Reappraisal Didn't End With Big Enough Figures In Total Column

MOUND CITY — Linn county commissioners couldn't have been more embarrassed if county road crews had paved roads right up to their front doors.

A 6-year property reappraisal program that cost $70,000 was completed recently, and the commissioners were stunned to find out the revalued figures showed a $300,000 net loss in valuation from the old ones.

Reappraisal programs are presumably for adjusting inequalities that have built up in the past, evaluating rural and urban property on equal basis, and meeting a state requirement that property be valued for tax purposes at 30 per cent of true value.

Generally, counties had less than 30 per cent values before, and appraisers in other counties have discovered far more undervalued properties than overvalued ones. Bpt in Linn county the six county residents who were hired to do the work ended up with a net loss.

To compound the problem, cards showing the new valuation figures for individual pieces of property were mailed out before the new totals were added up.

When these were totaled, officials found the valuations to be less than before. No other county in the state that has had property reappraised has reported a loss in valuation.

After the decline in assessed values was discovered, county commissioners decided to take steps to improve the picture by raising the value of all real estate in rural areas by $3 an acre.

A delegation of rural residents then appeared before the commissioners to protest. They told the commissioners that if any property was to be raised in value for taxation purposes, all property should be.

There was also a legal question of whether the board of equalization had the right to put a general increase into effect.

The board of equalization finally decided two weeks ago that the $3-a-acre increase should be rescinded.

County officials admit they have a real problem. A solution isn't easy.

Either services to county residents will have to be cut or taxes will have to be increased. The county levy at present is slightly more than $34 on $1,000 assessed valuation.

'Beef Reduction Plan Would Work, If . . .'

A recent proposal to increase cattle prices comes from the American National Cattleman's Association. Reduce beef inventories so that there would be about 98 pounds of beef per capita instead of the present 103, says the association, and this reduction would raise cattle prices 22½ percent.

Finding no fault with the arithmetic, former Kansas congressman Clifford Hope agrees that demand for meat is basic enough that changes in supply of as little as 5 percent might bring a 22½ percent increase in price.

He's not criticizing the plan, says Hope, but he does point out the difficulty in voluntary efforts to reduce the volume of an agricultural commodity.

Hope cites interviews and polls taken at the recent Beef Cattle Roundup at the Hays Experiment Station. The polls were taken by Ovid Bay of the Farm Journal, and the questions bore directly on the American National Cattleman's Association proposal, because the success of their plan would depend upon feeders buying lighter stock and selling them at lower weights, and cowmen culling closer and reducing replacement.

Bays said in the Farm Journal that on a show of hands about 80 percent of the cowmen indicated they could not afford to cut cow numbers. Of the feeders slightly less than 50 percent "figured they might be able to cut 5 percent off weight of fat cattle without cutting overhead efficiency."

Interviews with a number of individuals brought out many viewpoints but it was obvious that a large proportion of both cowmen and feeders were dubious about the plan.

One reason, of course, says Hope, is that there are wide differences between individual operations. A situation that squeezes one operator may be a boon to another. And such voluntary plans require wholesale implementation. Obviously if all went along, and a 5 percent reduction brought a 22½ percent improvement in prices, all would benefit. But cattlemen don't figure that all would go along.

Hog Raiser

Patrick LaBarge, young Clyde farmer, has plenty of young pigs to keep him busy. LaBarge, unmarried and 30, lives with his parents southeast of Clyde. His folks, Mr. and Mrs. Homer LaBarge, have been farmers all their lives, and they say May-June rains make crop prospects in the Cloud county area look good.

Mixed Reaction To Federal Co-op Bank

A congressional proposal to set up two new banks to help finance rural electric and telephone systems with a mixture of federal and private capital appears to face an uncertain future.

The controversial bill was approved 19 to 15 by the House Agriculture committee last month but one amendment generated the ire of a principal backer.

Would Create Banks

The bill would create a rural electric bank, to which the government would provide 750 million dollars over a 7-year period, and a rural telephone bank that would get 300 million dollars over a 10-year period.

Both banks would sell securities to private investors to finance the rest of their capital. The government capital eventually would be retired.

These banks would make loans to co-operatives and other rural electrification administration loans, at a rate reflecting the cost of money to the banks.

But the rub came when the committee wrote in certain restrictions on loans under the existing direct 2 per cent loan program for building electric generating plants by rural electric systems.

Opponent Speaks Out

Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Co-operative association, said the amendment made the measure unacceptable under the rules adopted by the member-

The association represents 1,000 rural electric co-ops in 46 states and has been a prime backer of the supplemental financing plan in the past.

Since Ellis's statement, however, there have been reports local co-ops in some areas have agreed to go along with the measure as written, which congressional sources contend is the only way it could have been approved by the sharply divided committee.

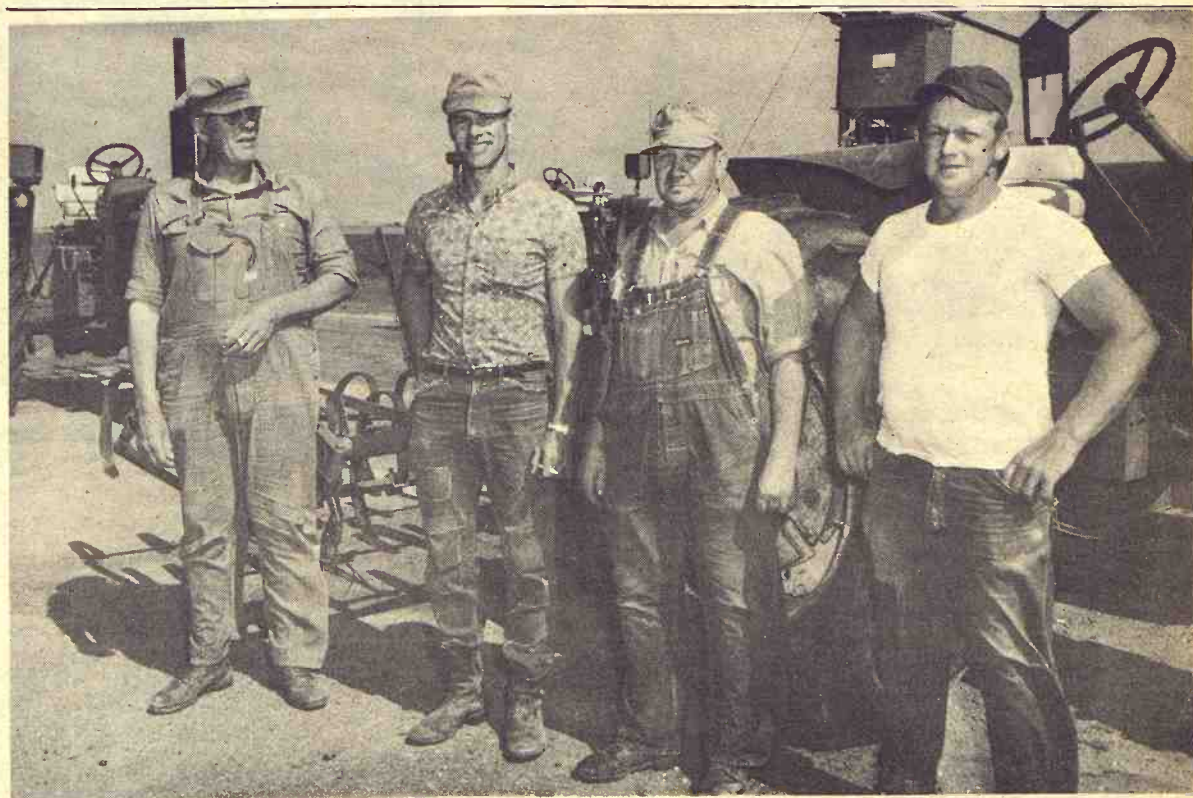

These sources feel such stands in the field hold out hope of slightly stronger backing in the House, where a fight can be expected but no action is probable until after the July 4 holiday. The Senate agriculture committee has not even scheduled hearings on the plan.

Watching in the wings are private utilities opposed to the bank idea. They reportedly would rather see the bill die but if it is going to be passed they want the amendment included.

This provision sets out a series of restrictions in the making of loans for generating facilities except for money to replace or repair an existing unit.

There would be procedures under which investor-owned utilities could obtain public hearings on the need for such co-operative plants.

Other restrictions would include public disclosure of cost estimates of the plant and the estimated cost of power to be produced and a finding by the REA administrator that an adequate supply of power is not available at equal or less rates and provisions for judicial review.

Roadside Conference

Before all the fieldwork began at Linn in Washington County, H. F. Rippe, Jerry Bokelman, Martin Ohlde, and Bob Ohlde paused to visit at a road junction. Rains have held back field work.

Stafford Rider Best At Rodeo

TOPEKA — Russ Smith of Stafford was the top all-around cowboy at the State High School Rodeo here last week.

All-around cowgirl honors were won by Patti Keithley of Mulvane. She won the cowgirl award for the third year in a row.

Smith and Miss Keithley won by a large margin of points. They received a $150 scholarship and a new saddle.

If a competitor won a first, second or third place award in any event, he automatically qualified for the National High School Rodeo to be held in August in Elko, Nev.

Miss Luann Corn, 16, Lawrence, will reign until next year as the queen of the Kansas High School Rodeo. This was her third year in the competition. She placed second runner-up last year.

Organize A Heifer Club Near Winfield

Kansas youngsters in the south-central part of the state organized a junior Angus Heifer Club recently to help boys and girls do a better job of handling their beef heifer projects, according to Laura V. Storey, Winfield, secretary-treasurer of the new five-county organization. Counties involved are Cowley, Elk, Butler, Kingman and Sumner.

New president of the club is Doug Storey, Winfield. Mike Meyer, Augusta, is vice-president and Zonagail Palmer, El Dorado, is reporter.

Their first project was to plan a field day and steer and heifer show for July 25 at the Winfield fairgrounds. Judging is scheduled for 10:00 a.m. and from 40 to 60 head of steers and heifers are expected. Membership is open to all youngsters up to 21 years of age. They do not need to be 4-H Club or FFA members.

Members of the board of directors, and the counties they represent are: Stanley Davis, Cowley; Nick Steffen, Sumner; Beverly Meyer, Butler; Joe Gosch, Kingman; and Gary Baughman, Elk. Adult advisors on the board are George Fox, Cowley; Francis Bliss, Elk; Harry Meyer, Butler; Wesley Gosch, Kingman; and Phillip Steffen, Sumner.

Baby Burros

Long a standby in the Pottawatomie county fair parade, Lester Surdez is already working on future replacements for the burros which he has driven up the streets of Onaga for the fair. The new arrivals at the Surdez farm are Julie, the baby burro on the left, and Jack on the right. The mother burros will be hitched up for the 1967 fair parade.

Quarter Horses, Fashions Added To Red Circle Auction At Brookville

A style show, "Fashions of Yesterday," and two registered yearling quarter horse fillies are new features of the 16th annual Red Circle auction at Brookville, July 21 and 22.

The auction, where Red Circles saved by youngsters from Gooch's Best Feeds and Food products are cash, is sponsored annually at the CK ranch by John J. Vanier, Gooch president.

It has attracted young bidders from as far away as Mississippi.

The new fashion show will be for the Nebraska delegation, said Vanier.

The modeling of styles from 1860 through the 20th century "is being staged to celebrate the Nebraska state centennial this year," he said.

It will be July 21, the same night as the traditional square dance contest and the announcement of achievement awards—prizes totaling $830 for last year's bidders who accomplished the most with their buys.

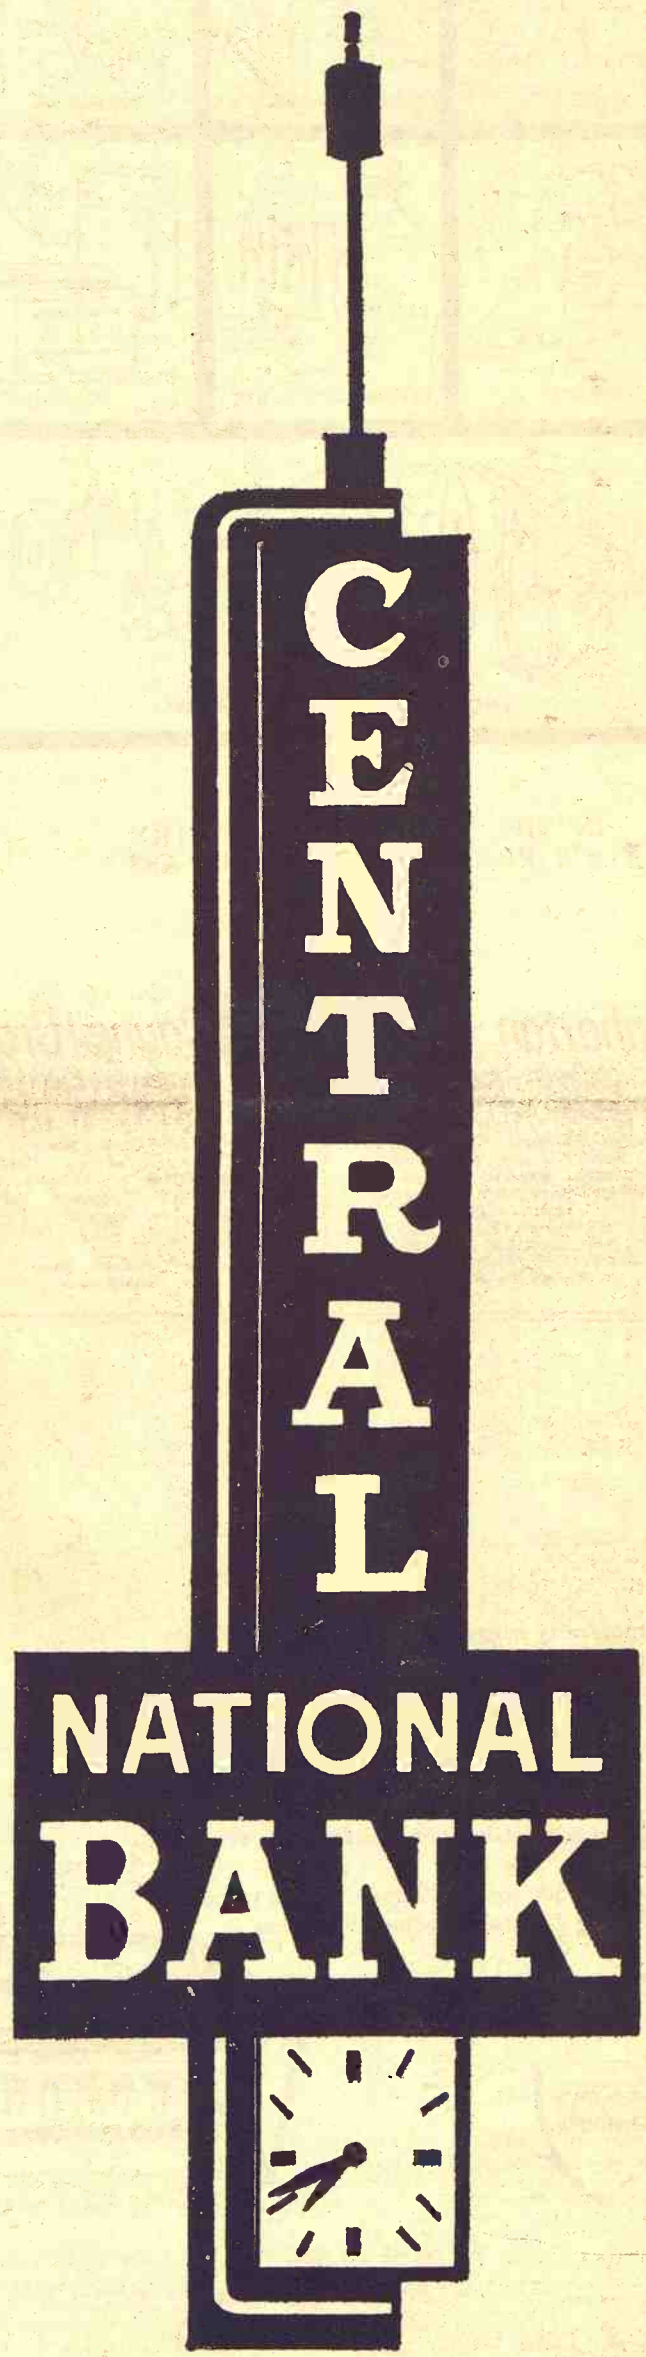

The auction July 22 will offer 112 items this year. Included will be 40 Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn steers; 40 registered Duroc and Hampshire gilts; five registered Hereford heifers; five Holstein heifers; 10 ewe lambs; 10 sewing machines and the two fillies.

The auction was begun in 1952. Permanent auction grounds house it at the ranch.

Triticale — More Protein, Bigger Berry Than Wheat

New Grain — Answer To Food Crisis

Canadian scientists have hopes that triticale can double the world's supply of grain.

Dire predictions about the world's food crisis may have to be revised if a new species of grain reaches the potential its Canadian developers believe it will.

This first man-made grain could virtually double the world's supply — if properly used and accepted by grain-growing nations.

The significant announcement was made at the University of Manitoba where scientists have been conducting intensive research on grain synthesis for 13 years.

The grain, called triticale, is a cross between durum wheat and rye but it is not just another variety of wheat, any more than a tangerine is a grapefruit or a cashew is a walnut.

Completely New

It is a new grain, not a hybrid of an old one. It differs in content, durability and yield and is able to reproduce itself.

Although modest scientists at the University of Manitoba point out that the miracle that will fill the stomachs of the world's hungry, it can "make a significant contribution in terms of alleviating the world's food problem," says Dr. L. H. Shebeski, dean of the faculty of the agriculture college. "We feel," he adds, "that the only way to properly feed the world's population is to curb overpopulation."

Good Where Dry

The grain appears to grow better than wheat in very dry conditions—in the arid countries whose people today suffer from chronic food shortages.

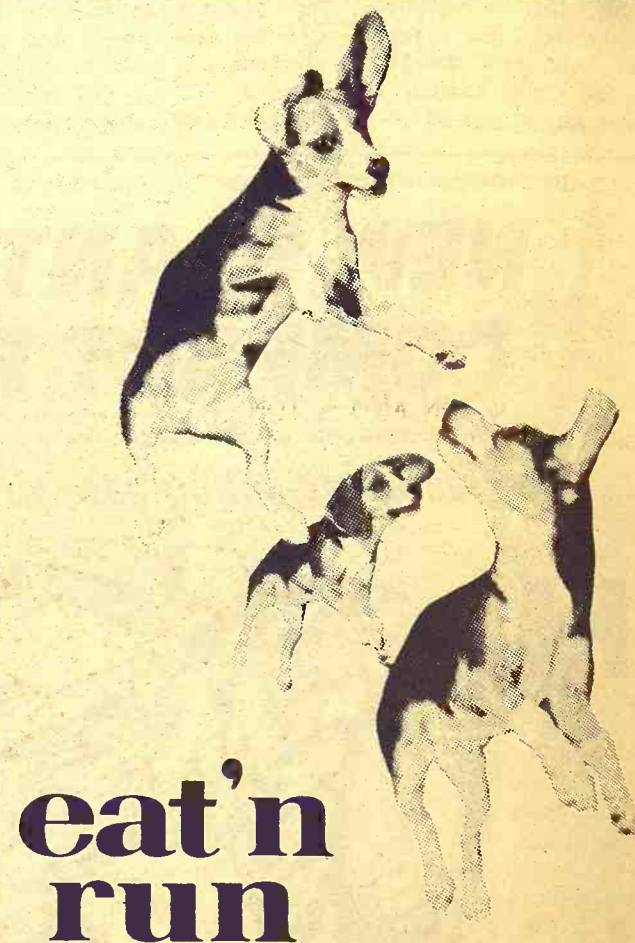

It may also be of interest to American wheat growers in five states producing 30 per cent of the nation's wheat — Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas — where a current drought is expected to reduce the 1967 yield drastically.

If a farmer can raise 55 bushels of triticale on an acre of ground where he could otherwise raise 40 bushels of wheat, he is providing that much more food. This ratio of yield has been proven in Canadian test plots.

But better: If the farmer can raise 40 bushels of triticale per

The head of triticale is more than twice the size of the head of a normal wheat plant.

ter: If the farmer can 40 bushels of triticale. The Canadian scientists have recently discovered that triticale grows better when planted in close rows about six inches apart. Since rows are normally spaced 12 inches apart, that much triticale can successfully be planted on an acre. Through unknown to even the wheat grower, triticale is a stranger to plant scientists. Experimentation has been conducted since 1883, when wheat and rye were first cross-and secale (rye) — came the name for the off-spring, triticale.

Work Discouraging

But after the first breakthrough, efforts to develop the new grain effectively were discouraging for the next 75 years. Research programs on triticale opened and later folded for lack of positive results.

The early triticale grain was anemic-looking and shriveled. The plant grew disgustingly tall — over a man's head — making it a problem to harvest. Yields and fertility were low. And it was highly susceptible to ergot, a fungus disease that can cause both humans and animals to abort.

Winnipeg scientists incorporated strains of their own, and a useful grain began to emerge at last. Size of the stalk shrank, but the seed itself lost its dry, shriveled look and swelled to a protein-filled, healthy-looking kernel.

Development is not yet complete, any more than civilization remained satisfied with the scrawny ears of Indian corn. Yet triticale could be on the market as a seed grain as early as 1970.

Its greatest potential as present appears to be in use as an animal feed.

MANHATTAN — Miss Alta Graham, asst. secretary of Manhattan Production Credit Association, has retired after 32 years of service with PCA.

Miss Graham started in the office at Stockton, coming to Manhattan PCA in 1936, where she has served continuously until her retirement. Her brother, Charles Graham, is manager of The Council Grove Production Credit Assn.

Miss Graham was employed in the Manhattan office 16 years before the present manager, Floyd Rutherford, was transferred to Manhattan. She is thought to have the longest continuous PCA office service in the region.

Miss Graham now is residing with her mother in Corning, Kans.

FORDS SAYS IT WILL HAVE CLEANER ENGINE

Ford Motor Co. says its 1968 Thunderbird will be the first to have a "cleaner" engine. A series of improvements in the power plant will burn fuel more completely and reduce pollutants coming from the car's tailpipe. Starting with 1968 models, automakers will have to meet Federal air-pollution control standards for vehicle exhaust emissions. Present controls are essentially add-on devices, but Ford says the V8 on the Thunderbird will reflect integral design changes.

1 cup sugar
4 eggs
1 can chocolate syrup (1 pound)
1 cup plus 1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 teaspoon burnt sugar flavoring
1/4 teaspoon black walnut flavoring
1/4 teaspoon butter flavoring
1/2 cup nutmeats
Cream until light and fluffy the margarine and sugar. Then add the eggs, one at a time and beat well after each addition. Then add the vanilla, burnt sugar, black walnut and butter flavorings. Beat well. Sift the flour and salt together and add alternately with the chocolate syrup. Mix well. Add nuts. Grease a 9x13-inch pan and pour the batter in. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 25-30 minutes. These do not get hard. When cool they can be frosted with this frosting if you like.

FROSTING

6 tablespoons margarine
6 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon butter flavoring
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

1/2 teaspoon burnt sugar flavoring
1/2 cup chocolate bits
Heat over fire until it begins to boil hard. Remove from heat and cool. Then beat until of spreading consistency.

The following recipe is from Mrs. Ray Messenger, Tampa:

Mix in usual way and bake in moderate oven.

Mrs. F. H. Stach, Rossville: "One of the best of the old-time breads does not use yeast. It's salt-raising bread. But there's one slight problem in making it: The odor. But what a glorious result! Salt-raising bread makes the best bread you ever sank a tooth into."

SALT-RAISING BREAD STARTER

2 potatoes, thinly sliced
1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
3 tablespoons white oatmeal
2 cups boiling water

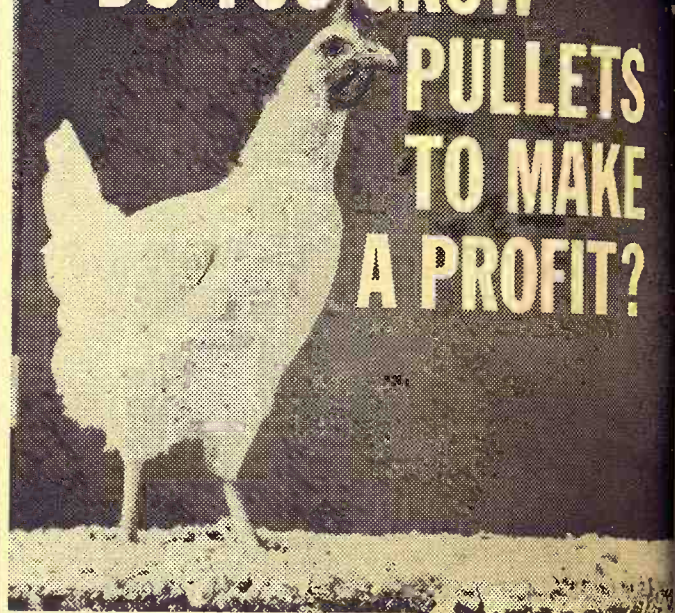

The day before baking place in a quart jar the potatoes, sugar, soda and cornmeal. Pour boiling water over all. Cover jar loosely and place in warm place overnight. By the next morning a foam should have risen to the top of the jar. Pour a cup of the liquid portion of the starter into a bowl. To this liquid add 2 cups warm water, 2 tablespoons sugar, and pinch of soda. Add enough flour to make this mixture similar to a paste. Set aside in a warm place until light and bubbly and doubled in bulk. Then add 1/4 cup shortening, beating in well and add 1 teaspoon salt. Add flour, a little time, to make a fairly stiff dough. Knead until similar to other light breads. Place in greased bread pans, filling about half full. Let rise to top of pan. Bake in 375-degree oven 40-45 minutes.

Cotton Fiesta

Male Cotton fashions are having a fiesta this summer. Bold, primitive Aztec motifs borrowed from Mexico are splashed on cotton canvas and fashioned into a spicy beach ensemble.

DO YOU GROW PULLETS TO MAKE A PROFIT?

Of course you do. We suggest that you consider the Purina controlled feeding plan for these reasons:

1. Helps you lower cost about $12 per 100 pullets grown, according to Purina Research Farm tests.
2. Grows a leaner, slower-developing pullet that lays more eggs and larger eggs when she comes into production.
3. Grows a hardy bird that lives better under the strain of heavy production.

The Purina Plan is easy to follow. Ask us about it before your chicks are 8 weeks old.

Appliance Attaches To Tap; Provides Filtered Water

Homemakers can now enjoy the welcome taste of bottle-quality filtered water right out of their kitchen tap with this water filter.

Smartly designed, the glistening appliance removes objectionable tastes, odors, discoloration and cloudiness from tap water — and is the first self-contained water filter to connect directly to the kitchen faucet. It eliminates the need for bothersome hoses and counter-top clutter.

Easy to install in less than two minutes, the filter fits any faucet. Made of chrome-plated Cyclac thermoplastic — the unit combines the luster and durability of chrome with light weight and corrosion resistance. Matches any decor.

The appliance diverts tap water through an activated carbon cartridge to remove the taste of chlorine, sulphur, rust, scale, metallic substances and algae. Users can restore conventional water flow by turning the diverter valve from "on" to "off."

Complete with carbon filter cartridge, the appliance has a suggested retail price of $24.95. The replacement refill cartridge, which lasts an average of six months, has a suggested price of $2.50. Both are available at hardware, department and variety stores.

According to the manufacturer, this filtered water costs as little as one-tenth of a cent per gallon. This is much less than the cost of bottled water of comparable quality.

Pretty Strawberry Dessert Is Easy To Prepare

It's difficult to find a dessert more popular than fragrant strawberries, luscious in their juicy sweetness. There just never seems to quite enough of them really to satisfy the craving! However, there are some delicious ways to extend strawberries without masking their incomparable flavor. One of the most delectable of these is Cream Cheese Halo with Strawberries. It's a smooth, cloud-light mold characterized by the delicate piquancy of cream cheese — a perfect medium to set off the rich taste and color of the fruit. It's pretty enough for parties but so simple to prepare that you'll want to feature it on family menus, too, to take full advantage of strawberries at their quality peak.

CREAM CHEESE HALO WITH STRAWBERRIES

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
Dash of salt
1½ cups of milk
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 pint strawberries

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Combine softened cream cheese, sugar, almond extract and salt, mixing until well blended. Gradually add milk and gelatin. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in whipped cream; pour into a 1-quart ring mold; chill until firm. Unmold; fill center with strawberries.

Would you like a new summer dessert? Fold cooked cold rice into sweetened whipped cream and serve with fresh peaches or strawberries. For this dish, make certain the rice is soft.

To Give Pet Medication

Before giving a cat a pill, put a few drops of water on the cat's tongue to make the capsule go down more easily, or cover the pill with a thin coating of butter.

Anemones

Anemones, a well-known florists' flower, is easily grown in home gardens. Blooms can reach four or more inches across on plants growing up to 1½ feet tall. Anemone colors range from purple through blue, red, rose to white. The bulbs should be planted pointed end down. Water the soil well before planting, then do not water too much until the plants are in full growth.

Break Auto Sales Slump

A strong showing by specialty cars, paced by Ford's Mustang, has played a major role in the rejuvenated auto sales market in recent weeks.

Auto sales slipped badly in the opening months of this year but since mid-April consumer demand has been running strong again.

Industry leaders are convinced that demand for the lower priced specialty cars — the Mustang, Chevrolet's Camaro, Plymouth's Barracuda, Pontiac's Firebird and Mercury's Cougar — is one of the key factors in the market.

Mustang, which had the specialty car market to itself when it made its debut on April 17, 1964, sold its 1.5 millionth car last month as it remained the dominant factor in the market.

Floodwaters from Wakarusa spread out for 1½ miles southeast of Lawrence. The Wakarusa dumps into the Kaw near Eudora, east of here. Overflowing waters swamped farmland and drove families from their homes in the towns of Wakarusa and Richland.

Flood On Wakarusa

South of Lawrence look-like a bridge but it merely stands slightly higher than waters of the Wakarusa which flooded fields beside thousands of acres in the area were covered last

Veterans at minimizing flood damage and speeding cleanup, citizens at Marion don't appear excited about floods down business area.

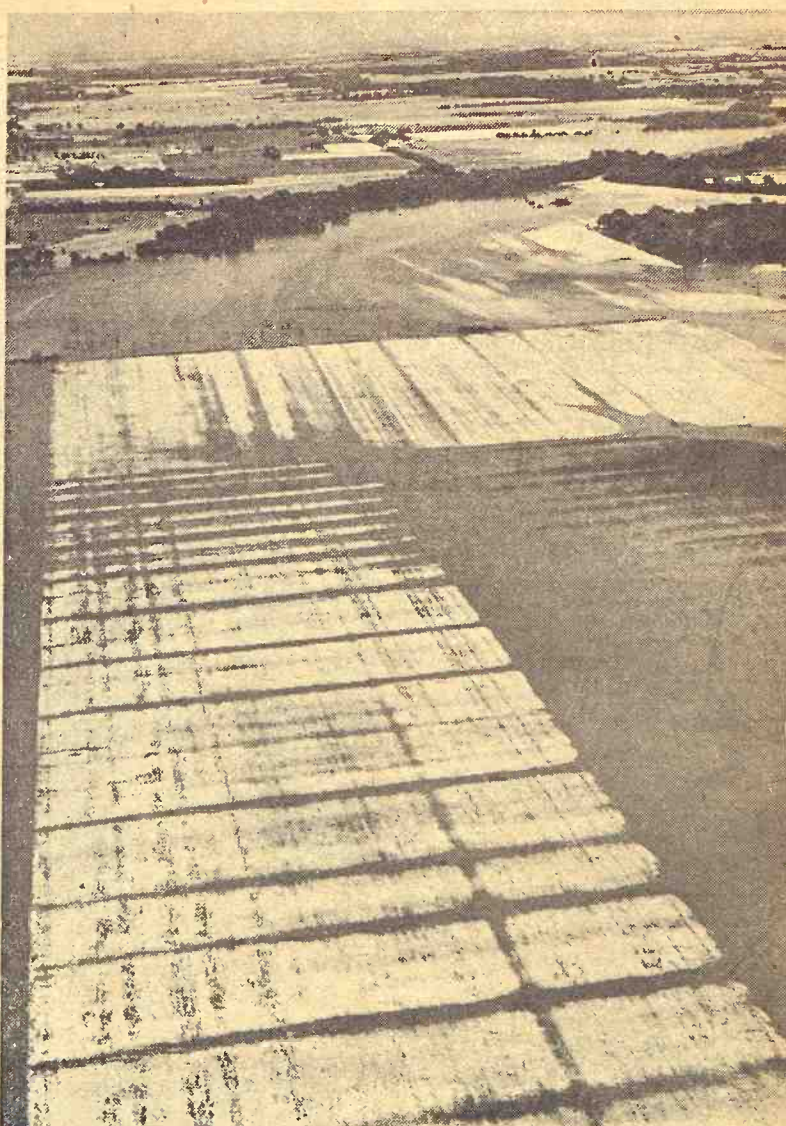

Mail Damage

Charles Riedy of Hope survived tomato plant damage after a hail storm in Dickinson last week.

Right Address

The sign of the IHC agency at Marion listed the right address when floodwaters covered parts of that town last week. The agency is owned by Lynn Christensen, mayor of Marion. Five Marion implement dealers moved their equipment up on high ground and the big machines were undamaged. Christensen figured there was $100,000 worth of farm implements pulled out of the flooding area before the water arrived. The flood in Marion stalled business only one day, and except for cleaning up it was business as usual after the Cottonwood river receded. Local residents figure the Marion reservoir dam, under construction but far from completed, helped some, the earthen dam controlling some of the flow and backing up surplus water.

Wheat Under Water

Kansas wheat, battered by months of drouth and then late frosts, finally got the moisture it needed in late May and early June. Even that led to disappointment to many G&G area farmers as flood waters covered many fields last week. This field, still looking neat but probably lost to flood waters, is on the Wakarusa river in eastern Kansas.

Cottonwood, Mud Creek Lap Together

Mud Creek and the Cottonwood river slopped together in the streets of Marion last week following an accumulation of rains which caused high water over much of the G&G area. The water receded in most places, as it did in Marion, one day.

Vandalism In Old Indian Cemetery

Pottawatomie county sheriff Don Reeves and attorney John Lang examine tombstones taken from the historic Louix Vieux cemetery overlooking the Vermilion river near Louisville. Vandals overturned several stones and took seven, later discarding them on a country road. The stones are all around a century old.

Cut '68 Wheat Acres To 59.3 Million

The national wheat allotment for 1968 wheat crop will be 59.3 million acres.

That's 13 percent less than the 1967 allotment of 68 million acres but still about 15 percent more than the 51.6 million acres allotted for the 1966 crop.

The 32 percent increase allowed the past year was intended to insure dwindling domestic surpluses and handle an increasing export business.

The result is expected to be a near record crop despite generally poor yields in major wheat areas such as Kansas and the Texas Panhandle.

With a slackening in export trade, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said when he announced the 1968 allotments that a smaller acreage next year would produce sufficient wheat to meet both domestic needs and anticipated foreign requirements.

Freeman said the government has set targets of 750 million bushels of wheat for export from both the 1967 and 1968 crops.

This target compares with about 735 million expected to be exported from the 1966 crop and with a record of 867 million from the 1965 crop.

By applying the percentage decrease to seeded acres, the Kansas reduction for the 1968 wheat crop would be 1.709 million acres.

In the fall of 1966 Kansas farmers planted 13.146 million acres in winter wheat, including the 32 percent increase authorized last summer by USDA.

The department offers payments to growers who plant within their individual allotments.

Cattle Die From Spray

WEST PLAINS, MO. —

Thirty-one head of beef steers on the Don and Dean Proffitt farm near Pottersville, died after the cattle were sprayed with an insecticide.

Norman Risner of West Plains, area soils and crops specialist, spoke from the Pottersville farm and said that this illustrates that a chemical should never be used on cattle or other livestock unless it clearly explains on the label what it contains and what it is to be used for.

The cattle were sprayed with an insecticide on which the label had been lost. The animals died within two hours following the spraying. The loss has been estimated at $6,000.

RILEY COUNTY PLANS A LAND TAX AUCTION

MANHATTAN — Riley county will have its first tax sale since 1943 next month. Sixty three parcels of land on which taxes have not been paid for three or more years will be sold at auction on July 25. Mrs. Mary Lowman, county treasurer, said most of the delinquent taxes go back 10 years and some back to 1943. Owners of the property may redeem the real estate by paying taxes prior to sale date.

TOPEKA CENSUS TOTAL BACK TO 120,467

TOPEKA — This city, which didn't like its census figures last year when assessors' counts showed a loss of 7673 persons gained some of it back this year, apparently to a better census method. The new total for Topeka is 120,467. That's still shy of the 1965 official count of 125,782.

Cattle Have Come A Long Way Over The Last Several Decades

from the "Chisholm Trail" steer to our present day feedlot steer.

Just as it was with the steer, formula feed manufacturing has come a long way since the scoop shovel mixing days. One such Kansas industry, Naturich, has become one of the best known and one of the most respected in this highly competitive field. When it comes to total feeding results . . . no brand of feed offers a better return on your feed dollar than Naturich. In the feedlot, you'll profit from Naturich "KNOW-HOW" by including Steak-Maker Cattle Supplement in your ration. See your Naturich dealer real soon.

Here's July Farm Forecast

Egg prices, which have been bouncing around rock bottom since Easter, may begin to show some strength in July, according to economists at Kansas State University.

Egg supply is still higher than demand, the economists say in their monthly price forecast. But hot weather may cut back production enough to boost egg prices slightly higher.

The situation for other commodities: HOGS — Steady to Slightly Higher. Seasonal price increase will occur as we enter summer. Receipts will taper off.

FAT CATTLE — Steady to Slightly Higher. Some decrease in receipts along with strong demand will help boost prices.

FEEDER CATTLE — Steady to Slightly Higher. Optimism based on good fall slaughter market.

CORN, GRAIN SORGHUMS — Steady. Anticipating new planting and unsettled world situation.

LAMBS — Steady. Decrease in receipts will offset any summer drop in demand.

HAY — Slightly Lower. New crop coming in.

GRADE A, MANUFACTURING MILK — Slightly Lower. Look for seasonal low in prices under present support level.

WHEAT — Steady to Lower. Increase in June crop report and approaching new crop receipts will soften market.

'Pickett? Got Any Other Names?' Asks Governor

"We're looking, we're looking," said the Kansas Livestock Association to Governor Docking last week.

What the state association is looking for are more candidates for positions on the state livestock commission and for a new office location for the state association headquarters in Topeka.

Governor Docking last week asked the Kansas Livestock Association for at least three names as acceptable candidates for appointment to the position of state livestock sanitary commissioner.

The longtime livestock commissioner, A. G. Pickett, has continued in office altho his appointment expired March 31. The governor appoints the commissioner but by law the State Livestock Sanitary Commissioner must be recommended by the executive committee of the Kansas Livestock Association.

In a letter to the governor April 14, the Livestock Association again recommended Pickett for the top post. Docking then asked for a bigger list to choose from, not only for the livestock sanitary commissioner's post, but also for state brand commissioner and for membership on the state livestock commission.

A. G. Pickett

"We intend to cooperate with the governor's wishes," said Earl Brookover, Garden City, president of the stockmen's organization. "I don't want to make the decision myself, but we will respond to the request in about a week or so after talking with other directors."

Docking said the submission of only one nominee's name for the livestock sanitary commissioner's post "deprives the governor of most of his powers of appointment."

Governor Docking said he had no particular quarrel with Pickett's administration of the office, but said his department is legally responsible for the actions of the agency and that he should have a choice of appointments.

The Democratic governor indicated he would like to see a Democrat's name on the list for possible appointment to the post.

Not only is the Livestock Association looking for more names to submit to Docking for the commissioner's post, but they are also looking for different headquarters.

Since it was built, the State Office Building has housed the State Livestock Commission with other related agencies in the same offices with the Kansas Livestock Association, a private organization.

Brookover said the Livestock Association initiated the search for separate office space, before Governor Docking had suggested — or perhaps insisted — upon it.

"We started our search for an association office as far back as two years ago," Brookover said. As president of the association, Brookover by law is a member of the State Livestock Commission. Seeing double duty in these jobs, Brookover said the single office had aided his work.

Pickett is secretary-treasurer of the Kansas Livestock Association and also has the title "executive vice president," which means he runs the association on a day-to-day basis.

Pickett reportedly receives $7000 from the Livestock Association and $7000 a year from his job as livestock sanitary commissioner.

One other job which the Livestock Association has nominating powers over is that of brand commissioner. The present office holder is Hade Gup-ton of Greensburg. His appointment expires June 30. Docking wants more than one recommendation for that post too, as well as for the separate commission posts as they become vacant.

"We're not looking for favors," Brookover said, "but we just don't want people getting into positions where they are directing our business who, possibly, are not livestock people at all. I don't think anyone can blame us, do you?"

POSITIVE FACE FLY CONTROL

WITH THIS

New TOX-O-WIK Combination FACE FLY FIGHTER and MINERAL FEEDER

Every time cattle use the mineral feeder they automatically apply Face Fly Insecticide as they raise the canvas weather shield with its wick applicator around the bottom. You get economical, safe and complete protection.

A wick enclosed in a tube feeds insecticide to the applicator from a tank holding a 1 month supply of Tox-O-Wik Face Fly Insecticide. The tank is inside the 36" diameter heavy duty steel cone above the canvas hood. Positive flow is assured without wasting. There are no valves, pumps or jets to clog. A circular steel rod just above the applicator keeps the wick round.

Hood cone and flexible thick water-proof canvas keep mineral dry from rain or snow. Sturdy—cattle can't upset it. This new addition to the famous Tox-O-Wik line rids your cattle of face flies.

AVAILABLE with the FAMOUS TOX-O-WIK CATTLE OILERS FOR ALL OTHER INSECT CONTROL

List Big Individual Subsidies

The periodic tempest over the issue of government subsidies to individual farmers has made its 1967 appearance. Sen. John Williams, Delaware Republican, who has often been critical of large payments to individual farmers or farm companies who received $25,000 or more last year. Five companies, four in California and one in Hawaii, were paid $1 million or more, Williams said. Eleven more got at least one-half million. As in the past, Williams complained that government programs were subsidizing "an extension of the corporate-type of farming operation."

"It is obvious that the small family-type farmer is not the real beneficiary."

Williams advocates a limit of $10,000 to any one farming operation.

Williams said his listing covered direct payments under the soil bank and acreage diversion programs and did not include price support loans.

The five 1966 payments Williams listed as more than $1 million:

- $2.8 million to J. G. Boswell Company, Kings County, California
- $2.4 million to Griffen Inc., Fresno County, California
- $1.5 million to South Lake Farmers, Fresno County, California

$1.2 million to Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Co., Honolulu

$1.0 million to Salver Land Co., Kings County, California. Williams said the Agriculture Department classified two states as farm operators eligible for the payments last year.

Montana collected $337,345 and Washington $125,552.

Prison farming operations in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas all received substantial sums too.

The wife of Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi, large cotton planter, was listed as receiving $129,977.

All of the payments of a half-million or more were fruit and vegetable firms in California, Arizona, Florida, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

AREA CO-OP PONDER A GROCERY EXPANSION

ELLSWORTH — The Ellsworth County Farmers Union Coop is considering building a new building and becoming a member of the Associated Grocers (Mr. AG) group. The Ellsworth coop is presently the grocery business but is considering tripling its present floor space for the food business expansion. The coop board has not indicated when it will take action on the proposal.

OPEN INTERSTATE 35 BYPASS AROUND EMPORIA

EMPORIA — A 7-mile bypass around Emporia has been opened. Cost was $6 million.

17 Kansas Farms Got Over $50,000

The list that Delaware Senator John Williams released of farmers and farm companies which received large government farm subsidies included 17 Kansas or Nebraska operations in the half-million dollar class.

But there were 17 Kansas farming operations which received at least $50,000. There were 1210 farms in the U.S. which received that much.

The largest Kansas subsidy listed went to the Garden City Co., Garden City, which received $100,032 under the acreage diversion program for its operations in both Finney and Kearney counties.

The M. Lewis trustees, Kansas City, Mo., received $64,873. Vernon Kropp, Winfield, Cowley County, received $67,553. Herman Bott, Palmer, Washington County, received $50,508.

Other payments of $50,000 or more went to:

- James S. Garvey, Colby, Thomas Co.
- GHS Farms, Johnson, Stanton Co.
- Andrew Larson, Garden City, Finney Co.
- Sell Estate, Aurora, Colo., Greeley
- O. Steel, Greeley County
- Klemann Brothers, Tribune, Greeley
- W. R. Cottrell, Meade, Meade Co.
- Edmond Ely, Garden City, Scott Co.
- Lloyd Kontny, Goodland, Sherman
- Clarence Winger, Johnson, Stanton
- Walter Herrick, Johnson, Stanton
- Willard Garvey, Colby, Thomas

Farmers in Texas led the nation's farmers in obtaining payments. The Agriculture Department listed more than 40 payments to the state between $100,000 and $499,999. Twenty got between $100,000 and $50,000.

More Pigs But Less On Hand For Breeding Purposes

Inventory numbers of all hogs and pigs on Kansas farms continued above a year earlier, with June 1 numbers totaling 1,564,000 head, 7 percent more than last year, according to the Kansas Livestock Reporting Service.

The pig crop for the March-May quarter was 732,000 compared with 714,000 from this quarter in 1966. Sows farrowed during the quarter numbered 96,000, some 2 percent more than last year but 1 percent less than the 5-year average.

Farrowings by months were higher than a year ago in April, unchanged in March, and lower for May.

An average of 7.62 pigs were saved per litter, the highest of record for this quarter and slightly above the 7.60 average litter size last year.

Intended sows to farrow during the June-August period on Kansas farms are forecast at 69,000 head, 3 percent more than this quarter last year.

Monthly farrowings for June and August are expected to be higher than a year ago, while the July number will be down slightly.

Prospective farrowings for the September-November quarter are estimated at 70,000 sows, down 11 percent from last year, although 1 percent above the 5-year average for this quarter.

Projected pigs per litter for farrowings this fall indicate a fall pig crop of 1,049,000 head. The expected 1967 yearly total, including both the spring farrowings and the fall crop in prospect, is 2.3 million head, 2 percent more than in 1966.

Farmers indicated that 219,000 head of the 1,564,000 head of hogs and pigs on hand June 1 were being kept for breeding purposes, 8 percent less than last year.

The remaining 1,345,000 head on hand were being raised for market purposes, 10 percent more than a year ago.

Numbers of market hogs in all weight groups were above a year earlier while breeding stock numbers increased only in the heavier weight groups.

United States
The Nation's pig crop, including both spring and fall litters, is expected to total 85,549,000 head this year, some 968,000 less than in 1966.

The 1967 spring pig crop of 45,949,000 was up 1 percent and the expected fall crop forecast at 39,600 is down 3 percent from a year ago.

Our distillery is a conversation piece. But our Bourbon speaks for itself.

Col. Taylor built our distillery back in 1887.

It's kept us on our toes ever since. Because when you have a castle for a distillery, the Bourbon you make had better be some Bourbon.

It is. Today, Old Taylor outsells every other premium-priced Bourbon in the country.

Of course, we still get questions about our distillery. But our Bourbon always has the last word.

FARMERS OUTLOOK

L.H. Simerl

Big Crop Despite Mid-Plains Drouth

Despite the long drouth in central and southern great plains, farmers may yet harvest a record wheat crop. Low yields, even failures, in some areas are more than offset by large acreages and favorable conditions elsewhere.

On the basis of the conditions existing June 1, total wheat production is forecast by the USDA at 1,550 million bushels. Such a crop would be 18 per cent more than last year and 6 per cent more than the previous record crop, produced in 1958.

The area of winter wheat to be harvested this year is estimated at 44.7 million acres — 1 per cent more than last year. Average yield per acre is expected to be about 27.7 bushels. This would be about the same as last year, but 1½ bushels less than the 5-year (1961-65) average.

The drouth cut yields in the southern half of the great plains — from the Rocky Mountains to near the eastern borders of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The eastern third of each of these states largely escaped the drouth and had good crops.

Smaller-than-average yields are expected in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. But larger-than-average yields are likely in Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan.

The average yield for Illinois is forecast by the USDA at 41 bushels. This would be the same as the all-time record high, established last year.

While much wheat in the southern states has been harvested, some in the northern states has just been planted. So, the final harvest may be smaller, or larger, than the forecasts made on the basis of conditions existing July 1.

The carryover of old wheat left on hand July 1 is now expected to be around 400 million bushels. This amount, plus a new crop of 1,550 million, would give us a total supply of 1,950 million bushels.

We will use about 530 million bushels of wheat for food, 70 million for seed, and possibly 100 million bushels for animal feed. That makes a total of around 700 million for domestic use. Washington officials think exports may be 700 to 775 million bushels. That would leave around 500 million for carryover a year hence.

World wheat production may exceed the record output of 1966. Prospects are good, or at least better than last year, in Canada, Russia, U.K., West Germany, The Netherlands, North Africa and Pakistan.

At this writing, future prices range from $1.58 for July to $1.73 for next May. By contrast, the national average price-support level is only $1.25 a bushel.

(Wheat producers participating in the acreage restriction-price support program receive government payments in addition to the market price or loan rate. These payments averaged about 59 cents per bushel produced in 1966. Farmers who do not participate in the acreage restriction program receive no government payments, only the market price.)

HOG DAMAGE FROM ROVING DOGS

GREAT BEND — Two roving dogs were blamed for the death of five hogs on the W-Z Hog Farm southeast of here. Many other hogs were chased and chewed. Robert J. Weaver, Great Bend veterinarian, is a co-owner of the farm.

START GRADING ON US 77 IMPROVEMENT

WATERVILLE — Grading of an 8 mile improvement of US77 has started south of here. Work orders for grading on 4 miles of US77 from the Riley-Marshall county line will be issued later. The total 12.5 miles of grading will cost $661,667. Hixson & Lehenbauer of Topeka has the contract.

OK Loan For Big Area Rural Phone Addition

A $2.28 million loan to the Tri-County Telephone Co., of Council Grove has been approved by the Rural Electric Administration.

The loan is for acquisition of 12 independent telephone companies and improvement of service to 1806 subscribers, all in the G&G area.

This will provide service without toll charges between Herington and Hope; Lost Springs, Ramona and Woodbine; Abilene, Carlton and Navarre; Lost Springs, Delavan and Wilsey.

Existing overhead cables will be replaced with buried cables, including 815 miles of new line.

Service will be made available to 274 additional subscribers.

Big Dams Did Their Work, Say Army Engineers

Army Engineers made their first guess at $83 million for the amount of flood damage in the Missouri River basin in June, but said that federal dams built in the basin prevented another $200 million damage.

Col. R. W. Lowe, division engineer at Omaha, said the main stem dams on the Missouri river above Yankton, S.D., held back over three-fourths of the Missouri's flow from the upper basin, preventing a disaster on the main stem of the Big Muddy.

He said dams on the tributaries in Kansas held back substantial amounts of water which otherwise would have increased flood damage.

Tuttle Creek on the Blue River near Manhattan impounded 268,000 acre-feet; Milford Dam on the Republican river near Junction City, impounded 153,000 acre-feet; and Perry Dam, on the Delaware river, though still under construction, held back 180,000 acre-feet of water from the flood crest.

STATE WITHHOLDING TAX CUT TO 10%

It doesn't mean less state income tax, but a change July 1 means Kansas workers will have less money withheld from paychecks for state income tax. On that date state withholding will be reduced to 10 percent of the amount withheld for federal income taxes. The rate has been 15 percent, but the 1967 legislature reduced the figure because of the number of tax payers who were over paid at the end of the year.

MAPLE HILL BANK CHANGES OWNERSHIP

MAPLE HILL — The Stockgrowers State Bank here has been sold to Wayne Martin, a banker at Jennings, Kans. Martin will assume management of the Maple Hill bank July 1. Martin previously was associated with a bank at Elmdale in Chase county. Purchase was made from the family of Franklin Adams.

Clang Stilled At Smithy Shop

JUNCTION CITY — There's no clang of steel on steel at 115 East Sixth anymore.

Charlie Degitz has quit the blacksmithing business.

Bill Crites, the auctioneer, sold the shop for Degitz last month, quieting the metal clash of a blacksmith shop which had been located here for 102 years and sending into retirement a man who had been a blacksmith for 57 years.

A native limestone building just off Junction City's main drag, the location was first rented for a blacksmith shop in 1865. William Buehler bought the business in 1890 and sold it to Degitz, whom he taught the trade, in 1939.

The shop's principal activity for the last several years has been sharpening lister shares, cultivator shovels and plow-shares.

At one time Junction City had 14 blacksmith shops. Degitz's was the last.

Some of the tools sold at auction may date back to the beginning of the shop. Degitz said he believed the oldest item was a worn blacksmith's hammer with 1½ inches of the head worn off thru use.

Very few changes were made in the shop for its more-than-a-century existence. A now well-worn wooden floor was placed over the ground in the main part of the structure but the backroom contains its original dirt floor. The walls are those of the original building.

Degitz began a 3-year apprenticeship to learn horseshoeing at 14.

"I was paid 50 cents a day and started off by swatting the flies from the horse's tail and hind legs while it was being shod," said Degitz.

In 1910 he began apprenticeship in Buehler's shop.

"I was paid $1 a day for helping in the smithy and received 25 cents for each horse I shod. There were some days when I shod two or three horses, but in some days there were none."

Degitz said he hasn't shod a horse in about 10 years. A set of nine different styles of horseshoes dating back to 1910 which adorned the wall of his shop was not included in the sale.

Degitz has some fishing on Milford Lake in mind to while away hours of his retirement. He'll miss the work and regrets some of his old cronies will have to find a new loafing place.

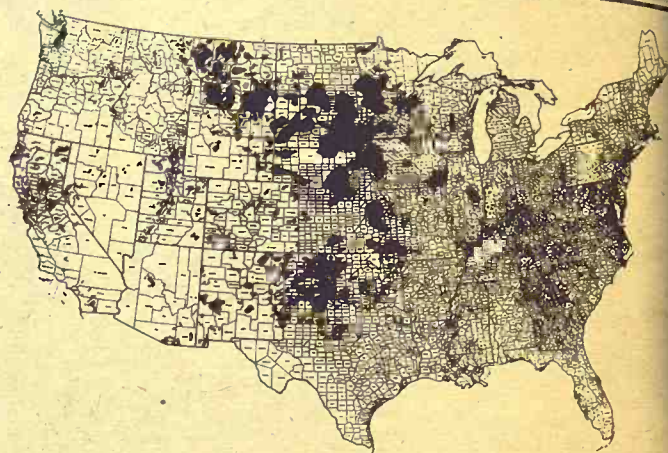

Degitz never had to complain about the cost of rent during his years at the shop. He started out paying $10 a month to Buehler's widow when he bought the place in 1939. The rent never went up. Some years, Charlie remembers, when he took a year's rent to Mrs. Buehler, she would comment that probably the blacksmithing business hadn't been too good and hand half the money back to him.

... Charlie Degitz at the anvil

Hopper Threat

There is major grasshopper infestation in parts of 17 western and midwestern states, according to the Plant Pest Control division of the Agricultural Research Service. Affected are 11.4 million acres. Dark areas on this map indicate locations infested with 3 or more hoppers per square yard, according to survey crews.

For capacity...no other blower can match the Gehl Hi-Throw!

The silo hasn't been built that a Gehl Hi-Throw can't easily fill. It lifts over 60 tons an hour! To any silo height. That's more throw-power and capacity than any other blower on the market.

The fan housing outlet is the same width as the blower pipe — 9 inches. The Gehl Hi-Throw blasts a full 9-inch pipeful of forage to the silo at a ton-a-minute. No other blower can beat it!

The Hi-Throw blasts hard-to-blow haylage into the tallest silo without even breathing hard. Does it sun up to sun down, without plugging.

Features include: Quick-touch leveling adjustment. Water hose intake. Adjustable rim sheet and fan. Recessed wheels.

Four models available, including 3-ft. and 10-ft. trough. See us today for a demonstration on your farm. Financing available.

Bergsten

Sprecker

VICKI SPRECKER IS RILEY DAIRY PRINCESS
MANHATTAN — Vicki Sprecker of Leonardville was named Riley County Dairy Princess at a contest last week. Runnerup was Charlene Bergsten of Blue Rapids.

BARBARA STOCKMAN IS WABAUNSEE PRINCESS
ALMA — Barbara Stockman of Maple Hill was named Wabaunsee County Dairy Princess at a contest here. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stockman. District contest will be at Topeka July 25.

JUNCTION CITY — This "Army Town" in the middle of the G&G area is hoping that its 2-year old financial crisis may soon end.

More troops are coming into Fort Riley, and there is hope that the old fort may house 20,000 to 25,000 soldiers by next January.

Junction City is used to economic ups and downs, as Army activity ebbs and flows. But the last couple of years have been about as tough as Junction City can remember.

When the 1st Division left Fort Riley in the summer of 1965, the old army camp was almost empty. The military population (troops and dependents) dropped from 30,000 to 1000. The payroll — both military and civil service — dropped from $5 million monthly to less than a half-million.

In February 1966 the 9th Division was activated and assigned to Fort Riley. By midsummer the post population was back up to nearly 24,000. But in September parts of the 9th started shipping out for Vietnam. By December the military population had dropped to 4000.

The brief stay of the 9th had pushed the peak payroll back up to $3.5 million, but since it left for Vietnam the monthly payroll is back to the half-million dollar level.

In a 24-month period, there have been two six-month stretches in which the post was only running at 20 percent capacity and it often was down to 5 percent.

The post population had climbed steadily since the first of the year and is now about 9000.

Brig. Gen. John Sietz, post commander, expects troop strength to be about 14,000 by the end of August.

That expansion does not count the unconfirmed but almost sure coming of the 24th Division, now in Germany, to Fort Riley. The Army Times, an unofficial but highly reliable source, reported this movement a couple of months ago, saying that two-thirds of the division would be located here and one-third would stay in Germany for a six-month stay, then rotate back to Fort Riley, while a third of the division would return to Germany for a six-month hitch.

RILEY CO. GOP PLAN HOLIDAY FAIR

MANHATTAN — Riley County Republicans are hoping they have a summertime attraction that might even draw some Democrats. The county GOP plan a 4th of July "Old Fashioned Fair," at Ci-Co Park west of Manhattan which will include a barbecue chicken dinner, a horse show, carnival rides, a bazaar of handmade and home-made goodies, airplane rides, and a band concert.

Kansas Hereford Assn. Loses John Fox

The Kansas Hereford Association has lost its secretary-manager.

John R. Fox

of the United States. Fox has been secretary-manager of the Kansas Hereford Association for two years.

Fox will move to the Pacific Northwest area in July to serve Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana for the APHA. Since mid-June he has been working in the association office in Kansas City for an orientation period.

Following graduation from Kansas State University where he majored in animal husbandry, Fox started farming in the St. John area and developed a commercial herd of Herefords.

A former Stafford resident, Fox is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox of Stafford. He is married to the former Sharon Crissman of St. John.

Don't Sell Treated Wheat

One kernel of treated wheat can cause an entire carload of wheat to be condemned.

Don't mix leftover mercury treated seed wheat with that sold or fed to livestock, Dr. William G. Willis, Extension plant pathologist at Kansas State University, says.

Wheat is treated at planting time for a definite and useful purpose, the pathologist says. The mercury treatment protects against smuts and seedling diseases.

However, when treated wheat, known as "pink wheat," is found at terminal markets, the entire carlot is seized and condemned. It is considered contaminated with a poisonous material and is returned to the local elevator in an attempt to trace the cause.

Treat enough wheat at planting time for 90 percent of the acreage, Willis recommends. Then treat by the drill box to complete the job and seed all wheat that has been treated. Drill box treatments include Ceresan M DB and Panogen PX.

From two-thirds to three-fourths of all wheat sown in Kansas is treated before seeding, Willis says.

Stockyards Seek Less P&S Control

WICHITA — There is less regulation of stockyards needed now than in the past, said the president of the American Stockyards Association at the annual convention of the National Livestock Exchange here last week.

Charles Jennings, association president, said amendments to the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921 were proposed that would lessen government regulations of stockyards.

"We feel we are prohibited from doing what we have to do in order to remain competitive," Jennings said. "The economic regulations are especially a problem."

"The stockyards have changed radically since 1921," he said, "but the regulations have not been changed. In 1921 stockyards were in a monopolistic position. In fact, we were declared a public utility at one time. This is no longer true. We are a long way from being a monopoly today."

CLAY COUNTY VOTES HOSPITAL EXPANSION

CLAY CENTER — Clay County voters have voted to spend $250,000 to expand the county hospital from 37 beds to 57 beds. The vote was 1012 to 174.

Cattle receipts were light, due to harvest time and rains, but we again had a heavy run of hogs. Cattle sold on a steady market, cows showing best @ $18.00 to $19.00, with the shelly kind going @ $16.50 to $18.00. We had a few feeders weighing 700-800 lbs., and they sold fairly well with a top of $26.10. Steer calves by the head brought $28.50 to $30.00; the lighter weights $25.00 to $26.50.

Our cattle buyers can be depended upon to look for your cattle, so if you have some that need to go to market, bring them in. Our sales will run without interruption every Saturday.

JUNCTION CITY HOG PRICES CONTINUE STRONG
We'd like to have you check the following representative listings with the terminal market. You will see that we are getting top dollar for you. There are four major packer buyers at our Saturday sale, and they will take all the fat butchers you can bring in.

TORNADO ALLEY

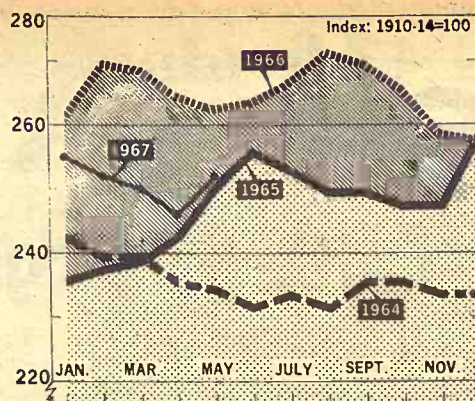

Right in the middle of "Tornado Alley" and known for twisters since the Wizard of Oz was written, Kansas ranked behind five other states in the number of tornadoes reported in 1966. Texas, Florida, Oklahoma, Missouri and Iowa all reported more than Kansas' 47 alerts. Nearly a third of all tornadoes reported in the U.S. last year were in Tornado Alley, the six states in black on the map. Figures indicate the number of tornado alerts in each state.

Farm Liability Hinges On Negligence

Is a farmer liable if someone is injured on his premises by his bull or his machinery? Not necessarily, says a Kansas State University Extension economist. John H. Coolidge explains that a farmer can be held liable only if there has been a negligent action by him or by his employee while doing his farm work. One of the best of the many court definitions of negligence is "failure to use ordinary care under the circumstances," says Coolidge. The question of negligence cannot be settled apart from particular circumstances. Facts of conduct not present in one case may completely change the legal interpretation of another case. He suggests this rule of thumb: A condition or act that seems unreasonable to the average person is generally the type of negligence that causes potential liability. Some examples of leaving a dead calf unburied next to a neighbor's pasture, failing to repair a hole in the barn floor at the bottom of a ladder, leaving fences unrepaired so that livestock get onto the highway, and tossing a pitchfork to a hired man and asking him to catch it. "Farmers should take precautions to help prevent liability," says Coolidge. Carrying farm liability insurance to protect against the accidental injury or death of another person is part of good farm management."

Farm Prices

Prices received by farmers rose in May to 252% of the 1910-14 average from 246% recorded a month earlier, USDA reports.
