-fifth drop from 1970 — American would have had only 90 pounds of beef apiece last year. Those weights, incidentally, are based on wholesale carcass equivalents, not the actual amount of beef sold at retail.

As a result of the shortage, the Foreign Agricultural Service said in a weekly report, Argentine cattle producers have been getting some of the highest prices on record in that country.

By last January, the report said, the cattlemen were getting about 19.10 per 100 pounds of live weight animal. More recently, the price leveled off to about $17, the report said. But two years ago the average was $9.50 per hundred weight, typical price for live cattle in Argentina for some years.

Cattle producers in the United States have had some indirect benefit from the Argentine shortage if you read between the lines in the FAS report.

"Most processed beef items from the Argentine are shipped to the United States," the report says. "Traditionally, over 40 per cent of Argentina's canned corn beef and per cent of its cooked frozen beef have been exported to the United States."

In 1971, the report said, U.S. imports of canned corn beef totaled 25 million pounds, off 53 per cent from 1970. Imports of frozen cooked beef were 42.4 million pounds, down 10 per cent.

The United States does not import chilled or frozen uncooked beef from Argentina or anywhere in South America because foot-and-mouth disease has not been eliminated from those areas, the report said.

OUR DAILY BREAD

— by G&G Area Cooks

Nebraskan Wins — Mrs. Karl Krueger, Hebron

Winner, Mrs. Karl Krueger, R 1, Hebron, Nebraska: "I was glad to find that your journal carried recipes that I like and could use and had many helpful household hints. I developed a recipe for the benefit of my boy when he was getting tired of baby food and didn't like toddler food. It solved my breakfast menu for one morning out of the week. My boy was also slow developing teeth and so this particular recipe went down easily. I call it Toddler's Oven Delight french toast. I served it without syrup until he was older and asked for it. It is sweet enough without anything on it."

TODDLER'S OVEN DELIGHT

3 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
3 egg yolks
one-third cup milk
6 to 8 slices bread

Beat egg whites with salt until fluffy. Add sugar gradually until stiff but not dry. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add milk. Fold yolk mixture into whites. Dip bread in egg mixture and place on teflon cookie sheet or well-greased cookie sheet. Bake at 425 degrees until golden brown. Makes three to four servings. Excellent for those that can't eat fried food or like me — just like it because it goes down easily early in the morning. P.S.: I have stone-ground bread recipe that mothers today might appreciate.

The Latest 'Daily Bread' Prize

MULTI-USE BASKET

USE AS vegetable washer, steam cooker, desk basket, fruit basket, deep fryer, refrigerator storer, planter, bottle sterilizer, colander. Collapsible; folds flat for compact storage.

The winner each week is selected from the recipes printed.

Win one by sending us your favorite recipe — this can be main dish, leftover, salad, side dish, dessert or what have you.

1. Check your recipe carefully to be sure all ingredients are accurate and accounted for.

2. Be sure your name and address are on the entry.

3. Only one recipe at a time, please.

4. Send it to Woman's Page Editor, Grass & Grain, Box 1009, Manhattan, Ks., 66502.

Mrs. Glenn C. Avery, R 2, Wakefield: "I enjoy 'Our Daily Bread' section of the Grass & Grain. I like this recipe because it is easy to prepare and ready when serving a quick meal. Strawberry season is near."

FROZEN STRAWBERRY SALAD

1 pint frozen, sweetened strawberries
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 pound miniature marshmallows
1 cup whipped cream or whipped topping

1 cup salad dressing
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
Combine strawberries, pineapple, nuts and marshmallows. Combine remaining ingredients, beat until smooth. Add to fruit mixture. Mix well. Freeze.

Mrs. Roger Hinkle, R 1, Barnes: "This is one of our favorite desserts."

STRAWBERRY DESSERT CAKE

Mix 1 package white cake mix as directed and bake. While cake is baking mix 2 packages strawberry gelatin with 2 cups hot water. Let stand at room temperature. When cake is done immediately punch full of holes with a fork — the more holes, the better. Pour the gelatin over the cake and refrigerate. (may set in freezer unit for a few minutes until completely chilled.) Whip 2 packages prepared topping. Add 1 package thawed, frozen strawberries to the whip and spread over the top of the chilled cake. Return to refrigerator and let stand several hours or overnight. Makes 15 generous servings. (Bake cake in a 9x13-inch pan.)

Shedding Weight Takes Will Power

Determination is the key to shedding those unwanted pounds that just seem to have materialized.

Physical good health is important. When you feel your best, you also look your best, which is vital to teenage girls. But do not cut nutritional corners to lose weight. If you're ten pounds overweight, you've been following the wrong diet. Developing good eating habits takes will power, thought and the desire to achieve a new figure.

Although exercise does help tone the figure, it will not produce miracles. The best exercise is pushing yourself away from the table when you still feel you could eat that second helping of mashed potatoes and gravy.

Any dieter must stay away from potatoes, bread, gravy, cakes, pies and ice cream. Instead of eating those high calorie goodies substitute cottage cheese, vegetables, fruits and diet drinks. Try serving your meals on a smaller plate which makes helpings seem larger.

Don't expect an overnight change.

Automatic Dishwasher Most Wanted Kitchen Appliance

The automatic dishwasher is the kitchen appliance that is rising at an ever-increasing rate on the "most wanted" list. Industry figures show that shipments have more than tripled over the last decade.

If you want to join the ranks of modern homemakers who are eliminating the job of handwashing dishes, one company has a front-loading portable dishwasher with features of built-in units, but without installation costs. Such an appliance is sure to please both breadwinner and cook!

These portables are known for their fine features including a hydro-sweep washing action and flow-through drying. They also boast a specially built "gold seal" motor with a five-year customer warranty included.

The top-of-the-line model has three push-button cycles which include the exclusive soak cycle that is unmerciful when it comes to those hard, baked-on foods.

The portables are designed for mobility and versatility, making them ideal where space is a vital commodity. The front-loading portable can be stored in any nook or corner of the kitchen and brought into action when needed for cleanup.

Or if you have plans to purchase a home in the near future, there is a convertible that you can build in later. Top-loading units are also available, and since none of the portables require installation, you can use them immediately and take them with you when you move to a new home.

If you become a harried homemaker when faced with dirty dishes, an automatic dishwasher that moves with the modern way of life can be the solution to your cleanup problems.

Take Time To Relax In Beauty Bath

All the beauty aids and preparations on the market won't erase lines of tension around the mouth, eyes and across the forehead. But a relaxing beauty bath can wash your tensions away. The time it takes is more than worth your effort.

The ancient Romans, Turks and Greeks knew the relaxing value of the bath. For them, beauty was closely connected with baths; cleansing was incidental.

Your beauty bath should be just warm enough for comfort, not too hot. And make sure you won't be disturbed. Lock the bathroom door and leave your worries outside.

A bath should not only relax you, it should leave your body soft and smooth. If your water is hard, soften it by adding baking soda. The baking soda is also good for tired, aching muscles.

Add half a pound of baking soda to your bath water and relax in the solution. Baking soda is nonpolluting and less expensive than other bath additives. It also contains many of the minerals found in some of the world's most famous health spas.

If you like your bath scented, tuck a sachet of your favorite fragrance in the soda box. The baking soda absorbs the scent and then releases it in the water.

Ideally your bath should last half an hour. If you're the adventuresome type, turn on your shower and finish off the bath with a spray of cold water. This is marvelous for the circulation and very invigorating.

After drying yourself with a big, fluffy towel, apply your after bath lotion. Dust your body with baking soda, which is fine as dusting powder and it will help stop body odor before it starts. Keep the baking soda on hand in the bathroom as an all-around beauty aid.

Beer Best

Many hairdressers still claim that the best solution for hard-to-curl hair is beer. All you need is about an ounce used on the hair after shampooing, then comb through, set and dry.

Mending Kit

Every homemaker has plenty of mending chores. There is a kit on the market that has everything a homemaker will need to make repairs on torn clothing, sheets, curtains and so on.

The kit contains rolls of multi-colored iron-on mending tape which resemble small spools of thread. The iron-on tapes are ideal for mending clothing, linens and many other household items.

Simply cut a strip of the mending tape, iron the area, then apply the tape, shiny side down, preferably on the reverse side of the tear. The ripped fabric is then reinforced. If the tear is carefully placed together before applying the mending tape, it will be nearly invisible when the job is completed.

The kits come in two sizes with six and 12 rolls of tape, respectively, in three color assortments; white, light multicolor and dark multicolor. Look for it at notions counters.

Mild Shampoos For Daily Washing

Mild baby shampoo is essential for a girl who washes her hair every day. It cleans but doesn't dry the hair, so the hair keeps its healthy shine.

Mend Hooked Rug Promptly

Hooked rugs usually wear first around the edges. Mend a break as soon as you see it. A facing sewed over the old hem to reinforce the edge will be effective.

Avocado Treatment

Avocados are good and not for just eating. You can use the inside of the skin of avocados on your driest spots — elbows, heels and knees. Avocados smooth and moisturize.

Raise Blinds With Slats Open

Always be certain, when raising venetian blinds, that the slats are open. Blinds may be damaged permanently if raised when slats are closed.

Make Clothes Rack From Card Table

Convert a discarded card table into a fast-drying clothes rack for sweaters and socks that must be laid out flat. Remove the tabletop and replace it with a plastic screening.

Lighten Brows

You can lighten eyebrows that seem too dark for your hair color without bleaching them. Simply apply make-up base on the brows, going against the hairs, then smooth and you have a lighter look.

To Remedy Shrunken Mattress Pad

When a mattress pad shrinks after being washed, sew elastic tape about nine inches from each corner of the pad. Slip the mattress through the elastic and it will hold the pad firmly in place.

Use Creme Rinse To Prevent Drying

For a quickie set, electric rollers are lifesavers. But they can dry the hair. To prevent any drying, use spray-on creme rinse before setting. The rinse will help the curl hold and prevent the hair from becoming dry and brittle.

Stops Candles From Smoking

To prevent candles from smoking and make them last longer, coat them with soapsuds. Just roll them between well-lathered hands but be sure not to touch the wicks. Let dry thoroughly before lighting.

Barrettes Make Fashion News

Hand-painted leather barrettes will brighten up those curly heads for spring. Barrettes may be purchased without any designs so you can paint your own creations.

Some Corn Planting Guides

Here are some corn planting guides from KSU agronomists:

● Plant when the temperature at 7 a.m. reaches 50 degrees at the two-inch soil depth. This will assure a temperature favorable for growth during most of a 24-hour period, providing considerable sunshine is available.

● Plant when the temperature at 1 p.m. reaches 55 degrees at the four-inch soil depth. The four-inch level is suggested for 1 p.m. because a single day of bright sunshine doesn't affect this level as much as the two-inch level.

● After May 1 in southern Kansas or May 10 in northern counties, plant corn if the soil is dry enough, even if the temperature is below the suggested levels. Until corn plants are at least four to six inches tall the growing point of the plant is below the soil surface, and while frost may kill the leaves while the growing point is buried, it will seldom kill the plant.

SUPPLEMENT GRASS WITH PURINA

Good grass is a benefit. Good dairymen take advantage of every acre of pasture they have. Cows love grass and it stimulates milk flow.

Yet, good dairymen know that grass is 85% water. As summer advances it turns brown, loses its palatability and is even less nutritious.

Tests at the Purina Dairy Center proved that cows fed a grain supplement with grass produced up to 20% more milk. They kept up in body condition, too, and held up better in production in following lactations.

Visit us at the store, or give us a ring. We'd like to suggest Purina's Research-proved plan for supplementing grass to help you get more milk from your herd over the summer.

Cloud On Brighter Wichita Job Picture

Workers are going back to their jobs in the Sedgwick and Butler county area. At least, that is the trend statistics reveal.

Unemployment dropped from 10.6 per cent in March, 1971, to 6.1 per cent last February and 5.5 per cent last March, according to the Wichita Job Opportunity Center.

The aircraft industry, a big factor in the Wichita economy, has been hiring for the last six months after more than two years of reduced payrolls, according to Jerry Mallot, research director for the Wichita Chamber of Commerce.

The Wichita area economy benefits from the Beech, Cessna, Gates Lear Jet and Boeing plants which turn out 65 per cent of the nation's general aviation aircraft, Mallot said.

The number of unemployed persons in the area decreased from 17,300 in March, 1971 to 8,950 last month, according to the Wichita Job Opportunity Center.

Another 2,350 wage and salary employees are expected to be added to the payrolls in the next two months, the center predicts.

But there are a lot of aircraft engineers still out of work and the competition for a technical job is stiff.

The total work force in the Sedgwick and Butler area last March still was below the level of March, 1971. This March there were 162,400 persons in the work force. Last March there were 163,950. Yet the number of unemployed persons in the area decreased during that period by 8,350, according to figures from James T. Horn, labor market information unit supervisor for the Job Opportunity Center.

This does not mean that all of these persons either found jobs (some did) or moved from the Wichita area in search of work (some did).

In employment service terms, "work force" means not only employed persons but also includes unemployed persons who are available and looking for work.

Persons listed as unemployed are those in the work force who normally are employed but are out of work and still looking. Once a person quits looking for work, for whatever reason, he is said to be out of the work force and is no longer listed as unemployed.

During times of low employment, many people drop out of the work force and return to school. When they again begin looking for work, they are returned to the work force but are listed as unemployed. When they are hired, they are termed employed members of the work force.

Ernie Maxwell, who heads research for the state Dept. of Job Opportunity of Topeka, said that because figures on unemployment contain some estimates and some classifications that might be debatable, the main value in them lies in determining trends, rather than in pinpointing exact numbers.

There are hidden factors buried in the statistics on the work force and unemployment.

Horn said many persons hold down both full-time and part-time jobs. When times get tough, employers usually eliminate the temporary help first. A man holding two jobs then may drop out of the work force as far as the part-time job is concerned.

Also, persons who live in a neighboring county may commute to jobs in the Sedgwick and Butler area.

Some of the persons no longer listed on the work force did leave the Wichita area since late 1969, Mallot and Horn said. Mallot estimates this might range from 2,500 to 4,000 persons.

Horn says that theoretically it could be as high as 6,500 but might be only 1,500 to 2,000 persons.

Records of utility usage and service cut-offs do not indicate any large scale migration in the last year, Horn said.

The unemployment figures for the area could tend to increase some as people begin to re-enter the work force, Mallot said. As jobs again open and workers are hired, persons who had dropped out of the work force may begin seeking jobs again. Once they start looking, they again join the work force rolls and are listed as unemployed until they are hired.

The rise in unemployment and the loss in the size of the work force in the Wichita area resulted from a downturn in the economy that especially hurt the aircraft industry, Mallot said.

In the last three years, half the jobs in the aircraft industry were lost. Employment in the industry in 1969 averaged 30,400 persons in the Wichita area, Mallot said. In 1971, there were just 15,200 employed in aircraft jobs.

The entire economy was not really "pulled down," Mallot said.

Wichita retail sales were up 14 per cent for the 12-month period ending in February, 1972, over the previous 12 months, Horn said. Bank debits rose 8.56 per cent for the same period.

Funds To Study Airport Needs

A six-month study to determine importance and future development of air transportation in Kansas will be initiated July 1 by the Aviation Division of the Kansas Dept. of Economic Development. Kansas supplied $9,000 for the new study. The Federal Aviation Administration provided $20,000.

It will focus primarily on the air transportation needs of northeast Kansas, but will include a statewide evaluation.

Emphasis will be on the economics of commercial air transportation, said Ray Arvin, director of the KDED aviation division. Arvin explained that the airports' physical facilities already have been studied.

Five airports located in northeast Kansas — those at Topeka, Lawrence, Ottawa, Atchison and Leavenworth — will get major attention in the study, Arvin said.

The study will determine, among other things, who uses commercial air transportation and why. It also will try to forecast the needs for commercial air transportation five years from now.

"If there is enough air commerce generated in this area, why continue to go to Kansas City?" he asked. "We'll find out not only how air transportation affects the Topeka area, but we will also find out the need for air carrier service throughout the state."

Other cities that receive air carrier service are Goodland, Liberal, Garden City, Hays, Salina, Wichita, Manhattan and Parsons.

Grass & Grain

May 2, 1972

Frontier Airlines now is the only intrastate air carrier service in the state. Four commuter services operate in Kansas, he said.

The last Kansas aviation needs study was made in 1968 and Arvin said the Aviation Division hopes to add to that study on a yearly basis. The studies will look at either particular geographical areas of the state or a certain segment of the air industry.

Survey Of Kansas Fallout Shelters To Tell Location

Kansas' Civil Defense office is conducting two fallout shelter programs designed to identify all public shelters in any county and to tell the residents of the locations.

One program is locating fallout shelters in the more urban areas of shelter plans for these counties are being completed by contract between the federal government and officials of Leavenworth, Wyandotte, Douglas, Johnson, Reno, Sedgwick, and Shawnee counties.

In this program the Corps of Engineers surveys community buildings to determine whether or not they have adequate protection and size to qualify as public fallout shelters.

Dale Richardson, emergency resources planning officer, and Marvin Henry, area coordinator, are conducting another program in rural counties.

These counties have public fallout shelters for less than 50 percent of the population. Most are in the western two-thirds of the state.

Richardson said one important difference between this program and those for heavier populated counties is that no attempt is made to allocate shelters for areas or neighborhoods. County residents are simply informed of the location of fallout shelters in the county.

Smaller populated counties in which surveys have been completed and results distributed include Chase, Elk, Lincoln, Wabaunsee, Chautauqua, Decatur, Graham, Harper, Jewell, Linn, Ottawa, Phillips, Rooks, Rush, Russell, Smith, Clark, Gove, Gray, Lane, Ness, Rawlins, Wallace, Cheyenne, Comanche, Greeley, Hamilton, Hodgeman, Kearny, Kiowa, Logan, Sheridan, Stanton, Trego, Wichita, Haskell and Kingman.

All but three of the remaining counties are in various stages of completion.

When the two programs (for urban and smaller populated counties) are completed, all 105 counties will have been surveyed for public shelters and the information distributed to all postal patrons.

Richard Jepsen, Extension rural civil defense specialist at Kansas State University, said CD officials note that there are nearly enough public shelters identified in Kansas to shelter the entire population. However, fewer than one-half are stocked with supplies. And not all shelters are located in areas where people live.

Families planning to use a public shelter in an emergency should find out if the shelter in their area is stocked; if not, they need to take supplies with them when using it. Families with adequate home fallout shelters should plan to use them, said Jepsen.

In addition to information about a shelter location, families in surveyed counties will also receive a booklet entitled "In Time of Emergency," which gives helpful hints on survival preparedness.

Jepsen said Kansans living in counties where the surveys have been completed should keep the information received from CD officials available for quick reference in event of a nuclear emergency.

GIVEN the choice, it's unlikely you'd use the same tractor for every job on your farm. Yet, One-Ninety XT Series III owners often tell us the only time they use any other tractor is when they need two. Their second tractor gets the chores and peak seasons overload.

That's quite a compliment to the performance and dependability of the One-Ninety XT Series III. And a real vote of approval for all its comfort and convenience features. Maybe that's also the reason so many XT owners buy a second XT when they replace a second tractor.

Kind Words For Butz From Cattle Registries

The U.S. Beef Breeds Council, composed of the nine major beef breed registries in this country has paid special tribute to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz for his unyielding stand in support of prices received by farmers and ranchers.

Meeting with the Secretary, the council presented Secy. Butz with a resolution that also urged his "continued objective support of the American beef industry and American agriculture in general".

C.D. Swaffer, president of the council and also executive secretary of the American Shorthorn Assn. said "I have never witnessed a secretary of agriculture give such strong, dedicated support to American Agriculture as has been exhibited by Secretary Butz". He has demonstrated his depth of knowledge of the beef cattle and agricultural industry and has shown his willingness to defend them."

The last few weeks have been extremely difficult for the beef producer, who today is receiving the same dollars for his product as he did 20 years ago, council members said. Yet, Secy. Butz has kept his ground, relating the real reasons for alleged high meat prices and placing the blame for those prices where it belongs — on the middleman and his rising labor costs.

The resolution presented the Secretary of Agriculture read: "The U.S. Beef Breeds Council goes on record supporting the dynamic stand of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, Earl Butz, "supporting the quality beef production industry of this country".

"The U. S. Beef Breeds Council commends his aggressive efforts to improve the image of American agriculture and in placing the responsibility on the cost of beef where it belongs".

"And the U. S. Beef Breeds Council urges his continued objective support of the American beef industry and American agriculture in general".

Little Fear On Corn Blight

While Kansas may have a minor flurry of southern corn leaf blight this year, no devastating outbreak is anticipated.

Dr. William G. Willis, Extension plant pathologist at Kansas State University, says very little if any blight-susceptible seed has been purchased by Kansas producers.

The 1971 outbreak was severe in some areas of Kansas but not damaging enough to prevent a record crop.

Boxcar Shortage Solved For '72" Wheat Harvest

By Rod Turnbull

Kansas City Board of Trade

KANSAS CITY — This country's railroads believe they are going to be able to handle what possibly could be a record wheat harvest this summer without serious trouble.

"Cautious Optimism" was the term used to describe the outlook following a meeting here of representatives of nine railroads, the Association of American Railroads, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The optimism was clouded by several "ifs," some of which are a normal part of the grain and railroad business. The weather, for instance, is an unknown quantity. Weather still can determine whether the crop this year will be big or not so big. The transportation problem is different also, if ideal weather persists and the harvest is over in a few weeks, or if rains prolong the harvest over most of the summer.

Assuming normal harvest conditions, the railroads and members of the grain trade concluded at the meeting that the cars would be available to move wheat into storage if there isn't an overly large export movement in the harvest period, and if it doesn't become necessary for the government to move a lot of corn in July and August.

Boxcars and hopper cars used to move grain to the Gulf for export are out of the harvest area longer than those employed in the back and forth movement from country elevators to terminals such as Kansas City.

The government, through its commodity Credit Corporation Office in Kansas City, has been attempting to reconcentrate grain from country storage into terminals since February to make room for the summer and fall harvests. Country elevators, which are earning storage fees, do not like to empty their bins until they are fairly sure a new crop is in prospect. Thus it very well could be that elevators in the big corn country will wait until late July or August before volunteering to clear out their bins by shipping corn to available storage space in the big terminals.

If the corn country elevators should make this decision while the wheat harvest movement still is in progress, the railroads could run into trouble.

Hopefully, these troubles will be avoided and that was what the meeting was all about. The optimism expressed was greatly in contrast to the attitude that prevailed four years ago when the Board of Trade began inviting the railroad representatives to such sessions in an effort to solve what appeared to be inevitable boxcar shortages that fouled up the harvests every year. Perennially, millions of bushels of grain were piled on the ground.

At that time, major complaints included the contention that boxcars owned by the Western Railroads always were on Eastern or Southern Lines when the harvest began and the Western Railroads could not get them back; the Interstate Commerce Commission never acted until a crisis already existed; the Association of American Railroads did not have any real authority to get anything done; and finally, that those shipping grain did not make efficient use of the available cars.

With all the groups attempting to cooperate in the last two or three years, much favorable progress has been made. Last year, although the grain crops were the biggest in history and there were times when freight cars were difficult to schedule, the perennial boxcar shortage did not develop. The grain trade at Kansas City actually complimented the railroads for the job they had done.

While the ICC cannot issue car service orders in anticipation of needs, the Association of American Railroads has instigated rules to have cars where they are needed prior to peak demands. Once these rules are put into effect, non-compliance is subject to fine.

The government has attempted to avoid moving grain during harvest periods. And very importantly, the railroads in this part of the country have increased their fleets of the big hopper cars which haul about twice as much grain as the traditional old boxcar.

Trucks are now hauling a greater percentage of the grain being moved to market than railroads. Railroads once had all the business, then as better and bigger trucks and highways were developed, trucks began to share in grain transportation, particularly on short hauls.

The big switch to trucks, however, apparently has paralleled increases in freight rates. Most of the rate increase has come in the last couple of years and on top of this, the railroads have invoked an inspection cost, a charge for setting the car on a siding while officials make tests of the grain. In 1971, trucks accounted for 22.6 percent of all grain receipts in Kansas City as compared with 12.6 percent in 1970; in St. Joseph, Mo., the percentage in 1971 was 27.7 compared with 16 percent the year before; in Omaha, 28.5 percent compared with 27, and Chicago 52.1 percent compared with 40.7 in 1970. Trucks now are hauling wheat from the Colorado border to Kansas City elevators, one grain man reported, at 6 cents a bushel less than the cost on railroads.

A side effect of the switch to trucks has been a bypassing of terminal markets, with grain even going direct from farms to terminals.

Livestock Feed Antibiotics Cause Human Reactions

Discriminate feeding of antibiotics to livestock is creating problems for humans, a University of Illinois scientist claims.

Swine, cattle, poultry and sheep receive antibiotics in their food to treat disease.

Producers of livestock compare the antibiotic food to insurance, Dr. William G. Huber, professor of pharmacology at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine, said.

"But the actual benefit is one big question mark," he added.

Huber was a member of a task force for the Food and Drug Administration which studied drugs in animal feed and made recommendations to restrict their use.

About 80 per cent of all animals eaten have been given antibiotics, he said, and almost 100 per cent of swine receive the drugs.

Meat inspection is under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which does not test for antibiotic or antibacterial drugs in meat, except visually, Huber said. If an area of discoloration is present, it will be cut out or the meat rejected, but more sophisticated methods are needed, he said.

One problem for humans is that the consumption of meat containing traces of antibiotics fed to the animal make them allergic to the drugs. Then if it is necessary for the consumer to be treated with one of the drugs later he may have a reaction to it.

Less than one-thousandth of a milligram is enough to sensitize a person, Huber said.

The USDA has sampled meat from across the country and concluded that antibiotics fed to livestock presents no problem. The meat was shipped to Beltsville, Md., and had been slaughtered 10 to 21 days before the tests, Huber said.

In such a period some antibiotics in tissues will lose antibacterial activity, but the residues can still affect the human consumer, the pharmacologist said.

The University of Illinois has tested carcasses of 8,000 to 9,000 animals for drugs, which is more than the USDA has tested, Huber said.

Tests at the university were done two to four days after slaughter and significant percentages of the meat were found to contain the drugs.

Almost all swine are given antibiotics because of the high incidence of intestinal infections in this species. More than 25 animals tested at the university was found to have residue of the drug.

About 6 per cent of the cattle, 20 per cent of the chickens, 20 per cent of the lambs and 25 per cent of the veal calves had evidence of antibiotics.

lot of U.S. feed grains to the Soviet Union, whose winter grain crops were hurt badly by severe weather. Under existing contracts, Canada is scheduled to complete shipment of 130 million bushels to Russia in July and begin delivery of up to 185 million more bushels through June 1973. China has contracted to buy 117 million bushels of Canadian wheat this year.

Plagued by bad weather and transportation snarls, Canadian grain shipments are running about 30 million bushels behind schedule for the crop year ending July 31. The bottleneck is between the mid-Canada grain belt, where empty cars are idled, and the West Coast port of Vancouver, British Columbia, where as many as 30 empty grain ships are waiting in line for berth room.

Railroad officials say heavier-than-usual snowfalls in the Rocky Mountains sporadically blocked tracks during the winter and now threaten damaging snowslides during the spring thaw.

The delays in the Rockies have a rippling effect on the rest of the grain-shipping system. Grain receiving, storage and cleaning facilities at Vancouver are empty a few days and then deluged with more than they can handle, as miles of rail cars roll in after being snowbound in the mountains.

Meanwhile, the railroads order their trains to stop picking up grain in the Prairie provinces until the Vancouver jam is cleared.

Canada's top grain officials, after meeting with transportation representatives recently, said they fully expect to reach the 8000 million-bushel goal, even though the job will require a lot of catching up.

But in their public statements these officials glossed over the feasibility of Canada's long-range dream — a billion bushels in exports a year.

"We could never, never reach that point," one rail official says privately. "The system we're operating with now was devised at the turn of the century. What we need is a shakeup of the whole system — the rail lines, the country elevators, the terminal elevators, the cleaning plants, everything."

Otto Lang, the federal Cabinet minister in charge of the Canadian Wheat Board, says Ottawa is "willing to provide the leadership" in changing the system around. But he doesn't say whether the federal government will put up the money that's needed or if it would be willing to endure the political backlash that might result from upsetting the grain farmers' way of life.

The Canadian government has several master plans to streamline the system. They haven't been made public, but it's understood they call for tearing up miles of track, tearing down hundreds of country elevators, and building cleaning facilities inland so that grain is ready to be loaded when it arrives at the ports. All this would cost at least $500 million, the experts say.

Vampire Bats Bite The Dust

Vampire bats which have been biting livestock in the southwestern United States and Latin America could be wiped out. But it won't be with a stake through the heart.

Dr. John A. Hannah, administrator of the Agency for International Development, said a new chemical technique can reduce significantly the livestock loss, currently estimated at $250 million a year.

Vampire bats often carry rabies and other diseases. The 3-inch-long bats have enlarged upper incisors and canine-like teeth. They make a single, generally painless bite in animals or humans and then lap up the blood, which is their exclusive diet.

Until now the only weapon cattlemen used was an expensive vaccine. But Hannah said the new method, developed by The Denver Wildlife Research Center, is a safe and economic control.

A drug called dithacinone, a decoagulate, prevents the blood the bats drink from coagulating and the creatures die in a few hours with internal hemorrhage.

Hannah said the scientists also used miniaturized radios to learn the flight and colonizing patterns of the bats.

CHANGE OF DAY FOR BUYING FAT HOGS AT ESKRIDGE

Starting Monday, May 8, we will buy your hogs every MONDAY instead of Wednesday at our Eskridge, Kans., buying station.

We buy fat hogs without charging commission; we weight them immediately upon arrival. Why stand your hogs and shrink them when you can sell them at arriving weight with no commission to pay, and make more net profit per hog?

UP GOES THE FRONT END

The front comes off the ground as the load gets heavier at a tractor pull. Bill Daugherty's Case 1170 won second place in 12,000 to 15,000 pound class at a Salina contest. Daugherty is from Culver.

rise, a problem is indicated.

Another method of determining when grain is undergoing a change is by smelling the air that is discharged from an aeration fan. If strange odors are emitted, a problem area has been identified.

When stored grain starts to heat, Holmes says the grain should be moved, dried or cooled.

Cool air can be pulled through the grain to cool it off. This is done when the outside temperature is below 40 degrees. When the temperature of the grain is below 40 degrees, it is like having the grain in the refrigerator, notes Holmes.

The grain can be dried by pulling hot, dry air through it. When the temperature is more than 80 degrees and the relative humidity is below 70 percent, the hot outside air will dry the grain to some degree.

Farmers should also check their stored grain for insects. Wet or dry, the grain can become infested, and probes should be used to check for insects in as well as on top of the grain.

Several fumigants that don't affect grain to be used for feed or food are available to farmers. These heavier-than-air materials can be spread on top

Kansas Has At Least Two 100 Year Old Voters

More than one Kansan is over 100 years old and still voting.

An Easton, Kan., man is not the state's only centenarian voter, Secretary of State, Elwill Shanahan has been informed.

Mrs. Shanahan reported earlier this week that Adolph Noo, Easton, Leavenworth County, who became 100 years old on March 24, may be the state's oldest voter.

He still may be, but he isn't the only state resident over 100 who votes, Miss Barbara Olinger of Lawrence informed Mrs. Shanahan.

Miss Olinger said her mother, Mrs. Anna Olinger, who turned 100

Farm Stored Grain Should Be Checked

Farmers who stored grain that was in excess of 15 percent moisture last fall should begin checking it now for "hot spots."

They can make checks one of two ways, advises Elwyn Holmes, agricultural engineer at Kansas State.

The grain can be probed with a thermometer every two to four feet. This should be done periodically. As long as the temperature remains constant, the farmer has no worry. But when the temperature begins to

Incorporated Water District For Saline And Dickinson Co.

While people in western Kansas are guessing when their water will be depleted, people in eastern Kansas are trying to cope with the problem. Water shortage and poor quality water have led to an incorporated water district in portions of Dickinson and Saline Counties. This incorporated district covers southwest Dickinson County ex-

Variety Shows For Starlight Theater Schedule

G&G area people who used to enjoy a summer weekend in Kansas City for a Romberg or Victor Herbert operetta or an outdoor production of a big Broadway musical won't find anything like that on the 1972 Starlight Theatre summer card.

The Starlight has scheduled nothing but variety shows headlined by big show business names for this summer. There will be no musical plays, no regular chorus or group of singers appearing in production through the summer.

Instead the big outdoor theatre will have seven shows, some for two weeks each, featuring Ernie Ford, Ed Ames, Jim Nabors, Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence, and Shirley Jones.

Nabors headlined a variety show at the Starlight last year which resulted in the largest gross in the outdoor theatre's history.

A little old lady used these...

Take it from Ol'Ev, this little old lady pampered every bit of this used machinery. She liked to keep things in apple pie order, because she baked good apple pies. So any piece of this used machinery you want to buy.....remember this kind, little old lady kept it nice for you and that's not apple pie.

economist at Colby.

The economist, Frank Overley, has published a study of the economic potential of rabbit production in Kansas, in which he identifies the needs of a developing rabbit industry and assesses the production systems that are likely to prove successful.

The economist says domestic rabbit production was largely restricted to hobbies or youth projects until a Hill City development group opened a domestic rabbit processing plant.

"Expanded rabbit production has been promoted primarily as a source of income for people with limited resources and as a part-time venture," says Overley.

In the publication, Overley gives an example of what kind of return can be expected on an investment in rabbit production. Using a herd size of 200, he shows an investment of $5,638, receipts of $7,056, and costs of $5,479. This gives a return for land, labor and management of $1,577.

With a herd size of 500, the investment would run around $13,650, with receipts of $17,640, and total costs of $13,623. This leaves a return of $4,017.

Overley says that by adding more elaborate environmental control, and with proper production management, "it appears that one could reasonably expect an annual $10 return per working doe."

A problem for rabbit producers lies in the lack of extensive research and developing technology. Experimental evidence is lacking as to what effect rapid breeding may have on the reproductive life of the doe, fryer development, feed conversion, mortality, and carcass quality.

The economist indicates there is also a need for study on production as it affects profits.

"Apparently the market will absorb current production at favorable prices," says Overley, "but the effect of increased production is essentially unknown."

The publication, "Rabbit Production in Kansas," is available at county Extension offices.

Tuberculosis Yet To Be Stopped

Tuberculosis is far from being wiped out says Dr. James Brown, administrator of the Southeast Kansas Tuberculosis Hospital.

Brown addressed a workshop on an annual convention of the Kansas Federation of Practical Nurses at Neosho County Community College.

He said 40 new, active cases of TB were reported in Kansas in January and February this year, which he said was almost twice the number reported in the first two months of 1971.

In recent weeks, Brown added, Chanute Tuberculosis Hospital has admitted four of the most advanced cases he ever has encountered.

"Highest incidence of tuberculosis is in elderly persons and practical nurses should be alert to the possibility of the disease in nursing home patients," he said.

Ranch Bull Test Program Set Up In Southeast Nebr.

Nebraska ranchers could be producing more marketable beef under a feeding plan implemented by a group of seven southeastern Nebraska cattle breeders.

The group of Black Angus breeders is known as the Royal Hoofers.

They have begun a feeding program which hopefully will provide smaller ranchers with good bulls which will continue to show weight gain on the range rather than a high energy grain ration.

A rural Bennet Angus breeder, Ron Ringland, said the group was formed about five years ago as a means of testing their bulls for weight and fertility. He said each member sends a certain number of yearling bulls to a commercial feedlot where they are weight-tested.

They are then introduced to a feeding program designed to gain two pounds per head per day. They are then weighed a number of times during the 140 day period to check weight gains.

The owner of a feedlot near Friends, Neb., Max Kellogg, said the ration was devised with the assistance of the University of Nebraska Agriculture Department. He said the yearling bulls are started on an all roughage ration until they are accustomed to the same feed. Then he said approximately three pounds of grain are added. Then roughage and grain are gradually increased to about an average of seven pounds grain with the remainder being roughage.

Ringland said the bulls are weight-tested and can then be marketed to smaller ranchers with the idea of buying a good quality bull which still can show weight gain on a roughage diet on the range.

Under the program, Kellogg said ranchers can receive a better idea of what the marbling will be on the cattle and what type of calves the bull will sire.

Ringland said the program is geared toward participation twice a year. After the 1140-day period is over the bulls are then taken to sale with the top 50 being sold.

MANHATTAN GIRL ENTERED IN SALINA RODEO CONTEST

The Manhattan Roundup Club has nominated Lillis Heldenbrand as their candidate for the Salina Rodeo Queen Contest, May 5-6. Lillis, 17 years old and a junior at Manhattan High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Heldenbrand, Route 2 Manhattan. The contestants will be judged on appearance, horsemanship, personality and advanced ticket sales. Those desiring tickets should call 776-7249 after 4 p.m.

200 PARTICIPATE IN WABAUNSEE CONTEST

Over 200 4-H and FFA members from Nemaha, Douglas, Morris, Lyon, Geary, Shawnee, Jackson, Pottawatomie and Wabaunsee counties participated in the Wabaunsee County Livestock Day event April 15 in Alma.

The high scoring 4-H team was Rochester Heights, Shawnee county, and the high scoring FFA team was Seaman, Topeka. Sandra Hundley, Shawnee county, was the high scoring individual in the contest.

Population Growth In U.S. Slowing

The nation's rate of population growth fell below 1 per cent last year, only the second time this has happened since 1940, the Census Bureau said Sunday.

According to the bureau, the national growth rate in 1971 was 0.989 per cent compared with 1.09 per cent in 1970. The rate also fell below 1 per cent in 1968.

On Jan. 1, the total population including military personnel overseas was estimated at 208.1 million, an increase of two million persons over the previous year. The bureau said the decline came mainly because the birth rate dropped dramatically last year to 17.2 per 1,000 population, the lowest rate ever recorded.

The estimated net population gain was the result of 3,562,000 births, 1,924,000 deaths, and net immigration of 382,000.

Set FFA Trip To Europe

A "Journey To Understanding," the 1971 Kansas Future Farmers of America Study Seminar to Europe, will be July 3-24, announced Larry Erpelding, instructor of adult and occupational education at Kansas State University, Manhattan.

The students will tour such places as Rome, Siene, Pisa, Lucerne, Altdorf, Austria, Bavaria, Fussen, Munich, Salzburg, Linz, Vienna, and Moscow.

The delegation will meet in Kansas City and fly to New York, where the group will board a jet at John F. Kennedy International Airport for the transatlantic flight to Rome. The study seminar to Europe is sponsored by Kansas Association of FFA.

A highlight of the tour will be visits to farms where there are exotic breeds of beef cattle. Among the breeds to be seen are Chinaina and Romagnola of Italy, Simmental and European Brown Swiss of Switzerland, Pinzgauer of Austria, and Gelbrieh and Fleckrieh of Germany. Other things of agricultural interest include olives and wine vineyard products of Italy, primitive grain farms in the Ticina area of Switzerland, a swiss cheese factory, a brewery and bell factory in Munich, home handicraft activities

FARMERS OUTLOOK

L.H. Simerl

What's Ahead For Cattlemen?

What's ahead for the beef industry? Almost everyone is interested in this question. Beef is America's favorite food — and the biggest producer of income for farmers. In 1971, farmers received more than $11 billion for cattle marketed, nearly twice as much as the amount received for any other farm product.

Consumers spent about $16 billion for beef last year. The average outlay was around $80 per person, or $400 for a typical family of five. For that amount, such a family obtained about 400 pounds of beef, in terms of retail cuts or the equivalent in ready-to-eat portions.

Beef production is expected to be slightly larger this year than in 1971. The increase may amount to 4 or 5 percent, according to USDA officials. This expectation is based on the number of cattle on farms and ranches at the beginning of this year, and on the number being fattened for market.

According to USDA calculations, there were 117.9 million cattle and calves on farms and ranches on January 1 — 3 percent more than one year before. At that same time, farmers reported they were fattening 13.8 million cattle for market — 8 percent more than a year before. Of these cattle, farmers planned to market 6,654,000 during the first quarter of 1972 — 7 percent more than last year. Actual marketings, however, were up only 2 percent, and half of that increase was due to the extra day in February.

Now comes the report of Cattle on Feed as of April 1. It shows that farmers in twenty-three leading states had 12.8 million cattle on feed — up 9 percent from last year. The report also shows that farmers expect to market 6,654,000 cattle during this quarter (April - June) — 6 percent more than a year ago. Large placements last fall also point to increased market supplies this quarter. Placements in the twenty-three leading states during the October - December quarter were estimated at 8.8 million cattle — 10 percent more than a year earlier.

Cattle marketings may have been restricted by feeding to heavier weights than usual. If so, the combination of greater numbers and heavier-than-average weights will produce a downward pressure on prices during the coming weeks.

Farmers have established the amount of beef to be produced within the next several months, but housewives will determine how much they are willing to pay for beef. That, in turn, will set the price that packers will pay for cattle. True, the action of one woman alone has practically no influence on the market. But there are 50 million of them, controlling the spending of some $250 million for beef each week. Thus, they do exert major control over prices.

Some farmers don't like to hear this. But would they rather have a government agency set the prices to

4H Plan For Park At Perry Lake

OSKALOOSA — The Kansas 4-H Foundation has 273 acres of undeveloped prairie near Perry Lake and some expert consultation to use in building a recreational campground park for its members.

Officials of the Kansas state extension service and the 4-H foundation met at the Don Parker farm, adjacent to the new park area, to begin developing ideas for the new park.

Glenn Busset, state leader of the 4-H and Youth Program at Kansas State University, said the organizations hope camping can begin on a limited basis by the summer of 1973. The first priorities are to arrange for water, sewage, road system and electricity for the area, he said.

No money has been raised yet to begin developing. Money raised for the project will be matched by an equal amount from the State Park and Resources Board, Busset said.

The camp area is a peninsula on the east side of the Slough Creek arm of Perry Lake. Kansas State University signed a lease for the land with the Corps of Engineers and turned the administration and use of it to the 4-H foundation.

A committee of the foundation was formed to develop the park. Three speakers told of their ideas about youths and the outdoors.

Larry Bowser, an administrator of the Seaman camp on the west side of the lake, said youngsters from the Seaman school district are taken to the camp for half-day and all-day outdoor learning excursions. Older students beginning in 6th grade are taken to the camp for overnight stays.

He said, "A lot of kids who are really popular don't stand up to the test as far as responsibility. A lot of times you hear a comment like, 'I didn't used to like so and so, but now I do after spending some time outdoors with him.'"

Dr. Bob Parenti of the biology department of Emporia State Teacher's College told of leading groups of a dozen 11 and 12-year-olds on excursions in the wilderness of Wyoming.

"A lot of kids just do not know their own capabilities," he said. "I'll admit there were some of those students I did not like, I learned to tolerate them for the very sake of survival."

He proposed nature trails be established in the park for those young people who really wanted to live with nature for a day or two. He suggested a small taste of self-survival be provided by making the group provide one meal from nature.

Jim Nighswonger, extension landscape architect, presented a hypothetical drawing of what could be done with the area, but emphasized the committee is looking for suggestions of what to include and exclude from the camp.

His drawing showed a road system for the entrance gate to an overlook at the peninsula point and other parts of the park. It showed an administration headquarters, dining hall and crafts building on a prominent hill and another site for a caretaker's house. Other permanent buildings in the plan are maintenance shops and winter cabins.

Sportsmen School Set For May 13 At Wilson Lake

A Sportsman School featuring classes on Boat Handling, Water Safety, and Successful Fishing will be held Saturday, May 13 at the West end of Otoe Park at Lake Wilson.

The program will be presented by George Halazon, Extension Wildlife Specialist, Kansas State University; J. C. Morgan, Game Protector, Kansas Fish & Game Commission; and Dave Campbell, Campbell's Marina at Lake Wilson.

The schedule for the day's events include: Types of Boat Equipment, hulls, motors, etc.; rules of the road in boating; laws and regulations governing the water and sportsman; boat care and maintenance; knots, lines and life jackets for efficiency and safety; emergency procedures in boating; practical application of handling boats with aid of buoys and dock; and tips to successful fishing.

The program is being co-sponsored by the Lake Wilson Development Association, and the Lincoln & Russell County Extension Councils.

Oliver... wings up or down.

You're looking at farm-oriented engineering from the company restructured to serve your needs well for years to come—the Oliver Farm Equipment Division. Let your Oliver/MM dealer show you the benefits of this new 263 box-beam disk harrow.

With wings up, it takes on your hardest soil, applying up to 118 lbs. per blade, as much as twice the cutting power of most disks.

With wings down, the 263 handles normal disking with widths up to 21 ft.—enough to make full use of big tractor power and to slice your largest fields down to size.

Wings lock down automatically and solidly, held firmly in place by wide gang hinges—providing uniform, full-width tillage. Or they latch up firmly for transport or for heavy-weight disking.

The 263 is simple, strong and neat with rigid 4-inch tubular

Widths from 10 to 21 ft.,

models above 16 ft.

Behind your Oliver/MM dealer is intensified support in parts distribution and strengthened training for the men in his shop. It will serve both Oliver and MM owners with efficiency, now and years to come.

ASCS Loads Gun To Answer Food Price Questions

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service has sent to the state and county offices a background information packet entitled "Food Prices and the Farmer" to give local officials ammunition for helping defend farmers against consumer broadsides.

The Agriculture Department agency, which handles government farm price support programs, mailed the material to state offices. States offices then pass such information on to county units for use locally.

In an introduction, the background memo said the information was prepared to help field offices and committeemen "provide accurate answers" to questions about food prices and the prices farmers get.

"As representatives of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, ASCS offices should respond with accurate data on these questions, which have a bearing on the income of farmers," the memo said.

The decision to include the fact-sheet material was made by Kenneth E. Frick, administrator of ASCS, an aide said. That decision was based "on the fact that the department had taken a position on the food price situation and the fact that secretary Earl L. Butz had been speaking out on the issues," the spokesman said.

The information is now new. It includes many statistics which show how farm costs have risen, how food prices have not increased in proportion with other consumer items, and how farm income has not kept pace with rising production costs.

There are, however, many assertive statements used to headline individual paragraphs containing the statistical matter, including:

- "Food is one of the most reasonable buys available."
- "Farm meat prices are not high."
- "The increase in food prices is primarily because of higher non-farm wages."
- "Prices received by farmers for food are not inflationary."

The memo's introduction advises: "Any part of this material may be used by state and county offices in speeches, interviews, broadcasts, news-letters, news releases, correspondence and comment."

There was a cautionary note, also: "In whatever form this material may be used, present it accurately and objectively. This is essential for all ASCS information activities, whether they deal with program details or the broad objectives of federal farm programs, one of which is to stabilize and improve the income of American farmers."

Uncontrolled Weeds Cost Extra Dollars

Uncontrolled weeds cost farmers and consumers extra dollars. They compete with crop plants for water, plant nutrients, light, and space.

Because of limited rainfall in some parts of Kansas, moisture needs to be stored in soil during periods when crops are not growing. Research on methods to control weeds during these fallow periods has received major emphasis at Kansas State University's Fort Hays Branch Experiment Station.

A major objective of the research is to reduce the number of tillage operations needed to control weeds. Each time land is tilled, explain researchers at the station, some moisture is lost, and residue from the previous crop disappears from the soil surface.

This old crop residue is important in helping to control wind erosion. Controlling wind erosion (soil blowing) is important not only to the farmer but to the city dweller who objects to air pollution caused by blowing dust.

Scientists at Fort Hays point out that if a reduced tillage system is to be successful, weeds need to be controlled and conditions favorable for water storage established. A seedbed satisfactory for planting the ensuing crop must be created, and, ideally, weed control measures used during the fallow period should help control weeds in the crop.

Researchers caution that if herbicides are used, no harmful chemical residue should remain in the soil or in crops grown on the treated land.

Kansas research is helping to realize these goals. Tillage can be reduced by using herbicides. And weed control, water storage during the fallow period, and the satisfactory production of some crops have been accomplished.

Price Index Steady Despite Slight Drop In Livestock Prices

Prices received by Kansas farmers at mid-April 1972 were slightly above March this year and moderately above April 1 last year, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The index of prices received for all farm products was 279 percent of the 1910-14 base period compared with 279 in March and 255 in April a year ago.

Wheat prices increased moderately; sorghum grain, slightly; and soybeans, sharply.

Prices for hay and milk decreased slightly and eggs were down moderately.

Compared with a year ago, prices for most meat animals were up moderately to sharply.

Wheat was up moderately, soybeans up sharply and milk up slightly. Prices were moderately below a year ago for corn, sorghum grain, wool and eggs.

Crop Prices

The crop price index was 163 percent at mid-April, 3 points above March this year but 1 point below April 1971.

Wheat at mid-April averaged $1.35 per bushel, 4 cents above the previous month and 4 cents above the previous year.

Corn was worth $1.17 per bushel,

TUTTLE CLASSIC

Eighty hogs and 58 lambs were auctioned during the Tuttle Classic Sale at Cico Park in Manhattan. This was the first year for the sale. It was sponsored by 10 area hog and sheep producers that felt 4-H and FFA members should have a chance to buy quality hogs. Also the sale should save producers a lot of time, if you consider the amount of time they would spend with each individual buyer on the farm. Mike Ebert, St. George, felt the prices were good and the attendance was excellent. "It gives the buyers a bigger selection," Ebert added.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

These lambs that were auctioned at the Tuttle Classic Sale aren't beasts but these young ladies looking them over are certainly attractive. Denice and Denean Rask, and Jennifer Duncan along with Deann Rask, who is more interested in the sheep and has crowded between Denean and Jennifer are looking for lambs for their 4-H projects. All are from the Manhattan area.

unchanged from a month earlier but 18 cents below a year ago.

Barley price at 96 cents per bushel was 1 cent below March this year but unchanged from April last year.

Sorghum grain was 21.78 per cwt 1 cent above a month ago but 1 cent below a year ago.

Soybeans averaged $3.33 per bushel, compared with $3.12 in March and $2.77 the previous year.

Livestock Prices

The livestock and livestock products price index at mid-April was 412 percent of the 1910-14 base period compared with 415 a month earlier and 360 a year ago.

The meat animal price index was 514 percent in April, compared with 513 in March and 431 a year earlier.

All beef cattle averaged $30.00 per cwt., 10 cents above the previous month and $4.40 above April of last year.

Hogs brought $22.30 per cwt., cents below a month earlier but $1.00 above a year earlier.

The dairy price index was 342 in April compared with 344 in March, but was unchanged from a year ago. The preliminary wholesale milk price of $5.70 per cwt. was 10 cents below March 1972, but 10 cents above April 1971.

Eggs averaged 19 cents per dozen, 4 cents below the previous month and previous year.

Prices Paid

Prices paid by farmers for high protein supplements were little higher than a year ago but mixed feeds and bran lower.

United States

The index of prices received by Nation's farmers for farm products at mid-April was 304 percent of 1910-14 base period, unchanged from mid-March but up 22 points from April 1971.

Price increases from March were noted for wheat, corn, soybeans and wool. Prices were lower for all meat animals, milk and eggs.

The index of prices paid by farmers for commodities and services (including interest, taxes and wages) was 427, up 4 points from March and 19 points above a year ago.

The parity ratio in April was down 1 point from March and up points from April 1971.

1959 F460D, completely checked out in our shop. Major overhaul on engine, including clutch and injectors, new paint, with a new Kent 400 loader. We will remove the loader if you wish. Loaded with all equipment.

1966 831C Case diesel, completely checked out in our shop. 2000 plus actual hours. Axle mt. duals, dual valves, front cast wts., and flotation front tires.

1964 F706G, app. 400 hrs. since major engine overhaul. This is a good clean tractor and is loaded with all equipment including dual valves and torque amplifier, and new rear tires.

1949 Farmall M tractor in A-1 mechanical condition. Like new 13.6x38 6 ply rear tires, PTO and hydraulics good. It could use a paint job.

1952 AC WD 45 in A-1 condition. 1951 G MM on propane with wide front axle, good rear rubber & 1-valve hyd. with new pump, PTO, improved new style brakes, complete differential overhaul, aux. propane tank, good solid engine and transmission. If you need a cheap, clean and dependable work horse, this is one.

I-300 Utility tractor with good hyd. loader, boom & bucket, and like new 7' blade. This tractor is going through our shop for complete repair. Be sure to check on this one.

1958 Ford No. 841 diesel in good condition with extra good rubber. This tractor just traded for and yet to be brought in.

19?? UD MM diesel with A-1 rubber. If you need a cheap work horse, be sure to see this one.

American road grader with scarifier on Farmall M chassis. This unit was checked out completely in our shop and has all new valves in the head. Cab less the glass is available. Any farmer with a lane has use for this machine.

MM No. 504 power unit with major overhaul. We have asked $1750 but will load on your truck for $1350. Irrigation equip. stores would ask $1750 for a unit like this and most of them won't baw.

Set of 15.5x38 clamp duals with good solid tires .... $125

COMBINES

1964 No. 403 with 14' platform. This machine was reconditioned 100% in our shop. Come in and see it and we will show you the job ticket.

repairs. All new reel bats, new 18.4x26 tires, new feeder chain, new rattle chain, new Ausher-man cylinder bars, all new tin work above the cylinder, both complete new elevator chains with flights, complete transmission overhaul and new clutch during milo season. Complete major engine overhaul in 1971, installed rebuilt propulsion 1970 new style Pitman and belt reel drive. It has power steering, individual brakes. You will never buy a better one for the price. Oh yes, it could use a paint job, otherwise it's ready for the field.

1968 IHC 403 with 16' platform and cab. We just traded for this low acreage machine. The No. 95 Deere owner above, and the owner of this No. 403 both traded for new IHC No. 715 combines. This is a real cream puff. It needs sections in the knife, and a new muffler. We could use a good clean late No. 151 trade-in on this machine as we have a buyer for one.

Set of 4 of the late style Hess-ton Head Hunters purchased in 1971. Removed from a No. 101. You can buy these at a real bargain at this time of year.

Set of 5 Roll-A-Cones purchased in 1971. Used with IHC 403. Buy them now and make a real bargain.

1963 No. 303 with cab and 14 platform. We just traded for it and have made no repairs as yet. Repairs will be minor, but you can have your choice of purchasing as is, or reconditioned as needed.

19?? No. 101 with 12' platform. We just traded for it, and haven't picked it up yet. Chance to buy as is, or reconditioned as needed.

19?? IHC No. 141 and 1952 Super 26 you can buy for junk prices, $300 for the pair.

BALERS

Commerce for more than a year to roll back the prices of hides and skins, contending these have risen so sharply as to be a big factor in their business. They told the Commerce department they would be forced to raise shoe prices again unless the government does something to hold down leather prices.

Representatives of both the National Livestock Feeders Association and the American National Cattlemen's Association testified at the meeting that hide and skin prices are not the real culprit in rising shoe prices, because the price of hides is such a small percentage in the eventual retail price of shoes.

Don Magdanz, executive secretary of the NLFA, declared that "export quotas would in no way solve the problem of the shoe industry, whose big cost results from increased labor rates." On the other hand, he pointed out cattle hide prices are important to the livestock and meat industry because they can often change profit to loss for the feeder.

Mark Knoop, legislative committee member, and C. W. McMillan, executive vice-president of American National Cattlemen's Association, said at the meeting that experience indicates export controls on hides and skins now would not help shoe manufacturers and might injure livestock producers. They noted that in 1966 when the government imposed hide export restrictions in a similar situation, hide and cattle prices were both forced down, but shoe manufacturers raised shoe prices anyway.

The ANCA representatives said hide export restrictions now could directly affect beef prices also. If exports are restricted and hide prices decline, meat packers have to cope with a lower by-product value, and will try to offset it by either buying cattle for less money or selling wholesale carcass beef for more money, they asserted.

G&amp;G Area Pickers And Fiddlers At Annual Contest

OSAWATOMIE — A four-member country and western band from Emporia won the top award Sunday at the conclusion of a two-day state convention here for members of the Kansas Old Time Fiddlers, Pickers and Singers Assn.

Chuck Watkins and the Midwest Playboys were judged the top contestants among seven finalists chosen in earlier judging. Watkins and his band won a contest among seven bands Saturday night at a dance attended by more than 800 persons.

Watkins also was judged the top singer in one of six contests to determine the best fiddlers, pickers and singers in the state.

Winning fiddling honors were Ralph Fairbanks, Fulton, and Mark

Try At Controlling Hide-Skin Exports Cooled Temporarily

Apparent prospects for clamping down on animal hide and skin exports have cooled at least temporarily, Secretary of Commerce Peter Peterson said. No further action will be taken until a study of the situation has been completed. A meeting of representatives of the livestock industry and the shoe manufacturers industry last week in Washington brought the issue to a boil. The shoe people have been pressuring the Department of

Annual 4H Rodeo At Alma Sunday

ALMA — The 20th annual 4H rodeo will be held here Sunday, May 7. The Marten arena south of town is the location. Starting time is 10 a.m.

Last year 100 contestants from 13 counties participated in the rodeo. Events are dally team roping, steer riding, keg racing, calf roping, break-away roping, pleasure horse riding, girls goat tying, and clover leaf racing.

There will also be a stick horse for little kids.

Fewer Firearm Deer Hunting Permits To Sell

SALINA — Meeting in Salina last week, Kansas Forestry, Fish and Game Commission established the 1972 deer hunting seasons.

As set by the Commissioners, the archery deer season will open throughout the state on Oct. 1 and run through Nov. 30.

The firearms deer hunting season will open throughout the state on Dec. 2. In the High Plains, Smoky Hill, West Arkansas and Cimarron management units of extreme western Kansas, the season will close Dec. 6 while hunting will continue throughout the rest of the state through Dec. 10.

In establishing the seasons, commissioners voted to issue 8,065 firearms deer permits during the 1972 season in 20 deer management units — 600 less than in 1971. The reduction in permits was authorized since the percentage of yearling deer taken in 1971 was unusually high.

May 2, 1972

There will be no limit as to the number of permits which can be issued for the archery season.

To participate in either the archery or firearms season, a person must have a current Kansas hunting license and a valid permit which will be available from county clerks and other license vendors by July 10. Applications will be accepted until August 5 for both archery and firearms permits. In those firearms units where more applications are received than there are permits available, a public drawing will be held at Pratt on August 18. Only one permit, either archery or firearms, not both, can be issued to an individual.

In addition to establishing the 1972 seasons, commissioners voted to establish the first Saturday in December as the standard opening date for future firearms deer hunting seasons.

Jack Lacy Heads Spirit Of '76 Inc. To Build Museum

JUNCTION CITY — Plans are under way for creation of the nation's first military museum here as part of the U.S. bi-centennial celebration in 1976.

Jack Lacy, director of Kansas Department of Economic Development, will leave that post June 1 to head up Spirit of '76 Inc., a new city-county economic development commission.

The National Military Museum and Research Center, which will contain five halls, each as large as a football field, will be located in the area of Marshall Air Field at Ft. Riley, Lacy said.

Meetings are scheduled in Washington Monday with the bi-centennial commission and National Armed Forces Museum Advisory Board to map out plans and make arrangements, he added.

The facility will be a true military museum, he said, and pertain only to the Army and soldiers. The dictionary definition of the word military does not include the Navy or the Air Force, he said.

"It will be the only one of its kind in the nation that brings together all of the wars, all of the battles, all of the men and material and heroes," Lacy said.

Factors which affected the decision to create the museum at Junction City were its proximity to the Eisenhower Center at Abilene, Kan., where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is buried; its location on moon dust.

Now scientists are growing corn in moon dust.

"After the flight of Apollo 14, it was officially decided that the moon-soil was free of germs," C.H. Walkinshaw, plant pathologist with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said. When corn, lettuce and cabbage were grown in a germ-free atmosphere in moon-

Discard Tire Disposal Becoming Big Problem

Ecology and discarded tires don't mix, but national tire makers are trying to solve the problem.

The luckless fisherman hauling an old tire out of the water has become a symbol of pollution; yet tire makers are busy tossing old tires into the ocean. Everyone has seen the worn out tires along the highways; but builders are about to put more of them out there. They're even spreading old tires around parks and playgrounds.

And the latest contribution to the environmental cause has been unveiled. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. announced plans to burn old tires — about a million of them a year.

Over 200 million or so tires are discarded by U.S. motorists each year. The above-mentioned ploys are among the best disposal methods they've discovered after spending hundreds of thousands of dollars on research.

Take Goodyear's tire-cremation plans, for instance. They aren't really going to set fire to a mountain of tires and smoke up a couple of counties. Instead, Goodyear is installing near Jackson, Mich., a $550,000 smokeless furnace that will burn tires for fuel, providing steam to cure new tires and for other uses at the company's big tire plant there.

Old tires going into the ocean are becoming artificial reefs to improve sport fishing along the coast. Those along the highway are either crash barriers or an ingredient in asphalt road surfaces. And tire men are experimenting with a spongy turf for parks, playgrounds and other applications — made of old tires, of course. Tire people are also distilling tires to recapture gases, oils and other ingredients and burning them in special vessels to make carbon black, an essential ingredient used to toughen new tires.

There's just one little catch in all these plans to recycle an annoying waste product. None of them so far come close to break-even. In fact, a $50,000 study sponsored by the Rubber Manufacturers Association estimates it would cost $69 million a year, after deducting revenues from saleable by-products, to recycle 180 million tires a year.

Tire men aren't sure who will pay that $69 million, but they do know who won't. "We're willing to spend our own money to develop better ways to dispose of tires," says one industry executive. "But the tire industry can't be expected to subsidize a nationwide disposal program." So the tax payer could wind up footing much of the bill for tire disposal. The government already is subsidizing some of the fish reefs, for instance.

Millions of used tires are economically recycled already. About 50 million are retreaded each year; some, especially truck tires, are retreaded and reused several times. But many old tires have breaks or holes that make them unsafe for retreading, and demand for retreaded tires limits the number that could be resued anyway.

Another 20 million old tires are ground up each year and the rubber reclaimed for use mainly in molded rubber products. But increased use of vinyl and other plastics has eaten into such traditional markets as garden hose and auto floor mats, while new and cheaper synthetic rubbers offer stiff price competition for reclaimers.

Ironically, the concern about environment has taken its toll, too; several reclaiming plants have closed because they couldn't meet air-pollution regulations.

Also, a couple million tires a year are cut into strips and made into doormats, hangers for automobile exhaust pipes and other products. But there are obvious limits on that market.

That leaves about 130 million useless casings, and it's becoming more obvious that new disposal methods are needed. Such old standard approaches as burning them at junkyards or simply letting them pile up in the weeds are no longer permitted in many areas.

Tires present some unique disposal problems; they're very difficult to destroy except by burning. They're too lively to stay buried in a landfill; they have a way of "floating" to the surface over a period of years. Besides, a rubber landfill can become a real fire hazard. Once ignited the tires will smolder for days, emitting clouds of black, acrid smoke despite best efforts of firemen.

And tires don't decay or dissolve and can be shredded only with big, costly machines.

However, ecologically speaking, tires have their good points, too. They contain 50 percent more heat energy per pound than coal; after all, most tires nowadays are made mainly from petroleum. Goodyear's new furnace, which is being built by a British firm that already has one operating in England, is designed to harness that heat at a minimal cost. It burns tires whole, eliminating shredding costs. A series of oil burners and air blowers around the outside of the furnace creates a virtual cyclone inside, building temperatures of up to 2,200 degrees that burn up even the little particles normally emitted as smoke or odor, the designers claim. Hot gases from the top of the furnace are piped off to make steam.

The virtual indestructibility that makes tires such a disposal problem is a virtue when they're used for fish reefs, marine biologists say. "We've pulled some 40-year-old truck tires off an old wrecked ship, and they were practically usable," says a man at Uniroyal Inc. in New York. "That proves tires don't decompose in sea water and thus don't pollute in any way." By a year or so after they sunk, the tires become encrusted with barnacles, algae, sponges, mussels and other sea creatures, making them ideal spawning and feeding grounds for salt water game fish, biologists agree.

That same indestructibility, along with their resilience, makes tires a good highway impact barrier, Goodyear figures. Tires cabled together in bundles of 70 or so make a cushion that will safely stop a car speeding toward head-on collision with a bridge abutment or other solid structure, Goodyear says. Tires also can be bolted into a rubber wall for a median divider on turnpikes or to keep cars and trucks from running off a steep embankment.

With tire numbers increasing every year and more discards piling up we may have to put them into orbit, if we don't find better disposal methods at home.
