AG SCIENCE-HOSPITALITY DAY ON APRIL 11

"Education in Agriculture Means Mobility" is the theme of annual Agricultural Science Day at K-State on April 11. Displays and presentations will emphasize the value of university education and the contributions of the College of Agriculture to research and to the education of young people.

The Little American Royal, sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club and the Dairy Club, will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday evening. This event is patterned after the American Royal in Kansas City. College students fit and show university-owned livestock. Advance tickets can be purchased at a reduced rate from John Meetz, 1919 Platt, Manhattan.

Hospitality Day, sponsored by the College of Home Economics is scheduled for the same day. Displays and presentations by students will emphasize the "Bright New World of Home Economics."

The two morning assemblies for Hospitality Day will feature a fashion show and the K-State Singers. Tours and tea at women's dorms are part of the afternoon program.

4-H members, leaders, and parents are urged to visit K-State for both events. Visitors get to see the latest in agriculture and home economics in addition to touring the campus. Plan to attend as a club group or with your family.

INSERT THIS MONTH

We wish to call your special attention to the Kansas 4-H Foundation insert in their issue. This Honor Roll lists many organizations, businesses and individuals who are providing a big boost to further 4-H Club work in Kansas. The Foundation is people . . . people like these and others, like yourself, who give time and energy in support of 4-H.

SPECIAL FEATURE

Topic for July: How does your club raise money? Do you plan special activities or depend upon contributions? Do you hold annual events? How successful are events such as chili suppers, chicken dinners, having the concession at public events? What problems have you found? Write us and we will pass your ideas on to others.

OUR COVER

Randall Morgan, eleven-year-old Reno county 4-H'er, shows proud approval as his mother, Mrs. Jack Morgan, pins on his bronze 4-H membership pin. This pin represents an achievement of individual accomplishment by Randall. His older brother, Bill, looks on and shares Randall's pride. They have two younger brothers; one joined 4-H this year and the other is looking to future membership. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are project leaders for the Partridge 4-H Club.

The feature on pages four and five of this issue relates to the one on understanding behavior in the January issue and the one on developmental needs in March. Our interest in presenting this material is to help 4-H parents and leaders, like the Morgans, in their role of providing educational and growing experiences for youth.

UNWELCOME GUESTS AT THE FARM . . . .

Inflation is a most serious economic problem. The American dollar has lost more than one-half the purchasing power that it had in 1940. This has caused serious hardship to many citizens with fixed incomes and has had an adverse effect on our entire domestic economy. It is also affecting the stability of the dollar in foreign exchange.

The continued clamor that deficit spending is justified by some "crisis" and the acceptance by many people of a continuing decline in the value of the dollar as an inevitable development serve to emphasize the serious nature of this problem.

Government policies which affect the supply of money and credit should be directed toward promoting a relatively stable general price level together with high employment and rising productivity. Government also has a responsibility to so conduct its affairs as to inspire confidence that extremes of inflation and deflation will be controlled.

Kansas Farm Bureau

105 County Farm Bureaus
Working Together

4-H, a 4-H staff member once said, is the only educational organization which asks someone other than the teacher to do the grading of the student's work. This fact may help account for so many 4-H parents and leaders constantly asking, "Why can't judging be standardized?"

Judges, like the rest of us, are human beings. Judging is basically personal opinion. Problems sometimes arise when the project leader, with his or her ideas as to the standards for the club members to meet, teaches the youngster one way to do things, then finds the person who judges the finished product at the county fair to have other ideas on how it should be done.

The 4-H system of evaluating may also be somewhat fallacious when the objectives of 4-H are reviewed. The article in the March issue of the Kansas 4-H Journal indicated 4-H objectives may be summarized by saying they are to help the boys and girls in their "growing up" process, supplementing the experiences of home, school and church. If the objective is to develop the boy or girl, then the wrong thing may be being judged at the county fair. The boy or girl themselves should be judged, not the product they exhibit. Some boys or girls with white ribbon exhibits may actually have developed further during the year than some who won blue ribbons.

However, I would hasten to add that I think the judging of exhibits at the county fair is fine. It has a definite place in the 4-H program. It provides recognition for the members and, where the exhibits are judged against a more definite standard of quality, it provides a goal for the members.

As far as measuring the progress of the member during the year, it fails because it does not give any indication of where the member started.

In most educational institutions and organizations, the teacher who works with the student throughout the year, gives the final grade.

To supplement, and in a few cases replace the county fair competition and exhibition experience for the 4-H member, individual member evaluation by the leaders who work with the member during the year is suggested. With individual member evaluation, leaders would counsel individually with their members at the start of the year to determine educational goals for the year.

An example of one of these goals might be to learn how to sew a hem in an apron. At the end of the 4-H year, the leader would again counsel individually with the club members to determine the progress made towards achieving the goal, and to set new goals for the coming year.

Most members would continue to exhibit at the county fair and have their finished product judged. Psychologists tell us competition is extremely distasteful for some boys and girls. These would not wish and should not be forced to participate in the county fair. For them, the important "judging" will be accomplished in the visit with the leaders.

Project Requirements

If it can be assumed that the basic objective of the 4-H program is to develop the boy and girl, then one may question the necessity or desirability of setting up rigid requirements for the projects which are used to help develop the boy or girl.

Boys and girls are individuals. They are of different ages and they come from a wide variety of home situations. Interests, as well as capabilities, are different. Project requirements need to be flexible enough to take into consideration these various abilities and interests. Undoubtedly, some boys and girls in nearly every community are denied the advantages of the 4-H program by arbitrary and rigid standards.

Instead of requiring each boy and girl to meet certain specified standards, the concern should be with the progress the boy or girl is making.

Recognition

Characteristics of boys and girls in their various age levels seem to suggest a possible re-orientation of the 4-H Awards program.

Boys and girls eight to eleven years like symbols and regalia. Awards and incentives are needed for grade school members. They like pins, medals and other forms of recognition or achievement.

On the basis of this description, it would seem appropriate to make it possible for members to receive a membership pin every year—and that they not be required to hand in their old one each time. These younger members like to collect the awards which are relatively inexpensive and which really do stimulate participation by the 4-H members.

Even further than a membership pin, leaders in some counties have suggested the younger members be given project pins during the year when they have achieved objectives set by the member and the leader. Kansas has one award similar to this. The safety program pins awarded by the Kansas Farm Bureau Safety Department are given to all members who meet certain objectives. Thousands are given annually to Kansas 4-H members.

Boys and girls in the junior high school age group are different. Peer approval is much more important than adult approval. They still like pins and medals, but there is a need for a more definite standard for the 13 to 15 year old boys and girls than for the younger members.

Better than pins and medals, however, this group likes to be recognized by being given more responsibility (which they will assume with varying degrees) and by making them feel more grown up. It's more important to have all members of a clique in a club. Stature is added to 4-H membership when all members of a clique are enrolled.

Most, though not all, senior high school boys and girls value pins and visible tokens less. They are much more self conscious about visible adult recognition than even the junior high school boys and girls. And form of recognition which makes the boy or girl "stick out" is embarrassing.

Thanks and congratulations in private is much more important than public recognition. Esteem by peers is important.

There are some boys and girls who do like visible adult recognition. These are, generally, the ones who are now in 4-H. The fact that many of the high school age 4-H members like this form of recognition makes many leaders think most boys and girls are like this.

Summary

These suggestions and ideas are exploratory. Some may be different from the Kansas 4-H program methods now being used. Some may not be equally adaptable or suited to all clubs and communities. Most, however, might find some application for many of these suggestions.

While exploratory, these suggestions and ideas are based on the objectives summarized as "helping the boy or girl to develop into a useful community citizen" and the characteristics of boys and girls as described by both educational psychologists and parents.

Your ideas of how to reach the 4-H objectives for the boy or girl may be different from those expressed here. Both yours and these may have possibilities. It may be there's really many different ways of reaching the 4-H objectives.

HONOR ROLL

I S D E D I C A T E D

* From Chapel dedication plaque

Our sincere thanks to you who, during 1963, contributed to the training of youth through the Kansas 4-H Foundation.

4-H is informal education supplementing training in the home, church, and school in helping members reach citizenship potentials. That so many individuals and organizations recognize its value to our state and nation is most assuring.

The figure preceding the name indicates the number of years of support since the Foundation Membership and Share Recognition plan was started in June, 1954. Every effort has been made to avoid errors or omissions. Please notify the Foundation if any contributor has been left off the Honor Roll.

THE BUILDER

I saw them tearing a building down,
 A gang of men in my hometown.
 With a yo-heave ho and a lusty yell
 They swung a beam and a side wall fell.
 I asked the foreman, "Are these men skilled
 As the men you'd use if you had to build?"
 And he laughed and said, "Oh! no indeed,
 The commonest labor is all I need,
 For I can wreck in a day or two
 What a builder has taken a year to do."
 And I thought to myself as I went my way,
 "Which of these roles have I tried to play?"
 Have I helped with the 4-H girl and boy
 That their lives and others may be filled with joy?
 With an investment in the 4-H Foundation
 I have helped these youth build a better Nation.
 Count me among those who will do their share
 To make homes and the Nation more wondrously fair.

Personal Development

by Lou Ellen Bruning

Kay Winterscheidt and

Larry Swaim, Brown County

This team of 4-H'ers is helping fellow teenagers with their personal development. Last year they demonstrated proper etiquette, grooming and poise on a dinner date. Lou Ellen reminds girls to give their date the opportunity to be polite. The boy may suggest a menu to fit his budget and places the order for he and his date. Pleasant conversation is important during a dinner date. Larry points out that tipping is customary in most restaurants and should usually amount to 15 percent of the bill. In closing they remind the audience to, "Practice your best table manners at home every day and you will have them when you need them".

In their latest demonstration, Larry acts as an employer who is interviewing secretarial prospects. Kay, who demonstrates several ways to leave a bad impression with a prospective employer, is first. She is in her sixth year in 4-H and second year in the Personal Development project. She is not prepared for the interview and shows little interest in the work. She is not well groomed and is distracting to the interviewer.

Lou Ellen demonstrates the opposite by being polite, well groomed and mannerly. She is able to tell about experience she has gained in summer work and about related courses she is taking in high school. She tells about her extra-curricular activities in school and relates to her prospective employer many advantages of 4-H membership. Lou Ellen is in her 7th year in 4-H and third year in the Personal Development project.

Larry, Kay and Lou Ellen are emphasizing the Appearance, Manners, and Character Development phases of Personal Development this year. All three are members of the Robinson Meadowlarks 4-H Club. Larry is a seventh year 4-H member and third year in the project. As a team they emphasize the importance of personal development and give helpful hints for improvement. They feel the job interview is of interest and importance to all teenagers.

Young 4-H'ers Have Day Camp

Because some young 4-H members must stay home while their older brothers and sisters go off to camp each summer, the Junior Leadership Club of Ellis County, found a project by sponsoring a day camp for young 4-H'ers.

With the help of the county extension agents and leaders, preparations were made for the project which would give beginner 4-H'ers a chance to go to camp.

At the beginning of the day, the members were given instructions about the grounds and what to do if they needed First Aid. Then, just like regular camp, the members were assigned to a color group with junior leaders as sponsors. This gave the campers a chance to meet new friends and prepare them for when they would attend regular camp.

Each color group went on hikes, sightseeing trips and played group games for the rest of the morning.

After lunch the members gathered to sing and listen to songs performed for them by junior leaders. Following the sing-along session, the groups competed for prizes. Closing the competition was a watermelon feed. Late in the afternoon the younger members played softball with the junior leaders with the younger campers winning.

Supper was served in the evening, closing a wonderful day for the younger members who don't feel left out anymore when it comes to camping in Ellis County.

Training in Depth is Well Received by Leaders

A new approach to 4-H leader training was tried in Rice and Sedgwick counties this year. It is called "Leader Training in Depth", a basic course in 4-H organizational procedures and methods for new leaders. This training was accomplished in a series of meetings, one per week, for five or six weeks. Leaders with up to three years experience were considered new leaders.

A planning committee of leaders determined the subjects of the meetings. Leaders who enrolled for the course were asked to commit themselves to attend all of the meetings.

Topics for the five meetings in Rice county were: 1) Getting To Know You and 4-H, 2) Demonstrations and Talks, 3) Understanding Youth, 4) Challenge of Project, and 5) Leadership and You.

The reason most given for enrolling in the course was, "wanted to gain more information about 4-H and learn how to be a better leader". 57 per cent of these leaders are in similar positions with other community organizations. One final evaluation was the recommendation the course be offered each year.

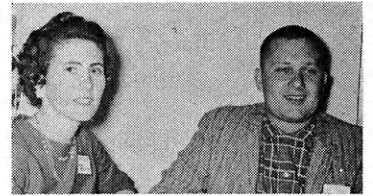

Upon completion of the course, Rice county leaders were presented the Certificate of Completion. Only those who attended at least four of the five meetings received the certificate.

These Leaders Commented on the Course

MR. & MRS. DON BUTTS, STERLING

Mrs. Butts; "The session about talks and demonstrations was really the one I enjoyed most."

Mr. Butts; "Never being in 4-H, I wanted to get a background basis of what it was about —which I got."

MRS. DOROTHY RUPERT, LYONS

"I was mainly interested in learning how to be a better leader. I enjoyed the session on demonstrations and talks."

MRS. EILEEN ROBINSON, LYONS

"There are a lot of changes from when I was in 4-H . . . being a member and being a leader are two different things."

MUSIC APPRECIATION

Musical Hobbies

One way of stimulating interest in musical activities is to begin by making music a hobby. Do you have a record collection? A sheet music collection? Do you make it a game to see how many folk songs you know? or rounds, hymns, or Broadway musicals?

The forming and sharing of such collections can help you become more interested in music as a part of your life and also lead others to share in some aspect of music as a lifelong hobby.

Consider some of these topics as possible ideas for collections: Recordings, Music boxes, Old and new hymnals, Folk songs (American or other country), Popular songs of different decades, Unusual instruments, Folk dances, Action songs, Patriotic songs, Music in the News, Stolen songs from the classics, Famous songs from Broadway, Pictures of performers, School songs, 4-H songs, State songs.

You will find help from these resources: libraries, churches, music stores, homes (here you will often find old music and recordings), community musicians, current magazines and papers, and above all, people.

Here are some specific examples of musical hobbies:

1. Make a study of river songs. These subjects related to river life could be enlarged to fill this hobby: songs about barges, driftwood, fishing, bridges, river stories, river boats, or songs about different rivers, such as Mississippi "Old Man River", Danube "Blue Danube Waltz", Missouri "Missouri Waltz", Afton "Flow Gently Sweet Afton", Jordan "Deep River", Volga "Volga Boatman", Swanee "Way Down Upon the Swanee River".

2. Collect action songs, or create new directions to be acted out to old familiar songs. Teach your family or fellow 4-H'ers new action songs.

Ceremonies: Highlighting 4-H Work

Editor's Note: We asked Charles Bates, Extension Specialist in 4-H Club Work, to comment on the use of ceremonies in 4-H. The following feature includes his ideas plus those sent in by 4-H members and leaders. The general suggestions for ceremonies were taken from the extension bulletin "Adventures with 4-H Ceremonies" by the State 4-H Staff.

4-H Club ceremonies may serve a very useful purpose in highlighting the ideals of 4-H club work with dignity and beauty and creating a closer bond among members, leaders, and parents. Throughout history, ceremonies have played an important part in transferring pride of country and faith in its ideals from one generation to another.

In 4-H club work, considerable importance may be attached to the ceremonies which highlight the 4-H emblem, pledge, motto, creed, and often 4-H songs. All express the basic philosophy and idealism of the club program.

Ceremonies can provide inspiration or offer an opportunity to do some serious thinking. They may be serious or light, depending on the occasion. Some may have a religious emphasis, others do not.

There are many sources for ideas and information about ceremonies. The best source and the one most available is yourself. The key to preparation of a meaningful ceremony is using imagination and ingenuity. Old ceremonies may be used but should be guides only. Make changes to meet your own purpose or need.

The responsibility for club ceremonies will vary from club to club. Many clubs may have appointed a ceremony committee whose primary responsibility is that of determining, planning, and presenting ceremonies during the club year.

In developing ceremonies, keep the following guidelines in mind: There should always be a purpose for a ceremony. Ceremonies should be built around one thought, one idea.

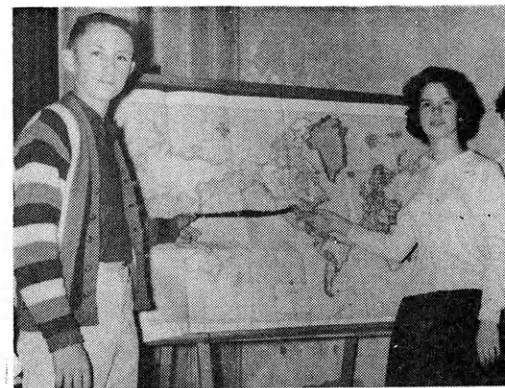

Successful ceremonies are those that are impressive and meaningful. Impressiveness can be accomplished by the use of candles, music, etc. Meaningfulness may be accomplished by having a purpose.

Simplicity is very important in the development of a meaningful ceremony. Ceremonies should be constructed around one idea, avoiding complications.

Suggestions from Clubs

The Oxford Hustlers 4-H Club, Johnson County, recognized leaders at their achievement night program. Each leader was given a construction paper silhouette of the project he was responsible for. A number representing the years served was attached to each silhouette.

New members of the Liberty Rose Creek 4-H Club, Republic County, are linked together. Leaders receive gold links; officers, purple; members, white; and new members, green. The ceremony leader says "Our 4-H chain will be as strong as each individual link will make it."

Simple, yet appropriate objects helped make this "uniting ceremony" between The Talmage Progressive 4-H Club, Dickinson County, and the Jang Baek 4-H Club, Korea, effective. Kent Noel, Linda Bathurst, and Mrs. Sheldon Freeman conducted the ceremony.

Lynette Weese was honored at a ceremony by members of her club, Busy Bugs, in Linn County. She had received state recognition in recreation and safety. Refreshments at the recognition included cakes shaped and decorated like her notebooks and a green punch.

Talmage Progressive 4-H Club, Dickinson County, held a uniting ceremony with its sister club, Jang Baek 4-H Club of Korea.

A purple seal awarded the Campus Champions in Harvey County was placed on the club plaque in a ceremony.

Ideas for Ceremonies

These are themes to develop for ceremonies: 4-H Sunday; holidays; recognition of Who's Who members, parents, leaders, advisory committee, friends of 4-H, long tenure members, 4-H alumni, 4-H Journal sponsors; initiation of new members; National 4-H Week; presentations of awards won by members, of United Nations Flag; IFYE; People to People activities; placing club seal on charter; completion of 4-H projects; 4-H motto; honoring U. S. flag; club anniversary; and graduation of members from grade school, high school, or 4-H.

Former 4-H girls are finding a "home away from home" at Clovia 4-H House at K-State.

Organized in 1931, Clovia is a cooperative living group. The housework, cooking and other tasks are done by the girls, thus cutting expenses by about $20 per month. Each girl spends Mealtime at Clovia bring members together for food and fellowship.

All meals served at Clovia are prepared by the girls living there.

about three to four hours a week working at duties arranged to fit in with her class schedule. Many Clovia girls hold part-time jobs on campus in addition to living at Clovia.

A full time housemother helps with meal planning, buying, social graces, and personal problems. The house is governed by officers elected by the active members. Meetings are held once a week to discuss campus and house activities.

Scholarship is important as Clovia members strive to maintain a high house grade average. Students with a "B" average are recognized at a scholarship dinner.

Clovia offers social opportunities with an annual formal dinner dance, informal house parties, and special dinners and teas.

High school seniors and transfer students who have been 4-H members and are interested in combining a social and educational experience, are invited to write for more information and an application form. Requests should be addressed to: Clovia 4-H House, Kansas 4-H Office, Umberger Hall, KSU, Manhattan, Kansas.

Clovia coeds study to maintain a high grade average for the house.

Ideas That Work

"Business Busy" Club

Prosperity 4-H Club members in Reno County were "business busy" at a recent meeting. The club voted scholarships for two leaders to attend State Leaders Conference in March. A skating party was planned for the club. The club has had a concession stand at all the home basketball games of the Prosperity Grade School for a money making project.

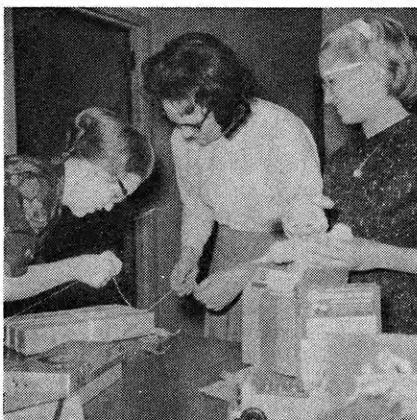

A letter from Peggy Christman, IFYE to Thailand from Reno County, and a former member of the club, was read as part of the program.

Help Orphanage

Twelve two-pound gift packages have been sent to an orphanage in Brazil by Seward County 4-H'ers. Last summer, Mauro Barbosa, IFYE from Brazil, was a guest in the home of Tima Sue Heusner, County Council president. Mauro teaches high school mathematics and manages an orphanage in Rio Verde, Goias. He told of the need for clothing and food in the orphanage.

At a countywide Christmas caroling party, each 4-H'er brought a small gift such as toys or new garments for infants and small children. In addition to these items, dry milk powder was included in the packages. Bonnie Bushart, Tima Sue Heusner, and Marita Kay Bushart are shown wrapping the packages.

Local club meeting stories, if submitted, should contain something unusual or of interest to people outside your county.

Outstanding projects, services or events of your club, or stories of individuals within your club that would give ideas to other 4-H'ers would make excellent stories.

Prizes will be awarded all blue award stories each month. Please state your choice (1) a year's subscription to the National 4-H Club News or (2) a hard cover loose leaf 4-H notebook.

Ideas In Brief

Seward County . . . Busy Bee and Wide Awake 4-H Clubs—Working with the United Fund March of Dimes, club members collected a "Block of Dimes" on main street in Liberal. $326 was contributed to the fund.

Rice County . . . The Lyons State Bank provides the National 4-H Club Record Calendar. The extension office takes the calendars apart and notes each 4-H event on the proper day. The calendars are then reassembled and distributed to each 4-H family in the county. Regular newsletters are issued by the extension office too. Members favor the calendar as they can look months ahead instead of just a few weeks.

Harvey County . . . Junior Leaders Club—Robert Whitfield, administrator of Methodist Youthville, spoke to club members about the problems of youth in connection with parents, school and other youth. He included points on personality, reputation, character, value systems, school problems, and problems of a fast changing world and leisure time.

Saline County . . . Saline Valley 4-H Club—Rosslyn Johnson, delegate to National 4-H Congress in 1963 in the home improvement project, showed slides of her trip to Chicago at a recent meeting.

Comanche County . . . When "planners" found it difficult to set a date for the 4-H Achievement banquet because of evening basketball games, they planned a noon luncheon. Attendance was as large as usual except that some 4-H fathers were unable to attend.

Valentine Dinner

When entering the door of the American Legion Building on February 10, the aroma of food filled the air. The Richland Livewires 4-H Club was having a basket supper. Since this was also a Valentine Party, the room was decorated with red hearts and red and white streamers on the tables.

Jack Lockwood led the group in singing, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and the "Doxology." After the meal, Mr. and Mrs. Torsten Ljungberg, exchange students from Sweden, took club members to their native country via the slide projector.

A gift exchange was enjoyed by the club members for recreation.

Gove County . . . Angelus 4-H Club—Members used their "hands for larger service" when they recovered folding chairs owned by a local church and used by the community. Parents and junior leaders showed members how to apply the artificial leather to the chair seats.

Allen County . . . Eager Beavers 4-H Club—Thirty two boys and girls are members of this new Humboldt City club. Assisting in the promotion of the new club were a local newspaper, banker, civic club, and the Logan Pals 4-H Club. New community leaders were selected at an organization meeting.

Doniphan County . . . Junior Leaders—Career guidance was the discussion topic at a countywide meeting. County extension agents were in charge of the meeting and were assisted by John Hanna, state 4-H specialist. Adult leaders as well as junior leaders participated in the discussion session.

Finney County . . . Four 4-H'ers accompanied by 4-H parents attended the Denver Livestock Show. Their trip was sponsored by the Southwest Equipment Company and Brookover Feed Yards.

Reno County . . . Arlington 4-H Club—Part of this club's safety goal this year is sponsoring a safety refresher course in their community. All residents will be invited to attend.

Allen County . . . 5-Star 4-H Club—The regular monthly meeting combined a business session and a rabbit husbandry program. A local rabbit breeder and a sales representative of the Albers Feed Mill presented information and showed movies to the 150 persons present.

Reno County . . . Ninnescah 4-H Club—Club members are securing 4-H stickers to put in windows of their homes so that people who visit their neighborhood can tell they are cooperating in the 4-H Club program.

Alliance Companies
McPherson, Kansas
FIRE — CASUALTY — LIFE
Serving Kansas Since 1888

Saline County . . . Bavaria Livewire 4-H Club—Club members prepare and serve the annual Farmer's Union Coop Elevator Dinner and receive $50 for their efforts. Because they were usually short of silverware for the event, part of the proceeds were used to buy silverware. The silver will be used another occasion too.

RECREATION

By Dick Tomkinson

Recreation in Brazil

An "Evaluation of the Initial 4-H Peace Corps Project in Brazil" has just arrived in our office. In reading the report on the number of training meetings held, method demonstrations, given, etc., the following summary is given on recreation:

"Recreation was found to be the greatest initial contribution made by volunteers. This was a means of getting one's 'foot in the door' with counterparts, clubs and leaders during the first months on the job. The impact on recreation was greater than in any other area. Though most clubs had selected leaders, few had any form of organized recreation program. In many areas, recreation was the thing that revived members interest in the club. Playing together, the club members learned that recreation could be fun for boys and girls. In some cases recreation was conducted at the beginning of the meeting to assure promptness of members. The introduction of recreation as part of the 4-S program produced a new potential that local leadership could develop. Our counterparts found recreation to be the simplest and most effective way to step down from their professional pedestal and be accepted by members."

This summary is an excellent example of WHY social recreation is so important to 4-H.

Game of the Month

Recreation at the Turon 4-H Club meeting in Reno County consisted of drawing a picture while looking at the ceiling or with eyes closed. Paul Abendshien reports that it was "great fun and very interesting pictures were the results."

The first concrete rigid frame farm building in the United States. This swine growing house is one element of the University of Illinois' hog research farm.

gable frames of precast concrete bring a new idea to the farm

Bringing concrete squarely into the prefabricated farm building field is this newest development from agricultural engineers at the University of Illinois.

The basic element of the structure is a clear span reinforced concrete gable frame, cast in the products plant and hauled to the jobsite. Also provided are precast foundations for the frame, and wall panels of uniform dimensions. Thus, the entire building can be cast at the plant, trucked to the farm and quickly erected.

The building shown has clear spans of 30' x 64' and is adaptable to a wide variety of farm uses. Future expansion is no problem. End panels are located under the frames. They can be moved as the building is extended, or left in place to serve as partitions.

Today, precasting of standard concrete components brings lower cost along with the recognized advantages of concrete's low maintenance and unexcelled durability and firesafety.

Write for free plans showing reinforcement and construction details of this latest farm development with concrete.

4-H Members Learn Electric Skills at Brown County Workshop

Pictured above, in the Kansas Power and Light Company's Hiawatha plant, is the group of Brown County 4-H members learning electric skills at their 4-H Electric project workshop. Charles Engler, KPL Division Manager, and Elvon Van Dalsen, former electric state winner, had charge of the meetings. 29 of the 31 Brown County electric project enrollees attended the four meetings.

Mr. Engler chose the projects and procured the kits while Elvon planned the instructional part of the meetings. Assisting them were several adult and junior leaders. The last meeting of the workshop was devoted to judging the finished products. Furthermore, a large percent of the projects completed at this workshop are later exhibited at fairs.

These items were made at the Brown county 4-H Electric training school. The members assembled lamps, small electric motors, miniature hot beds and extension cords.
