THE SPIRIT OF KARSAS.

The Prohibition Printing Company. Topeka, - - - Kansas. Sixty Cents a Year in Advance. Or Two copies One Dollar,

The Spirit of Kansas aims to be a first class amily Journal, devoted to farm and home affeirs, and to all industrial, social and moral interests that go to make up the greater part of our Western Life. It will be found useful to those engaged in any of the departments of rural labor. Its miscellany, original and selected, will be such as will interest and instruct. Its editorial page will treat of matters relating to our social, industrial, and political life, wherever and whenever the interests of the great working masses appear involved, and always from a broad, comprehensive, and independent standpoint. We shall endeavor to make a paper representing the great west.

Our regular subscription price, for single subscibers will be 60 cents, or two copies $1.00, Ch bs of five or more 50 cents each.

OLD JOHN BROWN.

His Life and Letters. A Book that Every Intelligent Kansan will Want.

Sanborn's Life of John Brown.

Robert Brothers, Boston, are the publishers of this important contribution to the state of Kansas and the whole country. It contains nearly seven hundred pages, has six illustrations, is a fine specimen of printing, sells for $3, and Mr. J. C. Hebbard is the Topeka agent for its sale.

A full and trustworthy biography of this remarkable man had long been wanted, and Frank B. Sanborn, of Concord, Mass., could alone write it. He is a scholar and well known author, but his especial fitness for this work is found in the fact that he was John Brown's confidential friend; that he was one of a half dozen persons who knew that Capt. Brown would strike the blow at Harper's Ferry, and that he raised the money to enable the brave men to do it, and thus carry out the purpose of his

The book is entirely free from sensationalism: it is calm and quiet through out butcrowded with interest. The full story had not been told before, and you follow the narration to the end with absorbing attention. In some way, by some unknown spell, it brings back the feeling and temper of the times before the war as no other book has done. Half of it, probably, is taken up with Brown's letters and other writings, and relates to our own state, and thus it becomes a Kansas book, and one of the very best. Its moderation and calm tone will disarm offensive criticism. In fact the little coterie that has endeavored, with malice aforethought, to make a "re-valuation" of history, will find here hard facts and proofs against which even malice and envy will fight in vain. The book is built on the rock of truth, and it will stand.

The strangest thing to us about John Brown and his history, and their workings and effect on humanity, are the myths and legends built up around his name and character. Mr. Sanborn, a Concord philosopher, was the first person to observe this movement, and his treatment of it in his Torrington Life of Brown-contributed to the History of Torrington, Conn., Brown's birth place,-struck most American readers unpleasantly. But the myth and legend movement is one constantly increasing in volume, and we actually see a religion grow up in our own materialistic age, with John Brown as its central figure. Ten years ago a famous American, who lives in Paris, said that he ham Lincoln and Ulysess S. Grant, so dared to be traiter to the government tinues to be a national anthem. Two of human nature. persons in Kansas claim its authorship although it was printed and sung by Brown kissed while on his way to the ly as they shine forever. scaffold—said child now being a stage. And so have these John in 1822. Brown legends. They can be dispass on and they spring up again.

ry. Passing the little evidence of ignorance in the account of Brown, Virginia slave-owners," we find the pure myth in the effective statement tion shows the French genius for at Charleston, Va., he said: dramatic situations.

Brown's life in such a way, that the book will go into our literature as be done." one of the few great American biog- On the day of his death he wrote cloth and contains about 750 pages.

John Brown of Osawatomie.

qualifications for the preparation of Lincoln. this work. He is well known as a terms of close intimacy with John Brown in his lifetime; and in a large measure shared his confidence in the planning and execution of his designs and with admirable clearness. To all old Kansans this book will seam indispensable, and the children of those who were on Kansas soil anin it not less deep; for the history of Kansas without this history of John erature. The John Brown song con- making perpetual plea for the rights Savior of a world from sin, and the Washington, as the father of his Washington, as the father of his country; Jefferson, as the author of that is owned by Mrs. G. L. Stearns, tens of thousands of people before the date of authorship fixed by the Kannorthwest; Lincoln, as the emancipation of Boston, that was taken by the distribution of Boston and Boston sculptor, Brackett. date of authorship fixed by the Kansas claimants. But they will continue to present their claims—and no specagainst; Grant, as the silent man of following is selected: ial evil will result. The September destiny, whose performance was ever Century will give one phase of this greater than his promise; Brown, the sire to take John Brown's bust, and story, written by the enthusiast, Capt. Richard J. Hinton. Within a week we have seen a copy of the Memphis, Tenn., Times, in which there is a long as bright enduring stars in the Amerstory about the colored child John ican firmanent, shining more bright-

Peter Brown, the ancestor of John grown person and living in Memphis. Brown, was one of the pilgrims who But John Brown kissed no colored landed on Plymouth Rock in Decemchild that day. A correspondent ber 1820, and Mathew Grant, the anmade the incident; it struck the pop- cestor of Ulysses S. Grant, settled alar heart; it cannot be torn out. about ten years later at Dorchester, The revisors of the new testament Massachusetts. A few years after-left out the story of Christ and the wards the Grants and Browns were at the express wish and expense of glorified woman—"Neither do I con- at Windsor, Connecticut, as settlers, demn thee: go thou and sin no more." Windsor having been the first settled But it will be as easy to take the sun town in that state; and early in this out of the skies as that story of de- century, the Browns and Grants were Virginia the next morning, and he vine forgiveness out of the heart of settlers in Ohio. Washington was found on arriving at Charleston that proved, refuted, laid in the dust; you of each in the "old dominion," where only escaped imprisonment by appeal-bass on and they spring up again.

Lord Cornwallis surrendered to Wash-A recent News paragraphsays: In ington and Robert E. Lee to Ulysses services had been secured for the de-A recent News paragraphs says: an Barbon's "Victor Hugo," there is an interesting illustration of the growth of myths around the John Brown stood myths around the John Brown slave. As Abraham Lincoln when a to cross the threshold. John Brown youth cherished a belief that he to cross the threshold. such as describing him as a "man of property," and picturing his trial as "before an improvised tribunal of Virginia slave-owners," we find the

As a condemned criminal, with that "Brown was led to the gallows by Wilkes Booth, the future assassin of President Lincoln!" This invenhis last speech on November 2, 1859,

As a condemned criminal, with poor; no consequence to posterity how I looked. As a dernier resort, Mr. Brackett requested Mr. Griswold to not a myth-maker; he neither makes ance of justice, and mingle my blood further with the blood of millions in controversy; he tells the story of John this slave country, whose rights are disregarded by wicked, exuel and unjust enactments-I submit; so let it

I, John Brown, am now quite certain that the crimes of this guilty land will never be purged away but with blood. The are the company to the From the Capital.

Robert Brothers, of Boston, Mass., have just published the life and letator of the Tolon Brown, the liberator of the Tolon Brown Brow

John Wilkes Booth, and, on April 15, Mr. Sanborn possessed special 1865, this man assassinated President

John Brown could never forget the writer of rare ability. He was on binding mandate of the apostle Paul: "Remember them that are in bonds as bound with them."

Ralph Waldo Emerson forcibly said: "It is impossible to see courage against slavery. He was intimate and disinterestedness and the love with Brown's family and associates, that casts out fear, without sympaand thus the materials for this work thy. The arch-abolitionist older than came into his full possession. Their Brown, and older than the Shenancompilation, arrangement and elucidoah mountains, is love, whose name dation have been done with fidelity, is justice, which was before Alfred, before Lycurgus, before slavery, and will be after it."

Governor Andrew, of Massachusetts, said: "Whatever may be thought terior to 1860, will take an interest of John Brown's acts, John Brown himself was all right."

Governor Robinson, of Kansas, on Brown would be very much "like the the occasion of the dedication of the play of Hamlet with Hamlet omit- Osawatomie monument to John Brown, and his co-workers, said: "The The work comprises seventeen chap- soul of John Brown was the inspiraters. The title of the first is, "Ancestion of the Union armies in the emantry and Childhood;" of the last, "The cipation war, and it will be the inspir-Death and Character of John Brown." ation of all men in the present and The names of John Brown, Abra-distant future who may revolt against can, who lives in Paris, said that he did not know how his countrymen regarded John Brown, but, with Frenchmen, he was a god. So he was represented by Victor Hugo, and he is a unique place in French lit-other of a race from bondage. The Kansas State Historical Socie-

Take that and start immediately.
John Brown will refuse to have his bust taken; he will say, 'all nonsense better give the money to the poor!
And if Mr. Brackett replies that posterity will want to know how he looked, he may say, 'no consequence to posterity how I looked, better give the money to the poor? Then, if every argument fails to convince him, Mrs. Stearns, and that she will be deeply disappointed if he returns with out the measurements.

Mr. Brackett was on his way to man. It has passed the revision born in 1732; Brown in 1800; Grant he had not come an hour too soon.

The excitement over the arrival of a stranger from the north was intense And how important was the work and ridiculous. He was seized and ted Mr. Brown's objections—the very words almost: 'Give the money to the say he had come at the express wish But Capt. Brown's biographer is should forfeit my life for the futher and that she will be deeply dissapont a myth-maker; he neither makes Finally, lifting his head and straightening himself up, he said with emotion: "Anything Mr. or Mrs. Stearns desire. Take the measure-

On seeing the bust, Charles Sumner exclaimed: "There is nothing the CHARLESTON, VA., December 2, 1859. sun shines upon so like Michael An-

Frank B. Sanborn. The book is an octave volume neatly bound in fine surrounded John Brown's scaffold was will be the Life and Letters of John Brown, so faithfully presented by one of his truest friends, Frank B. Sanborn, of Concord, Mass.

Big Drive FOR A GOOD MAN.

WANTED

To Lease, Rent, or Sell

21 Town Lots in Topeka, Kansas, on the side trace of the A. T. & S. F. R. R. A part of these lots from to Eighth Avenue, east. A flave a front to the side track in good locality for manufacturing purposes of all kinds, or for storage. I will rent or lease on lot or all of them as the party may desire. Cr. 44 the same way, Better call and see me at 24 Kansas Avenue, Topeka, Kansas

I will also rent lease or . v part or

All of 320 Acres of Land situated thirteen miles from Topeka and one fourth of a mile from the U. P depot at Kingsville, and two and a half miles west of Silver Lake. This farm is all under cultivation, with good buildings and well watered. Will be seld in 5 or 10 acre jous for gardening purposes, and part on time.

Topeka, Kansas. C. DUNN.

WANTED LADIES AND GENTLEMEN who was homes, Work sent by mail, No canvasing. Address, with stamp Crown M'l'g, Co., 294 Vine St., Cin'ti,O Gregory's 10ct. Emporium.

Corner of Sixth and Jackson Streets,

We keep constantly on hand a line of good that cannot be surpassed in quality at the price of TEN CENTS EACH.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Chas N. Taylor,

Dry Goods and Groceries.

Dealer in Dry Goods, Staple and Fancy Groceries, Glour and Feed. Cash paid for all kinds of country produce, North Topeka.

Remember the place, 606 Kansas Avenue. Ed. Buechner Dealer in choicest fresh 406 Kansas Avenue,

City Meat Market meats, poultry, game, fish, etc North Topeka,

J. D. Pattison,

Stoves.

Dealer in hardware, tinware, stoves, ranges, edge tools, etc. North Topeka.

W. H. Moody, Shawpooing and hair-cutting in first class style, North Topeka JNO. SEMPRES.

Blacksmith.

Plows, Listers, Cultivators, Machinery and Emery Polishing. North Topeka.

Photographer.

GEO DOWNING, Gold, Beveled Edge Cabinet Photograpus for $2,59 per doz. until further notice the German Language spoken.

South Topeka.

A NEW DEPARTURE IN DICTIONARIES.

An Industrial Revolution.—In a large Connecticut pranufacturing establishment there is in operation a new style of furnace which produces more steam-power from a consumption of 1,000 lbs of coal than can be generated from 20,000 lbs of coal than can he larger dictionaries hitherto published give the erivative terminations. The New American hickbonary, for instance, does not give any of the 5th, The Illustrations in Webster's ractical are more numerous and better executed an those of any other abridged or low-priced lectionary.

than flose of any other determined the determined of the determine sometimes allotted to them.

7th, Componium Matter.—Still another invaluable teature of Webster's Practical is its compendium matter, over one hundred pages of which is devoted to the most complete Pronouncing Vocabulary ever compiled of Biblical, Classical, Mythological, Historical and Geographical Proper manes. With Webster's Practical Die-

THE QUANTITY TEXT.

(The following exhibits are from the texts of the dictionaries named). Webster's Practical Dictionary, ($1) 600,000 Words and 1,400 Illustrations. New American Dictionary, ($1) 240,000, Words and 116 Illustrations. National Popular Dictionary, ($1) 240,000, Words and 116 Illustrations. National Standard Dictionary, ($1) 210,000 Words and 612 Illustrations.

Quality Test.—Aside from all advantages above alluded to, there is still another and very important feature of the new work to be considered, viz: its quality as compared with the cheap dictionaries which have had the largest sales, and which have been compiled chiefly from the old editions of Webster on which the copyrights have expired. Hence Webster's Practical contains more matter than any other dollar dictionary. Its quality, to say the least, is the very best, while its arrangement and other new and designable features, including first-class illustrations, paper, cinting and binding are added without extra charge. A Subscription Book.—As Webster's Practical is not for sale at hook-stores, our readers will be able to procure it only from canvassing agents, unless it be ordered in connection with this journal in accordance with our special offers.

This Dictionary free by mail, and the "Spirit of Kansas" one year for $...

325 Gold Silver Watches

CHAPMAN & CO.

THE SPIRIT OF KANSAS.

For the Week Ending Aug 22, 1885

G. F. KIMBALL. EDITOR. Entered in the Post Office in Topeka, for

PROHIBITION STATE CONVEN-

Camp Meeting and Kansas Day.

During the Camp Meeting at Forest Park, Ottawa, Kansas, on the 25th day of August, 1885, there will be a State Convention of the Prohibition Party of Kansas, at which time and place all who believe in National Pro-hibition and are in sympathy with its platform and principles, are most cordially invited to meet with us and participate in the deliberations of the

We especially invite the W. C. T. U. from all parts of the state to be present with their suggestions, advice and reports.

A grand old "gala day," is expected where we may meet face to face, and discuss those moral and economic questions so dear to every good and sympathising heart.

Come one, come all and from every precinct in the state, and help plan for the glorious triumph of our principles in the near future. Some of the best speakers in our state and nation will be present to entertain and instruct us.

By order of Committee, ANNIEF, H. P. VROOMAN H. J. CANNIEF, Secretary. Newspapers favorable please copy.

Notice.

It is possible we may conclude to suspend the issue of the Spirit for next week, in order to be present at the Ottawa Camp Meeting in the interest of the paper.

The Methodist Church and Prohibition.

The Miltonvale News is one of the pluekiest of our local prohibition papers. It has just been having a tilt with a Methodist preacher, who had an idea that he was well advanced in the work of temperance reform.

This is not an uncommon error, and it leads us to say something on the relation of the Methodist church to Prohibition. We have a world of confidence in the work that the Methodist church will yet do for prohibition. Within the next two years we expect to see in it the most powerful ally of the great Prohibition Party. And this in view of the fact that, in Kansas at-least, it is to-day a mill stone upon the neck of the cause.

Of course we are aware that this statement may give offense to some. It is not made for that purpose. It is made in the interest of truth, and if it may be, to stimulate thought.

The Methodist church is now too old and too rich to be radical. It is too large and powerful to be actively progressive. But when it does move it is irresistible.

The Methodist church was not early in the anti-slavery fight, but when it was once in the conflict it was an army with banners. So it will be ical Prohibitionists took no stock in the conflict it was an itself squarely on a prohibition plat. The great river, and canals connect its upper stream with the White and itself squarely on a prohibition plat. feet of the Republican party. When will fall from its eyes and in the new Prohibition Party it will recognize the sword of Gideon that shall smite to the earth another consuming evil. Some of our friends are impatient at the delay of the various churches in coming to the aid of the Prohibition Party in its advocacy of a great moral reform. But such persons have not studied well the philosophy of religious thought in its connection with current moral development. It is sometimes aggravating to persons of active perceptions, but it is not strange that this growth of ideas is so slow. When we look back after the lapse of years this very slowness appears like a wonderful growth. Church influence is largely directed by the clergy, although now and then an individual mind flashes out with refreshing brilliancy and independ.

Unfortunately, or fortunately, it may be, the training of the clerical mind is not such as to cultivate a high degree of political acumen. It party. may quickly recognize moral features in the abstract. But when it comes to a practical remedy through political means, the ordinary clerical mind is as a simple child's, until the breaking in of light that comes like intuition to set it right.

There is too much strategy in politics for minds not trained in it, and too often this degenerates into un-principled demagoguism. There is little of this in religious training, so that a good preacher is usually a poor politician, even though moral questions may be the ones at issue.

In view of these considerations we advise forbearance on the part of our prohibition friends. It is often painful to witness our natural allies working against us, but we can always afford to wait. We are certain to have the Christian influence of this land. It has no place but with us. It will find its own when others prove false. Trust in Providence for that.

The church opposition to Third Party Prohibition is not to be classed with the opposition of the political parties. It is far more honest, and we are sure to fall heir to its influence time, not ours, it may be,

Griffin on Gov. Martin.

The following is from the last isue of the Manhattan Nationalist:

Col. Martin could neither have been nominated nor elected without the support of radical prohibitionists, who, putting implicit faith in his pledges to enforce the law, in spirit as well as in letter, gave their own personal pledges to such of their friends as did not know him or feared he influences that surrounded him. the influences that surrounced min-ls it strange that they now feel in-dignant as well as grieved? Every where they go, they are re-minded of those pledges and taun-ted with their failure. Would they be justified in remaining silent? They propose no cast, iron plan but They propose no cast iron plan but simply ask that something effective be done. Is this unreasonable? Let us have an honest answer from dispassionate men.

Be justified in remaining silent? Of course you would be, unless you go right to your "friends" and tell them just how you have been fooled. at the time. You are taunted now all there is to it.

manhood. You are weak and cowardly. You had no political sagacity. You were tricked, beaten, sold. Havopen handed a game as ever was will tower above them. played, you should stand by the result like a man.

It is worse than squaw weakness to whine the way you do.

Why don't you grit your teeth and take your own medicine and call it sweet like the Topeka Capital? The Leavenworth Times assured the saloon men before Martin was nominated that he would not disappoint them, and you knew it. You knew Martin was an anti-prohibitionist, yet you flew in the face of the divine word and avowed that the leopard could change his spots and the Ethiopian his skin.

Radical prohibitionists put implicit faith in the pledges of an avowed anti-prohibitionist, vouched for as such by D. R. Anthony, and a candidate for office? Faith in a man who was at that moment encouraging the violation of law in his own town, by printing the advertisements of an outlawed traffic?

again. It is yet a worshipper at the John A. Martin. It was the timid, the Republicant of the abolition of t conservative soft shells who did that. that idol is once broken the scales If Martin gave pledges it was not to radical prohibitionists, but to green gudgeons in prohibition work.

Of course he said he would enforce but who believed it? Why every one knew it was a political white lie, except the poor innocents like you. ample warning but would not receive hibition. it. You were too bright.

Now be a man, a mouse or a long tailed rat.

Admit that you were deceived, and epudiate the deceivers. Come out for the cause of prohibition without the hypocrisy of Republicanism on the one hand and the revenue policy on the other, or lie in the bed you have made without whining.

You had no right to expect any thing but just what you have received and there's a heap more of it left for you if you stay with the Republican Mark that Albert Griffin.

We ask Republican Prohibitionists who have so much love for party, to hold themselves in readiness to desert it, sooner or later, unless they are willing to desert the principle of Prohibition.

We are glad to welcome to our table the Irrepressible Conflit of Marshall, Mo., edited by our old friend, Dr. W. S. Holland. The Doctor is a whole-souled Prohibitionist and always on the right track.

Bro. Anthony has this to say of

Bro. Griffin, all in the family: Old Albert Griffin is still yowling around like a sick Tom cat because Gov. Martin doesn't break his neck in an effort to ride every hobby that Griffin points out to him.

Very much hinges upon the result of the present campaign in Ohio. If the Prohibitionists do not make very marked gains the Republicans will take renewed courage and yield still more to the saloon demand It is the first opportunity they have had to speak since their great defeat, and if they can hold to the party the prowhen the change comes, for this is hibitionists of the state who voted God's work we are doing, and we for the Second Amendment in 1883, shall have His agencies in time,—His on a regulation and taxation platform they will expect to hold them hereafter on any platform. The Prohibitionists must teach the Republicans of that state a strong lesson, and the temperance men of other states look to them to do it. If the Republicans of Illinois, in 1858 had yielded to the Douglas Democrats, and supported Douglas, because of his Anti-Lecompton defection, Lincoln would not have been elected President in 1860. The country looks to Ohio now as it looked to Illinois then, and it urges Prohibitionists to be true as the Ilinois Republicans were true.

Albert Griffin says that the Republican Prohibitionists received many promises from John A. Martin last year, on the strength of which he and others gave their personal pledge for Martin's devotion to prohibition. But now Griffin says he is sorely tormented as he goes over the state in behalf of the Temperanse Union, by taunts that his pledges were good for You have no particle of ground for nothing. This is no doubt very agcomplaint You were sold out last gravating to the personal pride of the year, and you ought to have known it poor Albert, but it simply shows his own want of common sagacity and a because of your own stupidity, that's deplorable lack of judgment in his course last year. A man so inconsist-It is not strange that you feel in- ent and so easily gulled is of no acdignant because you lack in sturdy count in reform movements, and the sooner he ties up the better. There's a sweeping wave coming but there will be no need then for men like Aling been miserably used up in as bert Griffin. How the Van Bennetts

> Col. Anthony, of the Leavenworth Times, has on his red top boots. He was in a woful minority, apparently, in the state convention a year ago, but he won the day, and now that poor Griffin is whining over his discomfiture, Anthony is cruelly jubilant and affirms that prohibition is knockin the head, while the truckling Capital says that neither Prohibition nor don't you never give me away to dad, anti-Prohibition should again be a or he'd skin me." anti-Prohibition should again be a question in any Republican convention in Kansas. How has the Capi-

> Albert Griffin cannot run the Republican party, and he whines pittifully because he has been so wofully deceived in Gov. Martin. It presents a case where we can say with considerable indifference, "We told fully because he has been so wofully

We only ask Republican Prohibitionists to resolve to join our party the saloon in the District of Columbia

The common rate of interest is now about four percent per annum, ex cept where corporations, curbstone brokers and the money plunderers the law, when he was on the stump, have a hand at it and then the rate is increased fourfold.

Poor Albert Griffin! He begins Well, "We told you so," and we now to see what others saw, and what to bring down their game. In years the ought to have seen, last year, that to day. You were so cendescending the John A. Martin wing of the last year you remember. You had Republican party do not care for pro-

> All honor to President Cleveland. The people rejoice with exceeding gladness that the public domainwhat there is left of it—is to be devoted to the use of actual settlers.

its simplest form, it signed its own death warrant.

But for tobacco Gen. Grant would be living yet. Such is the evidence of his physicians. How many such lives has the vile stuff ever saved?

The two old parties tried to dodge the Prohibition question in Virginia, and they are now organizing a Prohibition Party.

Gen. Grant buried the bloody shirt and palsied be the hand of the first political hyena that attempts to dig

What does Gov. Martin do toward enforcing the prohibitory law that Gov. Glick did not do. We held last year and we hold now that the election of Glick would have been more in the interest of Prohibition that that of Martin. Glick would have centralized prohibition senti-ment. Martin is demoralizing it, and has captured the State Capital. Gluc se Honey.

A Wavne county farmer, says the Detroit Free Press, has succeeded in earning a place in history along with the Connecticut man who invented wooden nutmegs. He lives between Detroit and Dearborn on Michigan av-enue in a vine-covered cottage back a little way from the road. On the front fence appears the sign 'White clover honey.' Back of the house is an apiary with all the modern inventions for the care of bees and nearly fifty hives sound with the cheerful humming of the busy honey-makers.

A representative of the Free Press quite by accident called at the house yesterday and found no one at home and while sitting by an old well curb refreshing himself with cool water from an old oaken bucket his attention was called to the action of the bees. The cottage is surrounded with luxuriant roses in full bloom, but these bees did not, as bees used to do,

Gather honey all the day
From every opening flow Instead were swarming around a large tray which stood near by, and were flying back and forth to hives. In this tray was half an inch of a sticky mass that looked like syrup. Little sticks were strewn over this substance, and on these the bees were alighting, and after taking some of the syrup flew back to the hives.

"What do you want o' them bees?"
The intruder started up and found a barefooted lad standing before him. "What is this the bees are taking?" asked the visitor.

"What do you want to know for? Dad said we wasn't to tell any one anything about it."
"I'll give you a quarter if you will,"

said the reporter, now thoroughly interested. "Well, I dunno what it is. Dad gets well, I dunno what it is. Dad gets it from town in a bar'l. Here's what he gits it in," pointing to a large cask.

On the end of the barrel was the stencil mark: "200 lbs grape sugar from Michigan Grape Sugar "Manufac ory."

"Is that glucose that the bees are getting?" "It's something that dad gets out of that bar'l, that's all I know about it. The inquiring visitor tasted it. There was an unmistakable gumdrop flavor

"We had hard work to get the bees used to it. Dad put in a lot of syrup at first, but the bees take it straight

"How long does it take to fill a

"Not near so long as it does when they have to get the honey from flow-ers. We've taken out a lot this year already."

The boy brought out of the house a box of glucose honey which looked as clear and inviting as though the sweets had been distilled from the purest flowers.

"Do you eat it?" the boy was asked. "Sometimes. It ain't so good as the other, but it's just as good to sell. Say,

The Volga.

The Volga is the longest, as it is the greatest, river in Europe. It runs from latitude 57 north, through exclusively Russian territory, a distance of over two thousand miles, and falls into named place, where the great fair of the Russo-Oriental world is annually held. Moscow itself, the ancient city of the czars, is situated on a tributary pi, and it somewhat resembles the latter river in its changeable channel, great length, and vast volume.

How the Canadian Indians Fight.

A gentleman who has spent many years among the Indians and half-breeds in the northwest declared that they had attained a remarkable profi-ciency in the use of the rifle. Their velous. On these occasions everything bearing in the remotest degree upon the chase was left to a captain, who gave the word for the attack. Until then not a move could be made. Sad havoc was made in the rank of the buffalo by these natives of the prairie, although armed with only an old flintrock rifle. Powder was carried in a horn, strung across the shoulder, and When the Republican party nominated J. G. Blaine at Chicago, and mouth. Thus equipped and mounted, turned its back upon prohibition, in its simplest form, it signed its own was guided by the knee and kept running in the direction desired, the powder was slipped deftly into the chamber, and holding the barrel to his mouth the ball was dropped into its place; then striking the rifle across the knee, causing the ball and powder to come together, the hunter was again ready for another shot. The loading of their rifles is thus done in a moment. If with such poor and antiment. If with such poor and anti-quated rifles such wonderful results were accomplished it is not difficult to account for the deadly effects of their fire in the Duck Lake fight, armed as they were with the most improved weapons of modern warfare.—Toronto Globe.

The total of sales of Louisa M. Alcott's works has passed 500,000. Robert Toombs is so nearly blind that he no longer writes his own let-

It is said that Bernhardt's two ambi-tions are to grow fat and write good

A ton of gum arabic is used weekly at the government envelope factory at Hartford Conn.

The assessed value of real estate and personal property of Pennsylvania is $1,683,468,016.

A QUEER CLIENT.

actical, Common-Sense Man Sudden ly Developing Amazing Freaks.

Among the brilliant array of counse which Col. Rogers, whose unsettled mental condition recently got him into trouble with a Staten Island hotel-keeper, had called to his relief, was Ira D. Warren. The colonel fancied that a great many people were earnest-ly engaged in doing him a serious injury, and had intrusted a variety of litigation to Mr. Warren. Clark Bell, Roscoe Conkling, Lucas L. Van Allen, and others. In regard to this remark-able case of dementia, Mr. Warren

"The case of Col. Rogers is nothing to the extraordinary insanity that be-fell a client of mine some years ago. He came of a fine family, and was well known about town. He was quite as much my friend as my client. I knew him and all his family intimately. His affairs had been in my hands nearly affairs had been in my hands nearly twenty years, and during all that while I knew him as one of the most practical, common-sense men I had ever met. Indeed, he was the embodiment of vigorous and robust manhood.

"One day he came into my office and told me he had contracted to purchase ten houses. I thought I knew his fi-nancial condition almost to a dollar, and I was surprised at the announce-ment, for I did not see how in the world he could carry it out. He spoke very decisively, however, and as he did not seem disposed to confide his plan to me I assumed that he had got hold of some money somehow or other, and knew what he was about. He wanted me to search the titles of the property that he intended to buy, and added that the men would be in my office at noon the next day to sign the agreement of purchase. Sure enough, at noon they were on hand, and according to his instructions I drew up the papers for both of the contracting parties to sign. Then to my infinite astonishment, he said he was going to pay $5,000 down on the bargain.

"This is absurd," I said. "It will take me a week to look up those titles, and these people are strangers to us.

What if the titles are not good?'
"'Oh, never mind that,' he answered indifferently; 'they're all right. Besides, I have plenty of money, lots of it, oceans of it, more than I know what to do with. Pay up, pay up.'

"I knew that this was all nonsense, but I supposed that he had his reasons for wishing to impress the men with his presumed wealth, so I said no more but reluctantly gave them his check. A day or so afterward he returned and said briskly, Warren, do you want to make a fortune?' ... 'How?' I asked.

"'I'll let you into it,' he said. I have arranged to buy up all the lots in Central park from Fifth avenue to Eighth avenue up to Seventieth street, and I'm going to erect a building on them thirty stories high.'
"I looked intensely at him as he made this bewildering proposition. His face was as straight and as serious as if he were considering a scheme to buy a simple building lot in Harlem. I was forced to believe that he was serious, and, consequently, that his mind was disturbed. So I answered that I thought well of his plan, and would see what money I could raise to carry it out. 'But just now,' I added, 'I'm a little short, and should like to borrow a few thousands of you. How much have you on hand? "'Half a million,' he answered as coolly as could be. I knew well enough what he had, and asked him for $10,-000. This, I knew, would not leave him more than $100 in eash. He gave me his check and left the office, and within five minutes I had it certified and secure. I then wrote his wife, and her reply was convincing that he was clearly insone, his mania being that he was immensely rich. A day or two later he came into my office in company with another man, whom I recognized as a picture-dealer. Then, for the first time, I saw symptoms of insanity in his face. His eyes were wild and bloodshot, and his features contorted, as if in rage. I immediately concluded that we were to have a y concluded that we were to have a lively time over that $10,000, and quickly rose to my feet to prepare for it.

"He walked rapidly up to me, grasped my hand, and, pulling me toward him, whispered, 'Old man, lend me $500 till to-morrow.'

"I wasn't prepared for that, and hardly knew what to say, but reaching into my safe I took out an old check-book, long since disused, and pointing to a stub that showed a balance in bank of less than $100, I answered: Does that look as if I could?

"'No.' he replied, "it don't," and wheeling around, he darted out of the office as suddenly as he had come in. "The picture-seller remained, and I asked him what all this meant. answered that my client had bought a cart-load of chromos of him to be sent to his friends. I told him he had better keep his chromos. In a week my client became violently insane, and we removed him to Dr. Barstow's asylum in Flushing, where he died only a few weeks later. We found that he had weeks later. We found that he had been buying jewelry, diamonds, pictures, bronzes, houses, and any variety of things, all of which we returned upon slight compromises. My action in obtaining that $10,000 check saved his family from poverty. But what a remarkable case of sudden and inexplicable insanity!"—New York Tribune.

A correspondent writes of Edwin Booth and his daughter, who is soon to be married to Mr. Grossman: The Booth house in Chestnut street is a gem in its way, but unless the fair young mistress returns to make it her home it will never look the same. home it will never look the same. Booth is such a dyspeptic and so moody at times that his life must be shorn of half its comforts when his little daugh-ter is not there to keep open house for ter is not there to keep open house for all his Boston friends. The wedding all his Boston friends. The wedding is to be very quiet, and then they all go over to Europe for the summer. Mr. Booth says he will not be left behind, and of course the "old auntie" who has been Miss Booth's nurse and maid since her birth goes also. The sister of Mr. Grossman has been the intimate friend of Miss Booth for several years, and this marriage is said to be the result of their great friendship.

METHEGLIN.

A Beverage That Once Knocked Out Sam Ward,

An amusing anecdote of the famous judge of eatables and drinks, Sam Ward, is thus related by Halston in the New York Times:

"Talking of good judges of liquor," said a gossipy friend the other day, "poor Sam Ward, that's gone, had as keen a palate as the best of them. Sam keen a palate as the best of them. Sam was proud of his sagacity in detecting adulter tions in good old brandies, liquors, and cordials, although I have heard him boast but once or twice about his skill in that line. One summer—it was early in the seventies—I happened to meet him at Lenox, and was with him in a small party of conwas with him in a small party of con-vivial spirits who took a long drive one day. We had dinner at a back counday. We had dinner at a back country hotel—even in the backwoods you try hotel—even in the backwoods you don't find inns nowadays—and it was a very ordinary feast. The wine was worse, and Sam Ward fell into ironically extolling its virtues. From sarcasm the talk became earnest, and finally we were discussing famous brands. Sam, of course, was the soul of the parks and wavening and the parks and wavening and the same than the same and of the party, and, warming up on the subject, went so far as to boast that he could detect any kind of liquor with ease. We were all interested—nobody was ever bored by Sam Ward—and it was late when we started on our home-ward drive. We missed the main road and were caught in a shower, that dewere caught in a shower, that developed into a steady pour, so that we were glad to stop at the first convenient farm-house. The proprietor seemed to be a trifle suspicious at first, but Sam soon won him over completely; the old man brought out some home-made wine, and Sam told a good story. The farmer produced more wine and Sam had more stories. Down the cel-lar stairs went the old fellow again, lar stairs went the old fellow again, and this time he came up with his stone pitcher half full of a thick, oily fluid. Mr. Ward, who always got the best, was honored with a big goblet that held nearly a pint. Our host filled it to the brim, while the rest of us had to be satisfied with smaller allotments. We all sipped and sipped again. It was a very warming drink.

"What do you call this, my friend?" asked Sam. The old boy chuckled, and told us to guess. Instead of guessing we drank some more, and emptied ing we drank some more, and emptied our glasses before we rose. Again the cups were filled and again they were drained. I felt happy, and the others seemed quite as merry. Just then the hired man came into the kitchen with the announcement that he had got the cows. The farmer hated to go, he said, but milking was milking, and prepared to go out. Up rose Sam also. The rest of us were content to sit still, but we did not want it thought that we felt the thimbleful of the stuff we'd swallowed. Sam insisted on milking a cow, and we all went out to a leaky old shed, under which stood four peaceful bovines. The route was more or ful bovines. The route was more or less indirect perhaps—the ground was slippery with the rain. In vain the old man protested. Sam would milk, and the party of admirers huddled around in an applauding circle to see the performance. Ward gravely took the stool, placed it under the animal's nose, and then lurched to the ground directly back of her, thrus the pail fordirectly back of her, thrust the pail for-ward under her hind legs, and bravely began his task. It was a meditative cow, and she couldn't stand everything. No milk came down, but something else did, and that was Sam Ward, who, rolling head over heels into a puddie, lay sprawling before us. Somebody helped him up. Sam Ward looked first on that cow and then on the stool; he picked up the stool, sat down on it, and went to sleep. The next morning I remember getting out of a feather bed and crawling down to breakfast with the 'biggest' head my shoulders ever carried. It was a quiet meal; even Sam didn't care to talk. We limbed into our carriage. pay our entertainer, who (though a genuine Yankee) declined to take a cent, and we were ready to depart. Sam had been thinking of something, and he leaned forward and looked squarely at the farmer.

"'My friend," he said, 'would you do me one favor? What was that bev-erage you regaled us with last night? It was a pleasant liquor, but it was muscular, my friend, very muscular, I should judge—if taken to excess.'

"The farmer laughed. 'Metheglin!'

he said. 'Plain honey and water—just honey and water that's worked a lit-

"Sam fell back in his seat. 'Metheglin,' he murmured, 'Metheglin, great be thy name. You've floored Sam Ward—floored Sam Ward, who has not been floored in years and years. Great be thy name. I'll teach New York a point or two!' and he did."

There has been an increase in unemployed capital in New York City during the past year of $78,000,000. The individual deposits are $50,000,000 greater than they were a year ago.

Springfield, Mass., will be 250 years old on May 25, 1886, according to the first recorded meeting of William Pynchon and his little band of settlers on the banks of the Connecticut River.

The new stone which has lately become popular for jewelry purposes, and called the eye, or "spatmotic," proves to be merely petrified wood. It has a peculiar dull fire and shades very conjunts.

—A young lady in New York recently paid five hundred dollars for a pair of thoes. They were made of white satin, embroidered with pearls. And here you see the advantage of living in New York. For a similar pair of shoes, a Chicage girl, for obvious reasons, would have to pay about ten thousand dollars.—Roston Transcript.

-Plum Pudding. Small-One cup —Plum Pudding. Small—One cup each of chopped suct, flour, bread crumbs, sugar, raisins stoned, currants and citron; four eggs well beaten, one teaspoonful each ground cloves, cinnamon, allspice and mace, salt to taster mix all dry, adding milk enough last to make stiff batter; boil or steam four hours.—The Household

The highest-priced clock in Ameria is owned by a Wall-street broker in lew York. It cost $34,000, and was used in that city.—N. Y. Star.

John Wand, Prescription Druggist Windsor Drug Store.

H. J. Canniff, Notary Public, 295 Railroad St. North Topeka.

Millinery at your own price at Mrs. Metcalf's. Over 500 hats to be sold out regardless of cost. We are prepared to do the neares kind of commercial and small job print-ng and can discount any office in the state in prees. Will you go to work and get up a ub for the Spirit? We depend upon Prohibitionists in every part of the state to give it a wide circulation.

Scribners Lumber and Log Book, and Fisher's Grain Tables, for 50 cents. Either one of these books will be mailed post-paid for 30 cents, or the two for 50 cents. Send money to the office of the Spirit. See advertisement these books on last page of this paper. All kinds of Summer Millinery at half price at Mrs. Metcalfs. 239 Kansas Avenue.

We are making prices to close out seasonable goods. E. A. TAFT & Co.

Webster's Dictionary Free!

Get us five subscribers at 60 cents each, and we will send you free the Webster's Dictionary, advertised elsewhere. Send us One Dollar and we will send the Spiritone year and the Ziction-

Go to the 10 ct. Emporium corner of Sixth and Jackson and see for your-selves the great variety of useful articles for the low price of 10 cts. each. Arti-cles that are really worth several times that amount are sold for that small

AGENTS WANTED.

To sell the Best Life of Grant that is to be published in this generation. The to be published in this generation. The uncertainty attending the publication of Grant's Memoirs leaves this work the most important and the nearest to the great soldier that will appear for some time to come.

Ready early in September. Send 80c for canvassing book and begin at once.
For circular and particulars write to

We have had our choice for this state of all the "Lives" that are now in press and am sure we have the best.

Address G. F. KIMBALL, Topeka Kansas.

Jesse Harper will be at the Ottawa Camp meeting.

The Topeka Capital and the Leavenworth Times are now in practical harmony. Which has changed?

Why does not Gov. Martin see that the open saloons of his own town are closed as he promised por Griffin? To convert them into drug stores would clear his skirts, apparently, and would not be a violent change.

Last year the Hudson wing and the Anthony wing of the Rept Kansas were like oil and water. Now they are united into one—a rather caustic soap. Gov. John A. Martin, with his no-interference policy, is the concentrated Lye that did it.

If Jetmore hadn't played the flint last year he would have been in good where standing with the Prohibitionists all

Dr. Leonard may not be elected governor of Ohio as Lincoln was not made senator from Illinois in 1858, but a vote of 50,000 for Leonard will be a wouderful help to the Prohibition party, and may make him a candidate for President in 1888. The country, therefore, expects every prohibitionist in Ohio to do his duty in Poor, humiliated Albert Griffin! Republican state Convention, even Republican state Convention, even money and the visitor examines it and though the Prohibition flag had been determines how much he will take and lowered to half mast, and told the by accepting John A. Martin, their own friend, a life long anti-prohibitionist, on a platform without a word endorsing prohibition. It was such a concession as the wolf gives the lamb, and now that his eyes are open Griffin whines like a cur because he was sold out while the anti-prohibitionists grabbed every thing. But Griffin still licks the Republican hand that smote him. And such stuff aspires to leadership.

The Lincoln Beacon, very properly says the disgrace to the legislature and the state, from the conduct of J. R. Burton, speaker pro tem, justly attaches itself to the Republican party as his character was well known.

On our first page we give considera ones in every county.

AFTER DOLLARS.

Sharpers Who Fleece the Innocent and Gull the Guilty.

"The slickest piece of work in the Ever in a cow camp? No? Well. mails that has come to my attention recently," remarked Chief Inspector Sharp of the Post-office Department, "is what we call the bogus medicine dodge. The ingenious author of this the same time, he showed himself to be His plan was to send out circulars announcing a great cure for catarrh, which was discovered by himself after many years of study and investigation. He then proceeds to give, without cost. the prescription for this wonderful medicine and enumerates twelve ingredients which enter into its composition. At the end of the circular is a note which states that if the druggist does not happen to have all these inoredients the e prescription will be filled and forwarded upon the receipt of three dollars. The person receiving the circular and desirous of trying the remedy takes the prescription to the drug store, but is told by the druggist that he has three of the ingredients, but not the other nine. He looks through his book, but fails to find even their names, and so, of course, he is unable to furnish the desired medicine. The discoverer of the remedy is applied to, and if the three dollars has been furnished a bottle of some mixture is sent on, which, of course, is entirely worthless.

"That is one phase of the case." continued the inspector. "Now the man prepares and causes to be published in some paper in New York city an head of cattle are scattered over the New York city, with a portrait of each and a sketch giving some account of the life and services of each. All the men mentioned are bong fide death. the life and services of each. All the men mentioned are bona fide doctors, the leading men in the profession, with the exceptian of a man whose name is, say, Dr. Hart. He is unknown, but the sketch states that he left a practice of twenty-five thousand dollars per year to devote himself to the practice of his specialty—catarrh. The bogus medicine man then procures a large number of copies of this paper, and, mark
"wrangler" (herder). No one seems to titement keeps up. No one seems to titement keeps up. No one seems to tree, and the larger the round-up party the better do the boys seem to enjoy the work.

In the camp each outfit selects a spot for its meas wagon a hundred yards or more from any other, so that each lot of horses can have good feed. A drove of about a hundred horses, often more, seldom less, accompanies each outfit. Each bunch of horses is in charge of its country. In consequence he receives found to each participant in the "round an immense mail, and large numbers up."

Ten or twelve outfits, with their of money orders and registered letters.

After the Postmaster General had directed that no more money orders and registered letters should be delivered to her that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that has been driven in from the large herd that her that has been driven in from the large herd that her Dr. Hart, three thousand dollars accumulated in the Brooklyn post-office that had been sent to him. When an attempt was made to find Dr. Hart, for course no such a man could be discut out their employers' cattle, which covered; but a sign over the door at the advertised number was found, and that was all. A Dr. Lawrence occupied the same rooms, and to him the mail was delivered, and when he was off and got a power of attorney by which Dr. Hart authorized him to receive the mail. About this time, how-irons are being heated, a bellowing of him of further annoyance about his camp a lowing, a murmuring, mail matter. This same man was unceasing din goes up while the managing some other scheme under the name of Lawrence, while his real whistle at the animals as they ride the name of Lawrence, while his real whistle at the animals as they ride or something for nothing take with the people, and how rogues fatten upon the credulity of the public. There is another species of fraud, which one jority of the round-up party. would naturally suppose had been given such wide publicity that no one would now be deceived by it. I mean the counterfeit-money dodge, where men propose to forward a large amount of counterfeit cooks, even the peculiar cornomens of where men propose to forward a large amount of counterfeit money by express or mail on the receipt of a small amount of genuine sufficient for entertaining sketches. money to pay for the manufacture. usually all that the victim receives in return is a box filled with sawdust. But a recent operator has devised a new plan. He locates near a small town in a a country district and then sends out his letters. He does not offer to forward the counterfeit money but invites persons to visit him and in pect his stock and buy what they wish. When the visitor arrives the operator has a large quantity of good bills, which he shows him and allows him to examine. In order, however, to avoid outside interference, the visitor is taken upon the green grass or upon Last year he stood poudly up in the off in the woods, where the business proceeds. The operator produces his money and the visitor examines it and determines how much he will take and what price to be paid. Just as they the dinners of many a first-class home produced in the dolors of the mess wagon mess-boxes, are, as they the dinners of many a first-class home produced in the dolors of the class and the dinners of many a first-class home. are about to close the transaction sud- tel .- Miles City Cor. Chicago Tribune. anti-Prohibitionists his side had made denly two men emerge from the bushes, their concessions.

"Now," said he, announce themselves as detectives, and proceed to place them under arrest.

"You make yours."

A Martin, their The detectives do not fail to take all advises that they had better try and buy off the detectives, for if they don't they will both land in the penitentiary.

The victim is ready to pay anything to get out of the grasp of the supposed representatives of the law, and eagerly agrees to contribute to a fund to pay the detectives. The latter, of course, accept the bribe, and, pocketing all the money, disappear. The victim gets away as fast as possible, and goes home and never says a word about his loss. He is too much ashamed. - Washington —At least four thousand persons are under the management and direction of the Commissioner of Pensions. The ble space to reviews of the Life and Letters of John Brown. Every one in Kansas will want this book. J. C. Hebbard of this city is general agent for this state and he wants agents—good ones in every county.

of the Commissioner of Fensions. The salary list amounts to over one million dollars annually, exclusive of pension agents and examining surgeons. The mail received averages seven thousand five hundred pieces daily. The mail sent out is much larger.—Washington Post.

Star.

RANGE RIDING.

way of a fraud conducted through the let's go, let's see what kind of a layout the boys have on the round-up. So we straddle our bronches and speed away. along the Yellowstone or up to the Powder; through the buttes of the bad lands, whose tops are reddened with scheme now languishes in jail, but, at scoria that looks so much like brickdust; down into coolies (yawning man of no mean order of ability. chasms lined with verdure and vegetation, where the cattle love to loiter), or up to the hilltops where rocks lie in all conceivable shapes. We frequently pass a vein of lignite, and sometime we see the smoke curling skyward from the side of a butte where the ligite is on fire.

The cowboys pitch their camps in the meadows and valleys, generally selecting places where grass and water are plenty. The round-up camps are moved svery morning, the wagons and camp equipage going a few miles forward while most of the boys are searching tor stock through the district on each side. Toward noon the lowing herds may be seen moving toward the new branding place, where the calves and the other unbranded stock become quainted with their owners' marks through the medium of hot branding The knife also comes into play cutting notches, slots and other marks upon the ears and dewlaps, and in altering the males, but the scorching, heart-harrowing brand is never forgot-

Tis noon. We are at the camp. One hundred and fifty stock-growers all hands have been busy, but the excitement keeps up. No one seems to tire, and the larger the round-up party the better do the boys seem to enjoy the ber of copies of this paper, and, marking the picture of Dr. Hart and the sketch, sends copies, together with the circular, broadcast throughout the oftener, and about ten horses can be oftener, and about ten horses can be used to each participant in the "round."

told the letters could not be given to driven off to one side and held until him, as he was not Dr. Hart, he went the boys are ready to start them to their ver, the officers came in and relieved distress is heard, and throughout the name was Connolly. He must have made a great deal of money, as one of the witnesses in the trial testified that he had been offered two thousand dolars to personate Dr. Hart."

Whiste at the animals at they are well as they fixed them, suiting their signal or command to the necessity of the moment. Lariats glisten in the sunlight as they fly through the air to the horns or feet of the animals that are being remainded to the necessity of the moment. Lariats glisten in the sunlight as they fly through the air to the horns or feet of the animals that are being remainded to the necessity of the moment. Lariats glisten in the sunlight as they fly through their signal or ment. "It is a singular thing," observed the Colonel, "how these offers to give the fire work quick as glass-blowers,

And now a few words regarding the "mess" of the cow-camp. The cooks and cookees take charge and drive the and cookees take charge and drive the mess-wagons, with their camp equipage, from place to place during the round-up periods. Almost invariably the cooks are professionals, and the cooking is excellent. With delicious, juicy Montana beef, with bread made from Dakota wheat, and with many of from Dakota wheat, and with many of the vegetables and fruits supplied by the "canners,"—all prepared, usually, in a manner to suit the most particular tastes,—the meals, whether spread tables made by letting down the doors

A Perpetual Dancer.

"Eureka!" yelled a Philadelphia inventor, as he rushed into his wife's

"Well, that sounds a little like sense," was the rather mollified reply. "How will you do it?"
"Simple as A, B, C. I'll just connect the darkey with the mercury of a thermometer."—Philadelphia Call.

—Hu Maxwell, of St. George, W. Va., describes in the Scientific American a strip of smooth sea in the Pacific ocean through which he sailed during a gale in 1883, and which the captain ascribed to the presence of oil rising from natural wells at the bottom of the ocean. It was fourteen miles north of Santa Cruz Island.

LLOYD'S.

Description and History of a Well-Known As to the early history of the classi fication of ships there is no date, but we all know how dull is the famous chapter in the "Iliad," where even Homer was caught napping. In a more or less imperfect form classification of merchant ships must of course have existed contemporaneously with ma-rine insurance, while Gibbon already speaks of nautical insurance as being common with the Romans. Such ships' lists were, it appears, at the end of the Seventeenth Century to be seen by merchants in the different coffee houses of the city, and among these the establishment kept by a certain Edward Lloyd, who seems to have been a man of unusual ability and entera man of unusual ability and enter-prise, was the most frequented because the best posted up. That the house was well known was shown by the fact that Steele makes it the theme of a "Tatler" paper, that Addison names it in the "Spectator," and that in speem of the period a character says: "Now to Lloyd's coffee house, he never fails To read the letters and attend the sales." It soon occurred to Lloyd to systematize these lists, and he started on his own account a shipping chronicle— "Lloyd's News," which began in 1696 and was issued three times a week. At first these lists were written and passed from hand to hand, like the news letter of the period, but in 1726 it was printed un-der the changed title of "Lloyd's List.". Soon after, the principal underwriters and brokers, who had long made the coffee house their meeting place, formed themselves into an association and took up their head-quarters near the Royal Exchange, great institution which has flourished ever since on the same spot and has made the name of Lloyd a household word all the world over. Some of the earliest lists issues have perished by fire, but that of 1776 is preserved and here we first read the now familiar here we first read the now laminated name Al, which has passed into the common speech, but was at first mere-ly intended to designate a ship of the lists were issued to the lists were incompletely all the lists were incompletely al see it entailed forfeiture of member-ship and at the end of each year every subscriber was obliged to deliver up his old book before a new one was issued to him. At one time, if the book were lost or stolen, the person to whom it belonged was refused another, although willing to pay for it. The subscriptions formed the only source of revenue for the society, which then numbered some hundred and thirty members. Some discontent arising as to the difficult questions of classification, a rival book was issued by a company of ship owners, and for a while the two books ran in antagonism to each other, though from the first Lloyd's took a better position and car-ried more weight. The elder society ried more weight. The elder society also at once appointed surveyors in twenty four of the chief ports of the United Kingdom and from the beginning showed that earnest desire after equity and liberality that has distin guished their operations throughout their career.—London Society.

CO-SIGNS AND TANGENTS. The Intellectual Pabulum That Exists in

To him who, in the love of business and mental growth, holds communion with these visible forms, the signboards speak a varied and fearfully punctuated language. The average sign painter with the belief paints "John Smith, Dry Goods and Groceries," on the front of Mr. Smith's store, he must paint it in this guise: store, he must paint it in this guise: forget it, and it makes him mad."

"To John Sessions, at Clerename Put Esq., after his name. I sometimes forget it, and it makes him mad."

"Your husband?"

"Your husband?" Sometimes, however, doesn't even put the comma after gro-ceries, but permits it to remain an all comprehensive word, evermore looking out into a limitless eternity of measur less suggestiveness of unfathomable If the artist be a German bred painter, he is prone to make his sign startling and thrilling in its very commonplaces—"John! Smith! Dry! Goods! and! Boots! and! Shoes" fading away into the same dreamy, vague, dim and misty, unpunctuated outlook so much affected by his American colthe signboard the artist reserves most of it for his own name; he paints in nonpareil for his patron and long primer for himself:

"JOHN! JONES, Hardware BENJAMIN G. If the merchant, being an econo mical man, has painted his own sign, he spaces badly and divides on any let ter that happens to come handy, and startles the world with

> WILLIAM W. WILLIA-MSON, Well digger and cisterns.

One sign almost invariably "throws" even the regularly ordained sign-writer and his 'mens' and boy's boots' and ventor, as he rushed into his wife's room with a "dancing darkey" toy in his hand. "I've got an improvement on this thing and it will make my fortune."

"Don't see much chance for improving that toy; it's good enough now," said his wife, suspiciously. "They are sold everywhere and go by clockwork."

"Yes, I know, I know; and that's where the improvement comes in. Clockwork gets out of order, and besides it costs money. I've got a plan to make the darkey dance up and down like mad and it won't require any clockworks at all."

"Well, that sounds a little like sense,"

"Well, that sounds a little like sense," wagon shop. I think—"Cain and Brother." Now, why couldn't they just as well write it "Cain and Abel?" It might not be correct, but it would be so scriptural.—Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

—Without doubt the pumpkin ple was originally evolved in New England; but just where the pumpkin itself was first discovered in a wild state is a disputed point in geographical and historical botany, but perhaps the vine which DeSoto found growing on the gulf coast of Florida was the progenitor of our best pies.—N. Y. Trouns.

HORACE GREELEY.

His Consciousness While in Apparent Slum-

There was something very curious about this habit of the great journalist [Horace Greeley's sleeping in church.] It was not sleep that overcame him, but only somnolence-sleep of the physical powers, but wakefulness of the mind. The physiologist and the psychologist may settle the matter scientifically between them if they can. In spite of appearances to the contrary, Mr. Greeley was "a hearer as well as a door of the Word." His eyes might close, his great head fall upon his breast, or sway from side to side, drawing the body after it, presenting the usual external indications of sleep, but his mental interfor faculties were drawing the body after it, presenting the usual external indications of sleep, but his mental interfor faculties were sometimes so far awake that when the service was over he could give a clear account of the sermon, both as to the subject, plan and matter. I have tested this a dozen times or more, and never found them wanting. It was to me a very curious phenomenon, and I studied it with deep interest whenever an opportunity occurred. I will give two illustrations of this singular peculiarity from my own clear personal recollection. I went with him to hear a discourse from Rev. William Henry Channing. It was Sunday morning, and the topic announced was one in which he felt a special interest. then, in fact, ministering to a congregation of which Mr. Greeley was a prominent member. It was in a hall on the west side of Broadway, near Canal street.

a hall on the Broadway, near Canal street, where Dr. Dewey had preacher aforetime. On the way thither, Mr. Greeley time. You keep him awake. We begged me to keep him awake. We occupied a settee within six feet of the platform and right under the eye of the preacher. I tried to keep him awake by frequent tuggings at his elbow and playing a by no means soft tattoo upon his ribs. But it was of no use. He was "nidnodding" through the whole discourse, not a little to Mr.

subscribers only, and so strict were the rules concerning them that to lend a book or allow a non subscriber to Mr. Greeley had made the report. When I told him that I saw him while he was preparing it, and could certify that it went to the compositor in his own handwriting, and that, moreover, own hand myself read the proof, he expressed the greatest astonishment. "Why," said he, "I could not myself have so accurate an abstract of my own discourse, which, though premeditated, was extemporaneous. He has not only given the substance of what I said, but he has followed my line of thought, and remembered not a little of my language."—Oliver Johnson, in Christian Register.

ON A POSTAL CARD.

How One Detroit Woman Managed to Convey a Variety of Intelligence. She walked up and down the corridor of the post-office for ten or fifteen minutes before she asked of a citizen who was directing an envelope: "Please, sir, but would you write a word or two on a postal card for me?' "Certainly, ma'am; where is it to go

"Your husband?"
"Of course. When I want a postal card written to a strange man it will be a cold day. Now, then, begin with 'My Dear Husband.'"
"I've got that."

"Say that I am all right, the baby is all right, and I haven't time to write

"Then you'll want a P. S. that I have only two dollars left, and shall look for him to send me some next week."

"That'll be all, except to say from your true wife to my loving husband, and don't send less than five dollars, and baby weighs eighteen pounds, and the weather is still cold. Thanks, sir, I'll do as much for you some day."— Detroit Free Press.

A Squirrel Circus. The men who drive the watering carts and who fill them at the hydrant about the middle of Townsend street. Roxbury, report that yesterday morning about five o'clock they witnessed a sight that the ordinary Bostonian, with sight that the ordinary Bostonian, with his sleepy head, seldom sees. When they reached the spot referred to, the oak forest was all alive with gray squirrels. There were from one to two hundred gathered together. Every tree had half-a-dozen in its upper branches. They were jumping from tree had half-a-dozen in its upper branches. They were jumping from tree to tree, flourishing their bushy tails, running up and down the trunks, scampering over the ground, and ap-parently trying to see who could go through the largest number of squirrel gymnastics in a given space of time. Gray squirrels are always to be seen in that neighborhood, and enjoy comparative immunity from cats and shotguns, but their playful pranks and mirthful playful pranks and mirthful playful pranks. exercises yesterday morning indicate either that they were holding a Sunday service at sunrise, or that a convention of squirrels had gathered at an hour when cats and dogs and men have hardly yet gone out to their daily dis-turbance of the world.—Boston Herald.

—Why he believed him: Stretchit was telling Gawley about an alligator he saw in Florida. "That alligator measured sixty-three feet five inches from the end of his nose to the tip of his tail. What do you think of that, Gawley? An alligator sixty-three feet five inches long. Doesn't that astonish you?" "No," said Gawley, quietiy. "I'm a liar myself."—Exchange.

REVIVING A DEAD DOG.

An Experiment That May Some Time Prove

Mr. James L. Finch gives an account of some curious experiments which he and Dr. Armitage made secretly in resuscitating animals apparently dead. The first subject operated upon was a medium-sized terrier dog. It was securely tied and an incision made in an artery in its neck, by which the animal was bled to death. He certainly passed through all the symptoms of hours dead. By this time he had be-come very stiff and cold. He was now placed in a warm-water bath that was constantly maintained at a temperature of a hundred and five degrees, and was continually and thoroughly rubbed, and as he became pliant his limbs were gently worked about and his whole body rendered supple. A half pint of hot water was now passed half pint of hot water was now into his stomach through a hard-rubber tube which was forced down his esophagus. When this was accomplished the mouth of a rubber tube attached to a bellows, was introduced into his windpipe, and, as the bellows were provided with a double valve, by which the air could be withdrawn as well as inhaled, the dog's nose was securely fastened.

A large and powerful Newfoundland dog had been obtained for the purpose, had been tied near by and was now bled, while the attending surgeon proceeded to adjust the transfusing apparatus, and began slowly to inject the live dog's blood into the dead dog. Simultaneously the dead dog. Simultaneously Mr. Armitage began slowly working the respiratory bellows, while the dead Mr. Armi I kept rubbing the animal and bending his limbs and body to facilitate circulation. We could not have been more anxious about the issue of our efforts if they had been made upon a human being instead of a dumb brute. When a pint of blood had been injected I could see some change about the eyes of the dog; but no one spoke. One of the dog; but no one spoke. One thought was common to all—would life come back? In a few moments more there was certainly a second to the spoke. stract of Mr. Canning's discourse, filling somewhat less than a column, which appeared in the Tribune of the next morning. Mr. Channing was utterly amazed when he saw it, and afterward asked me if it was need to be a support of the surgeon: "Press the blood." In a minute or two the dog gasped, and soon attempted to eject the many than the saw it, and afterward asked me if it was need to be a surgeon of the surgeon of the surgeon. tube, which was accordingly withdrawn.
This was followed by gasps and catching of the breath, while the eyes grew brighter and more natural. The rubbing and blood injecting were vet applied, and the dog was struggling as if in a fit. But his efforts soon became less violent, and he began a low whine.

A compress was now placed on the artery, and in twenty-two minutes after the first blood was injected he sat up, after being dead three hours and twenty minutes. The dog then drank broth that had been prepared for him in case of his revival, and soon got up and walked about. A comfortable bed was provided near the stove, and from this time forward his recovery was so rapid that in two days he was turned out to run in the streets. He is now a rugged character, in good health, with seemingly no remembrance of his resurrection. - Denver News.

THE GULF STREAM.

ome of the Results of Recent Sub-Marine Explorations. The United States steamer Blake, Captain Pillsbury, has returned to Charleston, S. C., from a successful and satisfactory voyage of submarine explorations covering several months. The Blake anchored in the Gulf stream between the Forey Rocks and the Bahama Banks, two hundred m les east of the deepest part of the Atlantic, one thousand five hundred fathoms in depth, discovered by Captain Pillsbury two years ago. The Blake anchored in two hundred and eighty-one fathoms and succeeded in dredging up a large quantity of animal and vegetable life, among which will probably be found many species hitherto comparatively, if not entirely unknown. Though Captain Pillsbury has not yet completed the calculations bearing upon the velocity of the deep sea currents, he is convinced that in lower depths the change of velocity is not so great as toward the surface. The surface cur-rents are stronger with the deflection of the moon. It is plain from his observations during the past three mouths that the strength of the current of the Gulf Stream is invariably on the Florida instead of the Bahama side of the stream. He has found the temperature stream. He has found the temperature to range from forty-two to eighty-one degrees. The greatest velocity of the stream at the surface is about four knots, but the fluctuations are frequent and great. Captain Pillsbury says that when his observations shall have been properly tabulated and his calculations properly deducted, he will be able to give the scientific world a treat as to deep sea soundings, current velocity, animal and vegetable life and the earth's surface for miles under the sea. -N. O. Times-Democrat.

—"Yes, stranger," said a passenger from Texas, "I'm going down East on an important errand. Don't mind telling you that I'm going to be married. You can imagine how goodnatured and jolly I feel." "Yes; but don't you feel a little anxiety, a little trepidation, about taking such an important step in life?" "Nary a trep, stranger." "Have you ever been married before?" "No; but I've been in one fight with Injuns, two scrimmages with cowboys, and went through four with cowboys, and went through four cyclones. I'm no chicken."—Chicafo Herald.

—"Father, please tell me what entails means, and if we have such a law in the United States." Father—"Under the law of entails, my boy, the landed property of the father is handed down to the eldest son, successively, generation after generation. We have no such provision in the United States. Here the money generally goes to the lawyers who settles the father's estate. You see the difference?"—Exchange.

TWO CHRISTMAS DAYS.

"And when the search was being made you heard nothing about any false floor in the west turret, did you?" asked Mrs. Fairfield with a searching glance.
"Certainly not; is there such a thing?" he asked eagerly.
"There was formerly—at least, so I hear from my son—though I never heard of it in all the years I lived at the castle, and I don't think Mr. Lilburne himself knew of it; but Frank asserts that Miss Grace did."
"Grace!" exclaimed his lordship in sudden dismay; "are you sure she knew of it?"

of it?"
"I am quite sure," here interposed the young engineer, "for I once showed it to her, and threatened to throw her into the sliaft below. Of course I only meant to frighten her, but she was always getting me into scrapes with her ways getting me into scrapes with her deceitful tongue, and I thought I would put a stop to it."

Roland pressed his hands over his burning brows.

He remembered now how Grace had

He remembered now how Grace had induced her sister to hide, and how she had afterwards denied all knowledge of her whereabouts.

Yes, it all came back to his memory now, even to the dust and dirt which he had noticed on her white satin dress, and to which he had called her attention.

At length he started to his feet, ex-

Let us go to Silverton Castle at once; there is not a moment to be lost. That infamous girl may be starving her sister to death; quick—quick, or we may be too late."

But Mrs. Fairfield said calmly as she iso rose to her feet:

"We will go in good time, Mr. Ayre, nt if I help you, you must help me, nd I have a matter here that troubles he as much as Kate Lilburne's disapearance troubles you. Will you come his way, and tell me what it is best for act to do?"

"And she was leading the way to a loor that opened into another room when Roland exclaimed:

"I will do anything you require when Kate is once found, but I must go to Silverton Castle without delay."

And he was turning towards the op-But Mrs. Fairfield said calmly as she also rose to her feet:

"We will go in good time, Mr. Ayre, but if I help you, you must help me, and I have a matter here that troubles me as much as Kate Lilburne's disappearance troubles you. Will you come this way, and tell me what it is best for me to do?"

door that opened into another room when Roland exclaimed:

when Roland exclaimed:

"I will do anything you require when Kate is once found, but I must go to Silverton Castle without delay."

And he was turning towards the opposite door, the one by which he had entered, when he was arrested by Mrs. Fairfield's calm sad voice saying:

"It is useless your going to Silverton Castle without me, and you must give me your advice at once. Come."

Then she led the way into the further room, and he, after a momentary hesi-room, and he, after a momentary hesition, followed her.

CHAPTER V.

Better be with the dead, Whom we, to gain our place, have sent to Better be with the dead,

Whom we, to gain our place, have sent to peace,
Than on the forture of the mind to lie
In restless esstasy.
If lavish' profusion, recklessness of cost, and carefully planned amusements could make any social entertainment a great success, this second Christmas Day at Silverton Castle must certainly have put all other events of the kind completely in the shade.
The servants and tenantry were not so well cared for as in the past, it is true, for Grace had given orders that they should put off their merry-making till after she was married, when they could eat and drink, dance and sing, to their hearts' content.
All the guest-chambers in the castle were full, and the eight bridesmaids who were to attend the bride on the coming day were here with their mothers or sisters or chaperons, each one of the eight looking forward to the time when she herself should take the leading part in a similar ceremony.
Grace Lilburne had not been very judicious in the selection of her bridesmaids.
The pretty desire to triumph over her judicious in the selection of her bridesmaids.

The pretty desire to triumph over her friends and to create envy and jealousy prompted her to invite Miriam Hindman, a brilliant brunette, who rumor whispered had won Victor Gayherd's heart, and he was only saved from marrying her by her father losing the greater part of his fortune.

Mr. Lilburne had objected to Miriam being invited, and had suggested a cousin of his own in her stead; but Grace was obstinate, she had made up her mind to invite Miriam, and Victor could only hope that the invitation would not be accepted.

But here again he was disappointed, and Miriam came, looking seductive and brilliant as a humming-bird, gorgeous with jewels and costly dresses, and giving confirmation to the report that her father had retrived his fortune, and was now a richer man than ever.

I am afraid that Grace regretted her obstinacy when she saw how fascinatingly beautiful Miriam was, and certainly she was genuinely jealous when she observed how Victor's eyes followed the girl who had still the power to make him forget everybody else when she was present.

Miriam knew that Grace had not in-lous means of getting in and out of the castle," said Miriam, shaking her pretty head like a wise bird laying down the law to its feathered friends. "I found out something about it from an old manuscript that papa has in his library. I wish I had brought it with me, but I'll send for it. Did you never hear of the secret, Grace."

"No," was the curt reply.
But Grace Lilburne's face became deadly white, her head swam, and it was only by the most supreme effort that she could keep herself from fainting.

that she could keep herself from fainting.

As soon as she could do so without being observed, the guilty woman escaped to her own room. Here she threw off all restraint, and gave way to the terrible agony of fear and remorse that consumed her.

"The secret of the turret floor is known," she muttered despairingly, "and that creature will discover where it is. I saw the threat in her eyes when she looked at me.

"I will open the floor to night," and her eyes looked cold and cruel as the words hissed between her teeth. "I will lower a lamp into the shaft and see what lies there. I have been afraid hitherto, but I would rather meet Kate's sightless eyes and look upon her dead face than endure the grin of that mocking witch whom I was mad enough to invite here."

Having made this resolution, she invite here."

Having made this resolution, she managed before nightfall to procure a covered lantern and a long cord, and to hide them in the room the floor of which hid such a check the court.

hide them in the room the floor of which hid such a ghastly secret.

This had been easy enough, because the great hall was in the same part of the building, and several times during the day she had considered it necessary to go and personally inspect and superintend the decorations of holly, mistletoe, and hot-house flowers.

She made a pretence of criticising the arrangement of the tables, and the order in which the guests were to be placed, and she stood over the servants while everything was altered and rearranged according to her orders.

"Do you expect many guests to-night besides those staying in the house?"
Miriam asked Mr. Lilburne as the company was about to disperse and dress sequence to you, and Mr. Eliburne turned away.

Grace asked no more; she was beginning to feel like a creature at bay, hunted on every side with no avenue of escape open to her.
Why did her father invite Roland Ayre, and why, above all things, had the invitation been accepted?
After a time, consternation gave place to mirth, and she laughed bitterly as she remarked to Victor:
"Your cousin gives a striking proof of masculine constancy. Last year when he went away he said he would never enter Silverton Castle again unless he brought Kate with him, or came to meet her."
"And how do you know that he would."

"And how do you know that he won't bring Kate with him?" asked Miriam Hindman boldly. Grace looked at her for one moment with a scornful scowl then turned away without deigning to utter one word of without deigning to utter one word of reply.

She noticed, however, that her father was eager and nervous, and pleasurably excited, and that he looked younger and stronger than he had done for some months past.

"Surely papa does not think of marrying that horrid girl," Grace exclaimed as she watched her father and Miriam talking together in a confidential ed as she watched her father and Miriam talking together in a confidential and affectionate manner.

"I shouldn't think he'd have the chance," returned Victor; "she's an uncommonly nice girl."

"Oh yes, I know you think there is nobody like her," sneered Grace.

"At any rate, I didn't invite her here," retorted the young man angrily.

grilv.

"Well, no, you couldn't very well, as it is my father's house." she replied: "but I wonder since you admire her so much you don't marry her."

"I am like your father in that respect: I haven't the chance," he said coldly.

Then he crossed the room and is incl.

Then he crossed the room and joined the couple of whom they had been talk-the couple of whom they had been talking.

Grace was very angry, but she did not follow him, and soon after this the first gong sounded—a hint that it was time to dress for dinner.

Miriam Hindman, instead of going upstairs like the other girls, sauntered into a little study she knew of, where a bright fire burned in the polished grate, and the lamp was turned low.

Despite her assumption of cheerfulness and high spirits, her heart was said and heavy.

seous with jewels and costly desses, and giving confirmation to the report that her father had retrived his fortune, and was now a richer man than ever.

I am afraid that Grace regretted her obstinacy when she saw how fascinatingly beautiful Mriam was, and certainly she was genuinely jealous when she observed how Victor's eyes followed the girl who had still the power to make him forget everybody else when she was present.

Miriam knew that Grace had not invited her out of affection, and that she had no nobler aim than a desire to mortify and humiliate her, and she determined that the pain should not be all on one side.

On her arrival at the castle, Miriam persistently attached herself to Mr. Lilbourne. She gave him her sympathy with such witching tendeness, she condoled with him at benderness, she condoled with him at benderness, she condoled with him at lenderness, she confoled with "That is highly probable. What have you to say?"

"I want to know why you came here?"

"I came because I was invited," was the haughty reply.

"You had some other reason," he

"You had some other reason," he persisted.
"I had two or three other reasons," she replied with a short laugh.
"One of them was to make me feel what a fool I'd been to think of marrying that waxen-faced doll while you are free."

ing that waren-raced dolf while you are free."

"Oh dear no, I am not so vain; besides, you don't know that I am free. But since you are so curious I don't mind telling you that I came here with the hope of meeting Kate Lilburne tonight."

"Kate Lilburne!" he repeated incredulously. "Are you out of your mind? There is no such person living as Kate Lilburne."

"Well, perhaps she is married and has changed her name, still she won't have lost her identity."

"And you really came here hoping to meet Kate and not me?" he asked earnestly, as he stepped close to her side.

side. "Why should I want to see you?" she asked defiantly. "You are nothing to "And yet you are all the world to me, Miriam—my love, my life. Only say the word and we will fly together, and I will break the hateful bonds that bind me to Grace, whom I have never loved."

He caught her in his arms, and

He caught her in his arms, and strained her to his heart; but she gently though firmly released herself from his embrace as she said:

"It is too late, Victor; too late. I have no pity for Grace; but I cannot bring such pain and humiliation upon her father. No; you must keep your word and marry her; but I am sorry for you and—and—so sorry for myself."

She slipped away from him as she

for you and—and—so sorry for myself."

She slipped away from him as she said this, and ran upstairs, but on her way to her own room to dress, she thought, as a species of self-mortification, she would go into Grace's room with the other girls and try to be civil to her young hostess.

Many of the bridesmaids had clustered round the expectant bride, and took a great interest in the dress she was going to wear on this, the last evening when she would sit at the head of her father's table as the mistress of his household, and they admired over again the very handsome trousseau with which she was provided.

"You don't seem to have much jew-

which she was provided.
"You don't seem to have much jewelry," remarked Miriam Hindman. "I wish I had known it before, for I would have given you a bracelet as a wedding present instead of the silver-dishes I provided with mith me.

have given you a bracelet as a wedding present instead of the silver-dishes I brought with me.

"But I suppose your father will give you Kate's jewels; she had a splendid collection, I know."

"Kate's jewels will go with her money to her mother's family, when there is proof that she is really dead; but if people talk such stuff to my father as you did this afternoon it is not likely that anything reasonable will convince him," replied Grace severely.

"I don't know why you should call it stuff." returned Miriam quietly; "people don't disappear as your sister did unless they go away to return at some time or other, or unless they are murdered. Therefore until it is proved that she is dead we may reasonably hope she is alive."

Grace shrugged her shoulders. She would not discuss the matter, but intimated that it was time they should begin to dress, and her maid came forward to attend to her while the girls all went off to their own rooms.

They hurried so much that when they entered the drawing-room they found the room quite empty.

Other people soon trooped in, how-the room quite empty.

Other people soon trooped in, however, and very soon the Coulbourne girls found themselves sufficiently well sought after, despite their plain attire.

attire.

The rivals of the evening, however, were the bride-elect and her chief bridesmaid, Miriam Hindman.

Grace was dressed in pale blue, exquisitely trimmed with cream lace and blush-roses, while her golden hair, her gold ornaments, and her bright blue eyes made her look bewitching in the extreme.

eyes made her look bewitching in the extreme.

But her beauty was quite eclipsed when M riam appeared.

The brunette wore rose-colored satin, half-covered with costly black lace looped with lilies-of-the-valley, while pearls and diamonds were clasped round her throat, and lilies and diamonds shone in her jet-black hair.

Independent of ornament, Miriam was wonderfully beautiful, but rich colors and sparkling gems added greatly to her natural charms, and she used laughingly to say that she was thankful she had been born too late to be expected to wear white muslin gowns, short in the waist and tied round with a sash, until the time when she should be married.

"It was almost enough to drive a girl."

a sash, until the time when she should be married.

"It was almost enough to drive a girl to marry the first man who asked her, if only to obtain the privilege of wearing silk and satin," she would say laughingly. "Happily in our days we can wear what we like, without caring for the opinion of the male sex or for that of Mrs. Grundy."

She seemed to gave for the good oning.

She seemed to care for the good opinion of one member of the male sex this evening, however, and he for hers, and though his marriage with his host's daughter was fixed for the following morning, Victor seemed to be unable to resist the attraction of Miriam's black eyes.

Grace watched the couple icolorida.

black eyes.

Grace watched the couple jealously whenever she thought of them; but something more important than the temperary defection of her lover filled her thoughts. She was planning how to get away irom her guests unobserved and to stay long enough to be able to ascertain what lay at the bottom of the dark shaft into which she had thrust her sister:

"I shall have no opportunity after tonight," she thought gloomily, "for tomorrow I shall have people about me the whole time until I go to church, and after that I shall go away with Victor.

after that I shall go away with Victor.
"Yes, it must be to-night. When the conjurors engaged come into the hall to play their tricks I will slip away. I shall be less missed then than at any time."

She smiled as she came to this con-clusion, and turned to answer a ques-tion which a gentleman at her side had

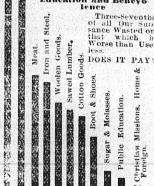

[To be Continued.]

Experiments made in the Paris hospitals show that sulphide of carbon is the best agent to restore the normal action of the bowels in cases of cholera. It has restored to consciousness in thirty seconds hysterical patients who were previously insensible to even the pricking of needles.

Our Drink and Tobacco

Expenditure.
We pay annually in the United States the following bills:
Drink $800.0°0.000 Tobacco, 600.0 0.000 Bread, 5°5.000.000 Meat, 303.600.004 Iron and Steel, 290.000.000 Woolen Goods, 237.000.000 Sawed Lumber, 238.000.000 Cotton Goods, 210.000.000 Boots and Shoes, 106.000.000 Sugar and Molasses 155.000.000 Public Education, 85.000.000 Christian Missions, 5,500.000

11.2 Billion for Liquor and 2 Billions for Necessities Education and Benevo lence

It does no good for a man to sneer at the set attom in regard to the liquor traffic. The ubject is altogether too important to be laugied down, ignored, or passed over without an scrious attempt to settle it. Aside from the independent of the settle it is altogether too important to be laugied down, ignored, or passed over without an scrious attempt to settle it. Aside from the independent of the most important to be laugied down, ignored, or passed over without an scrious attempt to settle it. Aside from the independent of the most important to the fact that the real be named.

It is all the can be named.

It is a sum exaced in the fact that indice to the country, direct and indirect, is greater than the profits of all its capital not in tested in real extant. It costs every year more than our whole Civil. Service, our army, our Auty, our Congress, including the River and linguistic than the profits of all its capital not the country in fact, this Nation pays more for liquor than the real extendent of the country in fact, this Nation pays more for liquor than sold with a sneer?

There is certainly spent for drink in this country more than $800,000,00 and the entire sum ruised by taxes of all kinds, National-tate, country, city, town and school district, is stated on authority of the Census Bureau to be not more than about $700,000,000.

But the cost of the liquor drunk is not by any means the whole cost of the liquor traffic. An official report, prepared with much about $100,000,000.

But the cost of the able-bodied men in this country who is rendered dile by his habits, or licelate that Si per cent of all the crine and riminal expenses in that state comes directly from the abuse of liquor. There is at least one in twenty of the able-bodied men in this country who is rendered dile by his habits, or licelate and the country who is rendered dile by his habits, or licelate and all the crine and riminal expenses in that state co

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you te more money right away than anything else at this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour fibe broad road to fortune opens before the workers, abso Contains 192 pages of useful tebles for easting up grain, produce, hay, cost of pork, interest, wages, tables, wood messure, ready reckoner, plowing tables, and more miscellaneous matter and useful tables for farmers and others, than any similar book ever published. Ask your bookselleo for it. Sent postpaid for 20 cents, W. FISHER, Box 238, Rochester, N. Y.

WOMANWANTED SALARY OF OUR DUSTINESS IN her locality. Responsible for our business in her changed. Responsible house. References ex GAY & CO., 14 Barclay St., N.Y.

FOR THE PHILADELPHIA SINGEP BYYLE

SQLD. Most complete book of its kind ever published. Gives measurements of Luuber, Logs Scanfling; cubical contents of square and round Timber; kints to lumber dealers. wood manual Timber; kints to lumber dealers. wood to dealers in the content of the G. W.FISHER, Box 238, Ro

THE BEST BOOK OF THE KIND

A Book for Every Owner of Live Stock.

The Cheapest and the Best. $3.00. $2 50.

The Best Book of the kind. Live Stock Journal, London.

The Diseases of Live Stock, AND

Their Most Efficient Remedies;

Horses, Cattle, Cows Sheep, Swing, Poulty & Dogs.

BY W. B. E. MILLER, D. V. S. Chief veterinary Surgeon of the New Jersey state Board of Health: President of the Uni-ted States veterinary Association, and

LLOYD V. TELLOR, M. D. with a special article on the profitable mar agement of Cows, by WILLIS P. HAZARD, Editor of the "Guernsey Cow Breeder," etc.

One volume, 8vo. 521 ppges, with numerous full page colored illustrations. hanhsomely bound.

Price, Cloth, $2,50; Full Sheep, $3,00.

This is, without doubt, the most thor oughly useful work of the kind before the public, as well as the Cheapest. The directions it gives are plain and brief, and have met the approval of the best authorities in England and this country. It has been recommended by the officers of the U. S. Army, and by the Department of Agriculture in Washington.

READ THESE OPINIONS! Col. James Moore, Quart-rmaster U.S.A.

"I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the very best work on the subject that has come under my observation."

Gen WG Leduc, late U S Com of Agriculture orn we Leduc, late U S Com of Agriculture.
"To every one engaged in raising or handling stock this work will be of great value."
Col A F Rockwel, Ass't Quartermaster U S A
"This book appears to me to be exhaustive and thorough"

and thorough."

Prof Finlay Dun, of the Edinburgh, veterina ry College.

"This volume contains a great amount of useful, practical information, expressed in terse and readable language."

Turf Field and Farm.
"One of the best books of the kird,"

Live Stock Journal, London.
"It is the less book of the kind we have yet seen, from eitner the English or American press,"

Live Agents wanted in every town and county. Liberal terms and exclusive territory given. Circulars free. Single copies sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of retail price.

Agents Wanted in every County in Kansas.

Sent Postpaid on receipt of Price. G. F. KIMBALL, State Agent, Topeka, - -Kansas.

The Farmer's Record®Account Book

THE ONLY COMPLETE WORK PUBLISHED.

Every Farmer can double his Profits!!!

This work must not be constared with anything else ever published for the purpose. It is large in size, 9 te by 15 inches, very handsomely bound and made of the very heaviet extra double French follo cap paper, ruled in blue and red, and has printed headings for every item and transaction, to that by mersiy putting down a few figures such day, the farmer knows exactly what crops pay him best, and where he can make changes to advantage. It is worth at least $1,000 per your to any average farmer. It does not require anything but a legible, hand writing to keen it, no knowledge whatever of book keeping being necessary. It has been endorsed by all leading agricultural papers, and very highly recommended by the Grange and its officers. The condensed table of contents below will show how complete it is. There are a number of blank pages for contracts, receipts, etc., also 194 tables of ready reference and reckening, many of which give information worth ten times the cost of the book, and can only be obtained by purchasing expentive works on these preclai subject. It tells all a out fertilizers and their value, remedies for accidents, recipes for making solders and cements, plants, etc., how to lay out surfaces, computation of taterest, business laws, weather tables, weights and measures, etc., etc., etc., this information alone being valuable beyond computation. The pertion for keeping the accounts is very full, but for want of space we can only specify as follows:

Full directions for entering every transaction on the farm, now armound.

Price per copy, postpaid, in English Silk Cloth, - - $3.00

Agents Wanted. Sample Copies, mailed free for $2,00. Address

G. F. KIMBALL, General Agent, Topeka, Kansas.

AND OTHER FRUIT MACHINERY. For Sale by all Dealers in Hardware.

Many Agents are Making $5 to $10 per Day **