Not leaves burned shapeless, nor leaves sere

But the green, green bough:
Not love forgotten, nor love remembered,
But love now.

DR. W. M. JARDINE
President

President Jardine is the man of the minute. He is a real optimist and a close observer of human nature. He believes the best in people and is always ready to assist in any worthy enterprise.

Prexy believes in students and does not hesitate to transfer responsibility to their organizations. He has said many times, "You students can make of yourselves what you wish to be," and his reaction to students' requests bears him out. The S. S. G. A. has been organized and put on a sound basis during his administration.

Action and service are the president's great goals. He believes in serving a great student body and through them serving our great state and nation, and he insists on doing it now.

President Jardine has K. S. A. C. close to his heart. He has turned down offers for more money with great opportunities because his heart is with the Aggies, and he wants to see our campus continue to grow and develop, and our Alma Mater spread in fame by the class of men and women who go out from it to serve mankind.

The Kansas State Agricultural College— Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow

By President W. M. Jardine

The Kansas State Agricultural college has a splendid history—a history of which every student, every former student, every graduate, may rightly be proud.

Every era in its history has made its contribution. When Bluemont Central college was founded by a group of earnest, God-fearing men in order to furnish sound higher education to Kansas youth, there was implanted the pioneer spirit and with it the spirit of higher ideals than merely those of material progress.

When this institution was turned over to the state and became the Kansas State Agricultural college, the principle of an education offered to every citizen by the state was definitely established in Kansas.

From that time to the present the college has set forth ideal after ideal. It has emphasized training for vocation and training for life at the same time. It has stressed the importance of being both a good workman and a good citizen. It has given greater and greater opportunities for specialization and along with them more abundant means of securing adequate knowledge of the problems of organized society. The material equipment of the college, in the form of buildings and grounds, class rooms and laboratories, and its mental and spiritual equipment, in the form of capable and devoted faculties, have been the means toward these great ends.

The men and women who have gone out from the institution are living proofs of the institution's success. In their works, in their lives, the ideals of the Kansas State Agricultural college are realized. The college today may be proud of the human results that it has achieved through sixty years of service.

We must not rest complacently upon past achievements or present success, however. Throughout the United States, and indeed throughout the world, education is being subjected to more penetrating criticism than in any previous age in history. Here in the Kansas State Agricultural college, as in every other institution, there are problems to be solved, and they must be solved for the good of humanity.

The students of this institution need higher scholarship; greater interest in the problems of the state, the nation, and the world; more specific ideals of service; and, more than all else, a deeper desire for the truth on every subject. The search for truth is the highest ideal of any institution of learning, for it is the truth alone that makes men free.

It is for the students and alumni of the college to adopt, maintain, and cherish these ideals.

History

THE Student Self Governing association had its beginning in the spring of 1920. The purpose of this organization is to place the control and advancement of student interests and activities in the hands of the student body. The association presents a representative form of student government. The executive council composed of 21 members is the governing body. The members are chosen by the student body in the following manner: President and vice-president from the entire school; two members from each of the college classes; two from the Inter-Society council; one from the Women's Pan-Hellenic; one from the Men's Pan-Hellenic; one from the "K" fraternity; one from the Woman's Athletic association; one from the Y. W. C. A.; one from the Y. M. C. A.; one from the Girl's Loyalty League; one from the Federation of Cooperative Clubs; and one from the School of Agriculture.

The Student Self-Governing association through the Executive Council is regulating the social as well as the school life of the students and in every way functioning as a law making and law enforcing body in handling college affairs.

Within the last year, the S. S. G. A. has been active in passing the varsity activity fee which means that athletics, oratory, debate, and stock judging will be assured a steady source of income without placing a burden upon any student. An improved system of giving final examinations, is another innovation of this year's S. S. G. A.

The aim of this organization is to foster a more wholesome social life and to elevate the standards of morals of the college.

A view from the southwest of the east wing of Waters hall (agricultural building). Work on the west wing to be located to the left of the judging pavilion, will begin in the near future. The appropriation available for the erection of this wing is $275,000.

The Division of Agriculture

The welfare of all the people in the country is inseparably connected with the welfare of American agriculture. Agriculture is the biggest business in the country. It represents an invested capital of 80 billion dollars. This is more than all the manufacturing industries and all the railroads combined.

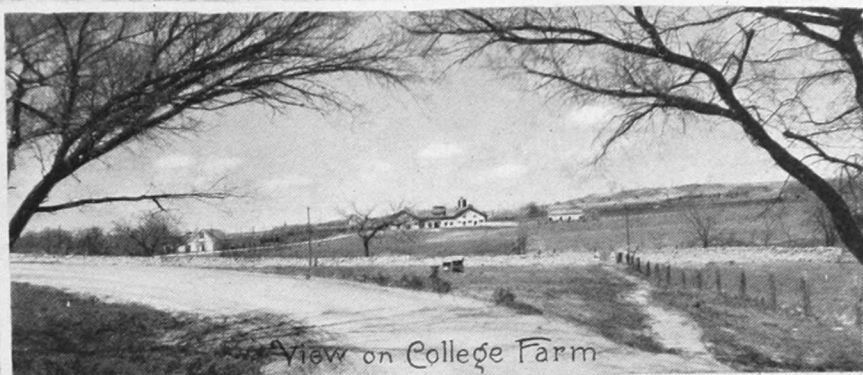

This great business is short of capable leaders. It must have the services of many thousands of high-class, scientifically trained men in positions of responsibility and leadership, on the farms and in numerous other fields of agricultural work which must be done if agriculture is to develop properly.

It is the function of the division of agriculture to give young men special training in preparation for careers of useful service in American agriculture and American country life. The division has departments of agricultural economics, agronomy, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, milling industry, horticulture, and poultry husbandry. These departments train men for more than 150 agricultural occupations, including the various types of farming in which emphasis may be placed on livestock breeding and feeding, fruit production, seed production, poultry raising, dairying, etc.; work as agricultural teachers, county agents, experimentalists, inspectors, seedsmen, creamery operators, orchard managers, and agricultural experts for banks, railroads, breed associations, cooperative marketing associations, mills, and fertilizer companies. The teaching staff and the equipment and other facilities for instruction are such as to make K. S. A. C. second to none in training men for agricultural service.

The fundamental object of the division of agriculture is not merely to train men to be farmers. It is, rather, to train men to be leaders in American agriculture, on the farm and elsewhere. The division has not failed in the accomplishment of this object.

Division of Engineering

The division of engineering has for its chief purpose the training of men for the various branches of engineering. In recent years the tendency of professional engineering practice has been toward specialization; but successful specialization must be based upon thorough general training. The division of engineering meets these requirements by giving instruction in the fundamental sciences and arts upon which all engineering is based and imparts such special and technical practice of his profession.

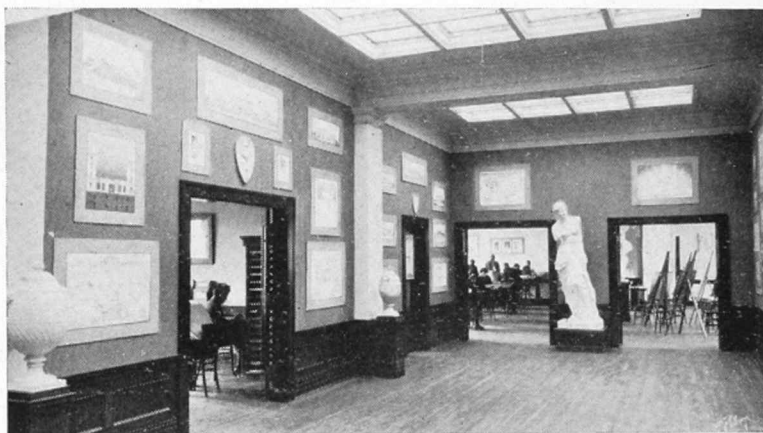

MACHINE SHOP

The shop practice department has, in addition to the machine shop, extensive shops in foundry, blacksmithing, woodworking and automechanics. Few college shops are so well provided with modern equipment.

Division of Engineering

Four year curricula are offered in the division of engineering in agricultural engineering, architecture, civil engineering, electrical engineering, flour-mill engineering, and mechanical engineering.

In addition to the four year curricula, special instruction in a number of vocations is offered. A three-year curriculum in mechanic arts with trade practice electives in blacksmithing, carpentry, concrete construction and stationary and traction engines is given. Short special courses for automobile mechanics, tractor operators, carpenters, machinists, blacksmiths, electricians and foundrymen are designed for those who desire training in these trades and who find it impossible to take advantage of any of the longer courses offered.

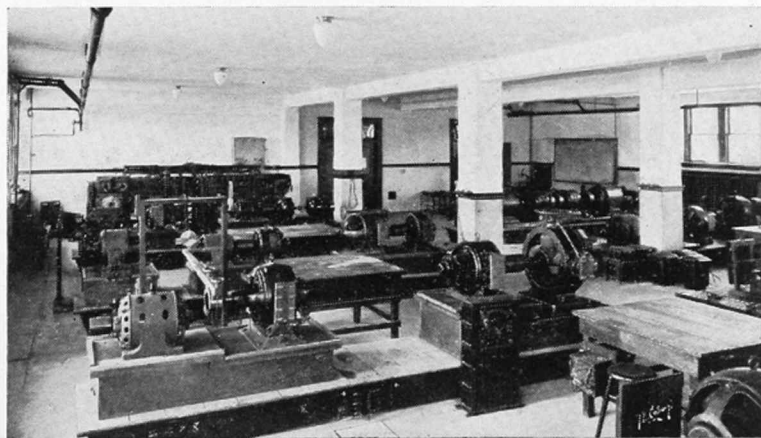

ARCHITECTURAL DRAUGHTING ROOMS

The architectural department is one of the popular departments of the college. Its enrollment has shown a marked increase in the last few years.

Division of Engineering

The division of engineering at the Kansas State Agricultural college occupies an honorable place among similar divisions found in other collegiate institutions. Few engineering schools in the middle west are so fully equipped and so well prepared to conduct efficiently the instructional work. The effectiveness of the course may be measured by the fact that a very large percentage of its graduates are engaged in technical pursuits.

The growth of the division has been remarkable. In the last ten years the number of students enrolled has increased to three times the number at the beginning of that period. At the present time the division has the largest enrollment of any of the divisions at Kansas State Agricultural college; an enrollment larger than that of any other engineering school in the state of Kansas.

DYNAMO LABORATORY

The electrical engineering department has, in addition to the dynamo laboratory, extensive laboratories in illumination, telephony, electrical measurements, and dynamo winding.

Division of General Science

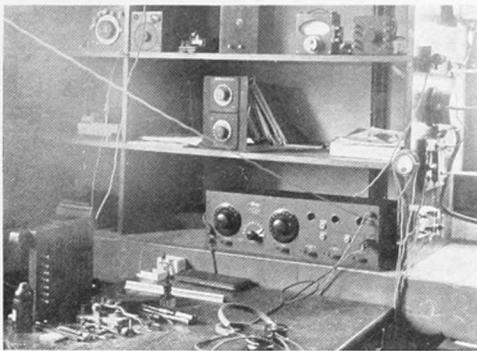

In writing, editing, printing and distributing college publications students get interesting experience and valuable training.

Young women are given instruction in physics and its numerous applications in the household. The cut illustrates a test of vacuum sweepers.

Division of Home Economics

Designs from Peruvian and floral motifs adapted to different materials and used on surfaces of different shapes.

In home economics, art and science are applied to the problems of living and of home making. Students prepare for responsible work in the world whether it be as wage earners or managers of their own households. Work in household economy was announced in K. S. A. C. as early as 1874. A curriculum in home economics has been offered since 1898.

The division of veterinary medicine of the Kansas State Agricultural college offers a four-year course leading to the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. High school graduates interested in live stock production and conservation are enthusiastic matriculants.

Waiting

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
 Nor care for wind or tide, or sea;
 I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
 For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
 For what avails this eager pace?
 I stand amid the eternal ways,
 And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake by night or day,
 The friends I seek are seeking me;
 No wind can drive my bark astray,
 Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
 I wait with joy the coming years;
 My heart shall reap where it has sown,
 And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own and draw
 The brook that springs in yonder height;
 So flows the good with equal law
 Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
 The tidal wave unto the sea;
 Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
 Can keep my own away from me.

—John Burroughs.

Senior Class History

HO HUM. Gosh. Well, here we are at last. Seniors—soon to join the ranks of the alumni. Just what we have been working for all these years. We're at the end of our collegiate rope, if you please, and now that we're here we don't feel a bit stuck up.

According to recorded history, all the classes that have been graduated from K. S. A. C. were select bodies of assorted geniuses. We are workers, and now that we are about to graduate are looking for a job. Say, you don't happen to need a handy man around the house, do you?

Our class believes in success via steady plugging. In the autumn of 1918, when the Great World War was yet in full swing, we entered our college course. No one can doubt that the war, with its subsequent period of depression, has had its sobering effect upon us. It taught us to see things in their proper perspective—stripped bare of their usual glamor. We have learned to appreciate the value of honest toil, and have displayed this realization in our unprecedented interest in school and class affairs.

The class held its first meeting in the old chapel—now recreation center—in the fall of 1918, and elected Dewey Houston president. Unlike the cases of more recent freshmen classes, there was but one election, and the guiding hand of a faculty member was not needed. This same saneness and interest has been potent among our attributes ever since.

Many of our boys were in the army, and a large number—softly now—were in the S. A. T. C. Maybe it was the rest the boys got there that has kept them going ever since. Let us mention a few of the things we have accomplished besides making good grades. In the first place it was the seniors who really showed the world what honest-to-goodness class politics was, when in the election last spring more votes were cast than ever were cast by any previous class at K. S. A. C. At every class meeting since that time the room has been filled.

A senior class, you know, is composed of both boys and girls. Senior girls have been prominent in class athletics, in politics, in beauty contests, May fetes, and—well, what haven't they had a hand in. This year four out of the six girls chosen in the popularity contest were seniors.

Athletically speaking, here is more evidence of our importance: Brady Cowell, Murphy, Freddie Williams, Schmitz, Clapp, H. Brown, Guilfoyle, Griffith. Those names are self-explanatory.

Nor does all our fame come from the gridiron, the diamond, or the cinder path. On the platform in both debate and oratory seniors hold the foreground. Interest in forensic affairs at K. S. A. C. is growing rapidly, and largely because of the impetus given by this year's class. Howard won the intersociety oratorical and Barger took second place in the Missouri Valley contest. The Ag Fair is another thing which the seniors have developed for their alma mater. Practically all the student executive offices on the hill are held by seniors. We have accomplished these things by plugging.

Good-bye everybody. You'll have to get along the best you can without us.

WHAT WOULD THE COLLEGE BE WITHOUT JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Class of 1923

The Freshman Year

A "Comedy of Errors."

Fresh from our homes, timid and suspicious, the class of 1923 first appeared on the campus in the fall of 1919.

Who can forget that registration?

At a third or fourth class meeting we succeeded in nominating officers. Politics appeared early with plenty of help from the upper classmen. First semester officers were Ellis Kimball, president; Faith Martin, vice-president; Frances Johnstone, secretary, and Earl Chappell, treasurer. Those for the second semester were: R. C. Spratt, Mary Fitzgerald, Irene Shoemaker, and Renna Rosenthal.

The Freshman-Sophomore hop, given in the spring, was a howling success. At least we thought so when we successfully escaped with the key handed down by the Sophomores.

The Sophomore Year

"Much Ado About Nothing."

We came back to our sophomore year much more sophisticated. We had learned that permits to roam the campus need not be bought, and that Phi Kappa Phi pledging is not done the Freshman year. Our usual elections were held both semesters as follows: President, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer for first semester, H. L. Sebring, N. V. Platner, Mary F. Turner and Joe McGuire; second semester, L. G. Grandfield, Gretchen Rugh, Lucile Smith and M. R. Getty.

Another very successful Freshman-Sophomore hop was held in the gymnasium in the spring of 1921. The key was again handed down to the Freshmen.

Thus ended our sophomore year.

"As You Like It."

Here we are back in our junior year. Much more sedate and dignified, for we are upper-classmen now! Our first election was very quiet, every officer unanimously elected. Under careful administration the first semester ended without a stir. Second semester election was not so quiet—a second voting on vice-president and treasurer was necessary.

In athletics we have always stood high. In fact, most of the athletes in college are Juniors—Sebring, Sears, Schindler, Matthias, Erwin, Hope, Constable, Franz, and McKee are only a few of them. We took first in the track meet with Hope high point man, and our girls won the championship in basketball.

Not only in athletics but in any worth while organization on the campus whether it pertains to oratory, debate, dramatics, journalism, college band, or orchestra you will always find members of this class on top.

Next year we will return and it is safe to say, will again prove our sterling worth.

TO THE GREAT SOPHOMORE SPORT

TO THE
WE GAVE
AND YOU RECEIVED

OH FOR THE DAYS WHAT WAS

Andante Mesto

We lit a song of other times,
Of other days we sing,
When rules were mild and Frosh ran wild,
And men could swing
A Paddle.

Vivace

Chorus—Oh what fun, Oh what fun—
Tra le O le addle
When rules were mild
And Frosh ran wild,
And men could swing a paddle

Allegro

O gallant age, adventure's child,
When Frosh were on the wing,
And each sportsman brave with a barrel stave
Fared forth to swing
A Paddle

U.

Chorus—Oh what fun, Oh what fun—
Tra le O le addle
When each sportsman brave
With a barrel stave
Fared forth to swing a paddle

A Lamentation

Allegro

Not e'en the day when chivalry
Was green can ever bring
To tongue or pen, such sights as men
Who raise and swing
A Paddle.

U.

Chorus—Oh what fun, Oh what fun—
Tra le O le addle
Not to tongue or pen
Such sights as men
Who raise and swing a paddle

Adagio M.

But man made laws are creeping round,
Soon they'll ban the thing
What sadness then, what sadness when
We cannot swing
A Paddle

Adagio M. Dim.

Chorus—When we're done, when we're done
Tra le O le addle
What sadness then,
What sadness when
We cannot swing a paddle,
no longer swing a paddle - paddle

LONG MAY

Class of 1924

Motto—"Plus Ultra"

Colors—Gold and Green

Class Flower—Yellow Chrysanthemum

Sophomore class history! We write those words with a feeling of exultation and satisfaction. We are no longer designated by that odious appellation Freshmen! We have pushed forward until now, at last, we decorate your pages as Sophomores, and such words as chemistry laboratory, freshman caps, and paddles have only historical significance in our minds.

Now about this history of us. Eight hundred and seventy-eight boys and girls, potential engineers and journalists, Greek pledges, ags., and home ec'ers, athletes, musicians, debaters, cynics, daters, and students, enrolled as Freshmen one sweltering day in the fall of 1920.

We soon became bold enough to pass daily through the aisles of the standing market in Anderson. Later, after several desperate word battles, we elected the class officers. We then started out to express ourselves and make our mark on college life.

During that first year our one achievement was borrowing money from the Sophomores. But now, near the end of our second year, our influence is felt in all college activities. Our lounge lizards are of the fiercest species; our athletes are helping make victorious Aggie football, basketball, track, and swimming teams; our students have startled the professors by their application; The Brown Bull and the Collegian could hardly be published if it were not for our "Newsies," artists, jokesters, and satirists; and our girls—well, at the present rate there won't be any frat pins left for the frats by the time we are Seniors. Our presence is essential to the happiness of the music department because our actions at the Artist Series are perfect. The literary societies recognize our ability in debate and oratory, and dramatic organizations are enlisting a number of us.

With such a past can we fail? No! We modestly admit that we are destined to be the greatest class at K. S. A. C.

REFLECTIONS

We came to school a motley crew,
 Believing thoroughly we knew
 Just how a college should be run,
 And good advice we sought from none.
 So many things we could improve,
 And guide them through a brand new groove.
 Among them was assigners' speed;
 They moved as if the course were treed,
 And took so long to get it down,
 We pulled up chairs and parked around,
 Sometimes an hour, sometimes all day.
 They had you there; you had to stay.

The football season soon began,
 And introduced a two-fold plan.
 One meant a cap of purple hue,
 The other brought the wood to you.
 They sent us down two long, long lines—
 We traveled down the "Rue de Pines."
 The question ends where it began—
 To wear the cap or dodge the fan.
 The bright headgear with button green
 Will really make a "Frosh" look keen.
 And next fall may the saints protect
 Each capless "Frosh" that we detect.

BASKETBALL TEAM

The basketball team of the school of agriculture just closed their most successful season, winning eleven games and losing five. With less than a dozen candidates, several of whom had never played in a basketball game before, Coach Frank Meyers whipped together a fast clean playing team. Captain Brooks, Stutz, Sprout, Karns, and Lutz won letters this year.

During his second year as Athletic Director Mike has definitely proved that he could "come back" to the job he had ten years ago and more than make good. Mike is popular with the students, with the faculty, with the townspeople, and with all Aggies who have ever met him. His conscientious work for the athletic program of the college has made for a more efficient system of athletics. His work is felt throughout the Valley and his influence in things athletic is known all over the United States.

Charles W. Bachman

The last two football teams from the Kansas Aggies have been receiving favorable comment not only from other Valley schools, but also from colleges and universities in the Big Ten. Coach Bachman is the man who has developed a football system that has made a winning football combination for this institution. "Bach" was a star athlete at Notre Dame university in both football and track. He is the possessor of a trunk full of medals and shields gained in intercollegiate track and field events. The Aggie tracksters will tell you that "Bach knows his stuff."

The "Big Coach" is a keen student of football and is ever ready to take time to demonstrate a new play or a new idea in football strategy.

During the past two months Coach Bachman has been approached by members of the Big Ten, but his heart is in the work here and the good news has gone forth that "Bach" will act as mentor to our football team next fall.

E. C. Curtiss

"Ted" Curtiss, a graduate of the University of Chicago, coaches basketball and baseball. The University of Chicago showered athletic honors on Curtiss, awarding him eight varsity letters. "Ted" has had a world of experience in athletics and shows it in his coaching. He fits in well with the Aggie coaching staff and is a great help to Bachman in football. "Bach" believes that Curtiss is without a peer as a football scout and avers that he shows unerring judgment in picking candidates for the various places on the freshman football squad.

Racely, Geo.

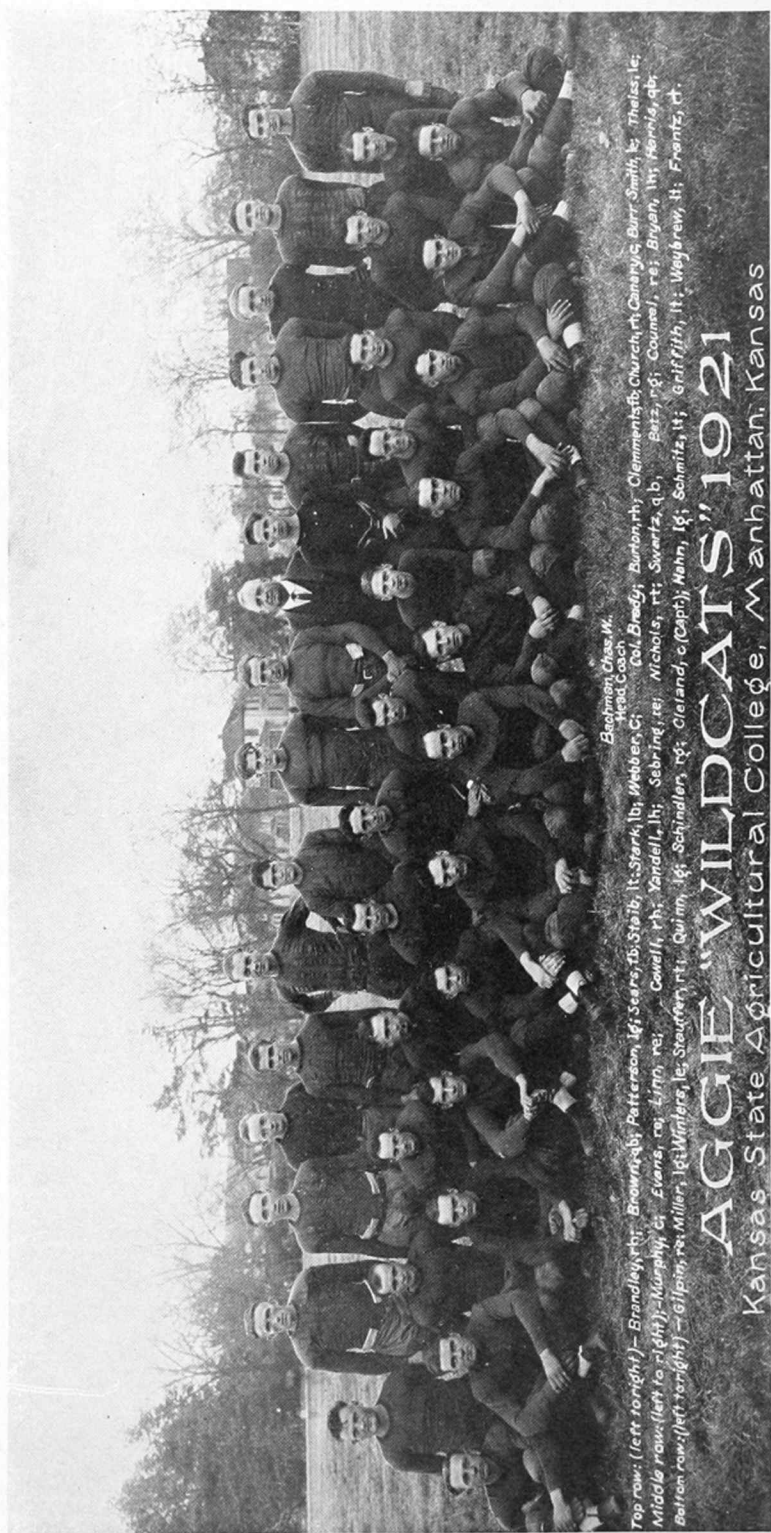

Coming here from Nebraska university, Racely took charge of the baseball team and immediately won a home for himself with the Aggie students. He knew baseball inside and out and knew how to impart such information to his men. When the business world called him from the coaching game this institution lost a first-class coach and a fine sportsman.

ATHLETIC SEASON

The athletic season of 1921-22 was notable for many important happenings, chief of which was the adoption by the student body of an activity fee, requiring every student to pay five dollars per semester to be used in promoting student enterprises. The football team finished in a tie for second place in the Valley conference and established a reputation of being one of the hardest teams in the valley to stop. Basketball and track were marked by increased interest among both spectators and participants in these sports. Tennis came into valley competition.

A summing up of the season's athletic activities shows that several hundred more students are taking an active part in some form of athletics than ever before; that there has been an appreciable increase in attendance and, last but not least, a fine loyal college spirit has developed that should accomplish much for Aggie athletics and other student activities.

Football in 1921

"The most successful football season in the history of K. S. A. C. athletics." This was the unanimous verdict of the followers of the great college game, and the record of last fall's football team certainly justifies the decision.

Dating back to the last game of 1920, when the scrappy Aggies tied the champions of that year in a thrilling battle, a fighting spirit was born that could not be denied. During the following winter and spring it spread rapidly through the student body and when college opened in September everyone was shouting "This is the Aggie year." Real, unadulterated pep was rampant and the first mixer of the year held in the Y. M. C. A. building, started the campaign for a winning team.

Facing the stiffest schedule ever procured for an Aggie team called for all that was best from the players and students alike, and may it be said to the everlasting credit of both that they delivered the goods.

The team finished in a tie with the University of Missouri for second place in the Valley, but the Wildcats had previously twisted the Tiger's tail and knotted it with a 7 to 5 score. Washington University bowed to the superior team work of the Aggies in the first game of the season and was decisively beaten 21—0. Two games escaped Bachman's net—one to Ames and the other to K. U. The season ended in a blaze of glory when the Wildcats, playing true to name and form, outplayed the fine team coached by Bennie Owen and representing the University of Oklahoma. It was the Homecoming game and the best ever from an Aggie viewpoint.

Old grads and visitors, attending the dedication of the Engineering hall, were in attendance at this game. Bachman's proteges, inspired by their pre-sense, played a whirlwind game that sent every loyal Aggie home with his head in the clouds. A wonderful football machine, well coached, finely trained, working as one for the best interest of the many, backed by the most loyal student body in the country, was bound to result in the best season ever enjoyed by an Aggie eleven.

Next fall the Wildcats will have nearly all of the 1921 bunch with the addition of some promising material from the freshman varsity.

Let's go, Aggies, the old fight and every student a loyal rooter.

Captain Cleland

"Shifty" was the popular choice of the 1920 K men for their leader on the gridiron in 1921. Cap held down the center position with credit to himself and the team. He was heady, fast for a big man, and a bulwark of strength on both offense and defense. "Shifty" wears a K sweater with four stripes; three for his three years of competition, and one in honor of his captaincy last fall.

Hahn

"Russian" Hahn, captain-elect, is one of the best guards in the West. Ray was built for football, tipping the beam at 190 lbs. and withal as fleet of foot as a half-back. Last fall the guards were always down the field on kicks and very few returns were made by opposing backs. Hahn has been keeping fit playing basketball and next fall the Aggies will have as a leader a fine student, a splendid athlete, and an all 'round good fellow.

"Ding" going over for a touchdown

Stauffer

Big "Stauff" was crowned with hard luck during the football season. Early in the season an injury to his knee kept him on the side-lines. He was shot into the fray often enough to show flashes of his old time form, and the Wildcats are counting strongly on Stauffer's tackle play to help bring home the Missouri Valley title in 1922.

P. S.—Marion Stauffer is busy writing journalistic yarns and putting on flesh.

Nichols

"Nick" reported for football in 1921 with about 165 pounds of flesh and bone, a smile, and a fighting spirit. Injuries to veterans gave the youngster a chance and he made good. It is a pleasure to watch this boy play tackle. He is endowed with everything that a good athlete needs in his work. Heady, aggressive, and fast. The way he sizes up the opponents' strategy is uncanny, and many a time "Nick" has broken up opposing plays before they were well under way.

Schmitz

Possessed with a fine pair of shoulders, two long arms, and a pair of corking good hands, Schmitz was able to smear 95 per cent of the plays sent at his side of the line. There may have been better students than Henry in the Valley, but it would be hard to make the Aggie Profs believe it, and there may have been better tackles in the Valley but you could not make the Aggie rooters admit it. Schmitz has been carrying the ball for consistent gains in his class room work and if he doesn't watch out he'll graduate in three years and lose one year of athletic competition in the Missouri Valley.

Bryan

"Dodo" won his letter for the first time this year as a substitute for Stark. He was a hard driving runner, a good passer, and the possessor of an educated toe which did excellent service on several occasions during the season. Called upon as he was on numerous occasions to kick from behind our own goal line he showed that he could be depended upon to turn the trick when under fire.

Stark

Stark was captain of the 1921 freshman team and a regular on the 1922 varsity team. Playing his first year on the team he proved to be one of the king pins on offense. He was a hard driving off-tackle runner, an excellent passer, and a player with good team spirit and determination. The Stark-to-Burton and Stark-to-Winter and Cowell passing combinations were feared throughout the Valley.

Swartz

Burr proved in his very first game, to the satisfaction of the big coach that he knew his eggs and removed one of the wrinkles from Bachman's brow. Many a Valley team received the surprise of its life when Swartz started throwing passes with left and right. His left handed flip has paved the way to several touchdowns.

Winters

Left end on the Varsity, just over six feet in height and 175 lbs. in weight. "Ship" had the speed of a greyhound and was always down the field on punts. On account of his speed and drive, he was used in some games to carry the ball from a half-back's position. "Ship" was a hard worker and developed into one of the star ends of the conference.

Sebring

A tower of strength offensively and defensively. He knows football and plays it with his head as well as with his hands and feet. Tom is a fine type of athlete, being a good student and a leader in college activities. He was recommended to Walter Camp last fall for a place on his all-eleven. Harold is one of the best receivers of forward passes on the Aggie team and no one who saw the Wildcat-Tiger game last fall will forget the pass he grabbed and carried to the Missouri goal line, turning sure defeat into glorious victory.

Cowell

"Brady" is a living example of the true Aggie spirit. A student on the field and in the classroom, with him the college came first and Brady second. He was one of the most aggressive and consistent performers on the team, his specialty being to grab short forward passes, which he usually converted into long gains. It is around such men as Brady, with his cool temperament, courage, and loyalty, that winning athletic teams are built. Brady graduates in June and is the last of the famous Cowell brothers whose athletic achievements have made Aggie and Valley history.

Murphy

Tim is an example of what bulldog tenacity and aggressiveness can accomplish if properly applied. A substitute for three years on the varsity playing at tackle, guard, and center, he finally earned the right this year to wear the coveted "K."

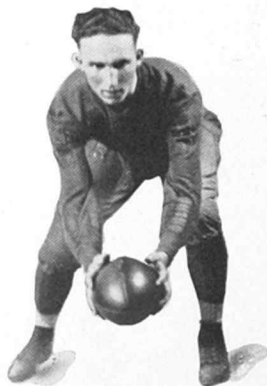

Sears

The hard-hitting full-back of the Kansas Aggies was known and feared by every team on the Aggie schedule. "Susie" could hit a line like Babe Ruth punishing a Reach ball and could always be relied upon for a consistent gain. "Susie" has a fine disposition and comes out of every mix-up with a generous smile on his classic features. He has one more year of varsity competition and judging from past performances he is due for the best season of his football career.

Brown

Henry is a notable example of what perseverance and college spirit may accomplish for a man who believes in college ideals and traditions. Henry alternated at half and quarter on the football team and showed excellent judgment when called upon to pilot the team.

Smith

A center, a tackle, and end, and able to play any of these positions well. Burr is one of the most dependable men on the squad. Never flashy but always in the right place when needed. He has a valuable cog in Bachman's machine. He was a fierce tackler and a keen student of the game and should rank high in Valley circles in 1922.

Steiner

A new find—playing his first year of college football, he proved himself a satisfactory under-study for Ray Hahn. With the experience gained last fall and in spring practice John should develop into a star lineman. He is built like the Sig Ep Bungalow, but is astonishingly fast for a man of his avoirdupois.

Schindler

A running mate to Hahn and, therefore, needless to add, a sterling football guard. Schindler was handicapped to some extent by injuries, but his game was always sound and at times it was brilliant. With Schindler and Hahn back next fall the Wildcats are bound to have two of the best guards in the Valley. Ira weighs more than 180 lbs. and is fast and aggressive.

Burton

"Ding" was moved to half-back position this fall and the result proved that Bachman is unerring in selecting men for a particular position. Burton was the most spectacular half-back in the Missouri Valley. He was especially brilliant on the receiving end of a pass, and many a gain was made by the aerial routes, Starke to Burton, or Swartz to Burton. "Ding" is absolutely fearless, a wonderful broken field runner, and a fellow who always tries to live up to Bachman's slogan of "One for all and all for one."

Basketball Season

The basketball season was not a glorious success in the number of games won, but Coach Curtiss showed that he could take a bunch of new material and develop it rapidly during a heavy schedule of games. The graduation of a team which had played together for three years left only one regular player and three substitutes around which to build a new team. That the team was a coming one was proved when it gave Nebraska and Missouri very close decisions at the end of the season. A return of all but two of this year's men will mean a more experienced team with which to start the 1922-23 season.

Brady Cowell

Brady was all that a captain of a team should be, a true leader, and a fighter on the floor. He was one of the cleverest defensive men in the Valley besides carrying the brunt of the Aggies' floor work. His sportsmanship stands as a splendid example of Aggie spirit.

Favol Foval

His smooth passing and knowledge of basketball made "Fav" one of the main cogs in the Aggie team. At forward or guard he played a strong defensive game and scored his share of the points. In Captain-elect Foval the Aggie team has an able successor to Captain Cowell.

Freddy Williams

Freddy was the team's leading scorer. He specialized on long shots and was the most dangerous man on the floor when shooting from around center. The loss of Williams will put a big dent in the Aggie scoring machine.

Ray Hahn

In basketball Ray showed that same fight and aggressiveness that made him a terror on the football field. He was particularly good at taking the rebound from the back board and made the most of his size and speed.

Andy McKee

Andy was a consistent worker at center, playing particularly good games against K. U. and Oklahoma. However, he was handicapped most of the season by sickness contracted during the Christmas holidays.

"Hank" Webber

"Hank" was an example of the "Old Aggie Fight" and played a hard, clean game at all times. Webber was the backbone of the Aggie defense, doing stellar work at the guard position until sickness put him out at the end of the season. He should be one of the most valuable men on the squad next year.

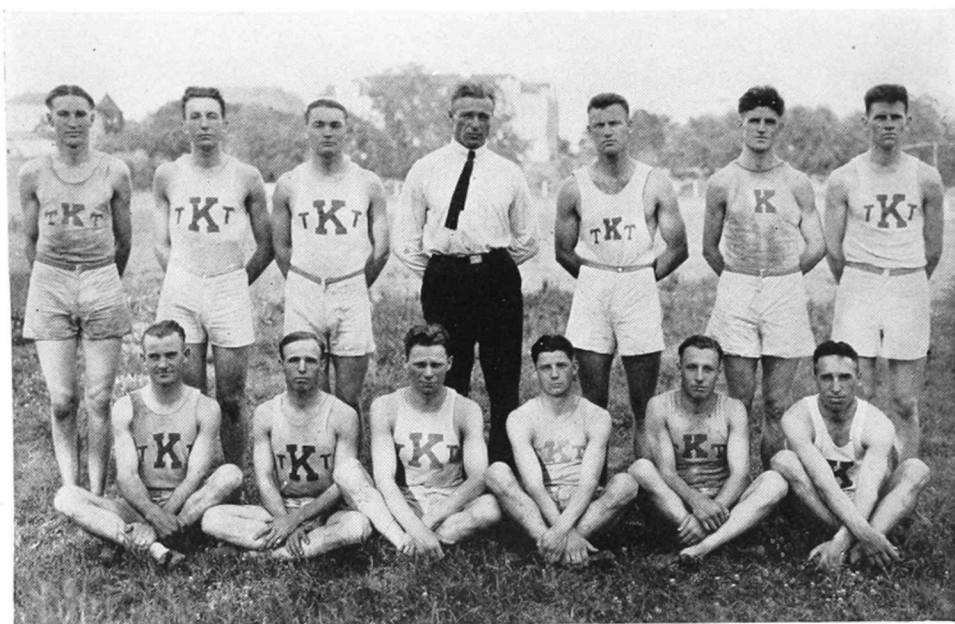

Maurelle Dobson

"Dobby" was not eligible until the second semester but started right off by shooting baskets from all over the floor in the game against Missouri. Dobson was one of the most spectacular players in the Valley and should prove a big help to the team next year.

1921 Track Season

Featured by one or two strong men rather than by a winning combination, the track season of 1921 from the standpoint of Aggie victories was not particularly successful. With the exception of two or three such strong men as Watson and Gallagher the remainder of the team was made up of new material. The season opened with a meet with the Haskell Indians who were the winners of the contest, while Missouri and K. U. later defeated the Aggies by scores of almost two to one.

The ability of the Aggies to take points in the long distance events was the strong point of the team. In the hurdles and sprints the work of Gallagher featured at the beginning of the season. Several new men showed up with promise of future development. Riley did some nice work in the hurdles, Hope and Axline in the pole vault, and Von Reisen and Kuykendall in the distances.

New records for the Aggies were set by Watson in the half mile and two mile runs, and by Gallagher in the 100 yard dash.

Watson

Captain Ray B. Watson has completed a unique career at K. S. A. C. When he first trod the campus of the college four years ago, none, himself included, would admit that he was an athlete. But in the three years of his track competition he has blazed a trail in track athletics that has given him an international reputation as a middle distance and a general all-around man in scholastic attainments. In his junior year he earned the right to represent his country at the Olympic Games in Antwerp, Belgium, and in his senior year he closed his career by clearly demonstrating that he was the class of the collegiate world by winning the mile at the National Inter-Collegiate meet in Chicago in record time.

Matthias

Bill is one of our star distance runners and was unanimously elected captain of the 1922 track team. His specialty was the mile in which he was a consistent winner. Bill was a member of the four mile and cross-country teams.

Kuykendall

"Kyk" was Ray Watson's running mate in the mile and two mile. He was a member of the cross-country team and the four-mile relay team. His best time in the two mile was 9:51 made in the dual meet with Haskell.

Clapp

Clapp ran the half-mile in dual meets and was one of our most consistent point winners. He was also a member of the cross-country and four-mile relay teams.

Arline

The "Swede" was the surprise package of the track team. With only three days' practice, because of heavy assignments and outside work, he vaulted 11 feet 9 inches at the Missouri Valley meet and won second place.

Riley

During the indoor season Riley ran the quarter and was a member of the mile relay quartet. During the outdoor season he was switched to the 220 yard low hurdles, and finished the season with a third place in the Valley meet.

Hope

Hollis ranked as one of the most versatile track athletes in the Valley. The pole vault was his specialty, yet he won many points in dual meets with his hurdling, high jumping, and broad jumping. At the K. C. A. C. he vaulted 11 feet 10 inches.

Henre

Henre, our diminutive two miler, came to the Aggies with a reputation of being a distance runner and has more than made good. He was a member of the cross-country and four-mile relay teams.

Jennings

Competing his first year in track, Jennings developed rapidly as a high jumper. He has an unusual amount of strength and spring.

Collom

Collom was our lone representative in the weight events, and while he was not a big man, he more than made up for lack of weight by speed and form in throwing the weights.

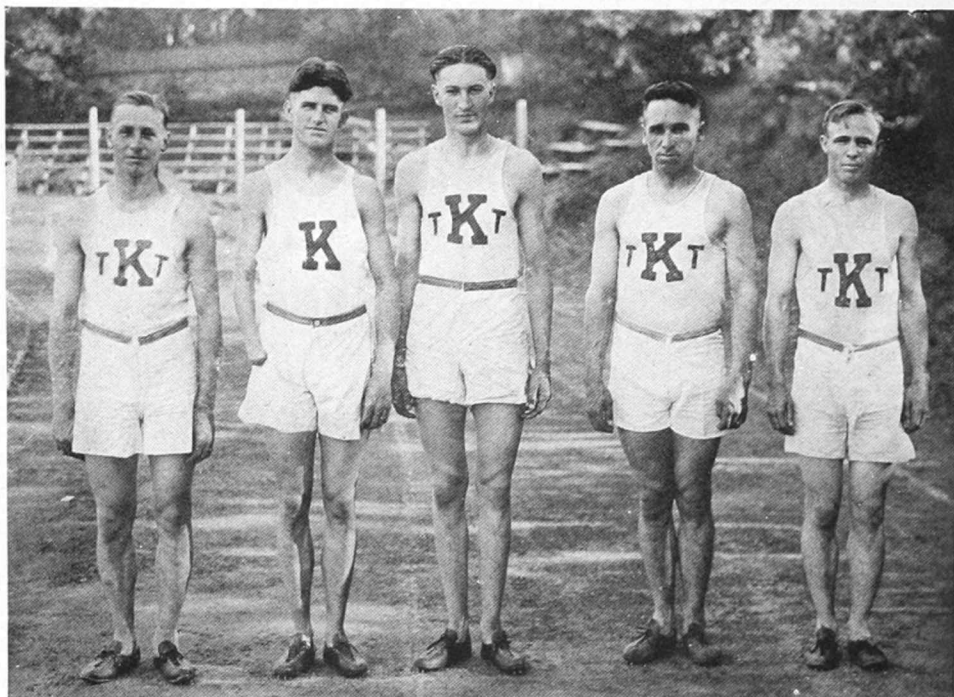

Von Reisen

Von is a middle distance runner of no mean ability. He shows promise of being a worthy successor to Ray Watson in the middle distance events. Von has records of 1:59 and 4:31 in the half and mile respectively. He is a sophomore and has two years of competition left.

Stalcup

"Stally" showed great promise as a broad jumper. He is a faithful worker who can be depended upon at all times to exert all the energy at his command for the college.

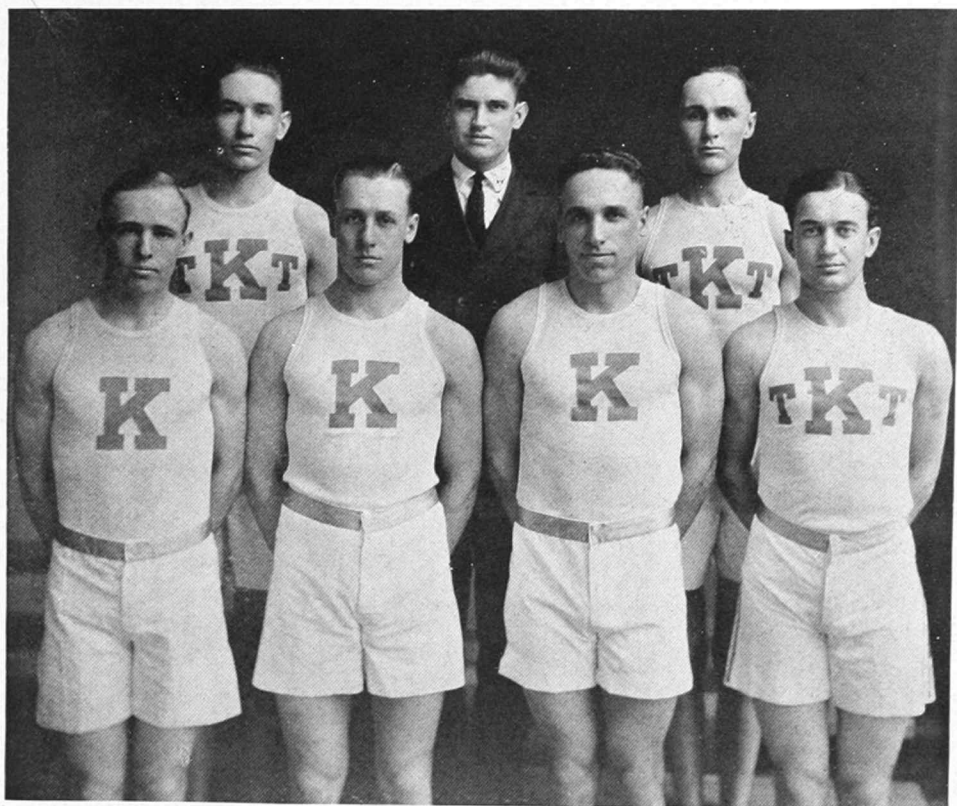

Relay Team

With a large group of distance runners to work with, the coach started early in the season to develop a relay team. When the tryouts for the Illinois Relay were held in the gymnasium, the competition for places on the team was so keen that six men ran the mile under 4 minutes and 40 seconds, which is a faster average time than the Armory record made by Illinois in 1919. At Illinois we finished second to the Illinois quartet. Both teams broke the Armory record. At the Drake relays, held the first Saturday in May, we again placed second to Illinois, defeating Wisconsin, Minnesota, Chicago, Ames, Kansas, and Drake.

Ray Watson is the only member of the quartet that was lost by graduation and with such men as Von Riesen and Price to fill his place, we may look for our relay team to bring added laurels to K. S. A. C.

Cross Country 1921

The second year of the revival of cross country running showed a marked improvement in interest and team ability. There were no outstanding men, but rather a group of evenly balanced runners. The squad was finally singled out from about 45 aspirants.

In the handicap run, which was open to freshmen and varsity, the Aggie followers of this sport saw the beginning of the hard grind of the daily running. "Bill" Matthias, captain of the team, was first man in despite his handicap of two and one-half minutes. M. R. Henre, handicapped the same, was second, and E. H. Bradley was third.

The team which ran against K. U., and which met the big defeat of a 17-38 score because of the unknown stretch of almost a mile of brick pavement, was composed of the following men who placed according to the number following their name: Matthias, 3; Chapman, 7; Bradley, 8; Clapp, 9; Bryan, 11; and Ibach, 12.

Just previous to the meet with Nebraska university, November 5, the team was greatly strengthened by the addition of M. R. Henre. As a result, the Aggie men won a decisive victory over their opponents by the score of 17-38. This team was composed of Clapp, Matthias, and Henre who tied for first, with Chapman, fifth, with Bradley sixth, and with Bryan ninth.

The final meet which the Aggie "antelopes" entered and which gave a good comparison of the relative merit of the individuals in a valley setting, was the M. V. meet at Lincoln, Neb., on November 11. The team which made the trip was the same as the week before, and among the thirty-six entries made the following places: Matthias, Henre, Clapp, Bradley, Chapman, Bryan. The placing of the teams was: Iowa State, first with 31 points; K. U., second with 50; Kansas Aggies, third with 75; Nebraska, fourth with 80; Grinnell, fifth with 88; and Washington sixth with 140.

Captain Matthias, M. R. Henre, and W. J. Clapp reached the requirements for monograms and were presented with the cross country sweater.

Baseball Season 1921

Although the team gradually improved throughout the season, 1921 was not, in consideration of games won, a particularly successful baseball year for the Aggies. The season opened with a tie game with St. Mary's. A week later, St. Mary's played a return game, making it 11—1 in their favor. Then followed a game with Haskell with a 7—5 win and Kansas University with two wins. The Aggies finally found their stride and held Nebraska to close scores in a pair of games on the home field. Missouri next visited the Aggie camp and a pair of games was split between the teams. Oklahoma came along and was defeated in two games. Nebraska took the next two on her home grounds and the season closed with divided honors in two games between the Aggies and K. U.

The combination of a change of coaching system and poor weather conditions for training made itself felt at the beginning of the season.

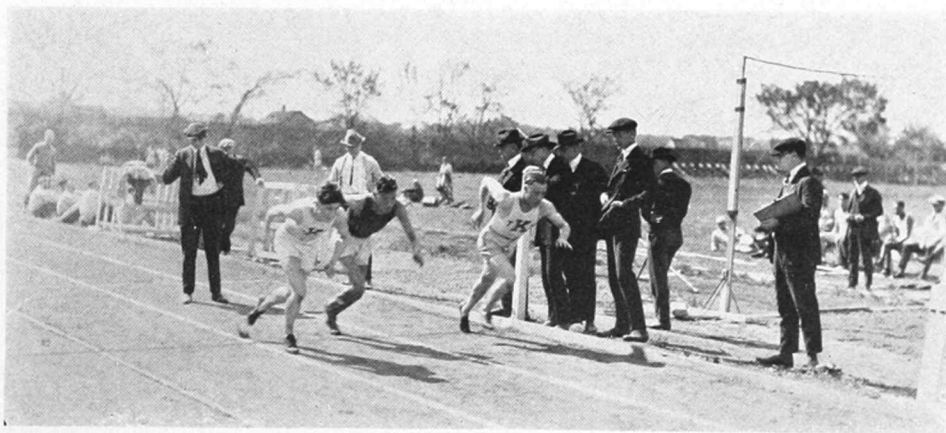

Guilfoyle, Luke (Captain)

Captain Luke was the backbone of the Aggie varsity last spring. Steady as Doctor Hughes of the chemistry department, possessor of a keen baseball mind and as full of fight as a wildcat, Luke made an ideal leader. Playing his third year on the team, Captain Guilfoyle displayed a brand of catching and qualities of leadership that stamp him as one of the best receivers in the Missouri Valley.

Griffith, Evan

A finished first-sacker; a brainy ball player; cool in a crisis, and a dangerous man with the stick, aptly describes Griff. The 1922 baseball squad will be under the leadership of this sterling athlete.

Start of the two-mile against Haskell

Cowell, Everett

"Shorty" Cowell, a veteran on the squad, played left field. A dangerous hitter in pinches, he was a thorn in the side of opposing pitchers. "Shorty" closed a brilliant college athletic career when he made the final put-out in the last game of the season.

Merston, C. F.

Last year "Rosy" was a mighty good third baseman but Rascely placed him at short-stop and he performed like a big leaguer in his new role. A dependable hitter, a classy fielder, and an all around good fellow is the verdict of the fans.

Otto, Merton

Mert pitched his final game for the Aggies last spring and the fans are still in mourning. When "Riley's" fast ball was working there was nothing to it but to chalk up a win for the home team. Mert was one of the most willing slab artists that ever wore an Aggie uniform.

Hewey, Geo. "Dutch"

Big "Dutch" was a crafty slab artist. He has a fast ball but depended largely on his slow ball to win games. Hewey was a student of baseball, and pitched with his head as well as his arm. Many an opposing batter whiffed the air because Dutch outguessed him. His long drives made him a batter to be feared.

Dickerson, Walter E.

Dick was a wonder at first base in '20 and better still at third in '21. He was fast, aggressive and brainy, the type that fits well into any man's team. This is his last season here.

Sinderson, L. E.

"Sindy" held down the center-field job during part of the season. He got every ball that came his way and should develop into a second Tris Speaker in 1922.

Cowell, Warren

It is the most natural thing in the world to see "Brady" Cowell cavort around the keystone sack. As a fielder he was hard to beat. When "Brady" took the bat we naturally expected a hit. He played with the kind of pep that put the old fight in his team-mates. In addition to this he was a fine student, and a modest, unassuming chap, admired by all who follow the fortunes of Aggie teams.

Burton, Howard "Red"

Playing his first year of varsity baseball, Red gives promise of becoming one of the best short fielders in the Valley. He is a rangy youngster, blessed with a fine throwing arm and a good pair of legs. At the bat he swings naturally and should develop into a cracking good hitter.

Assistant Professor of Physical Education

Intra-Mural Athletics

Intra-murals have become permanently established at the Kansas State Agricultural college. Great impetus was given to this branch of physical education when the department of physical education secured Prof. E. A. Knoth to take charge of gymnastic work and intra-murals. Through his efforts intra-mural events in basketball, baseball, track, and swimming have met with hearty response from the student body and much interest has been manifested by faculty and public in the results of these games.

In the fall of 1920 the first intra-mural games were scheduled at this institution and now at the end of two years the physical education department possesses a thriving young enterprise that seems to be winning its way with the student body. The success of intra-murals at the Kansas Aggie is due to Coach Knoth and the hearty cooperation of the student organizations.

Swimming

A surprising amount of interest was displayed in the first annual intra-mural swimming meet. Unusual talent was discovered and resulted in the forming of a varsity swimming team.

Basketball

The second season of intra-mural basketball found 30 teams entered in the race. The Pan Hellenic division was composed of the 12 national fraternities. Each of the two independent divisions had eight teams competing. Good competition in all the divisions resulted in some very snappy games. That the interest was at a high pitch was proven by the crowds which packed the gymnasium for the games. The Pan Hellenic division ended the season in a four cornered tie for first place, namely: Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Nu, and Beta Theta Pi. In the play-off Sigma Alpha Epsilon turned in the winner.

Pan Hellenic champions—Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Division "A" Independent champions—Triangulars.

Division "B" Independent champions—Elkhart Club.

In the play-off between the two independent champions the Elkharts duplicated their record of last year and are hailed as the independent champions.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilons and Elkharts battled for the college championship and it was anybody's game until the final whistle blew when the score stood 11 to 12 in favor of the Sigma Alpha Epsilons.

The Champions

Wilhoite, C. M.; Brown, Henry; Brown, John; Frudden, W.; Wareham, R.; Kohlar, S.; Ernst, L.; Guilfoyle, Luke (Capt.).

Baseball

The first baseball season last year brought out 22 teams. Bad weather and lack of playing space caused the season to drag out but after the shuffle was all over, Sigma Nu was holding the honors in the Pan Hellenic and the Veterinary Medical Association in the independent division. The college year ended before the two champions could meet and as a result the college championship was not decided. This year baseball bids fair to be every bit as popular as the basketball, 25 teams having entered with still a week's time for entries to come in.

Tennis

Thirty-six men were entered in the tennis singles which were conducted on the elimination basis. C. A. Downing and J. E. Burge battled their way to the finals, Downing defeating Burge in the finals. Twelve teams were entered in the doubles. C. A. Downing and G. Wann defeated E. Wareham and L. T. King in the finals.

Boxing, wrestling and hand-ball tournaments are under progress and the spring will see a big intra-mural track meet.

Women's Athletics

Miss Louise Tausche

Miss Mary Worrall

Miss Tausche, head of the department of physical education for women, came to K. S. A. C. in 1920 and has been responsible for the growth and popularity of women's athletics. This is Miss Worrall's first year here, but in true "Merry Whirl" fashion she has made many friends and is an enthusiastic athletic coach. As honorary and advisory members of the Women's Athletic association both have been very valuable. Miss Ruth Kittell and Miss Frances Johnstone are student assistants. The department prides itself in that it encourages girls to engage in the various sports and also gives them a chance to play in a large number of games thus not limiting the sport to those who have made teams. Every girl who wishes to try out for a sport is placed on a team which is designated by a color. A color tournament then is played before the class teams are picked.

The hockey season begins the last of September and ends in November. This year 107 girls came out for class practices—38 freshmen, 35 sophomores, 16 juniors, and 18 seniors. This group was divided into nine teams, and each team was designated by a color. The color tournament was very interesting and aroused a great deal of pep. The Blue team, with Miss Helen Priestley as captain, was the winning team. After a few class squad practices the class teams were chosen and the class tournament was played. The sophomore team was the champion.

Miss Alice Marston was hockey manager and at the close of the hockey season planned a spread which was attended by 50 girls. The main event of the evening was the announcement of the varsity team, which is honorary and is chosen from those who played on class teams. The hockey varsity team is as follows: Bertha Gwin, Hattie Betz, Lillian Rommel, Mary Roesener, Eleanor Davis, Mary Nuttle, Alice T. Marston, Lenora Doll, Eunice Hobson, Phyllis Burtis, Dorothy Frost and Grace Johnson.

In basketball, as in hockey, a color tournament, class tournament and spread were held. This is a very popular sport and over 150 girls played in the color tournament. The class tournament was well attended by students and faculty and a large amount of pep and enthusiasm was displayed. After severe battles, the junior class won the championship. The same class was the winner of the cup in the basketball tournament last year. Those selected for the varsity basketball team are: Ida Conrow, Hazel Humbarger, Bertha Gwin, Inez Coleman, Blanche Kershaw, Ethyl Danielson, Grace Johnson, Hattie Betz, and Dorothy Lukert. Miss Belle Hagans was basketball manager.

Basket Ball

The women of K. S. A. C. indulge in various spring sports, which cannot be featured in pictures because the teams are not chosen until late in May. These sports are tennis, track, and baseball. Tennis and track practices are mostly individual work but the color tournament is used in base ball. The managers for the sports are: Tennis, Lucia Biltz; track, Renna Rosenthal; and baseball, Lenora Russel. Another interesting sport which is popular all the year is hiking. Miss Grace Schwandt is hike manager and Miss Sue Unruh is assistant.

There are more opportunities to make honors in swimming than in any other sport engaged in on the campus. Class teams, red cap and blue cap honors and the Red Cross Life Saving corps are all for the girl who likes to swim. Miss Louise Tausche directs and instructs all swimming activities and Miss Faith Martin is W. A. A. swimming manager. An annual swimming carnival is held in April and is competitive between the class teams. Races, dives, plunges and various swimming stunts are the features of this event. The honorary varsity swimming team, which is chosen from the class teams, is composed of Ruth Kittel, Faith Martin, Lucille Whan, Florence Carey, Clara Howard, Julia Caton, Myrna Smale, and Laureda Thompson.

The winning of this championship entitled them to a trip to Camp Perry, Ohio, where they placed fifth in a national match against 32 representative colleges of the United States. Several of our men won special medals by placing in individual meets. Coach, Captain C. N. Jackson, accompanied the men on their trip.

Our Indoor Gallery team won the Seventh corps area championship in 1921, competing against 27 teams, thereby bringing to this school a permanent championship cup. First Sergeant McGarry coached this team.

Debate

Prof. Hugh E. Rosson, Debate Coach

Professor Rosson came to K. S. A. C. in December, 1921, to take the place of Mr. O. H. Burns in the English department as debate coach. Mr. Rosson immediately demonstrated his coaching abilities by turning out three winning teams in about two weeks time. Increasing interest in debate at K. S. A. C. was evidenced by the unusual number of persons who tried out for the debate squads this spring.

For the third consecutive year Kansas has won first place in the students' stock-judging contest held in connection with the National Western Livestock show at Denver. The score, 4287 points out of a possible 5000, made this year by the Kansas team was the highest ever made in one of these contests. By winning three times Kansas now gets permanent possession of the $500 National Western Challenge trophy.

With 21 teams competing, Kansas placed fifth in the international contest at Chicago. Kansas has competed in the international contest 16 times and has never placed below ninth, and only four times below fifth place. This gives Kansas, on the average, an equal ranking with any of the teams that have competed in this greatest of all judging contests.

A. D. Webber was high man in the United States, and won the gold medal offered by National Block and Bridle Club for the second man in the contest.

The coach, Professor F. W. Bell, is an expert judge and is often called on to judge. His wide experience and the thorough training he gives each man accounts, in a large measure, for the success of his team.

HISTORY

The first Intersociety oratorical contest was held in 1901, when the contest was won by T. J. Woodworth of the Alpha Beta literary society. Since then it has been the crowning event of the year for the literary societies. In 1902 Clara Pancake, and in 1903 Alice Ross were winners for the Ionians, with Wilma Ross in 1904 adding another victory to their list. Frank E. Palmer in 1905, C. E. Davis in 1906, and Raymond Brink in 1907, all Hamiltons, were victors. Clara B. Shields won first for the Franklins in 1908. In 1909 another Hamilton, John Martin, was winner. In 1910 the Athenians, the youngest society, won their first victory, with L. G. Folsom as orator. Edwin McDonald carried away the first victory for the Websters in 1911 and again in 1912 Roy Davis won for them. Lucile Berry again carried the honors for the Ionians in 1913. In 1914, Wallace Hutchinson, and in 1915 Walter Ott held the honors for the Alpha Betas. In 1916 Leo Moser, Athenian, was successful and in 1917 Arthur Boyer, another Hamilton won their latest victory. In 1918 Earl Taylor, and in 1919 C. J. Medlin, both Athenians, were victorious. In 1920 J. O. Brown, Alpha Beta, and in 1921, Maude Lahr, Ionian, took first place. This year C. W. Howard, Athenian, was winner with the oration "The Forward Step!" This victory is the fifth for the Athenian. The Ionians and Hamiltons have each won five firsts.

HISTORY

The Alpha Beta literary society was organized October 17, 1868. It was the first permanent society to be organized at K. S. A. C.

The Gleaner, the weekly periodical, has been a profitable feature of the society since 1875. Many of the Gleaners exhibit exceptional talent and literary merit.

During its history, the Alpha Beta literary society has led other organizations in promoting worthy activities, whether in forensics, oratory or dramatics. In 1920 the Alpha Betas won first place in the annual oratorical contest, recording for the fourth time a victory. Alpha Beta has many "K" debaters on its roll. Never has there been a time when the society was not represented on the college debate squads. The Alpha Beta literary society has been a place of training for many widely known people.

J. T. Willard, vice-president of K. S. A. C. and dean of the division of general science, was one of Alpha Beta's first presidents.

J. W. Zahnley, assistant professor of farm crops, Mrs. C. A. Kimball, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Kansas, and Ed Shellenbaum, editor of the Manhattan Nationalist, were Alpha Betas during their college days.

Major General J. G. Harbord, the most distinguished graduate of K. S. A. C., and one of the most distinguished citizens of the United States, was an Alpha Beta. In a recent visit to the college General Harbord paid Alpha Beta a tribute in saying that Alpha Beta was a worthy organization and that he derived much good from being a member of the society.

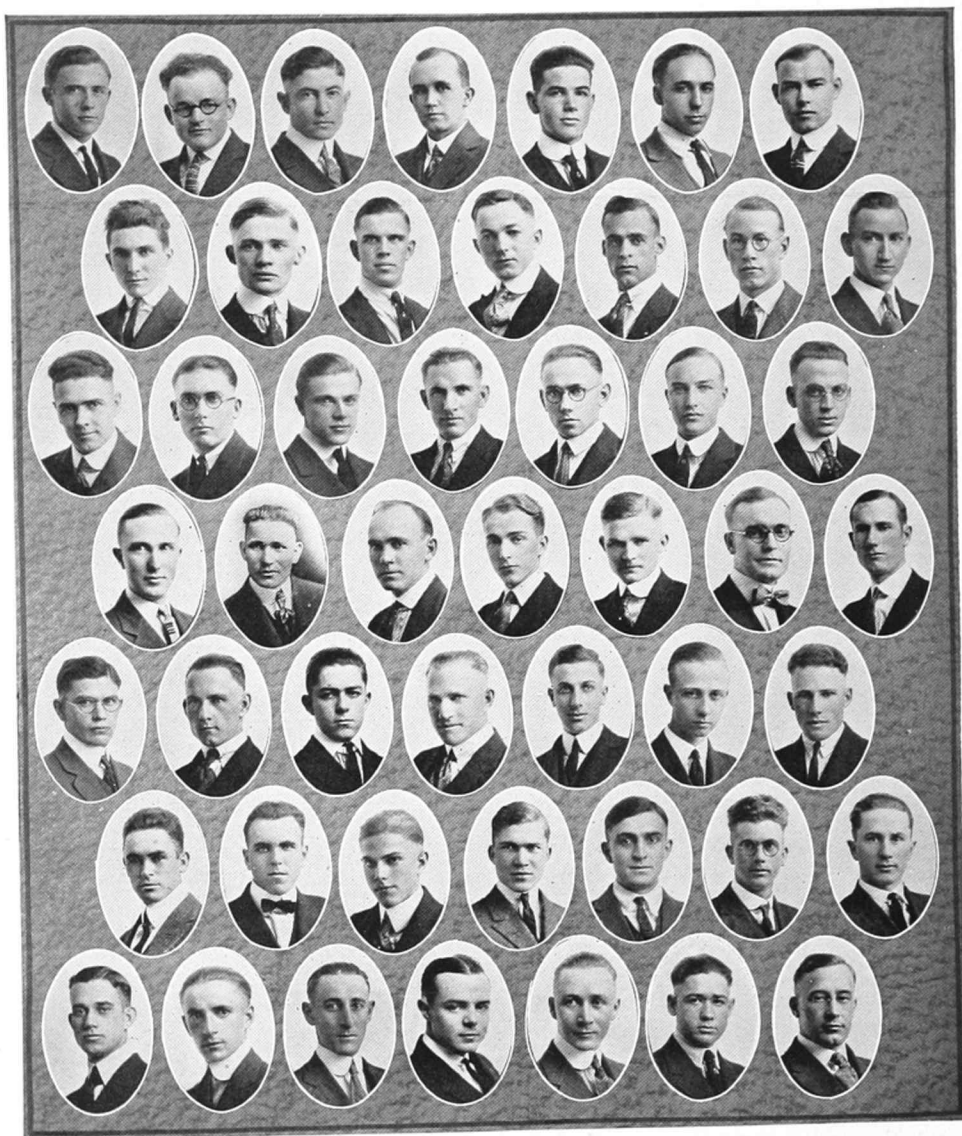

These men and women are only a few of the Alpha Betas who have gone out into the world and made good.

This year Alpha Beta has 50 enthusiastic members. They are active in athletics, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., debate, dramatics and in the men and women's glee clubs. Alpha Beta is represented in the honorary fraternities of debate, oratory, athletics, dramatics, architecture, engineering, agriculture, home economics and veterinary medicine.

This year the Alpha Betas have participated in the various activities with success. They were fifth in the oratorical contest, third in the intersociety debates and second with their Aggie Pop stunt.

The members of Alpha Beta will always be true to their motto: "Slowly but surely we progress."

HISTORY

The Athenian literary society was organized in 1907, and is the youngest men's society on the hill. Due to increase in enrollment in the year 1906-07 the societies then existing were unable to meet the demands of the students desiring literary work. Accordingly a group of students met December 15, 1906, at the Park Place dormitories, to consider the problem of forming a new literary society.

At this meeting a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution, and to secure a meeting place for the society. Sixteen men were present at this meeting, and each member was allowed to invite one additional man to form the charter members of the society.

The society first met on January 12, 1907, in a class room in the library building. O. A. Stevens was elected as the first president and under his guidance the society started its career. At first no permanent meeting place could be secured, but in 1909 the Athenians secured what is now known as the Forum room, in the basement of Fairchild hall, as a permanent meeting place.

The minutes of that day contain many interesting references to the condition of the new hall. At one time the marshal was instructed to catch the rat that was interfering with the program by running across the stage. At another time he was asked to keep frogs that were living in the damp corners, from taking too active a part in the evening's program.

On October 10, 1910, the Browning society was organized. The Athenians immediately adopted it as a sister society and on October 29, invited the members to a joint Hallowe'en party. With the advent of the Browning society several important social events were started, among them the annual Christmas party, the spring Owl Bake, the Daisy Hunt and the fall hike in honor of new members.

The Athenian-Browning societies bid the old hall in Fairchild farewell, November 4, 1911, and moved to their present quarters in Nicholas gymnasium. This event was the occasion for a big joint meeting.

During the 15 years the Athenian society has been organized it has produced five winners of the intersociety oratorical, has won consistently the intersociety debates, has placed men 63 times in the intercollegiate debates, and at the present time furnishes half of the college K debaters.

The society was founded primarily to promote literary and forensic work, and this idea has been kept in the foreground throughout the history of the society. The success that the Athenians in and out of the college have attained can be attributed largely to the training which they received within the organization.

HISTORY

In the fall of 1910 a small group of girls, of whom Minnie King, Myrtle Bower, Kate Penn and Harriet Dunn were the real moving spirits, felt the need of a new society for girls. Moreover the Athenian society felt the social need of a sister society and encouraged the movement.

The society was named for a woman who stands high, not only in literature but in truest womanhood, Elizabeth Barret Browning. The Bluebird, the symbol of true happiness was chosen as the emblem of the society, and the brown and blue of its plumage became the colors of the Browning literary society. Organization was completed on October 10, 1910, and Harriet Dunn was elected the first president. Twenty-eight girls signed the constitution as charter members of the new society.

On October 31 of the same year, the Athenians invited the new society to be their guests at a Hallowe'en party and at that time the Owl and the Bluebird became brother and sister. The first meeting in the present society hall was held over a year later, on November 11, 1911. A joint meeting of the two societies is held on Hallowe'en and Christmas. The Daisy Hunt, Owl Bake and Princess Feast are annual events of the societies.

The first years of the organization were marked by a spirit of cooperation in the society and by helpfulness from the faculty. There was room for a third girls' society, and being smaller than the others it was able to assign real active work to every member.

In the years that have passed the Brownings have ranked among the first in debate. In 1917 and 1918 the debate scholarship was held by Lola Sloop. In 1917 the Brownings had over 75 per cent of the K debaters on the squad. The Brownings have also made great progress in oratory, for in 1921 Gladys Addy won second place in the intersociety oratorical contest.

The society owes much to Prof. J. E. Kammeyer under whose direction the organization was perfected and who has since been chosen God-father.

HISTORY

On December 14, 1901, a movement was started in the college which resulted in the organization of the Franklin literary society. A constitution was drawn up, which was adopted on January 13, 1902, and the first regular meeting was held on January 18, 1902.

During the fall of 1903 the society was legally incorporated and obtained a charter from the state.

During the first year the society had no permanent meeting place, and met first in one place then another. For a time meetings were held in a room on the second floor of Anderson hall, later in the history room on the second floor of Fairchild hall. Then the society obtained the Franklin hall in the basement of this building. This hall was shared with the Eurodelphian society, and remained until the fall of 1911, when the Franklins moved into the new Franklin hall in the Nichols gymnasium.

About 1907 it was decided to have an outing and a committee was appointed to plan this affair. The committee succeeded in keeping the rest of the society in suspense as to the nature of the outing, and when the day arrived and the members met at the scheduled place, they beheld a steam engine "hitched" to a hayrack waiting to convey the members. This event proved so successful that it was made an annual affair.

Some very interesting events are always connected with the engine ride. On the second trip for a reason now unknown, the driver ran into a windmill on a farm a mile or so from town. The engine being a substantial one rather demolished the windmill. Another year, as is so often the case, it rained and the engine slid into a ditch where it remained, so the members were obliged to walk back to town. There have been only two years since the engine ride was organized that it has not been celebrated in the original style.

The Franklins in 1913 won the silver loving cup in the intersociety spelling contest, and in 1916 won the banner for selling the most tickets to the Lyceum.

HISTORY

The Eurodelphian literary society was founded in December, 1904, with a membership of 25. The name Eurodelphian meaning sisterly love was chosen for the society. The society adopted "While we live let us live," as its motto; brown and gold as its colors, the sunflower as its emblem, and the Delphi as the society paper.

The first program was given Saturday afternoon, January 14, 1905. In the business meeting immediately following, the constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: President, Ethel Clemons Nicolet, '05; vice-president, Elva Akin Shepard, '05; recording secretary, Artie Edworthy Berkeley, '06; treasurer, Lula Rannels Adams, '07; critic, Lora Perry Chestnut; marshal, Irma Davis, and chairman of the program committee, Helen Huse Collins, '08. In 1907 they were represented in the intersociety oratorical contest for the first time by Helen Huse Collins.

The society has grown in membership until it now stands at 71 with a limit of 75. In 1921 the society was granted a national charter with the Alpha chapter at K. S. A. C. and the Beta chapter at Purdue University, La Fayette, Indiana.

The national literary society took for its motto, "Row, not drift," its colors brown and gold, its emblem the sunflower, and its society paper the Delphi.

In February, 1922, Kalamazoo college at Kalamazoo, Michigan, was granted a charter as the Gamma chapter of the organization.

HISTORY

The Webster is the oldest society now in existence at K. S. A. C. Its origin dates from October 12, 1868.

In January, 1871, a charter of the society, setting forth its name, object and standards, was placed on file in the state auditor's office. The society grew rapidly and soon became an influential factor in the college life. A library was started which at one time numbered 250 volumes. This library was sold when the college library was opened in 1898.

In 1878 the first monthly edition of the Webster Reporter appeared. The publication was soon changed to a semi-monthly which it continued to be until 1895. At this time it was changed to the weekly which it is at present.

Upon the completion of Nichols Gymnasium in 1911 the Websters secured possession of the southwest room on the third floor. This room they now jointly occupy with their sister society, the National Eurodelphian literary society.

In the fall of 1921, this being the fiftieth anniversary of the chartering of the society, the Websters affiliated with the Webster society at the University of Minnesota to form a national organization. The chapter at K. S. A. C. is the Alpha member and that at the University of Minnesota, the Beta member. The nationalization was announced at the annual Web-Euro homecoming banquet held at the Gillett hotel, November 19, 1921.

Since 1887 over 2,000 Aggie men have sworn allegiance to Webster. As a national organization the society promises to foster and promote among college and university students a greater interest in literary activities and to provide for college men a greater opportunity to obtain that development which will insure their own success and which will enable them to be of the greatest benefit to their fellow men.

During the spring of '87 a number of young women discussed the advisability of organizing a literary society. Under the leadership of Mrs. Kedzie the plan was tried in the fall of the same year, developing into the Ionian literary society. As this was the first and only society of women, its development was watched by everyone. A constitution and by-laws were adopted. Twenty-three names were enrolled as charter members. From among these, the following officers were elected:

President	Julia R. Pierce
Vice-President	Dora Van Zile
Recording Secretary	Carrie K. Hunter
Marshal	Tina Louise Colburn

The preamble of the constitution well states the object of the society, 'For our mutual improvement and the cultivation of the forensic art, music and literature.' The society held its first public entertainment in chapel, April 25, 1890.

Ionians have not been backward in oratory and debate but have taken an active interest in both since they were established. Out of the 22 annual inter-society oratorical contests, the Ionian society has placed twelve times, of which five have been first place. In inter-collegiate debate they have had 22 representatives, some of these girls making more than one team, thus giving a sum total of 34.

The society has witnessed changes in its surroundings. During the first year of its existence the society met in the north corridor on the second floor of Anderson hall. From '88 to '94 the southeast room on the third floor of the same building was allowed the Ionians and Hamiltons. Then both societies moved into the room granted them in Fairchild hall. They occupied this until 1911, when they moved into their hall in Nichols Gymnasium which they and the Hamiltons now occupy.

HISTORY

The Hamilton literary society traces its history back to a Saturday evening on November 8, 1884, when a small group of students met in the north corridor of Anderson hall and decided to form a society for men only, and literary "in the broadest sense." Sixteen names were enrolled on the list of charter members. The society grew so rapidly that within three years it was compelled to place a limit on its membership.

During their first five years the members had no society room, but since then they have occupied successively what is now Dr. Siever's office, then the reserve room in Fairchild hall and finally their present place in the southeast room on the third floor of Nichols gymnasium to which they moved in 1911.

But these chronological events do not tell the true history of the society. To know this one must know the men who have made it, the ideals that have guided it and the traditions that have grown up about it, only a small part of which can be told here.

The Hamiltons have long been known as the "rag chewers." The term was originally applied to the long parliamentary battles, over the discarding of an old Hamp rug (snapshot page). Since then all parliamentary battles have been officially known as "rag chewing."

Another custom which is surrounded by a great deal of tradition is the Hamp-Lo egg roast. The Lo's started things in the fall of 1904 by throwing a hen into the Hamp hall during meeting. This hen was fed and cared for by the Hamps, became their mascot, and was known on the hill as the "Hamp hen." She produced so bountifully during the winter that in the spring the Hamps invited the Lo's to the quiet nooks of Cedar Bend to help devour the eggs. They termed it the Hamp-Lo egg roast, and each spring the Hamps invited the Lo's to help devour the eggs laid by the old Hamp hen (snap shot page).

About the year 1909 a very pleasurable custom known as the Hamp-Lo banquet was started. The first banquet was held in the old gymnasium or what is now the chemistry annex.

The aims and ideals of the society have been "literary in its broadest sense." These ideals naturally have led the society into a prominent part in oratory and debate. This year the Hamps were very ably represented in the intersociety oratorical contest by Donald Ibach who placed third. In inter-collegiate debate, the society was represented on the K. S. A. C. vs. Ames debate by Ellis Kimble, and on the K. S. A. C. vs. Colorado debate squad by R. H. Moran, J. W. Farmer and H. I. Richards.

This brief history may account for the definite and distinct character which the Hamilton literary society has built up, and which is known as "Hamp type."

HISTORY

The Acacia fraternity was founded at Ann Arbor, Mich., by a group of college men who were Master Masons.

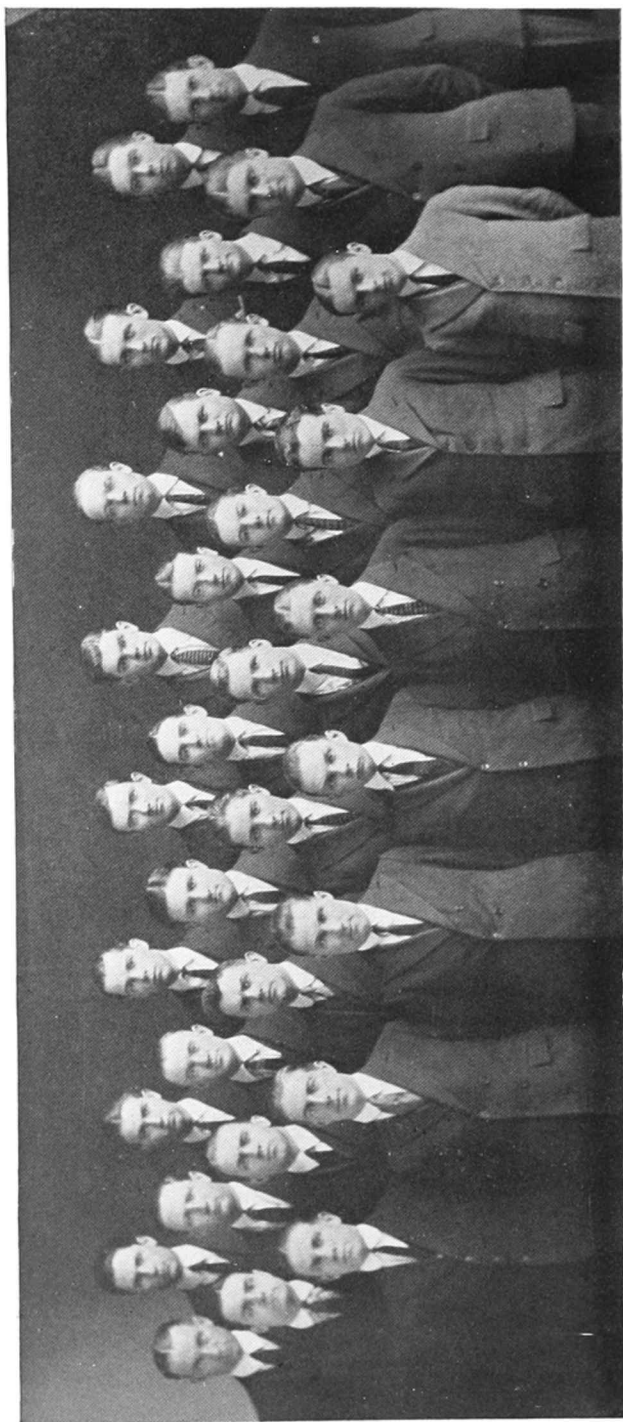

It was felt by that group that there was a place in college life for an organization which had back of it the traditions and ideals of the oldest secret organization in the world.

The local organization to which a charter of Acacia was later granted was founded March 5, 1910, by a group of Master Masons. This organization was known as the Masonic club. The Masonic club became the Kansas State chapter of Acacia on December 6, 1913. The house at 821 Osage was the first to be occupied by the fraternity. In 1917 Acacia completed its new home which is located at 340 N. 16th. In the fall of the same year they took possession.

During the war period which followed, Acacia virtually ceased to exist, there being only two members of the chapter in school. The house was used for a time by the government for housing members of the S. A. T. C. Later it was turned into an emergency hospital. In the spring of 1919 the men began to return from the service, and by the next fall fraternity affairs were almost back to normal.

HISTORY

In a Y. M. C. A. room, April 6, 1912, six students with common interests decided to organize a club to be known as the Red Tie Club (R. T. C.). In 1917 the Greek letter name, Alpha Theta Chi was adopted for the purpose of working for a charter of a national fraternity. Since the organization as R. T. C. a house has always been maintained. The first house was at 1211 Moro. For several years as Alpha Theta Chi, the fraternity occupied the house at 1408 Laramie. During the spring of 1920, the local fraternity purchased the house now occupied at 1642 Fairchild. Near the close of the spring semester in 1920 the petition to Alpha Tau Omega was granted and the Kansas Delta Theta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was installed October 22, 1920.

HISTORY

The Alpha Psi fraternity was founded at Ohio State University in January, 1907. The next chapter to be formed was Beta Chapter of Cornell university. It was April 5, 1912, that a chapter of Alpha Psi was granted to a group of men at K. S. A. C., the chapter at this school being Eta chapter. The first chapter house was at 909 Fremont. In 1918 several members of Delta chapter came to Kansas State and took an active part in school life. The last of these men graduated in '21. It will always be felt that these men had a very prominent part in making Eta chapter what it is today.

HISTORY

Gamma Epsilon chapter of Beta Theta Pi had its beginning October 14, 1901, and was known as the Sphinx club. It was the oldest existing society of the nature of a fraternity organization to be installed at K. S. A. C. Its first definite step toward a fraternity came in 1906 when it moved out of its club rooms down town into its first home on the corner of Ninth Street and Poyntz Avenue. Here the Sphinx club first became known to the public as Tau Omega Sigma, a Greek letter fraternity.

In 1908 the alumni of the organization formed a stock company and built a home at 821 Osage which was occupied by the fraternity until 1913. The organization first formally petitioned Beta Theta Pi in 1913 and again in 1914, at which time the charter was granted. Installation as a chapter of Beta Theta Pi took place on October 17 of that year. At the time of installation the fraternity home was on the corner of Sixth Street and Poyntz Avenue. The present home at 1614 Fairchild was purchased and occupied in 1916.

HISTORY

The Kappa Phi Alpha fraternity was officially announced at its spring banquet, April 20, 1920. It was organized for the purpose of promoting fraternal spirit, mutual helpfulness and social enjoyment among its members.

In the spring of 1915 several of the leading non-fraternity men of the college began working toward the organization of a new social fraternity at K. S. A. C. While the plans for the organization were still incomplete, these men entered the military service and did not return until the fall of 1919. They then took up their work where they had left it, and in a short time the constitution for the organization was complete. The fraternity is incorporated under the laws of the state of Kansas, its charter being dated June 4, 1920.

The fraternity was first located at 1126 Bluemont Avenue, but soon outgrew that domicile and was moved to 1116 Bluemont where it is housed at the present time. The house mother, Mrs. Alice E. Marcotte, has been with the fraternity since its organization.

HISTORY

Phi Gamma Theta was organized February 8, 1911. The men forming this chapter returned in the fall of 1912 and rented a house. Membership continued to grow and with added strength the critical point of a new fraternity was passed.

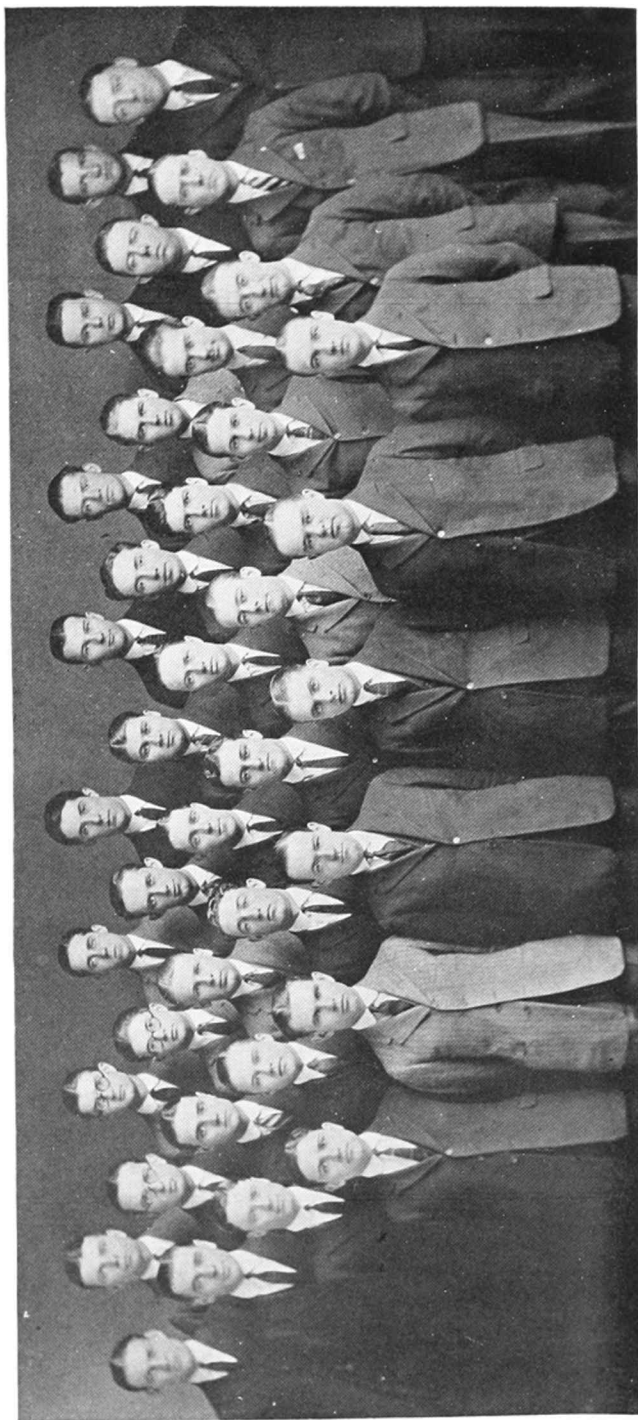

In 1912, 20 of the men returned and through their efforts a petition was presented to Pi Kappa Alpha for admission as a chapter of that order. After a long period of waiting a charter was granted and all the members of Phi Gamma Theta were initiated into the Alpha Omega chapter of the national fraternity.

The fraternity occupied the house at 1104 Vattier Street for four years. In the fall of 1918 Alpha Omega opened another house at 931 Osage Street which was occupied only about two months when it was turned over to S. A. T. C. The latter organization was disbanded in December.

At the beginning of the second semester, activities were resumed. During the summer of 1918 several of the men spent a great deal of time selecting and buying a house. The present home at 331 North Seventeenth Street is the result of their efforts.

HISTORY

In the fall of 1905 six Manhattan boys who had just entered the Kansas State Agricultural college met and organized a local academic fraternity. Later the local petitioned Phi Sigma Chi. Meetings were held in a room which the members had rented over a down town store. Phi Sigma Chi continued as an active chapter until 1909. During this year the members decided to petition Sigma Alpha Epsilon but were advised that the likelihood that their petition would be accepted would be greatly increased if they petitioned as a college local rather than an academic national. The result was that the organization turned its charter into Phi Sigma Chi fraternity, although the members retained their membership, and reorganized as a local college fraternity known as Phi Alpha Theta. The down town room was abandoned and a house rented near the college. In December 1912 Phi Alpha Theta was granted a charter at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon national convention. The chapter was installed January 24, 1913, and was the first national college fraternity to enter Kansas State Agricultural college. The members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon were also the first at the college to build their own fraternity house. It was completed in 1915. It is a three story stucco structure of Spanish Mission architecture. Since the installation of the chapter 191 men have been initiated into the chapter.

HISTORY

The Kansas Beta chapter of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity had its origin in an organization known at the Eureka club, founded March 20, 1915. By the end of the academic year the club was put upon what was virtually a fraternity basis, inasmuch as new members could be admitted only by a unanimous vote. This club maintained a house during the school year 1915-16. During the spring of 1916 the name of the organization was changed to Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon and recognition as a fraternity was obtained from the college authorities. The formal announcement was made at a banquet held June 7, 1916.

During the fall of 1916 the question of nationalization was considered and a formal petition was prepared and presented to the Grand Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon. A charter was granted to this local by the national organization and installation services were held February 23, 1918. The fraternity chapter house, which was purchased in 1920, is located at 221 North Delaware Avenue. More than 100 men are now members of this chapter.

HISTORY

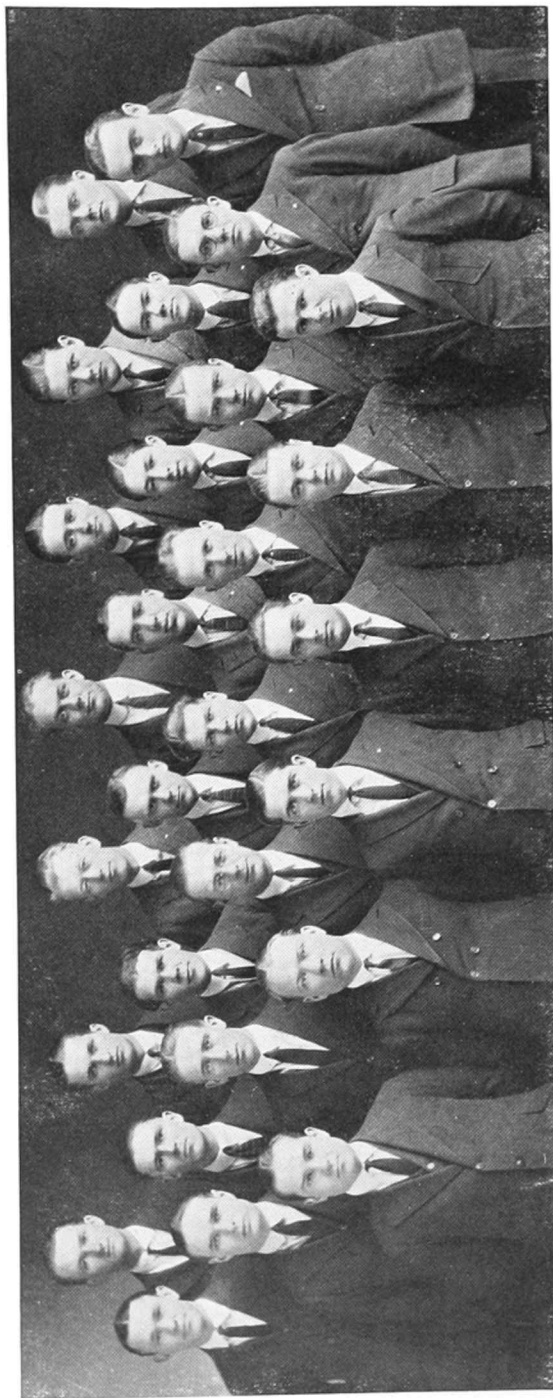

The present chapter of Phi Delta Theta had its origin as the local fraternity of Sigma Phi Delta which was established at the Kansas State Agricultural college in 1914. In 1920 the local fraternity, after petitioning six years, received a charter from Phi Delta Theta and became the Kansas Gamma chapter of the organization.

The alumni of the chapter now number 119, of whom more than two-thirds have received degrees from the college. Twelve others have received degrees from other institutions.

During the late war there were 54 members of the chapter in the service.

HISTORY

The Phi Kappa fraternity is the outgrowth of a Catholic organization which had existed at the Kansas State Agricultural college since 1912. At the time of its organization, the club had a membership of 60 people, men and women. The purpose of the club was to promote unity and friendship among the Catholic students of the college. The dual character of the organization continued until 1915, when the Catholic boys rented a house and conducted it under the name of "Knights of Columbus House." The boys lived in this house until the fall of 1918, when the war necessitated its abandonment. The organization remained active, however, and in the spring of 1920 it reorganized under the Greek letters Phi Gamma, and purchased the present home at 1031 Bluemont Avenue. In December, 1920, Phi Gamma was granted a charter of Phi Kappa and the chapter was installed April 9, 1921.

HISTORY

Farm House was originated by a few agricultural students at the University of Missouri in May, 1905. The fifth chapter was installed at K. S. A. C., June 2, 1921.

The organization of the Kansas chapter was the result of a need felt by a group of agricultural students and faculty members who had, from time to time, associated with Farm House men of other colleges.

The Kansas chapter, being new, looks to the future for its history. It hopes to attain its ideal which is: To foster good fellowship and advance scientific agriculture.

Tobasco dancing club was organized January 1, 1919, by two students who foresaw the need of interfraternity dances in order to continue the democratic spirit already so characteristic of K. S. A. C. In the beginning seven fraternities were represented in Tobasco, but upon the growth of national fraternities in our school, this number has been increased to twelve.

The governing board consists of one representative from each fraternity, and the organization proper is controlled by these men. Dances are held each month and the best music possible is obtained for these parties.

Sigma Tau was founded in 1904 at the University of Nebraska for the purpose of grouping together those students who had the scholastic, social and practical requirements of a successful engineer. The mother chapter spread her influence to other schools where chapters have since been established, until the national fraternity is now composed of twelve chapters and two alumni associations.

Epsilon Chapter at Kansas State was chartered in 1912 by 18 men. Its membership consists of men in the junior and senior years who rank in the upper third of their class in scholarship and who are deemed to meet the other requirements of Sigma Tau. At the close of the 1922 school year there are 27 active men in the chapter, seven alumni in the faculty, and fourteen honorary faculty members.

HISTORY

Phi Alpha Mu, honorary general science fraternity for women was organized in the spring of 1919 under the name of Theta Chi Gamma. In 1921 the society was reorganized and given the name under which it now exists. Under the old constitution membership was limited to those who met special requirements in English as well as in scholarship in other departments. Later under the new constitution membership was opened to all junior and senior girls whose grades ranked in the upper 15%, and who were enrolled in the general science division.

At present Phi Alpha Mu has 18 active members who are promoting leadership and scholarship among the women students at K. S. A. C. Since there is no other national fraternity for women of this type in the colleges of the middle west, Phi Alpha Mu is looking forward to nationalization.

The chapter has always been composed of the most active and the most able men of the journalism department. It has been the special aim of this group to encourage journalistic endeavor in the college, and to uphold the highest standards and ideals in the public press. To furnish that great institution, the public press, with leaders and workers who are men of the highest type morally and mentally, and who recognize and accept the great burden of responsibility which falls upon those who would serve the public through the printed page; this has been the high purpose of Sigma Delta Chi.

The eighth national convention of Sigma Delta Chi will be held at the Kansas State Agricultural college in the fall of 1922. The local chapter and the school looks forward to this convention as one of the great events in the life of the school and the department.

Zeta Kappa Psi, a national honorary forensic fraternity for women, was organized at K. S. A. C. in the spring of 1914, by eight girls who secured a charter from the state and perfected a local organization.

Early in 1917, the absolute success of the organization as a local being established, the fraternity became national with Gamma Zeta of the University of Oregon and Kappa Rho of the University of Minnesota as the Beta and Gamma chapters. Chapters have since been installed at the Iowa State Teachers college, the Kansas State normal, and the Oregon Agricultural college. The first national convention was held at K. S. A. HISTORY

Pi Kappa Delta is a comparatively young fraternity having been established at Ottawa University in January, 1913. In 1914, a group of men who had won letters in debate were granted Kansas Gamma Chapter. Conspicuous among the early workers were President H. J. Waters and Dr. J. R. MacArthur, now national president of Pi Kappa Delta.

Before being considered for membership to Pi Kappa Delta, a student must have participated in at least one inter-collegiate debate contest, which means at K. S. A. C. the winning of a debate K. Pi Kappa Delta, nationally, is a fraternity composed of both men and women, the matter whether men or women may be members being left to the individual chapters. At K. S. A. C. the membership is limited only to men. At present, there are 55 chapters of Pi Kappa Delta.

HISTORY

Purple Masque, honorary dramatic fraternity, was organized in December, 1915, from the old K. S. A. C. dramatic club. In the spring of 1921, the organization was changed into an order of three degrees so as to give more students a chance to become associated with dramatic work.

Green Masque, first degree of Purple Masque, elects to membership students who do good work and show promise upon their appearance in some college play. Purple Masque confers its second degree on Green Masque members in good standing who successfully carry a prominent part in a college play. Star Masque, third and highest degree is conferred upon Purple Masque members who have been faithful in all fraternal duties and have shown exceptional ability in several college productions.

Purple Masque added another play to its list of successful productions when it presented during festival week, Saturday, May 7, 1921, Clyde Fitch's "The Girl With the Green Eyes." Rowena Thornburg starred in the original Clara Bloodgood role of "Jinny." It required the versatility of such a girl as Rowena to portray the part of the charming bride in such a way as to make every one love her and yet portray her cruel jealousy. "Rocky" Bryan played opposite Miss Thornburg in the role of John Austin, her husband. The supporting principals of the cast were Kenneth Carter, as Geoffry Tillman, brother of Jinny; Adelaide May Smith, as Ruth Chester; and Lucile Whan in the role of maid. Claramary Smith and Herbert McClelland did excellent character work in the roles of Jinny's parents. Clever comedy work was done by Hamilton Riggs as Peter and Gladys Newton as Mrs. Cullingham. Other members of the cast, all of whom played finished parts were: bridesmaids, Mildred Wright, Margaret Ansdell, and Gertrude Conroy; housemaid, Faye Strong; butler, Clifford Jolly; Mrs. Lopp and daughter, Osceola Burr and Queenie Hart; French couple, Renna Rosenthal and Marion Smith; German couple, Alice Husted and Floyd Works; tourists, Marie Correll, L. L. Haggart, Anna Best, and Helene Bentley.

Manhattan audiences have come to expect much of a Florence Heizer play. They were not disappointed in "The Girl with the Green Eyes," which in artistic stage setting and capable characterization of its unusually large cast was fully worthy of her genius. A Belasco interior could hardly have been more complete than the drawing room in which was the wedding scene of the first act.

Cast of Play

In the spring of 1921 Purple Masque, under the direction of Miss Heizer, presented two one-act plays, Zona Gale's "Neighbors" and "The Wicked Winder of Clocks," for the benefit of the student loan fund. During the fall and spring of 1921-22 the members of Purple Masque coached and presented a series of one-act plays for the purpose of selecting material for Green Masque and college plays. On November 12 Vorin Whan, Rowena Thornburg, and Kenneth Carter represented Purple Masque by giving in chapel the one-act play "The Strike," directed by Ray E. Holcombe.

On December 12, 1921, Prof. Ray E. Holcombe, who had become a member of the public speaking department in the fall, made his debut in Aggie dramatics by successfully presenting the first Purple Masque play of the season, "Clarence," the Booth Tarkington comedy. Herman Fleming splendidly portrayed the character role of "Clarence," the soldier who had "been in the army." Maurice Laine, as Mr. Wheeler, Margaret Ansdell, as Mrs. Wheeler, James Albright, as Bobby and Louise Mowry, as Cora, played finished parts. Other members of the cast, all Purple Masque members who lived up to their reputations made in former productions, were: Claramary Smith, as Mrs. Martyn, Renna Rosenthal, as Violet Pinney, Queenie Hart, as Della, Vorin Whan, as Dinwiddie, and Clifford Jolley, as Hubert Stem. This cast was sent on a tour to advertise K. S. A. C. successfully producing "Clarence" at Marysville, Wetmore, Horton, and Sabetha.

The purpose of this organization is to promote friendliness among the women of K. S. A. C. who have won honors in Athletics, and to promote all things pertaining to the welfare of Women's athletics. The K sweater is an emblem of achievement in athletics and is awarded by the Women's Athletic association.

"K" Fraternity

The "K" Fraternity is composed of men who have won letters in K. S. A. C. athletics. The purpose of the fraternity is to promote better athletics, and to work in unison with the athletic department. HISTORY

The Quill Club was organized as a local society in October, 1913. In January, 1914, the Writers' Club of K. U. completed a national organization, and in March, the K. S. A. C. club applied for membership. The petition was accepted, and on May 23 installation took place. the local Quill becoming the Beta or Ur Rune chapter of the National organization. Mr. E. A. Vaughn, '14, became the first chancellor. The installation services were held in the dungeon-like Forum room where the black and white bunting, the black shaded lamps, and the black robed installing officers from K. U. sufficiently impressed the 48 initiates. The banquet was given at Harrison's Cafe.

At present the society is limited to 30 members, chosen on merit of manuscripts presented. This year our local chapter is honored in having one of its members as the High Chancellor of the High Witan, Professor N. A. Crawford, a writer of note. There are now twelve chapters of the American College Quill Club.

Forum

Honorary Society for Debaters and Orators

Colors—Black and White

Motto—To be, rather than to seem.

On June 2, 1911, President Henry Jackson Waters attached his signature to the constitution of the Forum and it came into existence. All of the credit for the founding of the society is due to Professor Searson, father of debate at the Kansas State Agricultural college. It was through his earnest efforts that the society was sanctioned by the president.

The society is open only to those students who have either represented their society in a regular contest of oratory or won a place on an inter-collegiate debate squad.

The Forum has the authority to grant K's to the official inter-collegiate debaters. Winning a K in debate is as great an honor as winning one in athletics.

During the eleven years of its existence 377 students have become Forum members and have repeated the Forum slogan:

The Forum owl sat on an oak,
The more he saw the less he spoke,
The less he spoke the more he heard;
Let us strive to be like that old bird.

HISTORY

The Agricultural Association was organized in the spring of 1921. At the suggestion of Dean Farrell, Alpha Zeta called a mass meeting of all agricultural students at which it was decided to organize, and a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution.

At the annual smoker held in the Community House, the constitution submitted by the committee was adopted. Permanent officers were elected at a meeting on March 3, and the association settled down to fulfill the mission for which it had been organized.

It was organized for the purpose of uniting the efforts of the students of the division for more effective work, maintaining and supporting all meritorious student activities of the division and conducting such other business as might from time to time come before the agricultural student body.

Since its organization, the Agricultural Association has undertaken two projects: the annual Ag Fair the first one of which was held on May 3, 1921, and the publication of The Kansas Agricultural Student, a periodical, which first appeared last fall. So far, both have been successful.

HISTORY

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers is a national organization of men in the electrical industry working for the betterment of the electrical profession. Student branches of the Institute are maintained at the larger technical schools for the same purpose.

The branch at Kansas State was organized in 1908. Its work was carried on separately from the regular seminar, which was added for juniors and seniors in 1912 as a required subject. Meetings were discontinued in 1917 on account of the war, and in 1919 the A. I. E. E. and required seminar were combined, with the A. I. E. E. officers taking charge of the seminar meetings. The present branch was organized in April 1921, its regular bi-weekly meetings taking the place of seminar for the juniors and seniors.

The mechanical engineers are made up of three groups: the freshmen, who are a part of the freshman engineering seminar; the sophomores, who have their own organization; and the juniors and seniors who compose the A. S. M. E. student branch. The latter organization is associated with the national organization of A. S. M. E. and the student branch members enjoy all the privileges of the active members.

The total mechanical engineering enrollment for 1921-22 is 125 men.

The Kansas State Engineer, the official publication of the Engineering association, is published by the students enrolled in the division of engineering. It is issued four times during the school year: October, December, February, and April.

It is devoted to the best interests of engineering, and reaching, as it does, every engineer enrolled, has become a potential factor in the promotion of engineering at K. S. A. C.

The Kansas State Engineer is a member of Engineering College Magazines Associated. Through exchange service it goes to all important universities in the United States. It also goes to the larger high schools and to the county engineers of Kansas.

HISTORY

The Kansas State Collegian, official organ of the student body at K. S. A. C., had its beginning in The Student's Herald, the first issue of which appeared January 8, 1896. It was a weekly publication of four pages. In the early days of the paper it had from five to seven editors and one reporter. Long and scholarly articles on various subjects, written by students, were printed. These all appeared on the middle and back pages. No headlines were used then and all the news was placed on the front page in the form of locals. Sport writeups comprised one small paragraph.

The Student's Herald continued as the students' publication for the next 17 years. In April, 1913, the name of the paper was changed to that of The Kansas Aggie, the first volume of which appeared April 3 of that year. By this time the growth of the college had warranted a semi-weekly paper. The Kansas Aggie survived until April 25, 1914 when it became known as the Kansas State Collegian which title it still retains.

The Collegian is published twice weekly and has a circulation of 2,000. It exchanges with every other publication of any size in the country.

Last April the band made a tour of eastern Kansas and Missouri, playing seven concerts in 40 hours. Concerts were given at Topeka, Atchison, St. Joseph, Kansas City and Argentine.

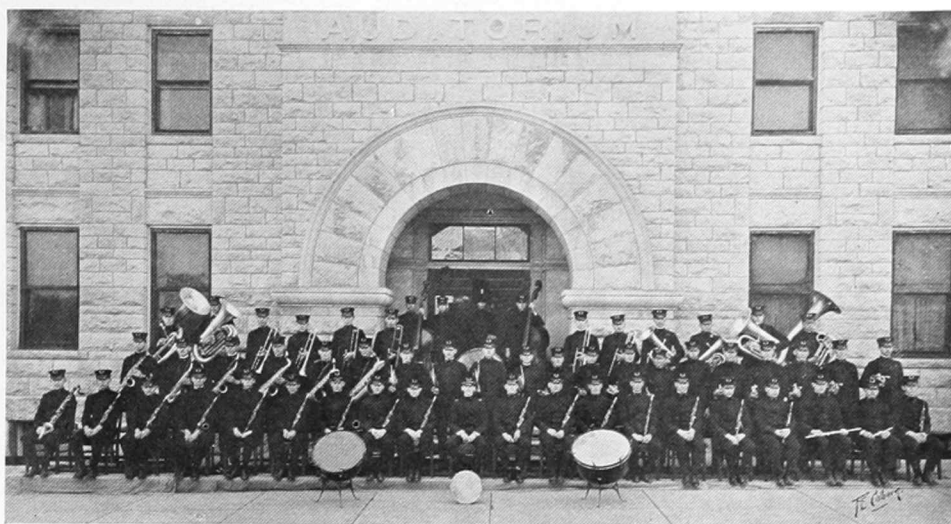

During the past year the band has made over 50 appearances at formal concerts, open air concerts, pep sessions, parades, and send-offs. This does not include the activities of the military band. Last fall President Jardine succeeded in securing 80 blue dress uniforms for the band.

When Prof. H. P. Wheeler came here in the fall of 1919 the band began a new era of development, and due to his ability, personality and tireless efforts, the band has become what it is today.

In September, 1921, feeling that a closer union should be formed between the first and second bands, a committee drafted a constitution which was presented and accepted at a joint meeting of the two bands on December 12. O. F. Fisher was elected the first president. The band has thus far held two social events. The first, a banquet in honor of Mr. Fisher, and the second a smoker at which 60 members were present.

The Band association, although still in its infancy, is bringing the band members into a closer relationship with each other and is doing much to foster good fellowship and to advance band music at K. S. A. C.

HISTORY

It was through the efforts of Miss Edith Bond that in 1917 a Women's Athletic Association was established. This organization opened up a field of activity for women in the various sports, and we now find such events as swimming carnivals, indoor gymnastic meet, and tennis, track, basketball, hockey, baseball, and tennis tournaments. Hiking is an important activity and the W. A. A. girls take five- and ten-mile hikes to vicinities around Manhattan. In May, 1920, Miss Louise Tausche secured a chapter of Red Cross Life Saving corps for the college girls. This organization encourages the college women to engage in the various sports and gives points to those making class teams and other awards. A "K" sweater is given when 800 points are earned and this year there have been twelve sweaters presented. To aid in financing its activities the W. A. A. gave an entertainment, November 10, called "Frigol" which was a great success both as an entertainment and financially. Other good times have been the Annual Costume party for new girls, Hockey Spread, Basketball Spread, and Hare and Hound Race. The Athletic Conference of American College Women was held in Boulder, Colorado, April 14 and 15, and Miss Lillian Rommel and Miss Hattie Betz represented this chapter.

The Brown Bull

HISTORY

It was in the early spring of 1920 that the first forces, eventually resulting in the creation of a college humorous magazine, began to stir themselves. After mature and careful consideration the apt title of Brown Bull was bestowed on the publication and the initial number came forth in May of 1920.

Milton S. Eisenhower was the guiding spirit of the first three issues and much credit is due him for the firm base upon which the Brown Bull is now established. His successors have ably upheld the standards he set. Edward Shaffer was responsible for the Chaperone Number. R. L. Palmer directed the Wampus Cat Number. Homer G. Bryson dictated the policies of the Knickie Knumber, while R. C. Nichols was the master mind behind the early spring issue, the Dumb-bell Number.

The Brown Bull was started by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, and the first two numbers were published under its auspices. With the February, 1921, issue, Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity, began to participate in the publication of the magazine.

Now a Brown Bull board is being organized, composed of representatives from both fraternities, to take full charge of the magazine.

Contributions to the Brown Bull are received from all students of the Kansas State Agricultural college. In this way the publication is made truly representative of the student body. Banquets for successful contributors to the magazine have added much interest to each issue.

The Brown Bull goes out to many Kansas high schools. It has been quoted by magazines in all sections of the country, and quotations for use on the screen have been reserved by the Inter-collegiate Films Company.

HISTORY

The Disabled War Veterans club, composed of men at K. S. A. C. who are under the jurisdiction of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, was organized January 18, 1921. The club was formed with a view of furthering the spirit of fellowship and cooperation resulting from service in the United States Army. The club is a social organization. Its activities extend to all the disabled veterans. The club makes possible unified action in all matters of policy affecting the vocational students.

The organization at the beginning of the year 1921 was only local. As conditions affecting the disabled veterans extend beyond the immediate jurisdiction of the college, the Veterans decided to affiliate with the national organization which has headquarters at Cincinnati, Ohio, and Washington, D. C. The veterans voted to apply to the national organization for a charter. This was granted July 1, 1921.

About 50 Federal Board men entered school at the opening of the Fall semester in 1919. Since that time the number has increased to over 300. The men are enrolled in every department of the college and in various trade courses.

Dean J. T. Willard was supervising the men at first until the numbers grew so large the St. Louis district office installed a representative to take charge of the trainees. His duty is to look after the matters relating to the work of the men. O. W. Price held this position until the beginning of the second semester, when he was transferred to another school. He was succeeded by E. L. Littleton who held this position until the beginning of the spring semester, 1922. Howard A. Joslin represents the Federal Board at the present time.

HISTORY

The Young Women's Christian Association at the Kansas State Agricultural college was organized in 1886. The association was then, as now, directed by a cabinet of earnest students and an advisory board of loyal and faithful town and college women. Soon the need of having some one person to devote all her time to the organization became apparent and in 1898 Miss Ellen Norton, a graduate of this college, became the first secretary.

Ever since its formation here the Y. W. C. A. has grown. In 1905 there were 240 members and at the present time there are 630.

The Young Women's Christian Association is responsible for two of the most important college events of the year, the May Fete and Aggie Pop night. The former was first organized by the Y. W. C. A. in 1912, and the latter in 1915.

Throughout its history the organization has sought to make the principles of Christ real on the campus, to cultivate world vision, and to be ready at all times to be of service to the college and especially to the women of this institution.

HISTORY

In the days when it was customary for commencement day to be celebrated by holding a plowing match, and at the time when the college catalog stated that "Undue social attention is not allowed,"—right there you will find where the college Y. M. C. A. started.

It was in 1885 that a national secretary of the Y came to Manhattan and started the organization. C. A. Murphy of the class of '87 was elected the first secretary and D. G. Robertson of the class of '86 was the first president.

This first organization started by providing some non-sectarian form of religious instruction. The Sunday meetings which the Y started thrived for many years, and grew until they placed the Y first among the organizations of the college.

In 1890 the Y published the first student's directory and the same year the custom of meeting all new students at the train was started. These two movements did much to relieve the inconveniences of the freshmen.

One of the big tasks undertaken and pushed to a successful end was the building of the Y building at the corner of Eleventh and Fremont Streets. The campaign to raise this fund was started in 1904 and completed in 1908. The student body during this period donated an average of forty dollars per man. Other funds came from Manhattan business men, alumni, and the national Y.

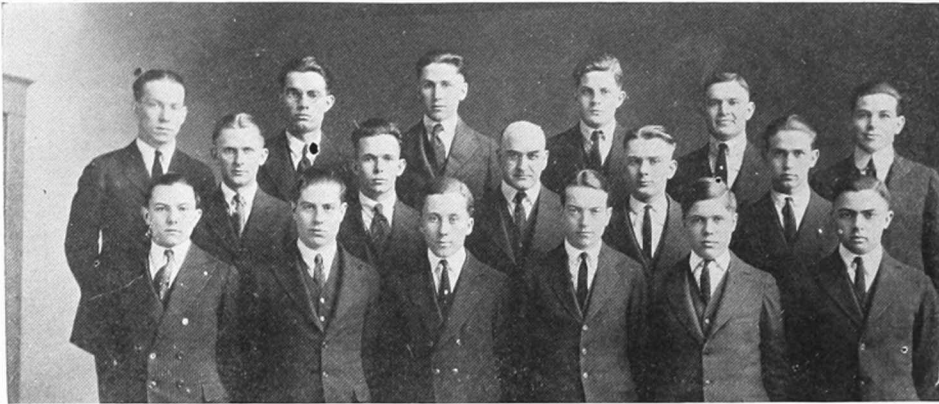

For several years after the completion of the new building it served as the center of school activities and as a gymnasium for all the varsity teams. At this time the Y employed in addition to a general secretary an athletic director.

The big man in the history of the local Y is W. W. McLean, who was the moving spirit in the building movement. He organized weekly religious meetings and Bible study classes, and his administration of Y affairs is one of the brightest pages in college history.

In 1918 McLean resigned, and to work with the boys in the S. A. T. C., two men were employed—Cool at the building and J. S. Daniels on the campus. At the end of the war Daniels resigned and Dr. A. A. Holtz was called. Since that time Doctor Holtz has continued as general secretary.

Epworth League

The Manhattan churches have as a part of their program, organizations and activities especially planned to meet the needs of the students. The Senior Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church is such an organization. The Sunday afternoon fellowship hours of friendly good cheer and the week night parties help to drive away that homesick feeling, to furnish excellent opportunities to meet young people from other Christian homes, and to form those congenial friendships that make college life so vitally worth while.

The Epworth League is a laboratory in Christian Leadership. This year Henrietta Jones is the president. Belle Hagans, K. W. Miller, Gail Roderick, and Hubert Collins are the vice-presidents who carry the responsibility of the work of the different departments. However, each member has the opportunity to crown his college education with the highest type of religious development. He may plan devotional services, attend mission study classes, do social service work, go on extension trips, or lead recreational groups. Throughout this entire program the Epworth League strives to keep before the members the motto, "Look up, lift up."

The Life Service League was organized during the school year of 1920-21 under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. M. S. Collins. The membership consists of those individuals who are contemplating entering Christian life service and those who already have chosen their specific field. It affords its members an opportunity to study conditions, problems, and opportunities for service as they exist in both the home and foreign fields. In addition to the study and preparation for future service, its members now give of their time and service to various forms of work at Manhattan and over the state.

Major General James G. Harbord, '86
United States Army

James G. Harbord, '86, major general in the United States army and assistant chief of staff, is one of the most prominent and popular alumni of the Kansas State Agricultural college. As assistant chief of staff, General Harbord is outranked only by General John J. Pershing.

"General Harbord's army experience reads like a romance," comments I. D. Graham, honorary alumnus, who wrote "An Appreciation" of Harbord for '86 class book of 1921. He and William Allen White both lost out in the same competitive examination for entrance to West Point two years after Harbord received his degree from K. S. A. C. The Aggie enlisted in 1889, received a commission in 1891. Following service in Cuba, he was sent to the Philippines in 1902, where he remained 12 years, helped organize the constabulary, and was active in pacifying the Islands.

He sailed for France in May, 1917, with the rank of lieutenant colonel, served one year as chief of staff, commanded the Marine brigade at Chateau Thierry in June, 1918, and was placed in command of the Second Division in July, with the rank of major general. Need for greater efficiency in the Service of Supply called him to reorganize that department in August. By the time the armistice was signed he had that department functioning efficiently.

In 1919 General Harbord was appointed head of the mission to Armenia and the Near East. Returning to the "States" in 1920, he was commissioned a major general in the regular army, in command of the Second Division, and a few months later was made assistant chief of staff.

Among the decorations received by General Harbord are: Distinguished Service Medal (United States), Commander, Legion of Honor (France), Knight Commander, St. Michael and St. George (Great Britain), Grand Officer, Order of the Crown (Belgium), Croix de Guerre with two palms (France), and decorations from Italy, Montenegro, and the Republic of Panama.

The college has had the pleasure of honoring General Harbord twice since the Great War. He was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Law by his Alma Mater at a special convocation in 1920. Last fall he dedicated the memorial flag pole in the gymnasium quadrangle, presented to the college by the class of 1920.

Alumni

High Lights in the History of the Alumni Association

Emma (Haines) Bowen, '67
Manhattan
Our First Girl Graduate

It is rather an interesting commentary on alumni in general that the alumni association of the Kansas State Agricultural college was first organized by students instead of by alumni. Also that it originally had an unwritten motto, strong as the unwritten law: "Let the treasurer foot the bills."

The class of '79 started the Alumni association, 12 years after the first class was graduated from the college. In other words, Harry C. Rushmore, '79, is the Dean of the Alumni association. Under his leadership, the class of '79 wrote a constitution and by-laws, and declared the Alumni association in existence, while its members still were seniors. No meeting of the association, as such, was held in '79, but the first annual meeting was held under this constitution in 1880.

First Reunion in 1874

There had been several alumni reunions previous to this time, the first one in 1874. No records of these meetings are available. At the 1880 meeting the following officers were elected: George H. Failyer, '77, president; A. N. Godfrey, '78, vice-president; Harry C. Rushmore, '79, secretary; A. T. Blain, '79, treasurer; Noble A. Richardson, '80, marshal. The marshal seems to have been an heirloom from the literary society whose constitution was adopted bodily by the enthusiastic "Seventy-niners" when the association was formed.

Alumni

The Industrialist, ever alert, carried the following account of the first meeting:

"We understand that the alumni meeting, called for last Tuesday afternoon, was largely attended, and that a thorough organization was perfected. We have received no report of the meeting thus far, but are informed that a grand reunion of the alumni will take place at the college at next Commencement. We hope to be able to give the names of the officers next week."

Evidently the secretary took the hint, and furnished a report of the meeting, for the next issue of the Industrialist carried the names of the officers.

An alumni banquet, with an address by W. D. Gilbert, '74, was planned for the 1881 commencement, but illness cancelled the address. The banquet was held the evening of June 8, and was a successful affair. The principal address at the 1883 banquet was delivered by John J. Points, '67, a member of the first class graduated from the college. Mr. Points, by the way, writes that he expects to attend the commencement exercises and annual alumni-senior dinner this year. Mr. Gilbert, whose illness in 1880 prevented his appearance on the program, delivered an excellent address at the commencement reunion in 1884.

A Shortage of Treasurers

A dearth of candidates for treasurer in 1884 apparently caused a readjustment in the association. The custom was to finance the dinner and reunions by contributions from those present. This left the treasurer with a deficit of from 15 to 20 dollars to be met from his own bank account after each reunion. At the 1884 meeting it was decided to hold the banquets triennially. This custom was followed for a quarter of a century, when the annual faculty-alumni banquet replaced it, to be again replaced in turn by the present annual alumni-senior dinner, commencement day.

Alumni Association in 1906

An article in the '06 Banner—one of the ancestors of the Royal Purple—tells the story of the objects and attainments of the Alumni association up to that time, and in fact until a decade ago:

"In the language of the present constitution the object of the association is the promotion of the interests of the college and of acquaintance among its graduates. The latter point has been well attained, not only by means of the triennial reunions but by the informal ones held in the intervening years, which are to many more enjoyable than the triennials and nearly, if not quite, as well attended. There is now in progress a movement looking toward the publication of an alumni magazine by the association.

"This college has no more active and helpful friends than some of its alumni, yet while individual 'promotion of the interests of the college' has been accomplished, it can scarcely be maintained that the Alumni association as such has done much. From the nature of its present organization, by which action must depend upon the sentiment of those who happen to be present at the business meeting commencement week, little continuity of effort can be expected, since those present one year are likely to be almost entirely different from those present the previous year or the one following. Resident alumni may be present with some regularity, but they should not expect, nor be expected, to direct the affairs of the association.

"It seems evident that no sustained policy looking toward promoting the interests of the college, or carrying out any large plans, will be possible until means are adopted whereby all alumni, whether or not in attendance at business meetings, can have equal opportunity to propose action, and to vote on proposed action. Such plans are in successful operation in other large societies."

Struggles for Recognition

Not that the work of the Alumni association had been confined to annual reunions, triennial banquets and addresses, and the election of officers. The foregoing article in a way does not do justice to the association of 25 or 30 years ago. As far back as 1894 the Alumni association had taken action toward having alumni appointed on the board of regents. This board was replaced by the board of administration for all the state institutions of higher learning in 1913. Resolutions were adopted in 1894 urging the appointment of alumni on the board. A committee presented the names of five alumni to the governor the following winter for appointment, but the recommendations were "placed on file." In 1898 W. H. Phipps, '95, was named on the board of regents. He was the first alumnus so honored.

Alumni

Harry Umberger, '05
President of the Alumni Association

In 1899 it was voted "that a committee of seven (afterward increased to nine) members be appointed to appoint a committee in every county to help keep up the work for our college." This was the first step in the creation of the present advisory board, and led finally to the employment of a full-time executive secretary to work in conjunction with the advisory board and under the board of directors in promoting the interests of the college.

This first committee issued a circular to alumni pointing out the following ways in which the alumni could work for the college:

"(1) By bringing the work of the college before the leading farmers, business men, statesmen, and newspapers of the state, and (2) by helping the college to place its catalogs and circulars in the hands of the teachers and in the schools of the state." Detailed suggestions also were made as to the furnishing of news of alumni, extending mailing lists for experiment station bulletins, working up farmers' institutes, and so forth.

Settled Engineering Policy

Ten years later the need for such a program was made evident. A systematic campaign to limit the "sphere of work" of the college culminated in a bill in the legislature to abolish engineering courses at the college. The campaign was opened by the calling of a joint conference of the members of the boards of regents of the three state institutions of higher learning to define their "spheres of work." This conference was called in 1908. It soon developed that the real purpose was to annihilate the engineering courses of the college.

The conference itself got nowhere in particular. After the fall elections, it was recommended by the head of another state institution, in his biennial report to the legislature, that the legislature settle the matter by abolishing engineering at the Kansas State Agricultural college, or, better still, by combining the two institutions under one board and one executive. The bill was introduced to do away with engineering. It had been preceded by a barrage of newspaper publicity favoring restricting the college to the teaching of farming. Alumni and friends of the college hurriedly organized relief committees, swamped the legislators with protests, and the bill never got out of committee. But the 1909 experience demonstrated that the Alumni association itself was not organized for effective work. The temporary organization which handled the legislative and publicity campaign was formed and directed by students. It did result in the appointment of a legislative committee from the Alumni association two years later, and such a committee has functioned somewhat at every succeeding legislature.

This experience ended the agitation to abolish engineering at the Agricultural college, and reaffirmed the principle of the Morrill act under which land grant colleges were established—that these were to give instruction in agriculture and mechanic arts. The immediate and pressing need for a strong alumni organization apparently passed, and it was several years before the Alumni associations really undertook to become an active factor in building up and protecting the interests of the institution.

In 1912 the association undertook a new project, the publication of an alumni register. This was carried through to completion the following year by Albert Dickens, '93. Alumni were assessed one dollar each to cover the cost of publication, and nearly 1,500 responded.

Established Student Loan Funds

In 1916 the alumni loan fund for needy students was established, following the creation of the Henry J. Waters Loan fund by Doctor Waters, then president of the institution. Nearly 100 alumni took out life memberships at $20 each, the money to go into the permanent fund thus established. The fund has grown but little since that time. Annual dues had been fixed at one dollar several years before, but fewer than 10 per cent of the graduates of the institution bothered to pay them.

The Alumni association rested another four years. Construction of new buildings at the college practically had ceased in 1912. In 1920 a further step in making the Alumni association an active factor in college affairs and in college support was taken. The annual election commencement week resulted in the naming of the following on the board of directors: Harry Umberger, '05, president; Helen B. Thompson, '03, vice-president; J. T. Willard, '83, treasurer; Frances L. Brown, '09, secretary; George C. Wheeler, '95; C. W. McCampbell, '06; Harry L. Kent, '13; Waldo E. Grimes, '13; Orville B. Burtis, '16. These decided to open a full time headquarters at the college and to employ a permanent executive secretary. Clif Stratton, '11, was elected to the new job and opened headquarters in September, 1920.

Reorganized Alumni Association

Since that time the Alumni association has taken an ever increasing interest in college and alumni affairs, made possible largely thru the hearty cooperation of President W. M. Jardine, as well as of the alumni and college students.

One of the first steps taken was to arrange for at least one page of alumni news in every issue of the Industrialist. The following year the special eight-page alumni editions of the Industrialist were started. An attempt is made thru the Industrialist to give live information about college and alumni activities.

The first six months of the reorganized association was largely taken up with obtaining adequate financial support for the college. It might be noted among other things, that the 1921 legislature appropriated more money for building than had been allowed in the past 15 years.

The association also is working along other lines. The Homecoming last fall was the most largely attended and successful in the history of the college. Commencement reunions are taking on added interest and attendance. The "Go to College" teams of students that visit high schools illustrate another line of association activities, cooperating with other organizations. Local alumni organizations are being formed, rather slowly, it is true, but on a permanent basis. The main effort in organization lines is to get the allegiance of the alumni direct to Alma Mater. More alumni today are taking an interest in the college than ever before, to the benefit of the college and themselves.

One of the factors contributing to the higher standing in football circles of the Missouri Valley attained by the college last fall, is the renewed interest taken by the alumni. The prestige of the college over the state is as high now as it ever has been, and the Alumni association had its small share in that.

Two immediate projects ahead of the Alumni association are the publishing of an alumni directory and the Memorial Stadium. The directory probably will be published this summer—there still are a number of alumni who are chary of furnishing information about themselves.

Alumni

Now for the Memorial Stadium

The Alumni association will take over the crusade for the Memorial Stadium after the students, faculty, and Manhattan folk have erected the first section. This probably will be next fall. The Memorial Stadium will be one of the most completely appointed and imposing of its kind in the Missouri Valley. The outer walls of the stadium will be of native limestone, following closely in architectural design Nichols gymnasium. Inside all will be of reinforced concrete. The completed structure, horseshoe shaped, will seat 21,000 persons and will cost $350,000. It will be situated in the southwest corner of the campus, on Ahearn field. The west section, to be constructed first, will seat 6,700 and cost $125,000.

The Alumni association in its present form still is an experiment. Indications are that it will continue to function along the same lines, but perhaps with slight modifications. Out of a total of 4,392 graduates there now are 105 Life Members and 900 Active Members for this year. It is working effectively toward the goal set by the constitution of the association: "The promotion of the interests of the college and of acquaintance among its graduates."

Officers of the Alumni association for this year are:

Board of Directors: H. Umberger, '05, president; Helen B. Thompson, '03, vice-president; J. T. Willard, '83, treasurer; H. H. Haymaker, '14, secretary; G. C. Wheeler, '95; C. W. McCampbell, '06, '10; John R. McClung, '10; W. E. Grimes, '13; O. B. Burtis, '16.

Advisory Council: J. W. Berry, '83; H. W. Avery, '91; G. C. Wheeler, '95; Bertha (Spohr) Smith, '98; G. O. Greene, '00.

Alumni

Henry C. Rushmore, '79
President Kansas City Alumni Association
Dean of Aggie Alumni

"I doubt very seriously that I shall live to visit, what I have for years called the kindergarten, in celebration of my fiftieth anniversary—that will be in 1929. I have always regarded the College as a Kindergarten—so, really it is. As a dutiful son, it has given me unalloyed pleasure to render to her service and loyalty, the return of which has been more profit to me than to her. After all, that is one of the profound things of life, the realization of which so few ever comprehend. Long years ago it came to me that life derived most where it bestowed most. Life is gloriously worth living. I am exceedingly rich in the basic elements of wealth. Was it the count of Monte Cristo who said, 'The world is mine'? Pshaw, Clif, he was a pauper—Forget him—But not

Yours truly,

H. C. R."

Alumni

Kansas City Alumni Association

The alumni in Kansas City were the first to organize a local association. Will E. Smith, '93, now practicing law at Wamego, is given credit by Harry C. Rushmore, '79, for originating the idea. This was in 1903, and as Rushmore notes was promptly followed by the Kaw flood of '03. Smith still believes it was in '01—the first meeting, not the flood. Other prominent persons in the organization were: S. L. Van Blarcom (now deceased); Phil Creager, '91, news editor of the Kansas City Journal (now deceased); Dr. A. T. Kinsley, '99; Mrs. Anna (Smith) Kinsley, '01; Frank Yoeman, '98; and Horace G. Pope, '94.

Smith was the first president of the association. He was followed by Rushmore, Doctor Kinsley, Mrs. Kinsley, Eusebia (Mudge) Thompson, '93, Yoeman, W. H. Phipps, '95, and others. This year the presidency has worked its way back to Rushmore.

Harry Rushmore of Kansas City generally is known as]Dean of the Aggie Alumni. It was Rushmore who organized the first alumni association the year after he was graduated. In fact Rushmore was accused by the old timers of his day of having organized the alumni association before he was graduated. It is a fact, that when the class of '79 was graduated they had arranged for the first meeting of the alumni association the following commencement and the constitution presented in 1880 was written before the authors were alumni.

"I am serving my last term as president," Rushmore wrote in a letter this spring. "I have been so often stuck for the job that I am worm eaten, flea bitten, and corrupt. I have sworn an awful swore, that nevermore will this local have for president, Harry Rushmore. Our children down here are in need of a new and younger man. I am going on the turn table, but believe me some other fellow will get on the main line and make this local what it should be."

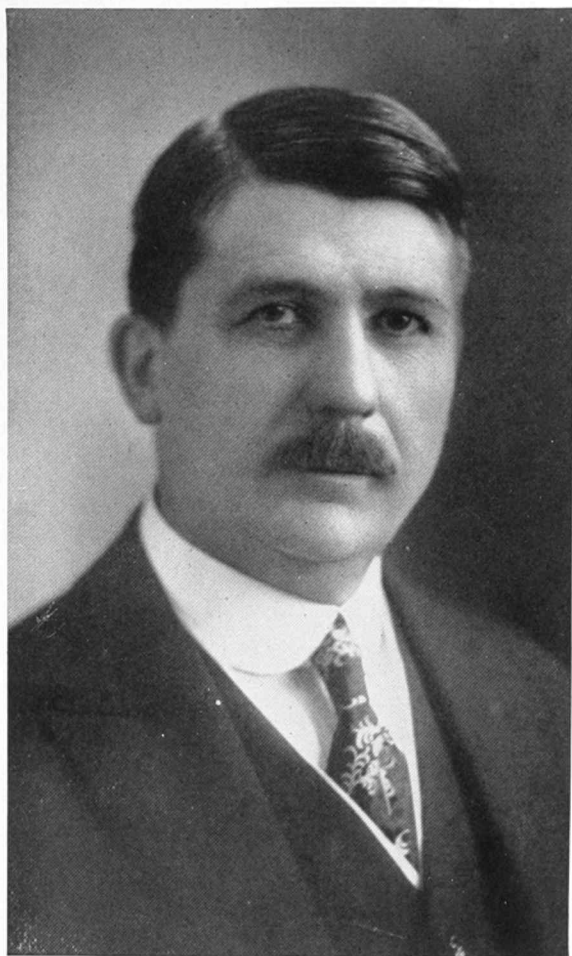

The Kansas City association has held an annual dinner during the winter or early spring every year since it was organized, except during the World war. It also has held a number of summer picnics. The '22 annual dinner was held at the First Christian church, Kansas City, Mo., April 21. Among those on the program were President William Jardine; Dean J. T. Willard, '83; Dean Helen B. Thompson, '03. The officers of the Kansas City association for the past year were:

H. C. Rushmore, '79, President.

Roy M. Wyatt, '09, Vice-President.

Florence Carvin, '13, Secretary-Treasurer,] City Hall, Independence, Missouri.

Alumni

David G. Robertson, '86
President of Chicago Alumni Association

Chicago Alumni Association

The Chicago Alumni association was organized about 17 years ago. The first meeting was called by W. E. Whaley, '86 (now deceased), and David G. Robertson, '86. Robertson was the first president of the Chicago organization. He was elected again in 1920 and is still on the job. Among the past presidents are: Doctor Mayo; Paul C. Milner, '97; E. T. Morton; John B. Patton, '95; and E. H. Freeman, '95.

The annual dinner during the National Live-stock show has become a feature of the Chicago alumni organization. There generally are several of the faculty members from the college on the program at these meetings. Student members of the stock judging teams also are guests.

✱ "I wish you would make it clear," Robertson wrote recently to the executive secretary of the Alumni association, "that my office is to be known continuously as headquarters for all of the former students and friends of K. S. A. C. When coming to Chicago they should report and let us have their names and addresses so we can keep in touch with them and see that each new-comer shall be enrolled in our organization and receive an invitation to the different meetings which we have from time to time."

Robertson's offices are at 1140 Otis Building, 10 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago. Roy Breese, '21, is secretary of the Chicago association. His address is 5115 Windsor Ave., Chicago.

Historical

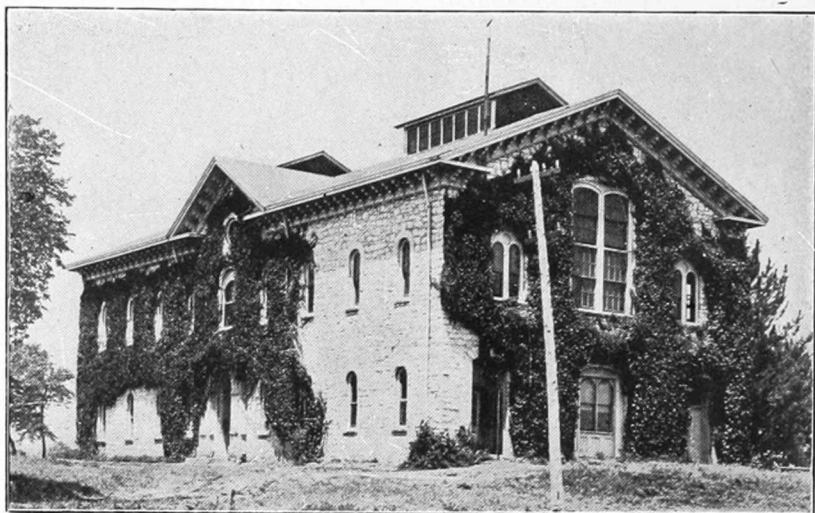

Bluemont Central College

Bluemont Central college, the predecessor of the Kansas State Agricultural college, was the first educational institution chartered in Kansas territory, the charter being granted February 9, 1858. The college, which consisted of one building, Bluemont Central hall, was established by the Methodist Episcopal church of Kansas. In 1863 the college was ceded to the state for use as a land grant institution. The Bluemont college building was built on the college farm of 100 acres near the old site of the anti-hog cholera serum plant, which was located about a mile north of the college. The corner stone of the building, which was built of the native stone, was laid May 10, 1859, the construction of the building being in charge of J. H. Brous, the father of three college graduates. Included in Bluemont Central hall was a chapel, with curved ceiling and a cupola where hung the same bell that still rings from Anderson hall. The lettered arch and roof truss are now on the Marlatt farm, in the large stone barn owned by the college and used by the animal husbandry department.

Hospital First Building

The first building to be erected on the site of the present campus was one wing of a stone barn, which, under President Anderson's administration was used as a class room building. This first building was used for a long time as the armory. It is now occupied by the agricultural engineering department. Though the first building to be constructed on the campus, this structure is not the oldest, for when the land was purchased by the college, the farm house which later was used by President Anderson and President Fairchild, as a residence, and is now used as the college hospital, came with it. That the buildings to be erected in the future might have appropriate landscape setting, a design for their location and the improvement of the campus was made in 1872 by Professor Henry Worrall of Topeka, but his designs were never used. A second set of plans which provided for a semi-circular court of buildings was drawn up by Professor Maximilian Kern of Columbia, and his plans were the ones used in the first plantings made on the grounds. These plans were followed out by Professor E. A. Popenoe in planting the shelter belt and the main tree groups.

Historical

First Building to Be Built on Campus

Besides the building now used by the agricultural mechanics department which was built in 1872, three structures on the campus were completed before Anderson hall, which was the first of the semi-circular grouping of buildings. These other three buildings were the main part of the shops, built in 1876, the building now used as the chemistry annex, built in the same year, and the old horticultural hall now used as the illustrations building, built in 1877.

The cornerstone of the north wing of Anderson hall was laid in 1878 and the wing completed in 1879. The central part of the hall was finished in 1882, and the south wing in 1884, both during President Fairchild's administration. An enlargement of the Chapel was made in 1887. The entire building was planned by Anderson, and the three wing construction was necessitated by the fact that it was impossible to secure sufficient appropriation for its entire construction during one fiscal period. E. T. Carr of Leavenworth was the architect for the principal structure, and the plans for the chapel addition were made by Prof. J. D. Walters.

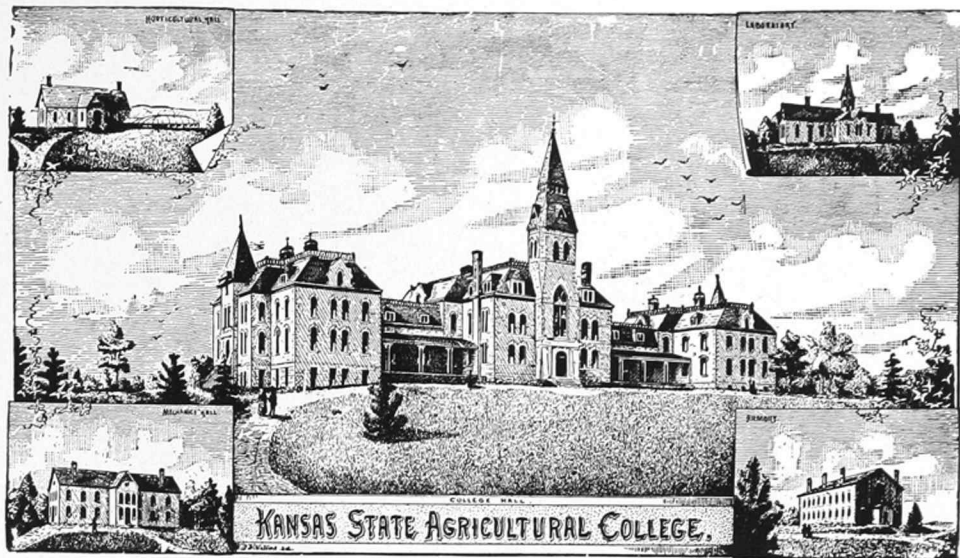

Later Buildings

Fairchild hall was finished in 1894. Kedzie hall, at present the home of the cafeteria and the journalism department, was completed in 1897. The old agricultural hall, now used as the school of agriculture building was completed in 1900, and Denison hall in 1902. In 1904 both the auditorium and the dairy building were finished. The present horticultural building was completed in 1907, and the home economics hall and the veterinary building in 1908. In 1909 the east wing of the engineering building was finished. In 1911 Nichols gymnasium was completed and in 1912 one wing of the new agricultural building, Waters hall. In 1913 the stock barn was completed. Appropriations have been made for the construction of a cafeteria building to be completed by next fall and for the completion of the west wing of Waters hall, as well as for the construction of a girls' dormitory and of a building for veterinary clinics. The engineering building was completed in the fall of 1921.

Throughout the construction of the various buildings, the old semi-circular group plan has been kept in mind, and with the completion of the cafeteria at the south entrance of the campus, it is planned to construct a drive which will emphasize the plan.

In 1888 the city of Manhattan built a complete system of waterworks with a pumping station near the Blue River and a reservoir on Bluemont Hill. The following winter the legislature appropriated $3,000 for an extension of the pipe line to the college and in July, 1889, the buildings, greenhouse and nursery plots were supplied with an abundance of water. This was a real factor in the experimental work of scientific agricultural research and afforded protection in case of fire.

Historical

The Campus when You and I Were Kids

The excellent library of K. S. A. C. is of long standing. Early in the days of Bluemont college a library of nearly 3,000 volumes was accumulated, chiefly through the efforts of Mr. Goodnow, who wrote hundreds of letters to eastern publishers, philanthropists and personal friends asking for books.

THE PRESIDENTS

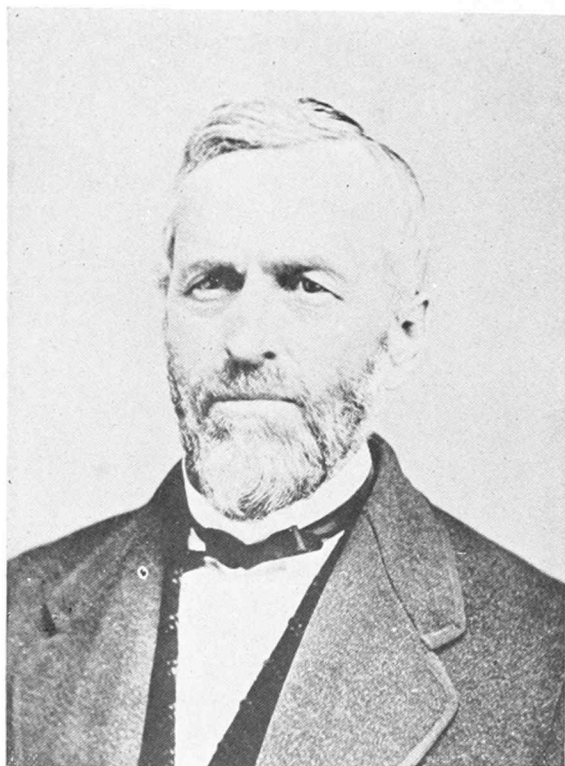

A broad understanding of the forces that have contributed to the growth of the Kansas State Agricultural college cannot be gained without a knowledge of the men whose lives have been bound up with the history of the institution. The Reverend Joseph Denison who was nominated to the presidency March 5, 1863, retained the position for ten years after the conversion of the old Bluemont college into a state school.

During the administration of Denison a one-year preparatory course was offered. In the four years of the college course there were just four recitations a day. For two years and two terms, one was Latin and another Greek. These studies were replaced by "mental and moral sciences" during the rest of the course. There were four years of natural sciences and three of mathematics, rounded out in the fourth by more natural sciences. In 1864 President Denison instituted a three year agricultural course, including such practical subjects as soils, plant physiology, care of domestic animals, and horticulture. In 1868 a military course of five terms was added and the preparatory work was lengthened to three years. Later a course in veterinary medicine was added, but these changes were short lived. In 1871 a four year course in mechanic arts was added and the work in agriculture lengthened to four years with two years preparatory. Following his resignation in 1873 President Denison became the head of Baker university, Baldwin, Kansas.

Upon the election of John A. Anderson to the presidency in 1873, ideas completely at variance with those of the previous administration were adopted. The new board discontinued the school of literature and reorganized those of agricultural and mechanical arts. The college was one of the first to include instruction in manual training, which was made obligatory during Anderson's administration. It was during Anderson's administration, too, that the Industrialist was established. The first issue appeared April 24, 1875, and has been published continuously since that date. The Industrialist was at the time of its founding, and still is, edited by the faculty.

John A. Anderson was a vigorous executive with keen insight into the possibilities of vocational education. The catalog of 1874 states: "Radical changes have been made since the publication of the last catalogue," and goes on to explain the value of practical training. Three courses are listed in the catalogue of 1874, one for farmers, one for mechanics and one for women. Each is six years in length and requires grammar school examinations or certificates for entrance. One hour of practical hand work is introduced. The courses are chartered, comparing the time given to three elements: 1. Practical work. 2. Knowledge used in practical work. 3. Aids to practical knowledge. The order of grouping was characteristic of Anderson. But resentment was stirred in the souls of many by these revolutionary ideas. Most of the students at this time lived in Manhattan, and the town was torn in factions "for" and "against" Latin, which had no place in the new curriculum. The feeling subsided when time proved the wisdom of the new president's policy.

Historical

Later, as conditions called for economy, President Anderson felt it wise to reduce all the courses into one of only four years. During Anderson's administration attendance at chapel at 8:30 each morning was compulsory. The rest of the morning until one o'clock was divided into fifty minute periods.

This same system was continued with little change until the resignation of Anderson in 1879, and all through the administration of President George T. Fairchild, which lasted until 1897. The first elective course appeared in the announcements of 1890-91.

In 1897 the brief sway of populism in Kansas resulted in the ousting of President Fairchild. His administration was more conservative than Anderson's, but under him the work did not lose any of the progressive character it had gained under Anderson.

Thomas Elmer Will was chosen to take Fairchild's place. His administration lasted only two years. During this time the work was separated into four courses, agricultural, household economics, engineering, and general. Because the populist regime demanded more practical work in economics and political science, these subjects were increased 300 per cent.

Historical

John A. Anderson, 1873-1878

It was in 1899, during the administration of E. R. Nichols, 1899-1909, that short courses were first introduced at the college. A commercial creamery short course, a farmer's short course, and a general agricultural short course were offered.

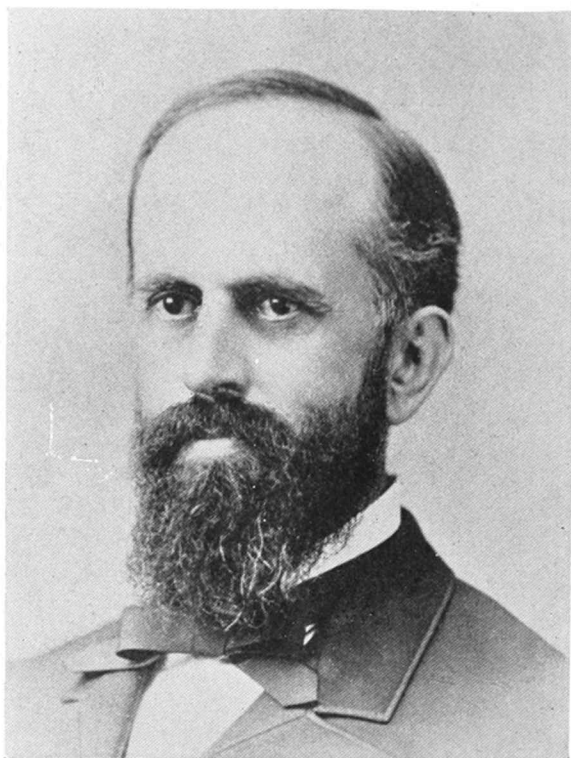

Dr. H. J. Waters became president in 1909. He organized the work of the college into five divisions, placing a dean at the head of each. The divisions organized at this time were agriculture, general science, home economics, mechanic arts and college extension. The summer school was lengthened and work was offered by all departments instead of by the home economics division alone. Entrance requirements were raised from four high school units to eight, and later to fifteen. The school of agriculture was organized with three year sub-collegiate courses in agriculture, mechanic arts, and home economics. Short courses were extended and developed.

In 1918 Dr. W. M. Jardine succeeded Doctor Waters. Since the beginning of his administration courses in agricultural chemistry, biochemistry, industrial chemistry and rural commerce have been added.

AGGIE TRADITIONS

To talk of "starting an Aggie tradition" has a futile sound to the majority of folk to whom spontaneity is an inborn quality of true tradition. Perhaps, properly speaking, few of our Aggie traditions have sufficient age to be termed traditions, and are rather customs. Certainly two so-called traditions of the Aggie campus are little more than slogans which the students have lived up to with more or less faith. These are the slogans "No Smoking on the Campus" which is in reality not a tradition at all, but is based on an act of the board of regents, and

Historical

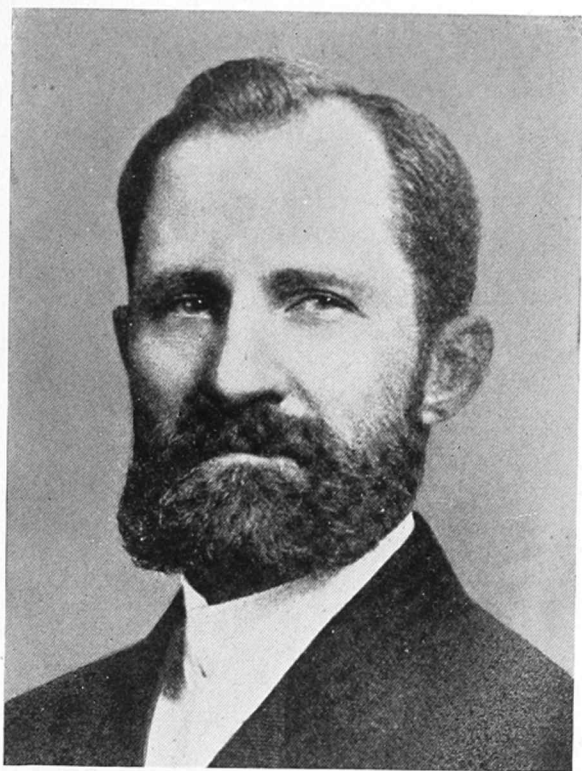

George T. Fairchild, 1879-1897

"Loyal Aggies Use the Walks," probably invented by some ingenious member of the horticultural department for the preservation of the campus beauties. On the whole it is probable that the first slogan has had the better observance. Its observance even stood the test of the S. A. T. C. days at which time it was infringed upon more than at any other. The "Loyal Aggies Use the Walks" slogan originated in the days when the first sidewalk on the campus was an old stone walk along Lovers Lane. This walk was used by the entire student body, as going any other way necessitated crossing what was then a corn field. Even at this time it was the aim of the faculty to have the students use the sidewalk instead of making unsightly paths across the campus, hence the slogan. The year 1906 saw the construction of concrete walks on the campus, the first being in front of Anderson hall.

The tradition that the freshmen shall wear specially constructed caps during their first year in college, perhaps one of the most sturdily upheld of college traditions, was begun by the class of 1916 who of their own accord purchased and wore the caps. The class of 1917 refused to follow the example of the class of '16, but the class of '18 revived the custom and in the spring of 1915 freshmen caps were again seen on the campus. The caps were sold to the freshmen by the sophomore class until 1921 when the sale of the caps was turned over to the athletic association. In the year 1919 the freshman class was unusually strong. When the upperclassmen tried to make them wear the caps they met with great resistance. Among the means of force used to compel the freshmen to wear the customary headgear were duckings in a large water tank. After a number of freshmen had been ducked they organized and ducked a number of the upper classmen, and also a young professor whom they took to be a sophomore. This organization was called the "Kan't Soak Me" club. Since at this time there was a mania for painting class signs on the campus and buildings and other conspicuous places, K. S. M. was given considerable publicity. The letters still remain on the arch above the entrance to Ahearn field.

Historical

Thomas E. Will, 1897-1899

The custom that each class leave some sort of memorial, is one that has been generally observed at K. S. A. C. Sometime during the nineties one of the graduating classes decided that a tree planted on the campus would be a beautiful and lasting memorial, so a tree was planted. The graduating classes following liked the plan, and a tree was planted each year up to and including 1905. The tree planted by the class of 1904 was uprooted and burned by the juniors. The mystery of the location of the tree of the class of 1905 has been kept inviolate until recently when it was disclosed by Dean Harry Umberger of the extension division and Miss Gertrude Nicholson, who is connected with the department of horticulture. The tree, a pin oak, stands 25 yards south of the main walk and six feet west of the cinder path which intersects with it. The tree was secured from the horticultural department by J. B. Thompson, Harvey Adams, Helen Bottomly, Mamie Cunningham, Gertrude Nicholson, Harry Umberger, and Lena Finley.

One of the causes of the cessation of the tree planting custom was the advent of the year book, but many classes have left some memorial. Some of these are, the stone pillars at the south entrance of the campus by the class of 1911; and those at the entrance of the athletic field, class of 1916; the lights in front of the auditorium and the gymnasium, 1912 and 1913; the drinking fountain in front of the home economics building, 1908; and the flag pole which was donated by the class of 1920.

The College Colors

The report of the committee on college colors which was made in 1896 was officially approved by the faculty in 1921. This official approval has served to disillusion the large proportion of students and alumni, who have believed that the college had two colors, purple and white. One color, the royal purple, is all that the college has. The white was the idea of some decorating committee. Officially, however, the college did not even have the purple until the faculty's action in 1921. The body that selected the colors, Miss Ina E. Holroyd of the college believes, was composed of two representatives from each class, but only four are known today. They are Frank Uhl, '96, now living near Las Cruces, New Mexico; Winifred Houghton Buck, '97, Topeka; Ina E. Holroyd, '97, K. S. A. C.; and Minnie Copeland, '98, New York City. One color was chosen because it was believed that, as each of the classes had two colors, two would be superfluous. Thus the idea of brown and gold, sunflower colors, was discarded. Both because of the beauty of royal purple, and because it could not be found in use in any other school, it was finally selected as the official college color.

Shepherd's Crook and Wooden Key

The memory of each senior who has graduated since '98 probably holds a place for the shepherd's crook and the excitement which its presentation to the junior class always causes. The class of 1898 made a large shepherd's crook on which were tied the colors of the class. Upon graduation they presented the crook to the class of '99. When this class graduated the crook was offered to the class of 1900, but this class scorned to receive it, whereupon the class of '99 tied a piece of black crepe where the colors of the 1900 class should have been. A year later the crook was presented to the class of 1901 by a committee selected from the class of '99. Thereafter the crook was handed down by each graduating class to the class graduating the succeeding year until 1907. In the spring of this year the crook was stolen from the senior girl who was keeping it, by the sophomores, and was held by them until they graduated in 1909 when it was presented to the next class. Although the presentation of the crook has resulted in considerable excitement it has been handed down at the junior-senior since that date. In 1918 some sophomores again succeeded in stealing the crook from George Gibbons, and its hiding place was a mystery until the spring of 1920 when it was brought back at junior-senior prom and presented to the class of '21. In 1921 the ambitious sophomores once more laid plans to make themselves famous by capturing the crook, but while they watched for it to be handed out thru some door or window of the gym, the coveted symbol slid quietly along a wire above their heads to the home economics building and the juniors successfully guarded it until presented to the class of '23,, at the prom on April 28.

Historical

The freshman key is a large wooden key made by the class of 1915 and given to the freshman class at the freshman-sophomore dance. The key was stolen in 1917 and did not reappear until 1920. The sophomore class of 1921 made a duplicate key which was presented to the freshmen of that year. The original key was presented by the sophomores of 1920 to the freshmen of 1920 and it is now held by that class.

Probably the best established annual event which is held at K. S. A. C. is the oratorical contest which has been held every year since 1901. Contestants are chosen from the literary societies, now eight in number. Other annual affairs which have been held for a number of years are the May Fete under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A.; Aggie Pop Night, first held in 1916; and Roughneck Day, first held in 1917.

Probably the most interesting feature of the annual May Fete is the crowning of the May Queen, who is usually elected by popular vote sometime before the day of the fete. At Aggie

Pop Night seven stunts are presented by organizations whose stunts have been voted on as most promising by a committee who judge the stunts in preparation some weeks before the date of Pop Night. A silver loving cup which was given by the Y. W. C. A. advisory board is the reward of the organization with the best stunt. To keep the cup as a permanent possession, an organization must take first place at Aggie Pop Night three times. Roughneck day which is celebrated on the Ides of March is a day of intense freedom, when classes are cut at pleasure and great informality of costume is allowable.

The first Homecoming day was held October 23, 1915, the game with K.U. being the occasion for the celebration. Coach John Bender was head coach at that time and Guy Lowman was head of the athletic department.

The junior-senior which was first held in 1910 originally took the form of a banquet, but in 1915 the banquet was discarded as a feature of the entertainment and dancing now occupies a large portion of the evening.

The popularity contest which is conducted annually under the auspices of the Royal Purple was first held in 1915. In the first contest, the most popular girl, Ruth Hill, and the most popular man, Walter F. Smith, were elected. Since then no "most popular" man has been chosen.

The senior pin design which is now used was adopted by the class of 1910.

The present centralized system of registration was put into use in 1913. Before the advent of this system the students had enrolled at the offices of their respective deans, and considerable confusion had resulted.

During President Denison's administration, the faculty made a ruling that all students should attend church every Sunday or present an acceptable excuse. Roll call was taken in chapel on Monday mornings and each student was required to answer the roll by telling where he or she had attended church the day before.

A public plowing match was a feature of the commencement exercises in 1880.

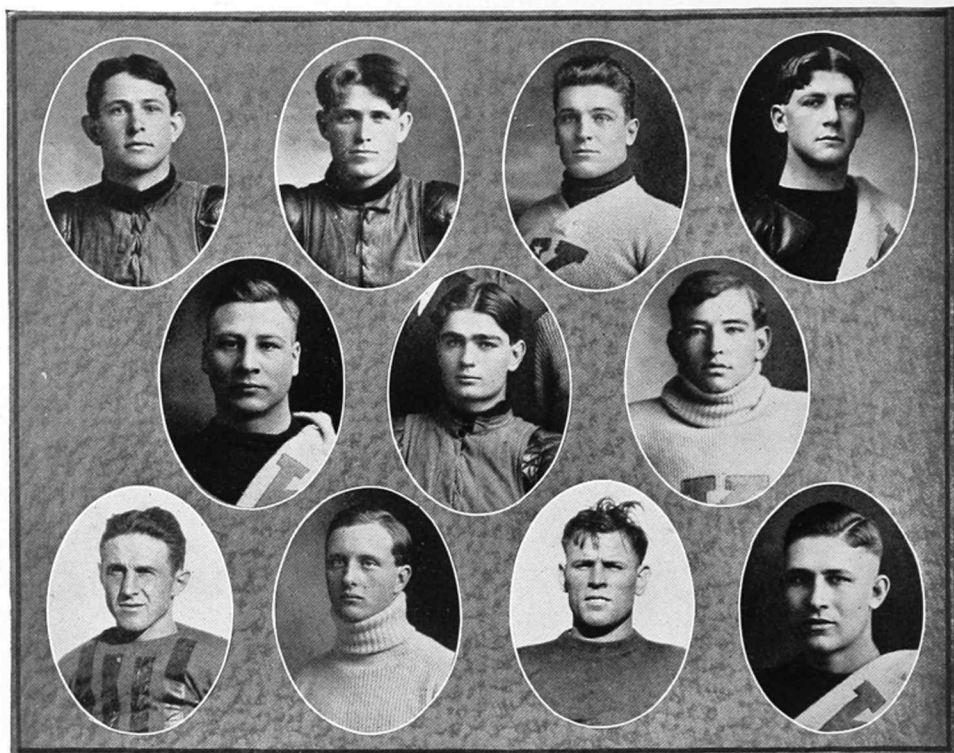

The first ivy is believed to have been planted on the campus in 1879 by Prof. H. E. Van Deman, then professor of horticulture.

The first roads of the campus were gravelled in 1883.

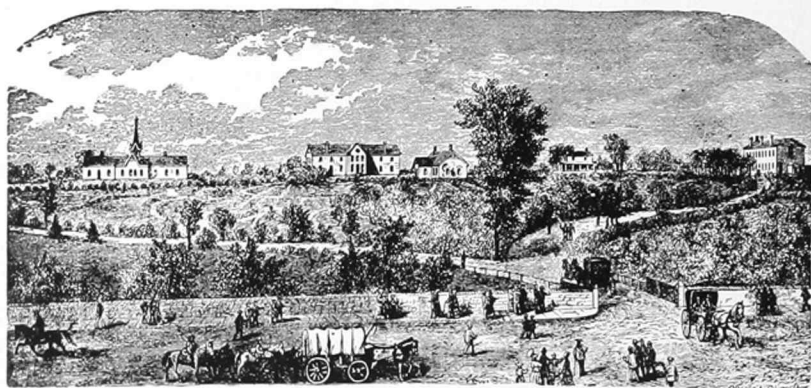

The first trees in Lovers' Lane were planted before the land was a part of the campus. In 1871 when the city of Manhattan bought a quarter section of land to re-locate the college, it purchased in that tract the beautiful homestead of Prof. Elbridge Gale who had preached trees so long that he was known as the orchard authority of central Kansas. The large maple trees that sentinel Lovers' Lane and the north college creek, and the cypresses and spruces directly north, were planted by the tree-loving professor before the college bought the land. The lane got its name about 1879. At that time it was actually a lane, three of four rods wide, fenced on both sides, and ran across the farm east and west. The old stone walk, since replaced by cinder, was the only access to the college grounds.

MAJOR FREDERICK B. TERRELL

The Kansas State Agricultural college is a land grant college, which under the law maintains a course in the mechanical arts, practical agriculture and military science.

Under the provision for maintaining a course in military science the War Department has established three (3) units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps — namely: Infantry, Coast Artillery, and Veterinary.

In the last war it was found that trained leaders, who knew something of the science of war were not available, and much of the delay was caused because of the necessity for training these leaders after war was declared.

With England and France holding the enemy at bay this was possible; but in the war of the future with an enemy knocking at our gates, a serious situation would arise without leaders ready for battle.

Realizing this, Congress created the Reserve Officers' Training Corps to be placed in colleges, thereby making it possible for college graduates to receive military training, which would fit them to be officers in time of war.

At present this college gives training to about 1,000 students each year. This training is an asset to the nation's scheme of national defense, as it is democratic. It is also beneficial to the individual student in many ways.

The Spirit of the Old Ben Survives

Turn back, turn back, oh ye pursuers of knowledge, to old Ben Franklin, and learn from him the simple lessons of the ages.

In the matter of examinations the old printer is particularly wise. "He that knows nothing of it, may by chance be a prophet, while the wisest that is, may happen to miss," he says. Moral: don't cram; take a chance. But professors as well as students can draw comfort from him, for he also says, "The learned fool writes his nonsense in better language than the unlearned; but still 'tis nonsense;" and "Great talkers are little doers;" and "What signifies knowing the names, if you know not the nature of things?" Though he is great in knowledge of these matters, old Ben rises to a state of transcendent genius in giving a few final advices about taking tests. "Better slip with the foot than with the tongue;" and "The first degree of folly is to conceit one's self wise; the second to profess it; the third to despise counsel;" and finally, "Blessed is he that expects nothing for he shall never be disappointed."

In the matter of high finance Poor Richard knows whereof he speaks. For instance, he says: "He that drinks fast pays slow," probably referring to coca-colas; and "Learning, whether speculative or practical, is in popular or mixed governments, the natural source of wealth and honor." Another side of the financial question will be of interest to Manhattan merchants. "He's gone and forgot but to say farewell—to his creditors." But then Manhattan merchants ought to remember that "There's none deceived but he that trusts."

In matters of morals the old printer has some very definite opinions. "Be temperate in wine, in eating, girls, and sloth, or the gout will sieze you and plague you both;" and again he discourses wisely in the same vein, "Women & wine, Game & deceit, Make the wealth small and the wants great." The truth of "Keep flax from fire, youth from gaming," is especially realized when one has put too much confidence in two pairs, tens high.

When the trousers of the old suit have gotten thin, and new suits are shouting at one from every store window let him memorize this and repeat it over and over: "Fond pride of dress is sure an empty curse: E're fancy you consult, consult your purse." And lastly let all Vets remember that "He that lies down with dogs shall rise up with fleas."

As to affairs of the heart, old Ben gives much sound advice. To parents he says, "Marry your son when you will, but your daughter when you can." Girls will find their own porch-swing opinions reinforced by "Though modesty is a virtue, bashfulness is a vice;" and perhaps they are not so sure that "Men and melons are hard to know." But surely they will concede the truth of "Keep your eyes wide open before marriage, half shut afterwards;" "One good husband is worth two good wives; for the scarcer things are the more they're valued;" and lastly,

"Let the maid servant be faithful, strong, and homely."

But it is to men that Franklin offers most of this tender wisdom. "He that goes far to marry will either deceive or be deceived," which means do your trading at home; "Would you persuade speak of interest, not reason," or talk in terms of mahogany suites and forget that dad has always footed the bills; "Happy's the wooing that's not long a-doing," which brought up-to-date means to make it short and snappy; "You can bear your own faults, and why not a fault in your wife," or don't be mean, let her smoke too; "A man without a wife is but half a man," and generally no man at all in her opinion after a year of married life. But with all of these remember that "He that takes a wife, takes care;" and "Why does the blind man's wife paint herself?" and "If Jack's in love, he's no judge of Jill's beauty;" and that "Three things are men most likely to be cheated in, a house, a wig, and a wife." A fitting summary of marriage from the masculine view point is this: "Epitaph on scolding wife by her husband, 'Here my poor Bridget's corpse doth lie, she is at rest—and so am I.'"

Finally, is it possible old Benjamin was thinking of unmarried members of the ancient and honorable teaching profession when he said: "Old maids lead apes there, where the old bachelors are turned to apes?"

Acknowledgment

This Historical Volume of the Royal Purple was made possible only by the heartiest cooperation of faculty, students, and organizations. We take this opportunity to thank those who have assisted so kindly in gathering material and planning the Annual.

We especially want to thank Miss Louise Everhardy who arranged snap shot pages and assisted in choosing the color scheme of the book. Others who attributed much to the success of this publication, in a business as well as editorial manner, are: Prof. N. A. Crawford, Prof. H. W. Davis, Prof. J. W. Searson, Dean J. T. Willard, Prof. Albert Dickens, Miss Ada Rice, Asso. Prof. E. T. Keith, and Asso. Prof. C. E. Rogers.

The plan of the book is conservative. We have tried to get something of every happening of interest during the year. We started early and continued late. After going to press, we have pulled a page, and on next to the last page you will find the story of the Stadium Drive.

We have done our best to keep this volume free from errors. We have not succeeded, but trust that we have reduced them to a minimum. Some of the copy that came to us was illegible, much of it was late, and in a few cases we were ignored and had to gather what we could. We have labored long and faithfully, and hope our errors will be excused and our effort accepted.

Orderly habits identify the successful man or woman. They profit by the old rule of “A place for everything and everything in its place.”

Rhabdomancy

Sounds like the name of some outlandish and invariable fatal disease; but it is only the official name for the use of the divining rod.

From time immemorial certain persons have claimed the power to discover water and minerals beneath the earth by the manipulation of a witch-hazel twig. In superstitious quarters the belief still persists.

A lot of folks expect to discover the treasures of life by magic or good luck rather than by earnest application to its eternal principles.

No divining rod is needed to discover good merchandise. The selection of the right store is all that is necessary.

Leadership

Real leadership comes only through service; it endures only through service. By its service to farm families of Kansas through more than a quarter century, Kansas Farmer and Mail & Breeze maintains its leadership in its field. Here are a few "high lights" of its predominance.

- It reaches twice as many farm families in Kansas as any other strictly farm paper.
- In 1921 it carried more advertising than any other farm paper or farm newspaper in this territory.
- It carries more livestock advertising and more land advertising than any other farm publication in this territory.
- It has a more complete Farm Home Department, and a more complete editorial service than any other farm publication for Kansas.
- In 1921 it carried more news about dairying, more about implements, more about tractors, more about electricity than any other farm publication in this territory.
- In 1921 it carried more advertising for automobiles, motor trucks, building materials, clothing, engines, tractors, farm supplies, financial, hardware and cutlery, silverware, heating and water systems, electric lighting systems, paints and varnishes, silos and cutters, stock foods, real estate, and livestock than any other farm publication in this territory.
- Last year it far outstripped all other farm publications for Kansas in the amount of letters and other editorial matter written by farmers, and also in news of county farm bureaus.

A Gateway to Progress

There it stands—a simple forty-foot gateway but unlike any other in the entire world. Through it have come many of the engineering ideas that have made this an electrical America.

The story of electrical development begins in the Research Laboratories. Here the ruling spirit is one of knowledge—truth—rather than immediate practical results. In this manner are established new theories—tools for future use—which sooner or later find ready application.

The great industries that cluster around Niagara Falls, the electrically driven battle ships, the trolley cars and electrified railways that carry millions, the household conveniences that have relieved women of drudgery, the labor-saving electrical tools of factories, all owe their existence, partly at least, to the co-ordinated efforts of the thousands who daily stream through this gateway.

Our Last Word

The Royal Purple is essentially a student publication, but without the cooperation of the business men of the city of Manhattan and of the state of Kansas it would be impossible to publish a book of the desired quality. When these people were solicited for advertising we received the best of support. It is, indeed, a pleasure to work with such men. We can express only in a small way, our sincere appreciation of the patronage so willingly extended by our advertisers.

Stadium

The twenty-two hours ending at 9:00 a.m., April 26, 1922, marked an epoch in the history of the Kansas State Agricultural college. During that time the students and faculty of the college assured a Memorial Stadium on Ahearn field. In a quick, enthusiastic, and decisive campaign the students raised $76,000, and the faculty raised $25,000, of the $350,000 which the completed Memorial will cost.

All but $10,000 of the student contributions was contributed at the Student Memorial Assembly called by Charles C. McPherson, president of the S. S. G. A. Council and chairman of the Student Memorial committee. Speeches by Prof. H. H. King, chairman of the General Memorial Stadium committee, Mike Ahearn, physical director, Coach Charles W. Bachman, and W. A. Biby, of Topeka, father of Ernestine Biby, '20, were followed by the appeal from McPherson for funds.

"You know the situation," McPherson said, "It is up to us to decide whether we will have a Memorial Stadium or not. I am going to ask all who will contribute to the stadium to rise."

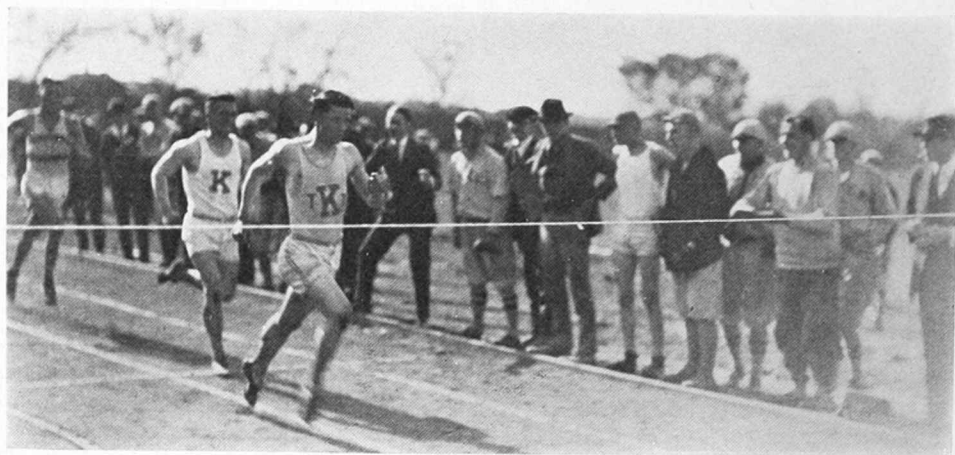

It looked as if the entire audience arose. Ushers distributed pledges which were signed and turned in immediately. The total contributions made at that assembly were $66,000. By 9:00 the next morning this was increased to $75,000. A holiday was declared by McPherson and approved by President W. M. Jardine. A parade over most of Manhattan practically marked the close of the campaign so far as the students were concerned.

Seventy-nine college organizations were the backbone of the Memorial Stadium campaign. A checking of the subscriptions on April 27th showed that fifty-two organizations pledged 100% of their members in the drive. These organizations are: Acacia, A. I. E. E., Alpha Beta, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Psi, Alpha Tau Omega, Alpha Zeta, Architect's club, Athenians, Men's Athletic fraternity, Beta Theta Pi, Block and Bridle, Chi Omega, Dairy Club, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Zeta, De Molay club, Edgerton club, Fairchild club, Farm House, Hamiltons, Kappa Delta, Kappa Phi Alpha, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Sigma, Klix club, Life Service League, Men's Pan Hellenic, Phi Delta Tau, Omicron Nu, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa, Pi Beta Phi, Pi Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Delta, Scabbard and Blade, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Delta Chi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Tau, Theta Sigma Phi, Topeka club, Triangulars, Webster, Women's Athletic K fraternity, W. A. A., Women's Pan Hellenic, Zeta Kappa Psi.

Three hundred fifty members of student teams organized by divisions put over the campaign among the students following the special assembly. Working under McPherson as director were the following majors in charge of teams in their division:

Division of Agriculture.....	Tim Murphy
Division of Engineering.....	R. C. Spratt
Division of General Science.....	Ruth Peck, Paul McConnell
Division of Home Economics.....	Marian Brookover
Division of Veterinary Science.....	Tim Foley
School of Agriculture.....	Paul Briggs

H. H. King was director of the faculty campaign. The division teams were in charge of Dean F. D. Farrell, Agriculture, Dean Roy A. Seaton, Engineering; Dean J. T. Willard, General Science; Dean Helen B. Thompson, Home Economics; Dean R. R. Dykstra, Veterinary Medicine, and Cliff Stratton, Alumni Secretary.
