They Think It Smells Like Money

STIFF AS A BOARD

Frank Vilven, Wamego, brought in two coyotes and pocketed $6 for the pair. Tom Duncan, left, owner of the operation, inspects the coyotes.

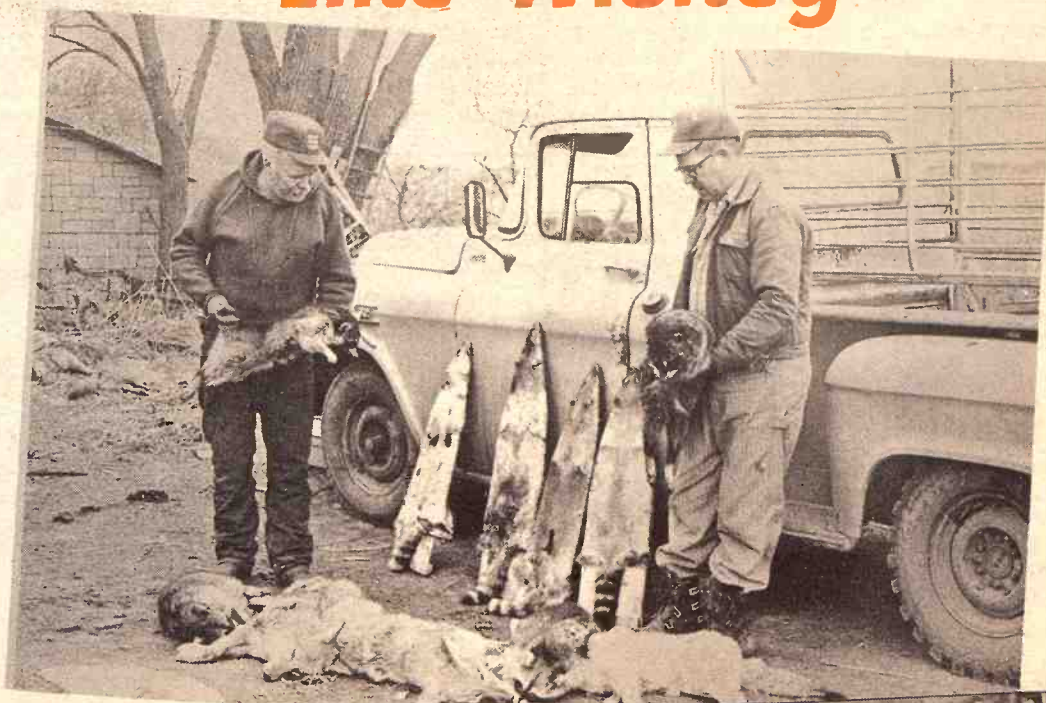

A dilapidated house on the northern outskirts of Westmoreland in Pottawatomie county has become the home of the Duncan Fur Company.

Coyotes hanging on the walls of the house provide advertisement for the year-old business.

The stench of coyote pelts may make a visitor's stomach flip-flop, but Tom and Charles Duncan think it smells like money. "We buy anything with fur on it," says Tom, owner of the company. Rates go up to four bucks for a coyote.

Charles Duncan does the skinning for the company. He's been trapping and skinning for 40 years. "It takes from 12 to 30 minutes to skin a coyote," he says. "Depending on how badly it's shot, its physical factors, and how tired I am," he grins thru a gray mustache.

"We have been getting coyotes from most of the G&G area, and we'll take as many as we can get," Tom says.

STRETCHED COONS

These racoons will miss this year's corn crop. They will dry on these racks and be sold to a buyer, who stops in every two weeks.

PRIME PELTS

The odor may be rank but the price is right. "We wouldn't be in this business if we couldn't make some money," Charles Duncan says. The two Duncans had 38 coyote pelts ready for the buyer last week.

CALLING CARD

These coyotes hanging on the wall are good advertisement for Charles (left) and Tom Duncan. They hang the coyotes to keep them off the ground until they can be skinned.

Hereford Assn. Seeks Link With Commercial Breeders

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—W.T. Berry Jr., executive vice president of the American Hereford Assn., has announced that the AHA Board of Directors has authorized the formation of a new program designed to further expand the association's relationship and liaison with the nation's commercial cattlemen.

The new concept is to be known as the AHA's Commercial Advisory Services (CAS). Berry has also announced that William C. Helming, former general manager and secretary of the American National Cattlemen's Association's Cattle-Fax program, joined AHA February 1 as director of the program.

Commenting on the newly created program, Berry said, "Through association activities involving our Commercial Advisory Council, this association has determined that a further need existed to intensify our relationship with the commercial producer. The new program will perform a broad variety of much needed and requested services to the producers of commercial cattle, thus rendering valuable assistance and a broader market for the registered Hereford breeder."

Helming said, "Our immediate goal is to make a thorough study of the most pressing needs of cattlemen and to determine how best to set our new program into action. We plan to meet these needs by devising workable systems utilizing to the maximum the association's reservoir of talent, experience and records combined with the modern equipment now in use by the AHA. This will allow us to better anticipate the many factors, trends, and services that will have the greatest economic impact on the profit picture for cattlemen throughout the United States."

Helming, 31, devised the ANCA's Cattle-Fax program in 1968 and, under his direction, the program grew to its present 2,300 cow-calf and feedlot operator-subscribers with a million-dollar annual budget. These subscribers represent over twenty-five percent of all cattle-on-feed in the United States.

Health Reports Convincing to British Smokers

Consumption of cigarettes is down in Britain following a hard-hitting report issued by the Royal College of Physicians.

The health issue apparently has taken more hold in Britain than in the United States. There cigarette consumption was up 3 per cent in 1971, but in Britain the government says sales have dropped 5½ per cent in the last year. Tobacco companies put the loss at 4 to 5½ per cent.

The physicians' report, issued a year ago, found cigarette smokers compared to nonsmokers were twice as likely to die in middle age. It estimated that the habit killed 27,000 Britons of 35-64 every year.

Then came health warnings on cigarette packs, antismoking commercials on television, and the extension of "no smoking" areas in public places.

Derek Brown, a marketing executive, was one of those who took the campaign to heart. After smoking 12 years, he was up to 40 a day.

"It was the Royal College's report that finally decided me to give up," he says. "But the TV ads and the extension of the no-smoking areas certainly helped keep me on the straight and narrow. I now have virtually no desire to start smoking again."

The campaign played the cigarette companies at their own game. The message was that if you wished to remain healthy and retain your sex appeal, the first thing to do was give up smoking.

The government also came to an agreement with the tobacco companies under which every pack of cigarettes must carry the message: "warning by H. M. government-smoking can damage your health."

British Rail increased the number of cars where smoking was for-bidden. A national movie-house chain set aside no-smoking areas in an experiment. London's public transport authority banned all smoking on single-decker buses and increased no-smoking cars on the subway to 70 per cent.

Both the tobacco companies and the health educational council believe that economic conditions in Britain, where there are more than one million unemployed, may have played a part in the over-all decline in sales. But both feel this is only marginal. The health council says, "As far as we know the biggest drop in smoking has been among the top social classes. As they are the most prosperous section of the community they would be least likely to give up smoking for economic reasons."

A pack of 20 cigarettes costs 54½ cents in London. Prices in the United States are now as high as 65 cents in New York but American pay scales are higher than in Britain.

GRAZING LEASES OFFERED AT MILFORD

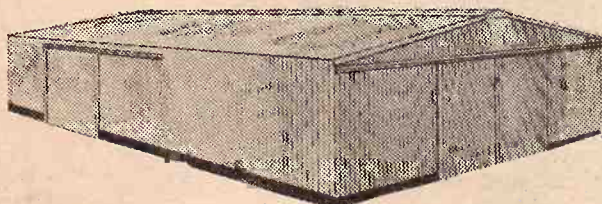

The Corps of Engineers is contracting to lease some 5187 acres in the Milford Lake area this year. The land, in 54 tracts, is mostly for grazing and hay production, although there are some suitable for raising crops. Details can be had from the Corps of Engineers at the Milford Dam site. Bids will be opened February 29.

NEW! MF 124 TWINE BALER... MF 126 WIRE BALER

Increased capacity

These eager eaters from Massey-Ferguson let you bale in a big way. Big 293 sq. in. throat opening is the biggest in the industry. Increased flywheel and shearbolt capacity and heavier clutch keeps you going faster, longer.

Suretie Knotter

New Suretie Knotter on MF 124 has fewer moving parts for increased reliability. You get tighter bales tied with stronger knots.

Superior Infeed

You'll appreciate the unexcelled tractor seat vision and positive crossfeed of the MF 124/126 baler. And the quick-detach windcover gives you easy access to the crossfeed and plunger knife.

Superior Plunger and Chamber

Exclusive 3-point roller plunger support is the most stable plunger arrangement in the industry... gives you precise knife alignment. And Massey-Ferguson's tension density control gives you firm, solid, better-looking bales.

Before you buy your next baler, see the new MF 124/126 balers at your nearest Massey-Ferguson dealership. You'll be glad you did at baling time.

OUR DAILY BREAD

— by G&G Area Cooks

Mrs. Joe Kriss, Prairie Village, Wins Prize

Winner, Mrs. Joe Kriss, 7665 High Drive, Prairie Village: "We all enjoy reading your Grass & Grain paper since our favorite relatives, the Ragos in Junction City, gave us a subscription for this year."

FUNNEL CAKES

- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 cups flour, sifted
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups cooking oil

Mix the first five ingredients together. Heat 2 cups cooking oil in skillet. Get a small funnel — pour about ½ cup batter in funnel into hot oil, fry until light brown. Drain on paper towel; sprinkle powdered sugar on top.

This recipe was sent by Mrs. Eldon Thorman, Clay Center: HOT WATER GINGERBREAD

- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ cup shortening
- ¾ cup boiling water
- 1 cup molasses
- 1 egg
- 1½ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon ginger

- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda

Cream sugar, shortening; add egg and beat well. Add molasses and boiling water; add sifted dry ingredients. Beat till smooth. Note: Mixture will be very thin. Bake at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes.

Mrs. Neil Woodruff, 2315 Timberlane, Manhattan: "Here is a little different peanut butter cookie."

HONEY PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

- ½ cup or 1 stick margarine
- 1 cup peanut butter (not the imitation)
- 1 cup honey
- 1 cup white sugar
- 2 eggs

Beat above ingredients thoroughly. Sift together and stir in:

- 2½ cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons soda
- ¼ teaspoons soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 12 ounces chocolate chips (optional)

Drop by rounded teaspoonsful about two inches apart on lightly greased or teflon cookie sheet. Bake until delicately browned. Don't overcook. Cool slightly and remove from sheet. About six dozen. Bake at 375 degrees, ten-12 minutes.

A hint to make them last longer — freeze part of the dough. Then you can have fresh baked cookies in 15 minutes another day. By the way, the first three ingredients beaten together makes a very good spread for bread.

Mrs. Paul Rombeck, Blue Rapids:

"I look forward each week to seeing recipes in Grass & Grain."

SIMPLE SIMON TUNA PIE

Put chunks of canned tuna in center of casserole. Border with hot noodles, buttered and drained. Pour 1 can cream of mushroom soup, diluted with ½ can water, over the tuna and noodles. Season with salt pepper and grated cheese. Bake in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Serve hot.

+++++

Mrs. Carrol Wahl, R 1, Wheaton: "If you entertain in February try this. It's simple."

CHERRY DESSERT

Crush 25 graham crackers. Mix with ½ cup melted butter and ½ cup sugar and put half of mixture in bottom of pan. Now, mix 2 envelopes of non-dairy whipping cream, 3 cups miniature marshmallows, 2 cups cherry pie filling. Top with remaining cracker mix. Good.

Mrs. Jerry Kolman, R 1, Morrowville: "My husband just subscribed for the Grass & Grain and I really enjoy it. I would like to share this recipe with you. It's a favorite dessert with all of my family."

PINEAPPLE WHIP

- 18 graham crackers
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- Crush graham crackers and mix well with melted butter. Spread half of this mixture in bottom of 9x13-inch pan.
- 1½ cups milk
- 18 regular size marshmallows
- 2 packages Dream Whip
- 1 20-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained

In saucepan over low heat melt marshmallows in milk. Set aside to cool. Prepare Dream Whip as directed on package. Fold Dream Whip into milk and marshmallow mixture. Fold in drained pineapple. Pour over graham cracker layer in pan. Sprinkle rest of graham cracker mixture on top. Keep refrigerated. If desired, you may put ½ maraschino cherry on each serving.

Mrs. Norman Rose, Blue Hill, Nebraska: "I am sending you a dip recipe that we enjoy very much."

DIP

- 8 ounces cream cheese
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 tablespoons Dorothy Lynch dressing
- one-third cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon onion
- Dash salt

You may use onion salt in place of the onion and in that case, omit the salt.

Mrs. C. J. Ballou, Delphos: "Enjoy your recipes and am enclosing a quick, easy and delicious cake recipe."

SOUR CREAM CHOCOLATE CAKE

- 1 cup thick sour cream

Melt 1 stick oleo and whip in 1 cup flour to make a smooth paste. Stir in ½ gallon of water. Saute 2 cups ground beef, drain off the grease and add beef to soup.

Add:
1 cup onions
1 cup carrots
1 cup celery, cubed and pan boiled
Add:
2 cups frozen mixed vegetables
1 can tomatoes
1 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons Accent
2 teaspoons beef concentrate

Bring to boil, reduce heat to simmer. Cook till vegetables are done. May be frozen. I find it freezes wonderfully and like vegetable soups and stews the second time around it seems the taste is better.

Use Imagination To Create Table Setting

Mealtime should be an enjoyable time of day and an attractive table is part of a relaxing repast.

But the average homemaker believes that she hasn't any artistic talent.

A leading consumer-education specialist for a national manufacturing company states that "there's probably an exciting centerpiece july lying around in the refrigerator."

The specialist emphasized a woman need not have an endless supply of china, crystal or silver because there are many ways to vary basics to give a casual or more formal table setting. The refrigerator can even serve as a vital source for centerpieces.

Following the seasons for fresh fruit and vegetables is an excellent way to dress up the table.

A little imagination goes a long way to create a pretty table setting. For a brunch, try lining a baking dish with a napkin and fill it with lemons and fresh eggs.

Artificial flowers can be arranged attractively too. Floral centerpieces should be kept low so diners can view one another.

During the spring and summer, use freshly cut flowers from your own garden to give an outdoorsy feeling.

Candlelight is always enchanting and flattering. A single, large candle surrounded by flowers can add that certain something. For more elaborate occasions, use tapers in pretty bottles or polish wedding candlesticks and use them as a dressy centerpiece.

Napkins can add to the mood of your table too. Folded either plain or fancy and placed on top of the plates, they make your dinner special. For a casual air, flip the napkin loose and stuff it into an empty water glass to add a colorful touch.

In choosing table linen, you can pick from place mats to heavy linen. You can even mix and match tablecloth and napkins for a modern look. Give your dining room a decorator touch by matching your table linens with some accent in the room.

Use your imagination and items from your house will give your dining table an attractive custom look.

Sets Standards For TV Dinners

Sometimes shoppers get concerned about just how nutritious is the food they buy.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has set the first in a series of minimum nutritional standards for convenience foods. The nutritional guidelines apply to frozen heat-and-serve dinners.

The voluntary FDA standards are scheduled to take effect this month of February. They set minimum levels of protein, certain vitamins and minerals and call for a minimum of 340 calories in each TV dinner.

FDA said each dinner you buy should contain at least a source of protein from meat, poultry, fish or cheese; a vegetable and potatoes or a cereal product such as rice.

You can be looking for other products with minimum guidelines in the near future to help assure you of at least minimum nutritional standards.

Coating Will Hold

To keep the egg and crumb mixture for breading meats from falling off while the food is frying, dip the meat in flour first and then the egg mixture.

Fruit Cocktail

When you buy cans of fruit cocktail, you expect to find bits and pieces of several different fruits in sugar syrup.

But did you know that canned fruit cocktail must contain definite proportions of peaches, pineapple, grapes and maraschino cherries?

Fruit cocktail is one of a new mixture that is standardized under federal law. And, just as you might expect, peaches and pears make up the greater part of the mixture.

Read the label and see if these fruits, peaches and pears, are first as ingredients. If you wonder why, it must meet the standard for it.

Advice Offered On Use Of Fragrance

If you're one of those women who think that a dab of scent behind the ears is wearing perfume, you're not making the most of your "scentsibility." Properly applied, perfume will add beauty, femininity, and allure to your life and make you feel like a total woman.

Fragrance has a place in everyday living, not just on special occasions, according to the experts. They offer these tips on application and care of perfume:

Apply fragrance directly to the skin when testing a new scent. Allow the body to develop the fragrance for a moment, then sniff it.

Don't select a scent because you like it on someone else. It is never the same on different persons and it will be unique on you.

Choose a lighter scent for warmer weather. Fragrance intensifies on hot and humid days.

Apply the scent to all pulse points — behind ears, inside the wrist, in the crook of your arm, at the temples, at the base of the throat, and behind your knees. Apply the fragrance about 20 minutes before going out. Don't expect it to last all day. Keep some with you for freshening the scent.

Apply the scent more generously if your skin is dry. Dry skin doesn't retain fragrance as long as oily skin, so you must apply it more often.

Don't hoard fragrance. Once opened, use it regularly because the delicate balance of the scent may change over a period of time.

Keep perfume from being exposed to direct light and extreme heat or cold, for they may affect the balance of the fragrance.

Use fragrance every day.

When You Buy Fruit

When you buy canned fruit, you generally look at the label to see what kind of syrup there is in the can. If the label reads "extra heavy syrup," you know that you're getting the sweetest, thickest sugar syrup used in canned fruits. You also can buy fruits packed in light heavy syrup or in water. The heavier the syrup, the sweeter the fruit and sometimes the higher the price.

Iodized Salt

For years you've been able to buy iodized salt, clearly labeled as such.

Keep reading that label. Soon it should read, according to a new Food and Drug Administration regulation, "this salt supplies iodide, a necessary nutrient."

It is necessary in this part of the country where we lack the nutrient iodide in our soil for proper functioning of the body and prevention of goiter.

To Remove Decals

Remove decals from walls or furniture with the ink blotter treatment. Soak ordinary blotters in water. Press them on the surface over the decals and let them dry thoroughly then peel off both the blotters and the decals.

Blanket Storage

When washing blankets to store, add one cup of mothballs or crystals to the rinse water. Moths will stay away from items treated with this method.

Vary Meat Loaf

Vary your regular meat loaf. Put half the meat mixture into a loaf pan. Top with cooked peas and carrots. Add the remaining mixture. Bake as usual.

TOP POWER at BOTTOM DOLLAR!

case

NEW Power-Priced CASE 1175 451 turbo, 122 (PTO) HP

152 Gross Engine Horsepower

The new power-priced Case 1175 is exactly what its name implies: a brute-strong 122 hp tractor at bottom dollar. No sacrifice of top quality. All the heavy-duty, guts-and-go construction that big power demands as standard equipment.

The temptation in a power-priced special is to take a smaller engine, rev it up and pour in more fuel for a bigger "paper" horsepower rating. What do you get in the new Case 1175? The bigger and faster work capacity of a Case-quality 451 cu. in. turbocharged engine... a bigger displacement giant with the kind of muscle that's tough enough for the overloads. Long-life engine speeds: a rated 2100 rpm. 428 ft.-lbs. of torque!

The standard transmission is super-tough. 8 speeds forward with 5 speeds in the most-used tillage range. Compare power and field speeds with competitive bargain-priced specials — you'll move faster with a Case 1175.

Pigs Are Beautiful ... And People Too

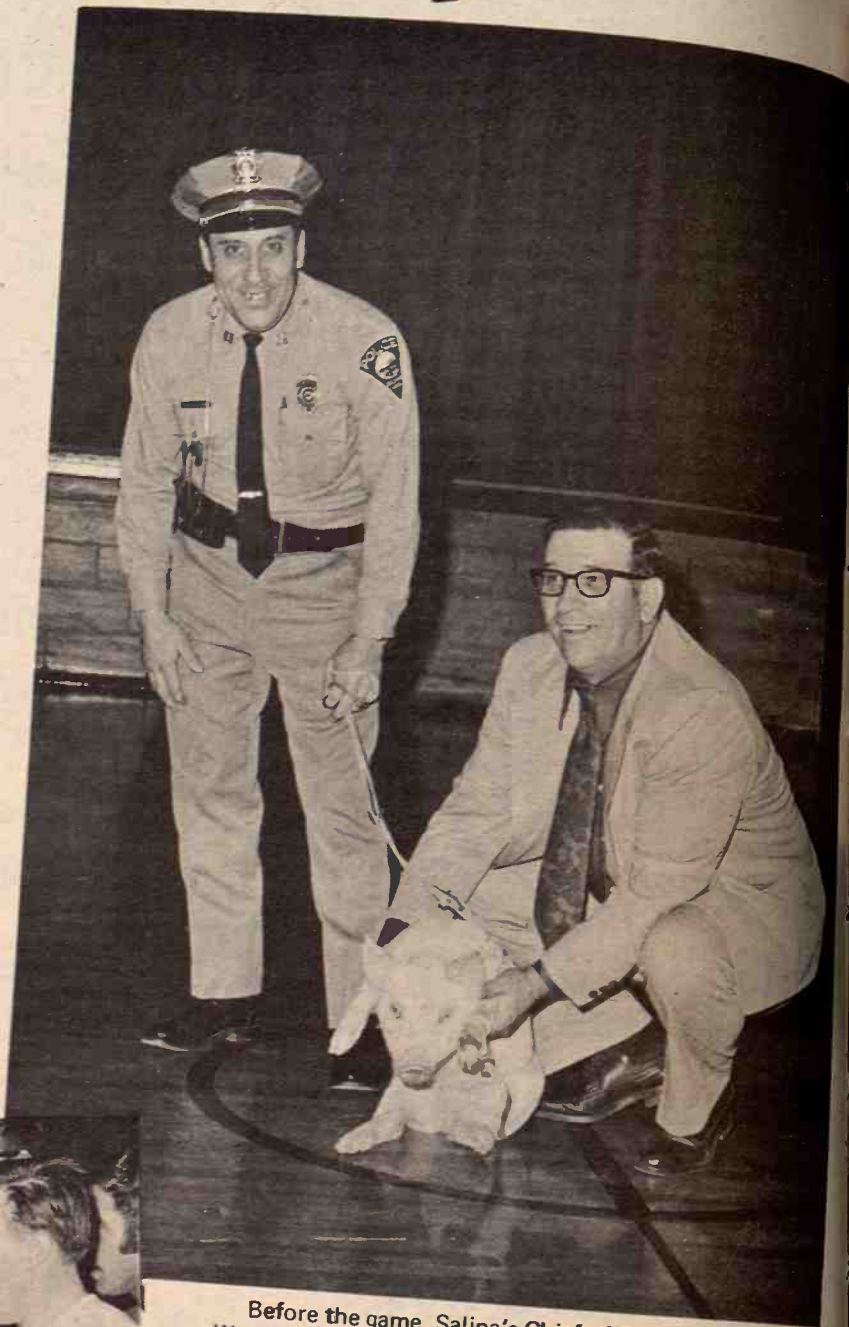

An unusual ball game took place in the Tescott High School gymnasium recently (February 9). Sportsmanship and team spirit were high, with expertise taking a back seat to fun and community concern. This basketball game was sponsored by the MYF of the Tescott United Methodist Church and was played between the Salina Police Force and the Tescott Town Team. Object of the game was to raise funds for Randy Lee, injured in an automobile accident.

Randy, who farms with his father Jim Lee in the Tescott area, was injured December 12. He underwent surgery in Asbury Hospital in Salina and was scheduled to be in traction for six weeks. Chances for his recovery are good but he will be out of work for quite a while.

Coach for the Salina Police Team was John "Honest John" Woody. He is Chief of Police in Salina. Coach for the Tescott Town Team was Fred "Coyote Hunter" Woody of the Tescott-Beverly community. The two men are brothers. The Police team wore shirts emblazoned with "Pigs are Beautiful." A large poster in the gym proclaimed the same thing. The Tescott Team's shirts were imprinted with "Tescott Cheese Co."

As the game progressed, it was quite apparent that strict adherence to rules was of secondary interest. Baskets were worth any where from one to ten points. Sometimes there were as many as fourteen players in the game and at one time one of the Tescott players was hauled off the floor, handcuffed, and put in "jail" by the police. It was not quite clear just what the final score was. Various "complaints" were made to the police with "arrests" being made and the resulting "fines" going into the fund for Randy Lee.

Stories of rural communities getting together to help injured farmers in the Grass & Grain area are quite common, such as several farmers coming in to finish the plowing, etc. This is just one more instance of this community spirit.

Before the game, Salina's Chief of Police "Honest John" Woody (right) led their mascot "Arnold" onto the floor. "This was to further demonstrate" he said "that pigs are beautiful." He is accompanied by patrolman Ken Brown of Salina.

At times action of the floor was quite violent. Patrolman Ken Brown guards "jail" in background.

Randy Lee is in Asbury Hospital in Salina. He will be in traction for a total of six weeks as the result of an automobile accident.

G&G Area Folks Gather At Salina PCA Meeting

About 300 people attended the 38th annual meeting and dinner of the Salina Production Credit Association. The meeting was held at the 4-H Building in Kenwood Park in Salina. At the business meeting Dale S. Galle of Moundridge was reelected to the Board of Directors.

Speaker for the evening was Floyd Ricker of Wichita. Ricker is Vice-president and Secretary of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank in Wichita. Entertainment was provided by the New Dawn Singers from Salina South High School.

The Salina Production Credit Association serves Salina, Ottawa, Ellsworth, Lincoln, Rice, and McPherson Counties.

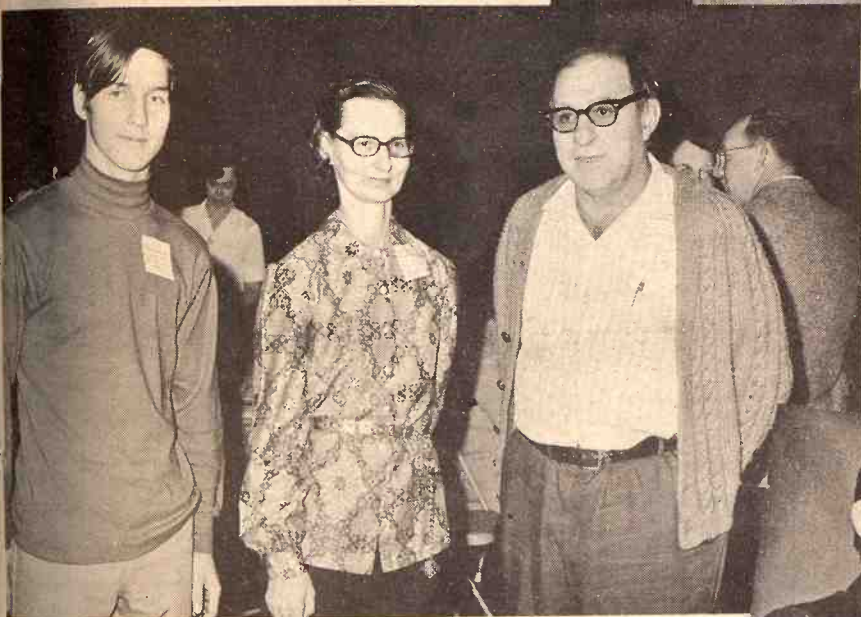

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Burger of Sylvan Grove register at the meeting. Kaye Lindquist of the Salina PCA office pins on their registration cards.

Old friends who used to farm get together, Martin Swanson (left) and Jesse Rothrock now both live in Salina.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Neywick have been with the PCA since 1940. They have a wheat, cattle, and milo farm at Falun.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kratzer and son John were there from Ellsworth. The Kratzers have a cow herd and farm wheat and milo. John is a junior at Ellsworth High School.

Talking together before the meeting is Robert Cassaw (left) of Salina and Mr. & Mrs. Lyman K. Harrington. The Harringtons farm wheat and milo and raise cattle and hogs near New Cambria.

Talking together is Edwin Dent (left) of Bavaria and Floyd Olson of Salina. Dent farms wheat and cattle and raises registered quarter horses. Olson raises wheat and milo.

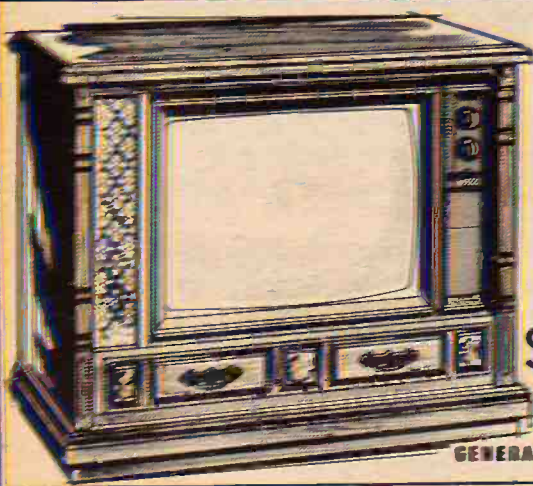

Among those in line for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Thomsen. They raise hogs, cattle and wheat near Geneseo.

A new face at the Salina PCA meeting this year was that of Lance Hart (right). Hart is in a trainee program for PCA work. He will be at the Salina office for 6 weeks, with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank in Wichita for 6 weeks, then with the PCA in Garden City for 7 or 8 weeks. Standing with him is Wilfred Elliott of White City. Elliott is Vice-President and Secretary of the Salina PCA.

'Fair Market Value Of Land' An Elusive Term

It's not an uncommon contention of G&G area farmers that their share of property taxes is unfair. One common argument is that farmland assessments do not accurately reflect the productive worth of the land but instead reflect values set by a limited number of sales which tend by their number and by the occasion of the sale to make land seem to be worth more than it is.

The Kansas House Assessment and Taxation committee heard this point spelled out by the Kansas Farm Bureau at hearings in early February. John K. Blythe, associate director of legislative research for the Farm Bureau, made the presentation. Here it is:

Mr. Chairman, members of the committee, I am John Blythe of the Kansas Farm Bureau legislative research department.

"Fair market value" seems to be an elusive term. Our statutes — 79-503 — state that sales in and of themselves shall not be the sole criteria of fair market value but shall be used in connection with cost, income and such other factors as may be appropriate and include the factor, "sale value on the open market with due allowance to abnormal inflationary factors influencing such values."

Our law also states that "the ratio study shall not be used as an appraisal for appraisal purposes."

79-503 also contains this statement: "To achieve greater uniformity in the appraisal of all real property the director of property valuation is authorized and directed to meet with county assessors, appraisers, and interested property owners in area meetings embracing as many counties as the director deems advisable for the purpose of developing regional guidelines to be used in the appraisal of all classes of real property."

Although our law does contain the statements and factors that I have referred to, it is more difficult to keep the influence of isolated sales of agricultural land from being a major factor in the appraisal of property.

To illustrate the incidence of isolated sales and the resulting abnormal inflationary prices, I would like to give the committee information that we gathered in a study of farm land sales during the year 1969.

I was able to go to the property valuation department and secure all of the rural sales of 1969 used in the assessment-sales ratio report. I might say that I have been unable to repeat this research because of a different interpretation of the law as to who can see this information. These sales numbered approximately 6,000 and they were sent to our county farm bureaus with the request that they investigate these sales and report back their findings.

Thirty-five counties (Anderson, Bourbon, Butler, Cherokee, Clay, Coffey, Comanche, Douglas, Edwards, Ellsworth, Ford, Franklin, Geary, Hamilton, Jewell, Kingman, Labette, Lincoln, Marshall, Meade, Montgomery, Morris, Nemaha, Ness, Osage, Osborne, Pawnee, Phillips, Rawlins, Republic, Russell, Saline, Smith, Stanton and Wabaunsee) representing 1,964 sales, or approximately one-third of the total, thoroughly researched their sales and reported to our department.

Summary of the investigation is as follows:

Sales by Size
Size	No.	Pct.
10 a. or less	593	30.2
10-40 acres	236	12.0
40-80 acres	365	18.5
81-160 acres	474	24.0
161-320 acres	203	10.3
Over 320 acres	93	4.7

Sales by Categories

Reason for Purchase	No.	Pct.
Enlarge farm	655	34.3
Rented land	180	9.4
Purchase by non-farmer	191	10.0
Purchase for better home	52	2.7
Home site	454	23.7
Industrial development	57	3.0
Residential development	68	3.5
Settle estate	170	9.0
Sentimental reasons	8	0.0
Others (hobby, etc.)	72	3.7

Most important is the fact that not a one of the 1,964 transactions involved a complete unit for the new owner.

With this information I would make additional observations:

First—Small percentage of acres selling — only about 1½ percent.

Second — 85 percent of sales were 160 acres or less and half of these were 40 acres or less.

Third—35 percent of sales were to enlarge farm size; 10 percent were to maintain present size by purchase of land that was rented; 24 percent of sales were for home sites; 6½ percent for development sites; 10 percent to settle estates which might be included in first two categories of enlarging farm or maintain size.

Abnormal Inflationary Factors

The normal method of consummating a sale in this country is for the purchaser to buy from an adequate supply. This is true in the purchase of cars, machinery, clothes, groceries and even in the stock market. But in the purchase of agricultural land, this is not true. In this area we have many people with an abundance of money buying from a very limited supply, therefore causing an abnormal inflationary value. The nearest comparison with this market is in the antique business.

The good Lord created only so many acres. With the growth of population, the placing of more and more acres under water in reservoirs, covering more ground with concrete for highways, and the expansion of industry and residential development, we have more buyers for less and less land. And some of these buyers have money they wish to invest with the expectation that land values will continue to increase. The cumulative effect of these demands for land has been an abnormal inflation of farm land prices.

Much of the demand for agricultural land is made by legitimate full-time farmers wishing to expand — indeed, farmers who in most cases are forced to expand. Because of rapid technological changes in agriculture and dramatic changes in the relationship of farm product prices to production costs, farmers are being forced to sell more acres to provide adequate income for their families. Farmers have rationalized the purchase of this abnormally priced land by the fact that most of their farm operation was established over the years at lower prices. They believe that the average of their low-price land will result in a higher price when the figure that will carry the burden of the debt and eventually pay off the loan is reached. Because of the characteristics of agricultural land sales, they believe that it will be necessary to follow the practice of several states who have adopted procedure of appraising agricultural land using agricultural productive worth.

February 22, 1972

Bull Tests - Success Or Failure?

Robert C. deBaca
Iowa State University

There has been a big surge in numbers of bull testing stations in the past few months. Some will succeed—some will wither and fail.

Why?

Among the main reasons bull testing took so long to catch hold was that the industry didn't understand that the cow-calf man was used to the 400 pound calves and when he weaned them he was done — the feeder fed by tradition and did not measure performance — the showing was the measure of excellence, so why test bulls?

Then came the first bull tests. Thin bulls gained the fastest — over-aged bull calves running with them and the "honest" calf came in behind. His weight-per-day of age was high, but his daily gain was low — because it was genetic gain and not compensatory gain. The two things that can ruin a test are inaccurate or false birth dates and compensatory gain. Nothing sells as poorly as unreliability! This is why some tests have died and others are rolling strong.

Beef Improvement Federation has a set of guidelines for sound bull testing. I consider the recommendations excellent with the exception of a "compromise" on maximum allowable age at which a bull can go on test. The industry basically is picking up the recommendations and one sees less and less loopholes in bull test procedures.

This year the Iowa testing stations will have 650 bulls on test. IBIA members and other breeders will have 2,500 to 3,000 more bulls on test at home. The commercial breeder is becoming a critical bull buyer and is paying for credible records. In the years of working with Corn Belt cow-calf producers and cattle feeders, I've seen the economic importance of growth rate become understood. Calves sell by the pound. Their worth is dependent on their dollar-making outcome: The feeder has only two ways to make money from feeder cattle. These are through margin and performance. Performance is controllable genetically, margin is a function of marketing astuteness, gradeability of the cattle and general price levels at the market place.

Some people are trying to go overboard for size in beef cattle. The test stations are not built or run with this intent. In the Iowa stations, each bull is indexed against his own breed ONLY. The ranking is based on daily-gain-while-on test and weight per day of age. The weight per day of age input eliminates advantages of compensatory gain achieved by shrinking the bulls which once was the No. 1 trick.

The allowable age range in Iowa tests is generally 75 days with extension to 90 in off-season tests. Every bull must have a 2.2 pound weight per day of age as he walks off the truck on delivery. We've even sent several of the IBIA director's bulls home for not making weight.

The only way breeders can beat the system is to FLAGRANTLY LIE about the birth dates. Test associations must believe in the basic honesty of its members and when in doubt find out when the bull-in-question's dam calved (per registration) the year before.

A good bull test will use a commercial cattle feeding setting to test bulls in. Their offspring won't be pampered so why should they? By the same token slovenly management draws strong reaction — and fast.

Sire groups of five or more lend further credibility to a test. If a sire group tests well, the most outstanding bull in the group is not doubted, whereas in "groups of one" there are many questions that can come to mind.

Success at the market place speaks out loudly for a test station. Too high a sale average tends to scare some breeders away. Too low a sale average causes doubt of reliability.

If only sound bulls and only the top end of bulls are sold, buyers will flock back — provided they know about the sales. An awareness program — a promotion program is a must.

To test bulls and not make an effort to sell them is to invite non-consignment for the following year. The average consignor must see a return for his effort. To keep him testing, he must realize at least what profit he could make at home. This of course can be partly offset by reliable promotion and a good test on his bulls.

In summary, reliability, adherence to rules, logic and rightness of rules, consistency of bull performance and strong promotion make a testing station successful. Breakdown in any of these links makes the chain weak and the station will fold.

Kansas Fertilizer Sales Increasing

Kansas soil is absorbing more fertilizer than ever before.

Fertilizer sales for the six-month period from July 1 through December 31 were at an all time high in 1971, according to figures of the Kansas Department of Agriculture.

The latest figure was 483,734 tons, higher than the 1970 figure of 435,431 tons and the previous record of 457,362 in 1969.

The report is based on commercial fertilizer sales by manufacturers to Kansas dealers. Sales of actual plant nutrients was 282,567 tons, an increase of 39,112 over 1970 and 17,144 over 1969, the previous record year.

Anyhydrous ammonia sales for the sixth month period were 130,087 tons; liquid mixed fertilizer sales 25,669; and dry mixed fertilizer sales 192,482.

Sumner County led the state in fertilizer sales with a total of 26,188 tons, followed by Reno with 17,189; Harper 14,187; Sedgwick 14,056; and McPherson 13,975.

Ag Tie-In To KSU Open House On March 18

Kansas State University will have its chance to display "ag pride" along with "purple pride" on Ag

GERTRUDE BY TROGDON

Science Day and at the Little American Royal, two events to be held Saturday, March 18, in conjunction with KSU's All-University Open House.

"Environment—Ag's Responsibility," is the theme for the 1972 Ag Science Day. Members of a dozen departmental clubs are creating exhibits on such topics as "Let's Clear the Air About Animal Science" and "The Ultimate in Recycling: the Dairy Cow."

Ag Science Day is a program to acquaint prospective students and their parents with the diversity of professional opportunities open to ag graduates.

The University's Little American Royal, a fitting and showing contest patterned after the Kansas City American Royal, this year has attracted 168 entrants. These students, including 36 coeds, drew lots for K-State owned animals to show earlier this month and have until March 18

Grass & Grain

February 22, 1972

to groom these animals and train them for the show ring.

In the showing and fitting contest the students are judged half on the improvement in the animal's appearance and half on the student's ability to show his animal in the ring.

Again this year the Little American Royal will have two divisions, one sponsored by the KSU Block and Bridle Club, and the other sponsored by the K-State Dairy Club. Linda Good, KSU senior in home economics from Manhattan and the 1971-72 "ag queen" will be on hand to present top prizes to the showmen. Prizes will be given in each of the classes, and for the champion sheep, dairy, swine, beef, and horse showmen.

Scholarships of $100 also will be given by the Little American Royal Association to three participants.

Featured entertainment for the Little American Royal this year will be J. W. Stoker, a trick rope artist who has appeared on many television shows, including the Ed Sullivan Show. He has entertained rodeo audiences throughout the United States and Canada, and in 1970 made a European tour.

The Little American Royal is by far the biggest event each year in the KSU College of Agriculture. There have been 47 shows in the past 53 years, and more than 4,500 students have participated in the contests.

Ag Science Day has been an annual event since 1958. Last year's exhibit competition was won by the Horticulture Club, whose members borrowed more than $2,000 worth of material to create a winning display.

Prize To Wamego Soybean Grower

Albert C. Kientz, of Wamego, was named top producer in the 1971 Soybean Yield Contest.

Contest winners were announced at the Seventh Annual Recognition and Awards Banquet at Manhattan Elmer L. Buster, manager of the Kansas Soya Products Co., Inc., Division of Archer-Daniels-Midland, Emporia.

Kientz harvested 61.3 bushels per acre on his contest plot to top the other producers in the contest.

A $200 cash award and a bronze trophy were presented to the 1971 state champion by the soybean processors, Archer-Daniels-Midland, Fredonia, Ray Strasma, manager; Cargill, Inc., Wichita, Ralph S. Moore, manager; and Kansas Soya Products, Inc., Emporia.

The annual statewide soybean yield contest is sponsored each year by the Kansas soybean processors in cooperation with the Extension Service of Kansas State University, Manhattan.

An all-expense paid tour of three Mediterranean countries was awarded to Kientz and his wife by the Elanco Products Company, manufacturer of Treflan soybean herbicide, and presented by W. W. "Mike" Schraudner, area representative, Agricultural Products Sales, Overland Park, Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Kientz will join top soybean producers from 22 other states for the annual Elanco Soybean Champion International Tour. The 1972 tour will include the fast growing new markets for U.S. soybeans in Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece.

Kientz has been a high yielding soybean producer in each of the past six contests, winning a trophy each year. However, this is his first championship.

A combination of things contributed to producing the high yielding soybeans, including weed sprays, certified seed, fertilizer, and irrigation, Kientz said.

He said irrigation was the big factor this year, since there was less than an inch of rainfall during the critical month of August.

Kientz has lived on the 170-acre Kaw Valley farm a mile south of Wamego in Wabaunsee County since 1945. He produces corn, soybeans, and certified wheat seed, all under irrigation.

Kientz is an outstanding farmer and community leader. In 1969, he received the Kansas Premium Seed Growers Award presented by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce Crop Improvement Committee.

Presently, he is chairman of the Kaw Valley Irrigation Association.

First place winners in the participating districts were awarded $100 cash prizes each and bronze trophies. They were — District 1 northeast, Robert Manson, DeSoto; District 2, Southeast, William Mentzer, Neosho Falls; District 3, Central, Bill Rohr, Belle Plaine; and District 5, Albert Kientz, Wamego (Irrigated).

Second place district winners were awarded $75 cash prizes each and bronze trophies. They were— District 1, Wayne Dicken, DeSoto; District 2, Howard Birkbeck, LeRoy; District 3, Adrian Plansky, Belleville; and District 5, Jack Smith, Beloit.

All soybean grower entrants with yields of 40 bushels or more per acre received bronze plaques. These growers were — District 1, Robert Manson and Wayne Dicken, DeSoto; Robert Korthanke and Randy Korthanke, Robinson; Harold Stallard and Neil Hupe, Perry; District 2, William Mentzer and Forrest Robrahm, Neosho Falls; Howard Birkbeck, LeRoy; William Nelson and Dale Roberds, Pittsburg; District 3, Bill Rohr, Belle Plaine, and District 5, Albert Kientz, Wamego, Jack Smith and John Smith, Beloit; Cecil Vieux, Greensburg; Duane Kasey, McPherson.

The proposed standards themselves will also be revised, said Fri and Eric Stork, director of EPA's Mobile Source Pollution Control Program.

As proposed last October, the expected EPA regulations will apply national standards on carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, and nitrogen oxides to heavy-duty diesel engines for the first time, and would also place federal nitrogen oxide limits for the first time on heavy-duty gasoline engines.

But Fri and Stork said their original proposal, requiring separate testing and control over hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxide would probably be dropped.

They said the 1974 regulations would probably follow the requirements already established in California, allowing a single measurement of the total amount of hydrocarbons plus nitrogen oxide.

Stork admitted this would "leave the manufacturer the option of trading off one pollutant for another"—leaving the hard-to-control nitrogen oxides at high levels.

April 15 Date For Blue Valley Beef Revue

FAIRBURY, Nebr.—April 15 has been set as the date for the 10th annual Blue Valley Beef Revue, one of the largest livestock shows in the G&G area.

The event offers 25 trophies in livestock shows, judging contests, and showmanship for both youth and adult divisions. Last year the show drew about 450 livestock entries and 500 judges.

Location will be the Jefferson County Fairgrounds at Fairbury. The showing will start at 8 a.m. Information for the event can be had from Don Banahan of Steele City, Nebr. 68440.

Delay Smog Rules On Trucks

The Environmental Protection Agency, bowing to objections from the auto industry, says it is softening its proposed antipollution limits on heavy-duty vehicles and delaying their application for one year until 1974.

The agency also said it was developing more advanced standards to be applied in 1976.

Deputy Administrator Robert Fri said critics convinced EPA it was taking the wrong approach, and the agency could not change its plans quickly enough to apply standards to 1973-model trucks and other heavy-duty vehicles.

Fri said standards would be ap-

Who said that you couldn't cut milo in February and come up with good grain? George Visser, Riley, has been over more than 250 acres since harvest began in early October. Visser had a high yield of 75 bushels on one field but the overall yield was around 50 bushels. "The grain is in good shape except for a little dust and the grain dryer takes care of that problem," Visser explained.

No Sales Tax Intended On Feed, Fertilizer

Sales taxes are not likely to be applied to livestock feeds, farm fertilizers and insecticides in any tax repackaging done by the legislature.

That's the word from Topeka, where Governor Docking replied to a legislative inquiry whether or not he intended that a proposed "tax reform" would apply sales tax to feeds and fertilizers.

Docking said that was not his intention, and it appears that there is no major legislative sentiment to do so.

The "tax reform" in question was one of Docking's proposals that sales tax be included on "consumables," goods and services presently excluded from sales tax because they become part of a manufactured product which has sales tax applied to it at the point of sale. For example, there is sales tax on a loaf of bread but not on the flour that the baker bought to make the bread. Or sales tax is applied to a newspaper but not on the newsprint or electricity consumed in the printing of the paper.

Docking has proposed that sales tax be applied to goods and services that go into a manufactured product as well as taxing the final product. The House committee on Assessment and Taxation asked Docking last week if he intended that the extension of the Sales tax would include livestock feed, fertilizer and insecticides.

Shelby Smith, Wichita Republican who is chairman of the committee, indicated that the committee would likely take up the tax repackaging this week, after getting Docking's clarification of his intentions on not taxing farm-related "consumables."

Rural legislators had pledged a stiff fight against the governor's tax reform if it jeopardized the exemption on farm feeds, fertilizers and such.

Docking said in a letter to Smith that there should be no reason for confusion about his position on the agricultural items. He said his budget message made specific recommendations "to eliminate the over-all general term 'consumables' and not to eliminate as an exemption from the Kansas Retail Sales Act any specific itemized exemptions which the Legislature in its wisdom has decreed to be tax exempt."

Docking noted the 1970 Legislature changed the sales tax act from a list of specific exempt items to an over-all exemption of consumables "that were not specifically identified but apparently were to be determined by the Dept. of Revenue."

"This, of course, among other things, has developed into an administrative nightmare. Many persons have questioned whether it is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative function."

"Specific itemized exemptions include feed, insecticides and fertilizers used in agriculture and livestock production—which recommended be exempt," wrote Docking.

Stockmen's Lens On New Investment Credit, Tax Changes

Three provisions in the Revenue Act of 1971 will have a bearing on the livestockman's 1971 tax returns, said Claude Maer, Jr., a tax attorney, in a talk to members of the American National Cattlemen's Association during their recent convention in Denver. Maer is a member of the Holland & Hart staff, which works with ANCA's National Livestock Tax Committee. First, and most significant provision, Maer said, is the section of the law restoring the 7 per cent investment tax credit. For the first time, he pointed out, this credit now applies to breeding livestock (excluding horses). This credit is the same provision that had earlier allowed businesses to deduct 7 per cent of the cost of new production machinery. Now that livestock have been brought under the provisions of the law, stockmen can obtain 7 per cent credit on livestock purchases of up to $50,000 in a single year. If the livestock has a useful life of 7 years or more, this would amount to a maximum credit of $3,500, Maer noted. If the livestock has an expected productive life of five to seven years, the credit will be allowed only on two-third of the value of the stock. If the expected production life is from three to five years, credit is taken on one-third of the value. Maer was deliberately vague on the matter of whether raised breeding livestock would qualify, saying it would appear that because the costs of stock the rancher raised himself are capitalized and eligible for depreciation, that they would be eligible for the investment credit. He noted, however, that the Internal Revenue Service has been hesitant to permit depreciation in the case of raised breeding stock. Provisions, naturally, were written into the law to allow the government to "recapture" any credit given when the animal is disposed of before the full period of useful life has expired. For example, if a bull is purchased for $1,000, and the rancher claims the full $70 investment credit based on a seven year useful life, but disposes of the animal after only four years, then the animal is eligible for only one-third of the investment credit. So, the stockman will find $46 added to his tax bill in the year he disposed of the bull. If a stockman disposes of a breeding animal, and within a year of the disposal, acquires another "substantially identical" animal, the price realized in disposing of the first animal must be subtracted from the purchase price of the new animal to determine the value for tax purposes. This also applies if the replacement is purchased within a year before the disposal of the original animal. Should a stockman be forced to dispose of an animal because of drouth or disease or any reason beyond his control, he can buy replacements and claim full credit on the purchase price. However, the investment recapture provision still applies if the animals are disposed of before their claimed life is up. The amount of investment tax credit that can be deducted from a tax bill in any one year cannot exceed your total tax liability up to $25,000. You are allowed to claim only up to half your liability if the liability is in excess of $25,000. In other words, if your liability is $45,000, then, you may claim $35,000 credit — $25,000 plus one half of $20,000. In 1971 returns, any breeding animals purchased under a contract dated after March 31, 1971, and all breeding animals actually bought after Aug. 31, 1971, are eligible for the credit. The second provision of the 1971 Revenue Act deals with the matter of "hobby farmers," and merely serves to clarify the Tax Reform Act of 1969 that prohibited deducting losses from any activity that was not engaged in with the intent of realizing a profit. The 1969 act specified that in order to be presumed as operating for profit, an operation had to show a profit in any two of five consecutive years. Because of disagreement as to just when in the five year period these profitable years had to occur, the 1971 provision became necessary. Under the old rule, it was difficult to obtain this presumption if, for example, the profits in 1973 and 1974 were used to support profit intent in 1970, 1971, and 1972. The wording of the original law granted presumption of profit only following the second year of profit. The 1971 act provides that the above example could support profit motive in the three years of loss preceding 1973, as well as the three years after 1974. The Tax Reform Act of 1969 contained a provision limiting the amount of farm losses that could be deducted against non-farm income. The act said that if individuals, partners, or Subchapter S corporations receive non-farm income of more than $50,000 in a year, farm losses in excess of $25,000 during that year had to be added to an Excess Deductions Account (EDA). Then, income realized from the sale of farm property, such as livestock, would be treated as capital gains, would be taxed as ordinary income only to the extent of the amount in the EDA. Subchapter S corporations are similar to partnerships in that the corporation or partnership actually pays no taxes. The corporation shareholder or partner reports his share of profit or loss and capital gains or losses. Because of the nature of Subchapter S corporations, it soon became evident that the EDA rule could be bypassed by transferring farm operations to a Subchapter S corporation which had little or no non-farm income. Better yet, multiple Subchapter S setups could be used to insure that no one of them realized losses in excess of $25,000 per year. Thus, unlimited farm losses could be passed on to the corporation stockholders completely free of EDA rules. The loophole was slammed shut by the 1971 act which said, in effect, that non-farm income of a Subchapter S corporation is equal to that of the stockholder with the largest non-farm income. In addition, the new law said that a subchapter S corporation was not entitled to the $50,000 income-excess of $25,000 loss exemption if one of its shareholders also held stock in another Subchapter S Corporation.

Deadlines On Trash Handling

Counties in Kansas which haven't begun intensive solid waste management planning are merely delaying the inevitable and making their job more difficult.

The problem of meeting deadlines for upgrading their solid waste disposal systems won't be that difficult, however, for counties that have already begun to act, says Dr. James H. Stiegler of Kansas State University.

Stiegler, extension land use specialist, feels some county administrators are confused about what is expected of local governmental units in disposing of solid wastes. HB 1141, passed by the 1970 Kansas legislature, outlaws open dump burning by 1976.

Among other considerations, this law called for establishment of a 15-member advisory board by the State Board of Health and a solid waste management committee to be set up by Jan. 1, 1971, by each county.

The advisory board's standards, regulations and guidelines regarding minimum solid waste disposal systems were released last summer.

Stiegler points out that as a result of legislative and advisory board action, a disposal system short of a properly-designed sanitary landfill will not be acceptable anywhere in Kansas in four years.

Depending on population, counties have deadlines of 1972, 1973, or 1974 to meet for submitting workable refuse disposal plans. For the more heavily populated counties, their 1972 deadline is upon them.

Stiegler says there is evidence that public apathy toward solid waste disposal—which has been called the "third pollution" behind water and air—is disappearing and that communities are rejecting the traditional open burning dump.

"But even if people were not in favor of discontinuing open dump burning, they are being forced to adopt new systems by law," observes Stiegler. "The Solid Waste Disposal Act of 1965 (passed by Congress) set the wheels in motion, and now we are only four years away from seeing the last open dump."

Stiegler says a lack of planning money is a big drawback in some counties. As of this writing, there are no outside funds available to counties for solid waste planning.

Fees charged by consulting and engineering firms for collecting information and preparing a solid waste plan range from $8,000 to $20,000, says Stiegler. "Counties with this amount of extra money are finding this is an easy and unobtrusive way to get the job done," he points out.

While for most counties, that cost is prohibitive, Stiegler believes counties can get the job done for less money.

"Contrary to some thinking, a licensed engineer does not have to draw up the initial plan," says Stiegler. "A licensed engineer does have to draw up the actual layout of the sanitary landfill and the county engineer is qualified to handle this part of the plan if he is licensed in Kansas."

Stiegler says many of the facts and figures necessary for drawing up a final plan can be acquired by the county solid waste committee members themselves.

"Plans drawn up by local people, while not as fancy as those of professionals, will be accepted by State Board of Health officials," points out Stiegler. Stiegler does admit that some situations in a county cannot be solved easily and may require a consultant on a day-to-day basis.

The term "sanitary landfill" means open dump burning to a lot of people. Actually, the traditional open dump is not a sanitary landfill.

By definition of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a sanitary landfill is a method of disposing of refuse on land without creating nuisances or hazards to public health and safety, confining it to the smallest practical area, reducing it to the smallest practical volume, and covering it with a layer of earth at the end of each day.

More expensive methods of solid waste disposal are available to municipalities. These would include incineration and recycling.

Sanitary landfilling consists of spreading, compacting and covering waste. Two general methods have evolved over the years: the area method and the trench method. In some cases, a slope or ramp method is being used in combination with the area or trench systems.

In the trench method, a trench is cut in the ground, and solid wastes are spread in thin layers, compacted, and covered with earth excavated from the trench.

In the area landfill, wastes are placed on the land; a bulldozer or similar equipment spreads and compacts the wastes, which are covered with a layer of earth. The earth is then compacted.

In the ramp method, the solid wastes are dumped on the side of an existing slope. Material is spread in thin layers on the slope, and is compacted by bulldozing equipment. The cover material, usually obtained just ahead of the working face, is spread on the ramp and compacted.

Stiegler says sanitary landfill disposal costs will vary from $2 to $3.50 per ton, while the disposing of material by incineration may run $5 per ton. Recycling costs could reach $10 to $15 per ton.

As for collection, Stiegler says research indicates that a centralized-container method is least expensive.

In this system, steel boxes are placed at two-block (or other designated intervals. Each family responsible for taking its refuse to the container. There is no door pick-up.

On a per family basis, the centralized container combination estimated to cost about $2.45 month, far below the estimated of any other combination. Of course, some counties may prefer traditional house-to-house pick-up method. What is best in one county may not be preferred in another.

Stiegler says that a community of 15,000 population needs to dispose approximately 90,000 pounds (tons) of solid wastes per day. At rate, with refuse buried to a depth of nine feet, a community of 15,000 would need at least 60 acres landfill space over a 20-year period.

Some obvious problems arise when communities begin planning for a sanitary landfill including location and water table depths. Groundwater isn't contaminated, not to mention the $100,000 to $150,000 a community of 15,000 would need to buy equipment and land, hire personnel.

TRENCH METHOD OF WASTE DISPOSAL

One of the more popular systems of waste disposal is the trench method. The waste collection truck deposits its load into the trench, where the bulldozer spreads and compacts it. At the end of each day, the dragline will excavate soil from the future trench, and this soil will be used as the daily cover material.

Built tough. Priced low.

Official statistics show our Chevy trucks have an exceptional record for long life. In fact, no other pickup can top Chevy's long-life features like Girder Beam front suspension, standard front disc brakes and double-wall cab and Fleetside box.

Built to last! Priced to go! Right now!

What's more, this tough truck is priced right. Right now, get a CS10934 Chevrolet 1/2 Ton Pickup with 6 cyl., 3 speed for:

SALE EVERY

Thursday

We had a good run of cattle at our sale last Thursday, Feb. 17th. While the demand was good for all classes of cattle, the market was some lower in spots, in sympathy with the fat cattle market.

While people complain about the price for beef, everything else goes higher. There has never been a time in the history of our great country when one hour's work would buy as much beef according to union wages as it will today. Following is a partial listing of our sale last Thursday:

AXTELL HOSPITAL REOPENS, DOCTOR SETS UP PRACTICE

Axtell, a small rural town in eastern Marshall County, has acquired the services of Dr. Robert Yanik, 33, from Louisburg, Kansas. Dr. Yanik will set up his office in a mobile home equipped with X-ray and laboratory facilities. The Axtell hospital had been temporarily closed since Jan. 25, due to the illness of Dr. Clinton B. Hash, who worked the hospital for a number of years.

SOMETHING WRONG?

With 106,000 miles on his pickup, Lyle Hugunin, Leonardville, figures the least he can do is scrape some carbon off the spark plugs before he goes out to check on his 620-acre farm. In addition to farming, Hugunin runs a roadgrader, patrolling 36 miles of the Fancy Creek Township just northwest of the Tuttle Creek Dam.

Does It Still Add Up?

When it's time to take a second look at plans for the future, it's good to have the sound advice of the locally owned and managed Production Credit Association. For over thirty-five years, the PCA has been a dependable source of credit for its members and a good neighbor in the financial and community life of the area.

Simmental Assn. Details Sixfold Registration Gain

Doubling of membership in American Simmental Association during 1971 and more than sixfold increase in registrations were reported by Don Vaniman, executive secretary, during the organization's recent fourth annual convention in Fort Worth.

When ASA held its first convention, January, 1969, it had 6 members. This had grown to 748 by January, 1971, and on January 5, 1972, the Bozeman, Montana-headquartered breed association had 1,337 members, living in 42 states and 7 countries.

Total registrations have increased from 2,848 a year ago to 18,663, Vaniman said. This includes 73 3/4-blood Simmental heifers, 1,192 1/2-blood Simmental bulls, and 17,263 1/2-blood Simmental heifers.

ASA has also registered 126 purebred Simmental bulls including 78 from Switzerland, 17 from France known as Pie Rouge, 17 from Germany called Fleckvieh and 14 from Canada. Nine purebred females in Canada are also included in the registration total.

Vaniman estimates that 255,000 half-blood Simmental calves were born in the United States during 1971 and he expects 40,000 of them to be registered with ASA.

Concerning immediate potential growth of the breed, he noted that USDA issued 661,093 permits for semen ampule imports from Canada in 1970 and another 690,566 in 1971. USDA also recorded 100,000 ampules of semen imported directly from 26 Simmental bulls in Switzerland in 1971 and 200,000 ampules from German Simmental (Fleckvieh) sires during the year.

"Our breed's popularity in Canada is demonstrated by the fact that 49 per cent of the 11 exotic breeds they imported in 1971 were Simmental. The Canadians have imported 863 purebred Simmental bulls and heifers since 1966," Vaniman said.

The association secretary also noted that there are 724 purebred Simmental in England and that their calves may be imported directly to the United States without long quarantine delays.

At a board meeting during the year, registering Simmentals born from embryo transplants was approved.

The association processed ownership transfers covering 4,833 head last year. And Vaniman noted that Montana still leads the nation in both membership (198) and registrations (4,580). Other leading Simmental states are Texas, South Dakota, Kansas and Iowa. Charters were given to four new state associations — Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio and Washington — during the year making 19 state affiliates in all.

WESTERN FARM SHOW STARTS NEXT WEEK

LETTERS—

SWENSON BROTHERS REPORT ON SALE

Our Hereford sale February 9 produced a large crowd and bidding was active, altho the day was very cold and some snow was on the ground.

Max Stover of Blue Hills, Nebr., bought two bulls in the $500 figure. One of them was the top at $570. Arden Deulin of Smith Center bought one at $550. The 15 bulls averaged about $450. Eleven winter yearling heifers sold from $205 to $342.50.

BOTH SIDES ANNOYED AT COYOTE ARTICLE

There continues to be more publicity on questionable predator control programs, as in recent issues of Grass & Grain and the Hutchinson News. G&G might be interested in two letters from readers of the News which indicate a sharp credibility gap in what Bob Henderson puts out.

Henderson's program of teaching farmers to trap is similar to teaching farmers to play tennis. It would be to know but how many up-to-date farmers have time to trap coyotes at harvest, haying or planting time—generally the times of greatest loss?

This thing of teaching farmers to actually amounts to the least predator control possible, which is exactly what George Halazon, KSU, and E. Raymond Hall at KU want.

I firmly believe that Henderson, Halazon and Hall are directly responsible for more losses of livestock and useful game birds and animals in Kansas than anyone I know of.

Doug W. HUTCHINSON

Wildin, a longtime G&G area dealer in sheep and cattle, sent along two letters to the Hutchinson News and several other clippings which emphasize losses from coyotes and difficulties in trapping coyotes responsible for damage. The article also drew a negative response from Bob Henderson, who thought it was largely misquoted and misinterpreted.

Barrow Show Won By Dickinson Co. Producer

Seth Lauer, Dickinson County, won top honors in the single barrow class in the 21st annual Wichita Barrow Show. His Yorkshire barrow was grand champion over 99 class entries.

The entry of Loren Thiele, Norton, won second place. Thiele's entries won the single barrow class the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Galen B. Harms, Whitewater, won the Purebred Truckload Lot of five class with their Hampshires.

Darrell Goss, Garden City, won top honors in the Commercial Truckload of 10 barrows and gilts. The Hampshires were from a herd of 1,200 and averaged 213 pounds.

Morris County was a repeat winner this year in the Kansas County Pen of Five class.

John Rogers, Arkansas City, won the Carcass Contest with a 230-pound Hampshire-Yorkshire Crossbred. The winning hog had 18 per cent plus ham, was exceptionally lean and had a loin eye of 7 1/2 inches, according to Pat Boyer, judge from the State Board of Agriculture, who said the carcass entries showed tremendous quality improvement over last year.

Bob Williams, Americus, won first place in the Producers Grading Contest, designed to teach producers to develop lean hogs for market.

A total of 623 hogs were entered in the show. Winners in respective classes and contests are as follows:

seventh; Phil Rodgers, Arkansas City, eighth; Les Rhodes, Hardiner, 10th.

PRODUCERS GRADING CONTEST
Bob Williams, Americus, first; Ted Torkelson, Wichita, second; Mrs. Glenn Nagel, Valley Center, third; Paul M. Claassen, Whitewater, fourth; Darrell Goss, Garden City, fifth; Eddie Hull, Ottawa, sixth; Mrs. Galen Harms, Whitewater, seventh; Paula M. Williams, Americus, eighth; Ben McKay, Ness City, ninth; Dave McReynolds, Ashland, 10th.

No Change In Feedlot Count In Past Month

On February 1, there were 1,100,000 cattle and calves on grain feed for the slaughter market in Kansas, unchanged from a month earlier, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Kansas cattle feeders marketed 220,000 grain-fed cattle during the month of January compared with 155,000 in December 1971.

There were 220,000 cattle and calves placed on full grain feed in Kansas during January, compared with 165,000 in December 1971.

The number of cattle and calves on grain feed for the slaughter market on February 1 in the seven monthly cattle on feed states was 9,293,000, some 2 percent above that on January 1. In the six states with comparable data last year (excludes Kansas) the number of cattle on feed on February 1 was 10 percent above a year earlier, compared with 9 percent on January 1.

The number of grain-fed cattle marketed during January in the six states was 1 percent above a year earlier.

The number of cattle and calves placed on feed in the six states during January was 2 percent above the January 1971 placements.

Details On Record Wheat Crop

20 Grass & Grain
February 22, 1972

Sumner County ranked first in wheat production in Kansas in 1971 for the eighth consecutive year, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Sumner's output of 11,178,000 bushels exceeded the previous year's crop for the county by 5 percent and ranked as the county's third largest wheat crop.

Reno County ranked second with 9,651,000 bushels, Finney third with 6,921,000 bushels, Barton fourth with 6,880,000 bushels, and Thomas fifth with 6,667,000 bushels.

Six Counties Set New Highs

In six Kansas counties — Norton, Cloud, Mitchell, Phillips, Rooks and Cowley — new high records for wheat production were set in 1971, and near-record crops were harvested in a number of other counties.

Seven Kansas counties produced over 6 million bushels of wheat in 1971 and 19 counties over 5 million bushels. The three central crop reporting districts of Kansas accounted for 49 percent of the State's production, the three western districts 39 percent and the three eastern districts 12 percent.

The State's 1971 wheat crop totaled a record high 312,605,000 bushels, 2 percent more than the previous record set in 1952.

For acreage harvested in 1971, Sumner was the leading Kansas county with 304,000 acres.

Reno was second with 270,000 acres and Ford third with 204,000 acres.

Some 14 counties in Kansas harvested 150,000 acres or more of wheat in 1971.

Kansas farmers planted 9,593,000 acres of wheat for the 1971 crop, 1 percent less than a year earlier. Of these, 9,061,000 acres were harvested for grain, the same as the acreage harvested in 1970.

Abandonment was quite light except in localities that received heavy hail.

Yield Records in 58 Counties

New record high wheat yields per acre were set in 58 counties in 1971, and many other counties had near record yields.

Brown County, in the northeastern district, had the top county yield in Kansas with 51.0 bushels per harvested acre.

Neighboring Doniphan County ranked second with 48.0 bushels, and Pottawatomie and Riley Counties followed, each with 47.0 bushels per acre.

Some 63 counties averaged at least 35 bushels per acre and 89 counties equalled or exceeded 30 bushels.

Cool, damp weather in the latter part of May and early June, which helped the grain fill well, contributed to high yields per acre in 1971. The State's 1971 average yield per acre of 34.5 bushels was a new record high, 1.5 bushels above the previous high set in 1970.

Seeding of the 1971 crop during the fall of 1970 lagged behind usual but the bulk of the acreage was in the ground by the end of October. The crop came through the winter with relatively little damage from soil blowing or winter kill and responded strongly to good spring moisture.

Harvest started about the normal time along the southern border and after some delay by intermittent rains, moved ahead to a rather rapid completion.

Control Of Genes Important In Dairy Operation

By Ralph Bonewitz
KSU Extension Dairyman

To meet competition in the future, a dairyman must select the correct bulls to mate with his cows.

A dairyman can control 80 percent of the genes going into his herd in three generations.

If he does a good job, he'll have a pool of good genetic genes and a foundation for a profitable enterprise. If he selects the wrong bulls, he'll have a pool of poor genetic genes, and genetics will seal the ceiling on production.

Every dairyman should consider the possibility of learning to breed cows by artificial insemination. Kansas dairymen had 237 Holstein bulls with "predicted differences" available to them through artificial insemination on January 1 of this year.

Predicted difference is a term indicating what the bulls' daughters would do in a breed average herd. Of the 237 bulls, 47 had minimum predicted differences on milk. Seventy one had from zero to a plus 400 pounds predicted difference in milk. Dairymen should attempt to use bulls with at least plus 40 pounds of milk or more on predicted difference.

A total of 119 bulls had a plus predicted difference of a plus 40 pounds of milk or more. Of these many should be discarded because of workability and wearability of their daughters.

Some have low repeatability meaning we can't have a lot of confidence in predicted difference of that it is the true genetic evaluation of the bulls. The price on some bulls would be prohibitive, and fat test would eliminate others.

But after all of these things are considered, many good bulls are available to Kansas dairymen. Every dairyman should know the latest proof on bulls and should demand accurate information in the workability and wearability of the bulls' daughters.

You may need to get type information from the Cattle Club. Demand this as well as production information at an early date. In fact, type information can be secured earlier than production information but is lacking on many bulls.

Young bulls with strong pedigrees information should be used on no more than 20-30 percent of the herd.

Folks are finding out...about PURINA'S great sow ration—

PURINA FARROWING CHOW

... specially developed to fit the sows needs at farrowing time

Purina Farrowing Chow is the result of five years of testing at the Purina Research Farm Brood Sow Unit. It's developed to fit the sow's needs for a palatable, bulky, well-balanced, vitamin-fortified ration from a few days before farrowing till about a week after farrowing.

This 14% protein ration, containing grain, is fed as the sow's sole ration. It comes in Checker (pellet) form only, which helps maintain freshness. An nf-180* option to help control scours in baby pigs is available. Purina Farrowing Chow has the "just right" nutrients sows need at this critical time. It's economical, too.

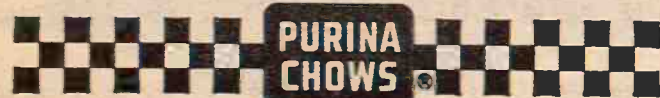

THIS IS THE YEAR to do everything possible to help your sows farrow lots of pigs and wean big litters. Give them the built-in advantages of Purina Farrowing Chow.

COME AND GET IT: Purina Farrowing Chow is available at our store right now. Come in and see, feel, smell and taste this product. You'll like its appearance. Your sows will go for it, too. Try Purina Farrowing Chow now.

White Corp. Says "M-M Products Not Phasing Out"

A recent story in Grass & Grain and other newspapers dealing with changes within the White Motor Corporation, manufacturers of Oliver and Minneapolis-Moline farm equipment, suggested that M&M may be in the process of phasing out. Not so, have said several dealers in the G&G area. A communication from White farm group vice president James Wormley to M&M dealers said this:

To clarify further announcements made recently in connection with restructuring White Motor's farm equipment business, we wish to emphasize we are phasing out facilities and not products. Contrary to reports, the company has not made a decision to discontinue the Minneapolis-Moline name plate.

• Oliver Farm Equipment Division now is responsible for marketing both Minneapolis-Moline and Oliver product lines and service parts.

• All complete machines for sale by Oliver-Minneapolis-Moline during 1972 are in adequate supply to meet your requirements. This includes Minneapolis-Moline G950, G 1050, G1350 and A4T-1600 tractors.

• Advertising, sales promotion, parts catalogs and technical services do and will support equally Oliver and Minneapolis-Moline products which now are the complete line of Oliver Farm Equipment Division.

• We will continue to provide parts service for Oliver and Minneapolis-Moline products throughout our dealer organization.

Kocher Bulls Average $574

MANHATTAN—Twelve registered Hereford bulls consigned by Kocher Brothers of Onaga, Kans., averaged $574 a head at the regular sale of Manhattan Commission Co. Thurs., Feb. 17. These bulls were about two years old, and had been summered on grass with no grain or supplement; and conditioned this winter on corn silage and supplement.

'It's About Time' Says Butz Of Better Farm Prices

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said recent increases in prices farmers, receive, including record highs for cattle, are fully justified regardless of their effects in the supermarket.

"Prices are strengthening and in some instances such as beef cattle prices, are at 20-year highs," Butz said in a speech prepared for the annual Farm Forum at Fargo, N. D. "And they should be," Butz said, "It's about time things were getting better. Yet I want to remind you that as your prices improve and begin to reflect in markups at retail counters, we may have a fight on our hands."

"Some of the newspapers back east have already started commenting on higher food prices," Butz said. "You can expect to see agitation increase for putting a lid on many agricultural prices."

Butz added that he intends "to wage this battle for farmers with everything I've got" and asked for grassroots help and support.

Hatching Scheme To Manipulate Shell Egg Futures

A hatching scheme to manipulate shell egg futures prices found a New York businessman facing a 49-count indictment and maximum fines totaling half a million dollars if convicted on all counts.

John P. Bauer and Bauer International Corp., in which he's the sole shareholder, were charged with a plot to have the news media publicize a purported arrangement to import large quantities of eggs from Spain. The purpose of the news release was to create publicity that would cause shell egg futures prices to decline on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Fescue Pastures
Need Phosphate

Southeastern Kansas fescue pastures need more than an annual application of nitrogen, according to a fescue fertility study in Labette county.

Don Chisam, Labette county Extension agricultural agent, and Verlin Peterson, Extension agronomist at Kansas State University, established K-31 fescue fertility plots in 1969 on the Lloyd Bennett farm near Oswego.

After three years it is obvious that the absence of soil phosphate and lime limits the response of fescue to nitrogen.

Clipping yields showed that when phosphate was missing, grass yields were depressed. The need for correcting soil acidity with lime is also evident when yields were compared.

The plots were established on typical southeastern Kansas old native Parsons silt loam soil. The initial soil test showed only four pounds of available phosphorus per acre, 60 pounds of available potassium, and only one percent organic matter. The soil was acid with a pH of 5.5. Vegetation was

1.4	100	0	0	0
2.5	100	0	30	8000
3.7	100	50	30	8000
1.9	150	0	30	8000
3.7	150	50	30	8000

This chart tells the story: fescue response to nitrogen is limited unless phosphate is added and soil acidity is corrected with lime. Note that the application of nitrogen only failed to increase grass yields and that maximum yields were obtained when 50 pounds of phosphate (P) and 8,000 pounds of lime were added in combination with nitrogen (N) and potassium (K).

primarily wire grass and weeds. The plots were planted in September and all soil treatments made before the final seed bed preparation.

The plots received either no lime or 8,000 pounds of agricultural lime per acre (5,000 pounds effective calcium carbonate).

Nitrogen rates ranged from zero to 200 pounds actual N per acre;

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Belton. A replica of the smallest Belton aed ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Write to Dept., P-9562F Bel-tone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

phosphate rates were either zero or 50 pounds per acre; potassium rates were either zero or 30 pounds.

In the control plot with no fertilizer or lime, grass yield was only 1.4 tons per acre of air-dry fescue. In a similar plot, but where 100 pounds of nitrogen was applied, the yield remained at 1.4 tons.

A plot treated with 100 pounds nitrogen, zero phosphate, 30 pounds potassium, and 8,000 pounds of lime yielded 2.5 tons. An identical treatment except for the addition of 50 pounds phosphate jumped the grass yield to 3.7 tons.

A plot with 150 pounds nitrogen, no phosphate, 30 pounds potassium, and 8,000 pounds of lime yielded 1.9 tons. When 50 pounds of phosphate was added to the same treatment, yields went to 3.7 tons per acre.

As a result of the fertility trials,

Chisam and Peterson are recommending that farmers wishing to establish or improve fescue pastures should first apply lime according to soil test results.

At planting, they recommend fertilizing with 50 pounds of nitrogen, 50 pounds of phosphate, and 30 pounds of potassium. The relatively low rate of nitrogen will help keep annual grasses such as cheat and foxtails from overcrowding the young fescue plants.

After fescue is established, they recommend an annual February application of 100 pounds nitrogen per acre, plus phosphate and potassium as indicated by soil test. Farmers choosing not to make an annual soil test should apply 50 pounds of phosphate and 50 pounds of potassium every third year.

from 1970 and the State's smallest lamb crop since 1926, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The reduced lamb crop reflects the smaller number of breeding ewes on Kansas farms.

On January 1, 1971, there were 205,000 ewes one year old and older, down 7 percent from a year earlier.

The 1971 lamb crop percentage (number of lambs saved per 100 ewes one year old and older at the

United States

The 1971 U.S. lamb crop is estimated at 12,929,000 head, 4 percent less than the 13,413,000 head produced in 1970.

The number of breeding ewes 1 year old and older on farms and ranches January 1, 1971 were 2 percent less than a year earlier, and ewe lambs under 1 year old were down 5 percent.

The lambing percentage for 1971 (number of lambs saved per 100 ewes 1 year old and older on hand January 1), at 95, is 1 point below 1970.

Western States

Western States (11 Western, South Dakota, and Texas) totaled 9,225,000 head, 308,000 less than the 1970 crop of 9,533,000 head.

The number of breeding ewes 1 year old and older on January 1, 1971, at 10,142,000 head, was down 1 percent from a year earlier. Lambing percentage during 1971, at 91, is 2 points below 1970.

The lamb crop was 3 percent larger than a year earlier in Idaho and Arizona; 2 percent in South Dakota; and 1 percent in Wyoming and Washington.

The number of early lambings (dropped before March 15) in the Western States was up 2 percent from 1970.

Native States

The lamb crop in the 35 Native States (excluding the 13 Western States and Alaska) totaled 3,704,000 head, down 4 percent from the 1970 crop of 3,874,000 head.

The number of ewes 1 year old and older on January 1, 1971 was 3,471,000 head, 5 percent less than a year earlier. The lambing percentage for 1971 was 107 or 1 point above 1970.

Gurss Becomes New Livestock Commissioner

Kansas has quietly had a change in Livestock Commissioners this month. The new man is Dr. Gerald D. Gurss, who took over the office February 5. He replaces Dr. John Hudelson, who resigned to become State Veterinarian in Colorado. The change was just announced by Nelson Poe of Peabody, chairman of the Animal Health Board.

Dr. Gurss is from Burlingame, Ks., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gurss. He graduated from the K-State College of Veterinary Medicine in 1943. Gurss spent most of his years in practice at Lyndon. In 1961 he became State Veterinarian with the Health Department, working Department, working under commissioners Hudelson and A. G. Pickett of Emporia, who was commissioner until the appointment of Hudelson in 1970.

Dr. Gurss and his wife have seven children. They continue to make their home in Lyndon.

McPHERSON SOIL DISTRICT AWARDS CONSERVATIONISTS

Winners of the McPherson County Soil Conservation District annual Bankers Awards were: The Delfs Family-Robert Wiegand, Inman; Vernine Carlson, Windom; Raymond and Randall Burch, Roxbury; and Leo Nelson-Leon Peterson, Marquette. Dick Ratzlaff of Conway was honored posthumously.

No Steak If It's Chopped Soy

When is a steak not really a steak? It's not a steak if water or soy protein has been added.

And it's not a steak if it has been chopped and then patted back together again.

A steak is not really a steak in Kansas, at least, unless it's a single piece of unprocessed meat.

That is the decision reaffirmed the Kansas Board of Health in upholding an order prohibiting Ranch-Hand Foods of Kansas City from selling its chopped beef product as "steak".

In an informal hearing, the firm protested state Department of Agriculture regulations, adopted after hearings in 1970, that set out labeling regulations for meat products sold in the state.

The Department of Health enforces some of those regulations at the retail sales level and last month ordered Ranch-Hand Foods to stop labeling its chopped meat product as "steak".

Charles Todt, vice-president and general manager of Ranch-Hand Foods, said his firm's product, "Ranch-Hand Steak," has been sold for more than 20 years and that it was generally accepted by the public.

"The fact is, we've had continued complaints from consumers about this very thing," retorted Evan Wright, director of the department's food and drug division.

Young Farmer Award To Burlingame Family

The work done on the 2260-acre farm near Burlingame has won a Star Young Farm Family award for the Garold Markleys of Osage County. The award was made last week by the Kansas Young Farmers at their annual meeting at Manhattan.

STAR FARM FAMILY

The family includes father Garold, wife Sharon, and three children, Doug 10, Dana 8, and Paula 1. Markley has been farming since 1956, first with his father, and on his own since 1969. His wife Sharon comes from a farm family in nearby Melvern.

The Markleys are presently feeding out about 600 head of cattle for market each year. "We are on a backgrounding or grower program," he says. "We buy 400- to 500-pound steers in the fall and winter them on silage, grain, hay and protein. We buy heifers and feed them 100 days to balance out our selling program."

Corn, milo, wheat and oats are raised on the farm.

Runnerup in the state contest was the Dean Perkins family of Barnes with the Maurice Rohr family of Hays third.

The top three families received plaques and cash awards worth $300, $200 and $100 respectively.

District family winners took awards of $100, $50 and $25. They are:

Eastern district — Gary Rieck family, Burlingame; Larry Howbert family, Berryton; Gary Bottorff family, Horton.

Central district — Clinton McDuffett family, Alta Vista; Eugene Teske family, Onaga; Cleo Schultz family, Alma.

Western district — Karl Werner family, Zenda; Harold Topliff family, Jewell; and Wesley Hostetter family, Harper.

The Chapman Young Farmer chapter won the community service award, receiving a plaque and $100, while the Atchison County Chapter was second, receiving a plaque and $50.

WILDLIFE COP

A muddy pickup proves that Royal Elder, game warden for Tuttle Creek Reservoir, puts 100 to 150 miles a day on his vehicle. The latest report is that fishing is slow but when the water temperature reaches about 45 degrees the fish should start biting and the ice fishermen had better start looking for boats.

Heated Hog House Improves Output

The installation of heat in hog houses can mean more efficiency and safety, and improved production for swine producers.

Pigs become more tolerant of the cold as they grow but they never adapt to the point that they make efficient gains when the temperature is much below freezing.

Pat Murphy, Extension agricultural engineer at Kansas State University, says because large hogs are more tolerant to cold than small pigs, a problem is created in the farrowing house, where the sow weighs 500 pounds and the baby pigs only five pounds. In zoned heating, the cool zone for the sow is only one foot away from the hot zone for the pigs.

Murphy says the best way to accomplish proper zoning is to put electric heat cable or hot water pipe in the floor of the pig nesting area beside the sow. Don't place heat under the sow.

Murphy recommends insulating the concrete slab under the sow from the pig nest.

Place a one-half to one inch section of expanded polystyrene topped with tar or asphalt mastic as an expansion joint in the concrete between the sow and the pig part of the farrowing crate.

To avoid making the floor too hot, install about half of the heat requirement in the floor and provide the rest with radiant heaters above the pigs.

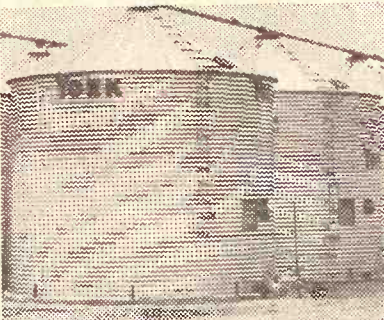

In well insulated buildings, half the requirement would be about 220 watts; in buildings that are fairly tight but uninsulated, 550 watts should be sufficient. This would equal 750 to 3000 BTU's per hour for each farrowing stall.

To supply the needed heat, use radiant heaters of about 220 to 500 watts over the baby pig's nest, suggests Murphy. If gas heaters or larger electrical units than the infrared heat lamp are being used, a double-sized heater (1,500 to 6,000 BTU's per hour) can be hung over two pig nesting areas that lie to the left and to the right of the adjacent sows.

Other methods of heating a farrowing house include the use of hot water, hot air, space heaters or any other system used for heating any building.

But the floor heat and radiant heaters are especially suited to farrowing because these methods

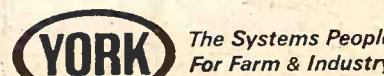

LOW COST STORAGE

Compare cost, compare features—You'll buy York... It's the most for your money! The reasons you should buy York are big. From foundation to roof cap York gives you more. Heavy 3/4" steel angle door frame. 3 1/2" seam overlap. Sidewalls sealed with strip mastic. Extra large 24" manhole. 27-inch filler opening. Curved eave with 7 1/2" overlap reduces chance of snow and rain blowing in. And York offers a full line of labor and time saving grain handling equipment designed to work with your York Storage system.

If you are thinking of bins, better look into this now. There will be a price increase in the future.

tend to give better zones — a cool zone for the sows and a hot zone for the pigs.

In the growing and finishing house most producers feel radiant heaters will pay for growing pigs in the winter if air temperature is below 40 degrees F.

If the producer keeps his growing and finishing continuous throughout the winter — as he should to make full use of his investment — he'll want to have thermostatically controlled heaters in his growing and finishing house, points out Murphy.

Why?

The exotic breeds try to prove their ability compared to Charolais. It would be a good record to reach. Why don't you buy a Charolais bull and raise calves other breeds would like to duplicate?

This year we surely have without question prospects for a bumper wheat crop. The price of wheat is low. One of the surest ways to offset this price of wheat is by owning your own combine and cutting your own wheat.

You could easily spend a large part of your crop by hiring it done.

We can sell you a used combine and finance it so that the price you pay by hiring your wheat cut could easily make your payment. The end result would be a machine that has paid for itself. We have a large selection of used combines and are sure that we can make a deal to your satisfaction.

Think this over and come in and let us show you our selection of fine new and used machinery. No matter what your needs are in new or used machinery, we either have it or can locate it for you.

If you haven't read lately we are loaning money to practically every country in the world.
$138,000,000,000 since 1948.

Some have never paid back & today does it all come from?
Where's the paper said Vietnam is still costing us poor soul taxpayers $100,000,000 per day. I'd say offhand the best way to stop this is to stop paying the tax.

Used air compressor unit — don't have jack hammer to go with it, rebuilt $495

2 portable light plants ideal for the camper, 250 watt, $99.99

1 hole corn sheller $19.99. Two hole Butz corn sheller $29.99.

Finally received our copies of the Ike proof dollars. Can't imagine any right minded person paying $10 for a one dollar piece. It used to be in the days past you could buy a one dollar piece for $1.00. Not any more. Still say the best way for us poor soul farmers to bring prices down is quit buying any new tractors, refrigerators, stoves, televisions etc.

In the meantime we have some high powered Case riding mowers to sell, $872-$1270 and $1600 list prices but this week will sell them all at absolute net cost.

Did you read this week where some joker proposes for Son-gress to pass law to enforce some people to kill their chickens to hold prices up. Wow — this is the same thing we've been doing in Vietnam for years, killing people, theirs & ours, to hold prices up and keep people working, especially the bureaucrats in Washington.
Write your favorite politicians,
tell them to wind prices down,
etc.

I wrote to Dick, offered to go to China with him as a body guard, but he declined, sent my 2 bucks back.

Used Gleaner Allis model G 20' combine, new engine and newly rebuilt thresher unit, was $7900. Take less this week.

Wonder if Agnew is now in charge while Dick's away. I did see where Dick told him not to play with the buttons while he's gone to China. Looks like we could afford to buy the president a new airplane so he wouldn't have to ride in the same old plane Kennedy used.

Even our governor Docking has a fancy airplane — $225,000.

Used 800 Case combine for Closer To Cheap Gasoline From Wheat Alcohol?

A research chemist has told the Kansas House Ways and Means Committee he may be close to developing a new wheat element separation process that could help make wheat alcohol economically sound as a gasoline additive.

Ben Gerrish, Sr., a graduate chemist, told the committee his group currently is developing a pilot processing plant in Hutchinson.

"We have already been able to produce 10 kilograms of 22 pounds of protein gluten by the process by hand in the laboratory process," Gerrish said. "Now we are developing this pilot plant to do further research into the industrial applications of the process.

"We have already plenty of research that shows that such alcohol as an additive to gasoline makes it much more combustible and at the same time reduces the pollution factors of tetraethyl lead additives by more than 80 per cent," Gerrish said.

"We know such alcohol is feasible as a replacement for lead as a gasoline combustion additive and that lead is being phased out as an additive. The problem is to make alcohol economically feasible as a replacement."

Gerrish said there is a market for the protein gluten produced by the process, pointing out the U.S. currently imports 20 million pounds of the substance at a present market price of 30 cents a pound.

He said such gluten formerly has been produced in the U.S. only through the so-called "clear," substances used in flour milling processes, but which represent only about 5 per cent or less of flour milling.

"At the present time such protein glutens are by-products of milling just as are such other substances as bran and wheat germ," Gerrish said. "What we are attempting to do is to look at the grain of wheat as a bundle of subchemical substances and to try to unlock these substances out of the wheat grain directly rather than as by-products left over
