Value To Farmer In Belonging To The Farmers Union

THE FARMER'S DEFENDER

Declares Farmers Union Is The Farmer's Champion Both In Political and Financial Field

by Chas. Thomas, Zurich, Kansas

Do you know where you can make an investment that will return 100 per cent? If you do not, then let me give you a tip. Join the Farmers Union, and get several of your neighbors to come in with you; it's worth $3.00 just to have the fun of joining, and it don't cost that much, so right off the bat you've got out more than you put in, besides you will receive the Kansas Union Farmer every week for a year. This is the Farm-ers Union paper that keeps you posted about the Union's progress and the enemy's advances. Just for instance please read the article how the farmers "Evade Kansas Gas" Tax" at the top of column one page three of the October 7 issue of the "Weekly Kansas City Star." If you are a red blooded he-man, whether a farmer or not, you will or should resent such a statement. We think our president, Mr. Vesecky, will take this up in our paper before election and explain why certain interests are so intent on compelling the farmer to pay road tax on "gas" he uses in his tractor, combines, and stationary engines, etc., yet he cannot run that tractor on the road, that he furnishes and pays tax on every year. (As he pays tax on 160 acres although the average quarter has nearly 4 acres taken off for roads.) But you have decided to organize a local or perhaps have already organized one in which you can have your president appoint a business agent. Now you members can have a meeting and tell your agent how many gallons of oil grease, etc., you need, then he in turn can order it in bulk from your lobbing Association and you can divide it up at a later meeting. You will be surprised at the interest this will infuse into your local, as well as the savings to your members on as good oil and grease as can be had. Our local here has been getting quite a quantity of these oils, and greases, and it has taken very little oil to pay our dues. Should any local like to have further details, I should be glad to give them if a self-addressed and stamped envelope is in-

So why not join the Farmers Un ion and make 100 per cent on your investment besides the advantage of being organized and able to fight for your own interests, thereby receiving your just dues along legislative lines, etc.

Then again I say, the Jobbing Association is your association. It is by and for the farmer. Used in this your annual dues will be paid back to you a good many times over, besides you are assured of high quality grease and oils backed by your organization, besides the other conveniences and the ability to bargain collectively. This makes the Farmers Union self-supporting, as far as you are concerned, from the very moment you became a member.

Do you know of a better investment? If so, let me know, I'd like to be in on it and wish all my farm ventures had been as profitable as my connection and membership with the Farmers Union has been during the past 20 years.

BINDWED KEEPS RIGHT ON GROWING DURING DROUGHT

Bindweed or morning glory—the no. 1 weed pest of the United States west of the Mississippi-defies drought. A field in southwestern Minnesota badly infested with bindweed was clean cultivated regularly during the past summer, reports L. W. Kephart, weed specialist of the Bureau of Plant Industry. Just as regularly the bindweed came on again, although other vegetation was dead or dormant. This same vitality of bindweed is often observed wherever it is a Bindweed keeps growing despite cultivation and drought because of its deep root system, unusually extensive in proportion to the plant itself. Bindweed roots, some of them 25 to 30 feet long, are a storehouse of food for the plant and give it its unusual vitality.

Constant cultivation, however-cutting off the top of the bindweed at least once a week for at least 2 years—eventually will kill it. Experiments by the Department of Agriculture indicate fallow of bindweed plots is more effective when there is a fair amount of rainfall. If the weather is too dry, says Mr. Kephart, the bindweed sulks and in this dormant state grows so slowly that the killing process is delayed.

Cutting the bindweed only occasionally really helps it spread. When a weed is cut the rott sends up several plants where one grew before, Leaves allowed to develop more than 2 or 3 inches replenish the storehouse in the roots. Absolutely clean cultivation must be maintained if the bindweed is eventually to be starved.

CONFIRMS MORATORIUM ACT

Hailed As Confirmation of the Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage Moratorium Act

(National Union Farmer) Action of the United States Supreme Court on October 12th in refusing to issue a writ of Certiorari on behalf of petitioners in the case of Pheonix Joint Stock Land Bank of Kansas City vs. Harry H. Hotsenpiller is hailed as a confirmation of the constitutionality of the Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage Moratorium Act as passed by the Congress of the United States.

While the Supreme Court did not render an affirmative decision directly upholding this moratorium, the decision is viewed as the forerunner of what may be expected to follow when other cases in which the lower courts have acted on this legislation reach the final tribunal of the United States Supreme Court.

The case on which the court gave its decision originated in Missouri when the farm mortgage debtor, Harry M. Hotsenpiller was orginally upheld in his plea for relief under the Frazier-Lemke Act by the Federal courts in the state of Missouri. The Joint Stock Land Bank of Kansas City and the farm debtor joined in an appeal and petition to the United States Supreme Court for a writ of Certiorari. This action was taken because of the conflicting decisions of various circuit courts of appeal. Decisions in the 7th and 8th circuit courts of appeal had been rendered holding the Frazier-Lemke Moratorium as unconstitutional-while other decisions in the 4th and 5th circuit courts of appeal had been rendered holding the legislation to be constitu-States Supreme Court and this peti-

FUTURE OF FARMERS UNION DEPENDS ON JUNIORS INTEREST

Educational Program Should Be Published East Week In Paper For Both Senior and Junior Study

It is important that we devise a better plan to build up a strong Junior membership. Old members of the Union are passing on, young members must take their places, or else the Farmers Union is doomed. A State Junior Leader should be selected, and whether finances are little or much, this leader should carry on the work as effectively as the funds will permit.

It is suggested that once a month an educational program of questions and answers be published in the Kansas Union Farmer covering Farmers Union history and programs, cooperative history, cooperative marketing, Junior Work, Parliamentary law, farm organizations and history, labor organizations and history, industry, banking, finance, tariff, money policies, and other economic questions. This published program should be enough to take up about an hour of time for a Junior Study Class or for a combined Junior and Senior study program for a Local Meeting. Or this program could be put in weekly issues of the State paper, covering about 15 minutes of program. By this plan the whole membership of the Union all over the state would be studying the same program each month, and we would all be going to-gether, both Juniors and Seniors.

The writer suggests that the officers of each Local and the officers of each County Union select a Junior Leader, whose duty shall be to interest the farm boys and girls in the Farmers Union, get them to attend meetings of the Locals and of Tax Exemption Law and substituting the County Unions and take part in one that taxed all gasoline. the programs, get them to studying the educational program of the Farmers Union, get them to put class their own if they prefer.

If they are, it seems to me that could be remedied by having a certain color for tractor gas and the evader could be held responsible if he had it in his car. I certainly see no reason why all farmers should be punished because a few son why the farmer should pay a tax on gas used in his tractor when the tractor is not permitted on the improved highways unless it is equipped with special tires. State Pushes Drive to Plug Big Revenue Leak

Farm Exemption Law Under Which One-Fourth of Gasoline Sold Escapes Levy Is Misused

One-fourth earnestly urging all cooperatives to of all the gasoline sold in the state is exempt from taxation through the claims of farmers and others that they propose to use the fuel for other than motor car or truck purposes. The exemptions are claimed, to a large extent, on gasoline to be used for fuel for tractors and stationary engines on farms and in elevators. The enactment of the port of entry law under Governor Landon served to stop the evasion of the gasoline tax by dealers and refiners and now the problem is to stop the evasion of the law by those ditizens of the state who benefit most from the gasoline tax but pay little of it. All of the money the state collects is used in building highways. A maximum of $200 a mile for state and federal highways within cities is all that he cities may receive from the fund.

All the remainder must be used on the highways in the rural districts. Numerous instances have been reported to state officials where large quantities of gasoline have been declared exempt from the tax under a claim that the fuel would be used for a tractor. Yet the tractor in which the gasoline was to be used was not equipped to burn gasoline.

It has been asserted that the losses through gasoline tax evasion in this state aggregate 16 million dollars for the last six years.

The following is a record of the recored votes of candidates for both nouses of the Kansas State legislature who were members of the legislature in 1933, 34, or 35, on bills of sepcial nterest to Kansas Farmers and to labor. No effort has been made to tabulate HB751 the vote of those who are not this year running for the legislature. This record is the work of Vice President John Frost whose experience in the HB762 State Senate especially fitted him to HB745 undertake such a particular piece of work. It is as near perfect as time would permit him to make it. If any of the candidates feel that their vote HR251 has not been reported correctly they should call our attention to the error which they claim in their vote record and we will gladly correct it in the next issue of the Union Farmer. We have listed first the bills for which the candidate voted by numbers which correspond to the num-bered bills at the head of the record: next we list the bills against which he voted, also by numbers corresponding to the bill numbers on our list at the top. The last we list the numbers of the bills on which the candidate did not vote for nor against although they were voted on during the session when he was in the legislature. Bills whose numbers are not recorded below the candidates name HB4 either did not come up during the session when the candidate served or were not voted on in the particular nouse of the state legislature of which the candidate was a member. The following bills Senator Frost believed of especial importance to us farmers or needing further explanaand two dogs long, but to Mrs. Clara Burghardt of Great. Falls, Mont., Spotty is a canine who more than makes up for any discrepancy in beauty by his keen intelligence. One of Spotty's accomplishments is the ability to "talk" over the telephone. Mrs. Burghardt has a little granddaughter, Ruth Lofstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Loftsrom. Ruthie, who is nearly two years old, and Spotty are great chums, and when Ruthie tires of playing with her dolls, she demand that her mother call up the dog. Spotty is brought to the telephone owner and when Ruth says "Spotty, come play with me," the do ggives a joyful little bark, demands to be let out, and then runs as fast as he can to the little girl's home about a block away. I believe some of you made posters, some collected unusual curios, the girls did some fancy work, and made quilt blocks, and I'm remembering one little girl who pieced a whole quilt. Then, some of you pressed leaves, flowers, weeds, butterflies, etc., and there will be a place where these can be shown.

I have just finished reading an article in the Reader's Digest by Wm. E. Borah. It is in condensed form from the Redbook Magazine. His topics "The Supreme Court", and could be made a fine study topic. Q. What are some of the duties of the Supreme Court? Ans. The Court can declare acts of Congress in contravention to the Constitution void.

Q. To whom is given the power of amending the Constitution? Ans. To the people.

Q. What are some of the things the Supreme Court has protected. Ans. It has protected the right of trial by jury, religious liberty, personal liberty and it has done so in some instances under the most trying and adverse cirrcumstances.

Q. What is the Supreme Court? Ans. It is the tribunal to which the citizen whether he be an ignorant and condemned Negro or the man with prestige in the last appeal can go for that protection given him by the Constitution."

The month of October has been named, as the month of "Cooperation." There are many ways in which each of us can express ourselves, and let our friends know how we feel and believe. Under the title "Progra mof Action" are a few suggestions, and these will perhaps bring to your mind many other things you can do. Let this be a program of action, and as the ideas are presented, get busy and carry them out. Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today, for if you do, per-haps it wont be done.

Sincerely, Aunt Patience.

Dear Aunt Patience: It has been a long time since I wrote, but I have been so blue that I did not want to pass it along to you 'till now. I had mortgages against my land for a little less than one half the valuation for taxation then the county seat bank broke and left me out on a limb.

I had been made director in some cooperative enterprises and wanted to be a good fellow. I signed notes which the members did not help pay. I paid thoustands of dollars on them and have hundreds yet to pay if I doin?... The big boys have got to can. The mortagee sold me out because I wanted to take care of the goin' to let us starve after they're goin' to let us starve after they're goin' to let us starve after they're local situation first. They had to buy in the land. I had to take the last two boys out of college and we all worked for 50c per day, when we could get no more, but we helped keep business moving. Soon the boys were mortgages plastered all over us, and getting better wages than I could af more millionaires than we ever had getting better wages than I could af ford to pay on the farm and are now doing well. The companies could not sell the land at a profit so they got guys that ruined this country! They me to refinance, adding a debt of robbed us when we sold our stuff to about $700 for fees, bank stock etc., etc. Now nearly every dollar I get goes for interest. From the above you can see one reason why I advise young folks to not sign any note if they are not willing to pay it all. The they are not willing to pay it all. The | quart of oil! . . . wheat and alfalfa fields here have paid their way this year, but the corn and pasture fields have not paid tax es. There seen many people from ruination of this country. Congress ought to take it away from 'em and put a stop to this here robbery. . . What's that? We ought to stop it, not Congress? Why, who the heck are WE? . . . We let 'em take it! Say-y, just how much did you or I, fer instance, have to say about what they got out o' us? How much have I got to say about how much I gotta pay for a sack of flour, or a gallon o' gas. . . . I jes' turned over about ten cents to John G. Robefeller! Gosh, never thought o' that! What kin I do-I gotta have gas, don't I? . . . Patronize the Co-op station across the street? . . . Well, I s'pose I should do that. But I just don't like that guy they put in for manager last fall. Went there a couple of times last fall, and by golly, when I met him on the truck when he was goin' out to Jensen's rig with a load of gas a couple weeks later, he was too gol-darned high-hat to nothin' to do with a guy like that. utes in moderately hot oven-375 deeven recognize me, and I don't have . . Do I think John D., would recognize me? . . . Wel-l-l, we ain't had no formal interduction or nothin'. .

No, I can't say but what you're right... Sure, I need it!... Wel-l-l I kin see where it would count up all right. . . . No, you don't need-a figure it out-I kin figure in my head, and I ain't from Missouri, neither.... Oh, I suppose I use any-way eight, nine hundred gallons a year. . . . > POPCORN-APPLES-CREPE PAPER

> All of the traditional Hallowe'en ymbols may be combined in charming table setting for the hostess who is searching for new ideas for her party. With informality the keynote, she uses all-paper decoraions for the table.

Cut two strips of orange paper, each 15 inches wide, and fringed with the scissors, for the table runners. Use crepe paper napkins with the symbolic cat faces. The plates, forks and spoons should be of paper. For candle holders, one placed at each end of the table, scoop out the centers of large green apples to hold the candles. Under each candle holder place a doily in the form of a crepe autumn leaf in variegated fall colorings. Then the centerpiece-a generous, overflowing treat popcorn balls, placed in a wire basket that is completely disguised with ruffles of crepe paper in yellow, orange and brown.

It is all as simple as could be deappeal to a fastidious party-giver.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The farm problem seems to be the main topic of today, and it has been for years discussed by the two major parties and others. For it is the national problem which must be solved before the nation can recover to permanent prosperity.

The farm problem could have been solved long ago if more common sense and less politics had been used. The farmer who produces the necessities of life, is not only the biggest producer of the new wealth each year and consumer, but he is the biggest purchaser, because he buys everything from the needle to to a threshing machine and then some; what the other industries have for sale. Therefore the farmer must be placed on equal level with the other industries, to get the cost plus a reasonable profit. So he can meet his obligations and afford to buy the commodities of the other industries.

Then the wheels of the industries will begin to turn; the laborers wili be called back to their jobs which will relieve the unemployment and end the depression.

Under the present condition the nation is in today, in order to save the people's homes, the farms and small businesses, and to pay the debts of the nation, the Frazier-Lemke refinancing bill and the cost of production bill must be enacted into law, in order to thaw out the frozen loans at the local banks throughout the country to prevent foreclosures.

The large saving in interest charges will revive the farm purchasing power and swell the industrial activities of the nation. Then once more the people will be free and have a prosperous nation. Criticism or comment will be wel-

Olathe, Kansas. EXECUTION OF ORDERS UNDER COMMODITY EXCHANGE ACT

Geo. F. Kennedy,

card or other similar record, made at the time of execution, and shall note or have noted thereon the exact time of execution, and (3) each such transaction shall be Dumb Bell made a matter of permanent record by such contract market, which re-cord shall show the date, price, quantity, kind of commodity, delivery month, by whom executed and the exact time of execution, and

(4) the futures commission merchant or floor broker receiving or executing such orders shall have no interest therein, directly or indirectly, except as futures commission merchant or floor broker.

Execution of orders under and in accordance with the conditions herein described will not be deemed to e filling of orders by offset within the meaning of paragraph (D) of section 4b or to be cross trades within the maning of section 4c of the Commodity Exchange Act."

Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the Commodity Exchange Administration indicated that Regulation "A" will prevent the matching of customers' orders in the offices of commission houses, but will permit the filling of orders between customers of the same firm in the manner prescribed by regulation. "However, it will be necessary," he said, "for contract markets to frame rules which will clearly force all such orders to be first offered openly and competitively Whereas, his death has caused in the trading pit or ring where othereat sorrow to his family and to the er brokers and traders will have opportunity for acceptance. In other words, it will provide, a free and open market where all traders will tend our sympathy to the bereaved have an equally fair chance."

The reference to cross trades in Regulation A, according to Dr. Duve is more informative than regulatory and was necessary only because members of the cotton trade have a habit of referring to the matching of buying orders and selling order as "crossing orders." This is no what is meant by the term "cross trade" as prohibited by section 4c (A) of the Commodity Exchange Act. A cross trade, according to Dr. Duvel, is the stimultaneous purchase and sale of a commodity for future delivery in the same delivery month made by or for the account of the same person either at the same price or at prices which when coupled with other similar trades have the same effect. They are commonly employed for the purpose of getting names of persons on trades who are at best only nominal parties thereto. Such cross trades are prohibited by the Commodity Exchange Act.

NOVEL FLOWER CONTAINERS ARE EFFECTIVE DECORATIONS

They Are Small and Colorful and Their Growing Habits Always Prove Interesting

Present fashion in interior decoration makes effective use of the novel flower containers which are available nowadays. The fact that they are small and can be moved to different parts of a room, and that the flowers changing, adds to their usefulness.

Today we can purchase plants or sleeping with the British four years and offering to lick the growing in a shiny pot shaped like a black cat, or a huge terrarium filled with tropical flowers and ferns. A recent novelty which will find many friends in a small bevelled mirror on to which are attached three tiny hollow globes. The three globes are filled with water, and tiny ivy vines are suspended from them. The ivies take root in the water, and trail down over the mirror, making a very attractive decoration, a well as a useful miror. Should you run out of vines for the globes, they can be detached, and use made of the mirror itself.

All manner of novel containers are obtainable. An unusual one is a pot tery squirrel. One or two of them can be attached to the wall or fireplace, and when vines are planted in them, they give the appearance of crawling. There are any number of animal caricatures in bright colors. They make interesting knick-knacks for the mantel or table, and are always appreciated as bridge prizes. The plants in them will ordinarily grow for many months, and any number of uses can be made of the container afterward. A novelty which always attracts the attention of guests is a tiny cactus garden. Very often such a mina-ture garden is but a few inches square, and can be set anywhere, from an end table to a place of promin-ence on the mantle. They are particularly hardy, and will survive the worst kind of neglect. They have been known to live for six months without water, although such a practice is certainly not to be recommended.

Most of these floral novelties are nade of brightly colored materials, such as the gay pot plants you see everywhere, and are excellent objects to brighten up a colorless nook, or make a prominent one more attrac-

FALL TREE PLANTING

During months of October and Norember you can transplant shrubs, rees, vines and plant nut tree seeds. If you live on a farm why not talk it over with your father and see if you can't plan to set out a grove of Walnut trees on a piece of the farm land. These trees will furnish shade and comfort for livestock, they will help produce showers during the growing season, they will be beautiful trees, and some day be of real commerical value.
