

G&G Area Snow Scene

Several days of snow and frost produced numerous scenes in the G&G area like this one. The view is up the lane to the M. D. Leckron home east of Abilene on old US40.

Livestock Values At Record $875 Million

Kansas farmers began 1969 with cattle numbers the same as a year earlier, hog inventories up moderately, but somewhat fewer sheep, chickens and turkeys, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock reporting Service.

Cattle and calves on January 1, 1969 totaled 5,564,000 head, about 3 percent below the peak reached in 1966. Hog and pig numbers, at 1,711,000 head,

Winter Sets Back Western Pastures

Winter pasture conditions in 17 Western states declined seasonably during January and as of February 1 were two percentage points less than a year earlier, says the Agriculture department.

Ranges were reported at 73 per cent — considered “poor” under a department scale — compared with 76 per cent on January 1 and 75 on February 1, 1968.

Heavy snow cover and prolonged cold weather resulted in heavy supplemental feeding of range stock, the department said. But the added moisture raised prospects for spring and summer grazing.

were up 11 percent from January 1, 1968, and the highest number since 1944.

All sheep and lambs totaled 386,000 head, 4 percent less than last year and the lowest number since 1925.

Chicken numbers continued a downward trend with all chickens totaling 4,966,000 on January 1, down 4 percent from last year. Turkey numbers on farms January 1 totaled 40,000 birds, 9 percent less than a year earlier and the smallest number in records dating from 1929.

The total value of all livestock and poultry on Kansas farms and ranches January 1, 1969, was $875,697,000, up 8 percent from last year and the highest of record.

Cattle

Total cattle and calves on hand January 1, 1969, at 5,564,000 head, remained unchanged from the previous year with slight gains in beef cattle offsetting smaller numbers of milk stock.

Beef breeding stock included 1,710,000 cows 2 years old and over compared with 1,676,000 last year and yearling heifers totaled 479,000 compared with 478,000 last year.

January 1, while steers over 1 year old increased 3 percent to 755,000.

Milk cows were down by 6 percent from last year and milk heifers and heifer calves down 4 percent.

Cows and heifers 2 years old or more kept for milk totaled 225,000, the lowest number on Kansas farms since 1873.

The farm value of all cattle and calves was $812,344,000 on January 1, 1969, an increase of 7 percent from 1968. The average value per head this year was $146 compared with $136 a year ago.

Hogs

Numbers of hogs and pigs on Kansas farms gained sharply for the third year in a row, increasing 11 percent during 1968 to 1,711,000 on January 1, 1969. The value of all hogs and pigs on farms January 1 was $49,619,000, 22 percent above a year ago with the average value per head at $29.00 compared with $26.50 last year.

Sheep

The number of sheep and lambs on Kansas farms totaled 386,000 on January 1, 4 percent less than the previous year. Sheep and lambs on feed for market totaled 100,000 compared with 69,000 a year earlier. Stock sheep numbered 286,000 head, down 14 percent from the year before.

Poultry

All chickens on Kansas farms on January 1 totaled 4,966,000 birds, 4 percent less than a year ago. The current number on farms is the lowest since records began in 1924.

Turkey numbers were down 9 percent from a year ago to 40,000 on January 1 this year. Chickens on farms were valued at $4,718,000, an increase of 9 percent from last year. Turkeys were valued at $224,000 compared with $211,000 a year ago.

United States

On January 1, 1969, there were 109.7 million cattle and calves on the nation's farms and ranches, slightly more than the 109.2 million head a year earlier.

An increase of 1 percent in beef cattle was partly offset by the 3 percent decrease in dairy cattle. The number of beef cows 2 years old and over increased 2 percent while the number of cows and heifers 2 years old

VoAg Contest

Dates April 28-29

MANHATTAN — Dates for the 46th annual Kansas High School Vocational Agriculture Judging and Agricultural Mechanics Contest will be April 28-29.

C. L. Norton, chairman of the contest committee, said more than 1200 Future Farmers of America from 164 vocational agriculture chapters over the state will be on the Kansas State University campus here to compete in the contest and to participate in the 41st annual convention of the Kansas Association of Future Farmers of America.

Delegate sessions will be in the Manhattan Municipal Auditorium.

There are 15 separate contests, including seven in agriculture judging, six in agricultural mechanics, plus agricultural news writing and public speaking.

The Kansas Association of FFA plans a vesper service Sunday, April 27, followed by a full program of business on Monday and Tuesday.

Gregory Hands, Garden City, Kans., president, will preside at the sessions.

Adult Kansas FFA leaders are C. C. Eustace, Topeka, state adviser, assisted by W. A. Rawson and Earl Wineinger; and Harold Shoaf, Topeka, state executive secretary.

'Best Cattle Balance In 10 Years'

"The relative balance between overall cattle supplies and demand is more favorable this year than it has been for the past decade."

This is a statement released by Bill House, Cedar Vale, Kans., president of the American National Cattlemen's Association. He referred to a report on research by ANCA economists after release of U.S. Department of Agriculture reports of cattle inventories Jan. 1.

The analysis by ANCA economists confirms ANCA Market

Development Committee speculation that the levels of beef production and per capita consumption witnessed for the past six months or so have been achieved at the expense of future beef supplies, House said.

To illustrate that the cattle industry has been borrowing somewhat on future supplies, House said steers and steer calves on feed Jan. 1, 1968, represented 62 per cent of total steers one year and more in the inventory, while steers and steer calves on feed Jan. 1, 1969, represented 68 per cent of the total comparable steers in inventory. A similar relationship is shown for heifers.

Total steer and heifer calves on feed Jan. 1, 1969, were up 10 per cent from a year ago but the number of steers and heifers on inventory the same date compared with a year ago are essentially the same, less than 1 per cent of increase, the ANCA president added.

The Kansas Cattle and Live-stock Reporting Service, Topeka, reported the Jan. 1, 1969 figures showed Kansas farmers began 1969 with cattle numbers the same as a year earlier, hog inventories up moderately, with somewhat fewer sheep.

The Kansas reports showed cattle and calves totaled 5,564,000 head, about 3 per cent below the peak in 1966. Hog and pig numbers were tabulated at 1,711,000 head, up 11 per cent from a year ago. Sheep and lambs totaled 386,000 head, down 4 per cent and the lowest since 1925.

Beef breeding stock was up this year with cows totaling 1,710,000 compared with 1,676,000

Kansas Feeders Tour Northwest

PASCO, Wash. — A group of 75 Kansas cattle feeders flew home last week after inspecting five feed lots and two packing plants in Central Washington as part of their second annual tour.

Ward Warren of Silverdale, chairman of the cattle feeders' division of the Kansas Livestock Association, said the men on the tour "all are owner-operators and I suppose their feed lots have somewhere between 300,000 and 500,000 head in them."

ONE NEW DIRECTOR FOR LYONS CREEK ASSN.

WOODBINE — Delbert Oesterreich of Woodbine has been elected as a new director of the Lyons Creek Watershed Association. Re-elected at the annual meeting were Lawrence Morgan, Warren Rock, Wayne Selin, Gerald Smith and Jack Staatz.

WHY NOT FEED MY BABY PURINA CREEP CHOW?

Good question, mama!

Most cows can't produce enough milk to satisfy their calf's energy, protein and nutrient requirements. Calves dropped in the fall cannot eat enough hay, nor can spring calves eat enough grass to fill these needs. It takes more than mother's milk plus hay or grass to bring top dollar on today's calf market.

Creep feeding can solve this problem for the cow-calf operator who is after maximum returns from his brood cow herd. Purina Creep Chow provides a palatable and properly balanced ration for the growing calf.

Come in and visit with us about the many advantages of creep feeding your beef calves. We have everything you will need—from highly-fortified, growth-stimulating Chows to free building plans for a practical low-cost feeder.

The nicest thing about a Mix-Mill® feed processing system...

when you need it,
it doesn't need you!

Your Mix-Mill® feed processing system stores, measures, mixes and grinds your concentrate, grains and other ingredients, and delivers fresh feed to the feeders automatically... electrically. It will deliver feed for two hours out of 24, 10 hours out of 24, or 24 hours out of 24... regardless of where you are or what you're doing.

There are dozens of other advantages which add up to this. A Mix-Mill® system will feed all of the hogs, beef cattle, dairy animals, or poultry you have on your farm... or plan to have... at less cost and with less labor involved than any other method available.

The nicest thing you could do would be to make us prove it. We'll be glad to. Just fill in the coupon, and get it in the mail today.

Felbush Farm Site Of Area Angus Field Day

ABILENE — The Dean Felbush farm south of Abilene on K15 will be the site of Better Livestock Day April 17 sponsored by the Geary-Dickinson Angus Association.

The field day, the 44th annual one, is recognized nationally as the largest and oldest Angus field day in the United States. It attracts more than 1000 4H boys and girls and FFA members and adults for the morning livestock judging contest.

Leon Geisert is president of the association.

Committee chairmen are Lloyd Black, A. J. Schuler, Marvin Poland, Tom Orwig, N. E. Stroud, Paul Gwin, Jesse Lawrence, Ralph Dietrich, J. B. Hollinger, Lee Sellin, Ed Shouse, Dean Felbush, and H. H. Jones.

Big Job Testing Buffalo

It takes a lot of men to pen buffalo and get blood samples, as about two dozen Fish & Game Commission men can attest after testing a herd for brucellosis.

The buffalo herd, some 200 strong, at Maxwell Game Preserve near Roxbury was tested for brucellosis recently after tests last fall showed 23% of the animals had the disease, which affects the reproductive system of some farm animals. The only practical cure is testing and slaughtering the diseased animals for the protection of the healthy. Meat from an infected animal is fit for human consumption.

Dr. Neel Conley, Topeka veterinarian, found nine more of the buffalo at the Maxwell preserve had brucellosis. They'll soon be marked for buffalo meat.

STEPHENSON HEADS K-N ANGUS ASSN.

John Stephenson of Downs has been elected president of the Kansas-Nebraska Angus Association. He succeeds Roger Peterson of Holdrege, Nebr. Other officers are Tim Stiefel, Denton, Nebr.; T. L. Sterner, Franklin, Nebr.; Dale Barton, Oberlin, Nebr.; Julian Deters, Cawker City; Bennie Wischmeier, Wilcox, Nebr.; and Dwayne Nelson, Kenesaw, Nebr.

Dock Strike Depressed Prices

The strike by dock workers at the Atlantic and Gulf ports has probably depressed corn and soybean prices. We say "probably," because we can't be sure that prices would have been any better if there had been no strike.

The strike began December 20. Long before that, however, foreign buyers knew that a strike was likely. Consequently, most of them put in extra supplies of grains to meet their needs until shipments could be resumed from the United States.

Even so, foreign buyers did not seem anxious to buy U. S. corn. However, they did obtain more soybeans than they took from us during the same time a year earlier.

Exports of corn during October and November of 1968 totaled only 94 million bushels — 19 per cent less than during the same two months a year earlier. European countries, the principal importers, produced good feed crops last year. Our foreign customers may have found other sources of supply while our ports have been locked up. There have been reports that France, South Africa, and some eastern European countries have increased sales in recent weeks.

While exports of corn are important, our domestic utilization typically takes about six times as much as the export market. In 1967-1968, for example, exports totaled 634 million bushels, while domestic disappearance was 3,766 million bushels.

You may have read or heard that one-fourth of the corn that farmers sell is exported. That's true. But remember that nearly half of the U. S. corn crop is never sold, it is fed to livestock on the same farms where it was produced.

Livestock and Poultry Up

It now appears that farmers will be producing more of all the major kinds of livestock and poultry than they did in 1968. There were 10 per cent more cattle on feed as of January 1 than a year before, and 4 per cent more hogs are being produced, according to USDA estimates. There is evidence that the production of broilers, turkeys, and eggs will be stepped up this year. Milk production is expected to continue at close to 1968 levels. The increases in the production of animal products requires corresponding increases in the amount of corn and other feeds used.

Farmers put only 180 million bushels of corn under loan during the October-November-December quarter of 1968. This amount was 7 per cent less than was placed under price support during the same period a year before.

Market prices for corn since January 1 have been close to the price-support loan level.

Thus, there has been no strong incentive for farmers to put their corn under loan. The amount of corn put under loan, however, will have a strong influence on prices during the next few months.

The ending of the dock strike may not bring much of an increase in grain prices. Elevators at Gulf ports probably have been building up supplies to fill orders when the strike ends. People in the grain business look a long way ahead.

Some farmers, too, look ahead. Some have probably been waiting until the strike is ended before selling their corn or soybeans.

OUR DAILY BREAD

— by G&G Area Cooks

Winner Of Prize Is Mrs. Leola Unrau, Lehigh

Mrs. Leola Unrau, Lehigh, wins the prize with an ice cream recipe which will cause us to wish for an early summer. Mrs. Unrau writes, "with summer coming soon, I have a recipe I know has brought a comment every time I served it."

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM

5 eggs
3 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vanilla
1 quart heavy cream
1 quart milk (approximately)
Beat eggs till light in color. Add sugar and salt and mix well. Add cream. Beat. Add vanilla and enough milk to fill a one-gallon freezer.

Mrs. Gilbert Wille, R1, Wamego: "Yesterday's paper had a Sweet Dill Pickle recipe which brought to my mind my favorite hurry-up Sweet Dill Pickle Recipe. It is good for one who does not have the opportunity to make pickles from fresh cucumbers."

SWEET DILL PICKLES
1 quart canned dill pickles (whole ones, as ready-sliced pickles are too thin) Drain liquid and discard it. Slice pickles into ¼ to ½-inch slices crosswise into mixing bowl or glass jar (nothing metal). Add:

2½ cups sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard seed
½ teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon dill seed
Do not heat. Cover and allow to stand overnight at room temperature. Liquid will form and pickles will become crisp. Refrigerate and use as needed. "They will keep well for weeks if they last that long."

Mrs. Ollie Turk, Washington: "Enclosed find main dish recipe for ground beef. If you are tired of the usual hamburger recipes, try this."

GROUND BEEF CASSEROLE

1 can chow mein noodles
2 pounds ground beef
1 cup chopped celery
Cook ground beef and celery, then drain off all fat. Mix together:

1 can mushroom soup
1 can chicken noodle soup
1 can vegetable soup

Do not dilute; add meat and mix well. Put half in large greased casserole. Add layer of chow mein noodles then rest of mixture and top with chow mein noodles. Bake in 350-degree oven 35 minutes. Can be put into two small casseroles. This freezes well. Do not add salt. Soups have enough seasoning.

It has been requested that a recipe for Millionaire's Fudge be printed:

MILLIONAIRE'S FUDGE
12 ounces sweet German chocolate

12 ounces semi-sweet chocolate

4½ cups of sugar

1 tall can evaporated milk

1½ tablespoons butter

1 pint marshmallow creme

2 cups nuts

¼ teaspoon salt

Cook sugar, milk and salt six minutes. Put rest of ingredients in a large bowl. Pour boiling mixture over; beat until melted and thick.

Recipe Correction

Mrs. L. Joseph Wedel of Langdon, Mo., sends a correction for her Tomato Drop Cookies which appeared in the Feb. 4 issue of G&G. The recipe calls for 2 cups of tomato juice, rather than 3.

Mrs. Wedel also sent along thanks for her prize:

"Thank you so much for the cake butter — it's the first of its kind I've seen. I'll surely enjoy using it."

big explosion," and finally "now they're showing an animal ranch!" "An animal ranch," said in disbelief. "No," he said and repeated the statement which still sounded like "animal ranch." After taking a peek at the tv we had a lesson on how to pronounce 'avalanche.'

My husband answered the phone the other evening when my older son called from New York. The two of them talked for awhile, then big brother talked to little brother and finally it was my turn. The call was getting pretty long so I told him we'd better hang up or he'd have a terrific phone bill. "Oh, don't worry about it Mom," he said, "I called collect!"

Mothers can certainly put you down when you criticize their grandchildren. I was complaining that my older son habitually mislaid his shoes when he was small and that the little one is doing the same. She answered this by saying that I was the only little girl she knew of who managed to get her shoes muddy even during a drought.

considered a pertinent part of the housing market. Prominent housing consultants see mobile homes as a possible answer to the "cyclic housing needs of the nation."

Proof of the successful mobile home market is a growing emphasis on exterior design. "We have already reached our maximum in size and in attractive interiors," says a leading mobile home manufacturer. What's left is visual exterior appeal.

To stimulate imaginative mobile exteriors that duplicate the quality and design of traditional residences, the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association is awarding prizes for exterior decor. A recent winner of the "best new house exterior award at a mobile home show" features attractive hardboard siding, a bable-style asphalt shingle roof and quality ponderosa pine slider windows with distinctive removable grilles. The grilles give the mobile home windows an elegant divided-light appearance traditionally associated with Early American architectural design.

Unlike its "trailer" predecessors with cramped, inefficient interiors, this model offers three bedrooms, a spacious modern bath and a large living-dining area. There's an optional choice of kitchen design — either a roomy, fully equipped kitchen or an efficiency with a separate utility room.

Other prize-winning mobile home entries featured luxury touches like parquet floor, brick cooking "islands," compartmentalized bathrooms, recessed lighting and "in" color schemes such as avocado green and autumn gold.

Heat May Dry Out Cat's Coat

In cold weather don't let your cat lie on the floor register. The heat dries out his coat and the hot air can cause drying of the respiratory passages, allowing infections to occur more easily.

Popularity Recipe Request

Some time ago a request was received for a Pecan Praline recipe. One was printed in response to the letter, however, a recent check showed that the praline recipe Mrs. Ewell Lintecum, Hutchinson, wanted called for butterscotch pudding as an ingredient.

Should a G&G area cook have such a recipe and wishes to share it, it may be sent to Mrs. Lintecum, whose full address is 2813 N. Lorraine, Hutchinson, Kans., 67501, or mail it to the Woman's Page Editor, Grass & Grain, and it will be forwarded.

Increasing Demand For Tasty Hawaiian Papayas

Papayas, those luscious yellow-green pear-shaped fruits from Hawaii, are being seen in local markets more often now.

Growers in The Islands have planted more papaya trees to fill the mainland demand. Home-makers here like the sweet and delicate papaya flavor; many say it is like a melon in taste.

In the store, you may see papayas ranging in color from green to yellow. They change colors as they ripen at room temperature. Store green ones in a fruit bowl and watch them ripen. When more than half yellow and softened like a pear, papayas are ready to eat. Once ripened, they keep extremely well in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, cut papayas in half and scoop out the black seeds. Then peel and dice or slice for salads or desserts. Or leave skin on and serve "papaya boats" filled with ice cream for dessert. Provide spoons for eating filled papaya boats.

The classic Hawaiian serving is papaya with a lime half, for breakfast. A very healthful way to start the day because a papaya half has twice the Vitamin C of an orange, as much Vitamin A as a carrot and lots of B1 and D. Papayas are easy to digest and low in calories.

Papayas are available year round, but they will be especially plentiful from now on through the summer months.

Vegetables With A Flair

Dress up everyday vegetables with a creamy good sauce. This recipe for creamed peas and onion should tempt even the most reluctant palate.

CREAMED PEAS & ONIONS

- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- Dash sugar
- $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 2 10-ounce packages frozen peas, cooked and drained
- 1 1-pound can white onions, drained
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento, optional

Melt margarine in saucepan. Mix in cornstarch, sugar, salt and pepper. Remove from heat. Gradually add milk, mixing until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, comes to boil and boils one minute. Stir in peas, onion and pimiento. Heat and serve. Six to eight servings.

Indoor-Outdoor Carpeting Gains

Indoor-outdoor carpeting is gaining wide favor with homeowners. Since it won't shrink, rot or mildew and resists spots, stains and fading, it can be used in many places.

It does well in kitchens, laundry rooms, family-rooms, basement recreation rooms, workshops, by the poolside or on sidewalks.

The carpeting is easy to install, needs no binding, lies flat and doesn't curl. When inside, use the vacuum to clean it, outdoors, use the lawn hose.

Snappy Ginger Sandwiches Add Fun To Tea Time

Part of the enjoyment of tea-time is in the planning and preparation of new treats, provided the recipes aren't too complicated. Then, the really exciting moment comes when our guests reward our efforts with sweet compliments.

Snappy Ginger Sandwiches are an imaginative teatime for the hostess and her guests. Made with ginger snaps and a highly original cream cheese filling, they are as easy to prepare as they are to eat.

SNAPPY LITTLE SANDWICHES

- 48 ginger snaps
- 1 package cream cheese, 3 ounces, room temperature
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1 teaspoon orange juice

Engineers Urge Irrigation From Wilson Reservoir

ABILENE — A long-range $15 to $18 million irrigation project is available to Dickinson and Geary County farmers, but landowners must take the initiative and form an irrigation district, officials of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation says.

The proposed area is along both sides of the Smoky Hill River from Solomon to Junction City, said Kenneth Kauffman, McCook, Nebr., chief regional development director for the agency. It encompasses 34,000 acres.

"If landowners are interested, they must form a steering committee and request the bureau to conduct a feasible study," Kauffman said. "Development of the central Kansas district is 5 to 10 years in the future if it is adopted by the landowners and the government."

The irrigation water would come from the planned outflow of Wilson Reservoir, northwest of Russell. It would be fed into a canal irrigation system with a diversion canal between the Solomon and Saline rivers at a point west of Solomon where a small diversion canal would divert the water into an open canal.

Farmers would be serviced from the canal through pipelines.

"The irrigation project would not pose a threat to water storage at either Wilson or Kanopolis reservoir, in Ellsworth County," Kauffman said.

"Unless the surplus water expected from both reservoirs in years to come is used for irrigation purposes, it will flow through Kansas only to help make the Missouri River more navigable, which would be of little benefit to this area," he added.

Farmers who have expressed fears the water would be unsuitable because of high salt content have been told preliminary tests would be of "good quality."

Lake Wilson Association, comprised of businessmen and individuals in the Wilson Reservoir area, said it is prepared to fight the irrigation project, but officials admit they don't have much say in the matter.

Using the reservoir for irrigation would damage its desirability for recreation, according to Allen Pauley, Lucas, president of the lake association.

"All our bank areas now are grass and we don't like to have that destroyed," he said.

"The reservoir, owned by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, is in control of the federal government and water can be released any time it's needed downstream and recreation can take the hindmost," said Larry Ferguson, a Bureau of Reclamation official at McCook.

"Wilson was constructed primarily for irrigation and recreation is just a side benefit," he added.

The bureau has been studying ways to use the water since the mid-60s. It wouldn't do much good for any group to fight irrigation, Ferguson said.

"The federal government has invested a lot of money to build Wilson and use it for irrigation," he added. "The Corps told us that if water ever is needed to keep up the level of water for boats in the Missouri River that it will let it go. There's not much anybody can do about it."

The state could buy the water rights from the federal government, but "the first group to ask for storage right of this water is going to get it," he added.

Ferguson said Wilson has a capacity to irrigate 22,000 acres and the lake still could be used for recreation areas. "We do it in Nebraska all the time," he said. "There's no doubt that the beaches in the summer are muddy when the water level dips really low, but they still can be used for recreation."

The area to be served by the proposed irrigation system includes some of the most fertile bottom land in Kansas. It has been primarily a wheat and alfalfa producing area.

Authorities see it being converted into more of a corn and forage production area under irrigation. They predict corn yields could triple or more, which would be of interest not only to producers but also to livestock growers.

The area also could be used for sugar beets and other specialized crops, it was said.

Kauffman said under present plans, the entire area would be organized into an irrigation district. Farmers would be assessed some type of scale fee system for use of the water.

The Soil Conservation Service would cooperate with the Bureau of Reclamation in readying the land for irrigation.

"Experience has been that land values would double or more after the irrigation system is developed," said Kauffman. "It is bound to have a big economic impact on the community."

The estimated cost to each farmer would be $10 per acre over the 40-year repayment period. Participants wouldn't be financially obligated until the system is developed.

Snorts At Rural 'Good Life'

Not only are rural people lagging far behind city dwellers in the quality of services available to them, but they refuse to admit a gap exists, a University of Missouri official has charged.

"There probably has always been a lag. The disturbing point is the widening of the gap," Dr. C. Brice Ratchford, university vice-president for extension, said in remarks for the National Agricultural Outlook conference.

"Most people in rural areas still firmly believe that the rural community is a better place in which to live, that it has better churches and schools, less crime and poverty, greater morality, more recreation and more everything else that is good," he said.

"Obviously, the facts do not substantiate this picture and the real danger of such a view is the legitimatizing of the failure to bring about institutional change."

Consequently, Ratchford said, rural people exert little pressure for improvement of their facilities and institutions.

"Rural communities are lagging, and this shows up in every field where measurement is possible — education, health service, housing, protection and, yes, even recreation," Ratchford said. "A higher per cent of the rural people live in poverty than in metropolitan areas."

He said that rural communities have failed largely to take advantage of federal programs which were created to help solve their problems.

Also, Ratchford said, a competition exists between small and large communities which frequently results in further losses.

"Small communities are necessarily tied to large ones," Ratchford said. "The local rural institution stands no more chance being self-sufficient in the third of this century than the modern commercial farmer."

"But small communities tend to vigorously fight large ones which chokes the large community and brings slow death to the small one," he added.

Oklahoma Vet School Woes On Accreditation

STILLWATER, Okla. — The college of veterinary medicine at Oklahoma State University has been placed on probation, OSU officials have acknowledged.

Dean Karl R. Reinhard said the American Veterinary Medicine Association placed the OSU college on probation after an accreditation team visited the campus three months ago.

The action is technically classified as "confidential probation," which in some instances can be followed by public probation and then loss of accreditation.

The AVMA criticized five specific shortcomings in salary, faculties and facilities and recommended corrections. The AVMA is the official accrediting organization for veterinary schools throughout the nation.

OSU officials said the college of veterinary medicine ranks 20th among the 21 such colleges in the country in per capita support by the state. They said the national average in 1968-69 is $5,852 per student, while Oklahoma appropriates $2,812 per student.

OSU's four-year veterinary program has 182 students.

Dr. James H. Nogs, vice president for academic affairs, said the veterinary college is "a long step away from losing its accreditation."

He said OSU officials have not approached the legislature because the AVMA report was received only last week.

Another Soybean Top

Cherokee county topped other Kansas counties in soybean production for the seventh straight year.

Cherokee (Columbus) produced 242 million bushels, nearly double the output in any other county, according to the Kansas Crop Reporting Service.

Crawford County ranked second with 1.24 million bushels, followed closely by Franklin and Brown counties.

Other counties with a production of one million bushels or more were Allen, Anderson, Coffey and Labette counties.

Total 1968 production for the state was 23.93 million bushels, 29% above the previous year and the largest production on record.

Leading counties in yield per acre were located in northeast Kansas with Leavenworth county having the highest average yield of 35 bushels per acre. Atchison, Doniphan, Johnson and Pottawatomie counties followed with average yields of 33 bushels.

The state average yield per acre was 25 bushels per acre, 2½ bushels above 1967 and 1966 and was the highest average yield of record.

Cherokee County led the state in harvested acres with 101,000 acres, followed by Crawford County with 65,300 acres. Soybeans planted in Kansas for all purposes totaled 973,000 acres of which 957,000 acres were harvested for beans.

Planting of soybeans started normally in early May but was delayed somewhat by late spring rains. The growing season was favorable with adequate moisture supplies in the principal growing areas and only limited amounts of extremely hot weather. Harvest progressed ahead of normal with ideal weather early in the fall, but final harvesting of late-planted soybeans was hampered by wet fields.

Soybean Acreage May Hit A Million

The increase in soybean plantings has slowed in the last couple of years, there is a possibility that soybean acreage in the state may hit a million acres for the first time in 1969.

The State Crop Reporting Service first recorded soybean acreage in the state in 1924, but there were no major interests in the crop until about 1940 when there were 26,000 acres planted.

By 1942 there were 212,000 acres planted and the receipts went over $1 million for the first time. Indeed, they went way over $1 million — reaching $3.9 million.

Acreage ebbed and flowed in the decade after, altho prices went up, and Kansas farmers grossed $16 million out of 397,000 acres in 1950.

Two years later the crop grossed $19 million on a 640,000 acre planting, but interest waned in the mid-1950s and acreage was cut in half. As late as 1957, soybeans were worth less than $5 million in marketings.

Since 1957, marketings have increased rather steadily and prices were close to $3 in part of 1966.

Still, Kansas farmers have been somewhat wary of soybeans. Acres planted were over 900,000 in 1962 and the acreage hasn't gotten to one million yet.

Last year's crop was worth about $57 million, a record despite the decrease in the bushel price.

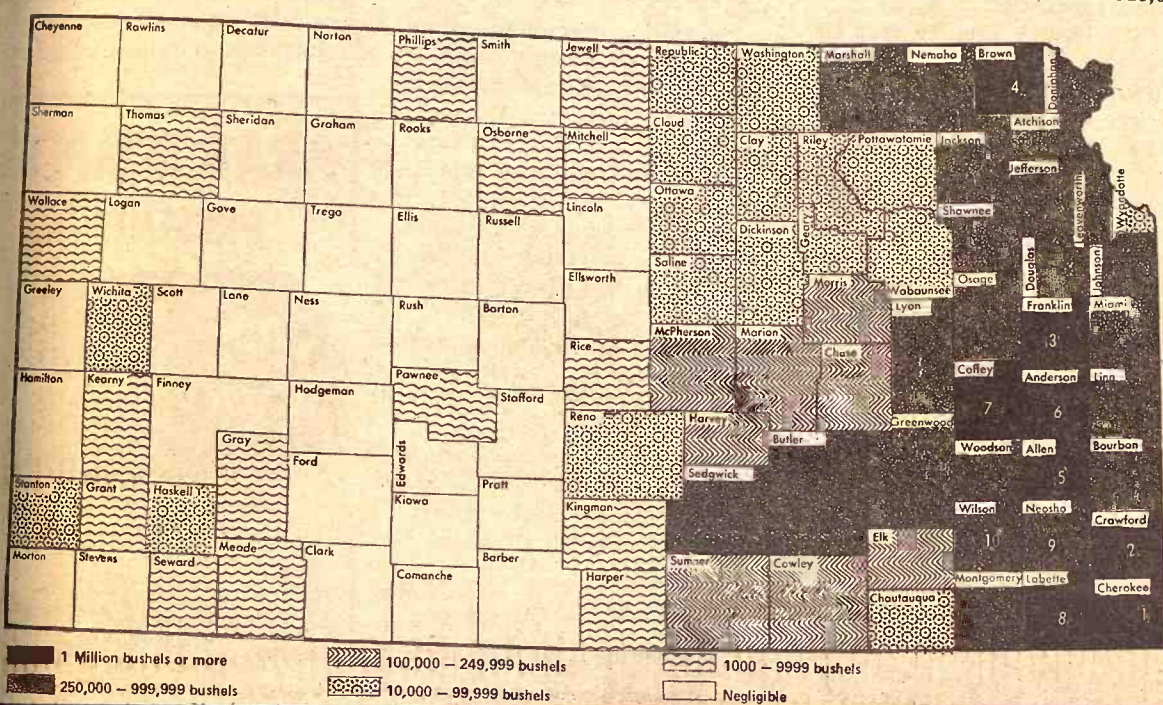

The current forecast is for soybeans in the state to remain around one million or less acres, producing between 20 and 25 million bushels, and grossing between $50 million and $60 million.

This makes soybeans the 4th ranked crop in the state, with wheat typically grossing $300 million to $500 million a year, sorghums $100 million to $150 million, and corn for all purposes generally over $100 million.

Manhattan Commission Co., Inc. Sale Every Thursday

2½ MILES EAST OF MANHATTAN ON US 24

We had a real bad day for our sale last Thursday weather-wise, but the cattle that got in found a real active market. We were pleasantly surprised at the number of cattle that did get in as the weather was surely disagreeable.

The buyers were here and wanting to buy the cattle. We are expecting a good run of livestock for our sale this Thursday. If you have cattle to sell, bring them in. We can assure you that we will have a good market.

A partial listing of our sale is below:

"Throw Away Castrating Knife"

Downgrading of Bull Carcasses Outmoded

DALLAS, Tex. — The practice of castrating male beef calves is outdated and costly, states C. G. Scruggs, vice president and editor of The Progressive Farmer.

Calf producers, feeders and American consumers, says Scruggs, are suffering losses of many millions of dollars through continued castration of calves. In addition, less beef of the desired kind is being produced, thus limiting demand because of excessive waste fat. So it is that castration can now be considered one of the most unnecessary practices in the beef producing industry.

Scruggs questions, "If castration is producing such losses, why is it continued?" There seem to be no valid reasons. There are, however, several excuses, says Scruggs. The main reasons still cited for steers are outdated USDA grading standards and packer-buyer practices largely brought about by grading standards.

There were valid reasons, in perspective to the times, dating back 200 years ago. But conditions have changed and today's needs and facts no longer support the need for castration.

Research clearly shows that male beef animals are superior to steers in production of consumer acceptable beef, notes Scruggs.

Many producers threw their castration knives away years ago, states Scruggs. In a highly fat-conscious age, it seems less than wise to continue to pile on waste fat through feeding of steers. Test after test shows that young beef males have only about half the fat cover as steers do and that they have a much greater per cent of lean meat, contends Scruggs.

The testes of male animals supply hormones. So we castrate males and deny them normal growth hormones, says Scruggs. Then in an effort to get better steer gains, we often feed or inject other growth hormones.

The reasons to stop castrating now are twofold, according to Scruggs:

1. Present USDA grading standards make mandatory the use of a bull classification if graders know it's a bull, regardless of age or meat quality. If "bull" is stamped onto a carcass it is automatically knocked down in price even though the quality of meat and conformation is superior or equal to steer and heifer carcasses.

2. In spite of overwhelming college research, individual feeder experience and consumer tests proving acceptability and taste for lean male beef, there is almost a total lack of acceptability by the general run of packers of this kind of animal.

Packers cite USDA grade standards as their problem. If they get a carcass stamped "bull" they have much greater trouble selling the carcass, though many admit the superior carcass qualities.

"It's clearly time to stop the wasteful, and, today, unnecessary practice of castration. It's a time for action. It's time to throw the knife away," says Scruggs.

He suggests that steps be taken in 1969 with January 1970 as the target date for the ending of castration except in cases of special need and demand.

Tough Year For Wheat Sales, Says John Schnittker At K-State

John A. Schnittker returned to Kansas State University to talk about the prospects for expanding world wheat markets, a field in which he is one of the top authorities.

"This year will be a disappointment because the world has harvested good crops, because of the shipping strike and because of a lag in sales to Japan," Schnittker told a special convocation of more than 200 agricultural students and faculty members.

Schnittker was an associate professor of agricultural economics at Kansas State when he left in 1961 to join the Department of Agriculture in Washington. He became undersecretary of agriculture in the Johnson administration in 1965 and recently left that job. He will be returning to Kansas State in the fall as a professor. He comes from Kingman, Kans.

The primary factor in selling wheat abroad is being competitive — right now and in the future, Schnittker said. He said the Department of Agriculture had done this while he was undersecretary. Wheat exports in the last three marketing years were exceeded only 1963-64, when there were large sales to the Soviet Union.

Prospects for expanding world markets depend heavily on world economic conditions, Schnittker said.

"If hunger were to gain the upper hand in the next decade," he said, "our wheat exports surely rise sharply. If Asian agriculture is really making progress, our food aid shipments may continue to lag and larger cash sales would come only slowly."

G&G Area Featured In Historical Series

DORRANCE — The first issue of Time-Life Books' "This Fabulous Century" includes 12 pages of people, places and events in Dorrance between 1900 and 1910.

Dorrance was included in the 290-page volume as an example of life in a small prairie town settled by immigrants. Credit goes to Leslie Halbe, son of the banker, for the pictures.

Another 12-page section in the new historical series is devoted to business in Junction City.

SPRINGTOOTH HITCHES

We are manufacturing 3 pt. springtooth harrow hitches up to 20 ft. If you have changed to a larger tractor, we can build a complete hitch to handle folding sections or remodel old hitches to match our new ones.

These are designed to absorb the shock of lifting and transporting over rough terrain.

We will again have all-steel fertilizer units and rubber press wheels for those of you who might be interested.

REAR-MOUNT BLADES

See us for rear mount blades with 3 pt. hitches, sizes 6 to 8 ft.

We'll make these with 2 pt. or snap coupler type hitches on order. These blades can be big labor savers for cleaning livestock feed floors, loafing sheds and to eliminate mud holes in feed lots and for snow clearance from driveways and other areas.

See Further Decline In Smoking

The Agriculture Department says trends indicate that by 1975 the average American smoker will puff about 15 packs fewer cigarettes a year than he does now.

Because of population growth,
total U.S. cigarette consumption is not expected to change much.

Arthur G. Conover, an Economic Research Service analyst, presented the report to the Agricultural Outlook Conference.
He described it as only a projection of past and current trends, not a forecast.

The projection assumes that present antismoking campaigns will continue.

Conover noted there is not a "highly accurate count" on the number of smokers or the average rates of consumption.

But using state reports on tax-paid cigarette sales as a basis, Conover estimated that in fiscal 1967-68 the average smoker over 18 consumed 3,487 cigarettes, or slightly more than a half-pack a day.

Based on projected census figures and trends, he estimated

Henry VIII Appetite

CHICAGO — An official of the American Medical Assn., Dr. Phillip L. White, told assembled members here that by the time the typical American reaches age 70 he will have consumed the equivalent of —

Some 150 head of cattle, 310
hogs, 225 lambs, 2400 chickens and the produce of 25 acres of grain and 50 acres of fruits and vegetables.

Dr. White, who is secretary of the AMA's council on foods and nutrition, added that this quantity of groceries would be washed down with 7000 gallons of water plus more than 500 gallons of other liquid.

Charolais Assn. To Revolve National Show

SAN ANTONIO — Establishment of an annual revolving national Charolais breeding cattle show beginning with the 1969-70 show season and a special semen grant for junior Charolais breeders have been approved by the American-International Charolais Assn.

Both items were approved by directors at their winter meeting during the San Antonio Livestock Exposition in moves to further emphasize the breed's importance to the American beef industry.

Purpose of the national show,
explained Executive Secretary J. Scott Henderson, would be to bring Charolais breeding cattle from all parts of the U.S. into a competitive and impressive composition display.

A minimum of $10,000 in premiums would be offered, and an estimated 300 individual animals would be in competition.
The 1969-70 show season begins
July 1.

The show would revolve among the association's eight director areas, beginning with Director Area No. 1 and contin-ing numerically through area
No. 8. Thus, the first show would be held in Texas since that state consists of director area 1. Only one national show would be held per season.

Local Charolais associations that are affiliated with AICA would invite the show to their area and would handle most details for arrangements and promotional aspects. The show would be held during an established major livestock show

where Charolais breeding cattle now compete.

The board opened its established semen bank, previously limited to use for research purposes only, to junior Charolais breeders. Under this program, where individual donors to the bank agree, semen from some of the nation's leading herd sires would be made available to junior members for the first-cross in a grading-up effort.

The only cost to the junior member would be for shipment of the semen and for techni-cian's fees. Heifer calves from the program must be recorded with the AICA as foundation females. Application for the semen must be made direct to the AICA.

Sentence On Cattle Dealing Gets Explanation

Five-year sentences for allegedly embezzling over $1 million have drawn some protests from the Cedar Vale area in the southern Flint Hills.

A delegation of "six or seven" persons heard an explanation of the sentences and probation procedures after Judge Wesley E.
Brown of the U.S. District Court received protests of the "light" sentences on Ray D. Oltjen and his son Thayne, Cedar Vale bankers who allegedly embezzled some $1 million in funds from the now defunct Cedar Vale National Bank, covered them with false entries, and lost the money in cattle dealings.

The elder Oltjen pleaded guilty to one count of embezzling $46,600 and his son to making one false entry of $49,982.

The federal indictment had originally charged the Oltjens with embezzling $1,010,730.

FOUNDATION TO CUT FORD MOTOR HOLDING

The Ford Foundation expects to reduce its interest in Ford Motor Co. to less than 20% by 1971, by selling stock from its present 27.4% holding. Ford went public in 1956 and the foundation has been gradually reducing its equity in the company from 88% then. The foundation holds only non-voting stock.

Plays Despite Handicap

Jim McGauhy of Haven has only one arm, 1½ fingers on his left hand and favors his right leg, but he's still a member of the junior varsity of the Haven Wildcats.

Jim, 16, was in a farm accident when he was four years old. He fell off a tractor and was run over by a disc. He lost his right arm and 3½ fingers of his left hand. The blades of the disc almost cut his right leg off.

That hasn't stopped the 140-pound sophomore from playing. He has a game high of seven points thus far this season.

First Major Hog State Is Cholera Free

MADISON, Wis., — Wisconsin has become the first of the top 10 hog-producing states to be declared free of hog cholera, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

A certificate signed by Secretary of Agriculture Hardin, recognizing Wisconsin's achievement was presented to Wisconsin Secretary of Agriculture McDowell at the Wisconsin Blue Ribbon Pork Show and Sale in Madison.

Ranking ninth in hog production, Wisconsin is the 12th state to be officially declared "hog cholera free." Earlier this month Vermont regained "free" status which it lost a year ago.

Pearson On Bill Vs. 'Tax Farmers'

Sen. James B. Pearson (R-Ks.) has announced his co-sponsorship of a bill aimed at curbing the growing practice of "tax-loss" farming whereby high-bracket taxpayers, taking advantage of a tax code loophole, buy farms and then operate them as tax havens.

Pearson said the situation had developed because "the tax laws were written to spare the ordinary farmer the bookkeeping chores associated with inventories and accounting, but unfortunately too many people who are not genuine farmers are taking unfair advantage of this provision." He said the legislation is aimed only at the tax farmer and would not require the bona fide farmer to change his income tax reporting procedures in any way.

Pearson said a common example is for a high-bracket taxpayer to buy land and a livestock breeding herd and deduct the expenses of raising the herd from his business income, thus reducing his annual tax payments. Such expenses are often excessive as the individual may not be trying to make a profit on the farm operation.

After a time he sells the herd, the proceeds of which are taxed only at a 25 percent capital gains rate, and starts the process all over. As a hypothetical example, the individual could buy a cattle herd, charge $200,000 for the expenses of raising it, and eventually sell it at a break even point, in the process reducing his total income tax payments by $90,000.

The bill, originally introduced by Senator Metcalf of Montana, would permit farm losses to be offset in full against nonfarm income of up to $15,000. Thus, the part-time farmer who supplements his income by working in a neighboring town would not be affected.

However, for every dollar of non-farm income above $15,000, the amount of farm losses which may be offset is reduced by one dollar. Those with nonfarm income of $30,000 or more would not be able to offset farm losses against nonfarm income.

Businessmen who apply to their farm operations the same accounting methods used in computing income taxes on business operations will not be affected by this bill, said Pearson.

Pearson said: "This legislation is needed because under present law, too many individuals can avoid paying their fair share of the tax burden. But more importantly, the influx of these 'tax farmers' places the genuine farmer at a disadvantage."

"Because they are not concerned about making a profit on the farm operation they often pay inflated prices for land and other farm assets. The bona fide farmer has enough trouble making ends meet. He shouldn't be placed at a further disadvantage by this type of unfair competition."

Young Farmers Honor Haddam's C. Hardenburger

The 1969 'Star Young Farmer' of Kansas is 32-year-old Charles Hardenburger of Haddam.

Announcement of the 1969 Star Young Farmer came at the annual banquet of the Kansas Young Farmers organization at its annual convention at Kansas State University, Manhattan.

Runners-up this year for the Star Young Farmer award were Jerry Thomas of the Council Grove chapter and Fred Heigele of the Clay Center chapter.

A native of Haddam, Hardenburger started his farming career in 1956 by purchasing 60 acres of land near Haddam. Later, in 1962, he expanded his operations by negotiating a contract to take over his father's small farming operation and he and his wife, Deanna, and their two sons now live on a 3325 acre beef cattle farm.

Hardenburger has a practical beef cattle operation that consists of 235 cows that produce calves that are fed out to 1000 pounds under a full feeding program. This past year he produced nearly 225,000 pounds of beef. He has been improving his operation through use of production records, selection of breeding stock and use of artificial insemination.

The Washington County native's farming operation included 571 acres of milo this past year. The milo averaged 73 bushels to the acre. Through use of a chaff collector, Hardenburger saved waste from the milo crop during harvest and this has provided most of the feed for his cow herd this winter.

Hardenburger was graduated from Kansas State University with a B.S. in secondary education in 1959 and at this time was commissioned an ensign in the Navy, where he served four years. He also taught school in Morrowville for three years before entering full time farming.

The 1969 Star Young Farmer was a charter member of the Washington Young Farmers Chapter and this past year was instrumental in getting a Morrowville class started.

He is a member of such organizations as the Washington County Livestock Association, Farm Bureau and the Masonic Lodge, and is an officer in his church. His wife is a member of the Morrowville Young Farm Wives class.

State Holds Lead But Mill Output Down A Fourth

Although the output of the state's flour mills has declined in recent years, Kansas still holds its position as the nation's leading flour producer.

Flour production peaked in 1963, when Kansas mills turned out just under 45 million hundredweight, says Orlo Sorenson, professor of economics at Kansas State University.

By 1967 — the last full year for which figures are available — this total had dropped to just over 33 million hundredweight. Twenty-four hour milling capacity decreased from 164,004 hundredweight in 1964 to 151,389 hundredweight in 1967.

Several factors caused the drop, Sorenson says. Changes in flour markets and marketing techniques have had a significant influence on the location of flour milling. One such change is the increased purchase of pre-bled bulk flour by commercial bakeries.

This involves blending of wheat from different production areas and tends to favor mills located where they can conveniently obtain wheat of various types.

For example, mills located in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio draw hard red spring and hard red winter wheat without greatly increased transport cost. Flour production in these states has increased steadily.

Another factor has been transportation rate changed that have placed Kansas millers at a disadvantage relative to their earlier position. A major break away from equal rates on wheat and flour came in 1963. This affected transport costs to destinations in southeastern United States. Kansas flour production dropped some 4 million hundredweight in 1964, and has dropped each year since.

would be normal; that would be a loss of 100 pounds per steer due to the weather, Walt Tolman, station cattle research director, said.

Feed consumption was near normal and labor costs higher than usual because of extra chores and machinery breakage, so these cattle are now worth $25 to $30 per head less than they should be.

We all share in the loss because this lowered production, over a wide storm-swept area, will reduce meat production and may be reflected in somewhat higher prices for meat at the retail market than would otherwise prevail, Tolman predicted.

Death losses of some cattle during storms have been reported, but the lowered production of thousands of livestock is more important, in total, than the death of a few hundred head.

Tolman suggested moving cattle to large, dry lots or fields when possible, and providing them with a dry bed of corn cobs, straw or wood shavings.

Icy lots, now common because of the unusually great snow pack, and wet feedlots of deep mud are sure to cause lower than usual livestock production for some time even if no new blizzards develop, Tolman remarked.

State Packer Merger Complete

Merger of two Kansas agricultural and livestock firms has been approved by stockholders at separate meetings.

A favorable vote of two-thirds of all outstanding stock was necessary to approve merger of Agricultural and Industrial Development Inc., (AID) and American Beef Inc. A total of 26 per cent of AID stockholders favored the merger while 82 per cent of the American Beef shareholders approved the plan, according to an announcement last week.

The merger becomes effective when a certification notice is filed with the Kansas Secretary of state's office.

AID is the surviving corporation under the agreement. American Beef stockholders will receive two shares of AID common stock for each share they hold of American Beef common stock, the Spokesman said.

With the merger concluded,

Beet Contract Hinges On Net Sugar Price

Agreement on terms of the 1969 sugar beet contract was announced Thursday by Great Western Sugar Co. and Richard W. Blake of Greeley, principal spokesman for beet grower associations in four Western states.

The contract continues a 1968 arrangement under which growers received payment based on the final net selling price received by the company for sugar. Payments, Blake said, will be made next October and are expected to be higher than the 1968 return.

Major Forestry Effort In South

A new stage in the development of one of the South's most valuable economic resources — trees — is about to take place.

The International Paper company announced that it was set to embark on what it called "the largest reforestation program ever undertaken by a private organization."

International Paper is the world's largest manufacturer of pulp and paper and also one of the largest landowners in the South, with almost 5 million acres of forest land under its control in nine Southern states.

The company said it planned to begin a long-range harvesting program covering 3.8 million acres of southern timberlands, replacing the trees it cuts with a new crop of "super-trees" with superior characteristics of faster growth, higher yield of wood fiber and resistance to disease and drought.

The "super trees," an end product of a long program of scientific effort in forest genetics, will be planted in orderly rows that will make possible a forest "plantation" capable of mechanized harvesting.

More than 55 million pine seedlings will be planted this year on more than 90,000 acres of International Paper's southern timberlands, according to Fred C. Gragg, vice-president of the company's Southern Kraft division.

Next year, according to Gragg, an additional 77.5 million seedlings will be planted on 129,000 more acres. The program will continue in ensuing years until the entire 3.8 million acres of company lands devoted to the growth of southern pine is replanted, Gragg said.

Inauguration of the massive reforestation program represents a major step by International Paper to speed the yield of wood fiber from its vast timber reserves. The company expects to begin harvesting the new crop of "super-trees" in 25 years instead of the normal cutting cycle of 40 to 50 years.

International Paper's concentration on the use of "super trees" as the key to its massive reforestation program dates back 15 years, when company foresters discovered one such tree in a forest near Georgetown, S.C.

Although the tree was only 20 years old, it had grown to a height of 72 feet and had a diameter of more than 15 inches.

The tree became the basis of a series of scientific experiments that included the grafting of cuttings on to the root stock of other trees, artificial pollination of its seeds, and computer studies that plotted the growth and quality statistics of the wood yield of such trees.

The forthcoming wave of plantings of seedlings in the reforestation program will be based largely on the progeny of the Georgetown "super-tree" and others similar to it that were found in other parts of the company's forest lands.

Carpeted Greens For McPherson Golf Course

MCPHERSON — The first carpeted-green golf course in the G&G area is expected to be in use sometime this spring at rolling Acres Golf Club here.

The tentative date for the installation of all greens is May 1. Several members of the club played on such greens at Central City, Nebr., last year, and decided the move would be beneficial — and economically feasible — for their club.

The cost per green at Rolling Acres will be $1000. The carpeting comes in 12-foot widths, and instead of having round greens, Rolling Acres will have rectangular ones, 36 feet wide, 48 feet long. A 2x6 inch redwood frame will keep the carpet fastened and the rim will be covered with dirt for a smooth approach.

The synthetic blades are about three-eighths of an inch long. "It really resembles grass quite closely," says Elmer Cooper, a member of the club's board.

The synthetic carpet is also considerably cheaper than Astroturf and similar synthetic grasses — $6 a square yard compared to $20.

Grocery 'Specials' Aid Retailer Too

By Mildred L. Walker
Kansas State University

Everyone likes those "special" food prices at the retail store. Consumers like them because they make the food dollar stretch a little further. And store managers like specials because they bring customers into the store where they buy other items which are not on sale.

Specials on meat are especially important to customers, since about one-third of the food dollar goes for meats, fish and poultry. Specials are important to the producer because they help move a product through the market place. And they help the retailer as he attempts to balance his pricing program to cover costs and include profits.

Do specials increase sales? When a retailer offers a special price on an item, he can expect sales to increase three to ten items, depending on the size of the price reduction and the time of the week.

Do specials really lower the cost to consumers? Studies show that savings for a customer can range from six to ten percent on specials when compared with regular prices over a period of time. Specials lower the price of retail beef by an average of three to four cents a pound.

How do specials fit into overall pricing? Price policy is the result of blending departmental sales and gross margins and the promotion of this blend to appeal to the basic desire of the consumer for low food prices and food store services. Specials are a part of this overall price pattern.

Retailers adjust their prices downward by the number and the frequency of specials offered. In time of high prices and relatively low supply, a special may be offered on only two or three meat items, for example, at a reduction in price of 10 to 15 percent. With larger supplies and lower prices, more items will be featured at reductions of 15 to 34 percent.

What items are most likely offered as specials? Customers usually find more specials on those items that are seasonal, like citrus in January, or in good supply, like turkey during the fall.

The retailer does not put special prices on old merchandise just to get rid of it. However, if an item is slow to move through the market, he may place it on a "quick sale" display at a lower price. On many specials, the price barely covers the product cost.

More Use For Rock Springs 4-H Camp

Approximately 18,000 persons took part in 1968 events at Rock Springs Ranch, state 4-H center near Junction City, reports Merle Eyestone, director of the center and associate director of the Kansas 4-H Foundation. Participation at the center grew 4.5 percent over the previous year.

During 1968, Rock Springs Ranch was open 275 days. June, July, and August were "booked solid" with January having the least number of events with 11 days scheduled. The center is one of the major projects of the Kansas 4-H Foundation.

School groups represented 31 percent of the events, with church groups 36 percent, private groups 14 percent, and Cooperative Extension Service groups 19 percent.

4-H groups accounted for 19 percent with almost 31 percent of the total enrollment. The 12 4-H camping groups from 71 counties totaled 4,112 members and counselors. This was an average of 323 persons at each 3-day session. The four state 4-H camps and conferences totaled 741 persons, averaging 185 each event.

Some 400 girls and boys took part in 5-day camping programs during the summer, sponsored by the Junction City school system for the underprivileged.

Developments at Rock Springs Ranch during 1968 included walks and the beginning of a staff house. Two memorials were established in honor of

February 25, 1969

Kathleen Kay Rosebrook and the Leo Ewerts.

All summer 1969 dates are filled, Eyestone reports, with all weekends through August reserved. Some week day dates between now and June 1 are not scheduled.

Seek To Nullify Trade Barrier On Soybeans

A proposed tariff tax by the European Common Market on U.S. soybeans would deal a severe blow to the American farmer, Sen. Stuart Symington, (D-Mo.) says.

The United States now exports 450 million dollars worth of soybeans to Europe, Symington said.

Nebraska Slow On Brucellosis Program

Nebraska and Oklahoma are among the remaining seven states which still lack the modified certified status in the national brucellosis eradication effort.

Mississippi recently became the 43rd state to be designated as a modified certified brucellosis area, a status granted when the incidence of the disease has been reduced to less than 1% of the animals and less than 5% of the herds in the state.

Besides Nebraska and Oklahoma, the states lacking modified certified status are Florida, Louisiana, Texas, South Dakota and Hawaii.

ton said.

"This proposed tax would give a clear competitive advantage to domestic European feed grains (rather than U.S. soybean meal) and dairy products (rather than U.S. soybean oil)," Symington told his colleagues in the Senate. "It would have a drastic impact on our balance of payments."

The Common Market council is proposing a tax of $30 a ton on imported soybean meal and $60 a ton on soybean oil. The plan also would curtail exports of unprocessed soybeans because the tax would apply to oil and meal that would be processed within the common market.

Symington said the trade expansion act allows the President to retaliate against such actions and was assured by the government that it is prepared to take counteractions. President Nixon just this week reiterated that he is for more rather than less free trade, and against protectionism.

"Wal, it's that dang radio announcer's fault. He said it wasn't gonna freeze last night."

See A Drop In Farm Exports

U. S. farm exports this fiscal year are expected to total about 6 billion dollars, a drop of about 800 million dollars in two years, an Agriculture department official has predicted.

Raymond A. Ioanes, head of the foreign agricultural service, told a national agricultural outlook conference that "While exports of 6 billion dollars are good, we'd like to see them regain the momentum they had a few years ago."

This can be done, he said, "if some major importing areas of the world finally decide they want to trade" and adjust their farm and trade policies in that direction.

The total value of U. S. farm exports has been more than 6 billion dollars annually since 1963-64. They rose to a record 6.8 billion dollars two years ago but declined to 6.3 billion in the year ended June 30.

Ioanes attributes the downward trend to a variety of pressures, including increased food production in some traditional markets, rising protectionism and increased competition among major exporting nations.

He cites particularly what he calls agricultural protectionism in the European Economic Community. Ioanes also said E. E. C. policies encourage protectionism elsewhere.

"I'm thinking of the grain levels in the United Kingdom and the slowness of some countries — Japan, for example — in easing import quotas," he said.

FOR BURLINGTON WED., FEB. 26

Due to the loading difficulties in the fields and on the back roads, we can't announce our early consignments with certainty. One very attractive consignment definitely due in: 55 Whiteface yearling steers & heifers weighing 600-650 lbs. We are expecting some cows with calves by side.

MARKET REPORT FOR WED., FEB. 19
 We had an exceptionally good run considering the weather, with a market fully steady.

Steer calves 375 to 500 lbs.	@ 28.50 to 34.50
Heifer calves 375-500 lbs.	@ 25.50 to 27.50
Cows with calves 230.00 to 260.00 pair
Feeder steers 700-900 lbs.	@ 25.00-26.50
Feeder heifers 600-800 lbs.	@ 24.50-25.50
Bulls 22.00-24.00. Killing cows	16.00-19.50

Stock hogs were fully steady @ 13.00-15.00 head
 Feeder shoats steady @ 17.00-20.00 head

EUREKA

Due to the muddled conditions, our sale last week was short again on receipts, but cattle sold on a market fully steady.

There are plenty of cattle in our area ready for market, and as soon as they can be moved out of the mud, and depending on improved weather, we should have a bang-up sale next Monday.

The two-day session laid open for examination the many aspects of the issue for the more than 600 persons attending.

General consensus was that the family farm will continue to exist and prosper, but on a somewhat expanded basis as economic factors continue to force a trend toward larger, more efficient units.

Family farms, enlarged to efficient levels with the opportunity to incorporate, have a lot of economic survival strength in competition with corporate, or industrial-type farms, Dr. William Murray of Iowa State University predicted.

The family-sized farm in the Corn Belt has some advantages over the large factory-type farm in that the very nature of farming does not fit the mechanized system of such a farming venture. Nature upsets the system since livestock and the weather cannot be made to conform to a set plan of operation. Labor is a major problem for this type of farm, as employees are not willing to put in the long hours traditionally demanded by farming, Murray explained.

"These realities of farming along with the successful combination of grain and livestock operations in the Corn Belt have given the independent farm family unit in this area a wide margin of superiority over the factory system of farming," he stated.

At Sale Day

Stopping at a G&G area auction were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bosse and son Lanny of Onaga. The Bosses farm 346 acres near Onaga.

John Hopkin, farm credit specialist at the University of Illinois, said he feels there will be continued economic pressure on most commercial farmers to expand their operations. But, he added, that farmers may run into some problems of finding adequate financing for such enlargements.

These problems, he said, include: A combination of factors which have caused the demand for farm loans to increase faster than the level of economic activity in rural areas; limitations to unnecessary shrink!

The pounds you can lose on shrink cost you just as much as the pounds you lose by death or disease in your herd. For example:

An average grain fed steer shrinks 3% during an overnight stand without feed or water. That's 3 steers in 100.

Recent tests show fat cattle shrink 2 1/2% during a haul of 50 miles. That's 2 1/2 steers in 100.

BUT, these cattle recover 1 1/2% by fill after arrival. That takes you back to 1 steer in 100.

Direct buyers take pencil shrink ON TOP OF actual shrink. That's 2, 3 or 4 steers in 100.

Recently a feeder had his cattle trucked 50 miles. They stood dry overnight before weighing. Then the packer deducted 2% pencil shrink. This man lost 7 steers in 100!

Why not save these steers? Sell them at the Kansas City Market, where —

- They are fed, watered, rested on arrival.
- Weighed by unbiased people on government inspected scales.
- There is NO PENCIL SHRINK!
- You get professional selling help from marketing pros with your commission company.

Bring your next lot here and prove this to yourself.

Anhydrous Storage Has Russell City Commission In A Dither

RUSSELL — A disaster at Crete, Nebr., caused by an exploding train car of anhydrous ammonia has thrown this city into an uproar over plans of a co-op to store the chemical fertilizer within the city.

Argo, Inc., a co-op that had made plans to store the chemical before the disaster, now is running into trouble from the city council and the city planning commission.

Representatives went before the city planning commission asking for permission to store the poisonous gas. The meeting lasted well into the evening.

After building piers and setting the tanks for holding the ammonia, Argo now has stopped preparations pending the outcome of the hearing before the commission.

The co-op had checked with the city officers about storing the ammonia within the city. They were told there would be no ordinance forbidding it, but the co-op would have to have the okay of the city fire department.

According to Loren Dinkel, manager of Argo, Inc., the co-op then checked with fire department officials. They said there was no regulation forbidding it, but the company would have to comply with regulations of the State Department of Agriculture.

Dinkel said the state department found the project acceptable and thought it was safe.

Later the city council found objection. Many citizens considered it dangerous. The disaster at Crete earlier in the week, where a railroad car filled with anhydrous ammonia under pressure 'exploded' and killed and injured about 20 people, "didn't help," Dinkel said.

Many experts, despite the term explosion being used, believe the pressure is what made the car explode and not the ammonia. Anhydrous ammonia is not flammable.

The city, becoming concerned, now is relying on a city ordinance that allows fertilizer to be stored in the city only with the permission of the city planning commission.

Dinkel and other representatives of Argo and the State Department of Agriculture went before the commission Wednesday night to explain why they believe the ammonia could safely be stored within the city limits.

Argo wants the ammonia stored in Russell because, Dinkel says, it would be safer where there is a large supply of water.

"If there is a leak, water can be applied and the ammonia will be absorbed. Anhydrous ammonia has a great affinity for water," Dinkel says.

Dinkel said the cost of moving the tank and piers would not be great, "probably around $1000," but operational costs outside the city limits would be much higher.

Anhydrous ammonia is one of the most economical fertilizers known and is used by thousands of farmers in Kansas.

Train cars come through nearly every city in the state loaded with anhydrous ammonia. The fertilizer is injected underneath the soil.

Expect Increased Tree Plantings This Spring

Considerable increase in tree plantings across Kansas this year is expected by Harold Gal-laher, state extension forester at Kansas State University.

An estimated 4200-4300 farmers will get trees and shrubs of about two dozen varieties for planting. This is an increase from about 3700 who ordered the trees in the KSU program last year.

Last year Kansans ordered nearly a million plantings. This year, Gallaher said he expects nearly 1½ million to be ordered.

More than 500 farmers had ordered in the first seven days after orders were started Feb. 1. Costs are $8 a hundred for seedlings, while stratified nut plantings cost $2 a hundred under the program.

Trees available so far include:

● Deciduous trees — Black walnut, Russian olive, Chinese elm, redbud, cottonwood, green ash, honey locust, Russian mulberry, Osage orange, silver maple, burr oak and hackberry.

● Stratified nuts — Walnut and pecan.

● Evergreen — Scotch pine, Austrian pine, white pine, ponderosa pine, eastern red cedar, Rocky Mountain juniper, and spruce.

● Shrubs — Multilora rose, cottoncaster, lilac, honeysuckle, American plum and taxus.

Usage for the trees include windbreaks, shelterbelts, wood lots, erosion control, wildlife cover and Christmas trees.

Area Protest Of Old Planting Histories

—In Establishing Allotments

Sixty-two Saline county farmers, most of them from the Gypsum community, are asking a basic change in the rules establishing wheat allotments under the Department of Agriculture farm program.

The farmers want to substitute "tillable acres" for "history" in the allotment formula.

Led by Leonard Stein and August Krause, both of Gypsum, the farmers signed a letter to the Kansas Congressional delegation and Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin protesting what the letter calls "inequities" in the use of wheat-planting history in establishing wheat allotments on individual farms.

The USDA, through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the department's administrative arm for farm production programs, determines allotments for each farm on the basis of planting history.

In the case of wheat, the history period embraces the years of 1952 and 1953.

"They feel there should be a new formula," said Philip Aldrich, attorney for Stein and Krause in an appeal before the Saline County ASC committee and the state ASC committee of allotments for their farms. "The inequity of using 'history' particularly is acute when the domestic consumption certificate is considered."

"One farm may have twice as many acres in wheat allotment as an adjoining farm although the tillable acres are identical simply because planting 'history' of 10 years ago is the determining factor."

The certificates are paid on a percentage of normal yield from allotted acres.

Aldrich said he has not been successful in learning specifics of why the county committee rejected the appeals by Stein and Krause.

"We are exercising our right in protesting the situation," he said.

HOGS START AT 11:00 A.M.
CATTLE AT 1:00 P.M.

We had a real large turn out of both cattle and hogs at our sale this past week. We sold a total of 1175 hogs and 650 cattle.

The barn was full of buyers and we had a real active market on all classes of cattle and hogs.

We will have a real good sale this week because some of last week's consignments could not make it out due to the road conditions.

The Angus Cows we have listed in the two previous issues will be here this week if the weather permits, so it looks like a real good sale is coming up this week.

There is a good demand now for cattle weighing from 700 - 900 lbs., so if anyone has some to sell, we will be glad to look at them.

The following is a listing of some of our sales last week.
