A Hopeful Sign In Feeding World

A group of experts believes man can be fed better than ever before by the year 2000.

This will depend, however, on revolutionary changes in farm production and stricter population controls, according to the experts. They recommended that the United Nations should play a pivotal role in both endeavors.

The group met recently under auspices of American Assembly, established by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower while he was presi-and 327 in November last year.

Hog prices, at $17.30 per cwt.,

were 10 cents below October but

80 cents above last year. Beef cattle prices, at $23.50 per cwt.,

were 70 cents above mid-October and $2.70 above a year ago.

dent of New York's Columbia University. It predicted a world population of six to seven billion by the year 2000 - double the 1965 figure.

To meet their needs, developing nations must increase food production at an annual rate of at least 4 per cent over the rext 25 years, the experts said:

But hope that the world's population in 2000 could be "fed and fed better than in mankind's entire history arises from dramatic breakthroughs achieved in the 1960s," their report added.

The necessary widespread application of new technology would require "major economic, social and political changes in developing countries and a much larger scale of effort." Contributions would be needed by all advanced countries, including the Soviet Union and its allies."

The American Assembly report said "The assembly urges lower expenditures for armaments by all countries — and more expenditures for population control and agricultural development."

Research in family planning should be accelerated because on the success of population curbs "the hope for civil order and political coherence" depended.

While recognizing the potential of marine products as a source of protein, the group concluded that at least for the rest of this century farm land would remain the major food source.

William Gaud, administrator of U.S. Agency for International Development, told the assembly that countries with surpluses could not fill the food gap indefinitely.

Pointing to "dramatic improvements" in agricultural production in Asia, he said there was no longer any doubt that the food problem of developing countries could be solved.

Gaud said much more needed to be done however if the "green revolution" was to take firm hold in the soil of Asia and spread to Africa and Latin

British economist Barbara Ward told the assembly, which met at Arden House in upstate New York, that the developed nations had to be cautious about advocating birth control to the poorer countries.

In Latin America and Africa, we need to say not that they need fewer people," she said. "They probably need more. But we need to be certain this does not swamp every hope of feeding and educating them," she said.

EMPORIA — The Unified 1010@ School District 253 board of edu-1280 @ Lacation will not ask for a recount of votes in a Nov. 5 election in which a $4.6 million high school bond issue was defeated by 19

Unofficial tabulation of the vote showed the issue passed by a 13-vote margin, but subsequent discovery of an error dur-565@ hring the official canvass changed the results.

It was the second time the 566 @ 13 bonds for a new high school 499@ 13 were rejected by district voters. In a policy resolution, the beard said: "Since the defeat of the school bond proposal, many citizens have questioned members of the board of education concerning future plans to solve the overcrowded conditions that still exist.

> The board has been working on these plans since the day of the defeat and will continue to work on the problem until a plan of action can be developed." The resolution said the board has no plans for a recount because its attorney has ruled that > fraud must be proved. "Although there have been reports of many irregularities in the conduct of the recent election, there is certainly no indication of fraud," the board said.

Japan Accepts Fishing Cut

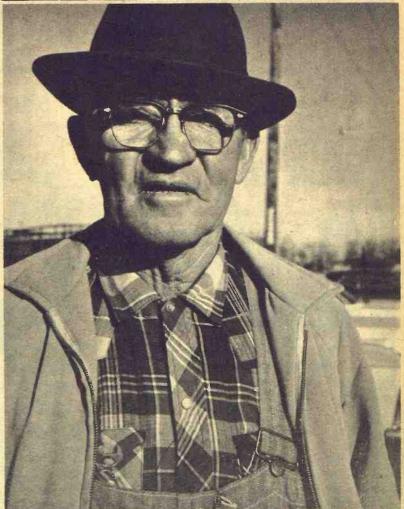

Japanese fishery officials described as inevitable a stipulation in a new U.S.-Japanese fishing agreement reducing Japan's king crab catch in the Northern Pacific to almost half of that allowed in previous years.

"King crab resources in the area are dwindling," said a spokesman for the Japanese fisheries agency

The agreement covers 1969 and 1970. Japan's king crab quota was reduced from 163,000 cases to 85,000.

The agency spokesman said the reduction should be offset by increased catches of tanner crabs, for which no quota was

The agreement also calls on Japan to reduce its halibut fishing to daylight hours and sharply limits fishing for ocean perch off Washington and Oregon.

Who's To Pay For Milk Inspection?

TOPEKA - The problem of financing milk inspection may come to a crisis soon, Dr. Ray Baker, Topeka-Shawnee County health director, says.

Dr. Baker says the Legislature passed a law establishing state rather than local inspection of milk that was to have taken effect July 1, 1968. The new law called for financing by public and producer sources rather than public funds only as was the case under the old statute.

Dr. Baker said Topeka didn't budget for milk inspection.

However, after producers protested, the changeover was delayed two years.

Inspection in Topeka has been financed by federal funds since July 1, Dr. Baker said, but these will run out soon.

For Hog Producers?

Hog prices have been at profitable levels for an unusually long time — more than $3\frac{1}{2}$ years. Prices are expected to continue in the profit range for several months, but the trend is likely to be downward in 1969. By this time next year, profits from hog production may be squeezed to the vanishing point.

As all hog producers know, these prices follow strong seasonal and cyclical patterns. The seasonal low points usually come during the winter. The cyclical troughs occur once every four or five years. These price swings are caused by changes in the number of hogs marketed by farmers.

Receipts near seasonal peak. Market receipts of hogs usually reach their annual peak during the last quarter of the year, especially in November. The peak of supplies may be a little later than usual this year.

Marketings of hogs often decrease 5 or 10 percent during December, January, and February. But there may be little or no decrease this year, because statistical reports indicate that farmers increased summer farrowings by about 5 percent. If these reports are correct, there will be little or no decrease in market supplies during the next 90 days.

Other meats abundant. Other price-making forces are not helpful for the hog market: During the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's Day periods, many families will be eating turkey — fresh-roasted and left-over. Supplies of beef will be at record-breaking levels, and there may be more broilers than ever before at this time of the year.

There are two favorable factors in the outlook for hog prices: Personal income is up nearly 10 percent from a year ago, and consumers have been showing a growing demand for pork during the last few years.

Looking ahead six months, the spring-to-summer price advance may be small. Statistical reports by the USDA indicate that many hog producers are planning to increase production. Much of any increase will be fall pigs, ones ready for market during the second quarter.

Larger supplies next year.

The reports turned in to the USDA by farmers indicate intentions to increase fall and winter farrowings by 4 percent. But in previous years, actual increases often were greater than the reported intentions. Furthermore, there has been an unusually long and favorable period for hog producers. So, we expect the actual increase in hog production to be more than 4 percent — probably 6 to 8 percent, maybe 10.

The prospective increase in hog production will put a heavy load on hog prices in the last quarter of 1969 and in the first half of 1970.

Upset Over Movement Of Wilson Marina

LUCAS — Lucas residents are upset over the impending loss of the marina operated by Dave Campbell, of Beverly, on their side of the Wilson lake.

It will be moving to the Wilson state park area on the other side of the lake.

The move will eliminate the pontoon boat storage and trailer park area now enjoyed by Lucas residents.

There will be pontoon boat storage, but it won't be as convenient, residents said.

Campbell expressed his willingness to maintain both sites if he could get permission from the Army Engineers to amend a 25-year lease he now has with the agency.

The lease calls for nothing less than complete concession facilities by Campbell.

But Campbell said that there isn't enough business on the Lucas side to support complete marina facilities in addition to those in the Wilson area.

It is either complete concession facilities or none, engineers officials told him. Campbell said that he had negotiated a lease with the state park department for the Wilson Lake park area because it provides a better-protected harbor, better terrain for a sales and service building, higher use in terms of population and other improvements.

DRYERS COST TO $40 LESS DRY BEST

When looking for a clothes dryer, be sure to compare purchase prices. You'll see that flameless electric dryers cost less - up to $40 less - than other types. And this savings will pay for your operating cost of the first 1,000 loads of clothes.

Electric dryers dry best, too. The exact heat and gentle tumbling action provide perfect drying for permanent press fabrics and everything else you wash.

See the flameless electric dryers at your appliance dealer

Experts Advise On Choosing Right Toys For Preschoolers

Parents of preschool youngwell in advance . . . slow car sters face the "toy shop dilemma," all year round - but especially at Christmas is toy selection perplexing. How do you select the right toys for a fast-growing youngster? Will they hold his interest? Will they help develop new skills and creativity? Are they safe? Will he think they are fun?

Toys do more than merely amuse a child — they're the tools he learns with during his preschool days. To help parents make the right decisions in this important area, specialists in developing toys for preschool children suggest several basic guides to toy selection.

Be certain that the toys you select are the right ones for the particular age of the child. They should match his stage of physical and mental growth. A toy that is too complicated is frustrating; one that is too simple will not hold his interest.

All your child's toys should b€ well-constructed; wooden toys should be close-grained with rounded corners and sanded surfaces to prevent splinters. Make certain that paint is nontoxic. See that the toys are sturdy enough to withstand the child's energy.

A proper "mix" in toy selection is important . . . some to aid mental growth, some for physical development and some to widen his social scope.

With the proper selection of the "right toys for every age," parents can help a child become an adult for whom learning will always be fun.

A meeting to include bankers and farm leaders is scheduled for mid-January.

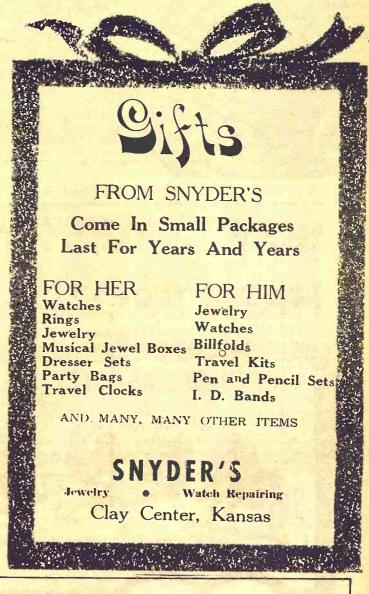

Federal officials said the iprigation project would be completed without building a single dam, reservoir or tapping any local underground water supply.

The system would start at the confluence of Gypsum Creek and the Smoky Hill River a few miles west of Solomon and coveast to Junction City.

The water would come from the planned overflow of the Wilson Reservoir northeast of Russell, and be fed into the irrigation system through the Saline and Smoky Hill rivers.

Federal officials said the area to be served includes some of the most fertile bottomland in the state, which has been primarily wheat and alfalfa producing area.

The article "Wheat Farmers Fooling About Prices" in the Nov. 26 G&G is the most ridiculous statement that a man could ever make. One would think that a man such as Anson Horning could figure better than that. I'm afraid that he doesn't understand the present government program we are now under as wheat farmers.

now under as wheat farmers.

I don't believe there is a farmer in the U.S. that received $2.65 a bushel for his whole wheat crop. Never was it mentioned that those certificates we are now receiving from the government were only on 45% of a set average yield we have on our wheat allotment. You can bet your bottom dollar if you raise 35 to 40 bushel yields on your land, then take 45% of a 28 to 30

Heaviest Smokers In U.S.

Americans are still the world's heaviest smokers of cigarettes even though fear of lung cancer is keeping consumption below the 1963 level, the British to-bacco Industry Research Council said today.

The council said U.S. consumption averaged 3680 cigarettes per adult last year. Canada was second with 3450 and Britain third with 2830, even though the Briton pays the equivalent of 73 cents for a standard pack of 20.

The council said the cancer scare first affected sales in 1964.

Turn Idle Acres To Gardens?

Intensified research, which hopefully will lead by the 1970's to greater use of idle Kansas land for specialty crops, was outlined by Dr. F. W. Smith, director of the Kansas experiment station, before fruit and vegetable growers at the annual meeting of their associations in Topeka.

Smith said Kansas, second in the nation in the amount of cultivated land, annually has 10 million acres lying idle. Barring four or five million acres of fallow, this leaves a vast amount

Three Western Kansas Co-ops Start Feedlots

GARDEN CITY - In an effort to more economically use an unending suppply of feed grains, to furnish local farmers with adequate feedlot facilities, and to take advantage of new local packing plant facilities, three Southwest Kansas grain cooperatives are expanding to establish feedlot operations.

The three cooperatives, all in different stages of establishing the new operations, are the Montezuma Co-op Exchange, the Garden City Co-op Equity Exchange and the Johnson Co-operative Grain Company.

"We look on this (the feedlots) as a real service to our local members who have cattle they want to feed out," said Mick Friesen, manager of the Johnson cooperative.

"And we can't see the point in paying freight charges to sell our feed grains to eastern or Pacific Coast markets when we can use them here to feed out cattle profitably."

Friesen said the three Stanton County locations of the cooperative handled over a million bushels of corn in 1968.

George Voth, manager of the Garden City cooperatives, said an additional consideration was the extra income for the cooperatives, income which has been depleted over the last few years due to loss of storage income.

At Montezuma, Dale Allen, coop manager, said a third advantage would be supplying new packing plants at Liberal, Garden City, and Guymon, Okla., with quality beef as well as furnishing beef for older local plants.

"They are moving the packing plants out to the farmers now, and we should be certain that we can take advantage of this move by fattening enough stock to help insure them an adequate supply," Allen said.

The three cooperatives are in different stages of progress on the feedlots.

Much of Ft. Riley Back To Germany

Nearly 11,090 men in the 24th Infantry Division now at Fort Riley will be leaving the post early in January for extensive maneuvers in Germany.

The troops of the 24th will comprise the bulk of the forces going to Germany involving about 15,000 men and four jet fighter squadrons.

In announcing the moved-up maneuvers, the Pentagon also said the rotation policy of the 24th Division has been changed. Instead of rotating the one brigade left there when two brigades were brought in here last summer the brigade in Germany will stay there.

The maneuvers are slated for January and February but the announcement did not say exactly when they would end.

The Army and Air Force units involved were withdrawn from Germany last summer and returned to the United States in a move to reduce the balance of payments problem.

Their airlift return to Europe for exercises was moved up to an earlier date as one of a series of U.S. military moves designed to bolster the readiness of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the face of the Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia and increased tensions in Central Europe.

The Army units, including two brigades of the 24th Infantry Division, will return to the United States after completing the said it seemed likely that most of the troops from the post would be moved from Forbes Air Force Base in Topeka. He emphasized, however, that in contrast to some other mass movements of troops emphasis will be on "orderly disposition of forces rather than speed of deployment."

The Army elements will be landed at Frankfurt and Munich, it was reported. The major part of the exercises will be near Grafenwoehr, one of the largest training areas in Germany. It is utilized by both U.S. and German forces. A major part of the maneuvers is reported to be an air-mobile exercise. There also will be a two-sided field exercise near Hoenfels.

Problems With Pictographs As World Gets Smaller

In five years Deere & Co. has more than doubled its sales of tractors and implements overseas. Other machinery makers are also finding the overseas market a major way of increasing sales.

Obviously, and English "forward," "reverse," and "oil pressure stamped or printed doesn't serve as much of a direction to an Italian, Vietnamese, or South

There is no practicality either in giving operating instructions in the languages of all of the 100 countries in which a tractor may

The solution — thus far only partly successful - has been the use of symbols to transcend Greatly increased commerce and travel have forced the development of communication that bypasses conventional language.

"No Smoking"

As these three signs illustrate, there are communications problems in symbols too. Each of these signs means "no smoking," at least to the designer.

The hope of communications experts, of course, is that a single symbol can be accepted all over the world and be understood at a glance.

The problems of getting all nations to accept the same signs are perhaps as great as those of making a symbol unmistakable in its meaning.

"Men"

"Women"

For instance, at Montreal's Expo 67 these two signs were used to mark men's and women's toilets. Unfortunately, some Europeans viewed the woman's dress as a man's trenchcoat.

"Fragile"

"Keep Out"

Another sign that has become rather universal as a pictograph for "fragile" was said to have been misunderstood by some east African dockworkers as meaning broken glass, so they threw several cases of glassware overboard.

Another example at Expo 67 was the silhouette of the open palm on certain doors to indicate "do not enter." some people apparently figured the sign meant "place your hand here and push" and entered a room where they didn't belong.

The symbols used at Montreal's Expo were not the ones used at San Antonio's Hemis-Fair this year, and a complete new set was used at the Olympics at Mexico City.

Another set yet was used at the Olympics at Tokyo in 1964, three of which below show dining area, drinking fountain and shower.

"Dining Area"

"Shower" Fountain"

One designer who thinks pictographs are not suitable for universal application but that a set of abstract symbols must be devised is C. K. Bliss, an Australian chemical engineer, who has designed symbols like these to indicate "telephone" and "rest-

"Restaurant" "Telephone" aurant." These symbols are like hieroglyphics and require the reader to learn the symbols. Critics think the reader might as well learn another language as an abstract set of symbols.

There are some hopeful signs in symbol-making, though. Deere's operational symbols have been adopted by the American Society for Agricultural Engineers as its standard for all farm equipment. Some other equipment makers are considering adopting them as well.

Tough Season For Dehydrators

A disappointing season throughout the industry was noted by managers of the National Alfalfa Dehydrating & Milling Co. of Kansas City, which reported a sales decline from $4.5 million to $3.6 million for the six months ended October 31.

National said its tonnage volume had increased, and the crop in dollar volume reflected a decline in the average dehydrated alfalfa market price. National said it had a net loss of $552,000 for the six months compared to a $248,000 profit for the first six months of the year before.

Officials of the company say market prices were as much as $10 a ton advanced from the lows of last summer but still are under a year ago. Considerable bullishness prevails in the entire feedstuffs market because of the lower-than-expected corn

A combination of factors contributed to the unsatisfactory report from National. These included the drop in the dehydrated alfalfa market to the lowest

December 10, 1968 level in years while the the basic material was slightly lower; record sup of feed ingredients, heavy duction of dehydrated coming at a time when over stocks from the pren season were sharply about year earlier, and open grain conditions extending well the fall that curtailed de for formula feed rations

one of many

Fertilizer is a bargain - maybe the biggest bargain of anything a farmer buys, Jay Treat says. It costs about the same today per actual pound of plant food as it did 25 years ago.

Most other things farmers buy have doubled or tripled in cost since World War II. For example, land prices have soared from an average of $25 to $125 per acre in Kansas between 1940 and 1965, and are even higher

There are good reasons why fertilizer prices are holding the line, Treat points out:

Fertilizer is much more concentrated now. For example, 11-48-0 and 12-36-12 are typical formulations used on many farms today, compared to 2-12-6 and 4-12-4 which were common in the early 1940's. This means less shipping, storage, and handling costs of actual plant food.

Much larger volumes are produced now, and this lowers the cost of fertilizer production. Technological developments in fertilizer manufacturing. Stiffer competition for the booming trade in fertilizer. Treat believes many Kansas farmers, particularly in the central and eastern parts of the state, aren't taking advantage. of all this. The greatest net profit from using fertilizer comes from using it up to the point where the last 25 pounds or so increases average yields just enough to cover the costs of that 25 pounds, he points out.

The old saying that "fertilizer will burn up a crop" is pretty much a fallacy these days, the economist adds. In fact, fertilizer pays its biggest dividends during some of the moderately dry years. For example, phosphate speeds up early root growth, resulting in healthier plants which are better able to stand up against the drought.

Farmers usually spend liberally on equipment, seed, fuel, and other things to do what is within their power to produce a good crop - except for fertiliz-

Treat's answer: Use the same application rate each year based on the average normal rainfall.

The cost of seedbed preparation, planting, cultivation, and harvesting is about the same whether the crop makes 10 or 100 bushels per acre, he says. Farmers in Farm Management Association No. 6 (southeastern Kansas) spent about $24 an acre for these four items in 1967. compared to only $6 for fertilizer and lime.

In other words, they go 80 to 90 percent of the way, cost-wise, and then cut a cost that is required for a good crop, Treat

NFO Eyes Organizing Arkansas Broiler Growers

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Difficult passage for any farm legislation in the 91st Congress was predicted in closing hours of the National Farmers Organization Convention in St. Louis.

Harry Graham, former legislative representative for National Grange, told the 10,000 NFO members the House Agriculture Committee is likely to become more conservative. Development of a battle between the committee and the rest of the House would endanger any farm legislation.

Delegates re-elected national officers and adopted resolutions for activities in the next year.

Oren Lee Staley, Rea, Mo., was named to his 11th term as

Other speakers in the final session were Walt Miller, president of Ontario Farmers Union, and Jeff Hanlon, National Future Farmers of America president from Oregon.

Graham said some agricultural legislation might be forced to bypass the House Agriculture Committee but this would be detrimental to the likelihood of good legislation being passed.

 Sought prohibition of use of is the result of several factors, including an anti-labor attitude, unwillingness to vote a food stamp program, failure to take a strong consumer protective position, and unfavorable publicity given to large payments to some farmers for participation in the program.

He praised NFO actions in collective bargaining and said the moves have forced widespread adjustment in organization and functioning of existing cooperatives organized to meet conditions of half a century ago. Meanwhile, NFO has developed to meet present conditions, he said.

With a self-confident air, the NFO delegation passed resolutions to guide its policies in extending marketing contracts in the meat and grain fields.

In a change from their traditional stance on commodities, the delegates voted to organize and bargain for fair prices in specialized commodities. This would allow the organization to move into the poultry broiler production field.

Broiler growers from Arkansas have sought membership in

In a resolution urging congress to establish food reserves, the delegates asked that prices for corn be not less than $1.50 per bushel, soybeans $3 and wheat $2 with no sales of reserves at less than 100 per cent of purchase price.

One resolution from the floor overrode the recommendations of the resolutions committee. The delegates voted strongly in objection to any gun-control laws which "might disarm the American people."

Other Resolutions:

• Favored a secretary of agriculture and department oriented to the interests of the American farmer.

 Supported continuation of the Commodity Credit Corporation non-recourse loan program.

 Asked that crop estimate reports not be published by USDA until 15 days before the start of harvest.

 Favored expanding trade negotiations aimed at maintaining a fair share of world trade for the United States.

 Asked minimum support prices of $1.25 per bushel for corn, $2.50 for soybeans and $1.45 for wheat with comparable prices for other grains.

• Favored legislation requiring grain alcohol gasoline for internal combustion engine to reduce air pollution.

• Sought amendment of Packers and Stockyards Act allow USDA to prohibit "yes cal integration" of processor and handlers of agricultural commodities.

• Favored change of the Wholesale Meat Act allowing locker and freezer plants to erate outside of that law.

• Sought prohibition of used meat from diseased and disable animals for pet food.

 Favored more strict regularies. tion on farm commodity in ports.

Domestic Wheat Use To Exceed Export Level

For the first time in almost 10 years, use of wheat for domestic purposes in the United States has exceeded that exported.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that between 730 and 780 million bushels will be consumed at home, while exports will fall short of the predicted 750 million bushels.

Since the 1960-61 crop season, exports have been larger than domestic usage. The shift this year results from an increased | wheat.

amount of wheat used as livestock feed, as well as a falling off in foreign demand for U.S.

crops get started with deep root systems, and reduce the need for early irrigations.

Bergsrud cites two factors to be considered in off-season irrigation - when to apply water and how much water to apply. The goal is to have 4 to 6 feet of soil profile supplied with moisture by planting time.

Clay and silt soils can hold about 2 inches of water per foot and will store 8 to 10 inches in the top 4 to 6 feet. However, about 12 to 16 inches of water should be applied figuring the application efficiency at 70 per-

Sandy soils hold about half as much moisture as clay or silt soils, so the amount of water applied should be cut accordingly. These figures assume no natural precipitation, so, therefore, adjust to allow some natural winter or spring moisture if offseason watering is done now.

Fall and early winter pre-irrigation is generally preferred to spring application, Bergsrud says. The only problem is that the amount of water needed in the fall can't be as accurately predicted. He gives these advantages of fall application:

1) Winter freezing and thawing is more effective in mellowing the soil when it is moist, to produce a better seedbed.

2) Spring irrigation is likely to compete with alfalfa and wheat for water supplies and with field operations for labor.

3) When rains come just prior to planting, fields will dry out much faster if pre-irrigation was done in the fall rather than

BULLS FOR SALE

An opportunity to select and buy one of our Outstanding Herefords the private treaty way

Au Invitation from Bill Amstein

Again this year we plan to sell most of our production privately at the ranch. We do, however, intend to consign to the Dodge City range bull sale where we had the Champion Bull and Reserve Pen last year at the Moline Spring Sale.

We MUST make our consignments to this Dodge City sale by Dec. 20. Because of this and because we would like our area customers to have first choice of our bulls.

our area customers to have first choice of our bulls we invite you, our discriminating bull buyers . . . to make your selections now.

You can take delivery between now and grass time.

You can take delivery between how and grass time. We have attended several sales this fall, and honestly believe we have as good an offering of bulls this year as we have seen selling elsewhere. We have been told by several cattlemen who have looked through our bulls that they are the best we've ever had and betten then any sold they are the best we've ever had and better than any sold

We know these bulls have more size for age on less feed than any set of bulls we have raised before. PROFIT POTENTIAL FOR YOU.

These bulls are two years old now and this coming spring. We have complete performance data to help you down the profit road with high gaining, muscular Herefords.

Visit the Amstein Ranch in the next 2 weeks and examine 30 bulls.

Under a Total Performance Program that is producing results, we are confident that we can now provide our customers with more profitable Herefords. We invite you to stop by for a visit anytime.

Bottle Auctioneer

Hill City auctioneer Willard Riggs decided that a current mania for collecting bottles could be used to help antique sales along so he advertised in a collectors magazine for old fruit jars.

An Essex, England, firm saw the ad and sent a couple of small consignments. Both sold well. Then came another shipment from England, this time on a special trucking rig, containing 12,572 pounds of bottles.

When Riggs finished the unpacking he had were then 105

When Riggs finished the unpacking, he had more than 125 varieties of rare bottles from all parts of England. Riggs started moving some of the bottles at a sale last week, but he figures he has enough to last quite a few sales.

A Canadian firm recently wrote, saying they were sending a consignment of fruit jars. Riggs doesn't know the size of the shipment, but he's hoping for something considerably less than the same shipment.

Richard W. Blake, executive Beet Growers Federation, Greevice president of National Sugar ley, Colo., told growers that unless brakes are applied on the 1969 plantings, growers will find themselves with a depressed market for their product.

It could even create a slump market as bad as producers had in 1964 and 1965 "when we found ourselves with surplus sugar on our hands," he said.

Grower representatives had urged Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to place acreage restrictions on the 1969 sugar beet crop last July when growers testified at a USDA hearing in Denver.

The request was denied and the Department of Agriculture placed no restrictions on acreage production next year.

Mrs Paul Glatt, Owner

Auctioneers: Carl & Wm. Schnell Karl Harshman, Clerk First National Bank, Abilene, Cashier about 350 persons at the annual convention of the Kansas Association of Soil Conservation Districts in Wichita, "Right now we are just beginning the most dynamic, explosive, revolutionary, social, political and economic upheaval in all of agriculture's history."

The coming changes will require much more activity by farm groups, Harms said, "or you and the rest of the farmers are going to be run over by socalled nonfarm outside interests."

Farmers as a group used to have great political power, he said, but they will have little to say about agricultural programs in the future. Farmers will have to join with nonfarm groups with political power to get programs they need, he said.

"Agricultural power clearly is going to the businessman on either side of the farmer, the businesses selling production goods to farmers, and those who buy handle and distribute food commodities - the so-called agribusinessmen," he said. These powers, he added, will not be stopped, but their aims can be modified by "stronger and smarter farm groups."

"If you think Congress is going to pass big new laws on farmer bargaining for wheat or any other grain, better forget it.

"Consumer groups and agribusiness interests won't let it happen," he said.

The new federal administration will do its best to bring prosperity to rural America, Harms said, but stressed no political party is accountable for farm trends. He charged that Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture, has switched from "going all-out for farmers" to supporting a "cheap food policy" that keeps the farmer from getting enough for his products.

Factors working against continuance of small family operated farms, Harms said, are the growing economy and increasing efficiency making bigger operations more practical; the decline in farm population; reapportionment of voting distbase, and a realignment in geographic voting patterns such as the rise of the suburban voting block and the decline of the South's one-party system.

Another coming influence toward breaking up farmers' power as a bloc, Harms said, is the fact that "this country is going to embark on a vastly expanded rural development program this will go hand-in-hand with urban development. To the extent this keeps failing farmers in rural areas, and more important, to the extent it brings in new people and new industries, ricts with loss in farm political the farmers' local and state influence will be further diluted."

Monday Sale This weeks sale found fewer cattle due mostly to muddy and wet roads and corrals. However, we had a wide selection of all classes, except for lightweight stocker steers or stocker and feeder heifers. It was a very active market with everything selling quick and easy. We could have sold a lot more calves, yearlings and feeders. The feeder steer sold fully 50 ¢ higher, stocker yearlings looked steady, heavy calves active and fully steady; light weight calves 50 to 75¢ higher. Butcher cows sold 50¢ higher, and bulls sold 50 ¢ lower.

For next week already consigned are 30 to 40 head of steer and heifer calves out of a reputation herd of Shorthorn cows and an Angus bull, 40 head of wf. and black wf. steers, 750 lbs. coming off of wheat and rye pasture; 90 head of black steers, 775 lbs., off wheat pasture, plus several small and odd lot consignments. We expect a lot more of all weights and classes by Monday sale day.

Whether buying or selling cattle it pays to do so at GLASCO LIVESTOCK, the best buyers, country fresh consignments, and the professional cattle market. For information to buy or sell call us; to help you with your marketing satisfactorily is our profession.

In The Midst Of Split City

C. F. (Red) Thomoson, right, has been the center of a simmering rift in Herington which has led to a public hearing, the filing of a recall petition, a petition seeking a grand jury investigation of the city government, and a $200,000 libel suit. Mayor John Nagely, left, has been trying to stay neutral in the controversy, started when Thompson ran as a "reform" candidate for the city commission and with disagreements over turning back will be completed by a stay of the city commission. utility meters by city employees, which one faction says has been a longtime practice in the town.

Weathermen Standardize Their Winter Terms

The Weather Bureau doesn't want to snow anybody this winter, or even cloud the issues, so for Kansas weatherwatchers it has provided definitions of Key terms to be used in winter forecasts.

The U.S. Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA), whose name is as complex as its variety of functions, is responsible for maintaining warning systems for all types of natural hazards.

In winter weather forecasts this year, "watch" and "warning" will be used as they have been used in tornado forecasts. Standard throughout the nation, they replace such terms as "provisional snow warning."

The term "watch" will be used "to alert the public that a storm has formed and is approaching the area," weathermen said. "People in the alerted area should keep listening to the latest Weather Bureau advice on radio and television and begin to take precautionary meas-

CROWDS TOO BIG AT STORE OPENING

CONCORDIA - Crowds at the opening of a Gibson discount store here were so large that police had to be summoned to limit the number of people entering the store.

The stronger term, "warning," will mean "a storm is imminent and immediate action to protect life and property should begin."

Some of the more common weather terms also were ex-

"The word 'snow' in a forecast, without a qualifying word such as 'occasional' or 'intermittent,' means the fall is of a steady nature and will probably continue for several hours without letup," weathermen said.

"Heavy snow," they said, "means a fall of four inches or more is expected in a 12-hour period, or a fall of six inches or more is expected in a 24-hour period."

The definition of whether snow is just "snow" or is "heavy snow" will vary over the nation, depending on whether such snow deposits are common or

On a sterner scale, "blizzard" is characterized by winds with speeds of at least 35 miles an hour, with considerable snow, and temperatures of 20 or lower for an extended period of time. "Severe blizzard" is stepped up to "blizzard of extreme proportions with wind speeds of at lears 45 miles an hour," plus a great density of snow and temperatures of 10 or lower.

The milder "snow flurries" are defined as "snow falling for short durations at intermittent period," with generally small accumulations.

"Snow squalls" are "brief intense falls of snow comparable to summer rain showers. They are accompanied by gusty surface winds."

"Blowing and drifting snow" which generally occur together "result from strong winds and falling of loose snow on the ground," weathermen said. Horizontal visibility is greatly reduced, authorities said.

In the northern plains, "the combination of blowing and drifting snow after a substantial snowfall has ended is often referred to as a ground blizzard," weathermen said.

To warn the public of ice on the ground and road surfaces, the Weather Bureau uses the terms "ice storm," "freezing rain," and "freezing drizzle." The qualifying term "heavy" warns of accumulations that may damage trees and overhead panied by high winds, weathermen said.

"Sleet" is described as "frozen rain drops" which bounce on the ground. "Cold wave" indicates a rapid fall in temperature within a 24-hour period which will require substantially increased protection to agricultural and other activities.

Light is a by-product of heat lamps, but adds to their usefulness. Infrared rays - long, radiant heat waves - are produced in the lamps, and a 250-watt heat lamp gives off about the same light as a 1000-watt light

Infrared lamps are available in 125, 250, and 375-watt sizes in soft glass (white) and 250 and 375 watt sizes in hard glass (red). Their normal life is about 5000 hours. The red bulbs (hard glass) are more expensive but safer because most will withstand water splashes when hot.

Follow safety precautions when using heat lamps. Use corcelain sockets if the lamps are on for continuous or long burning periods. Brass and most plastic sockets will be unable to stand the heat. Never support the heat lamp by the cord in a December 10, 1968

brooding area - use a wire or

Also, don't operate more than six 250-watt lamps on a 15 ampere (No. 14 wire) circuit or more than eight 250-watt lamps on a 20 amp (No. 12 wire) circuit, Holmes cautions. No fire on a farm has ever been traced to a properly-used heat lamp,

JUCO TO BUILD WITHOUT FEDERAL AID

Federal funds or not, Independence Junior College will build a new campus. Application for federal aid has been turned down, but school officials say they will start construction without the assistance. The junior college presently shares facilities with the Independence high school.

Store Milk Prices Higher Elsewhere

Prices on milk in the larger towns of the G&G area are more favorable for the consumer than they are in many other cities in the U.S.

Prices of 49 cents a half gallon on private label and 51 cents on name brands are common in the more competitive towns in the G&G area. In a place or two the price may be down as low as 47 cents.

Prices in Tulsa last week were 57 cents and 63 cents; in Houston 62 cents; Louisville 52 cents; St. Louis 55 and 57 cents; and Jacksonville, Fla., 65 cents.

Prices to farmers in these areas are about the same as they are in the G&G area.

Not all of the G&G area, however, shares in half-gallon milk prices at the 50-cent level. Prices west of Salina generally tend to get higher, and milk prices are highest in the state in the southwest, where 57 to 60 cents per gallon are not uncommon.

PRATT FEEDLOT TO 30,000-HEAD CAPACITY

Pratt Feedlot Inc. will increase its capacity from 20,000 head to 30,000 head on feed at one time, says Robert Farmer, president of the corporation. Farmer says the feedlot has already been responsible for a 25 cent a hundredweight premium on feed grains paid in the area. The Pratt Feedlot is on concrete runways of a onetime air base here.

AMA Pressure To Enforce Antibias

ination but it had never set up a system to enforce the stand among member state and county medical societies.

Under the plan, a state society can be censured or - in the case of repeated violations even removed from the AMA.

Because medical society membership is often a prerequisite to "house privileges" - the right to practice in a hospital - the Negro physicians often weren't able to admit their patients to a local hospital.

Tibbs Movie At Council Grove

One of the first showings of a documentary movie of a wild horse roundup, "Born To Buck," will be shown in the G&G area at Council Grove this week, starting Wednesday.

Sam Curry, owner of the Ritz theatre at Council Grove, says that Casey Tibbs, a producerdirector of the movie, is well known in the area as a onetime performer at the Strong City rodeo and a friend of Ken Rob. erts of Strong City and Gerald Roberts of Abilene, brothers who were onetime star performers on the rodeo circuit.

Twice winner of the all-around cowboy title, Tibbs retired from rodeo in 1959 and turned to the entertainment field. This is his first movie. It is narrated by Henry Fonda and Rex Al-

es of far northern, low grade

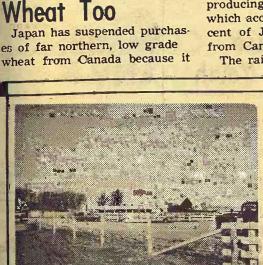

has received a rain-damaged shipment, the Japanese food agency said.

The agency said the suspension applies only to low grade wheat which is used largely for producing livestock feed, and which accounts for about 15 per cent of Japan's wheat imports from Canada.

The rain-damaged shipment was received in the latter part of November. It was described as a 13,000 ton shipment of Manitoba Number 4 wheat.

The move follows the recent suspension of purchases of virtually all grades of U.S. wheat for a similar reason. The suspensions have led to an increase in Japan's wheat purchases from Australia.

Beech Travel Air Off Production Line

One of the most famous private planes produced, the Travel Air, has been taken off the production line at the Beech Aircraft plant at Wichita. The name has been used for over 40 years, since 1958 as the light twin pictured at bottom.

Travel Air was used in a company name of a firm founded by Walter Beech, Lloyd Stearman and Clyde Cessna in Wichita in 1924. It was the first mass-produced aircraft in the U.S. with a welded steel fuselage.

Later a monoplane billed as the "limousine of the air" also used the Travel Air name. A model R version of the Travel Air was the first civilian plane to defeat military aircraft in speed competition in 1929. The average speed in a 50-mile race was 195 miles per hour.

Beech picked up the Travel Air name again in 1958, building a 4 or 5-place light twin with the same fuselage configuration as the famed Bonanza but with a straight tail similar to the Beech military trainer rather than the familiar V-tail of the Bonanza.

The plane sold for under $50,000 most of the years it was in production, though the last models cost $53,500. In all 719 units were produced, before Beech took it off the line because a larger, racier model, the B55 Baron, markedly outsold it.
