Inspiration:

Our single aim—to hold a mirror to Kansas State College life for the 1939-40 year so that the fun and frolic, woes and work, be made permanent to you.

Our single hope—that in years to come you may glance often in this book to recall these memories so dear to you.

GUIDES AND GOVERNMENT

Students have "harped" long about "deadwood" on the faculty, but for the most part, teacher-pupil relationship is congenial.

FALL ENROLLMENT days . . . happy-to-be-back students rush to greet last year's classmates. In search of friends they throng favorite haunts. Suddenly a favorite professor enters and is immediately beset by a half-dozen grinning, yelling collegiates . . . "Have you heard the one . . ." With a guffaw, "Doc" discards his academic dignity and all make for the soda fountain. . . . Such is the relationship of teacher and pupil at Kansas State College . . . that is, with some professors and some students.

Guides—friendly voices in the student's problematic darkness. Not the too stern taskmaster of learning, but counselor to the collegiate and his omnipresent two problems—life and living. The College cannot decipher these puzzles for him. It can but guide his efforts in finding his own answers. To that end, K-State's faculty is an hierarchy of guides. President, dean, professor, and instructor work to increase personal contact in an effort to better show him the way.

Professional divisions make up this College—analagous to the colleges of a university. Thereby, the student of his chosen field finds organized for him professional guidance. And almost every faculty man and woman at K-State has his or her own large or very small retinue of student-followers, seeking less technical and, in a way, more practical wisdom. From the President on down, the under-graduate receives this guidance and understanding.

Such a system resembles but little the medieval university where scholar and tutor were worlds apart and classroom technique consisted of cold, impersonal lectures followed by examinations based on ability to memorize hard facts. A few instructors retain this attitude but for the most part, K-State is patterned after institutions of early Renaissance with students and teachers gathering to discuss professional and personal difficulties. Added in the modern school is a detailed organization administered with the efficiency characteristic of present-day institutions of higher education.

Kansas State students are governed by themselves and the administrating officers. Every student paying the activity fee is a member of the Student Governing Association. This, in turn, is headed by the Student Council—comprised of nine elected students. This body performs many duties for the welfare of the student body.

Actions of the Council are passed on by the Faculty Council on Student Affairs which is the controlling factor of most student affairs. Then there's the various deans who supervise the student's academic life.

Other governing forces are the dean of women, men's advisor, and a final voice—the President.

STANDING BEFORE two microphones at the Homecoming football game last fall was young Governor Payne Ratner. He crowned Kansas State's Homecoming queen with a wreath of flowers.

IMPERTURBABLE DIGNITY characterizes this portrait-study of Fred M. Harris, chairman of the State Board of Regents and one of K-State's "real friends."

They Help

GOVERNOR Payne Ratner, Kansas' youngest chief executive, is a frequent visitor to the Kansas State campus. This year the Royal Purple cameraman caught him presenting the homecoming queen before a crowd of thousands at a football game.

A graduate of the University of Kansas, Governor Ratner is the special pride of Sigma Alpha Epsilon members on the K-State campus, himself being a member of that fraternity. The governor is a "friend" to higher education.

The Most High

More important than the Governor in actually governing affairs at state schools is the State Board of Regents for its members tell the fortunes of our 4,000 students as well as the several hundred instructors. They do the same for other state schools.

The State Board of Regents is the supreme order of Kansas educators. Acting usually upon recommendations of President Farrell, it decides what K-State may or may not do. Members of the Board deserve citation for their tireless service to Kansas schools.

The Board was reorganized last spring on a non-partisan basis.

The Next High

The Council of Deans is closer home than the Board of Regents for it is this group which is the supreme court of the campus. The deans of the various divisions of the college together with the President, vice-president, dean of women, and historian comprise the council.

It decides administrative policies, discusses matters pertaining to finance and the scheduling of classes, and the general policies of Kansas State. The council meets at the call of President Farrell.

BOARD OF REGENTS—Seated: Dr. H. L. Snyder, Winfield; Mrs. Elizabeth Reigart, Baxter Springs; Chairman Fred M. Harris, Ottawa; Mrs. Donald Muir, Anthony; W. T. Markham, Topeka. Standing: Ralph T. O'Neil, Topeka; Drew McLaughlin, Paola; Grover Poole, Manhattan; Lester McCoy, Garden City. Not in the picture is Hubert Brighton, Topeka.

Affairs

TO PRESIDENT Francis David Farrell is entrusted the administration of all affairs at Kansas State College. His stately dignity is revealed in his portrait which appears at left.

Recognized as one of the outstanding educational leaders in the country, President Farrell this year was elected to the presidency of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities, a title worthy of honor and distinction.

The chief executive has been in his present office fourteen years and during that time has seen the college grow larger and larger, and his own duties become more numerous and complicated. Merely to say that the President is a busy man is to understate his position.

Chairman of Council

President Farrell serves as chairman of the Council of Deans where he must rely on his knowledge of our entire educational system to interpret the needs and desires of every division in the light of the school as a whole.

Besides being top man in charge of nearly 4,000 students, he is presiding officer of the more than 500 faculty members, including teachers, field and research workers and subordinate administrators.

The President represents K-State interests as ambassador to the State Board of Regents, the controlling council of the policies of our five state schools. He makes frequent recommendations to the Board when matters of finance, educational policy or staff changes so demand it.

Is Highly Admired

As a man, President Farrell combines the qualities of conservatism, rational judgment, quiet, impressive dignity, efficient management and educated tact to make him respected and admired by all who know him.

C. O. PRICE, congenial, capable Assistant to the President, proves himself a valuable aid as front-office man for President Farrell.

Only a small portion of the student body is personally acquainted with President Farrell but he enjoys meeting the students, and those who go to him for advice are flattered with his interest in their problems.

An Efficient Assistant

As front-office man and right-hand helper to the President is C. O. Price, likeable, efficient Assistant to the President.

Mr. Price, who finds his time filled with routine and frequent special assignment work, has acquired in the past several years a considerable knowledge of the workings of the school machinery, of which he makes himself a veritable information bureau for the benefit and advantage of President Farrell.

He is well liked by all students.

DR. S. A. NOCK is well known to students and delights in joking with them. The vice-president is a literary authority as well as an administrator.

TO JOIN the College and the public in understanding is, in short, the chief job of Vice-President Samuel Albert Nock. However, his tasks are far greater than his job would indicate. Since 1936, Dr. Nock has been business representative of the college as well as agent of good will. To him falls the task of handling enrollment adjustments and other duties that keep him "on the go." In spite of all that, Dr. Nock has become a familiar campus figure.

Writes College History

One of Kansas State's oldest faculty members from the standpoint of service, is the College Historian, Dr. J. T. Willard. His "History of the Kansas State College" will be off the press this summer, culminating three years of hard work and over forty years of note-taking.

To Alumni Secretary Kenney L. Ford falls the task of presenting Kansas State's cause to Alumni clubs over the nation. In addition, Mr. Ford handles applications to the Alumni Loan Fund and also the extensive alumni files.

To Them Are

He is a frequent speaker before alumni groups in this area.

Watches Student Health

The aches and pains of the college fall on the shoulders of Dr. M. W. Husband, head of the student health department. President of the local chapter of the American Medical Association last year, Dr. Husband is esteemed by his staff as well as by students.

Three decades of continuous service to Kansas State college will be ended this year when Mary P. Van Zile retires as Dean of Women. A familiar figure in Kansas State's receiving lines for many years, Mrs. Van Zile has guided thousands of college girls to a better understanding of themselves.

The women's dormitory bears her name.

Is Men's Advisor

In addition to being men's advisor and head of the YMCA, Dr. A. A. Holtz runs an odd-job employment bureau, heads the Christian forum committees, helps with Freshman Induction Week, and teaches economics.

In spite of his many duties "Doc" finds time to chat with his many student friends.

Registrar Jessie M. Machir is becoming accustomed these days to forecasting each new registration as a "record breaker." The college record-keeper, Miss Machir has copies of each student's grades on file as well as various other information necessary to college authorities. It is her task to see that each registration period runs smoothly and to iron out credit and hour difficulties.

A staff assists her in the work.

Entrusted Key Positions

AUTHOR OF a history of Kansas State is Dr. J. T. Willard, college historian. The new physical science building was named in his honor.

OVERSEER OF the health of the student body is Dr. M. W. Husband, who heads the department of student health and the college infirmary.

IN CHARGE of alumni-college relationships is Kenney L. Ford. He also has charge of student loan funds.

AS REGISTRAR, Miss Jessie McDowell Machir supervises the student record keeping for the college. A staff assists here in the work.

UNTANGLING THE PROBLEMS of many students is not the only job of Dr. A. A. Holtz, men's advisor. He also heads the College Y.M.C.A.

THE GUIDING hand of many coeds has been Mrs. Mary P. Van Zile, dean of women, who resigned this year.

RUSSELL LEEPER, industrious president of the Student Council, has brought about many worthwhile activities. He is also active in other campus affairs.

Students Adopt

ELECTED BY POPULAR vote in April, the Student Council holds power from May until the same time during the next school year.

Entrusted with the governing of 4,000 students, the nine members of the Council occasionally discipline students who violate laws stated in the Student Governing Association constitution, although that task usually falls to the Council vice-president.

Other activities of the Council were the sponsoring school pep, including pep rallies and free shows, S.G.A. varsities, and a celebrity series that brought outstanding entertainers to the campus.

Council members this year included Russell Leeper, president; Bob Kauffman, vice-president; Ethel Haller, secretary; June Darby, Joe Redmond, Betty Higdon, Jim Stockman, Rex Cudney, and Bill Beezley.

Students consider it a high honor to be elected to membership on the Student Council, and political battles ensue at every election.

Their Own Laws

Almost every week-end Kansas State's social life picked up for three hours while students danced to Matt Betton or an occasional "imported" orchestra at an S.G.A. varsity. Dance Manager Kenny Conwell and assistant Arlin Ward saw to it that everyone had more than his share of fun, even if the crowd was such that couples didn't have their share of room.

Conwell was appointed by the Student Council, and to him fell the duties of advertising, setting dates, arranging for orchestras, taking tickets at the door, and making the books balance at the end of the month.

Cab Calloway, nationally known swing artist, and his band were on the campus for a varsity, also sponsored by the S.G.A. Students swarmed the gym and even packed the balcony to hear the famous "hi-de-ho" rhythm of the maestro.

DANCE MANAGER, Kenny Conwell, and his assistant Arlin Ward (above, upper) take tickets at S.G.A. varsities, at which Matt Betton and the boys (above, lower) usually played.

CROWDED BUT happy are these dancers at a varsity, held in the gym to the music of Matt and his novachord. Varsities nearly always attract a large crowd.

"Students are fortunate in obtaining this high-class and well-balanced series," said President Farrell when the 1939-40 S.G.A. celebrity series was announced by Russ Leeper. And, after seeing and hearing the three performers, K-State students were inclined to agree.

In February, the thirty-four-member San Francisco Ballet, on transcontinental tour, gave two shows in the college auditorium. One of four ballet troupes in the United States, the dancers found an appreciative audience at Kansas State.

Vanderbilt Re-lives Travels

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., world famous traveler, author, and lecturer, was another lyceum speaker. He told of the twelve most interesting interviews in his career, including talks with Hitler, Mussolini, and Chiang-Kai-Chek.

The final attraction of the year was two shows by Cornelia Otis Skinner, noted dramatic monologist, whose unusual medium of expression was entertaining to her campus audience.

Have Nine Members

Working under the new constitution adopted last year, the Council is composed of two members from each of the five divisions except the Division of Veterinary Medicine, which has only one representative.

Pep rallies with bonfires, talks by "Mike" and the coaches, excited crowds that parade Aggieville afterwards, and other demonstrations of enthusiasm are sponsored by the S.G.A., which was instrumental in obtaining free admittance to the city's theaters after the rallies.

Another feature during the year under the auspices of the Student Governing Association is the annual S.G.A. assembly.

DAVE RUBINOFF (above, upper) seems worried as he instructs his young fans entering by the stage door. Although not on the celebrity series, Rubinoff was a campus visitor.

Faculty Assists In Student Affairs

Apportioning the student activity fee to various activities is the duty of the Apportionment Board. The president of the Student Council appoints two other students and two members of the faculty to serve with him. This committee then meets early in the fall to arrange for the distribution of the fund.

All Student Council decisions must be approved by the Faculty Council on Student Affairs. A copy of the decision is sent to the Faculty Council and if it is not returned within a set period of time, an appeal is made. If the faculty group disapproves, the matter is settled in a joint meeting.

FACULTY COUNCIL—Dr. Harold Howe, Miss Grace Derby, Prof. R. I. Throckmorton, Dean Mary P. Van Zile, Prof. LeVelle Wood, Prof. L. E. Conrad, and Dr. A. A. Holtz. Prof. Louis P. Reitz has replaced Professor Throckmorton on the committee and Jack Gardner is a new member.

Engineering and

DESPITE THE FACT that the Division of Engineering and Architecture is probably the "roughest" in regard to the amount of studying and time required, engineers take time off from their work to enter into all activities and often become general campus "big shots."

The division, as one of the two outstanding technical schools in the middle-west, trains students from all over the country in electrical, civil, chemical, agricultural, mechanical, architectural engineering, architecture, and industrial arts. Graduates from the division are in demand by well-known companies because of the reputation of the school.

Dean R. A. Seaton, himself a graduate of Kansas State, rules the Division of Engineering and Architecture. Besides his many duties of administration in that capacity, he is also director of the Engineering Experiment Station.

As Dean, he has charge of eight departments and the 924 students enrolled. This in itself would be a full-time job, but in addition Dean Seaton is college NYA administrator.

Architecture Division Popular

ing dance, is the main event in every engineer's year. The task of organizing and producing a display of this size is no easy one, and this year the job fell to Joe Redmond, while Assistant Dean M. A. Durland was the faculty chairman.

Student architects won the Steel Ring trophy for the second consecutive year for their display at the Open House, while Bette Bonecutter was their choice for St. Patricia, and Bob Pyle ruled as St. Pat at the prom.

Have Practical Courses

The boys from over "engine house" way can be seen on sunny days surveying or sketching on the campus, or working over drawing boards, chemistry tables, or in the college shops. The 250 freshman look with awe on the busy seniors who have mastered the principles of "strength of materials" or "A.C. circuits," while the 205 seniors worry over grades, inspection trips, and prospective jobs.

Some students in the division combine work in architectural engineering and in architecture, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science in Architectural Engineering at the end of the fourth year, and the degree of Bachelor of Science in Architecture at the end of the fifth year.

A feature of the division is the Engineering Experiment Station which carries on tests and research work.

*A Committee of seniors from each division, carefully selected by the Royal Purple staff, chose whom they considered the most popular teachers in their respective divisions. Deans and assistant deans were not considered.

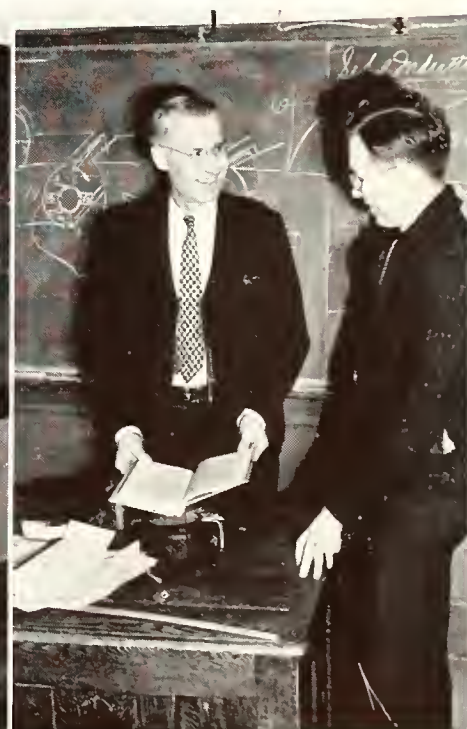

*PROF. JOHN W. GREENE . . . An assistant professor of chemical engineering since 1937, Mr. Greene (left) is shown talking with a student.

PROF. J. H. ROBERTS . . . Acting head of the department of applied mechanics first semester, Professor Roberts has been at Kansas State since 1916.

PROF. WILSON TRIPP . . . A younger member of the faculty, Mr. Tripp has been an assistant professor of mechanical engineering since 1936.

PROF. F. A. SMUTZ . . . Professor of engineering drawing and descriptive geometry, Mr. Smutz has been at Kansas State since 1918.

PROF. L. M. JORGENSEN . . . Since 1935, he has been an associate professor of engineering. He advises a student (right).

Division of Home Economics

RECOGNIZED as one of the outstanding schools of Home Economics in the country, this division attracts almost seventy per cent of the coeds enrolled. Because of the excellence of the course, graduates in the division desiring professional careers are placed in schools and hospitals over the nation as teachers and dieticians.

PROF. JENNIE WILLIAMS . . . a graduate of Kansas State, Professor Williams is an assistant professor of child welfare and eugenics.

Dean Margaret Justin and her staff, together with an increasing interest in home economics subjects throughout the country, accounts for this amazing record of achievement.

Because girls trained in such work find the need for a variety of knowledge in various fields, the prescribed curricula in the division are many. A student may enroll in Home Economics and Nursing, General Home Economics, Home Economics and Art, or take special training in Dietetics and Institutional Management.

Highlight of the year for the girls in the Home Economics Division is the annual Hospitality Days, two-day convention attended by high school home economics teachers and their pupils, as well as townspeople and interested students.

Exhibits prepared and demonstrated by girls in the various departments are displayed to the visitors who come from all parts of the state.

High school girls who intend to enroll in the division when they enter college, are given a bird's eye view of the courses, the clothes, and the problems they will meet.

DR. MARTHA PITTMAN . . . Since 1919, Dr. Pittman has taught. She heads the food economics and nutrition department.

MRS. JANE W. BARNES . . . Former assistant dean of the division, Mrs. Barnes is associated with institutional household economics.

PROF. ALPHA C. LATZKE . . . Head of the department of clothing and textiles, Professor Latzke has been at Kansas State since 1929.

Is Well Known

Climaxing the exposition is the Hospitality Hop, held in Nichols Gymnasium.

A record was broken this spring when 777 undergraduates were enrolled in Home Economics. This was forty-five more than last year, when the previous record enrollment was made.

Many of the instructors use texts which they themselves have written; several of the professors have gained national recognition for their outstanding achievements.

Research and experimentation carried on by the division have led to a lessening of the load that housewives have had to bear, and more and better methods are constantly being presented to them by radio talks and bulletins.

Dean Margaret Justin

Dean Margaret Justin, silver-haired head of the Division of Home Economics, is an authority on problems related to household affairs and on technical home economics questions.

Heading a division is no easy task, but gracious Dean Justin takes worries and headaches with a smile. Because of her personality and knowledge, she is much in demand as a speaker.

Dean R. W. Babcock

Rodney Whittemore Babcock has been Dean of the General Science Division since 1930. His is the task of guiding 1,000 general science students through each semester's maze of curricula, course, and credit hours. A former professor of mathematics, Dean Babcock is even now no stranger to the classroom.

General Science

ONCE AGAIN outpointing the Division of Engineering in the annual enrollment race, the Division of General Science retained its title as largest division on the hill by registering 1,149 students in last fall's record-breaking total of 4,085.

Most cosmopolitan of all the college's divisions, the General Science Division at Kansas State is analogous to the liberal arts college of a university. To supplement the technical training given by the more specialized divisions, the General Science Division offers courses in modern language, music, history, and literature which help the student to obtain a general background in the science and culture of the present-day world.

Division Leads the Enrollment

In addition to its basic general science curriculum—a course followed by 430 students during the fall semester—the division presents curricula in such diverse fields as industrial chemistry, business administration, industrial journalism, physical education, and applied music.

Offer Basic Courses

All Kansas State students must take certain basic courses given under the administration of this division. Within the Division of General Science are the basic departments of English, chemistry, physics, mathematics, public speaking, military science, and physical education.

The more curious may study the characteristics of our social system in courses given by the department of economics and sociology. The evolution of social systems in China, Europe, the United States, and the ancient world are traced in courses taught in the history and government department.

Contributions made by rocks and animals to human life as we know it are considered in courses directed by the department of zoology and geology. The world revealed by the microscope is investigated by the bacteriology department, and plant life is the special concern of the department of botany and plant pathology. Principles of human psychology are brought out in education and psychology departmental courses; some of these principles are applied by the public speaking department to the art of vocal communication and expression.

DR. ROGER C. SMITH . . . Professor of entomology since 1920, Dr. Smith is also an entomologist with the Agricultural Experiment Station.

PROF. M. J. HARBAUGH . . . Back in 1929, Professor Harbaugh began his teaching at Kansas State. He is an assistant zoology professor.

MAJ. JAMES K. CAMPBELL . . . An assistant professor of military science and tactics, Major Campbell has been on the infantry staff here since 1937.

PROF. ARTHUR B. SPERRY . . . Kansas State has had the services of Professor Sperry in the geology department for nine years—since 1930.

PROF. HELEN HOSTETTER . . . She has served as associate professor in the department of journalism since 1930.

Agricultural

ONE OF KANSAS State's best known divisions, here, and over the state, is the Division of Agriculture. Formerly known as Kansas State Agricultural College, this school received more than its share of recognition from this foremost division.

Departments in the division include those of agricultural economics, milling industry, dairy husbandry, animal husbandry, agronomy, horticulture, and poultry husbandry.

One of the most prominent departments, not only in the agricultural division, but also in the entire school is that of milling industry. The only college in the United States offering a degree in milling, Kansas State limits the enrollment in the four-year curriculum each year to sixty-five. Graduates in this

Dean L. E. Call

Dean L. E. Call is one of the few Kansas State personalities with the distinction of holding a dual title. As Dean of the Division of Agriculture and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Mr. Call exercises authority over a number of subordinates, and yet finds time for a friendly smile for everyone.

Division Commands Respect

nationally-famous department have no trouble getting employment, many of them having several positions to choose from.

Judging Teams Outstanding

Judging teams representing the various departments have consistently won honors in all sections of the United States.

An annual feature of the division is the Little American Royal, at which time students exhibit their animals in competition. The Royal is staged as a climax of Farm and Home Week, and several hundred visitors witness the show.

On the less serious side, Ags stage their annual social diversion, the Ag Barnwarmer. During the week previous to the dance, Ag students don work shirts and overalls to lend atmosphere to the occasion.

Many of Kansas's outstanding farmers and county agents are graduates of the Division of Agriculture.

The college prepares students for the scientific investigation of agricultural problems in state and national institutions, for agricultural extension work, for the teaching of agriculture, for service in industries closely related to agriculture, and for a variety of other private and public services of an agricultural nature.

The College owns over 1,400 acres of land, which are used for experimental work and instruction, and maintains large and well-equipped laboratories for soil and crop work.

There is ample greenhouse space for problems and research work in crops and soils.

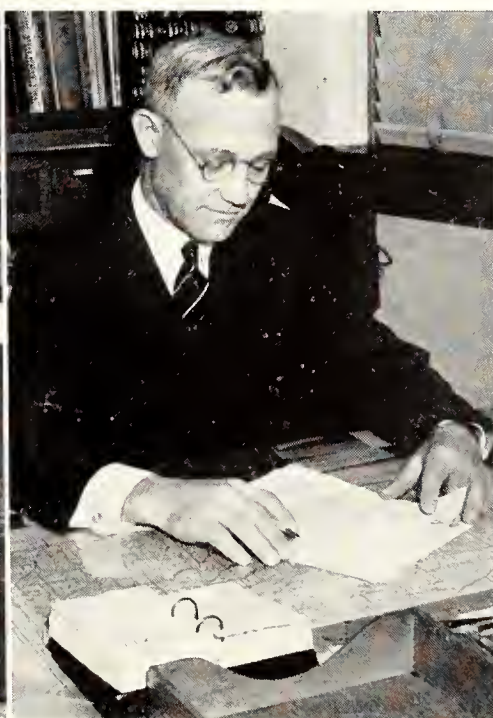

DR. H. E. MYERS . . . A graduate of Kansas State, Dr. Myers is an associate professor of soils. He has been on the faculty since 1929.

PROF. R. J. BARNETT . . . former head of the department of horticulture, Professor Barnett has been a member of the faculty since 1907.

DR. W. E. GRIMES . . . Having joined the College faculty in 1913, Dr. Grimes is head of the department of economics and sociology.

PROF. GEORGE MONTGOMERY . . . Since his graduation from Kansas State in 1925, Professor Montgomery has been on the economics staff.

Veterinary

ONE OF THE TEN veterinary medicine schools in the United States, Kansas State takes especial pride in her division, which ranks as high or higher than the other nine over the nation.

By authority of the State Board of Regents, enrollment in the curriculum is limited to 200 students. When all other factors are equal, preference is given to applicants who are residents of Kansas, and second preference goes to applicants who are residents of those states having no standard college of veterinary medicine.

Veterinary majors are required to complete a five-year course before they receive a degree. The first year is spent in the General Science Division where he is classified as a "pre-vet."

Dean R. R. Dykstra

Professor and Dean of the Division of Veterinary Medicine is Ralph R. Dykstra. As chief of the veterinarians, Dean Dykstra is in charge of fifteen faculty members and supervises the administration of the students in the division, in addition to taking care of his duties as a professor of surgery in the classrooms in the veterinary building.

A capable assistant and secretary for the divisional head is Mrs. Margaret Buhler, pictured at right. As the Veterinary Division has no assistant dean, Mrs. Buhler's duties are numerous, for hers is the task of tending to Dean Dykstra's office work.

Medicine Limits Enrollment

Those majoring in the division are required to take work in livestock feeding, breeding and judging, in milk inspection, and zoology, in addition to professional work so that they will be better prepared to deal with the livestock problems they will have to meet as graduate practicing veterinarians.

Kansas State grads are in demand as government meat inspectors, animal hospital assistants, practicing vets and various other positions. Many graduates each year are fortunate enough to have several jobs offered them, from which they choose the most lucrative.

The training given in the extensive five-year course by the college in veterinary science seeks to emphasize that the success of the graduate in veterinary medicine is measured in something more than dollars and cents. However, his value as a specialist in his trade is not overlooked, and should be considered as important.

Juniors and seniors in the division are privileged to participate in the assisting in the restraint of animals, in bandaging, in compounding prescriptions, and in preparing antiseptics and other medical agents in the treatment of all species of domestic animals which are brought to the veterinary hospital, where a free clinic is maintained.

The veterinary hospital is equipped with every modern appliance for surgical operations and diagnosis of animal diseases. It has capacity for more than fifty horses or cattle, and in addition can accommodate fifty small animals, such as sheep, swine, cats, and dogs.

Members of the clinical staff, accompanied by advanced students in surgery and medicine, make trips into the surrounding country to treat animals. In this way, the course is made practical and greatly benefits the students.

Because the division is the smallest on the hill, the students know each other probably better than in any other division. They spend much time together in the veterinary building, either in the classroom or clinic.

DR. E. J. FRICK . . . He is a professor and head of the surgery and medical department. Since 1919 he has been at Kansas State.

DR. ROBERT P. WAGERS . . . An assistant professor in the division. He has been associated with Kansas State since 1937.

DR. GEORGE R. MOORE . . . Since 1938, he has been an instructor in surgery and medicine. He is shown talking with a student (left).

Extension

Dean H. Umberger

Off-campus services of Kansas State College are directed by Harry Umberger, Extension Division Dean since 1919. Under his direct supervision are the home study and correspondence courses offered by the college. Informational broadcasts over station KSAC are among the varied activities carried on by staff members of his division.

Extension Division "contact man" is Assistant Dean L. C. Williams, pictured at right. Director of the Extension Service, Louis Williams was committee chairman for Farm and Home Week which drew 1,600 rural Kansans to this campus last February.

KANSAS STATE students know the Division of Extension chiefly as a force which operates from the square stone building at Fourteenth and Anderson to bring periodic throngs of county agents, extension workers, and farm people to conventions on this campus.

But such throngs are only momentary inconveniences when one considers that through these crowds the Extension Division brings to this College and the people of Kansas a means of mutual contact and appreciation.

New York Mayor Speaks

A Kansas Farm Bureau conference sponsored by the Extension Division during the first week in November, featuring an address by New York's Mayor LaGuardia, drew 8,000 people to the college stadium.

The first week of February found 1,622 Kansas farmers and homemakers on the campus for the Extension Division's seventy-third annual Farm and Home Week. The four-day round of programs included lectures and demonstrations on landscaping, livestock raising, beekeeping, and rural electrification.

A 4-H Club Roundup held on the campus last June by the 4-H Club department of this versatile division drew 1,350 youngsters to Kansas State.

Send Out Bulletins

In addition to its convention and conference work, the Extension Division operates through home demonstration agents and county farm bureau agents to improve home conditions in Kansas and encourage the adoption of efficient farming methods.

Bulletins containing information of interest to Kansas farmers and homemakers are sent out from Extension Division offices. They narrate the results of extension service project work in plant pathology, animal husbandry, dairying, horticulture, and rural engineering.

Use Radio Station

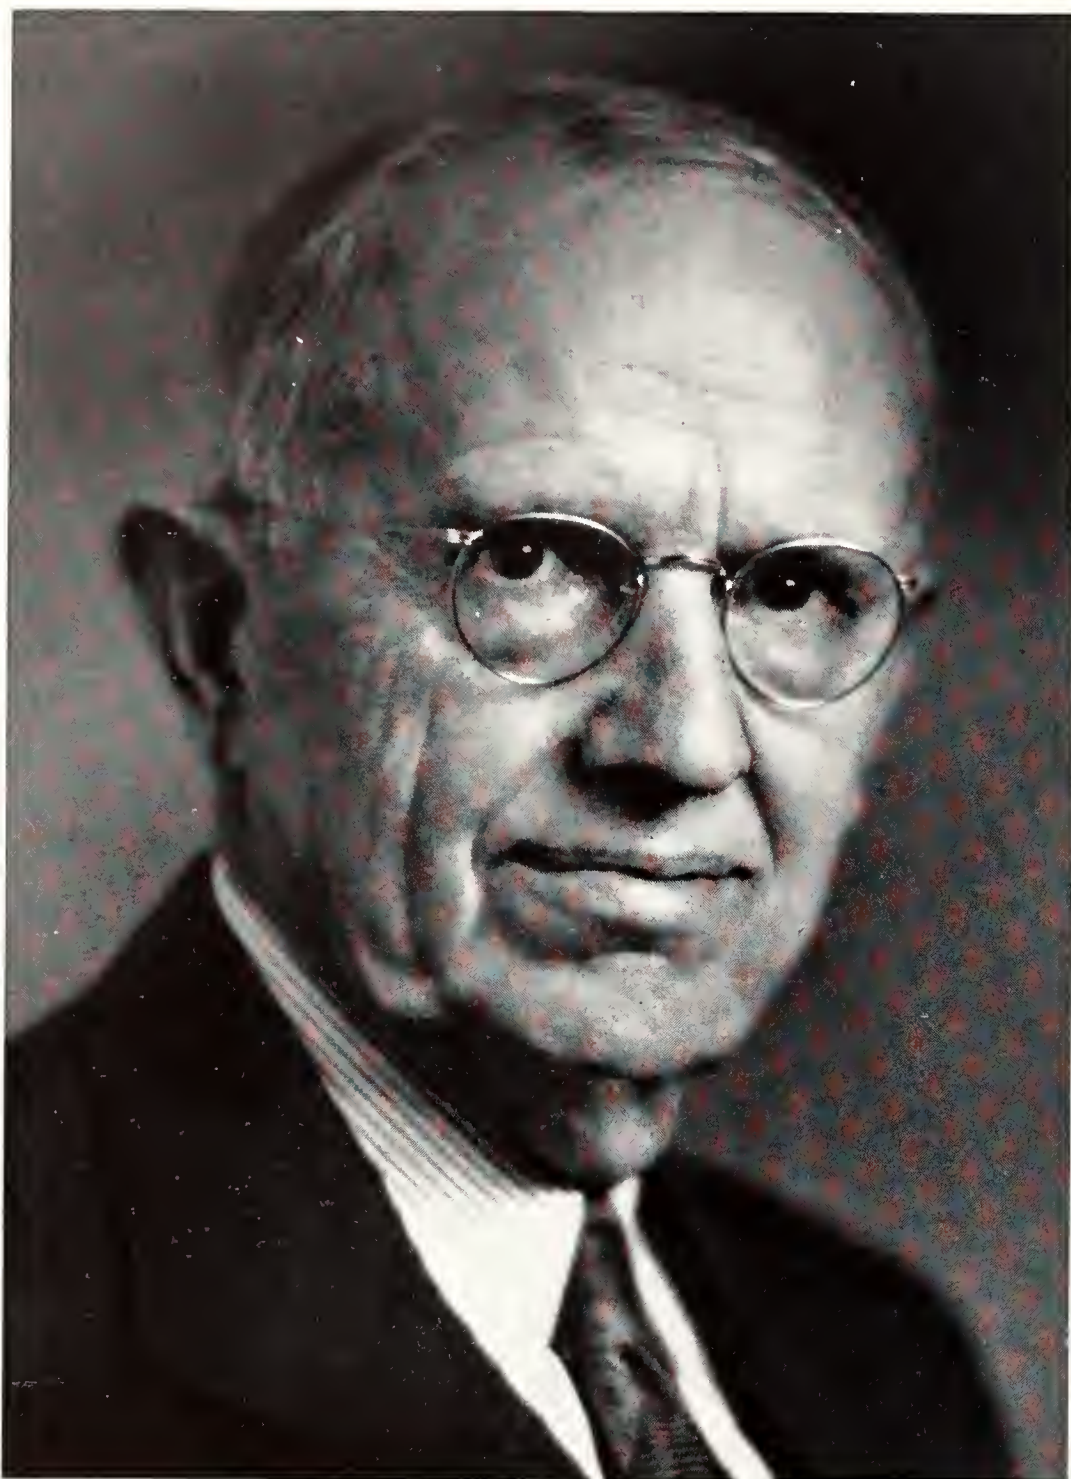

Organized in 1917, the extension service uses station KSAC to reach a radio audience which averages 1,500 listeners per program.

Home students of college and college preparatory subjects are guided by teachers in the Extension Division's home study department. Last year more than 1,000 persons took a total of 1,300 correspondence courses offered and supervised by the home study department.

Director of publicity for the Extension Division is L. L. Longsdorf. His weekly service is sent free to all Kansas newspapers. Included in the publicity are useful hints to Kansas farmers and homemakers.

DIRECTOR OF EXTENSION publicity L. L. Longsdorf points out on a Kansas map one of counties served by the Extension Division. Only two of the 105 counties are not served by the divisional workers who are county farm bureau and home demonstration agents.

E. L. Holton

Dean of Kansas State's summer school since its first session in 1911, E. L. Holton has headed the department of education since his arrival on the campus in 1910. For many years a leader in Kansas educational circles, Dean Holton each summer acts as guide and counselor to approximately 800 students.

Dean of Summer School

KANSAS STATE'S own version of a teachers' college, the Summer School is used by many educators and professional workers to pursue graduate work in their chosen fields.

Others among the 800 students expected to attend this year's nine-week summer session at Kansas State will use the studious atmosphere of the summer term to continue and complete their work as college undergraduates.

A wide range of interests are represented in the 444 courses to be taught by 187 instructors engaged for the thirtieth annual summer term.

Last year's summer students found time for enjoyment in the midst of plenty of hard work. Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" was staged as a summer school play, and the Fisk Jubilee singers presented Negro spirituals as musical entertainment. Weekly assemblies and the appearance of a "Summer School Collegian" helped many students forget the typical Kansas heat.

J. E. Ackert

Dean of the Division of Graduate Study since 1931, James E. Ackert here displays the scholarly smile which makes him liked and respected by students and friends. Coming to Kansas State in 1913 as an assistant professor of zoology, Dean Ackert has gained nationwide recognition as an authority on parasitology.

Dean of Graduate Study

A CITADEL of scholastic endeavor is the Division of Graduate Study. Ruled from the Fairchild Hall office of Dean J. E. Ackert each semester are some 200 graduate students. About thirty will receive advanced degrees at this year's commencement.

An inconspicuous minority among 4,000 undergraduates during the winter terms, graduate students dominate the summer school scene. More than one-third of the students attending the last few summer terms were taking graduate work.

Where the undergraduate thinks in terms of themes and quizzes, the graduate student is concerned with masters' or doctors' theses and oral examinations.

Almost every department on the hill offers courses which may be taken for graduate credit. Bacteriology, entomology, chemistry, genetics, and milling industry are among the major fields offering a Ph. D. degree at Kansas State.

Research in physical, biological, and social sciences is an outstanding divisional activity.

DR. J. T. WILLIARD, college historian, is completing work on his book, "History of Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science," which will be published this summer.

PROFESSORS oft-times get off their regular teaching schedule and devote a large part of their off-campus time to the accomplishment of some things which are recognized as outstanding achievements.

Dr. J. T. Willard, historian, wrote a book to be published early this summer entitled, "History of

Faculty Members

Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science." Four years were required in the chronicling of the school record which will be composed of 600 pages, approximately.

Dr. Edwin C. Miller, professor of botany and plant pathology, is the author of a book entitled "Plant Physiology," of which 5,000 copies — 900 abroad — have been sold. The publication is a revised edition of Dr. Miller's first book written in 1931.

McMillen Honored

Dr. J. H. McMillen, professor of physics, received an honor when his thirty-page paper, "Elastic Scattering of Electrons by Gases," was printed in the Scientific Journal in April, last year.

Prof. R. G. Kloeffer, head of the electrical engineering department, wrote a paper on the "Electron Theory" which was accepted by the Smithsonian Institution for publication in its annual report of outstanding articles in 1938. The article first appeared in the "Electrical Engineer."

DR. J. H. McMILLEN, physics professor, had an article, "Elastic Scattering of Electrons by Gases" published in the Scientific Journal. Dr. McMillen's paper was published last year.

PROF. R. G. KLOEFFLER, electrical engineering department head, wrote an "Electron Theory" which the Smithsonian Institution published in its annual report of outstanding articles.

DR. EDWIN C. MILLER, professor of botany and plant pathology, wrote a text book, "Plant Physiology" in 1931, and revised it—partly by request. Nine hundred copies were sold to Europe.

Work and Play

PROFESSORS' lives are not all work and paper grading.

The faculty on the campus is organized into a College Social Club, which entertains at dances, bridge parties, and receptions for new members of the faculty. In addition, there are faculty dances for all campus professors and instructors.

Outstanding even this year was the faculty reception for Dean Mary P. Van Zile, who is the retiring Dean of Women.

Another affair of importance is the annual fall tea for all faculty members given by the President and Mrs. Farrell in the garden of their home.

Departments and divisions also have their own clubs which hold monthly meetings to promote friendship and develop common interest.

MRS. F. D. FARRELL (above, upper) serves cider to Major E. E. Brown at a faculty dance.

HEADLINES AND HIGHLIGHTS

A few vivid memories of the four-year "Big Show" dwell in the minds of happy, working, playing, "bull-festing" college lads.

CERTAIN events leave vivid memories in the minds of students each school year. Maybe it's the date with the curly-haired athlete or the "gal" who played the violin in the college orchestra. Or maybe it was rush week, or freshman week—hell week at the fraternity or the week of fights between the "ags" and "vets." It might have been a dance—perhaps the Beauty Ball or the Homecoming prom. It could have been the Military Ball or a Dutch treat varsity or St. Pat's Prom. Whatever the occasion, it left a deep impression in the minds of some students.

There are other important events during the year which "break" into the news. Headlines scream of a new football coach, announce that a famous person is to visit the campus, or tell of the death of a student or faculty member.

Each day adds another page to the history of student life. Something always is happening. It is important to someone—sometimes important to everyone, but always of some significance.

But the human brain cannot digest and retain memories of all the things which happen. The less important ones fade away and the more vivid experiences take their place.

Each week day, the student is occupied on the "Hill" (campus), where he consciously or unconsciously tries to get his money's worth out of college. In the classroom and library, in the study or laboratory, he endeavors to absorb all the knowledge possible. He reads of ancient Rome, of modern Europe—learns how to care for children or even livestock, or bees, or how to control insects. He translates the Spanish or German language or studies other things, but always he learns something.

When the weekend arrives, the student usually lets up on his studies for at least one evening. He follows the example of other students in getting freedom from his books and a rest from the grind of everyday classwork.

Motion pictures are popular with the student body. Dancing is too. Bull-sessions are common in fraternity and rooming houses on weekend nights. Also, the student attempts to get more sleep on Sundays because the average sleep per night for most collegiates is less than he received at home. All in all, weekends are considered carefree hours for a large part of the college population.

But more than half Kansas State's 4,000 students earn their own living while attending school. They work at various jobs ranging from janitorial work to that of instructors, from nursemaids to office assistants. But the goal is the same—to eat and to learn.

So throughout this year, as every year, it's an endless procession of headlines and highlights.

"AW, FELLAS, I'm not a frosh." "Yeah," say the K-kids, "but ya better buy a cap or get paddled." Or are these YMCA'ers? Selling frosh caps is a K-club activity.

UP the hill and "through the mill." Twice a year at Kansas State the enrollment process is the event which leads nearly 4,000 students to the academic months following.

Waiting in long lines . . . expounding statistics of your personal life on a string of little blue and white cards . . . being startled on finding yourself in front of a camera for identification pictures . . . battling with assigners for professors instead of courses . . . wondering what some fellow is doing in college . . . seeing a coed that might be a date possibility . . . speculating as to what the year will bring . . . waiting, waiting . . . finding excuses for no 8 o'clocks or Saturday classes . . . fingering a fat purse, then suddenly finding all its contents gone . . . remembering that old high school class motto, "Not finished . . . just begun."

That's enrollment at Kansas State.

FAMILIAR FACES reveal (below, upper) that the "D's" and the "S's" are waiting outside Nichols gymnasium to enroll.

OFFICIAL CHECKERS okay and double-check (below, lower) the assignment schedules so that a student won't be enrolled in two classes at the same time.

Begin Their Four-Year Grind

FIRST DAYS ARE full days for the freshman. Touring the campus during an orientation week (left) is a prelude to classes. The group is about to see Willard Hall.

THE GRIND BEGINS (above) . . . entrance exams baffle the bewildered frosh . . . necks ache from first mental strain at college . . . some of the exam questions seem ridiculous . . . what does it matter about one's IQ anyway?

STILL TOURING (left) . . . grins indicate that they think college may be fun after all. The setting is in the engineering building.

RELAXING BETWEEN entrance quizzes, the first-year students find that anticipation is sweeter than realization. Freshman caps are in evidence as the beginners take it "easy" on the grass near the auditorium.

Invi-

TALES OFT told are those of rush week. Much double-frat-talk is done over cokes at the Palace.

COKING IS THE FEMININE neophyte's way of celebrating post-preferential as evidenced by these Tri Deltas (above) in the Palace basement.

SIG EPS AT DINNER giving 'em the "old one-two" (above right).

THE REAL McCOY, putting the button on the man. It's rugged the way these fraternities rush, but not nearly as involved and complicated as the sororities.

tations To Dine --- And "Jine"

"Gone with the wind" is sorority rush week terminology. Moving in the dorm upon arriving . . . being deluged with redundant rules and regulations . . . donning those "must-have" fall wardrobe spectacles when it's still 115 degrees in the shade . . . jamming three deep in taxicabs to dash to first teas . . . snap impressions . . . in awe of the mad-house strain apparent behind the sophisticated frocks.

Back to the dorm . . . hotter rush talk . . . tears, laughter . . . back to a dinner you don't recall tasting . . . listening to, "We're tops," and "We've got everything," . . . worry, worry . . . calling home to find out how the home folks feel . . . still in the lurch . . . midnight fests and feasts at the dorm with select groups whispering and shouting innovations, accusations, decisions, maybe . . . finally a "Won't you join?" preceding a "Yes" or "No" or a "I don't know yet."

Then the climax . . . your name on a dotted line designating first, second and third preference and it's over . . . now a comparative elysium . . . out from the Dean's office and into the arms of waiting "sisters" . . . hilarious relief added to complacent exhaustion, but it's rush week and after all it is fun!

And what's more, we like it!

A La Kansas State

Alma Mater spirit and pep found new life during the 1939-40 season with a vigorous campaign credited to the Student Council and pep organizations. Wampus Cats for the men, and Purple Pepsters for the women combined to make it a whooping year for Kansas Staters who had lost their conception of real vim.

Rallies predominated the program . . . parades enhanced the spirit . . . new yells pressured the team . . . record attendance marks were hit in Memorial Stadium . . . eight competent cheer leaders were loyal and enthusiastic . . . students in the stadium actually yelled themselves hoarse . . . loss of a game didn't daunt, too much, the losers . . . the pep was still there . . . this thing called "pep" is intangible, but K-State tasted of its virtues this year.

. . . And Having A Wonderful

It was such a success last year that "Prexy" Farrell planned the second All-College Mixer for one of the opening events of the 1939-40 college year.

Several thousand students assemble on a frosty fall night . . . some as spectators, some as participants in the activities . . . the quadrangle north of Nichols gym surges with the biggest crowd yet to turn out for this sort of an event.

Play Kid Games

Games are played . . . a bit juvenile, perhaps, for college students, but serving their purpose, to initiate new acquaintanceships, new friendships . . . prizes are given . . . shouts and cheers accompany winners of races . . . the crowd moves around . . . Purple Pepsters and Wampus Cats organize activities.

Over in the Auditorium a program entertains those who don't care to take part in the games . . . singing, dramatic reading, music.

Culmination of the evening's events is the All-College dance in Nichols gym . . . the biggest stag line of the year . . . Matt Betton early winning the admiration and enthusiasm of new students . . . cutting, tagging, cutting—that's the mixer.

Home Ecs Frolic

Climaxing a big series of events for the Home Economics Hospitality Week is the Hospitality Hop, one of the first main spring formals of the season. Meetings, tours, more meetings, displays, demonstrations . . . after all these the Home Ec lassies and many others turn out to the highly decorated Nichols gym . . . finish for Hospitality Week.

ROLICKING, FROLICKING at the All-College Mixer in the fall . . . games, contests, prizes (top and center).

HOME EC HOSPITALITY Week climaxed with a gay spring formal in Nichols. A large crowd is in evidence.

Time

Four of the seven divisions at Kansas State College sponsor annual "drags," in the lingo of West Point. Javmarack identifies the Veterinary dance, this being the third annual affair. The unique name is derived from an ancient island ceremony of horsewhipping.

In competition, the Ags stage a "hay-hey" party complete with overalls and gingham. It's the annual Ag Barnwarmer. Queen of the affair this year was Jean Marie Knott with attendants, Mary Griswold, Martha Lou Alexander, Lucy Mae Botkin and Jane Galbraith.

ENGROSSED . . . the students in Cab Calloway and Cab in his Hi-De-Ho antics for which he is famous. Nichols Gym was crowded for the occasion and spectators jammed the upstairs.

Hi-De-Ho King

Giving students more things to do and more places to go are the dances sponsored by various organizations. Top among these this year was the SGA varsity featuring big-name, hip-swinging, bellowing Cab Calloway of Minnie the Moocher fame.

New and different in the varsity realm this year was the Sob-Sister contest and varsity sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity for women.

An "also-fun" deal was the yearly King of Pep hop at which the gals elected Sig Ep Bill Werts to reign. Members of the Purple Pepster brigade were recipients of the proceeds.

The event was staged in the fall.

Beauty Reigns

Royal Purple Beauty Ball . . . a big affair . . . highly exciting . . . much suspense . . . the most beautiful coeds of Kansas State. It's a big night on the year's social calendar.

Errol Flynn of Hollywood fame selected the beauty queens this year from photographs of twenty-seven candidates. His first, second, third, and fourth choices were marked on the back of the photographs that were identified with numbers only . . . an unknown quantity until . . .

Of the candidates, Pi Phi Shirley Shaver took top honors; Tri Delt Barbara Schmidt, second; Pi Phi Madeline Fisher, third; and Chi O Kay Millard, fourth.

March of Sabers

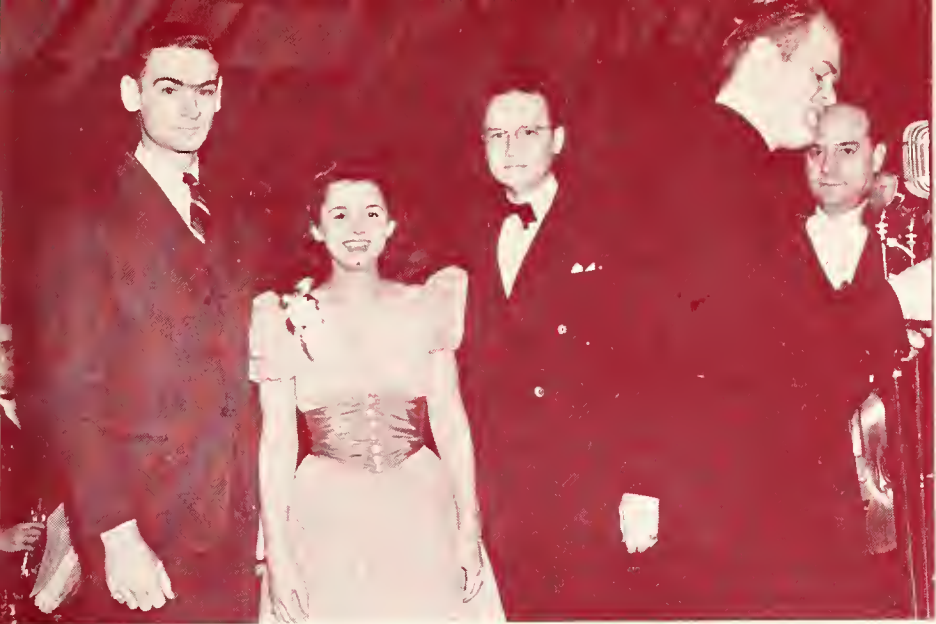

Militaristic and regal in every detail is the annual Military Ball early second semester . . . the collegiate officers select the candidates for their Honorary Colonel and Cadet Majors . . . the entire unit then casts a vote.

In addition to becoming an honorary part of the United States Army, these girls participate in the annual spring review.

Brigadier General Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commandant of the cavalry school at Ft. Riley, did the honors and gave a brief presentation speech . . . this year's Honorary Cadet Colonel was versatile and attractive Joan Nethaway, Chi Omega member . . . runners up were Dorothy Hacker, Delta Delta Delta; Helen Hood, Alpha Delta Pi; Marianna Kistler, Pi Beta Phi; Barclay Wright, Pi Beta Phi; Mary Jean Gretnier, and Ethel Haller.

Decorations of the Nichols Gym drew forth more complimentary comments than ever before . . . a splendid setting—a swell affair.

St. Pat's Prom

Shamrocks and "the green" predominate each year at St. Pat's Prom, climaxing the two-day Engineers' Open House exhibit.

It was March 16 . . . Joe Venuti, his violin and his orchestra, played for the crowd . . . and added to our list of big name bands to play on the campus.

"A Swell Party"

"Frankly, my dears, it was swell" . . . the decorations were scrumptuous . . . the usual suspense preceded the announcement of the evening's royalty . . . than a blow of trumpets . . . and crashing through paper effigies of our Irish ancestry came a bonnie lassie in green, Chi O Bette Bonecutter escorted by Bob Pyle, mechanical engineering senior . . . their Majesties, St. Patricia and St. Pat . . . and b'gorra, there was Gov. Payne Ratner to present each a ring in recognition of his and her election.

An "also honored" group at the Prom were the architects of the engineering school who, for the third consecutive year, were awarded the gold trophy for the best Open House exhibit.

THEIR MAJESTIES—Bette Bonecutter and Bob Pyle emerge from behind the band of famed Joe Venuti.

JOHNNY SHAVER accepts the trophy for architects' first on exhibits at the annual Open House. The presentation was made at the Prom.

A GAYLY decorated Nichols' gym was the scene of St. Pat's Prom. A large crowd was present to dance to the music of Joe Venuti's band. Silhouettes of St. Pat and St. Patricia background the band.

The Campus Votes

"Yay and Nay" . . . the election time lingo—the language of politics . . . evidence of class and party combat.

Elections have been quiet, comparatively . . . for Kansas State . . . very little drama, melodrama . . . even exciting incidents conspicuously absent . . . someone swiped the Independents' lottery box last year but it was all quiet on the election front this year.

Student Council members are elected in the spring . . . also Board of Publications . . . class officers voted on in the fall . . . officers elected last spring were very equally divided between Greeks and Independents.

Blocs are formed . . . it's the Greeks against the Romans . . . politicians pack Anderson hallway . . . many handbills are handed you, thrust at you, all but stuffed down your throat . . . politicians, amateurs all . . . but learning the game.

Spontaneous Combustion

Rallies seemed to predominate the 1939-40 athletic season . . . many spirited gatherings . . . more team and mass enthusiasm . . . demonstrations in abundance.

With the resignations of coaches Wes Fry and Stan Williamson early second semester, students thought it their duty to settle the matter . . . a demonstration was planned . . . they met . . . they honked . . . they shouted . . . and what a let-down when they ended up at the home of athletic director Mike Ahearn to expound their worldly advice and sentiments . . . and found that the board which was to have met did not because of the serious illness of President F. D. Farrell.

AGS AND VETS fight it out over the water tank between the Ag buildings. The score was tied when this picture was snapped because both an overall-clad Ag and a coverall-dressed Vet were taking a splash.

ENGAGED IN a "friendly" game of cards (right) are these four collegiates. Poker chips dot the table.

ONLY A FEW of the students have time for pets. But the center of interest here (below) is a dog.

FREEDOM doesn't reign when it comes to parking on all parts of the campus. Here a patrolman (lower left) tags a car.

SMOKING on the campus is not tolerated but students often sneak a "smoke" beside the engineering building (lower right) as shown here.

Shifting Winds

All's not work at Kansas State and there's plenty of opportunity to let-off that expanding amount of saved-up energy. Freedom from the daily grind comes quite frequently . . . sometimes only seldomly, but when it does beckon, most students take advantage of it. Students "whittle" away their spare time in a number of different ways.

of Freedom

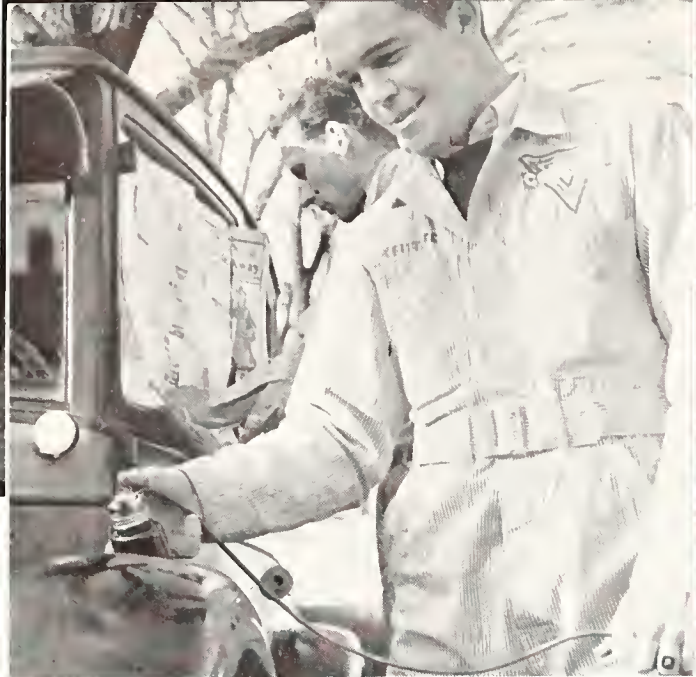

Soda fountains are popular in the fall and spring. Picnics are too. Hitch-hiking isn't really fun but it's the method a large number of boys use to take themselves home for vacations.

"Bullfesting" is a common practiced time-waster. But one learns something even in good gossip circles.

PAINTING A CAR occupies Jack Butler and Rex Neubauer (left) while the emphasis at this boarding house is on the "eats."

Fifty Per Cent Work to Eat

Kansas State students earn their education.

Approximately one-third the student body is entirely self-supporting while another third earn part of the money necessary to finance an education. Students work at various jobs—ranging from white-collared office assistantships to ditch-digging with the college work gang. The NYA hires a large number.

Then the Manhattan merchants make room for a number of college goers. Work in various stores as clerks, janitors, and deliverymen is common. Girls earn their own way too. They work at various jobs on the campus and in town.

LOADING A BLEACHER section to be transported from the gym to the stadium are these student employees of the athletic department.

Ham and Eggs

First they work—then they eat.

That's the case of many students enrolled here. Without a job they wouldn't be able to continue school. So for many, the means of earning a livelihood is the major endeavor; school work is second.

K-Staters eat at various places. Fraternity and sorority members eat at their respective houses for the most part. Boarding houses for both boys and girls are popular. Restaurants depend somewhat on college trade; some depend on it solely. Many Aggieville shops lock their doors when students leave the campus for vacation during August.

The College Cafeteria provides food for a large number of students. By the co-operative plan whereby each student works a required number of hours, he gets three meals a day at a minimum cost. The plan is popular.

Getting Their Full 550*

College is not all made up of studying, going to classes, and taking quizzes. A familiar sight late at night in a fraternity or rooming house is a "bull session." Some students have dates . . . some take in shows . . . some go to meetings . . . some "jelly" at the drugstore and a few prepare their lessons for the next day.

Many students are kept busy at their jobs . . . some have to practice football, basketball, or other sports . . . some play in the band . . . some return to the laboratory to make up work . . . It's all in a day.

BULLFESTING on a pair of beds (upper right) are roomers at a private home. Even the mascot is in evidence.

History of Year---As Seen In 1950

SMOKE DRIFTED hazily around the room filled with lounging figures. It was a time of reunion and the events of the day having been freely discussed, the conversation drifted to a reminiscent tone.

"Say, Bill," said one with his feet perched high upon a table. "Do you realize that it has been ten years since we were graduated?"

"It doesn't seem like it," came the answer.

Many Events Occur

"A lot of things happened to dear old Kansas State in that last year, 1940, didn't they? Remember, that was the year that we saw the opening of Willard Hall. Boy, that was really something after all the work we did in those crowded old chemistry labs."

Bill leaned forward and scratched his head. "It took lots of work to get that building and I remember the day that it was formally opened and Governor Ratner was there to inspect it.

"That gave the new department of chemical engineers one of the chemistry annexes and the mathematics department the other one."

Work for Union Building

"Speaking of work," Jim put in, "remember the labor we expended on the Student Union Building? We thought of all kinds of schemes to get that building all that year. I thought for a long, long time that it was hopeless, but when the Board of Regents started co-operating with the Student Union committee, things began going more smoothly.

"All of you boys went air-minded that year, too, didn't you?" asked Mrs. Bill.

"Yes, a course in Civil Aeronautics was formed and we established the Manhattan School of Flying," Joe contributed.

"Let's see," Jim grinned at Bill. "How did we do in football that year?"

"Well, we did beat K.U., but I just can't seem to remember much else. Oh yes, there was that big rift between the football coaches and then Hobbs Adams came to be chief gridiron mentor."

A New Cage Coach

"That was Jack Gardner's first year as basketball coach, wasn't it? The swimming team placed second in the Big Six for the first time and the wrestling team placed first for the second consecutive time."

Another woman's voice was heard. "Too bad about Hackney's injuries!"

"Yeah, but he came forth in the shotput again and won the intercollegiate championship at Los Angeles, wasn't it?"

"Sure, and he had already set that record."

"Gosh, wasn't it dusty that day that Mayor LaGuardia from New York City spoke in the stadium?"

"I'd almost forgotten that. He certainly made an impression on K-Staters."

"Bill," asked his wife, "wasn't that the year that the student loan fund got so many gifts?"

NEW STUDENTS at Kansas State sit under the shade of one of the many trees while waiting to enroll. Freshmen caps may be seen.

IN THE PROCESS of explaining a possible football play is the new football Coach Hobbs Adams (center) while Don Crumbaker, 1939 captain, and Athletic Director M. F. Ahearn look on.

"Let's see. Harry Wareham left a house and lot—where the Beta Kappas lived, I think. And Gen. G. H. Harbord gave $5,000."

"I remember reading that in the fall of 1939 enrollment figures hit 4,000 for the first time in the history of K-State. And there was that fuss about administrative salaries. Remember, the level was kept equal with those of the University."

"It's a good thing, too!"

"What other honors did we glean that year? Didn't the yearbook——?"

Royal Purple Honored

"Sure, the '38-'39 Royal Purple won the All-American rating—highest possible."

"Don't forget about the Kansas State Engineer! It ranked first in the nation," Jack stood up for his division.

"How about the Ags? We did all right. The junior livestock judging team won first in the "Intercollegiate Judging Contest at the National Western Stock Show at Denver and brought home that new Livestock Exchange trophy. The senior judging team won first at the American Royal and just missed first at the International Contest at Chicago. And the apple judges captured all honors again that year."

"I'll never forget the lyceum program that year. The Russian Choir, the Ballet, and Cornelia Otis Skinner. Vanderbilt was there and Rubinoff played with the duo piano team."

Kickapoo Is Remembered

"You girls would remember the cultural part of it," said Bill smilingly. "Now I remember Kickapoo."

"So does the President, probably."

"Speaking of President Farrell, he did lots of work that year that few of us knew about. He had many interviews, trying to find out what various faculty members thought needed to be changed on the campus."

"He was also elected president of the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities."

"The independents were well organized that year. I guess that was because of those houses they organized—the House of Williams and the House of Jericho and the rest of them."

Mrs. Bill thought, "Say, there were a lot of changes in the administration and faculty ten years ago. Dean Van Zile retired after thirty-two years as Dean of Women."

"And Dr. E. G. Bayfield came to be the new head of the milling department. Were there any changes over in Home Economics?"

Make Many Changes

"Oh yes. Dr. Katherine Roy was the new head of the child welfare department and the nursery school moved off the campus because it was too crowded. I think they moved to that white frame house over by the park. And a new home management house was established. No, I remember! They got so crowded that another one was started also."

There was quite a turnover in the military department, too. Col. Carl McKinney was made head over there. Were there any others?"

"Prof. C. E. Rogers resigned to go to Iowa State and Prof. Russell Thackrey became the new head of the journalism department."

Bill yawned, "Never a dull moment! We had a swell fight over the goal posts after the K. U. game.

And those first girl cheer leaders. They were all right!"

"Triple A took our ballroom away from us—remember?"

Popular Bands Play

"Yeah they turned the Wareham into offices, but the Community House was remodeled and it made a pretty fine place for parties. And there were lots of good parties that year. Didn't Cab Calloway play? And Joe Venuti?"

Mrs. Bill stood up and stretched. "I just remembered that Doctor Willard's history of the college went to press that year. And that made me think that we just about have the history of 1940 ready for press and confidentially I am ready for a little sleep."

"Not a bad idea." Joe joined with the rest of the yawns. "Now that we look back on it, it wasn't such a bad year year, was it? Wouldn't it be swell to be back there again?"

"Maybe! But we probably wouldn't improve things very much. Say, how about another gab fest like this again next year?"

DEAN R. A. SEATON addresses the student-faculty Union Committee meeting with three members of the Board of Regents at the President's home. Board Chairman Fred M. Harris, Grover Poole, and Hubert Brighton represented the state in hearing Kansas State's plea for a Union building.

GROUPS IN GOODWILL

Kansas State has more organizations than the "New Deal" has ideas . . . and like the New Deal, some are strong and some weak.

THROUGHOUT the ages, man has tended to gather in groups. He dislikes being alone for the most part, and to this age, cliques spring up wherever peoples live.

Organizations grew out of this internal desire for friendship . . . groups designed to promote goodwill among the members.

Kansas State is over-organized in respect to student and faculty groups. The student directory lists ninety-two groups ranging from flying clubs to literary societies—from the Student Governing Association with some 4,000 members to the departmental faculty section of five or six.

But all in all, Kansas State organizations are very worthwhile in that they give the member an opportunity to meet with other students to discuss mutual interests; they afford him an opportunity to express his views; and he is made to feel the burden of responsibility in being a definite part of the association or club.

With the exception of the SGA, membership in all other organizations of the college is limited. Phi Kappa Phi, national honor group, is the top-notch scholastic order on the "hill." Membership is limited to the upper ten per cent of the senior class.

Nineteen other honorary and professional fraternities seek to promote the interests of the school or the various divisions or departments which they represent. Membership is based on scholarship and achievements. Students of business, agriculture, engineering, journalism, military science, physical education, and the various other courses have an opportunity to be invited to membership in one or more of these groups.

Meetings of organizations are conducted usually once every week or two weeks in one of the college buildings. A member of the faculty sponsors the particular organization, serving as advisor, overseer, and assistant in carrying out the activities.

The College recognizes student organizations through the Faculty Council on Student Affairs. In order to be an officially organized group, members must have been organized a year, consist of at least fifteen persons from the upper three classes, and submit a constitution and a set of by-laws. A few secret organizations are maintained among the students, but for the most part, the students are governed indirectly by the faculty.

Organizations finance themselves through dues assessed members and through money-making activities sponsored by the group . . . and there is no end to the "above-board" means used to attain the ends of the latter method.

All-School Groups

KEYS AND PINS, emblems of achievement, are as much in evidence on this campus as on others. Besides the individual honor involved, the all-school honoraries serve as an integral part in the welfare of the school.

Through their efforts many worthwhile projects are carried out and other endeavors are endorsed by the various honoraries.

Another purpose of such organizations is to enable students with much the same interests to get together occasionally to discuss common problems and become better acquainted.

DANCERS AT the Blue Key Homecoming Ball (upper) crowd around the band stand to hear Frank Cash blare his trumpet.

Sponsor Activities

Women students selected for membership into Mortar Board are the most outstanding in the senior class. Besides their more studious activities, these girls put on their prettiest smiles and sell "mums" to eager customers at the homecoming football game.

The junior organization comparable to Mortar Board, and instigated by the senior group is Prix, election into which is the dream of every junior girl. Chosen from the ranks of outstanding girls both in grades and activities, this group sponsors and is in sympathy with any worthy campus movement. Each year Prix entertains all sophomore girls at a tea at Van Zile Hall, where the policies of the society are explained.

One of the most interesting organizations for which any student is eligible is the Cosmopolitan Club where foreign students on the campus mingle with their fellow students. Promoting world friendship and understanding, the group holds a Feast of Nations each year at which food from the various countries represented is served, and table talk centers around customs of different lands. Flags of the various countries represented were displayed on the walls of the banquet hall this year.

FLAGS OF the various nations line the walls at the annual "Feast of All Nations" banquet sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club. Guests study their menu of foreign dishes.

All-School Honorary Societies

SELECTION into one of the five honorary societies at Kansas State is based on outstanding leadership, character, and participation in campus activities. Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity is the highest honor that a senior may obtain.

Thirteen in Blue Key

Outstanding senior men are eligible for membership into Blue Key, national society, which this year has thirteen members. The group lists among its varied activities the Blue Key Homecoming Ball and presentation of the Homecoming queen, conducting the freshman tours during Freshman Induction week, and a banquet in the spring. New members are initiated at a formal dinner held late in the year. Any worthwhile activity that is designed to benefit the general welfare of the school finds an enthusiastic sponsor in Blue Key.

Sponsor Spinster's Skip

Comparable to Blue Key is Mortar Board, senior women's honorary. Mortar Board gives Kansas State girls a chance to bear the expenses for one evening when it sponsors its annual Spinster's Skip in February. Improving the living and social conditions on the campus occupies the rest of the Mortar Board members' time in addition to a tea to acquaint freshmen girls with the purposes of the organization, and an annual banquet at which the freshman girl having the highest scholastic record is honored.

A Junior Fraternity

Outstanding junior women, too, have their local honorary fraternity, Prix. In addition to scholarship and character, new Prix members are chosen for their exceptional dependability. The promotion of fellowship, leadership, and an attempt to give a more rounded educational life are the aims of the organization. Members are announced at the yearly Mortar Board Hallowe'en dinner after having been secretly initiated in the spring.

Dynamis is the only all school honorary society which takes its members from the three upper classes. Reorganized this year, the group now numbers about thirty. Dynamis' chief purpose is to further campus cooperation and investigate toward campus improvements.

Presidents of Blue Key, Mortar Board, Prix and Dynamis were Joe Robertson, Dale Rundle, Jean Scott and Dorothy Ann Uhl, respectively, first semester.

PRIX—Jennie Marie Madsen, Marianna Kistler, Dorothy Axcell, Ethel Haller, Martha Wreath, Jean Scott, Helen Pilcher, and Jessie Collins (standing).

Seventy Elected to Phi Kappa Phi

ELECTION into Phi Kappa Phi, national scholarship honorary, is the highest honor a senior can attain. Members are chosen from the upper ten per cent of their respective divisions, and are announced each fall and spring.

The local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi was organized twenty-two years ago, and since then has made many contributions to the College. Through the efforts of this organization Kansas State was recognized by the American Association of Universities. Another project was the establishment of the point system, making a C average necessary for graduation. This year's members are listed below:

They Have Something in Common

Orchesis, national honorary society for girls interested in dancing, offers an opportunity for members to learn more about creative dancing and to do work in advance composition.

Besides presenting a program of its own each year, the group often appears on various other programs. In addition regular meetings are conducted twice a month.

President of Orchesis this year was De Arline Shull. Marion Bozenhard was faculty sponsor.

To belong to Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity, a student must be a former member of the Boy Scouts of America.

Organized for leadership training in scouting, Alpha Phi Omega was headed this year by Jack Fuller. Faculty sponsor for the group was George R. McCaulley.

The organization sponsors campus projects and strives to promote efficiency and co-operation in solving college problems.

Chosen As Best Dancers

An honorary social dancing society is Enchiladas, whose membership is comprised of girls elected from each national sorority on the campus. The purpose of the organization is to promote inter-sorority social spirit. Enchiladas has two formal parties each year.

Founded in 1917, Enchiladas is a national society with its membership based upon dancing ability. Officers were Joan Nethaway, president; Betty Wolf, vice-president; Gwen Lee, secretary; and Laura Randall, treasurer.

Promoters Of Greek Politics

A social organization to promote fellowship among the different fraternities is Scarab, an honorary society which initiates only senior men. The group consists of one man elected each semester from each fraternity. He must be prominent in campus activities as well as interested in political undertakings, for during elections, Scarab members assist Senior Men's Panhellenic. Officers first semester were Robert Mueller, president; Don Thomas, vice-president; and Victor Beat, secretary-treasurer.

Inter-fraternity friendships and associations are the primary motives of Pax, junior organization to Scarab. It is members of Pax who endeavor to aid the junior class in its political campaigns and promote panhellenic fellowship on the campus. Membership in this organization is limited to two men from each fraternity, who must be juniors. Officers this year were Bob Lank, president; Jack Haymaker, vice-president; Gene Fair, secretary-treasurer; Delmar Jones, marshal; and Kenneth Eastman, sentinel.

They Promote Literary Interests

The four literary societies at Kansas State do not limit their discussions to literary subjects alone. Members of each group meet once a week, usually on Saturday, to listen to devotions and special music, and to practice parliamentary procedure. In addition, they discuss their own and other literary accomplishments, while placing emphasis on speech and debate training.

Two members from each society make up the Inter-Society Council, which serves as a governing body for all four groups. Miss Helen Elcock is the faculty sponsor for the council and Vera Morgan is president.

This year, as in years past, the organizations sponsored an Inter-Society oratorical contest open to members of any of the literary groups. Non-members and townspeople have always attended in large crowds to witness the rivalry among the societies.

Martha Wreath of the Browning society won the contest this year.

Hamilton and Athenian societies are men's clubs, while Ionian and Browning are the two girls' organizations, but they often exchange parties and outings like the Hamp-Lo picnic in the spring.

Hosts to National Conventions

Two college organizations were hosts this year to national conventions. To the campus in June came delegates of the American College Quill Club. Miss Ada Rice, sponsor of the local Ur Rune, is High Chancellor of the national organization. She journeyed to Tampa, Fla., to install a new chapter this year. Informal meetings of Quill are held twice a month when members gather around a table to read manuscripts and offer criticisms. Lucille McIntosh was Chancellor of the club this year.

It was during Christmas vacation that the Cosmopolitan Club national convention was held here. Another highlight of the year's activities was the "Feast of the Nations" at which each foreign member prepared and served a dish of his native country. The purpose of the club is to further international understanding. Membership includes all foreign students on the campus and an equal number of Americans. Severo Cervera is president of this organization whose motto is "Above all nations is humanity."

Hold Open House

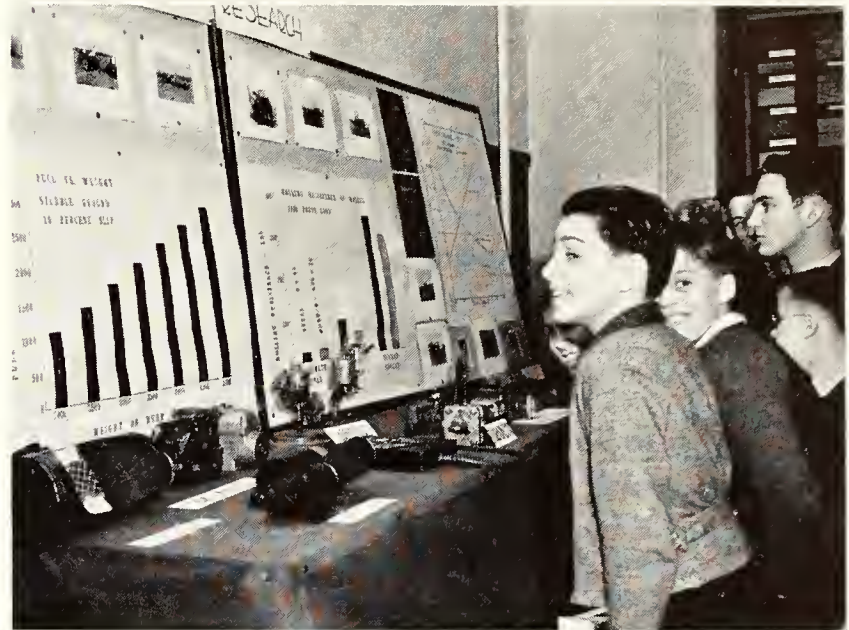

ACCLAIMED as the most successful Engineers' Open House ever to be staged on the campus of Kansas State, the 1940 exposition broke all attendance records of any previous student show when it was held March 15 and 16. More than 14,000 persons, including college and high school students, and citizens of Kansas, passed through the doors of the engineering building.

Under the able direction of Joe Redmond and Bert Sells, Open House manager and secretary, respectively, the exhibition showed more diversity in individual displays than ever before. Department and "work" committees carried out their respective themes with student and commercial exhibits.

Many commercial concerns sent representatives with their exhibits to demonstrate the latest in engineering developments of the world.

Indicative of its growing importance in the state, Governor and Mrs. Payne Ratner were the honor guests of more than 1,000 student engineers on the second day of the exhibition. That evening Governor and Mrs. Ratner were the guests of Sigma Tau at the climaxing event of the two-day engineering show—St. Pat's Prom.

Partially responsible for the record-breaking crowd was Raymond Bukaty, chairman of the publicity committee. Under his direction a personalized publicity tour was conducted throughout the state to advertise Open House. In addition to this an extensive radio and newspaper program was carried on at the college and through news release channels.

This year the Steel Ring gold trophy cup was again awarded to the department of architecture for the best exhibit. A unique display of modern architecture along with living art models was enough to take the cup. Bill Keogh, president of Steel Ring, presented the cup to John Shaver, student chairman of the architectural committee.

They Govern

GOVERNING more than 1000 engineers, the 1939-40 engineering council or "board of directors" is the student administrative body of the engineering division. This council is composed of executive officers elected at large and members chosen within special groups.

Every student in the engineering division is a member of the Engineering Association. The council, representing the members of the association, appropriates the general engineering seminar fees of the entire division, considers all proposals submitted to it from the inner organizations of the division, and arbitrates on all judiciary matters which arise.

The council has assisted during the past year in the expense of repairing the large concrete "K," located on the hill just east of the city limits of Manhattan.

Officers and members this year were Ralph Wahrenbrock, president; George Vaught, vice-president; Gus-tave Fairbanks, treasurer; Robert Remington, secretary; John Shaver, Robert Pyle, Jack P. Fuller, Roger Ghormley, Hugh Shade, Robert Teeter, James Stockman, and Joe Redmond.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL — Standing: Ralph Wahrenbrock, Robert Remington, Gus Fairbanks. Seated: James Stockman, Robert Pyle, Joe Redmond, Robert Teeter, Bob Hammond.

Interested in Radio

Kansas State is represented in the electrical engineering department by a radio club. The Radio Club was organized on the campus more than two years ago by several interested electrical students. Since that time it has fulfilled its purpose to maintain and operate an official amateur radio station at the club headquarters.

Officers are Carroll Owensby, president; David Robb, secretary-treasurer; Ray Murray and Francis Higgins, radio telegraph and telephone operators, respectively.

Selected For Engineering Merit

With more than sixty members from all departments of engineering, Sigma Tau has carried on a very active and constructive program during this past year. Members have assisted in many campus projects, one of these being the reconstruction of the large concrete "K" on K-hill. They have also promoted scholarship among the engineering students.

President for the past year was Joseph Redmond.

Under the leadership of Bill Keogh, Steel Ring has completed another year of great service to the engineering division. Membership is based upon leadership and scholarship.

The organization provides a cup for the most interesting display at the annual Engineers' Open House. This award has created much rivalry among the various departments.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS—Back row: Wetmore, Harbison, Van Vleet, Freeman, Salts, Colburn, Frese, Beardmore, Huitt. Third row: Fenton, Barger, Thompson, Cleland, Holste, Haun, Lipper, Lackey, French. Second row: M. They Have Common Interests

Promotion of interest and development in agricultural engineering is the purpose of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. The student chapter at Kansas State was formed seventeen years ago. The national association was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1907. Programs pertaining to the agricultural engineering field are presented at the semi-monthly seminars to stimulate interest. The society's president for this year was Dena Huitt.

Prof. F. C. Fenton is advisor.

Although only a year and one-half old, Eta Kappa Nu has already established a prominent place for itself in the engineering division. The society's objectives are fellowship and good scholarship among electrical engineering students. It has also taken an active part in Open House activities. The officers were R. L. Meisenheimer, president; Morris Willis, vice-president; Roger Ghormley, secretary; Donald King, treasurer; and John Eyer, corresponding secretary.

Sponsor is Prof. R. M. Kerchner.

Strengthen Professional Ties

The Kansas State chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers under the presidency of Robert Teeter has carried on an active and varied program during the past year. The student chapter is closely associated with the national chapters throughout the United States from which valuable contacts are made. Other officers of the institute included Hugh Shade, vice-president; Ralph Samuelson, treasurer; and Carl Pettyjohn, secretary.

Setting the precedent of being one of the first colleges west of the Mississippi River to form a chapter, the student chapter of the American Road Builders' Association has been very active during its short time on the campus. Its purpose is to stimulate interest among the junior and senior civil engineers so that they will have a better professional relationship with those in the road building field. The work of the association has been directed by Pres. Alvin Kaufman.

Electricals Are 100 Strong

Serving as the connecting link between the student electrical engineer and the engineers in the electrical field, the student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers has been active in making contact with professional men. The junior and senior chapters have had about 100 students in membership during the first and second semesters.

The national organization promotes the formation of student branches and grants student membership at a reduced rate. Through work in the student branch activities, the student engineer learns the proper way to conduct meetings, how to write and present technical papers, and to prepare himself to take his place in the field of engineering.

Bob Hammond was president first semester and Roger Ghormley presided second semester.

They Use A Palette or T-Square

Under the presidency of Alice Warren, Tau Epsilon Kappa holds the distinction of being the only all-girl organization in the engineering division. The society was organized by Prof. John Helm, Jr., more than ten years ago for women students of art and architecture.

The group meets each month to discuss various fields of architecture and art. Meredith Reynolds is vice-president and Audrey Jean Durland is secretary-treasurer.

On the campus for the first time this year is the newly formed student chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The chapter forms a coordinated group between the student architects and the student architectural engineers as well as to serve as the link between the students and the professional architects and architectural engineers. Officers were John Shaver, president; Bill Fullerton, vice-president; and Gordon Hazell, secretary-treasurer.

Mechanicals Boast Largest Group

WITH more than 300 enrolled in the department of mechanical engineering it leads the enrollment of all departments in the engineering division. Many mechanical students have won honors during the past year, two of whom were the first and third place award winners at the district A.S.M.E. meeting in St. Louis last spring. Two mechanical engineering students also won honors at a debating conclave at the University of Oklahoma last fall.

An Honorary Group

The honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, Pi Tau Sigma, has played an important part in promoting activities within the department. Members are selected on the qualities of leadership, scholarship, and service, based upon their record during the first two years in college. Also a certain number of senior students are eligible each semester.

Some of the activities of the honorary fraternity have been the publishing of monthly mechanical engineering notes, assisting in the work of Engineers' Open House, and the contacting of freshmen students to familiarize them with extra-curricular activities and to help them in an advisory capacity in outlining their upperclass schedule. Ramond Small served as president first semester and Harden Tubbs was president second semester.

Seminars for Classes

Each class has its own seminar which is conducted at periodic times each month. Programs are scheduled for each group so that a definite theme is carried out for the entire year. Most of the time in senior seminars is devoted to job placement, while in junior seminars the programs are diversified with non-engineering subjects.

Junior and senior students are eligible for student membership in the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Through the A.S.M.E. students may broaden their viewpoints of the profession. Robert Pyle was chairman of the student branch this year.

An achievement of mechanical engineers is that of cooperating with other engineering departments for the annual Engineers' Open House. Mechanicals accounted for several exhibits.

Tomorrow's Pilots Learn To Fly

Under the leadership of Robert Huffman the Kansas State Glider Club has been very active this year. Although one of the youngest organizations on the campus the club has enjoyed unusual popularity since its establishment in 1931.

Its members, both faculty and students, are especially interested in motorless flying. The first glider was made by the students but a new McFarland glider has taken its place and is used in the primary flight training.

One of the newest organizations to take its place on the campus this year is the Flying Wildcats.

Its purpose of organization is to create, foster, and maintain a spirit of fellowship and co-operation among those students enrolled in the civilian pilot training program at K.S.C. and to promote scholarship and to help the progress of aviation.

Officers of the club were Robert Mueller, president; De Beeler, vice-president, and Emmett Hesselbarth, secretary-treasurer.

'Transit Men' Train For Future

Deviating somewhat from the familiar "running a transit," the student civil engineer of today is also interested in the development that is taking place in his field on city planning, modernization of highways, dam construction, and management of municipal governments. It is through the technical societies that he receives this highly valued information as it may help him select the specialized field he cares to enter.

The junior and senior student chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers have been very active during the past year. Activities included lectures by practicing civil engineers, supplemented by moving pictures. President the first semester was George Vaught and for second semester Jack Fuller.

Prof. M. W. Furr was faculty sponsor of the group this year.

Campus Clubs

ABOUT TO SELL a copy of Kickapoo magazine is Ivan Griswold (left), a Sigma Delta Chi member. The organization publishes the student magazine together with Theta Sigma Phi.

IN THE DIVISION of General Science there exist many clubs and honorary organizations. These societies were established in order that students having the same interests and abilities might exercise them through co-operation and helpful criticism.

Almost every branch of every major interest encountered in this division is represented. Such is the Commerce Association and Alpha Kappa Psi, both organizations for students enrolled in business administration.

For women in journalism there is Theta Sigma Phi and for men in journalism, Sigma Delta Chi, both national honorary fraternities. National recognition, too, awaits members elected into Mu Phi Epsilon, society to promote appreciation and standards of music, and Phi Epsilon Kappa, organization for physical education men. Faculty members join together in Phi Delta Kappa, educational fraternity.

LEADING THE CHEER section at a football game are members of the Purple Pepsters and Wampus Cats, student pep organizations. Evidently, the Wildcats are ahead in the scoring, for the rooters appear jubilant.

Are Diversified

A local club organized for students in the field of entomology is Popenoe. Some societies claim both faculty and student members as does Phi Lambda Upsilon, to which only chemistry majors are eligible. And for those interested in the science of mathematics there is Pi Mu Epsilon, while high-ranking women in English courses may become members of Phi Alpha Mu.

In addition to these organizations, there are the language clubs and societies devoted to character development and scholarship.

The various organizations sponsor several events during the school year to secure money to maintain the club, and very often to send delegates to state or national conventions. Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi publish a humor magazine, the Wampus Cats and Purple Pepsters may sponsor a student dance, or sell tickets to a show. All the groups are active.

LOOKING AT TEXT books in front of Kedzie Hall is this group of students. General Science students trek to Kedzie for most English and journalism classes.

K-CLUB MEMBERS and their dates dance to the music of Matt Betton, Kansas State's own band leader. It's the club's annual frolic.

STUDENTS OF SPANISH gather around Prof. Cornelia Crittenden at a meeting of the Spanish Club. They are probably studying a Spanish newspaper.

Two National Journalism Groups

Two professional journalistic organizations have active chapters on the Kansas State campus. Women journalism students deem it a high honor to be invited for membership into Theta Sigma Phi and men reporters have a strong local and national group in Sigma Delta Chi.

The purpose of the organizations is to unite journalists in an effort to create harmony and an era of good feeling among members of the Fourth Estate.

Kickapoo, campus humor magazine, is sponsored jointly by Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi. This was the first year of publication for the magazine. The outstanding achievement of the women's organization this year was the sponsorship of the "sob-sisters ball" while SDX was host to several renowned journalists.

Al Makins headed SDX and Jean Gibbs was "Theta Sig" president.

Harmony in Music and Business

A national honorary society for women musicians is Mu Phi Epsilon, and admittance into the organization is based upon scholarship and musical ability. Its purpose is to advance music in America by maintaining high standards in appreciation. This year, the local chapter was inspected by Bertha M. King, national president, and in the spring, members presented their annual recital in the college auditorium. Helen Hammell was president this year.

With the hope that students of business administration might profit by the advice of successful businessmen and become acquainted with members of their profession, the Commerce Association was organized. For this purpose, out-of-town speakers are brought to the monthly meetings and an inspection trip is made to Kansas City each year. Prof. C. R. Thompson is faculty sponsor and Bob Tindall was president this year.

They Further Art and Science

HONORARY organizations, of which Kansas State has more than its share, serve to spur students in various curricula to greater achievements and higher scholarship. Selection is based on grades, activities, and character.

Meetings every other week and an annual banquet are among the activities of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce organization.

The change in title this year of the curriculum of commerce to business administration was brought about by Alpha Kappa Psi, which was established on this campus in 1926.

Robert Tindall was president this year, and C. R. Thompson was the faculty advisor. President-elect of the organization is Bernard Nash. New members were elected to the society this spring.

Discuss Insect Study

Members of Popenoe, professional and social club, met regularly to discuss their original research and that of others in insect study.

Several social events and picnics were planned this year as a means of furthering contact between the faculty and members of the organization.

This year A. E. Curtis headed the group, named for Prof. Edgar H. Popenoe, former head of the department of entomology at Kansas State.

Prof. Don Wilbur was the faculty sponsor.

Designed to promote fellowship among girls in the Division of General Science, Phi Alpha Mu is open to women students with high scholastic records in English courses.

The organization, headed by Helen Peterson, each year honors the junior girls with the highest scholarship.

Again this year, Phi Alpha Mu had the highest scholastic record of any campus organization.

Honor High Scholarship

One of the newer honoraries on the campus is Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics society. Founded on this campus in 1935, the organization is composed of graduate and undergraduate students and faculty members who have achieved high scholastic honors in the Kansas State mathematics club.

Pi Mu Epsilon, whose purpose is to encourage scholarship and mathematical development, was sponsored by C. F. Lewis, and W. C. Janes was president.

Several worthwhile activities are sponsored by the society each year.

Promoters of Chosen Interests

FOUR OF KANSAS STATE'S most unusual honoraries are Phi Delta Kappa, Industrial Arts Club, Phi Epsilon Kappa, and Phi Lambda Upsilon. Each organization limits its membership to those of a particular profession. This basis of membership creates harmony.

Phi Epsilon Kappa, national professional fraternity for men physical education students, bases its choice for membership on scholarship. Each semester the club joins with women physical education members in various social functions.

The local chapter, established in 1930, was headed this year by Leon Reynard. Prof. L. P. Washburn was faculty sponsor.

Give Scholastic Awards

Both faculty and students belong to Phi Lambda Upsilon, honorary organization for chemistry majors. For membership, one must show promise and leadership in the field of chemistry. Two students are honored for scholastic achievement each fall at a banquet given by the society for freshman chemistry majors.

Dr. C. W. Colver sponsored the group, which was headed by Carroll Owensby.

Kansas State claims the distinction of having one of the three chapters of Phi Delta Kappa, professional educational fraternity, located at state colleges. Most of the national organization's membership of 20,000 is found in universities.

The local chapter was founded in 1922, and since its installation has initiated 350 members.

Members Are Teachers

The society, which selects its members from college and public school faculties, bases its choice on scholarship, interest in education, and also on personality as fitness for teaching. Dr. C. V. Williams headed the organization this year; Dr. O. W. Alm was faculty sponsor.

A comparatively new organization on the campus is the Industrial Arts Club, sponsored by Prof. M. R. Wilson. An outgrowth of the department of industrial arts which was established three years ago, the group chooses its members from upperclassmen in the department on the basis of scholarship and character.

This year Fred Carman was president of the organization, which stresses preparation for participation in the modern industrial world.

Ag's Stage Little

BESIDES staging various meets for agriculturalists and the Ag Barnwarmer, Ag students outdo themselves each year to make their annual livestock judging show the "best ever."

This year more than 100 college youths fitted and showed 150 animals in the Little American Royal. Ribbons were given the winners in each class, and two large trophies were presented to the winners of the two divisions.

Staged in the stock pavilion, this year's K-State Royal saw Maynard Abrahams receive the cup in the Block and Bridle division before a record crowd, while Clayton Davis was awarded the Dairy Club trophy.

Winners are selected on the basis of improvement they have made in the animal and their ability to show it in the ring.

Royal Stock Show

of Agriculture is the Horticultural Show each fall. This year it was held in connection with the Nurserymen's Meet.

Under the direction of Bill Lobenstein, the two-day event featured outstanding speakers in the field, floral displays, and other exhibits of interest to plant growers, including a complete collection of insects detrimental to Kansas crops.

Ags Versus Vets

Not authorized as activities by college officials, the annual Ag-Vet fight and the yearly Ag ducking are none-the-less a part of every Ag's fun. The week preceeding the Ag Barnwarmer each student in the division is required to wear overalls. If one of his fellow students catches him without the requested costume, the hapless Ag is ducked in the watering tank provided for the occasion.

The rivalry between the Vets and the Ags is a thing of long standing on the campus, and seems to grow more intense each year. This year enraged Vets pelted Ag boys arriving at the Barnwarmer with vegetables, and the Ags returned the same.

On Basis Of Scholarship

MEMBERSHIP in Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural organization, is based on character, personality and leadership. New members are elected once a semester from upperclassmen in the Division of Agriculture who stand in the upper two-fifths of their class in scholarship.

Alpha Zeta's main purpose is to promote the interests of agriculture. In addition to meetings held twice a month, the members further their objective by awarding a gold medal to the Ag freshman who makes the highest scholastic average. This year the medal went to Floyd Smith.

Additional activities of the organization are a stag banquet in the fall, publication of an annual news letter, and a smoker and dinner-dance each spring.

The local group, the only chapter in Kansas, was established in 1909. Alpha Zeta is the honor society of the Division of Agriculture and students deem it a high honor to be selected for membership.

Kenneth Porter was this year's president.

They Strive for Ag Betterment

An organization for animal husbandry majors is Kansas State's Block and Bridle Club. Headed during the first semester by Marcel McVay, the club each year sponsors the Little American Royal Livestock and Dairy Show during Farm and Home Week. Other yearly activities include sponsorship of student livestock judging contests and a home economics meat identification contest.

Students and faculty members of the agronomy department find common interests in the Klod and Kernel Klub. Their spirit of fellowship in promoting the study and growth of agricultural products is climaxed each spring with a crop judging contest. President Ray Cudney was in charge of the group first semester. Several social events for the year were on the calendar.

In Spirit Of Fellowship

Nearly ninety students enrolled in the curriculum of agricultural economics or in agriculture with a major in economics are members of this year's Agricultural Economics Club.

Meetings were held twice each month. Students, faculty members, or guest speakers were chosen to lead group discussion of some phase of economics with emphasis on agriculture. This year tours were arranged by club members for Farm and Home Week visitors.

However, business is not the only concern of the Ag Ec club. A smoker and picnic were included in the list of the year's activities so that students might know each other better and the spirit of harmony and friendship might be furthered.

Officers for the year were John McCoy, president; Evans Banbury, vice-president; Milton Manuel, secretary; and Kenneth Jameson, treasurer. Dr. W. E. Grimes, head of the department of economics and sociology, is faculty sponsor of the organization.

To promote interest in horticulture and better understanding between students with the same major, students and faculty members of the department are organized into the Horticultural Club. Under the faculty sponsorship of Prof. R. J. Barnett, members of the "Hort" Club met twice a month to talk over their problems and learn to know each other better.

Officers this year were George Cochran, president; Ray Keen, vice-president; Mary Kennedy, social chairman; and Ralph Beach, secretary-treasurer.

The Dairy Club is an organization of student dairymen interested in the welfare and betterment of cattle and dairy products at Kansas State.

Activities for the year included the sponsorship of the dairy cattle show at the Little American Royal, school dairy judging contest, and the state high school dairy cattle judging contest held here.

Cecil Robinson was president this year. Other officers were Bill Mudge, vice-president, and Ralph Bonewitz, secretary-treasurer.

Only Milling Honorary In World

ALPHA Mu holds the distinction of being the one chapter of the only honorary milling fraternity in the world. Membership in this exclusive organization is limited to millers with a high scholastic standing and pronounced ability and who have been in the department a year. At the annual Alpha Mu smoker an award is given the outstanding freshman miller. This year Donald DuBois received the honor.

Listed among the activities of the organization are an annual banquet in the spring, publication of a news letter which circulates to all alumni, and the milling of flour for the needy families of Manhattan at Christmas time.

Boasts Prominent Members

Although only six years old, the group boasts many prominent members, including Dr. C. O. Swanson, former head of the department, who holds the Thomas Burr Osborne medal for outstanding work in the field of cereal chemistry.

Students in the department of milling automatically become members of the Milling association, which, like Alpha Mu, is a distinctive organization whose purpose is to create harmony and good fellowship among its members.

Every two weeks the group hears some person from outside the department speak on subjects pertaining to the milling industry. In addition, the association sponsors a football and a softball team. Their annual get-together is a picnic in the spring.

A Group of Winners

Glenn Busset this year heads the Sears Club, organization for students who have scholarships awarded by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

The scholarships are awarded to outstanding high school graduates who, by their agricultural achievements and high scholarship, have distinguished themselves.

The local Sears Scholarship club was founded in 1937 by the first group of boys to receive this honor.

Approximately forty students now are members of the club, which lists among its activities the publication of the Sears Spur, a news letter.

Members meet at regular specified times to discuss their agricultural problems and to become better acquainted with one another.

4-H Is Largest Campus Group

A MEMBERSHIP of nearly 400 is the boast of the Collegiate 4-H Club and among other varied activities, members find time to publish a yearbook which is distributed to clubs throughout the state. This year, for the first time, color will be used on all the division pages.

The book, under the editorship of Gwen Romine and Glenn Kruse, will go to some 1,600 persons during the annual round-up on the campus in June. The publication contains activities of the collegiate club as well as information for other clubs. Walter Campbell was the assistant editor, Jack Bozarth, business manager, and Ethel Avery, assistant business manager.

In addition to the round-up, the club was host to the state Rural Life Association convention in March. Manford Mansfield was president during the past year, Hobart Fredrick was vice-president, and Grace Kellogg was secretary-treasurer.

Most of the members of the college organization were active 4-H clubbers before coming to Kansas State. They continue their work here.

Look to Home

A GIFT of ten dollars to the freshman girl who is outstanding in scholarship in the Division of Home Economics is only one of the worthwhile projects undertaken by Omicron Nu, national honorary home economics' society. Admittance to this organization is offered to junior and senior women who are in the upper five per cent, scholastically, of their respective classes.

In addition to recognition given the freshman girl, Omicron Nu presents a small sum of money to some foreign student attending Kansas State. The members also sponsor tutoring of home economics students, and teas for freshman girls and alumna.

Maintain Lending Library

Their newest projects are the maintenance of a lending library for the general use of students, and an art collection from which senior girls may check out objects for their rooms. Officers this year were Elnora Thomas, president; Maxine Bishop, vice-president; Vivian Anderson, secretary; Luella Siek, treasurer; and Genevieve Schier, local editor of the national magazine. Miss Alpha Latzke is sponsor of the Home Ec organization.

Advise New Students

Working in close collaboration with other home economics organizations is the executive council and the freshman counsellors. The first is a group of girls to give advice and handle the executive affairs that may come before them. Jessie Collins was president and Jane Dunham, vice-president.

Freshman counsellors are a group of junior and senior girls selected to aid in the orientation of new girls on the campus. In the spring, the counsellors attend a training school under the leadership of Miss Margaret Raffington. The following fall, they hold individual conferences with the freshmen.

A TEA IS SERVED (upper) in Calvin Hall by students of home economics. And the students themselves take part.

Vet Course Is Exclusive

FEW professions are so filled with opportunities that the graduating students find it a major difficulty in choosing one of several jobs. But that is the case in the Division of Veterinary Medicine at Kansas State.

The field is kept free by a limited enrollment—only sixty new students are admitted each year into Kansas State's veterinary division, one of the better of ten colleges in the United States offering courses in veterinary medicine. This selective process has been successful in eliminating the below average students, resulting in a high standard of scholarship. Many a fraternity scholastic average sees the light of day only through the efforts of their "vets."

An Active Group

Students enrolled in the Division of Veterinary Medicine have an organization of their own, the Junior chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association. Popular with the students in that the semi-monthly sessions are well attended, the Jr. A.V.M.A. is a combination of literary, professional, and social activity group.

Among the speakers at meetings this year were

Dr. J. S. Hughes of the college chemistry department, who talked on "vitamins"; and Major Tuttle of the U.S. army from Ft. Riley, who lectured on the "Examination of Horses."

Officers the first semester were William E. Smith, president; Horton K. Howard, vice-president; Bernard Bushby, secretary; Albert Mitchell, treasurer; Edward J. Mahler, marshal; and Karl Knoche, critic. Second semester leaders were Theodore Beard, president; Robert Lank, vice-president; Clifford Lemen, secretary; Carter Anthony, treasurer; Karl Knoche, marshal; and Robert Erickson, critic.

Strictly for vets and their dates, the Jr. A.V.M.A. sponsors two parties each year—the fall "Javmarack" and the semi-formal dinner-dance in the spring. No queens are presented.

Grant Several Awards

Prizes are offered to the best students in physiology, therapeutics, pathology, efficiency, and pet animal medicine. The winners of these awards are announced in the spring.

A clash with "Ags" is an annual activity—but it is not an A.V.M.A. sponsored event.

Provide Social Functions

Religious groups maintained by Manhattan churches for college students hold various social functions throughout the year. Ranging from picnics in the fall and spring to dances in the winter, the entertainment proved popular with students.

In Religious Fellowship

APPROXIMATELY 670 girls enjoyed the benefits of Y.W.C.A. during 1939-40 both spiritually and socially. Erma Murray, executive secretary and new at K-State this year, with the executive council, Jean DeYoung, Ruth Johnston, Dorothy Axcell, and Marjorie Breneman, have successfully guided YW in its various activities.

This included Aggie Pop, college sister work, weekly radio programs, student and world forums, Christmas bazaar, and retreats.

Jean DeYoung was president of the group.

The Y.M.C.A. afforded advantages of social companionship and religious fellowship to 400 young men this year. With "Band Day" as its major project, the YM also sponsors the annual fall watermelon feed and football kick-off, Saturday night dime dances, all-school mixer, employment bureau, information service, and Y-Orpheum.

Dr. A. A. Holtz is executive secretary, and Joe Robertson served as president during the 1939-40 school year.

Ralph York is the new YM president.

Two Nights of Fun

Y. W. C. A. sponsored Aggie Pop, annual fall stunt night, featured four organizational and five individual competitive acts in "The South American Way."

Tri-Delts and Sig Alphs took the cup in the organization class and Merlin Gustafson won the short act. In the YM staged Y-Orpheum in the spring, I.S.U. and the Alpha Xi's carried off first place honors.

CHI OMEGA'S "Confidentially Peru" (lower, left) featured a trio of hula-hula dancers. Irl Yeo and Vernon Rector (below) gave a rendition of an "Aztec Urn Dance" that made a hit with the crowd.

PRIZE-WINNING ACT in the long act division of Y.M.C.A. sponsored Y-Orpheum was staged by the Independent Student Union in "Telemania" (above).

A NONCOMPETITIVE stunt was put on by Prof. Edwin Sayre's glee club, with the assistance of Don Pricer, who played the title role of "Old King Cole" (right).

WINNERS OF THE short act division were the Alphi Xi Deltas who satirized Anthony and Cleopatra in the production, "Dark Victory" (below).

Various Denominational Groups . . .

The Congregational Good Fellowship Society includes weekly discussion groups, Sunday night vesper services, and social parties in its inclusive program to provide recreation and inspiration to college students.

All Congregational students are eligible for membership in the organization, which was headed this year by Velma McGaugh, and sponsored by the Rev. T. B. Lathrop, pastor of the local church.

Organized by the Rev. and Mrs. J. David Arnold, Kappa Beta, national sorority for Christian women, was established in 1914.

The group, which consists of about thirty-five members, holds meetings twice a month to hear lectures by well-known church workers, and take part in discussions on religious and social problems.

Floreine Langenegger was president of Kappa Beta this year.

... Are Organized at K-State ...

More than 200 Catholic students attended mass, communion, and breakfast in a body one Sunday a month during the school year. This is the record of the Newman Club, Catholic student organization.

Discussion of social, educational, and spiritual problems, led by Father E. J. Weisenberg, group singing and business of the club, were the topics taken up at the meeting following the breakfasts.

On the social side, the Newman Club sponsored several dances, hikes and picnics for both the spring and fall seasons.

Advisor for the group was Father Raymond Menard.

Episcopal students on the hill are members of the Wise Club, an organization that encourages students to join so that they may become better acquainted with each other and enjoy the benefits offered by the club.

Approximately forty members of the club were present for the Sunday night fellowship suppers and programs.

First semester officers were John Hopkins, president; Keck Kimball, vice-president, and Fernando Armstrong, secretary-treasurer.

Club sponsors are Emma Hyde, Dorothy Barfoot, Russell Beers and Rev. C. R. Davies.

. . . They Provide the Student

To establish and maintain a friendly relationship among the girls of the Baptist church in social and religious activities is the objective of Theta Epsilon. The sorority is one of nine national chapters. President is Lucille Mollhagen with Luella Siek, Clarice Gosney, Helen Tipton, Ruth Baldwin, Deborah Sharp, and Irma Popp, the other officers. Meetings are held every first and third Tuesday evening.

"Saturday Nites," hikes, picnics, and Sunday evening social hours and discussions make up the program of B.Y.P.U. student organization of the Baptist church. The officers of the organization, sponsored by Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Holtz, are president, Ormond Breeden; vice-president, Allen Smoll; secretary-treasurer, Deborah Sharp; and social chairman, Luella Siek. Allan Ayres and Irma Popp head the two Bible classes.

With Spiritual Education . . .

"Knowledge and Service" is the motto and meaning of Gamma Delta, organization of Missouri Synod Lutheran college students. Every other Sunday night a supper is served to the forty active members after which a discussion and business meeting is held. Officers of 1939-40 were Glenn Kruse, Rowland Kruse, Merton Rietzke, Clarence Frese, and John Frohn. The Rev. H. H. Frohn, pastor of the Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, acts as faculty sponsor.

Every Lutheran student on the campus is welcome to participate in the Lutheran Student Association activities. The aim of the society is to build up a national and international fellowship of Lutheran students. Active members number forty-five. Officers for the year were Marjorie Windhorst, Vernon Peterson, Marcella Hobbie, and Emory Levin. Sponsors are the Rev. Phillip Ekblad, Inez V. Ekdahl, and Dean Cederquist.

... The Benefits Are Many ...

THERE IS ONE group of activities that will always play an important part in the life of college students, and that includes the clubs and organizations that are formed to aid them by means of religious mediums.

It was with this thought in mind that members of the Presbyterian church in Manhattan realized the need of church societies devoted entirely to men and women of college age.

Established Two Groups

Shortly afterwards, they established Phi Chi Delta, an organization for college women, and Phi Alpha, a similar men's group. Then the Rev. W. V. "Bill" Guerrant was employed as student pastor and the Westminster Council was set up as an advisory board.

It is at the Westminster House that the meetings and social activities of these two organizations are held.

Iota chapter of Phi Chi Delta now has a membership of fifty-seven persons. Its purpose is to further social opportunities for these girls and to unite them in closer fellowship. A dinner meeting is held each month, in addition to a regular business meeting.

Study New Vocations

This year, the theme selected was "Exploration," and the meetings were devoted to investigating the new fields and vocations that have been opened to women.

The Reverend Guerrant is well known in Manhattan and Aggieville, as well as on the campus. An office in the Illustrations building is provided for the convenience of students to go in and visit with "Bill," as he is commonly known.

One of the main features of the Presbyterian functions was the Easter sunrise service and breakfast in the church hall which followed. The service was held a week previous to Easter because students were home on vacation Easter Sunday.

Mrs. W. U. Guerrant is the sponsor, and Mrs. W. H. Andrews, honorary patroness. Other patronesses are Mrs. B. H. Ozment, Mrs. Bert Cameron, Mrs. E. S. Dardin, and Miss Jessie McDowell Machir. Officers were Grace Kellogg, president; Betty Lou Titus, vice-president; Lois Morgan, secretary; Olga Knapp, treasurer; Jane Hastings, reporter; Marjorie Spurrier, historian; Irene White, chaplain; and Nannette Sexson, guide.

Social Functions Promoted

Although the primary purpose of Phi Alpha is to bring about a closer fellowship among young men of the Presbyterian church, the membership is not restricted to this denomination. Phi Alpha, too, tries to promote social functions for college students. At the dinner meetings, held once a month, faculty members or out-of-town guests are invited to be speakers.

The Reverend Guerrant is sponsor of this organization, and officers this year were Roger Ghormley, president; Warren Grubb, vice-president; and Warren St. Pierre, secretary-treasurer.

FOUR PRESBYTERIAN students are "talking it over" at the breakfast in the church hall following a sunrise service. The services are popular with students.

... And All Are Always Welcome

APPROXIMATELY 1,800 students are members, or give as their religious preference, the Methodist church. There are three student organizations, the largest being Wesley Foundation which includes all Methodist students. The Foundation sponsors several activities, one of them being Wesley League, which meets each Sunday night at the church, followed by a "Fireside Chat" at Wesley Hall, at which every-day problems confronting young people are discussed.

Cafeteria Successful

Of outstanding success was the student-sponsored cafeteria which served nearly 200 persons every Sunday night, with no dishes costing more than three cents. An orchestra directed by Charles Horner, a cappella choir directed by Bueford Roper, and a dramatic society under the direction of Ray Hopkins presented several programs.

Kappa Phi, national organization of Methodist college women, has a membership of eighty. The Kansas State chapter is Iota, and is one of twenty-six in the United States. With their sponsor, Mrs. B. A. Rogers, they meet every first and third Tuesday evening.

Especially looked forward to is the formal "Patroness Banquet" given by the six patronesses. Initiation exercises are conducted at this time.

An annual project of Kappa Phi is the Christmas dinner at which the elderly ladies of the Odd Fellows home are guests. Officers this year were president, Martha Emery; vice-president, Margaret Owen; recording secretary, Lorraine Dickerhoof; corresponding secretary, Ruth Keys, and chaplain, Norma Wunder.

To Develop Leaders

"To develop leaders in the church, both as laymen and professional workers," is one of the objectives of Phi Tau Theta, Methodist young men's club. Meeting the second and fourth Tuesday of each month, the group of thirty active members and eight pledges, combine a social period with educational discussions. The organization is national with Kansas State's Lambda chapter having been installed in 1937. Ernest Leive, president, is national chaplain. Their major project this year was the printing of "Philo," national publication of Phi Tau Theta. The Rev. B. A. Rogers is sponsor.

Other officers besides President Leive include Lloyd Brown, Paul Edwards, Bob Nixon, Glenn Pribbeno, and Ralph Peery.

Reverend Rogers maintains an office on the campus where he comes in closer contact with the students in an effort to be of service to them.

Sponsored By

DESIGNED to afford entertainment and inspiration to all Kansas State College students are the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. In an effort to attain the highest goal in both fields the two organizations each year feature a variety of parties and programs, bringing nationally known speakers to the campus.

In the way of fun, the Y.M. started off the year a "kickoff" held in the stadium, at which freshmen and upperclassmen got acquainted over quantities of watermelon. Jack Gardner, new head basketball coach, was introduced to the students.

Girls Hold Party

Y. W. girls also held a "get-acquainted" party the first of the year. Big and little sisters met in the gym to play games and listen to a program arranged by the cabinet officers.

Goods from foreign countries and candy made by big sister groups were sold at the Y. W.-sponsored Christmas Bazaar. A cosmopolitan atmosphere pervaded recreation center as State students chose presents for the "folks" from the many interesting articles displayed.

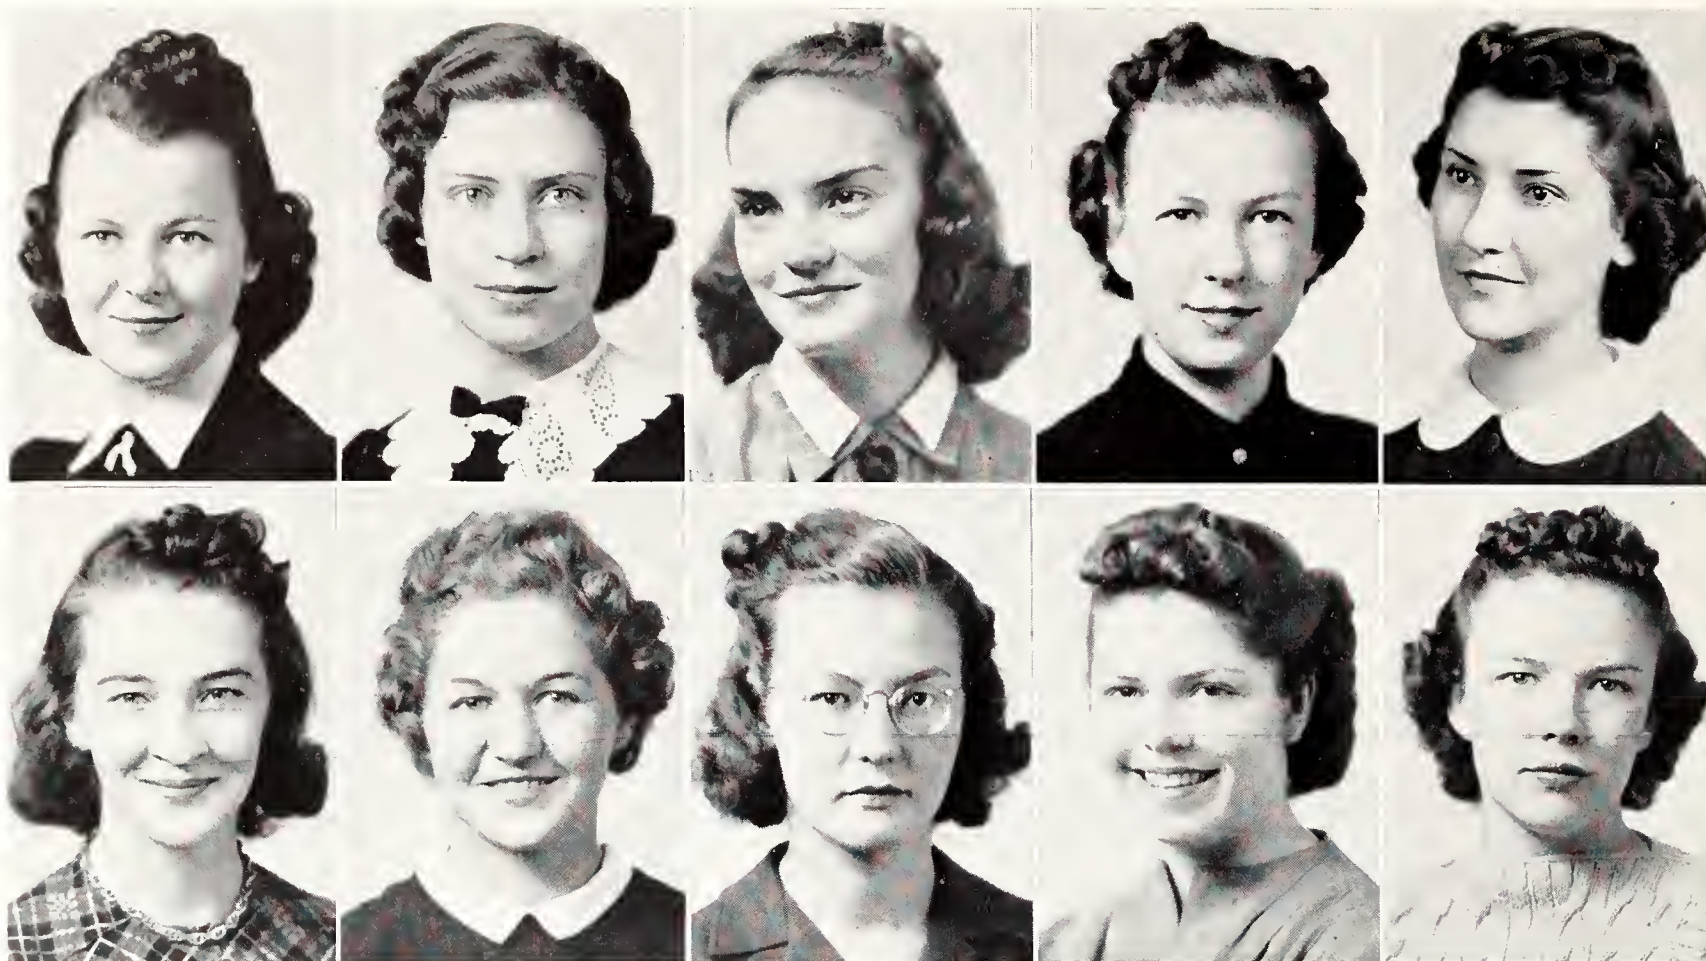

Along more serious lines, the two organizations sponsored the annual Christian World forum. Among the outstanding speakers at the Forum were Dr. Charles R. Watson, president of the American University of Cairo, Egypt, and Dr. Alexander Paul, executive secretary of the Christian Missionary Society. The Rev. Ernest Kennan of Ames, Ia., and Dr. Byron Lamson of Greenville, Ill., also spoke to various groups.

These men granted interviews to students seeking advice on personal problems and held roundtable discussions on questions pertaining to college students.

First semester: Leora Fencil, president; Vivian Anderson, vice-president; Blossom Rose Vaughn, secretary; Betty Lou Titus, treasurer; Manette Sexson, social chairman; Doris Kittell, sports chairman.

Second semester: Kathleen Porter, president; Manette Sexson, vice-president; Barbara Enlow, secretary; Ernestine Sutter, treasurer; Helen Jackson, social chairman; Doris Kittell, sports chairman.

Van Zile Hall was a scene of merriment when the girls invited their "best boy friend" up for the annual formal party.

Dorm for Women

SITUATED in the far northeast corner of the campus, Van Zile Hall remains as the only women's dormitory at Kansas State. Named after the present dean of women, Mrs. Mary P. Van Zile, it was built in 1927 to accommodate approximately 130 girls, and long waiting lists of prospective residents are kept in the dean's office.

One of the reasons that the dorm is so popular is because of the co-operative system of living that has been worked out there. For only thirty hours work a month, girls may earn part of their expenses by cooking, cleaning, serving, and doing other duties. This work is supervised by seniors in institutional management, who are required to live in the dormitory for one semester. Thus, the system also serves as a practical research laboratory.

The Van Zile coeds have their own hall dances and formal parties as well as "open-houses" in the fall.

A Student Union

The Independent Student Union, Kansas State's largest and most popular social organization for independent students, boasts a social home for the benefit of those who wish to join.

Approximately 250 students headed by President Irl Yeo, were active I. S. U. members during the school year. The group sponsored beauty queen candidates, intramural activities, entered an act in "Y" Orpheum, and took part in other school activities.

Membership in the organization is obtained by paying an annual fee of $5.00. Membership dues pay for the upkeep of the I. S. U. house located at 1334 Fremont. Members are always welcomed at the house between three and nine-thirty every day except Friday and Saturday when the house is kept open until midnight.

Hold House Dances

Major social activities include two dances each semester outside the house, and a house party once every two weeks. Each Wednesday night is known as "kitchen night" when certain members are chosen to prepare lunch for the others who engage in various games, play cards, dance, read, or take part in a conversation.

Officers this year were Irl Yeo, president; Paul Dickens, vice-president; George French, first semester treasurer; Lynn Davidson, second semester treasurer; Alma Henry, secretary; Helen Pilcher, council member at large; Bill Black, intramural chairman; and Velva Peffly, social chairman. Resident chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Munn, and faculty sponsors included Dean Mary P. Van Zile, Kathleen Knittle, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jorgenson.

Frosh Houses...

AN INNOVATION in the lives of freshmen girls was the formation last year of a group of organized houses, called "Freshman Cottages."

This year there were six such houses with an average membership of ten. Each house selected its own officers, and also formed a coalition which provided for joint discussions of the problems of the various groups, and a semi-formal party in December.

The Freshman Cottages gave girls, new on the campus, a more home-like atmosphere, the chance to have closer friendships, and many of the advantages of an organized house.

The organizations, which were encouraged by college authorities, were chaperoned by Manhattan women in whose homes they lived.

Aloha Cottage, the oldest group from the standpoint of organization, elected these officers: Merry Carroll, president; Beth Bridgeford, reporter; Marjorie Grant, secretary.

A supper dance for a similar boys' house, and a spring formal were among the activities of the girls in Kearney Kottage. Betty Lou Wiley was president of the house, and other officers include Jeanne Parcels, secretary-treasurer; Velma McCall, reporter, Wilma Stroup, vice-president.

Officers at Casa Alba included Gloria Spiegel, president; Norma Lee Herold, vice-president; Leah White, secretary-treasurer; Idel Van Beber, reporter.

At the close of the first semester, Casa Alba cottage was disbanded, although the officers and girls still maintain an organization.

Independent Students Organize

Independent organized political machines gained headway last fall with the acceptance by the Faculty Council, of the Independent Students Party as an official campus organization.

Gaining of the present status climaxed three years' effort on the part of barb leaders. Independents first became politically unified in 1937, but until last October had not been officially recognized.

The constitution, approved by virtue of work done by Frank Rickel and William Hickman, co-chairmen of the group elected last spring, provides for a senior council whose maximum of twenty members are selected from the various divisions, and a freshman council which is made up of those students who receive nominations in the frosh election each fall. The two councils collaborate in determining Independent political policy and in selecting nominees for the primary elections each spring and fall.

Velva Peffly replaced Hickman as co-chairman, upon his resignation in January.

Sponsor Parties

INDEPENDENT students have several organizations on the campus which provide them with social activities. The Independent Student Union has been organized for three years. It maintains a house where students may dance and entertain themselves in other ways. Organized this year were several independent houses which were in turn organized into a central group called the Roman Council. This group sponsored several dances.

Social functions of various kinds were also sponsored by several of the independent houses. They danced to music in Recreation Center and entertained at open houses.

Students not affiliated with fraternities and sororities at Kansas State have definitely organized for their well being.

PARADE OF TALENTS

One must have something "on the ball" to be an actor, a debater or orator, radio announcer, musician, judger, beauty queen, or even an editor.

PEOPLE often wonder why so many of us go to college. Maybe we can get at the answer this way: Would you be so eager to come back year after long year if there were no music, no drama — nothing but grinding hours of study, dry lectures, and tough examinations? Think . . . what makes life—in college and out—bearable? What but the contemplation and creation of beauty . . . the product and exercise of talent?

Extra-curricular activities at State provide a wide field for the exercise of talent. For those whose abilities run to the histrionic, the Manhattan Theatre with its squad of actors offers ample opportunity to develop and display such ability. He of the silver tongue can find his joy in the activities of the debate squad and oratorical associations. Those aspiring to national hook-ups may get pleasure and commercial training in the radio school and station KSAC.

Others whose fortunes lie in their throats cultivate their art through the music department's glee clubs for men and women. To the boy or girl with nimble fingers, the department offers a place in the college orchestra and band, where he may fiddle or bow to his heart's content. Several musical programs for the benefit of the student body are sponsored by the department each semester.

In every society are some who like to write about the society — the journalists and literary artists. Here again the college has provided. A student newspaper, yearbook, three departmental magazines, technical pamphlets, and even an all-school magazine give the scribbler opportunities for developing writer's cramp. The shirt-sleeved, wild-haired cub with his pad and pencil is a familiar species of campusite. Ye various eds sit perspiring behind their desk-propped feet and moan incessantly at the plethora of useless copy. The Royal Purple editor has an especial responsibility — beauty queens! The custom is for him to shove the headache upon some hapless movie actor or commercial artist. This works very well—he keeps his own neck in and the lucky girls can say, "Wow! Don Glamour thinks I'm good-looking!"

There's always the man who isn't satisfied to merely eat an apple, but must assure himself that he couldn't be eating a better one. In consequence we have judging teams—livestock, fruit, meat, and what will you have? State's judgers manage to carry away a nice basketful of trophies every season, which should indicate that our critical faculties are all there.

So from creation to criticism, the theory and practice of art, science, and skill are demonstrated yearly in a parade of talent.

DIRECTOR OF the college band and conductor of the orchestra, Prof. Lyle Downey is a well-known campus figure.

They Fill the Air

FIVE HOURS of rehearsal each week help to form Kansas State's best-known musical organization—the college band.

Students who visited the auditorium at five o'clock Mondays through Fridays of this year received object lessons in tuneful teamwork. They watched individual musicians tune horns and reed instruments, then fuse under Lyle Downey's direction to play stirring martial music.

Each fall, band members march between halves of home football games in familiar blue and gray uniforms, fill time-out periods with music played from a new $1,200 bandstand. Spring activities include a series of outdoor concerts at the quadrangle by the fifty-member concert band.

Led by Conductor Lyle Downey, the 110-member marching unit journeyed to Lawrence November 3 to entertain at the National Cornhusking Contest and the annual Wildcat-Jayhawk gridiron battle.

Smaller units made up of band members include the brass sextet, woodwind quintet, and French horn quartet. Impromptu pep bands at basketball games and track meets serve to keep the college band-conscious throughout the year.

Band officers this year were William Muir, president; Clayton Chartier, vice-president; Bueford Roper, business manager; Richard Bullock, treasurer; and Channing Murray, freshman representative.

Many Voices in Choral Ensemble

H EARD at many outstanding musical events are the members of Kansas State's choral ensemble. One of three major musical organizations on this campus—the other two are the college band and the college orchestra—the choral ensemble is made up of members of the three college glee clubs.

The outstanding activity of the ensemble during the fall semester was its collaboration with five vocal soloists and thirty-five members of the college orchestra to present Bach's Christmas Oratorio as a Yuletide observance. The spring semester found the individual glee clubs joining with the college band to entertain some of the 1,600 Kansans here early in February for the seventy-third annual Farm and Home Week. A "King Cole" stunt by members of Prof. Edwin Sayre's women's glee club was a Y-Orpheum feature this spring.

Restore Old Tradition

The choral ensemble devoted much time this spring to preparing a performance of "The Pirates of Penzance," a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. This preparation was undertaken with a view to restoring a Kansas State tradition by which some opera or operetta was offered each spring as a music project. Works given in spring performances in former years include "The Mikado" and "H. M. S. Pinafore" by Gilbert and Sullivan, and Michael Balfe's "The Bohemian Girl."

Hold Many Rehearsals

Rehearsing as a single choral unit each Monday night, the ensemble is divided into three smaller glee clubs one evening each week for more intensive practice. Under Prof. William Lindquist's direction last fall were the seventy-three members of the men's glee club. Prof. Hilda Grossman directed a sixty-member women's glee club, and Prof. Edwin Sayre directed a second women's glee club of 100 members.

Accounted a major activity for fraternity and sorority members, glee club membership, like membership in the college band and orchestra, may carry with it a one-half hour scholastic credit each semester.

In addition to these major group activities, many music students who participated in group activities also appeared as soloists in afternoon and evening recitals presented by the music department.

MEMBERS OF the string trio are faculty members Prof. Max Martin, John Morrison, and Prof. Lyle Downey.

STUDENTS of a realm governed by Beethoven, Brahms, Wagner, and masters of modern symphonic music are the fifty-five members of the college orchestra. Rehearsals under the direction of Prof. Lyle Downey gives members an intimate knowledge of the structure of modern concert music as strings join brass, woodwind, and percussion to create the full-toned voice of the modern orchestra.

This winter the orchestra joined with the glee clubs to present Bach's Christmas Oratorio. A spring concert and commencement appearances round out orchestra activities for the year.

Chamber music is played by the string trio. Made up of faculty members, it gives several recitals.

POSED ON THE STAGE OF THE AUDITORIUM ARE THE FIFTY-FIVE MEMBERS OF THE COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

ASSEMBLED IN the College Auditorium are members of the musical group which presented Bach's Oratorio. Prof. William Lindquist is the conductor.

Added Events

TRADITIONAL Christmastide offering at Kansas State this year was Bach's Oratorio.

Under Prof. William Lindquist's conductorship, it was presented on Sunday evening, December 17, by thirty-five members of the college orchestra, a student chorus of 215 voices, and five guest soloists. Instrumentalists supporting Concertmaster Max Martin were Prof. Charles Stratton, pianist, and John D. Morrison, organist.

A large crowd of students, faculty members, and townspeople were present for the Oratorio.

Vocal soloists were Mrs. Charles V. Gundy and Geraldine Gundy, sopranos; Hilda Grossman, contralto; Edwin Sayre, tenor; and Darwin DeYoe, bass.

Vocal entertainment in a lighter vein is offered by the Four Flats quartet often heard on KSAC programs. Mavis Plattner is the accompanist.

LOOKING OVER a sheet of music are members of the Four-Flats quartet. They are Allen Edgar, Irl Yeo, George Eberhart, and Vernon Rector (seated).

MAYBE H. Miles Heberer (above) is smiling over the success of the four excellent plays he directed for the Manhattan Theatre this season.

Theatre Lures

LOOKING BACK on the 1939-40 season, Manhattan Theater actors and audiences will have pleasant recollections of good times with comedy, farce, melodrama, and poetic tragedy. Knowing his Kansas State audiences well, Director H. Miles Heberer chose his four plays with an eye toward pleasing these spectators.

The season opened with Jesse James story, "Missouri Legend," which was essentially comedy, with elements of melodrama.

One a Satire of Washington

"Love From a Stranger," the second play, was a tale of love, horror, and violent death. The season's third play was widely different from the other two, having a Washington setting, written in Kaufman's best high comedy style.

Maxwell Anderson's "High Tor" added a touch of poetic nostalgia to the successful group.

Student Actors

Interesting for its characterizations, costumes, and local color, Elizabeth Ginty's "Missouri Legend" was well received as the "ice-breaker" of the Manhattan Theater season.

Jesse James (Richard Mall) was the central figure in the story which concerned his loaning money to the Widow Weeks (Marianna Kistler) to pay her mortgage, and immediately robbing the collector (Leo McIlvain) of it.

Jesse James Dies

One of the best moments of the play was Jesse's funeral scene, in which his best friend, Billy Gashade (Don Pricer) mournfully sang the Jesse James song. Ann Steinheimer, who played Aunt Belle, joined in on the chorus, as did the Widow Weeks.

Principal supporting roles were played by Lucille McIntosh, as Jame's wife, Keith Thompson, Neal Jenkins, Burks Sherwood, and Robert Williams.

MEMBERS OF the "Missouri Legend" cast (above, upper) do not appear cheered by their "jam session," held before the performance. Heberer gives Pricer, Kistler, and Mall (above, lower) a few pointers in regard to playing their roles.

THAT BEARD on Dick Mall's face looks as if it grew there. Mall is discussing plans for a train robbery with Neal Jenkins, Victor Blanks, and Burks Sherwood, as a feature of the Jesse James' attraction.

Players Stage

MARIANNA KISTLER (below) shows Milton Kaslow the door, as Mildred Limb and Roberta Harrill look on. This is a scene from "Love From a Stranger."

Just another boy-meets-girl story, was what "Love From a Stranger" appeared to be in its first act, the boy being Bruce Lovell, played by Don Pricer, and the girl, Cecily Harrington (Marianna Kistler).

The atmosphere of mystery developed in the third act was heightened by the shadowy lighting used in the scene which kept the audiences tense, while a battle of wits ensued between the principal characters. The hero had become a villain who planned to murder the heroine in cold blood.

Comedy Is Prevalent

Outstanding in minor roles were Mildred Limb, who was responsible for most of the comedy in the play, and Milton Kaslow as the other man. Bette Roth did a nice bit as the naive country maid, and Keith Thompson made Dr. Gribble one of the most alive characters in the play.

The kind of comedy written by George S. Kaufman is always well liked by Kansas State audiences, and his "First Lady," written in collaboration with Katherine Dayton, was no exception.

Four Productions

The plot centered around the feud between two jealous women in the political circle of Washington—Lucy Chase Wayne (Virginia Ray) and Irene Hibbard (Martha Baird). Both women wanted to put their husbands in the White House, and verbally cut each other's throat every time they were within speaking distance.

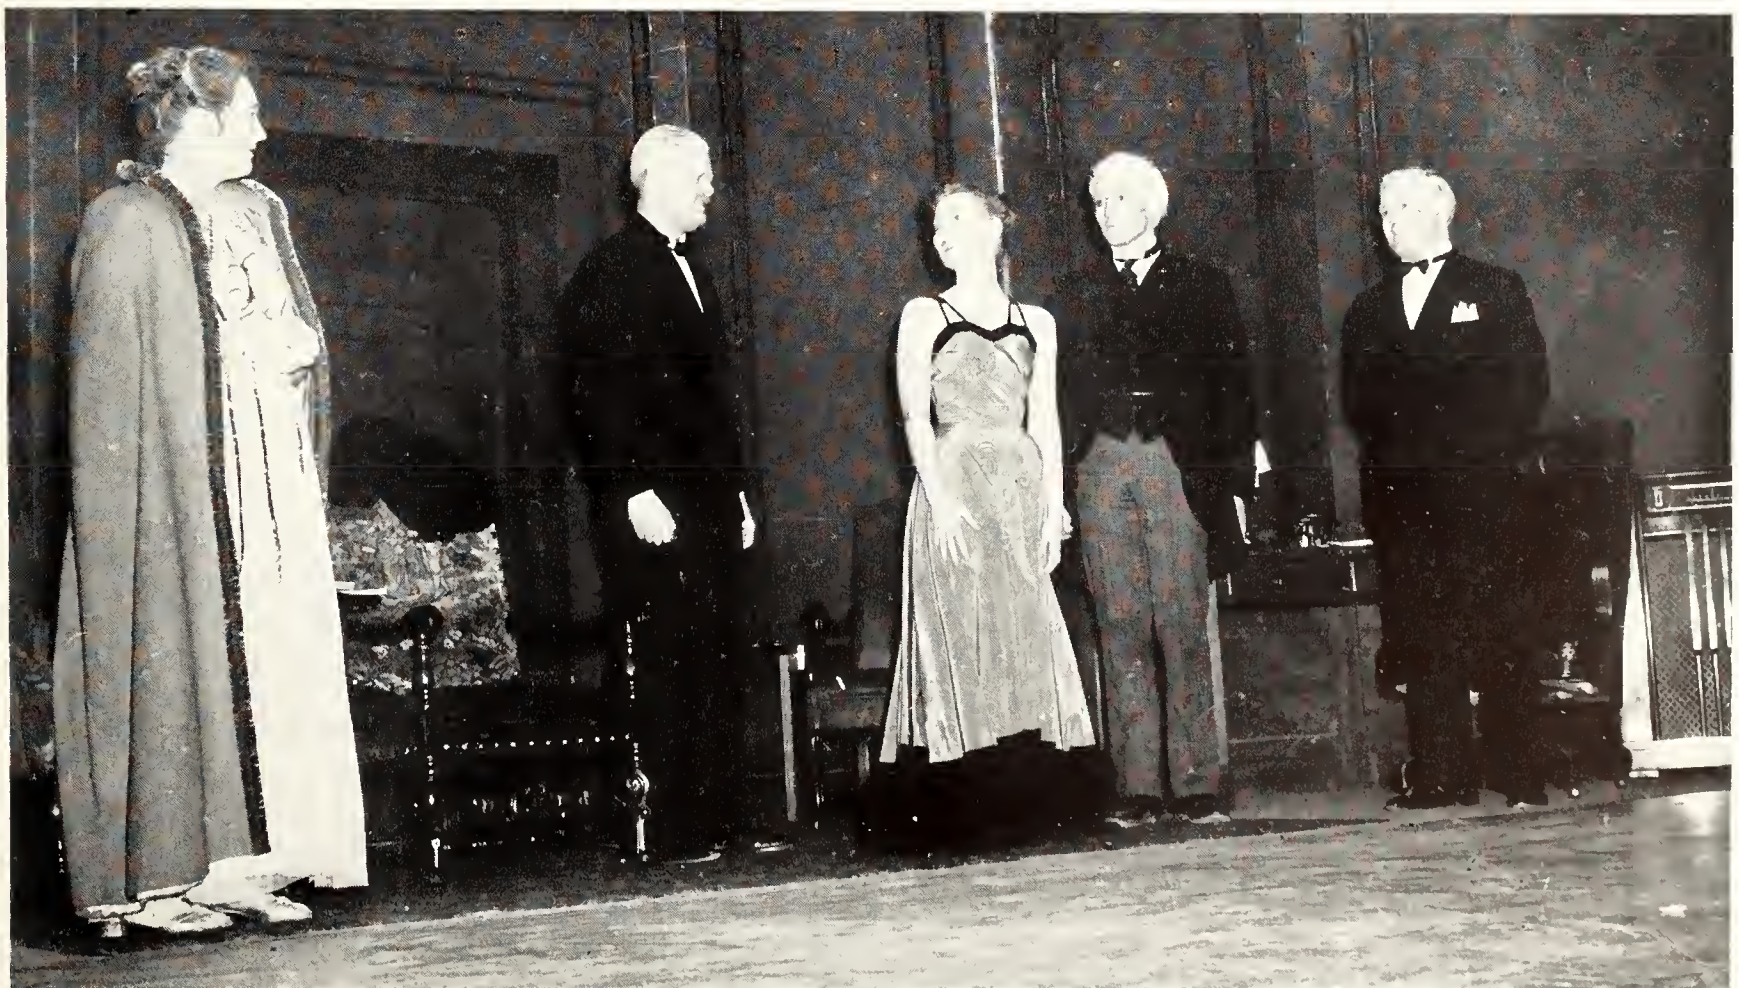

Darolyn Johnsmeyer brought down the house with her mad Mrs. Creevey. Mary Dillin had an opportunity to be as southern as she liked with Emmy Paige. The leading men's roles were played by Keith Thompson, Neal Jenkins, and Burks Sherwood. The play was a big success.

Manhattan Theatre obtains funds for the productions from the student activity fee. Students are admitted free to the performances. Because of the limited seating capacity of the College Auditorium two performances are usually given.

THE RECEPTION scene (above) is a scene from "First Lady." Those present are Darolyn Johnsmeyer, Virginia Ray, Lois Aldous, and Milton Kaslow.

Voices Echo

DEBATE COACH NORMAN C. WEBSTER and oratory coach Howard T. Hill get together in Dr. Hill's office to talk over their prospects and possibilities.

MERRILL PETERSON, freshman, outspoke several of the more seasoned orators to win the right to represent K-State in the Missouri Valley Oratorical contest. The meet, held this year at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, was won by Peterson over six other contestants.

Frank Rickel was our ambassador to the Senator

Capper trophy contest at Topeka where he was well received with his oration.

One of Coach Howard T. Hill's orators who spoke for the school was Mary Margaret Willis. Miss Willis was chosen to deliver her oration at the Kansas State Peace Association contest at McPherson.

Sponsor Inter-Society Contest

Another feature sponsored by the public speaking department is the annual inter-society oratorical contest. This year's event was won by Martha Wreath, a member of the Browning society. Second place in the event was awarded to Paul Smith, representing the Hamilton group.

Dr. Hill's choice for extempore speech representative at the Missouri Valley meet was Franklin Flynn. He accompanied Peterson to Arkansas for the event.

Most of Kansas State's speakers are members of Pi Kappa Delta, forensic fraternity. Bill Keogh was this year's president.

In Forensics

K-State's debaters took part in many contests on several different subjects this season. Under the direction of Coach Norman C. Webster, the glib speakers participated in debates on radio, at civic club meetings, and against other schools.

The major trip of the year was taken early in April when Bill Hickman, Frank Rickel, Bill Keogh, and Tom Trenkle, accompanied by Coach Webster, made an extensive tour of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana. The principal debates on the tour were against Arkansas University, Texas University, and Texas A. and M.

Debate Various Subjects

The various subjects debated on this season included "The Third Term Question," "A College Grad With an Annual Income of $1,200 Should Get Married," "Isolation of the United States," and "The Government Should Have Control of the Railroads."

REPRESENTATIVES of the four literary societies in the inter-society oratorical contest are shown preparing for the contest. Seated are Mary Ellen Hull, Paul Smith, and Martha Wreath, winner. Standing is Roy Freeman.

Those honored for outstanding debating at the annual recognition day assembly were James Hamburg, Alma Henry, Bill Hickman, James Hoath, Bill Keogh, Merrill Peterson, Frank Rickel, Tom Trenkle, and Mary Marjorie Willis.

Voice of the College

RADIO STATION KSAC, operated by the College, is a by-word in many Kansas farm homes because through the college extension service, advice on crops, homemaking, and other items of interest are broadcast to rural listeners.

Besides serving as a means of communicating extension programs, the station serves as a laboratory for students in radio at Kansas State. Students with a minor in radio broadcast the news twice daily. Courses in radio writing and presentation are offered by the public speaking department and journalism department.

This year KSAC celebrated its fifteenth anniversary with a special program and a birthday party attended by college officials and those persons who had participated in the first broadcast.

JIM CHAPMAN, KSAC radio announcer (upper left), reads the latest news and crop forecasts to interested farmers throughout the state while Ellen Warren (left) informs farm women the latest developments in home economics. She also conducts musical programs.

ROY SWAFFORD picks out the tune while Bob Summers, Ann Steinhimer, Dick Mall, Bill Hickman, Jack Adams, and Kay Lovitt join in on the chorus.

Judging Teams Rate Honors

KANSAS STATE judging teams are recognized, wherever college judges meet, for their consistent excellent showings and high honors. Trophies and plaques awarded them indicate their efficiency; newspaper clippings and pictures strengthen their claims for recognition.

Championship judging does not lie in an innate ability to select the best dairy cow, hen, or ear of corn as many "I told you so's" would make believe. Nor does "luck" play any part in the entire operation. It's not that simple.

Have Preliminary Courses

In learning to judge, a student must be able to apply whatever he has studied concerning his particular field. Preliminary courses in identification and classification are pre-requisites in his training; basic and advanced courses in judging are important essentials. Equally important are sound logic and judgment, quick and lucid thinking, and clear and concise expression.

As a result of the strong competition, aspirants must buckle down to real work in the classroom and during actual practice judging. Many of them have the aid of 4-H Club vocational agricultural experience in establishing a background for judging proficiency. Many have won high school championships.

The final tryouts climax weeks and months of study and long days of anxious waiting. Tryouts always bring on the "jitters" for the judging team candidates as much as it does for candidates to athletic and debate teams. But after the dust of excitement has settled and the trials have been completed, Kansas State once more has the makings of a potential championship team.

Attend Various Meets

Long trips to various meets, acquaintances with college and professional champion judges, and the opportunity to annex another trophy for the Alma Mater are the rewards team members receive.

Lest we forget, behind the excellent showing of each team are the untiring efforts of the coaches. They are looked to for guidance. Their experience, training methods, and ability in handling students are a contributing factor to good teams.

Carrying on where other Kansas State teams finished, the apple judging and women's meat judging teams earned trophies for top honors in competition. The latter obtained permanent possession of the National Livestock Meat Board trophy by winning the third successive American Royal Meat Judging and Identification Contest in Kansas City.

One reason that Kansas State judges consistently win honors in meets all over the nation is because of the diligent practice sessions conducted in the classrooms. Too, practice judging contests are conducted at various times during the school year to give the student judge an opportunity to test his ability before entering into inter-school meets.

IN PERMANENT POSSESSION of Kansas State is this trophy bull, won for three consecutive years by the livestock judging team.

This Year... As Every Other Year...

Placing second at the International Livestock Judging Contest at Chicago and third in the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, the Livestock judging team, on a total point basis, ranked first among seventeen college teams competing in both contests, giving them a mythical national championship rating.

Twelfth place in the tenth annual Dairy Products Judging Contest in San Francisco, Calif., was awarded the dairy products team in competition with thirteen other state agricultural colleges. On this trip, the team visited the Golden Gate Exposition which featured the contest as part of its program.

...K-State Judges Were Recognized...

Competing with ten other college judging teams at the twentieth annual Intercollegiate Poultry Judging Contest in Chicago, the Kansas State group placed fifth. Enroute to the international contest, team members visited the poultry departments of the University of Missouri and the University of Illinois.

Dairy cattle judges participated in two contests during the school year. Their first trip was to the Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Ia., where the team placed eleventh in all-breed judging. The second trip took them to the National Dairy Show on Treasure Island in California. The Kansas State group ranked fifteenth in this meet.

... Wherever College Judges Met ...

The Kansas State Home Economics Meat Judging Team extended its perfect record to seven successive years by winning all contests this year. In addition to gaining permanent possession of the American Royal trophy, the K-State girls also won the first place cup in taking the Mid-West contest in Wichita, placing 1-2-3 in each meet.

Second place in the International Livestock Meat Judging contest at Chicago and sixth ranking at the American Royal in Kansas City were the honors which came to the Men's Meat Judging Team of Kansas State. Jessie Collins, the only feminine member of the team received a plaque of recognition for top ranking in the beef judging contest.

MEN'S MEAT JUDGING TEAM—Prof. D. L. Mackintosh, coach, George Cochran, Eugene Watson, Jessie Collins, Stanley Winter, Beverly Stagg.

...As Consistent Winners of Honors

Kansas State's Crops Judging team competed in two contests during the past year, the Kansas City National Collegiate Grain Judging contest and the International Hay and Grain Show in Chicago. The team placed fourth in both contests. The Chicago Chamber of Commerce awarded State's team a $100 scholarship for the Tri-K unit student loan fund.

Apple Judging team members added two more trophies to their collection by capturing individual and team honors in a contest at Tulsa, Okla., with the University of Missouri and Oklahoma A. and M. College. William Ackley was the State team member awarded the trophy for high individual honors.

Coach of the team is Prof. G. A. Filinger.

ACTING HEAD of the department of journalism since January 1, has been Prof. E. T. Keith. He has served many years as a professor in the department and is an expert photographer as well as teacher.

Student Press

THE POWER behind the Kansas State College press is the Board of Publications, composed of three students, Dorothy Ann Uhl, Dick Mall, and Robert Lake, and three faculty members, Prof. E. T. Keith, acting head of the journalism department, Prof. R. R. Lashbrook, and Prof. H. W. Davis.

The selection of editors and business managers of the various publications and the determination of the policies of the press are the chief duties of the committee.

Banquet Is Highlight

The annual publications banquet held at the Country Club in the spring is the high point in every journalist's year. It is then that the awards are made to students who do outstanding work on the publications.

This year gold keys went to thirty-eight students for their work on the Collegian and Royal Purple. Collegian awards were presented to Roy Fisher, Carl Rochat, Roy Swafford, Jack Thisler, Jim Kendall, Jennie Marie Madsen, Jim Cooper, Harley Thompson, Dick Mall, Harry Bouck, Herb Hollinger, Mary Jean Gretnier, Ivan Griswold, John Williams, Murray Mason, Eddie Mauck.

Is Powerful

Those students honored for their work on the Royal Purple included Joe Robertson, Byron White, A. L. Duckwall, Ralph Evans, Bill West, Faye Clapp, Al Makins, Marjorie Rogers, Don Makins, Mary Anne Pafford, Gilbert Carl, Victor Blanks, Bob Clendenin, Jack Thisler, Gene Poggemeyer, Betty June Doan, Jim Stockman, Jan Goble, Margene Holmes, Don Thackrey, Marjorie Jacobs, and Hurst Majors.

Graduate Manager 'Tops'

Graduate manager of the campus all-school publications is C. J. Medlin, familiarly called "Mex." Having graduated from Kansas State himself and being a former editor of the Royal Purple, Mex is a tower of strength as he gives advice and assistance to student journalists. Aided by Margene Holmes, he directs the publishing of the student directory, the distribution of the Collegian and the yearbook, keeps the books balanced and the files straight, and in addition handles the national advertising in both the Collegian and the Royal Purple.

Medlin is also business manager of the Kansas Magazine, taking care of the circulation as well as the "books."

GRADUATE MANAGER C. J. Medlin is not only an efficient publication overseer but is an extremely popular figure among the students with whom he comes in contact. Having lived in Mexico, he is familiarly called "Mex."

CLIMAXING THE YEAR for outstanding journalists is the Publications' Banquet each spring. Well-filled plates, humorous speeches, and the presentation of honors, make the affair one which is long remembered by those who are invited to attend.

AS BUSINESS MANAGER of the yearbook, Joe Robertson handled the advertising, supervised office work, and kept the books reading "out of the red."

GATHERED IN the Royal Purple office in Kedzie Hall are members of the business staff getting pages of advertising ready for the printer. They are Bill West, Joe Robertson, Al Duckwall (standing), Byron White, and Ralph Evans.

Royal Purple

By the Business Manager

PRODUCTION of a Royal Purple is "big business."

It entails a printing job so large that only a few presses in the country can handle it; it requires enough pictures to keep four photographers busy; the engraving contract is one of the largest of its kind; and the paper and ink used in the production of the book runs into tons!

Thousands of dollars secured from students and advertisers, and thousands of hours of work are needed to produce the yearbook. If one man were to attempt the job alone, he would have to live a century to complete his Herculean task.

We wish to acknowledge the excellent cooperation of the staff in fulfilling our responsibilities. The splendid advice of C. J. Medlin was a "life saver" many times, and the services of Byron White, Al Duckwall, Ralph Evans, Faye Clapp, Bill West, and many others were excellent. We have attempted to maintain the highest standards of quality in the materials and workmanship and hope the book meets your approval.

Wins Honors

By the Editor

EDITING a yearbook is not all fun. There's work connected with preparing 452 pages of printing; and there's plenty of headaches. But with the work and woes is a sense of satisfaction . . . a feeling that you are creating something which will live long . . . longer than you, perhaps.

Photographers snap pictures . . . you line them up. Cuts are ordered from the engraver . . . you order the size. You check copy; read proof . . . check and re-check. It's a long list.

But you don't do it all. Impossible! "Mex" Medlin was indispensable. His advice was "tops." Then there was Margene Holmes who handled plenty of details; and Don Makins and Marj Rogers who worked long evenings with me; Mary Anne Pafford who ably edited the toughest of all—classes. And I'll not forget Jan Goble, Betty June Doan, Gib Carl and Marj Jacobs. Nor the work of Gene Poggemeyer, Bob Clendenin, and Jack Thisler. Vic Blanks was my specialist too. There were others . . . plenty of them . . . and they all did their share.

ROYAL PURPLE Editor Al Makins used natural color pictures in the yearbook for the first time. He aimed at another All-American award.

weary hours typing names and copy . . . the editor and his assistants labored with an eye on the calendar as each deadline neared.

Gilbert Carl, F. J. Hanna, E. T. Keith, and photographers from the Studio Royal continually snapped pictures. At the basketball games, dances, and even in classes they took snapshots to make the annual a vivid representation of college life.

Begin Another Book

Also, it is an endless circle, for no sooner were all the pictures for this book in than Gib started out in search of shots for next year's Royal Purple.

With a record of three Pacemaker awards and last year's All-American rating behind them, the staff realized the necessity of cooperation to achieve another honor.

This, and the satisfaction of a job done to the best of their ability explains why sleepy students spent all Saturday morning or their vacant eight o'clocks writing copy or filling in receipts.

The printing of the 1940 Royal Purple was done by the Capper Printing Co., Topeka; the engraving by Burger-Baird Engraving Co., Kansas City.

IN THE PROCESS of checking some of the book work connected with publishing a yearbook are members of the office staff. They are Patty Collard, Margene Holmes, Harlan Larson, Kay Lovitt, Mary Anne Pafford, and Nancy Marie Snyder.

HOLDING A CONFERENCE in regard to a picture negative are Gilbert Carl and Prof. E. T. Keith. They take all sport and snapshot pictures used in the Royal Purple.

Arranging for 4,000 pictures, indexing 3,000 names, writing 400 pages of copy, in addition to making arrangements for twenty-five pages of advertising were just a few of the tasks confronting the Royal Purple staff.

On the business side, thirty students spent their spare hours filling in receipts for pictures, and in the spring worked on the tedious job of indexing.

Write Copy Pages

The editorial staff busied itself with writing countless lines of copy about campus activities and personalities. Obtaining their information from organization sponsors, publications, and from interviews with club members, these writers wrote on everything from "ice cream making" to character dancing. This truly tested their versatility.

Nights found Al and his gang working late to meet the next deadline . . . busy section editors enlisted the services of their boy and girl friends who spent

Collegian Records

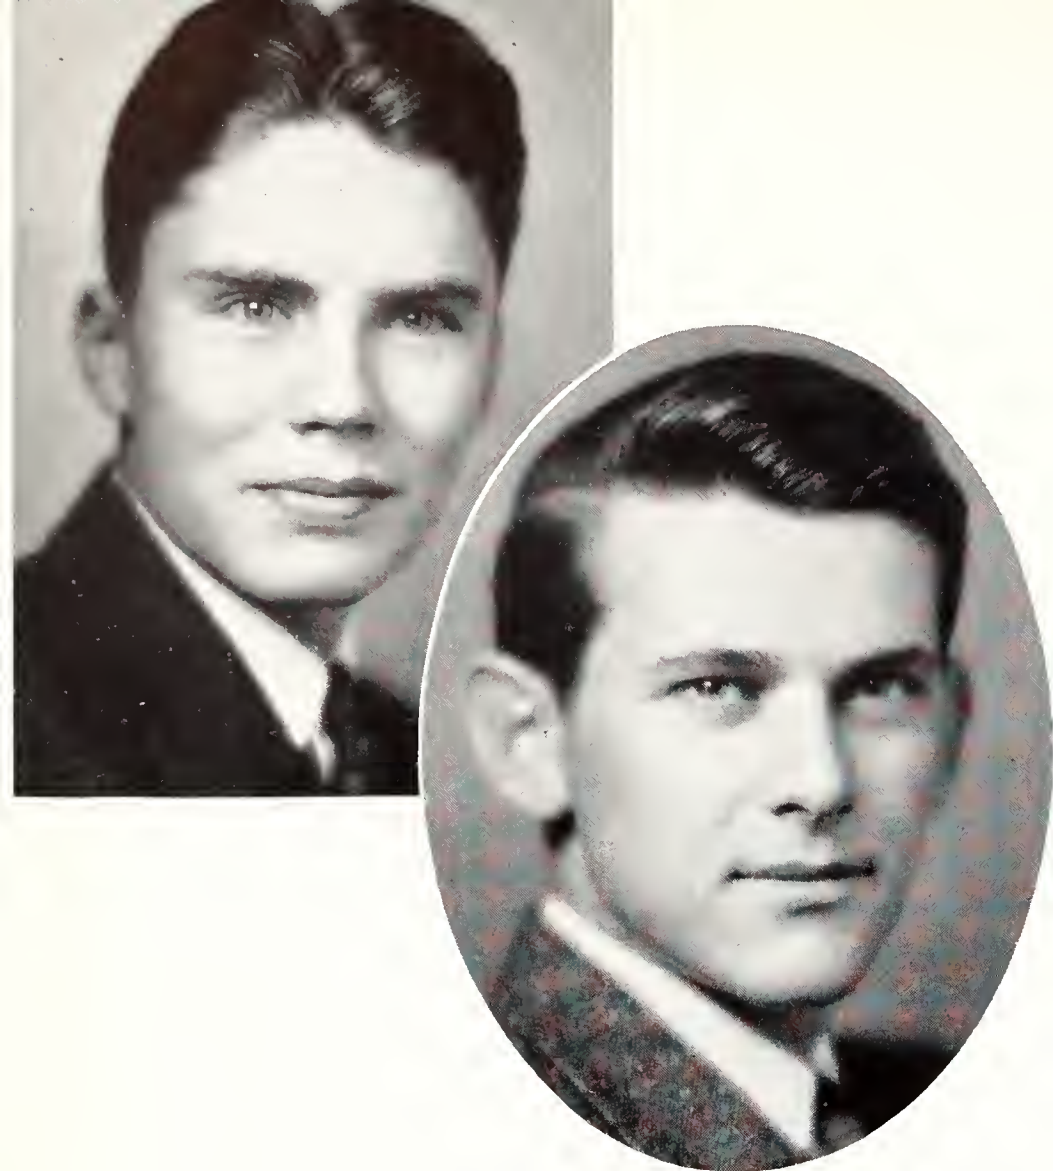

A WALK through Kedzie Hall on any Monday or Thursday afternoon will convince you that it takes more work to put out the Collegian than it does to read it. Those "guys" and "gals" that you see dashing in and out, yelling, or pounding the typewriters are embryo journalists striving to get enough copy published to pass some journalism course. Of course a few of them are staff members who are striving to get enough work out of the reporters to fill the Collegian for the following day.

Work at Night Too

In case you still remain unconvinced you might visit the downtown office on that same night and watch the staff members write the headlines, prepare the copy that has been turned in, write the last minute stories and read the proofs. The next day one of the staff goes through the paper and marks all the mistakes. This marked paper is put up on the wall of the Collegian office to aid reporters in finding what they did wrong.

Even then you are figuring without the business staff. The business manager and his advertising assistants spend the afternoon getting ads from the Manhattan and Aggieville merchants. At night they draw layouts for late ads, contact last minute advertisers and read proof on all the ads. These men are responsible for 70 per cent of the income of the Collegian.

Editors Have Assistants

Roy Fisher, editor of the Collegian for the first semester, had as his assistants Carl Rochat and Roy Swafford. Jim Cooper was the business manager. Assisting him were Harley Thompson and Eddie Mauck. Second semester Editor Carl Rochat was aided by Jim Kendall, Harry Bouck and Glenn Williams. Business Manager Ivan Griswold had as his assistants Eddie Mauck, Murray Mason, John Williams, Bob Gahagan, and Margaret Mack.

must determine the policy of the paper, furnish assignments to reporters, decide what goes in the paper, and place the stories as to importance. He is responsible if anything goes wrong. There is no censorship on the paper and he may conduct any campaign he wishes. Part of this burden is handed over to assistants and special editors of sports, society, features, etc. In matters of major importance the editor usually calls a conference of the assistants. Graduate Manager C. J. "Chief" Medlin is always willing to advise the editor concerning perplexing problems.

Sports and Society

Most important of the special editors are the editors of society and sports. The sports editor is responsible for the sports page in each issue and the society editor is usually in charge of the back page. Together with their assistants these staff members cover and take charge of all news that falls within their special fields. Except in the case of important football games, the sport news is kept on its special page.

EDITORIAL STAFF members supervise the work of the reporters and see that the paper gets to press. In the Collegian office are Harry Bouck, Jim Kendall, Roy Fisher (standing) and Carl Rochat.

Columnists a Secret

Every year the writers of the various columns on the editorial page of the Collegian attempt to keep their identity a secret, but always the news leaks out. Dick Mall, who uses his middle name for a pen name, is the author of the column, "Maybe I'm Wrong, But——" by Merrill. Writer of the first semester column, "My Say by Eleanaw," was Mariana Kistler. "Once Over Lightly" is the product of the fertile brain of Don Makins.

The columns do not necessarily represent the attitude of the Collegian on the matters involved, but are entirely the opinion of the writers. Whether these opinions agree with the rest of the campus or not the columns are probably the most widely read feature of the Collegian. Many students turn to the column before reading the front page news.

The official attitude of the Collegian is expressed in the editorials. The attitude of the college students are given in the letters to the editors which are printed on the editorial page if the writer of the letter signs his name.

post. The staff is completed by a representative from each department in the division.

Picturing students in the division and various agricultural projects, the magazine carries feature articles by Kansas State "Ags" and news items about the students in that division. Articles on professional agriculture are also included.

Distribution Is Wide

Six hundred of the 1500 copies printed go to instructors in agriculture in Kansas vocational schools and Kansas high schools teaching vocational agriculture courses.

Everyone in the agriculture division receives a copy of the publication and many graduate students keep up their subscriptions after leaving school.

Assistant Dean C. W. Mullen is the faculty sponsor of the Ag Student, which is financed by the student seminar fee and from advertising.

The magazine is seven by nine inches in size and usually contains about sixty pages.

Judged Best In Nation

JUDGED the best all-round engineering college magazine in the nation, the Kansas State Engineer was awarded first place for last year by the Engineering College Magazines Associated. This engineering publication, representing the Division of Engineering, competed with magazines from such universities as the University of Michigan, University of California, University of Illinois, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was also awarded first place for the best cover and third place for illustrations.

IN THEIR OFFICE in the Engineering building, Editor Jim Stockman and Business Manager Robert Teeter talk over plans for a new issue.

This year the staff of more than sixty members under the direction of James Stockman, editor, and Robert Teeter, business manager, have incorporated several new organizational, editorial, and business ideas in order to build the publication up to the standards of a commercial publication. Circulation this year has increased approximately twenty-five per cent.

Managed by Students

Unlike some other divisional publications, the Engineer is edited, managed, and published entirely by the students of the Division of Engineering. The magazine for a large part is self supporting. Advertising, both local and national, and an apportionment from engineering seminar fees furnished the operating funds.

The Engineer, published eight times throughout the college year, completes its twenty-first year. This year has seen the forming of the survey staff, which collects an accurate student reader survey of what the engineering students like and dislike about each issue. Because of the rapid growth of the editorial and business staffs, it has been necessary to create a new job, that of personnel manager.

Humor Magazine Makes Campus Debut

IVAN GRISWOLD (left), Walt Dawley, and Don Makins stop to read a joke outside the Kickapoo office.

KICKAPOO, Kansas State's student humor magazine, made its first appearance on the campus with one issue last spring. This year co-editors Dick Mall and Don Thackrey took charge of the monthly publication sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, journalism fraternities for men and women, respectively.

Kickapoo caused quite a "stir" on the campus in an early issue this year when it sponsored a "biggest heel" contest. Ten candidates were chosen by students, but because of "circumstances" the winner was not determined.

Griswold Business Manager

Business manager of Kickapoo first semester was Ivan Griswold with Marjorie Rogers in charge of circulation. Walt Dawley and Don Makins replaced Griswold and Rogers, respectively, second semester.

A joint faculty and student advisory board composed by Prof. Hillier Kriegbaum, Prof. Helen Hostetter, Jean Gibbs, and Carl Rochat censored each issue before it went to press.

Special Editions

LISTING all Kansas State students, their curricula, addresses, and telephone numbers is the task of Margene Holmes, assistant to C. J. Medlin. Each fall she alphabetizes the lists, and checks for errors. The Kansas State College Directory also contains the SGA constitution, a directory of campus organizations, and the schedule for the year. This year more than 4,500 copies of the publication went to the faculty, townspeople, and students.

The Kansas Magazine, edited until December by Prof. C. E. Rogers, features the stories, poetry and art of Kansans. Published yearly by the Kansas Magazine Publishing Association, the magazine sold more than 3,000 copies last year.

Have New Editors

Designed to further Kansas culture and self-expression, the publication will be edited in the future by Russell Thackrey, new head of the department of industrial journalism. Prof. R. W. Conover served as editor in the interrim.

members John Helm, E. T. Keith, C. J. Medlin, Helen Hostetter, and Robert Conover.

Business Manager of Kansas Magazine is Mr. Medlin who handles all finance and the circulation.

Biggest achievement of the Kansas Magazine Publishing Association this year was the publication of "John Brown," a play by Kirke Mechem, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society. With a cover design by John Stuart Curry, the book was released to the public in October.

KIRKE MECHEM, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, autographs copies of his new book, "John Brown," while C. J. Medlin, Ruth Maxine Dvorak, R. W. Conover, E. T. Keith, John Helm, Mary Blackman, Helen Hostetter, and C. E. Rogers look on.

RALPH LASHBROOK works on news bureau releases while Mary Blackman and Eleanor Osborn do the typing. Margene Holmes replaced Miss Blackman following her resignation last spring.

Provide Publicity

THE KANSAS INDUSTRIALIST, weekly newspaper published by the journalism department, enables college authorities to keep in touch with the alumni and provides a means of informing them of campus happenings.

The paper celebrated its sixty-fifth anniversary April 24 with a special edition.

E. T. Keith served as acting editor second semester, with Helen Hostetter, Ralph Lashbrook, Hillier Krieghbaum, and George Hart as associate editors. Alumni news was written by Kenney Ford.

Release Campus News

The College News Bureau, directed by R. R. Lashbrook, is responsible for publicity concerning students, activities, and the accomplishments of Kansas State which is sent to newspapers in this area.

Assisting in getting K-State in the news are Mary Blackman and Eleanor Osborn.

PROF. HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM, Prof. Helen Hostetter, and Mary Jean Grentner scan an issue of the Industrialist.

Beauty Reigns for a Night

THE FOUR most beautiful Kansas State College coeds were selected by Errol Flynn, screen star, for the 1940 Royal Purple. Mr. Flynn made the selection from photographs sent to him of twenty-seven candidates—two from each sorority, with one exception, three from I.S.U., and two by petition.

All publicity was sent to newspapers with the announcement of winners only after the ball. Even the candidates were kept in suspense until the big night.

More than 400 persons crowded the Community House ballroom January 5 to witness the presentation of K-State's Queens and applaud the selection of the blond movie star.

The results of the judge's decision were kept in a sealed envelope until the night of the Royal Purple Beauty Ball. A broadcast during the ball described the dance, introduced campus personalities and was climaxed with the presentation of the beauty queen and her three attendants.

As the moment approached for the unsealing of the envelope the crowd gathered about the stage to hear Mr. Flynn's decision as to the four coed beauties. Presentation was made in reverse order—the name of the beauty queen being withheld to the last. The chosen four were presented with flowers and each said a few words to the radio audience.

Al Makins

Dear Mr. Makins:

I have marked the backs of the pictures in green ink as per my choice, but assure you it was no easy task to perform. Judging contests from photos is usually unfair to many of the contestants who aren't chosen, as beauty is more than just a pretty face and figure. It goes deeper, much deeper, as I believe one's beauty lies mostly in the individual's personality. However, the choice had to be made from photographs, and I have done my best to be fair.

I'm sorry not to be able to supply you with a photo of myself, selecting the winners as you requested, but by the time the picture could be developed and passed by the censor, your 'deadline' would have been passed.

Very sincerely yours,

Errol Flynn

HERO OF MANY "hits" in the picture world, Errol Flynn is the idol of many American women. His interest in Kansas State's beauty contest was gratifying.

RANKS AND RIFLES

The campus is "army" conscious as some 1,200 men don olive-drab once a week and take part in maneuvers in the way of "gun-toting."

ONE, TWO, three, four — one, two, three, four—one, two, three—the long ranks of olive-drab file past their proud cadet officers. The drummer's rattle comes up—fades away—comes back again. Shouted commands float across the drill field. Guidon carriers race to position—the blue and red flags flutter as one company after another snaps to "Present Arms."

Quoting from the College catalogue—"This College is one of the beneficiaries of the act of Congress of July 2, 1862, known as the Land-Grant College Act." By this act, all colleges receiving land grants from the federal government are required to offer military science and tactics as part of their curriculums. The State legislatures decide whether the course shall be compulsory.

At present, the R.O.T.C. unit of Kansas State is organized as one regiment, divided into two divisions—infantry and artillery. Students from the Division of Engineering and Architecture, and from the departments of industrial chemistry and milling industry take artillery. General Science and Agriculture students enroll in infantry, unless they have had certain mathematics courses, in which case they may take artillery if they wish.

Of every able-bodied male student who is a citizen of the United States is required two years of basic training, unless he enters K-State with junior ranking. After the two years basic, he may enter advanced training, with the approval of the Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Col. Carl F. McKinney is head of the department of military science and tactics, superseding Colonel Kingman who retired last year. He has a staff of seven commissioned and three non-commissioned officers. For basic students, this staff handles one hour of classroom and two hours of drill work each week.

The sweating rookie considers the band lucky in this respect. The band member has only one hour of walking each week, spending the other hour blowing his horn. However, were you to ask a band boy he would tell you he had the hardest job of all and he might be right at that. It's no mean trick to keep ranks dressed while fingering a difficult musical piece.

There are two military fraternities on the hill—Scabbard and Blade and Mortar and Ball. These organizations are known to the student body for their rigorous initiations.

The military is a powerful influence on State's campus, and while many regard the army as a hard-boiled institution, still the experience of nearly every military student has been one of patience and tolerance on the part of the officers who instruct him.

Our Regiment

Rates High

IT'S A HABIT for inspecting officers from Seventh Corps Area headquarters at Omaha to rate the Reserve Officers Training Corps unit at K-State "excellent" at the spring review. A five-cornered blue star on the left sleeve of cadet uniforms indicates the high rating of the regiment.

The chief reason honors continually come to the unit is because of the efficient and capable staff of regular army officers assigned for duty here. P.M.S. and T. this year was Lieut.-Col. Carl F. McKinney who succeeded Col. Ralph W. Kingman, retired. Colonel McKinney is young, energetic, and a true soldier.

Besides the colonel, there are seven commissioned and four non-commissioned officers on the staff. New officers this year besides Colonel McKinney were Maj. Howard S. MacKirdy, artillery, and Maj. Marlin C. Martin, infantry.

AS COMMANDANT of the Kansas State unit for the first time, Lieut.-Col. Carl F. McKinney has completed a successful year. Although not personally acquainted with many cadets, he is popular with those who know him. He is one of the youngest colonels in the United States.

Student Officers Rule Corps

Second year advanced artillery and infantry students officers headed by their cadet colonel are in charge of the regimental organizations. Kansas State has six battalions under the new organization.

Each year, as the number of basic military students increases more advanced officers are needed to supervise drill.

This year more than 200 students, selected according to grades and leadership, served as cadet officers. They must be approved by the departmental staff.

One important cog in the military machine's drills, reviews, and parades is the military band.

On the drill field every Saturday and Monday, the band, under the direction of Prof. Max Martin, provides the martial music necessary for rhythmic marching of cadets.

Student members are chosen according to their musical ability. Band participation is substituted for regular drill. But blowing a horn and marching is no snap.

Cadet Leaders Are Organized

To further their military interests, advanced infantry students are organized into an honorary society, Scabbard and Blade.

Prospective members go through one of the "toughest and most strenuous" informal initiations conducted on the hill before they are admitted into the organization.

Scabbard and Blade's president first semester was Calvin Jenkins. Maj. Marlin C. Martin served as faculty sponsor.

Artillery cadet officers promote harmony in the leaders' ranks with Mortar and Ball, an organization similar in purpose and function to Scabbard and Blade.

To promote further interest in coast artillery training, Mortar and Ball members, nearly fifty strong, carried out their program with unusual activity this year.

Clair Ewing was first semester president and Maj. Howard S. MacKirdy was faculty sponsor.

Infantry and Artillery

Kansas State's military forces are made up of both infantry and artillery units. As a general rule engineers make up the artillery and all other students become part of the infantry.

K-State's R.O.T.C. cadet force numbers more than 1,200, which includes nearly every freshman and sophomore man enrolled plus approximately 200 advanced student officers.

The highlight of the military year comes when the unit is rated at spring inspection. This year inspection was conducted May 6. Scheduled to pass in review were six battalions in mass formation. In the reviewing party with the inspecting officers were the honorary coed officers and their escorts.

Win Four Straight

Kansas State's women's rifle team defeated six other entrants to win the annual Kemper Military School meet for the fourth consecutive year. Matches were held at Booneville, Mo., March 15 and 16. Silver medals were presented to Capt. Ruth Baldwin, Jean Botkin, Dorothy Knaus, and Bonnie Lou Clapp.

The coed marksmen, coached by Sgt. E. J. Larson were winners also in seven telegraphic matches.

Marksmen Win Honors

Winning third at the Kemper meet, seventh in the Seventh Corps area meet, and dropping only eight out of twenty-two telegraphic matches were the accomplishments of this year's men's rifle team, coached by Sgt. E. J. Larson.

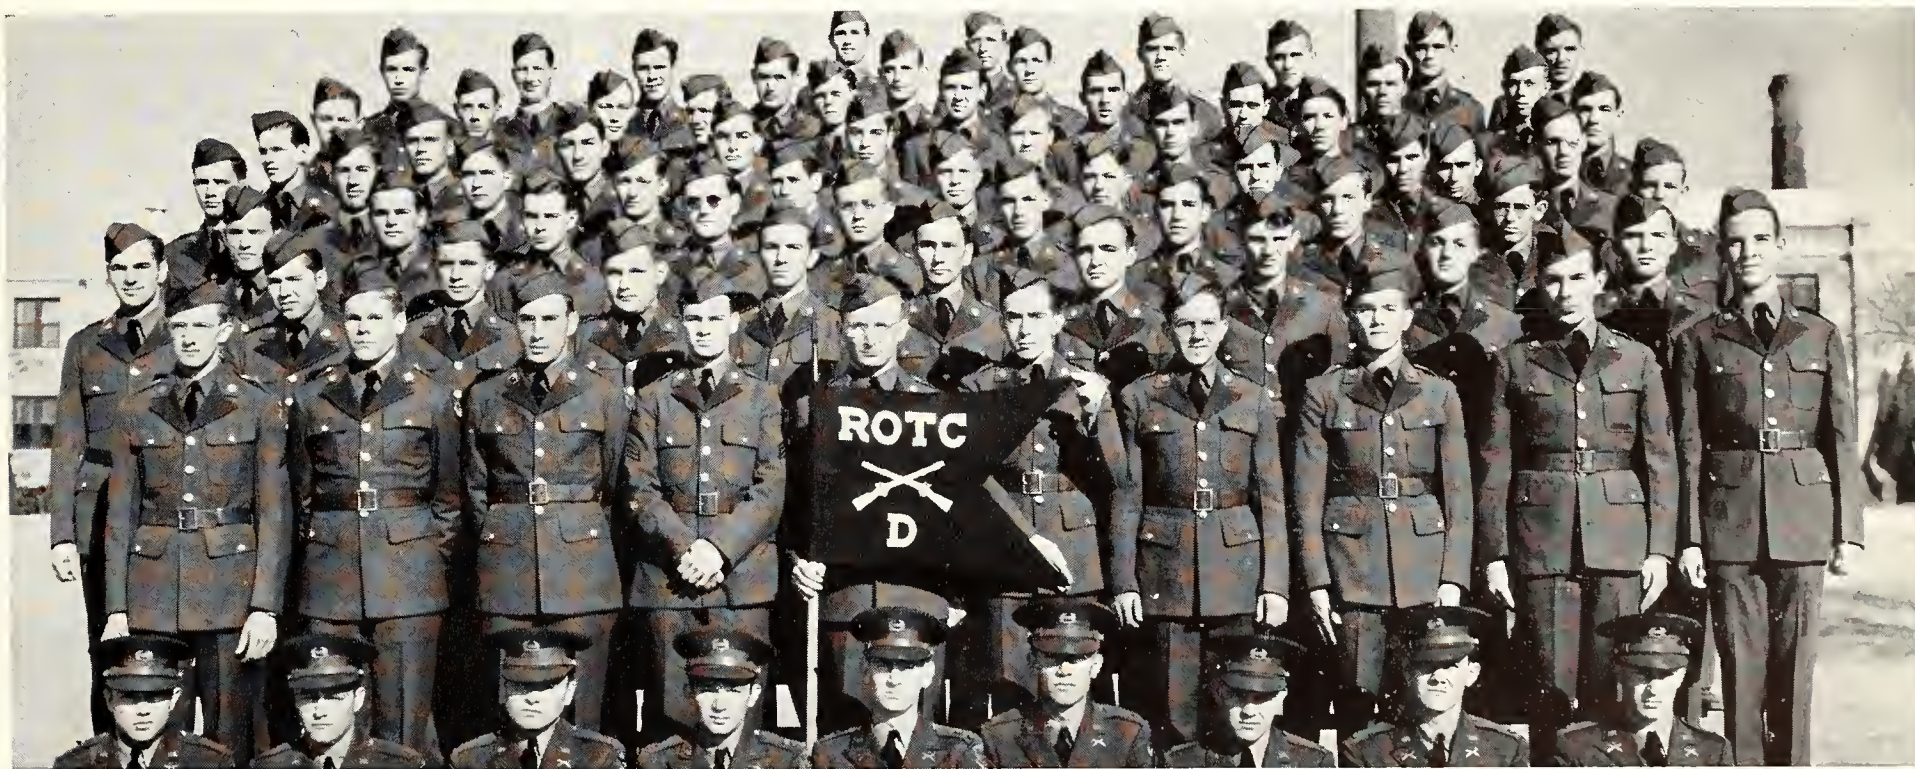

Bronze medals were won by Capt. Albert Niemoller, W. T. Singleton, Bob Musser, and Carlyle Woelfer for their marksmanship at Kemper.

Attend Summer Camps

All students taking the advanced course must spend six weeks at a summer training camp. The usual period of encampment is between the junior and senior years.

Cadets attending camp are paid five cents a mile going to and from the place of encampment and seventy cents a day, housing, board, and clothing while in training.

Artillery students are stationed at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., near Chicago. There they learn to handle artillery weapons, large and small, including machine guns and anti-aircraft cannon. In addition they have a share of "close order" drill and a hike with full packs.

Last year the camp began June 17. Cadets regarded it as "hard work," but came home with knowledge of military training, memories of good times, and a "sun tan" second to none.

THESE CADETS are in no attire for a military inspection, but they seek comfort at the summer camp for artillery students at Ft. Sheridan. They are dressed in work suits. Students like to go to Ft. Sheridan for training.

R.O.T.C. students arose daily at 5:30 a.m. and "bed check" was at 11 p.m. with the exception of two and one-half weeks when first bugle call was at 4:15 a.m. and "lights out" at 10.

Students worked out tactical problems, had close and extended order drill, and spent time on the rifle, pistol, and machine gun ranges. A hike with full packs with the temperature over 100 degrees was the "toughest go" of the camp.

Have New Drill

The well-known commands of "squads right and left" are no more, for a new drill went into practice in R.O.T.C. units this year. A platoon consists of three or four ranks, each a squad of twelve men, besides officers. It is simpler and easier to teach. Troops are more mobile and the squad will have much more fire power than under the old system of organization. The new system has proved popular at K-State.

Cadet Queens

Seven honorary cadet coed officers were chosen to reign over the annual Military Ball, highlight social activity of the military year, and also to stand in the reviewing line at the annual spring inspection.

Chi Omega Joan Nethaway was elected honorary cadet colonel in a vote by more than 1,200 military students. Her attendants, all honorary cadet majors, were Pi Phi Barclay Wright, Tri-Delt Dorothy Hacker, Alpha Delt Helen Hood, Mary Jean Gretnier, Pi Phi Marianna Kistler, and Ethel Haller.

The seven honored coeds, chosen from fourteen nominated by advanced officers, were presented pur-

Kansas State coeds consider it a high honor to be chosen as an honorary officer in the military unit.

BONDS OF BROTHERHOOD

It's quite a process to become a fraternity member but modern trend is away from pledge paddles and hell week—lucky frosh!

FRATERNITIES — bodies of men associated together for common interests . . . a brotherhood. That's the word definition for college fraternities (which also include sororities). And the groups ordinarily associated with fraternities are social fraternities and sororites.

Kansas State has twenty fraternities for men and ten sororities for women—all affiliated with national organizations and maintaining chapter houses near the campus.

Fraternity and sorority members are commonly referred to as "Greeks" because usually two or three letters of the Greek alphabet, embodying the secret motto of the organization, are used to distinguish between different groups. But the student body ordinarily uses a shorter version of the name. Thusly, Sigma Alpha Epsilon members are dubbed "Sig Alphas" or "SAE's" and Delta Delta Delta girls are "Tri-Delts." In like manner, members of Alpha Gamma Rho are "AGR's" and those affiliated with Pi Beta Phi are "Pi Phi's." There seems to be no general rule governing the abbreviated form . . . it is merely a handed-down practice.

Not everyone may join a fraternity or sorority. Membership is limited strictly to those who can fulfill certain qualifications. These vary somewhat as to organizations but usually are based on personality, scholarship, and financial ability.

Here's how one becomes a fraternity "man."

During the spring semester, organizations begin contacting prospective members. Names are received from alumni, members and friends, or from cooperating sororities. Prospects are usually coming-to-college high school seniors. A member designated as rush captain handles correspondence and directs contacts.

Following enrollment of the new student, he is invited to the chapter house as a guest on certain hours of rush week. He will probably visit several fraternities. After looking them over he decides on the one he likes best and if its members also approve him, he becomes a pledge.

Highly publicized has been the so-called "hell week" for pledges, but the modern trend has been away from hazing and toward a more dignified, character building program.

After a semester as a pledge, during which time he must make his grades and discharge certain duties intended to prepare him for membership, he is initiated and becomes a freshman active. But he must continue to perform pledge duties the remainder of the year.

He becomes an active, or full qualified member, at the beginning of the following year after having been once again "passed on" by the fraternity. Now he's a member and enjoys full benefits of organization.

Coordinate Fraternity Policies

A GAIN this year, Senior Men's Panhellenic sponsored the Homecoming Decorations' contest, and with Women's Panhel, made the inter-fraternity sing possible. Several other reforms were instigated by the organization as well as to act as a coordinating unit for the twenty national fraternities on the campus.

Senior Men's Panhel is made up of one representative from each fraternity. Meetings are conducted once every two weeks at various chapter houses.

Officers first semester were John Eyer, president; Les Edrington, vice-president; and Jack Haymaker, secretary-treasurer. Second semester officers were Les Edrington, president; Floyd Stryker, vice-president; and Jack Haymaker, secretary-treasurer.

One of the highlights of the social year is a formal dance sponsored by the organization.

Govern Kansas State Sororities

COMPLETE revision of rushing rules and the publication of a pamphlet of suggestions for rushees, were the major accomplishments of Women's Panhellenic this year. In addition, they managed rush week, helped in the solution of sorority problems, and sponsored the inter-fraternity sing with the cooperation of the Senior Men's Panhellenic.

This year marked the resignation of Miss Grace Derby as faculty advisor to the organization, and the selection of Miss Kathleen Knittle, assistant dean of women, for the post. The Panhellenic Council entertained Miss Derby at a luncheon at the close of her twenty years of service.

Officers included Betty Boehm, president, Jennie Marie Madsen, vice-president, and Marjorie Jacobs, secretary-treasurer.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE CHAPTER

FOUNDED at the University of Michigan as a national college organization for Masons, the members wearing the triangular badge of Acacia fraternity are represented, not by Greek letters, but by a Greek name, taken from the Eastern Evergreen. Since 1933, however, all Masonic restrictions have been abolished. One of twenty-five chapters, the Kansas State chapter—outgrowth of a local Masonic club—was made national December 6, 1913.

Campus well-knowns include Robert Wichser, secretary of Alpha Mu, and member of Alpha Zeta; Fred Rumsey, recently initiated into Scabbard and Blade; and two members of Block and Bridle, John Poole, and Darrell Bozarth, who is also prominent in the Ag Economics Club.

Faculty members are Dr. R. J. Barnett, Prof. W. R. Brackett, Dr. L. D. Bushnell, Mr. L. H. Drayer, Prof. V. D. Foltz, Mr. Kenney L. Ford, Dean R. A. Seaton, Dr. C. V. Williams and Dr. J. T. Willard.

Chapter officers this year were Charles Hodgson, president; Darrell Bozarth, vice-president; Le Roy Fry, secretary; and Fred Rumsey, treasurer and Panhellenic representative. Mrs. Ella Lyles is house-mother for the organization. Dr. Howard Hill is chapter advisor.

Each year Acacia members join with Phi Kappa members in a joyously get-together and friendship dinner. This custom has been carried on for several years.

Alpha Kappa Lambda

IOTA CHAPTER

A FRATERNITY of a non-secret order is Alpha Kappa Lambda, which made its appearance on this campus, May 24, 1930, as one of nine active chapters. The national organization was founded at the University of California, April 22, 1914. To participate in Christian activities and high scholarship remains as a definite national policy of the fraternity.

Last year, the local chapter won a trophy given by the national organization for the highest standing in maintenance of its ideals. The Kansas State chapter has received three such awards in the past eight years and now has permanent possession of this highly coveted trophy.

Faculty members are J. P. Chapman, Dr. J. A.

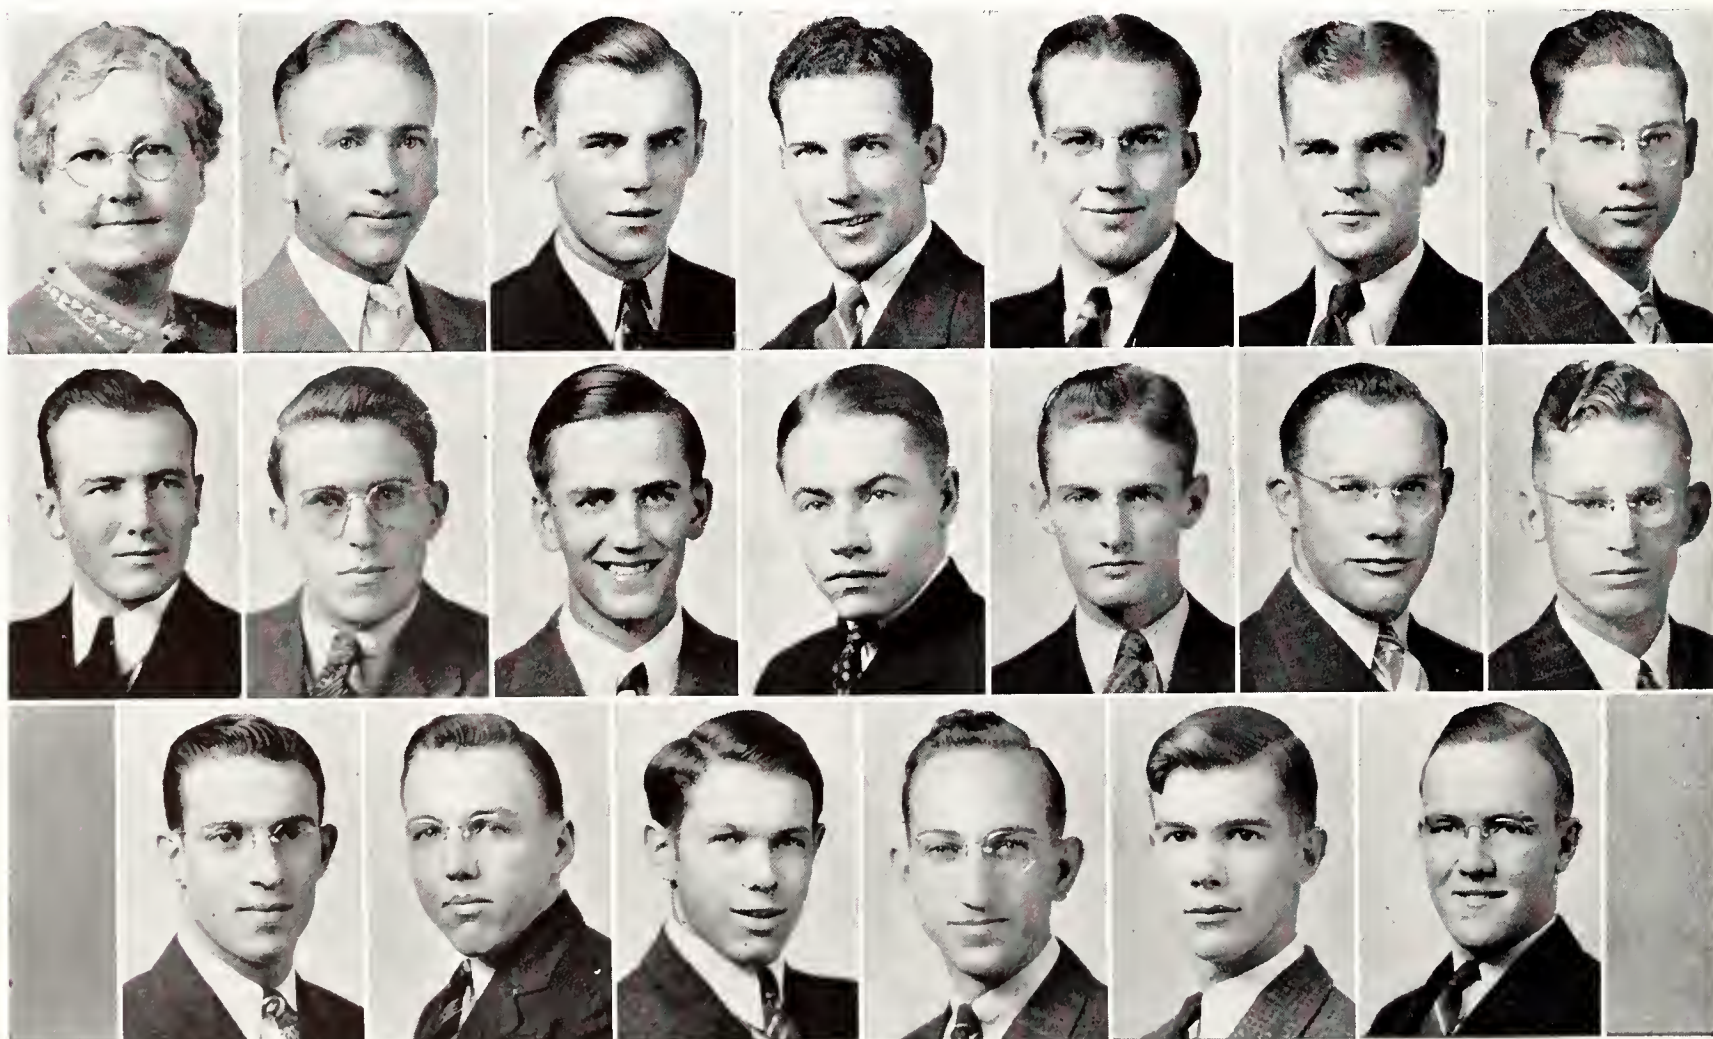

Hodges, Dr. A. A. Holtz, C. O. Price, the Rev. B. A. Rogers, C. H. Scholer, L. F. Smith, and H. M. Stewart.

Officers this year were Raymond Groth, president; Kenneth Henry, vice-president; Charles Carter, secretary; Merton Badenhop, treasurer; Ivan Smith, Panhellenic representative. The chapter advisor is H. M. Stewart. Mrs. Nellie Hawthorne is housemother.

One of Alpha Kappa Lambda's best-known students probably is Charles Carter. He is president of the Congregational Good Fellowship Society, vice-president of the Hort Club, a member of the apple judging team, and a YM member.

President Raymond Groth is also active in "hill" activities.

KANSAS DELTA THETA CHAPTER

FOUNDED seventy-five years ago by three young Confederates who met one September 11 in Richmond, Va., Alpha Tau Omega now boasts ninety-five chapters with members wearing the Maltese cross. The local, Delta Theta, was installed October 22, 1920.

An ATO triumph of the year was the annual shoot-'em-up frontier party where K-Staters don grandma's finery and go wild west in a "boom" town setting.

When it comes to intramurals, honors go to Alpha Tau Omega for winning first place in inter-fraternity track for 1939, and topping all comers in 1940's intramural basketball season. The ATO's are well represented in varsity athletics with Don Munzer and Elmer Nieman both being on the first gridiron eleven. Nieman also was a hard-hitting batter on the diamond.

Officers for the year were Henry Kupfer, president; Mailand Strunk, secretary; Richard Heaton, treasurer; and Tom Woods, vice-president and Panhellenic representative.

Chapter advisor is Dr. J. H. Whitlock. Mrs. Effie Chaffin is housemother.

ALPHA CHI CHAPTER

RED TEMPLAR roses, together with the fraternity colors of purple and gold, formed the background for the annual Beta Kappa Templar Rose formal. Among those dancing that evening to the sweet strains of "Beta Kappa Dream Girl" were Ed Keller, outstanding athlete, championship wrestler, and president of K-Club, and Thiel Sweet, well-known architectural engineer.

Installed March 4, 1938, the Alpha Chi chapter of Beta Kappa is the youngest fraternity on the campus. Since its founding in 1901, at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn., Beta Kappa has grown to thirty-seven active chapters.

Faculty members include Prof. A. J. Mack, Dr. D. C. Warren, and Prof. George R. McCaulley.

Chapter officers are Walter E. Burrell, president; Tom E. Joyce, vice-president; George Peircey, secretary; Kenneth W. Randall, treasurer, and Ray Hopkins, Panhellenic representative.

Mrs. Bertha Napier is housemother for the group and Dr. D. C. Warren and Prof. A. J. Mack are faculty sponsors.

IN THE STONE house at the extreme end of "fraternity row" live the boys who wear the diamond and three stars. The Betas are noted for their annual party at which each coed kisses the "Pig" and receives a Beta loving cup.

The fraternity was founded at Miami University more than a century ago, and the local chapter was installed in 1914. Faculty members are Dr. M. W. Husband, Dr. H. H. King, and Dr. C. W. McCampbell.

AS IN PREVIOUS years, Delta Sigma Phi members entertained the campus with their traditional Sailors' Ball—where salty seamen and girls from their favorite ports danced to the rhythms of Dale Brodie's orchestra.

Lucky "Delta Sig Dream Girls"—throughout the year they were invited to buffet suppers, dinner dances and open houses, with Mrs. A. F. Morgenson, house-mother for the chapter, graciously presiding as hostess.

If you're looking for someone to be president, just call on Jack Fuller—prexy of his fraternity, the American Society for Civil Engineers, and Alpha Phi Omegas, besides being an outstanding member of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity. Also well-known over Engine-house way is Carol Lewis, a rising young architect who'll bear watching.

One of forty-four active chapters, the local Alpha Upsilon, was installed on Kansas State's campus January 30, 1925—some twenty-six years after its national founding in New York City.

Chapter officers were J. P. Fuller, president; Carol Lewis, secretary; Dean Laramey, treasurer; and Ray McPeck, vice-president and Panhellenic representative. E. A. Cleavinger is chapter advisor for the organization.

Prominent members of Delta Sigma Phi include the Honorable James J. Davis, Pennsylvania senator who each year presents a cup to the chapter securing the most life members.

GAMMA CHI CHAPTER

THE JOB of keeping the Delta Tau Delta scrap book this year must have been a difficult one indeed—clippings about Delt celebrities would have to include Jack Horacek and Norris Holstrom for their outstanding participation on the varsity basketball squad; Bob Musser, four-letter sharpshooter on the rifle team; and Bob Washburn and John Bowers, cheer leaders—not to mention first prize for homecoming decorations. Then, there's Ray Small, president of Pi Tau Sigma, honorary fraternity for mechanical engineers; and Bob Mears, Blue Key and all-around B.M.O.C.

Formerly a local—the Aztecs, members first began wearing the golden square of D Tau D, May 11,

Faculty members include Dean L. E. Call, chapter advisor for the group, Owen (Chili) Cochrane, and President F. D. Farrell.

Officers this year were Vincent Ellis, president; Norris E. Holstrom, vice-president; Warren Hornsby and Bob Washburn, secretary; Paul Hudson, treasurer, and Thurmon Mayhew, Panhellenic representative. Mrs. W. W. Davis is housemother for the chapter.

The chapter house is at 1224 Fremont.

KANSAS CHAPTER

MEMBERSHIP in Farm House fraternity is doubly restricted—a rushee must be enrolled in agriculture or related sciences, and his grade average has to be “tops.” The national organization stresses high scholarship above all else, and the Kansas chapter lives up to its fraternity ideals by having placed first in social fraternity scholarship for the past seventeen semesters.

National Farm House was founded in 1905 at Missouri University. The local chapter was established in 1921.

THE KAPPA SIGS entered politics this year and carried away three important campus offices. Pierce Wheatley was elected secretary of the sophomore class; Les Edrington, president of Senior Men's Panhellenic; and Jim Stockman was a member of the Student Council. Stockman was also editor of the Kansas State Engineer. In addition to politics, the fraternity has kept up its traditional standing in athletics. One of its best-known members is Lowell Thomas, news commentator, seen often on the screen.

Fred Eyestone added another honor to the chapter this spring when he was elected to the Student Council.

Kappa Sigma was founded at the University of Virginia, December 10, 1869, and since then, has grown to 112 active chapters, represented in all but three states of the Union, including one in Canada. Gamma Chi was organized, June 5, 1919. Faculty members are R. A. Long, W. F. Pickett, Fred A. Peery, and Jack Gardner.

Officers the past year were Michael Adams, president; Clayton Davis, vice-president; Paul Schafer, secretary; Don Coulson, treasurer; Leslie Edrington, Panhellenic representative. Mrs. Gladys Sibley is house-mother.

KANSAS GAMMA CHAPTER

THIS YEAR, Kansas Gamma Phi Delts celebrated their twentieth spring on the hill by moving into their modernistic new home located high atop Sunset Drive.

Among those moving was K-State's "key" man, Joe Robertson—prominent Phi Delt, and business manager of the Royal Purple; president of Alpha Zeta, YMCA, and Blue Key. Also well known are

Phi Delta Theta was established nationally at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio—in the year 1848.

Phi Kappa

IOTA CHAPTER

FOR THE FOURTH consecutive year, a Phi Kap has been president of the Newman Club. This year it was Richard Cech who carried on the tradition. Raymond Bukaty also put in his bid for fame while only a pledge. He was elected president of Freshman Panhellenic, and later, was director of publicity for Engineers' Open House.

Phi Kappa is a national fraternity for Catholic men, organized at Brown University, Providence, R. I., in 1889. Iota chapter was established April 9, 1921, and is one of twenty-five chapters. Among nationally known members of the fraternity is Alfred E. Smith.

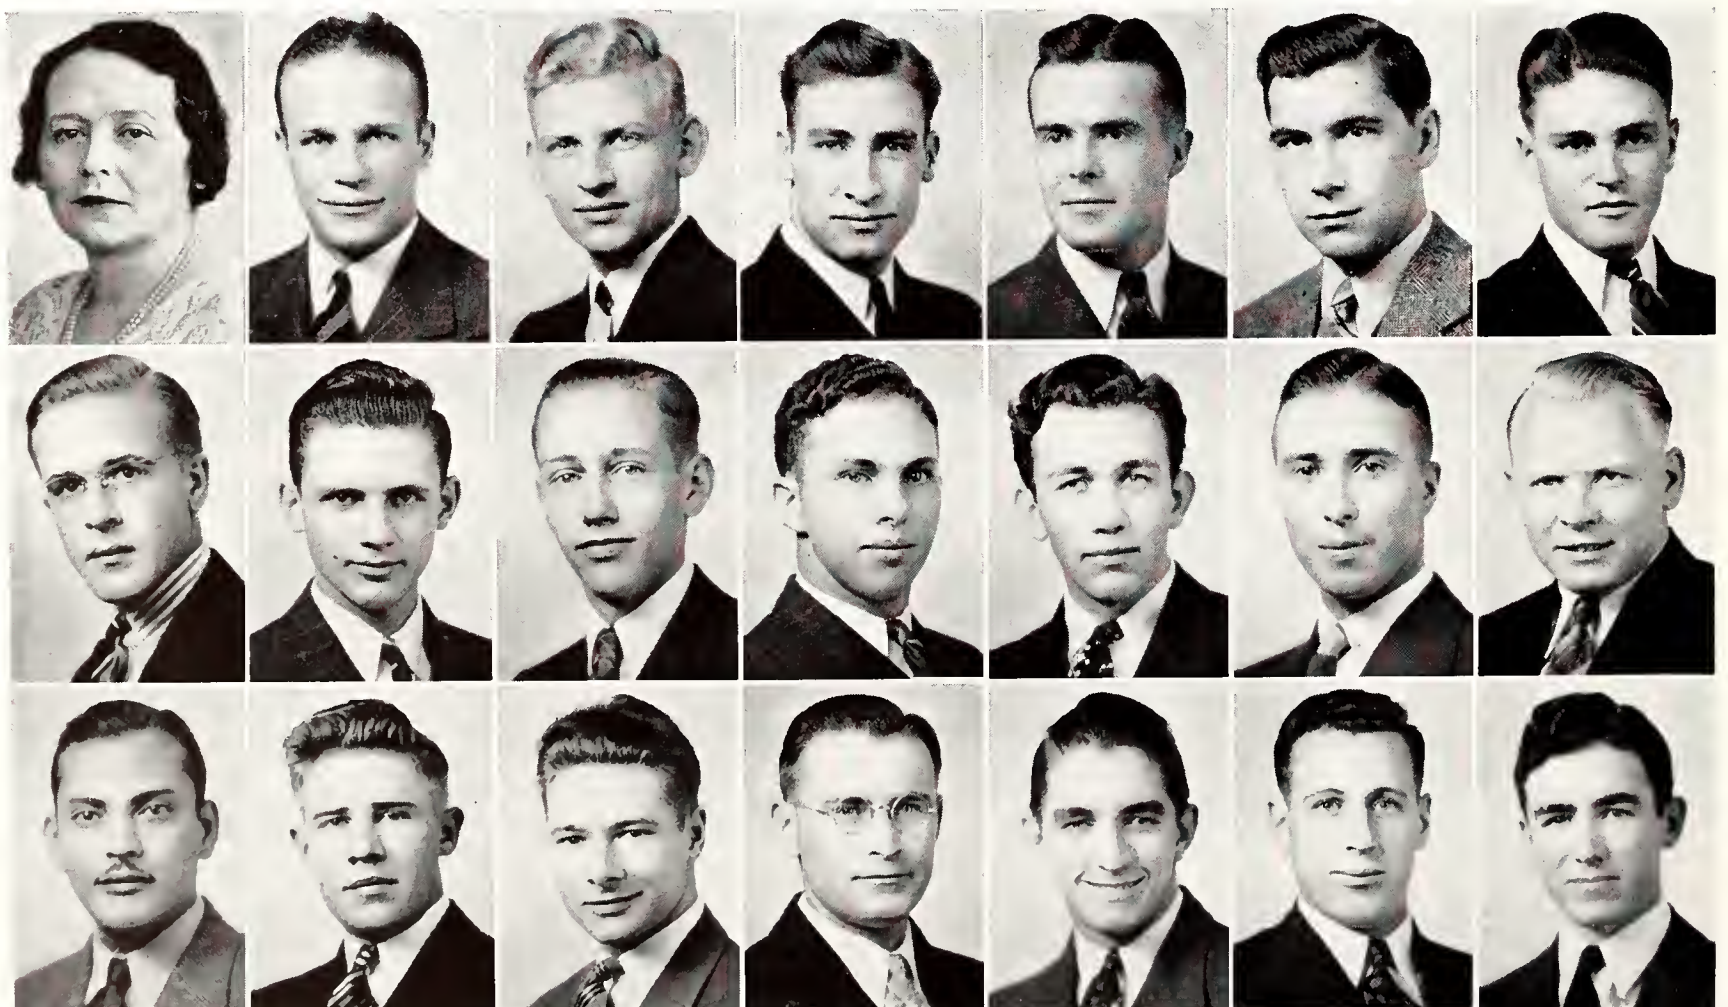

Members of Iota include men who are prominent in political and social issues of the campus and who help to uphold school spirit. One of the social activities sponsored by the Phi Kaps is the joint dinner with the Acacias when the two fraternities renew their pledge of friendship.

A featured social event this year was the Phi Kap "fish dinner" late this spring.

Faculty members are J. P. Callahan, Raymond Doll, Dr. W. L. Faith, and Harold Howe. Officers were Victor Beat, president; Wayne Deaver, vice-president; Leo Wendling, secretary; Richard Cech, treasurer; and Panhellenic representative, Wayne Deaver. Mrs. J. E. Ames is housemother and Dr. Faith is advisor.

Top row: Mrs. J. E. Phi Kappa Tau

ALPHA EPSILON CHAPTER

IN THE HOUSE at the top of the hill on North Seventeenth Street live the Phi Taus. Their front-yard enthusiasm for football proved beneficial for this year they became the fraternity intramural touch football champions.

And in varsity athletics the Phi Taus were well represented with Bill Nichols a first-stringer on the grid team, Frank "Bow Bow" Woolf playing basketball and baseball, and Verle McClellan and Keith Collins taking part in wrestling.

Probably the best known member of Phi Kappa Tau this year was Frank Woolf, president of the chapter.

Phi Kappa Tau was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, on St. Patrick's Day, 1906. Alpha Epsilon is one of forty-six active chapters and was established in Manhattan, May 20, 1925.

The badge of the fraternity is an irregular-shaped octagon, the center of which is a black enameled oval bearing a white star and the gold letters of the organization.

Faculty members are M. W. Furr, H. Miles Heberer, R. C. Hill, Dr. Roy Langford, George Montgomery, J. C. Peterson, W. C. Troutman, and L. V. White. Dr. Langford is the chapter advisor.

Officers this year were Frank Woolf, president; Beverly Stagg, vice-president; Wayne Bogard, secretary; Doyle Philpy, treasurer; and Jack Young, Panhellenic representative.

Mrs. Marie M. Groody is housemother.

IOTA DEUTERON CHAPTER

THE PHI SIGS are well known for their clever and original entertainments—timely indeed, was their “Okie” party, the theme of which was taken from Grapes of Wrath. Atrocious manners and the impossible in dress held sway at the “Bad Taste” party, earlier in the year. With a Christmas tree, toys, and candy, the Phi Sigs held open house for the poor children of Manhattan late in December.

That the fraternity is not interested solely in social activities is evidenced by their large membership in Sigma Tau, Pi Tau Sigma, engineering staff and Pi Kappa Delta.

Scholastically, the Phi Sigs placed first in interfraternity scholarship rating, and received a scholarship trophy from their national.

Founded at Massachusetts State College in 1873 for the purpose of promoting friendship, developing character, and stimulating scholarship; Phi Sigma Kappa now has forty-nine active chapters.

Iota Deuteron chapter was installed on Kansas State’s campus fifty years later, March 24, 1923, as the outgrowth of a local, Phi Delta Tau.

Chapter advisor is M. L. Hill. Members in the faculty include Capt. Karl C. Frank, Maj. Thomas R. Holmes and Dr. R. K. Nabours.

Officers were J. D. Thackrey, president; and T. E. Trenkle, treasurer, and Panhellenic representative.

Pi Kappa Alpha

ALPHA OMEGA CHAPTER

IT WAS DOWN in old Virginia that PiKA began—and the year was 1868. Now there are seventy-eight active chapters, including Alpha Omega, which was founded June 9, 1913. With genial Allen Heskett, the PiKA Sunday night “go-arounds” and song sessions have become noted features of the campus for he is known as one of the better pianists. It was Heskett, too, who came into the limelight by his appearance in the “Who’s Who in American Colleges and Universities” and by way of membership in Matt Betton’s orchestra.

Once more, the traditional PiKA “Cornjigger” was held during Homecoming week-end—this time at the Country Club. In March, alums trooped back for another of their famed Founders’ Days, and again that month for the spring formal. And the bids that go out for Saturday night hamburgers remain coveted invitations.

Faculty members include Harry C. Baird, E. W. Floyd, Dr. W. E. Grimes, John V. Hepler, A. L. Olsen, Merton L. Otto, W. H. Martin, R. I. Throckmorton, and A. O. Shaw.

SIG ALPHS grew political minded when Governor Payne Ratner, a brother SAE, was guest speaker at Founders' Day. Three more times this year they rated —when two faculty positions were filled by SAE's, and when the chapter became co-winner of Aggie Pop. Ted Varney is chapter advisor, and faculty members include Hobbs Adams, John Morrison, Dr. Hugh Swaney, and R. I. Thackrey.

BETA KAPPA CHAPTER

MILITARY affairs were taken well in hand by the Sigma Nus this year through Harold Underhill, cadet colonel of the R.O.T.C. And rightly so, for the fraternity had its beginnings at Virginia Military Institute—the “West Point of the South.” Sigma Nu was also represented in the governing body of Kansas State this year when Robert Kauffman was elected vice-president of the Student Council. And once again, the local chapter became known for its traditional white rose dinner-dance and annual paddle party.

Faculty members who wear the five-armed star are C. E. Aubel, A. P. Davidson, H. H. Haymaker, C. R. Quinlan, and Jasper Pallesen. Officers this year were Clement Garrelts, president; Claude Shenkel, vice-president; Carl Peterson, secretary; John Sheetz, treasurer; Alden Miner, Panhellenic representative. Mrs. Elizabeth Sheetz is housemother.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

KANSAS BETA CHAPTER

KING OF PEP is the honor won by the Sig Eps this year, for it was as such that Bill Werts, varsity cheerleader, reigned at the annual Gold Diggers' Ball. Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded in Richmond, Va., in 1901, and there are seventy active chapters. The Kansas Beta chapter was established in Manhattan on February 23, 1918—the outgrowth of a local fraternity.

Faculty members who wear the heart of SPE are R. W. Conover, H. W. Davis, Hurley Fellows, C. O. Grandfield, who is chapter advisor, H. H. Laude, R. P. Link, D. L. Mackintosh, F. A. Smutz, and A. B. Sperry.

A COMPARATIVELY new fraternity on this campus is Theta Xi, until 1931 a social organization for engineers. Because of this, much of its membership is still drawn from the Division of Engineering and Architecture. The fraternity had its start at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N. Y., and was at first confined to technical schools. There are thirty-six chapters.

Each year, Theta Xi's "go rugged" with their "Tuffy Strut" at the chapter house. It's the highlight of their social events. Theta Xi's also sponsor a formal dance which is "second to none."

Faculty wearers of the pearl-studded pin are H. N. Barham, B. W. Beadle, G. F. Branigan, K. W. Miller, and J. H. Robert, chapter advisor. Officers were Roy S. Belcher, president; LaVerne Odden, vice-president; Kemp G. Stiles, secretary; Raymond Stanzel, treasurer, and Harold Gray, Panhellenic representative. Mrs. Rose Cassidy completed her seventeenth year as chaperon to the organization.

WHEN IT COMES to activities, those girls wearing the quill of Alpha Xi Delta are certainly in the running—Elizabeth Brooks, for instance. She's president of her sorority, and of the Home Economics Club, and also a member of Mortar Board. Then, there's Vera Wycoff, secretary of Mu Phi Epsilon, and cultural chairman of YWCA. Special honors go to Edith Dawley, who made a straight "A" average, and was awarded the sorority scholarship ring. Centering the mantle of their lovely new home, you'll find the gold cup awarded to the winner of the best short stunt in Y-Orpheum.

Founded April 17, 1893, at Lombard College, Galesburg, Ill., Alpha Xi Delta now numbers fifty-six active chapters. The local chapter, Alpha Kappa, was established June 1, 1922.

Faculty members are Dorothy Barfoot, Marjorie McCall Hemphill, and Alice Kimball.

Chapter officers are Elizabeth Brooks, president; Lucy Jo Reader, vice-president; Irene Sloan, secretary; Vera Wycoff, treasurer, and Swanna Suits, Panhellenic representative. Miss Grace Derby is chapter advisor, and Mrs. Maude Aten is housemother for the group.

ALPHA KAPPA chapter house is at 601 N. Delaware.

ASORORITY that had its beginning in the deep South is Kappa Delta, which is one of ten sororities on this campus. Virginia State Teachers College at Farmville, Va., was the place of its founding, and the date was October 23, 1897.

The local chapter of Sigma Gamma was established December 4, 1920. One of its founders was the nationally known psychologist and writer, Dr. Orpha Maust Lough. To Mrs. A. A. Holtz, the girls of 1716 Fairchild bring their problems and discussions for she is their alumnae advisor. Kappa Delta faculty members are Mrs. Laura Baxter, Miss Florence Stebbins, and Miss Kathleen Knittle, who is assistant to Dean Mary P. Van Zile.

In addition to their two allotted formal parties, Kappa Deltas have entertained with tea dances and jam sessions this year, and the white Colonial house is noted for its "southern" hospitality.

One of the chapter's outstanding campus figures is Mary Anne Pafford who takes part in various activities.

Officers this year were Jane Roderick, president; Wanda Atkins, vice-president; Betty Lane Gage, secretary; Mary Anne Pafford, treasurer and Panhellenic representative. Mrs. Grace Smethers has just completed her first year as housemother.

A QUEEN who can also swing political votes is winsome Jean Marie Knott, wearer of the key. She not only was crowned Ag Queen at the annual Barnwarmer, but was elected to the vice-presidency of the sophomore class.

Kappas also had journalistic representation in Marjorie Higgins, who was the first girl to be editor of the Ag Student, a divisional publication. Dramatic triumphs came when Virginia Ray won the leading role in "First Lady," Manhattan Theater play.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded in Monmouth, Ill., in 1870, and the local chapter of Gamma Alpha was chartered in 1916. There are now seventy-three active chapters.

Mrs. Edwin Sayre is chapter advisor and faculty members are Mrs. F. J. Ofelt and Dorothy Pettis. Marjorie Moree was president of the chapter this year.

ALTHOUGH the Kansas State chapter of Phi Omega Pi is one of the younger national sororities on the hill, names in the news include outstanding Janet King, treasurer of W.A.A., and Verna May Ward, treasurer and a prominent member in Enchiladas. No matter which campus activity you may attend, the irregular pentagon, holding a five-pointed, sapphire-set star—badge of Phi Omega Pi—will be much in evidence.

Founded nationally in a neighboring state, March 5, 1910, at the University of Nebraska; membership was first limited to women belonging to the Eastern Star. It was not until 1929 that Masonic restrictions were dispensed with. Four years later, the sorority was admitted to full membership in National Panhellenic.

Chapter officers were Verna Mae Ward, president; Jeanette Brunscher, vice-president; Meredith Reynolds, treasurer; and Estella Hutter, secretary and Panhellenic. On the faculty are Ruth Crawford, Lora Hillyard and Anna Marie Sturmer. Mrs. Edith Dodd is housemother.

THE STAG LINE at this Zeta Tau open house is overwhelming. The Sig Eps were there en masse.

THE SHIELD of Zeta Tau Alpha originated two years before the turn of the century at Virginia State Teachers College, Farmsville, Va.

On the campus of Kansas State, Zeta Tau has the distinction of being the newest national sorority, having been established here on May 4, 1931. Beta Upsilon is the outgrowth of a local organization, Alpha Theta Chi, and now is one of seventy-nine active chapters.

Last year, the girls moved to their new hilltop home on West Leavenworth, which might properly be termed the house "with a view."

One of the most important campus offices went to a Zeta Tau this year when Betty Boehm was elected president of the women's Panhellenic Council. Lucile Rust, Eunice Pardee, and Alpha Latzke are faculty members of Zeta Tau Alpha. Miss Latzke is also the chapter's advisor.

Officers the past year were Aldine Spessard, president; Jean Kallenberger, vice-president; Betty Boehm, secretary; Ruth Martin, treasurer; and Aldine Spessard, Panhellenic representative.

Miss Boehm is probably the best-known member of the local Zeta Tau Alpha chapter for her activities in various organizations on the Kansas State campus.

Mrs. William Huttig served her first year as house-mother.

BETA UPSILON chapter house is at 1906 Leavenworth.

Scattered Shots

GAROLD WAY (right, above) and his clown partner entertain the crowd at the Little American Royal. Sheep have been brought into the antics.

AIRCRAFT WAS the center of attraction for visitors at the Engineers Open House. Here a student explains some interests to spectators.

DRINKING A TOAST are Phi Kaps and Acacias at the annual joint merry-maker between the two groups. Songs are interspersed with the sipping.

CHI OMEGAS enjoy one of Manhattan's infrequent snows by sledding on the terrace of the chapter house.

Campus at Play

"Back to nature" is the call of K-Staters regardless of the weather. Snow finds students skating, sledding, and snowballing, while summer weather finds intramural athletics and campus strolling in full sway.

TOUCHDOWNS AND SETUPS

Much color of campus life centers around the stadium where teams tutored by a highly systemized strategy board "play the game."

GAMES . . . Games of skill or wit, or both, but always games. Games are the first activity after cradle-life and most of childhood and adolescence revolve around play. And whether in school or business, peace or war, we speak of "playing the game" and "sportsmanship."

The playground or arena is one of the distinguishing marks of civilization. Ancient Rome's cities were built around the amphitheater, often the most imposing structure in the town. So is a campus characterized by its stadium, about which centers much of college interest aside from study's prosaic routine. No other institution has developed sports to the extent that has the American university and college.

Like her sister schools, Kansas State has developed a complicated organization of athletics. For nearly forty years it has been departmentalized like other activities of the College. Director of the department of physical education and intercollegiate athletics is Michael Francis Ahearn, who has been the guiding eye and driving hand of K-State varsity athletics since organized in 1911.

The freshman probably gets acquainted with the athletic personnel in this order: After "Mike" he meets the professor in charge of football, who also teaches the four-year course in pigskin tactics required of all physical education majors. He is generally known as the "head coach." Then there's the assistant coach—next year there will be two assistants. After him comes the track coach who is also freshman grid mentor. Under the new setup the head basketball coach will also be official football scout. Besides these, K-State has wrestling and swimming coaches, and Prof. L. P. Washburn is in charge of men's intramural athletics. All these men teach "phys ed" courses along with their tutoring.

Can you imagine a pep rally with the theme "Beat Washburn!?" Before 1913, "KSAC" was a member of the Kansas Conference and Washburn was the big game. Then K-State was admitted to the old Missouri Valley Conference. This included the present Big Six plus Oklahoma A & M, Drake, Grinnell, and Washington U. of St. Louis. The Missouri Valley league lasted until 1927 when the Big Six was organized. Kansas State joined and its "stock" mounted steadily.

At the first game Mike coached for the College a large group of fans was present, standing along the sidelines or sitting in the grass. Later bleachers were built and in 1922, after a vigorous campaign, construction was begun on Memorial Stadium. The latest home game attracted a record crowd of 17,000 persons. Memorial Stadium has seen both victories and defeats, but win or lose, the game has always been the thing.

IRELAND'S GIFT to Kansas State is Michael Francis Ahearn who is as much a part of Wildcat athletics as is the football team. Mike is well-known, well liked.

FRANK MYERS, business manager, receives orders for ducats for one of the big games of the year. He handles athletic money.

Directors

VARSITY LETTERMEN are guests of the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce at the annual athletic banquet. They await dessert.

UNDER the able direction of M. F. "Mike" Ahearn, energetic, friendly "son o' Eirie," Kansas State's athletic department offers one of the best balanced programs in the country.

Wildcat athletes participate in football, basketball, baseball, swimming, track, wrestling, tennis, and golf in the Big Six conference while intramural sports offer competition to more than 1,000 students each year in intra-school activities.

Has Many Duties

The athletic council, composed of Ahearn and seven other faculty members, formulates the policies of the department, employs coaches, and awards letters.

"Mike" has been with the athletic department since 1904 serving as director since 1920. He is assisted by Frank L. Myers, business manager.

This year was a busy one for "Mike" and the athletic council as football Coaches Wes Fry and Stan Williamson had personal difficulties and handed in their resignations leaving the Wildcats without grid mentors.

of Athletic Policies

ATHLETIC COUNCIL—Back row: R. W. Babcock, George Dean, R. I. Throckmorton, E. L. Holton, F. D. Farrell, R. A. Seaton. Front row: H. H. King, and M. F. Ahearn.

Ahearn toured the country in search of a successor to Fry while the council read more than 100 applications. On February 23, the council announced that Hobbs Adams, former University of Southern California line coach, had been named to lead the Wildcats in their grid conquests next fall. Adams received a hardy welcome when he appeared in Manhattan for spring practice. Adams named Owen "Chili" Cochrane, former freshman coach, and Bill Schutte as assistants.

Elect Team Captains

Following an annual custom, the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce honored the 1939 grid and two-mile teams with a banquet at which Jimmy Conzelman, former coach at Washington University, was the principal speaker. Don Crumbaker, stellar end on the Wildcat eleven, was named honorary captain for 1939 and Thaine High as captain of the 1940 two-mile team. Ernie Miller was elected honorary captain of basketball at the close of the season.

Joe Newman serves as publicity director for the athletic department. His sports service goes to a great many newspapers and radio stations in Kansas and nearby states. He is a graduate from the Kansas State journalism department.

Echoes from the

In years previous, the Wildcats and visiting gridsters were handicapped in having to don playing togs in Nichol's gymnasium.

Nothing does more to add inspiration to players and fans, and lend color and atmosphere at the games, than the Kansas State band led by Prof. Lyle Downey.

Nearly every evening during the fall season music from the band could be heard throughout the autumn air far from the campus where the band members

THE pigskin sport is the most spectacular, colorful, and popular activity of the fall season at Kansas State. The cheerleaders, the band, the players, and the crowd all play a part in the Saturday afternoon pageant.

This year, for the first time, two coeds were included on the cheerleading squad of eight students to drum up enthusiasm not only at football games, but at basketball contests and frequent pep rallies.

Under the leadership of Bob Washburn, veteran yell man, this group was instrumental in generating more pep at rallies and games than Wildcat supporters have seen for several years.

Coeds an Inspiration

The presence of two comely coed leaders helping to direct cheers provided added inspiration to K-State's two pep organizations—the Wampus Cats and Purple Pepsters—as well as to the student cheering section.

It's always a thrill to the thousands of fans attending the games to see the team come onto the field. This year saw the Wildcat eleven, for the first time, trot on the gridiron from underneath the stadium where newly constructed dressing rooms are located.

Grid Season

practiced long and hard for near perfection so that they might better entertain at athletic events.

An Asset to School

And all students knew that when Professor Downey raised his hand to direct the band, they were about to hear music of which any school could be proud.

A new concrete band stand was completed on the west wing of the stadium this year. In previous years, band members sat on chairs placed on an antiquated wooden platform.

"The Beer Barrel Polka" and other popular songs played by the musicians made a hit with student rooters and other football fans.

The highlight of the football year is Homecoming when all fraternity houses are gaily decorated in competition for a loving cup award. Old grads are welcomed back and this year Nebraska rooters were here en masse. They paraded through the streets, honked horns and incidentally, won the Homecoming battle.

WINNERS IN THE homecoming decorations contest among the fraternities this year were Delta Tau Delta (top), first prize; Tau Kappa Epsilon (center), whose display was judged second; and Beta Theta Pi, third place winners. The decorations are judged by an appointed committee.

THE CLIMAX of Homecoming activities was the presentation of the Homecoming queen between halves of the Cornhusker-Wildcat football game. Miss Betty June Doan, Pratt, a representative of Delta Delta Delta, was elected queen by students at the Homecoming ball sponsored by Blue Key, senior men's honorary organization. Gov. Payne Ratner presented her flowers before the capacity crowd.

Miss Doan's attendants were Chi Omega Bette Bonecutter and Mona Marie Jones, Alpha Delta Pi.

The most spectacular game of the season was the Oklahoma battle at which high school bands and Boy Scouts were guests. All previous attendance marks were shattered as 17,500 persons packed Memorial Stadium. The most thrilling episode of the pageantry was the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by all assembled bands on Ahearn field preceding the kickoff.

Yell Specialists

Leaders of the K-State cheering section at both football and basketball games were the combined forces of the Wampus Cats and Purple Pepsters, Wildcat pep organizations. It was the enthusiasm of these groups that made the work of the yell leaders easier.

Seated at football games on the 50-yard line and surrounded by a multitude of students, these loyal organization members did a noteworthy job of supporting Wes Fry's grid warriors.

The purple and white clad leaders added much color to the gridiron games.

FOOTBALL has seen better years at Kansas State, but rarely has a more dogged, scrapping team carried the Purple and White colors on a field. From a rip-snorting opener over Ft. Hays and victories over Marquette and Colorado, the Frymen tasted defeat in five of the six remaining games, and ended the 1939 season in a weak finale at Boston.

Prognosticators forecast a triumphant season for the Wildcats, as sideline reporters surveyed the candidates at practice. Local newspapers hailed Kansas State as the "Hitler of the Bix Six." But their ardor cooled somewhat, as Coach Wes Fry and line coach Stan Williamson predicted a Sooner victory in the conference.

A lineup of Don Crumbaker and Don Munzer, star ends, Bernie "Frankfurter" Weiner and Bill Beezley, husky 200-pound guards, and Paul Hannah or Ken Hamlin at the pivot post, promised the heaviest forward wall in years. With a battery of backs including versatile Mel Seelye, Jim Brock with his educated toe, husky Art Kirk, "Butch" Nieman, Merle "Sanddipper" Whitlock, and a host of promising sophomores in reserve, Kansas State prepared for its season debut.

Bill Beezley, 205-pound Wildcat guard, was selected to play in the post-season East-West game.

Romp Over Hays Tigers

The opening game proved a romp for the Wildcats as they rambled over the Fort Hays Tigers, 34-7. Thirty-eight men saw service as Fry substituted freely.

Scoring began early in the initial period as Kent Duwe, sophomore back, snagged a pass on the enemy 40 and snaked through the entire Fort Hays squad. Bill Nichols converted.

Wallace Swanson, junior end sparking the defense, blocked a punt on his own 43 in the second quarter. Three line bucks and an aerial, Seelye to Crumbaker, procured another 6 points, Brock standing for the conversion.

Gene Fair, sub-quarterback, scored in a third-quarter drive of 90 yards, Hackney leading the way. Swanson batted down another punt in the second stanza, and the Wildcats swung into action to score with Seelye playing the major role.

"Butch" Nieman, taking the ball from Hackney on a reverse, skirted left end for 42 yards and the fourth touchdown.

Bill Nichols, a scrapping guard playing his last year, was the shortest man on the squad.

Place Kick Beats Marquette

Marquette, boasting 20 lettermen and having won five of eight previously-fought battles, lost 0-3 to the Wildcats in a night game before 15,000 spectators at Milwaukee.

The first quarter was a bitter defensive battle with neither team crossing the midfield stripe. Early in the second period Marquette opened a drive to the K-State 6-yard line, where an attempted field goal was thwarted.

Two minutes before the half, Roy Apolskis, Marquette center, intercepted Mel Seelye's pass on the Wildcat 31 and advanced it to the 26-yard line.

Late in the third quarter Nieman, Seelye, and Hackney engineered a 60-yard push to the Hilltopper's 35. In the fourth stanza three aerials from Seelye to Nieman advanced the ball to the Marquette 28. Seelye ripped off tackle to the 8, and Hackney, nursing an injured hand, pushed to the 3-yard line. Jim Brock's boot from placement furnished the winning margin.

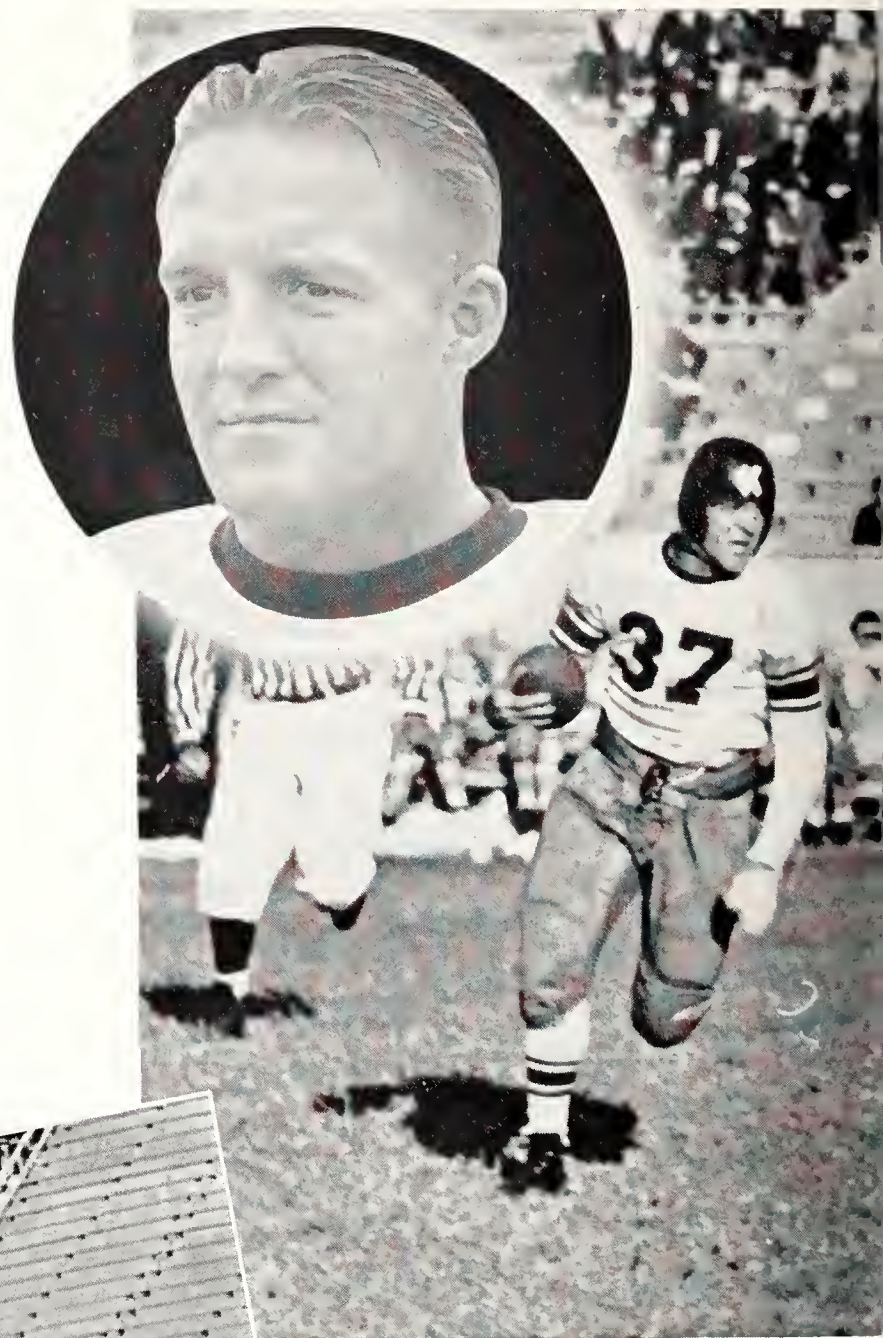

Career Ends

Loss of "One-Man-Gang" Elmer Hackney in the Colorado game was a sharp blow to Wildcat football hopes. Hackney, all Big Six fullback and potential All-American, was assisted from the field when the ligaments were badly torn in his right knee. Elmer's 205 pounds of pile-driving force made him a respected foe throughout the conference, and his absence this season was keenly felt by K-State.

Elmer Hackney, one of the greatest fullbacks ever to don a Kansas State uniform, was dubbed "One-Man-Gang."

around right end on a touchdown play, while a convoy of three determined blockers leads the way, and a fourth comes charging in the Colorado secondary.

Victim Is Colorado Buffalo

Dominating play throughout the afternoon, Kansas State swamped Colorado U. 20-0, for their third straight win of the season.

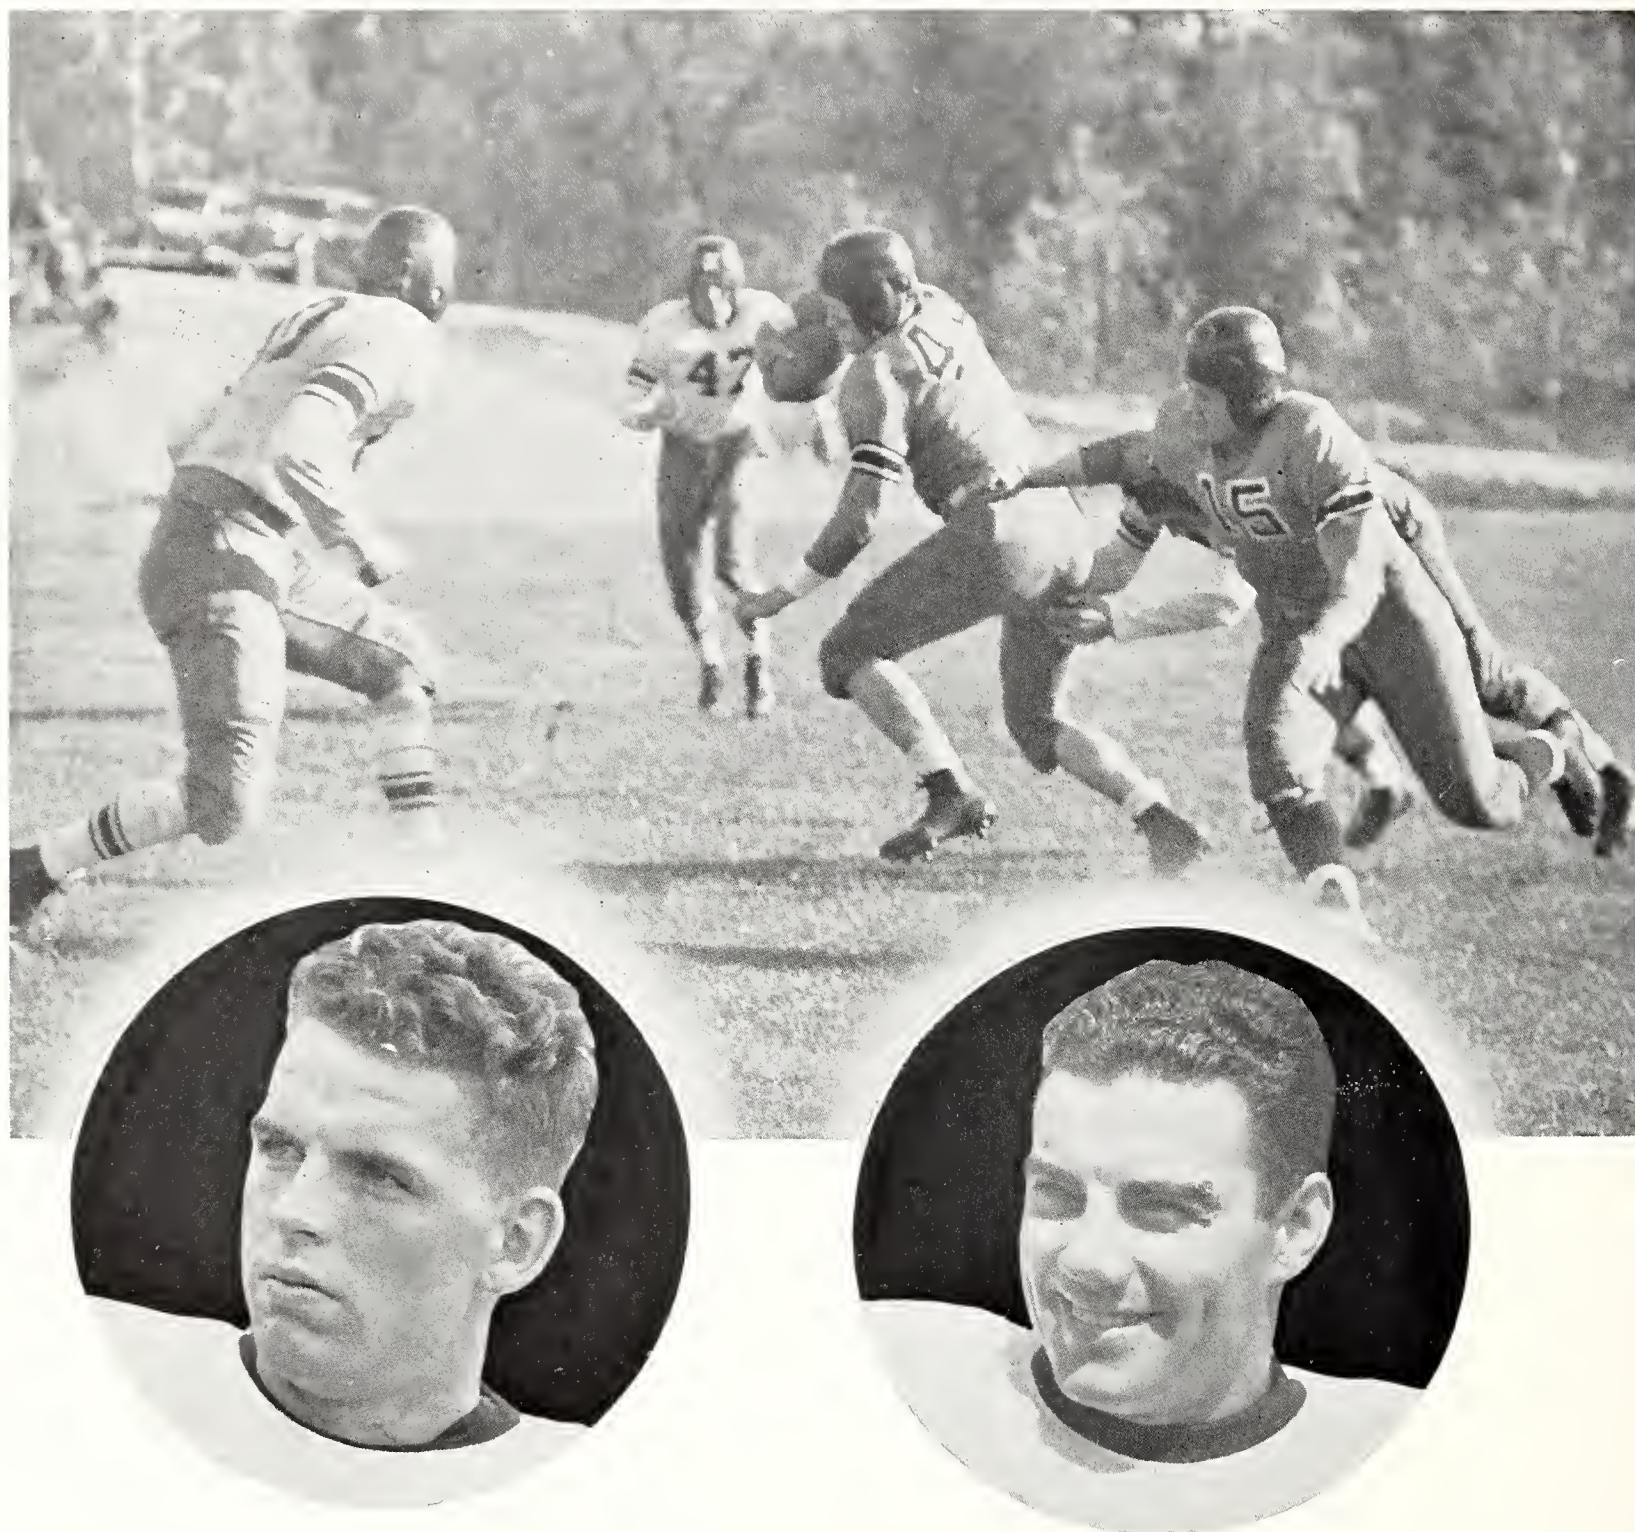

The Buffaloes gained but one first down while the Purple and White garnered 16. Colorado lost three more yards than they gained, compared to 279 yards credited to the Wildcats.

Kansas State threatened twice in the first quarter but lacked the scoring punch. With Gene Fair and Chris Langvardt sharing plays, a second-quarter drive was halted momentarily on the 3-yard line from where Art Kirk plunged over.

The Buffs managed to stave off two scoring threats in the third stanza, but the Wildcats returned in the final quarter with renewed vigor to score twice. Kirk, Nieman, and Seelye contributed yardage and the latter scored over right tackle, Brock converting the second time. Sicks, third string quarter, passed to Timmons in the end zone for the final touchdown as the game ended.

PAUL CHRISTMAN, ace Missouri ball carrier and passer, is being brought down from behind by a K-State tackler, as two other Wildcats close in on him.

Tigers Edge Out Wildcats

The Wildcats, riding high after chalking up three straight victories, opened Big Six competition against the Missouri Tigers at Columbia October 21. The Tigers featured "Pitchin" Paul Christman and were the decided favorites.

Coach Wes Fry and the Wildcats were without Elmer Hackney when they journeyed to the Tigers' lair but were planning an upset, never-the-less. The final count was 9 to 7 for Missouri as the Frymen nearly accomplished their aim.

The Wildcats took the kickoff and marched to the Tiger two-yard stripe before they lost the ball. Kent Duwe, sophomore fullback, was the big gun in the Wildcat offensive as he ripped the Tiger line to shreds.

The two teams surged up and down the field the first half with the Wildcats having the edge in yardage. Late in the second quarter, the Tigers advanced to the Wildcat 10-yard line. When three passes failed, Fullback Bill Cunningham dropped back and booted a field goal which proved to be the margin of victory for Mizzou.

With seven minutes remaining, the Nieman to Fair passing attack netted the Wildcats a touchdown and Jim Brock added the extra point.

Ken Hamlin, junior from Manhattan, saw lots of action at center until hampered by illness in the latter part of the season.

ART KIRK, Wildcat back, appears to be making little headway as a host of Tigers swarm upon him. Missouri won the game 9 to 7 before a huge crowd in Columbia.

Nebraska Wins Homecoming

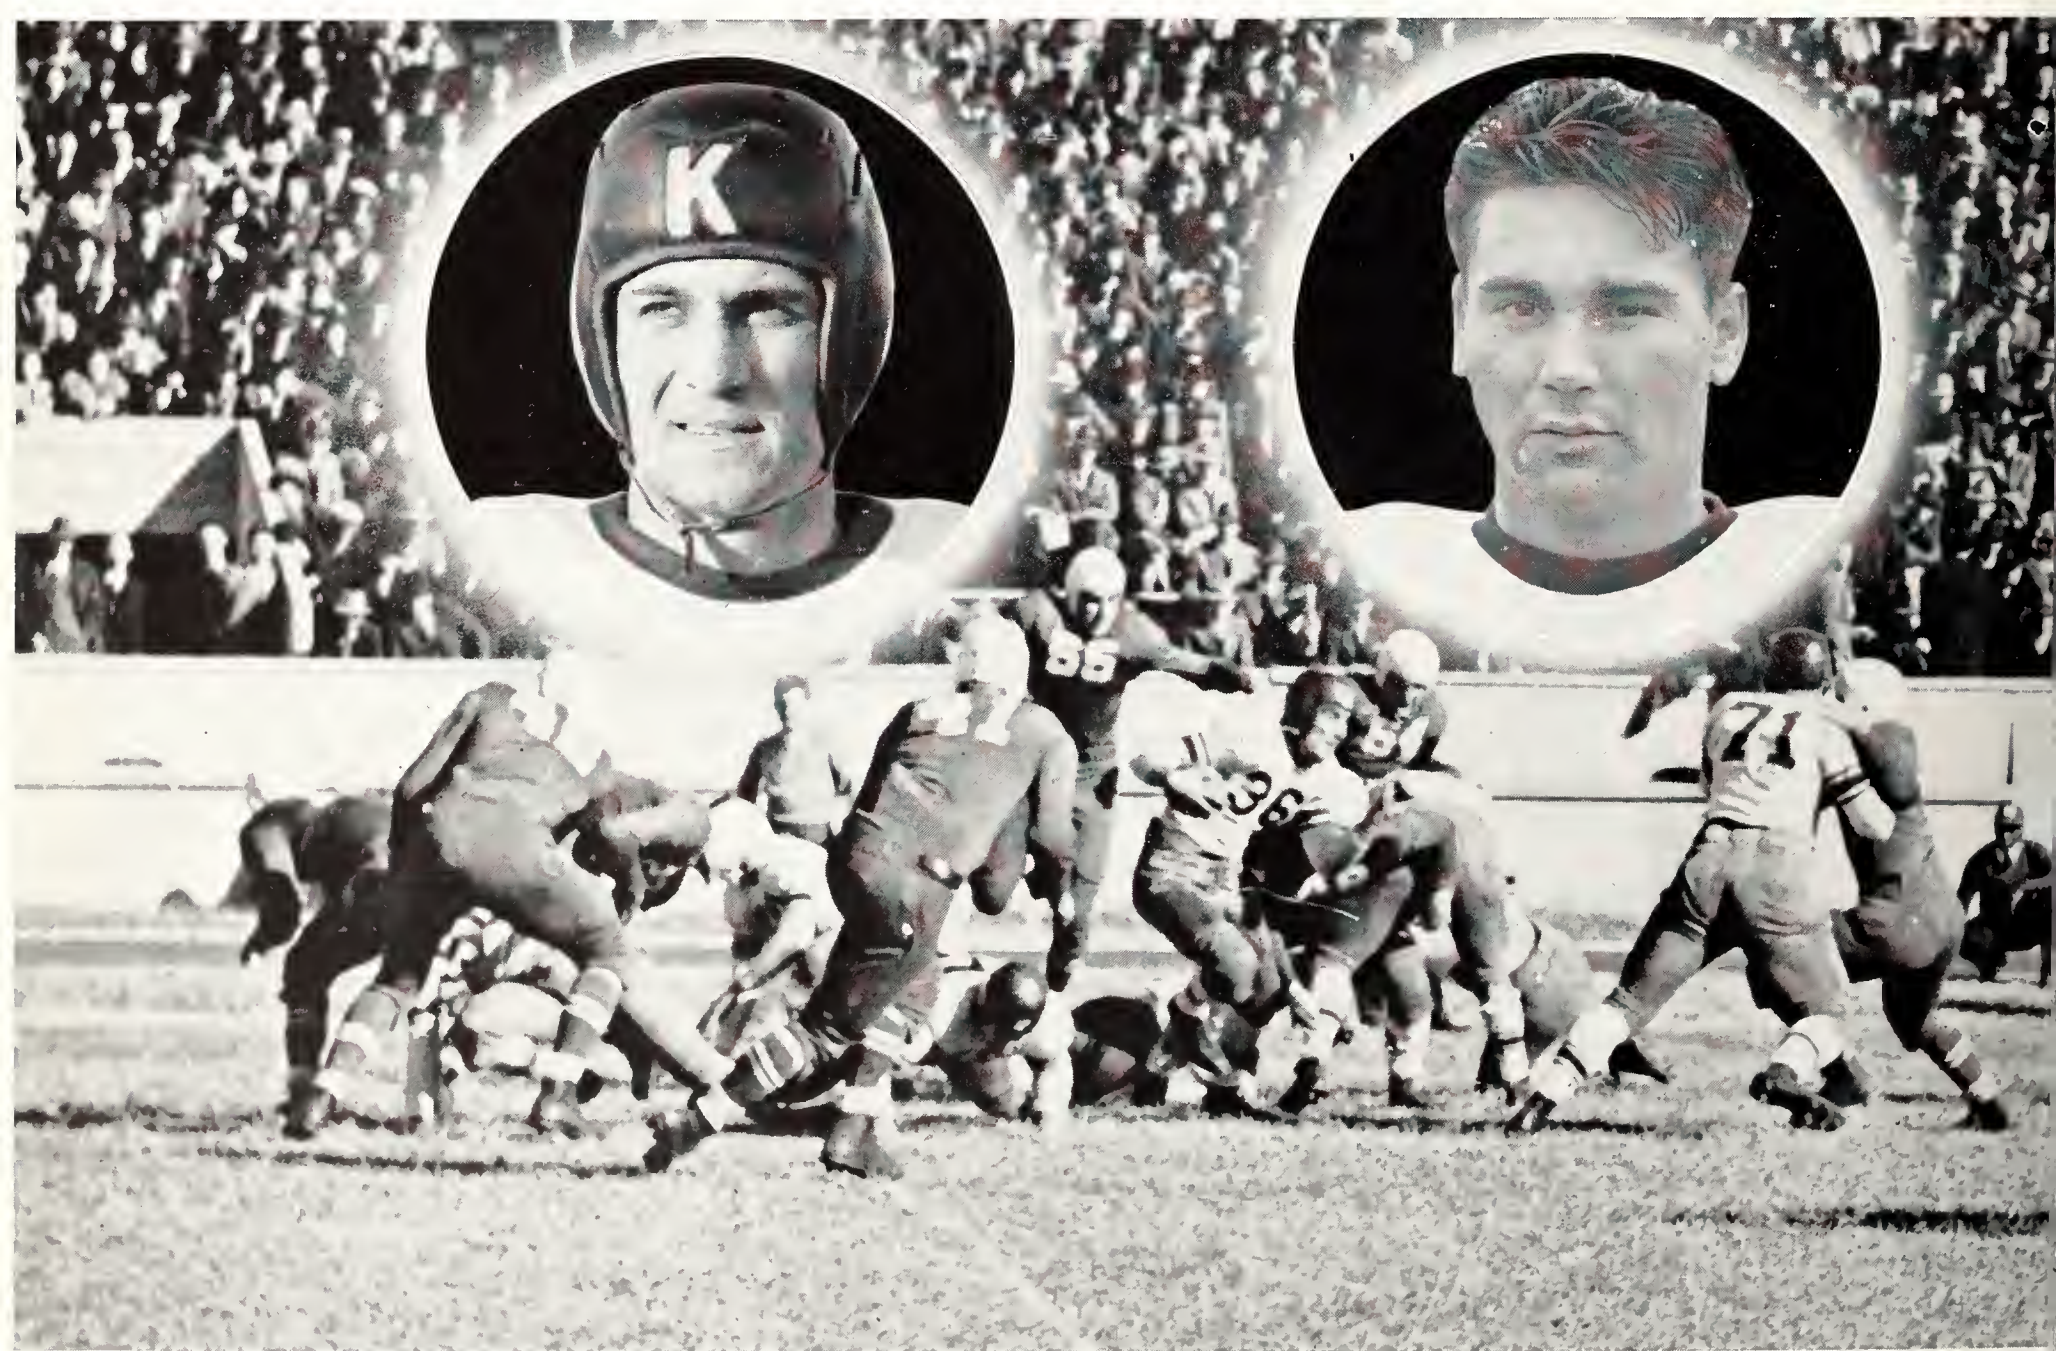

Homecoming arrived with the Wildcats highly optimistic. Excitement was at fever pitch as Greeks decorated and welcomed alumni. Down at the House of Williams "Bessie" stood, serenely chewing her cud, and captioned by the poster, "We're gonna beat Nebraska—that's no bull." But considerable doubt arose as to the gender of the animal when the towering Huskers defeated the Wildcats, 25-9, and the Frymen took lodging in the conference cellar.

It was a clear, crisp afternoon and 15,000 spectators saw Nebraska capitalize on three Wildcat errors, two fumbles and an intercepted pass in Wildcat territory. Once again the Purple and White outgained the victors, gaining 161 yards to the Husker's 134.

Hysteria reigned in the cheering section when early in the game Jim Brock cashed in on a field goal to give Kansas State a 3-point lead. But their elation was short-lived as Nebraska's Herman Rohrig grabbed a Seelye punt on his own 20 and sprinted for a touchdown.

The Huskers struck swiftly in the third period. Harry Hopp snagged Sick's pass in midfield, returning it 15 yards. Four line plays netted a first down on the 10-yard line. Hopp crashed over to give Nebraska a 12-3 lead.

Lyle Wilkins from Delphos, gave the regulars strong competition for the full-back post.

KANSAS STATE END Frank Barnhardt almost—but not quite—drops the pass which gave Kansas State its lone touchdown of the day. Arriving on the scene, but too late, are two disgruntled Husker backs.

Frank Barnhardt, a 6-foot end from Ft. Riley, swelled the ranks of promising sophomores.

Two minutes later a fumble by Duwe was recovered by Nebraska on the State 24, from where Butch Luther scored around right end. The 24-yard stripe again proved taboo for Duwe as he fumbled giving the Cornhuskers possession. Two aerials gave Nebraska another score, and Rohrig converted.

With 25 seconds remaining Seelye shot a 12-yard pass to Frank Barnhardt in the end zone for the lone touchdown.

A stellar performance was rendered as usual by the oft-unsung heroes in the line, especially by Weiner, DeBord, and Beezley.

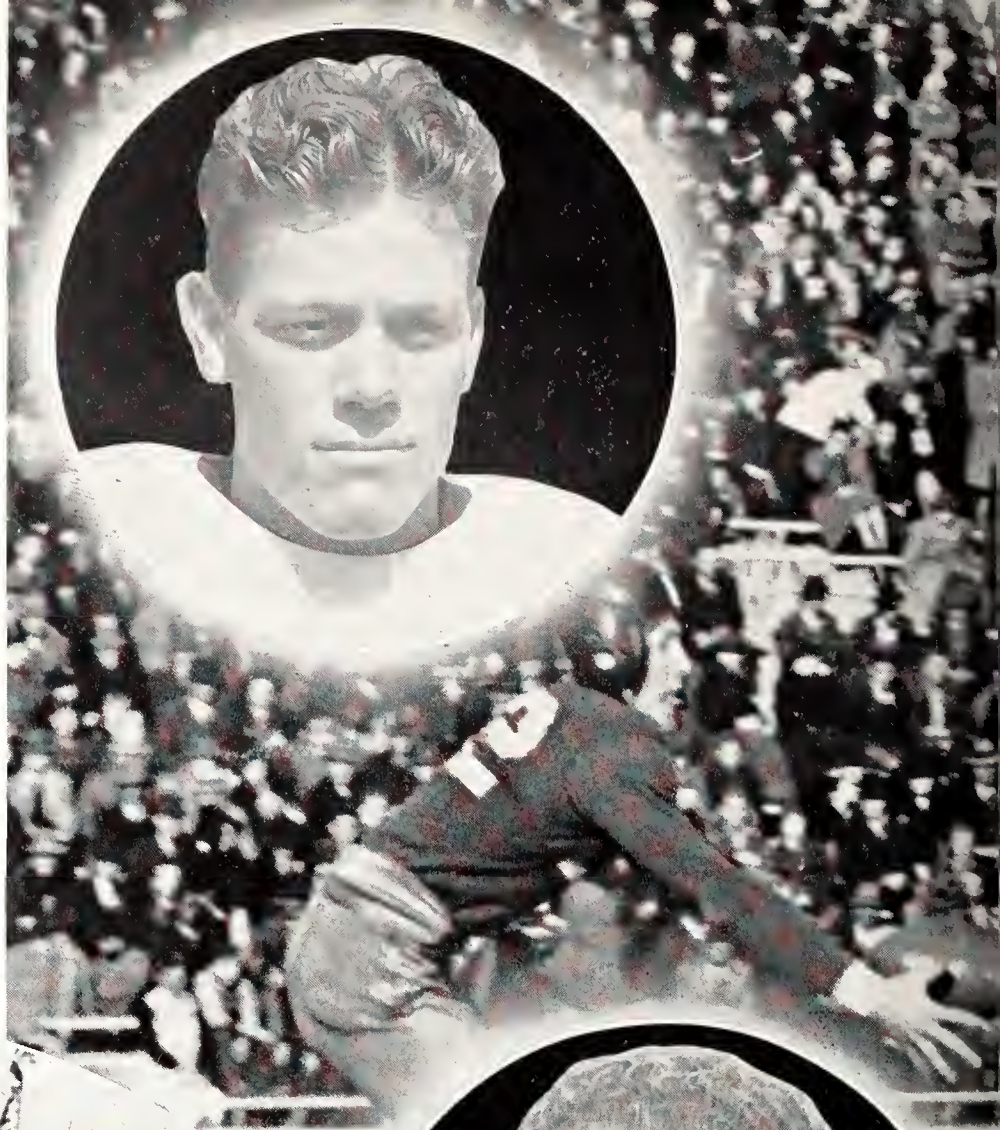

Duwe averaged five yards per play in twenty-one trials.

An excellent blocker, Art Kirk (right, inset) was also a staunch cog in secondary defense.

ALTHOUGH DEFLECTED by a K.U. defensive back, Frank Sicks, (right) Wildcat quarter, managed to grab Nieman's pass for the second Kansas State touchdown, as they beat the Jayhawkers, 27-6.

Chris Langvardt, Alta Vista, was a pass-snagging end.

LUMBERING ALONG with all the grace and efficiency of an army tank, "Big Bull" Beezley leads Seelye as he makes 13-yards for the third touchdown.

Wallace Swanson, a hard-charging end from Sharon Springs, upset many an end sweep.

Don Munzer, a senior from Herington, chalked up a successful record at the end position.

"Down-the-River" Jayhawkers

Memories of a "breather" game the previous year inspired the Wildcats to deal the K.U. Jayhawks a crushing 27-6 blow. A crowd of 20,000 fans watched the deluge, and the ensuing fight as a jubilant Kansas State delegation attempted to take the goal posts.

Superior line play coupled with a fighting back-field quartet, proved a morsel much too indigestible even for the tough Jayhawks.

Two touchdowns in succession by the Wildcats in the first half pulled many a K.U. nose down. Wilkins and Sicks both scored, the latter on a 25-yard pass from Nieman, giving K-State a 13-7 lead at intermission. After vainly trying most of the half to penetrate Wildcat defense, K.U. summoned Ralph Miller to pass into the end zone. The second half was all Kansas State, with Seelye and Duwe both scoring.

GRIM-FACED Kent Duwe crashes through the Oklahoma line for 16 yards, while line-backer Bob Seymour attempts a tackle from behind but misses.

Wildcats Bow

Inspired football rode the crest of a spirited wave of enthusiasm through four quarters as the Kansas State Wildcats gave battle to Tom Stidham's mighty Sooners. The visitors carried off the honors, 13-10, but for the Purple and White it was a moral victory. Band and Scout Day brought a record crowd of 17,500 which overflowed Memorial Stadium and poured out along the track—a crowd, which, in the opinion of the graybeards, out-shouted and out-screamed any pack of Wildcat supporters which had previously graced the stadium.

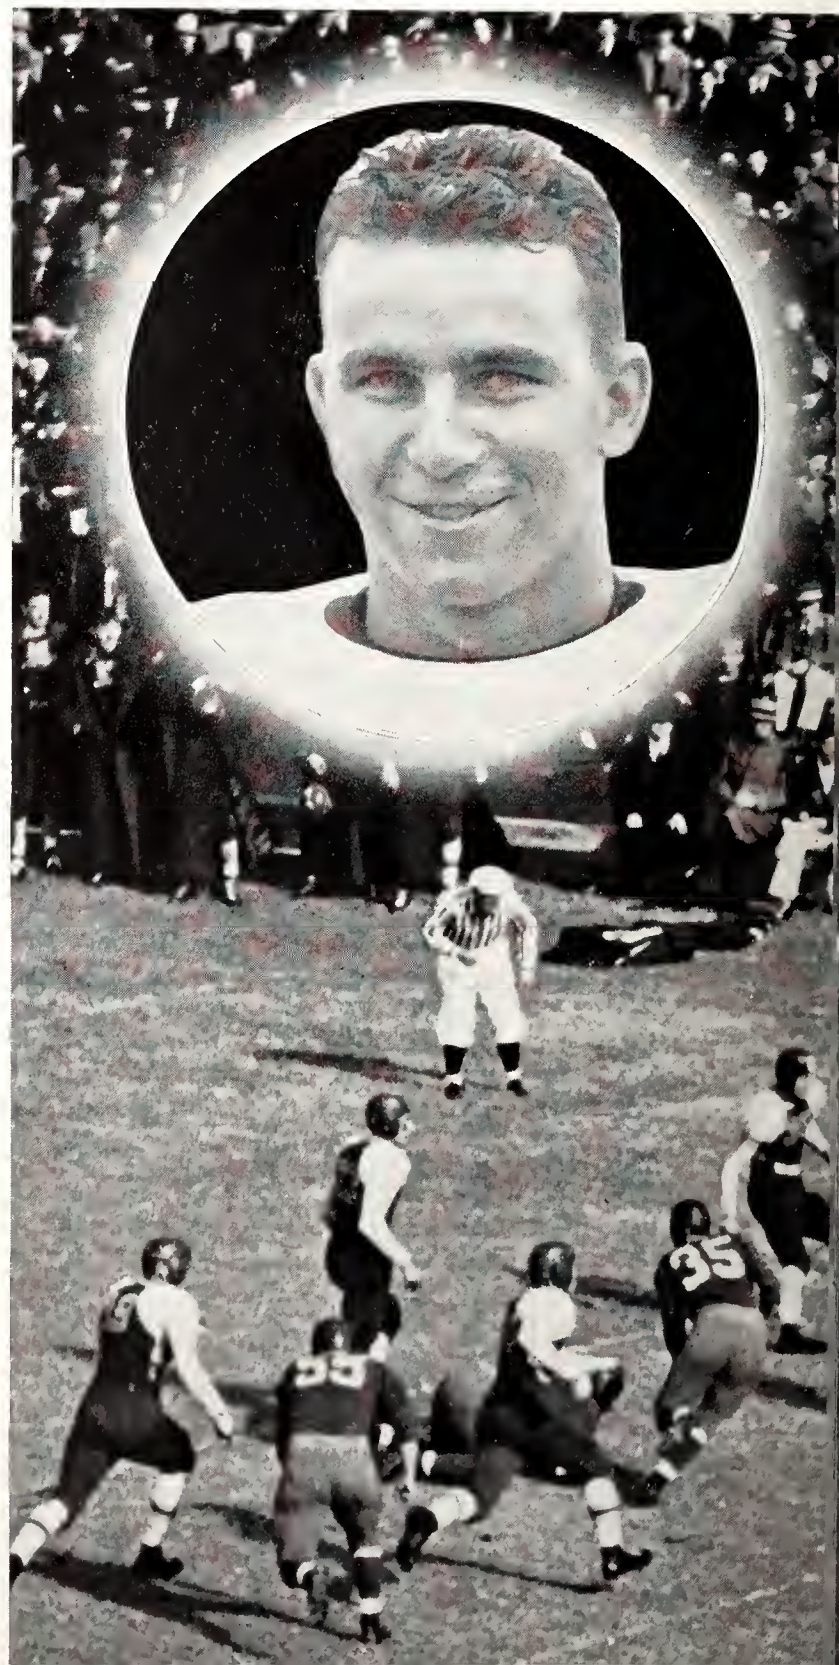

Definitely the underdog, the Wildcats took a hitch in their belts and fought the star-studded Oklahoma aggregation to a standstill. Alternating tallies, each team demonstrated a powerful offensive as they took possession of the ball.

K-State's goal-line defense was remarkable.

Brock Kicks Field Goal

A break for the Wildcats early in the game resulted in the first tally. Jack Jacobs, Sooner safety, fumbled a punt on his own 20-yard line and Don Crumbaker recovered. Two line plays netted nothing and Jim Brock was enlisted to kick goal.

GALLOPING BEHIND INTERFERENCE (right) Duwe (36) returns the kick-off. Players visible are Brock (52), Swanson (34), Beezley (53), Hannah (35), and Weiner (55).

Unleashing a powerful attack, the Sooners thundered down-field, but bogged down on the State 16, as the Wildcats held and took possession of the ball as the quarter ended.

Midway in the second period Oklahoma took the ball on the Kansas State 45 and crossed the double stripe after a battering drive. A deadlock held sway the remainder of the quarter.

Five minutes after intermission Kansas State climaxed a drive from their own 20 to the Sooner goal. After Seelye's brilliant run to the 18, Crumbaker scored on an end-around play behind perfect interference. Brock made the conversion.

Beryl Clark, Sooner back, moved to the midfield with a sparkling 43-yard runback of the kickoff. Powerhouse plays placed the ball on the one yard line, from where Seymour scored.

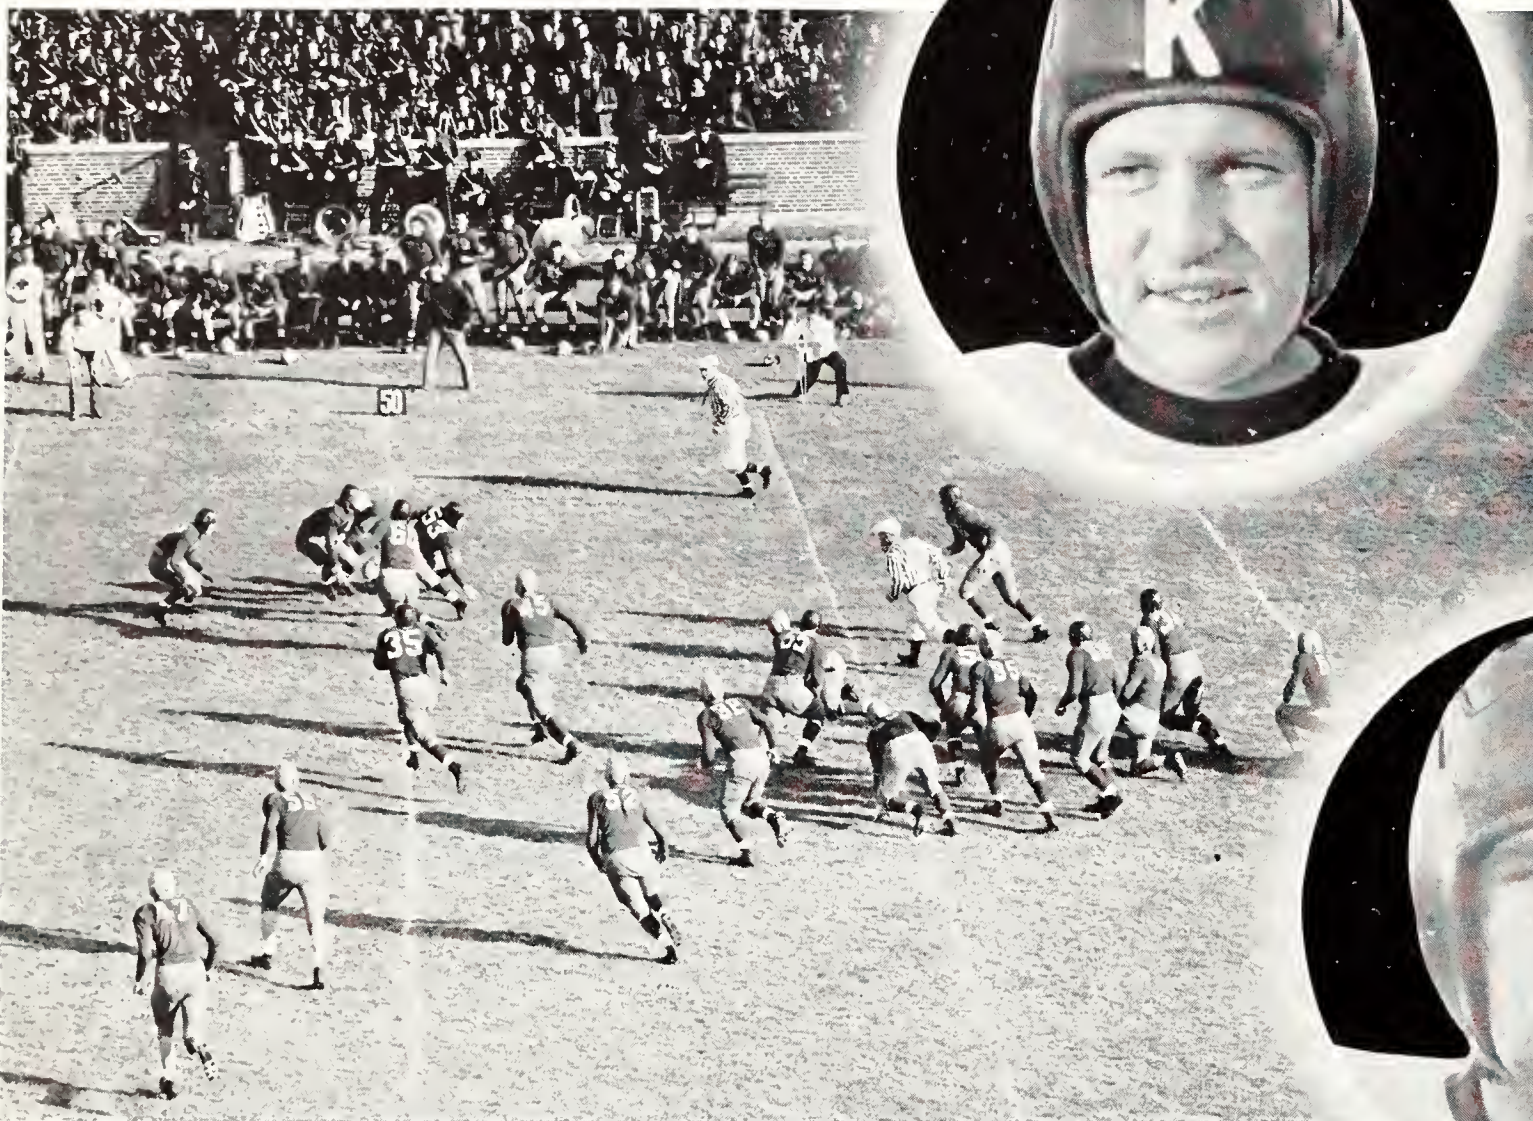

Fighting valiantly the Wildcats drove to the 2-yard line after a long dash by Nieman. Duwe fumbled on the third play, losing possession, and Oklahoma kicked out. Again the Wildcats came back, and a pass from Seelye sent Crumbaker on the road to pay dirt, but the threat died when a Sooner tackle stole the ball out of his arms.

Joe DeBord, a 220-pound tackle from Centralia, was a powerful mainstay in Wildcat defense.

Bernie Weiner, hailing from New Jersey, played a stellar role at the tackle position.

Another promising sophomore is Ed Huff, 205 pounds of guard from Marysville.

An outstanding field tactician was Frank Sicks from Okmulgee, Okla., who played his last year for K-State.

Raymond Roemer (below), sophomore tackle whose performance speaks well of future possibilities.

A KANSAS STATE ball lugger is partially obscured by a trio of black-helmeted Cyclones who pull him down after a seven yard gain, as the late afternoon finds the Wildcats trailing, 0-10.

Iowa State Wins In Upset

The Wildcats suffered a letdown as they trekked to Ames to watch the Iowa State Cyclones dominate the show with a 10-0 shutout, which put Kansas State alongside Iowa State sharing the last rung on the conference ladder.

Although outgaining the Cyclones, the Kansas team couldn't get in gear when the time was ripe for a score.

Bob Seaburg, Cyclone sophomore quarter, provided the entertainment for the fans by kicking the field goal, throwing the touchdown pass, and converting the extra point.

All scoring was made in the first half. Before intermission the Wildcats drove to the 12-yard line with Seelye and Wilkins carrying the ball, but the half ended as Seaburg intercepted Seelye's aerial.

Kansas State threatened again in the final quarter. A pass, Nieman to Fair, was good for 26 yards and a first down on the Cyclone 23. Wilkins and Fair ploughed to the 13 and the latter picked up another five. Cyclone defense stiffened and they took the ball as the fourth-down pass from Nieman to Fair fell in the end zone.

It was a tough day for the Wildcats.

In Weak Finale at Boston

The curtain went down on the 1939 football season with a resounding thump as Boston College literally "beaned" the local aggregation, 38-7. The seablown hosts had lost but one clash during the year, and carried laurels for victories over Auburn, Temple, Detroit, and Boston U.

It was a Boston show through four acts as the travel-weary Wildcats were subdued by a sparkling ground and aerial attack which kept them on their heels most of the contest. Boston scored in every quarter, with five of six touchdowns via the air route.

Boston twice threw "naturals" while the game was still in its infancy. A Kansas State fumble on its own 30-yard stripe opened the door for Boston's third score. That dogged offensive punch which harried the Oklahoma Sooners, did not manifest itself and the Wildcats failed to cross the midfield stripe during the first half.

In the third period, the Wildcats, showing a burst of power, pushed to the Boston 20, but lost the ball on downs.

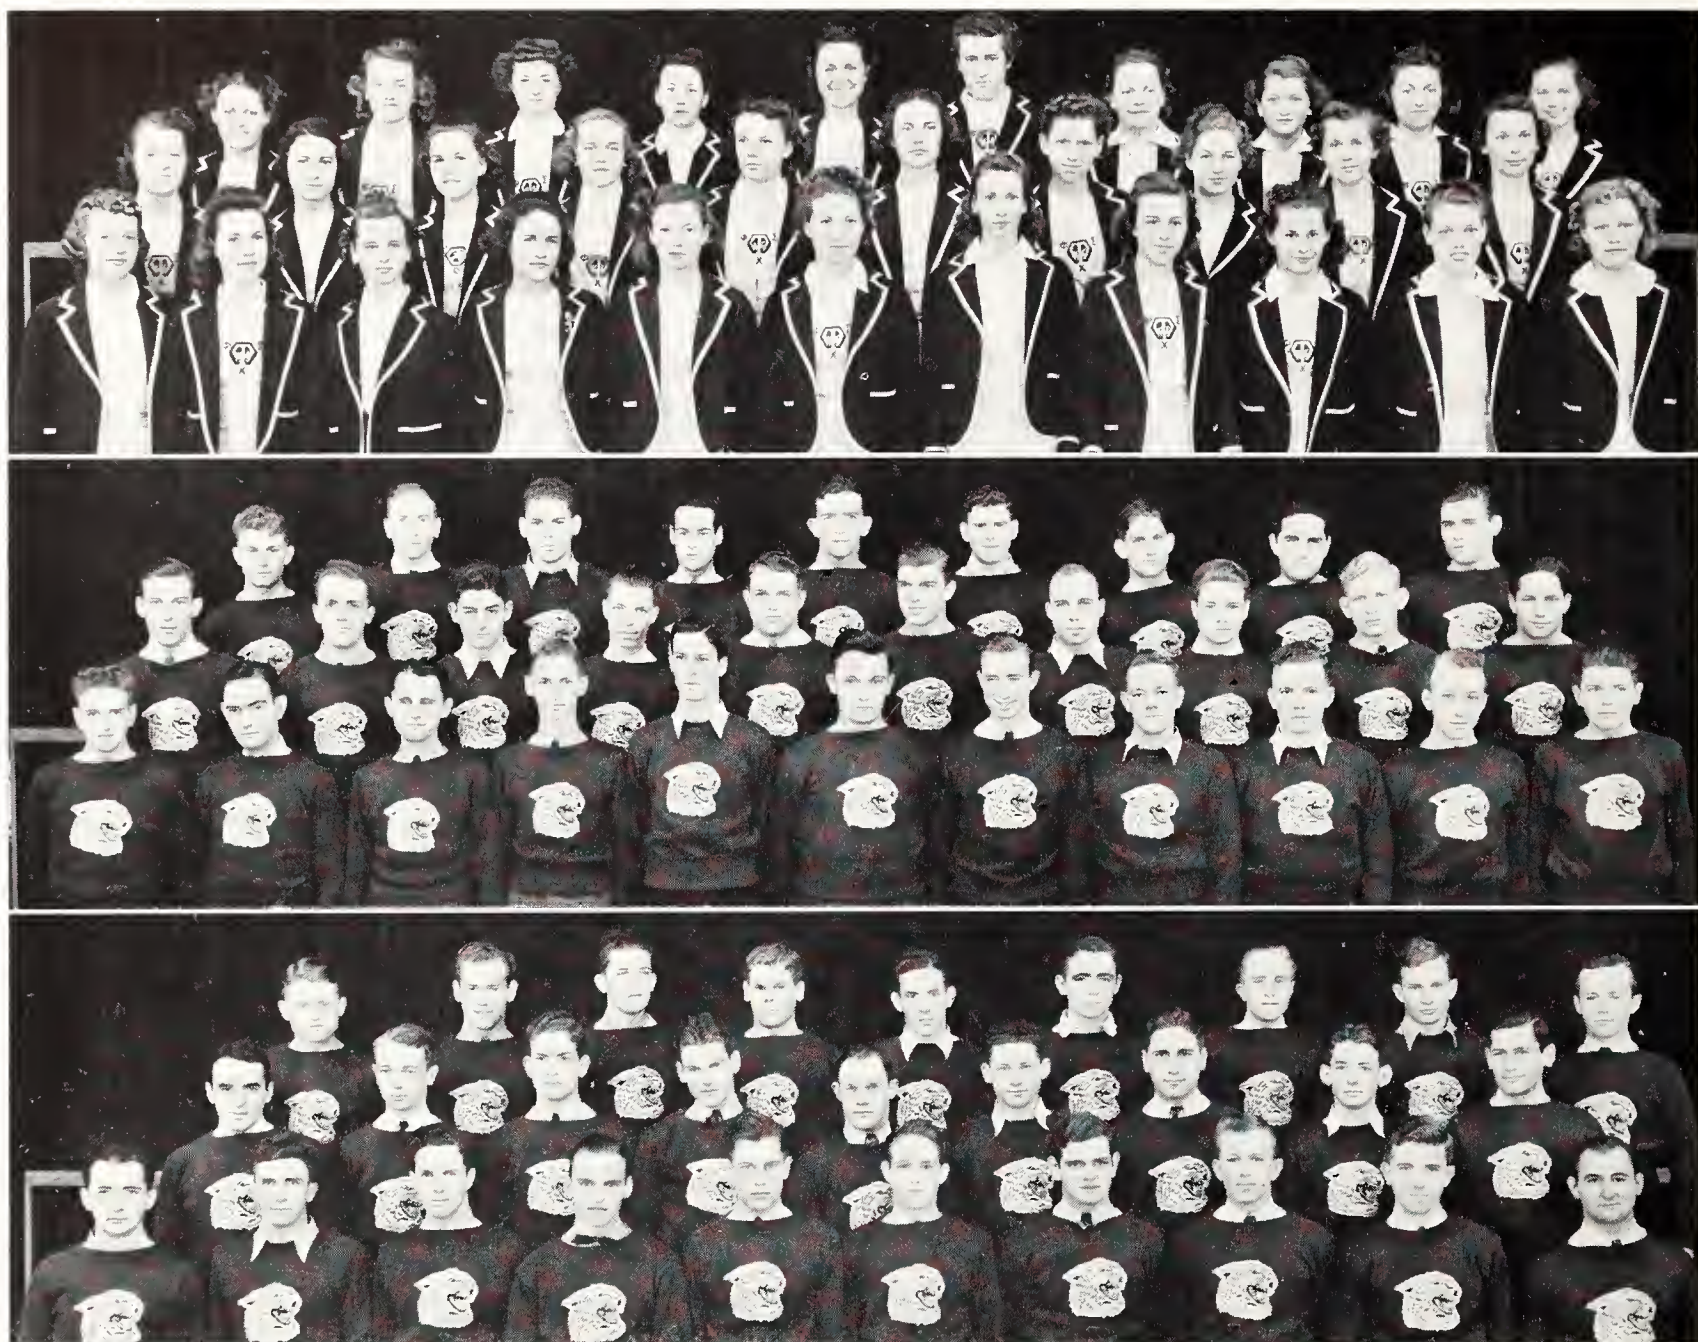

During the waning moments of the game the Purple and White advanced to the Boston 19-yard line where Gene Fair flipped a pass to Munzer who scampered over from the five-yard marker. Nichols converted for the lone touchdown.

Promoters of Wildcat Pep

The local chapter of Phi Sigma Chi, women's pep organization, is known as Purple Pepsters. An equal number of Greeks and Independents appear at games dressed in white sweaters and skirts and purple jackets. Each year, the girls sponsor a Gold Diggers' Ball.

President was Mary Ann Bair. Other officers were Jane Haymaker, vice-president; Marjorie Moree, secretary; Ruth Campbell, treasurer.

A similar organization for men is the Wampus Cats, local chapter of the national pep society, Pi Epsilon Pi. This year, they appeared in new purple sweaters instead of the traditional white. It is the "Cats" who lead the pep rallies before football games.

Bob Page was president; Oren Whistler, vice-president; Rex Cudney, secretary; and Mac Davidson, treasurer.

Cagers Play Up-and-Down Ball

JACK GARDNER, former University of Southern California basketball star, took over the reins of the Wildcat basketball quintet this year and turned in six wins against twelve loses.

The Wildcat hoopsters won four non-conference games and managed to carry away top honors in two conference games to tie with Iowa State and Nebraska for second place after Kansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma had tied for first place honors.

Huge crowds packed Nichols gym to watch the Gardnermen perform. Both wins in the Big Six conference were on the home court and before capacity crowds. Student pep was exceptionally high as continued demands were echoed for a new field house.

Even after the season ended, plans for a new field house continued. A special assembly was called and Blue Key and Mortar Board members circulated a petition which was to have been presented to the Governor.

STUDENTS HANG from rafters during the Missouri game watching the cheerleaders in a demonstration for a new field house. Nichols was packed for all home games.

Fans Hail Coach

JACK "The Builder" Gardner, new Wildcat cage mentor, came to Kansas State this year after coaching for the past four years at Modesto, California, Junior College. While at Modesto, Coach Gardner won the mythical state championship three out of the four years.

The new Wildcat coach played varsity basketball at the University of Southern California. During his senior year, he was captain of the varsity five. In 1933, Gardner served as assistant to Sam Barry, noted Southern California cage coach.

Conducts Coaching School

During the summer of 1933, Coach Gardner conducted a coaching school for players and coaches in Japan. He returned to Japan again in 1935 to continue with the coaching school.

Gardner took charge of the State hoopsters early this fall and gave the fans a new spirited team. Homer Wesche, star of last year's quintet, had charge of the frosh cagers. Some promising cage material was developed in the freshman division and fans are optimistic for the 1941 season.

BOYS ON THE BENCH await the nod from Coach Gardner to replace some tiring Wildcat. Discouragement seems to dominate.

COACH JACK GARDNER, Joe Robertson, and Ernie Miller keep watchful eyes on the Wildcat quintet. Miller was named honorary captain for the year following the season.

Mentor Gardner will be forced to find replacements for Joe Robertson, Melvin Seelye, Ervin Reid, and Ernie Miller, all seniors on this year's squad.

New members of next year's varsity five who should bolster the Wildcat attack are Larry Beaumont, Tom Guy, and George Mendenhall.

AN AWED CROWD WATCHES ELMER HACKNEY THROW THE "SHOT THAT WAS HEARD AROUND THE WORLD." THE THROW OF 55 FEET 11 INCHES

Kansas State Shot Putter Cracks

WITH ELMER "One-Man-Gang" Hackney leading the way, the Wildcats had one of their most successful seasons in track history.

Coach Ward Haylett had twelve lettermen to build a team around when the 1939 season opened. The Haylett harriers developed rapidly as is evidenced by their third place ratings in the Big Six indoor and outdoor meets.

A Consistent Winner

Hackney was the most consistent point winner for the Wildcats. He won his shot event in every meet and established a new record each time he threw the shot with one exception.

Dick Hotchkiss, hurdler and broad jumper, and Charley Mitchell and Paul Clingman, distance men, were right behind Hackney in scoring points for Kansas State.

Coach Haylett took his thin-clads to the Texas Relays in Austin to open the outdoor campaign. Hackney started his "broken record" trail as he pushed the iron ball 52 feet 3¼ inches. Hotchkiss took third in the broad jump and Bill Vanderbilt took fourth in the shot. The two-mile team won fourth, the half-mile team took third, and the distance medley relay team finished second.

On April 22, the Wildcats entered the Kansas Relays at Lawrence. Hackney again extended his triumphs in the shot with a heave of 52 feet 6 inches. Other winners were the half-mile relay team, tie for fourth; two-mile team, fourth; and four-mile relay team, third.

The Huskers Bow

Taking time out from their globe-trotting, the K-State forces stayed in the Big Six and upset Nebraska 77 to 54 in a dual meet at Lincoln, April 26. It was the first time the Wildcats ever defeated the Huskers in an outdoor dual. Hackney gave the Nebraskans a thrill as he blotted out Sam Francis's shot record with a toss of 53 feet 4½ inches.

Dick Toole took first in the 100, second in the 220;

Paul Brown won first in the 440; Charley Mitchell galloped the two-mile to win first; Paul Clingman captured first in the mile; Les Mehaffey won the high jump; honors in the 120 high hurdles went to Darold Dodge; and the mile relay team also finished first. The Wildcats won the respect of the Big Six with their smashing victory over the Cornhuskers, and Haylett prepared his charges for other matches.

On Road Again

Getting the traveling urge again, the Wildcats turned to the Colorado Relays at Boulder, April 29. Kansas State emerged the sweepstakes champion of the fifteenth annual carnival, the first Big Six team ever to win the event.

The "Cats" won firsts with their 440, 880, two-mile, and mile relay teams. Hackney annexed another first as he set a carnival record of 54 feet 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ inches in the shot. Hotchkiss made points for the wearers of the Purple and White with seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles and the broad-jump. Les Mehaffey tied for first in the high-jump and Vanderbilt won fourth in the shot and javelin. Darold Dodge took fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles and Louis Akers got a fifth in the 100.

At home again, the Wildcats took time out from their studies long enough to play host to K.U. and Nebraska in a triangular meet in Memorial Stadium on May 6.

CLEARING HIGH hurdles (left) was a familiar role for Dick Hotchkiss who captained Coach Ward Haylett's 1939 track team. He was lost to the '40 team by graduation.

The only bright spot in the triangular meet for the Wildcats was Elmer Hackney's amazing throw in the shot event. Hackney threw the 16-pound ball 55 feet 11 inches to establish a new American record. Hackney's toss was the best throw ever made by a college man while he was in school.

The supposedly weak Cornhuskers won the three-way meet with 63 points. K.U. took second with 53½ points, and Kansas State was last with 49½ tallies.

Brown Takes Second

Paul Brown came in second in the 880 and Paul Clingman did the same in the mile. Mitchell won second in the two-mile and Thaine High finished third. Hotchkiss and Darold Dodge came through with first and second in the 120-yard high hurdles. Hotchkiss also finished first in the broad-jump while Mehaffey tied for first in the high-jump. Vanderbilt was fourth in the shot.

The Oklahoma Sooners invaded the K-State lair, May 13, for a dual meet and went home with the scalps of the Wildcats. The Sooners took the meet by a 73½ to 53½ count, being especially strong in the dashes.

Paul Clingman put on an iron-man stunt as he won the mile and took third in the two-mile. Mitchell and High finished first and second in the two-mile to give the Wildcats a clean sweep. Paul Brown came through with a second in the 440 and Ed Leland did likewise in the 880. Dodge was second in the low hurdles and Hotchkiss won second in the high sticks. Hackney, Vanderbilt, and Makalous won the first three places in the shot respectively. Merle Whitlock captured first in the broad jump.

Wildcats Take Third

The Wildcats finished third in the Big Six conference meet at Ames, Iowa, May 20. The Nebraska

JOGGING ALONG THE TRACK are members of the mile relay team. They are Loyal Payne, Cecil Robinson, Jack Haymaker, and Paul Brown. The team won fourth in the Big Six meet.

Cornhuskers finished first and the Oklahoma Sooners were good for second money.

Elmer Hackney and Dick Hotchkiss were the only first money winners for the Wildcats, with Hackney setting another record in the shot to continue his sensational winning streak. His best toss in the conference jamboree was 51 feet 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

Hotchkiss won his specialty, the 120 high hurdles, and Darold Dodge took third in the same event. Dodge also captured fourth in the low hurdles. In the high jump, Lester Mehaffey carried off third place honors.

The Wildcats picked up some needed points in the distance runs. Paul Clingman won third in the mile and Charley Mitchell and Thaine High were second and third in the two-mile.

Louis Akers finished in fifth place in the 220 while the mile relay team came in fourth. Bill Vanderbilt took fifth in the shot put.

A Trip to Coast

After school was out, Coach Haylett took Elmer Hackney, Paul Clingman, Thaine High, and Charley Mitchell to Los Angeles for the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet June 17.

Hackney was the only Wildcat to leave his mark. He climaxed his track year with a toss of 55 feet 10³/₈ inches. This was the second best throw of the year—the best being the “Gang’s” own mark of 55 feet 11 inches made on his own stamping grounds in Memorial Stadium. Competition in the distance runs was too much for the other Wildcat stars.

Kansas State was champion of the Big Six last year if all three track events—the indoor meet, the outdoor meet, and the two-mile competition—are considered. The Wildcats won the two-mile goal and finished third in both the indoor and outdoor meets to give them a total of 7 points. The team with the lowest score was the winner. Missouri was second with 7¹/₂ points and K.U. was third with 9¹/₂ points.

As Coach Haylett groomed his cindermen for the 1940 season, Hackney was still recovering from a wrist injury. Early in the season he practiced throwing the shot with his left hand but changed back to right-hand tossing in the Big Six indoor meet to win the event.

WILDCAT BROADJUMPERS Morton Smutz (above, upper) and Merle Whitlock tie the shoe-strings of their spiked-shoes as they prepare for a practice session. Both were lettermen.

GOING OVER the high bar is Lester Mehaffey (above, lower) who placed third in the Big Six meet. He was the best high-jumper on the Wildcat squad.

ABOUT TO BREAK the tape to win first place in the mile run in the Oklahoma dual meet is Paul Clingman. His time was 4:26.5. He is getting encouragement from the sidelines.

A VICTORIOUS two-mile team poses for the Royal Purple cameraman—with the smile of satisfaction. The champions are Paul Clingman, Thaine High, David Karnowski, and Verle McClellan.

They Still Own The Big Six

CAPT. PAUL CLINGMAN listens to the advice of Coach Ward Haylett in the locker rooms. Clingman took fifth in the Big Six meet to help gather in enough points for the Wildcats to dominate the conference again.

THE two-mile team started the season with only two lettermen, Paul Clingman and Thaine High. Gone from Coach Ward Haylett's championship quartet were Charley Mitchell, Big Six two-mile champ, George Hofsess, Ed Leland, and Bob Nixon.

But Haylett built his team around the veterans and opened the season at Manhattan, October 14, with a 19 to 17 victory over Drake. High finished second; Clingman, third; McClellan, fourth; and Karnowski, eighth.

At Columbia the Wildcats again chalked up victory with a 22 to 13 win over the Tigers. High, Clingman, McClellan, and Karnowski finished in that order behind Missouri's Munski.

On November 3, the Wildcats lost to K.U. at Lawrence 17 to 19. Clingman came in second, followed by High. McClellan was sixth and Newcomer, eighth. The Big Six two-mile meet was at Columbia, November 18. With High getting third, Clingman fifth, and McClellan eleventh, the Wildcats garnered 35 points which won the meet.

Fourth on Boards

THE WILDCAT indoor track team opened the season early in February with the Drake Bulldogs of Des Moines. The Drakemen defeated K-State 59 to 45. Then the local cindermen won over Kansas, lost to Nebraska and Missouri in dual meets and finished fourth in the Big Six.

Elmer Hackney chalked up a first in the shot at the Armour Tech Relays.

At the conference meet, Thaine High won the two-mile and Hackney the shot-put to give Kansas State firsts. Darden took fourth in the 60-yard high hurdles, Akers won third in the 60-yard dash, Dodge captured third in the 60-yard low hurdles, Day tied for fourth in the high jump, Solt was fourth in the broad jump, Clingman won fourth in the two-mile, and the mile relay team came in third to give Kansas State its points.

Nebraska won the Big Six meet with Missouri second and Iowa State third.

CAPTAIN OF the indoor track team this year was Elmer Hackney (left) who is nationally known for his throws with the shot. He is talking matters over with Coach Ward Haylett.

JIM BROCK (below) plants one far afield for a hit in the second Missouri game here. Brock was the only veteran on the mound last spring, and was a cool and collected batter.

BASEBALL interest hit a new high in 1939 as this major sport entered its forty-second year of inter-scholastic competition. When the horsehides and hickory were stacked away in the moth balls last May, Kansas State's diamond dusters had finished a difficult seventeen-game schedule.

Against an imposing array of baseball talent, the Wildcat nine chalked up a record of eight victories and nine losses, four of the latter being by one-point margins. K-State finished fourth in the conference with Oklahoma taking the pennant.

Season prospects assumed a rosy hue early in March when Owen L. (Chili) Cochrane, making his debut as baseball mentor, issued the first call for players. But prospects for a championship Kansas State nine paled somewhat when only one pitcher of the seven returning lettermen responded to the call. He was Jim Brock, regular moundsman. The other veterans were Ervin Reid, Wilbert Duitsman, Meade Harris, Max Kurman, and Beverly Greene. Thus hampered by a weakness in the pitching department, coupled with inclement weather which permitted but two weeks of sketchy practice, the Wildcats prepared to entertain the squad from Norman.

Oklahoma's Sooners moved in on the Wildcats with the advantage of a month's workouts under ideal conditions and boasting veterans in every corner and the middle. But with Brock hurling a steady, cool game, Kansas State took the first contest 6-5. A ragged defense, due to insufficient practice, cost the home team the second game, 2-6, with Elmer (Butch) Nieman accounting for one of the scores with a homer.

Win One, Rain One

Having had but one day of workout in nine, the Wildcats played host to the down-the-river Jayhawks April 14 and chilled the invaders with a 12-4 victory. Brock allowed but three hits, the K.U. boys scoring six in the error column. While Coach Ralph Conger of K.U. "pawed the air" and insisted on Saturday's contest since he had saved his best pitchers, Riley county enjoyed a healthy downpour and the field was a mass of water, surrounded by bits of diamond.

Drop Two Games

On April 21 the Wildcats treked to Ames and came back with the short end of a two-game series. The Iowans, living up to their Cyclone name, took the first tilt 8-4, and the finale 12-11. Kansas State beat out four runs in the first frame but fanned air for the remainder of the opener. Brock, with a typhoid shot in his hurling arm, held forth the entire route. A corrugated infield, with resultant errors, accounted for the Cyclone lead.

Bunching hits in the second game, the Wildcats built up a six run lead in the first inning. The third brought four more while Iowa was content with one. Runs on both sides tied the score in the ninth, but the Cyclones singled in the tenth to win.

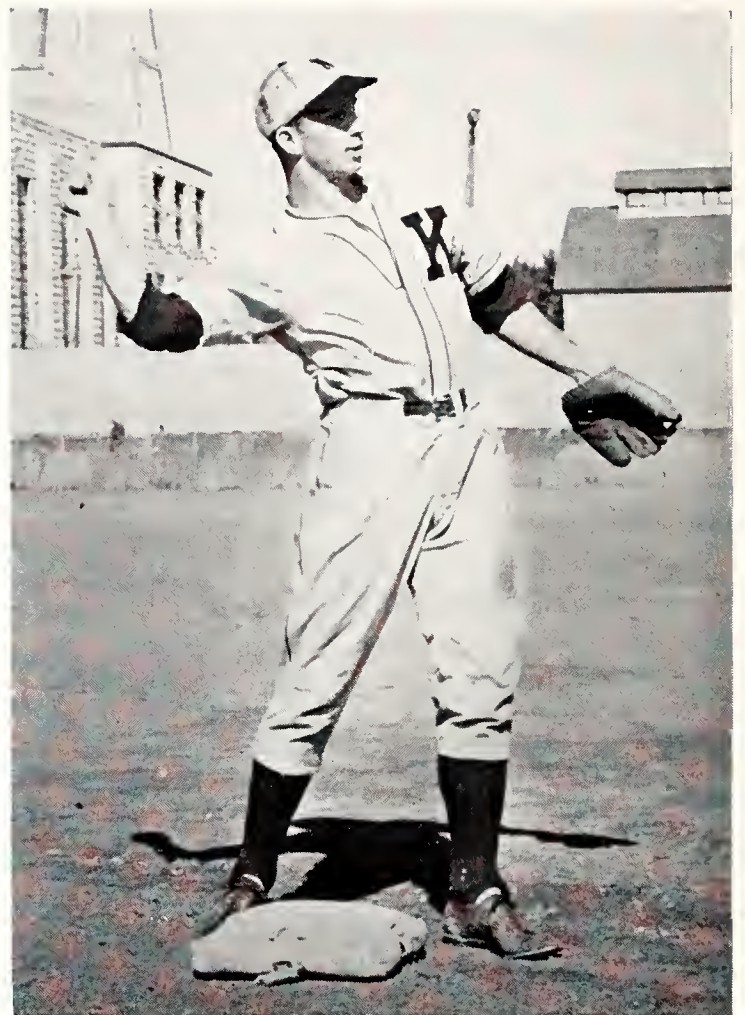

Teach the Teachers

Still on the road, the Wildcats halted at Maryville, Mo., long enough to trim the Teachers 10-5, April 24. Although out-hit 9-7, K-State stood in the money while John Smith, young pitching hopeful, occupied the mound. Four successive walks in the fifth allowed three K-State runs with additional tallies in the first and third. A single and triple by Reid, centerfielder, accounted for five runs.

After their brief stay in Maryville, the Wildcats headed again for their home lair.

the local diamond April 26-27. Two closely battled victories over the Huskers, 6-3 and 6-5, strengthened the Wildcats' hopes for turning back M.U., conference champs of the 1938 season. With Brock, recovered from a recent illness, at the helm, Kansas State carded ten hits, one error, and stole five bases. Chris Langvardt, replacing injured Bill Duitsman, collected a home run and two singles in four trips to the plate. Fred Eystone, sophomore hurler, pitched to victory in the second game, allowing but three hits.

Mizzou Taboo

On May 5, the Big Six leading Missouri Tigers moved in with a quartette of ace hurlers, accompanied by a high wind and dust. Not content with a 2-0 shut-out in the opener, the Bengals ran rampant in the second. When the wind quit singing and the dust had settled, the Wildcats found themselves buried 9-21, having utilized four pitchers in an attempt to stem the tide. It was the sixth straight for Missouri.

A host of Wildcat fans were on the sidelines to watch the drubbings.

The Rockhurst game, which found the disgruntled Eagles on the small side of a 9-1 score, featured Frank (Bow Wow) Woolf, diminutive third baseman, in a new role on the mound. He allowed only two hits. Ernie Miller, 'Cat second sacker, led the attack with a pair of doubles. His teammates scored in the first, third, fifth, seventh, and eighth innings, limiting Rockhurst to one run in the first frame.

The Missouri nine was reveling in its victories as the Wildcats paid a visit to Columbia May 12-13. The Tigers were still reveling when the Wildcats left as the brace of closely battled victories over Kansas State further enhanced their chances for the conference pennant. Jim Brock got the nod in the first contest

Maryville once again found no consolation as the State in front 9-2 at the end of the second inning.

Ernie Miller homered with one on in the first and a cats went to Lawrence May 19 to settle a three-game series with the Jayhawks, who eked out a bare 9-8 plum on the opener

16-9. With Woolf twirling, Kansas
State led 8-5 in the last of the eighth.

Then K.U. opened up with a barrage of hits that neither Eyestone nor Brock could halt and won by a single score. The Jayhawk tribe failed to cross the plate the following day as Cochrane's proteges won 3-0, opening a double-header. After tying win 3-2.

The biggest problem facing baseball coach "Chili" Cochrane as the 1940 season opened was finding starting pitchers. Gone from last year's squad was Max Kurman, catcher; Meade Harris, shortstop; Erv Reid, outfielder, who was out with a shoulder injury, and "Butch" Nieman, outfielder who entered professional baseball.

Two Veteran Pitchers

Cochrane had Jim Brock and Fred Eyestone, lettermen, to build his pitching staff on. Other squadmen are Mason, Cadets, Nelson, and Woolf. For the catching job, Marshall, Raemer and Dalziel seemed to have the inside track. None of them were lettermen.

Infielders were plentiful with Graham, Miller, Townsend, Woolf and Merten heading the field. Promising rookies were Hornsby, Bell, and Hall.

Only Bill Duitsman returned from last year's outfield but Chris Langvardt, a letterman, was certain for one of the outfield posts. Other outfield prospects were Rokey and Horacek. Mike Ahearn and Frank Myers were assistants to Coach Cochrane.

ALL-AMERICAN footballer Paul Christman of Missouri has the ball put on him by "Bow Wow" Woolf as both look for the ump's decision during a Tiger-Wildcat game here.

A POWERFUL UTILITY man on the K-State nine last season was Frank (Bow Wow) Woolf, who substituted as a third baseman, outfielder, or pitcher.

LEE TOWNSEND, veteran third sacker, was a sparkplug on the club. His accurate pegs from third to first was a feature quality.

BEHIND THE PLATE much of the time was Max Kurman, mainstay catcher, who specialized in pulling down foul balls.

PROVING THAT the ball is quicker than the eye, which is as it should be, Capt. Kenneth Nordstrom (below) holds his head in position on the follow-through.

Drive Falls Short

GOLF suffered a serious setback during the 1939 season with the Wildcats winning but five matches and losing seven. Three initial contests on the home links were decisive victories for the K-State sod-busters but the Nebraska grass greens proved a stumbling block as did most of the foreign courses.

After walloping Washburn, Wichita, and Emporia, the squad bowed to the Huskers and won only two other tilts. In the Big Six meet, K-State was sixth.

A Record Season

UNDER the tutelage of Coach C. S. (Cooney) Moll, the 1939 Wildcat net team racqueted through the most successful tennis season in more than nine years. The Kansas State team, captained by Richard Gray, chalked up a record of eight wins, three ties, and four losses.

With virtually half the season gone on a give-and-take basis, the Wildcats volleyed back with five straight victories. K-State garnered one point in the Big Six Meet. All but Gray were enrolled again this season.

The Kansas State matmen, coached by B. R. "Pat" Patterson, opened the season with a successful invasion through the East meeting Franklin Marshall, Lehigh University, Kent State College, and Illinois.

The Wildcat men of the mat turned back Iowa State in the home ring, and then managed to squeeze past a stubborn Minnesota outfit by one point.

Find Aggies Tough

Patterson's "twist 'em up artists" again took to the road and made successful invasions of Oklahoma University, Oklahoma Southeast Teachers, Central State Teachers, and Nebraska University mat circles. The Wildcats took their worst beating from the Oklahoma A. and M. Cowboys.

All the Wildcats who entered the National Collegiate meet at Illinois reached the semi-finals except Glenn Duncan and Keith Collins.

Members of the Big Six championship team are Verle McClellan, 136 pounds; Glenn Duncan, 145 pounds and captain-elect; Gerald Van Vleet, 155 pounds; and Reynard, 175 pounds. Swim to Victory

KANSAS State's swimming team this year enjoyed its most successful season in history. The climax was reached at the Big Six meet at Ames, Ia., where the Wildcats took second. During the season the State tankmen annexed seven victories out of eight dual meets, losing only to Iowa State, the defending champion.

Marshall Stover and Leo Yeo, sophomore stars, led the victorious Wildcats with Stover setting new records in the 220- and 440-yard dashes, while Yeo gathered points in the sixty- and 100-yard events.

Interest High in Intramurals

PROF. L. P. WASHBURN (above) is the director and advisor of men's intramural athletics at Kansas State. This position occupies a great deal of his time.

INTRAMURAL athletics at Kansas State offered competition to more than 1,400 men students this year with twenty fraternity and fourteen independent teams entered in the race for the large plaque awarded teams winning the largest number of points during the year.

Prof. L. P. Washburn has charge of the intramural program and it is his aim that every man in school be able to take part in at least one of the many activities on the program.

Have Two Divisions

Competition is divided into two divisions, fraternity and independent, with the winners in each division playing for the all-school championship.

The 1939-40 season started in the fall with touch football, horseshoes, and golf. The Junior A.V.M.A.

team won the touch football championship, defeating the Phi Kappa Taus in the finals, 7 to 6. The Vets won the independent division from the I.S.U., 2 to 0 while the Phi Kappa Taus entered the finals by defeating the Alpha Gamma Rho team, 6 to 0.

Schafer Is Shoe King

Paul Schafer, Kappa Sigma, won the horseshoe singles crown by defeating Lyle Boley, independent, in the finals. Boley teamed with Marion Miller to capture the school doubles title by defeating Wilbert Duitsman and Roland Kruse.

More than thirty Kansas State linksmen teed off in the golf tournament and Bill Mundy, Beta Theta Pi, carried away top honors with a score of 72. D. S. Guerrant was runner-up with an 18-hole score of 75.

Forty teams entered the basketball tournament with the Dragoons, independent team, emerging the winners. The Dragoons defeated the Alpha Tau Omega cagers 16 to 12 in the finals. The ATO team won the fraternity division, defeating the Kappa Sigs

D. S. GUERRANT, runner-up in the golf tournament, is ready to drive out a long one.

BILL MUNDY shot a 72 to win the intramural golf tournament.

Nearly 1,500 Men

25 to 23. The Dragoons fought their way to the independent title by defeating Nighthawks 15 to 11.

R. D. Miller, Sigma Nu, won the intramural table tennis title by defeating Wallace Rankin, independent, in the finals. Miller then teamed with Claude Shenkle to win the doubles championship from Bob Cotton and Dean Snow. More than 175 men entered the tournament.

In the handball tournament, Warren Hornsby, Delta Tau Delta, copped the singles crown by defeating Wallace Rankin, independent. Arthur Wexler and Kenneth Yoon won the independent doubles by defeating Mark Greenburg and William Rosner in the finals. Les Edrington and Dick Atkins, Kappa Sigma, defeated Fred Officer and Dave Van Aken, Beta Theta Pi, to win the fraternity crown.

Take Active Part

The Nighthawks, independent team, took top honors in the volleyball tournament defeating the Phi Kappa Taus two out of three games in the finals. The Phi Kappa Taus won two straight games from the Sigma Nus for the fraternity crown and the Nighthawks won their way to all-school finals by downing the Dragoons, 2 to 1.

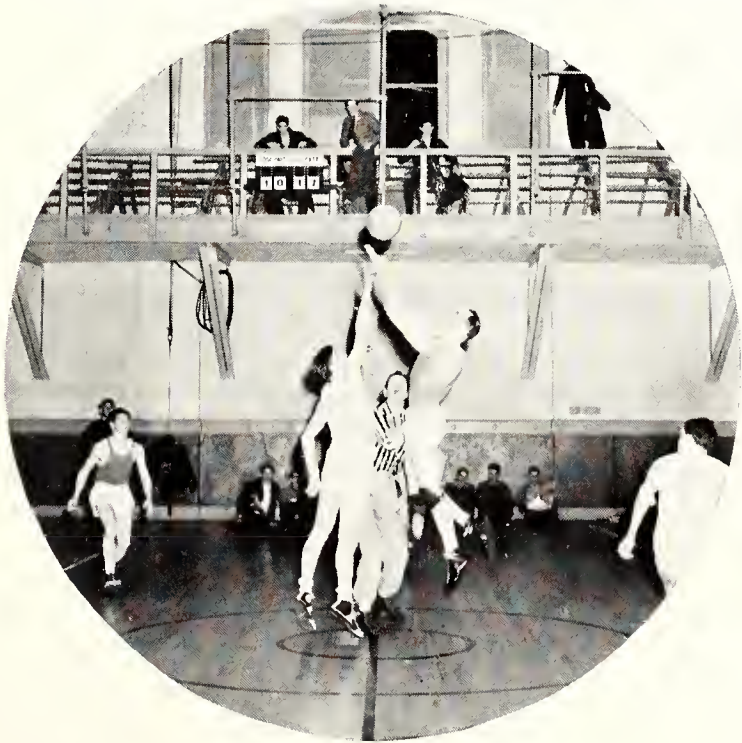

Delta Tau Delta tankmen turned in a total of forty-nine points in the fraternity swimming contest with Beta Theta Pi garnering forty-seven points. The Nighthawks captured sixty-six points while the Lutheran Student Association totaled twenty-four points in the independent division.

In the softball league the spring of 1939, the Delta Tau Delta fraternity won a close game from the Topeka Wildcats, 2 to 1, for the school championship. Sigma Phi Epsilon was the runner-up in the fraternity division and W.F.A.C. in the independent division.

Athletic Games

ATO'S Win Track Meet

The track trophy, awarded to the winner in indoor and outdoor track, was won last year by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and the W.F.A.C. independent team.

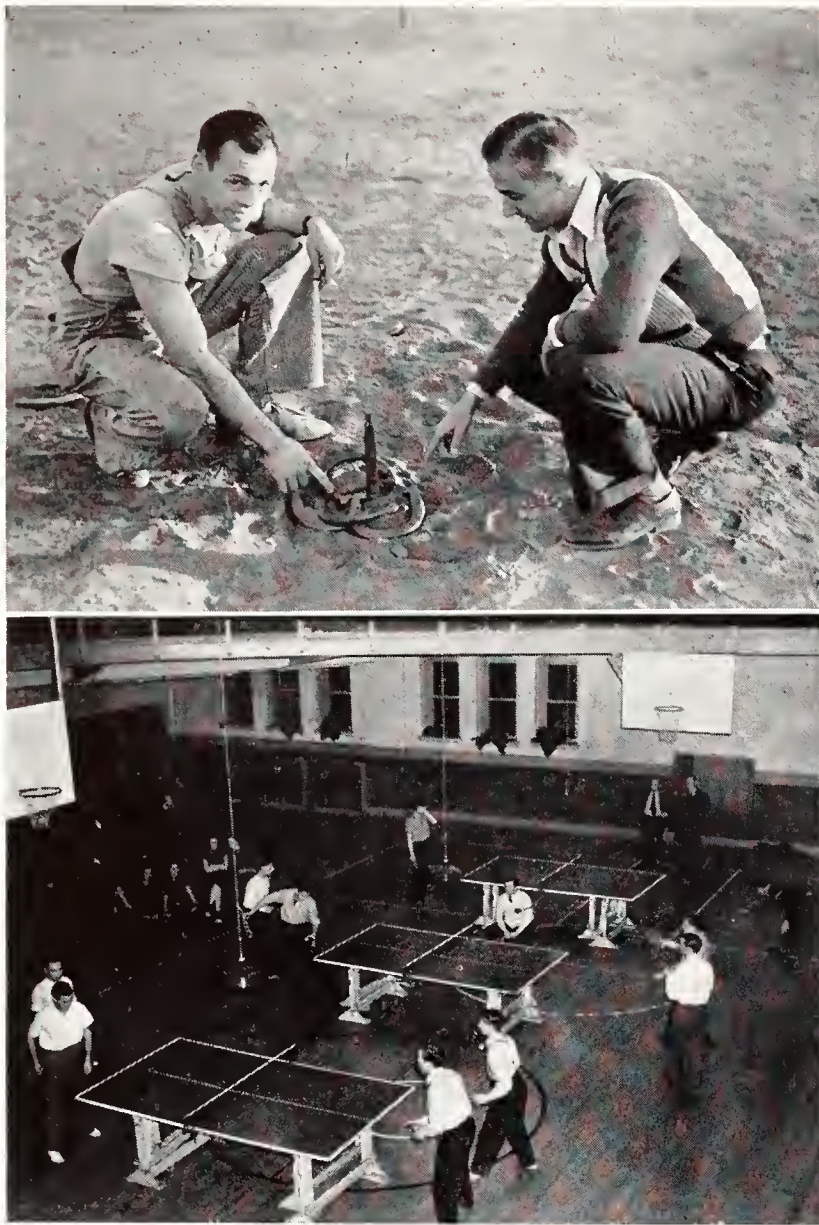

Street intramural sweaters and intramural emblems are given to the ten men who score the greatest number of points during the year. Emblems alone are given to the next ten high scoring men. These awards are divided between the fraternity and independent teams upon the basis of number of men and total amount of competition in each division.

The intramural department awards gold medals to the winners in all individual events. Independent team winners are awarded individual medals while the team winners among the fraternities are awarded trophies.

Award "K" Letters

Fraternity men who received intramural letters on sweaters last year and the total points made by each individual follows:

WINNER of the independent horseshoe singles was Lyle Boley (below). Paul Schafer won the school championship.

A total of seventy-two men entered the tennis tournament last spring. Arlin Conrad, Delta Tau Delta, won the fraternity singles title and Dale Collins, won the independent title. Jack Horacek and Warren Hornsby, Delta Tau Delta, won the all-school doubles crown.

Alpha Tau Omega track team proved to be the champions of the cinder path as they copped top honors in the fraternity division. W.F.A.C. team won the independent track title.

New records were made in the following events: 220-yard low hurdles, E. Darden, Sigma Phi Epsilon, 25.6 seconds. Half mile, S. Johnson, W.F.A.C., 2:08.

Coed Calisthenics

TO "FOSTER the ideals of good sportsmanship, to create an interest in athletic activities, to promote physical efficiency, scholarship, and good fellowship among the women students of Kansas State College and throughout the State of Kansas" . . . such is the purpose of the K-State Women's Athletic Association. Through W.A.A., an opportunity is afforded for every college woman to enjoy some athletic recreation. To be eligible for membership in the association, it is necessary to participate in at least two intramural sports during the school year.

A Diversified Program

This year, the organization sponsored an intramural program of volley-ball, tennekoit, tennis, posture, dancing, basketball, shuffleboard, table tennis, swimming, and baseball. Non-competitive activities included several picnics, bowling, backward, and valentine parties, and a hay-rack ride.

On the basis of games won, the number participating, and sportsman-like conduct, points are awarded each organization throughout the year. Extra credit is given to juniors and seniors. By totalling more points than other sororities, Van Zile Hall, the Neophytes, or the "X" Team, Pi Beta Phi won the coveted intramural game plaque for the season of 1938-39. The plaque is presented each year at the W.A.A. spring banquet.

Convene at Ottawa

Every three years delegates from over the state convene to discuss topics of current interest and importance in women's athletics. Bonnie Lue Clapp, Mary Marvel Kantz, and Helen Van Der Stelt represented Kansas State at the convention this year at Ottawa University. Subjects under discussion were chapter projects, new intramural activities, and "A Youth Hostel Program for the Middlewest."

Reviving an old custom, high school girls from surrounding counties were invited to compete in a May Play Day, sponsored by the Association.

Officers for the past year were Bonnie Lue Clapp, president; Metta Baxter, vice-president; Helen Van Der Stelt, secretary; and Janet King, treasurer.

Faculty sponsor of W.A.A. is Miss Katherine Geyer.

Women Compete

THE WOMEN'S intramural program began in fall with the volleyball tournament. The teams were divided into three groups with Van Zile, Neophytes, and "X" team carrying off division honors. The Neophytes won the championship in the play-offs.

Doris Rice and Marjorie Breneman, Chi Omegas, took top honors in the social dancing contest with Lois Sherman and Shirley Clay, Van Zile, winning the tap and clog dancing. The Van Zile dancing team won the folk dancing event.

The shuffleboard tournament was run off in five brackets with Jacqueline Eidson, Alpha Xi Delta, the final winner. Bracket winners were Joan Linn, Betty Hutchison, Kay Lovitt, Miss Eidson, and Thula Muchow. Miss Hutchison was runner-up in the tournament.

In the annual posture contest, the Van Zile team won first place with Delta Delta Delta taking second place honors.

For Team Honors

The "X" basketball team defeated the Delta Delta Delta team, 31 to 13, to win the school championship for the fourth consecutive year.

Last spring the Neophyte softball team met the Pi Beta Phi team in the finals and emerged the winner by a score of 28 to 18.

Wins Two Championships

Doris Kittell won two championships last year, one in tennis and the other in ping-pong. Miss Kittell defeated Betty Benjamin, Pi Beta Phi, in the finals of the tennis tournament.

Pi Beta Phi sorority was awarded the plaque last year for having the greatest number of points at the close of the season. The Pi Phi team totaled 385 points while Kappa Kappa Gamma turned in 340 points for second place.

VAN ZILE team (below) won the posture contest this year. They are Lou Stine, Jean Black, Jean Boyle, Kathline Porter, Von Eastman.

DEBUTS TO DIPLOMAS

Attending Kansas State for four years makes one a "man or mouse," but from beginning to end, it's a long highway—rough and smooth.

THE AVERAGE freshman at K-State is a Kansan. Probably he comes from a third-class city or the farm. Frequently he was a B.M.O.C. in his high-school. Here in College, he becomes one of 4,000 students—and a freshman at that. Nobody knows him—few make any effort to know him. And so far as the College is concerned, he is not much more than a classified name.

Almost invariably his grades will run lower than he thinks they should. Soon he loses faith in himself. After that comes a persecution complex—the world is against him. He becomes bitter. He may go home to mama or he may stick it out to become a . . .

. . . sophomore cynic. This student has been disillusioned—he has learned once and for all that there is no Santa Claus. One belief only he has left—he feels that the College will beat him down if it can. That he is one of "the College" never occurs to him. The average sophomore feels always that he is on the outside looking in.

One of two things will be done to him by this state. It may temper and harden to make him a man—or it may overpower whatever strength was in him. In the latter case he will probably over-play and flunk out. If he does, he knows who is to blame—"The College."

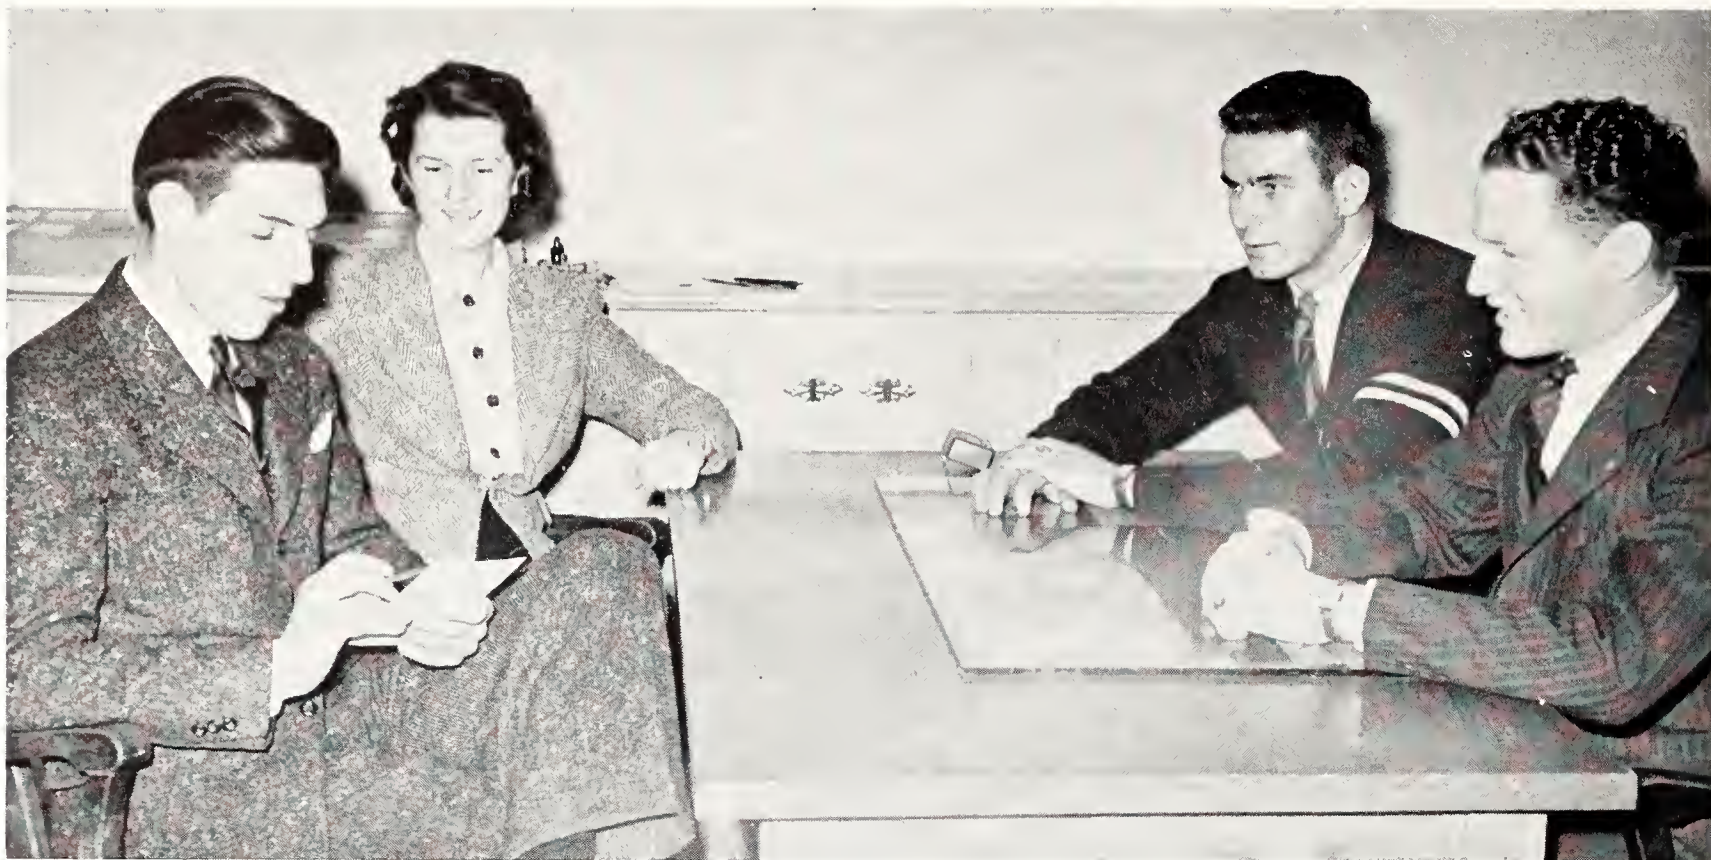

The attitude of the junior is a paradoxical admixture of hopelessness and determination. He knows that the world will give him nothing; that he must wrest from it whatever he will have. The junior realizes the overwhelming odds against him. Gone is the cynicism of his sophomore days—there it is, he says. After all, isn't shouting about it just a little obvious? This is the beginning of sophistication.

By the time a collegiate is a senior he may no longer be recognizable as a college student. He is nearly grown up, and he is more confident than as a junior. That he has come thus far is a hopeful sign that he may win the fight.

Now he knows and is known. His freshman days seem far away. He is another person now—a man—equipped as well as a man can be to take a place in the world of work. There are no rah-rah's. As a student in these times he understands that the world is not waiting for him—that there will be no bands nor greeting voices to welcome him to the college of hard knocks where he must begin once more as a freshman. It's the endless cycle of education.

But this four-year cycle is not as bad as it might seem. Soon after a first-year student enrolls, he finds that the College and various religious and campus organizations have planned social events for him. He learns early that college life is made up of both work and play.

TALKING OVER PLANS for the senior class are officers elected in the fall. They are Al Makins, class president; Ruth Johnston, secretary; Don Crumbaker, vice-president; and Franks Sicks, treasurer.

Seniors Wind-up Four Year Career

BY THE TIME you get to be a senior, you think that at last you can take it easy. But wait a month or so and you tell a different story. In college there is no let-up, and especially for a senior, there is no end. The entire year is filled with that eternal question "What will I do when I get out? Where will I be next year? Will I get a job?" So it goes until the answer comes.

Class activities for the year began with the election of class officers. Independents practically stole the show, winning three of the four offices. Al Makins was elected president, Don Crumbaker, vice-president, and Ruth Johnston, secretary. Frank Sicks, treasurer, was the only Greek elected.

Make Plans for Year

Those officers immediately began with plans for the rest of the year. They selected the invitations and notified the class of their choice. They laid plans for a senior sneak and for a junior-senior prom that would top any ever.

The senior class has its representation on every part of the campus and in every part of campus activities. On any list of honors given to students here, seniors always get a lion's share.

Present Outstanding Seniors

Each year at the annual Farm and Home Week achievement banquet, the most outstanding senior students, chosen by the deans of the various divisions, are presented to the hundreds of visitors.

This year Joe Redmond was selected to represent the Division of Engineering; Helen Peterson, General Science; Roger Spencer, Veterinary Medicine; Elnora Thomas, Home Economics; Joe Robertson, Agriculture; and Lyman Frick, Graduate Study.

Elect Students to Honorary

Hopes and thoughts of recognition are always dashed or raised twice yearly when seniors are elected to Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary fraternity.

A senior may be said to be one who lords it over everyone else. He takes some of everything coming his way, cuts classes, groans when paying for invitations and that "sheep-skin," and groans louder when he dons his cap and gown. Then he sings farewells and starts pounding the pavement.

To underclassmen, the idea of being a senior may represent the end, but to a senior it is only the beginning. For him, it really is the start on a new career . . . he is a freshman again.

SENIORS HAVE many courses which are directly connected with "making a living." Much of their work is practical. Engineers (above, upper) attend a lab class. Men are not the only chemists as this picture (above, lower) points out.

HONORED GUESTS at the annual Farm and Home Week achievement banquet were seniors named as the most outstanding by the Deans of the various divisions. They are Joe Robertson, Lyman Frick, Joe Redmond, Roger Spencer, Helen Peterson, and Elnora Thomas.

Underclassmen

THE GREAT adventure . . . starting off to college, is made memorable by rush week, physical examinations, aptitude tests, and get-acquainted parties.

Weary freshmen tour the campus, listen to speeches, and meet the faculty during their first week of orientation. No sooner have they recovered from this, than they are introduced to the mysteries of enrollment.

Old Students Arrive

Then upperclassmen arrive back on the campus, and seem so sure and confident, much to the bewilderment of the frenzied frosh.

However, the new students soon find out that there is little inter-class rivalry at Kansas State. Only two or three times a year are freshman boys greeted at the gates by K-Club members with paddles who insist that frosh wear their purple caps.

Sophomore and junior students find their activities limited, but every class has officers, and with officers come elections, in which politics play an important part.

Greeks Win Offices

Look To Future

Bob Waters was chosen to lead the sophomores, Jean Marie Knott was chosen vice-president, Pierce Wheatley, secretary, and Leonard Deets, treasurer.

Frosh Hold Dances

Freshman students, who show more solidarity, banded together and paid dues in order to dance to various orchestras twice during the first semester and once in the spring. Greek freshmen, too, banded together in Freshman Panhellenic, which served as a governing body for pledges. Members also sponsored a Freshman Panhellenic dance, and an all-Greek sneak.

Various divisions have taken the place of student loyalty to his particular class and sophomore and junior class offices are merely honorary. There are no class functions.

A PLAQUE is presented Marjorie Spurrier by Mortar Board Prexy Dale Rundle. Miss Spurrier was cited for having the highest scholastic rating of all freshmen girls last year.

An Arkansawyer at Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas

May 15, 1940

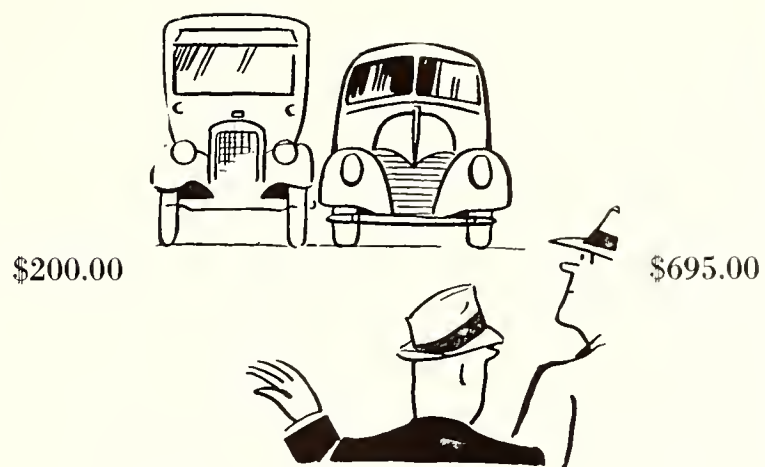

dere hareless joe,

You should ought to take this down to the postman and let him read it to you. This here letter will tell you what I have been doing since I come up to this yankee country to go to collitch at Kansas State.

This here Kansas State shore is a queer sort of a place. In the first place they sorta put to much stress on book larnin' to suit me. They got all kinds of people here that they call professors. These fellers get up in front of the kids and conduct meetings like we used to have when the visitin' preachers come around. Of course up here they don't allow no shouting in the room and they keep astin' us questions. Looks to me like if they doesn't know no more than they do about it that they would let us learn 'em about it before they git up in front to preach instid of waitin' til they git tied up on sumpin' afore they let us straighten them out.

I reckon you would like it here pretty well tho 'cos ther ain't much work to be did. Even when ther is snow on the groun' you don't have to cut no wood to keep warm. In fact there ain't no wood much around here. They got nice places to sleep and only about two fellers to a bed. The vitals ain't so hot 'though. I ain't had a good mess o' turnip greens since I got here. P.S. No possum neither.

They also got some stuff here that they call 'atheletics.' It is kind of like some of the games we play at home only they won't let you use no clubs. They got what they call a football team. It is just a bunch of fellers which git out on a field and throw a pigskin around (with the pig took out). From watching them play I guess that the object is to see who can throw it to the other team most accurate. If this are true we got one of the best teams in the country.

AND THERE'S JUST AS

Along with this football game we got a sort of thing called school spirit. It seems that the guy who can stand up the longest so that the guy behind him can't see has got the most school spirit. In the wintertime when ther is snow on the groun' they play football inside. Only when they play inside it is called basketball. Our team that plays inside is even better than the outdoor one at throwin' the ball straight to the fellers on the other team. We must not play no very good teams because it seems like those other fellers can't never hit our boys with the ball. Here you are supposed to show your school spirit by comin' to the games and then if we all do come we can't git all in the bildin' at the same time. I don't understand much about this school spirit stuff, but I don't never go to none of the basketball games because I heard tell that there is a pool of water right under wher we is supposed to sit and I always say that you never can tell when these floors will give way. And you know that if ther is one thing that I can't stan' it is water.

Part of the people here is called Greeks and the other part is called independents. The ones that is called Greeks is call that because they got houses with letters on them like SAE, AGR, and KKG. The independents don't like the Greeks because of these houses with letters on them. So the independents got them a house and put letters on it too . . . ISU. It is all very confusin' to me.

Ther don't nobody up here carry shootin' irons. I have looked and looked and I ain't seen a single feller with a squirrel rifle. They all carry things strapped to their belts though, and they ain't pistols. At first I thought they was pistols, but I ast a feller and he said they was slide rules. I don't know how to use one of them so I am kind of scared of them. I ain't started no feuds yit because those slide rules might be more powerful than

WHAT WILL THE FUTURE BRING?

EVERY young man or woman of today wonders what tomorrow will mean for him or her. Whether you measure your success in dollars and cents, or in contentment and respect of those in the community in which you live, there is just one answer . . . and that answer is THRIFT.

TO practice this golden virtue is the only assurance that you will reap the reward to which your education entitles you.

IN appreciation of the wonderful work that the Kansas State College and her students are doing for our State, the Associated Banks of Manhattan take pleasure in extending this message on "Better Citizenship" to you through the 1940 ROYAL PURPLE.

CEMENTING FRIENDSHIP

Thru service, a public utility affects the life directly or indirectly of every citizen living in the community it serves. As it functions, its eyes must be always to the front . . . searching for new improved methods . . . building for the needs of coming generations. Efficient, thoughtful service is a builder of friendships. The Kansas Power and Light Company, each day, strives to cement these friendships by keeping its operations in tune with the desires of a sturdy, progressive people. The power and gas needs of the area served are in the hands of an efficient, competent, and understanding engineering corps.

Song of Kansas State

This is the song of Kansas State
The school you know so well
To some it seems like heaven
To others more like hell.

It takes all kinds of people
They say, to make a school
We have all kinds at Kansas State
From 'grind' on down to fool.

The girls mostly take Home Ec
To learn to be good cooks
They cook and sew: but most of what
They learn ain't taught in books.

The purpose of our football team
And new coach here at State
Is to congre-gate the people—
With the accent on the 'gate.'

A QUARTER-CENTURY OF PROGRESS!

Twenty-five years ago "pioneering" methods of doing things and living were still in evidence in many Kansas towns and communities.

Flickering kerosene lamps struggled against the darkness in an effort to provide illumination in the homes where electrical transmission lines had not reached.

Women labored over the old cooking stove, spending endless hours in the daily cooking task; hot water was an unsolved problem for thousands of homes.

TODAY, electricity and electrical appliances have written a quarter-century of progress in Kansas, bringing convenience, comfort and economy.

CRAFTSMANSHIP

IN NO other line of endeavor are both art and craft so essential as in printing. Any good piece of work coming from the press must combine the two with perfect harmony. Layout, Type, Composition, Color and Stock are all considered in their relation to the purpose for which the completed product is intended; and for each of these important steps in production, we employ artists and craftsmen of the very highest standard. Careful attention to these details has established a reputation for "Art Craft" printing that we shall ever strive to maintain . . . and our prices will demonstrate that good printing is no more expensive than that of the poorer grade.

THE 1940 ROYAL PURPLE...

. . . . is another winner produced and printed by Capper Printing Company, Inc. It has been a pleasure to work with the fine staff at Kansas State this year. Congratulations, Al Makins and Joe Robertson, on a good job, well planned, well edited, well managed.

Against that day, fix in your mind the name of BURGER-BAIRD. It will then be a more important fact to you than dates (historical — not the other kind) or irregular verbs or formulae.

Good plates? Yes, the best, and pride in their craftsmanship. Prompt with them, too.

But the main thing that keeps Burger-Baird the best known name among middle-west engravers seems to be—well, call it "savvy." It means interest and understanding, not merely for the engravings, but for your larger objectives as well.

People seem to like that, and so, no doubt, will you. Keep us in mind, won't you?
