Legislative Ties To Banking

A check of records indicates a controversial consumer credit bill which has passed the Kansas House has a built-in lobby in the Legislature.

At least 17 of the 40 members of the Kansas Senate have ties to banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions and finance companies.

At least 45 of the 125 House members have similar ties.

In a majority of cases, the legislators either are officers or employees, own at least 5 per cent interest, or receive at least $1000 a year compensation from such firms.

Statements outlining substantial interests of nearly all Kan-

Included in the tabulations are attorneys who represent or are members of legal firms representing various firms in the consumer credit industry.

Only nine members with listed ties to financial businesses failed to vote on the measure, Senate Bill No. 125, when it passed the House 81-28.

Earlier only one of the 17 senators with listed financial ties failed to vote as the bill passed the Senate 31-3.

In 1967 the House adopted a rule which states "No member shall vote on a question in which he may have a special personal or pecuniary interest, as distinguished from the general interest that other legislators have therein."

It does not appear there has been any determination of the precise meaning or application of this rule.

Earlier this session, when the House was voting on the question of sustaining or overriding the governor's veto of a proposed accelerated highway construction bill, Rep. Raymond ng asked to be excused on ounds he has an interest in a ghway bridge contracting m.

More Pay For Loading Grain

The Agriculture department has announced it will increase payments made to commercial warehouses for loading out grain owned or controlled by the government.

The changes, effective July 1, will cost about 2 million dollars more each year. For the fiscal year starting July 1, the government estimates that its total grain storage charges will be about 115 million dollars.

About 8600 warehouses with a storage capacity of 4.6 billion bushels are involved in grain storage.

The loadout charges for each bushel of corn will be raised from 1½ cents to 3 cents for loading onto trucks or railroad cars, from 2¼ cents to 3 cents for loading into barges, and from ¾ cent to 1½ cents for loading into ships.

Similar but slightly smaller increases will be paid for the loading of other grains.

PRECONDITIONED ON PURINA

Try a New Idea... WEAN AND PRECONDITION FOR PROFIT

Early weaning and preconditioning on Purina may mean $3 to $4 more return per calf. "We figure we made about $4 extra profit per calf by preconditioning," says J. L. Connolly, Dunn Center, N. D. He preconditioned 1,286 feeder calves last year by weaning 3 weeks early, vaccinating, treating and feeding the Purina Preconditioning ration.

Make the extra pounds of beef gained per calf during the preconditioning period pay for the other preconditioning investments. Calves gained 40.4 extra pounds on the Purina Preconditioning ration in 22 days in a test of 4,028 head. This is $12 extra return per calf on a 30 cent market. Calf producers make about $30 profit per calf each year... $3 more per calf is a 10% improvement.

Purina's Pre-conditioning™ Chow®

helps provide the nutrition power calves need to gain extra weight and fight weaning and shipping stresses. It is a special complete formula to feed lightweight feeder calves with stilbestrol, extra vitamin A, trace minerals and antibiotics for top weight gains during this critical period. It works well with vaccinations and treatments.

Feeders are paying top dollar for calves preconditioned on good nutrition and that have disease protection... because they can benefit, too.

Make this year's calf crop return top dollar... precondition on Purina. Think about this new idea and Purina Preconditioning Chow... then contact your Purina dealer for a copy of Purina Complete Preconditioning Program to learn how a new idea may profit you.

THE SOYBEAN PROFIT ROBBERS

Stop them cold with DuPont "LOROX"!

Thousands of soybean farmers discovered that "Lorox" did just that—stopped problem weeds cold before they could reduce soybean yields by as much as 10-25%. Cost — depends on your soil type. Consider a 2% organic matter silt loam — you can broadcast "Lorox" for less than $6.00 an acre.

A good investment—you bet it is! You get more weed control for the dollar spent with "Lorox". See your agricultural chemicals dealer today.

Friday Switch Didn't Hurt Fish Industry Long

"Two years or so ago, a lot of people were saying the Pope had kicked the crutch out from under the fish industry. Maybe so, but now we're going stronger than ever."

That assessment from a Midwest seafood broker sums up the turnaround in the U.S. fishing industry.

Late in 1966, the Roman Catholic Church rescinded its rule that U.S. Catholics eat no meat on Friday and liberalized meat-eating restrictions during the Lenten season. Gloomy forecasts were made that U.S. fish sales could drop as much as 30%.

What happened was that fish sales dropped only about 10% in areas of concentrated Catholic population — and just temporarily. By the end of 1967, fish sales had regained the lost ground, and since then they have increased steadily. Demand is so strong now, in fact, that prices for most fish and seafood products are up sharply from a year ago, with no immediate prospect of any easing.

Of course, part of the recent demand stems from the Lenten season, which ended last week. The season still boosts fish consumption, but fisheries no longer rely as heavily on religious periods to hypo their sales.

"We used to do around 28% of our annual sales in the Lenten season," says Rex Gage, marketing vice president of the Booth Fisheries division of Consolidate Foods Corp. "Now, Lenten sales account for a much smaller percentage because seafood is being consumed more on a year-around basis."

Gage said Booth's sales so far this year are running up to 10% ahead of last year, and he expects the trend to continue. Albert E. Burhop Inc., a Chicago fish and seafood dealer, says its retail fish sales have increased 30% to 40% since the Catholic meat-eating bans were loosened.

Government statistics indicate this sales surge is nationwide. U.S. per capita consumption of edible fishery products rose last year to 11 pounds, up from 10.8 pounds in 1967 and the highest since the mid-1950's. Domestic consumption totaled an estimated 2.2 billion pounds — edible weight — up 2.5% from a year before.

Demand for seafoods is the heaviest in years, industry sources agree, in large part because innovations of many fishery products have caught the taste appeal of a growing number of Americans. More weight-watchers, for instance, are turning to fish, which is high in protein (18% to 20% for most fish) and vitamins, and low in fat. Fish is fitting in with the trend toward convenience foods, too. Several fish packers are test-marketing many new frozen fish and seafood entrees, some of them approaching gourmet complexity.

April 22, 1969

"The growing number of convenient types of seafood products makes it easier to put tasty fish on the American dinner table with a minimum of time and with virtually odorless cooking," says Lee Weddig, executive director of the National Fish Institute. "The new products take the stink out of the kitchen," says another industry observer.

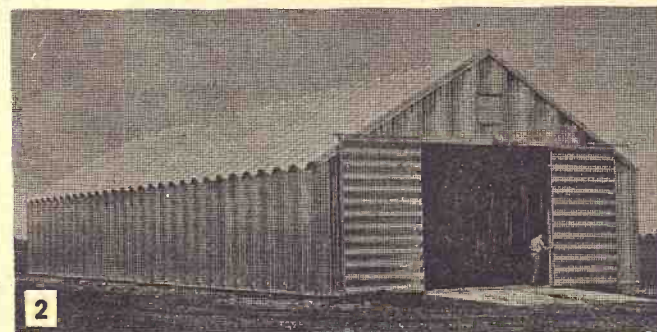

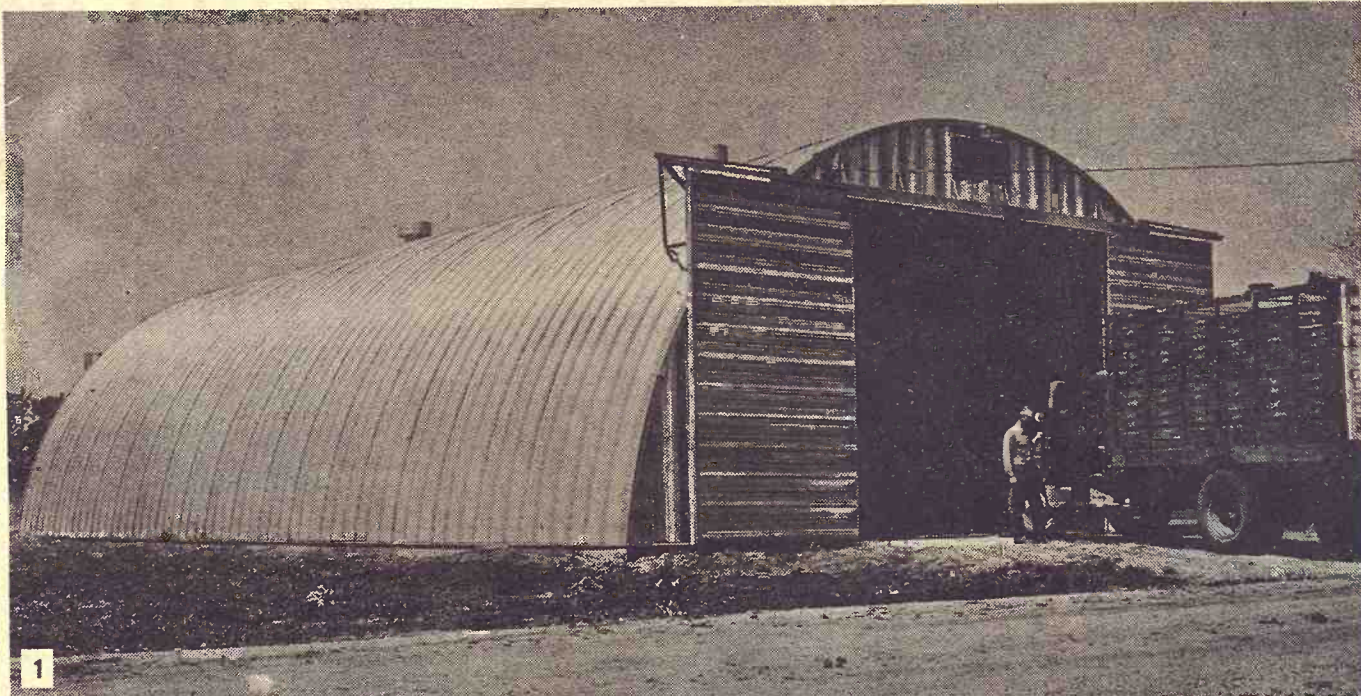

Outside the home, fish-eating is picking up, both in quick-snack restaurants and in what brokers call the "tablecloth trade" — fancy dining rooms.

Quick-service restaurants have given the most dramatic push to fish consumption. Paul Jacobs, executive vice president of Gordon Corp., Gloucester, Mass., estimates that about 500 million fish sandwiches are sold annually in this country, up from almost none 10 years ago.

And more restaurants, many of them franchise outlets, are specializing in English fish and chips. One reason for their popularity is that the fish is coated with a fluffy batter that's much lighter than that for breaded-french-fried fish.

Jacobs says he expects fish and chips products will outsell fish sticks in three to five years; fish sticks and portions, introduced several years ago, account for more than 270 million pounds of fish (mostly cod) annually.

Behlen puts a special wrinkle in steel panels to give you FARM BUILDINGS WITH BUILT-IN BONUSES***

Behlen takes steel panels and gives them an exclusive deep channel-ridging that makes them as strong as a steel beam of the same weight and depth. The result is an all-steel farm building that's in a class by itself. A building so strong that framework and trussing are unnecessary. Check these built-in bonuses!

* EXTRA SPACE—Because of frameless construction, every inch of space is useable. The deep channel-ridged panels simply bolt together. Floors and walls are clear, unobstructed by posts or trusses.

* EXTRA STRENGTH—Behlen panels are heavy gauge galvanized steel—and Behlen's extra deep corrugation makes them even stronger. Strong enough to take a lot of abuse without denting or tearing . . . strong enough to store grain high against the sidewalls . . . strong enough to stand up to high winds.

\* EXTRA TIGHT CONSTRUCTION—Big  $\frac{3}{8}$ " diameter bolts (plated against rust) are used every 6" to lock together Behlen panels. A special rubber sealer between every seam makes a Behlen building weathertight . . . and keeps it weathertight.

The simple design of a Behlen building makes erection easy, and easy erection saves you money. Many farmers put their Behlen building up themselves.

1 BEHLEN CURVET. Provides more room per dollar in both floor space and cubage than any other type of building of comparable quality.

BEHLEN STRAIGHTWALL. More elbow room with added strength.  $7\frac{1}{2}$ " deep corrugation in galvanized steel or attractive plastic color coating.

No Evidence That Wheat Protein Levels Are Declining In State

MANHATTAN — A Kansas State University research economist has refuted the idea that protein levels of wheat are declining because soils are "wearing out" — an idea forwarded by some writers on world food problems.

Last year's Kansas crop averaged 11.7 percent protein, Ruth Clifton points out. This is down slightly from 12.9 percent a year earlier. However, average protein content in Kansas has been right around 12 percent for as long as accurate records have been kept.

Some western Kansas areas ran well above that average last year, she says. Protein content averaged 13.7 percent in west-central Kansas and was 13.8 percent in the southwest. More than 90 percent of the wheat in the southwest had a protein content of 13 percent or more.

What, then, causes the protein content to vary from year to year? A number of factors, such as the weather, amount of fertilizer and time of application and the time of planting, Mrs. Clifton says.

Wheat commands a higher price than the feed grains because of its value as human food. The greater the protein content, the higher the value of wheat as a food grain.

This all means that wheat, which has been the foundation of Kansas agriculture, will remain just that because of its value as human food, she says.

If 'Yes' Answer To Three, Watch Out

Two British doctors have drawn up a questionnaire that they say could tell if you are running the risk of a heart attack.

Drs. H. Eric Wright and G. Pincherle framed 15 questions about one's daily habits with the blunt warning that "if the answer is yes to three or more — watch out!"

The questionnaire was based on findings from health examinations carried out at the Institute of Directors in London. It is designed to forewarn potential heart cases and to advise employers how to keep their staffs healthy.

The 15 queries ask whether you:

- Work 60 hours a week.
- Drive more than 20,000 miles a year
- Take less than three weeks' holiday
- Fail to delegate tasks to others
- Get steamed up
- Smoke 20 cigarettes a day
- Take no exercise
- Weigh more than 14 pounds over the limit
- Feel tired and exhausted
- Sleep badly
- Neglect your wife and family
- Plunge straight into meetings after overseas travel
- Take more than four drinks a day
- Have high cholesterol, ascending blood pressure
- Have no interest in outside work

The doctors offered this consolation: "It is never too late to reform and you will find you work better afterwards."

FU Scorn On Legislators

NORTON — The majority of legislators serving in this session of the Kansas Legislature should be defeated in the next election, a National Farmers

Grass & Grain
April 22, 1969

Union official said here.

Dale Lyon of Athol, president of the Smith County Farmers Union and chairman of the National Farmers Union of Kansas Tax Committee, said the 1969 session had "wandered aimlessly through a literal sea of tax reform legislation and government legislation without coming up with one single solution worthy of praise."

He spoke at a meeting of the Norton County Farmers Union. He called for Kansans to "put a Legislature together that will dispense with petty politics and institute real tax reform and appropriate state revenue accordingly."

Lyon called the state education system a "giant gobble of revenue that must be reverted to the role of a well-controlled servant of the people rather than the increasingly more expensive educational system that the state cannot afford."

Tough Decisions On Tire Buying

The man behind the wheel now faces more tire-buying decisions than ever.

There are 1000 different tire names produced by about 100 companies, according to the Rubber Manufacturers Association.

Prices vary from as low as $10 for an "economy-car" new tire to more than $100 for a "super-premium" with a stylized look.

And where once there was one basic type of tire construction now there are three.

There are the conventional bias ply, the radial ply, and the most recent, belted bias.

The conventional bias ply is the most inexpensive and has been around the longest. Its name derives from the fact that the plies or layers of cord meet on a bias, or crisscross pattern beneath the tread.

The radial tire first was introduced in Europe in 1948. It was the immediate forerunner of the belted bias and some say it will be the tire of the future. Its cord plies do not meet on a bias, but run radially, in a circumferential direction.

Its reputed advantages are low rolling resistance, good performance on bad-weather roads, and from 50 to 100 percent more mileage than conventional tires. Also, smoother running at high speeds and less heat buildup than belted bias tires.

Disadvantages of radials are said to be they cost up to 40 percent more than conventional tires — making them the most expensive of the three types, they have a harsher ride at speeds under 35 miles per hour, may require specific suspension systems and should not be mixed with other types on the car for top performance.

Belted-bias tires have been called a compromise between the other two types. They use the conventional bias construction as well as a reinforcement "belt" just below the tread, a characteristic of radials.

Belted bias is shaping up as the tire makers hope for 1970. There are strong indications they will be original equipment on most of the new car models.

Among belted bias advantages are said to be up to 5 percent more tread life than conventional tires, excellent cornering, wet-road handling, puncture protection, and better gas mileage.

Belted bias disadvantages are said to be a cost of about 33 percent more than conventional tires, a harsher ride than with conventional tires, and the possibility of flex fatigue at the edge of the belt.

All three types are offered in standard widths as well as the so-called ultrawide, and all are made by the Big Five U.S. tire manufacturers.

The old 2-ply versus 4-ply controversy still has not been resolved, moreover. Manufacturers have claimed 2 ply offers less heat buildup and therefore longer life than 4 ply. But many dealers have claimed advantages in 4-ply construction, toward which a large part of the buying public leans.

To NATO Post

Robert F. Ellsworth, a White House assistant and former Kansas congressman, has been named U.S. ambassador to NATO by President Nixon. Ellsworth is 42, a native of Lawrence. He served in the House from 1961 to 1966. He was defeated by Senator James Pearson for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate in 1966.

Shorthorn Sale Hits $23,605

SALINA — The Mid Kansas Shorthorn Assn. sale here grossed $23,605, with 44 bulls averaging $452 and 13 females $270.

The sale topped at $1200, a 2-year-old bull consigned by Keith Lauer of Abilene, bringing that price from Meenen Brothers of Clifton.

A $1050 price was paid by William Werhahn, Pawnee Rock, for a consignment from Pa-Do Shorthorns of Kremlin, Okla.

Gary Cummings of Kingsdown had two sales of $725 to Turnbull Brothers of Vliets and $685 to Raymond Frank of Alexander.

The champion female, a 1968 heifer, brought $290 from Cindy Taylor, Effingham, for a consignment of Herman Fischer Jr. of Seward. Larry Taylor of Effingham paid $300 for a heifer of Thomas Schrag, Burrton.

A. B. Moll of Little River was the judge for the show. Dick Kane of Wisner, Nebr., was auctioneer, and the sale was managed by Milton Nagely of Abilene.

Hesston Absorbs Wood Brothers

The Hesston Manufacturing Co. — Kansas' largest farm manufacturer — has taken over an Illinois machinery maker, Wood Brothers, thru merger.

Wood is a manufacturer of large rotary mowers, flail choppers and minimum tillage tools with sales over $5 million annually.

Hesston specializes in manufacture and distribution of windrowers, cotton harvesters, beet harvesters, potato harvesters and various combine attachments.

Hesston operates plants at Hesston, in northern Harvey County and in Logan, Utah, and Udine, Italy.

Wood Brothers will add more than 150,000 square feet of manufacturing space located on 35 acres at Oregon, Illinois, with more than 200 employees and a 24,000 square foot plant at Vicksburg, Miss., with 11 employees.

Said Lyle Yost, president of Hesston: "There are no changes contemplated in management of Wood Brothers Mfg. Co. and it will operate as an individual profit center and subsidiary of Hesston Corporation."

Cattlemen Hold Steady

Kansas cattlemen can feel rather proud of themselves when they look at the estimate of beef cattle numbers in the state as of January 1, 1969.

The Kansas Livestock Reporting Service says the count as of the first of the year is 5,339 million. That figure is only one-third of 1% more than the count a year ago, and the stability of numbers has been a longtime goal of professional cattle raisers who knew the inevitable results of large build-ups in periods of high prices were sure to be lower prices and massive sellouts within a season or two.

There has been little more than a 1% variation in cattle numbers in Kansas for four years now, indicating more discipline by cattlemen than ever exhibited before in some eight decades of steady price-and-number cycles in the industry.

With prices this spring better than anytime since 1952, cattlemen know their reserve is being put to its largest test since industry associations have worked hard at getting breeders to avoid over-reacting to market conditions.

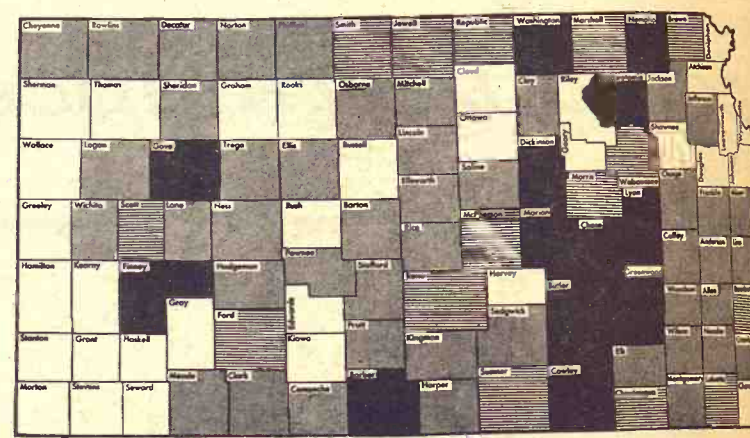

The January 1 count not only gives cattlemen a chance to feel proud of themselves, but they can give a cheer too for the Reporting Service, which is responsible for the survey.

The initial figure the Reporting Service gives is a preliminary count. It is based on a mailbox survey. Later in the year, after abstracts of county assessors' reports are completed, the figures are changed to "official" ones. Cattlemen watch this "adjusted" figure carefully, for if it has changed much from the original "preliminary" figure it means that their judgment of conditions was in part based on inaccurate information.

COUNTY-BY-COUNTY CATTLE COUNT, SHOWING CHANGE

The figures in each county show number of head of beef cattle as inventoried on January 1, 1969. The figures are in thousands. The plus or minus figure shows change from the count of one year ago. For example, Butler county - the state's leading cattle county - in south central Kansas had 157,400 head of beef cattle. That was a gain of 14,300 cattle from the 1968 count.

Here's How G&G Area Counties Look

The list of the top 25 Kansas counties in beef cattle production contains no new names, nor any major changes up and down the list.

There is only a minor shuffling among the top 25 beef counties.

Butler County, of course, easily leads the state with 157,400 cattle (not counting dairy cows and heifers). Seven of the top eight and 10 of the top 13 on the list are located in the Flint Hills or close enough to be considered part of the Bluestem group.

Greenwood County (Eureka) ranked second, as it has four other times in the previous decade. Greenwood and Butler are the only counties to make the top 10 for more than 20 years.

Lyon County (Emporia) ranked 3rd, one notch back of its 2nd place finish last year. The three adjacent counties - Butler, Greenwood and Lyon - were the only counties to count over 100,000 head. Lyon has missed the top 10 only in 1963 and 1964 in the past two decades.

Washington County's 98,600 count was good for 4th place, the highest position for the northern border county since 1955. Washington has been in the top 20 for all but one year of the past 20.

The highest ranking western Kansas county was Gove (Quinter) which ranks 5th with 93,400 head. This marks the first time that Gove has made the top 20 two years a row. Gove was 8th last year, 7th in 1964, and also ranked in the top 20 in 1956, 1960, 1962 and 1966.

Cowley (Winfield-Ark City) fell to 5th last year, its lowest position in many years, and the county dropped one more notch this year, with a 90,500 count.

Dickinson moved up three notches to 7th with an 88,700 count, a gain of 4,200 and a jump from 10th last year. Dickinson has failed to make the top 10 only once in the 1960s and has ranked as high as 5th in 1965.

Nemaha ranked 8th on a 79,100 count, moving up from 13th last year. Nemaha is a regular in the top 20 but this is the first time in the top 10 since 1961.

Barber (Medicine Lodge) ranked 9th, highest in the Gyp Hills, and Finney (Garden City) was 10th.

Marion dropped out of the top 10 for only the third time in 12 years, placing 11th on 76,700. Marion has not missed the top 20 for 20 years and hit as high as 3rd in 1955.

Pottawatomie was 12th on a 75,500 estimate, falling out of the top 10 rank it has held for more than 20 years except for 1963 and 1964.

Chase (Cottonwood Falls) the heart of the Flint Hills country, finished 13th, after two years in the top 10.

Reno was 14th with 72,500, and Labette led southeast Kansas counties with 71,700, good for 15th place.

Brown, long the state's premier corn producer and a major hog county, made the top 20 for the second straight year, with 70,700.

Wabaunsee was 18th, about on par for recent years, altho this Flint Hills county was a regular in the top 10 in the late 1950s.

Ford (Dodge City) was 19th, falling from 4th after a 21,000 decline in numbers. Numbers vary markedly around Dodge City, for Ford County ranked as high as 2nd in both 1964 and 1966 but may drop off the top list altogether when big feedlots are empty.

McPherson ranked 20th, the same as in 1968, on a 66,800 figure. McPherson has ranked as high as 10th in 1959.

Morris (Council Grove) was 21st, with a 66,200 count; and four Nebraska border counties - Smith, Republic, Marshall and Jewell - rounded out the top 25. Marshall has ranked as high as 10th in 1955, but most of the northern tier counties have only recently become major beef producers.

Other G&G area counties ranking above average: Bourbon (Fort Scott) 27th at 60,300, up 7,600 from 1968.

Chautauqua ranked 28th, and Barton (Great Bend) was 29th with 59,600.

Harper and Kingman, southwest of Wichita, ranked 30th and 31st; and two southeast Kansas counties, Montgomery and Woodson, were 33rd and 35th.

Anderson (Garnett) was 36th, on a 55,000 count; Jackson (Holton) was 37th on a 54,200 figure, and Elk was 38th.

Franklin (Ottawa) ranked 42nd with 53,300; and Clay was 44th with 52,200.

Miami (Paola) was 45th with 51,700; and Phillips was 47th. Lincoln was 49th ranking and Neosho (Chanute) was 50th.

About average in cattle numbers were these G&G area counties:

Coffey, 51st at 49,700; Osage, 54th at 49,000; Ellsworth, 56th, at 48,900.

Wilson (Fredonia) ranked 58th with 47,700 and Crawford (Pittsburg) was 60th at 46,200.

Allen (Toia) was 62nd at 45,300; and Rice (Lyons) was 63rd with 45,100.

Mitchell (Beloit) was 65th at 44,900, and Osborne was 66th at 44,900.

Sedgwick, which has ranked in the top 20, ranked 68th with 44,300; and Saline with 42,100 ranked 71st.

Jefferson (McLouth) ranked 72nd at 41,800; and Linn ranked 73rd at 41,500.

Ranking further back in the listings were:

Atchison, 75th, at 38,600; Harvey, 76th, with 38,400.

Before much grassland was cut out by federal expansions at Tuttle Creek reservoir and Fort Riley, Riley County sometimes ranked in the top 20 cattle counties in the state, but now Riley (Manhattan) ranks only 77th, with 37,200 beef cattle.

Ottawa (Minneapolis) is 80th with 36,100; and Douglas (Lawrence) is 81st with 34,700.

Russell was 82nd and Rush 83rd with slightly more than 34,000. Shawnee ranked 86th.

Cloud had 86th rank with 31,900. In the lower echelons of beef cattle were Geary, Johnson, Cherokee, Doniphan and Leavenworth counties.

WHERE THE CATTLE ARE

All but seven Kansas counties have at least 20,000 beef cattle, indicating the major beef status of the state. This map shows the general distribution of the inventory as of January 1. Black counties have 75,000 or more cattle and calves. Counties that have over 60,000 cattle are marked with horizontal rules. About average in cattle numbers are the shaded counties. The white counties have less than 40,000 cattle each.

Frontier facts

FRONTIER HIDAN 35 IS REALLY DIFFERENT! IT IS unexcelled for pasture or grazing, for greenchop, bundle feed and makes good silage.

Hidan 35 has a very sweet, juicy stalk. Its palatability is unexcelled. Leaves are more numerous, and stalks slender. Its seed is smaller and takes less per acre when planting. Is one of the earliest in maturity, starts quick and vigorously. Highly resistant to leaf diseases.

Mr. W. K. of Kansas planted Hidan 35 following wheat harvest. He got 15 tons per acre of top quality ensilage, 10% protein. At $7 per ton this is an extra $105 per acre.

For pasture it has two of the most important features. It is very low in HCN (Prussic Acid), as proven in tests, and it has exceptionally high protein.

In Wisconsin sheep were turned on several varieties of sorghum-Sudangrass hybrids. The sheep went to Hidan 35 eating it to the ground, and would go to nothing else.

Mr. F. J. C. of Dodge City, Kans., put 400 head of 550 pound steers on 130 acres of Hidan 35 June 20th, at 12 inch height. He took these steers off at an average of 747 pounds Nov. 8th. He reports steers were in top condition, no bloat or diarrhea, hair in excellent condition, and they RECEIVED NO SUPPLEMENT. He recommends cattle be turned in early when 12 to 15 in. high, and not allowed to get over 30 in. high, otherwise it gets ahead of them. Best feed value of Hidan 35 is in the grass stage, for pasture purposes. He uses half his acreage and when pastured down to about 6 inches, moves them to other half, allowing first land to regrow to around 15 in. before turning them back.

Count For Fourth Straight Year

Last year the preliminary figure was 5.324 million. After the more exact figures came in and the Reporting Service adjusted its figures, adding in to make up for a low county estimate and subtracting for a county guess that was too high, the adding machine spit out the same figure: 5.324 million.

Cattlemen have been a little wary over the preliminary figure because of a 4% error in 1966. The original estimate was too low, and the 4% upward correction on top of 9% increase in the preliminary figures for the next year sent some cattlemen into near shock over the inaccuracies of livestock reporting.

Over the years, the Reporting Service — a cooperative program of federal and state departments — has kept the error in its preliminary report to professional standards of sampling, especially within the limits of the survey method.

For many years the discrepancy between the preliminary report and the final one has been around 1%, and in 1965 the initial figure was almost on the mark. This year the Reporting Service found its first figure was correct to the nearest 1000 head. On a total of more than 5.3 million, that is accuracy that would make a scientist beam.

The figure given is for beef cattle, and does not include dairy cows and heifers.

For the most part, even the county-by-county figures were correct. Usually the preliminary figure of perhaps a dozen counties will be off by 20% or more. These tend to balance out one another — a high estimate of 10,000 cattle will be countered by a low guess of the same size.

But this time there were only six or seven counties that needed drastic adjustments from the initial count of last year. Downward adjustments of more than 10,000 cattle each were made in Washington, Dickinson and Osage in the Bluestem country.

In the west, Meade, Hodge, man, Finney and Clark all had preliminary figures upgraded by 10,000 or more.

Estimates generally tend to be more accurate in the grasslands areas of the east than they are in the west. Major adjustments are seldom made, for example, in Butler, Greenwood, Cowley and Lyons counties, generally the state leaders in cattle numbers.

The tide flows unevenly in western Kansas, always the first to react to drouth or to build up herds when grass and wheat pasture are available. The wheat pasture especially is important, for when fall moisture has started wheat off well and the winter is open, western Kansas may play host to tens of thousands of cattle from out-of-state.

There was no clear pattern by regions this year. Southeast Kansas had a larger increase than the other areas, but it was not unusual in size.

For the state as a whole, there were more counties up than down. Showing increases were 55 counties and 47 of them went down. Three held even.

Butler County (El Dorado) again led the state in cattle numbers, as it has done for the past four decades. Butler has nearly 600,000 acres of pasture, far more than any other county in the state.

Butler's total beef count was 157,400, up 14,300 — the largest numerical gain among all counties. Two other counties — Greenwood and Lyon — counted over 100,000 cattle also.

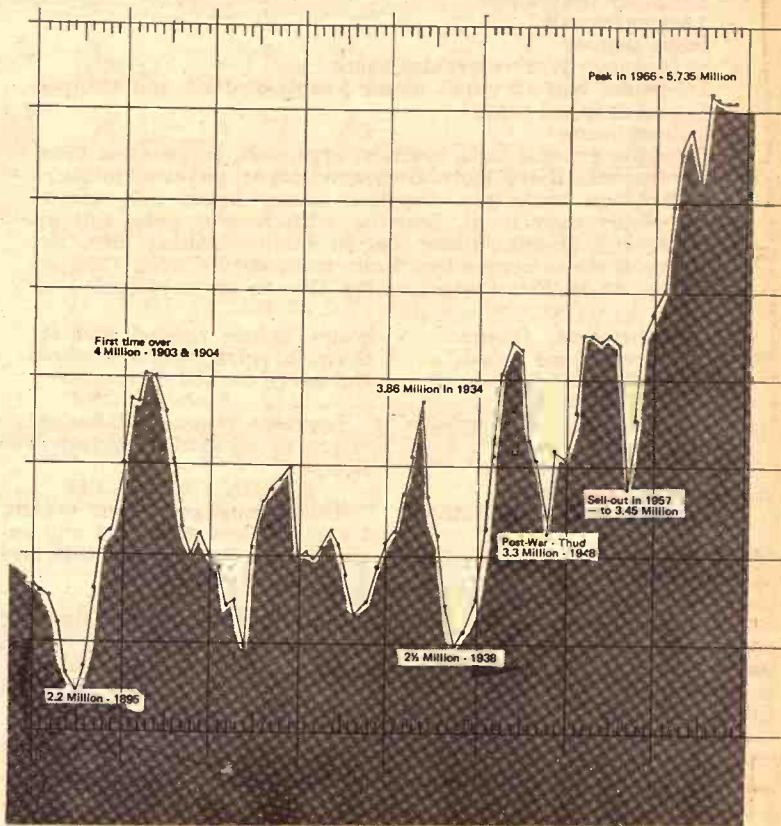

Washington County almost made six figures, at 98,600, and ranked 4th. Cove (Quinter) ranked 5th, highest placing ever for that county, with a 93,400 count. Cowley (Winfield-Ark City) was 6th, the first time in 20 years that county was not in the top five.

Rounding out the top 10 were Dickinson, Nemaha, Barber and Finney counties.

Normally, because of wheat pasture concentrations, western Kansas shows the most cattle in the January 1 date which the Reporting Service uses as its counting date. If the count were taken on May 15, when cattle are moved into the Flint Hills and to a lesser though still significant degree, the Smoky Hills, counties in these areas would show major gains in cattle numbers.

YEAR-BY-YEAR

This graph shows the regularity of cycles of cattle numbers in Kansas since statistics were started in 1890. Until past World War II the trend was to approach peaks of four million cattle in high tides, then ebb back to around 2½ million when supplies forced prices down. Following a shorter drop after World War II, cattle inventories grew as stockmen prospered in the early 1950's. A drastic decline came in 1957 as dry pastures and heavy supplies devastated prices. The buildup started back the next year, however, and there was a steady increase from 1958 until 1965. The figure dropped then, shot back to a record in 1966, but declined about 3% in 1967, slipped back another 1% in 1968, and virtually held steady this year. Because older Reporting Service statistics included dairy cattle, this graph includes them for all years, accounting for a minor variation from figures in the accompanying article.

'Cheaper' Thru Fire Insurance

ELLIS — The Ellis city council has decided its cheaper to allow an increase in fire insurance rates here rather than to purchase a new fire truck.

Councilmen said the Kansas Inspection bureau told the city if deficiencies are not corrected the Ellis classification will be raised from sixth to seventh class, with a resulting increase on insurance premiums for property owners.

City officials said it will cost about $16,000 to replace a 40-year-old pumper truck which the bureau rated as unreliable. It also recommended the city provide for some full-time, on-duty firemen and auxiliary equipment including masks and floodlights.

Councilmen said reclassification by the bureau would cost about $1000 for all insured property in Ellis. They asserted the city cannot afford to purchase the pumper truck at the present time.

The bureau has been told the city hopes to purchase the truck within the next year and was asked how much time Ellis has before a rating change would be put into effect.

Do you ever wonder that when you're called to chair a committee, whether you were selected because of some special ability or whether everyone else on the list said "no" before you were called?

My little one crawled in bed beside his Daddy and Pop asked him if he had a fever as his arm felt so warm. "I don't know about that," said the five-year-old, but I must not be too bad off, 'cause my heart's still beating!"

I'm getting a good chance to see how efficient my refrigerator is under extreme use — my older son's home for a visit.

One of my bowling teammates is all on edge. Her last name and one of the local doctor's is the same and her husband has threatened that if the doctor's patients continue to get the wrong number in the middle of the night, he is going to tell the caller to take a couple of aspirin and call back in the morning.

Stocks Add Fragrance And Beauty To Garden

Every garden needs some plants that waft fragrance on the air. Stocks have a particular appeal because, in addition to their fragrance, they are so luxurious. The double flowers now in vogue, the closely packed rosette-shaped flowers on the tapering spikes, the predominately Victorian colors of lavender and purple, all give a feeling of garden affluence.

Seeds of both tall and dwarf stocks are available. Although the Dwarf Ten Weeks strain is an excellent choice for planting in containers if for solid beds, the blooms are not good for cutting. Two strains of taller growing stocks are most popular — Giant Imperial and Trysomic Seven Weeks. They differ in ultimate height and in length of time from seed sowing to flowering.

Giant Imperials grow from 2 to 2½ feet tall; are early-blooming but not as early as the Trysomic Seven Weeks type. These last will flower in just two months from planting but are not as tall-growing. Both strains will produce a high percentage of double-flowered plants. And it usually is possible for the gardener to increase this percentage.

A glance along the row when the seedlings have four leaves will show that some seedlings are sturdier and have darker green foliage than others. The singles are the weaklings so thin them out. Remember that stocks develop best in cool weather and should set their flower buds before the heat arrives. If you have had trouble with buds setting in previous years, try the Trysomic Seven Weeks strain this year.

Perhaps the prettiest use of tall stocks is in mass plantings.

This is because their own colors blend so well. Depending on the color scheme of a border, groups of stock seedlings could be moved when small to add these same colors to those of other border flowers. The stock bloom colors are particularly effective when surrounding blooms are white or pale yellow.

Of course, a prime use of stocks is for inside the house as they last well as cut flowers.

Use Canvas To Create New Elegance Outdoors

In home decorating as in the world of fashion, what's in style today may be woefully out of style tomorrow.

But there's one thing you can count on: Good design never goes out of style. And the best way to make sure this summer's outdoor decorating scheme doesn't look passe next year is to put your designs in canvas. Good design and canvas were made for each other.

Use canvas for a giant, red circle of shade where guests can gather for a poolside party. Let us swoop in parabolic shapes over an oriental-style pavilion in the garden to create a secluded spot for al fresco dinners.

Stretch canvas overhead to give an inviting welcome to doorways and walkways. Entrances will acquire a dramatic touch. Porches will gain shade and privacy and walkways will be protected against the elements to become cozy settings for outdoor entertaining.

Used over the patio, canvas provides protection without confinement. Windbreaks, privacy panels and cabanas can be permanent or portable. Wide glass areas can be shaded by canvas to shield interior furnishings from harsh sunlight, reduce heat and glare and cut down on air-conditioning costs.

For more than 20 centuries, canvas has served Pharaohs and peasants, prophets and pioneers, servicemen and homemakers. But never before has this durable, sun-fast water-repellant and mildew-resistant cotton fabric created such a stir in the decorating world.

Gone is the day when canvas was colored only dark green or drab khaki. Today it runs the entire color spectrum.

There are truly many wonderful ways you can use remarkable canvas. Try it in fun-loving stripes to add a festive flair, or in subdued citified tones to lend a note of sophistication.

Whatever your needs, you'll find elegant canvas provides the ultimate in design flexibility.

Pretty Daisy Biscuits Are Simple To Make

Who says daisies won't tell? Daisy Biscuits will! Your family and friends will tell you how good home-baked biscuits can be — and how pretty.

The secret these daisies don't tell is the simple way they are made and shaped. After cutting 2-inch rounds of biscuit dough, makes six even cuts (to within one-fourth inch of the center) around the edge of each. As the biscuits rise during baking, the flowers bloom.

DAISY BISCUITS

2 cups enriched flour*
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

¼ cup butter
½ to ¾ cup milk
Jam or preserves

Stir together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Blend in enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out ¼-inch thick. Cut biscuits with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. For daisy petal design, made 6 cuts, to within ¼ inch of center, around edge of each biscuit. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Firmly press center of each biscuit almost to bottom and fill with jam or preserves. Bake in preheated oven 10-12 minutes, or until lightly browned. (About two dozen biscuits.)

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Polled Hereford Assn. Sets August Tour

The annual eastern 2-day tour of the Kansas Polled Hereford Assn. will be held Aug. 1 and 2, Arnold Wittorff, secretary, has announced.

The tour will start at the Carl Funk farm in Goff, with the first day noon dinner stop at Atchison, in the cafeteria of the Vo-Tech school.

The night stop will be at Ottawa, where the banquet will be held and the Kansas Polled Hereford Assn's queen will be selected.

The noon dinner stop Aug. 2 will be at the Harper Ranch, La-Cygne.

Chairman of the tour is Jim Rowland of Marysville; co-chairman is Leon Riffel of Enterprise.

Mr. President

An unusual honor an active farmer is to be president of the hometown Chamber of Commerce. Ervin Oelschlager, who farms a quarter west of Clay Center, is the current president of the Clay Center Chamber. Oelschlager was shredding stalks when he stopped for the picture.

Delay Completing Farm Valuation In Saline County

Final work on setting farm-land values has been delayed a month in the current property reappraisal underway in Saline County.

Daniel Bubbs, project director for United Appraisal Co., said some of his crew is being used on "clean-up" work in other counties.

Bubbs said he expects the farm land review to begin here in May. The preliminary field work has been completed, he said.

He estimated that 83 percent of the total job is complete for Saline County, and 6 percent of the remainder involves hearings with landowners.

Work in the smaller cities virtually is complete, he said.

95 percent of the residential review is finished in Salina, he said, and 75 percent of the commercial field work in central Salina.

The company was given a 9-month extension on the original contract, and has the rest of the spring and summer to complete work and hearings.

Results will determine valuations and tax assessments for the 1970 tax rolls.

Under the original contract, the new valuations would have been the basis for 30 percent uniform assessment for this year's tax rolls.

The reappraisal is required statewide by a new state law as an attempt to equalize property taxes.

New Sign

Displaying their new name on a sign on the elevator in Holton, the former Farmers Union Co-op now uses the name
Jackson Farmers Inc.

Hometown Honors

The town of Larned is going all-out April 18 to honor one of its successful farmers and cattle breeders, John M. Lewis.
Lewis founded Alfalfa Lawn Farms, one of the nation's leading Polled Hereford establishments now operated by two sons.

One of the purposes of the day is to suggest to youth that the accomplishments of Lewis are evidence of the opportunities available in rural areas such as Pawnee County.

John Lewis moved to Larned in 1909 from Illinois and the following year married Bess Libbey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Libbey.

For a wedding present, Mr. and Mrs. Libbey gave the young couple 10 registered Hereford cows. These cows became the nucleus of Alfalfa Lawn Farms, one of the nation's outstanding Polled Hereford establishments.

Annually on the farms a livestock judging contest and school for 4-H and Future Farmers is held and the date this year is April 19. Usually the event attracts about 1000 persons.

Active management of the farms and the Hereford cattle now is in the hands of the Lewis sons, Joe Lewis and Walter Lewis. Walter Lewis is past president of the American Hereford Association and the American Polled Hereford Association.

Paying Taxes Via Credit Card

Would you believe you can pay taxes with a credit card?

The BankAmericard which has flooded the G&G area in the last few months hasn't been used for such purposes in Kansas, yet, but several localities in the rest of the U.S. are accepting tax payments by credit card.

Franklin County (Columbus)
Ohio, honors BankAmericard for property taxes, and some 15 smaller counties in California accept the credit card.

"It seems a logical step," notes
North Carolina National Bank at Greensboro, which has begun a similar plan in six Carolina counties.

First National Bank of Atlanta set up BankAmericard arrangements with Fulton County (Atlanta) and several others. Its program started slowly, but
"it's been well received," the bank says.

For taxpayers, such tax payments usually work the same as retail charge purchases. Unpaid balances incur interest charges, commonly 1½% a month. But unlike merchants, who pay a discount up to 3% on charge-card sales, county treasurers turn in their vouchers at face value.

Western States Bankcard Association, which owns the name and logo of Master Charge, BankAmericard's main competition, says that certain antitrust provisions prevent banks using its card from also setting up credit-card arrangements for tax payments.

But many banks are enthusiastic even if the tax payment isn't a money-maker. They call it an important public service that promotes use of their credit card. "We expect some real collateral benefit," North Carolina National says.

Another 6% Dip In Dairy Numbers

Though prices for milk have not been so disastrous for dairy-men as they were for several years, that has not stopped the steady drop in dairy cow num-bers in the state.

For three decades the milk cow count, which includes heif-ers two years old or more, has declined at the rate of nearly 5% a year, except for a moder-ate increase during World War II.

The current inventory, says the Kansas Livestock Reporting Service, is 225,000. The January 1 figure is down about 6% from the 1968 count.

The 1969 inventory is about one-half the number counted in 1958, just 11 years ago.

For a number of years the decline in the number of dairy cows on Kansas farms was pri-marily attributed to the small family milking operation. Old Bossy was losing her place in the barnyard. As a symbol of the family farm, the milk cow became less representative, but it was felt that large dairy op-erations were efficiently hold-ing up total milk production.

The decline over a number of years, however, indicates that larger milking operations have succumbed also.

Only 13 counties in the state showed gains in the number of dairy cows in the past year, while 37 counties were estimat-ed to have held about even. The other 55 — more than half — were down.

The figures were down for the leading dairy counties as well as the state as a whole. Among the leaders, only Marion, McPher-son, Reno, Brown, Marshall, Jackson and Pottawatomie had gains.

The state's leader, Nemaha, was down about 600, to 7900. Sedgwick held steady and rank-ed 2nd with 7700. Marion had a 500 gain and was 5th with 7300.

McPherson showed a gain of 600 and jumped from 8th to 4th. Franklin (Ottawa) stayed in 5th place with 5700, tying with Bourbon. Leavenworth, Mar-shall (Marysville), Reno (Hutch-inson) and Allen (Iola) finished out the top 10.

Kansas had its all-time peak in dairy numbers in 1934, at 967,000. The current figure is less than one-fourth that zenith.

The number has dropped steadily since 1934, altho there was a brief increase during World War II when the count got back to 841,000. When live-stock inventories were first tak-en in Kansas in 1890, there were 648,000 milk cows.

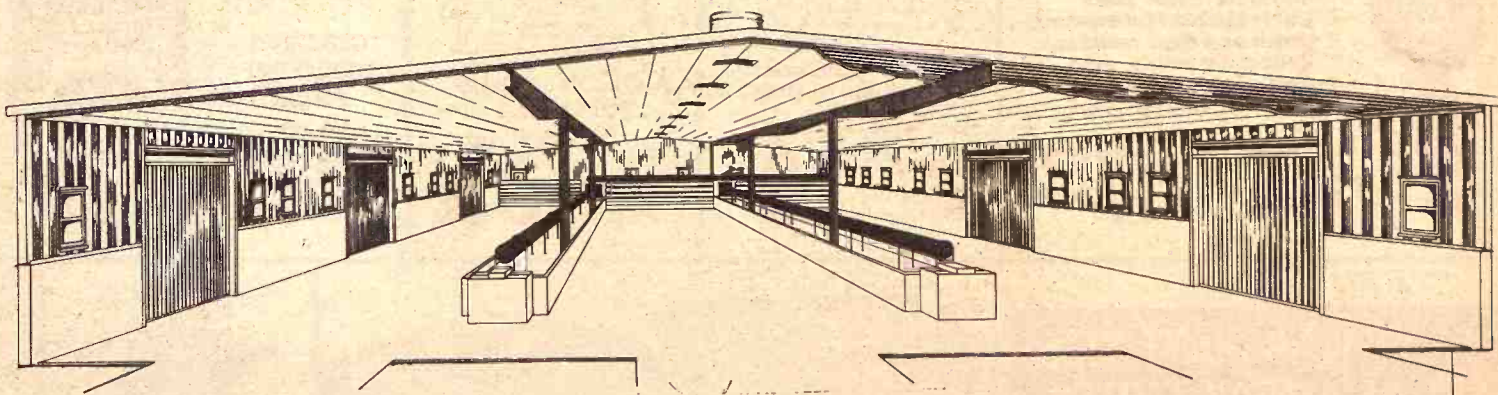

While the number of milk cows drops, the production per cow goes up each year so that the decline in milk produced goes down only slightly and in some years the productivity gain exceeds the loss in cows producing.

Kansas Dairy Count

This map shows the num-ber of dairy cows in each county as of the Livestock Re-ported Ser-vice's estimate of January 1. The second fig-ure shows the change from 1968. Only 13 counties had in-creases in the past year, and 37 counties held about even.

For the Progressive Livestock Feeder — Lamoreaux and the Agri-Builder Can Assist In Selecting a Profitable Beef System

Beef Housing and Feeding System

Efficiency is now and will continue to be the most important factor in any livestock feeder's profit picture. Improved efficiency depends in great part upon the feeder's ability to invest wisely in housing and feeding equipment, and to make maximum use of available land.

Lamoreaux and Butler's product development engineers and design technicians have responded to this increased need for efficiency by drafting suggested livestock feeding systems, which will maxi-mize the use of equipment and land for increased profits.

Working closely with leading livestock feeders and the nation's agricultural authorities, we have kept abreast of fast moving developments in this field of agriculture. Consequently, we are in a better position than ever before to offer recommendations concerning livestock housing and feeding operations.

Farm Bureau Fear On Unions In Agriculture

The American Farm Bureau Federation has asked Congress not to extend the federal labor management relations act to agriculture, claiming that unionization of workers would hurt farmers.

Charles B. Shuman, AFB president, said in testimony for a Senate labor subcommittee hearing that the basic labor law was designed to fit industrial and commercial interests and not agriculture.

"Its language and concepts do not reflect any consideration or recognition of the unique factors relating to agricultural production and employment," Shuman said.

Instead, the farm leader proposed a plan which would set up a separate labor law which would apply to farm workers. Shuman said railroads and airlines are examples of industries with separate labor legislation.

"Agriculture is a larger industry, and employs more workers than either of these industries — or both combined, for that matter," he said.

Shuman said new legislation should protect farmers and workers alike. Among guarantees, he said, should be the right of a farmer "to be protected against a strike that could result in the loss of a farm product."

Shuman said farmers are "uniquely vulnerable" to labor disputes, and that while most businesses can close down for periods of time without disastrous consequences, farmers cannot.

"In sharp contrast," Shuman said, "a relatively short strike in agriculture at harvest time can result in the loss of a year's income plus the loss of substantial investment."

Negro Heads The Lyons Legion

Cleo Hudson has been elected commander of the American Legion post at Lyons. The post has 367 members, three of which are Negro and two Mexican. The honor was not surprising in Lyons. Hudson was elected commander of the VFW post in Lyons eight years ago. He is a mechanic for a garage in Lyons with 35 years service, less three years time with the Seabees during World War II.

Rain Scuttles Better Livestock Day At Abilene

ABILENE — Bettair Livestock Day, scheduled on the Dean Felbush farm south of Abilene, was moved inside to the Central Kansas Fair grounds in Abilene's Eisenhower park because of the bad weather.

It was the first time in the 44 year history of the event that the site has been changed, according to Paul Gwin, former Geary county agent, who has attended most of the Angus field days.

"We've had bad days before but Better Livestock Day stayed in the same place as scheduled," Mr. Gwin said. "The crowds were smaller, but we stuck it out."

The roads leading to the Felbush farm, after leaving K-15, are muddy, Mr. Gwin said. "The planned parking area is muddy and you would never be able to park cars there" he added.

Approximately 70 FFA, 4-H boys and girls, college students and adults participated in the judging contest.

A barbecued beef dinner was served at noon.

Featured speaker on the afternoon program was A. D. (Dad) Weber, vice-president emeritus of agriculture, Kansas State University.

No Exceptions On School Unification

TOPEKA — Mandatory unification of all school district will be the rule in Kansas no later than July 1, 1969, under action taken by the legislature.

Strong attempts to provide for exceptions, allowing the districts at Florence and Kanorado to unify within their own bounds although they do not meet minimum requirements, were finally deleted in conference committee.

Seven district do not meet the minimum criteria for unification. In addition to Florence and Kanorado they are Ensign, Coolidge, Odin and two at Leoville.

The criteria require a district to have 400 pupils or more or to have at least 200 square miles of territory or $2 million or more of taxable assessed valuation.

A provision was written into the measure giving these districts which must now unify the guarantee that their present attendance centers will be allowed to remain open unless residents of the so-called old district vote to close them.

Fate of the seven districts has been an "on and off" matter in recent weeks.

Initially, SB286, the bill passed last week, was strictly a mandatory unification measure, originating in the Senate Committee on Education.

Faced with considerable pressure, the Senate committee amended it and added the exception for Kanorado.

At about the same time SB 277, also originating in the Senate committee, made special provision to allow the Florence district to unify within its existing bounds.

The House Education Committee under direction of Rep. John Bower, R-McLouth, amended it to include Ensign.

As the bills neared the day of final decision, all exceptions were incorporated into SB277, which was killed in the House, while SB286 providing for total unification in Kansas won favor.

Conference committees were required when the amendments were approved by one body or another.

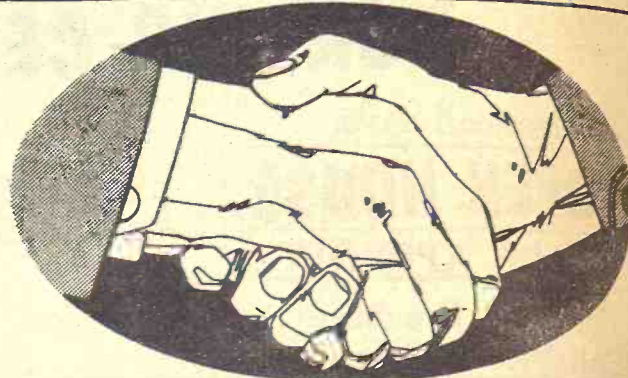

Final vote in the House on the mandatory measure was 85-11, followed by the Senate's afternoon approval, 33-4.

In March 1947, Kansas had 8112 school districts.

When unification became effective in September 1963 the total had dropped to 1848.

Currently there are 310 unified and 20 non-unified districts. However, when unification is complete on or before July 1, 1969, under provision of SB 286, the state will have 311 unified districts.

"Cattle shrink I save is paying for this tractor!"

"That's right — it's the shrink I don't take. Last week I sold 100 steers weighing about 1200 lbs. apiece. Instead of letting the direct buyer pick them up, I took them to the Kansas City market — and look at the shrink I saved:

Kansas City gives my cattle feed, rest and water on arrival. Direct buyer doesn't. Here I figure I saved at least ..... $ 540

Direct buyer lets my cattle stand overnight, still without feed, rest and water before weighing them on his own scales. By avoiding this I saved another ..... $ 900

Direct buyer takes pencil shrink on top of all the other shrink. By avoiding this I saved another ..... $ 720

"Altogether I figure I saved shrink in three ways. It may not sound like much until I tell you it amounted, on my 100 steers, to ..... $2160

Makes a good substantial down payment on a $7000 tractor!"

"P.S. I gain still more, how much I don't know, by selling at the competitive market with help from the livestock specialist with my commission company. He knows how to get extra money for the quality in my cattle.

New Boom At Salt Lake—It's Mineral Treasure

For centuries it has been there, a vast expanse of turbid, salty water gleaming under a desert sun — and nobody much cared.

It thrived briefly years ago as a tourist attraction, then fell again into virtual disuse, its water too briny to support any but the simplest life.

But now, suddenly, the Great Salt Lake has become the home of massive new industry seeking billions of dollars in mineral treasure dissolved in its heavy, heaving brine. And with the discovery of treasure has come a legal battle between the state and the federal government over ownership — a fight that could be crucial to Utah's economic development.

In an era in which railroads thrived, people flocked here simply to view the strange 70 by 35 mile lake and swim in buoyant waters so heavy with salt a person can't sink.

Eventually the lake got dirty — some days downright unsanitary — as nearby communities and industries poured in waste.

The railroads quit the excursion runs, and tourism fell off.

Milton Weilenmann, Utah development director, estimates the mining potential at more than 56 billion dollars. Others, including many scientists, guess that it's closer to 100 billion.

Tremendous quantities of magnesium are in there. And boron. And lithium. Plenty of valuables in big demand. The problem has been how to get it out.

The answers have begun to come.

Last week, the National Lead company announced plans to build a 70 million dollar magnesium and chlorine plant on the western shore.

Other firms, including Dow Chemical and the Great Salt Lake Mineral & Chemical companies, are partly settled already. They use evaporation ponds for mineral extraction.

The potential bonanza has stirred legal problems. Industry and landowner. Jockeying regarding surrounding property.

Two-thirds of Utah is owned by the federal government, a situation that hasn't helped the state's need for more tax resources.

2. Are you getting the most for your money in life insurance?
3. If inflation continues will you have enough money to retire or send your children to college?

If your answer is "No" to any of these questions perhaps you would like to attend a seminar where these and other important topics will be discussed.

Improve Inner Routes At Fort

FT. RILEY — Construction of an access road from Ft. Riley's Custer Hill to Camp Forsyth is included in $2 million in additional facilities planned for the military post in 1969-70.

Col. R. J. Anderson Jr., Kansas City District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the two-lane, 24' hard surfaced road will reduce travel distance between the two installations by 3½ miles. It will give military personnel and dependents a direct access to Junction City.

Authorities said the new route will relieve the present heavy traffic load on K-18 through the Main Post.

Anderson reported the project has been cleared for final design and the start of construction depends on availability of funds. Work will start sometime after July 1, the start of the 1970 fiscal year.

Other projects scheduled for Ft. Riley in 1969-70 include a 20-man bachelor officers quarters and additional training facilities to serve newly constructed buildings in the Custer Hill area.

Two 10-barracks complexes, consisting of 49 buildings, are now nearing completion or underway on Custer Hill. Their cost is $25 million. They will provide housing for more than 6000 enlisted men with support facilities.

The first 10 barracks complex, started in July 1967, is now being occupied. The second complex was started last December and is scheduled for completion in February 1971.

Other construction currently underway in the Custer Hill area totals $7 million.

The Kansas City district office has been asked to prepare construction drawings for Ft. Riley to provide recreation facilities for military personnel at Milford Reservoir near Junction City, according to Anderson.

The work will be spread over a period of years. Included will be boating, picnic facilities, fishing, swimming, camping and other activities. Site of the proposed development will be part of the military reservation:

Buildup, Without Bust, Puzzle In Hog Count

There is not much about the hog business that is sure. Its ups and downs come quickly, and there is not much on which to rely.

Of course, longtime analysts of the Kansas hog scene could be pretty sure that Nemaha would be the leading hog raiser in the state, and that the northeast corner of the state would dominate pig production, directly utilizing its longtime leadership as a corn producer.

Then too one could be pretty sure that if prices got high enough that everyone and his brother would get into the game, knocking the bottom out of the market, ruining things for the professional breeder, and then vowing never to get into the hog business again.

That's about all one could rely on in studying the hog situation. And then came this year. Nemaha lost its title as the state's leading hog producer. Northeast Kansas lost out as the leading area. And, hog numbers continue to increase as they have for three years but the market has not dropped out of sight as it has so often when there have been large buildups in hog numbers.

The number of hogs and pigs in the state as of January 1, 1969, was 1.711 million, according to the preliminary estimate by the Kansas Livestock Reporting Service. That's up 11% from the 1968 count, and it is enough of a gain that it ordinarily would send the professionals into a cold sweat in dread of a market bust.

Almost a sure sign in the past of an upcoming price decline has been the buildup of hog numbers in areas which are not normally major hog regions. One can look at the current report and start drawing parallels. Every region in the state has an increase in hog numbers — except in the traditional hog centers of northeast Kansas and east central Kansas.

What seems to contradict all this, however, is the increase in hogs in what was formerly the secondary area of the state — along the northern border but farther west of Sabetha-Hiawatha-Horton-Troy, which had been the major hog area of the state since before the turn of the century.

Ousting Nemaha as the state's leading hog producer is Washington, which had 85,000 hogs and pigs at the first of the year, a big jump of 24,000. Jewell (Mankato) tied Nemaha for second place with a 70,000 estimate. Another county along the border — Republic — had, like Jewell, a 12,000 increase in one year and ranked 4th with 50,000 hogs.

Two other northern border counties — Smith and Marshall — also finished in the top 10. Marshall was one of only three in the top 25 which showed a decrease from the previous year, the others being Brown and Marion. Brown (Hiawatha-Horton) and Doniphan (Troy) which in years past have regularly finished 2-3 behind Nemaha in hog inventory, indicate what has happened to the former hog stronghold in the northeast corner.

Brown showed a 9000 decrease and finished out of the top 10 for the first time in a couple of decades. Doniphan had an 8000 decline and finished completely out of the top 25.

Doniphan's decline was in addition to a revision of the 1968 estimate of another 8000 less than originally estimated.

The Reporting Service, however, had no apologies to make for the preliminary report of a year ago. The final figures for 1968 were 1.541 million, to the thousand the same figure that was estimated in the preliminary figure a year ago.

That's considerably better than in 1967 when the preliminary figure proved to be 8% too low, and in 1966 when the adjustment upward was 9%.

The hog situation has long been a nightmare for the statisticians. The size of litters, the shortness of gestation, the ease of breeding, the quickness of fattening, and the easy relationship of the public's taste for pork with its price, has promoted quick changes in the market.

These factors have borne heavily on hog growers who often found it difficult to control their extremes of pessimistic selling out and uncontrolled zeal for starting up again.

For years major hog raisers have been trying to pacify their brethren — to stop them from panic when the market goes sour and to buffer their enthusiasm when price soar.

The current count of 1.711 million is the highest in the state since 1944 when Kansas last counted over two million hogs.

This is the 11th straight year for the state to count over a million hogs, a figure reached after the drastic decline of the middle 1950s when the state's swine inventory dipped to an all-time low of 697,000 in 1954.

For half a dozen years the inventory strayed only a few points from 1½ million, but jumped over 1.5 million last year for the first time since 1951 and only the second time since the middle of World War II.

Though the current hog count is the highest since then, the numbers are a far cry from the days when nearly all Kansas farmers kept hogs.

The state had over 2½ million hogs when the first livestock enumeration was made in 1890.

There were 3 million hogs counted as early as 1898, and the 3 million figure was reached

License Needed For Some Fire Vehicles

HUTCHINSON — The Reno County Fire Department and all rural fire departments in Kansas apparently are required to license departmental station wagons.

Following an opinion from Kansas Atty. Gen. Kent Frizzell last month that resulted in the Hutchinson Fire Department licensing its station wagons and a pickup truck, County Fire Chief J. W. Pedersen sought additional clarification.

Frizzell had issued an opinion that station wagons do not meet the statutory exemptions given fire trucks, and therefore must be registered. In a second opinion from Frizzell's office, Pedersen learned that the same ruling for municipalities apparently affects rural and suburban fire departments.

The latest opinion, however, would appear to clear the rural department's U.S. Army surplus jeeps, pickup trucks and trailers from registration since they are used almost exclusively for fire fighting.

Some questions still surround whether a six-ton wrecker used by the Reno County Fire Department must be tagged. If so, the license would cost $200, according to the county treasurer's office.

Pedersen said he remains opposed to the licensing. "It amounts to taking money out of one public pocket and putting it in another," the chief said.

Pedersen has asked County Atty. Ray Berkley to study the opinion and tell him specifically which vehicles must be licensed.

200 SHEEP KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

NEWTON — About 200 head of sheep were killed in a car-truck crash south of Newton. The crash occurred when a 19-year-old Hutchinson driver, John Gonzales, attempted to pass the livestock truck driven by Gerald Avery of Wichita. The car collided with the front end of the truck, which went out of control and turned over. Damage to the truck amounted to $12,000.

1939, however, except for a buildup during World War II and the drastic retrenchment of 1953-58.

In three years, the gain totals over 50% and the amount of it doubtless disturbs many of the major breeders. Prices in this time have ranged from barely profitable to excellent. Hog raisers who have stayed in the game for 20 years or more know that major buildups have brought on unprofitable levels rather quickly. The fact that the current gains have continued for three years without market chaos may mean that hog raisers are walking a narrow tightrope.

Dole Asks Early Start On Farm Bill Rewrite

KANSAS CITY — Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said he believes an early start by Congress on rewriting farm legislation is mandatory.

But he also pointed out that the war in Vietnam and inflation have No. 1 priority.

Dole made the statements in a speech to the first annual meeting of Far-Mar-Co. Inc. in Kansas City. Approximately 2,000 delegates and their wives attended the speech in closing sessions of the convention of the five-state regional grain marketing cooperative.

"I don't believe that everything is lost to agriculture — in fact, I'm optimistic. But, I do believe that we must get some more income into the agricultural economy," Dole said.

Dole indicated he may be interested in trying to start some action on farm legislation in the Senate where he serves as a member of the Senate Committee on Forestry and Agriculture and the Senate Committee on Food and Nutrition.

Noting that he believes action will come slowly as the new administration makes a thorough study of all farm conditions before making recommendations, Dole said:

Bob Dole

"But, let's at least start talking about it. Maybe we can get some action. I don't want to wait until next year when our year's extension is used up — then have to worry about not having enough time to do the job."

Dole declared that any reasonable person must conclude that the International Grains Arrangement (IGA) is not working satisfactorily, and said he will insist that the U.S. keep its grains priced competitively so as to make for broader exports.

He cited four ways in which the IGA confronts U.S. grain producers and marketers with problems:

- "With the United States the only nation willing to take action to restrict production, are we not at the same time with the higher minimum price levels, stimulating production abroad?"

- "There is no protection from non-member competition and in a real sense from member deviations. The U.S.S.R. is simply pricing its wheat competitively cheaper. There are several members who are just doing what they deem necessary to sell, IGA or no IGA."

- "What effective means is there for sharing in exports equitably, when we continue to live up to the IGA and others undercut? The recent Canada actions — open and aboveboard — reflect their feeling that the review procedure just doesn't work."

- "The increased minimums discourage consumption, especially in the developing nations. As a matter of fact, the high minimums hurt our sales in potential new markets."

Dole said he opposed the cargo preference rule, which by presidential order six years ago has given the U.S. ships cargo preference of more than 50 per cent in shipment of Public Law 480 wheat.

"I intend to urge the Nixon Administration to drop this handicap to competition by U.S. firms," he said.

Farm legislation that is likely to get some attention includes a reserve program, but it is not likely to be passed, he believes.

Other proposals are farm bargaining, food stamp programs, Great Plains Program and others. But, he emphasized there seems to be no great push for new programs or to make drastic changes in existing programs.

Still Teaching Piano At Age 83

ELLSWORTH — Mrs. John Cadwell, 83, teaches piano to at least 20 pupils a week in her home here.

Until the last few years she taught nearly 60 students a week and held three recitals annually. Mrs. Cadwell was born in Michigan and received her musical training in Michigan and Chicago.

She came to Ellsworth in 1908 when she married an Ellsworth rancher, John Cadwell. Two years later, the Cadwell home burned and Mrs. Cadwell lost all of her music and her piano, which had been shipped from Michigan.

The Cadwells later moved to New Mexico and then returned to Ellsworth. The piano she uses today is the one her husband bought in 1914 when they were in New Mexico. The piano was shipped from New York City to Roswell, N.M., and then hauled 50 miles by wagon to their ranch home.

Mrs. Cadwell began teaching piano in Ellsworth in 1928 and helped organize the Ellsworth Fine Arts Club.

State Wool Production Down

Shorn wool production in Kansas during 1968 totaled 3,182,000 pounds, down 4 per cent from the revised estimate for the previous year, according to the Kansas Livestock Reporting Service.

A smaller number of sheep shorn resulted in a smaller wool clip despite a slightly higher fleece weight.

Kansas wool production for 1968 represented wool shorn from 373,000 head of sheep and lambs compared with 394,000 shorn a year earlier. The average fleece weight was 8.5 pounds in 1968 compared with 8.4 pounds for the previous year.

Kansas sheepmen received an average price of 31 cents per pound for the 1968 clip, the same as in 1967. The total value of the 1968 wool production for Kansas was $986,000 compared with $1,030,000 in 1967.

United States

Production of shorn and pulled wool in the United States during 1968 totaled 198 million pounds, grease basis, down 6 per cent from 1967. Shorn wool production of 178 million pounds declined 6 per cent from a year earlier, and is equivalent to 85 million pounds, clean basis, using a conversion factor of 47.7 per cent.

Pulled wool production totaled 20.5 million pounds during 1968, down 8 per cent from 1967 and is equivalent to 14.9 million pounds, clean basis, using a conversion factor of 79.2 per cent.

The number of sheep and lambs shorn in 1968 totaled 20.7 million head, a decrease of 6 per cent from 1967. Fleece weight of shorn wool averaged 8.58 pounds per fleece, the same as a year earlier. The average weight per skin of wool pulled was 3.43 pounds in 1968 compared with 3.44 pounds in 1967.

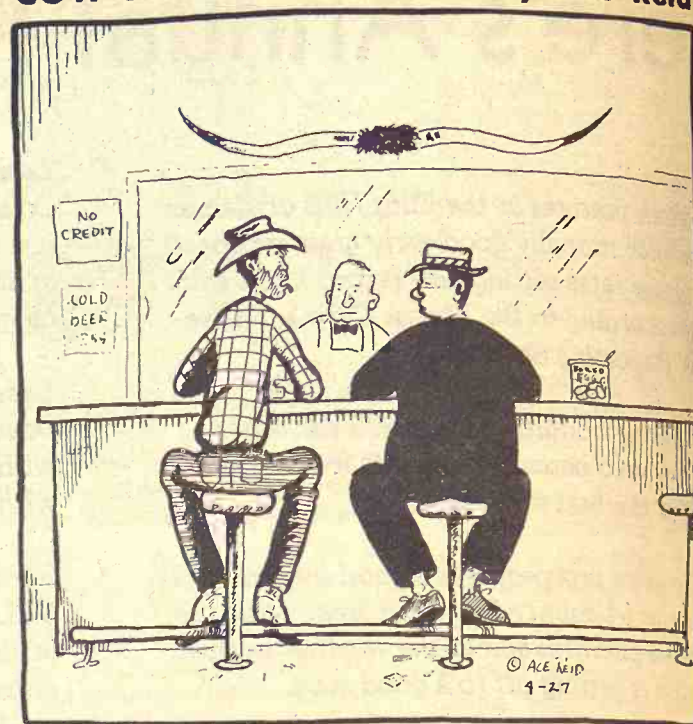

Native States (which account for most of the "fleece" wool production) received an average of 34.2 cents per pound in 1968 compared with 36.6 cents in 1967.

The price received in the 11 Western States, Texas and South Dakota (which produce most of the "territory" wool) averaged 42.5 cents per pound, 1.7 cents above 1967.

Total value of shorn wool produced in 1968 was $72 million, a decrease of 4 per cent from 1967.

Burial Spot Under A Stock Tank

A stock tank on a farm near Wilson in Ellsworth County was the burial spot for a man killed in Wichita. Sedgwick County sheriff Vern Miller, in white overalls, led an all-night search which found the body of the dead man beneath a stock tank on a farm four miles southeast of Wilson. The dead man was known as Bob Evans in Wichita. The accused is Randall Clair Hill, 22, Wichita. The farm in Ellsworth County is where the accused man's parents live.

End Of DDT Use Started By Michigan Action?

Michigan, torn by dissension over pesticide control measures, has taken steps to outlaw the sale of DDT for farm and other uses and became the first state to ban the increasingly controversial chemical.

The State Agriculture Commission voted to cancel all registrations for the sale of DDT. Hearings would be required, if demanded by contesting interests.

Michigan, a state in which tourism and recreation is an industry second only to auto manufacturing, has been shaken by discoveries pointing to pesticides as a menace to commercial and sport fishing.

Gov. William G. Milliken summoned the governors of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota to an emergency meeting in Chicago to discuss the problem.

Milliken may ask neighboring states to follow Michigan's lead in banning DDT due to increasing perils to fish in Lake Michigan where chemicals used on crops eventually are carried by runoff into streams and rivers.

Increasing concentrations of DDT have turned up in the fat of salmon, whitefish, trout and perch and there has been talk of need to close down the state's commercial fisheries.

A shutdown of Michigan's fisheries would directly affect 1000 people, a state official estimated. However, other economic effects would be far-reaching.

The state is caught up in a new fishing craze for a variety of salmon called the Coho, which was introduced into Lake Michigan a few years ago. It has attracted sportsmen from out of state and created a fever of excitement.

The scrappy game fish, imported from Oregon, has stimulated a boom along Lake Michigan's shoreline. The catches range to 20 pounds and more. The State Agriculture Commission's decision means in effect that licenses no longer will be issued to chemical firms wishing to distribute DDT-bearing products.

Nearly a year ago the commission halted sale of DDT for mosquito control applications, including retail distribution of aerosol bomb preparations.

"This will end DDT use altogether in Michigan," commission spokesmen said.

Most agricultural uses for pest control have phased out DDT in favor of more expensive but safer chemicals.

Some Guidelines For New Wheat Legislation

DODGE CITY — Governmental economy and the past performance of wheat farmers regarding farm programs will be important yardsticks used in formulating new legislation for the wheat producers, Clifford M. Hardin, U. S. secretary of agriculture, says.

No decision has been made as to the type of farm program to be requested by the Department of Agriculture, Hardin said, adding that the program to be sought would be one which "will achieve a better balance between supply and demand."

"The productive capacity of farmers of this nation is likely to exceed domestic and export demand for many years to come," he said.

Currently, he said, the U.S.D.A. is studying the merits of alternative programs, existing programs and improvements possible within existing programs before making a final decision on recommended legislation.

Two plans which are receiving close scrutiny by Hardin are a bushel allotment or quota program and the issuance of export certificates to wheat producers. The secretary has serious reservations about advocating either program, though.

A decision favoring the bushel allotment plan rests in large part with response from the farmers, he indicated.

"Consideration must be given to the fact that wheat farmers, by a substantial margin, rejected a mandatory type wheat program in 1963," he said. "This raised a serious question of whether or not a mandatory type program would be acceptable to farmers."

"It would appear that a bushel allotment approach under a mandatory program, with penalties for marketing ineligible production, could possibly offer a more efficient method of curbing production than under existing programs."

Although favorable to the issuance of export certificates, Hardin has reservations about the effect such certificates would have upon the current economy move within the federal government.

"The issuance of export certificates to farmers on that proportionate share of their wheat production utilized in export markets would undoubtedly increase the income of wheat farmers," Hardin said.

"With regard to this proposal, consideration will have to be given to the reaction of other competing wheat exporting nations to a program which encourages, through subsidies, additional wheat production for export in an already congested world market."

"Another item which would have to be considered is the additional cost to the government resulting from implementation of an export certificate program."

"The additional cost to the government would be equal to the value of the certificates to the farmers."

Hardin stressed that these views and opinions do not necessarily reflect the final views of the Department of Agriculture — only the current thinking. Attitudes and views of farmers' organizations will play a large part in development of the final recommendations, he indicated.

Early Prediction On Shortage Of Box Cars

Dale Saffels, chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission, said there is a possibility of the worst grain car shortage in the history of the Midwest.

Saffels said in a statement that such a development can be avoided only by immediate action.

Saffels said he had sent notice of the severity of the shortage to representatives in Congress, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Department of Transportation.

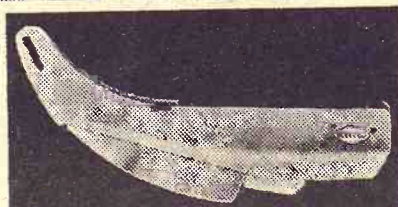

He said the matter is of vital concern because of the coming Kansas wheat harvest.

Saffels said it would be helpful if western lines' cars were returned to ownership lines with the least possible delay. He asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue car service orders to bring this about.

U.S. Facing Mineral Lack?

The United States is facing a potential mineral shortage which could deprive the people of many luxuries, congressmen have been told.

Hollis M. Dole, assistant secretary of interior for mineral resources, told a House interior subcommittee that domestic mineral production must be increased to avert a crisis.

"With respect to the nation's long-range mineral position," Dole said, "I believe the United States is in serious jeopardy."

"Unless a massive program to upgrade minerals and mining technology is launched now on almost a crash basis," he said, "we face the grim possibility that the growth in our standard of living will be limited due to mineral resource constraints within 20 to 30 years."

Problems to be grappled with, he said, include "the wasting nature of mineral deposits, declining grades of ore, increasing competition for high-grade deposits abroad and a growing shortage of trained mineral specialists and engineers."

Dole said that practical methods should be found to extract minerals from the ocean, the ocean floor and submarine surfaces.

He suggested that Congress consider making a detailed study of the nation's mineral problems.

The interior committee chairman, Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall (D-Colo.) said the people should be told about the potential mineral crisis.

Many people favor "locking up the mineral resources in large areas of the public lands by reserving them for a single use," Aspinall said.

Antique Plane At Ellsworth Show

The feature attraction at the Ellsworth Fly-In and Air Show May 11 will be this 1927 Ford Tri-Motor, the first all-metal aircraft. There are only eight Ford Tri-Motors still flying and licensed as safe.

Also on the agenda will be sports parachuting by members of the Manhattan-Junction City parachuting team, radio controlled model planes, Highway Patrol plane, and displays of new aircraft.

Nader Turns Critical Eye On Food Industry

Ralph Nader, consumer advocate, calling for a thorough reform of the American food industry, says that life expectancy in the United States has declined since 1962.

Nader charged the food industry with "deepening malaise, deception, and indifference to the responsible exercise of very considerable power."

He detailed some investigative findings of filth and health dangers in the food industry — to the audible consternation of members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors who were awaiting luncheon.

Nader told the editors of "the very little-known statistical fact that average life expectancy in the United States has been declining since 1962," and called that "a good warning signal that it's time to act."

Nader said the food industry "could not survive intensive investigative reporting, and any good investigative reporter worth his salt could dig out the facts."

Nader cited as examples:

- "Infants are being exposed to nitrate residues from the heavy use of nitrogen fertilizer in farm acreage. The precise extent of this toxic hazard to infants is not fully known in this country because no one is trying to find out . . . the food industry is not interested in being burdened with this knowledge."

- While fat content in meat is an acknowledged contributor to heart disease, "fat content in many processed meats has been going up in recent years . . . because fat is cheaper than meat."

- In a recent test of pork sausages, the Consumers Union found that 30 percent of federally inspected sausage failed tests for filth or bacteria counts.

It also found that "one-eighth of the federally inspected sausage and one-fifth of other sausage contained insect fragment, insect larvae, rodent hairs and other kinds of filth. The sausage samples tested included most major brand names."

- Federal reports on nonfederally inspected plants show evidence of selling dead, dying and diseased animals for human consumption.

Although millions of pounds of meat are destroyed by federal order every month, Nader said, "bad meat is still good business."

Cunningham Ranch Move To Fredonia?

AUGUSTA — The Glenn Cunningham Youth Ranch Inc. here will be moved to another location, Cunningham says.

Cunningham said he had been looking for a new location for four years but declined to say whether he had selected the site.

Cunningham said one reason for the move is to separate "the affairs of the corporation and our family affairs so that we can do as we want with our personal property."

Reports were circulating earlier that Cunningham planned to announce the move soon, possibly to eastern Kansas, and a major fund drive.

A possibility for the location of the ranch is near Fredonia, in Wilson County in southeast Kansas where Cunningham now owns more than 200 acres.

On May 16, 1968, Cunningham purchased a 120-acre tract from Mrs. Helen Stryker and last Jan.
8 bought an adjoining 110 acres from T. M. and Hazel Mae Stratton, according to records in the Wilson County register of deeds office in Fredonia.

Mrs. Stryker's son Richard, who handled the transaction for his mother, said Cunningham indicated he planned to use the land for a summer camp.

The land, near Coyville in Webster Township south of Toronto State Park, is described as "very rough country."

Stryker said the land, which has no buildings, is accessible by a good road only on one ender.

Robert Corbett, attorney for the State Board of Health, said in Topeka that Cunningham has not sought assistance from the board in setting up a new ranch.

The board has a running dispute with Cunningham about conditions at the Augusta ranch, which Cunningham and his wife have operated as a home for children for more than 20 years.

After an investigation by the attorney general's office last winter, Cunningham and his wife were charged with keeping two children under 16 years of age without a state license. The Cunninghams did obtain legal guardianship of the youngsters but were convicted on the charge and paid a nominal fine.

Sheep Numbers Lowest Since 1920s

No other livestock varies so much in numbers as does sheep.

Right now there are fewer sheep on Kansas farms than any time since the middle 1920s. The Kansas Livestock Reporting Service says the preliminary estimate as of January 1 is 386,000.

That's down for the fourth straight year and the sixth year out of seven. The total decline in the seven years accumulates to some 55%, from a peak of 848,000 in 1962.

The current decrease shows up as only 4%, but the revised

Sheepmen figure that the industry now has the profit potential that sheep numbers likely will be increasing by next year.

The middle plains continues to dominate the sheep field, with four contiguous counties — Sedgwick, Reno, Harvey and McPherson — ranking 1-2-3-5 in the state. Finney County (Garden City) broke up the order, finishing 4th.

Sedgwick led the state with 31,900. Reno had 26,000 and Harvey 17,500. Wallace and Republic were the additional counties to Finney and McPherson which counted at least 10,000 sheep and lambs, finishing 6-7.

Kearney, Sumner and Marion finished out the top 10.

As always there were some good-sized variations from county to county. Sheep numbers do jump about considerably from county to county, reflecting the vagaries of the market, the quickness of the breeding season, and the ease of great movements of sheep from one area to another.

SHEEP, COUNTY-BY-COUNTY

This map shows the number of sheep and lambs estimated in each county as of January 1, 1969. The second figure shows the change (+ or -) from 1968. Four central Kansas counties — Sedgwick, Reno, Harvey and McPherson — plus Finney county in the far west led the state. For example, the state's leader, Sedgwick, had 31,900 sheep and lambs as of January 1, an increase of 900 over a year ago.

The latter fact explains how one county may double or triple its sheep numbers from one year to another, and another county may see its sheep census slip to one-half in the same period. Big sheep owners move their flocks quickly from one grazing area to another.

That accounts for three large increases in Finney, Wallace and Kearney counties in western Kansas. There was some winter wheat pasture in western Kansas this year, and the sheep were moved into them to be counted in this January 1 census.

Across the state, 24 counties had increases, 12 held about even, and 69 counties showed declines.

While the total number of sheep is near the record low, that doesn't mean the count won't climb again. The total dropped below 600,000 in 1956 and was nearly 50% greater inside of three years.

The high count since World War II was the 883,000 counted in 1959 but the 1962 census showed 848,000.

But the state's sheep census totals are still a long way from the state's peak. Back in the 1880s Kansas had over a million and a half stock sheep only for six years running.

Record Number On Feed For Spring

April 22, 1969

Cattle and calves on grain feed for the slaughter market in Kansas feedlots totaled 650,000 head on April 1, a new record high for this date and 28 percent more than a year earlier, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Numbers on feed, however, were down seasonally from the 766,000 on feed the first of the year. Steers accounted for 67 percent of the total on feed, or 438,000, while heifers on feed comprised the balance of 212,000.

Cattle on feed included 400,000 head in large feedlots with a capacity of 1,000 head or more, a record number for this date.

Smaller farm operations had 250,000 on feed, 17 percent more than a year ago but a little less than on April 1, 1963 and 1964. Grain-fed cattle and calves marketed for slaughter during the January-March quarter totaled 429,000, 11 percent more than a year ago.

Cattle and calves placed on feed during the past quarter totaled 313,000, 11 percent more than the placements during this same quarter last year.

On April 1, 309,000 cattle had been on feed less than 3 months, 11 percent more than at this time last year. Those on feed 3-6 months totaled 334,000, up 51 percent from a year earlier. There were 7,000 head on feed over 6 months, the same as a year earlier. By weight groups, there were 18,000 cattle under 500 pounds on feed, 20 percent more than last year. The largest increase was in the 500-699 pound group where 179,000 were on feed, up 47 percent. In the 700-899 weight class there were 270,000, up 33 percent. For the 900-1,099 pound group there were 167,000 head, up 15 percent while the 1,100 pounds and over group had 16,000, 27 percent less than a year earlier.

Kansas feeders' intentions to market indicate that about 440,000 grain-fed cattle are to be marketed during the April-June quarter, about 28 percent more than the 346,000 marketed in the same quarter last year.

Major Feeding States

Cattle and calves on feed April 1 for slaughter market are up 7 percent from a year earlier in the 32 major feeding states. A total of 11,419,000 head of cattle and calves were on feed April 1, 1969. Placements during January-March were down 1 percent from a year earlier. Fed cattle marketings during January-March were 6 percent above a year earlier in the 32 States. Severe winter weather caused fed marketings in the North Central States to fall below earlier expectations, but this was offset by larger than expected marketings in the Western States. Marketings during April-June 1969 are expected to be 6 percent larger than during the same period last year.

Weight, Kind and Time on Feed:

The number of steers and steer calves in each weight group and change from April 1, 1968 are as follows: Under 500 pounds, 387,000 head, down 12,000 head; 500-699 pounds, 2,432,000 head, up 346,000 head; 700-899 pounds, 2,532,000 head, up 138,000 head; 900-1,099 pounds, 2,240,000 head, up 195,000 head; 1,100 pounds and over, 426,000 head, down 22,000 head. Heifer and heifer calves by weight groups and change from a year earlier are as follows: Under 500 pounds, 434,000 head, up 33,000 head; 500-699 pounds, 1,673,000 head, up 54,000 head; 700-899 pounds, 985,000 head, up 25,000 head; 900-1,099 pounds, 275,000 head, down 6,000 head. Steers and steer calves on feed in the 32 major feeding States totaled 8,017,000 head, 9 percent above April 1, 1968. There were 3,367,000 heifers and heifer calves on feed, 3 percent more than a year earlier. Cows and others on feed totaled 35,000 head, up 3,000 head from a year earlier. Cattle and calves on feed less than 3 months are estimated at 4,937,000 head, down 1 percent from April 1, 1968. The total on feed 3-6 months, at 5,747,000 head, was up 14 percent from a year earlier.

Cattle on feed over 6 months totaled 735,000 head, 60,000 head more than a year earlier.

Marketing Intentions:

Cattle feeders in the 32 states intend to market 6,006,000 head during the April-June 1969 period. If these intentions materialize, marketings from those on feed April 1, 1969 would be 6 percent above marketings during April-June a year earlier. Intentions are to market 33 percent of the 3-month total during April, 33 percent during May and 34 percent during June. Expected marketings are based on the usual relationship of survey data and actual marketings.

New Products Biting Into Farm Markets

Those new "synthetic" products and substitutes are making inroads into traditional agricultural markets, crowding out both food and non-food materials.

Synthetics — derived from non-agricultural materials — offer competition to agricultural products such as feed, fiber, sugar, dairy products and animal products in general.

Substitutes — made partially or wholly from agricultural raw materials — also take a bite out of the market.

Expansion in number and output of the market.

Expansion in number and output of synthetic products and substitutes has been boosted by new processing technologies, says Joe Koudele, agricultural economist at Kansas State University.

These technologies improve quality, performance and eye appeal of the products. At the same time, they often expand the variety of products available, develop new sources of raw materials that lower manufacturing costs or add desirable product attributes, he adds.

The loss of traditional agricultural markets to synthetics and agricultural substitutes has been estimated at $895 million between 1957-59 and 1967, he explains.

Koudele gives several examples where synthetics are cutting into agricultural markets:

—Synthetic fibers such as nylon, polyester, acrylic and rayon provide sharp competition for cotton and wool.

—Noncaloric saccharin competes with cane and beet sugar for a share of the sweetener market.

Urea competes with oilseed meals in feeds for cattle and sheep.

Koudele says filled milks are a good example of substitutes. Dairy fats are replaced by vegetable fats in this product, which then competes with fluid milk.

Despite the market losses to synthetics and substitutes, total volume of agricultural marketings has increased in 1957-59, the economist says.

Synthetics which replace agricultural commodities without expanding the total market represent a direct loss to agriculture, he explains.

Substitutes made from components of agricultural commodities may partially replace a traditional commodity without affecting the total volume of agricultural marketings.

However, substitutes do affect the competitive relationship among agricultural products, he points out.

No Requests For Beer On State Campuses

The State Board of Regents has not received requested recommendations from the state's college and university heads on the sale of 3.2 beer on campus. The regents had asked the administrators to report at the April meeting their recommendations on the question. The report was postponed since only two of the six were in attendance. The remainder were represented by aides. The board had asked for the recommendations in light of the recent referendums on the question at Wichita State University and Fort Hays State College.

Wichita State students favored 3.2 beer on campus but their counterparts at Fort Hays State rejected the idea.

The board held its monthly meeting Thursday at Emporia State Teachers College.

Former APHA Head Is Dead

Don Chittenden, who was secretary of the American Polled Hereford Association from 1946 to 1962, is dead after an extended illness. He died in Kansas City.

Chittenden had been a Duroc and Hereford breeder in his younger years. He taught in Missouri, Montana, and France in animal sciences and later worked for the Drovers Telegram group of papers. Before taking a job with the Polled Hereford group in 1946, he had been with the American Hereford Journal and the American Hereford Association. Headquarters of the Polled Hereford group were moved to Kansas City in 1947, shortly after he became secretary. He succeeded Bert Gammon in that position and was succeeded by Orville Sweet in 1962.

Interest Slack But Start On Hog Testing Plant

PAWNEE CITY, Nebr. — A swine testing station to serve Southeast Nebraska and Northeast Kansas got only lukewarm support at an organizational meeting here.

Forty persons met, reporting that about 120 producers have signed or made oral pledges for $25 shares in the station.

The steering committee of the group had set 185 shares as the minimum needed to begin formation of a swine testing station.

However, the persons present voted unanimously to build the facility, which will have a capacity of about 200 head. The group voted to incorporate the station under the name SENEK, an acronym for Southeast Nebraska and Northeast Kansas.

The purpose of a test station is to provide a location where animals can be handled alike to determine genetic differences. Animals consigned to a test station will be tested on rate of amount of back fat, size of loin eye and ham loin percentage. Much of this information will be gained from a litter mate barrow which is consigned along with boar to be sold at the end of the test.

Dr. Leo Lucas of the University of Nebraska told the group that there are an ample number of swine breeders and producers in the area to support a testing station but added "You are in a much better position to judge your and your neighbors interest than I am."

The fact that persons will have a financial interest in the testing station will make them more likely to use the facility, he noted.

More Interest Necessary

Several of the area chairmen in charge of collecting pledges noted that many producers and breeders showed interest but not to the point of pledging $25 for a project which has not had many specific details decided upon. As one chairman put it, "They're interested enough to get on the wagon, but not enough to start it rolling."

Producers from the Southeast Quad counties (Pawnee, Johnson, Nemaha, and Richardson counties) provided the most pledges, 84 worth $2,450. The Blue Valley Pork Assn. had 23 members pledge $725, and 14 more pledges worth $350 came from two areas in Kansas. The total money promised is $3,525.

Financial arrangements for a site were discussed at length.

Arnold Kuhman, vice president of the Humboldt Chamber of Commerce, said that the Chamber would grant the corporation $1,000 if it decided to build in the Humboldt area. If the facility were placed east or north of town on the town's water lines, the water for the station would be supplied free for a year. In addition, a Humboldt area farmer offered to donate the land for the station.

Dr. M. U. Pettit of Wymore, representing the Wymore Chamber of Commerce's Agricultural Committee, had no firm offer to make, but said a site near the intersection of U.S. 77 and Nebraska 8 might be available.

Extra Income Saves Denver Yards From Loss

DENVER — The Denver Union Stock Yard, which lost $174,000 in 1967, says its profit in 1968 was $284,494.

However, the terminal yard would have had a loss of $42,364 if it had not had some extraordinary income from the sale of real estate, settlement of some direct marketing contracts with packers, and income tax reductions on previous losses.

The last direct marketing contracts with packers expire at the end of 1969.

The Denver yard had gross income of $2,336 million, compared to $2,447 in 1967. Revenues from direct marketing contracts totaled $411,000 in 1968 and $300,523 in 1967.

Auction Markets Assn. Meets In Salina This Week

An impressive business agenda centered around the theme of "Improve... Promote... Merchandise" is planned for the two-day annual meeting of the Kansas Livestock Markets Association to be held at the Holiday Inn in Salina, April 26-27.

Heading the list of noted guest speakers will be Robert L. Hudelson, former Vice President of the Kansas Livestock Association, and Bob Phillipson, Secretary, Certified Livestock Markets Association.

Among the special guests scheduled to take part in the two-day meetings are Jerry Hellard, Program Manager, WDAF-TV, Kansas City, who will show a film on "TV Bloopers" and Bonita Bohnsack, Home Economist, Industry Relations Department, Livestock and Meat Board, who will present a program for the ladies on "Creative Meat Cookery."

Dr. John F. Hudelson, State Veterinarian, will direct an industry discussion on animal health while Raymond Vaughn, Legislator, will lead a discussion on industry legislation.

In referring to the meeting theme, President Delaine Rezac,

Saint Marys, stated, "Kansas marketmen must continually improve, promote, and merchandise the livestock industry through the proper direction and application of merchandising services in order to add value to livestock merchandised."

the tax rolls.

Elimination of the two statutes which specifically exempted Blue Cross and Blue Shield from property taxes means the hospital-medical organization will have to rely on provisions in the State Constitution which exempt charitable and benevolent institutions to retain their tax-exempt status.

Shawnee County officials have indicated they plan to put Blue Cross - Blue Shield on the tax rolls and require the company to take the matter to court for a judicial determination.

County Assessor George Schnellbacher said Blue Cross - Blue Shield would owe the county $67,000 to $101,000 in property taxes if it is determined the organization is liable for such taxes.

Blue Cross - Blue Shield offered to make a $50,000 payment to the county in lieu of taxes. But county commissioners declined to sign any formal agreement to accept an "in lieu of" payment pending outcome of the tax exemption repeal measure.

Markets Oppose More Funds For P&S

A proposed increase in appropriations for the Packers and Stockyards Administration has met heavy opposition from the livestock markets industry.

In statements before both the Senate and House Agriculture Subcommittees on appropriations, the Competitive Livestock Markets Council, representing all major elements of the markets industry, took sharp issue with the P&S and opposed any increase in its budget.

The previous administration's proposed 1970 budget called for a $494,000 increase in the P&S budget which brought the administration's budget total to $3,309,300. President Nixon's recent budget proposals, while emphasizing the need for general cut backs in federal expenditures, added even more funds for P&S use with a total budget of $3,509,300 or an increase of $694,000 over present P&S appropriations.

The statements, presented by C. T. 'Tad' Sanders, Executive Officer of the Council and General Manager of Certified Livestock Markets Association, based on the industry's opposition on the following grounds:

1. The disproportionate allocation of appropriated funds in relation to livestock marketing practices in contrast to packer and poultry matters;

2. The unjust, discriminatory and unreasonable statements of blanket condemnation of trade practices in the competitive livestock markets industry as a means pursued to attempt to justify additional appropriated funds; and

3. The efforts to expand the unwarranted role of the agency in individual and private financial controversies in contrast to that of the proper standards of financial responsibility of businesses subject to the Packers and Stockyards Act and enforcement of them."

In his statement Sanders said, "the Council is convinced that the entire livestock industry, inclusive of its livestock market businesses, is of sufficient importance to the nation's economy to warrant a more informed and enlightened administration of the existing provisions of the Packers and Stockyards Act, despite its shortcomings related to the great transition which has taken place in the industry since enactment of the Act."

The Council's appearance before the subcommittees represented the first time that all market businesses directly regulated by the Packers and Stockyards Act have joined together for single representation on a major legislation matter. Sanders pointed out that such representation was one of the primary goals in establishing the Council 2 years ago. The Council is made up of representatives of the American Stock Yards Association, Certified Livestock Markets Association, National Livestock Exchange and the River Markets Group.

Tracing the evolution of the Packers and Stockyards Administration from an agency operating within the Consumer and Marketing Service to a separate agency within the USDA in 1967, and its $175,000 budgetary increase for the current fiscal years, Sanders said, "upon an examination of the record of the Packers and Stockyards Administration as a separate agency charged with the responsibility it has, and a conference review held with Packers and Stockyards Administration officials of the agency concerning its basis for such additional funds, the Council believes that such increase is neither warranted nor justified and therefore is opposed to it."

Sanders appeared before the Senate Committee in Washington, D. C. on April 16, and before the House Committee on April 18.

ROTC Retreat Under Campus Fire

Pentagon officials are deeply concerned by the mounting intensity of campus attacks on the Reserve Officer Training Corps programs.

Many of the country's most highly regarded universities are moving to downgrade the status of ROTC.

The situation at Harvard is merely the most visible.

Each of the eight Ivy League schools — some with a splash of publicity, others quietly and behind the scenes — is in one stage or another of abolishing academic credit for ROTC courses. Several other universities, such as Johns Hopkins and Stanford, are going the same route.

These schools provide only a few hundred of the more than 20,000 men who receive their commissions each year upon graduation from more than 300 universities.

But Pentagon officials fear that the fact that the protests are occurring at such universities presages a wide impact.

According to one report, the Army had considered withdrawing its program from the Ivy League schools, but the plan was reported to have been vetoed at the top levels in the Pentagon.

The military depends heavily on ROTC. Fifty percent of the Army's newly commissioned officers, 35 percent of the Navy's officers and 30 percent of the Air Force's receive their commissions through corps programs.

These figures include doctors, engineers and other specialized officers. When line officers alone are considered, the dependence upon ROTC is even greater. More than half of the Navy's regular line officers come directly from ROTC.

All three services appear willing to make what they consider major concessions to satisfy their campus critics.

Most Pentagon officials would be willing to drop uniforms, weapons and drilling from the campus activities altogether.

"It's the weapons and the drilling that get up their dander," said one officer, who indicated that marching was not very important anyway.

How important is ROTC to the military and to the nation's security?

It depends on whom you ask.

The official military view is that it is vital and that there is no feasible substitute. Most senior officers seem to agree with this view.

But there are a number of junior officers, many of them products of the campus military training, who disagree.

They believe their superiors are fearful the military will lose influence in the country and that the weakening of ROTC is a step in this direction. The young officers also refer to the corps program as a pleasant way to reward a colonel about to retire by placing him in a soft job as corps commander on a college campus.

As an example of an alternative to ROTC, these junior officers point to the highly successful Platoon Leaders Class of the Marine Corps.

The Marines have no ROTC. The vast majority of Marine officers are recruited as college freshmen. They have no military requirements during the school year.

For two summers, however, they attend intensive and grueling six-week summer camps. When they graduate from college, they are commissioned second lieutenants.

Wabaunsee is a prototype cattle county. It has 350,000 acres in pasture and usually harvests crops off little more than 100,000 acres. Only seven counties in the state have less cropland, and all but one of them, Chase, is a smaller county in square miles.

Alma, Maple Hill, Paxico, Eskridge, Harveyville and Alta Vista are its only towns, and none has a population of even 1000.

The Bluestem grass in Wabaunsee is the county's pride, and no county in the Flint Hills can persuade this county south of Topeka and Manhattan that it has better grass. One does not find huge grain bins there to handle the crops, and it is so wholeheartedly devoted to the cattle industry that one would guess that it would be about the least likely area in the state to be interested in the chicken business.

And yet Wabaunsee leads the state in the number of chickens on farms as of January 1.

That astonishing figure comes from the Kansas Livestock Reporting Service's tables on the number of poultry in the state as of the first of the year, and the leadership shows graphically what has happened to the poultry farming business in the state in recent years.

The current figure in the state is less than five million — 4.966 million is the exact number, says the Reporting Service and that is 4% less than in 1968. That's about in line with an average 5% decrease annually for the past 20 years.

Even more than the small milk cow herd, the family chicken flock has disappeared from the Kansas farm. There have been some signs, recently, however, that chickens can be profitable if a farmer goes into the business in a big way.

The latter fact explains entirely how Wabaunsee happens to be the state's leader in the number of poultry on farms.

Wabaunsee County's total, reckons the Livestock Reporting Service, is 316,000 and more than 85% of that can be found on about half a dozen locations in the county. First, there is a giant layer facility operated by Seymour's near Maple Hill that has close to half the entire total.

One of the first farmers in the state to get into the laying business in a big way was David

Fred Yarrow of Clay Center has retired as chairman of the Board of the C&W Rural Electric after 31 years in that position. Yarrow was a pioneer in bringing power to the G&G area, being an original member of the group which in 1938 formed the electric co-op to serve Clay and Washington counties.

Yarrow has been succeeded by Earl Rencin of Barnes as president of the C&W board. Rencin has been with the cooperative for 27 years. Norman Stewart of Washington was named vice-president. Raymond James of Clay Center is secretary and Ernest Sharp, Riley, treasurer.

What's Beefy Wabaunsee Doing

Hund of Paxico, and he counts his layers in the tens of thousands. Hatcheryman Art Carey of Alma has a large layer facility also, and he counts chickens also in the tens of thousands. There are several others — Mark Hund of Paxico, Ross Krause of Eskridge, Roy Palenske, and Woodrom Kobiskie of Alma — who have had flocks of several thousand.

For years, Marion County was the leading poultry county in the state, occasionally giving up the leadership to Washington County. This year Marion finished 7th and Washington 8th. They both still have more farms with chickens on the place than any other counties in the state, but they don't have the mammoth operations that Wabaunsee County has.

The 2nd ranking county this year is Reno, with 290,000 birds. Neighboring Sedgwick, Harvey and McPherson ranked 3-4-5. Each of these counties counted over 200,000 chickens at the first year, as did Harper, which ranked 6th.

Following Marion with 168,000 and Washington with 165,000, were Dickinson with 159,000 and Republic with 130,000.

In the second 10 are Clay, Pratt, Kiowa, Nemaha, Butler, Chase, Marshall, Lyon, Ness and Leavenworth counties. Ness is the only far western county in the top 25.

Most of the others are counties which traditionally kept more chickens than other counties in the state, altho Chase is a notable exception and one which, with Wabaunsee, is typical of the new situation in chicken inventories.

Chase may be the only county in the state which is even more of a wholeheartedly cattle county than Wabaunsee and little likely to harbor many chicken flocks. But there it is in 16th place with 88,000 chickens. Only a few western Kansas counties have fewer farms with chickens than Chase, but there are a couple of extra large operations which account for most of the entire county total.

Only 29 counties show increases in the number of chickens on January 1 over the same date a year ago. Holding about even were 17 counties, and the other 59 all registered declines.

The chicken inventory has been drastically pruned over more than 20 years. The decline of the family-sized flock from the farm, lost first as a nuisance to the more prosperous post-war farmer and then as unprofitable as both chicken and egg prices got more and more marginal, made a steady cut in Kansas' chicken numbers after 1945. While egg prices have bettered in the past year, there apparently is a consensus that the only possibility of a profit is in very large operations, and chicken farmers in some of the established poultry areas are building flocks in the tens of thousands. While the Board of Agriculture does not list number of chickens in the state back to 1867 as it does for some farm animals, it does show egg production since 1930. The current production is around 950 million eggs, about 40% of the production during World War II. As production per bird has increased, it is fair to assume that there were around 12 to 15 million chickens in the state in the 1930s and 1940s. In numbers, state chickens declined from 7 million in 1961 to 6.8 million in 1963, 5.4 million in 1965 to 5.2 million in 1966. The count went up in 1967 but fell below the 5 million figure this year for the first time.

Poultry Count

This map shows the number of chickens estimated in each county on January 1, 1969. The figures are in thousands. The second figure (plus or minus) indicates the change from 1968. For example, the state's leading poultry county, Wabauunsee, had 316,000 chickens, an increase of 6000 over 1968.
