4-H Livestock Competition Peaks At State Fair Time

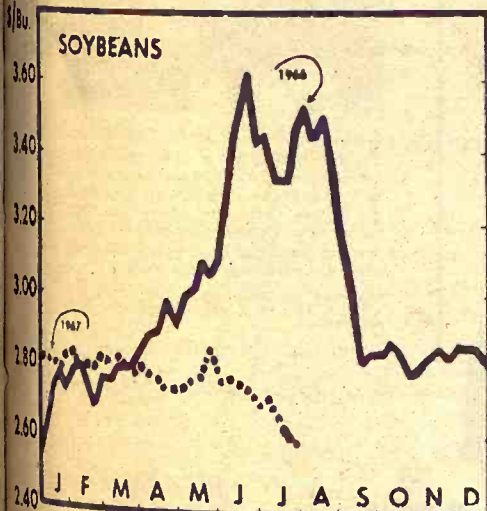

If G&G area 4Hers don't have their livestock prizes at top condition now, it'll be too late for the state's two major competitive tests — the Mid-America Fair at Topeka, which starts this week, and the Kansas State Fair at Hutchinson, which begins next week.

Fresh from blue and purple ribbon winnings at county and regional fairs, dozens of G&G youngsters are ready for the big state competition. The Riley County Fair winner, exhibited by Craig Good, was sold after the county fair, but Craig figures to have a hog entry at the Topeka fair and perhaps at Omaha's Ak-sar-ben too.

There's a lot of hope in the hearts of several dozen 4H exhibitors at the start of this week. Three weeks from now the number of them with state grand championship livestock ribbons will be down to less than a dozen.

Fall & Winter Outlook

These Charts Are from the just-released Fall & Winter Outlook from K-State farm management specialists and economists. A detailed summary of the report can be found in the second section.

Tested Boar Sale Averages $190

MANHATTAN — Kansas swine producers paid top prices for performance at the Tested Boar Sale at Kansas State University.

The top-rated animal, a Duroc, sold for $390 and went to Cecil Phillips of Valley Falls. The boar was bred by Claude Messner, Caney. The animal and his littermate gained about 2 pounds a day.

Top money for the evening sale was paid by Alfred Link, Yates Center, for the fifth rated animal, a Duroc, and by Calahan Ranch, Uenolosa, for a Yorkshire. The Duroc was bred by Glenn Riffey, Westphalia, and the Yorkshire by Kansas State University. The boars each brought $395.

The number two animal in the sale was the littermate of the top boar and was sold to Arthur Roepke, Waterville, for $375. The animals were rated according to average daily gain, feed efficiency, and back fat thickness.

The top Hampshire animal in the tests, bred by Dean Funston, Abilene, ranked seventh in the sale and went for $290 at the auction block. Albert Berland, Damar, paid $255 for number eleven in the sale, the top-indexing Yorkshire boar, bred by Wilbur Talkington, Matfield Green.

The 61 boars in the sale averaged $190 a head.

Most went to commercial breeders; however, a few were bought by purebred herd owners. Buyers represented most sections of the state. The sale had a new evening schedule with a barbecued pork chop feed to start the event. Provided by breeders who had hogs in the sale, chops were served 325 people. This event marked the close of summer tests at the Swine Testing Station operated in Manhattan by K-State for the Kansas Swine Improvement Association.

The testing station facilities will undergo remodeling and repairs before the next group of animals will be taken in October, according to Wendell A. Moyer, Extension livestock specialist at KSU. Purebred breeders can get information about the station from the KSU Animal Husbandry Department or from county Extension agricultural agents.

The station was started in 1958 by the KSIA in an effort to better evaluate purebred stock. Rate of gain, feed efficiency, and meat-type characteristics are the important production factors considered, Moyer says.

In the tests, two littermate boars and a full or half-brother barrow are fed together. They are fed to an average weight of 200 pounds to determine feed efficiency and rate of growth.

Barrows are slaughtered when the tests are completed to determine carcass length, backfat, loin eye area, and percent of lean cuts. The boars are probed for backfat and sonar tested for loin eye area. Prospective buyers are furnished this information before the sale. The index for each pen of three is based on the individual index of both boars plus the Ham-Loin Index of the littermate barrow.

"The fact that most of the boars in this sale were purchased for use in commercial herds is an indication that Kansas swine producers are recognizing the value of tested boars in an efficient operation," Moyer says.

'Broiler Growers At Mercy Of Few Big Firms'

Orville L. Freeman, secretary of agriculture, criticized the nation's poultry broiler industry, saying it had put growers at the economic mercy of a few big firms.

He made a public study of the industry started by his agency in 1964 on the basis of grower complaints of low income, lack of bargaining power, and abusive practices of a few firms which contracted with growers for broilers.

"Practices which now work against the grower, if they go unchecked," Freeman said, "would ultimately remove the element of competition from our marketing system. Such practices lead to lower producer prices and higher consumer prices."

The industry has grown from an annual production of one-third billion to 2,500,000,000 birds in the last two decades.

Freeman said he was directing his department's packers and stockyards administration to help producers. It will meet soon with poultry industry leaders for recommendations.

Freeman said all complaints of boycotting or coercion of producers who joined co-operatives or other groups to bargain for better prices will be investigated promptly. He said immediate attention will be given to all complaints of anticompetitive trade practices in the poultry industry.

September 5, 1967

To Ask Feds To Bail Out Farm Hall Of Fame

Congress will be asked to make the Agricultural Hall of Fame near Bonner Springs a national park and appropriate $10 million to complete its development.

Presentation of the 272-acre facility to the federal government for completion and perpetual maintenance was authorized by the Hall of Fame executive committee.

Leo Roethe of Fort Atkinson, Wis., president, said the National Park Service should assume responsibility for development and operation of the shrine to pioneers in agriculture.

Carlson Drafting
The committee authorized immediate preparation of a brochure outlining the initial long-range Hall of Fame development plan that Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., could use for drafting legislation for takeover by the Department of the Interior.

Roethe said Carlson would introduce the bill and that other senators had agreed to support it.

The plan would be for the government to erect 10 buildings in the next seven years at the center. Other developments would be pioneer and Indian villages.

The second of two buildings on the property was completed recently.

The committee voted to recommend to the Oct. 17 annual meeting of the board of governors that a foundation be established to raise funds for continued development until such time as the government would take it over.

The committee also authorized sale of a 160-acre farm it owns in Douglas County for $36,250. That property, a gift to the Hall of Fame, was appraised at $32,000.

that it isn't even listed in the index of the U.S. Government's agricultural statistics.

WHY NOT FEED MY BABY PURINA CREEP CHOW?

Good question, mama!

Most cows can't produce enough milk to satisfy their calf's energy, protein and nutrient requirements. Calves dropped in the fall cannot eat enough hay, nor can spring calves eat enough grass to fill these needs. It takes more than mother's milk plus hay or grass to bring top dollar on today's calf market.

Creep feeding can solve this problem for the cow-calf operator who is after maximum returns from his brood cow herd. Purina Creep Chow provides a palatable and properly balanced ration for the growing calf.

Come in and visit with us about the many advantages of creep feeding your beef calves. We have everything you will need—from highly-fortified, growth-stimulating Chows to free building plans for a practical low-cost feeder.

Sunflower A Major Soviet Crop

The sunflower, native of the Great Plains of this country, has made good in the Soviet Union.

It is the Soviet's major source of vegetable oil and as such has developed into a tough competitor of the soybean, this country's big source of vegetable oil. The soybean was imported by the U.S. from the Orient.

Soviet production of sunflower seed has climbed to 6.2 million tons. From this crop, the Soviets have been exporting some 200,000 to 300,000 tons of vegetable oil annually. Much of this is being sold in Western Europe, a big market for U.S. soybeans, and quantities are being offered Japan, a top market for this country's soybeans.

In this, its native country, the sunflower is so unimportant

Note of "Thanks"

A note of appreciation was received from Mrs. LeRoy Mall of Green. Mrs. Mall was an "Our Daily Bread" contest prize winner in July.

"Thanks so much at this late date for the prize of the garlic press, which I received for my Coconut Angel Pie recipe printed in the July 25th issue of Grass & Grain. I have since discovered the recipe makes a very good pie substituting a small can of well-drained pineapple instead of the coconut.

"It was quite a surprise, opening the paper and seeing my recipe and then receiving quite a few phone calls.

"Shortly after receiving the gift, I became ill and found it necessary to have surgery but trust you will accept a late Thank You."

Coordinated Decor Is Easy To Achieve

How do you give a professional look to room decor? The answer's through continuity and it doesn't take an expert to achieve it.

Simplest way is to make use of handsome cotton fabrics and matching wallpapers. They tie decorating elements together in a pleasing manner, avoiding the chopped-up look that's a common flaw in do-it-yourself home decorating. Matchmated fabrics and wallpaper also make small rooms look larger and provide you with a ready-made color scheme.

A striking example is a young boy's room papered in a patriotic red, white and blue 1776 theme featuring Revolutionary War soldiers. Cottons printed in the same design are used for box-pleated cafe curtains in conjunction with solid color-coordinated window shades. The print is echoed in bolster pillows for white framed beds topped by fitted coverlets of navy quilted cotton. A clever touch is added by the use of white rope, entwined and looped over brass hooks at the top of the windows and around each bed.

For a combination kitchen-dining area, cotton and wallpaper in matching Early American prints provide a red and black color scheme. Pinch-pleated, tie-back curtains in the printed cotton are hung at double windows framed by a red woolen lambrequin. Completing the unusual window treatment are shirred cafe curtains of solid red cotton hung from sill to floor. Companion wallpaper on adjacent walls and below the counter provides continually.

Stairway Accents Any Style Of Architecture

An elegant stairway — which brings to mind Southern belles descending to meet their beaux — is an undeniably graceful accent to any home.

Modern homeowners can take advantage of this distinctive house feature in a number of stock stairways of ponderosa pine that reflect many architectural decors from Colonial to contemporary.

The stairways are available in precision-made, ready-to-assemble units that include rails, balustrades and newel posts. Ponderosa pine is chosen for its smooth, clear, no-knot grain and it can be painted to blend with the hall decor or stained to enhance its natural beauty.

Kitchens Now Becoming Rooms With A View

Bow and bay windows, usually associated with family and living rooms, have an imaginative new use. They're now turning kitchens into rooms with a view.

Too often, kitchen windows are merely functional, with the emphasis on light and ventilation rather than good looks and visibility. Bows and bays are two attractive ways to achieve all four advantages.

Modern bows and bays, which have a Colonial history — they were used by early American shopkeepers to display their wares — are now available in assembled stock units of ponderosa pine. They can also be obtained with insulating glass, which assures year-round comfort, guards against condensation and eliminates the need for storm sash. To stress the charming Colonial look, these windows are often used with grill inserts that snap in to give a small-pane look and snap out for easy window cleaning.

Bow and bays are among the most beautiful window styles available: The bow curves outward in a graceful arc and the bay is straight in the center and distinctively angled at each end.

Some stock units come with interior window seats with built-in storage underneath. Or a shelf can be installed at the base of the window to provide additional countertop space, a desk area, or a handy snack counter.

and closets. Easy-to-install stock units of ponderosa pine are available in many styles and can be painted to match the room decor or simply stained and varnished to highlight their rich, natural grain. Louver doors are especially practical in high-humidity bathrooms because the louvers allow a free flow of air in closets and prevent mildew.

Decorative wood shutters are often used to flank a bathroom window and operating shutters are used as an attractive substitute for window curtains.

Add Coffee To Frosting

A couple of teaspoons of leftover coffee will add extra zest to chocolate frosting.

I was helping our 4-year old work a puzzle and was valiantly trying to fit a piece in the wrong slot. After informing me I was wrong, the youngster looked at me sympathetically and said, "that's all right, Mommie. I probably won't know much when I grow up, either."

Overheard a pretty good true story the other day. A cafe manager took his car to a neighboring service station and ran up a sizeable bill for repairs. The restaurant man was picking up his car and asked to use a wrench when he noticed the side-view mirror was loose. When handed a bill, he noticed a 25-cent charge jotted on the bottom and inquired what it was for. "For use of the wrench," was the reply. The next day the service station owner came into the cafe for a piece of pie. "How much?" he asked when finished. The cafe owner said, "well, that'll be twenty cents for the pie and ten cents for use of the fork."

Again I must commend the helpfulness and courteous attitude of our Highway Patrolmen. While traveling the section of turnpike from Lawrence to Topeka, we noticed the radiator temperature indicator was registering hot. I pulled over and told my father to lift the hood and a patrol member would help us. He hadn't even got the hood raised when up drives an officer who had us off and running in a few moments' time. Believe me, it was appreciated.

There's something crooked in the Hog Business

Sure, crooked noses are ugly. But worse, they eat into hog profits. Atrophic rhinitis wastes feed in at least half the herds. And most damage is done long before they show up with crooked noses.

Now you can fight back. There's a new drug combination, Tylan and Sulfamethazine, which keeps weight gains steady even in the presence of atrophic rhinitis. Plus they control vibronic dysentery, another costly disease.

We have Tylan and Sulfa in complete pig feed to protect your investment up to 75 pounds. And we can add Tylan to promote growth all the way to market. Fight back. We can help.

Manhattan Commission Co., Inc. Sale Every Thursday

Our last Thursday's market was some lower than it has been for the past several weeks, due to dry weather and unsettled labor conditions. However, we had a pretty good active market and we think it was well in line with other markets around the circuit. We always have a good, steady market at the Manhattan Commission Co., so if you have cattle to sell either bring them or call on us. The following is a partial listing of the sale:

A Rough Year For Wheat

As if too little rain, then too much, wind and hail hadn't cut Kansas' wheat crop enough, vandals found a way to open a cover and dump about 2000 bushels of wheat at a Hutchnison elevator. Workers here shovel the grain back to an auger. They salvaged most of the dumped grain.

K-State farm management specialists and economists have just released their 1967 Fall and Winter Outlook, an 87-page booklet loaded with charts and tables. It serves as a major guide for G&G farmers and ranchers planning their future programs.

Several of the charts dealing with livestock and major crops are on page one.

Here's what the K-State experts have to say about:

General Economy

"Economic activity in the United States, slowed to a virtual stagnation in the early months of 1967, appears ready to take a turn for the better during the remaining months of 1967 and on into 1968. But there is differing opinion on how vigorous the upturn will be.

"Higher prices probably will accompany a speed-up in the economy. Prices of non-farm products have continued to rise in 1967. Declining food and farm product prices, however, helped slow the rise in the general price level. But most signs point to continued upward pressure on prices on the coming months.

"The agricultural section is expected to make a smaller contribution to the national income this year than last. Gross farm income for 1967 probably will match last year's total, but production expenses will be more than a billion dollars higher. "Realized net (farm) income — the amount remaining after farmers deduct production costs — was at the annual rate of $14,800,000,000 during the first half of the year. This is an 11 per cent drop from the $16,600,000,000 in the like period last year."

Looking ahead, the Kansas State economists indicate that government price support loan rates will serve as price floors on grains this fall and winter. This contrasts with last fall and winter when market prices were well above loan rates. The fact is, in most cases, prices still are above loan rates in this part of the country.

Wheat

"Wheat price forecasts for 1966-67 will long be remembered in the minds of farmers, the wheat industry, and economists. Wheat was over-priced in July 1966 — the high point of the year. Some recovery was made in November and December, only to be lost in March — the prices continued to decline until the present price received by farmers declined from $1.78 in July and September, 1966, to $1.39 in July, 1967.

"To describe the market today would necessitate the use of such terms as bearish, dull, listless, unimaginative, lifeless, etc. Starting the season at prices nearer the loan rate than last year, it would appear that a normal seasonal price pattern might emerge in 1967-68.

"Prices are expected to remain steady for the next few months, awaiting any news that will signal price direction. There appears to be very little in the wheat situation now or in the near future to trigger any major price advances. It appears that by late winter, wheat prices will advance by the amount of storage cost plus interest. Any major government announcements or market factors may stimulate erratic, small price advances, which could call for selling by farmers."

Feed Grains

"U.S. feed grain prices are expected to average below last year's prices.

"The loan rates for corn and grain sorghum will become a price 'flooring' mechanism.

"Corn prices are expected to dip to $1.05, the national loan level, during the peak of harvest. Corn prices are expected to rebound to the $1.10 to $1.15 level during the winter months; however, prices for the year will average 10 to 15 cents below those of a year ago.

"Grain sorghum prices will be influenced by the large feed grain supplies and lower corn prices. Grain sorghum prices are expected to average 10 to 20 cents a hundred pounds below last year's levels. Harvest time prices are expected to fall to the national loan rate of $1.61 and will peak during the winter months at $1.70 to $1.80 a hundred pounds.

Get Moving On Rural Job Bill, Says Pearson

Pointing to the growing need to slow down the rural-to-urban migration, Sen. James B. Pearson (R-Kas.) urged early Congressional action on the Rural Job Development Act of 1967.

The rural job bill, introduced by Sen. Pearson and another senator on July 21 and co-sponsored by 28 other senators, provides for a series of tax incentives designed to encourage the development of new job-creating industries in rural areas.

Pearson expressed the hope that the pressures of "political competition will not cause the Johnson administration to take an adverse position on the bill."

He noted that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman had endorsed the idea of tax incentives earlier this year. Pearson also paid tribute to Freeman's "contribution to the national debate on the need to achieve a better rural-urban balance."

Pearson also pointed to a recent report by the Republican Coordinating committee which called for a broad-based program for rural areas, including tax incentives.

September 5, 1967
Grass & Grain 9

USDA Won't Sell Soybeans

The Agriculture Department has announced that 1966-crop soybeans acquired under its price support program will not be offered for general sale, at least during the harvesting period for this year's crop.

The department said it may be necessary to sell small quantities of less than carlot size or in danger of deterioration.

The announcement is expected to provide some strength to grower prices for this year's crop during the harvesting period — a period when prices generally are at their lowest level of the year.

The department said about 7.5 million bushels of 1966 crop soybeans had been acquired since the grower price support loan maturity date of July 31.

How K-State Experts See Fall & Winter Outlook

"... Disappearance of corn in 1967-68 will not exceed current production and carryover stocks will be larger October 1, 1968."

Soybeans

"A record supply of soybeans is expected for 1967-68.

"A moderate expansion in soybean utilization during 1967-68 appears likely. Domestic meal use will increase due to heavier per animal unit feeding. Domestic oil use will be up, matching the U.S. population growth.

"Exports of meal and oil are uncertain at the present time. However, they probably will equal or be slightly less than last year.

"With a 1.1 billion bushel supply (new crop plus carryover), prices in the $2.50 per bushel range are highly probable. Thus the price support level will 'floor' prices for the year."

Beef Cattle

"Look for feeder cattle prices to strengthen somewhat during the rest of 1967 and remain relatively strong during 1968. The next few years are expected to be relatively good for producers of feeder cattle. Anticipated good prices for fed cattle during the next three to six months along with a small decrease in the total feeder cattle supply indicate feeder cattle prices will be $1 to $2 higher than current prices of August 1, 1967."

Feeder Cattle

"While cattle feeders intend to market 2 per cent more cattle in the July-September period than last year, some price strengthening is expected. Marketings during late 1967 probably will decrease from last year in both fed and nonfed cattle. The marketings for the October-December quarter of 1967 will come from cattle on feed July 1, a lighter weight group which were down about 5 percent from last year.

"Competition from other meats will not be severe. The over-all economy is expected to improve during the last half of 1967 and consumer income will be up. With a high consumer income and no oversupply during the fourth quarter, prices will be up about $1 to $2 a hundredweight from July 1 levels."

Hogs

"Hog prices have undergone wide variations the last three years... The rest of 1967 will not bring such erratic variations. Hog prices will decline as we move into the fall and winter but the low point will not be below $19 to $20. The first half of 1968 will see good hog prices. Look for hog prices to remain above $20 the first half of 1968."

Lambs

"Look for lamb prices to be about $2 a hundred pounds higher this fall and early winter than for the same periods a year ago... With optimism in the cattle and hog markets, lamb prices in the spring of 1968 could easily be in the $28 to $30 level."

Eggs

"Egg prices for the 12 months which began last July 1 are expected to average about 3 cents a dozen below prices of the preceding 12 months."

Turkeys

"U.S. farm turkey prices during the August-November marketing season will average 21.5 cents a pound, 1 cent under year earlier levels. Prices will improve substantially as the season progresses."

Dairy

The dairy outlook, the Kansas State economists contend, is the best in a decade. This is because after years of surpluses, depressed prices, and a cost-price squeeze, production dropped, surpluses vanished, prices rose, supports were increased, import loopholes were plugged and consumption remained relatively high.

(Per capita consumption, however, is at an all-time low as higher retail prices and other factors do tend to restrict consumption.)

"This year will be a very good year for dairymen and next year also is expected to be good. Returns in dairying should be more in line with the amount of investment, labor and management required."

Pesticide Use Continues Upswing

By Gary L. Vacin
Kansas State University

Farmers are spending more than ever before to control insects, plant diseases, weeds, and other agricultural pests. A USDA study shows that farm operators doubled their expenditures for pesticides between 1954 and 1964.

Economists surveyed farmers that annually produce about 90 percent of our total agricultural output. These are the farms in the gross sales category of $5000 plus ($2500-plus in the 12 southern states).

The study reveals that 94 percent of the farmers used some type of pesticide in 1964. Nearly three-fourths said they applied pesticides to crops; three-fifths used them for treating livestock and poultry; roughly half used pesticides for treating non-crop-land and for rodent control.

Farmers in the survey spent about 2 percent of their production expenses on pesticides. Purchases for all farms in the survey totaled about $456 million in 1964, not including pesticides used for seed treatment or stored crops.

Crop pesticides accounted for 85 percent; livestock pesticides, 11 percent; and other types of pesticides, 4 percent of the total expenditures. Even on specialized dairy and livestock farms, expenditures for crop pesticides were about twice as high as those for livestock.

Here are some other survey highlights:

— Corn Belt farmers bought the most pesticides in 1964, spending about $87 million and accounting for about 19 percent of all pesticides used. The Pacific States ranked No. 2 with pesticide expenditures of $62 million. The Delta States were third with $55 million.

— Cotton farmers spent $86 million on pesticides in 1964, more than any other type. Cash grain farmers and fruit and nut farmers spend about $76 million and $55 million. These three types of farms accounted for about half of all pesticide purchases in 1965 for the farms represented by the survey.

— Nationally, farmers spent an average of $300 for pesticides in 1964. By region, however, average expenditures ranged from a low of $119 in the Northern Plains to a high of $882 in the specialized agricultural production areas found in the Pacific States.

Average pesticide expenditures by type of farm varied from a low of about $100 for dairy farms and ranches to a high of nearly $1250 for vegetable farms.

Small farmers not included in the survey spent about $58 million on pesticides in 1964. Thus, total expenditures for pesticides

Area Housewife Does Her Dusting At 90 Miles Per Hour

BENNINGTON — Mrs. Leo Eiler really makes the dust fly when she goes to work. Instead of dusting her house, the hard-working mother of four considers it a day's work to dust a good sized farm.

Mrs. Eiler believes she is the only woman crop duster in Kansas and the work keeps her up in the air. "It's hard work," she said, "especially if you have to load the plane yourself. The flying

After World War II she gave flight lessons under the G. I. bill to war veterans. That's where she met her husband.

"He's one of the best pilots I know of right now," she said. Mrs. Eiler taught him to fly but said she had decided not to date students so didn't go out with him until he got his pilot's license.

She still gives flight lessons and has about 20 regular students.

The crop dusting, she said, is mostly her husband's business but the work was such that she did a large part of it in the summer now ending.

Crop dusting pilots fly slow and close to the ground and Mrs. Eiler admits this worries her. She said she has hit utility lines a few times.

"My heart jumps when that happens," she noted.

Her worst crop dusting experience came when a hoist on the equipment broke and sprayed the inside of the plane.

Mrs. Eiler usually flies at 75 to 90 miles per hour and can dust about 100 acres of farmland in an hour.

Aside from chores as crop duster, pilot and flight instructor, Mrs. Eiler has four children, Steven, 15; Benny Lee, 13; Laureen, 12, and Rhonda, 7.

She said the two teen agers fly and are waiting until they reach the legal minimum age of 16 so they can get pilot licenses.

More Wheat For India

The U.S. last week released one million more tons of wheat to India to combat the threat of starvation.

This brings the total so far to 2.5 million tons, and another 500,000 tons has been authorized. President Johnson said the release of that amount would depend to some extent on other nations matching the U.S. donations.

Dairy Princess Finalists

Here are the girls who will be competing for the title of Miss Kansas Dairy Princess at the Kansas State Fair next week.

A Rough Week For Farm Bureau

It was a rough week for the Farm Bureau.

New York Congressman Joseph Resnick has been conducting a running, one-man investigation of the American Farm Bureau for several months, and last week his efforts caught new press attention.

And some of the attention fell specifically on the Kansas Farm Bureau.

While they were fending off some of the wildly flying criticism from Resnick, Farm Bureau officials caught a couple of gratuitous jibes from rival farm organizations.

Herschel Newsom, master of the National Grange, said his organization had concluded long ago that it could best serve rural America by not engaging in business activities.

"To become an effective farm organization," Newsom said, "we learned long ago that it would be best to stay out of the business world."

Newsom's reference was obviously aimed at large insurance companies formed by many state Farm Bureaus. Resnick has been sharply critical of the Farm Bureau's business activities, in view of what he called its "tax exempt" status.

Oren Lee Staley, head of the National Farmers Organization, said the sole purpose of a farm organization should be to make a profit for farmers — not to make a profit off farmers.

The bylaws of the NFO forbid it from entering into business for profit, Staley said.

Staley appeared in Washington at Resnick's invitation, as did Newsom and representatives of the National Farmers Union.

The American Farm Bureau has declined Resnick's invitation to appear at his hearings.

The Kansas Farm Bureau got into Resnick's line of fire when he said the state group passed favors, such as athletic tickets, on state insurance commissioner Frank Sullivan.

Sullivan coolly rejected Resnick's attack, and Kansas farm Bureau insurance executives Ward Wright and Joe Smer-chek made general refutations of Resnick's accusations.

For New Area Dairy Association

The board of directors of the newly-formed Southwest Dairy-men Inc. — a merger of Southwest Dairy producers and the Tip-Top Dairy cooperative — has been named.

On the board are: Norman Barker, Pratt; George Tischhauser, Elmo; Phil Stucky, Pretty Prairie; Chester Unruh, Hillsboro.

Frank White, Cedarvale. Executive personnel for Southwest Dairymen include Leo Suttle, Wichita, executive vice president, and P. H. Hostetler, Hillsboro, vice president of operations.

Suttle was general manager for Southwest Producers, while Hostetler was general manager of Tip Top Dairies prior to the merger.

Jerry Parr will be marketing director and James Inskeep, controller, as the merger becomes effective this week.

Can Dairymen Make 50-Cent Increase Stick?

In the wake of a series of mergers of dairy co-ops, do dairymen now have the marketing muscle to get better prices for milk?

They'll find out in the next few days, following an announcement from MidAmerica Dairymen Inc. of a 50-cent a hundredweight increase in the price of class I milk.

The new dairy combine — which includes the former Sabetha co-op, Shawnee Producers, Tip Top Dairies, and Southwest Producers, the major milk marketers in the G&G area — didn't negotiate with processors over a price increase. They just sent them telegrams last week announcing the 50-cent hike.

With the Labor Day weekend coming up, dairy processors were hardly in position to look for alternate sources of supply for several days, so it will take several days yet to determine if the milk cooperatives can make the price hike stick.

Some processors were definite that they considered the telegrams as demands but the price was still negotiable.

If the increase stands up, processors will likely try to hike retail prices roughly by 5 cents a gallon, slightly more than the 50-cents a hundredweight increase will up their costs.

The retail increase, of course, is subject to processors finding other supplies, the co-ops sticking to their 50-cent a hundredweight demand, and supermarket competition.

Retail prices in the G&G area generally run just under $1 a gallon, with half gallon prices ranging from 47 cents to 55 cents. Supermarket competition lowers this occasionally in some areas, and in some of the least competitive areas a gallon of milk goes as high as $1.15.

The class I (for bottling, or drinking, milk) price would be $6.03 a hundredweight if the 50-cent hike goes thru. The present minimum price set by federal milk orders is $5.46, but a negotiated price between processors and dairy co-ops set last April is higher than this. At Kansas City this has been $5.64, altho recently the price had moved up over $5.80.

The prices referred to apply only to Class I milk, but dairy farmers actually receive a blend price, with the price affected by the amount of milk used for ice cream, cheese and other manufacturing purposes (class III), for cottage cheese (class II), as well as for bottling milk (class I). The August class II federal milk order price was $4.06 and for class III $3.91.

Cars Will Cost More

It now looks almost sure that new car prices will run $125 or more over last year's prices.

Car manufacturers have been saying for several months that price increases were coming, but Chrysler last week became the first to use some specific figures, when it said its wholesale prices would be in the "ballpark" of $125 more per car, altho Chrysler said it would not announce exact prices until its 1968 models are shown September 14, or perhaps not even until later.

Chrysler will start showing its new cars a week ahead of Ford and GM, but it hopes not to get caught in the muddle it had last year when it and Ford announced increases of more than $100 but then had to cut back when GM announced smaller increases.

The price increase will be the third straight in the industry, and it means that a person who plans to replace a 3-year old car will have to pay about $250 more for the same model he bought in 1965.

If a $100 wholesale increase holds up, it might mean an even sharper increase for the consumer. Dealers presume that Chrysler was talking about the basic car price and not about extras. Some dealers say they expect the cost of options will be up comparatively more than the basic price increase.

Co-op Changeover

Homer Young (left) has retired as president of Farmland Industries, the Kansas City regional cooperative which is the major supplier of most G&G area co-ops. Succeeding him is Ernest Lindsey, right, who in five years with Farmland as a manufacturing and production boss has moved to the top job.

Young was president of Farmland (formerly Consumer Cooperative Association) for six years and had been with the organization for 36 years.

About 1800 co-ops make up the membership of Farmland, and they serve some 400,000 farm families. Farmland had sales of $265 million in 1967, with a savings of $31.8 million.

Iowa Study Forecasts More Bulls In Future Feedlots

AMES, Iowa — "Someday, the slaughter of young feedlot bulls instead of steers will be commonplace in the United States," said Dr. Roger Hunsley, Iowa State University Animal science instructor, at the 49th annual Cattle Feeders' Day here Aug. 31.

Dr. Hunsley presented research results from Iowa State experiments involving 314 beef calves over a four year period to determine the effects of various levels of stilbestrol implants and two methods of creep feeding on the pre-weaning performance of bull and steer calves and to determine the effects of age and sex on growth rate, feed efficiency, carcass characteristics and meat quality of male cattle.

Calves were implanted and started on creep feed treatments at 2½ to 3½ months and weaned at 7 to 8 months of age. The carry-over effects of pre-weaning treatments on subsequent feedlot performance and carcass quality were studied. Separate groups of bulls and steers were also studied and compared as to rate of gain, feed efficiency and carcass characteristics.

Not much difference was found in rate of gain or feed efficiency of bulls and steers up to weaning.

During the post-weaning phase, bulls gained more rapidly than steers, were more efficient in feed conversion and produced leaner, more muscular carcasses.

Steers, however, graded higher, had higher marbling scores, more backfat, were slightly higher in tenderness, and returned more total dollars on both a liveweight or chilled carcass basis. The profit advantage in favor of the steers was due to packer price discrimination unfavorable to the bulls.

High stilbestrol implants significantly increased performance and carcass quality of the bulls. Some of the Iowa State test animals were implanted with 96 mg. of the drug (48 mg. pre-weaning and 48 mg. post-weaning). When sold on a grade and yield basis, bulls implanted at the 96 mg. stilbestrol level made more profit than either steers or the low-level stilbestrol implanted bulls. Standard implant level for steers 12 or 24 mg.

"The demand for more red meat in the future may exceed the supply because of population growth. This may make it necessary and advantageous to slaughter young bulls as a common practice," Dr. Hunsley said. "However, at the present time, packer acceptability and

Dizzy Turn In Elevator Space

Elevator operators, especially terminal centers, are wondering if they won't have space problems this fall.

That's the latest capper to a decade-long series of curiosities in the grain trade that first saw the government frantically jerry-build an array of storage bins to accommodate a swelling grain surplus.

The grain surplus built to such elephantine proportions that the disappearance rate indicated that it would take decades to reduce it to manageable size. Industry then finally got to building its own storage space and appeared to over-react with too much space built too late.

Then an increased export tempo and donations of grain in the Orient suddenly put a big dent in the surpluses, and while the government bins were largely removed, commercial storage had yawning gaps of unused space.

And suddenly the elevators are filling up again and terminal centers are planning how they can accommodate corn, sorghum, and soybean storage this fall.

Of course many inland elevators in the G&G area would like to have the problem. With a poor wheat crop over much of the G&G area, most country elevator operators would like to have more grain to handle. But some areas will have space problems this fall, and Kansas City grainmen are already doing some maneuvering of space.

Kansas City for weeks has had more grain in its elevators and mills than any other terminal market in the nation.

Kansas City has close to 43 million bushels of wheat in store, twice as much as Chicago or Enid, which are next in line. The 43 million bushels of wheat is not a record but it is a substantial quantity.

When the corn, milo and soybean harvests start rolling, more space will be occupied.

Kansas City has a total capacity of around 112 million bushels, down 3 million from the peak because some elevators closed when the business was in the dumps.

Kansas City's elevator capacity is now rated at about 58% occupied. There, of course, must always be "working space" and one grain generally cannot be piled on another, so full capacity cannot be realized.

While Kansas itself had a poor crop, overall there was a great deal of wheat harvested. Much of the crop in this part of the country was heavy with moisture when harvested and had to be sent to terminal markets for drying.

When the corn harvest gets underway, complications are feared in the grain trade because of the expanded use of picker-shellers in the fields. When a farmer shucked corn by hand or even used a mechanical picker, he could store the ears in cribs or even temporary snow fence structures. But shelled corn requires a bin. Also, much of the corn likely will be

Kansas, altho milo should fill up some of the bins. But whether it would be considered economical to move any of the soybeans or corn into these elevators is a question yet to be answered.

Revolutionary GAS HEATING SYSTEM

Multi-room heating without costly pipes and registers. Pours floor level heat out the front, back and both sides. Pre-fabricated duct kits pipe heat to rooms at side and back. Built in cool air returns for complete circulation. Available in two sizes, each with two heating capacities. Wall thermostat lets you dial your comfort!

NOW!

For a cleaner, healthier home, enjoy Mark III gas heating now with total air filtering. 3 permanent, washable filters trap the dust and lint. And when the filters need cleaning, a little light in the base gives the signal.

GLEANER Combine. Set at 20" centers... will handle 18" to 22" rows.

The Model AII GLEANER Combine... often referred to as the Flagship of the Great Silver Fleet... has earned an unexcelled reputation for versatility, dependability and durability. Now there is a full line of corn heads to handle 20-, 30- or 40-inch rows. Teamed with the Model AII, the unit sets new standards of operating efficiency, operator convenience and reliability... acre after acre. More farmers have learned by experience that this is the combine to handle all their grain, beans and seeds. And now with the choice of corn heads, their entire corn crop.

First Half Farm Income Down 12%

Government reports show net income per farm averaged 12 per cent less during the first half of this year than last.

The major factor in this decline was lower farm prices.

FLETCHER 4-HR
© JOE E. BURECH

"YOU CAN'T QUITE GET THE RIGHT COLOR TO MATCH OUR BARN? WE HAVE A COUPLE BUCKETS OF PAINT LEFT OVER YOU CAN USE."

A report on economic indicators by the President's Council of Economic Advisors shows that the net farm income during the first half of this year averaged $4,555 on an annual basis compared with $5,177 a year earlier. These averages are expressed in terms of 1966 prices.

Net income is the amount left after deduction of production costs.

The report showed farm production costs ran, on an annual basis, at the rate of $24,400,000 during the January-June period of this year compared with $32,900,000 a year earlier.

Farm product prices which have been running below a year earlier include wheat, rice, corn, hay, soybeans, dry beans, dry peas, citrus fruit, hogs, sheep, butterfat, chickens, turkeys, eggs, wool and mohair.

Products which have been averaging higher include such minor grains as oats and sorghum grain, and flaxseed, potatoes, sweet potatoes, apples, peaches, beef cattle and calves, milk, and lambs.

First Upturn In Cholera Count

Confirmed outbreak of hog cholera rose 18 percent during the past 12 months, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1967, there were 689 confirmed outbreaks reported to USDA's Agricultural Research Service, compared with 583 for fiscal year 1966. There were 1100 confirmed outbreaks in fiscal '65 and 1118 in fiscal '64.

Dr. E. E. Saulmon, director of ARS's Animal Health Division, pointed out that this is the first increase in outbreak numbers since the cooperative state-federal eradication effort got underway 4½ years ago. But the incidence of the disease is still far lower than the estimated five to six thousand outbreaks occurring annually before the start of the program, he said.

Thirty-four states and Puerto Rico reported outbreaks last year, compared with 29 states the previous year. Ability to trace outbreaks to a source continued to improve.

A probable source was established for 81 per cent of the confirmed outbreaks last year, compared to only 68 per cent the year before.

Drop Watershed Until Financing Method Is Set

The Lyons Creek Watershed association has received another setback.

The Kansas Water Resources board and the State Soil Conservation Service have revealed that the watershed district's general work plan will not be submitted to Congress until a method of financing local costs is approved.

The association has been hopeful of having the plan before Congress by September but delays resulted from two elections last December and June.

At both elections, voters rejected a proposed plan of local finance through use of a 2-mill levy now in effect.

Hayes B. Beck, Junction City, president of the district, said executive committee will present recommendations for correcting major grievances.

He said Loren Hinkle, Navarre, a spokesman for the opposition, will be asked to help the board draft a new proposed method of financing.

The earliest a new general work plan can be submitted to Congress would be in January.

Dole Asks Price Hike On USDA Grain Sales

The grain price situation would be improved if the secretary of agriculture would raise the price at which the federal government sells its stocks of feed grains and soybeans, Rep. Bob Dole said last week.

Dole and five other members of a House agriculture subcommittee on livestock and grains recently wrote Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman urging such action.

Wheat would be sold for not less than $1.63 a bushel, grain sorghums for not less than $2.58 per hundredweight, and soybeans for not less than $3.31 a bushel, Dole said.

The present federal policy is to sell its stocks at 115 percent of the government loan price to farmers, plus carrying charges — $1.44 for wheat; $1.21 for corn and $1.85 for grain sorghums. Soybeans are sold for 105 percent of the loan level, or $2.62 a bushel, Dole said.

Billy Graham Comes To Kansas City

Billy Graham, the U.S. best known evangelist, will start a 10-day revival at Kansas City this week. The Heart of America Crusade is expected to draw capacity crowds of 34,000 to each of 10 sessions.

Graham (left) will be at KC's Municipal Stadium for 7:30 pm services each night thru the week, September 8-17, and at 3 pm Sundays.

Mass evangelism in the G&G area goes back to Chicago's Dwight L. Moody (left, above) who drew revival audiences in the thousands before the turn of the century. Billy Sunday (center, above) often drew crowds of 20,000 or more in the period around World War I. A glamorous, controversial figure in evangelism who several times appeared in the G&G area was Aimee Semple McPherson (right, above), whose attraction peaked in the early 1930s.

United Skyrocketing In Area Utilities

Once a fast-moving corporation which moved with abandon in regional telephone, gas, and power operations, United Utilities settled down after the early '60s and presently became the third largest telephone system in the U.S. A.T.&T., of course, dominates the communications system in the nation, but after General Telephone, United ranked next.

The headquarters remained in Abilene, altho operational activities became centered in Kansas City. Finally, a couple of years ago, the headquarter offices were removed to Kansas City.

The departure for Kansas City hasn't been the only moving for United.

Since 1965 United Utilities has increased its corporate size by 2½ times, and some recent acquisitions in the G&G area have called attention to a remarkable bit of corporate skyrocketing which has seen United assets rise from $250 million to more than $600 million.

This has been accomplished thru 18 mergers, with eight more transactions pending.

Two of the pending mergers involve G&G area independent telephone companies. The Junction City Telephone Co will be acquired in a $7 million acquisition, and the Ellinwood Telephone Co. will be absorbed for less than the $900,000 common stock market value.

While the Junction City company involves some 9000 telephones and serves Junction City, Milford, Wakefield, Riley, Longford, Manchester, Oakhill and Industry and serves as a toll center for Fort Riley, a much larger possible deal involves the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., for which there would be a stock exchange of some $76 million value.

Taking over a gas company is some departure from United's other expansion plans which have essentially broadened its telephone holdings.

United has six telephone mergers on the fire which will put its total operations into 21 states. The new mergers will give United well over 1½ million telephone subscribers. In 1965, it had less than 600,000.

It has avoided REA-financed companies unless it appeared feasible to repay the government-subsidized loans promptly by stimulating revenues and effecting operational economies.

There has been a trend toward mergers in the independent telephone field.

their normal schedule; but generally they are in good condition. Both crops will set new production records by wide margins. The unusually cool weather of recent weeks brings thoughts of an early freeze, which could do a lot of damage.

On the basis of conditions existing July 1, the USDA forecast corn production at 4.51 billion bushels. Weather was favorable during July, so in early August the forecast was raised to 4.65 billion bushels. August brought more favorable weather to most of the eastern half of the nation, so the September estimate of the corn crop may be higher than the August forecast.

More acres; record yields. The acreage of corn is estimated at 61.3 million — up 8 percent from last year. The national average yield per acre was forecast (early August) at 76 bushels — 4 bushels more than in 1966.

The Illinois crop is exceptionally good. The average yield was forecast at 96 bushels per acre — 16 bushels more than 1 year before, but only 2 bushels more than 2 years ago. This yield was the highest for any state.

Illinois will be the first state to produce a billion-bushel crop of any kind. The state production of corn was forecast at 1,063 million bushels. The previous record was 919 million bushels of corn, set by Illinois 2 years ago.

Surplus stocks will increase. The big corn crop will be far more than will be used and exported during the marketing year beginning October 1. Consequently, there will be a buildup of surplus stocks.

Carryover stocks on October 1 this year may be over 900 million bushels, compared with 840 million a year ago. If the new crop makes 4.7 billion, the total supply would be over 5.6 billion.

Total disappearance — use and exports — this year seems to be around 4.1 billion. If use and exports increase to 4.3 billion in the year ahead, the carryover a year hence could swell to 1.3 billion bushels.

Such an increase in the carryover would be the second largest on record. (The largest was back in 1948-49, when the carryover increased from a near record low of 123 million bushels to 813 million.)

Prices below support level. Most of the carryover stocks are in private ownership and control. Of the total stocks on hand July 1 (1,735 million bushels), 74 percent was "free" corn. The CCC owned only 8 percent; 11 per cent was 1966 corn under price-support loans; and 6 percent was older corn under resale price-support loans.

The switch from stock depletion in recent years to stock buildup has brought corn prices to — and below — the price support loan level. The national average loan rate for the 1967 crop is $1.07 a bushel.

Only about half of the corn will be eligible for price-support loans this fall. In Illinois only about one-third of the corn crop is qualified for price support.

Mama Kansas Finds Funds In The Cupboard

The state withholding plan dredged up 86,000 new Kansas taxpayers this year, and as a result Mama Kansas found an extra $13.9 million in the cupboard when the fiscal year ended June 30.

That was the surplus on hand, budget director James Bibb said last week, altho he was careful not to attribute all the unusually high surplus to the increase in state individual tax returns. Higher per person incomes and under-spending by departments also added to the surplus, said Bibb.

The actual surplus at the end of June was $20.2 million, but $6.4 million of that is appropriated money which agencies can still spend and will in the next few months.

The figures apply only to the state's general fund which accounts for only part of the state's $600 million budget. The state highway fund, for instance, is over $100 million but all funds come from 5 cents a gallon gasoline taxes plus other vehicle fees and federal funds.

Money from the general fund is not transferable to the highway funds.

For Kansas taxpayers it apparently will mean no new taxes will be necessary next year. In the meantime, state agencies will be figuring out how they can get their hands on part of that $13.9 million surplus.

Horse Fever Problems Again

Equine encephalomyelitis, a growing problem with horse men in the G&G area the past three years, has reappeared in the area, and veterinarians forecast September will be the worst month for the disease.

Here, Dr. Roy Russell of South Hutchinson examines a yearling in Reno County which has been afflicted with the disease. Nearly two dozen cases have been reported in Reno and nearby counties.

The disease is carried by mosquitoes, ticks, chicken lice, and Triatoma sanguisuga, sometimes called the "kissing bug." Protection is afforded by two shots given under the skin seven to 10 days apart.

One variety, found mostly in the G&G area, has a 90% mortality rate. About one in 10 horses afflicted die from the strain which is most common found in this area.

HANOVER GETS LOW-RENT HOUSING LOAN

HANOVER — This town of 900 population in Washington County will get a $266,228 loan from the federal government for construction of 18 low-rent homes.

NEW MANAGER AT MORGANVILLE CO-OP

MORGANVILLE — Marion Patton is the new manager of the Farmers Cooperative Elevator Assn. here, in this western Clay County town. Patton comes from Cottonwood Falls and succeeds Kenneth Gray at Morganville.

Names For Brand Post To Be Released Today

WICHITA — The Kansas Livestock Assn. last week named three men as a recommended list from which Gov. Robert Docking may appoint a state brand commissioner.

A special committee meeting here said the names would not be divulged until the list reaches the governor, probably Tuesday.

Earl Brookover, KLA president and chairman of the special committee, said the committee made the selection of names from a list of "more than a dozen."

State headquarters for KLA opened for business Friday in a new location in Topeka. Docking had requested a separation of the KLA and the state agencies of brand commissioner, livestock sanitary commissioner and other state employees in the State Office Building.

Docking had failed to reappoint Hade Guppton, Greensburg rancher, as brand commissioner after Wayne Rogler, Matfield Green rancher, declined the job when contacted by Docking.

The governor also did not reappoint A. G. Pickett as sanitary commissioner. The KLA board has declined to furnish any name other than Pickett's for the post, citing a 1919 law that requires the KLA to list only one name for the appointment.

Continue Delay Of Milk Price Seasonal Decline

Suspension of the effect of the supply-demand adjuster to the fluid milk price for Class I has been extended through Nov. 30 by the USDA.

This applies to the price set by the Wichita federal milk marketing order. This will prevent a 16-cent reduction in the September fluid milk price which normally would occur. The USDA action extends for three more months earlier suspensions in effect for July and August.

Previous suspensions were based on dairy farmers requests at a public hearing June 15 in Wichita, on proposed revision of the adjuster.

They asked that adjustment provisions be set aside until action on the hearing proposal could be concluded.

USDA officials said the amendment action has not yet been completed.

Dairymen Eye Bigger Merger

No sooner had the Southwest Milk Producers of Wichita merged with the Tip Top Dairies of Hillsboro to form Southwest Dairymen Inc., but another, bigger merger was in the mill.

The new dairy cooperative will cover six cooperatives in four states and have 600 members. To be called Milk Producers Inc., the new group reportedly will headquarter in Dallas and handle half to three-fourths of the total milk production in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas.

Besides the Kansas co-op, the group will include: South Texas Producers, Houston; Central Okla., Okla. City; Pure Milk, Tulsa; Central Milk, Little Rock

Less Horse Meat For Use In Dog Food

Fewer horses are slaughtered each year, the number of slaughtering plants has steadily decreased, and less horse meat is used today than in years past, C. E. Widsteen, Hill Packing Co., vice-president, says.

Replacing horse meat in dog food are grains, beef, pork and mutton variety meats and by-products; and bits of bone meal, he said.

"Today horse meat is rather expensive. There are fewer horses," he pointed out.

He pointed out that horse meat plants began operating when the tractor supplanted the horse. "When tractors came in, the farmer couldn't afford to keep his horses through the winter. He had to dispose of them so they wouldn't be mistreated," he said.

Now, only crippled or aged pleasure horses are sold to packing plants, which, Widsteen was quick to mention, kill the horses instantaneously, so "they never really know what hit them."

Most of these horses are the riding variety: few — if any — are work horses.

Widsteen said there are two, or possibly three horse meat plants in the nation that are approved under U.S. Dept. of Agriculture inspection. Hill Packing Co. in Topeka is one of them.

The meat processed is fit for human consumption, he said. Hill ships horse meat to Europe for humans, but sells none in the United States.

Because of the dwindling number of horses brought in to the plant, the price of horse meat has risen. It's much cheaper to sell the other kinds of meat.

"Wetpack" dog food, which is packaged in cans, comes in various proportions of meat to grain. The more meat, the higher the price he said.

The meat, however, isn't necessarily horse meat. "We kill ten per cent of the number of horses we killed ten years ago," he said.

Fewest State Turkeys Since '48

Kansas growers are raising less turkeys than anytime in 18 years.

The current estimate is for 595,000 birds, down 2% from last year and 31% below the 1961-65 average.

State growers are switching much production over to heavy white breeds, that group showing a 41% increase to 323,000 birds. But there has been a 19% decrease in other heavy breeds, and the raising of light breed turkeys has fallen to a negligible figure from the 48,000 of a year ago.

The number of turkey poults hatched in Kansas is much larger than the number of turkeys raised, with many of the Kansas poults shipped to other states for raising.

The U.S. as a whole will have an 8% increase in turkeys, with some 125.6 million estimated. Heavy breeds outnumber light ones about 7 to 1.

California is the leading turkey state, raising 19 million birds. Minnesota with 17 million is next. Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Iowa, North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio and Utah follow.

Brown Biggest Fertilizer User
Brown County was the state's biggest fertilizer user in the first half of 1967, with commercial fertilizer manufacturers reporting sales of 18,519 tons in that northeastern county. Marshall was the next big user with 14,822 and Doniphan was next at 14,678. Nemaha, Reno, Atchison, and Jackson ranked next in order. Total usage in the state was 478,678 tons, down about 2% from the same period a year ago. Nitrogen accounted for more than 70% of the total plant nutrients sold.

Machinery Firms Disappointed
Sales of farm machinery may very well set a record this year, but it also is likely to be a disappointing year for many companies in the industry, the New York Times business section reported last week. The reason is that the slight increase expected for this year will be contrasted with a hefty one in 1966, which was the best year in the industry's history. On top of that, rising costs are squeezing profits, despite increases from 1966 levels averaging 3 to 5 percent. Later this year, most of the industry will negotiate new contracts with the United Auto Workers of America, which, it seems certain, will mean still higher costs. Still, executives of the industry mostly voice optimism.

When the big equipment starts rolling here's the tire and price that will put profit into every mile of operation. Not only does it give good stability and control, but with its strong, Riverside engineered nylon cord body it comes back for recap after recap.

And it increases durability for sustained high speed driving!
The chart at left shows how the temperature advantage from cap/basic tread construction increases durability. The tires were started at 75 mph and speed was increased 5 mph every 4 hours. As the results show, the tires with conventional construction failed at 65 mph. The tires with cap/basic construction completed their 65 mph run and went on to 70 mph. To others the difference may seem small. But as a trucker you know that every penny saved on tires is a penny in your pocket. And that's the best reason we know of to buy Riverside!

Sale Every Thursday

Hogs 11:30 a.m.
Cattle 1 p.m.

We had another large run of cattle at our sale Thursday. Feeder cattle were steady. Cows were 50¢ higher. Light stocker cattle in good demand but few in numbers. There seems to be a very good demand for all classes of feeder cattle. The extreme top on butcher hogs was $19.40 which is $1.20 lower than a week ago. Weaning and feeder pigs were about steady and in good demand but also few in number. The following is a sampling of our consignments:

FRIDAY SALES START September 8

3 Sales Weekly Until Further Notice
MON. — THURS. — FRI.

To better serve this area the management of the Farmer & Ranchers have decided to sell cattle on Friday also. This will not effect our Monday or Thursday sale.

We sincerely appreciate the opportunity to serve you the customers of this great area. We want to thank each and every consigner, who has helped make this, The Auction on the Grow. We assure you we will leave nothing undone to serve you better. Let us know if you have any cattle to sell. Our Thursday and Friday sale will start at 12:00 o'clock.

We sold 588 hogs, 2086 cattle last week. Our hogs were about $1 lower than the week before. The top paid was $20.00. Our cattle market was very active, steady to higher on all classes except cows, which were about 50¢ lower. The replacement cattle were steady to spots 50¢ higher. We sold several loads of feeder steers, at $26 and above.
