

Professional Shearer

It's sheep shearing time, as Paul Osterfund of Ottawa County shows here. He was shearing sheep for George Kepple near Tescott. Kepple had 150 head to clip. He has been in the sheep business two years and thinks that it is a better deal than raising cattle. Osterfund has been in the sheep business for many years and is well known in this area as a sheep-shearer.

Allow Grazing On Western Soil Bank

TOPEKA — Gov. Robert Docking was informed last week that the U.S. Agriculture Department is offering grazing privileges to reserve crop land in 42 Western Kansas counties where normal pasture has badly deteriorated because of winter drought conditions.

The governor was informed of the action by John A. Schnittker, undersecretary of agriculture, following recommendation by Governor Docking.

Lack of rain and snow last fall and winter caused almost a total loss of pasture in many areas and ranchers said even normal spring rains probably would not enable a comeback for the grazing land.

Counties designated were Cheyenne, Clark, Comanche, Decatur, Edwards, Ellis, Finney, Ford, Gove, Graham, Grant, Gray, Greeley, Hamilton, Haskell, Hodgeman, Kearney, Kiowa, Lane, Logan, Meade, Morton, Ness, Norton, Osborne, Pawnee, Phillips, Pratt, Rawlins, Rooks, Russell, Scott, Seward, Sheridan, Sherman, Smith, Stafford, Stanton, Stevens, Thomas, Trego and Wallace.

Haying and grazing privileges on the soil bank acreage will be offered for use under an emergency condition and those using the land will have a downward adjustment in payments for their other farm benefits, Schnittker said.

The undersecretary also said farmers who are military reservists or national guardsmen, as well as those drafted or volunteering for service, can increase their farm average diversions up to the maximum percentage if they are called to active duty.

This would allow increased planting as an income supplement while in service, it was said. Such farmers would not have to reduce their planned acreage when the acreage disposition date is reached the notice said.

Few farm enterprises in the G&G area are catching the attention of the steak-and-eggs operation of Pat Sauble near Cedar Point on the Chase-Marion county border.

Sauble's 3300-acre Flint Hills ranch combines a 300-cow beef herd with a 58,000-hen laying operation. The operation has interested stockmen for combining a large-scale ranch with the lowly, often scorned chicken. Moreover, the traditional independence of the cattleman is tempered by a contract guaranteeing price for the eggs from the layer operation.

But Sauble says the diversification works. The layer operation provides some guaranteed income and it hasn't inhibited the longtime role of cattle on the ranch which now is in the fifth generation in the Sauble family thru Pat's granddaughter Lorie.

Sauble started the diversification on a smaller scale 13 years ago, built it steadily until this spring when he doubled the size of it by constructing facilities for 30,000 more laying hens.

The move to egg production started during a long drouth, 1952-56 when for the first time the Sauble ranch didn't raise any feed. With grass short and feed nonexistent, Sauble culled his cow herd and cut back repeatedly.

In 1955 Sauble heard the county agent say that just "12 old hens produced more income than one stock cow."

Sauble investigated. He decided that he had the labor and buildings necessary, could buy the feed if he couldn't raise it, and could turn the poultry manure to good use on the crop land as fertilizer. Moreover, he figured there weren't going to be many people getting into the egg business, so if he did the job right, he'd make a profit.

First Pat built a pole house to hold 1200 hens. The next year a stone barn was converted to contain 1200 laying cages. A corn crib was made over to handle 1200 more hens. The three units were crowded to handle 5000 hens.

By 1962 Sauble put in a modern operation with automatic feeders and egg conveyors and washers that could handle 13,000 hens.

Up to 1966 Sauble handled his own production and marketing. Then he got an offer to get the hens and feed supplied if he would supply the labor and facilities. The price would be guaranteed by the contractor if Sauble would increase his facilities to 50,000 or more capacity.

While contract farming doesn't necessarily appeal to a longtime cattleman, Sauble agrees that even with low egg prices the egg business has pro-

Cowman Pat Sauble with some of his 58,000 laying hens.

Dairy Income Highest Since '48

Cash income from milk and cream sold by Kansas farmers during 1967 was the highest since 1948, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Cash receipts from marketings of milk and cream in 1967 totaled $78,437,000, up 6 percent from 1966 and 24 percent above the 1961-65 average.

Receipts from sales of whole milk to plants and dealers reached a new high of $74,358,000.

Milk and cream retailed by farmers brought in $1,908,000 and farm separated cream $2,171,000. The average per cwt. returns for milk marketed as milk or cream was $4.75, a record high.

The gross farm income from dairy products in 1967, which included value of milk, cream and butter consumed on the farm as well as the marketings totaled $81,145,000, the highest since 1952.

The value of all milk produced, including also the value of whole milk fed to calves, was $82,935,000 in 1967.

Kansas farmers sold an all-time high of 1530 million pounds of whole milk to plants and dealers in 1967. Whole milk sold to plants accounted for 88 percent of all milk produced in 1967, compared with 85 percent in 1966.

Milk separated on the farm for sale as cream totaled 100 million pounds, down 29 percent from last year and approximately 6 percent of the total produced.

Milk retailed by the farmers direct to the consumer as fluid milk and cream in 1967 was estimated at 20 million pounds, down 1 million pounds from 1966.

Milk used on the farm, including that consumed by the farm family, fed to calves and churned into farm butter, totaled 96 million pounds compared with 107 million pounds a year earlier.

The average number of cows in Kansas milk herds declined to 221,000 in 1967, the lowest in a 44-year period.

Milk production per cow, however, increased sharply to 7900 pounds in 1967, a new high and 410 pounds above 1966. Total milk production in 1967 was up slightly to 1746 million pounds, some 8 million pounds above 1966.

United States

Milk production in the United States in 1967 was 119.3 billion pounds, down one-half percent from 1966, as a decline in cow numbers more than offset a rise in output per cow.

Farmers' cash receipts from marketings of milk and cream totaled a record high of $5770 million in 1967. This was 4 percent above the previous record a year earlier.

Returns for combined marketings of milk and cream averaged $5.06 per hundredweight in 1967. This was a record high, exceeding by 22 cents per hundredweight the previous record in 1966.

The farm value of all milk produced in 1967 was $6,036 million, a 4-percent increase over 1966.

KQHA Sale Tops At $1300

NEWTON — The 14th annual spring sale of the Kansas Quarter Horse Association topped at $1300, with a 2-year old palomino filly, Tee Jay Bar Lady, going for that price to Cole & Thomison of Wichita. The filly was consigned by Jo and Duane Walker of Canton.

Cole & Thomison also paid $1200 for a 2-year sorrel stallion consigned by G. H. Phillips of Elkhart.

Bob Wilson, sale manager, St. George, reported many out-of-state buyers who purchased some 27 head in the $400 to $1000 range. In all, 53 head sold.

He Successfully Scrambles Steak And Eggs

ved itself as a supplement to ranch income.

Sauble is still basically a cattleman. He's had a better than 90% calf crop from his 300-cow herd, using artificial insemination for the last five years.

In addition to the cow herd, Sauble buys calves which he winters and summers on the bluestem hills before marketing them as feeders in the fall.

The Sauble ranch still produces a lot of beef. And a lot of eggs too. Pat Sauble thinks steak and eggs go very well together.

Rural Electricity No Longer A Favorite Son In Congress

One of the creations of the Roosevelt New Deal — the Rural Electrification Administration — no longer enjoys its proud favorite son role.

Not that the Johnson administration — nor Republicans who long have been supporters — have turned against the rural electric power development agency. Politicians still praise the REA for its work in extending electricity to 20 million rural residents, but they no longer feel compelled to do as much for it as they once did.

As a consequence, the REA's long-time future role in the nation's expanding electrical power structure is quite uncertain.

The REA, an agency under the direction of the Agriculture Department, has extended loans totaling more than $5.5 billion to upwards of 1000 rural farmer cooperatives, public power districts and other local units since its creation in 1936.

Sponsors say loans were made in areas where private power concerns failed to extend electricity to rural areas. Long-term loans were made at a favorable interest rate of two percent a year.

But the initial loans to these borrowers are turning out, in most cases, to be inadequate. Although the number of farms and other rural users of power has been declining, the demand for electricity has been growing more than enough to offset the loss of users. That's because more and more farms are increasing the use of electrical equipment. So have many other rural users, including small industries and businesses.

As a consequence many of the REA borrowers have needed — and obtained — supplemental loans to expand their facilities. Others need additional funds. But the amounts provided by the federal government for such loans in recent years have been less than needs.

Last year, a vain attempt was made in Congress to set up a bank which would have tapped private money markets for supplemental loans. However, efforts in behalf of such a bank have not revived for the current session.

Inadequate funds are not the only thing that darkens the future for the REA. A possibility exists that the rural power cooperatives will not be permitted to share in the benefits expected to come from the development of cheaper power from nuclear energy by private investors.

a high bid of $192,640 submitted by one W. H. Ferguson of Windsor, Mo.

Afterward, while papers for the sale were being drawn up, the buyer asked where he could get a drink of water. Told downstairs, he and an unnamed friend left the room, but failed to stop at the water fountain.

Instead they drove to the Johnson airport, where a plane was waiting. An attempt was made at the airport to stop them but the pilot gunned the plane and took off into the wind and dust, leaving the auctioneers, a real estate agency and brokers with seven quarters of unsold land.

Attempts to locate the bidder revealed the name Ferguson was a fictitious one. Attorneys for the holders of the land and sale are pondering what steps, if any, to take in the incident.

Specialist for tall, tough crops—the International 275 windrower

First to serve the farmer

Here's how the International 275 solves the three big problems in windrowing twelve-foot tall sorghum-sudan hybrids.

1. Cutting. Up front on the 14-ft. platform you've got the fastest-cutting knife on any windrower—1500 long, 3 1/4-inch strokes a minute. So even heavy stands of inch-thick stalks can't stop you. Vibration is down to a bare minimum—because the 275 features the exclusive, balanced-head knife drive, not a sway-bar.

2. Feeding. Exclusive spiral-pattern flights on the big 22-inch-diameter single auger feed tall crops in a more even, clog-free flow to the conditioner. The conditioner itself is mounted right in the big throat on the platform.

3. Conditioning. Steel bar and rubber roll conditions by crimping each stem. Spring tension on the rolls adjusts to your crop and the conditioning job you want.

You'll find a long list of worth-more features on this International 275—from the fast-click disconnect on the final drive for high-speed towing, to the big 24-in. drive wheel tires. See your dealer, and check the income-tailored IHCC credit plan.

Judge Won't Throw Out Pott. Courthouse Case

WESTMORELAND — A motion by the Board of Pottawatomie County Commissioners for summary judgement in the battle over a new county courthouse was denied here Saturday by District Judge A. B. Fletcher Jr.

He set 2 pm May 8 as time for the trial of the suit brought by three county residents who seek to enjoin the commissioners from issuing bonds to erect the new courthouse.

The suit was brought by Eli Pinet, Onaga, and Lyle Honig and Alfred Willie, both of Wamego.

Judge Fletcher, sitting as judge pro tem in Pottawatomie County District Court, heard oral arguments in the case April 1 and had reviewed filed written briefs.

If the summary judgement had been approved in Saturday's action, the county would have been free to build the controversial courthouse.

The suit filed by the three men contends the special building levy was created unconstitutionally by action of the commissioners in June 1960.

The county has collected $295,000 in the special levy and last month contracted Ransom and Co. of Wichita to sell another $295,000 in bonds to finance construction of the planned courthouse.

The bonds are to be paid off with money collected in the special building levy in future years.

Judge Fletcher said the only question involved in the court test is whether the commission complied with state statutes when it created the courthouse building levy.

Judge Fletcher, of Junction City, was appointed judge pro tem to hear the case by the Kansas Supreme Court after Judge John Brookens of Westmoreland disqualified himself.

Corn Price Slump

Corn prices have been a big disappointment to many producers this year. With half of the 1967-68 marketing year gone, quoted prices per bushel have averaged about 27 cents (one-fifth) lower than one year before. Actual returns to farmers have been down much more, because of large discounts due to excessive moisture in the corn crop that was harvested last fall.

Prices of cash corn reached their harvest-time low in November. They moved up 5 to 10 cents in December, then moved sideways during the winter.

A similar pattern was followed by the May and July futures, but the futures were unusually high in comparison with prices of cash corn. This relationship meant either that the futures would decline, or that cash prices would rise. The futures turned downward at mid-March and continued lower in April.

At this time of the year, the most important market news is the USDA estimate of stocks of corn (and other grains) on farms April 1. This figure was released on April 10, but is not available as this report is being prepared.

The next important news will be the report of stocks off farms as of the first of April. This figure will be released on April 24. When this report becomes available, we will be able to get a much better picture than heretofore of the actual supply situation. We will also be able to make good estimates of the rate at which corn has been fed to livestock and poultry.

By far the biggest use and market for our corn is for feed to livestock and poultry here in the United States. During the past five years, the average annual use of corn for feed was about 3150 million bushels — 78 percent of the total amount of corn that was used and exported.

Exports are the second most important outlet for our corn. During the past five years, the average annual use of corn for feed was about 3150 million bushels — 78 percent of the total amount of corn that was used and exported.

Exports are the second most important outlet for our corn. During the past five years, exports have averaged about 510 million bushels per year — 13 percent of the total disappearance. Exports reached an all-time peak of 670 million bushels two years ago, but shrank back to 466 million bushels last year. During the first half of this marketing year, exports were around 330 million bushels — 29 percent more than during the same 6 months a year before. In recent weeks, however, exports were only 15 to 20 percent more than a year earlier.

The other uses for corn do not change much from one year to another. They include corn used for wet process milling (starch, syrup, etc.) cornmeal and cereals, alcohol, and seed.

Grass & Grain

April 30, 1968

Last year, these uses took about 372 million bushels.

To March 1, farmers had put 387 million bushels of corn under price support loans — three-fourths more than by that same date last year. The total amount of corn — new and old — under price support loans and owned by the CCC was around 742 million bushels — one-third more than a year earlier.

The carryover of corn next fall is expected to be one-fifth to one-third larger than the 823 million bushels on hand last October 1.

Test Plot With 55 Varieties

KIRON, Iowa — "I've learned that the initial cost of a bag of seed corn means nothing," declares farmer Dennis Gustafson, who grew 55 different varieties of corn in his private test plot last year.

Yields of individual varieties ranged from low of 104.6 bushels to a high of 228.3 bushels of No. 2 corn per acre. "I conducted the test for my own benefit," he says. "I represent no seed company. If the companies, or other farmers, can glean something from the results, that's fine. But a hybrid that does well on my land and with my fertility level may not do well at all for a neighbor who lives a mile away."

No Basis For Weight Dock Of Sheep

The nation's sheep industry, beset by decreasing numbers and a shift away from usage of wool and lamb meat may have a strong future potential, in the opinion of Dr. Harold Tuma, meats specialist at Kansas State University.

For more than a year, Tuma and representatives of Montana and Texas state colleges have been studying why market lambs of more than 100 pounds were subject to dockage for weight and what would make for better processor, retailer and consumer acceptance of lamb as a red meat product.

Some of the things Tuma and his crew have learned are enlightening about the sheep business. They have studied 3700 carcasses weighing from 45 to 55 pounds and over to learn what makes an over-100-pound lamb subject to dockage.

Generally, both packers and retailers have expressed genuine interest in the research and major packing companies have been helpful, Tuma said.

The researchers learned that in some cases the 100 pounds and over lambs were in better "finish" than those weighing less than that on the hoof.

What makes a lamb good, both from the retail and processing standpoint is the thickness of fat — because fat is waste on lamb.

Lamb buyers for packing houses assume that any weight over 100 pounds is fat and the dockage begins. However, Tuma in his examination of carcasses learned that in January this year 64 per cent of the lambs weighing more than 100 pounds were "finished properly" — meaning that they had less than 0.3 inch of fat on their backs.

The "over finish" characteristics of too much fat are found as often in the lighter lamb carcasses as the heavy ones, the researchers found.

more than $24 billion, press sources said last week.

The prediction made by the president in January for fiscal 1968 (ending this June) was for a deficit of $19.8 billion.

But that contemplated $1.9 billion in additional tax revenues between April 1 and June 30 — a prospect that grows increasingly dim.

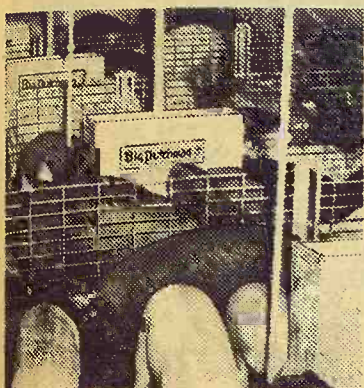

And in the meantime, the government has officially boosted the Vietnam spending projection by $25 billion for this fiscal year. Thus, the deficit could run to $24.2 billion, unless the 10 percent surtax bill is passed and made retroactive to April 1.

The possibility of such a huge deficit — which officials fear could cause new international concern about the dollar — is also indicated in the cumulative spending and receipts figures for the first 8 months of the fiscal year.

As published in economic indicators, the 8-month deficit had reached a total of $25 billion at the end of February.

AN 'ALARMING' EXODUS OF CATHOLIC PRIESTS

A Catholic organization has reported that 711 Roman Catholic clergymen left the priesthood in 1966 and 1967, a number considered "alarming" by the National Association of Pastoral Renewal. There are 60,000 Catholic priests in the country. Of the number who left the priesthood in the two years, 108 or more had been ordained for 15 years or more. At least 40% of the departing priests have since married, the report said, indicating that the survey was incomplete and the total number was probably higher.

13 State Bridges Have Posted Load Limits

TOPEKA — State Highway Department officials said 13 bridges now are posted for loads of less than 10 tons. Although the bridges are considered safe for loads within the posted limits, heavier loads would be hazardous.

The bridges and their locations:

- Bridge on K3 in Crawford County south of Helper on Walnut Creek, posted at seven tons.
- Bridge on K5 in Leavenworth County southeast of over a creek, posted at seven tons.
- Bridge on K5 in Leavenworth County south of of Lansing over a creek on K5, posted at seven tons.
- Bridge on K5 in Leavenworth County southeast of Lansing on Seven-Mile Creek, posted at seven tons.
- Bridge on K39 in Neosho County northeast of Stark over a creek, posted at five tons.
- Bridge on K87 in Marshall County at Vliets over the Vermillion River, posted at five tons.
- Bridge on K106 in Ottawa County at Minneapolis over the Solomon River, posted at eight tons.
- Bridge on K147 in Neosho County west of Walnut over Rock Creek, posted at seven tons.
- Bridge on K148 in Republic County at the west county line over Marsh Creek, posted at five tons.
- Bridge on K148 in Republic County west of Norway over the Republican River, posted at five tons.
- Bridge on K192 in Leavenworth County at Easton over a creek (overflow bridge), posted at seven tons.

Included on the list are three bridges in the process of being replaced:

- Bridge on K67 in Norton County at the Norton State Hospital over Prairie Dog Creek, posted at five tons.
- Bridge on K68 in Miami County west of Louisville, posted at five tons.

In 1965, the list of posted bridges contained the names of 17 spans. Highway officials said the list dwindles each year as new projects are completed.

Feeders Assn. Decries NFO Hog Killing

A major farming organization has point-blank condemned the policy of destroying meat animals in an effort to boost price.

The National Livestock Feeders Association from its headquarters at Omaha has issued a statement not directly mentioning the National Farmers Organization but pointing out that it does not go along with the idea of killing and burying hogs.

"The members of this association," the statement said, "share the concern of our nation's news media, of its consumers and of most livestock feeders and producers over certain events which have been occurring on farms and have created an unfavorable image of agriculture in the minds of many people."

The statement went on to say that there is no doubt livestock prices and returns are somewhat less than desired by farmers and that many producers engaged in feeding animals for market are having a difficult time meeting costs of operation and making a living. Therefore, the members of the feeders association want to improve their current economic situation.

"But there exists a vast difference in accepted methods of achieving these aims," the statement said. "It goes without saying that these aims (for higher prices) can be defeated faster than anyone wishes to admit if the good will of customers is alienated. Ready public acceptance of beef, pork and lamb is an absolute necessity to the attainment of these goals."

"From a declared policy on numerous occasions, the National Livestock Feeders association, and we believe the livestock feeders who provide the vast majority of red meat for consumers, are anxious to supply their millions of customers with a steady flow of improved food products that they not only need, but will be anxious to buy."

The feeders association explained that it was its policy, in the face of overly adequate market supplies which depress prices, to exercise voluntary restraints in production, to feed to lighter weights and to market orderly in an effort to create conditions which would bring higher prices. Such methods are effective even if not sensational, the statement insisted.

View of a Minority

"It is our hope," the statement continued, "that the vast consuming public, of which we are members ourselves, will realize that those incidents which have received rather wide publicity in no way reflect the attitude of the entire livestock industry—or even a sizable portion of it."

The National Livestock Feeders Association is an organization of people engaged in the business of feeding cattle, hogs and lambs for slaughter meat. Its membership is largely in the grain-producing area of the middle part of the United States. About 98 percent of the members feed cattle and 69 percent hogs, which means most are producing both beef and pork.

Mrs. Edwin Walker, Wakefield Sender Of Winning Recipe

Prize winner, Mrs. Edwin Walker, R 2, Wakefield: "Have enjoyed the recipes so much. I like this recipe because the white syrup keeps the syrup from crystallizing which I find often happens if it is not used."

SYRUP

- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup white syrup
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/4 teaspoon maple flavoring (or enough for desired taste)

Cook until drop forms on spoon or has reached temperature of 210 degrees. Remove from heat. Add flavoring and cool.

Check Home For Places To Create Storage Space

Small homes place a premium on storage places. To solve the problem of taking care of the sporting equipment owned by family members, take a look around.

Is there any place you could store things over, under or in? Over the car, under the eaves, in the steps offer good storage for skis, skates and fishing equipment.

Most garages have ample space above the door to permit building a ledge, loft or entire floor with a trapdoor. Sleds and toboggans can be stored there until the next sliding season. Pegs on garage walls will hold many tools and toys until they are needed.

Long, slender tools and equipment will snuggle under the eaves or overhang on your house or garage. Canning rubbers nailed in place make good loops to hold fishing poles and hockey sticks.

Everyone with small living quarters needs good outdoor furniture. With careful selection, such furniture can provide summer storage for games and sporting goods. Waterproof stools with hinged lids can be made to hold anything you might want in your outdoor living area. The picnic table can be built with a large, flat storage area under a hinged top. This furniture can be made with legs that come off with the removal of a bolt. This makes storage against a wall much easier. Some furniture is stackable, one piece fitting into another. Some furniture folds flat for easy storage above a car or along a wall.

Alongside the outdoor fireplace, outdoor cabinets can be built to house outdoor cooking utensils and dishes. This area can be built large enough to hold equipment that is used during the short canning and preserving season. Be certain to make a place to store charcoal and other materials needed in cooking outdoors.

Mite May Be Cause Of Allergy

An insect called the house-dust mite seems to be the cause of house-dust allergy, Dutch scientists report.

If their finding is borne out, it offers a simpler way of decreasing allergic sensitivity. An extract of the mite could be used in "shots" instead of house-dust preparations, says a leading medical publication.

Prepare This Easy Supper For A Spring Evening

The days are getting longer and to enjoy these extra daylight hours with your family, you'll want to plan a quick and easy supper.

Now is the time to use wonderful convenience foods — canned gravies for example. Try them for all kinds of spring meals from tasty hot sandwiches to hearty skillet dishes.

These Italian Beef Sandwiches are made with canned beef gravy in combination with minute steaks and onions. Served on thick slices of Italian bread and topped with sour cream, sandwiches take on a new twist for spring.

Choose a favorite canned soup to team up with this hearty sandwich. Sliced tomatoes and cucumbers with your favorite dressing go along as a crispy accompaniment. For a perfect ending, serve chilled apricots, oatmeal cookies and tall glasses of cold milk.

ITALIAN BEEF SANDWICHES
6 frozen minute beef steaks
½ cup sliced onion
1 small clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) beef gravy
6 slices Italian bread
Sour cream or green pepper rings

In skillet, brown beef and cook onion with garlic and seasoning in butter until onion is tender. Add gravy. Heat; stir now and then. Serve on bread. Garnish with sour cream or green pepper rings. Makes six open-face sandwiches.

For Prettier Eyes

When tired or red, eyes simply are not pretty. The use of a refreshing eye drop to relieve inflamed orbs and make the whites look clear may be helpful.

Circles under the eyes must go. Use a make-up stick to erase shadows under the eyes if you haven't gotten sufficient rest or if you're the type who was born with darkness around your eyes. Begin with less than you need.

Blend on eye-lines with a steady hand. A flick of white shadow just under the outer arc of the eyebrow attracts lights and gives your eyes a come-hither highlight, even in darkest places.

Talking To Babies Aids Their Development

Mothers help the development of their newborn babies by talking a lot to them and by frequently looking at them face to face, says a Harvard psychologist.

The effects can be observed as nearly as four months, he has reported. The more attentive mothers may be providing their infants with early training in problem-solving and richer experiences at a time when they are undergoing rapid mental growth, the psychologist suggests.

CARGILL 990
CARGILL 343

"YIELDS 132 BUSHEL"

Said George Twombly of Highland, Kansas.

"Cargill corn planted on bottom land produced the best corn on the farm," reports Twombly.

Twombly planted two rows each of three Cargill numbers 343, 366 and 930, and two rows of three competitive numbers, and harvested them together. His yield of Cargill corn was 140 bushels per acre on bottom land and 125 bushels per acre on hill land, for an average of 132 bushels per acre. The competitive corn planted in both locations yielded an average of about 125 bushels per acre.

Twombly had high praise for other Cargill features too. He liked its standability, fast growth, good seed quality and high germ. He said it was great in the combine operation, held its ears and dried faster than the other brand. He was especially pleased with Cargill's low 18 per cent moisture content.

Wash Out Wound To Prevent "Tattoo"

If your child should fall in the cinders or dirt, wash the wound immediately with soap and water. This will help to prevent the skin from becoming "tattooed" for life.

This sometimes happens when small particles or dark dirt become permanently sealed into layers of the skin and remain as disfiguring marks. Washing also guards against infection.

An old chenille bedspread can be converted into an excellent duster for ceilings, walls and moldings.

Cut out two rectangles, stitch up three sides and run a drawstring around the opening so that it will fit snugly over a broom. After each use, be sure to launder this "slipcover" duster in hot soap or detergent suds and rinse.

To Season Fish

Bay leaf, whole allspice and peppercorns are excellent seasonings to add to fish that is being simmered in water.

Store Separately

Store medicines and household products separately and be sure to keep the products in their original containers.

Aid To Children

A few stitches of bright colored thread in the front of a small child's undergarments will help the youngster to put them on correctly.

Freeman Says He's For Hubert

Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture, has endorsed Vice-president Humphrey, saying he will do all he can to help him win the Democratic nomination and the election for the presidency next fall.

Freeman left the Agriculture department for the neutral ground of the National Press Club to make his announcement. He is the third cabinet member to endorse Humphrey — Willard Wirtz, secretary of labor, and Robert Weaver, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban development, already have done so.

Freeman and Humphrey have been friends a long time, both coming from Minnesota. Freeman was governor eight years and Humphrey served as mayor of Minneapolis before his election as U.S. Senator from Minnesota.

Star Farmer Of Kansas

The 1968 Star Farmer of Kansas is Kenneth Conway, shown in the feedlot with some of his 39 head of beef cattle. Conway won the state's top FFA award and received it at the state convention at Manhattan this week.

He is a senior at Plainville High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Conway of Natoma.

A beef production program that rated number one in the state this year was a major factor in Conway's selection. He started with two cows his freshman year and has built up a program of 39 head of beef cattle. This past year these cattle produced 11,300 pounds of beef and made young Conway a net profit of $3519. He also has a sow and litter program with 86 head of hogs and last year had 15 acres of wheat and 55 acres of milo. He planted 60 acres of wheat last fall and has 19 cows calving this spring.

May Be Another Cut In Wheat Acres

A reduction of about 15 per cent in wheat production next year is under consideration by government farm officials.

The Agriculture Department's National Advisory Committee on Grains recommended such a cutback after a two-day conference with department officials. Rapidly increasing wheat supplies coupled with some anticipated shrinkage in exports were said by the committee to require a much smaller crop next year.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who appointed the 36-member committee of growers and representatives of the grain industry, took the recommendation under consideration.

He will make no decision until after the department holds 10 regional meetings with farmers next week and gets results of his department's next official wheat forecast for 1968, to be issued May 10.

The advisory committee proposed a 10 per cent reduction in the 1969 wheat-planting allotment from this year's 59.3 million acres. It also recommended an additional reduction for four million to five million acres in plantings by offering growers land retirement payments.

This year's crop is expected to total about 1.535 billion bushels, which would be a record high. The advisory committee said a 1969 crop of around 1.3 billion should be sought.

The committee urged the price support now averaging $1.25 a bushel be left unchanged. But growers would get supplemental payments, running around $1.35 a bushel, on their share — around 40 per cent of the crop consumed domestically as food.

National Hamp Meeting At K-State In June

Kansas State University will host a National Hampshire Sheep Type Conference June 18 and 19. Dr. Carl Menzies, sheep project leader at KSU, announced. The Conference is called for sheep breeders and others to evaluate Hampshire breed type and standards of performance.

The Conference, sponsored by the American Hampshire Sheep Association will provide impetus for possible changes. Hampshire breeders want a re-evaluation to include standards for conformation, soundness of feet and legs, fleece characteristics, and breed character. "We expect several hundred breeders and others at the Conference, with good participation from Kansas and surrounding states," Menzies said.

The Hampshire breed plays an important role in Kansas sheep production. Nearly all commercial ewes are westerns, purchased in southwest United States. Hampshire rams are widely used to produce the kind of lamb desired at markets. Hampshire is mutton-type breed, of medium wool grade, with rams weighing 250 pounds or more.

The ram provides the best way to improve market lamb quality. By using high quality rams, sheepmen can breed for such economically important, and highly heritable, traits as overall meatiness, fat thickness, loin eye area, and rate and efficiency of gain.

Lamb and wool production is a profitable business for Kansas sheepmen, and the state is one of the leaders in registration of Hampshire sheep.

Program emphasis for the Conference includes evaluation of lambs and their carcasses, discussion of modern Hampshire breed standards, selection of breeding stock, and Hampshire ram certification and performance programs.

Conference personnel include officers and directors of AHSA, and University Extension specialists and researchers. Participants will hear panel discussions of breeders and specialists and will participate in evaluation of live animals and carcasses.

Registration of the conference is by mail and must be made by June 10. Write to George Ahlschwede, Weber Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66502, and ask for registration forms and information on lodging.

No Details On Sale Of Nebraska Farmer

Employees of the New Harvest Publishing Co., Topeka, had no information last week on the reported purchase of the Nebraska Farmer, a monthly farm magazine, by their chain.

The New Harvest firm is an arm of Harcourt, Brace & World, New York textbook publishers, and owns the Kansas Farmer, the Missouri Ruralist, the Ohio Farmer, the Michigan Farmer, the Pennsylvania Farmer, and two horticultural magazines.

The chain bought Home St. Farm Publications, publishers of the Kansas Farmer, last summer, but the only effect was name change.

The Wall Street Journal reported Harcourt, Brace was negotiating purchase of both the Nebraska Farmer and its subsidiary, the Colorado Farmer and Rancher, but final approval is not believed to have been granted by stockholders on both sides.

Clyde Zimmerman, managing editor of the Kansas Farmer, said so far his office has heard nothing from New Harvest headquarters in Cleveland.

'Horse Fever' — Malady of Buyer

In a growing number of Kansas homes "spring fever" and "horse fever" arrive at the same time. Many dads get persuasive pleas from their sons or daughters to buy a new horse.

Some youngsters will want a horse for the first time, while others may want to step up to a better mount which will enable them to compete at horse shows, horse races, and other contests.

In addition, many adults may also be interested in a new and better horse for use in the competitive events. This combined interest stimulates the demand for more and better horses, says Dr. Homer K. Caley, Extension veterinarian at Kansas State University. Good riding and show horses have a ready market throughout Kansas and the United States.

At the present time, the country's horse popularity is increasing rapidly. As companion animals, they serve an important function for every owner. The horse, through its ability to adapt to different environments is the logical choice for family entertainment and relaxation, Dr. Caley believes.

Kansas is a leader in youth and adult activities associated with companion animals. Although most horses are used for recreation, many Kansas horses earn their feed by working. Cattle ranches, feedlots, and other beef production units recognize the value of a well-trained working horse. Most ranchers will agree that with a properly trained cow horse, they can work cattle more quietly than any other way.

Barrel horses, race horses, and other highly trained horses can earn considerable money in one race or one season. And in some areas of the state, the horse is still used to pull buggies and for general farmwork.

During the period from 1920 to 1959, the equine population was declining, so the research on horse diseases, nutrition, and parasite control was practically stopped, Dr. Caley notes. But since 1960, the horse population and interest has been increasing. Now several major research facilities are working on nutritional and disease investigations. One of the more modern equine research facilities is located in Kansas.

The result of increased research has been new products that are available for use to insure the health of your horse. Diseases now are controlled that previously caused considerable trouble. Improved parasite control products are effective and available for use. Vaccines are now available for use on some of the respiratory diseases that have been a serious problem for the equine industry for many years.

Many equine diseases are spread by contact, and horse shows, races and other equine functions provide an opportune time for the transmission of disease. To prevent spread of disease, strict sanitation for feeders and waterers should be followed, Dr. Caley explains. "Do not water your horse from a public tank, but carry your own bucket and avoid using contaminated equipment."

A horse that is not infested by internal or external parasites and free from disease will perform better in any competitive event. Modern veterinary medicine has resulted in better products which greatly insure the health of your horse.

Vaccines are now available that will satisfactorily control many diseases affecting the respiratory system as well as others. Distemper, equine influenza, and rhinopneumonitis can now be successfully controlled by the proper use of available vaccines. Tetanus, encephalitis, and other diseases can be practically eliminated by the use of available products.

Veterinary medical research has resulted in quality products designed to insure the health of your horse. A planned health program will largely eliminate the disease problem for your horse, Dr. Caley promises.

April 30, 1968

Cite Kansas Growth As Beef State

Kansas is growing rapidly in stature as a beef producing state, the secretary of the Kansas Board of Agriculture says.

Roy Freeland said Kansas has been blessed with favorable climate, topography and soil conditions for cattle and feed grain production.

"The more than 100 million bushels of grain sorghums produced in the state annually provide lower-cost gains than can be obtained by operators in many other states," Freeland said. "These factors make Kansas an increasingly important beef producing state.

"As of January 1, Kansas ranked seventh in cattle on feed with a total of 610,000. The number of commercial feedlots is growing each year."

Freeland said that as of January 1 all cattle on Kansas farms and ranches totaled more than 1.56 million head with a value of 756 million dollars.

"Agriculture is the largest industry in our state, and beef production is the largest segment of Kansas agriculture," Freeland said.

Freeland said promotional activities are planned next month to draw attention to the Kansas beef industry for what has been designated "beef month in Kansas."

Propose Revising Hog Grading

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed a revision in the official grades for slaughter barrows and gilts.

The revision would make the grades for slaughter swine correspond directly to the recently revised grades for pork carcasses. A major change would be to revise the U.S. No. 1 grade and eliminate the minimum backfat requirements for that grade, in recognition of the industry's progress in producing leaner, meatier swine.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service officials explained that the revised No. 1 grade would include not only superior meat-type hogs that now rate that grade, but also similar animals without sufficient backfat thickness to rate No. 1 under current standards.

In other respects, requirements for the proposed No. 2, 3 and 4 grades would be very similar to those for the present No. 1, 2 and 3 grades.

The grade U.S. utility would be used for barrows and gilts which will produce carcasses with an unacceptable quality of lean.

The proposed changes were scheduled to be published in the Federal Register on April 25. For a 30-day period from that date, interested persons may submit comments in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

May 3 Hearing On '69 Wheat Acreage

An informal hearing to seek the views of farmers and others preliminary to establishing the 1969 national wheat acreage allotment has been announced by Lawrence E. Brennan, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation state committee. The hearing will be held in Hutchinson on May 3 at the Baker Hotel. Starting time is 10 a.m.

The chairman explained that the Hutchinson meeting is one of a series announced by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman for the first week in May to provide farmers and other interested people an opportunity to express their views and recommendations on prospective wheat supplies, production, and needs.

The hearings continue USDA's policy of consulting with farmers and others on vital program decisions. The Secretary has indicated that a frank appraisal of farmers and others on the production level needed for 1969 and its effect on farm prices is expected to provide important guidance in determining the 1969 wheat acreage allotment.

The Kansas ASC State Chairman will be in charge of the Hutchinson hearing. Attending will be the ASC State Committee Chairman and State Wheat Program Specialist, as well as ASCS Area Director Carl A. Larson and a program specialist from Washington. They will provide basic information on current wheat supplies and use.

Representatives from general farm organizations, wheat grower associations, wheat commissions, associations of elected ASC committeemen, independent and cooperative elevators, millers, and the grain trade, as well as individual farmers, are expected to attend.

Hutch Co-op Votes For Major Grain Merger

HUTCHINSON — Stockholders of Farmers Co-operative Commission Co. voted 104 to 4 in favor of a proposal to merge with major grain co-operatives in three states at a special meeting in Wichita last week.

Final results on this proposal will not be known until next month, however.

Earlier stockholders of Equity Union Grain Co., Lincoln, Nebr., approved the proposition by a vote of 186 to 2 while West Central Grain Co. of Omaha, Nebr., approved by a 189 to 11 margin.

Vote By Mail

Voting by mail now are the 570 members of Farmers Cooperative Marketing Association of Missouri. Final figures on this vote will be available May 1.

For the Kansas and Nebraska cooperatives that have completed voting the figures show 357 favoring the plan and 17 in opposition.

A partial count of the Missouri CMA vote showed 300 favoring merger and 13 opposing it.

The Missouri organization also must give at least a two-thirds majority, as have all the others.

Final action in creating the new Farmers Marketing Co., will still hinge on resolving some other matters and may not come until June.

It has been pointed out one stumbling block could arise were some dissenters to be substantial stockholders who want to sell.

At any rate, temporary headquarters for the merged Farmers Marketing Co. will be in Hutchinson and this city also is in contention for the permanent location.

Cholera Flareup In Georgia

Georgia has halted all shipments of feeder pigs and breeding swine in order to contain a flare-up of hog cholera in the southeastern part of that state, according to USDA.

Georgia officials took this action on April 12 after the state had experienced a total of 42 hog cholera outbreaks during March and the first week and one-half in April.

During the previous year, Georgia averaged between two and three outbreaks per month.

Complete Sell-Out

A recent sale in Saline county included nearly all the possessions of the W. H. Pinkenburgs, who quit farming and are considering moving to Canada or Brazil. Here are Mrs. Pinkenburg Jr., Nancy and Carol. The sale was of additional interest because it included the antique horse-drawn machinery of W. H. Pinkenburg Sr.

beet crop is almost completed with the acreage nearly double that of last year in his district Lamar Henry of Goodland, manager of the Kansas Colorado division of the Great Western Sugar Co., says.

Farmers have signed up for 43,000 acres, evenly divided between Kansas and Colorado.

The area will be served by a 20-million dollar sugar factory that is scheduled for completion in time to handle this year's crop. In previous years the beets have been shipped to the company's plant at Brighton, Colo. Cattlemen are anticipating the availability of cattle feed from the factory. After the sugar is extracted, the beet pulp is mixed with molasses and processed into feed pellets.

PLANT — ANIMAL HEALTH

Would you like to raise healthy crops and livestock without chemicals and consistent medication? Chemicals and medication are not food. They can be poison to plant and body cells.

Soil life, plant cell life and body cell life need the finest quality trace minerals and mineral combinations in nature's form to be healthy and efficient.

Healthy plants are a product of balanced soil and they provide optimum nutrition; it is just this simple.

Trace minerals even in very minute quantities are vital for a healthy plant and body. Living plant and body cells are made up of mineral elements from the soil. Balanced - they produce health and vigor; unbalanced - the cell life functions imperfectly.

Dr. C. W. Cavanaugh, "There is only one major disease - and that is malnutrition. The alarming fact is that foods, fruits, vegetables, and grains now raised on millions of acres of land that no longer contain enough of certain minerals, are starving us - no matter how much we eat."

Dr. Hans Mueller of Switzerland, "The farmer has no need of toxic chemicals to fight the parasites, a healthy plant does not attract them."

Dr. Charles Northen, "A healthy plant grown on soil properly balanced, can and will resist most insects. That very characteristic makes it a better food product."

Inquire about MICRO-MIN which helps to establish a well balanced healthy soil nature's way; and FERRO - nature's finest blood builder.

Active Farmers Make

2-3 of Land Purchases

Farm real estate values continued a long-term increase last year. The year before the increase was 8.3 per cent.

The total value of farm real estate, including buildings, was reported at $189,500,000 on November 1 compared with $178,700,000 on that date in 1966.

Reporting this development, the Agriculture department said the value of the average farm on November 1 was $65,700 or $173 an acre compared with $59,800 and $164 an acre a year earlier.

Regionally, 1967 increases ranged from 3 percent in the Rocky Mountain states to 8 percent in the Great Lakes and Corn Belt states. By states, value changes ranged from a decrease of 1 percent in Florida to an 11 percent increase in Missouri.

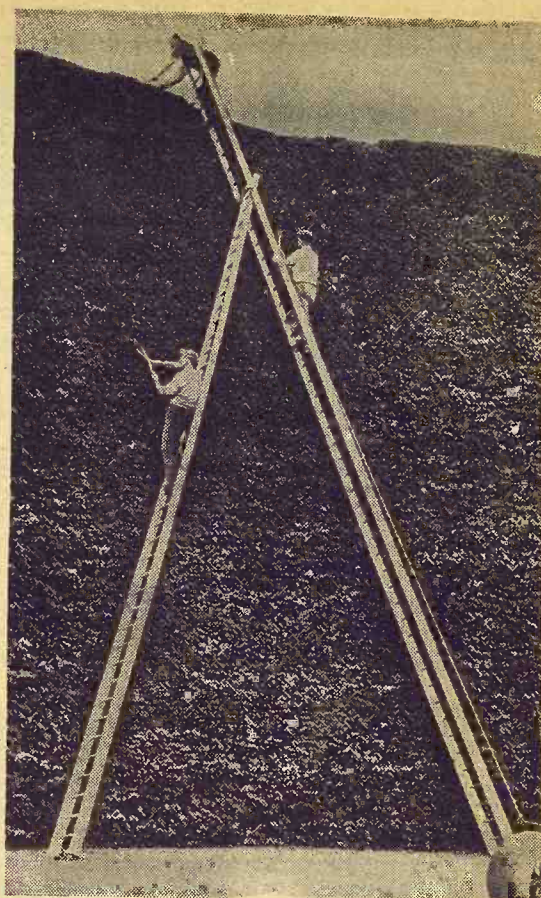

The department said its field reporters anticipated a smaller increase in value this year, perhaps a maximum of 5 percent. Farm income is down from a year earlier.

The department said active farmers continued to be the dominant buyer group, purchasing nearly two-thirds of all farms transferred during the earlier part of 1967. Farmers generally brought land for farm enlargement. Retirement was the most common cause given for selling.

For the nation as a whole, farm real estate was 66 percent higher on November 1, 1967, than for the 1957-59 November 1 average.

Mankato Packing Goes Public

MANKATO — The Mankato Packing Company has received approval from the Kansas Securities commission to make a public stock offering.

Milton Petersen, jr., president of the Mankato packing firm, said 400,000 shares of common stock will be offered at $5 a share.

The plant, already built and ready for operation, will draw its supply of cattle from an area within a 150-mile radius of Mankato.

More than $1,700,000 is already invested in the plant. Petersen said, "The Rural Electrification Administration loaned $325,000 for the plant project, and we've had other loans of $600,000 from the Small Business Administration.

"The original founders invested $627,000 and the land, valued at $150,000 was donated by the Mankato Commercial Development Corp.," he said.

The Kansas Development Credit corporation has loaned the plant $36,000.

Petersen said the money represents investments in land, building construction, equipment and initial inventory.

"We anticipate net proceeds from the stock offering to bring the total capital employed to $3,400,000," Petersen said.

Pearson Adds Name To 'Young Farmer' Bill

Senator James B. Pearson (R-Kan) has announced that he has joined a bipartisan group of 15 Senators in co-sponsoring a bill to provide long term, low interest loans for young farmers.

The Young Farmers Investment Act of 1967, originally introduced by Senator Nelson of Wisconsin, would provide an alternative method of loans for acquiring and improving owner-operated farms. The loans would be made through the Farmers Home Administration to young farmers at an interest rate of 4 percent. The borrower would repay 50 percent of the loan with interest over a period of time up to 40 years. The remaining amount would be due at the end of the 40-year period or could be refinanced.

The Kansas Senator said "the future of the country's family farm system rests with young farmers of today. But increasingly young men are finding it virtually impossible to obtain sufficient credit and capital to start a farming operation that is large enough to survive in today's economy."

Pearson noted that the average investment per farm in Kansas has increased by 212 percent between 1960 and 1965. He said, "in many areas it takes a $100,000 investment simply to get started. Because of these extremely high capital requirements, it is necessary that young farmers have an opportunity to obtain equitable, low interest loans in order to finance new farming operations or to expand a nexisting operation so that he can produce enough to earn a reasonable net income."

It looked like we had more consignors at the sale last Saturday then we've had in a good many months. The cattle receipts were not the highest, but butcher hogs were in greater numbers.

Light and feeder cattle were most in demand. We had a good run in weight classes of 450-550 lbs.; and 700-850 lbs. They brought strong prices all the way. In fact, both the cattle and hog market were strong and active, with the bulk of butcher hogs selling at $18.80 to $19.10.

We can sell a lot more fat hogs, so if you have any ready for market, we sure can use them.
