GUIDING the growing industries of Kansas are graduates of Kansas State College. The growth of industries has been a direct result of the continued supply of college graduates. By offering training in technical fields the college provides the stimulus for further industrial development. Kansas State College holds the key to continued growth of Kansas industries.

Anderson Hall—kansas state

STANDING for the national anthem a capacity crowd of 13,000 basketball fans packed K-State's Field House to see the Wildcats tangle with the Jayhawkers from Lawrence.

HOME OF THE WILDCATS was the basketball by-word for K-State's massive, limestone-clad Field House. Seen here from across the Student Union parking lot, the Field House occupies a prominent position on the K-State campus.

← OUT-DOOR CLASSES were held in many courses as warm, sunny days continued late into the fall semester of school.

GOING HOME after an after-→ noon of classes are these two K-State students, photographed south of Kedzie hall.

↑ ALWAYS CROWDED was the Canteen, a likely spot for a mid-morning coffee date or an afternoon Coke date.

← SEMESTER EXAMS sent many students to the library in quest of knowledge and a quiet place to study.

LINGERING after classes, → students find the atmosphere friendly, their classmates congenial.

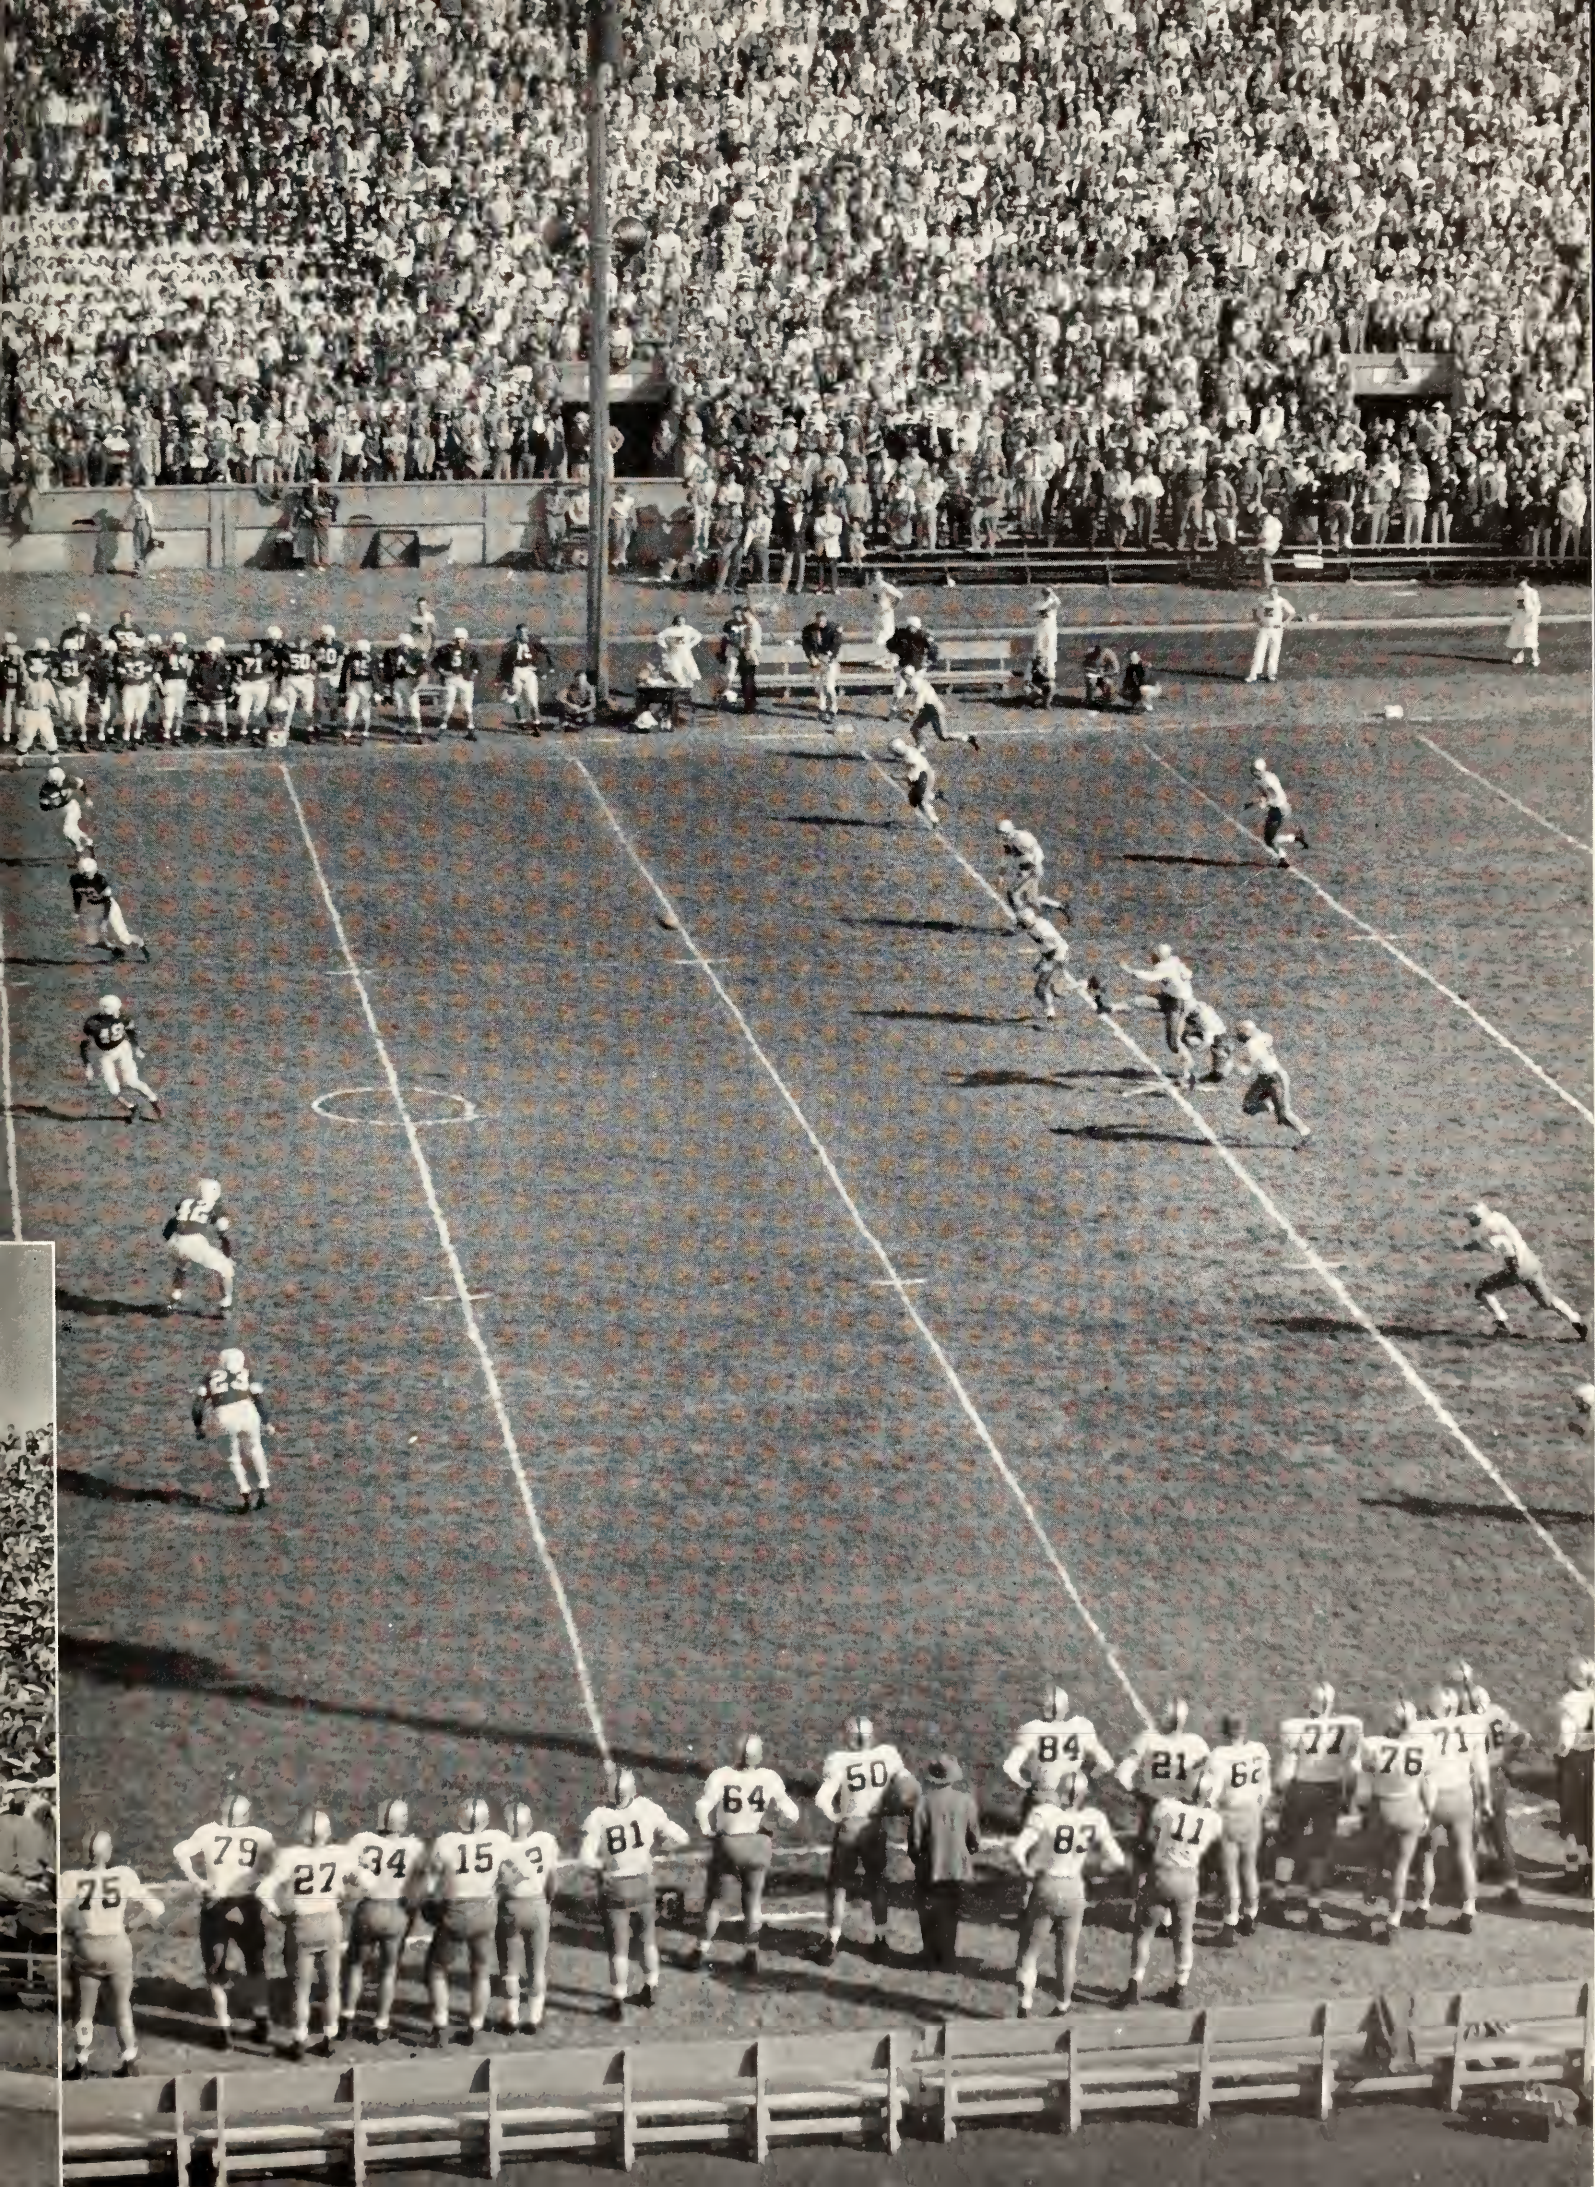

← MORNING SUNLIGHT falls on students who cross the mall east of Anderson hall on their way to morning classes.

WILDCATS RECEIVE the ball → as Colorado kicks off to K-State in the 1951 Homecoming game at Manhattan.

▼ FOOTBALL SPIRIT filled the air as Wildcat cheerleaders lead crowd in support of K-State's "new regime"—a coaching staff that brought football victory to State in 1951.

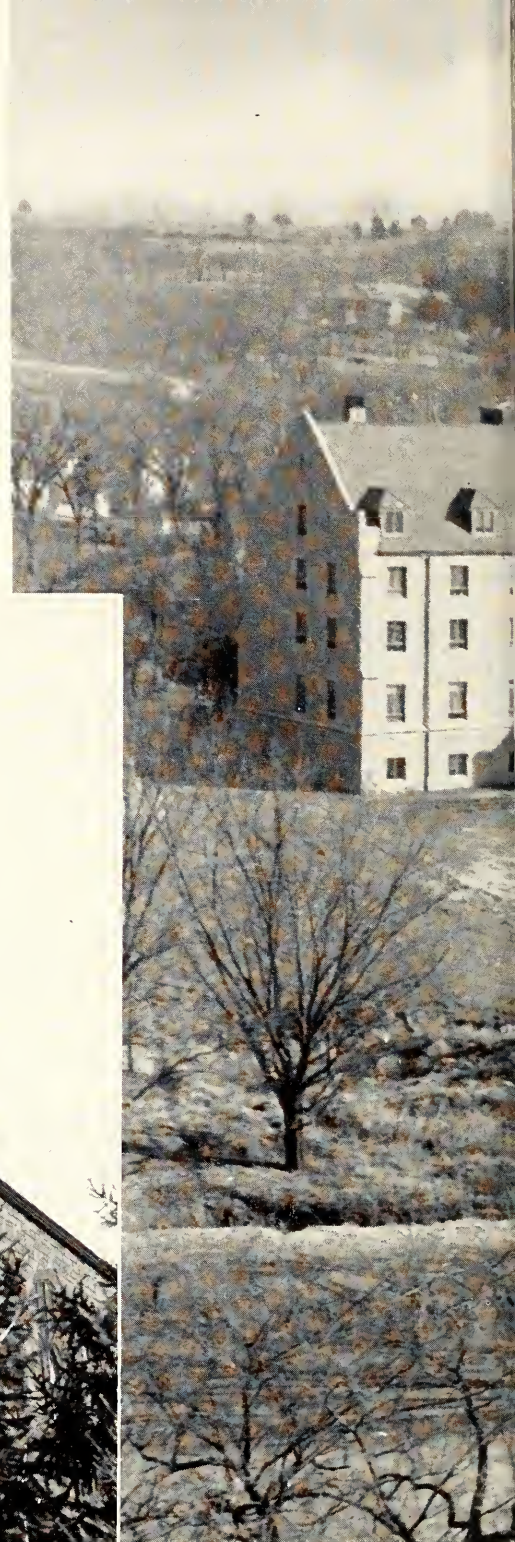

A TRIAD of women's dormitories neared completion → at K-State as contractors hurried to complete Southeast hall before the start of the fall semester, 1952-53. Northwest hall (left foreground) became available for occupancy by freshmen women in the fall of 1951.

← JUTTING SKYWARD the north-east corner of the library overlooks a peaceful group of students on the K-State campus.

A COED pauses thought-→ fully in an autumn scene showing Danforth Chapel, a meditation place for many students.

WALKING TOGETHER this carefree couple crosses the grassy turf sloping eastward from the auditorium. The seemingly austere auditorium with its obtrusive cylindrical, chute-type fire escape appears vacant though the photograph was taken when the structure was filled at assembly-time.

CLASSROOM BUILDING appears framed by two trees as falling leaves foretell an approaching winter.

HUSTLING, BUSTLING students file past Fairchild hall on their way to one of the many All-College assemblies.

▲ OFFICE WINDOW reveals a view of campus highlighted by power plant's finger-like stack and water storage tank.

← A FAMILIAR SIGHT on assembly days was a steady procession of students passing toward the college auditorium.

AERIAL VIEW south-→ ward from the new classroom building was possible with completion of the building in early 1952.

← GEOGRAPHY lessons come easily to students attending classes in the new classroom building.

▼ GLASSED-IN staircases were a feature of K-State's new $655,000 classroom building.

administration

GOVERNOR Edward F. Arn has been a guest of the College on numerous occasions during his first term as governor.

Dr. JAMES A. MCCAIN will complete his second year as President of Kansas State College on July 1 of this year. Born in York, South Carolina, President McCain was a 1926 graduate of Wofford college. He earned his master's degree at Duke University in 1929, and his doctor's at Stanford in 1947.

Beginning in 1929, President McCain taught journalism and English at Colorado A&M. In 1934, he became assistant to the president there, and in 1939, Dean of Personnel. In 1942, he was made Dean of the Division of Vocational Education and Director of the Summer Session. Dr. McCain was named President of Montana State University in 1945, remaining there until he came to K-State as its tenth president.

As a non-political institution the College is linked with the government of the state. The Board of Regents has the important job of governing and forming the controlling policies of the College. This Board is composed of nine men and women appointed by the governor of the state to supervise the eight Kansas institutions.

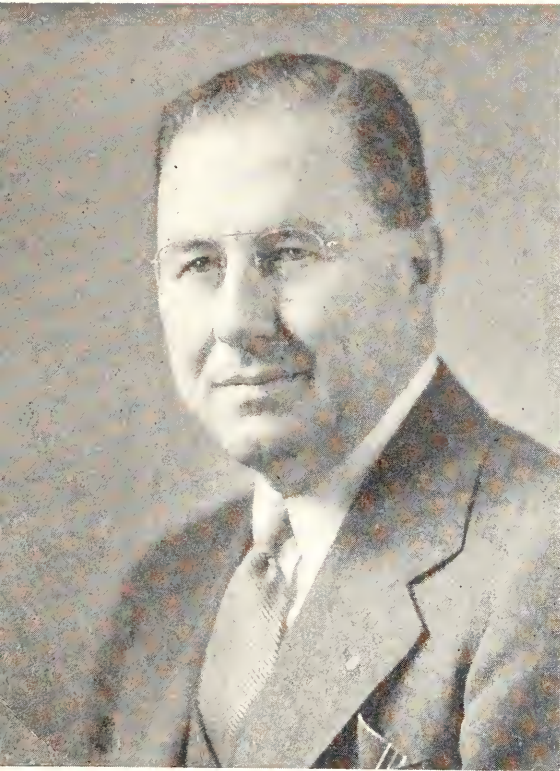

A native Kansan, Governor Arn was the former attorney general of the state and is now serving his first term in the gubernatorial capacity. The Board appoints the president of each college under its jurisdiction, and acts upon his recommendations for college personnel appointments and general campus activity.

Members of the Board include Lester McCoy, Garden City, chairman; Drew McLaughlin, Paola; Willis N. Kelly, Hutchinson; LaVerne B. Spake, Kansas City; Oscar S. Stauffer, Topeka; W. S. Fees, Iola; Mrs. Elizabeth Haughey, Concordia; Arthur W. Hershberger, Wichita; and Grover Poole, Manhattan. Hubert Brighton, Topeka, is secretary of the Board.

Enrollment second semester at K-State reached 4,528, slightly less than the fall enrollment of 4,745. This drop was being experienced in colleges and universities all over the country. K-State enrollment reached its peak in 1947.

Administrators direct school activities

NEWLY APPOINTED Dean of Finance, A. R. Jones, supervises the College budget.

As K-STATE has grown, the responsibilities and activities of the administration have increased. The quick, business-like manner in which these men operate has indicated competence in their work. Each administrator works side-by-side with all phases of campus activity, promoting understanding between students and faculty.

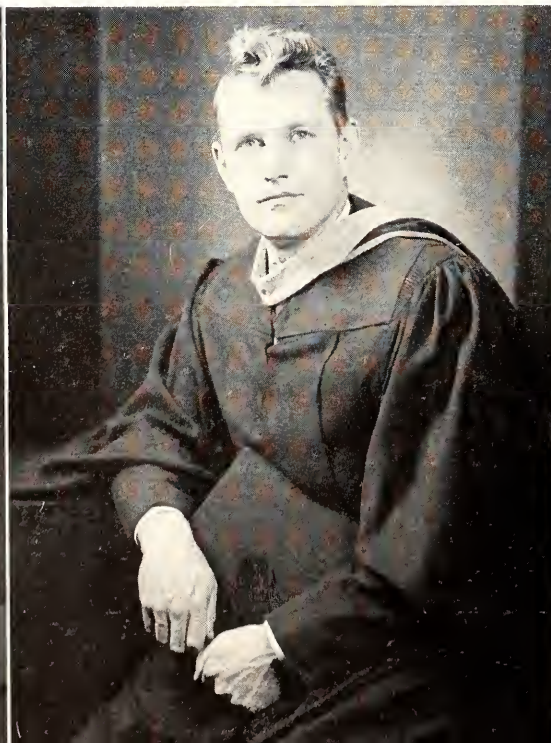

The newest administrative office is that of A. R. Jones, Dean of Finance. Dean Jones' main job is to keep track of the eight million dollar college budget. His appointment this year highlights twenty-four years of service to the college.

One of K-State's most prominent administrators is A. L. Pugsley, Dean of Academic Administration. On his shoulders rests the job of being Director of Summer School, the responsibility of the Veteran's Service Office, and general administration of the library and student health services.

Congenial and helpful are apt words describing Dean of Women Helen Moore. Operating more than eight hours a day, Dean Moore's office is open to the women of the campus who seek special permissions or bring problems for advice. The newly completed freshman residence hall, Northwest hall, has brought many new problems, yet satisfaction. Dean Moore is starting her twelfth year looking after the welfare of college women on and off the campus.

Serving his first year at K-State is William G. Craig, Dean of Students. Dean Craig, replacing Maurice Woolf, has played an important role in the planning of the new Student Union. Having an active voice in student problems and organizations, he has the problem of managing and organizing school functions. He is also responsible for the Counseling Bureau, the Dean of Women, and the secretaries of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations.

Beyond the view of the student, the services which administrative officers render help make K-State function smoothly and continuously. Working directly under the President, the administrators strive to increase the effectiveness of the college program from admission of students to publicity of College affairs.

Seven of the administrative offices are housed in Anderson hall. The other five are located in other schools or buildings on the campus.

Faculty Senate is new at K-State

THE FACULTY COUNCIL on Student Affairs went out of existence during the spring semester following the re-organization of student government under the constitution adopted last fall. The council was headed by Dean of Students William G. Craig. This group was the chief college organization which dealt with student governing policies and committees.

When the new constitution went into effect the council was dissolved to be replaced by a Faculty Senate sub-committee.

The Faculty Senate, organized upon this dissolution of the Faculty Council on Student Affairs, consisted of approximately forty members. Heading the Senate was Dr. Rufus Cox. The group met twice a month with the President and decided important questions governing student and faculty policies.

R. I. THROCKMORTON, Dean of Agriculture, will retire July 1 as head of the school.

HIGHLIGHTING the news from Ag School this year were the announcements of Dean R. I. Throckmorton's retirement July 1 as Dean of the School of Agriculture and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, a $100,000 wheat mosaic research program, and a new Feed Technology curriculum and research program.

Ag students were able to enroll in the new Feed Technology curriculum for the first time this year. The new curriculum is in the Department of Milling Industry which has been renamed the Department of Flour and Feed Milling Industries.

Although construction has not started, plans are well underway on the new building to house the Feed Technology curriculum and research program. The board of regents approved an offer by the Feed Industry to donate $150,000 for a building and $50,000 more in equipment.

Present plans are to have the building attached to the east side of East Waters Hall. The building will be unique in that there will be no floors above the ground level. Steel beams will support machinery at various levels. This will permit students and visitors to step inside and view the entire layout at a glance.

The wheat mosaic research program received added impetus this year when the College received an increase of about $100,000 in State appropriations for their work. New greenhouses are being constructed and more personnel hired for the enlarged research program.

Associate Dean A. D. "Dad" Weber will become Dean of the School of Agriculture and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station upon Throckmorton's retirement July 1.

Throckmorton was appointed Dean in 1946. However, his retirement will not end his 40 years of service to the College, state, and nation. He plans to teach a course in soils, write Experiment Station bulletins, and continue as a consulting editor for Country Gentleman and consultant for the United States Department of Agriculture.

Aggies saw visions of moving into the new Ag Wing fade as construction lagged due to a lack of materials and bad weather conditions. The new Ag Wing which will connect East and West Waters Hall is now scheduled for completion in the fall of 1953.

C. W. MULLEN has been Assistant Ag School Dean 15 years.

ASSOCIATE DEAN of the Ag School is Dr. A. D. "Dad" Weber.

AWARDS won by K-State student judging teams over a period of years attest to the effective practical agricultural education a student traditionally receives at Kansas State College.

The K-State poultry team placed first at the National Collegiate Poultry judging contest in Chicago during the fall semester. Don Grisham and Don Bigge won awards for outstanding judging work in the contests. Professor Tom Avery is coach of the team.

At the American Royal, Larry Seaman, a senior in animal husbandry was top man in the American Royal Intercollegiate Livestock judging contest. K-State entered a grand champion pen of hogs. Four other breed championships were also captured by swine. The K-State livestock team placed sixth at the Royal with a total of 958 points out of 1,000. The team is coached by Don Good.

The Meats Team also placed sixth at the Royal. Coach of the four man team is Ralph Soule. This is the first team Prof. Soule has coached for K-State. He replaced Ed Margerum on the staff. Also, the meats team placed eleventh in the International Judging Contest. Other judging teams are pictured elsewhere in the book.

Representatives from the various Ag clubs compose the Ag Council. John Schovee was president during 1951-52. Ag Council activities included scheduling Ag Day and organizing a rodeo.

AG SCHOOL Department Heads are F. W. Atkeson, Dairy Husbandry; Rufus F. Cox, Animal Husbandry; Harold E. Myers, Agronomy; Loyal F. Payne, Poultry Husbandry; William F. Pickett, Horticulture; and John A. Shellenberger, Milling. Head of Agricultural Economics section of Economics and Sociology is George Montgomery, pictured on page 41.

SPRING SEMESTER saw the offices of the Dean of Arts and Sciences, the departments of English, Speech, Modern Languages, and History, Government, and Philosophy move into the newly completed $655,000 K-State classroom building, east of Anderson hall.

A & S offices move into classroom building

THE SCIENCE of human relations becomes more important as each day passes. All over the country colleges have recognized this and so are attempting to offer their students the basic principles of human needs. The student at K-State gets basic training in fields ranging from scientific advancement to radio production.

The ability to understand and express one's ideas and to develop tolerance for the ideas of others is necessary for modern global existence. It is a skill that modern colleges are attempting to develop in their students. At K-State the Arts and Sciences school has taken on this task of enlightening and broadening student's minds.

The School of Arts and Sciences is headed by Dean Rodney W. Babcock who is assisted by G. Orval Ebberts and Joe Eisenbach. This spring they moved into the new classroom building from Anderson hall. This was a major factor in the year's program. Anderson hall had housed the school since 1909.

There are 22 departments in the School of Arts and Sciences. This year Education and Psychology divided into two separate departments. Also forming a department of its own was Air Science after being separated from Military Science.

Creative students find an outlet for expression in the drama, fine arts, and literary sections of the school. Students studying foreign language not only gain an understanding of the life and customs of other countries but they are breaking down the language barriers. So trained, they will become tomorrow's diplomats and leaders of the world.

For all fields of applied science the student must know the basic principles of chemistry and physics. For this reason the departments of chemistry and physics work hand in hand.

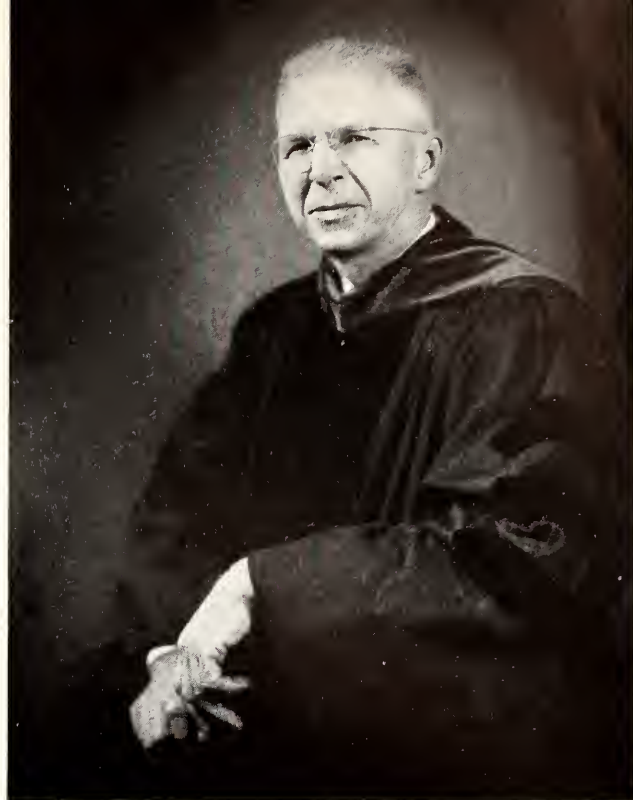

With the fundamentals of plant and animal growth so prominent in Kansas, it is not surprising that K-State has an outstanding biological science group.

In many fields the College has gained national recognition. The Institute of Citizenship sent delegates to conferences throughout the nation to participate in planning councils that are involved in ideas that will further education in the nation's colleges.

The radio section of the speech department got into full swing this year with the student non-commercial radio station, KSDB-FM. The station operates on a student participation basis.

K-State's music department presents a substantial music curriculum. The Bachelor of Music degree with majors in voice, piano, organ, violin, and orchestral instruments and a Bachelor of Music Education is offered.

Assistant Dean of Arts and Sciences G. Orval Ebberts answers questions in his private office in the classroom building.

The wealth of culture and the continuous opportunity for attending concerts, listening to operas, hearing and meeting musical artists, as well as participating in the choirs, choruses, band and orchestras and other musical groups, are presented by the Artist Series each year.

Also in the curriculum in humanities is an opportunity which provides students experience in creative and applied art. A program is offered also for students who wish to teach art.

Both theory and practice are given to physical education students by that department. Similarly, journalism students get a chance to apply their classroom-learned theories by working on Student Publications.

Courses in economics and sociology are found in both the School of Arts and Sciences and that of Agriculture.

Demand for engineering grads greatly

A LAND MARK is the Engineering and Architecture building located on the west side of the campus. Innumerable students pass by this ivy covered building every day to and from classes. The parking lot in front of the building is often lined with surveying students, while the steps are covered with students drawing the familiar landscape.

The school offers a standard, fully accredited training course in the fundamental fields of engineering under the guidance of Dean M. A. Durland, who also is director of the Engineering Experiment Station. Assistant Dean of Engineering and Architecture is Richard C. Potter.

M. A. DURLAND has completed two years as dean of Engineering and Architecture School.

The Engineering Experiment Station plays an important role in helping Kansas industries contact K-State engineering graduates. The station has three important jobs, the first being to promote engineering research in industry and the college. The second is to assist in the development of Kansas industries, and the third to promote friendly relationships between the College and the people of the State. The experiment station conducts industrial surveys for cities and towns of the State. These surveys are engineering investigations of facts which are of technical assistance to local industry.

Students in Engineering and Architecture have their own professional societies and publications for both men and women. Also, an Engineering Council governs many of the student activities, including Engineers Open House which attracts thousands of visitors to the campus each year. This year the civil engineers and the agricultural engineers took first and second prizes respectively for their displays.

The school offers curricula in architecture, industrial arts, agricultural, architectural, chemical, civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering. Options in these curriculums provide study in electronics, petroleum production, aeronautical, and industrial engineering.

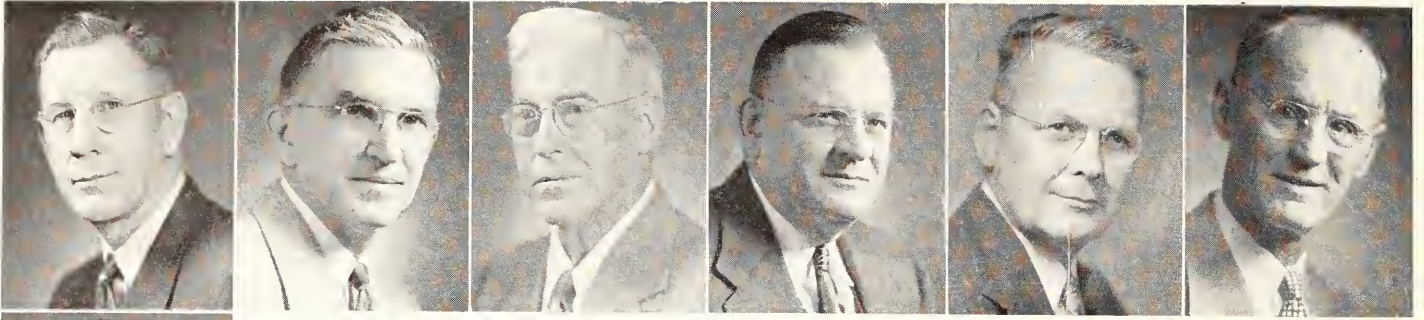

The school had an enrollment of 848 students, the lowest in several years. Approximately two years ago, the school was overcrowded and it was thought by many that engineering and architecture was an already crowded field. Many potential students were warned to keep away from the field because of its lack of job possibilities.

This year, about ten times as many job opportunities are open to engineering and architecture students as in previous years. The school has not been able to fill all the openings offered by the employers. Some engineers and architects have been called into the armed forces and industries have been expanded and created to meet war needs. These are main factors in the large demand.

Students in architecture get well-rounded instruction by building scale models and by obtaining practical experience during summer vacations on construction projects or in the offices of architects. The field of architecture includes supervision of building construction, general contracting, structural design, preparing plans, estimating costs, and writing specifications.

Since 1932 the school has operated an experimental television station. Hundreds of graduates have gone into radio engineering, and with the possibility of a television station on the campus in the next few years, facilities for training in that field will be greater than in previous years.

requires six years study

THE SCHOOL of Veterinary Medicine is recognized as the outstanding professional school on the campus. Dean Elden E. Leasure is head of this only selective school at K-State.

Enrollment is limited to 60 freshmen students each fall and these are selected from hundreds of resident and non-resident requests for admission to the School. Consideration for admission is given to scholastic records, background, character, and future possibilities as a veterinarian with first preference given to Kansas resident applicants.

The veterinary student must complete two years of pre-veterinary work and four years of professional study. The four years of professional study include classroom, laboratory and clinical practice. Upon graduation the degrees Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Veterinary Medicine are conferred.

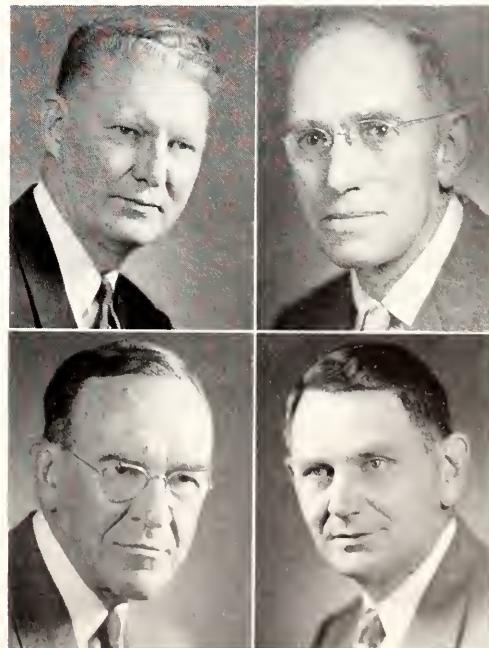

Professional students in veterinary medicine gain valuable experience in obstetrics, surgery and treatment of infectious diseases by working with the many breeds of animals presented in the School's modern clinic for diagnosis and treatment. Clinical patients are brought from Manhattan, surrounding farm areas, and from across the state.

The School of Veterinary Medicine is housed in Veterinary Hall and Veterinary Hospital. The 1951 Kansas Legislature appropriated one-half million dollars for a new veterinary hospital which will give the School adequate additional space for its large animal clinic and needed space for departmental expansion in the basic courses of anatomy, pathology, physiology, and pharmacology.

ELDEN E. LEASURE has been Dean of the Veterinary Medicine School since 1949.

THE THREE STORY, ivy covered Calvin hall is the home of K-State Home Economics School. The building, located on the southern portion of the campus, houses home economics administrators, classrooms, and laboratories.

STUDENTS in the School of Home Economics at K-State are concerned with quality of personal and family life expressed in courses designed to help the individual to understand social, intellectual, and physical needs, and to see the great position family life occupies in America.

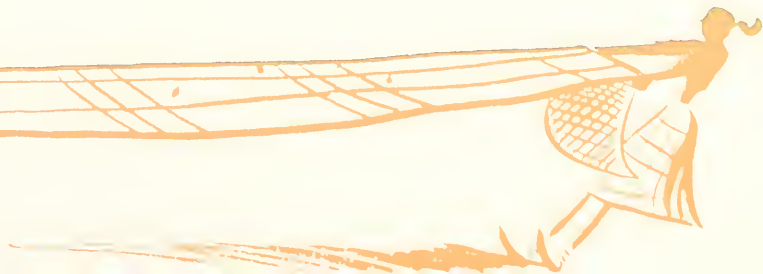

Home Economics courses emphasize the knowledge, appreciation, skills, and abilities needed to manage the business, recreation, and work of a home, so the home may serve as an effective setting for the life of a family group. Courses in art, clothing, family finance, foods, nutrition, and home management are included. Still other courses provide general education and the professional preparation needed by those entering lines of service directed toward strengthening and enriching American homes.

Among the many professions in home economics, the popular choices are home economics teaching, extension service, home advising, nursery school work, dietetics, nursing, medical technology, interior decorating, craft design, textile analysis, home economics journalism, food demonstrating, and homemaking.

Scholarships are made available to students in Home Ec by the Borden Company, Union Pacific Railroad, Kroger Company, Sears Roebuck Foundation, Daughters of the American Revolution, Home Economics club, Soroptomist club, Home Demonstration Council, Home Demonstration Agents, Kansas Congress of Parents and Teachers, Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs, and others.

There are eight major areas in the School of Home Economics, six of which are designated as the Departments of Art, Child Welfare and Euthenics, Clothing and Textiles, Food Economics and Nutrition, Household Economics, and Institutional Management. The seventh area is Home Economics Education and the eighth, Home Economics Journalism, carried cooperatively with the Departments of Education and Technical Journalism respectively.

Dr. Margaret M. Justin has been Dean of the School of Home Economics since 1923. Serving with her is Dr. Martha M. Kramer, Assistant Dean, and Miss Margaret E. Raffington, Counselor. The school maintains an instructional staff of approximately 75 members, including graduate assistants. Research conducted in the School includes projects in the Departments of Foods and Nutrition, Child Welfare and Euthenics, Institutional Management, Clothing and Textiles, and Household Economics.

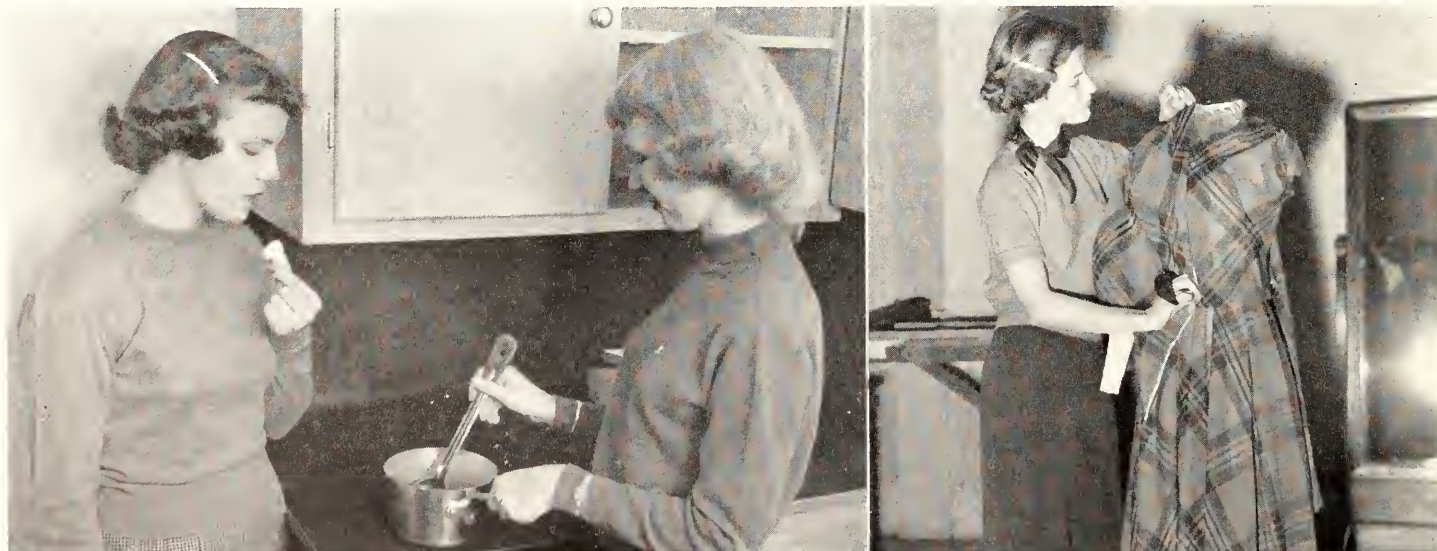

The administrative offices of the School are in Calvin hall, an ivy covered limestone building which serves as headquarters for 653 undergraduate and 35 graduate students. Other space assigned the school includes Thompson hall, much of the second floor of Anderson hall, and three home management housing units. The nursery school is housed in rented quarters in Manhattan.

Each year the Home Ec girls take time out from their studies to plan and sponsor a formal dance, the Snow Ball. At the ball the girls elect and crown the "Favorite Man on the Campus." This year they elected Charles Esslinger and crowned him under a ceiling of hanging icicles. Also part of the decorations was a huge snowman constructed by the students. Attendants to the FMOC were Charles Bascom and Bob Rousey.

Each April the School holds its annual Hospitality Days.

Beforehand, students from each department prepare exhibits showing their work and current class projects. In 1951, students from Household Economics were awarded first place for their exhibits, students from Child Welfare, second place, and Nursing, third place.

During Hospitality Days special programs and exhibits are presented which demonstrate the roles which home economics plays in the school, home, and community. For the fashion show college girls model garments they have designed and made in clothing classes. Each year thousands of high school students travel to Manhattan for the event. The twenty-second annual event was held April 25-26.

The sixteen-member Home Economics Executive Council, advised by Miss Margaret Raffington, does much of the basic planning and organizational work for Hospitality Days. Girls on the council represent the various departments in the School. The council also works hand-in-hand with the Home Economics Club.

DR. MARTHA KRAMER is assistant home economics dean. She has held her present position six years.

n industry, education

RESPONSIBILITY for the advancement of knowledge lies in the Graduate School, under the direction of Dr. Harold Howe.

The Graduate School prepares students for positions on college staffs, in high schools, and in private industry. Much graduate work is done through graduate assistantships available in most departments of the college or through research work.

The main objective of the school is training students for positions requiring degrees which show extensive study beyond undergraduate levels of work. Positions in most institutions of higher learning and in most research laboratories demand a minimum of a master's degree. Some colleges and universities, K-State included, now require the degree of Doctor of Philosophy for appointment as a professor.

The school first opened in 1931, and has shown a steady increase in student enrollment since the college has expanded. This year there were 338 students enrolled in graduate studies.

All graduate students are members of the Graduate Student's Association. Its representatives have a voice in the administration of the school. The main administrative body for the school, however, is the Graduate Council, with Dr. Howe as chairman.

Graduate work is offered both semesters of the regular college year and during the summer session. Fifty-six salaried graduate assistantships and fellowships are available for students who wish to earn part of their expenses by working part time as laboratory or research assistants. The Manhattan branch of the A.A.U.W. maintains a loan fund which is available to women doing graduate work.

The degree of Master of Science is offered in 54 fields. The Doctor of Philosophy degree is offered in bacteriology, chemistry, genetics, entomology, milling industry, parasitology, foods, agronomy, animal nutrition, applied mechanics, botany, and physics.

The school furnishes a competent staff of specialists in each field that students may go to for advice and assistance. Students are given ample opportunity and library facilities for a wide range of study beyond the immediate field covered by their courses. The college library contains more than 145,000 bound volumes and approximately 1,300 periodicals to help them in their advanced professional and cultural training.

More than 2,400 Master of Science and 50 Doctor of Philosophy degrees have been conferred by K-State since the graduate school was originated in 1931. Many of these graduates are among the nation's outstanding scientists and professional people.

Dr. HAROLD HOWE is Dean of the Graduate School and adviser to the Graduate Council.

L. C. WILLIAMS has been Dean and Director of K-State's Extension Service for five years.

College extension serves

A DEFINITE PART of the educational facilities of K-State, the Division of College Extension, plays an important role which covers all phases of good living, security, education, health, recreation and spiritual well-being for the residents of the state.

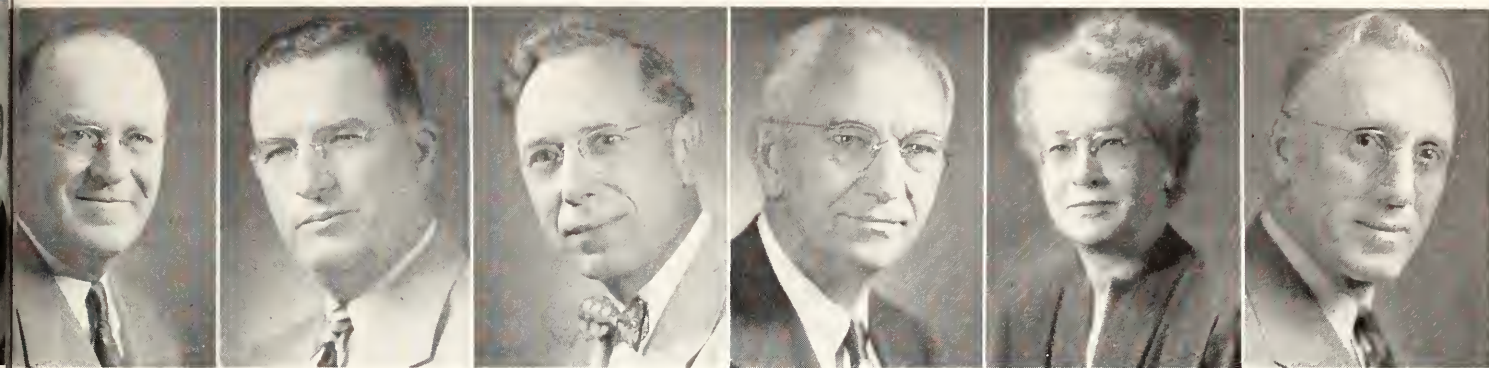

L. C. Williams, Dean of the Extension Division, also is director of the Agricultural Extension Service. As Director of Extension, he represents both the College and the Department of Agriculture.

Opportunities for leadership training are provided by Georgiana Smurthwaite, head of Home Economics in Extension. Supervising and helping the home demonstration units that are now active in Kansas is an important part of the division's work. With the help of home demonstration agents and extension specialists, programs are developed which will aid the units in constructive education. A main part of the home economics program is 4-H work, which aids youth in becoming better citizens and farm residents.

The program of extension study is handled by the Home Study Service, headed by Jesse M. Schall. Courses are offered in many subjects at both high school and college levels. The department maintains a full time faculty which is responsible for instruction and grading papers for the corresponding students.

Developing farm architecture has become an important part of the service's far reaching program. Heading Engineering Extension is John Ferguson. Principles of engineering which may be applied to agriculture have had a great increase since the department was started in 1910. Subjects include farm electrification, water conservation, drainage, irrigation, and general farm engineering activities.

KSAC, the radio voice of K-State, is administered and financed by the Extension Service. The station takes to its listeners the results of research at the College, and reports progress made by farmers and homemakers in applying scientific practices for the improvement of rural life. Lisle Longsdorf heads Extension Information and communicates with the people of Kansas through bulletins and KSAC programs to give them the latest findings of the College.

Agricultural specialists are headed by associate dean Paul W. Griffith, who is also in charge of the program and arrangements for farm and home week, the scheduling of judges for county fairs, and statewide farm meetings.

PAUL W. GRIFFITH represents the college as Assistant Dean of Extension and Agricultural Specialist.

Find 1951-52 a busy school term

THE STUDENT COUNCIL, student governing association at K-State, spent a busy year getting the new constitution in working order. A few school councils were newly organized when it went into effect late in October and two were revised.

Ten students were elected to seats on the council early in the Spring. Two council members graduated in January and were replaced by Patricia Coad and John Schovee. The number of members on the governing body is determined by college enrollment. Each school is represented according to its individual enrollment.

Don Biggs was president of the council this year. The other officers were: Robert McCaustland, vice-president; Ernest Ikenberry, treasurer; Dolores Salmans, recording secretary; and Dwight Gilliland, corresponding secretary.

STUDENT PLANNING COMMITTEE Co-Chairmen for 1951 were (insert, top) Jane McKee and (lower) Ross Roepke. Committee chairmen included (standing) Charles Bascom, Stuart Whitcomb, Dwight Gilliland, Bill Brennan, (sitting) Monna Schaper, Ross Roepke, Jane McKee, Don Hopkins, Dave McFarland, Dolores Salmans, and Bill Hoppes.

UNDER THE CO-CHAIRMANSHIP of Jane McKee and Ross Roepke the Student Planning Conference at K-State has accomplished a great deal in a large scale program of cooperation between students and faculty.

Students and faculty attended an annual conference at Camp Wood, Elmdale, Kansas, early in September to discuss suggestions for changes and modifications in college policy. This year the students were rained out and many returned home early, but despite the abrupt adjournment of the camp, many proposals were submitted to the college administration. Proposals which were submitted were on both a long range and immediate basis.

INTRODUCED this year was a Tribunal Council under the chancellorship of Roger Brislawn. The council's main jobs were to determine parking violations on the campus, to enforce the college honor code, and to carry out the academic honesty program. The ten man council came into effect with the adoption of the new student government constitution in October. The Tribunal replaced the Academic Honesty Board.

The Campus Development Committee, headed by Dean R. A. Seaton, had the important job of establishing building priorities for which K-State will petition the State legislature for building appropriations during future years. The committee recommends locations for all new campus buildings and takes

The Student Union Committee, a sub-committee of the Campus Development Committee, had a trying year as its members tried to develop plans for the proposed Kansas State Union which would meet with approval of students, alumni, and faculty members. Their task was complicated when a group of architecture students raised special objections to the architect's plans for the structure. Nation-wide steel shortages and government building controls were another factor in delaying adoption of plans and construction of the Union.

The Temporary Student Union Governing Committee supervised the operation of the temporary union and determined

The Apportionment Board was replaced this year when R. A. Jones was appointed Dean of Finance. Dean Jones has the important job of determining where each dollar of the student activity fund is to go.

The All-College Social and Recreational Committee went into its fourth successful year of planning and administering student social activities. On October 12, they brought Woody Herman to K-State for a concert and dance. Later in March, they sponsored a concert and dance by Stan Kenton, popular dance band leader, nationally known for his "progressive jazz" arrangements. Betty Williams was chairman of the committee.

RECENT industrial growth in the Midwest has brought larger and more progressive cities. Kansas City, Kansas is a commendable example.

Sorority girls go in for grades and glamour. The five-some to the upper left are all looking at one professor with both grades and glamour in mind, for, as you cannot see, he is as yet happily unmarried. These girls are more subtle than they look, and if he is not careful, one of them will become a faculty wife, and maybe president of the drama section of A. A. U. W.

Alpha Chi Omega

ALPHA CHI's thrive on campus-wide organizations. The lyre-wearing gals hold offices in Orchesis, Purple Pepsters, Theta Sigma Phi, All-College Political Party, and Child Welfare club. Membership in A Cappella Choir, Omicron Nu, Alpha Delta Theta, WAA, YWCA, Collegiate 4-H, and SPC are further Alpha Chi attainments.

At Christmas the girls don skirts and ski sweaters, and frost the windows of their home at 615 Fairchild Terrace for the annual "Shovelin' Inn" house party. Spring brings the Paradise Prom.

Christmas carols, Alpha Chi style, were sung for servicemen in the Fort Riley post hospital. The pledges, at a spring party for handicapped children, had as much fun as their guests.

Founded nationally in 1885, Alpha Chi Omega has 77 chapters. Gamma Zeta chapter, installed in 1947, is the newest along K-State's "Sorority Row."

Claire Walker was president for the 1951-52 school year.

Alpha Chi's sound their A for a self-appointed song leader.

Alpha Delta Pi

THE A D Pi's can boast of having three campus organization presidencies — those of Whi-Purs, Frog club, and UNESCO.

Two A D Pi's are cheerleaders and one is listed in Who's Who. The honorary ROTC lieutenant colonel was an A D Pi as was one Barn-warmer queen attendant.

There are 80 chapters of Alpha Delta Pi, which was founded in 1851 in Macon, Georgia. The K-State chapter, Alpha Eta, was founded in 1915 and Suzie Wiley and Carol Axline were first and second semester presidents.

Alpha Xi Delta

ALPHA XI's sang their way to second place in the 1951 Interfraternity Sing. Second honors for Y-Orpheum also went to K-State's Alpha Kappa chapter.

"Queenly" is the word for this group which boasts five queens and attendants chosen from Alpha Xi ranks this year—Homecoming Queen, Barnwarmer Queen, St. Patricia, and attendants to the Royal Purple and Flush Bowl Queens.

Almost every field of extracurricular activity has Alpha Xi's as members or officers. The girls who wear the quill belong to WAA, Radio Guild, FTA, Mu Phi Epsilon, Alpha Delta Theta, A Cappella Choir, K-State Players, YWCA, Orchesis, and Home Ec. clubs.

Pink roses hold sway at the Alpha Xi Delta Pink Rose Formal held each spring.

A traditional Christmas dinner-dance is held at the chapter house at 601 Fairchild Terrace.

Alpha Xi Delta was founded in 1893 and now includes 76 chapters. The local group was established in 1922.

Joan Conover was chapter president for the first semester. President for second semester of 1951-52 was Doris Schwab.

Alpha Xi's give some primping assistance before a big date.

Chi O's show varying degrees of interest in their books.

Chi Omega

THE CHI OMEGAS started a busy fall by working on the Homecoming decorations that won second place. A Chi O was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, one was vice-president of Phi Alpha Mu, and another was women's director of KSDB-FM. One cheerleader was a Chi O, as was the '51 women's tennis intramurals champ and the Dream Girl of Pi K A.

In November the gals at 1803 Laramie had fun at their annual Hay Hop. Then in spring the chapter won approval with its White Carnation ball.

Chi O was founded 1895 nationally and in 1915 at K-State. K-State's Kappa Alpha chapter is one of 112. Jo Ellen Stark and Marilyn Benz were chapter presidents this year.

Clovia

A LIKE-NEW Clovia house greeted guests this year as the girls at 303 North Sixteenth had their house redecorated and modernized.

On campus Clovias belonged to Mortar Board, Who's Who, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Alpha Mu, Purple Pepsters, WAA, and one of them was on the Tribunal.

Clovias practically had a monopoly on the Collegiate 4-H offices. The president, secretary-treasurer, song leader, and pianist were all Clovias. Another Clovia was attendant to the Ag Barnwarmer Queen.

When it comes to parties, Clovia's formal Crystal Ball is a social high spot. Clovias also entertained extension personnel at a tea this year.

The presidents of K-State's chapter of Clovia were Mary Ann Miller during first semester and Ellen Banman second semester. There are two Clovia chapters and 1931 is the date of the founding of Alpha chapter at K-State.

Clovia's enjoy perusing their scrapbook of chapter activities.

Tri Delts festoon the stairway with a special Yuletide touch.

Delta Delta Delta

DELTA DELTA DELTA copped scholarship honors for both semesters of the 1950-51 school year with the highest average ever recorded for an organized house at K-State.

The crescent-wearing Tri Delts earned a generous share of campus queenships—Military Ball Queen and Barnwarmer and Flush Bowl attendants.

A cigarette theme took third place in Homecoming decorations for the chapter, which lives at 1834 Laramie.

Membership in a bevy of honoraries and activities keep Tri Delts hoppin'. Who's Who, Mortar Board, Prix, SPC, Student Council, and YWCA all claim Tri Delts as members.

Delta Delta Delta was founded in 1888. K-State's Theta Iota chapter, one of 94, was installed in 1915. Myra Gulick, first semester, and Doris Mauk, second semester, presided.

Kappa Delta

THE KD's are proud of their combination Homecoming Queen attendant and Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. They also look with pride on their sister who won an "Oscar" for her acting ability with the K-State Players.

In February the KD's held their annual Emerald Ball which was climaxed with the singing of the traditional Kappa Delt Sweetheart song. More entertaining was done by the Kappa Delt as they held a banquet to honor their national president when she visited K-State's Sigma Gamma chapter. A Founders' Day banquet and several house parties rounded out the KD social calendar.

Special projects were numerous this year as Kappa Delta held Halloween, Christmas, and Easter parties—complete with all trimmings—for Manhattan children who would not otherwise have had such joyous holidays. Kappa Delt were busy in campus organizations too.

Kappa Delta has 81 chapters and was founded in 1897. K-State's chapter began life in 1920. Alleta Ecord is president.

Kappa Delt enjoy the food and conversation by candlelight.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

THE GIRLS who wear the Kappa key spent a busy year in 1951-52 being members of honoraries Mortar Board, Prix, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Delta Theta, Phi Alpha Mu and Mu Phi Epsilon.

The Board of Student Publications, the Tribunal, Orchesis, K-State Players, SPC, A Cappella choir, Frog club, Bridge club, UNESCO, WAA, YW, the Royal Purple staff, Psychology club, Student Art league, Business Students association, and debate squad claimed still more Kappas. They were campus queens too. The Royal Purple queen and the first attendant to the Ag Barnwarmer queen were KKG's. Off-campus Kappa activities included giving toys and food to the Manhattan Soroptimist club day nursery at Christmastime and being hostess to 28 alumnae groups and eight active chapters at a province convention last spring.

Socially, Kappas were active with their chapter picnic, faculty tea, winter and spring houseparties and spring formal.

Sally Jo Denton and Charleen Dunn were Gamma Alpha chapter presidents. Kappa was founded in 1870 at Monmouth, Ill.; K-State's chapter was established in 1916. There are 82 Kappa chapters.

Issues a rush booklet at K-State

THE PURPOSE of the Interfraternity Council is to coordinate and regulate interfraternity activities.

The Council, in conjunction with Panhellenic Council, sponsors giving trophies for the winning and placing Homecoming house decorations and for Interfraternity Sing. It also gives a cup to the fraternity on campus with the highest scholarship.

Another Council project is an annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Manhattan. Also, the Council issues a rush booklet about the College and fraternities. This is sent to high schools and individual rushees before rush week. A dinner meeting with Panhellenic is another yearly feature.

This year four delegates from the K-State Interfraternity Council were sent to Old Point Comfort, Va., to the National Council conference.

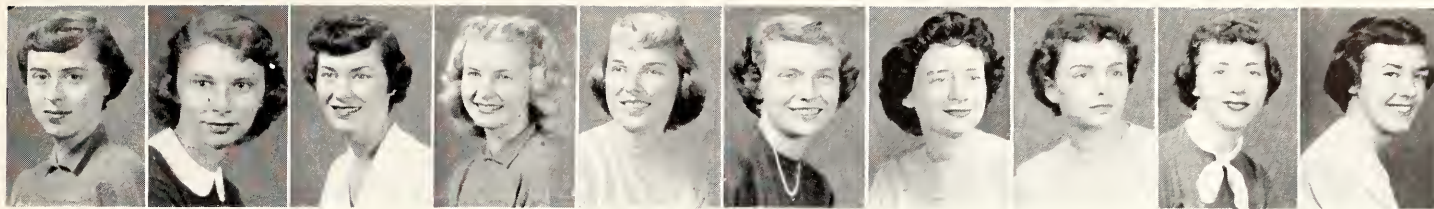

King Cole is president of the Council. Prof. Merton Otto is faculty sponsor.

Panhell sets rushing rules

THE WOMEN'S Panhellenic Association seeks to coordinate the activities of social sororities with those of the College. Rules governing rushing are set up by Panhellenic through discussion among members, representatives of each of the nine K-State sororities. Bev Lewis was president, succeeded in the office by Doris Wolgast in April. Miss Dorothy Hamer was faculty sponsor of the group.

INTERFRATERNITY PLEDGE COUNCIL works to encourage better relationships between the 31 pledge classes of K-State's "Greekdom." The group supervises the campaign and election of the Pledge King and Queen, presented at the annual pledge dance, the Tag and Drag. Members are representatives from each of the Greek sororities and fraternities. President for 1951-52 was Max Entrikin. Paul Smith was faculty adviser.

Fraternities

Here are five college men trying to look aware of— well, aware of themselves and how unhappy five or thirty beautiful college women must be while the artist is doing the best he can with them. These men have neckties on, and how precisely their hair is combed! Eventually they will marry five of the unhappy but beautiful girls and become ordinary husbands.

Acacia

K-STATE's chapter of Acacia is one of the 42 chapters founded nationally in 1904. The local chapter, living at 340 North Sixteenth, was established in 1913.

A new house is the dream of every Acacia member "if only Uncle Sam would stop interfering."

The vice-presidency of the senior class is held by an Acacia member. Another Acacia wields the gavel as president of the Ag Economics club.

A string of departmental honoraries claims "Acacians" as members—Sigma Tau, Alpha Zeta, Alpha Kappa Psi, Scabbard and Blade, Arnold Air Society, and A Cappella Choir.

The Acacia social season was highlighted by the annual Black and Gold formal November ninth. Climaxing the spring season was the April 5 dinner-dance.

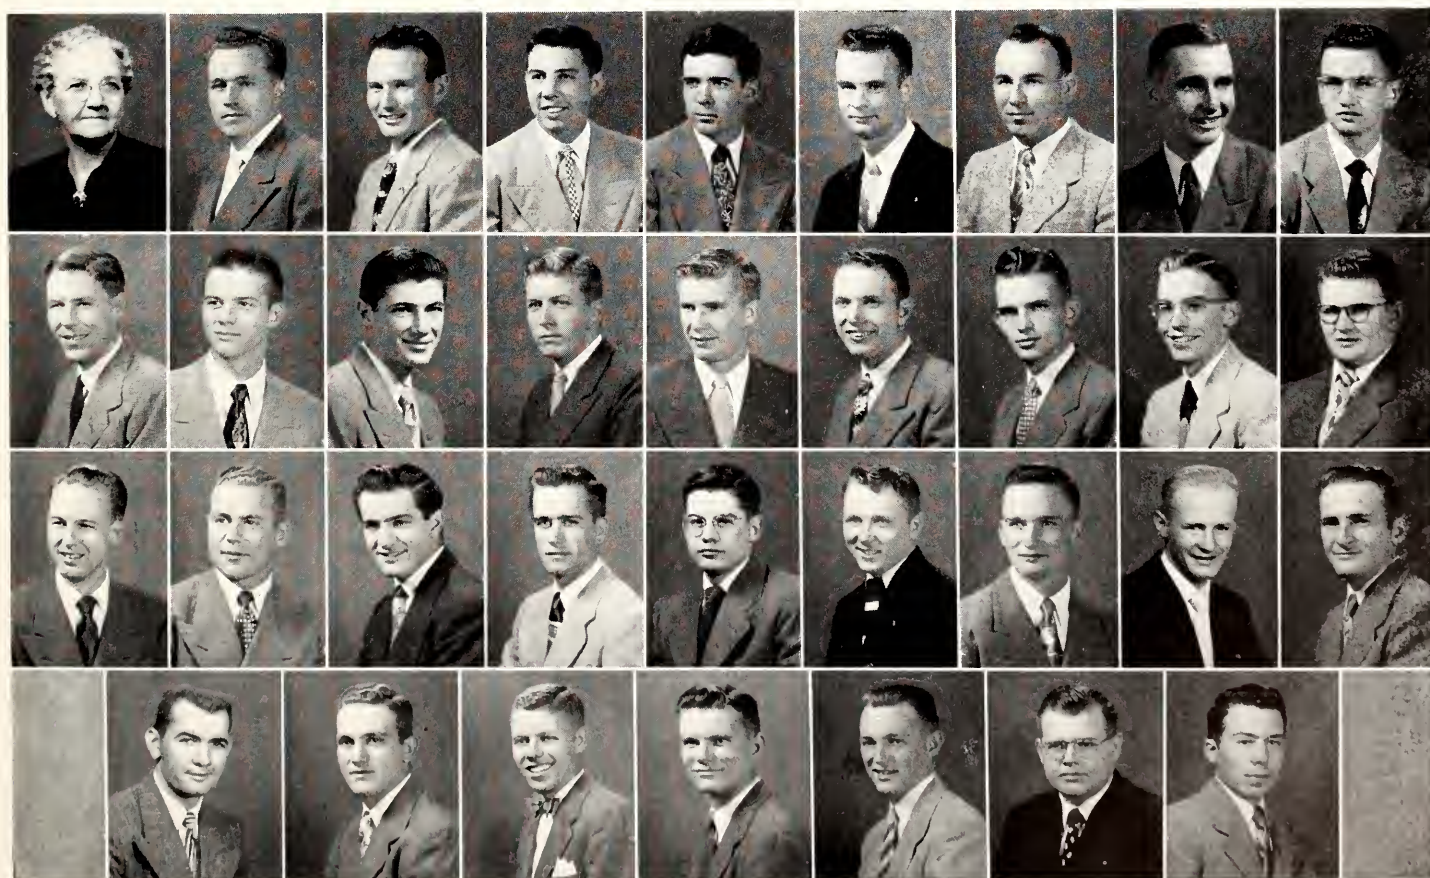

Bill Kvasnicka was president for the first semester. Spring semester activities were presided over by Doyle Peaslee.

AEPi members take time for a "brief musical interlude."

Alpha Epsilon Pi

THE FIRST chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi was organized November 7, 1913 at New York University as a means of drawing male Jewish students closer together. Since 1913, AEPi has integrated with several lesser organizations until today, with 61 active chapters, it has become the largest Jewish fraternity in the nation.

AEPi was established at K-State in May of 1949, boasting 15 charter members. By the fall of 1950, the membership had increased to 24 and the chapter was participating in campus and city programs, drives, and activities.

However, the decrease in college enrollment brought about a proportional decrease in the matriculation of Jewish students at K-State. This, in addition to a large number of graduating seniors, meant a drop in active fraternity membership, with only eight returning last fall. Because of the small number a temporary unofficial inactive status was instituted. After selling the chapter house the boys moved into private homes.

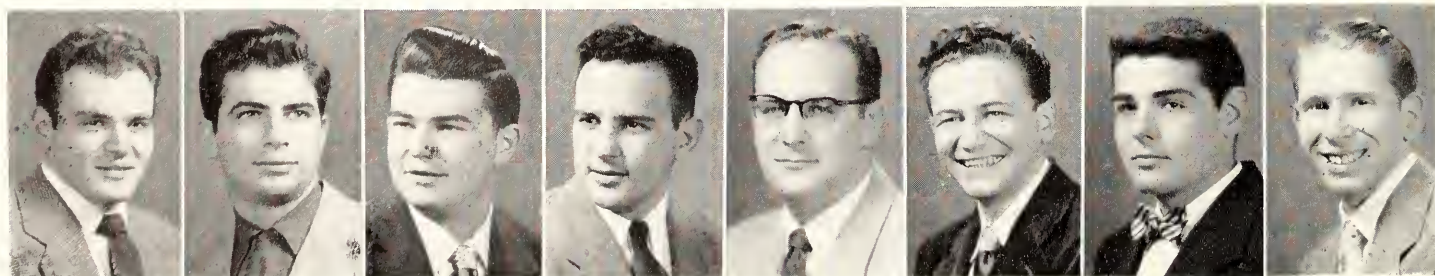

With the exception of two, who are from Manhattan, the members of AEPi come from the East. There are representatives of the Bronx, Newark, N. J., New Rochelle, N. Y., and Brooklyn. K-State is known in the East for its schools of architecture and veterinary medicine. This factor topped with an urge to travel and see the states has sent many an interested Eastern student to apply for admission here.

AEPi now claims both the president and vice-president of Hillel Foundation in Howard Falick and Stuart Segall. Harris Miller is a member of Phi Kappa Phi. Other members are active in Arnold Air Society, Wampus Cats, and various religious conferences.

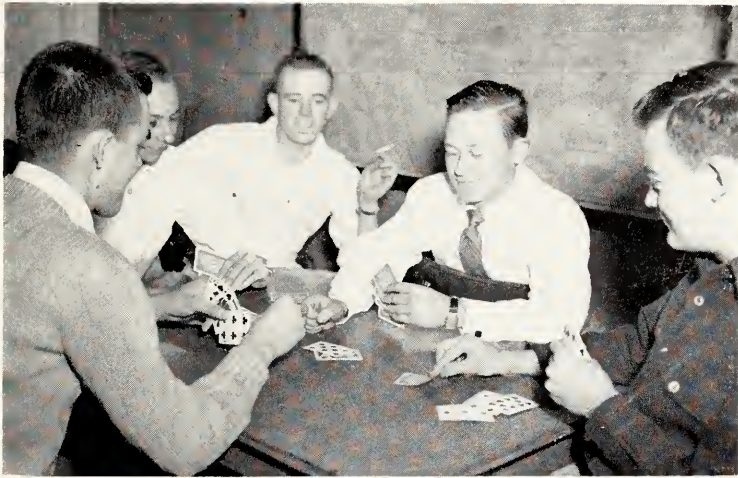

The AEPi's still have their charter and though they are inactive at present they are planning a rush program to bring more Jewish boys to this campus. They are confidently planning to set the chapter back on its feet in the near future.

KAPPA SIGMA Chapter

Alpha Gamma Rho

THE PRESIDENTS of the Interfraternity council, Block and Bridle, Junior AVMA, and of the Dairy club all are AGR's.

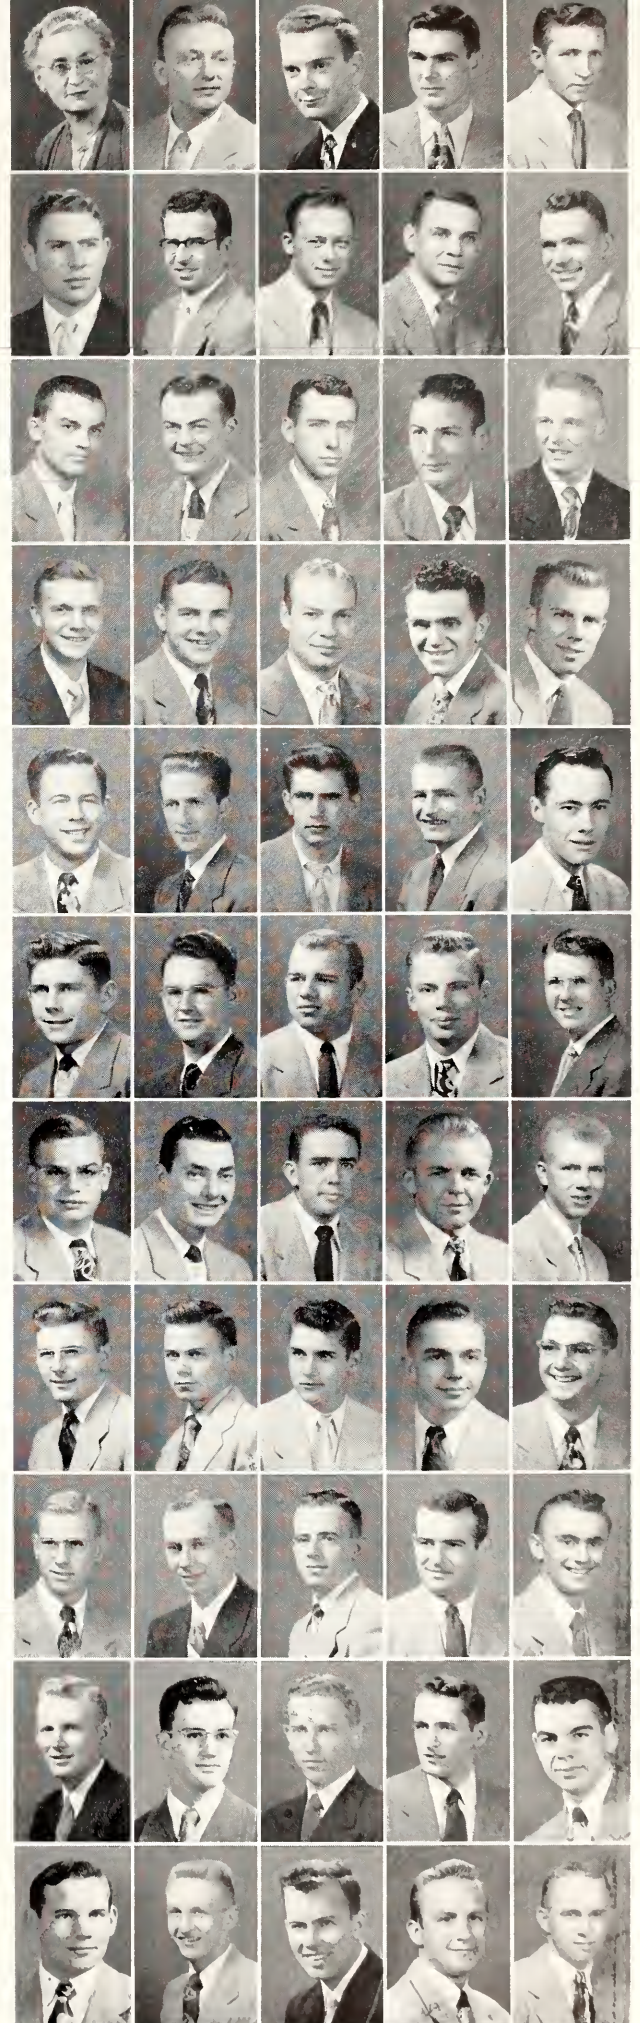

There are also AGR's in Alpha Zeta, Wampus Cats, Sigma Delta Chi, Young Republicans, Collegiate 4-H, Horticulture club, and Rifle club.

K-State's chapter of AGR, named Alpha Zeta, highlighted its social season with the Pink Rose formal and with a roulette party in the fall. The AGR's also entertained with a sister-sweetheart dinner.

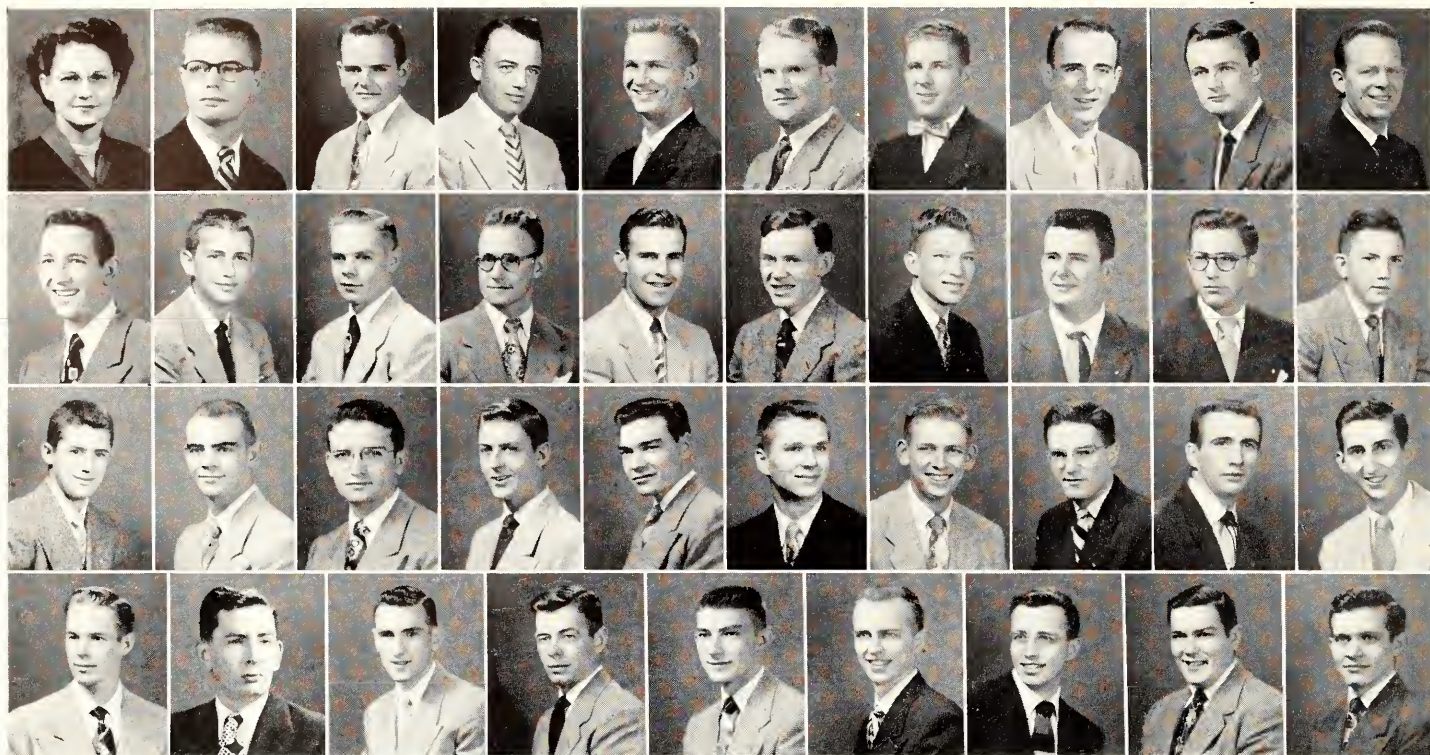

Founded in 1908, Alpha Gamma Rho came to the K-State campus in 1927. There are 35 chapters. Dale Evans is AGR president.

IOTA Chapter

AKL's and cook take time from dishes for a little horseplay.

Alpha Kappa Lambda

ALPHA KAPPA LAMBDA members substituted Help Week for Hell Week as a more constructive program for a fraternity. New initiates cleaned a flood-damaged Manhattan church as their first project.

Members are active in Phi Kappa Phi, Delta Sigma Chi, Sigma Tau, Steel Ring, Eta Kappa Nu, Alpha Phi Omega, and Pershing Rifles.

Other AKL's keep busy with A Cappella Choir, Madrigal Singers and Newman and Masonic clubs.

The annual Alpha Kappa Lambda Crystal Ball was a December event and the spring formal was held May 9. Hour dances and stag events were also crowded into a busy social season.

The chapter house at 413 North Seventeenth was the scene as be-costumed AKL's entertained their dates at their own northern edition of a famous New Orleans event—the Mardi Gras houseparty, held February 8.

K-State's Iota chapter is one of fourteen chapters of Alpha Kappa Lambda founded at the University of California in 1914. The local group was established in 1930. Leighton Fairbairn was first semester president. President for second semester was Ralph E. Comiskey.

ATO's take it easy in their newly decorated pink living room.

Alpha Tau Omega

HOMECOMING decorations entitled "Flip the Buffalo" won third place for the ATO's. Social activities included two formals—the White Tea Rose Ball and the Blackfoot-Whitefoot, given jointly with the Sigma Nu's, and a costume Frontier party. "Pyramus and Thisbe" was the winning skit in the 1952 Y-Orpheum. Members of Alpha Tau Omega served as presidents of Interfraternity Council and Wampus Cats. Other ATO's are members of Alpha Zeta, Phi Epsilon Kappa, Delta Phi Delta, Scabbard and Blade, Arnold Air Society, Wampus Cats, Chaparajos, Junior AVMA, AIA, Collegiate 4-H, and Dairy club.

Beta Sigma Psi's make monopoly of the phone impossible.

Beta Sigma Psi

FOUNDED at K-State in March, 1951, Beta Sigma Psi has already made a good impression on campus with members in Who's Who, Blue Key, Alpha Zeta, Junior AVMA, Arnold Air Society, Scabbard and Blade, Steel Ring, Plow and Pen, Pershing Rifles, Block and Bridle, Poultry club, ASME, K-Fraternity, Sigma Gamma Epsilon, K-State Amateur Radio club, Student Industrial Arts association, Gamma Delta, Lutheran Students association, Ag Education club, and Collegiate 4-H.

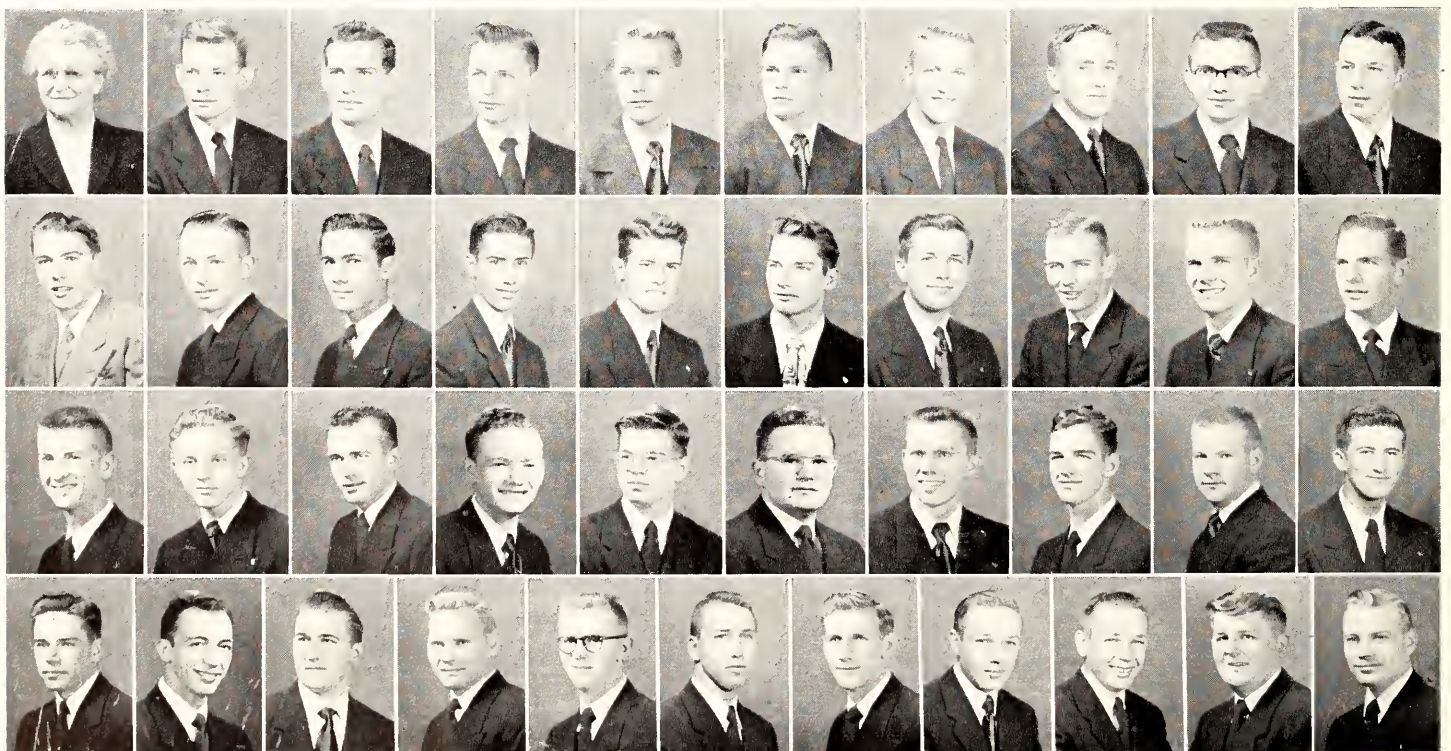

The Beta Sigma Psi's helped with flood clean-up work this year.

Beta Sigma Psi was founded in 1925 at the University of Illinois. There are now six chapters, one of which is K-State's Zeta chapter.

Leonard Anderson was the first semester president and Ed Hauer wielded the gavel for the second semester.

Beta's are probably tuning up for Interfraternity Sing.

Beta Theta Pi

BETA's are proud of their record of 19 out of 20 firsts in the annual Interfraternity Sing, including the 1951 trophy.

Founded nationally in 1839 and at K-State in 1914, Gamma Epsilon chapter was champion in the fraternity basketball intramurals this year. Members claim presidencies of the All-College Party and Sigma Delta Chi, and the Royal Purple editorship. Others are members of Who's Who, Blue Key, and K-State Players.

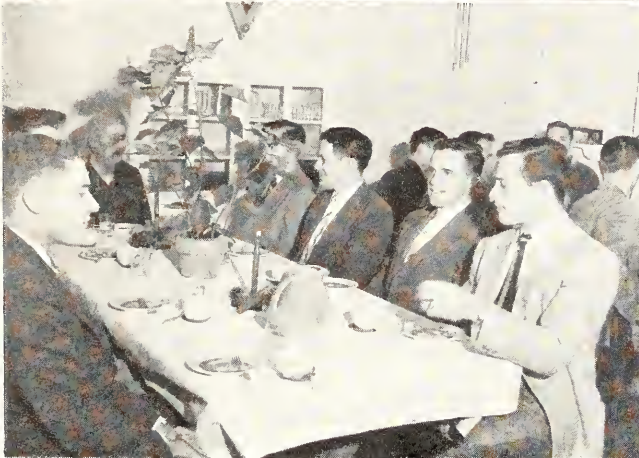

Socially the Betas kept busy with the Li'l Abner party at the house, 500 Sunset. The Beta Pig Dinner-dance and the Beta barbeque completed the social season. Presidents were Bill Amstein, first semester, and Dick Stryker, second semester.

Delta Sigs find lingering after-dinner conversation congenial

Delta Sigma Phi

THE FRATERNITY's national convention in San Francisco was attended by three delegates from Delta Sigma Phi's Alpha Upsilon chapter. The fraternity was founded in 1899 and K-State's chapter, one of 73, in 1925.

A full schedule of entertaining makes Delta Sig one of the most social-happy groups. The fall Apache party and spring Sailors' ball, a Spring formal and Founders' Day celebration round out the social season.

Delta Sigs hold office in Collegiate 4-H, belong to the livestock judging team, track team, Pershing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade, and Sigma Gamma Epsilon.

More than two gallons of Delta Sig "blue-blood" were contributed to the Red Cross during the fall campaign at K-State.

Nothing pleases Delta Sigs more than to show the plans for the new house they hope to build "some day."

Second semester president at 1642 Fairchild was Ray Burns. Ivan Schmedemann was first semester president.

ALPHA UPSILON Chapter

Delts learn "how it's done" from a pigskin authority.

Delta Tau Delta

DELTS, active in sports, this year took the hard-fought fraternity intramural football championship. But Delta Tau talents don't stop at sports. The chapter won second in the '51 Interfraternity Sing. Delts belong to the Engineer magazine staff, track team, Pershing Rifles, Alpha Zeta, Wampus Cats, A Cappella Choir, band, Steel Ring, K-State Players, Chaparajos club, and Eta Kappa Nu.

Social activities at 1414 Fairchild included the traditional paddle party, a Christmas party, and a spring formal.

Jim Linger and Wendell Jacobs were presidents of Gamma Chi chapter which began locally in 1919, nationally in 1858. There are 82 chapters.

GAMMA CHI Chapter

Farm House

BESIDES their chapter's annual first place scholarship, the Farm House men also took many honors individually.

This year's FMOC, the high individual at the American Royal, a Borden scholarship winner, the SPC chairman, Blue Key members, and three Who's Who members are Farm House men.

Other fraternity members are in Alpha Zeta, Klod and Kernel, Block and Bridle, the Dairy club, Collegiate 4-H, and on the Little American Royal committee and Ag Council. And there were Farm House men on the crops, livestock, and meats judging teams which participated at the International Livestock show and at the Royal. Farm House also had representatives on the Denver judging teams.

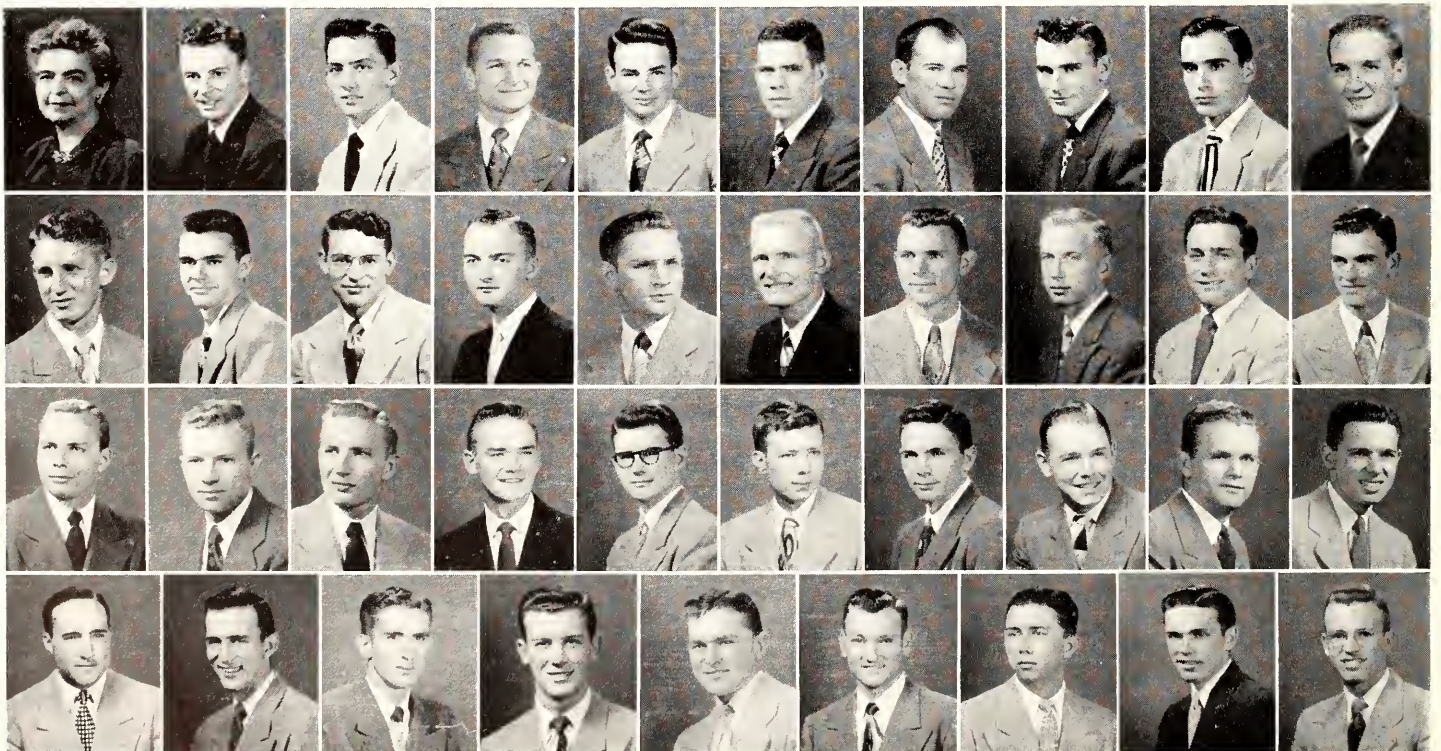

Two parties are annual Farm House affairs: a Christmas house party—complete with decorations and gifts—and an April formal.

There are eleven chapters of Farm House. It was founded nationally in 1905 and at K-State in 1921.

Henry Gardiner and Douglas Fell were first and second semester presidents, respectively.

INTRAMURALS are a top activity of Kappa Alpha Psi members who live at 915 Colorado.

Top man on the totem pole is Kappa Alpha Psi Veryl Switzer, who was awarded All-American honors for the 1951 football season.

Though small and young among K-State fraternities, Kappa Alpha Psi takes an active part in campus extra-curricular activities. Members belong to the YMCA, Cosmopolitan club, Phi Epsilon Kappa, Poultry club, and Pershing Rifles.

The annual Black and White Ball highlights the group's social season. Spring heralds the fraternity's spring formal.

When Christmastime rolled 'round, Kappa Alpha Psi members all but donned white whiskers and red flannel to play Santa Claus for the children at Douglas elementary school. Such a Christmas party is an annual project for Kappa Alpha Psi's Beta Psi chapter.

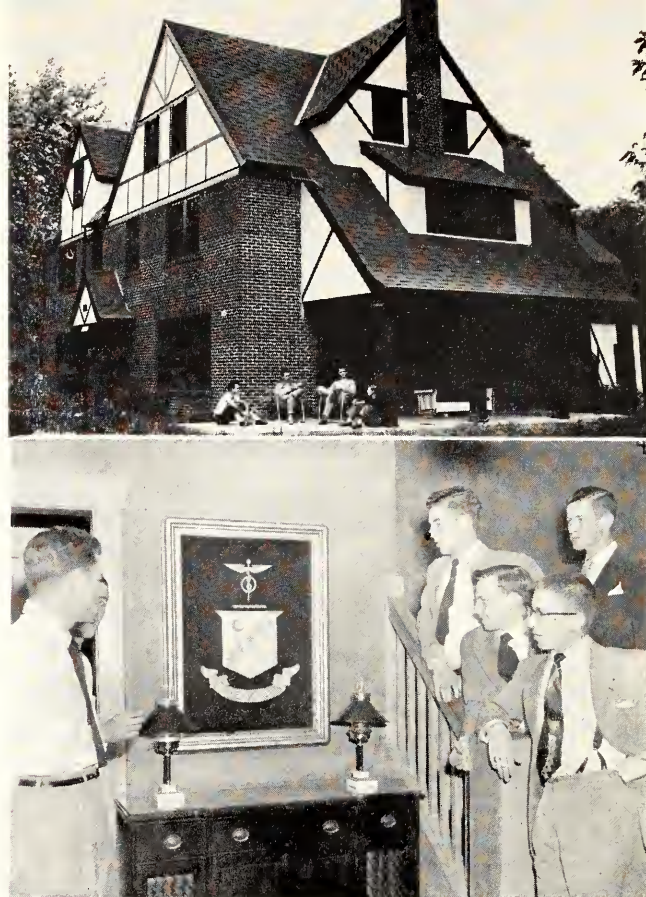

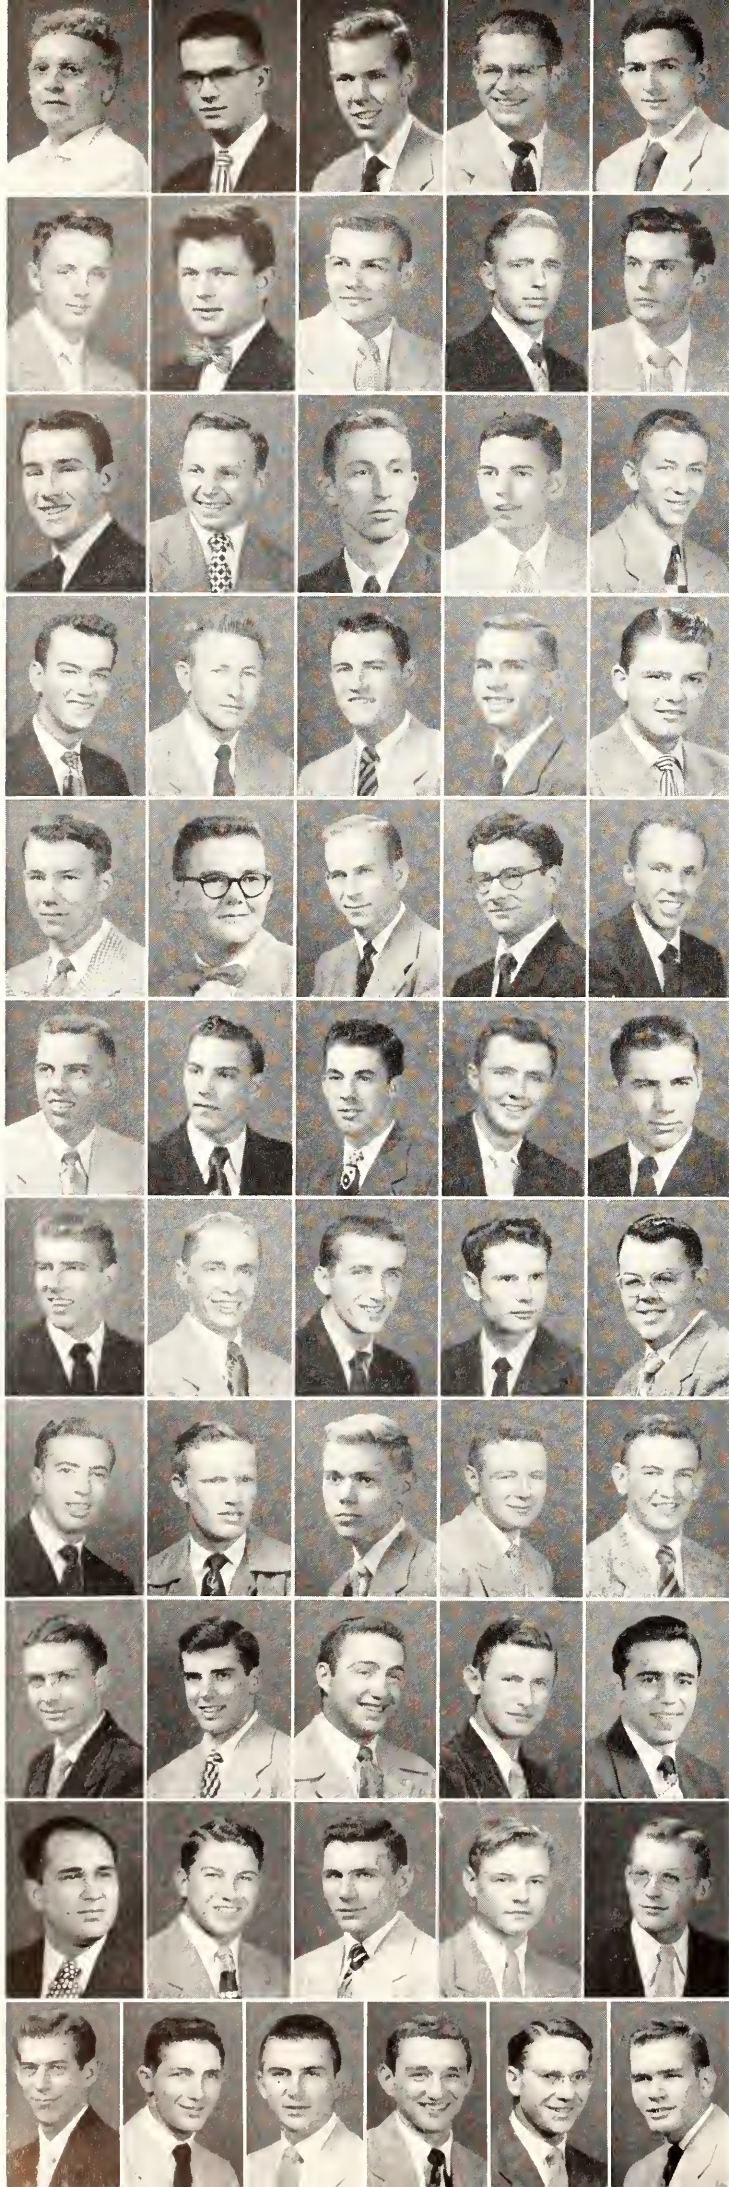

The K-State group was installed in 1947 as one of 93 undergraduate chapters that found their original beginning in 1911.

Johnnie Caldwell was president for the 1951-52 school year.

Kappa Alpha Psi's do last-minute cramming for a big one.

Kappa Sigma

CHEERING the Wildcats on to victory this year were Jim Goodloe and Loren McMurray, head cheerleaders. Another Kappa Sig was KSDB-FM program director. The Kappa Sigs held a bright spot in the social light with their annual Red Dog party, Christmas formal, and Black and White Ball. "As Grandma Remembers" was the skit presented in Y-Orpheum. Kappa Sigs were active in Steel Ring, Sigma Tau, AIA, Alpha Kappa Psi, Phi Kappa Phi, Block and Bridle, Tau Sigma Delta, Radio Guild, Alpha Zeta, Wampus Cats, AVMA, YMCA, Business Students association, K-State Players, and Arnold Air Society.

Lambda Chi Alpha

THIS YEAR has been an important one for the Lambda Chi's because it's the first year that the fraternity has had its own chapter house.

Started at K-State in 1924, the chapter was later discontinued and then reactivated in 1948.

Lambda Chi gives two formals each year. One is the annual-Crescent Ball in the spring and the other is a winter formal dance.

Lambda Chi's belong to the A Cappella Choir, Alpha Mu, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Epsilon Pi, Pi Tau Sigma, Sigma Tau, Arnold Air Society, and Alpha Kappa Psi.

Jim Nutsch was first semester president of K-State's Gamma Xi chapter and Clarence Call presided over the group for the spring semester.

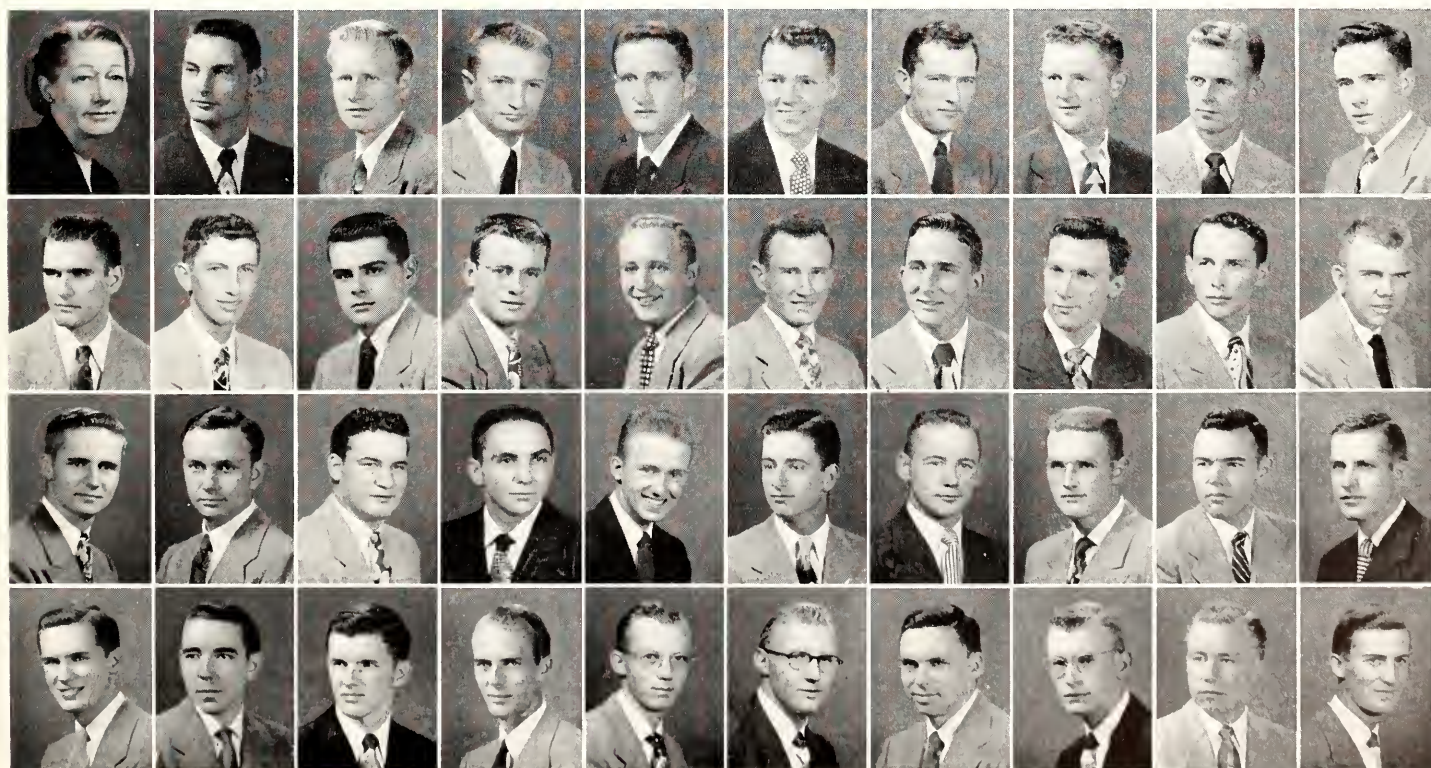

Lambda Chi Alpha was founded at Boston university in 1909. There are now 139 chapters.

Phi Delta Theta

PHI DELTA THETA has near-controlling interest in K-State's football lineup. Six Phi's carry the pig-skin for the Wildcat team. Presidents of the Senior class and Steel Ring are Phi Dels. Others belong to Blue Key, Student Council, SPC, Sigma Tau, YMCA, Pershing Rifles, and the tennis team. Re-decoration of 508 Sunset was a major fall project. The social calendar was filled with a November Mountaineer houseparty, Christmas party, and a spring formal in May. Kansas Gamma, founded in 1921, is one of 116 chapters of Phi Delta Theta, founded nationally in 1848. Jim Sartorius was first semester president, Jim Grove, second semester.

Phi Kappa

PHI KAPPA members claim the presidency of three leading campus groups—Student Council, Agricultural Association, and Scabbard and Blade.

Phi Kappas boast hundred percent membership in the Newman Club. A bevy of other campus extracurricular activities share Phi Kappa interest—Blue Key, Alpha Zeta, Who's Who, Dairy Club, Jr. AVMA, Klod and Kernel, Arnold Air Society, Collegiate 4-H, and Young Democrats Club.

The boys who live at 1909 Anderson made a special project this year of collecting and refinishing a Christmas-like array of toys for underprivileged Manhattan children.

A Friday evening in Spring was the date of the annual Phi Kappa Fish Formal. The group rounded out their social season with a fall formal and houseparty. Picnics, hour dances, and smokers are more than just social incidents to the Phi Kaps. The annual Acacia-Phi Kappa Beer Bust rolled 'round with revelry for all concerned.

Established in 1921 at K-State, Iota chapter is one of 39 chapters of the national fraternity founded originally in 1889. Jim Melroy was first semester president and John Speicher held the reins for second semester.

Phi Kappa Tau

A NEW CHAPTER HOUSE and a housemother for the first time since the reactivation of the fraternity two years ago marked 1951-52 as big years for Phi Kappa Tau.

One Phi Tau is president of both the Engineering Council and Steel Ring and another is president of the Arnold Air Society.

Others belong to Blue Key, Alpha Kappa Psi, Scabard and Blade, Phi Delta Kappa, Sigma Tau, Alpha Phi Omega, Gamma Sigma Delta, YMCA, K-Fraternity, Pershing Rifles, Junior AVMA, Dairy club, Club Cervantes, Student AIA, Collegiate 4-H, and Poultry club.

A Klondike Klomp costume party in December was fun for the Phi Taus and their guests and dates as was their annual spring formal.

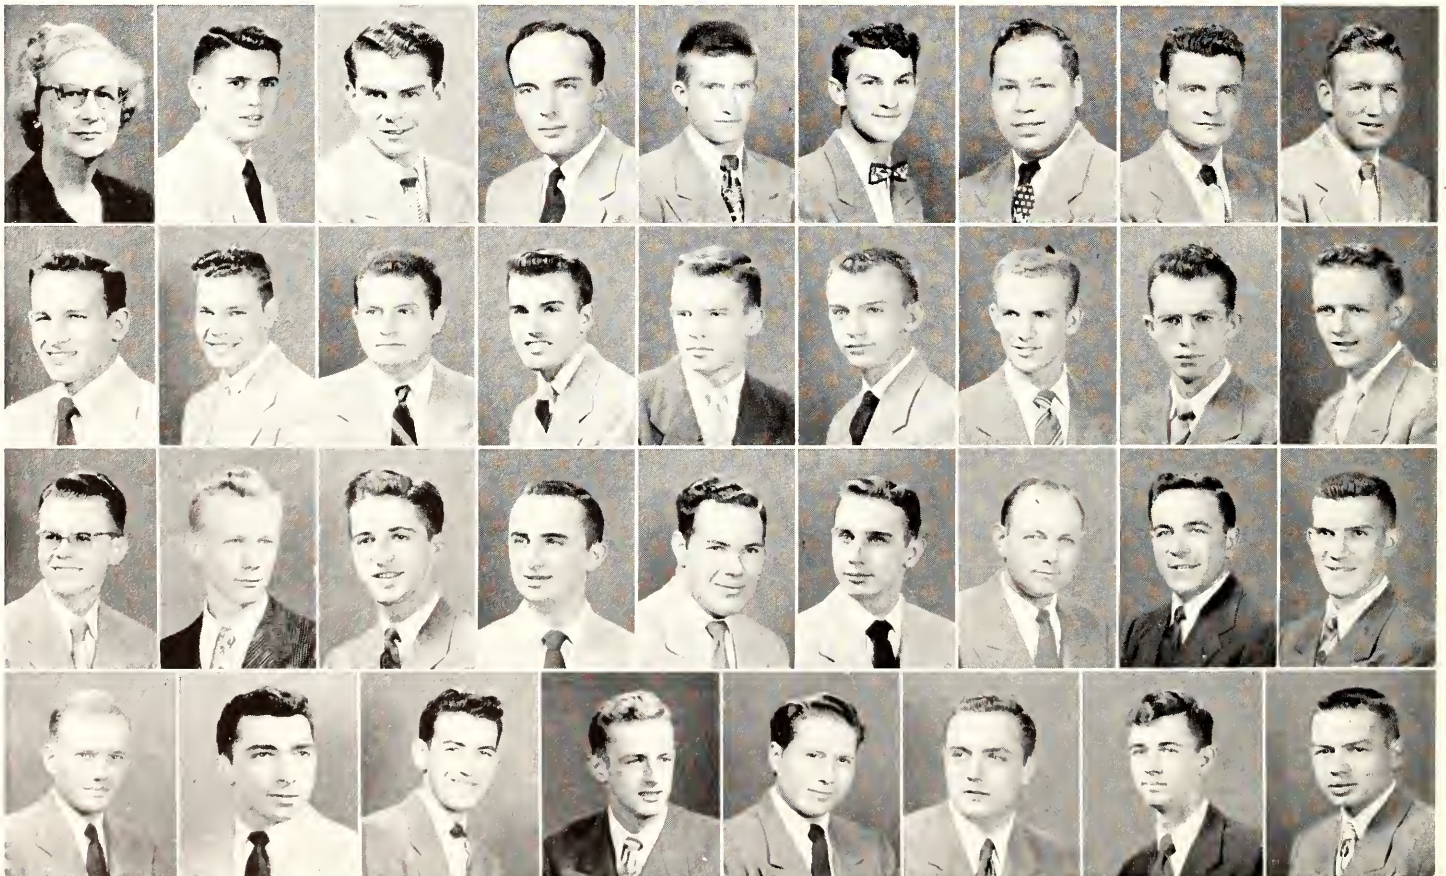

Phi Kappa Tau was founded in 1906 and there are now 68 chapters of the fraternity. K-State's chapter, Alpha Epsilon, was founded in 1925. It was later discontinued and since the war has been reactivated.

Phi Kappa Tau's believe variety gives the spice to their combo.

ALPHA EPSILON Chapter

Pi K A's in a bull session toast themselves before the fire.

Pi Kappa Alpha

PI KAPPA ALPHA members make school pep a fraternity project. Three PiKA's are cheerleaders and the fraternity boasts its strong representation in Wampus Cats, of which a PiKA is president.

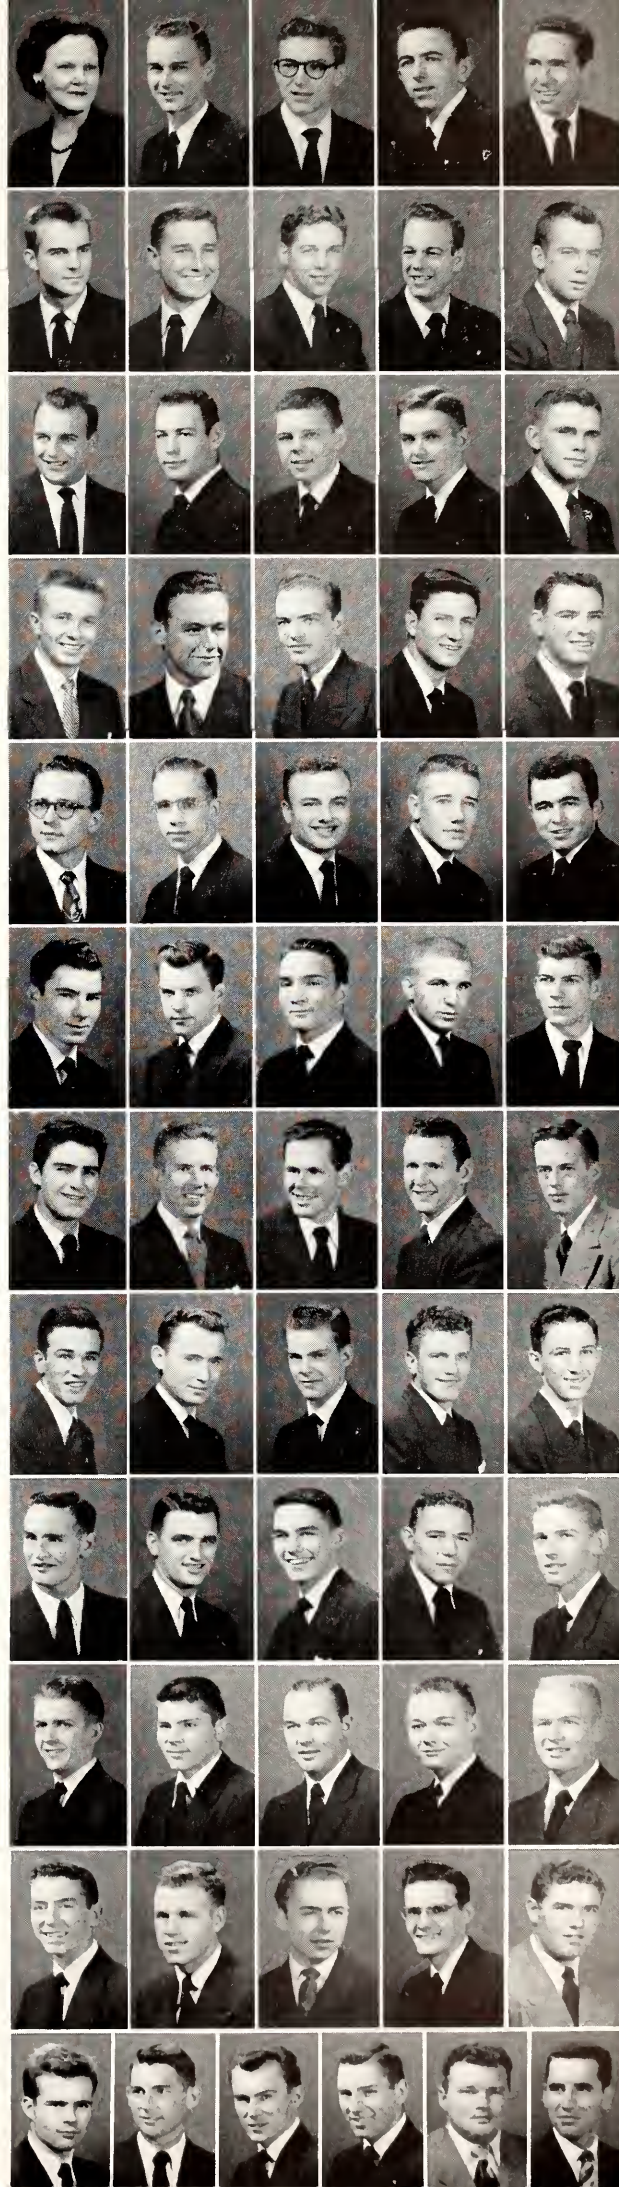

Members belong to Radio Guild, Collegiate Young Republicans, Alpha Phi Omega, Steel Ring, Sigma Tau, Alpha Zeta, Pershing Rifles, and the YMCA.

Socially the PiKA's highlight the season with their traditional Dixie ball. The annual Corn Jiggers party and a fall formal fill in the social calendar. The fraternity gave a Christmas party for a group of Manhattan children.

K-State's Alpha Omega chapter was founded in 1913. It is one of 105 chapters founded in 1868. President first semester was Bob Snyder and second semester, Bob McGauhey.

Sig Alphas seem to be settling world affairs efficiently.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

BY ALL RIGHTS the Sig Alphas should have been cheering the hardest for the Wildcat basketballmen this year. Why? Because five of the men on the letter squad are SAE's.

Socially the group presented in fine tradition the Belle Ball, the Bowery party, the Island party, and a Founders' Day party.

There are 130 Sig Alph chapters. K-State's Kansas Beta was established in 1913; the fraternity in 1856. Bob Darling and John Schovee were chapter presidents.

Sigma Chi

FOUR campus presidencies belong in the Sigma Chi house. Sigs are presidents of Eta Kappa Nu, Extension club, Miniwanca club, and Disciple Student Foundation. Two Sigs are in Who's Who, one is Air ROTC cadet colonel, two are cheerleaders, and another commands the Pershing Rifles.

At Homecoming time the Sigma Chi puppet show—complete with music and chorus girls—won second place in the decorations contest.

K-State's Delta Upsilon chapter was awarded third place and a $200 library award in the national contest for scholarship improvement in 1951.

Two big parties—the Sweetheart ball and an Arabian Nights costume party—were enjoyed by Sigs and guests this year.

Sigma Chi was founded 1855; K-State's chapter in 1949. Lewis Lyman was first semester president and Harlan Copeland was president second semester. There are 123 chapters.

Sigma Chi's know nothing tastes so good as a piece of stolen pie.

Sigma Nu's head for a week end home, dates, a night out.

Sigma Nu

"WHEN IN ROME, do as the Romans do" was the theme of one Sigma Nu houseparty. Members and their dates were dressed in robes and even the Emperor Nero attended.

Another Sigma Nu party was the annual White Rose formal. Decorations of trellises covered with white roses and bubbles were featured.

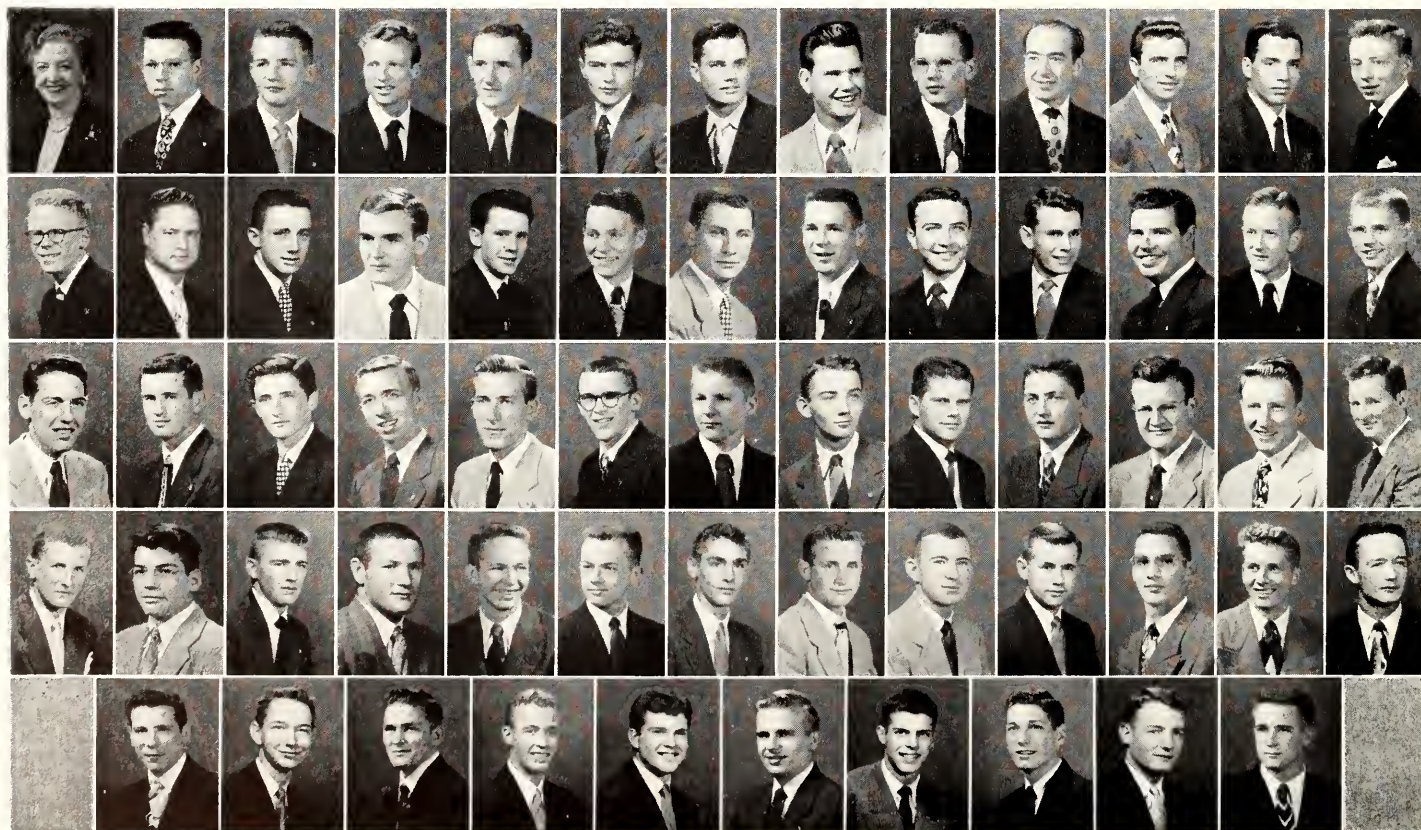

For a third party, the Sigma Nu's teamed with the ATO's for their traditional Blackfoot-Whitefoot formal. Then before Christmas the chapter turned Santa Claus and entertained children of Manhattan at a party.

Sigma Nu's belong to Scabbard and Blade, Pi Tau Sigma, Steel Ring, Sigma Tau, ASME, the Tribunal, Engineering council, Phi Kappa Phi, the K-Fraternity, Arts and Sciences council, Alpha Zeta, and the varsity basketball squad.

Founded in 1869 at Virginia Military Institute, there are now 110 chapters of the fraternity. K-State's chapter was established in 1913. Robert Smith was chapter president first semester and Vaughn Gregg was president second semester.

Sig Eps wait expectantly while the television set is tuned.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

FOR THE SECOND straight year, the Sig Eps won the battle for the first place Homecoming decorations trophy. Traditional Sig Ep social functions included the Golden Heart Ball, the Paddle party, and the Western party. Plans for the new house were completed. Members are active in basketball, Student Council, and YMCA. Alpha Kappa Psi, Alpha Mu, Eta Kappa Nu, Pi Tau Sigma, Sigma Gamma Epsilon, Radio Guild, K-Fraternity, Sigma Tau, and Steel Ring also include Sig Eps. Ivan Krug was first semester prexy; Jack Jury, second semester.

TKE hour dances are important on the fraternity social calendar.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

TWO ANNUAL parties—the Teke barbecue in the fall and the Teke Sweetheart Ball in the spring—are on the social calendars of the boys at the TKE house. Alpha Lambda chapter also had an annual Founders' Day banquet for all the Kansas chapters of TKE.

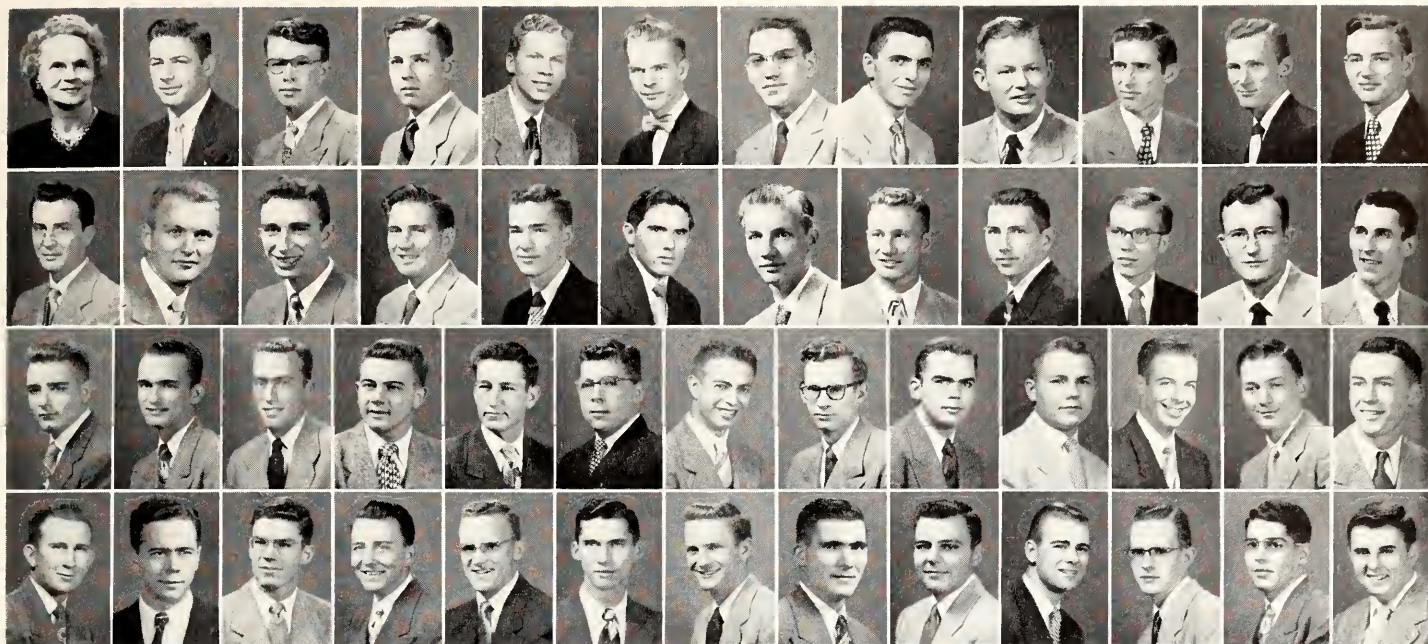

Tekes belong to the Board of Student Publications, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Phi Omega, ASAE, K-Fraternity, Arnold Air Society, Sigma Gamma Epsilon, Delta Sigma Chi, Alpha Zeta, and Sigma Tau.

Tau Kappa Epsilon, founded nationally in 1899 at Bloomington, Ill., was started at K-State in 1931. There are 92 chapters. Bob Sambol was second semester president, Bob Bell, first semester.

Theta Xi

NOVEMBER 11 was a red-letter day for the Theta Xi's this year as they celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the founding of K-State's chapter. Alumni from near and far came back to reminisce of the "good old days."

Another important event for the chapter occurred when they were chosen to provide the blackfaced chorus for the Manhattan Sertoma club minstrel show. Soon after this performance, the fraternity presented a skit in Y-Orpheum entitled "Land Ho."

Socially speaking the group entertained with the annual Tuffy Strut, the traditional Unicorn Ball in the spring, a Christmas party at the house, a Turnabout party, and several informal get-togethers.

Theta Xi's belong to the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society, Canterbury club, Steel Ring, Sigma Tau, Alpha Zeta, Alpha Mu, Phi Lambda Upsilon, Alpha Kappa Psi, Alpha Phi Omega, Phi Kappa Phi, and Scabbard and Blade.

Other members belong to Arnold Air Society, Collegiate 4-H, A Cappella Choir, Jr. AVMA, Dairy Club, Ag. Economics club, and Who's Who.

President first semester was Charles Sundberg; second semester, Dale Johnson.

Theta Xi's make an evening bridge game a frat project.

Independents -women

Most of the women at K-State, like most of the women in the free world, are independent. This is not a warning to young men still free—it is a fact to be kept in mind. But even independent women organize, as the following pages demonstrate, and they wield political wallop around election time. They group themselves according to natural interests and natural friendships until they become engaged.

Northwest hall

THE FIRST completed residence hall of the "campus of tomorrow" is Northwest hall, housing 209 freshmen women.

With the completion of this hall and its occupancy all the planning for a freshman counseling program has produced a reality.

Northwest hall's interior is decorated modernly and accentuated with cove lighting in the living room. The individual rooms are attractive with matching draperies and bedspreads. Most of the rooms are set up for two girls, but there are a few on each floor for three girls and some single rooms. The most modern laundry facilities are available. A small laundry room is located on each floor and one large laundry room with washers, steam driers, and drying space is in the basement.

With the freshmen definitely in the majority, and no precedents handed down from the upper classmen, all rules and regulations of the hall had to be made as the need arose. There are 17 upper class counselors living in Northwest, to help orient the freshmen girls to college life.

Now all K-State freshmen coeds have the opportunity of living in one residence hall. And the establishment of the guidance program is a help in solving problems in college adjustment.

WAITING for dates to arrive are these Northwest coeds.

First social function at Northwest

NORTHWEST's first social function was an official open house. Faculty members, parents, and students were guests of the hall on conducted tours throughout the building.

Other social highlights included hour dances, house parties, a formal Christmas dinner, Christmas caroling, and a Queen of Hearts ball at which Barbara Hart was crowned queen.

The freshman girls were active in College activities. They belonged to Westminster Foundation, Kappa Phi, Sigma Eta Chi, Theta Epsilon, Newman club, Wesley Foundation, K-State Players, Collegiate 4-H, Frog club, Whi-Purs, Alpha Delta Theta, YWCA, Home Ec clubs, and SPC.

They took their share of honors, too. Becky Thacher and Barbara Hart were elected K-State cheerleaders, Virginia White was chosen as the candidate for national ISA Sweetheart, and at the Military Ball Becky Thacher was presented as honorary lieutenant colonel and Helen Duncan, honorary captain.

Northwest won first in intramural swimming and third in basketball.

Leading the group as first semester president was Janice Farmer. Second semester president was Ruth Waller.

Miss Dorothy Hamer, assistant dean of women, started the year as Northwest hall director but became ill in November and Mrs. Helen Atherton took over her duties as house director.

CENTERMOST of the three girls' residence halls is Van Zile.

Van Zile hall houses

OLDEST women's residence hall on the K-State campus is Van Zile hall.

Again this year many outstanding campus leaders lived in Van Zile. These include Mary Baertch, Mortar Board president; Dorothy White, Omicron Nu president; and Jane McKee, Purple Pepsters president, Student Council member and SPC chairman.

Other Van Zile girls are active in Alpha Delta Theta, Prix, SPC, Theta Sigma Phi, K-State Players, Mu Phi Epsilon, Who's Who, Phi Alpha Mu, and Phi Kappa Phi.

VAN ZILE HALL

160 K-State coeds

With the freshmen counseling program established this year, Van Zile was to house only upper classmen. However, the unexpected increase of freshman girls enrolled made it necessary to house 90 freshmen on the second and third floors of the hall. Four counselors live in Van Zile with these girls to carry out the freshman guidance program.

Van Zile teams participated in intramurals and they placed second in basketball and volleyball. They also entered the softball and table tennis competitions.

Van Zile houses 160 coeds.

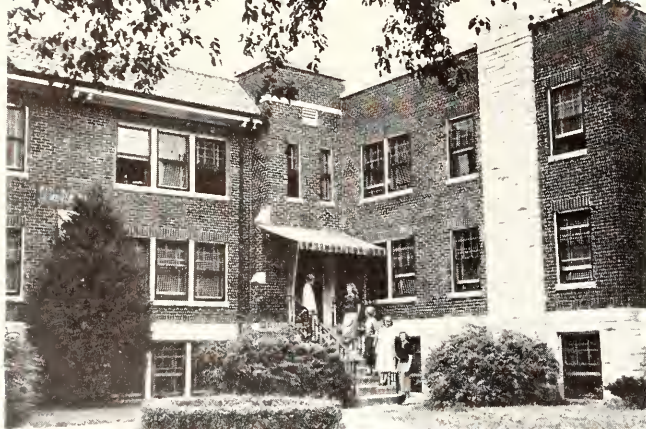

SWITCHBOARD is the hub around which Van Zile life revolves.

WALTHEIM roommates keeping busy at homework in their room.

Waltheim hall

WALTHEIM captured the trophy for the prize-winning Homecoming float this fall for the second time in succession and then walked off with another trophy this spring as champs in the all-College spelling bee.

Socially, the 77 girls of this hall entertained with hour dances, house parties, a special dinner each month, and the annual "Firefly Fantasy" this spring.

Active in intramurals, Waltheim entered teams in all sports, took second in volleyball competition.

Mrs. Blanche Twiss has been director of the dorm since its initiation in 1946. Carol Best served as president first semester and Mary Hall was elected the head for second semester.

Waltheim claims members in Mortar Board, Prix, K-State Players, Mu Phi Epsilon, Phi Alpha Mu, Theta Sigma Phi, YWCA, Omicron Nu, A Cappella Choir, Band, Purple Pepsters, and other campus groups and church societies.

are small in size, large in number

AT MAISONELLE, the independent organized house at 1706 Laramie, nine girls live under the direction of Mrs. Mattie Cassity. Fall semester, Anne Rice was elected president while Conchita Asis was prexy second semester. Members are active in Collegiate 4-H, Phems, WAA, and Omicron Nu. Maisonelle was organized in 1943.

Lois Ottaway and Jean Semisch were fall and spring presidents of CLARK'S GABLES, the ten-year-old organized house directed by Mrs. Edith Clark. The Christmas party and house picnics highlighted the social activities, while the main campus activities were ISA, Prix, YWCA, Kappa Phi, Sigma Eta Chi, and Collegiate 4-H. Clark's Gables is at 812 North Manhattan.

Although organized only last fall, HUDSON EIGHT was active with autumn and Christmas house parties. Directed by Mrs. David Cone, Hudson Eight is at 1200 Bluemont. President of the house was Veryl Bowen.

Mrs. W. H. Hills has directed HILLS HEIGHTS at 1423 Fairchild for ten years. Under the leadership of president Barbara Lindburg, the nineteen girls entertained at a Thanksgiving party. In addition to church groups, the girls are active in Prix, Purple Pepsters, and YWCA.

Oldest independent organized house, COED COURT was established in 1937. As part of this year's social program, Coed Court entertained Amicossembly at a Halloween party. The girls belong to ISA, Collegiate 4-H, YWCA, Chaparajos, and Kappa Phi. Ramona Woolley served as president first semester, and Barbara Weathered, second semester. Mrs. Pearl Power directs the house at 1417 Leavenworth.

Christmas toys for flood victims were the special project of LA FIEL, largest organized house. Established ten years ago, the house now has 28 members who elected Maxine Tiffany and Helen Johnson first and second semester presidents. They are active in YWCA,

Independents - Men

Even the most independent young men of the College organize themselves. Their most common interest is politics, as you see. Here Elmer is giving George the low-down on Bill, whom he is planning to back for president of the senior class next year. George is somehow unconvinced, it seems; but Elmer is persistent and will win out, even if he has to offer George another ice-cream cone (triple dip).

West Stadium room mates look studious but bored.

West Stadium

THE INTRAMURAL CHAMPS of basketball live at West Stadium. And the boys there are also interested in swimming. Each Wednesday evening they have Nichols gym reserved for both basketball and swimming practices.

West Stadium men participate in other campus activities, too. They belong to many organizations, including departmental clubs and honoraries.

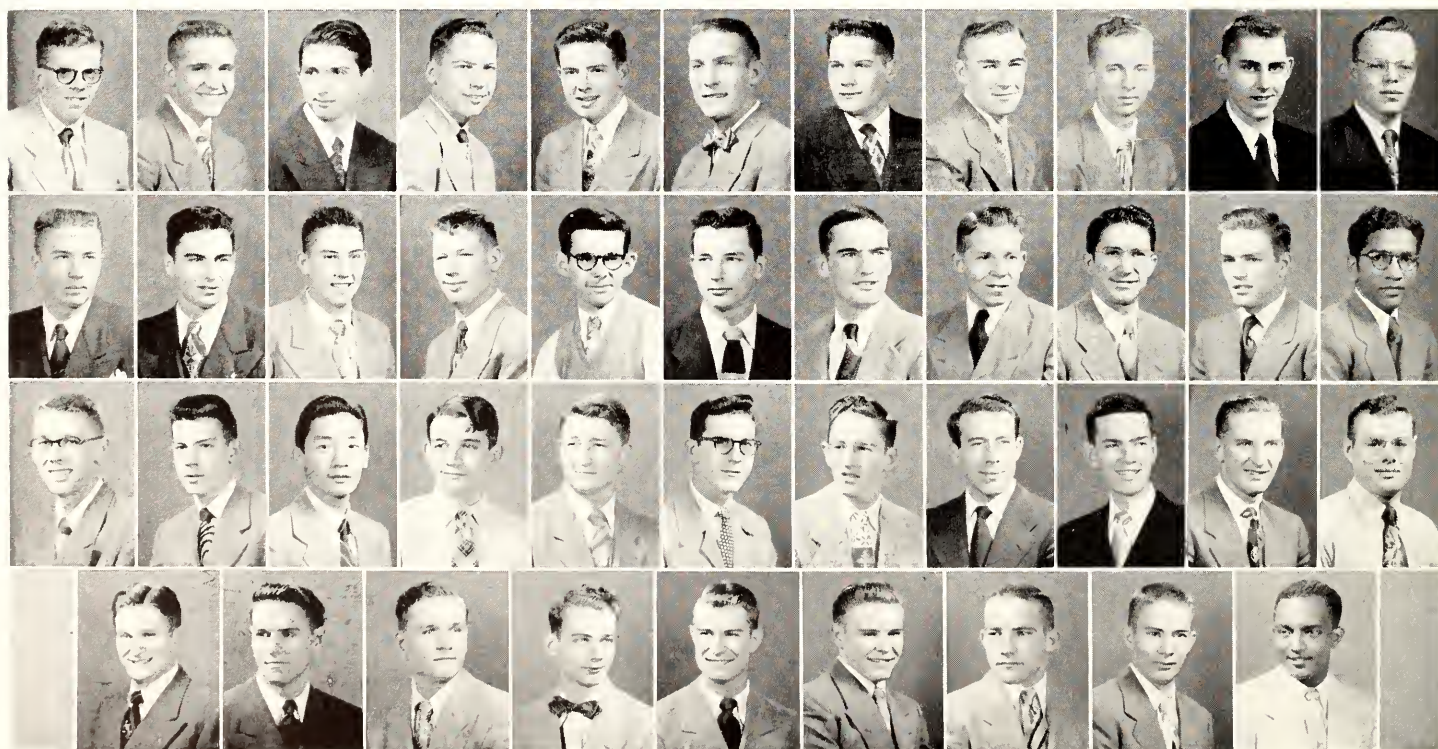

When it comes to parties, the Stadiumites shine again. They have had several informal dances, a watermelon feed, and stag parties.

A weekly newsletter called "Stadium Squints" is edited and printed by residents of the dorm. This paper contains jokes, contests, personality sketches of boys living at West Stadium, and announcements of activities and meetings.

Ted Mizwa is director of the hall. Charles Hawkins is president; Lindsey Weatherspoon, vice-president; Kenneth Unruh, secretary; and Bill Crouch, treasurer.

Grad men organize house

GRADUATE MEN's house is one of the most recently organized houses at K-State. Eleven graduate students, studying in nearly as many fields, live in the grad house at 1814 Anderson. Largely through the efforts of Roy Beauchene, the house was organized in the early part of the fall semester.

The aim of the organization is to bring together students in the graduate field under one roof. The men enjoy the easy informality of home and take part in various social activities.

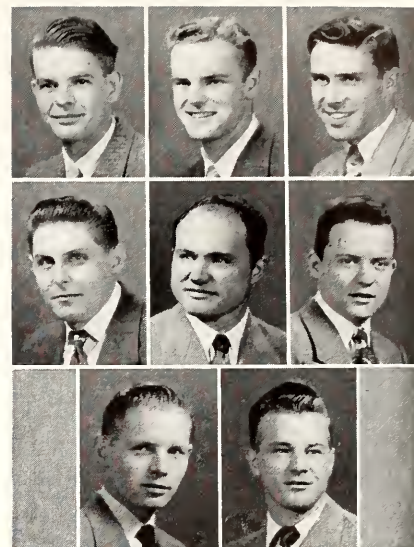

After the house was organized, the members elected Beauchene president for the fall semester. Troy Green, another key man in getting the house organized, was chosen to head the group during the spring semester.

The men come to K-State from many colleges over the United States to do graduate work. As an example of the diversity of their fields of interest, five are chemists, one is a physicist, one is an engineer, two are agronomists, one is a miller, and one is a bacteriologist. Dean Harold Howe of the graduate school is adviser to the group.

CATALPA INN has been organized three years now and boasts a membership of seven men. Under the directorship of Mrs. Alice Spealman, the house takes part in social activities and offers a home-away-from-home atmosphere. The organization is housed at 526 North Manhattan.

The group elects their president for a full year. Vernon Cates was selected by the men for that job during the 1951-52 semesters.

This bunch of boys have varied interests in college. Three are agriculture majors, two are enrolled in arts and science, and one is an engineering student. Bernard Bowlen, instructor in agricultural economics, is faculty adviser to the house. Highlight of the social year for the men was a card party at the house.

HOUSE OF WILLIAMS, one of the oldest of the independent organized houses, is also one of the largest. Located at 1126 Bluemont, "Williams" is home for nineteen men. Named for its director, Mrs. Catherine Williams, the house was first organized in 1939. Gordon Hess and Francis Pieschl presided over the house during the year. Although most of the members are agricultural students, other schools are also represented.

HOUSE OF JERICOS, at 1116 Fremont, was organized in November of 1950 and ended the required probationary period in December of 1951 to become fully active. Eight men under the guidance of Nell Ingraham reside at Jerico's. Delbert M. Johnson is president. Herbert S. Suer, instructor in civil engineering, is faculty adviser.

BLOCK-AWAY, located at 535 North Manhattan, is directed by Mrs. Willis Scanlan. Twelve men reside in the house which was organized three years ago. A German student residing at Block-Away adds the international flavor. Richard Sambol and Donn Lillich presided over the house. Nearly every school is represented by the twelve men.

HOUSE OF BELVIDERES this year celebrated its second birthday as an organization. Located at 114 South Manhattan, eleven men call Belvideres home. Mrs. Eula Collier directs the house. Gilbert La Porte presided during the year. Intramurals, picnics, parties and dinners are the social functions of the house. The house was organized because of the advantages of doing things as a group.

ACROPOLIS, the fledgling of the independent organized houses, is now a year old. President of the house at 515 North Seventeenth is Henry G. Hurtig. Myron Kosdes is vice-president with Virgil Snell as secretary. Fifteen men under the directorship of Mrs. Ethel Stockwell call Acropolis home. Acropolis has now finished the probationary one year period required by the College to be eligible for full activation.

SIGNA PHI NOTHING at 307 North Sixteenth has a roster of fifteen men. Mrs. Julia Schimmels directs the group. Thomas Medved holds the post of president of the house. The house was organized so that the boys might take more active part in intramurals and social activities. G. W. Leonard, assistant professor of chemistry, acts as faculty adviser to the organization.

Bring housing council action

THE COLLEGE apartment courts — Goodnow, Elliot, Hilltop, and West Campus—housed 336 families this year. Elliot, Goodnow, and Hilltop are converted barracks buildings and West Campus is a court of 30 trailers. Campus Courts is no longer operated. All the trailers there had been sold by spring, 1952.

Complete with mayors and councilmen, Elliot, Hilltop, and West Campus have their own governing bodies. Charles R. Jones is West Campus mayor; Robert E. Adams, Elliot; and Charles I. Glunt, Hilltop.

That these governments actually function was shown this year in the Elliot courts pet problem. Complaints about residents' cats and dogs caused a survey which showed that the pets were on their way to becoming a health hazard. The Court council ruled that all cats and dogs were to be penned, registered with the College housing office, and vaccinated for rabies.

Whatever you do outside your curriculum (a printed list of dull courses your dean says take anyhow) is an activity. Even the editing of a yearbook, I theenk. Playing roundball or an oboe, interpretive dancing, acting, radioing, being a president or treasurer, stock-showing, open-housing, debating—anything that prevents your curriculum from choking you dead—is an activity. You should try three or two.

Kansas State Players

Stage four full-length plays

K-STATERS with a flair for the dramatic or a willingness to sacrifice long hours at rehearsal and set-building in exchange for a few thrilling moments before the footlights find an outlet for their talents and energy in the productions of the Kansas State Players.

Under the guidance and experienced counsel of Prof. Earl C. Hoover, director of drama, this group of some seventy-five students turned out four full-scale productions in the course of a year, as well as a number of one-acts.

Gordon Hess was president of the organization this year, assisted by Gregg Borland, vice-president, and Lindell Grauer, secretary. High point of the Kansas State Player's social year is the annual awards banquet, at which are presented the "Oscars" for outstanding acting in any of the year's productions.

Climaxing a well-rounded season which included such ambitious undertakings as Two Blind Mice, and Macbeth, the Players last spring presented Fay Kanin's college story, Goodby, My Fancy. Terrill Orr carried the lead role of the lady congressman who returns after 20 years to her Massachusetts women's college to accept an honorary degree. But she also intends to see the man she believes she has always loved and who is now the president of the college. Gregg Borland played the part of the president, and the triangle was completed by Allan Kipper in the role of a Life photographer sent to cover the event.

Richard Thomas, Jancy Hunter, Judy Henry and Joe Ward also carried prominent roles in the production, which was included as a part of last year's Fine Arts Festival on the campus.

A summer production of The Silver Whistle, Robert McEnroe's rollicking comedy about life in an old folks' home, provided an unusual opportunity for a real life illustration by the Players of the old theatrical resolve "the show must go on." And go on it did, too, in spite of raging flood waters which marooned leading man Gordon Hess in a downtown Manhattan radio station for three days, while the rest of the cast built sets by day and helped evacuate people by boats at night.

Since organized rehearsals were impossible, the cast decided to give a "rehearsal performance" instead of giving up the whole play, as part of a free recreational program set up for the 1800 people who had been evacuated from their homes to the campus. Given three days before the scheduled production date, it was strictly a rehearsal with no bones about being a finished production. Nevertheless, it was well received by a large and appreciative audience.

Fall found the Players hard at work on the two sets required for The Madwoman of Chaillot, a poetic and comic fable by Frenchman Jean Giraudoux. The setting is the Cafe Chez Francis, where a group of promoters plot to tear up Paris in order to unearth the oil which a prospector believes he has located in the neighborhood. The Madwoman of Chaillot, capably played by Catherine Downey, sees through the crookedness of the prospector and insists that the world, for which she feels a very personal responsibility, is being rendered into an unhappy place by those greedy for worldly goods and power.

LAST MINUTE make-up touches (left) and a last minute pep talk (right) from director Hoover relieve some of the tension just before the curtain rises on The Madwoman. A cast of thirty-two performers helped make this production a success.

SIR ANTHONY ABSOLUTE and Mrs. Malaprop look on sternly (left) as Captain Jack Absolute proposes to Lydia Languish in The Rivals. But everything comes out all right in the third act finale (right). This Sheridan comedy is 177 years old.

Lead roles in the cast of thirty-two persons were played by Richard Thomas, Susan Sears, Gregg Borland, Jeanie Hunter, and Judy Henry.

The 177-year-old comedy classic The Rivals was picked by the Players for mid-winter production. Sheridan's masterpiece of humor and witty dialogue pleased large college audiences here and was taken on tour to several communities over the state.

The plot of The Rivals revolves around the secret love affair of Lydia and Ensign Beverly, played by Barbara Babbitt and Allen Kipper. Lydia discovers that her aunt has promised her hand in marriage to a Captain Absolute, and Beverly's father has made arrangements for his marriage too. This miserable state of affairs is happily relieved when Beverly learns his father has promised him to Lydia.

Interwoven in the plot are characters that give The Rivals its comedy. Judy Henry played Mrs. Malaprop, who continually committed mayhem with the King's English, and Gregg Borland was Sir Anthony Absolute, domineering father of Captain Jack. Others in the cast were Helen Duncan, George Langshaw, Vincent Bogart, Del Close, Sue Shirling, Lawrence Evans, and Neal Chastain.

MESSIAH ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS

One of the most trained and beautiful music organizations is the combined orchestra and chorus as directed by Luther Leavengood. Presenting a special Christmas Vespers, the orchestra and A Cappella Choir packed hundreds of Manhattan residents and students into the college auditorium.

The concert band, under Jean Hedlund's direction made special appearances off the campus where they gave several concerts. The 80-voice, finely balanced A Cappella Choir under the direction of Luther Leavengood, music department head, made its annual spring tour this year and appeared in the Christmas vespers, College assemblies, and other campus events.

INTERFRATERNITY SING winners last year were Pi Beta Phi, led by Joni Newcomer, and Beta Theta Pi, directed by song leader Bill Baetz.

The Alpha Xi's won second in the sorority division; the Delts and the Sig Alphas won second and third, respectively, in the fraternity group.

A highlight of spring campus events, the Sing is an annual event which puts Greeks in competition for the honor of being proclaimed the best fraternity or sorority vocal group.

Local papers combined with Collegian

THE COLLEGIAN, in its third year as a daily, brings to the College community the news of what's happening on campus and off. The paper is student-run and with the first issue of the summer school session Floyd Jack took over as editor.

Dave Weigel was feature editor; Olive Benne, society; Harold Landon, sports; and Will Hess, photo editor. Marilyn Beason was business manager, and John Krell was assistant business manager.

The Collegian made journalistic history on Manhattan's "Black Thursday," July 12, when it joined forces with the BUSY secretary, Mary Everson, handled accounts and office work for the Collegian, Royal Purple.

FALL COLLEGIAN EDITORIAL STAFF (left) members were Everett Browning, Marillyn Weisbender, Don Carlile, Wilma Wilson, Bill Mohr, Mary Ann Barclay, Nick Kominus, Bob Ecklund, Lyle Schwilling, Al Balzer, Sue Shirling, Dick Fleming, Phil Meyer, and Mary Lee Smith. Manhattan Mercury-Chronicle and the Manhattan Tribune-News. The three papers put out a combined issue full of news of the flood that was then engulfing the city.

With the first issue of last fall's Collegian September 12, Lyle Schwilling and John Krell took over as editor and business manager, respectively.

Phil Meyer was associate editor; Nick Kominus, sports editor; and Marillyn Weisbender, society editor. Mary Lee Smith, Wilma Wilson, Al Balzer, and Don Carlile were news editors.

On the business side, Krell was manager for five weeks and then Marilyn Beason and Dick Ehler replaced him as assistant business managers. Chris Scherling and Andy Grauer were layout designers; Ed Bauerband, Olive Benne, Sally Doyle, Bob Byrkit, and Laurel Campbell were the ad salesmen.

Whether or not to have an all-school open house made the first big Collegian headlines. Then, in order, the opening of Northwest; dancing to Woody Herman; the annual Barnwarmer dunking episodes; interviews with new athletes Meek and Mullins; and the first Homecoming Ball to grace the Field House made news.

Two inch high "Spill Snob Hill" signs; "Madwoman", "Rivals", and "Sky" play reviews; approval of the new constitution; the College's first flood forum; $8,000 from the regents for library lighting; Joe Switzer's being named All-American; the now-famous architecture controversy; the January graduation of 297 students with no formal speech came next in the Collegian's recording of daily campus life.

PICTURES and stories of what's happening on the campus are featured every day in the Collegian.

COLLEGIAN staffers Marilyn Beason and John Krell take time out from their jobs as business managers.

FALL COLLEGIAN BUSINESS STAFF members were Andy Grauer, Chris Scherling, Marilyn Beason, John Krell, Laurel Campbell, Bob Byrkit, and Olive Benne.

Second semester Phil Meyer became Collegian editor and John Krell business manager. Marillyn Weisbender was associate editor; Wilma Wilson and Al Balzer, editorial assistants; Don Carlile, Dale Evans, Dick Fleming, Nick Kominus, and Bill Mohr, news editors; Frank Garofalo, sports; Marge Moon, woman's page; Mary Lee Smith, society; Everett Browning, telegraph; Bob Ecklund, art; and Ellis Stout, photographer.

The assistant business managers were Sally Doyle and Robert Byrkit and the ad salesmen were Ed Bauerband and Olive Benne.

The opening of the new classroom building; Gardner's denial of any "willful" violation of basketball recruiting rules; another successful Farm and Home week; those measles and flu epidemics; the traditional Hospitality Days, Fairchild alligators; voting on the Student Health fee increase; and a poll about the honor system were subjects of second semester news stories.

March 7 the Collegian had that optimistic pre-KU game spirit and then that sick after-game feeling. The usual marathon runners and royalty of the Engineers Open House; the spring elections complete with new party; Stan Kenton in the Field House; another good Y-Orpheum; and KU's basketball feats rounded out the news year.

SPRING COLLEGIAN BUSINESS STAFF included John Krell, Olive Benne, Sally Doyle, and Bob Byrkit.

K-STATER STAFF members were (standing) Merrill E. Samuelson, John W. Conner, Fred M. Parris; (seated) Lowell Brandner, Elmer J. Tomasch, Ralph R. Lashbrook, and Helen P. Hostetter. INDUSTRIALIST STAFF included (standing) John W. McReynolds, Lowell Brandner, Fred M. Parris, Merrill E. Samuelson; (seated) Kenny Ford, and Helen P. Hostetter.

JOURNALISM department and alumni office edit the Industrialist.

"HOUSE ORGAN" for the College is the K-Stat, going to alums.

OFFICIAL newspaper of the Kansas State College Alumni Association is the Industrialist. The publication is edited by John W. MacReynolds of the technical journalism department. Working with him on the Industrialist are other members of the journalism faculty and representatives of the alumni office. Campus news and profile articles of leading alumni are featured in the paper which is published in November, January, February, April, and May.

Distributed to thousands of alumni and friends of K-State, it gives former students the lowdown on their "alma mammy" and college friends "back when."

Supplanting the Industrialist as a publication for alumni is a new magazine, the K-Stater, styled as the "house organ" of the college. Initiated in the spring of 1951, the magazine is published in October, December, March, and June and features many varied phases of College activity. One of the earliest issues was distributed to all K-State alumni regardless of whether or not they held membership in the alum association. Editor Ralph R. Lashbrook had as his staff other members of the journalism faculty and alumni officers. Elmer J. Tomasch of the architecture department gave added sparkle to the publication as art editor.

At a joint district meeting of the American College and Public Relations Association and the American Alumni Council, O. M. Forkert of Chicago, format consultant, declared the K-Stater one of the top five alumni publications in the United States.

Essays, short stories, verse, and art—all these are found in the Kansas Magazine, published annually.

Prof. Robert Conover was editor of this year's issue. His staff included John F. Helm, Jr., art editor; W. R. Moses, poetry editor; Eula Mae Kelly, associate editor; May Williams Ward, contributing editor; Giles Sinclair, business manager; and Earle Davis, chairman of the board of directors.

"The editors of the Kansas Magazine are especially interested in recognizing, encouraging, and developing the writers whose background or whose field is the Mid West region." In this way Professor Conover summarizes one of the magazine's purposes in his editorial notes at the close of the 1952 issue.

Another indispensable K-State group is the News Bureau, headed by Assoc. Prof. Lowell Brandner. Lorraine Volsky is Brandner's assistant. The Bureau sends press releases to wire services, newspapers, and radio stations over the country. Publicity stories about individual students are sent to hometown papers, too.

A joint student and faculty business undertaking is the Board of Student Publications. Functioning as the Board of Directors for Student Publications, Inc., the committee consists of three faculty members and three student representatives chosen at large by student election. The business of choosing editors for the Collegian, Royal Purple, and Student Directory, and approving major contracts and budgets, belongs to this group. They award the forty gold K-keys given annually to outstanding publication staff members. Members were Prof. Ralph R. Lashbrook, Prof. H. W. Davis, Assoc. Prof. Lowell Brandner, Bob Sambol, Helen Cortelyou, and Sue Wiley. Dick Ehler became a Board member upon Sue Wiley's graduation in January.

As head of the Department of Technical Journalism, Prof. Lashbrook is automatically chairman of the Board of Student Publications. C. J. Medlin holds ex-officio membership as consultant in student publication matters.

A second publication group is the Collegian Editorial Policy Advisory Board. It is made up of the three student members of the Board of Student Publications, Professor Lashbrook as a non-voting member, and the fall and spring semester editors of the Collegian, Lyle Schwilling, then Phil Meyer. Problems of editorial policy, production, and staff performance are discussed and advised. Editors, however, are not bound to follow this group's advice and are ultimately responsible to the student body for the contents of publications.

Sporting a royal blue cover, lettered in silver, the 1951-52 Student Directory (shown, page 140) easily became the equivalent of the "lil black book" for students and faculty members alike. Listed were the names of nearly 5000 K-State students and more than 900 faculty members and officers of administration. Editor Nicki Orsborn conveniently divided the book into six sections: administration, students, faculty, constitution and SCA regulations, housing, and organizations.

'52 RP staff worked long and late

WELL PAST MIDNIGHT one balmy April evening two RP staffers drowsily ruffled a sheaf of well-pencilled typewritten copy, dropped it in a brown manila envelope, switched off the last lights in Kedzie, and quietly picked their way home.

The end was in sight for a group of these tired journalists. Their baby, the 1952 Royal Purple, had been put to bed. Another month of school, time enough for them to catch up on some of the classes and labs that had gone unattended, would see the $38,000 baby in the hands of 4,500 K-State students. Those students would search for their photographs, their classmates' photographs, and someone to show them to. And the RP staffers would happily do the same.

Looking backward over the 1951-52 year at the editorial desk—a year cut into livable little chunks by twice-daily trips to the Canteen for coffee breaks—one notices that a lot of thoughtful effort went into the production of the 1952 Royal Purple. And the editor wants to take off a few moments to thank those who worked so untiringly on this publication.

ROYAL PURPLE EDITORIAL STAFF members were (standing) Pat Haley, Bob Ecklund, Dick Steffens, Nicki Orsborn, Bob Lawrence, Stan Burnette; (seated) Dick Fleming, Marillyn Weisbender, Dixie Des Jardins, Carol Paulsen, Dave Weigel, Marlene Myers, and Lois Ottaway.

Calvin J. "Chief" Medlin, graduate manager of student publications, was always on hand to patiently aid and advise the annual staff. A foremost U.S. authority on school yearbooks, he has tutored 16 consecutive RP's to the honored All-American rating.

STUDENT EDITORIAL STAFF members included Dixie Des Jardins, administration editor; Marillyn Weisbender and Carol Paulsen, housing (and activities) co-editors; Lois Ottaway and Dick Fleming, organization co-editors; Stan Burnette, sports editor, and his assistant, Bob Lawrence; and Marlene Myers, classes editor. Nicki Orsborn served as assistant RP editor until March.

Business manager was Jim Grove. Assisting him with ad sales were Bob Hanlon, Dick Ehler, and Don Prigmore.

RP office staff workers (photos on page 140) devoted hundreds of tireless hours in selling photo receipts, typing and indexing material, and distributing the books. Mary Everson, smiling student publications secretary, directed all office staff work.

Giving helpful assistance in writing copy for miscellaneous pages were Gregg Borland, dramatics; Wilma Wilson, Marilyn Beason, and Everett Browning, independent housing; and Dick Fleming, opening and division pages. Helen Cortelyou faithfully helped with proofreading of RP copy.

Hal Davis, editor of all sub-division pages on which art work appears, managed to drop by the editorial office almost daily, invariably leaving an atmosphere of humor behind.

PHOTOGRAPHERS Bob Ecklund, Pat Haley, and Dick Steffens worked overtime carrying Speed Graphics on-campus and to sports events and activ-

Class photos were handled by the Aggieville Studio Royal staff and owner-manager Laurence Blaker. Floyd Hanna, K-State Photographer, worked evenings turning out the remarkably clear organization group photographs.

E. J. Tomasch, whose sketches appear throughout the book, handled all cartoon artwork in the 1952 Royal Purple and gave invaluable assistance in working out page layouts for the book.

Ralph Lashbrook assisted in reading administration pages while Fred Parris read pages in the sports section.

Thanks appreciatively go to Bob Maplesden, Burd and Fletcher Printing Co., for advice and help on all RP matters and for ungrudging overtime work when we missed our deadlines. Also to Karl Fitzner and Ralph Kolb, Burger-Baird Engraving Co., for help, patience, and advice in working with the Royal Purple staff.

Silver anniversary

For Who's Whoot

WEARING a just-right-for-the-occasion silver cover, the 1952 edition of Who's Whoot will celebrate its twenty-fifth, and silver, anniversary, this year. Editor of the 1952 issue is Lois Ottaway. Pearl Swart as business manager has the task of putting out a magazine financed solely through advertising sales. More than 3,000 copies of the publication will be distributed this year.

OVER 3,000 copies of Who's Whoot were distributed this year.

“Ag Mag” features photo coverage

AG MAGAZINE is now in its thirty-first year.

THE KANSAS AGRICULTURAL STUDENT, official magazine of the Agricultural Association, is best known to readers and staff as the “Ag Mag.”

Published four times each year—October, December, March, and May—the magazine is distributed to all K-State Aggies and forwarded to many subscribing schools and groups throughout the state.

Now in its thirty-first year of publication, the Ag Student is financed solely by advertising sales and part of the incidental fee paid by K-State agricultural students.

Editor this year was Stan Creek. Assisting him as business manager was Don Friesen. Other staff members were Dick Fleming, associate editor; Nick Kominus, assistant editor; Ellis Stout, photographer; Dale Evans, Sue Friesen, and Bob Hoisington, business assistants; and Everett Browning, circulation manager. Prof. E. B. Macy was faculty adviser for the publication.

The March issue of the magazine marked a new venture into color photography for the Ag Student. An engraving furnished by a steel industry periodical was reproduced in color for the cover of this issue.

Departmental news from each division of the ag school is presented in the magazine. This year the emphasis was placed in pictorial coverage and readers discovered more and bigger photos in each issue. Student-written articles also received greater feature in the 1952 issues.

Kansas State Engineer wins national awards

WHEELS of the Engineer magazine look over an issue together. Jim Linger and Mary Fran Caron are co-editor and business manager, respectively.

THE KANSAS STATE ENGINEER, edited by engineers and architects for engineers and architects, took high honors in the National Association of Engineering College Magazines competition.

Last year's Engineer was picked as the best all-around magazine. It won first place for the best individual cover and second for all-around covers. A second place for individual writing was also won.

Co-editors this year were Jim Linger and Bob Small. Mary Fran Caron was business manager. Faculty advisers were Prof. Earl D. Layman, Asst. Dean Richard Potter, and Prof. Leland S. Hobson.

Although the Engineer is primarily for engineering and architectural students, it is widely read in all schools. The magazine's articles are written to appeal to professional, student, and layman. The Engineer is paid for by advertisements and part of the engineering seminar fee.

November's Engineer featured articles about atomic power; October's featured color television. The special December Christmas issue was printed in green with a red cover. Opportunities in engineering was the theme of the January issue and Open House stories dominated February's. In the March number flood control was discussed. The annual spring issue came in April. The May issue told of education in engineering.

EXPERT or layman can read and understand the Engineer.

Air news and views

THE VOICES of K-State are its two radio stations, KSAC and KSDB-FM, both with studios located in Nichols gym.

All of Manhattan held its ear close to the FM radio on the nights of the College's basketball games in the West. KSDB-FM, the student station, was the only station which brought those games to town.

Other features have been the Lobby Talks, interviews with movie-goers direct from the theaters; Great Adventures, adaptations of novels; Story-book Sue, tailor-made for children; and broadcasts of K-State baseball games and high school sports.

Many of the meetings and forums on campus are broadcast by KSAC. Lisle L. Longsdorf, extension editor, is the station's department head. Bernard Holbert is chief engineer and Larry Crissman is assistant engineer.

The College assemblies, the flood forum, the labor-management roundtable, Engineers Open House, Hospitality Days, Farm and Home Week, Feeders' Day, and the 4-H Roundup are among those campus meetings broadcast by KSAC.

Their regular programs specialize in educational features, farm news, and music.

Honoraries

These two college students (male and female) have just been made members of honoraries—organizations that insist on the brainier sort. If you want proof, look at the pledge ribbons, not at the heads. Each of the two has a two-point-x average, which is something you get by studying hard and inviting your tougher professors to Sunday-afternoon tea. Upon graduation honorary students selfishly take all the cushioned jobs.

Recognize grades, campus activities

BLUE KEY sponsors the Homecoming Ball which was held in the new gymnasium for the first time in 1951. That's just one of the projects of the national honorary fraternity first organized at the University of Florida in 1924. At K-State the fraternity also conducts the selection of the Homecoming Queen. Senior men recognized as leaders in scholarship and activities may be elected to the fraternity. Bob Steele was president; Jim Linger, vice-president; Don Shoup, recording secretary; Carroll Reece, corresponding secretary; and Trevor Watson, treasurer. Sponsors are Dean William Craig and President James A. McCain.

ORGANIZED in 1915 as XIX, Mortar Board became affiliated with the national honor society of the same name in 1928. Since then the society has been known as Mortar Board. Membership is limited to 19 women, as signified by XIX, the Roman numerals for 19. This year's president was Mary Baertch; Diane Alexander was vice-president and Dorcas Speer, treasurer. New members are selected from outstanding junior women. Members sell mums at the Homecoming game and sponsor a scholarship banquet. Miss Dorothy Pettis, Miss Gertrude Lienkaemper and Mrs. James A. McCain are sponsors.

Music sorority grants scholarship

PRIX, junior women's honorary, became affiliated this year with Chimes, national women's honor society. Organized in 1916, the society strives for a more rounded educational life for its members. Two meetings are held each month, one for business, the second an informal dinner meeting. Members are chosen from the sophomore class and must have high qualities of character and leadership. Members serve as guides to campus visitors and help during orientation week. They also sponsor a portable information booth. Marjorie Bradt was president, Miss Golda Crawford, faculty sponsor.

MU PHI EPSILON awarded a scholarship to an outstanding freshman girl in the Department of Music this year. Members also gave two recitals and presented a musical program at Fort Riley through the Red Cross. Membership is based on scholarship, musicianship, character, and personality. A national professional music sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon promotes friendship among its members. Margaret Nelson was president; Kay Patterson, secretary; Yvonna Whiteley, treasurer; and Joyce Ann Davis, chaplain-chorister. Miss Clarice Painter is faculty sponsor.

Who's Who candidates from K-State

THIRTY-TWO top notch seniors were nominated for Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges from Kansas State this year.

Students nominated for the honor were selected from nominations of each campus organization.

Candidates must have a grade point average of 1.5, participated in extracurricular activities, and show high qualities of character, leadership in college activities, and future usefulness. After being nominated the candidates are rated by five people familiar with the qualifications of each student.

The nominations then go to a committee of students and faculty who make final recommendations to Who's Who.

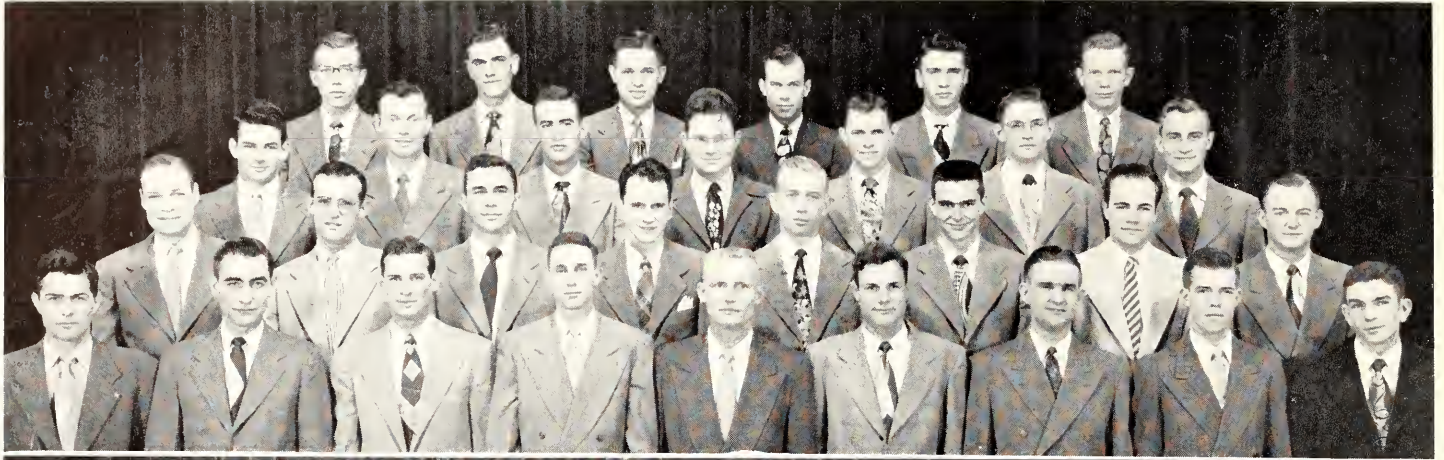

Seniors selected will have their picture and a short biography of their achievements in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Aggies grant scholarship; athletes sell

ALPHA ZETA, honorary fraternity for students in Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine, presents programs at its meetings that have an agricultural and educational value.

New members elected to the fraternity must have completed one and a half academic years of college, be in the upper two-fifths of their class, and show recognized qualities of leadership and character. The national fraternity was founded at Columbus, Ohio, in 1897.

Each year Alpha Zeta awards a scholarship to the student in the School of Agriculture or Vet Medicine having the highest grades in the freshman class.

Officers this year were Harvey Arand, chancellor; Kenneth Currie, censor; Harland Priddle, scribe; Armin Grosse, treasurer; Stanley Creek, chronicler; and Wayne Shirk, sergeant at arms. Dr. Leigh Baker, Raymond Olson, and Merton Otto are the faculty sponsors.

frosh caps, cowbells

K-FRATERNITY furnished the K-Room in the Field House this year. The fraternity's purpose is to organize men who have lettered in athletics at K-State. Membership is thus limited to those who have won a varsity "K." To raise funds K-Men sell freshman beanies in the fall. John Gibson was president; Francis Starns, vice-president; Lynn Burris, secretary-treasurer; and Duane Holder, corresponding secretary. Coaches Leon (Red) Reynard and Fritz Knorr advise the group.

MEMBERSHIP in Phi Epsilon Kappa is limited to honorary physical education majors. Members sell cow bells, sponsor a senior book fund to buy reference books for physical education students' use, a physical education mixer for men, a founders' day banquet in the spring, and a mixer for men and women majoring in physical education. Members must have an acceptable scholastic standing and be approved by the active members and sponsor, Prof. L. P. Washburn. Beryl Drumm was president.

Journalists, engineers, businessmen,

IF YOU see lights burning late at night in Kedzie Hall, the chances are a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, is working on some student publication. Besides editing the April Fool Collegian, members also catered at the Royal Purple Beauty Ball, and sponsored an all-journalism picnic and baseball game. Jack James, former student and now Korean war correspondent, was speaker at one of their meetings.

STEEL RING encourages underclass participation in activities fostering engineering and architecture. Juniors and seniors in engineering and architecture who possess leadership and a 1.00 minimum grade average are eligible. The 60 members presented a Steel Ring Trophy to the most outstanding exhibit at Open House. Robert Ritter was president. Faculty sponsors are Dr. Reed Morse, Prof. L. M. #### ALPHA KAPPA PSI ## and medical technologists

ALPHA Kappa Psi sponsored two picnics this year besides bringing in outstanding professional businessmen as speakers at monthly meetings. New members must have completed 30 hours in the business school with a 1.75 average and 45 hours with a 1.5 average. Roger Lawson was president; Richard Brown, vice-president; and Wayne Horlacher, secretary. Faculty sponsors are Profs. A. A. Holtz and H. M. Stewart.

ALPHA Delta Theta promotes social and intellectual cooperation and fellowship among medical technology students. This year the organization helped sponsor a cancer funds drive on the campus, sold Christmas cards, and celebrated Founders' Day in February. Its members also brought exhibits to the Kansas Society of Medical Technologists in the spring. Barbara Peverley was president.

Geology frat takes two field trips

PERSHING Rifles represented Kansas State's military department with a color guard in the Homecoming parade and an exhibition during half time at the Oklahoma football game. The local company was host to companies from neighboring states for the annual regimental convention and drill meet. Established in 1894, it is the oldest existing American college military society. Captain D. C. Ayers headed the company. Captain Swinehart is sponsor.

NO ROCKS in these students' heads even though rocks will someday provide financial support for most of Sigma Gamma Epsilon members. This honorary geological fraternity sponsored semi-monthly seminars for Williston Geology Club and the annual spring geology field trip. It joined with KU for a joint field trip in the fall. # Scholastic Honoraries

The application of your brains to your chosen curriculum is, if you have brains, almost sure to result in an invitation to join an honorary scholastic organization. It is advisable that you meet your curriculum, which is invariably hidden somewhere in the college catalog, as early as possible in your college career. At first you will not think much of it, but it grows on you as your eyes open.

Helped 53 gain top scholastic honors

TO BE ELIGIBLE for Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary society which grants the highest scholastic honor obtainable at K-State, students must be seniors and rank in the upper ten per cent in their school scholastically. For the fall 1951-52 selection this meant that Engineering and Architecture seniors must have a 2.68 grade average, while required averages in other schools were Agriculture, 2.55; Arts and Sciences, 2.48; Home Economics, 2.75; Veterinary Medicine, 2.54, and the School of Graduate Study, 2.89.

Each year outstanding freshman scholars are recognized by the awarding of Phi Kappa Phi freshman recognition awards. Established at K-State in 1919, Phi Kappa Phi was presided over this year by Professor George Montgomery.

Engineers, writers

Emphasize professional leadership

ELECTRICAL engineers with high grades may join Eta Kappa Nu. Members made an award to an outstanding double E sophomore, and worked on projects for Engineers Open House.

There is a rumor, believed false, that mechanical engineers communicate only by slide rule. Even though Pi Tau Sigma conducted a slide rule class it is reported that these M.E.'s actually talked at the annual smoker for new members.

Climaxing the ladder of success for outstanding women journalists is Theta Sigma Phi. Members sponsored the Matrix Table dinner and sold graduation invitations.

Milling honorary supplies flour

TO BECOME a member of Phi Alpha Mu, honorary for junior and senior women in Arts and Sciences, girls were required to have completed 30 hours at K-State and rank in the upper 15 per cent of their class scholastically. Marillyn Weisbender led these girls, who held a spring tea for prospective members, and Miss Golda Crawford was the sponsor.

A HOME EC major, junior or senior, might find herself a member of Omicron Nu, national scholastic home economics honorary—that is, if she's in the upper 10 per cent of her junior class or upper 20 per cent of her senior class. Omicron Nu sponsored a tutoring service, freshman and transfer student teas, and gave an award to the freshman with high grades.

to needy Manhattan families

STUDENTS over in milling didn't study all the time. or at least the Alpha Mu students didn't. They had the annual fall smoker for milling students at which the highest ranking freshman was presented an award, and the annual spring banquet for members. All Alpha Mu members took part in the Christmas milling of flour for the needy families of Manhattan.

A NEWLY organized group on the campus is the Arnold Air Society for advanced students enrolled in Air Force R.O.T.C. New members must have a 2.00 average in their Basic R.O.T.C. courses and a 1.5 overall grade average. The society provides social benefits for members. Last fall they co-sponsored the Military Ball with Scabbard and Blade members.

Honoraries

Encourage scholarship -- sponsor

IF HE CARRIES a slide rule, it's a safe bet he's an engineer. To go further involves technical speculation as to his branch, and this makes no difference in Sigma Tau. Any engineer in the upper third of the junior or senior class is eligible for membership. This engineering honorary sponsored St. Pat's Prom in conjunction with Engineers Open House, maintained the "KS" on K Hill, and the pyramid in front of Engineering Hall.

Each year Sigma Tau presents medals to the three engineering students with the highest scholarship during their freshman year. The fraternity was founded at the University of Nebraska in 1904 and the K-State chapter was organized in 1912. Twenty-seven chapters throughout the United States seek to promote the ideals of engineering education. Carrol Reece was president and Prof. Leon V. White sponsor.

St. Pat's Prom and Military Ball

NOT TO BE outdone by other departments of the engineering school, the architects have an honorary too. Tau Sigma Delta receives into membership those students in architecture, landscape architecture and architectural engineering who have completed five-eighths of the curriculum and are in the upper 15 per cent of their classes. G. A. Huber held the prexy title. Profs John Helm and J. R. Brenneman are sponsors.

SCABBARD and Blade sponsors the Military Ball, only all-school formal. This honorary for advanced R.O.T.C. students, founded at the University of Wisconsin and disbanded during World War One, was reorganized in 1920. K-State's chapter, established in 1914, reorganized in 1920, disbanded in 1942, was again reorganized in 1947. Jerome Schnittker was president and Capt. Harold Koopman was group sponsor.

Departmental

In college everything depends on your getting in the right departmental organization, or organizations—maybe in eight or ten of them. The more of them you get in, the more you get out—and around. You meet people in departmental organizations, people who pretend to be interested in the same things you are pretending to be interested in. The great danger is that often you really get interested—and make something of yourself.

Frog club membership is doubled

THE STUDENT Chapter of the American Institute of Architects exchanged drawings and exhibits with other colleges. Exhibits were displayed in the gallery in the Engineering building. The organization serves as a stepping stone for students who want to become members of the American Institute of Architects. Business meetings and smokers were held monthly at which architects, builders, and lawyers were featured as speakers.

MEMBERS of the Frog club cannot miss more than three meetings if they expect to stay in the swimming club. Before joining they must pass a series of tryouts and show an interest in the organization. Each year members present an aquacade, and throughout the year they learn new swimming skills. The club's membership increased from 25 to 50 in 1951-1952. Judy Rombold was president. Miss Eva Lyman sponsors the group.

ORGANIZED in 1914 as the Saddle and Sirloin club, the Block and Bridle club is a charter member of the national club of the same name. Their sponsor, Prof. D. L. Mackintosh, was elected president of the National Block and Bridle club this year. The club co-sponsors the Little American Royal, holds an annual judging contest, an annual Feeder's Day banquet, and a steak fry each fall. Bob Edwards was president.

A MODEL wheat kernel project was sponsored by the Klod and Kernel Klub this year. The group promotes comradeship by holding two steak fries each year. Members also sponsor a crops judging contest in the spring. Students interested in agronomy and its problems and faculty members of the Agronomy department may join the club. STUDENTS in electrical engineering may join the Student Chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Members prepared an exhibit for Open House this year. The club develops its members' abilities and promotes fellowship through meetings featuring discussions of various technical subjects in the field. Its 30 members were headed by Robert Thoman, chairman. Prof. Earl L. Sitz sponsors the group.

THREE members of the Student Branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers are officers in the mid-central section of A.S.Ag.E. Members operated a refreshment stand for the L-P Gas carburetion school. Seniors in the club are given a banquet before they graduate. Active since its founding in 1915, the organization boasted 57 members for 1951-52. Gene Shove was president. J. W. Funk is faculty adviser.

RADIO ENGINEERS

during July flood disaster

THE STUDENT Branch of the American Institute of Radio Engineers brought in outside speakers and up-to-date films from the Kansas City chapter for its regular meetings. Strong educational emphasis was placed on skill in the electronics field. Members entered a contest for technical papers sponsored by the national organization. Presiding this year was Bill Rathbun. Prof. J. E. Wolfe is faculty sponsor.

THERE'S no measuring the services that Kansas State Amateur Radio Club members render. During the July floods radio operators transmitted important messages from the disaster area. The club provided an amateur station at low cost for members to operate. These licensed shortwave radio fans operated WoQQQ, a 750 watt radio station. Roy Gillett was president and Prof. J. E. Wolfe was the sponsor.

Continue feud with Aggies

K-STATE veterinarians were first organized in 1906 to aid in the advancement of the science of veterinary medicine and to promote professional and social activities among students in the school. In 1939 the organization received its charter and was named the K-State chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The white covered men of north campus kept up their traditional feuding with the Aggies during Ag Week last fall. They poured dye in the horse tank south at East Ag which is used for dunking Ag students.

Later in the week Vets dumped butyric acid in the tank. Then at the Barn-warmer Queen contest they put acid on a greased pig which the queen contestants tried to catch. But after the week was over Aggies agreed it would have been a dull week if the Vets had not kept it alive with continual feuding.

The Vets started off their social calendar in the fall with a smoker for new members. Later a dance for veterinary medicine students was held. When Homecoming rolled around they entered a float in the Homecoming parade. Graduating seniors were honored this spring with a dance and banquet.

But social activities are not the only thing Vets participate in. They have teams in intramural athletic competition. This year they were way out ahead of competing intramural teams. They also played a softball game with the Oklahoma A&M chapter of the Jr. AVMA in the spring.

Leading the veterinary medicine students first semester were Jack Savage, president; Richard Claybaker, vice-president; Grover Jones, secretary; Arthur Beat, treasurer; Lowell Breedan, marshal; and John Gross, critic.

Taking over second semester were Bobby Steele, president; Richard Hudson, vice-president; Alfred Gigstad, secretary; Arthur Beat, treasurer; Charles Schnitzler, marshal; and J. A. Sprowls, critic. Don Shuman is president-elect for next fall.

Dr. J. E. Mosier and Dr. M. J. Swenson sponsor the K-State chapter of the Junior American Veterinary Medical Association.

SPONSORING the Kansas Entomological Society is the job of the Entomology club. The club was founded in 1921 as the Popenoe Entomological club. Membership is open to any one interested in, associated with or actively engaged in entomological work. The club promotes the science and art of entomology at K-State. Carl Yoshimoto was president for 1951-52. Professor A. D. Wilbur is faculty adviser for the organization.

WOMEN physical education majors may join PHEMS. The club has been active on the campus for the past fifteen years. Throughout the year members entertained with a Christmas party, senior dinner, initiation picnic for new members, and a "Play Day" for high school girls in this area. The club brought in professional golfers and tennis players for demonstrations. Marilyn Garrison served as president. Eva Lyman is faculty adviser.

POULTRY SCIENCE CLUB

poultry club throws a barbecue

POULTRY club members served refreshments to several groups meeting on the campus this year. They published a newsletter, helped with poultry judging contests, and sold turkeys during the holiday season. Members also found time to hold two chicken barbecues. Last fall they entered College poultry at the State Fair, winning several blue ribbons. Don Grisham was president. Prof. Loyal F. Payne is faculty adviser.

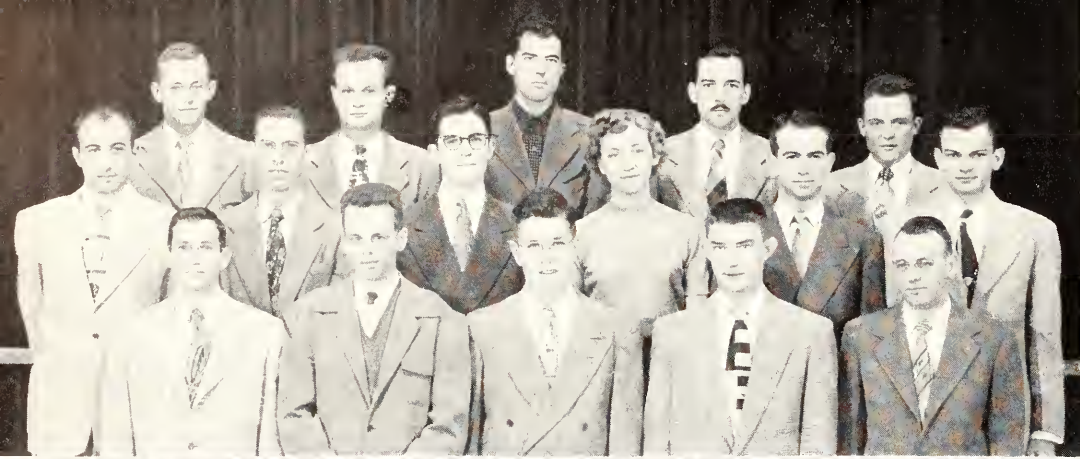

JOHN COLWELL was chairman of the Student Chapter of the American Chemical Society. The society helps chemistry and chemical engineering majors get acquainted. Members learn how to prepare and present technical papers before an audience. They also have many privileges of membership in the American Chemical Society although they are not members of the national. Dr. W. G. Schrenk served as faculty sponsor this year.

Kansas State College believes in a free and active exercise of your belief in a divine power making for the gradual benefit of mankind. It believes in your bringing your religion to college with you and using it in your study and your social life. In the following pages more than a score of organizations are presented that offer you acquaintanceship, good companionship, and opportunity for pleasant, active religious work.

Methodists have sunrise service.

MORE THAN 500 Methodists make Wesley Foundation their "home away from home."

There's never a dull moment at Wesley Foundation because there is always something for members to do. During orientation week there are the welcoming teas for new students. When November comes there is a Thanksgiving Dinner. Christmas festivities top the activity calendar in December with the annual Easter Sunrise Service being the outstanding event in the spring.

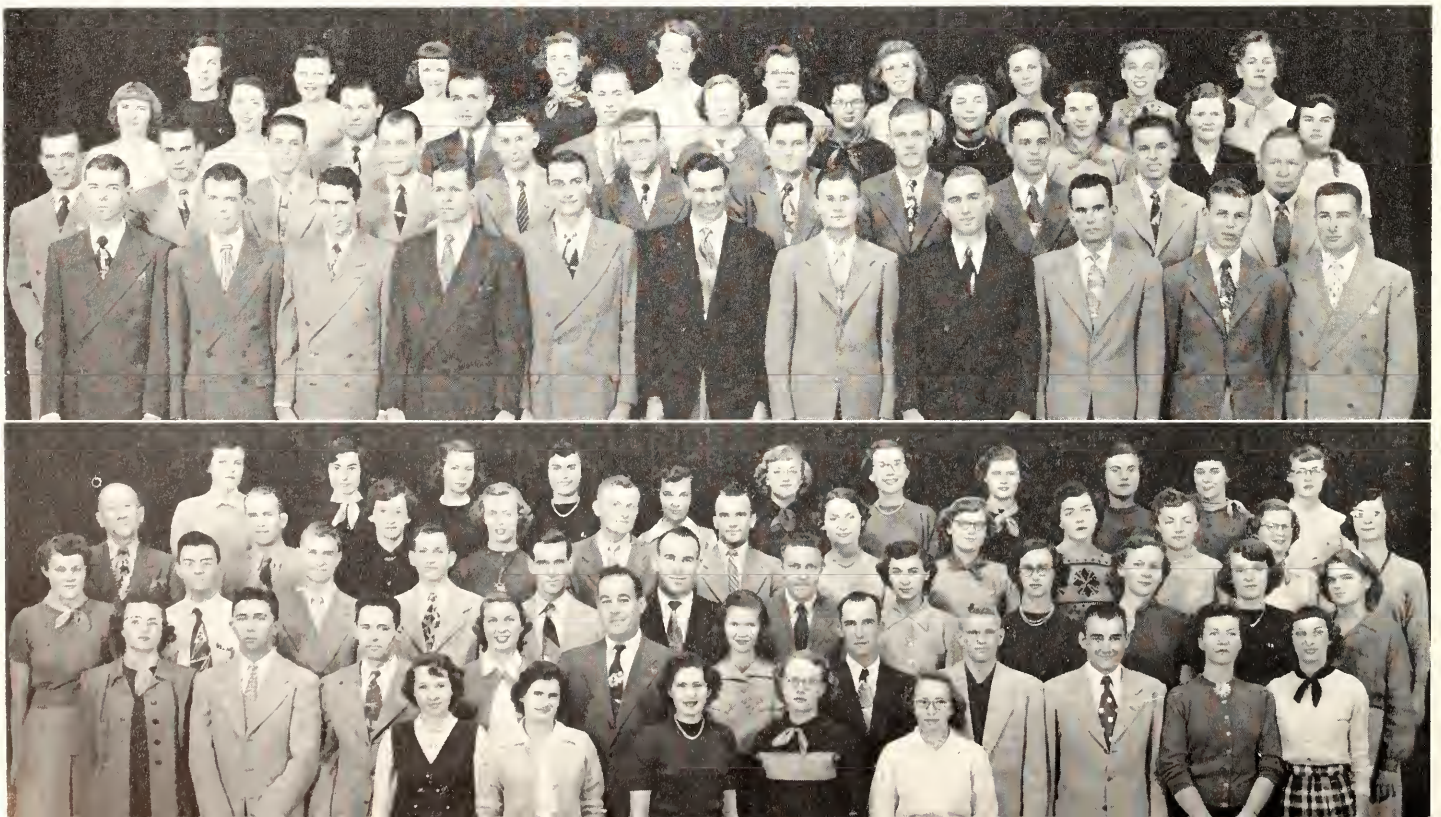

Not to be forgotten are the weekly forums on Sunday and the Saturday Nighters. Those who are musically inclined help the Wesley Singers. Sometimes students just drop in to talk with the director and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. B. A. Rogers.

Keith Selby was president of Wesley Foundation for 1951-52. Helping Selby were Roberta Collins, vice-president; Mary Harmon, secretary; Jim Tubach, treasurer; and a sixty-member cabinet.

WESLEY FOUNDATION OF KSC

Lutherans aid Tokyo charity

THE NAME Gamma Delta embodies the aims and purposes of this group, for "gamma" signifies Christian knowledge, and "delta" denotes Christian service. The Mu chapter program is three fold—religious, educational, and social.

Joining forces with Gamma Delta chapters all over the United States, the chapter at K-State contributed to the Tokyo project. The donations made it possible to build a Lutheran student center in Tokyo.

Last fall, after some difficulty in finding a suitable site, the members took off for the annual fall picnic in the country. Each spring they have a banquet and invite a Gamma Delta chapter from some other schools to be their guests.

Things ran smoothly for this group of Lutheran students of the Synodical conference under the direction of the executive officers. Warren Nettleton was president; officers. Warren Nettleton was president. William Baehr is sponsor.

July floods

Provided a real opportunity to put

A SERIOUSNESS seems to settle over Rogers Hall every other Tuesday evening when the Kappa Phi girls gather to learn how to be "a leader in the church of tomorrow." These Methodists live up to their motto "Others" each Christmas when they journey to the I.O.O.F. home for a party with the residents. They also helped with the church nursery and provided a program for the Women's Society of Christian Service. Ruth Bennett was president and Dr. Abby Marlatt and Mrs. Laura Baxter are sponsors.

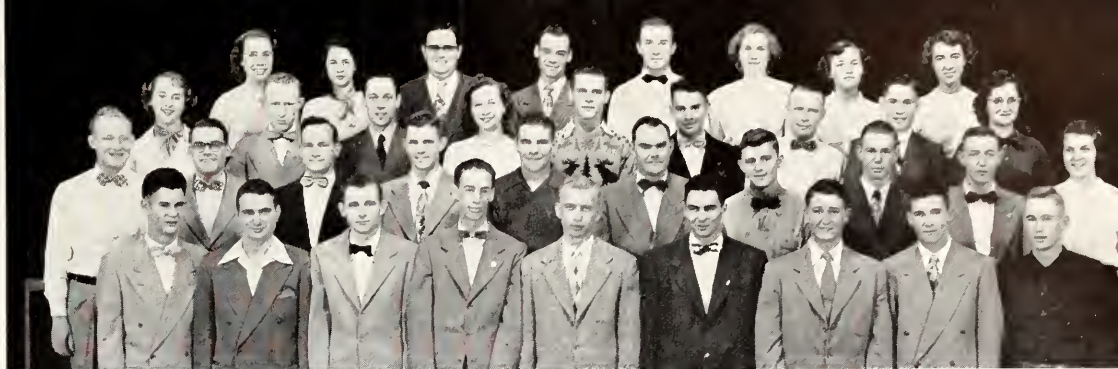

FINDING nights full of meetings, members of the Methodist Men's Club decided to meet at 7:30 Sunday mornings. The major project for Bob Warne's Methodist men was going through the procedure of becoming recognized as a chapter of Sigma Theta Epsilon, national fraternity of Methodist college men. The local chapter went inactive during the war, then reactivated. Members also sang in the early church services, and assisted flood-stricken Manhattan families. Homer Socolofsky is sponsor.

Christian principles into practice

AT THE Disciple Student Foundation one finds students making plans for 225 members whose religious preference is the Christian church or an affiliate. President Elvin Prather and the group took programs to the Ft. Riley hospital, brought a child from the Colorado orphanage to Manhattan for Christmas, gave blood to the city of Manhattan, and assisted with rehabilitation after the July floods. Faculty sponsors for 1951-52 are Rev. Roy Cartee and Lois Turner.

CHALLENGING Kappa Beta members to "Stir up the gift of God which is within them" is the motto of the girls who are members of the Disciples of Christ church. Under the leadership of Doris Keas these coeds had a Christmas bazaar, sold Christmas cards, and sponsored the annual senior banquet. Special projects included group contributions to the Colorado Christian Home. Assisting with the meetings was vice-president Lorice Ann Miller. C. O. Price sponsors the organization.

Strengthen members in their faith

EVERYBODY was welcome at 315 N. 14th . . . a second home to Presbyterians. Prexied by Merlin Logan, Westminster Fellowship had a Sunday morning college class, a Bible study group, and a graduate study club in addition to the Sunday evening fellowship. Westminster's pastor for twenty-two years, the Rev. Bill Guerrant, retired last year. In July the Rev. Myrvin DeLapp took his place.

Changing its meeting place to Westminster House helped coordinate Phi Alpha with Westminster Fellowship, but didn't mean the end of monthly dinner meetings. These Presbyterian men helped take up the collection at church and sent $50 and two boxes of used clothes to Buckhorn Mission in Kentucky. Dick Fleming was president and Thomas Avery sponsored the group this year.

LUTHERAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION

through work and group fellowship

AROUND five o'clock on Sunday evenings students gathered at the Lutheran Student Association. Headed by Dave Swanson they sponsored a roller skating party, a hayrack ride, and a Christmas party. They were hosts to the Midwest Regional Mid-winter Training Conference in February. The group contributed to foreign and home student missions. Sponsors are Inez Ekdahl and Dr. Verne Sweedlund.

KEYNOTING the United Student Fellowship were educational, inspirational and social programs. There was harmony among the students of Congregational, Evangelical, and Reformed churches as they participated in projects of the national organization, one of which was a scholarship fund for an African student in America. Robert Wilbur was president. R. B. Maxcy is faculty adviser.

YWCA

K-State YWCA

Members travel to Colorado to

THE FIRST paid YWCA secretary on any college campus was the Y secretary at K-State, according to Carolyn Whitmore, director of the local YW.

In October, the YW and the YMCA were hosts to students from Kansas U. and Nebraska U. at the fall Cluster Conference. The International Mart highlighted the November calendar. Delegates from the YW attended the Student Volunteer Movement Conference at Lawrence in December. The college sister program and Spring Break-fast help the girls learn to work together.

In June the members headed for the Estes Conference in Colorado, where Phyl Patton, YW vice-president, was chosen co-chairman of the Rocky Mountain region.

Interest groups and community service projects were high on the activities list. They helped with the flood rehabilitation program and furnished the Lift Week executive chairman and a number of committee chairmen. The cabinet was prexied by Betty Williams and the college sisters headed by Liz Mackintosh. Advisers are Mrs. Stuart Whitcomb and Carolyn Whitmore.

ACTING as ushers at the church helped keep the members of the Junior Deacons Board busy. The Junior Deacons, student Christian men's organization, assists in local church services. To become a member one must be a member of the Christian church and have an associate membership in the Manhattan Christian church. This organization of college men in the Christian church is rather new, having been formed just two years ago. Keith Wiles served as president of the group. Rev. Roy Cartee sponsors the Junior Deacons.

"WE'RE CERTAINLY not alone in this world," said Heinz Mannheim, president of B'nai B'rith Hillel Counselorship. "There are 200 foundations and counselorships around the world which foster social, cultural, and religious activities among Jewish students." The national organization was founded at the University of Illinois in 1925 and initiated at Kansas State twenty-one years later. Officers included Gary Kolko, vice-president; Dorlyn Miller, secretary; Willard Lappen, treasurer. Max Milner served as sponsor.

Started in 1913,

Newman club has 500 members

GREAT OAKS from little acorns grow, it is said. That seems to be the story of Newman club which today boasts a total membership of 500 at K-State. It had its start back in 1913 when seventeen Catholic students met to set up an organization to foster the spiritual and social life of Catholic students on a secular campus. Rev. E. J. Weisenberg of St. Marys College came to advise the group in 1933. He has served as chaplain since that time.

The club provides many activities for its members. Every month there is a breakfast meeting. Social life for the most part centers around regular coffee hours and mixers. There are discussion groups that give the members a chance to express their views as well as to hear the ideas of others on various topics.

Each year, preceding Christmas vacation, the club "gets together" for the annual Christmas party. As the first signs of spring appear all the club members begin to make plans for the Spring Formal that they have been looking forward to as one of the highlights of the spring semester. Throughout the Lenten season the club meets in the chapel for mass. There is also a special retreat during Lent.

Don Biggs acted as president of this 39 year old group of Catholic students. Gene Rizek was vice-president. Ed Malnar was treasurer, and Elise Valcoure served as secretary. J. P. Callahan was sponsor.

YMCA Sponsors Y-Orpheum

SPONSORING the Y-Orpheum proved a big project for Dwight Gilliland's men in the YMCA. Most of the YM's program centered around the work of the various interest groups. The Easter assembly was sponsored jointly with the YWCA. The local president was co-chairman of the Estes conference for this nine-state region. Members attended the Student Volunteer Movement Conference at Lawrence during the Christmas holidays. Herb Pifer is executive secretary.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL. That's Kansas State Christian Fellowship. All members had one thing in common and that was their motto "To know Christ and make Him known." KSCF, the local chapter of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, sponsored missionary meetings, Bible studies, daily prayer groups, and seasonal parties. Biggest event of the year for Bob Mann's group was the International Missionary convention at Urbana, Illinois, which twenty KSCF'ers attended.

See the young man going all-out for his college. Don't laugh at him for being so up in the air. You'd be up in the air too if you were powered by the loyalty that he has. He believes in cooperation, support, unselfishness. He will never be much of an introvert. He will be a backer of good causes, someone his community can count on to push good things along.

Pepsters rallied,

Promoting spirit at K-State

REMEMBER those days when there were so many long-sleeved purple sweaters on-campus that one would think some store had just had a fire sale? No, neither Cole's nor Keller's burned down. It was the Phi Sigma Chi girls, commonly known as Purple Pepsters, and their male partners, the Wampus Cats, promoting football and basketball games. It isn't hard to guess the purpose of these sixty co-eds who have at least sophomore standings.

Purple Pepsters supported the athletic teams at all times by publicizing and sponsoring pep rallies and providing cheering sections at home games. Headed by Jane McKee they marched in the Homecoming parade and helped select the cheerleaders. Helping further K-State sportsmanship were Bev Lewis, vice-president; Dee Williams, secretary; Shirley Sarver, treasurer; Marjorie Bradt, social chairman; and Isabel Bentley, sponsor.

Celebrated club's 25th anniversary

"To MAKE the best better" sounds like quite a job but after seeing a gang of Collegiate 4-H'ers in action their motto doesn't seem quite so impossible. Celebrating its silver anniversary this year the club boasts the largest membership of any service organization on campus.

Carrying to college the ideals integrated into them as 4-H'ers these students gladly pitched in to present a weekly radio program to help those still in club work, edited the Who's Whoot, a yearbook for Kansas 4-H'ers, and helped with campus activities.

The fall dance, spring dinner-dance, annual Christmas party, Rock Springs picnic, and a box supper rounded out the club's social calendar.

Mary Lou Edwards headed the club the fall semester and Ivan Schmedemann presided over spring semester meetings. J. Harold Johnson and the state 4-H staff were sponsors.

Furthered their domestic education

KNIT ONE, purl two—yes, a class in knitting was one of the classes sponsored by the Veterans' Wives' club. Organized in 1945 by Mrs. Milton Eisenhower for the wives of K-State veterans, the club is primarily a social organization. However they had classes in crafts and bridge. Heading the group was Bernadine Woodrow, president. Mrs. Thomas Parker and Mrs. Harold Kulger are sponsors of the group.

JUST BECAUSE hubby goes to college is no sign education stops with the male influence in the home. Wives of K-State students were busy getting an education too. Through the Student Wives Educational Organization they were able to take part in the cooking, swimming, knitting, crafts, and child care interest groups that met once a week. The group was organized in 1947 by the present sponsor, Miss Ellen Batchelor.

GRADUATE WIVES

while husbands went to college

A QUICK GLANCE at the organizations on campus would lead one to believe that everyone at K-State was married. At least the three wives clubs indicate that not everyone on campus is single. Husbands should beware of the way their wives are becoming organized, for it's hard telling what ideas they'll dream up to trick unsuspecting hubby into drying the dinner dishes.

IN AN ATTEMPT to balance curricular and extra curricular activities, Women's Athletic Association members took time off from academic duties to enter into social and athletic events on campus. This physically-minded bunch held monthly play nights and meetings. They sponsored and assisted with women's intramurals. They also participated in at least two intramural sports each semester.

Clubs inform K-State students

JUST TWO years old, Hui O Hawaii is now a successfully established organization on campus. It was started in January of 1950 and was on probation for one year. After this period it was granted permanent recognition as a college organization. Active membership was restricted to K-State students from Hawaii, but associate membership was extended to persons who were interested in the club's aims and purposes.

One of the chief purposes of the club was to disseminate information on the Hawaiian homeland among the student body and faculty. It also aided Hawaiian students who were either coming or desiring to come to the United States.

New members were welcomed to the campus by the annual Aloha picnic. The club had various other social gatherings during the year. The club members proved athletically minded also and entered their Hui O Makule team in intramurals. Members lended a helping hand in cleaning up the flood damage in Manhattan.

President Richard M. Iida's group did a great deal in furthering friendly relations between Hawaiian and U. S. students. Benjamin Sen served as vice-president. Yasue Yamane was secretary and Raymond Chun was treasurer. Dr. Randall C. Hill and Dr. John O. Harris served the club as faculty sponsors.

ARAB STUDENTS CLUB

of homeland customs, people

MANY miles away from home the Arab students decided to organize what is known as the Arab Students club to promote and establish high standards of scholarship, leadership, and a spirit of fellowship.

Members realized that the rest of the student body knew little about their homeland. They have made it the objective of their club to make the Arab countries of the Middle East better known geographically, socially, politically and economically to all students interested in that section of the world. With this purpose in mind the club was granted temporary approval by the Organization Advisory Board in the early spring. The group met the first and third Tuesday of each month for educational and social meetings. Membership was not restricted to Arab students; any student at K-State is eligible if interested in the Middle East countries.

Along social lines the club members took time out for a semester banquet held after the initiation of new members at the beginning of each semester. The club acted as a reception committee to help arrange housing facilities for the new Arab students. Club officers for the year were Fawzy Refai, president; Shakir Al-Sabagh, vice-president; Abdul Tawil, secretary; and Said Al-Wahab, treasurer. Harold Myers was faculty sponsor.

Frosh girls organize pep club

VIVIDLY ALIVE with school spirit is the group of freshman girls known about campus as the Whi-Purs. Taking their name from the first three letters of the K-State colors these girls were on hand at pep rallies, football games, and basketball games to cheer the team on to a Wildcat Victory. This organization, new at K-State this year, is composed entirely of freshman girls. Their white sweaters contrasted against the purple sweaters of the Purple Pepsters and Wampus Cats made it possible for the combined pep sections to form a "K" at the games in the Field House. Marilyn Morton was president of the freshman girls pep club and Jane Ferrell advised the group.

Director Mullins and Coach

ATHLETICS DIRECTOR Larry (Moon) Mullins (top) and business manager Fritz Knorr (below) are shown at their desks in the Field House.

A NEW athletics director and football coaching staff came to K-State this year and joined the old-timers in making the 1951-52 athletic year one of the finest in post-war times.

Under the direction of Coach Bill Meek and his capable aides, a young K-State football team had its best conference season in eight years, winning one game, tying one, and losing four. The Wildcats gained their win at the expense of Missouri and battled Nebraska to a 6-6 tie.

The basketball team, under the direction of Coach Jack Gardner and his new assistant Keith (Dobbie) Lambert, placed second to NCAA champion Kansas University in Big Seven play and was rated third in the nation in the final Associated Press poll. In other sports—wrestling, track, baseball, golf, tennis and gymnastics—the Cat athletes also were successful.

Mullins heads athletics

HEADING the athletics staff this year was Larry (Moon) Mullins, a former star fullback on Knute Rockne's 1929 and 1930 national champion Notre Dame football teams. K-State obtained the personable Mullins from St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa, where he was coaching. The K-State athletics director started his coaching career as backfield coach at the University of Kansas in 1931. He then went to St. Benedict's College at Atchison where he was head coach.

Mullins moved on to Loyola of New Orleans where he directed that school's grid fortunes from 1937-39. In 1940 he coached St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Ia. He spent the next two years at the University of Florida and entered the Navy in 1942. Mullins went back to St. Ambrose after serving as athletics director for several naval bases. He took over the job here when Thurlo McCrady resigned after four years at the helm.

Handling the business side of the Wildcat athletics program was Fritz Knorr, athletics business manager. Knorr had the Herculean job of directing the handling of ticket sales for football and basketball games as well as the task of watching over athletics funds.

Back at K-State after a year's leave of absence is Fred Parris, sports publicity director. To Parris went the job of handling all publicity work on Wildcat athletics. The journalist fed a steady stream of copy on Wildcat athletic doings to radio stations, newspapers, and colleges all over the country.

Meek guides gridiron destiny

FOOTBALL is being rebuilt at K-State, and the young man guiding the gridiron destiny is Bill Meek, who learned his football at Tennessee. Meek played blocking back at Tennessee under General Robert R. Neyland and was a member of two Volunteer teams which wound up successful seasons in the Sugar Bowl.

As an infantry captain in the Army, Meek coached the Fort Benning, Ga., Doughboys to the National Service championship. After his discharge from the service, he joined Jim Tatum's staff at Maryland, where he stayed until taking the K-State post.

The good looking Wildcat football tutor came here to develop a hard hitting team—and one that would win. Meek showed K-State fans that he meant business, too, by developing one of the hardest blocking and tackling teams in the Big Seven.

Meek brought a talented coaching staff with him when he came to K-State's campus. Serving as assistant was John Cudmore, former assistant at Maryland and a former Stetson football player. Backfield coach was Jim LaRue, an ex-Maryland football star and assistant coach. Another former Tennessee great, Royal (Sharkey) Price, came with Meek as line coach. Youngest member of the staff was Jake Rowden, a regular center at Maryland the past four years. Rounding out the new staff was Clyde Van Sickle, a former University of Arkansas line star and later a professional gridder. Van Sickle coached at Arkansas before arriving at K-State.

FRED PARRIS (top) is the Wildcat sports publicity director. New K-State football coach Bill Meek (below) diagrams a single wing offensive play.

Cinny trods State, 34-0

AN AERIAL-MINDED Cincinnati University team handed K-State a 34-0 setback in the season's opener played before 12,000 fans in Memorial Stadium. The Wildcats showed spurts of power but were too green as they made costly errors time and again. Cincinnati, with Gene Rossi connecting on 16 of 24 passes, picked up 186 yards in the air and ran on the ground for 218 yards. The K-State defensive line held the Cincinnati crew to 39 yards in the first half but buckled in the second period. Ted Maupin was the only State back able to gain consistently as the Cats picked up 31 yards on the ground and gained 159 in the air.

COACH BILL MEEK'S 1951 K-State Wildcats fought their way to the best conference record in eight years although they won only one game, tied another, and lost four. Plus their six conference games, the Wildcats played three non-league tilts, losing all three.

What the young K-Staters lacked in experience and poise, they made up in fight and hard work. The K-State coaching staff drilled constantly on fundamentals; the result was a hard hitting Wildcat team respected by all.

The Wildcats lost their first two non-conference games to Cincinnati and Iowa University but in the first Big Seven game, Meek's charges surprised and pleased a crowd of 12,000 fans in Memorial Stadium by tying heavily favored Nebraska, 6-6.

The K-Staters went five straight games without tasting victory until at Columbia, Mo., they caught fire to defeat Missouri 14-12. The conference win was the first for State since 1949 when it edged Colorado 27-13. The win over Missouri took the Cats out of the Big Seven cellar for the first time since 1942.

Meek letters 35 Cats

Meek lettered 35 men, seven of whom were seniors.

The '51 Wildcat team was one of the strongest defensive clubs in the conference. Much of this was due to the spirited work of nearly 15 freshmen who saw action in almost every game. The Cat defense held powerful Iowa university to only 16 points and was able to satisfactorily hold down Bill Reichart, Iowa's all-Big Ten fullback. The K-Staters held Tulsa, the nation's leading rushing team, to 21 points the first half but tired out and finally lost the game 26-42.

Leading the list of individual stars this year was sophomore Veryl Switzer. The 180-pound defensive back was named to the second team All-American defensive squad by the Associated Press and was picked as a first team all-Big Seven defensive safety.

Three individual performances were especially outstanding this season. Eldon Zeller, fleet freshman halfback, recorded the longest kick-off return in modern times when he dashed 89 yards for a touchdown against Iowa State. Ted Maupin, senior back, went 85 yards against KU to establish the second longest run from scrimmage. Lane Brown and Francis Starns teamed together to establish a new Cat mark for a pass play as Starns took a Brown pass good for 94 yards and a touchdown against Colorado.

Maupin is top ball carrier

Maupin was the season's leading ball carrier for the Cats, gaining 300 yards on 46 carries for a 5.56 yard average. In the passing department, Brown led the Cats, completing 36 of 96 flings for a net yardage of 500 yards. Starns was the top pass receiver, pulling in eight aeriels for 213 yards.

Brown was the leading scorer with one touchdown and seven extra-point kicks to his credit for a total of 13 points. Two freshmen, Cecil Taylor and George Carter, had 12 points for the season. Carter led in punting with an average of 38.9 yards on 69 kicks. He was one of the Big Seven's top punters.

Wildcats out-rush and out-pass Nebraska

Cats slow Iowa's Big Ten Star

RATED a 40-point underdog, K-State held a powerful Iowa University football machine to two points in the first half and escaped with a light 16-0 licking. Paced by Veryl Switzer, the Cat defense stopped the Hawkeyes inside the 20-yard line nine times. Five times the Iowans were within 10 yards of a touchdown but couldn't push through the Cat defense. K-State couldn't move offensively, gaining 89 yards in the air but finishing with a minus 21 yards on the ground. The Wildcats were one of the few teams able to hold down Bill Reichart, Hawkeye fullback and outstanding player in the Big Ten.

DICK TOWERS does a summersault over Goll (78) of Nebraska to pick up a few yards. K-State tied the Huskers, 6-6.

IOWA'S Bill Reichart (30), All-Big Ten fullback, is downed by Faubion as Towers (25), O'Boyle (63), and Ebert (60) come to aid the Cat halfback star.

SOPHOMORE Tom O'Boyle (lower left) was a starter at guard this year until an appendectomy temporarily halted his play. He returned to see considerable action in the final game against Missouri. Carvel Oldham (center left) was a number one defensive linebacker as well as an offensive fullback. Frosh Tom Ebert (center right) played both offensive and defensive end this year. Cecil Taylor (lower right) scored one of two touchdowns in the Kansas game. The freshman speedster played halfback and was alternating at a number one position as the season closed.

to tie the favored Cornhuskers at Manhattan

Iowa State wins at Ames

AN INSPIRED Iowa State squad shattered K-State hopes for an early season Big Seven win by thumping the Wildcats 32-6 at Ames. Led by Billy Mann, the Cyclones thrilled their 16,000 Homecoming fans with brilliant passing and running. Only bright spot for K-State came in the second quarter when Eldon Zeller established a new school kick-off return record by dashing 89 yards for a touchdown. Ted Maupin was the top Cat ground gainer with 25 yards on six carries. The Wildcats totalled 84 yards rushing and 94 through the air.

Cats tie favored Huskers, 6-6

K-STATE's inspired footballers made their sixth try for a touchdown good against Nebraska to gain a 6-6 tie with the favored Cornhuskers. The Wildcats out-rushed and out-passed the visitors after allowing them an early TD. Lane Brown scored the K-State touchdown late in the third period from the two yard line, climaxing a 50-yard drive. The Cat defensive wall held the Huskers to only 116 yards on the ground. State rolled for 178 yards and picked up 127 more in the air. Maupin led the Cat offensive attack with 54 yards in nine carries.

13,000 Homecoming fans watch

Cats out-pass Buffs but go under 7-20

A HOMECOMING CROWD of 13,000 fans was on hand for the Colorado—K-State clash which saw the Buffs 20-7 victors. Coach Bill Meek's young Cats, rated four or five touchdown underdogs, trailed only 7-14 at halftime and held the visitors to a lone touchdown in the final half. Francis Starns, senior end, gave the capacity crowd its biggest thrill of the afternoon when he took a pass from Lane Brown and scooted 94 yards for a TD. Brown made the extra point kick good as the half ended. The Wildcats netted 173 yards with their aerial attack but gained only 15 yards on the ground. Colorado, with fullback Merwin Hodel leading the way, rolled for 274 yards rushing and added only 41 yards through passing. George Carter's punting was sensational with a near 50-yard average.

COLORADO's frosh back, Carroll Hardy (27), is knocked off his feet by Jerry Cashman (26). The stubborn Wildeats held Colorado, 20-7.

AUSTIN GENTRY (upper left, top) was a number one offensive tackle for Meek. Though injured several times, he got in enough time to letter. Bob Bertrand (top, lower left) alternated at a first string end position, both offensively and defensively. Dick Shockey (upper center), a speedy 195-pound freshman, played mostly at tailback though he saw some action at fullback. Joe Rainman (right) was one of the freshman line stars who helped give K-State a tough defensive team. Richard Damiani (further right), a 204-pound freshman, showed football know-how at the tackle position.

Colorado take K-State, 20—7

KU wins over Cats 33-14 at Lawrence

A POWERFUL Kansas University football team found Bill Meek's fighting Wildcats tougher than expected and had to exert maximum effort in defeating State 33-14. The Jayhawks, paced by speedy Charlie Hoag, broke through for three touchdowns in the first half but could add only two more in the final half. Ted Maupin, leading Cat ground gainer with 111 yards on seven carries, scored the first K-State touchdown late in the third quarter on a thrilling 85 yard dash. Lane Brown converted. With one minute left in the game, Cecil Taylor caught Jerry Bogue's fumble in the air and sprinted 31 yards for the second Cat score. Brown again converted. Kansas picked up 412 yards on its powerful rushing attack and managed 35 yards in the air. K-State finished with 114 yards rushing and 16 gained passing. The Jayhawk offense opened up right from the start, scoring two TD's in the first quarter. Kansas added one more TD just 30-seconds after the second quarter got underway and picked up its final two scores in the last half.

K-STATE'S top ground gainer Ted Maupin (59) looks for a hole in the Kansas defense. He penetrated it once for an 85-yard touchdown jaunt.

Cats waltz Missouri to 14—12 defeat on Tiger

Tulsa over State, 42-26

ONCE-BEATEN TULSA unleashed a pulverizing ground attack to whip K-State 42-26 in a non-conference game. The highly favored Hurricanes led only 21-13 at halftime as end George Carter scored on a 40-yard pass play from Lane Brown and a 32-yard aerial from Ted Maupin. The Tulsans came back, however, to produce an amazing 705 yards offensively—534 of those yards gained by rushing. State's Carl Albacker passed 31 yards to Cecil Taylor for the third K-State touchdown and Dick Shockey plunged across from the two for the final score.

Sooners take Cats, 33-0

K-STATE STOOD UP surprisingly well under a furious Oklahoma offensive attack, holding the Sooners scoreless in the first quarter before finally dropping the game 33-0. Oklahoma, 1950 national champ and later the '51 Big Seven king, held a slim 13-0 halftime lead. The Sooners, led by All-Big 7 fullback Buck McPhail, gained 422 yards rushing and added 158 yards through passing. State couldn't crack the tough OU defense and gained only 76 yards rushing and 54 passing.

K-State—Missouri, 14-12

K-STATE WON its first conference football game since 1949 in the season's finale against Missouri, 14-12. The victory over Missouri was the first for K-State since 1938 and was the first win over the Tigers at Columbia since 1933.

After the game Meek and his players autographed the game ball and sent it to the parents of Bob Mayer, football star, who had died of polio on the day that fall practice started.

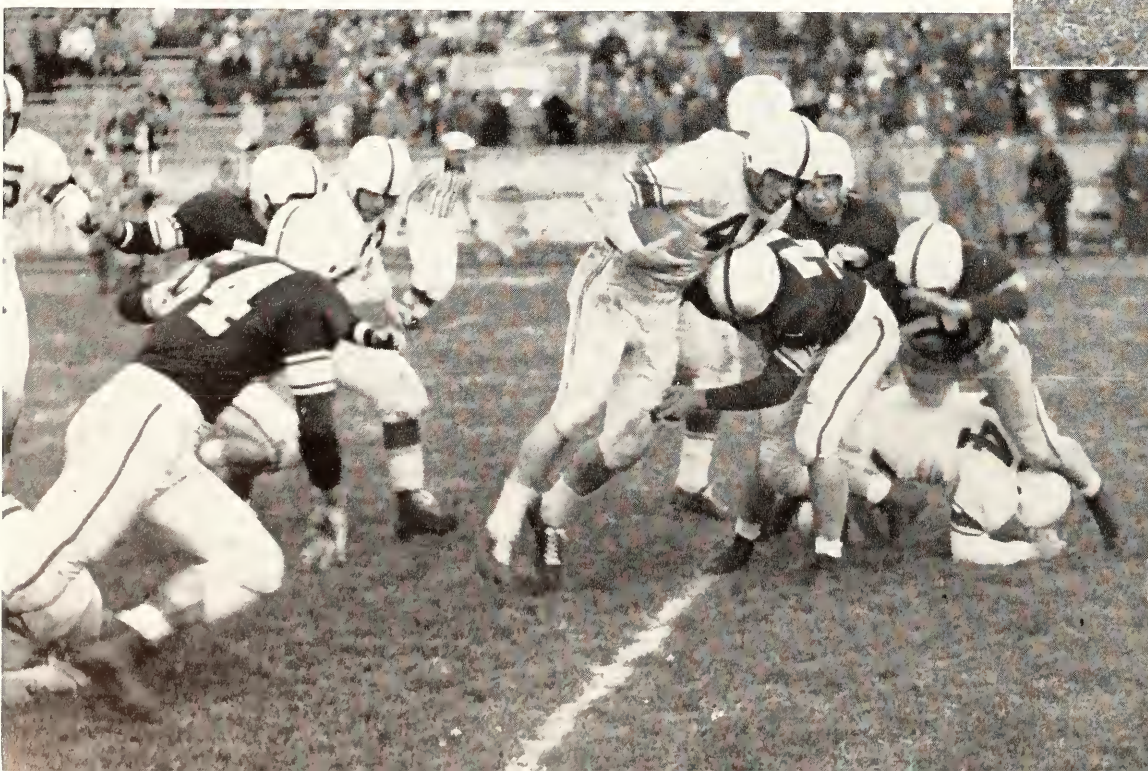

The Wildcats got their first touchdown in the second quarter when Joe Norman intercepted a Tiger pass and dashed into the end zone. Lane Brown converted. Dewey Wade, freshman fullback, pushed across from the one yard line late in the third quarter for the second touchdown and Brown again booted the extra point. K-State turned in its second best offensive showing of the year, gaining 163 yards on the ground and 69 in the air. Missouri picked up 166 yards rushing and added 200 more passing.

Athletic director Larry Mullins summed up the game by saying: "Our win over Missouri was the result of K-State spirit, intelligent and exemplary leadership by Coach Bill Meek and his staff, and a lot of character in a lot of football players who wouldn't give up the ship."

OKLAHOMA'S Buck McPhail (41), All-Big Seven fullback, crashes through the K-State defense for a few yards but Dick Damiani (71) gets a hand on the Sooner back and says "Whoa!"

JACK GARDNER (left), head K-State basketball coach, piloted the Cats to 19 wins and 5 losses this season.

THE 1951-52 K-STATE BASKETBALL TEAM carried the Wildcat colors far into the national limelight again this season. Though the Cats failed to retain the 1950-52 Big Seven championship, they established themselves as the highest scoring crew of cagers in conference history. And even the most optimistic Wildcat fan could recognize that this team of K-Staters did more than expected in finishing second to NCAA champion Kansas in conference competition.

Coach Jack Gardner's cagers finished the season with an impressive 19-5 record. The K-Staters were among the nation's top ten teams in both the Associated and United Press polls throughout the year. At one time the Cats were rated 2nd nationally, a record high for a K-State team. Only Kentucky and Illinois topped the Wildcats in the final AP poll.

representing the United States in the Olympic basketball play—won the Big Seven conference with an 11-1 record. The Jayhawks beat State 78-61 in the deciding game at Lawrence to capture the league flag. K-State, second in loop play with a 10-2 mark, led the conference standings most of the season after smashing Kansas 81-64 at home early in the year.

Colorado shattered all but a dim hope for the championship, however, with a stunning 67-57 upset over the highly favored Cats at Boulder. The K-Staters went into the game at Lawrence tied for first place but lost to Kansas to fall a game behind the Jayhawks. Missouri (6-6) finished third in league competition followed by Colorado, Iowa State, and Oklahoma all tied at (4-3) for fourth, and Nebraska (3-7) seventh.

In the Big Seven pre-season tourney at Kansas City, KU slipped past K-State 90-88 in an overtime thriller in the semi-finals and defeated Missouri to win the tournament. The Cats downed Oklahoma 84-69 to win the third place tournament slot.

As a scoring outfit, the Wildcats bagged 1792 points in 24 games for an average of 74.7 points per outing to set a new K-State all-time team scoring mark. K-State's 1950-51 team averaged 68.8 points for 29 games. In Big Seven play the Cats also established a new conference team scoring mark, hitting 886 points in 12 games for a 73.8 average. Last year's squad won the conference play with an average of 69.6 points per game.

Cats win all home games

THE WILDCATS won all 11 of their home tilts, extending the home victory skein to 21 games. K-State has yet to lose a Big Seven game in the Field House.

Among the many team records set by this year's squad was a new free throw percentage mark. The Wildcats hit 69 per cent of their free throws to rate third in the nation. In scoring 92 points against Hamline the K-Staters collected a record number of points against a non-conference foe.

Top scorer for the Wildcats and a third-team All-American as a junior was Dick Knostman. In just two years the 6-6 center from Wamego, Kansas, has become the greatest scorer in K-State history. The lanky post man remade many individual records in the books, setting new scoring and rebound records. Knostman poured in 39 points against Missouri to set a new school scoring mark. Jack Stone held the former K-State record with 29 points.

Knostman sets new scoring record

KNOSTMAN SET a new school season's scoring mark with 390 points in 24 games for a 16.3 average. Ernie Barrett, an All-American guard on the 1950-51 squad, held the former record of 298 points in 29 games. Knostman, the second best scorer in Big Seven play, also established a new conference scoring record with 225 points in 12 games for an 18.7 average. The big center broke Frank Groves' record for average scoring in league play with his 18.7 mark. Groves' average was 15.4 made in 10 games in the 1936-37 season.

rebounding record. Lew Hitch held the former record of 252 rebounds in 29 games.

Second only to Knostman in scoring was senior guard Jim Iverson, voted the 1951-52 captain at the close of the season. Iverson established himself as the best scoring guard in K-State history, hitting 310 points for the season. He finished as the second high scorer in K-State history. In Big Seven play, the speedy cager scored 176 points for a 14.6 average.

Four seniors spark team

FOUR SENIORS sparked the Wildcat team. The foursome of Jim Iverson, John (Hoot) Gibson, Don Upson, and Dick Peck was on two Big Seven championship teams and one second place squad in three years at K-State. Iverson and Gibson were starters for Gardner this year and both Upson and Peck started several games. Upson, a short but scrappy guard, was voted the most inspirational player by his teammates at the close of the season.

Rounding out the starting lineup with seniors Gibson and Iverson and junior Knostman were Jesse Prisock and Bob Rousey. Prisock, a towering sophomore forward, made rapid improvement throughout the season, finishing as one of the top Cat scorers and rebounders. Rousey had hard luck with injuries, but when in good condition, was a spark plug on the No. 1 Wildcat unit. Members of the No. 2 squad and lettermen were sophomores Gene Stauffer, Gene Wilson, and Junior Jack Carby.

K-State started the season off with an impressive 67-51 win over Purdue and followed up with a 78-54 triumph over a second Big Ten team, Ohio State. With these two home wins under their belts, the Wildcats headed West. K-State snapped Arizona's 81-game home winning streak in the first stop, smashing the Wildcats from Tucson, 76-57. Staters had more trouble with California, but on the last half shooting of Bob Rousey rushed past the Bears, 64-50.

Underdog San Francisco knocked the Cats from their high perch with a 55-52 triumph. The tired K-Staters couldn't keep up with the rebounding Dons who took a 44-41 third quarter lead and stayed out in front for the victory. Back at home after the tiring road trip, K-State edged Denver 65 to 55 and scored the second highest point total in the two-year old Field House in defeating Hamline, 92-73.

Indiana, the only team to beat K-State in its Field House home in 1950-51 play, defeated the Wildcats 80-75 in an overtime thriller at Bloomington.

KU takes pre-season tourney

IN THE Big Seven pre-season tourney at Kansas City, the Wildcats thumped Nebraska 87-67 but lost to Kansas 88-90 in a heartbreaking overtime game. John Gibson tipped one in to make it 80-80 as the regular period ended but Clyde Lovellette and his mates were too much for the Wildcats in the overtime period. The disheartened Cats then pasted Oklahoma 84-69.

K-State warmed up for the Big Seven season with an easy 78-52 victory over Arizona. From Jack Carby's tip-in on, the Wildcats routed Nebraska in their Big 7 opener, defeating the Huskers 71-36. At Norman, the K-Staters, trailing by a 30-36 count, barely got by Oklahoma, 65-54. Only the spirited play of Gene Wilson and Dick Knostman enabled the Cats to come from behind to cop the league tilt. The sizzling Wildcats next smashed Iowa State 76-58 in the Field House after leading 54-33 at halftime.

13,000 fans. The Cats led 40-36 at halftime, and with Gene Wilson and Knostman leading the way, poured on the steam to turn the game into a rout. Knostman finished with 27 points and Wilson had 15. All-American Clyde Lovellette had 31 for the Jayhawks.

Now leading the conference play, K-State slapped Colorado 92-40 in a home game. The Wildcats traveled to Missouri where they were forced to come from behind to defeat the Tigers 55-52. Missouri came to Manhattan for the return game where Knostman led the 86-58 rout with a record breaking 39 points.

Colorado avengers upset Cats, 67-57

A tough four-game road trip was in store next—and the first game of the trip was the disastrous one as an inspired Colorado team avenged its humiliating Manhattan defeat with a 67-57 win. The cold Cats couldn't get going as Knostman and Iverson scored only 12 points between them.

Now trailing Kansas in the Big Seven standings, the Cats beat Nebraska 75-60 and then dumped Iowa State 88-66 to pull into a tie with Kansas for first place. The entire nation watched over television and listened by radio March 7 as the K-Staters and Kansas paired off at Lawrence. Led by Clyde Lovellette, the Jayhawks ripped the cold Wildcats 78 to 61 to all but sew up the Big Seven championship. State hit only eight of 40 shots in the first half and could never get going as the Hawks played near-perfect basketball.

A slim chance remained for K-State. The Cats had only to defeat Oklahoma and have Colorado upset Kansas to go into a tie for first place. State smashed the Sooners 79-58, but the same night the Jayhawks smothered Colorado to win the league flag.

K-STATE'S FRESHMEN, coached by Keith (Dobbie) Lambert through a tough 13-game schedule during 1951-52, won 11 games and lost only two. Against Big Seven B-teams they had an unblemished record with five victories, no losses.

The Wildcat newcomers, tallest in school history, began with a 98-45 win over Forbes air base, followed with a 65-54 triumph over Olathe naval air base, downed Wichita air base 53-35, and made it four-straight at home by trouncing the College of Emporia varsity 81 to 41.

But a star-packed Fort Leonard Wood team proved rougher competition. Led by former Indiana all-American Bill Garrett, Fort Wood won 64-54.

The young Wildcats toppled the Kansas University Bees 54-48 for a Big Seven win, then defeated Missouri's B-team 64-58. K-State returned home to lose to the alumni, 54-76, but retaliated by drubbing the KU Bees again, 65-37. The Wildcats defeated Nebraska 82-66 at Lincoln, and then won against the Huskers 65-37 in the Field House. Lambert's squad finished up the season with a 73-58 win over the intramural all-stars and a 94-82 triumph over Fort Riley's cagers.

Wildcat grapplers end season with

WRESTLING Coach Leon (Red) Reynard piloted the K-Staters to five wins and three defeats this year.

THE WILDCAT WRESTLING TEAM finished its 1952 season with a respectable five won, three lost record. K-State's young grapplers, coached by Leon (Red) Reynard, captured three of four non-conference duals and finished with a 2-2 Big Seven mark.

Oklahoma won the conference wrestling meet with 48 points, followed by Iowa State, 33; Colorado, 16; Nebraska, 9; and K-State, 6. Bobby Mancuso, freshman wrestler, reached the finals in the 123-pound division before losing to Oklahoma's champion Billy Borders.

Mancuso was at the 123-pound position for State, racking up a record of six wins, one draw, and a single defeat. Joe Mosa wrestled in four meets in the 130-pound division, losing all four times. Dean Sheets, a senior wrestler, won five matches and lost three in the 137-pound weight.

Senior Lyle Linnell held down the 147-pound position, winning four matches and losing one. Charles Young wrestled in the 157-pound class for three meets before Captain Leslie Kramer became eligible at second semester. Kramer won three matches and lost two.

Don Lockstrom wrestled in the 167-pound weight class, winning three matches and losing four. Sophomore Ted Weaver held down the 177-pound division and won five meets while losing three. Al Ogden was the regular heavyweight though he was replaced by Dewey Wade when he was injured just before the final dual with Oklahoma.

K-State's matmen opened their season with a 26-4 victory over South Dakota State as Dick Norton, 130-pounder, and Dean Sheets, 137, both pinned their men for the most impressive wins. The Cats followed with a 20-12 victory over Mankato Teachers and then returned home to lose a thriller to Cornell 12-14. State trailed 6-14 before Ted Weaver, 177-pounder, and heavyweight Al Ogden won matches to put the Cats within two points of a tie.

The Wildcat wrestlers upset previously undefeated Colorado State in their next match 14-12 before a crowd of 2,000, the largest ever to watch a wrestling match at K-State. Trailing 8-12 going into the final two matches, State got within shooting range when Weaver won on a decision to make it 11-12. Ogden decisioned Rocky Mountain conference champ Norman Bertoia 4-3 to give K-State the match.

Iowa State handed the Cats their second home defeat of the season in the initial conference match, winning 20-8. Ogden lost his first match of the year to Mel Walden, 8-9. Mancuso pinned his opponent and Captain Leslie Kramer won a 7-1 decision for the eight Cat points.

Ogden sews up Colorado match

The Wildcat wrestlers evened their Big Seven record at a 1-1 count with a slim 14-13 win over Colorado. Again it was Ogden who sewed up the match for State. Don Lockstrom gave the Cats a 11-10 margin in the 167-pound match but Weaver fell victim to Big Seven defensive champ Maynard Skinner and the Buffs took a 13-11 lead. With the weight of the meet on his shoulders, Ogden ruffled up Bob Schald to gain a 4-0 decision and give K-State the victory.

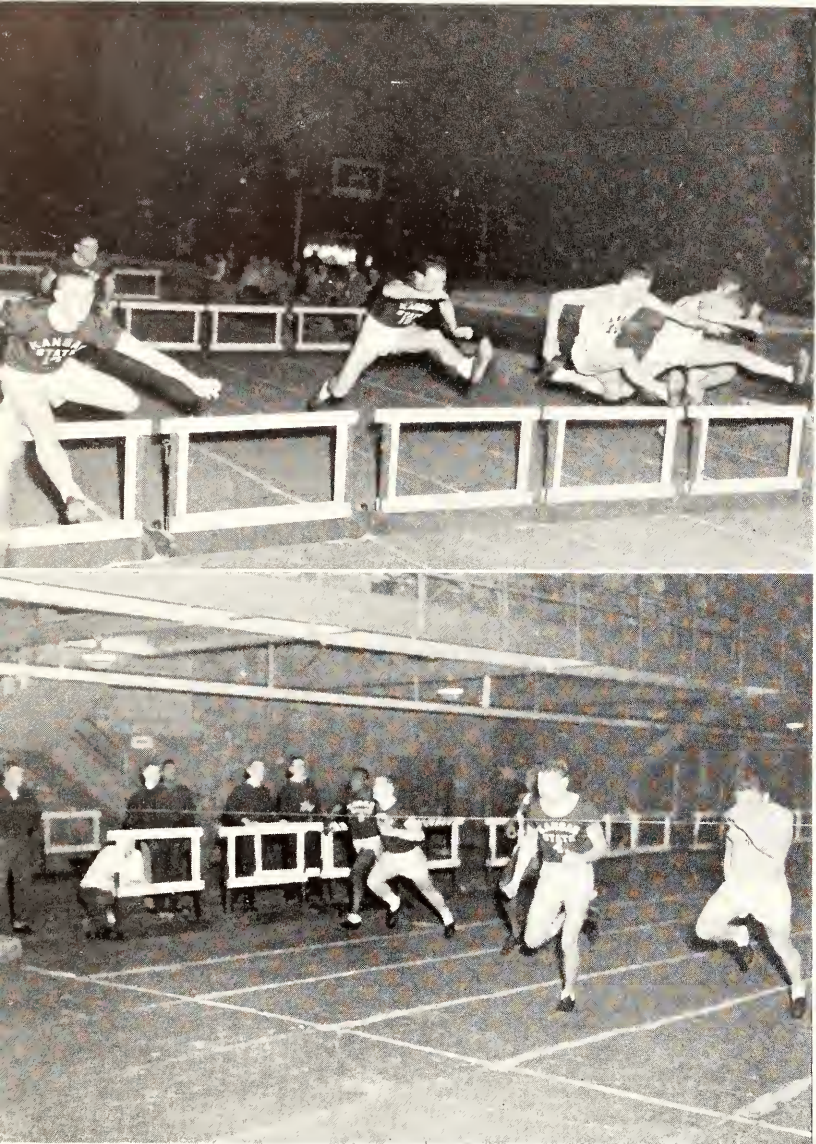

K-State defeated Nebraska 17-8 for an easy Big Seven win but the powerful Oklahoma Sooners blanked the Cats 28-0 in a conference match at Norman. Billy Borders, Big Seven champ, handed Mancuso his only loss of the regular season.

The season over, Weaver, an outstanding newcomer from Salina, placed third in the National wrestling meet at Fort Collins, Colo.

HEAVYWEIGHT Al Ogden (top picture) had a 6-1 record this year. He pulled two meets out of the fire with wins in his final-round match. Lyle Linnell (second picture) won four matches and lost one this year. Ted Weaver (third picture) placed third in the national tourney and finished with a 5-3 season's mark. Don Lockstrom (bottom picture) wrestled in the 167-pound division, winning three matches and losing four this season.

With tough schedule, Indoor tracksters

K-STATE'S indoor track team finished with one of the most impressive records in Wildcat track annals though it competed in the toughest schedule in school history.

The Cat tracksters entered six meets this season, serving as host to two meets in the two-year-old Field House. Coach Ward Haylett's crew won the Colorado Invitational meet and copped a triangular event with Colorado and Iowa State. The K-Staters finished second in the Big Seven meet, placed men in several events in the Michigan State Relays, and lost to Kansas and Nebraska in their only dual meets.

Kansas University racked up 70 $\frac{1}{3}$  points to K-State's 33 $\frac{1}{2}$  in the season's opening meet. Baker won the 60 and 440-yard dashes in record breaking time. Switzer copped the broad jump and Taylor surprised track fans by winning the 60-yard low hurdles and placing second in the 60-yard dash.

Nebraska handed the Cats a second dual-match defeat by a 65-39 count. Baker won the 60 and 440-yard dashes and Herman Wilson won the pole vault with a 12' 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ " vault. Switzer picked up first place points in the broad jump with a record leap of 23' 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ " and the mile relay team of Bob Dahnke, Duane Blackwood, Jerry Rowe, and Thane Baker won its event. Second place winners were Ted Hanson, mile; Hi Faubion, 60-yard high hurdles; and Taylor, low hurdles, Baker led the Wildcat entries in the Michigan State indoor Relays as he dashed 300 meters in :30.8 for a new Relay record. The junior K-State speedster finished second in the 75-yard dash.

Haylett's Wildcats turned in one of their top performances in winning a triangular home meet. K-State finished with 58 $\frac{1}{2}$ points, Iowa State was second with 36½ points, and Colorado placed third with 34. Baker again came through with wins in the 60 and 440-yard runs while Switzer picked up another first in the broad jump. Faubion edged Colorado's Merwin Hodel in the 60-yard high hurdles for first place, Towers won the 880-yard run, and Taylor copped the 60-yard low hurdles.

Kansas University won the Big Seven indoor meet at Kansas City and was followed by K-State. Baker captured both the conference 60 and 440-yard dash crowns and Switzer won the loop broad jump title.

Baker tied the world's record for the 60-yard dash and K-State romped to six first place victories in the Colorado Invitational meet at Boulder. Baker dashed the 60 yards in :06.1 to tie the world mark and tied his 440-yard record by winning the event in :50.1. Towers set a new meet record with a 1:57.1 performance in the 880-yard run. Taylor tied the meet record when he dashed off the 60-yard low hurdles in :06.9 and Switzer won the broad jump. Switzer also copped the septathlon event.

Two-mile team places fourth

K-State's two-mile trackmen won one match, lost two, and placed fourth in the Big Seven meet at Lawrence. The Wildcat runners defeated Iowa State 15-21 as Jim Jorns finished first and Don Thurlow placed second. In the conference meet, Thurlow placed 10th for the best Cat finish. Kansas won the league affair, followed by Oklahoma, Missouri, K-State, Colorado, and Iowa State. Ward Haylett's team lost dual matches to strong Kansas and Oklahoma teams.

With standbys sidelined,

Haylett relies on newcomers

THANE BAKER receives the Big 7 100-yard dash trophy from Chester Brewer.

K-STATE'S 1951 outdoor track team had its ups and downs as several new stars appeared and two old standbys were sidelined with injuries.

Herb Hoskins and Virgil Severns, two seniors expected to have great seasons, both were hampered by injuries forcing Coach Ward Haylett to turn to several promising underclassmen.

Haylett was not without his stars. Thane Baker, a sophomore speedster from Elkhart, progressed rapidly through the season to become one of the country's top sprinters. He won both the 100 and 220-yard dash crowns in the Big Seven outdoor meet and captured the same events in the Missouri Valley AAU meet.

Baker carried the K-State colors into the National meets, placing fourth in the 220-yard dash at the NCAA meet in Seattle and fifth in the 100-yard dash. With a 21.3 time in the 220, he clipped two seconds off the old record he held jointly with L. R. (Red) Irwin. In the National AAU meet at Berkeley, Baker was sixth in the 100-meter race and fourth in the 200-meter dash.

Also prominent in the national track circles this year was Don Fraizer. His javelin throw of 201' 5 $\frac{5}{8}$ ", a school record, in the Big Seven meet was just short of a first place position.

The first outing for Haylett's thinclads was the Texas Relays in Austin, Texas. Hoskins was just  $\frac{3}{4}$  inch short of a first place in the broad jump and Severns barely missed defending his championship in the high jump. Baker picked up a second in the 100-yard dash.

Cats hot at Colorado Relays

K-State turned in one of its more balanced performances at the tough Colorado Relays. Bill Stuart, Dick Towers, Dean Kays, and Ted Hanson teamed up for a victorious combination in the two-mile race. Watson, Stuart, Towers, and Baker formed the Wildcat mile relay team which won its event.

each placed third. Baker was barely edged out in the 100-yard dash by Colorado's Dole Kelley and Fraizer was second only to Holley of Colorado in the javelin throw.

Haylett's tracksters lost to KU 54½ to 76½ in their only dual meet. Baker again led the scoring with firsts in the 100 and 220. The Cats picked up points as Fraizer won the javelin throw and Dick Knostman took the discus event.

Hoskins and Severns came through with firsts in the broad jump and high jump and the mile relay team added the final first place.

The University of Missouri was host in the 23rd annual Big Seven track and field meet. The Tigers copped the meet with 129⅔ points followed by Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, K-State, Colorado, and Iowa State.

Baker scores double victory

Baker's double victory in the 100 and 220-yard dashes was the highlight of the Wildcat performances. Fraizer's javelin throw was a few inches short of Colorado's Holley for a second and the speedy Wildcat mile relay team barely lost out to Oklahoma for second place.

Dean Nunn soared 12' 6" in the pole vault for a three-way tie for third while Knostman brought in a sixth place position in the discus. Hanson placed sixth in the mile run and Towers gained a fifth place slot in the 880-yard run.

Sad point of the track carnival for K-State was the failure of two injured Wildcat track greats, Hoskins and Severns, to place in their events.

The regular season over, Haylett entered several of the Cat trackmen in the Missouri Valley AAU meet. Baker dominated the show with dash victories and Fraizer placed second in the javelin.

Internationally known for his track wizardry, Haylett received another honor at the end of the 1951 cinder season when he was selected by the Amateur Athletic Union as head coach of a 12-man track squad to tour Japan. The trip to Japan was Haylett's first to the Far East, but was his fourth overseas jaunt as coach of a United States track team.

TRACK COACH Ward Haylett again received national recognition this year when he coached the US track team on a summer tour of Japan. He was a member of the US Olympic coaching staff in 1948.

K-STATE'S Dick Towers wins his heat of the 880-yard run in the Big Seven outdoor track meet. Towers, an outstanding junior half-miler, finished fifth in the final 880 race. Hi Faubion (right) adjusts a hurdle. Faubion was an outstanding high hurdler for K-State, recording his best time at 14.6 seconds.

DICK KLOSTMAN (left) displays the form he used to clear the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.6 seconds. The 6-6 trackman was also a top discus man. Bill Stuart (center) was a distance runner for K-State. Don Fraizer (right) was one of the top point makers for the Cats, winning second place in the Big Seven and Missouri Valley meets.

DISTANCE runner Dean Kays (left) was a cog on Haylett's relay team as well as a top notch individual point maker in the longer runs. Virgil Severns (right) was hampered by injuries this season and was unable to defend the high jump crowns which he gained in the Texas Relays and Big Seven meet in 1950.

AN OUTSTANDING relay and distance runner for K-State this year was Trevor Watson (left). The senior runner was on the two-mile relay team which won its event in the Colorado relays. Bill Wall (center) was one of Haylett's middle-distance runners this season and Elmer Bates (right) teamed with Fraizer to give K-State a strong entry in the javelin event.

Road trip brings disaster

COACH MICKEY EVANS took an entirely new team of Wildcat golfers into the tough Big Seven link circles this season and emerged with a record of two wins, five losses, and three ties.

The Cats were unimpressive in two non-conference duals with Wichita but came back in their initial home match to smother Nebraska 15-3. A 9-9 tie with a strong Kansas link team and a win over Missouri advanced the K-Staters' undefeated Big 7 string to three and another 9-9 tie with the Jayhawks left them with an unblemished record in four Big Seven contests.

A disastrous road trip followed, however, which found the Cats tying Drake, 6-6, and then bowing to Iowa State, 4½-13½, and to Nebraska, 1-17. Evans' team dropped its final match with Drake here by an 8-10 score.

Graham Hunt upheld K-State's name in the Big Seven meet by tying for individual championship honors with KU's Gene Rourke with a total of 226. Nebraska won the conference meet followed by Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, K-State, and Iowa State.

Two of the five Wildcat golf lettermen—Frank Hooper and Robert Robins—were seniors. Graham Hunt, the No. 1 man; Russell Hicks, No. 2 shooter; and Dick Peck in the No. 4 spot, were all underclassmen.

Establish new K-State record

K-STATE'S 1951 tennis team undertook the toughest schedule in the school's history and finished with a record mark of ten wins, four defeats.

Coach Frank Thompson sent his crew on a three-game Southern tour early in the season. The unpracticed K-Staters dropped to SMU, 0-6, and Oklahoma, 0-7, then gained their first win at the expense of Tulsa, 5-1. The Cats returned to easier ranging grounds then, shutting out Ottawa, 7-0, and Pittsburg Teachers, 7-0. Kansas handed the K-State squad its third defeat, 5-2, but the Cats retaliated with wins over Washburn, 5-2, and Missouri, 7-0. Kansas toppled State, 6-1, but thereafter it was all K-State. The Cats defeated Drake, 7-0, Iowa State 6-1, and Nebraska, 6-1, and returned home to down Washburn, 4-3, and Ottawa, 6-0, in the final home matches.

Roger Coad and Chris Williams represented K-State well in the Big Seven net meet, winning second place in the first division doubles. Oklahoma won the meet followed by Kansas, Colorado, K-State, Missouri, Iowa State, and Nebraska. Four other boys—Dave McFarland, Don Upson, Don Harris and Ron Harris—received letters along with Coad and Williams.

PERSONABLE Ray Wauthier, in his first year at the helm, piloted an unexperienced K-State team to a 5-10 record.

PERK REITEMEIER (left) displays the pitching form he used to win four out of eight games during the 1951 season to rank as the top Cat pitcher. Third baseman Gerald Woody (right) swings at a fast pitch in the Iowa State game. K-State won 5-0.

are slowed by weather, few practices

K-STATE's 1951 baseball team matched the 1950 record of five wins and ten losses this season but could do no better as bad weather and inexperience took their toll.

The Wildcats were unimpressive in their first few games, but finished the season with renewed effort to split the four final two-game series and place sixth in the Big Seven race. Oklahoma, crowned national baseball champion, won the conference play with a 10-1 record, followed by Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, K-State, and Iowa State.

Only five lettermen were available as personable Coach Ray Wauthier prepared a starting nine. The pre-season practices were almost eliminated by rain, forcing Wauthier, in his first year as coach, and his assistants Herbert Neil and Duane Holder to pick the squad before they had much chance to learn the players' capabilities.

Reitemeier leads hitting, pitching

Unmatchable in his performance for K-State was Perk Reitemeier. He led his teammates in both hitting and pitching. The powerful slugger pounded 18 hits in 47 times at bat for a .383 average. He finished the season with a pitching record of four wins and four losses to rank eighth in the league. The capable K-Stater was also the conference's best fielding pitcher.

Not far behind Reitemeier in hitting was Ed Robinson, right fielder. Robinson connected for 12 hits in 37 times at bat for a .324 average and was second in runs-batted-in with seven.

Also among the .300 Cat batters was veteran performer Dick Johnson. The senior right-hander hit 18 times in 60 attempts and tied Reitemeier in runs-batted-in with eight. Johnson, one of the league's finest outfielders, led the conference in two-base hits with five.

A starter in left field was Bob Rousey, who finished with a .267 hitting mark. Bob Bremner, a reliable senior, held down the second base position and finished with a .214 batting mark.

Always a hustler, third baseman Gerald Woody was seventh in Wildcat batting with a .216 average. Earl Woods received a starting berth at first base as a sophomore and was the leading fielder with 108 putouts in 122 chances.

Behind the plate was Ray Holder who managed 65 putouts in 73 attempts. At shortstop was Jack Collier, whose quick throws made him one of the better fielders on the team.

Junior hurler Jim Iverson finished the season with a 1-5 record. Iverson started seven games and finished five, managing 3 hits in 14 times at the plate.

Relief pitchers Gene Kubicki and Sam Pine were important parts of the 1951 Wildcat squad as were Dan Schuyler, first baseman, and Joe Arnold, infielder. Schuyler and Arnold both received starting berths early in the season but had injuries which kept them out of play most of the year.

Non-conference opener rained out

Wauthier's chance to see his team in action before a Big Seven game was lost when a two-game slate with Wichita University was rained out. K-State traveled on to Norman and there dropped two games.

The powerful Sooners thumped the Cats 11-2 on an eighth inning surge in the first game and then pounded Reitemeier off the mound in the second tilt to win 9-5.

Wauthier next prepared his Cats for a two-game slate with Colorado, but both games were rained out. It was off to Lincoln, Neb., the next day for two games with Nebraska. The weather cleared long enough for the first game which found the Huskers shutting out K-State 5-0, but the second clash was rained out.

1951 BASEBALL SQUAD

Cats and Tigers split two at Columbia

The Tigers ripped through two K-State pitchers at Columbia for 12 hits and a 12-1 win in the first game. The second game was a different story, however, as Reitemeier picked up his first pitching victory with a 9-7 win.

A two-game battle with arch-rival Kansas faced the Cats next. The trip to Lawrence was disastrous as the Jayhawks won the first game 10-2 and edged Wauthier's team 4-1 in the second.

The Cats entertained Iowa State for a double battle in Griffith Park early in May. The Cyclones thumped the home team 7-2 the first day with Kubicki the loser. The K-Staters played errorless ball the next day and picked up Win No. 2, 5-0. Iverson was the winning pitcher.

K-State tangled with Kansas the following weekend, dropping the first game 6-9. The Cats avenged three earlier defeats by smashing the Jayhawks 10-2 for their third win in 11 starts. Reitemeier allowed only two hits to become the winning pitcher.

Wauthier's improving team edged Nebraska 2-1 next but dropped a close 5-2 decision to the Huskers in the second game. The Cats were at their best in the first game of their final two-game series as they blasted Missouri, 8-0. Reitemeier collected Win No. 4 as he allowed only four hits.

K-State went down to its tenth defeat in 15 starts the next day in the final Big Seven game for both schools. Iverson was tabbed with the 0-5 defeat.

Is K-State gymnast squad

A NEW, official athletic team at K-State this year was the gymnastic squad. With Frank Thompson as their head, the Cat gymnasts competed in three meets this season. Though they lost in each outing, the newly organized team gained valuable experience.

FRANK L. MYERS, K-State intramural director, moved from Nichols to a new office in the Field House this year.

Intramural program

Covers ten sports

THIS YEAR K-State offered a ten event intramural program consisting of golf, touch football, basketball, volleyball, softball, tennis, horseshoes, handball, track, and swimming to male students not participating in the varsity athletic schedule.

From its beginning in 1920, when basketball was the only sport, K-State's intramural program has been steadily growing. There are now four intramural fields, two east of the President's house, one in the city park and one north of the Military Science building, where a few years ago there were none.

From his new office in the Field House, Intramural Director Frank L. Myers keeps the intramural program running smoothly.

There's more than just glory in winning an intramural championship. Each winning team receives as a trophy a golden figure representing the sport. At the end of each year the winners of the independent and fraternity divisions are awarded a cup. Last year the cups were won by the Jr. AVMA, representing the independent division, and Beta Theta Pi, representing the fraternity division. The ten men from each division with the most individual points are given a coat-sweater with a four inch "K" sewn on its side. Last year's sweater winners were:

THE BETAS AND JR. AVMA started intramurals off last fall by winning the fraternity and independent golf championships. The Beta's Bob Skiver took all-school low scoring honors with a par-tying 70.

Touch football followed immediately. Don't let the word touch mislead you, for every year several boys are "touched" enough to receive sprains and an occasional broken bone. In the independent division, Jr. AVMA retained the football crown it had won the year before. The fraternity race was closer. It was Delt and Beta all the way to the final game with the Deltas winning the last one 26 to 18.

West Stadium, with the help of several former Wildcat basketballers, easily won top rank in the independent division. The Betas pulled through several tight games to come out winner of the fraternity loop. In the all-school playoff, the West Stadium crew downed the Betas by 12 points.

The Betas, sparked by Cat basketball star Dick Knostman, finished on top of the fraternity volleyball heap. In the independent division a towering Logan Smokie team easily won all its matches to take the volleyball trophy.

ALONG WITH SPRING came the most popular intramural sport, softball. Last spring about 1,500 followers were attracted to the diamond. The Beta Theta Pi nine went undefeated to win the fraternity championship. In like manner Jr. AVMA copped top honors for the independents.

Led by All-Big Seven basketball choice Jim Iverson, the boys representing Sigma Alpha Epsilon took several firsts in track and earned an easy victory.

The Sig Alphas, now an almost permanent fixture in the swimming pool, also easily outclassed everyone else to win the swimming trophy.

The Sig Alph team of Gene Kubicki and Ed Head outlasted Ernest Randall and Fred Kern from Theta Xi to win the handball award. Kern went ahead to win the singles trophy for the Theta Xis, however.

It was all AKL in the horseshoe department with Ralph Comiskey and Karl Kramer bringing home the trophy for this sport.

Although the 1951 tennis tournament was small in comparison with other years the interest shown was good. Sid Branson, representing the Junior Wildcats, won the independent singles. Herb Perlow and Donald Komarek took the independent doubles for the YMCA. In the fraternity division the Deltas scored a double victory. Wendell Lady and Dick Dryden won the doubles, with Lady going on to win the singles.

THE PURPOSE OF INTRAMURAL athletics at K-State is to provide all students the opportunity of participating in the recreational activity they desire. The intramural program is not compulsory, but is so attractive that most students seek to enter it.

The Intramural Department furnishes all equipment, facilities, and officials needed for the different sports.

The new Field House has greatly increased the space available for intramurals. Previously, such sports as basketball and volleyball had to be played in the narrow confines of Nichols Gym. Now, in the gym at the Field House, three basketball games can be played at the same time.

All organizations are welcome to join in the intramural program at K-State. Last year there were 47 entries from the independent division and 23 entries from the fraternity division.

Women's intramurals—

Open to all K-State coeds

KATHERYN MCKINNEY has been K-State women's intramural director for six years.

ALMOST HALF of the women enrolled at K-State participate in the women's intramural program. This program offers tennis, table tennis, volleyball, basketball, softball, tenniquoits, badminton, posture, and swimming.

Miss Kathryn McKinney, assistant professor of physical education for women, has been intramural director for the past six years. She's the one that's responsible for the growth of the present intramural program.

The girls' intramural program is run in a manner which differs from that of the boys'. Instead of two divisions, independent and fraternity, the girls all compete in one bracket. Thus the winner of each sport may be either a sorority or independent group.

However, the girls' intramurals are like the boys' in that competition is not limited to physical education majors, but open to all girls.

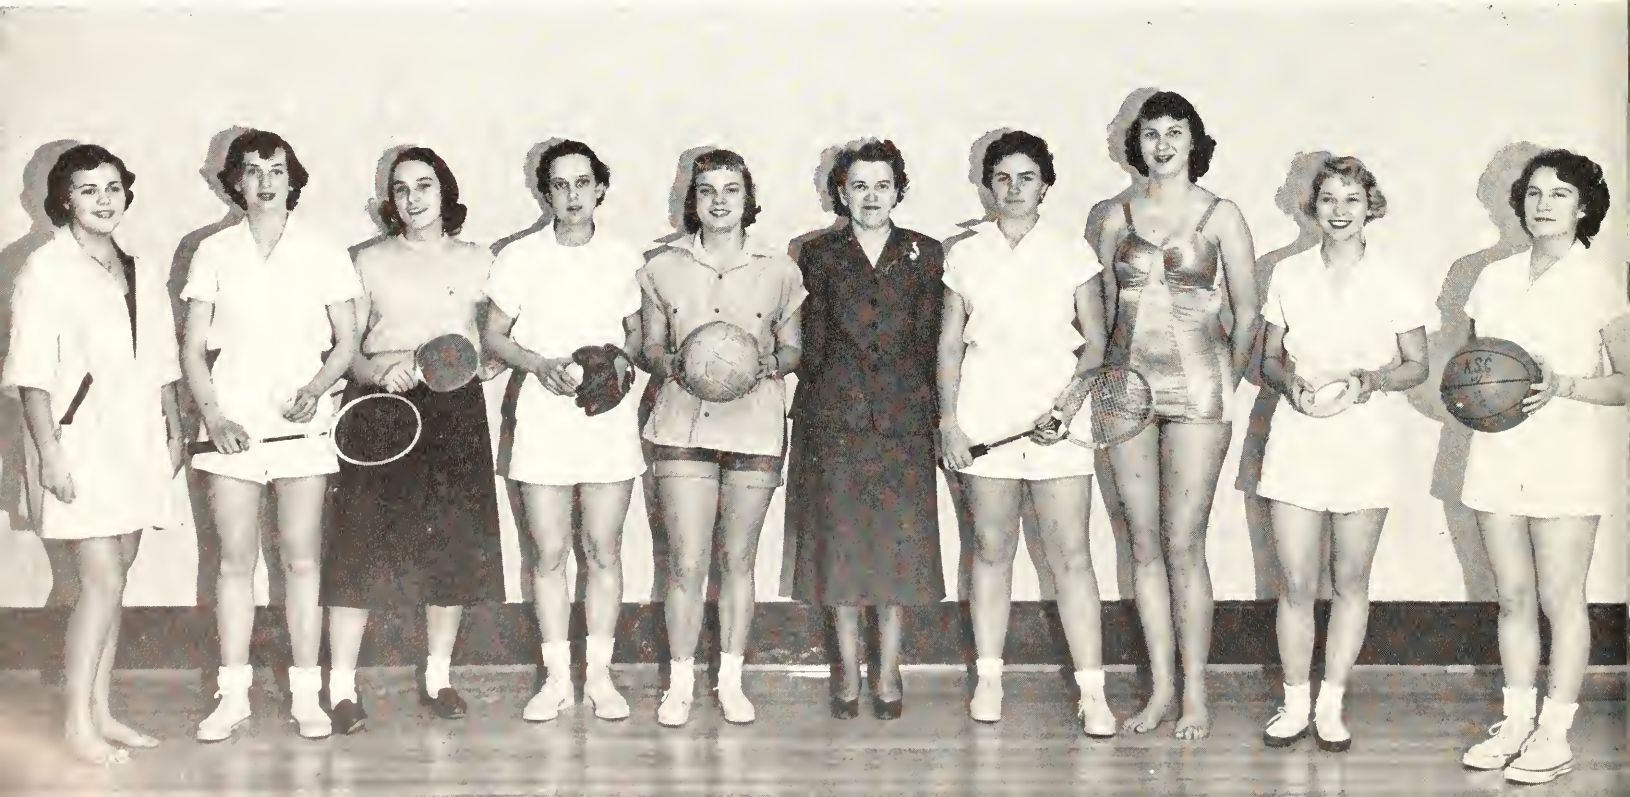

Last fall Sue Burk won the tennis meet and brought the first victory to the Chi Omega house. Barbara Brownell was the independent runner-up.

Following tennis, newcomer Northwest hall made its first bid successful and took the swimming championship away from the defending Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

In basketball, Waltheim regained its hold on the trophy that had rested at Van Zile hall the previous year.

BLITZ BABES, TABLE TENNIS, SINGLES — Edith Payne.

Alpha Delta Pi made up for its loss in swimming by winning the volleyball contest.

The Blitz Babes were the only organization to come through with two winners this year. Wanice Walker and Edith Payne won the table tennis doubles and Edith also won the singles match.

A contest that does not require much athletic ability, but a lot of work, is posture. Alpha Xi Delta retained the posture crown which they had won last year.

The last sport, tenniquoits, was won by the girls from Alpha Chi Omega.

DESPITE FLOOD conditions and incessant rain around the Camp Wood area, delegates to the 1951 Student Planning Conference performed a valuable function by making a variety of helpful recommendations to the College. Interspersed with discussions were sessions of fun and relaxation that convinced the 123 volunteer delegates one could hardly find a better three-day vacation for $1.50, the only fee entailed.

Dean William Craig was introduced to the students for the first time. The delegates spent part of their time talking on serious recommendations for the College. But the rest of the time plenty of amusements were available, including horseback riding, swimming, dancing, pingpong and volleyball.

Though plagued by continuous rains during the three days spent at camp, those SPC-ers who stuck it out seemed to have had a good time.

RUSH WEEK prefaced pre-school activities as sororities opened their doors and active members returned to K-State to prepare for rush week.

Rushees register at Van Zile (left center) where they receive name cards and are assigned rooms for the week. Then they emerge (upper left) for a glimpse of sorority life.

The rushees are kept busy singing, playing bridge, or conversing. Special entertainment was sometimes furnished with party themes ranging from "Under the Big Top" (upper right) to night club and western parties. There also were parties of a more formal nature.

As rush week ended tired but happy rushees became pledges (lower right) and were wildly greeted by their future sorority sisters.

OH! FRATERNITY LIFE!

sighed the two hundred and thirty new fraternity pledges at the close of fraternity rush week this fall. Rush week was held at the same time as freshman orientation so after taking tests throughout the day the rushees were welcomed and entertained at the frat houses in the evening. V. D. "Tiny" Foltz, (center) former fraternity advisor, is seen addressing the rushees at one of their meetings. Seated in the background is Merton Otto who temporarily took over Foltz's position for the remainder of the 1951-52 school year.

CLASS OF 1952...JAN — KEL..

K-STATE SPIRIT at any athletic contest is upheld by the boundless enthusiasm of K-State students. Pep rallies, snake dances, bonfires and burials are supported by crowds of spectators watching an effigy being burned (center right) and burying a foe (bottom).

A K-State roter is seen (upper left) bearing a symbolic wildcat at the K-State pep rally preceding the K. U. vs. K-State football game. Cars of Wildcat roters blocked the business section of Lawrence for the pep rally.

Large crowds attended rallies for home games amid cold or rainy weather (upper right and center). The Nebraska Cornhuskers were given a mock burial (bottom) the evening before the game at Manhattan.

EDITORS DAY saw K-State tie Nebraska 6 - 6. Journalism students (left) served lunch to newspaper editors from across the state. Don Voigt of Nebraska (right) is barely caught by State's Veryl (Joe) Switzer after a short gain.

FLOOD CONTROL and its methods took the lime-light in November when the College sponsored its first Flood Forum.

The 633 delegates from 13 states listened to and participated in discussions and talks by municipal, conservation, and engineering experts.

Three methods of flood control were listed by the group: big reservoirs, watershed treatment, and flood-plain zoning.

The two-day sessions were divided into "Why Floods?", "Can floods be controlled?", "What are the costs?", and "Who will do it?"

Among those attending the forum from out-of-town were governors Arn of Kansas and Val Peterson of Nebraska, former Wyoming governor Leslie A. Miller, Col. L. J. Lincoln and George Feil of the Corps of Army Engineers, J. R. Lloyd of the U. S. Weather Bureau, Kirk M. Sandels of the Soil Conservation Service, and R. G. Baumhoff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

SMILING beauty queen Wann Harwood (left), a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, was presented with roses at the 1952 Royal Purple Beauty Ball. Crowd (right) spent intermission listening to K-State beat Arizona, 76—57.

STUDENTS and faculty combined their efforts in December to give 695 pints of blood to the Red Cross bloodmobile set up in Nichols.

The unit was so swamped with blood that poultry department refrigeration facilities had to be used to store part of the fluid.

It was taken to Kansas City by truck for processing and then flown to Korea.

The last day of the three-day stand saw 249 donors contribute. This topped the 216 pints collected the first day and the 230 given the second day.

The K-State Masonic club did the clerical work involved with the blood drive. They arranged appointments for persons who signed pledges. The Home Ec clubs served refreshments to all donors.

Students under 21 were required to have their parents' consent in writing before giving blood. Anyone absent from classes because of giving blood was excused.

HOSPITALITY DAYS is that time of year looked forward to by Kansas high school girls. During this event the School of Home Economics struts its stuff for visitors from all over the state.

Some of the teen-age guests (upper left) watch a demonstration by a student artist.

Posing in front of Calvin (upper right) are more happy gals as they rest from a tour of the exhibits.

One of the home ec students (left) stands by ready to explain and answer questions about a display.

UNDERCLASSMEN ... SUT — THO ..

CAPS, GOWNS, AND DIPLOMAS symbolize graduation. 1951 spring graduation ceremonies at K-State were held for the first time in the huge Field House arena. Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, former K-State president now serving as president of Pennsylvania State, addressed the graduates. Dr. Eisenhower is shown with president James A. McCain (lower left).

Following the tense moments when the sheepskin is handed the graduate he forgets the ceremony of graduation and remembers only the experiences of his college career.

THE FLOOD OF 1951 created disaster in Manhattan and the surrounding area. Water was on and around much of the city and a great portion of the business district where its depth ranged from four feet deep to more than eight feet deep.

K-State's campus became a unique community as the flood waters rose in the rest of the vicinity. There were 1,800 evacuees housed on the campus and many others aided by students, faculty and state agencies that used the college's equipment during the emergency. The K-State Collegian, radio broadcasting system, dairy, bakery, hospital and cafeteria all directed their services to the flood emergency.

Although the summer school session was temporarily interrupted the students were busy throughout day and night working and helping the flood victims.
