Mixed View In USDA 1969 Meat Forecast

Cattle and hog production for slaughter next summer is expected to increase from mid-1968, but lamb output will be less, says the Agriculture department.

"Plentiful supplies and lower prices for feed grains could lead to an even sharper increase in production and substantially lower prices for meat and poultry," the USDA said in a livestock outlook report. But if producers "continue to exercise restraint" in expanding meat output, the expected price situation could improve, the department added.

Fed cattle marketings last summer were seven percent larger than a year earlier, and stockmen have indicated a similar expansion this fall. The increase in cattle numbers this fall includes "substantially more" of the weight classes to be marketed after January 1, the USDA said, which would indicate larger meat supplies during the winter and spring.

"Fed cattle marketing through this fall and winter are expected to be large enough to cause some decline in prices from late October levels," the USDA said. But so far prices — which strengthened in early summer — have held nearly steady since August, with choice steers at Chicago selling for about $28 a hundredweight, spokesmen said. Strong consumer demand and "somewhat lighter weights" of cattle marketed have contributed to the stronger prices.

Prices for feeder-type cattle have declined about $1.75 a hun-dredweight since early August, the USDA said, but most of the fall seasonal decline probably is over. The slaughter of hogs in the first half of 1969 is expected to be larger from a year earlier and is likely to depress prices farmers receive. A four percent smaller lamb crop this year is boosting prospects for stronger prices to continue through the first half of 1969, and a further cutback in sheep and lamb numbers is expected next year, the USDA said.

Salina PCA Promotes Elliott

Wilfred Elliott, White City, a fieldman for the Salina Production Credit association, has been promoted to assistant secretary-treasurer and assistant manager of the Salina PCA.

Elliott and his wife plan to move to Salina soon. He owns and operates a farm and ranch in Morris county.

Elliott joined the Salina PCA on a part-time basis as a fieldman in 1966 and has worked throughout this year as a full-time staff member.

He'll continue some field work as assistant manager.

Curtis W. Syring is manager of the Salina PCA.

Here's Late Fall Crop Forecast

A bumper production of most fall harvested crops in Kansas was indicated on November 1, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Sugar beets and soybeans are expected to set new high production records, sorghum grain prospects are the State's second largest and the corn crop the largest since 1950.

The estimated production of 167 million bushels of sorghum grain is more than a fourth above average and was exceeded only slightly by the 167½ million bushels in 1960.

Corn production is expected to total 83 million bushels, about 40 percent above the average for the past 5 years.

Soybean production should total nearly 23 million bushels, about 45 percent larger than average. With fall harvest operations more than half complete, record high yields per acre were forecast for corn and soybeans, while that for sorghum grain was only a bushel below the previous high.

Harvest of fall crops was slowed somewhat by wet fields through the middle of October but at the beginning of November had made about average progress and was well ahead of last year.

Seeding of the 1969 winter wheat crop was virtually complete by November 1 and stands were mostly good except in some scattered localities where heavy rains caused washing.

Soil moisture supplies at mid-October were slightly above average, with rains during the month helping to get next year's wheat crop off to a good start.

Grazing of fall seeded wheat had been light as most stands had not reached sufficient growth for pasture. The 1968 hay crop is estimated at 4.7 million tons, the State's third largest, and should provide adequate supplies for livestock during the winter. Silage and forage crops have generally yielded well.

Sorghum Grain

Sorghum grain production was indicated at 166,800,000 bushels, 12 percent larger than last year and 28 percent larger than the 1962-66 average.

Production prospects were down some from a month earlier as damage from insects and storms became more evident with advance of harvest.

The expected per-acre yield as of November 1 was 48 bushels, 2 bushels above last year and second only to the record high of 49 bushels in 1966. Grain sorghum harvest was 80 percent complete by November 9, slightly ahead of the average of 76 percent.

Corn

Production of corn grain was estimated at 82,992,000 bushels, 15 percent above last year and 40 percent above average. The expected yield per acre of 76 bushels, though down some from last month's forecast, was still substantially above the previous high of 68 bushels in 1967 and the 1962-66 average of 51.8 bushels. By November 9, corn harvest was 69 percent complete, slightly behind the 10-year average for the date.

Soybeans

Soybean production is estimated at 22,700,000 bushels, 22 percent larger than last year and 45 percent above the average production. Yield per acre of 25 bushels compares with last year's 22.5 bushels and the 5-year average of 18.7 bushels. Soybean harvest was progressing earlier than normal, with 90 percent of the expected acreage harvested by November 9.

Other Crops

Sugar beet production for the state was estimated at a record 624,000 tons resulting from a slightly below average yield of 16 tons per acre on the state's largest acreage to date. The state's dry bean crop of 200,000 cwt. compares with last year's 154,000 cwt. and the average of 124,000 cwt. Commercial apple production is expected to total 320,000 bushels, substantially above the 150,000 bushels produced in 1967 and the largest crop since 1951.

Pasture Conditions

Pasture feed was good in eastern Kansas but only fair in western areas. Pasture feed condition was reported at 78 percent of normal, 3 points below last year but 4 points above the 1962-66 average.

Milk & Egg Production

Production of milk in Kansas during October totaled 131 million pounds, 4 percent below the September output and the lowest October production in records covering 39 years.

Eggs produced on Kansas farms during October were estimated at 74 million. This was 5 million more than produced in September and 1 million more than in October last year.

Top At $405 At Tonn Sale

HAVEN — The top price for a bull was $405 at the W. H. Tonn Valley View Ranch sale. Carl Wewe of Pretty Prairie paid the top price.

The two top cows, one purchased by Leroy Beard, Wichita and the other by Fowler Figger, Stafford, each brought $270.

Top buyer for the Hereford sale was Tradewind Farms, Newton, which purchased 20 head. Eugene Wendling, Halstead, bought 19 head.

Valley View brought in 37 head of calves from its Blue River Ranch at Kremmling, Colo., for sale to 4H club and FFA members.

These 37 calves averaged $139 each with the top price $230, paid by Tom Faye of Newton.

VOTERS NO TO COUNTY SCHOOL MERGER

VALLEY FALLS — A proposal to consolidate the schools of Nortonville, Winchester and Valley Falls has been turned down by voters in Jefferson county. Valley Falls voters approved the proposal better than 5-2, but the combined vote in the other towns was 5 to 4 against.

Federal Study To Save Costs On Medicine

Elderly Americans could have saved about 41 million dollars in drug costs during 1966 if their doctors had prescribed generic rather than brand-name drugs, a federal study group said last night.

Generic drugs are those sold by their scientific names and frequently are less expensive than brand-name products.

The finding was reported in the first of a series of background studies issued by the task force on prescription drugs of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The task force issued two preliminary reports earlier this year and has yet to put out its final report.

The study, which focused on use of prescription drugs by the elderly, found that 409 drugs comprised about 88 percent of all prescription drug costs for the elderly in 1966.

Only 67 of the drugs could have been obtained from more than one supplier by generic name at a distinctly lower cost than the brand-name products dispensed. If the low-cost generic drugs had been prescribed, the study said, the saving would have been about 41 million dollars.

Dr. Phillip R. Lee, assistant secretary of the welfare department and chairman of the task force, said more money could have been saved if the prescription by generic name had been made part of the existing government and private drug programs.

The task force is conducting studies to determine whether generic drugs provide the same therapeutic results as brand-name drugs. While some examples of apparent inequivalency have shown up in the studies, officials said they are confident that such cases are rare and can be overcome.

The over-all study is aimed at determining the feasibility of adding the cost of out-of-hospital prescription drugs to benefits under the Medicare program.

The study also took issue with reports of the Bureau of Labor Statistics that drug prices had been falling steadily since 1959.

Disputing the measure for drugs used by the consumer price index of the BLS, the study said the average price of all prescriptions had been increasing about 2 per cent each year during the last 10 years.

Two Strikes' On Next Farm Secretary

The man who is chosen to become secretary of agriculture in Richard M. Nixon's cabinet will enter the office with two strikes on him, Sen. Frank Carlson indicated in an address to the annual Kansas Farm bureau convention.

"We don't know yet who will be secretary of agriculture," Carlson said, "but we do know that he faces an extremely difficult assignment. He will take office when farm income is at the lowest ratio to parity since the early 1930s. And he will take over his duties in a Republican administration with the responsibility of working with a Congress controlled by the Democratic party. This will not make the task any easier."

Demands as Great

This country will need agricultural statesmanship of the highest order, not only by the secretary of agriculture, but "by all of us who make our living by farming, ranching, or in agribusiness," Carlson contended.

"I believe that the fortunes of American agriculture and agribusiness for decades ahead will be set in the next four years," he said.

"I don't think anyone has all the answers to our farm problems today," Carlson continued. "But I do know that we speak with a smaller voice in our government every year. And I know that agriculture must once again speak with one voice if it is to be heard."

"Our goal must be to increase farm income and to relieve the pressures on our big cities caused by the mass exodus of good farm families to the city."

"But, like always, the solutions come harder than stating the problems."

Some Answers Easier

Some of the answers are easier than others, Carlson conceded.

"For example," he said, "we must salvage some of the good programs of the past and continue to work with them, such as the soil and water conservation programs . . . we must redouble our efforts to develop our export markets . . . we must cope with and overcome the broad problem of inflation . . . farm credit programs must be continued."

The Kansas Republican, who is retiring after 18 years in the U. S. Senate, was in a reminiscent mood as he appeared before the farm group.

"This is my last speech as a United States Senator before a farm organization," he said.

"And I have many pleasant memories of my 40 years of public life working for farmers and ranchers of Kansas (Carlson was elected a member of the state House of Representatives 40 years ago). It seems like only yesterday that I was working in the fields on my farm in Cloud County when some of my friends came out to ask me to run for the state Legislature. Drastic changes have taken place on the farm since that time."

Recalls 'Dust Bowl'

Carlson recalled that when he first went to Congress in 1934, the Great Plains was known as the "dust bowl."

Pointing to the passage in 1935 of the soil conservation act, Carlson remarked, "We took a big step forward in our belated efforts to conserve our natural resources."

"I am grateful that I had an opportunity to work in behalf of, and to vote for, this important program."

Then he listed other soil and water conservation laws that were passed over the years, saying the Hope-Aiken water protection and floor prevention act was one of the best programs ever conceived.

"If anyone doubts the progress we have made with our water," Carlson said, "I would only suggest that he fly over our great state. Through the years we have literally changed the face of Kansas. Our state is covered with lakes and ponds of all sizes and shapes, created by man to control water runoff and to provide a source of that precious water in times of drought."

"I feel very strongly," Carlson said, "that among the most successful and most valuable legislation passed by Congress in the last 30 years are our soil and water conservation programs."

The fat hog is out of favor. And with good reason. The consumer demands lean meat—so the market wants a lean animal. You want to sell a heavy hog. Not a fat one.

You get lean, heavy hogs when three things are right. Breeding. Management. Feeding. Slack up on any one of them and you trim profits.

WHEN THE STATUE OF JACK DANIEL was made, it was no problem picking the clothes. For he wore planter's hat, frock coat and vest every single day.

Jack Daniel dressed exactly the same from the day he was 18 on. And that was typical of the way he was. For when something suited Mr. Jack's needs, he never saw reason to change. With his whiskey, he vowed to stay true to the ancient Tennessee tradition of charcoal mellowing: seeping each drop through 10 feet of charcoal before it was barreled to age. Today we still smooth Jack Daniel's that same old-time way. So, you see, we're still keeping his century-old vow. Just a sip, we believe, and you'll know why we always will.

Diminishing Bridge

The bridge south of St. Marys which connects Pottawatomie and Wabaunsee counties was out of commission last week, victim of an overload. The bridge crosses an old channel of the Kansas river, and before the flood in 1903 was a 5-span bridge. Originally built in the 1880s, the bridge lost three spans in the 1903 flood but they were replaced altho the Kaw changed channels. A herd of cattle proved too heavy for three spans around 1915, and the bridge was reduced to two spans in the late 1950s and to a single span three years ago.

The single span remaining was due for repairs after the overload last week. The span has a 4-ton limit.

Wallace Short Of La Follette Vote

The 86,000-plus votes received by George Wallace in Kansas were the most registered in this state for a third-party presidential candidate since 1924.

In 1924, Kansans cast 98,461 votes for Robert LaFollette, Progressive Party Candidate for President. Calvin Coolidge carried Kansas that year with 407,671 votes. The Democratic nominee, John W. Davis, received 156,319 votes.

The most votes ever cast for a third-party candidate was in 1912. Theodore Roosevelt, running as the nominee of the Progressive Party, finished second in Kansas balloting.

Woodrow Wilson carried the state with 143,670 votes. Roosevelt received 120,123 votes. William H. Taft, the Republican nominee, had 78,844 votes.

Tax Notices Out Despite Lawsuit

MARION — County tax notices will be mailed as planned, now that steps to stop the move have been blocked.

A request for a temporary injunction against the mailing has been denied by the Marion County district court.

The injunction was filed by John Berns, Peabody, Kans., cattleman, in an attempt to block a reappraisal of valuations on real estate in the county.

less steel kettle and as it cooks stir and do not let it settle to the bottom of the kettle. Cook slowly; it will take at least two hours and by the time it reaches 265 degrees it will be a dark golden color. Remove from fire and stir in vanilla and nuts and put into pans to cool. ANSWERS TO TURKEY QUESTIONS

Q. How long does it take to thaw a frozen turkey?

A. A turkey weighing 11 to 14 pounds will take about 2 to 3 days to thaw in the refrigerator.

Q. What is the advantage of a deep basted turkey?

A. Special self-basting mixture, added deep inside where hand basting can't reach, bastes the turkey all the way through as it cooks. Exclusive vegetable oil recipe won't alter the natural flavor but assures you of tenderness and juiciness never before possible . . . every time.

Q. Are frozen turkeys apt to be held in commercial freezers from one season to the next?

A. No, not generally. Commercial freezer storage is expensive and so it is not economically sound to hold frozen turkeys for any length of time.

Q. What is the advantage of buying a turkey with the major leg tendons removed?

A. This makes carving the drumsticks much easier.

Features Women Want In Vacuum Cleaners

If a woman was designing a canister vacuum cleaner for her own use, what are some of the features she would build into it?

Her first concern would be the dust bag. It would be oversized and easy to change. It would be a quick and simple operation, preferably one-handed, but it also would not require her touching the filled, dirty bag.

A tool storage compartment would be a must, of course. In addition, wands would lock together and the hose would be sturdy with a three or five year guarantee.

Her attention to construction would demand a steel body and and off. If she wanted a really a step-on switch to turn it on deluxe unit, it would reel in its own cord when she had finished vacuuming and indicate when the bag is full.

Relax — the manufacturers already have given the woman all these features on the new models available.

One line is briefcase styled, just eight inches slim and the five models in the line offer all these features in different combinations. Prices: from under $50 to about $80.

To Remove Candle Wax

To remove candle wax from a tablecloth place ice cube over area to harden. Scrape with a dull knife. Place stain between two pieces of white blotting paper, press with warm iron. Use fresh paper as wax is absorbed. Launder in normal manner.

More Than A Sweetener

Molasses is more than sweetener. It has more energy-producing iron than spinach. Use it to add old-fashioned homemade flavor to foods: Hot cereals and pancakes, as a topping for ice cream and desserts and milkshakes. You can enjoy either light or dark molasses in dozens of tasty and nutritious ways.

Timely Tip

Here's a timely tip:

To remove cranberry sauce from napkins stretch the stained area over a bowl, secure with string, pour boiling water over stain until light. Launder in hot water adding ½ cup of the new Super Cleaner, ½ cup NON-chlorine perborate bleach, ¼ cup detergent.

By Beverly Macy

Having proofread for so many years, it's difficult for me to read anything without looking for errors. One night I was unloading my grocery store purchases and paused to read aloud from the side of a container some special offers for pet equipment. Part way through I stopped and said, "Hmm, accommodations is misspelled here." My husband looked up to see what I was reading, then remarked, "Bev, I know it's almost impossible for you to keep from proofreading everything, but I think it's getting a little out of hand when you start proofreading the literature on a bag of kitty litter!"

If the number of "nudie" films continues to increase, screen stars will have to run around in the altogether so that their fans will recognize them. Seems to me, it'd be better to be known for one's pretty blue eyes than a mole on the hip.

Check Points For First Freeze

One of these days soon the temperature will drop and freeze pipes that even hot tanks won't thaw. "It never fails that many people are not ready for that first cold spell," Elmer S. Holmes, Extension engineer at Kansas State University, says.

He does offer these quick measures that can be taken to avoid troubles.

Close the openings around the home foundation and other vents that allow fresh air to go to water pipes.

Be sure to leave the home heating system set high enough to prevent freezing during the night or during short periods of absence.

A pump house should be installed to prevent freezing, but insulation is not adequate. Apply supplemental heat with a regular light bulb or heat lamp. Don't expect a heat lamp to substitute for poor pump house construction or no house at all.

Pipes can be protected from freezing, even if they are exposed to direct cold, with heating tapes or cables. Recommendations on the use of tapes and cables accompany the package when purchased.

Taking a little precaution can mean a lot in keeping things cool when the temperature is even colder, Holmes adds.

No Record Vote In Kansas

The total vote in the 1960 Kansas general election will fall short of the forecast of a record 950,000.

It appeared that the final official total in the presidential race would be in the neighborhood of 863,000 votes. This would include an estimated 100,000 absentee ballots.

That would be far below the record of 928,800 ballots cast in the 1960 presidential contest between Republican Richard M. Nixon and Democrat John F. Kennedy.

To Require Banks To Install Cameras, Alarms

The government is ordering every federally insured bank and savings and loan association to install cameras and alarm systems to cut down the biggest wave of bank holdups since Bonnie and Clyde days.

There will be specific deadlines in 1970 and 1971 for installing the various gadgets, hardware and procedures spelled out by the four agencies that regulate federally insured banks and savings and loan associations.

The order is in line with authority granted by Congress in light of FBI figures that bank robberies increased 45 per cent last year from 1966 levels and were up 728 per cent from 1960.

The FBI has been calling on

November 19, 1968

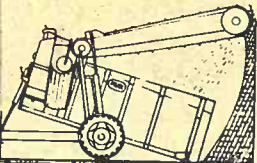

the banks for years to button up a bit more and make things harder for the crooks. Congress responded this year by passing the bank protection act, which makes bank security mandatory, rather than voluntary.

Rain Dampens Canadian Wheat

Too few customers. Too much rain. That is Canada's wheat story this autumn.

The biggest glut ever of unsold grain is piling up on the prairies as Canada vies with other big exporters, notably the United States, Australia and Argentina, for markets.

Good for Some

"The elevator companies are the only ones doing good this year," says Jim Bannister, who grows wheat on 2 square miles of the thick, dark soil of West-Central Saskatchewan.

Actually, Jim Bannister is not doing badly. He harvested 30,000 bushels of 1968 crop and had room to store it along with 20,000 bushels of unsold 1967 crop. That is roughly $75,000 worth of inventory.

Some farmers have had to heap new wheat on the ground or put up new bins. Even on the ground, wheat keeps well if covered with straw bales and a plastic sheet.

Because excessive rain and early frost have damaged the crop and slowed the harvest, the traditional autumn question: "Have you got your crop in?" has been asked in prairie hamlets and cities with special concern this year.

Farmers with drying machines, devices functionally like hot-air clothes dryers, are reaping a financial harvest from "customdrying" for others. Some of the machines, which cost from $2,000 to $10,000, pay for themselves in a year.

Help Each Other

Not that the spirit of farm neighborliness is dead. At Kindersley and elsewhere, farmers who had brought in their own crops helped neighbors in the age-old race to beat the elements.

To a city dweller, the wheat farmer would seem to be in desperate straits. Yet, neither in the countryside nor the farm-supported cities such as Saskatoon, nor in Ottawa, is there any sense of crisis.

Parliament has just doubled, to 6,000 a year, cash advances available to wheat farmers. These interest-free loans are, incidentally, about the only type of government subsidy Canadian wheat farmers get.

Farmers may sell wheat only to the Canadian wheat board, which makes all export and most domestic sales. In 1967-68, the board bought only six bushels an acre. Yields from around Mildred, whose citizens proudly call it the heartland of Canadian wheat country, generally exceed 20 bushels an acre. For big farmers, like Jim Bannister, a 6-bushel quota covers operating costs and a bit more.

Paradoxically, the rains, by lowering the average quality, may help sell this year's wheat. The consumption trend abroad has been toward the medium grades, numbers three and four, from which modern milling and baking techniques produce high-quality flour at reduced cost.

Even so, officials of the Winnipeg-based wheat board hold out only vague hope that this year's exports may exceed last year's 335 million bushels, a 5-year low.

Wheat Council Meeting Dec. 5

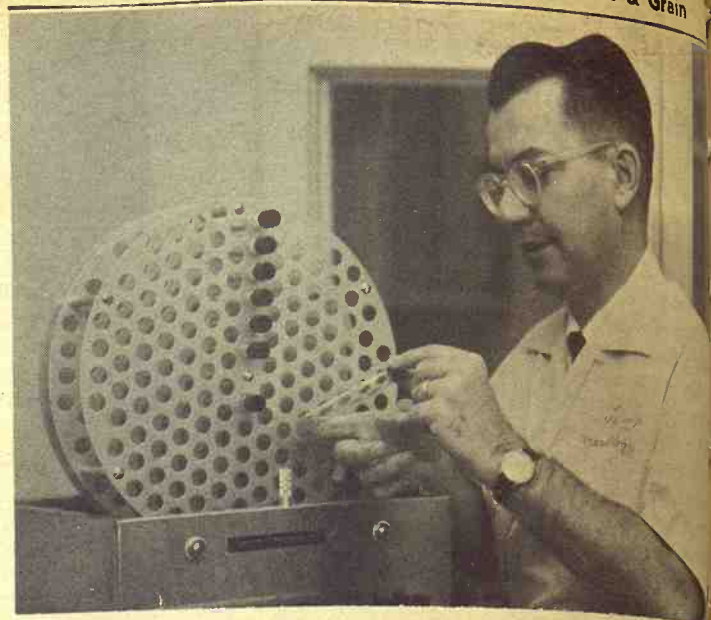

On December 5, the Hard Winter Wheat Quality advisory Council will hold its 19th annual meeting in Kansas City at the Continental Hotel for the purpose of discussing and evaluating the new Hard Winter Wheat varieties that are being proposed for release in the Southern Great Plains Area.

Collaborative studies of twenty-three new and check varieties have been made including Oklahoma-4; Kansas-3; Nebraska and Colorado-7; South Dakota-3; and the Dekalb Agricultural Association-6.

This Council has for many years served in an advisory capacity to the various agricultural experiment stations, agricultural Universities, the grain trade, the milling industry, farmer-grower groups, and the baking industry. The purpose of the Council is to guide and improve the quality of wheat varieties that are grown in the Southern Great Plains.

NO INTEREST IN INDUSTRIAL PROMOTION

MARYSVILLE — A county-wide industrial development committee has retired itself for lack of interest. "Because of a lack of attendance at the meetings, the committee is stymied," Marshall county clerk Harold Prell said.

REVOLVING RESEARCH DRUMS like the one shown here enable Kansas State University scientist, Dr. S. E. Leland Jr., of the College of Veterinary Medicine, to study worm parasites that cause cattle losses estimated at $100 million annually. The tubes in the drum contain cultures of parasites which normally live in the intestines of calves or domestic animals. As the drum and tubes slowly revolve, conditions are simulated which the parasite would experience inside an animal. This makes it easier for the scientist to study the disease-producing potential of the parasites. Leland and fellow scientists hope to find a weak point in the parasites' life cycles where effective treatment methods can be employed.

Eastern Kansas Farmers Need To Check Lime Needs

Farmers in the eastern two-thirds of Kansas are using only about 20 percent as much lime as could profitably be applied to their crops each year, indicates Dr. Harold E. Jones, Extension agronomist at Kansas State University.

His observation is based on information compiled by the K-State soil testing laboratory, which handled nearly 25,000 soil samples in 1967 from farmers in the eastern 69 counties of the state.

Jones suggests that farmers in that area should be applying 2,140,000 tons of lime to legumes, corn, wheat, and other crops which show profitable response to lime. In 1967, only 456,350 tons of lime were actually applied. Forty percent of this was applied under the ACP cost-sharing provisions of the ASCS program.

Of the 12,700,000 cropland acres in the area, 7,674,000 acres need some lime for maximum crop production, the K-State Extension specialist says. Of this, 51 percent needed only about 1½ tons per acre; 39 percent needed at least 3 tons; and 10 percent needed 5 or more tons per acre.

As might be expected, the amount of lime needed on any individual farm varied according to the kind of soil present, the amount of rainfall, and the amount of liming previously done by the farmer.

In the western part of the area, more than 60 percent of the samples tested showed no need for lime while less than 2 percent needed as much as 5 tons per acre.

In the eastern and southeastern counties of the state, with more rainfall, only about 30 percent of the samples tested showed no need for lime. More than 40 percent of the soils needed 3 or more tons per acre for profitable crop productions.

Extension agronomists at Kansas State University advise all farmers in the eastern two-thirds of the state to obtain soil tests on their fields and to apply lime if the soil test shows a need. This is particularly important if alfalfa, soybeans, or other legumes are to be planted, but results of experimental work in the eastern third of the state indicate profitable responses to the application of lime for wheat and corn.

Any farmer who wishes information regarding the proper manner to sample the soils on his farm for soil testing is advised to contact his county Extension agricultural agent.

Russians Buy Angus, Holsteins From Canada

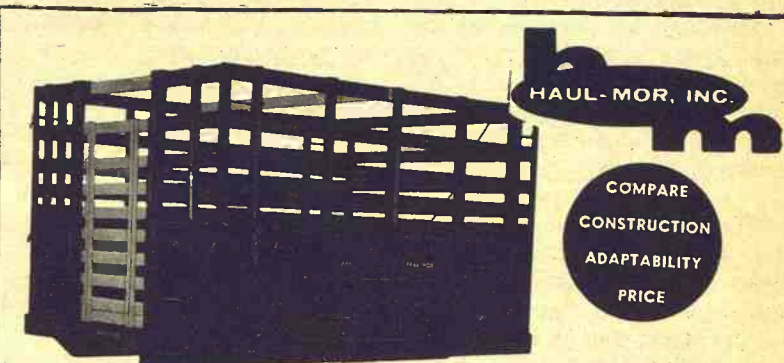

Calgary, Alberta — About 600 Aberdeen Angus and Holstein cattle has been sent to Russia and a Soviet delegation is ordering 600 more. The cattle left Edmonton by rail for Montreal from where they will be shipped to Russia.

Jock Noble, secretary for Alberta Hereford sales Ltd., said the surprise order for 600 more would be the company's 10th, and at $550,000 its largest.

"The first we know about this repeat purchase was when Pro-dintorg, the export and import agency of the Russians, wired us three weeks ago," Noble said.

One group of Russians, headed by Prof. A. Burlakov, head of animal science at Moscow State university, is in Red Deer, Alberta, while another delegation is touring Saskatchewan.

Early Start To Avoid Delay In Legislature

The 125 House members and the 40 Senators of the Kansas Legislature, all of them newly elected, will meet for the first time December 2 under a 1968 statute designed to get the 1969 legislative session off to an early start.

The statute calls for the members to meet in their respective chambers here and be called to order by Mrs. Elwill Shanahan, secretary of state, in the House and Lt. Gov. James H. DeCoursey in the Senate.

Sponsor for Law

The statute, sponsored by a group of legislators headed by

Rep. Thomas Van Cleave Jr., (D-Kansas City, Kansas) was passed to give the members a start on legislative matters before they take the oath of office in mid-January.

In the past Legislature formally has convened on the second Tuesday in January and then been idle one to two weeks while the House and Senate leaders named committees.

Under the new statute, House members will meet December 2 to elect a speaker, a speaker pro tem and other officers. Republicans will choose a majority floor leader in caucus and the Democrats will choose a minority leader.

In the Senate, a president pro tem and other officers will be named, and the Senate Republicans and Democrats each will choose floor leaders in separate caucuses.

The race for speaker of the House to replace Rep. John Conard (R-Greensburg), who gave up his seat to make an unsuccessful bid as Republican candidate for lieutenant governor against DeCoursey, seems to have two leading Republican contenders.

Look to Men

They are Rep. Calvin Strowig (R-Abilene), who has served as G.O.P. floor leader in the House, chairman of the House public utilities committee and vice-chairman of the House assessment and taxation committee, and Rep. Jack Euler (R-Wathena) chairman of the House judiciary committee.

Indications are that Strowig has a slight edge, but Euler is said to have some powerful backers.

Int he Senate, Sen. Glee Smith, Jr., (R-Larned), who has served the last four years as president pro tem of the Senate, appears likely to be renamed to the post.

All legislative elections are scheduled for December 2 when the House and Senate members are certified.

The biggest improvement under the new statute will be that elected House and Senate leaders will be able to immediately begin naming the influential House and Senate committee chairmen and vice-chairmen, as well as committee members.

Begins at Once

This means that on the first day of the 1969 session, after the oaths of office have been taken, consideration of legislation can begin without delay.

For the first time under Governor Docking, Republican legislators will be able to produce from their own ranks the two-thirds vote necessary to override vetoes by the governor. In the House, 87 of the 125 are held by the G.O.P., more than needed for the vote, two-thirds majority, 32 of 40 Senate seats are by Republicans, five more the 27 required.

November 19, 1968

GEHL MIX-ALL

Grinds! Mixes! Delivers!

The Gehl Mix-All, with economy plain feeder and exclusive crusher-feeder attachment, grinds, mixes and delivers the most uniform on-the-farm feed.

Here's proof: Samples of feed grains, ground by Gehl and competitive mills, were compared in a "sieve-shaker" analysis (a grinding uniformity test used also by commercial feed manufacturers). In test after test, Gehl samples were the most uniformly ground. And, the more uniform the grind, the better the mix!

In the Mix-All hammermill, 66 thin, alloy-steel hammers cut . . . not pound ingredients on a big grinding surface for faster feed flow with reduced "fines." Come on in for a close-up look at all the Mix-All features, including the swinging auger-feeder.

Farm-City Week Proclamation

Gov. Robert B. Docking presents a proclamation designating November 22 through November 28 as Farm-City Week to Wendell Becraft, Manhattan, chairman of a 30-man committee planning the observance. Participating in the presentation in the governor's office were, left to right, Paul Ijams, assistant secretary, Kansas State Board of Agriculture; John Miller, Manager, Economic Development Department, Topeka Chamber of Commerce; J. E. Pallesen, Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service; Jackson George, Farmers Home Administration, and Earl Palmberg, Manager, Industrial and Agricultural Power Services, Kansas Power and Light Co. Purpose of the Farm-City Week, to be celebrated nationally, is to promote better understanding between farm and city residents.

Cattle Feeding Spreads Out Of Midwest

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said the Mid-West has slipped a bit from its pre-eminence as the nation's leading feeder of cattle.

The North Central states, which fed 70 percent of the fattened cattle in this country in 1955, now feed about 65 percent.

This, the bank said, occurred despite a 70 per cent increase in the number of cattle fattened in these 10 states.

"Most of the decline," the bank reported in a review of business conditions, "has been in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. These states feed 30 percent of the fattened cattle compared with 40 percent 13 years ago even though the number of head fed has increased 44 percent."

The bank said California and several states in the Southwest and Plains and Mountain sections have shown sharp increases.

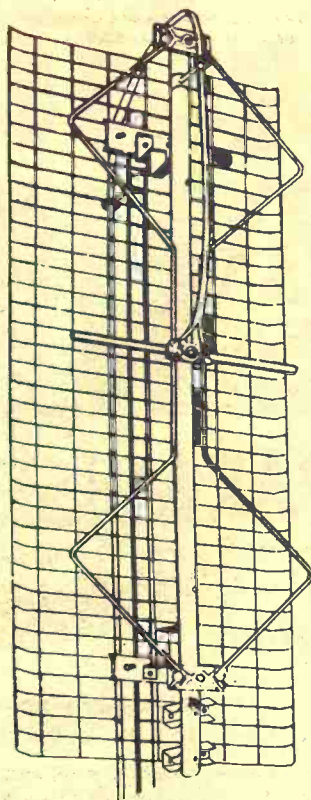

The reason for the changes, it said, is the growth in the demand for beef, especially quality beef.

"The results have been rapid expansion of the cattle feeding industry, and basic changes in the structure and location of the industry.

"One of the most significant changes in the postwar cattle industry has been the spread in commercial feedlots — those with capacities of 1000 head or more. Although most fed cattle are still produced by farmer-feeders, the number of head fattened in commercial lots has increased six times as fast as the number fed by farmers."

Some Tips On Windbreak Planting

About a million trees a year go into farm windbreaks in Kansas. During winter, these windbreaks prove their worth as an effective shield for farmyards and feedlot areas against snow drifts and bitter winds.

Now is the time to make plans to establish a windbreak in the spring, Harold Gallaher, state Extension forester at Kansas State University, reports.

A location on the west and north sides of the farmstead should be designated and the ground plowed this fall. A wind-break should be about 100 feet from the area it is to protect. Prepare an area to allow 12 to 24 feet spacing between rows — generally about 4 feet wider than the equipment that will be used for cultivation.

The windbreak should contain five or more rows of trees. This includes two rows of cedar, one row of pine, and two rows of deciduous trees. Cedar species include eastern red cedar and Rocky Mountain juniper; pines are Austrian or ponderosa; and about 30 species of deciduous trees and shrubs are available depending on the area of the state and type of soil.

Landowners can order trees next spring for windbreaks and other conservation uses through the Extension Tree Distribution program of Kansas State University. Orders are made at local

Farm Credit Strain On Rural Banks

Rural banks are having trouble meeting farm credit needs and interest rates vary considerably from region to region, concludes a study recently made by the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City just published in the bank's Monthly Review.

The articles are by Raymond Doll, vice president and senior economist, and Gene Swackamer and Blaine Bickel, economists.

As has been noted in many studies, nearly 90% of the farm production in the country comes from only a third of the farms. This one third requires a major share of the credit, and the individual requirements are not small.

For example, the study shows that in 1966 borrowing $100,000 or more was required by 799 livestock feeders. About 25 required $1 million or more each in borrowed money.

About 15,000 borrowers had notes of $25,000 or more.

Significant to the G&G area is the fact that 548 out of the 799 borrowers of $100,000 came from the Tenth Federal Reserve district which includes Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and the western part of Missouri.

Only about 2% of the banks in the U.S. can make a loan of $100,000 or more and only about half can make loans of $25,000 to any one operator. One county in Kansas has nine banks and none can make a loan of more than $25,000, Doll wrote.

Banks are limited in the amount of loans they can make to a borrower. The National Banking Act limits the size of a loan a national bank can make to 10% of the bank's net unimpaired capital and surplus, unless the loan is secured by livestock, in which case the limit is 25%.

In 1966, about one of nine banks in the Tenth district had less than $100,000 in capital and surplus, and a third have less than $200,000.

The Federal Reserve economists also pointed out that most states also set limits on the size of loan a state bank can make.

What happens, then, if a bank cannot meet its customer's requirements?

Of course the banker can suggest the borrower get along with less than he requested. He can refer him to a larger bank which can make the full loan. But, because he would like to get his share of the action, he will likely suggest a participation loan.

In a participation loan, the local bank lends the borrower an amount up to its legal limit. Then another, and usually larger bank, lends the borrower the remainder. Sometimes it may take a third bank to handle the total amount.

Over 44% of the farm participation loans in the U.S. are made in the Kansas City Federal Reserve District, but only 16% of the total farm loans are made in this area.

This suggests to a greater degree than anywhere else, rural banks have had to turn to the city banks to cover their loan requirements. The fact there is branch banking in most of the rest of the country, but very little in the 10th District, accounts for some of the participation loan volume.

Participation loans in the 10th District in 1966 averaged $30,000. More than four-fifths were for livestock purchases, with feeders accounting for close to 50%.

Mostly these loans were short-term, six months or less. Only 3% were for more than a year.

The study on the flow of credit showed that, in general, interest rates to livestock feeders were low in the northeast and north central parts of the U.S. and became higher to the south and west.

For instance, in 1966, interest rates charged on livestock loans in New York were 6.57%, in Virginia 6.06%, in Kansas 6.89%, in Missouri 6.98% and Texas 7.82%.

The low rate in Virginia is attributable to a usury law, which limits interest rates but also makes loans harder to get.

The variance is rather impressive. Consider that a Texas farmer may pay about 1 1/4% more in interest rate — about 28% more in gross dollars — for credit than a Virginia farmer.

Doll surmised that the explanation may be a lack of knowledge in one area about what is going on in another.

Interest In Wichita's Mobile Art Gallery

WICHITA — A miniature museum on wheels, put into operation in 1966 by the Wichita Art museum, has been so successful that a second mobile gallery will open December 1.

"We feel like it (the project) has proved itself. The need has been established and the program well received," Lowell Adams, mobile gallery director, said. He added that the purpose of Gallery II basically will be the same as that of Gallery I — "to offer the same resources as a museum in a large community."

Still being financed and operated under a 3-year federal grant is Gallery I, a mobile unit serving nine counties.

Last year Gallery I was visited by 47,000 persons, Adams said.

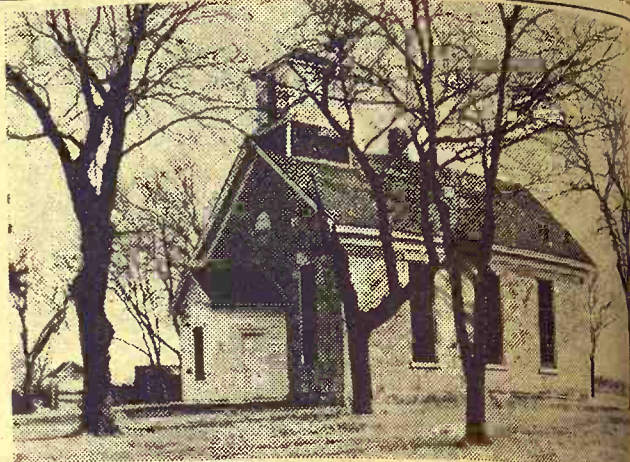

Although Gallery I spends a great part of its time with schoolchildren, two evenings a week and most Wednesdays are set aside for adults." For kids, "it's often their first trip to a museum," he said. "Children are very receptive to contemporary art, while adults demand something representational," Adams has learned.

The mobile gallery stays in each town from three days to three weeks. The communities it visits range from 1000 to 50,000. Counties served by Gallery I are Kingman, Pratt, Barber, Harper, Comanche, Cowley, Sumner and the western part of Sedgwick.

"After the federal grant expires this year, the first gallery will be free to travel in areas of the state," Adams said. "Gallery II will be available in any area where there is interest along with funds available as part financing of its service."

BIBLE AND RIFLES — The old Beecher Bible and Rifle Church at Wabaunsee is a part of Kansas religious heritage. Back in the early 1860's the pro-slavery people, many of whom crossed the border from Missouri to vote illegally, and free-state Kansans (anti-slavery) were exchanging words and threatening violence. Henry Ward Beecher, a New York clergyman, raised money in his New York Church and bought the new Sharps Rifles to send to free state Kansans. With each rifle he sent a Bible. When told he should only send Bibles, Beecher said you might as well send Bibles to buffaloes as to the pro-slavery people but "they have a supreme respect for the logic that embodied in Sharps Rifles." The Beecher Bible and Rifle Church, which was dedicated in 1862 and is still used regularly for churches, was one of the churches receiving the rifles. ENJOY KANSAS — TAKE A KANSAS HOLIDAY.

U.S. GETS TRADE BALANCE SURPLUS

For the first time in three years, the U.S. has reported a quarterly surplus in its balance of payments. Basically, it means that foreign governments, companies and individuals spent more money in the

November 19, 1968

U.S. than the U.S. spent in foreign countries. The surplus was small, $35 million, but compared to $160 million and $680 million deficits in the previous two quarters.

Determined

A determined man is "Easy Jack" Welsh, who operates an Antique Auto Parts Store off I-70 west of Junction City. Welsh's determination is firm by attempts by both state and federal authorities to classify his place as a junkyard or an auto salvage yard.

A sign in front of Welsh's place has been mostly obscured by trees planted, presumably, as part of a federal highway beautification program. But Welsh says he will continue to elevate the cars in back of the trees.

Welsh also won't buy a state license required for a salvage yard. "We don't sell any cars back for used metals and we don't burn anything," he says.

Three Hort Associations Set December Events

MANHATTAN — Three Kansas organizations concerned with producing fruits and vegetables that have consumer appeal will hold their annual meetings in Topeka, December 4 and 5. They are the Kansas Fruit Growers Association, the Kansas Vegetable Growers Association, and the Kansas Sweet Potato Growers Association.

On the first day of the meetings at the Ramada Inn, the three groups will hold a joint session devoted to production problems of interest to all, reports Dr. James K. Greig, secretary for the Vegetable Growers. The second day will be devoted to separate sessions that will feature more specific discussions.

The opening afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion of labor problems faced by all horticulture producers. Featured speakers are Loyal Fortmeyer, Kansas Employment Dept., Topeka, discussing "Migrant Labor Relations," and Lawrence Adair, Kansas Labor Dept., Topeka, commenting on "Recruiting Local Labor."

A panel of growers, representing the Wichita, Kaw Valley, and northeast Kansas production areas, will also express opinions on labor problems. Dr. Floyd W. Smith, director of the Kansas State University Experiment Station, will also explain "Research for Fruit and Vegetable Production in the 1970's."

The evening banquet will feature W. G. Amstein, former K-

State Extension specialist, who will reminisce about "Forty Years of Horticulture Observations."

On the second day, topics of interest to vegetable and sweet potato growers include "What Can Be Done About Cracking In Tomatoes," by Joe McFarren, University of Arkansas Horticulturalist, Fayetteville; and "Production of Cool Season Vegetable Crops," by Henry Vose, supt. of the Arkansas Valley Vegetable Sub-Station, Van Buren, Ark.

K-State speakers at the vegetable sessions include Dr. Greig, commenting on "Profits in 1969"; Milam T. Jones, giving "Results and Observations in Southwest Kansas Vegetable Production," and Dr. Charles V. Hall, pointing out "New Trends and Developments in Vegetable Crops."

In a separate session, the fruit growers will lend an ear to Dr. Dwight Powell, University of Illinois Horticulturalist, as he tells about "Scab Control in Apples and Peaches"; and Dr. George Oberly, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, as he discusses "New Fruit Varieties."

Dr. Ronald W. Campbell, head of the K-State horticulture department, will have some "Comments on the KSU Horticulture Department." RILEY CONSERVATION TOUR THIS WEEK

MANHATTAN — A tour to view some Riley County Sonser-vation practices is being sponsored by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Soil Conservation District. This tour will be on Tuesday, November 26, and is scheduled to leave Randolph at 1:30 p.m. Various types of terraces, waterways, dams, pasture spraying, a windbreak and native grass seeding will be seen in the Olsburg, Leonardville and Riley areas. The length of the tour will be about 20 miles.

INFLATION CUT WILL BOOST UNEMPLOYMENT

If inflation is cut down to around 2% a year by 1970, compared to the current 4% figure, unemployment will increase to 5% to 7% a year, says a University of Michigan economic research group. Their study predicted a slower general economy in 1969, based on a 6% increase in the gross national product; an increase in the unemployment rate to 4.3% compared to a current figure under 4%; and no market decrease in inflation.

Most Wheat Under Loan Since 1960

Wheat farmers placed a net total of 311 million bushels of their record 1968 crop under government price support loans as of November 1, nearly double the rate of a year earlier and the most for the period since 1960, the Agriculture Department has announced.

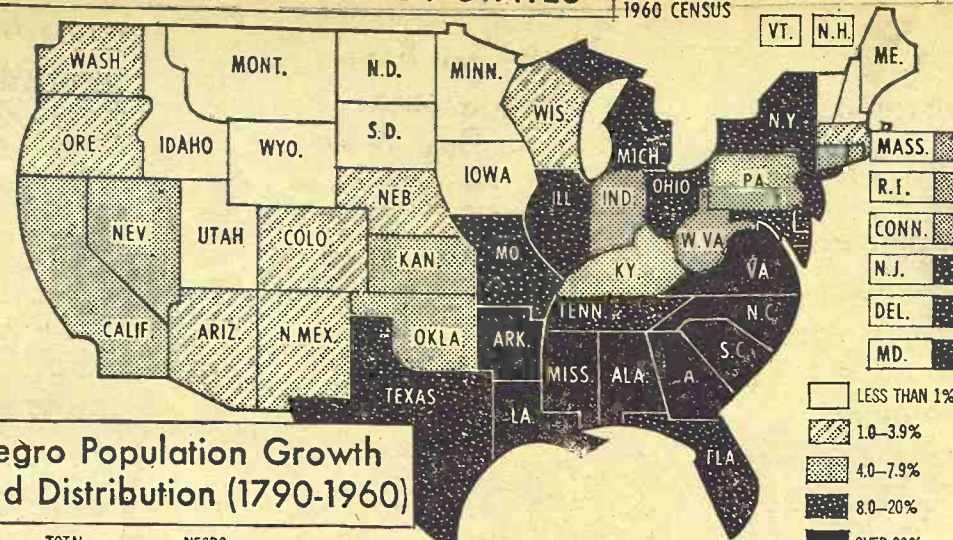

About 58.7 million bushels were put under loan — thus removing it from the free market — during October, the most for the month since the bumper crop of 1958.

This year's wheat production was nearly 1.6 billion bushels. The carryover on July 1 was 537 million, resulting in a total on hand for 1968-69 of more than 2.1 billion bushels. However, the government owns nearly 100 million bushels and farmers already had stored 213 million bushels under previous loan programs.

This means that with the new-crop loans about 623 million bushels of wheat are blocked off the free market, leaving approximately 1.5 billion bushels of free supplies available for the current year.

Farmers Union Says Stick With Programs

Kansas Farmers Union at its convention at Wichita last week gave its support to the federal wheat and feed grains programs authorized in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965.

The group's stand, adopted by the Farmers Union Policy Committee, is in contradiction to the stand of Ray Frisbie, president of the Kansas Farm Bureau, announced at the Farm Bureau's convention in Topeka.

Frisbie predicted farm programs would "take a new direction," erasing federal programs.

The Farmers Union Policy Committee called for development of a "comprehensive food and fiber policy encompassing the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965."

"The talk of doing away with federal farm programs is ridiculous when we consider that during the past eight years one third of the net income of Kansas farmers has come from federal farm programs," said John W. Harvey, Topeka, member of the Farmers Union Legislative Steering Committee.

To eliminate these programs would mean bankruptcy for 90 percent of the small farmers in Kansas," he warned.

New Idea Closes K.C. Office

One of the most-sold short lines of farm machinery in the G&G area is apparently in for a retrenchment.

New Idea Farm Equipment, which has 30 dealers in the eastern half of Kansas is closing its branch office in Kansas City. The job of Phil Geyer, Wamego, as territory manager has been abolished, and the company will service its dealers from the Fort Dodge, Iowa, office.

Geyer has been territory manager for 11 years. He said his future plans were indefinite, and that he did not intend to take another job until after the first of the year.

The Kansas City offices of New Idea had served eastern Kansas, most of Nebraska, and all of Missouri and Tennessee.

WILSON PLANT INCREASE IN KANSAS CITY

Wilson & Co. plans a $1 million expansion of its meat packing facilities at Kansas City. The expansion will mean 150 new jobs. Wilson presently hires 750 workers in Kansas City.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK SHOW OPENS NEXT WEEK

The U.S.'s largest livestock show, the International Livestock Exposition, opens in Chicago November 29, to run through December 7. About 8000 purebred cattle, horses, sheep and hogs are entered.

SWIFT TO CLOSE OMAHA PLANT

Swift & Co. will close its meat-packing plant at Omaha within the next year. Only Wilson will be left in Omaha among the "big four" packers after the Swift closing. Armour closed its plant earlier this year, and Cudahy left in 1967. Swift employs 1600 workers in Omaha.

Cutting Horses and Helicopters

On the 60,000-acre JY Ranch near Guthrie, Texas, a helicopter is used to help cowboys move cattle. The 3-place helicopter was used experimentally last fall for roundup purposes and this year was used almost exclusively to round up about 1000 cows and their calves which roamed over almost all of the ranch's acreage.

Fertilizer Event At Topeka December 9-11

A liberal look at the broad field of agricultural chemicals is in store for Kansans attending the 21st annual Kansas Fertilizer and Chemical Conference December 9-11 at the Topeka municipal auditorium.

The first day of the Conference, jointly sponsored by the Kansas Fertilizer and Chemical the Topeka municipal auditorium.

The first day of the Conference, jointly sponsored by the Kansas Fertilizer and Chemical Institute and Kansas State University, will be devoted mainly to registration, viewing commercial exhibits in the basement of the auditorium, and industry group meetings, reports Dr. Larry Murphy, program chairman.

A film, "The Uncommon Man," will officially open the Conference program sessions at 9 a.m. on Tuesday. During the three major program sessions, papers on various phases of chemical research and application will be presented by 12 speakers.

The first session will place emphasis on fertilizer market.

Wheat Export Picture Brighter

India's decision to buy 87 million bushels more wheat from the United States "as soon as possible" is brightening the U.S. wheat export picture but Agriculture department officials say not all the problems are solved.

The department's target for wheat exports in 1968-69 is 750 million bushels, the same as last year, when 761 million actually were shipped abroad. But wheat exports had been lagging one-third behind a year ago until the Indian deal was unveiled.

Now, including the wheat earmarked for India, this year's exports have jumped to about 250 million bushels, only 30 million or so less than shipped a year ago. Department officials say that it is much too early to say the 1968-69 target is in sight because much depends on what foreign buyers will take from now through next June 30.

For example, India received 3.5 million tons — more than 130 million bushels — under Public Law 480 credit agreements during the last half of the fiscal year. In addition, other buyers entered the market heavily because of the international grains arrangement scheduled to boost world rates on July 1. These and other factors tended to inflate 1967-68 wheat exports by draining off some orders which probably would have been delayed until the coming season.

Therefore, department observers reason, the rate of wheat exports through next June will have to exceed last year's heavy buying to meet the export target.

It is possible, officials indicated, that India could ask for more grain under PL 480 next year, but that it is too early to say when or how much. In meantime, increased world production and stiffer competition for markets has cut into the port optimism that existed a year ago. The Indian shipment help but do not solve a serious problem of mounting grain surpluses created by two record grain crops in succession.

Study Attacking Livestock Worm Losses

MANHATTAN — Growing worm parasites in test tubes is painstaking and unglamorous work.

But this unusual endeavor of Dr. S. E. Leland Jr., a professor of parasitology in the College of Veterinary Medicine at Kansas State University, Manhattan, is an exciting challenge to him and has important economic potential for the livestock industry and meat consumers.

Dr. Leland's goal is a research breakthrough in the study of worm parasites which cause high losses for the cattle industry. Estimates place the losses in the United States at $100 million annually.

The pesky worm parasites are hard to conquer. They attack the animals from within, inflicting both health damage and death. Their "undercover" offensive makes it difficult for veterinarians and cattlemen to fight them — or even to learn much about them.

Dr. Leland is trying to develop a way to produce — and preserve for intensive study — mass quantities of test tube worms which can be readily available to research scientists. If he can do it, his research breakthrough may be achieved.

This mass production of test tube worms would enable scientists to study the "enemy" in the laboratory and thereby allow the researcher a more advantageous battle ground. There, in the lab, scientists would hope to detect how the parasitic worms do their damage inside cattle and, if possible, to prevent it.

The research of Dr. Leland requires skill and patience. In nine years of careful work, he and his associates have been able to give test tube birth to 16 different kinds or species of worms.

To those uninformed in the production of worm cultures (that includes most of us), the development of 16 or so species in nine years may seem like slow progress. But to those in the know — such as the nation's parasitologists and scientists in related fields — Dr. Leland and his associates are making progress far beyond expectations.

In years past, some scientists thought the growth of test tube worms for cattle research in parasitology was impossible.

Among those who have confidence in Dr. Leland's unusual project is the National Science Foundation which recently rewarded him a $35,000 grant for continuing his study.

The NSF has supported Dr. Leland's research since he began it at the University of Kentucky in 1959. He joined the K-State veterinary medical faculty in August of 1967, bringing the research project with him.

Here is how Dr. Leland explains his research and the problems related to it.

"Domestic animals," he says, "are infected by about 20 different parasitic worms. These parasites enter the host animals through the mouth and skin, live and develop inside the animals, and cause disease ranging from loss of appetite to death."

The scientific problem of eradicating or immunizing animals against parasites has been the inability to adequately study the parasites outside their natural environment — which is inside the animal.

"Parasitic nematodes will not live as adults outside the animals and therefore any study of the living organism must be done while the parasite is within the host," Dr. Leland says. This procedure, he reminds, is expensive, complicated and time-consuming because animals for test purposes must, in most cases, be raised from birth in a "worm-free" environment away from sources of natural contamination.

"The development of synthetic media in which a parasite will grow would let us know exactly what substances are required by the parasite as essential nutrients," Dr. Leland explains.

Parasitologists know that cattle which are exposed to worm parasites develop a degree of resistance to subsequent infection. The idea of growing parasites in a test tube may provide the means for developing this resistance in a manner which will not require actual infection.

This can be done, Dr. Leland believes, by separating certain non-infectious culture products from the test tube worms. These products, when injected into cattle, may induce the animals to build up resistance against the parasites.

When will this goal become a reality?

That's a tough one for the scientist to answer. But, one thing is sure. It's worth waiting for.

Kansas will join other states in observing National Farm-City Week Nov. 22 to 28.

Purpose of the event is to promote better understanding between farm and city residents.

"The prosperity and well-being of the states are dependent upon relations between the two great elements of our society — farmers and urban people," Gov. Robert Docking said in a proclamation which told of Kansas' participation in the national observance.

The governor said an event such as Farm-City Week provides an unparalleled opportunity for farm and city persons to become acquainted.

Chairman of the 1968 Farm-City Week Committee is Wendell Becraft, Manhattan, executive director of the Agricultural be established in Kansas at this time, the Legislative Council has concluded.

The council adopted a 13-page report from its Committee on Agriculture and Livestock which said there is a lot of the weed growing in the state but it is of such poor quality and reproduces so rapidly that it would be almost impossible to eradicate.

The report said that marijuana, which reaches a height of six or seven feet, grows on 52,050 acres in Kansas, in 59 of the state's 105 counties, but is concentrated in the northeast and north central sections.

Rep. John Bower, R-McLouth, said the estimated cost of a control program for one year in Kansas would be $1.3 million, and there is no guarantee that costs would be any lower in subsequent years.

Bower read the report which stated, "The committee believes that classifying marijuana as a noxious weed and requiring a landowner to bear the expense of control measures would be difficult to justify on the basis of present knowledge."

HOG MEETING SET AT ALMA

ALMA — A meeting of Wa-baunsee County livestockmen who raise hogs is set for here for Friday, November 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the fair building.

Lawrence Bandel, a county director in the Kansas Swine Improvement Assn., and Eddie Hull of Ottawa, a state director, will be on the program.

Record Sugar Beet Checks In Mail To Kansans

Farmers in the sugar-beet growing area around Goodland received an average $12.42 per ton in the initial payment for their 1968 crop, a record for the area.

Payments from the Great Western Sugar Co. totalling $55.5 million are to be mailed this week to beet growers in Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Montana. The checks cover deliveries thru November 4.

Additional payments for beets delivered after November 4 will be made in December and probably next April and October for all 1968 beets.

Under terms of the beet purchase agreement, the growers' total return for the crop is tied to the net price to be received by the company from the sale of sugar in the marketing year that ends next September 30.

The $12.42 per ton average payment compared to an $11.98 payment in November 1967.

Traveling Actor Wallace Bruce Is Dead

Wallace Bruce — Toby the Redhead and a host of other stage characters to several generations of Kansans — is dead.

The Wallace Bruce Players, which he and his wife Ruby had led, was only a few months short of its 50th anniversary. The longtime tentshow trouper died last week in his hometown Hutchinson at the age of 70.

Only 24 hours before his death, he and his players had completed a one-night stand at Council Grove. Another show was booked for last Tuesday night at Dwight, but it had been cancelled after Bruce had an attack of angina pectoris.

There is hardly a G&G area town or village that the Wallace Bruce Players had not performed in over the last several decades. His show did not miss the smallest towns, for the Wallace Bruce Players performed wherever there was a stage or a tent could be pitched.

Only during a period in World War II when it was impossible to secure actors for stock companies did Bruce follow another profession. He was manager of the Fox theatre at Lyons.

Bruce started his stage career in Hutchinson before World War I, touring with the Grand Players, then the Bybee Players, and later the Jack DeForest Co.

His marriage-partnership with Ruby Ballinger lasted a half-century, and at the time of his death he and Mrs. Bruce were actively planning a golden anniversary road show for the summer.

From 1924 to 1934 the Wallace Bruce troupe performed a long stand at Riverside Park in his hometown, and would often pack the 2000-capacity Convention Hall to capacity for 6-day stands for special events.

In later years they hit the midwest circuit as a tent show troupe. Milburn Stone, Doc of the Gunsmoke TV series, and movie actor Chill Wills at one time acted in the Bruce group.

Bruce was best-known for his continuing performance as Toby the Redhead in broad comedies which kept actors busy switching characters and handling stage chores.

WEST OF RILEY — The first military post west of Fort Riley was Fort Larned, established in 1859 to guard mails and travelers on the most dangerous part of the Santa Fe Trail. Fort Larned, which is open as a tourist attraction, is located about six miles west of Larned on US route 156. Constructed of huge blocks of sandstone, the fort was a quadrangle with Officers' quarters to the west, barracks on the north, bakery and hospital on the east and stables on the south. More than 100 battles and skirmishes with Indians were fought out of Fort Larned. In case of siege, and the fort was under siege many times, a secret tunnel led from under one of the buildings to the creek 75 yards to the north enabling the troops to obtain water. Fort Larned stands today as it did back in the old Indian days. — ENJOY KANSAS — TAKE A KANSAS HOLIDAY.

Early Sag, Then Improvement In '69 Farm Prices

Farmers' net income in the early months of 1969 is expected to sag a bit from current levels, but probably will be about the same as a year earlier, the Agriculture Department predicts. More livestock and larger carryover of grain from crops being harvested are expected to put pressure on farm prices, department economists said in an income situation report. It said farm income for 1968 is expected to be about 15 billion dollars, compared with 14.2 billion last year.

Farm marketings through September were estimated at 29.7 billion dollars, up 550 million from the first three quarters of 1967. Government payments to farmers during the 9-month period were higher — about 3 billion dollars, or 525 million more than a year earlier. Receipts from livestock sales through September were 18.6 billion dollars, an increase of 500 million dollars from last year, the report said. Cattle and calf marketings accounted for about $400 million of the boost and reflected 4 per cent higher prices from a year earlier.

Market receipts from hogs declined slightly, with lower prices offsetting larger sales for slaughter. Milk prices paid to farmers averaged 4 per cent more than for the first nine months of 1967, an increase of 100 million dollars in gross receipts despite a slight reduction in the milk output. Poultry and egg receipts were up slightly from a year earlier, with broiler prices about 6 per cent higher and the egg price average around 2 per cent over 1967.

Crop receipts from January through September totaled 11.1 billion dollars, about the same as for the 1967 period, the report said. Lower prices for food and livestock feed grains more than offset increased sales from bumper crops.

The economists said most of this year's gain in cash receipts is expected to occur in the last three months, including marketings for a much larger cotton crop and receipts from other fall production. A realized net income of around 15 billion dollars would be the fourth largest, exceeded by 1947, 1948, and 1966.

On the other side of the ledger, farm production expenses this year may rise to around 36 billion dollars, about 1.25 billion more than in 1967. Practically all production items except feed and fertilizer are higher priced than in 1967, the report said.

Suez Has Lost Its Importance

Closed since June 1967, the Suez canal is no longer of vital significance in world trade, says a Norwegian shipping journal widely read in commercial centers. Major shipping lines, hit by the canal being closed twice in 10 years, have ceased to rely on it, the magazine said. It said the canal would handle 40 to 50% less shipping than before if it were reopened.

Monday Sale

This week found more cattle from more consignors selling to more buyers. We had some real choice quality stock of both calves and feeder cattle, as well as some big consignments. There were a lot of small consignments of calves and yearlings. Our market was mostly active and prices were 75¢ higher on feeder steers, feeder heifers were few and selling steady to 50¢ higher.

Major Cutback In Corn Forecast

Though Kansas' estimate was reduced very little, USDA's corn crop forecast as of November 1 was the largest one-month adjustment made since 1945.

USDA cut its forecast on the 1968 corn crop to 4.44 billion bushels, down 147 million bushels from the October forecast. Since 1945, the largest October-to-November adjustment in the corn forecast had been 50 million bushels.

Crop reports put out by the grain trade made similar adjustments. In fact the private report by Conrad Leslie for Lamson Bros. & Co. of Chicago cut its forecast by 163 million bushels.

The reductions in the crop are mostly coming from the big corn states of Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. Obviously the farmers there misjudged their yields, for they are the ones on which the corn forecasts are based.

It was apparent that the government's estimate was for less corn than the trade expected for corn prices rose abruptly. Helping the situation was the big snow in Iowa which delayed the harvest further in that state.

Despite the big drop from the October prospects, the nation's corn crop still promises to be the second largest of record and the per acre yield of 79.4 bushels will be a new record.

Lighter Voting Percentage

The smallest percentage of voting-age Americans in 12 years cast ballots in the 1968 presidential election.

An analysis of national totals shows the estimated 72 million people who voted Nov. 5 represent only 60 per cent of the 120 million Americans of voting age.

Not since 1956, when 60.5 per cent of the voting-age population turned out, has the percentage been so small. That was the year Dwight D. Eisenhower was returned to the White House for a second term.

Even if as many as one million ballots remain to be counted this year — a figure that is by no means certain — the turnout would be only 60.8 per cent.

By comparison, the 70.6 million ballots cast in 1964 represented 62 per cent, and the 68.8 million votes in 1960 — the year President-elect Richard M. Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy — was a record 63.8 per cent.

The percentages are based on Bureau of the Census figures on the number of people in each state eligible to register to vote. The age requirement is 21 in all states except Georgia and Kentucky, where it is 18, Alaska, 19, and Hawaii, 20.

Filipino Food Switch From Rice To Wheat

The Philippines have become a good customer for U.S. wheat in the last few years, another rice-eating nation being won over through promotional efforts and competitive pricing.

About 94 per cent of the lands' wheat imports last year came from this country. Projections for 1968 are bright and may be as much as 10 per cent above imports for 1967.

Wheat is not produced in the Philippines and it will continue to be a good market for wheat-exporting nations. Canada and Australia pose a threat to U.S. sales in the area and market development programs must continue.

Increased consumption of wheat in the islands is attributed to continued urbanization. Aside from a growing population, an increasing number of Filipinos are moving to cities where wheat foods are more available and more convenient than traditional foods.

Great Plains Wheat Inc. among U.S. producer organizations engaged in trying to lure the Asians over from rice wheat.
