Feed for Chickens. Correspondence to THE SPIRIT OF KANSAS. EDITOR SPIRIT :- What to feed our young chickens is the question that is very important just now, when we wish them to fill up and grow so we can turn them off to market to the best advantage. We have found by sevesal years trial that potatoes when they can be had cheap, as they can now, makes the best kind of feed-the small ones are just as good as the large ones for this purpose. My method of preparing them is to boil them and mash them, and add enough shorts or bran to make a thick dough of it, then feed while warm. A handful of salt stirred in the mess gives a relish to it and the chicks will not tire so soon of it; feed this four times a week two times a day, morning and at noon. Of course you should have wooden troughs to feed in; if you put it on the ground the chicks trample it and waste a good share of it, besides they are apt to eat filth and thereby cause disease, which we must always and at all times be on the lookout for. Green corn is also a most excellent feed for young chicks. When the corn is large enough for roasting ears then give your chicks all they will eat of it, once a day, and you will be very much surprised to see the effect it will have on their growth.

H3 who lives pure in thought, free from malice, contented, leading a holy life, feeling tenderness for all creatures, speaking wisely and kindly, humbly and sincerely, has the Deity ever in his heart.—Buddah. Field corn is good, but I prefer sweet corn as it contains more sugar and consequently the chicks will fatten on it deeds he has set before him .- The Koran much quicker. These two articles of For I doubt not through the ages one increasing food which I have mentioned, are cheap and easily prepared and in the reach of all farmers, and if they doubt its paying let them try it, at least this season.

A Terrible Ride

The following story, told by a cattle-raiser of Oregon, would seem unworthy of belief were it not that ranchmen are so often notoriously reckless of life and fond of courting danger for the reputation to be gained.

A year or so ago there was a "rodeo" on Lost River, Lake county. Ranchmen had gathered for a circuit of seventy miles to claim and brand their young cattle, and when a gordon of men had surrounded a large band. among which was a Spanish bull dispute arose about a "mallet head" or calf that had escaped the spring branding; the discussion grew warm, none of the stock-owners being able to set up a valid claim or establish an undoubted title.

At last, in a spirit of bravado, a rancher proposed that whoever would ride the bull without saddle or halter should be declared the owner of the calf. There was a yell of approval, but not a general stampede of volunteers, for taurus was in an ill humor, and his foaming mouth and blood-shot eyes gave token that whoever rode him would have a ride as wild as Mazeppa's and one that would not end so well.

At last a "vasquero" named Frick accepted the challenge, and the wild bull was immediately lassoed and held by a lariat around horn and foot. Dismounting his horse, the vasquero fastened his long roweled spurs securely, tied a handserchief around his head, approached the infuriated animal, and grasping the tail in his hands, sprang lightly on, setting the spurs deeply in his flanks as he settled securely m his seat. The lariats were slackened; the hull gave a roar of rage and terror, and flung his head to the ground; but the rider into its back to the horns and a firm grip on the tail, and kept his seat. Another roar that shook the ground, a wild plunge, and the now maddened bull shot out across the sage plain with lightning speed, his plucky rider twisting the tail that was to him a sheet anchor until the bellow ings were lost in the distance. At last a "vasquero" named Frick accepted fings were lost in the distance.

For over a mile and a half the race continued amid the excited cheers of the varqueror's comrades. Occasionally the bull gave a desperate plunge through a heavy clump of sage in the vain attempt to rid himself of his torin the vain attempt to rid himself of his tormenter, but the long rowels only clung more firmly to his flanks. Sometimes the animal and rider were hidden by undulations in the ground, and bets were even made that Frick would be thrown and gored; but at last the bull, exhausted from sheer fright, fell, and the plucky vasquero, stepping lightly off, returned to claim his prize, which was unanimously awarded.—Growing World.

A total abstinence society's committee urged Mayor King of Philadelphia to order the police to obtain evidence against rumsellers who violate the Sunday law. "So you want me to turn the police into spies?" he replied. Then he explained his idea of police duty in that matter to be that patrol-men should compel a closing of front doors and windows, but never enter a barroom except to quell a disturbance. 'If you desire to convict these violators of the Sunday law," he added, "you must get the requisite evidence yourselves. That is not the proper work of the police."

Correspondence Spirit of Kansas. EDITOR SPIRIT:-Not having seen anything lately in the shape of news from this "garden spot," I venture to report a few items. The anxious farmers of this vicinity were happily surprised as well as delighted, a few days since, to behold the reports that ten full companies will rain which they had begun to despair of come pouring down in refreshing showers upon their suffering corn. Of all things (except the festive grasshopper) probability the President of the United the farmer of Kansas most dreads is a drought; and when he sees his crops suffering for rain, he looks back to the dry days of '61 and thinks what has been may be again, and thus his mind is worked upon until he expects another drought. Corn is now in a thrifty condition, the dry weather put it back somewhat, but since the rain it has grown to a good height, and is at regiment. They also decided that the present much of it coming in tassel and rations to be sold to the members of the some of the earlier is in silk. We believe the farmers have been more industriously employed in weeding the ground coffee, Boston baked beans, soft corn this season than common, for we notice but very little weedy corn.

Haying has commenced; most of the hay now cut is immediately pressed and shipped. The demand for prairie grass this season is great even at the price of $1 50 per acre. It is getting scarce, and the time will soon come when little will be gotten for any price. Every farmer would do well to start a meadow of tame grass.

A good crop of wheat is now in stack, some of which is being threshed with good results. Flax and oats cut and in good condition, the yield promises to be good.

Fruit in abundance with the exception of peaches which were badly damaged by the hail.

Thus far everything is promising for our farmers, and with grain and fruit to sustain his family, grain to fatten his stock and some to sell, and in short with plenty to eat, plenty to wear and some to "lay by for a rainy day," he should be happy. REPORTER.

A GREAT many good people can make a very fair speech in a religious meeting, but when it comes to making a prayer they feel themselves off sound ings, as it were, and they curdle the blood of the devout at the amount of information they give the Lord and the preposterous things they ask him to do. The truth is we are all apt to ask the Lord for things which we wouldn't know what to do with if we had them. We say, "Thy Kingdom come, and Thy will be done," but we do not propose to assist in the matter in the very least, and we know very well that if anything that distantly resembles the kingdom of the Lord should come we ourselves would have to move into the suburbs before sundown. Our business habits and the general plan of our lives would disable as from taking our naturalization papers. It would be a good thing for some of us, however, if we could plant a bit of the Gospel right at the root of our tongues, or to change the figure, the old negro woman got hold of one The SundaySchool Assembly and of the bottom facts of the precious 'Oh, Lord, won't you be kind when you put it on again just hang it on the Gospel ninges of peace on earth and good will to men?"

The Egyptian Question. In 1870, for instance, when England and France were acting on the "hands off" policy, and Egypt was left to stew in her own juice, Germany intervened before Ismail had been left to himself amount of the Egyptian debt held in Germany is ludicrously small. But it was not too small to prevent Prince Bismarck from putting his foot down upon the late khedive, and producing the crisis which ended in his deposition. What Prince Bismarck's motive the world has never known Some believed that he desired to give England and France something to do, while others explain his interference by still more cynical designs connected with schemes of his own at home. "Youngstown, Ohio, May, 10th, 1880.
DR. B. J. Kendall. & Co., Gents:—I had a very val vable Hambletonian colt which I prizede very highly, he had a large bone spavin on one Joint and a smaller one on the other which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two Veterinary Surgeons who failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Cicago Express, I determined at once to try it, and got our druggists here to smd for it. They ordered three bottles; I took them all and thought I would give it a thorough trial. I used it according to directions, and by the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame, and the lumps had entirely disappeared. I used but one bottle and the colts limbs are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles, who are now using it.

I have owned the horse eight months, it took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me, its sale will be very great.

To Whom It May Concern:—In the year 1875 1 treated with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure.' a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's erg, and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have never has been very lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since

I treated him with Kendall's Spavin cure.

Fremont, Ohio, Jan. 15th, 1831.

Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for benefits and profits which I have derived from your invaluable and far famed Spavin Cure. My cousin and I had a valuable stallion, worth $4,600, which had a very bad spavin and was pronounced by four eminent yeterinary surgeons beyond any cure, and that the horse was done for ever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect, the third bottle cured it, and the horse is as well as ever. Dr Dick, of Edinburgh, the eminent veterinary surgeon was an uncle of mine, and I take great interesr in assisting his procession.

Kelley's Island, Erie County, Ohio, March 28th 1888. Dr. J. B. Kendall & Co., Gents:—I have used your "Kendall's Spavin Cure" on a bone spavin and am pleased to report that it has taken the enlargement completely off. It took only one bottle to perform the cure. I am condident if it is properly used it will do all you claim for it. Yours truly, C. M. LINCOLN.

Acme, Michigan, December 28th, 1879.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., GENTS:—I sent you one dollar for your "Kendall's Spavin Cure" last summer which cured a bone spavin with half a bottle. The best linnment I ever used.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.

Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—Having got a horse book of you by mail a year ago, the contents of which persuaded me to try Kendall's Spavin Cure on the hind leg of one of my horses which was badly swollen and could not be be reduced by any other remedy. I got two botiles of Kendall's Spavin Cure of Preston & Ludduth, Druggists of Waseca, which completely cured my horse. About five years ago I had a three-year-old colt sweenied very badly I used your remedy as given in your book without roweling, and I must say to your credit that the colt is entirely cured, which is a surprise not only to myself but also to my neighbors. You sent me the book for the trifling sum of 25 cents, and it I could not get another like it I would not take twenty-five dollars for it.

B. J. Kendall & Co —Gents: I have tried your Spavin Cure on a chronic case of bone spavin, which has been treated by two of the best doctors in the land. The case was fired twice, and I can safely say that Kendall's Spavin Cure did more good than anything which I ever tried. I believe it to be a good remedy for a great many difficulties. Ring-bone and bone spavins I am sure it will cure if taken in time. It is also good for soratches, grease heel, etc.

ON HUMAN FLESH it has been ascertained by repeated trials to be the very best liniment ever used for any deep seated pain of long standing, or of short duration. Also for Corns, Bunions, Frost-bites, or any braise, cut or ismeness. Some are afraid to use it on human flesh simply because it is a horse medicine, but you should remember that what is good for Beast is good for Man, and we know from experience that "KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE" can be used on a child 1 year old with perfect safety. Its effects are wonderful on human flesh, and it does not blister or make a sore. Try it and be convinced.

WHAT IS GOOD FOR BEAST IS GOOD FOR MAN.

B. J. Kendall & Co.—Gents: I wish to add my testimony in favor of your invaluable liminent, "Kendall's Spavin Cure." In the spring of 1872 I shipped on the ice and sprianed my right limb at the knee joint. I was very lame, and at times suffered the most excruciating pain. I wore a bandage on it for over a year, and tried most everything in my reach, but could find nothing that would give me permanent relief. When I overworked, it would pain me very much. In April, 1878, I began to think I should be a cripple for life, but having some of "Kendall's Spavin Cure" thought I would try it. I used one-third of a bottle and experienced relie; at once. The pain left me and has not troubled me since. I feel very grateful to you, and would recommend "Kendall's Spavin Cure" to all who suffer with sprains or rheumatism.

Yours truly.

MRS. J. BOUTELL.

Kendall's Spavin Cure is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is pene-trating and powerful to reach any deep-seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or any other en-largement if used for several days, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any largements and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man, and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects. It is used full strength with perfect safety at all seasons of the year.

The Popular Science Monthly for August, 1882.

The first place in "The Popular Science Monthly" for August is given to the concluding part of the address of Emil du Bois-Reymond on "The Physiology of Exercise," in which the action of exercise on the nervous centers, its relation to natural selection, and the comparative merits of different systems of gymnastic and out-door training are considered. This is one of the kind of papers the reading of which demands thought and stimulates it; and it is the paying of attention to discussions of this kind that in large part makes the difference between the Popular Science Monthly and the ordinary popular magazines. In "National Necessities and National Education," Dr. W. B. Richardson makes a strong and direct plea for the giving attention in the public schools to a broader physical education. Mr. William W. Jacques, Ph. D., contributes a paper on "Acoustic Architecture," in which he considers the effect of the condition of the air within an auditorium, the material of which its walls are com posed, and its shape, upon its acoustic qualities. M. Stanislas Meunier, a French geologists, describes "A Gigantic Fossil Bird," the remains of which have been found in France, which stood at least ten feet high, accompanying his description with illustrations, which will help to realize the gigantie dimensions of the bird. Professor Tyndall gives the measure of the "Progress of the Germ Theory of that disease is ever arrested and removed. Disease." In "The Book-Men" the late T. Wharten Collens shows what knowledge owes to the school-men or closet students of the middle ages and succeding centuries, vindicating their claims to a degree of appreciation which this age of out-door investigation is apt 1. to deny them. Dr. Andrew Wilson, one of the most trustworty as well as entertaining scientific writers of the day, is the author of a lively paper "About Elephants." Professor Harvey W. Wiley explains "The Chemistry of Sugar," and adds the assertion that this country ought to make its own sugar, and could do it if it would. Readers who are interested on the question of a fourth dimension in space will find the latest that has been thought on the subject in Mr. Alfred C. Lane's paper on "Transcendental Geometry," This paper is followed, and relieved, by Mr. Winter's "My Spider,"the interest of which lies in its individuality and incidents, and which appeals alike to serious and light readers. A not uncommon phenomenon is described in "Sudden Whitening of the Hair;" "How Plants Resist Decay" is explained by W. G. Focke; Lieutenant Krietler, fresh from a scientific expedition in Central Asia, describes, in "The Topmost Country of the Earth," the land of Thibet, and its singular isolated people. The portrait and sketch are of Baron Nordenskiold, the distinguished Swedish explorer, who has just achieved the circumnavigation of Europe and Asia. The editor, in the "Editor's Table," vindicates the purpose of the "Monthly" in seeking to elevate the popular thought to the comprehension of the questions that are occupying the ablest minds, instead of "competing downward" with the other popular magazines. A large amount of space is given to literary notes and brief miscellaneous articles, and they are of unusual value.

New York : D. Appleton & Co. Fifty cents per number, $5 per year.

Lippincott's Magazine.

The contents of Lippincott's Magazine for August are light and summary throughout, suggestive of mountain rambles and sea-side excursions. "St. Jerome's Day with the Pueblo Indians" is a well-illustrated paper descriptive of a half-religious, half-barbaric testival in New Mexico. "An Adirondack Home," by P. Deming, has the well-known characteristics of the writer's Atlantic sketches, close observation, quiet humor, and sympathetic treatment of the primitive freshness and quaint features of life in the wilderness. "The Romance of Childhood," by Henry A. Beers, is a charming paper, tinged with a delicate fancy, by turns tender and playful. Mrs. M. G. Van Rensselaer's concluding papers on the Alleghanies gives a deeply interesting sketch of the career of Gallitzin, the prince missionary who did so much for the early civilization of the mountain regions of Pennsylvania, and in contrast to this, a description of the Cambria Iron Works, which form the most striking features of the actual life of that district. "Bay Beauties and Bay Breezes," by P. V. Huyssoon, is very amusing; while an article on "Shires and Shire Towns in the South," by Anthony Van Wyck, traces in a manner that will be new to most readers the influence of these territorial divisions on social habits and political ideas in the Southern States. The new serial, "Fairy Gold," grows in interest, the scenes and characters being an evident transcript from "society" life in New York. The short stories, "Edge-Tools," by Eleanor Putnam, "Mrs. Larrabee's Morning Call," by Charles Dunning, and "Marcy Hartwick," by Chauncy Hickox, are bright and entertaining, and the editerial departments are as well filled as usual.

The Iowa State Register suggests in regard to the ship canals wanted in the west to unite the water-ways of the lakes and the Mississippi, that the plans should be fully prepared against the time when thousands of laborers against the time when thousands of laborers now occupied upon the railroads shall be thrown out of employment. They can be then profitably employ ed instead of becoming a dissatisfied and dangerous presence in the country at a time when every one is more or less tried by the revulsion of affairs. The country instead of being harmed or endangered would be more strongly united, and thus enter the sooner upon a fresh era of general prosperity. prosperity.

Burning Bagasse

It has been demonstrated that the pressed ane stalks coming from sorghum mills may be utilized by using them for fuel. Machines are now in use which are run wholly by the burning of bagasse, as the pressed stalks are called. An Iowa man has taken his machine to Texas, and set it up so as to be ready for working up the new crop of cane as fast as it becomes fit for syrup and sugar. He is confident of perfect success in burning the bagasse.

As soon as his success becomes satisfactorily established, the fact will be published everywhere, and his machines will sell, because the saving of fuel is an important item in the manufacture of sugar or syrup. But the fuel part is not all of the advantage. The removal of the refuse cane is an important matter. The enormous piles of bagasse about sorghum fills are a cause of great inconvenience. Piting it up to get it out of the way is hard work and a good deal of it. Then it requires a long time to rot into manure, and all this time it is in the way.

Besides the saving of labor and fuel, we get a body of the best ashes. So that the burning of bagasse is economical all around. This will be a good thing for our kansas prairie people who have little or no timber.—Es. established, the fact will be published every-

The Egyptian war grows more comcomplicated. The most as ute diplomats cannot predict what is in store. England wants to take all the Turkey and is willing that other powers should divide the buzzard.

BARNES, the Kentucky evangelist, believes in the entire efficacy of repentance. In a recent exhortation he when he is drunk than when he is sober, for he can just come and throw himself limber, like a rag, into the arms of Jesus. Suppose a man comes here limber drunk and confesses Christ, and then goes out and puts another quart of whisky under his belt, and, going home, he falls off his horse and breaks his neck, that man will go straight to heaven, as sure as God is God; and if he don't I would be willing to go to hell for him.

Future Punishment.

We are not sufficiently versed in orthodox literature to discuss intelligently whether the future of man is progressive, terrible torment or universal salvation and man gets his deserts as he goes along. A Stranger in a Strange Land.

Many of our readers will remember a short. round-headed, light-haired man, who a few weeks since was canvassing for the "Life of Garfield." His name was Evan M. Richards. He died at the residence of Mr. Ford on Ohio street, on the 19th inst., aged about 55 years. He was a Welchman and said to be worth considerable property.

Some circumstances in connection with the man's sickness and burial are to say the least strange. He went to Ford's to board while they kept a boarding house on Massachusetts street. Ford sold out and removed to Ohio street and Richards, after a few days, followed and asked that they take him, which they did. He went on a visit to Johnson county, where he tried to trade proporty in Indianapolis for a grocery store. Soon after his return he was taken suddenly sick and Dr. Abdelal was called to attend him. After an illness of five days he died, the doctor pronouncing his disease apoplexy. Dr. Abdelal asked Mr. Ford's family if the patient had any papers, and those he had were given the doctor. These papers included deeds for several lots in Indianspolis, beside considerable personal property in this State. The Probate Court records show $900 estimated valuation in this State. Dr. Abdelal took the papers to the Probate Judge and made affidavit that Richards had no heirs in this State, and he being one of the creditors asked to be appointed administrator. The court granted the request, F. W. Jeadekie and being the doctor's bondsmen.

The remains of Mr. Richards were placed in the plainest and cheapest of coffins, carried to the cemetery in an express Wagon and buried in the "Potters Field."

Mr. Richards said to Ford's family for weeks before his death that he expected $900 by mail. He went to the post office several times each day and did not seem willing that some body else should go for him. He received a great deal of mail, but this particular letter did not arrive. He claimed to be a stockholder in a woolen mill and an oil mill in Indiana.

There are still at Ford's house a trunk of letters and papers which might throw some light upon the question as to whether Richards had any living relative, but these the doctor has not called for.

Richards once kept a dry goods store in Leavenworth and grocery store at Meadow Brook, this State. We do not know but Dr. Abdelal is doing all in his power to bring to light everything connected with this man, but the facts we have related above, and we get them from Fords and the Probate Judge, do not look to us just right. If the man was worth $900 he should have had a decent burial.

The colums of the SPIRIT are open for any explanation which Dr. Abdelal may wish to make.

That Show.

An innovation on the established custom of the show business, and that change to the benefit of the patron, deserves a notice after the show has come and gone; when no suspicion of paid advertisement can attach to a newspaper's remark. With the probable exception of a secular paper when it has occasion to mention its circulation in round numbers, the rule of the average circus is to pile on two yards of unadulterated and unblushing lie to each yard of canvas. It pays-for a season, but as year after year rolls on good shows are recognized as such, and the others drag around worn and wobbling wagons, fieshless dispirited stock, and barn yard performers.

The show of Adam Forepaugh exhibited here yesterday. His street parade was just what was advertised, and he would have to be a meaner man than we have ever yet been unfortunate enough to meet, who wouldn't own right up the street parade alone was worth 100 per cent. more than the whole performance in several of the "largest shows on earth." The man on the velocipede can come here any time man on the velocipede can come here any time and exhibit at a quarter a head. Bolivar, that mountain of flesh, the largest elephant, we are informed, in captivity, reaches above the crowd and makes the other twenty-one elephants in the procession, some very large ones, look like ordinary ponies alongside a Conestoga stallion. The crowd moved back a little, and drew a long breath as he passed. The beautiful horses, magnificently caprisoaed, finely decorated wagons, and handsome

The beautiful horses, magnificently caprisoned, finely decorated wagons, and handsome women, gaily costumed performers, three bands of real good music, the jubilee singers, etc., etc., were all better than advertised. The catiope was really musical, and the tunes played were clearly executed by notes. Inside the tent, a splendid performance was given, much better than was advertised or expected. The lady rider, the three tumblers, the three trapezists were simply wonderful in their daring and skill.

Truly, Forepaugh's is a great show. It merits its great success. We'd lize to see it again.—Speingfield (O.) Sunday News.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman." may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and m satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhoza, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and sequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life." Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the conates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness or the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law shat governs the female system. It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.
"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are "Mrs. Pinkham's laver Pills," says one writer, are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Billousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

A VOICE FROM THE TOMB.

BY J. L. M.

I sauntered away in the moonlight To the lonely graveyard still That lay neath the woodland shadows, In the churchyard on the hill.

I gazed at the granite columns That arose from the dust of the dead, Aad by the light of the silvery moonbeams I read the sad thoughts they said.

Soon I came to a mound 'neath the shadows 'Twas a spot I knew full well; We had laid the cold form of a brother At the toll of a village bell,

Many years he had laid there in slumber, Many years had his form been at rest. But we knew that his soul, pure and spotles Had been borne to the realms of the blest.

And as I sat sadly thinking Of the innocent prattling boy Who had once filled a home with sunshine, Who had once filled sad hearts with joy.

I heard a sweet voice low and childlike, That appeared to come from the sod But I knew 'twas the voice of my brother-A voice from the realms of God.

He told me in tones angelic Of the bliss and love in Heaven; Of the joy of our bright blooming flower That we had with sadness given.

Soon the voice seemed to raise toward Heave And was lost in the home of the blest. But his last words were those of entreaty Calling us home to our rest, VALLEY FALLS, KANS.

Good-Night.

How very commonplace is the expression "Good-night!" and yet what volumes it may speak for all the future time! We never listen to it in passing, and this thought does not force itself upon us, be the tones in which it is uttered ever so thoughtless. The lapse of a tew hours may so surround and hedge it in few hours may so surround and hedge it in with horror that of all the millions of words which a litetime has recorded these two little words alone shall be remembered: "Goodnight!" The little child has lisped it, as it passed smilling from this world; the lover with his gay dreams of the nuptial morrow; the wife and mother, with the tangled threads of household cares still in her fingers; the father, going out to death, leaving home and kin unprotected and uncared for. Good-night! The seal upon days past and days to come. What hand so rash to tear aside the veil that covers its to-morrow! its to-morrow !

Eloquence Run Wild.

The following is said to be an extract from the Fourth of July address delivered by Hon. A. B. Elliott, American consul at Morrisburg, Canada. It is plain there never will be another war between this country and Great Britain. We propose four cheers and a tiger:

Let it be written on every leaf that trembles in the Canadian and American forests, every blade of grass that waves in the morning breeze, every sail that whitens the sea of commerce let it blaze from the sun at noontide and be reflected in the milder radiance of every star that bedecks the firmament of God; let it echo through the arches of heaven and reverberate through the corridors of our national temple, that the grand and sympathetic words of Queen Victoria were flashe on the wings of electricity over the Atlantic cable, and hovered like a guardian angel over the bed of the dying President Garfield, were words of pearls and diamonds set in the necklace of international unity and harmony, hung around the neck of the godders of liberty.

Something Queer About It.

There is one church in La Crosse, the German Lutheran, that has been struck so many times by lightning that whenever a sharp thunder clap is heard the people all look towards that particular church spire. Nobody knows what is the reason that church should have to catch all the lightning, but the frequency with which it is struck has played hob with the old saying that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. Once the lightning struck the church and the bolt glanced across struck the church and the bolt glanced across the street and knocked the barn in which the pastor of the charch kept his horse into a cocked hat, and then started for the house, but stopped before it got there and crawled into a hole. The minister was pretty badly frightened, and now when a storm comes up he gets as far from the church as his duties and the companies. There is comething queer about will permit. GOOSEBERRY JAM .-- Cor. Ind. Farmer. This is made pretty much as other jams, but I will tell my sister housekeepers how I make a mixed article of gooseberries and raspberries. use either the full-grown green or the ripe fruit. I put no more water in the preserving pan than will prevent the truit from burning and boil until they have burst and are tender, then add a pound of sugar to each pound of gooseberries, and boil, say half an hour or so, until done enough. Put the jam in jars, and after leaving open for twenty-four hours, ses up tightly. The gooseberry jam imported from England, and to be found at many of our best grocery stores, is a choice article, but no better than we can prepare eurselves, only that the fruit in England is twice as large as

But there is another jam which I think is But there is another jam which I take is better than this. It is a mixture of gooseberries and raspberries, a pound of raspberries to a half pound of gooseberries. Boil the gooseberries as before, and then add the raspberries for a pound of truit, and simmer until done, gently stirring to mix thoroughly.

POTATO SALAD .- Boil a quart of potatoes as soon as done peel and cut in thin slices; mix with the slices without breaking them one gill vinegar, one gill melted butter or salad oil, pepper and salt to taste, one apple and two small onions minced fine.

M. Raffard, a membor of a French Horticultural Society, reports that he has demonstrated that a castor oil plant growing in a pot in a room will cause flies to disappear as if by magic. On first noticing that the flies had disappeared from a room he sought for the cause, and found several lifeless flies adhering to the under side of the leaves of a castor oil pla t, ond others lying in the pot beneath the plan-After experiments conclusively proved to him that he had determined a new property in this really striking garden and house plant. If this prove true why may not restaurants and other prove true why may not restaurants and other public places as well as our houses be easily rid of the troublesome house fig. What would a decoction of the leaves do as an insect destroyer on plants and fruit trees, very pertinently asks an English cotemporary. It is said that the leaves of the castor bean exudes an oil that is poisonous to insect life. The experiment so far as the flies go is easily made and we hope to know more about it.

Jay Gould's Conservatory.

A World reporter visited Jay Gould's conservatory at Irvington, on the Hudson, which was built to replace the one destroyed by fire over a year ago. Mr. Gould's hobby is horticulture, and, with limitless means at his command, he pursues it with the same enthusiasm that other men bestow on tast horses. Last winter a list of new plants, covering almost every variety of vegetation, was made out, and this spring an enormous collection was imported. It is Mr. Gould's intention to have at least one specimen of every variety of flowering plant known. The main building is 400 feet long. It has several wings eighty feet long, and the whole is divided into sixteen sections, the temperature in each of which can be regulated independently of the adjoining sections. By this means fruits and grapes can be insured all the year round, as the vines can be kept in different stages of development. The conservatory contains over 4,000 varieties of plants. There is room for twice that number. The gardener estimates that there are from 6,000 to 8,000 plants in the conservatory and on the grounds, which are 500 acres in extent. The majority of the plants have been brought from the European conservatories, especially from Belgium. In one room there are 100 varieties of double geraniums in full bloom. One section eighty feet long is devoted to rose, of which there are 400 varieties. There are 400 varieties of palms, 300 of them from Ecuador and 100 from Asia. Some of the specimens cost $250. There are forty varieties of the pitcher plant, from Madagascar. There are 100 varieties of crotons from the Fiji islands, 500 varieties of foliage plants from Central America and the East Indies. A colection of terns from Central and South America and the East Indies, numbering 300 varieties, Being summer, many of the plants were in beds outside the conservatory. The flower garden comprises three acres and the vegetable garden four acres. There is also a vinelyard of two acres and a large or chard confaining some 400 apple trees and 500 pear trees. There are any quantity of strawberry vines, gooseberry bushes, &c. An importation of arre plants from Central Africa is expected to arrive soon. Mr. Gould will expend this year $100,000 in the drainage of his place, and millions have already been spent to make the place what it is.—New York World. bloom. One section eighty feet long is devoted

Bones for Trees.

Plant food is concentrated in bones, and most gardeners who make a business in raising fruits and vegetables appreciate their value. In tree planting they are almost indispensible. They can be had of village boys generally for about twenty-five to fifty cents a barrel. They pick them up about the streets, gardens, and slaughter houses, the remnants of butchers' meat sold to families. This kind of bone is fine enough to be put into borders for grape. wines and fruit trees, and to bury under old trees without any preparation. A bushel of these bones to a newly planted tree is none too much, and any one may safely plant five bushels under a bearing apple tree or grapelyine. So large results will not fallow immediately from these coursespieces as from the ground article or from superphosphates. But there will be in the soil a supply of food for many years to come, and the roots will appropriate it as they have need. The fine rootlets will seek the bones as eagerly as they seek water in a tile drain. We have frequently taken up grapevines planted in this way and found the whole mass of bone one solid, penetrated with fine roots. We doubt if any investment in fertilizers pay better than in these bones from butchers' meat, which are quite plentiful in villages.—Agriculturist. wines and fruit trees, and to bury under old

The aunoyance caused by flies often prevents cows from eating a full supply of grass, which will also prevent them from giving a full supply of milk. In the stables much of the annoyance caused by these pests may be avoided by darkness and cleanliness. Sprinkle quicklime over the manure heap, which should be some distance off. They may, says a writer, be driven out of stables by hanging up bunches be driven out of stables by nanging up bunches of plantain leaves previously dipped in milk. By slightly and quickly brushing the head and legs of cows with a decoction of walnut leaves or by doing the same with a decoction of ergot (spurred rye) every three or four days, or simply a solution of borax applied similarly will relieve the poor cows from a great part of the annovance from flies.—Ex. the annoyance from flies. - Ex.

Her husband's manner then changed; he became cool and offhand with her, while his manner to her mother was very affectionate. She at last made up her mind that she would speak to her mother upon the subject, but before she could find an opportunity her husband and her mother eloped together. Her mother had money, while she had none, and she believed that that was the bait which had allured her husband. When advised by the magistrate to apply to the parish authorities to make her husband support her she said she would rather starve than do that.

Setting Wagon Tires.

Ed. F. R.—The season for setting wagon tires is at hand. Many farmers think that as soon as their wagon felloes begin to shrink, they must go at once to a blacksmith shop and get the tires set. Instead of doing that which is often a damage to the wheels, causing them to "dish," if they will get some linseed oil and heat it boiling hot, and give the felloes all the oil they can take, it will fill them up to their usual size and tighten the tire. After the oil a coat of paint is a good thing to keep them from shrinking, and also to help keep out the water. Some farmers think they can not do anything out of their Consumption line of business and never paint a tool or do any thing of the kind. If you do not wish to go to the trouble of mixing Missiouary the formula of a simple vegetable paint, you can heat the oil and tie a rag to a stick and swab them over as long as they will take oil. A brush is more convenient to use, but a swab will answer if you dot wish to buy a brush.

Farmers, as a rule, are too shiftless in using and caring for tarm machinery. Often times among our Western farmers where lumber is scarce and high, there are more tools that are damaged by exposure to sun, wind and rain than by actual wear. If it pays; to buy tools is a big item in the expenses of a farm. It is quite a saving of time and money to look after the woodwork of farm machinery. Alternate wetting and drying injuries and causes the best of wood soon to decay and lose its strength unless kept well painted. I have a wagon which, six years ago, the felloes shrunk so the tires became loose. I gave it a good coat of hot oil, and every year since it has had a good coat of hot oil or paint, sometimes both. The tires now are tight yet, and they have not been set for eight or nine years. It pays to keep a little oil on hand, to oil fork handles, rakes, neck yokes, whipple-trees and any of the small tools on the farm that are more or less exposed. It is money well invested, for a little oil applied in season, will do a vast amount of good.—Allen E. Smith, in Farmer's Review.

A Lucky Boy.

Some men begin to be lucky when they are mere boys. A twelve-year-old boy shot at a cat in Leadville last week, but fortunately missed the cat and killed an influential citizen who was in the back yard of a neighboring saloon. As the influential citizen happened to be a delegate from Texas who had killed several men, and of whom the Leadville police had a holy horror, the joy of the citizens was great. The boy received an ovation. The mayor made a neat little speech on presenting him with a gold-mounted revolver. As the boy expressed a desire to be raised for the ministry, a fund was raised to send him to a theological institute. Nothing has, however, been done for the cat. - Texas Siftings.

A Papoose Killed by Mosquitoes. In Alida Valley, Nevada, last week, a small band of Indians was camping near some willows where the mosquitoes were very numerous. A squaw left her papoose in the shade while she played Piute poker with her companious. The game was rather high, and became so interesting that she forgot her unfortunate offspring for several hours. When her attention was again directed to the child she discovered that it had been almost eaten up by mosquitoes. They had collected on the little thing in such numbers that its face and arms were completely raw from their attacks. So many had bitten the baby that it died next day

Lawrence Markets. [Reported for the SPIRIT OF KANSAS by E. B GOOD, Grocer, 71 Massachusetts street, Law rence, Kansas.]

Wheat has taken the tumble which everybody expected it would. There is little prospect that it will go lower at present. At the present prices large quantities are coming in, and the elevator and mills are kept busy disposing of it.

Oats have dropped away down, fully seventy per cent., and the quality of the grain is fully one hundred per cent. better than last year.

Potatoes fluctuate so that it is hard to quote them accurately. An extra fine lot at a time when a dealer is in want, will sometimes reach ten cents above our quotations. 'The shipping demand holds the price firm all the time, and there is little likelihood of a glut of the market at any time.

Butter is steady, a d no more is offered than can be comfortably taken care of at any time. Chickens are scarce and wanted, even at the high prices offered.

Onions are firm at the quotations. We quote: Flour-Head Center $3.50@3.75. Douglas Co. A 1, $3.00@3.25.

Is the only general purpose wire fence in use. Being a strong net work without barbs. It will turn dogs, pigs, poultry, as well as the most vicious stock, without damage to either fence or stock. It is just the fence for farmers, gardners, stock raisers and railroads, very desirable for lawns, parks or cemeteries. As it is covered with rust-proof paint, it will tast a life-time. It is superior to boards in every respect and far better than barbed wire. We ask for it a fair trial knowing it will wear itself into favor. The Sedgwick Gates made of wrought iron pipe and steel wire, defy all competition in neatness, lightness, strength and durability. We also make the best and cheapest all iron Automatic or self-opening gate. Ask hardware deaiers or for price-list and particulars address SEDGWICK BROS, Richmond, Ind. 1-4 cow13t
