18-Year-Olds In Tennessee Can Buy Beer, Booze

Tennessee, until four years ago a stronghold of antiliquor forces, has given 18-year-olds the right to buy beer and liquor—by the drink, by the can or by the bottle.

Only two other states—Louisiana and New York—have legalized liquor sales for 18-year-olds.

This latest in a series of quiet moves toward liberalizing the state's liquor laws took effect when Gov. Winfield Dunn signed into law a bill giving 18-year olds adult rights and responsibilities.

The 1971 Legislature passed the law with little opposition—and none at all, so far as can be determined, from traditional "dry" forces in the state. The measure was designed mainly to give 18-year-olds responsibilities in line with their also being granted the right to vote in a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The legislature ratified the amendment.

Questions were raised as to whether these rights and responsibilities included the consumption of beer and liquor, but Collins Bond, assistant attorney general, said they do.

"It is my opinion that said act enables 18-year-olds to legally purchase, consume and possess alcoholic beverages and malt beverages," Bond wrote, "and to be employed in establishments engaged in said business."

Since the 1967 municipal-option law went into effect, the number of cities and counties where liquor sales are legal has been growing steadily.

That law gave residents of Tennessee municipalities the right to vote to legalize package liquor sales without the normally "dry" vote of the surrounding counties. Since that time 13 Tennessee cities have begun legal package liquor sales—and one of them, Johnson City, has voted to retain such sales.

In addition both Davidson-Nashville and Shelby-Memphis Counties have approved sales of cocktails—and Dunn also signed a law recently that permits possession of up to a gallon of legally purchased liquor in "dry" counties.

Not everyone, however, welcomed the prospect that 18-year-olds now can buy alcoholic beverages.

No Bloom On Peach Crop In Southern States

The Agriculture department announced that peach production this year in nine Southern states is forecast at 565.4 million pounds, down eight per cent from 1970 and 23 per cent less than in 1969.

"Spring freezes reduced the 1971 crop potential in all states except Arkansas and Louisiana, where growers expect a bigger harvest than last season," the Crop Reporting board said.

No Used Car Lots For Airplanes With Empty Seats

What does an airline do when it cannot sell all the seats on the plane? Sometimes it tries instead to sell the aircraft itself.

It's no joke. Many of the major airlines have men circling the globe trying to get rid of older but highly functional equipment — and even considering deals for some of the latest models.

Their activities suggest not so much the distress of the airlines — although there is much of that — as the nature of the business: it is cyclical, volatile. Market size varies. Often the airlines have too much "lift."

Excess lift is like empty office space in a building or unused capacity in a factory. Business economies dictate that if the space can't be filled it be rented, sold or eliminated.

Jay Dettman, in charge of surplus sales for United Airlines, descended for a few minutes the other day to explain his operation.

"We have 388 craft in service," he said, "and an indefinite number of them are for sale."

Dettman, who travels 250,000 miles a year, insists that until lift excess is eliminated, "I can talk a deal for any of our aircraft, including the new 747s."

He concedes it is highly unlikely he will ever sell a 747 outright. But he may consider leasing one, perhaps to another airline, until business improves, which he believes will inevitably happen.

Most of the sales, however are for craft that no longer suit the company's purposes, but which are in excellent condition. Caravelle jets, for example, seat only 64 and no longer are economical on many of United's runs.

Still, they are likely to be in as good condition as when purchased because airlines have a continual maintenance program. United, for example, claims that all its jets are, in effect, renewed each 12,000 to 15,000 hours.

This makes them suitable for some smaller airlines and shorter runs, and so they often represent a tremendous bargain. A Caravelle that cost 3.25 million to 3.5 million dollars 10 years ago now sells for $550,000, before being outfitted for its new job.

United has 13 of them, pickled in chemicals and stored at Cheyenne, Wyo. One Caravelle recently was sold to a major industrial company and Dettman believes similar sales represent a growing potential.

"In propeller days," he said, "corporations had large planes, but when the big jets were introduced they couldn't afford them. That's when producers of smaller jets moved into the market with 6 and 8-seat craft."

The biggest jet made specifically for corporation purposes seats 19 and costs about 3 million dollars. A much larger Caravelle, completely custom redesigned inside, may cost much less than 1 million dollars.

Geary 4-H Team 2nd In Land Judging Contest

A 4-H team from Geary County placed second among 24 teams in the 4-H division of the International Land, Pasture and Range Judging Contest in Oklahoma City during the past weekend.

Members of the top-ranking team from Kansas, reports Harold B. Harper, Extension specialist, soil conservation, Kansas State University, were Harold Roesler, Ronnie Strauss, Keith Boller, and Charles Collins. Nelson Stroud, Geary County Extension agricultural agent, was team coach. Ronnie was fourth high individual judge in the land division. The Barber County 4-H team ranked seventh in range judging.

The vocational agriculture team from Linn High School placed third in the FFA land judging division. Members of the team were Dennis Wiechman, Phil Olson, Phil Balch, and Steve Wieter. Don Flenthrope, Linn High School FFA advisor, was team coach. Sixty-five FFA teams entered the contest and 30 states were represented in the 20th annual event.

May 18, 1971

Harper; Walter E. Selby, Extension agricultural engineer, KSU; and Dean Prochaska, state department of vocational agricultural education, assisted with the contest.

Kansas 4-H and FFA teams for the contest are selected at five district events each year.

NO-FAULT INSURANCE HAS NO APPEAL TO LAWYERS

No-fault auto insurance may be getting backing from several sources, but it doesn't appeal to Kansas lawyers. The Kansas Bar Association at its annual meeting at Kansas City last week approved a resolution opposing the "no-fault" insurance setup.

Texas Charolais Sale Grosses Over $4 Million

A Charolais female sale at Roanoke, Texas, in late April produced a $4 million sale, with 1230 females belonging to the Nelson Bunker Hunt's NB Ranches averaging $3322.

There were a total of 128 buyers from 24 states, three Canadian provinces, and the Bahamas at the 4-day sale which dispersed the cow herds of the NB Ranches: Roanoke and Terrell locations.

One buyer — Transworld Inc. of Shorter, Ala., spent nearly a half-million dollars at the sale, buying 80 lots for $463,150, including the sale's three top individuals which totaled $75,000.

The top seller, a 6-year old full French cow, brought $35,000 from Transworld.

There were three other buyers who shelled out close to a quarter-million dollars each for Charolais — D.A. Biglane, Natchez, Miss., 80 lots for $277,750; El Rancho Del Rio of Albuquerque, N.M., 66 lots for $235,250; and Melody Brand Ranch of East Camden, Ark., 71 lots for $212,300.

Among other major buyers who spent over $100,000 each were N.H. Newton, Cameron, Tex.; Rudiger Holdings Ltd., Calgary, Alberta; L.F. McCollum, Houston, Texas; R.F. Dowd, Texarkana, Tex.; Lonnie Dunn, Houston; and Angle S. Ranch, Dell City, Okla.

Truman Turns Down Medal From Congress

Plans by some members of Congress to award the Congressional Medal of Honor to former President Harry Truman on his 87th birthday were changed by the former president himself.

Writing to Missouri congressman William Randall, said he would not accept the medal as some members of Congress have proposed.

"In the first place," Mr. Truman wrote, "I do not consider that I have done anything which should be the reason of any award, congressional or otherwise."

"Next, the Congressional Medal of Honor was instituted for combat service. This is as it should be and to deviate by giving it for any other reason lessens and dilutes its true significance. Also it would detract from those who have received the award because of their combat service."

Area Towns Get Notices To Improve Sewage Handling

The State Health Department has served notice to 15 Kansas cities and a state agency warning them they must stop discharging sludge from their water softening plants into rivers and streams.

The notices from Melville Gray, director of the environmental health services division of the health department, informed the cities and the agency they must find alternate disposal methods by Dec. 31, 1975.

That date is the time by which Kansas municipalities and industries must meet new state water quality standards adopted by the State Board of Health at the insistence of the federal government.

Cities receiving the notices were Topeka, Wichita, Lawrence, Beloit, Junction City, Ellsworth, Leavenworth, Hoisington, Garnett, Pittsburg, Fort Scott, Cherryvale, Iola and Neodesha.

A notice also was sent to the Kansas Park and Resources Authority pertaining to its Tuttle Creek Reservoir operation.

Gray said the material precipitated from municipal water supplies for softening purposes consists of calcium carbonate, magnesium carbonate, silt and traces of iron and manganese.

Presently, municipalities are dumping the precipitated material back into the sources of their water. Such procedures are in violation of the state's water quality standards.

Gray said he has no estimate of the cost of handling the sludge. Since 1967, the state has required new or remodeled water plants to provide means of eliminating the sludge. Gray said of the state's 200 water softening plants, only 16 have no disposal procedures other than dumping the material back into the water supply.

Slightly more than a month ago, the health department notified municipalities and sewer districts that they must provide secondary sewage treatment and chlorination facilities by Dec. 31, 1975.

Old Crow's good taste begins with men who love to work with their hands.

Anthony Clark has a big responsibility. One false move of his hands and he's mixed the wrong measure of grain for the Old Crow formula. Does he ever miss? The proof is in the good taste of our Bourbon.

1. Clamp hook in fly-tying vise, wrap with thread. 2. Cut wings, tail from feather. Attach to hook. 3. Shape feathers to resemble bug.

Making Bourbon which tastes good, bottle after bottle, made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that took Bourbon-making out of the hit-or-miss category. Later, they handmade the first sour mash Bourbon. We still use our hands in making Old Crow.

After work, most of our men keep on using their hands. Anthony Clark calls on the same craftsmanship mixing grain as he does tying fishing flies.

Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

Similarity In World Food Markets

One can argue whether it is good or bad, but the fact is the entire world is becoming homogeneous, particularly in the demand for food products, in this age of rapid travel and instant communications.

Kenneth K. Krogh, assistant administrator of the foreign agricultural service of the Agriculture department, said people everywhere "are coming to patronize the same global shopping center." He recently discussed that trend at a USDA-sponsored national agricultural marketing conference in Denver.

"Fifteen years ago we thought largely in terms of a world market noted for its diversity of appetites and demands — a market in which even neighboring countries seemed to differ greatly in what they wore, how they built their houses and what they ate," he said.

"But we are waking up to the fact that our overseas markets are not marked by such a diversity after all. Rather we are finding that people the world over are tending to want pretty much the same things in much the same ways."

"Certain regional characteristics tend to persist, but the major differences in the world no longer seem to lie in what people have or want, but in how much of the same things they have and can afford to buy."

"The big difference, to put it simply, really lies in whether people are rich or poor. What we have in short is not so much an international economy as a world economy."

"It is an economy still fragmented in its political institutions. But it is one that is increasingly united in its economic appetites and values."

Krogh told the conference that none of the outstanding examples of what is happening in the world has occurred in Japan. He said that 15 years ago, hoping to build a wheat exporting market in Japan, the USDA began using small kitchen busses in demonstrations of wheat foods to Japanese wives.

"Soon the Japanese themselves took up the idea and outfitted more than 100 such busses for demonstrations on their own throughout the country," he said. "Our wheat sales to Japan since have soared. Traditionally a rice-eating country, Japan has become a major world market for wheat and a multitude of other products as well."

But in Japan as well as other nations introduced to U.S. food products, the market has shifted from a seller's to a buyer's market as other nations with surplus food products to sell have entered the competition.

"We are finding that we are in actual fact involved in a global shopping center operation," he continued. "Everybody is getting into the act. And we have to move fast even to maintain our place in the competitive situation that has developed."

Krogh said it is vital to the nation's economy, particularly the farm sector, that the U.S. does move fast. He pointed out that this year the harvest from one acre in every four in production will move into export. "In pocketbook terms," he added, "This means that about one out of every six dollars the farmer gets from marketing is generated by sales to foreign lands. About 55 per cent of the 1970 soybean crop will be shipped abroad as soybeans or products. More than one-half the wheat crop, two-thirds of the rice crop, a third of the cotton crop and more than one-quarter of the tobacco find outlets abroad.

"All told, we are expecting farm exports this fiscal year to reach a record total of more than 7.4 billion dollars by June 30."

Slowdown In Rise Of U.S. Farm Land Values

Farm land still is increasing in value nationally but at a snail's pace compared with the boom of the mid-1960s, the Agriculture Department says.

The Economic Research Service said in one of its farm real estate survey reports that the total value of the nation's farm land was $213.9 billion on March 1, compared with $208.9 billion a year earlier.

That meant an average price of $199 per acre, a 3 per cent boost from $193 a year earlier. Earlier this year the ERS reported a similar 3 per cent increase for the year ended last Nov. 1.

Along with the Nov. 1 gain, the 3 per cent increase reported for the March 1 year was the smallest since 1961, officials said. Gains of 6 per cent annually were reported 1967-68.

The national averages, however, do not indicate some of the wide variations in farm real estate markets in different areas.

Price changes for the plains states and those extending westward were reported at or below the national average gain. The sharpest declines were reported in Kansas and Arizona, each down 3 per cent from a year earlier.

"Market values of farm land east of the plains are more dependent on nonfarm activity," the report said. "Values in the west are more closely related to potential use of land in agriculture."

Generally, the report added, more farms are being offered for sale than a year ago but buyers are not as plentiful.

FEDERAL BUDGET DEFICIT OF $20 BILLION

Chances now seem likely that the federal government will be $20 billion in the red for the current budget ending June 30. President Nixon in February estimated that the deficit would be $18.6 billion, and last week Budget chief George & Schultz agreed that the loss would be over $19 billion.

More Laboratory Scare On DDT

Government scientists have concluded a suspected link between DDT and human infertility warrants attention but not an immediate ban of the pesticide.

Two Environmental Protection Agency scientists who reviewed DDT experiments with rats said the test failed to demonstrate an imminent hazard to human health.

The tests with rats were conducted by Dr. W. Leroy Heinrichs, a gynecologist, and Dr. Ronald L. Gellert, a physiologist, both of the University of Washington.

The doctors reported an experimental link between DDT and ovarian cysts in offspring of laboratory rats. They said a corresponding condition causing infertility was detected with increasing frequency in women.

As a result of Heinrichs-Gellert findings that DDT might have caused the infertility, EPA launched a study whose results were sent to Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus.

EPA said the report suggests the findings be considered in the continuing review of Ruckelshaus' decision to seek cancellation of all uses of DDT. Ruckelshaus began procedures last March 18 to ban all DDT uses because of suspicions it may cause cancer, mutations and birth defects, at least in experimental animals.

But he allowed DDT to remain on the market during the review, which could take a year or more, because, he said, there was no evidence of imminent hazard to human health — the legal requirement for suspending sale of such chemicals.

Heinrichs and Gellert reported their experiments two weeks later.

Dr. O. Garth Fitzhugh, EPA's toxicology adviser, said in an interview the experiments used a form of DDT to which humans ordinarily receive little exposure.

"I don't think from a practical standpoint it (infertility) would occur in humans," he added. "I see no imminent hazard."

Another EPA pesticides expert, Dr. Cipriano Cuerto, said: "They used a type of material to which we have the least exposure, but even if it were the more common type it still would have been an exaggerated dosage."

Heinrichs said last month DDT in his experiments caused a defect in the part of a rat's nervous system which sets the pattern of hormone production, ultimately affecting the ovaries.

In human beings, he said, this "programming" for hormone production is believed to develop in the unborn fetus, and damage could show up when the offspring reaches child-bearing age.

Correct Laundering Helps

Decrease Diaper Rash

Of all the protests voiced in this turbulent modern world, the quickest heeded—and deservedly so—is a baby's cry.

This earliest form of human communication is prompted mostly by hunger or discomfort. Often the discomfort is caused by diaper rash, a frequent result of ammonia created by bacterial action.

For the mother who launders her baby's diapers at home, here is the most effective method:

Flush out heavily soiled diapers. Soak them overnight in a diaper pail, adding to one gallon of water one-half cup of a borax laundry additive, which deodorizes and sanitizes. Prior to washing the diapers can be wrung out by using the final spin cycle on the automatic washer.

Mothers who prefer to soak the diapers overnight in the washer itself should start by using the final deep tub rinse. After the washer has filled stop the machine, pour in the additive and allow the diapers to soak.

When ready to wash, finish the rinse and spin cycles. Then, using the hottest water possible in the regular wash cycle, add the recommended amount of soap or detergent plus one cup of borax laundry additive.

Give the diapers a through wash and at least two rinses. This insures the removal of excess deposits which can irritate the baby's skin.

And remember, diapers should be washed separately from other clothing, towels or linens.

Dryer dry the diapers but don't over-dry them. Then smooth and fold. Don't iron them. Ironing makes diapers less absorbent.

Fresh New Dressings

For Fresh Fruit Salads

A really fresh fruit salad deserves nothing but the best. In the paragraphs below are four pourable dressings created especially for fruit mixtures. One is an oil and vinegar dressings created especially for fruit mixtures. One is an oil and vinegar dressing sweetened by the addition of a package of frozen strawberries. The other three suggestions are made with real mayonnaise, thinned with milk or fruit juices.

Frozen Fruit French Dressing: Put 1 (10-ounce) package frozen strawberries, partially thawed, one-half cup corn oil, 2 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, one-half teaspoon dry mustard and one-fourth teaspoon salt into a jar; cover tightly and shake well. Chill several hours. Shake thoroughly before serving. Makes about one and one-third cups.

Celery Seed Dressing: Mix one-half cup real mayonnaise and one-fourth cup dairy sour cream. Stir in 2 tablespoons sugar, three-fourths teaspoon celery seed and one-fourth cup milk, adding extra milk if needed for pourable consistency. Makes about 1 cup.

Pourable Banana Dressing: Mix one ripe banana, mashed and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Stir in one-half cup real mayonnaise and one-fourth cup milk until well blended, Fresh Strawberry Dressing: Place three-fourth cup sliced ripe strawberries in small bowl. Stir in 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, mashing berries slightly with fork. Add one-half cup real mayonnaise, stirring until well blended. Stir in milk if needed for pourable consistency. Chill about one hour to develop flavor and color. Serve with fruit salad. Makes about one and one-fourth cups.

INTERNATIONAL CAMPER SPECIALS TRUCK-BUILT FOR HEAVY LOADS

Eight point suspension system for greater stability.

Vacation is the time to leave your worries behind — not trade them for a new set of headaches. So make sure the pickup you ask to carry your camper body is designed and equipped to shoulder the load.

All International pickups are built with truck-tough components. In addition, our Model 1210 Camper Special is equipped with heavy-duty front springs, heavy-duty rear springs with auxiliary, front sway bar, heavy-duty front and rear shock absorbers, and many other special features.

The correct suspension is extremely important in a pickup with a camper sitting high off the road, as you buck high winds, round curves and dip into potholes. So International uses leaf springs, which give two points of suspension at each wheel (a coil spring gives only one point). That's eight points in all, compared to our major competitors who offer suspension at a total of only four and six points. Another advantage—our optional rear axle ratings are the highest of any major manufacturer. All this without sacrificing eye appeal — just take a look. Then take a ride.

You Buy Flavor

When you buy beef, you buy flavor. For more flavor, you buy certain cuts cured. The cuts are probably the brisket (as corned beef), the tongue, some sausages and luncheon meats that contain beef. After curing, the meat is heat processed. It may be smoked with non-resinous wood for that added flavor. Hickory is probably the most popular wood.

Board Won't Slide

A few rubber-headed tacks placed in the bottom of a carving board will keep it from sliding around while the roast is being carved.

Prevents Rocker From Slipping

To prevent a rocking chair from slipping across the floor while rocking, glue the wrong side of strips of velvet to the underside of the rockers.

Peaches Brighten Meat Platter

Brighten the meat platter with canned peaches. Spice the syrup and simmer the fruit in it for a few minutes before draining and serving with beef, pork or lamb.

Or you might bake the peach halves cut side up and place spoonful of currant jelly or cranberry sauce in the center.

Use Washcloths For Waxing

Discarded washcloths make excellent covers for a wax applicator. Just tie one on for the waxing job and throw it away when finished.

Mark Socks

When children's socks are nearly the same size, put each child's initials on the foot of each of his socks with an indelible laundry marker. It simplifies the task of sorting the socks at laundry time.

Smother Grease Fires

Store grease away from children and away from the stove. If by accident the grease catches fire, smother it with a pan lid or baking soda, never with water.

To Launder Sash Curtains

When laundering sash curtains, never starch the top hem. This makes the curtains easier to get over the rod.

Good Way To Oil Dust Mop

When applying oil to a dust mop, try pouring the oil from a sprinkling can. When oiled this way, the mop will be able to take up the dust without leaving grease smudges.

Reorganization Board For State Closes Up Shop

The Kansas Commission on Executive Reorganization has ceased operation and closed its office.

James F. Haake, Topeka, commission chairman, said the group, which conducted a year-long study and made recommendations for improving operation of state government, closed shop April 30.

The commission was created by the 1970 Legislature, and in January presented to the 1971 Legislature its recommendations for reorganizing state government.

Prime among them was that state government be reorganized into eight departments, each headed by a secretary in a cabinet-type government.

Billings to create some of these departments were prepared and introduced during the 1971 and session but none passed either house. They will be taken up when the 1972 Legislature convenes next January.

Haake said reorganization should be "a top priority item at the 1972 session of the Legislature."

He said the commission expects to see most of its recommendations approved.

Although the commission has ceased operation on a full-time basis, Haake said it may continue in existence for another year "to generate support for reorganization measured and to provide help to House and Senate committees on executive reorganization."

Rustlers Or Vandals At Sedgwick Fences?

Evidence of cattle rustling in Sedgwick County has put farmers on an alert in the Haysville — Clearwater area.

Three calves valued at $300 were stolen from the Herman Maechten farm five miles west of Haysville and have not been found, Mrs. Maechten said.

When Charles Becker, who lives eight miles northeast of Clearwater, went to check on his cattle last week, he found a fence torn down and 40 heifers gone. A day's search of nearby farms rounded up the cattle — valued at $12,000 — which apparently had strayed after the fence was wrecked.

A neighbor, Roman Klausmeyer, reported gates torn from hinges and wires cut at his farm, letting cattle onto the road. Gates also have been damaged at the Inus Thorne farm near Clearwater and four other places.

Farmers are worried that cattle freed by pranksters or rustlers may cause auto accidents.

See Wheat Crop As 11% Under Size Of 1970 Crop

The 1971 Kansas wheat crop is forecast at 266 million bushels based on May 1 conditions, according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

If realized, this year's production will be 11 percent less than last year's 299 million bushels, but still the State's eighth largest crop.

Fall seeded grain crops made favorable progress over most of the State with the benefit of much needed moisture after mid-April.

Abandonment of acreage generally has been light although lack of moisture and use only for pasture caused some acreage not to be harvested for grain.

On May 1, wheat, barley and rye were showing good color with some fields headed in southern sections.

Corn planting was a little over one-third completed by May 1 while sorghum and soybean planting were just getting underway in eastern and southern Kansas.

Most sugar beets in the western areas were planted by May 1. April rains helped hay growth and spring pasture prospects were brightened considerably.

Winter Wheat

Kansas winter wheat is expected to produce a crop of 266,400,000 bushels this year based on May 1 conditions.

This crop if realized would be 11 percent smaller than a year earlier but the eighth largest crop of record. Farmers expect to harvest 8,880,000 acres for grain, down 2 percent from last year.

The State's yield per harvested acre is forecast at 30 bushels, down 3 bushels from last year's record but, if realized, the State's third highest.

Wheat crop prospects are mostly good to excellent over the State although a number of southern areas still need moisture. Stands are generally good except in a few scattered counties where wind damage occurred.

Insect and disease problems have been confined mainly to local areas.

Soil borne mosaic bothered some central and eastern counties early this spring and recently streak mosaic has appeared in some central and western counties.

Cutworm and green bug activity has been limited to a few areas and damage has been light.

Pasture And Hays

Pasture and hay crops have gotten off to a slow start this year due to lack of surface moisture.

Rains in the latter part of April brightened prospects for both pastures and hay crops.

The May 1 pasture feed condition at 79 percent of normal was 2 points below last month and 1 point below the 10-year average.

Cool season grasses have been supplying some feed for the past month, but native pastures have lacked sufficient growth to sustain cattle without some supplemental feeding.

Stocks of hay on farms May 1 totaled 697,000 tons, 17 percent of the 1970 production. Hay stocks were the lowest for May 1 since 1967, reflecting a smaller than usual hay crop in 1970 and the heavy feeding necessary during the late winter and early spring.

United States

The Nation's 1971 winter wheat production was forecast at 1,021 million bushels on May 1, down 9 percent from last year's crop.

Acreage of winter wheat to be harvested for grain was estimated at 32,494,000 acres compared with 33,453,000 last year.

An average yield of 31.4 bushels per harvested acre is expected, down 2 bushels from last year's record high.

Bill To Hold Back Marginal Farm Land

A bill to divert and restore marginal farmland for conservation and pollution abatement uses has been introduced by Rep. Keith Sebelius, R-Kan.

The "Marginal Farm Land Restoration, Conservation and Environmental Act of 1971" would authorize conservation practices on marginal farmland until the land was needed to satisfy national demand for food.

"This bill would simply make it possible to take marginal land out of production on an individual basis, restore and conserve topsoil, guard against pollution, save the land until it is needed to fight malnutrition and unemployment," Sebelius said.

Taking part in Farm Day at the House of Representatives, the congressman said, "most farmers do not realize the only thing keeping the nation from starvation is the nation-wide average of eight inches of topsoil suitable for farming. Soil resources have been severely depleted. The loss is already one million acre feet a year."

The Justice department is planning a pilot program to be administered by local Agricultural Conservation Committees in Reno County, Kansas.

Other counties in the program are in Illinois, Missouri, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. If the pilot program is successful, indications are it will be broadened considerably.

$5 An Acre, 90% Of 2-4-D For Hemp Control

MARYSVILLE — Farmers in Marshall County, Kansas, have begun applying at the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service to volunteer their services in stamping out marijuana from farmlands. The sign-up is part of a plan in which the Agriculture and Justice departments are sharing with farmers the cost of eradicating wild hemp. Mervin Nord, county extension director, estimated that between 5,200 and 10,000 acres in Marshall County are infested with marijuana. The Justice department is putting $5,000 into a pilot program being administered by local ASCS offices. Marshall County received $10,000 and Reno County, Kansas, received $10,000. Other counties in the pilot program are in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. If the pilot program is successful, indications are that it will be broadened considerably next year. "We didn't volunteer," Nord said. "We were drafted." Nord added that he and others in Marshall County realize the growing and harvesting of wild marijuana by mostly itinerant groups of youths constitutes a social problem, and he recognizes that some wild hemp has been harvested in the area of Marysville. However, Nord said, "this has not been a very serious problem here."

Nord, Paul Oltmans, county extension agent; Bob McWhorter of the Kansas Fish and Game commission; August Ungerer, county weed supervisor, and others met here to work out a cost-sharing problem.

Subject to state ASCS approval, the co-operating farmer will receive $5 an acre for application and about 90 per cent, roughly $1 to the acre, of the cost of 2-4-D, the chemical used to kill the hemp. The $5 would compensate the farmer for his time and rental of his tractor equipped with a spraying device.

Nord noted that the farmer's contribution could not be measured in a dollar-and-cents figure but that it would be considerable because $5 an hour would not cover the farmer's time and gasoline and oil consumed.

Marijuana is controlled most effectively by spraying before it reaches a plant growth of 15 inches. Nord said that height was being approached now by the wild hemp. The spraying must be completed by late July.

Nord said marijuana infestation is mostly along creek and stream beds, where the earth is fertile and not in cultivation. The illegal plant is generally cultivated there by youthful trespassers, who often damage fences and grain crops in the process.

"I don't think farmers themselves will benefit in any way from the program, but they are helping," Nord said, "I don't know how many actually will volunteer to do this."

"The program also creates problems for our wildlife. Quail, for example, use the seeds as a primary food source. It will change their habitat."

German Revalue Might Help U.S. Grain Sales

The floating German mark means a higher price for Volkswagens in the United States, more exports of American grain, and less threat to steelworker jobs.

For Washington, it means fewer worries about the balance of payments. And for the tourist, it may mean higher prices for that trip down the Rhine.

The Detroit auto worker, the Pittsburgh steel mill hand and the midwestern grain farmer have reason to welcome the German action. Even the Boston and West Coast electronics factories should find it easier to sell overseas.

The West German government, in effect, changed the value of the mark upward by letting it float. This means that instead of a fixed price of 26.7 U.S. cents, the cost of the mark will be set by the law of supply and demand. The demand has been greater than the supply, putting upward pressure on the German currency.

The new price is almost certain to be higher than the old, fixed one. In the first frenzied dealings, the price was up to 28.23 U.S. cents.

The higher price for imported goods will apply only to German products and those from other countries which revalued or let their money float.

A Japanese Datsun costing $1,845 will still cost that much with the same accessories. But a Volkswagen which cost $1,854 before will go up to $1,890 if the increase settles at about 3 per cent.

The other side of the coin is that the prices of U.S. goods sold in Germany will be down by about as much — unless Germany restricts imports of such U.S. farm products as corn and broiler chickens.

To the combined effects of cheaper exports and dearer imports will be added a possible decrease in tourist expenditures abroad. That trip down the Rhine will cost a tourist $12.50 instead of the old price of $12.30. The overall cost of a German holiday might go up a few per cent.

The change in money values comes at a psychological time for steel labor. With contract negotiations coming up, the U.S. steel mills face less of a threat from imports from Germany. Such imported steel will cost more.

Long-range, the decision to let the mark find its own level may change the pattern of overseas investment by U.S. companies. It will cost more to build a factory in Germany, so companies may decide to build in Britain or Italy or Spain instead.

Welfare Slash To Show In September

Welfare recipients in Kansas can expect to begin receiving less cash assistance in September, and medical personnel who treat them can expect cutbacks in their fees starting in July.

Dr. Robert C. Harder, the state director of social welfare, told about 300 county welfare directors and their case supervisors Wednesday, "We're probably talking about Sept. 1 as the time for making adjustments in cash grants."

Harder said it is not known how deep the cuts in cash grants will be, but said he would stick by an earlier estimate that assistance in most welfare categories would be reduced by about 20 per cent.

Harder convened a meeting at Topeka to discuss the financial plight of the State Welfare Dept., and to solicit the ideas of county directors on possible economies which could be instituted.

The state welfare budget was drastically reduced both by Gov. Robert Docking and the Legislature during the 1971 session. Docking slashed about $19 million from the agency's request for next fiscal year, and the Legislature cut an additional $11 million.

Charles Stevenson, chief of administration for the State Welfare Dept., said the agency expects to be about $4 million short of its anticipated financial needs for this fiscal year and about $29 million short in the coming fiscal year.

Harder announced that payments to medical providers would be withheld during the last two months of the present fiscal year in order to stay within budget limitations.

At least three payments, totaling an estimated $7 million to $8 million, will be deferred until the start of the new fiscal year on July 1, Harder told the group.

He said medical providers are aware of the planned withholding action, but do not necessarily agree with it.

There was disagreement among the county directors over whether payments to medical providers should be prorated, or whether there should be cutbacks in the type of medical services provided to Medicaid recipients.

The state director of social welfare also had bad news for county Welfare Dept. employees across Kansas.

Harder said he will recommend that the State Board of Social Welfare not grant the 5 per cent salary increases for local welfare employees which were scheduled to take effect after July 1. Harder said an estimated $750,000 would be saved by not granting the raise.

Oklahoma Wheat Commission says. "When it costs $30 per acre to plant and harvest wheat and you only get back $2 per bushel and six bushels per acre, your only recourse is to make it up in volume," Charles Rhoades said. "I personally don't see how anybody can harvest wheat yielding less than 10 bushels per acre."

"One thing is for sure, these combines will zip right through there and never slow down."

If it's a bad year for the wheat farmer, Rhoades said, it certainly is a bad year financially for the commission.

"We have to work all the harder to protect a market when we don't have anything to sell," Rhoades said. "It has taken us years to build up some of our markets and we can't afford to sit back and lose them because the drought has cut back production."

The commission is supported by voluntary contributions on a share of production, Rhoades said. When there is low production, it puts financial burdens on the wheat commission.

"It will curtail our operations 60 per cent," he said.

"Every producer in the state gets a 400 bushel exemption," Rhoades said. The commission collects 2½ cents on all above that."

The program is voluntary and farmers may ask for payments back if they are unhappy with the organization's service, he said.

"Only about 5 per cent want their payment back," Rhoades said, "and you can find unhappy people about anything, so we're not doing badly."

"We won't quit work," he said. "We have to work hard to maintain markets when we have a good crop. We have built markets and won't let them go that we are here."

This is the first year for the administration farm bill as it concerns wheat and it is penalizing Oklahoma farmers, he added.

"Farmers used to get a preference between parity and credit value of wheat, which is per bushel," he said. "Subsidies buck and a quarter from per about $2.80 and you get $1.50

A Drop In Highway Deaths

The various forms of travel in the United States killed 59,220 persons last year, at the rate of about 162 a day.

The total was 1,251 less than in 1969 when 60,471 travelers were killed, the National Transportation Safety board said yesterday.

The preliminary 1970 statistics portend the first significant reduction in U.S. transportation accident deaths in more than a decade, John H. Reed, board chairman, said.

"The statistics are a measure of encouragement but a measure, as well, of the enormous task still ahead," Reed said.

State Guessed Too High On Income Estimates

State tax collections for fiscal 1971 were $7.9 million below what budget planners had estimated they would be at the end of March. End of April figures show the gap has widened to $16.1 million.

But the state's fiscal experts say there is no need to panic — yet.

"My position is that this is a period of watchful waiting, not of panic," said Richard Ryan, fiscal expert with the Kansas Legislative Research Department.

Fiscal 1971 is not going to be a good year financially for Kansas, however, Ryan quickly added.

James T. McDonald, state director of revenue, said he expects the estimates-receipts gap to narrow this month.

There were income tax returns received late in April with remittances that were not counted, he explained. These receipts will show up in the May figures, he said.

McDonald has nothing to do with estimating future receipts from taxes and fees. He worries only about actual collections.

In his monthly report earlier this week, the director said April 1971 collections totaled $37.96 million compared to $39.15 million for the same month last year. This amounts to a decrease of $1.19 million.

However, McDonald pointed out that for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year — July 1970 through April — collections had increased $14.2 million over the same period of the previous year.

The fact remains that, despite this increase, actual collections are trailing estimated receipts by $16.1 million. A point to bear in mind is that the estimates were revised just prior to the 1971 Legislature and revised again somewhat during the 90-day session.

It should be remembered also that the state's three per cent sales tax was applied to a number of services during the current fiscal year. It also was the first year the corporations and fiscal institutions had to pay a surtax on net income over $25,000.

An offsetting factor to these gains was that the sales tax was removed from a number of items classed as consumables. The 1970 Legislature was told that the effect of this move could not be accurately estimated.

Nevertheless, Ryan hastened to point out that "the $16.1 million gap is very misleading."

For one thing, he said, the Department of Revenue had delayed processing a number of other tax receipts to concentrate on processing individual income tax returns.

For example, Ryan explained, sales tax receipts for April totaled only $7.7 million compared with a budget estimate of over $11 million this year and slightly more than $10 million last year.

He pointed out that about $8 million in sales tax receipts were processed the first week in May as an indication of the April logjam.

A more accurate picture of the state's fiscal condition will be available once the May receipts are counted.

But even this May picture will be somewhat distorted by the end of the month—Memorial Day—holiday.

Ryan said the first clear look—free of holiday or deadline distortions—should be available after the first week in June.

When the $7.9 million gap between estimates and receipts was seen at the end of March, legislators were told this was an indication of the sagging economic picture in the state.

Whether the recovery in May narrows the gap significantly or the gap remains wider than the March figure will indicate any rebounding or further deterioration of the state's economy.

Ryan said receipts so far this fiscal year show some weak spots. Primarily these are in corporate income taxes and sales tax receipts.

Corporate profits generally were down in 1970, he said, but he added that estimates of what the surtax on corporate income would produce were too high, further compounding the problem.

"It is unlikely that these taxes will meet annual estimates," Ryan said. "The way things look now (with only May and June remaining in fiscal 1971) we will be several million short."

If tax and fee collections equalled estimates, the 1971 Legislature was told that the state would experience a low point in its general fund balance of $900,000 in May 1972.

With collections falling behind estimates, this May 1972 balance could turn out to be a minus figure, Ryan said.

However, he said the legislature meets in 1972 before this crisis point and could act quickly to correct its fiscal posture. In addition, some distributions of state-collected money to local units of government could be postponed in part to balance the state over the low balance month.

Alfalfa Weevil In Southeast

The alfalfa weevil has found its way into a large area of Kansas, is an economic problem in the southeast part of the state. It's in the larvae stage.

Dr. H. Leroy Brooks, Extension entomologist at Kansas State University, said two different strains of the insect moved into the state last year from the east and west.

It is too early for determining which of the strains is presently moving into new areas.

The weevil was spotted in counties in early May and within a week it was reported in 25 additional counties, located as far west as Stafford, Harper, Pratt, McPherson and Ellsworth counties.

At last report the heaviest infestation was in a field in Crawford county, where a "great deal of damage was evident."

An infestation is considered economic problem in 50 per cent of the plant terminals shows feeding injury and if skeletonizing is occurring on top of one-third of plants.

Brooks suggests a farmer cut if cutting time is nearing. If plants are too small for cutting, treatment may be necessary. After the cutting, larvae may also damage new growth.

A population as high as 50 worms per square foot may damage the new growth. If the population is as high as 20, the second crop may be destroyed.

The larvae is light green in color and has a white stripe down center of the midline of the body. It has a black head.

FARMERS OUTLOOK

L.H. Simerl

Monetary Change Makes Small Mark

Farmers have asked how the recent changes in international financial arrangements will affect them. The answers will depend on what products the farmer produces and what monetary actions governments take.

While our Government has not taken any direct action, it appears that the dollar has been devalued as the result of changes made by other countries. Some of them have stopped exchanging fixed amounts of their currencies for U.S. dollars. In other words, they have stopped supporting the price of the dollar. Apparently they are going to allow the value of the dollar to fall — or that of their currencies to rise, which is the same thing.

Similar To Run On Gold

In earlier times when paper money and bank deposits could be exchanged for gold, a situation like the recent one would have produced a run on our gold stocks. Holders of dollars (paper bills and bank deposits) would have demanded and received gold in exchange for their dollars. The drain on gold supplies might have forced our monetary officials to stop paying-out gold.

Now, dollars cannot be exchanged for gold. We keep it locked up at Fort Knox. But dollars can be exchanged for the currencies of other nations, such as the German mark, the French franc, and the British pound. Many businessmen and speculators apparently believed that the buying power of the dollar was shrinking in relation to the value of some other money. Therefore, they rushed to exchange their dollars for marks and other currencies. Finally, some other countries decided to stop exchanging their money for dollars. In effect, they decided to stop supporting the price of the dollar, that is, to allow the value of their own currencies to rise in relation to the value of the dollar.

Export Corps May Gain

The overall effect on farm prices will be small, but will vary by product. The prices of the big export crops — soybeans, wheat, and rice — might receive some noticeable support, since we export about half of our production of these crops. Some foreign buyers can get more dollars for their own money, and hence can buy more of our soybeans and other crops.

The prices of farm products used mostly in the U.S. will not be affected much. Such products would include corn and other feed grains, meat animals, milk, eggs, fruits, and vegetables.

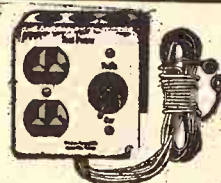

The cost of some things farmers buy could go up slightly. We may have to put up more dollars in order to obtain essential imports such as iron ore and petroleum. Thus, the costs of farm equipment and supplies may increase faster than they would otherwise.

Grass & Grain 19
May 18, 1971

In summary, the new international financial arrangements probably will have only a small influence on the prices received and paid by farmers.

Scout Wheat Ranks 1st In Five State Planting

Scout variety of wheat accounted for 37.1 percent of the total winter wheat seeded for 1971 harvest in the 5-State area including Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska and Wyoming, according to the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

A consolidated State report showed the acreage of Scout totaled 7.4 million acres, compared with 7.6 million acres for the 1970 crop.

Scout and the new selected strain, Scout 66, were combined in the regional tables.

Scout was the leading variety in Kansas, Colorado, and Nebraska. The percentage seeded to Scout in Kansas slipped from 48.1 to 46.9 but increased from 36.6 to 39.4 in Colorado and from 30.6 to 37.2 in Nebraska.

Triumph continued in second place, accounting for 18.2 percent of the seeded acreage for 1971, compared to 18.3 percent last year.

Triumph varieties were seeded on 3.6 million acres. Triumph was the leading variety in Oklahoma and virtually all the acreage was in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Wichita comprised 6.6 percent of the seeded acreage, compared with 7.8 percent last year.

The seeding of Wichita accounted for 1.3 million acres, compared with 1.6 million acres a year earlier.

Wichita was the second ranking variety in Colorado and was in third place in Oklahoma.

Lancer maintained its position of fourth with 5.0 percent of the wheat seeded for this year, down from 5.8 percent in 1970.

There were 1.0 million acres of Lancer seeded for 1971, compared to 1.2 million acres a year earlier.

Lancer continued as the leading variety in Wyoming with a slight increase from last year and was the single most important variety in Nebraska, although the combined Scouts' percentage was larger.

Satanta variety took over fifth place nosing out Warrior 4.3 percent to 4.0 percent.

Most of the Satanta acreage is in Kansas where it advanced to third position in 1971. Satanta is also grown in southeastern Colorado.

Parker, seeded on 3.8 percent of the acreage, slipped ahead of Gage, which accounted for only 2.9 percent in 1971.

Parker is principally grown in the eastern two-thirds of Kansas and on a small acreage in northern Oklahoma.

Bison was seeded on 2.3 percent of the acreage, a decline from 3.4 in 1970. Trapper and Sturdy showed moderate gains.

Trapper is grown primarily in Nebraska, Colorado, and Wyoming.

Sturdy ranked fourth in Oklahoma and increased from 4.4 to 7.8 percent.

Chanute made rapid advances in Kansas and was the second leading variety in the east central district and had significant acreage in other eastern districts.

Another Side On Predator Control

The article in May 11 issue of "Grass & Grain," "Predator control of shotgun shells" in which the so-called "expert in wildlife control" states: "Kansas farmers and ranchers can stop many livestock losses caused by predators without resorting to violent removal methods" calls for the other side of the story, in the first place, an expert in teaching farmers how to keep books would be fine, but the Farm Management program of doing most of the work for you is much more practical.
Although it is not generally known,
there are two predator control programs available in Kansas and one includes the availability of Department of Interior trappers which go into a problem area and do the work for you in an expert fashion.

Several years ago Kansas had the benefit of this highly satisfactory but short-lived predator control program by the Department of Interior, which is maintained by a group of well-trained and knowledgeable men working with the benefit of years of unbiased research by the Interior Department.

Federal funds are still available for a continuation of this program (Oklahoma is currently benefiting from the use of our share of the funds) in Kansas just as soon as an agreement is signed by Gov.
Docking. However, due to apparent pressure mainly from Dr. E. Raymond Hall, Kansas Zoology Department and George Halason, K.S.U., Gov. Docking has failed to sign this agreement in spite of the fact numerous livestock producers continue to experience heavy losses, with many potentially large sheep producers simply quitting. We wonder why sheep numbers in the state continue to decline in spite of favorable lamb prices—lack of prompt predator control when needed worst (livestock producers greatest losses come during busy planting, haying, or harvesting) is one of the main reasons.

We hear a lot about air pollution, water pollution, etc. We also have a severe case of another kind of pollution in the state—PREDATOR POLLUTION:
that is, an excess number of predators, mainly coyotes.

Dr. H. T. Gier, K.S.U. stated in an article several years ago that Kansas had twice as many coyotes at that time as was needed. It appeared we had someone working for us that was going to make an unbiased report on the true picture of the predator pollution, then all of a sudden we heard no more from Dr. Gier. Evidently coyote lovers put a muzzle on him.

This "predator pollution" causes heavy losses to our game birds and animals in the state as well as to our livestock. There are times over more bird hunters than there are coyote hunters—if they realized the heavy losses of game birds and animals to predators, they would support control of excess numbers of predators.

Incidentally, an article in April 1,
1969 "Grass & Grain" from Kansas Crop and Livestock Association survey showed a loss of 20,400 sheep with a value of $365,000 to predators in 1968 alone.
Additional losses of calves, pigs, turkeys,
etc. would make the loss to predators much greater.

If you are interested in additional predator control, write Gov. Docking and send a copy of your letter to the Kansas Livestock Association and "Grass and Grain."

NBC Peacock Put Under Wraps

BLACK FARMERS IN THE G&G AREA

Negroes have tended to be city-dwellers, but there are probably a couple of dozen Black farmers in the G&G area. One who has worked the soil in the area about as long as any is David Price, who has a piece of land near Iron Mound east of Salina.

Price, now in his 70s, was part of a Black colony of seven or eight families which farmed around Falun in southern Saline county until early World War II, when the land was taken by the federal government for a bombing range. Price still speaks some Swedish from the years he spent around Falun among Swedish neighbors.

A study of the Black colony in the Falun area has recently been made by Marion Johnson, a Lindsborg high school junior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Johnson, Falun.

Streak Mosaic In Central And Western Wheat

Thousands of wheat acres in central and western Kansas are being plagued by a costly disease — streak mosaic.

Claude King, Extension plant pathologist at Kansas State University, reports that the counties with heaviest infestation are Rush, Russell, Barton, Ellis, Kearny, and Finney.

King estimates that streak mosaic will reduce wheat yields by approximately $3 million this year. Streak mosaic infests wheat in the fall when a microscopic mite which lives in volunteer wheat and some grasses is blown by wind into newly planted wheat fields. The mite carried the streak mosaic virus.

The virus overwinters in the wheat and then in mid-April begins to damage the crop. The disease causes wheat to look sickly and turn yellow. The leaves have yellow streaks. Infestation is usually heaviest near the area where the mites migrated from volunteer wheat.

Streak mosaic should not be confused with soil borne mosaic, another wheat disease causing an estimated $5 million annual damage to the Kansas crop. Soil borne mosaic shows up in field earlier in the spring and appears as relatively round yellow areas well defined from healthy wheat.

King says the best control for streak mosaic is to kill volunteer wheat and wild grasses in fields to be sowed at least three weeks before sowing and in nearby fields at least one week before planting. This kills the mites.

Another partial control is to plant resistant varieties Bison and Triumph. King also recommends sowing wheat as late as considered good practice in an area.

New Minicars Not Stopping Imports

Henry Ford II said that U.S.-built minicars have failed to stem the rising tide of imports and expressed doubt that the American industry can remain competitive in the world auto market.

"I frankly don't see how we're going to meet the competition," Ford said at a news conference after the firm's annual meeting. "We've tried to stem the tide — unsuccessfully I might say — to some extent."

In the first four months of this year, imports captured 15.2 percent of the U.S. new car market, compared with 13.7 percent in the first four months of 1970, despite the fact that this year the importers had to compete with the Ford Pinto, the Chevrolet Vega and the American Motors Gremlin, which were not on the market last year.

Asked if he was disappointed in the performance of Pinto and other domestic minicars, Ford said, "If you look at the increases in imports, you'd find reason for disappointment. We'd hoped to hold the lid on."

Based on the experience of other countries, Ford said, it was possible that imports might capture up to 20 percent of the U.S. market.

Despite the rising threat of imports, Ford said he and Ford Motor Co. continue to vigorously oppose any congressional moves to erect tariff barriers against cars or other products because of the possible consequences of an international trade war.

Idaho Favor Of Freeze Branding

Close to a million freeze brands have been applied since the technique was first developed in 1965 and there have been at least that many arguments over its effectiveness since.

Freeze branding is accomplished in much the same manner as fire branding except that a super-cold copper branding iron is used instead of the traditional hot iron. The extreme cold kills the pigment-producing cells in the animal's hair follicle and the hair grows back white instead of colored.

A large percentage of the freeze brands, if not most of them, were applied in a haphazard manner and most of the faulty results were blamed on the new technique in general.

Marvin Wittman, co-owner of the Wittman Farms near Culesac, Idaho, has been freeze branding his herd since 1966. With the constant help of Loren Kambitsch, Nez Perce county extension agent, each brand has been applied under carefully controlled conditions and complete records have been kept.

Dr. Keith Farrell, developer of the freeze brand technique, believes Wittman's herd is the only one of its size that has had such extensive and complete data compiled under controlled conditions.

Wittman and Kambitsch started in June 1966 and branded calves with either a 10, 15, 20, 25 or 30-second brand. They used dry ice and methyl alcohol. They also branded some animals using an isopropyl alcohol just to see the effect. As expected the isopropyl alcohol produced poor results.

In December that same year, they branded 100 head of cows with numbers for identification, using 20, 25 and 30-second brands.

Every year since, Wittman has number-branded all his replacement heifers and applied his ownership brand to all calves. Each year they have tried new things and, from each change in procedure, they've learned something new. "It's been a bracketing experience, an elimination process, to find out the optimum conditions for best results," Kambitsch said.

Sometimes their efforts have paid off with a notable contribution to the art of freeze branding. One such contribution is the use of a stainless steel sponge to scrub down the hide with alcohol after the hair has been clipped away.

"At first we used a rag, mostly just to wet the hide with alcohol. Then we tried a paint brush. From this we went to a steel wool pad and, finally, the stainless steel creamery sponge we're using now," Wittman explains.

Scrubbing with the metal sponge took off a "kind of waxy surface" from the hide. This eliminated a big variable from one animal to the next and Wittman and Kambitsch could tell the difference right away. Brands took better and were more consistent. This, combined with a new clipper blade that clips all the hair away from the hide, also reduced the branding time to 15 seconds per brands.

Six years of experience has probably made Wittman the prime authority on the field use of freeze brands. He's been asked to report his findings at several cattlemen field days and has received many letters from as far away as Australia.

Because of the many inquiries, Wittman and Kambitsch have written a step-by-step procedure to

Rural Dickinson Co. Crossroads Home Of Insurance Firm For 75 Years

An insurance company which conducts its business from a Dickinson county rural crossroads has just noted its 75th anniversary.

It's the Upland Mutual Insurance Co., which has headquarters at Upland, a crossroads eight miles north of Chapman.

The company has $241 million insurance in force and had over $2 million in cash income in 1970, according to Charles O. Shrader, general manager.

Upland was started in 1896 as the Kansas Farmers Insurance Co., changing to the present name in 1941. The company has 14 employees—12 in the office and two fieldmen-adjustors.

Why does the company stay in Upland?

Says Shrader: "The building has central airconditioning, we have no parking problems, taxes are reasonable and Upland is centrally located within the area we serve. In an hour's time, we can adjust a loss within a 60-mile radius, which is our major area.

Alcohol At Top Of List Of Road Death Factors

The National Transportation Safety board named transportation safety's 10 worst enemies and alcohol led the list.

"The death toll from alcohol in all of U.S. transportation cannot be determined precisely, but could be as high as 25,000 lives," the safety board said in its annual report to the Congress.

"It may be involved in roughly half of the highway fatalities and as many as 10 per cent of the fatal accidents both in pleasure boating and in general aviation (private, business, agricultural and sports flying). Available data suggest that alcohol is the most deadly single crash-causing influence on our nation's highways."

The other serious transportation safety problems as identified in the report:

- Ineffective packaging of motorists and pilots — Thousands die each year because their automobiles and private planes do not incorporate technically available crash-worthiness features.

- Youthful drivers — More than 17,000 Americans 15 to 24 years old are killed on the highways each year.

- Airport approach and landing — The most hazardous phase of flight for all types of aircraft.

- Pilot error induced by aircraft design and by human factors.

- Recreational boating — The cause of 1,300 deaths annually.

- The mix of traffic on highways — Trucks overriding cars, cars overriding trucks, heavy trucks stopping slowly, and trucks crushing passenger cars in overturn accidents.

- Deaths at railroad-highway grade crossings — Fewer than 22 per cent of grade crossings have been given special protective treatment. Estimates of the cost of separating all grade crossings are as high as 100 billion dollars.

- Pedestrian deaths — Increased in 1970 although the over-all highway fatality total declined.

Some Progress In Farm Safety

Gov. Docking has proclaimed May 23-28 as Kansas Rural Safety Week, pointing out that tragedy strikes rural and farm families all too often.

The governor pointed out that progress has been made in the reduction of farm accidents. During the 1930s, an average of 82 persons died in Kansas as a result of farm work mishaps. This has been

Now the best in comfort is even better. Tomorrow's tractor but yesterday's cab? Not with Case! We'll show you a whole new concept of comfort. A cab that's extra tight, sealed from dust and dirt... a new filtration system that surrounds you with fresh, clean air in the dustiest conditions. And throw away your ear plugs. It's as quiet inside as your living room with the kids at school!

We value your safety too. You're far more relaxed and alert at the wheel of a new Case Agri King—especially after a long day in the field. And a comfortable operator is a safer operator! Our cab, too, offers super protection—with a rigid frame that resists front crushing and supports the entire weight of the tractor on a complete rollover. J.I. Case Company, Racine Wisconsin 53404.

Inventors Fair
At Hill City
Needs Entries

If you are an inventor, manufacturer, investor, or just a curious person, you may want to consider a trip to Hill City June 5 and 6.

The chamber of commerce in the Graham County community is sponsoring a "New Ideas Fair"—a showplace for inventors. The idea is to get inventors and investors together, with an eye on possible industrial growth.

The fair will give people with time or labor saving devices an opportunity to display their inventions before the general public and potential manufacturers.

The two-day event is expected to draw inventors from Kansas and neighboring states.

Exhibitors will pay a $10 entry fee ($25 for manufacturers with patented inventions). The fee will provide display space, electricity, and a ticket to the awards dinner the evening of June 5.

Admission to the exhibit halls on the Graham County Fairgrounds will be $.25 per person, with children under 12 admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

The inventions will be on public display from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on June 5, and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on June 6.

All exhibits will be judged. Ribbons will be awarded for the top three inventions in each category. The categories are: agriculture; Automotive; construction equipment; electrical; household; sports, recreation, and toys; tools and miscellaneous.

Looking at the project with area development in mind, Graham County agricultural Extension agent Jim Scott believes there are many ideas which can be converted into products and mass-produced and sold in the area.

"Home grown" products made up a large percentage of new industry in Kansas last year, Scott says.

Kansas patent lawyers and personnel from the Cooperative Extension Service at Kansas State University and the Kansas Department of Economic Development will attend the fair. More information on the New Ideas Fair can be obtained from the Hill City Chamber of Commerce or the Graham County Extension Office.

Pasture Condition
Improves In Past Month

The condition of range feed in the western two-thirds of Kansas was a little better May 1 than it was a month earlier, The Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service indicates.

It said the May 1 condition also was slightly better than average but down moderately from a year ago.

The condition of range feed in the western two-thirds of the state was placed at 77 per cent of normal on the basis of May 1 conditions. This compares with 72 per cent on April 1 and the 1960-69 averaged of 75 per cent.

Rain which has fallen since mid-April has improved prospects for summer grazing, the service said.

Water supplies are now adequate but many ponds were low and additional runoff will be needed to provide stock water throughout the season.

The condition of cattle in the western two-thirds of the state on May 1 was 81 per cent of normal. This was two points higher than on April 1 but three points below the level of May 1 a year ago.

Carson Hansen Buys East Barn At Concordia

CONCORDIA-Announcement has been made that Carson E. Hansen and his wife LaRue, of Belleville, have purchased the Cloud County Livestock Commission Co. in Concordia, (the east barn), and will operate as Hansen Livestock Auction.

Sales will be held every Saturday, with the opening sale next Saturday, May 22. Gerald Hansen, a son of Carson, recently of the Marines, will be associated with his father. Mrs. Hansen will manage the business end of the sale.

Hansen had owned the sale barn at Beloit, but more recently was in the real estate business in Topeka.

BARLEY AT $3 CWT. AT UTAH, IDAHO LOTS

Feedlot areas in Utah and Idaho have been paying $3 a hundredweight for barley in recent weeks. The areas get most of their supply from the California Imperial Valley, which is expecting a below average crop in a harvest about four weeks away.

Ram Sale Top At $330

The Silver Anniversary Ram Show and Sale of the Kansas purebred Sheep Breeder's Association provided an opportunity for sheepmen from throughout the Midwest to purchase the finest rams Kansas sheep producers have to offer.

Out-of-state buyers from Missouri, South Dakota, Texas and Oklahoma joined Kansas buyers in making the sale one of the best ever, reports Dr. George Ahlschwede, Extension sheep specialist at Kansas State University.

Average sale price of 128 rams was $98.36. Thirty-eight Suffolks averaged $115.13; 63 Hampshires averaged $98.97; Dorsets averaged $86.35, and a Southdown sold for $50.

Highest selling ram was the reserve champion Hampshire which sold for $330. Leroy McCosh of Abilene was the owner and South Dakota State University was the buyer.

The champion Hampshire ram, owned by Marshall Pontius of Harveyville, sold to Mike Carter, Temple, Texas, for $320.

High selling Dorset was owned by L. & R Dorsets of Natoma and sold to Harold Heitschmidt, also Natoma.

The champion Dorset owned by Marvin Hitschmann, Claflin, sold for $85 to Mike Quillin, Buhler. The reserve champion Dorset belonged to Max LaRosh, Natoma, and sold for $105 to Ronald Hirst, Hutchinson.

Top selling Suffolk was owned by Dwight Stone, Medicine Lodge. His ram placed fourth in the Suffolk live show and sold for $255 to Ronnie Young, Burrton. The champion Suffolk, exhibited by Kansas State University, sold for $140 to Elton Young, Cheney. The reserve champion Suffolk belonged to Robert Hamilton, Bucyrus, and sold for $220 to Paul Fishburn, Haven.

Ron Wedel, Moundridge exhibited the champion Southdown. It sold to Frank Gillmore, Wichita, for $50.

In a special ewe lamb sale, four Dorsets averaged $51.25; six Hampshires averaged $57.92, and four Suffolks averaged $59.38.

GIVES HALF-MILLION TO BETHEL COLLEGE

Adolph G. Goering, 90-year old bachelor farmer at Moundridge, has deeded land valued at a half-million dollars to Bethel College at Newton. Bethel says it has never received a larger gift.

The land totals over four sections—800 acres in Harvey county, 800 in Reno, 400 in Marion, 320 in Sedgwick, and 240 in Scott county.

Goering has stipulated that the income should be used for student scholarships with preference to ministerial students. After 25 years Bethel may use the money for any purpose.

Life Back To Normal For Lindsborg Woman After Kidney Transplant

LINDSBORG — Seventeen months ago a young Lindsborg mother received a kidney transplant and a chance for a new life.

Today, Mrs. Richard Luthi is at home, taking care of her 3-year-old son, Shannon Luthi and keeping house for her husband. She is enjoying good health. But it hasn't been easy for the Luthi family.

The kidney trouble began when Mrs. Luthi was 2 years old. She was treated at the University of Kansas Medical Center then, but the medicine had a side effect and she was sent home.

Her condition stabilized until early in 1969 when she again became ill. She was sent from Salina hospital to Kansas City where doctors told her her kidneys had stopped functioning.

The kidneys were removed and her wait for a transplant operation began. For several months, Mrs. Luthi traveled to the K.U. Medical Center in Kansas City, Kansas, twice a week. At the center, she spent 8½ hours each time hooked-up to an artificial kidney machine. On January 7, 1970, the Luthis got the call which sent them hurrying to the medical center — a donor was available.

The transplant operation was performed January 8 and Mrs. Luthi was in the hospital several weeks after the operation and underwent surgery for internal bleeding and to remove and blood clot. Although the transplant has been termed a success, Mrs. Luthi still is a frequent visitor to the medical center and to a Salina hospital. Every three weeks she travels to the K.U. center for a blood test and a check for any signs of rejection.

$3 Million To Clean Up From Anti-War Showing

Antiwar demonstrations in early May cost the District of Columbia government an estimated 2.5 million dollars and the U.S. Park Service more than $500,000.

Graham W. Watt, deputy mayor, who estimated the District's cost, said Congress would be asked to foot the bill. He said most of the expenses were for police overtime pay, cleanup details and extra work for jail guards, prosecutors, officers of the court and health agencies.

The park service, which takes care of the monuments and grounds in the city, said earlier the demonstrations cost it $523,100.

Tax Shelters Often Emphasize Hole Rather Than The Doughnut

One of the customary problems of tax shelter deals is that while they might help the individual save a lot in tax payments they often cost him as much or more because the investment is of poor quality.

Thousands of people in high tax brackets have poured millions into dry oil wells, stuffed nearly as much into poor grade cattle that can't be fattened at a profit, and help real estate promoters live high, charging it to overhead.

Oil well drilling, cattle feeding and real estate all offer legitimate tax shelter, meaning that because of high risk or public value, tax breaks are afforded in an effort to channel money to them.

Much of the profit from oil well drilling, for example, is tax free. And in real estate, the property that actually may be appreciating in value can be depreciated for tax purposes — the entire amount, even though only a down payment was made.

It is understandable that promoters would enter such activities and offer partnerships to the public. And just as understandable that a person in 50 to 70 per cent tax bracket would want to utilize their services.

Very often the situation is one of the greenhorn being taken in by the smart promoters, but just as often it involves otherwise sophisticated investors who seek out and participate in well-intentioned deals that are poorly researched, financed and administered.

The moral in tax-shelter investments is to keep your eye on the doughnut and not on the hole. By concentrating on the tax writeoffs and ignoring the basic investment quality, one can easily fall through the hole.

Save Postage On Early Car Tag Renewals

Automobile registration renewals are being mailed early to all persons whose license tags expire July 31, 1971 according to H. J. Ulrich, Superintendent Kansas Motor Vehicle Department.

In a report to Governor Robert Docking, Ulrich said, "we are mailing the registration renewal forms May 14th to those persons whose surname begins with the letters A thru L early. These early mailings will permit us to save approximately $12,000 in postage fees before the postage price increase becomes effective next week."

"Persons may mail the registration renewal forms to their county treasurer with a check and proof of payment of personal property tax anytime; however the new tags will not be mailed until after June 15th.

License tags and fees issued during this period will be prorated placing the individual into their proper month for registration. The new license tag will have the letter designating the expiration month along with the county prefix," Ulrich concluded.

Many of the cows are pasture exposed and safe in calf to Emulous 2 FAF, the high gaining bull in 1970 in the Eastern Nebraska Beef Research Station Test at Schuyler, Nebr., also a member of the high gaining pen.

All the bulls used in the B-B breeding program have been performance tested and gained better than 3.5 pounds a day on 140 day test and weighed better than 1050 pounds as yearlings. Also cows have been pasture exposed and are safe in calf to Emulous 2169 SA, a son of Emulous D22; Corbin Ranch Emulous, son of Emulous Bob of K Pride; Blogarde 573, son of Blogarde of Craigie, 1967 top gaining Angus bull in America. Other cows pasture exposed and safe in calf to Sunup Emulous 62H and Sunup Emulous 44H, described above.

All the heifers will sell open with a breeding privilege to any of our production tested herd sires. Two vials of semen will be furnished when the purchaser is ready to breed heifers.

Hotels and motels available in Emporia and El Dorado, Lunch 12 noon at the ranch, followed immediately by the production sale. Airport facilities in Emporia, El Dorado and Cottonwood Falls for private aircraft. Wichita, Ks. is the closest commercial airline facility and planes will be met there on request. Also reservations will be made at any of the motels of your choice

This is the largest sale of females to be held in Kansas this season and will provide an opportunity for Angus breeders throughout the great Flint Hills and surrounding states to purchase top quality Angus cattle at very reasonable prices that will go out and continue to work and make money for their new owners.

This is a high quality group of working females with outstanding calves at side by some of the best production tested Angus bulls in the breed.

The cows will sell in pasture condition and comprise largely part of the great Craver Ranch herd at Denton, Tex., which was purchased by the B-B Ranch.

The females are of Eileenmere, Bardoliermere, Montgomery Marshall, MQ Panarama and Elite of Tofts breeding. Also many granddaughters of Ballot of Belladrum. B-B Ranch has carried on a very intensive performance testing program and has concentrated on herd sires that have made outstanding records as performance tested animals or have sired animals that have made outstanding records. Some of the very best of the Emulous bloodlines have been used and many of the cows will have calves at side by Emulous B6, an outstanding performance tested grandson of Emulous 7000, the Carcase bull.

Also calves at side by JMJ Prince Paragon, a son of Emulous 7067 and grandson of Emulous 7000. This was a $6000 bull in the Corbin Ranch sale. Also calves at side of cows & cows will be bred to Sunup Emulous 62H & Sunup Emulous 44H, sons of Emulous Pride 82, the great son of Emulous Bob

More REAP Funds For Long-Term Practices

Reports indicate that 16,607 farms in Kansas participated in agricultural conservation and pollution — abatement cost — sharing practices last year, according to E.R. Patton, chairman, Kansas State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

Emphasis in Kansas, as well as nationally, was on enduring practices that improved environmental conditions and reduced farm-related pollution of air or water, Patton said.

Nationally, 828,962 farms participated. Total acres, which includes those either treated or directly serviced, were 41.5 million across the Nation.

Altogether, 2,222,456 farmers participated in the program at least once during the 1966-1970 5-year period, with 55,230 being Kansas farmers.

Patton said that 92 per cent of the $181.6 million provided for cost-sharing in 1970 was spent on enduring practices compared with 87 per cent in 1969.

"The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), which administers the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), though its farmer committees system, continues to increase the emphasis on long-term conservation and environmental improvement practices," Patton pointed out.

He added that greater emphasis is being placed on REAP practices that:

1. Provide clean air, clean water, more open space, and more and better wildlife habitat;
2. Assure effective conservation accomplishments; and
3. Yield conservation and environmental improvement activities that have wide public benefits.

"Pollution abatement is also being emphasized under our present REAP practices," Patton continued. "New authority for cost-sharing on practices that would greatly reduce farm-caused water or air pollution was granted in the 1970 program year, and this is continuing to be emphasized in 1971."

At the end of 1970 — the first year under this new authority there were pollution abatement practices in 47 states, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, Patton said.

These included; animal waste lagoons; other waste storage facilities, or other animal waste management practices; sediment retention or sediment source stabilization, or sediment or chemical runoff control; woodland, crop or orchard residue disposal without burning; solid waste disposal pits.

Farmer's Share Of Grocery Dollar Now 39 Cents

Despite rising prices at supermarkets, the farmer's share of the consumer food dollar continues to shrink or swell only slightly, leaving the middleman as the biggest shareholder in what families spend on groceries, according to the Agriculture department.

During the first three months of 1971, an Outlook and Situation board report said farmer's averaged 39 cents of each dollar consumers spend on food.

That was up one cent from the

Kansas Car Insurance Costs Below Average

These figures, supplied by the Insurance Rating Board, show the average automobile liability insurance rates for private passenger cars for average of $10,000 per person bodily injury, $20,000 per accident bodily injury, and $5,000 per accident property damage. Not included in these figures are the rates for collision, comprehensive, and uninsured motorist coverage, which many motorists carry and which operate on a no-fault principle.

Kansans' average rates are fifth from the bottom for bodily injury coverage and are $28.28 below the national average. For property damage coverage, Kansans' average rates are 27th from the top and are $3.81 below the national average.

IRS Take: $197 Billion

The IRS report gives the nitty-gritty on separating taxpayers from their money.

The IRS collected $195,722,096,497 in fiscal 1970, according to the commissioner's annual report, recently released.

That's more than $962 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It's up 64 per cent from $588 a head a mere five years earlier.

In fiscal 1970, receipts from alcohol and tobacco taxes amounted to more ($6.84 billion) than total federal tax collections in 1940 ($5.34 billion).

It cost the Revenue Service 45 cents to collect each $100, it says. (The figure has been under 50 cents every year but one since 1950). Of total collections, individual income taxes accounted for $103.65 billion, or 53 per cent. About 54.4 million taxpayers, or two out of three who filed for 1040 Form, were due refunds, averaging $241 each.

The IRS says that $32.86 billion in taxes, or 17 per cent of the total take, was collected in New York State alone. California was a distant second with $18.60 billion.

The IRS says it ended fiscal 1970 with 14,328 different forms or form letters in inventory. That's after adding 1,858 new ones and cutting out 2,897 old ones.

Texas Feedlots Bulging With 37% Gain

A number of cattle being fattened for slaughter in six major producing states May 1 totaled more than 7 million head, a gain of 9 per cent from a year earlier, says the Agriculture Department.

Texas, where drought has cut severely into range feed supplies, reported 37 per cent more cattle in feedlots than a year ago. Colorado showed a 23 per cent gain; California 12; Arizona 9, according to the Crop Reporting Board. Cattle feeding was down 10 per cent in Iowa, the biggest producer, and 7 per cent in Nebraska.

Sales of fat cattle for slaughter from the six states during April showed a 2 per cent dip from a year earlier, due to a 16 per cent decline in Iowa and a 14 per cent slip in California. The other states showed marketing gains from a year earlier, ranging from a 2 per cent increase in Texas. By state the number of cattle in feedlots on May 1 compared with a year earlier included:

Arizona 481,000 head on May 1 and 440,000 a year earlier; California 899,000 and 805,000; Colorado 880,000 and 718,000; Iowa 1,983,000 and 2,203,000; Nebraska 1,217,000 and 1,142,000.

In another report, the board said livestock range conditions in the West and Southwest improved somewhat during April but as of May 1 still averaged only 73 per cent, compared with 78 a year ago and 77 per cent for the 10-year average during 1960-69.

See Little Trouble Handling Wheat Harvest

A combination of circumstances leads grain and transportation authorities to believe the wheat to be harvested this summer can be moved into elevators without serious trouble.

But the harvest of the corn, milo and soybean crops next fall may see a return of the annual boxcar shortage.

For wheat at harvest time there will be ample space, with few exceptions, in both country and terminal elevators. Surpluses or carryovers of all grains are down this year.

Lower Wheat Crop
In the May 10 crop report, the government estimated the winter wheat crop at 1,020,566,000 bushels compared to 1,118,039,000 in 1970. Of this reduction 62 million is accredited to the smaller crops this year in Oklahoma and Texas. It is being freely predicted much of the newly harvested grain in or near drought areas of Oklahoma never will leave the county where it was grown simply will be trucked to nearest feedlot. It is for the first time between now and the milo harvest that the wheat is being bough feed.

Officials Meet
Officials of the Santa Fe, Burlington Northern, Rock Island, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads met recently with representatives of the Kansas Board of Trade, the Kansas Commerce Commission, the Kansas State Office in Kansas City which handles all government-owned surplus to discuss the grain movement this summer.

Carl M. Heaton, director of a commodity office of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture in Kansas City, said there are 7,490 country elevators in the United States, only 708 more than 40 percent of capacity occupied by owned grain. Most of these are in North and Dakota, and Montana.

Gluts Possible
When the railroads indicated they would not have serious trouble with wheat harvest, they also indicated there could be temporary gluts particularly if the weather permitted rapid harvest. Under such circumstances, a boxcar shortage would develop.

Looking to fall, one trouble may be Nebraska where the sorghum acreage is being increased substantially. Texas and Oklahoma also are boosting sorghum acreage. If prospects across the country and in the Great Plains are promising this fall the Interstate Commerce Commission might to initiate service orders would force railroads all over country to return boxcars to harvest areas.

Ewe Lamb Plan Distributes 320

The Kansas Quality Sheep Committee has completed its service of purchasing and distributing southwestern ewe lambs for Kansas producers.

John Meetz, executive secretary of the Kansas Livestock Association, noted that 3,205 ewes were chased and sent to sheepmen in counties.

Dr. George Ahlschwede, Kansas sheep specialist at Kansas State University, reported the ewes were large enough to breed, were open faced and had wrinkles, and had excellent size, frame, and quality.

No Closing At Ammunition Plant At Parsons

PARSONS — The Kansas Army Ammunition plant will continue operation through 1972, according to Horace L. Landes, the plant manager.

There has been periodic rumors of layoffs at the plant.

Landes said there are about 1,700 persons on the plant payroll, and he anticipates no big reductions in this number through the remainder of this year. He said he is "confident that we shall secure additional contracts for operation through 1972."

Landes made the statements in a commodity office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Kansas City, said the plant produces various types of ammunition for the armed services.
