THE SPIRIT OF KANSAS.

An Illustrated Farm and Home Weekly Newspaper.

KIMBALL & STEVENS,
Publishers,
Lawrence, Kansas.

The Spirit of Kansas is the first class family journal, devoted to farm and home interests that go to make up the greater part of our Western life. It will be found useful to those engaged in any of the departments of rural labor. Its articles, practical and selected, will be such as will interest and instruct. Its editorial pages will treat of matters relating to our social, industrial, and political life, wherever and whenever the future of the great working masses appears involved, and always from a broad, comprehensive and independent standpoint. We shall endeavor to make a paper representing the great west.

Our regular subscription price, for single subscribers will be as usual $1.50 with liberal reduction to clubs.

Agents are wanted in every county in the west to whom commissions will be given that will enable them to earn money.

Can have a limited edition of our paper. The price will be lower for the reader and will be valuable, but in proportion to circulation will be less than that of most other papers of its class.

Rate: 10 cents per line of space each insertion, 14 lines to an inch.

The ground in many places is frozen to the depth of fourteen inches. A great many farmers and gardeners are anxious to know how long this state of affairs will exist. It is best not to know the time when a change will take place but quietly wait for the wagon. It will come.

Four men came down last week and took the largest one in the lot of buffaloes at Bismarck away to Topeka, where before this time he has been executed, and his remains divided among his friends. For more than two years he had been growing vicious and defied everything that crossed his path. In the summer season he was allowed the freedom of the pasture, but with this he was not content. He would allow no person in this enclosure. For the past month it has been deemed necessary to remove him from Bismarck.

It is no uncommon thing to hear of swindlers in different localities who generally make their points among that class of persons who are unable to resist their efforts and nefarious schemes. A few weeks since some peddlers canvassed Grant township in the interest of a house in Chicago, as they claimed. These men were selling dry goods of all kinds, from an overcoat to a pocket handkerchief. They claimed to have imported goods which had been smuggled from London, and consequently could sell them about twenty-five per cent. less than any of our Lawrence merchants. Before they commenced their canvass they found it necessary to know the standing of these farmers; for they sold their goods on one and two years time, and took their notes. After they had made a sale they would take the notes to some Lawrence bank and sell them at a discount of 25 per cent. This is one way of swindling. A few days since some book agents were selling Bibles in this city, and claimed to be Bible students. But upon examination it was found that they had never read a book in the Bible. One of these book agents had visited a house not less than three times, and this was always when the owner was absent. The last time this book agent called, he insulted the good lady because she would not buy a Bible, while at the same time there were no less than three of these books on the book-case, near by. The gentleman who lives at this house where this transaction took place, has served a few years in the army, during which time he participated in several successful engagements, and more than a hundred times slept on "his arms," and is willing to do so again if his house is invaded. This might be called another way of swindling. If these two classes of swindlers wish to make their business respectable, they should make but one call, and have that as brief as possible.

Hard to Believe.
It is hard to believe that a man was cured of a kidney disease after his body swollen as big as a barrel and he had been given up as incurable and lay at death's door. Yet such a cure was accomplished by Kidney-Wort in the person of M. M. Devereaux of Iowa, Mich., who says: "After thirteen of the best doctors in Detroit had given me up, I was cured by Kidney-Wort. I want every one to know what a boon it is."

Western National Fair Association.

The board met pursuant to adjournment, at the office of the secretary. The members were, Messrs. Ewalt, Stenborg, Van Hoesen, Hughes, Leis, Allen, Brown, Buckingham, Holm, Heath, Rice, Clarke and Conger, who were sworn in office by W. A. Harris. The election of officers being in order Dr. Ewalt was nominated for president of the association for the ensuing year, and was unanimously elected, but declined in favor of Judge Allen, of Leavenworth.

A motion was made and carried that a vote of thanks be tendered Dr. Ewalt, and the same put upon record, for his untiring efforts in making the fair of last year such a grand success.

The following persons were elected vice presidents:
First vice president, Dr. Wm. Ewalt;
second vice president, Gen. John A. Rice;
third vice president, W. W. Dickinson;
fourth vice president, W. W. Winton; fifth vice president, J. B. Abbott.

R. W. Cunningham was placed in nomination and unanimously elected secretary for the ensuing year.

The following gentlemen were elected to fill various positions, but declined to serve: W. A. Harris, Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Livermore and Mr. Hinton. The following named gentlemen were then elected in their stead: L. Bullene, Thos. Bain, S. E. H. Drought, S. C. Usher and John C. Ellis.

The salary of the secretary was fixed at $1,500, he to pay his own clerical help.

The following named gentlemen were elected as an Executive Committee:
I. N. Van Hoesen, Wm. Miller, L. Bullene, Dr. Ewalt, and R. J. Brown, of Leavenworth.

Several bills were here read and allowed.

The matter of the election of a general superintendent was left to the executive committee.

A communication from the secretary elect, accepting the position, was received and read.

The question of preparing a premium list was left to the executive committee, who will probably report at the next meeting.

The secretary was then authorized to re-rent the office occupied by him for another year.

Mr. Geo. Leis chairman of the committee on stock, read their report, which was adopted, and the secretary instructed to issue stock to parties entitled to the same.

On motion, the association adjourned, to meet the last Tuesday in March.

The Flood at Cincinnati.

Noted among the many exciting and interesting incidents in connection with the late Ohio river flood at Cincinnati, was the fact that the Ohio & Mississippi Railroad was at no time out of running order. This road was the only line making direct connection for the West, without excessive delay. Even at the gloomiest period, when all other Western roads were cut off, the indomitable pluck and energy of the managers of that line asserted itself; organizing a yawl transfer from the end of the Eighth street line of cars, they carried passengers rapidly, and with perfect safety, to the only available landing place in Cincinnati, at Storms station, on the O. & M. road, where there were in waiting elegant and commodious steamers, which made three trips each day between Cincinnati and Aurora, in both directions, thus affording their patrons, instead of the usual provoking delays and additional heavy expense, caused by high water, a most enjoyable excursion of twenty-five miles, giving them a full and magnificent daylight view of the Ohio, as it has never been seen before, and probably never will again, and making intermediate connections at Aurora for all points West, Northwest, South and Southwest.

COLORLESS AND COLD.—A young girl deeply regretted that she was so colorless and cold. Her face was too white, and her hands and feet felt as though the blood did not circulate. After one bottle of Hop Bitters had been taken she was the rosiest and healthiest girl in the town, with a vivacity and cheerfulness of mind gratifying to her friends.

In place of the poke we will have a modified Du stable called the Mignon. The nutritive properties of Colben's Liquid Beef Tonic sustains the body without solid food. Coldens; no other.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

BY MRS. KATE R. HILL.

For the Lawrence News.

Yes; still look up, O! sinking hearts,
An eye, whose courage fails;
Hope with this clear-cut truth ne'er parts,
That night will bring no dawn,
And woman's heart and woman's hand
May rescue love and save the land.

Not only around the fireside hearth
Her dainty feet must tread;
But in the lowly paths of earth,
She, by the Christ-child led,
May woo, O! from the Tempter's side,
Some souls for whom the savior died.

"Shame on the heart" that weakly grieves
Over the "sunset cup,"
And from white-browed brings but leaves,
Or empty hands voids up;
This holiest word to mortals given,
The tar to Paradise has given

Rouse up, then, woman to thy toll,
Good seed though long out in seed,
Hath budded off on earth's soil,
And shall in Eden bloom.

And this that thou dost bring thy prize,
May win that star home in the skies,
Munhattan, Kansas.

A Wreck of a Man.
What wreck so shocking to behold as the wreck of a dissolute man—the vigor of life exhausted, and yet the first steps in an honorable career not taken; in himself a Lazar-house of diseases; dead, but, by a heathenish custom of society, not buried.

Rogies have had the initial letter of their title burned into their hands; even for murder, Cain was only branded on the forehead; but over the whole of the forehead of the inebriate the signatures of infamy are written. How nature brands him with stigma and opprobrium; how she hangs labels all over him, to testify her disgust at his existence, and to admonish others to beware of his example; how she loosens all his joints, sends tremors along his muscles, and bends forward his frame, as if to bring him upon his all-fours with kindred brutes, or to degrade the reptile's crawling; how she disfigures his countenance, as if intent upon obliterating all traces of her own image so that she may swear she never made him; how she pours rheum over his eyes, sends foul spirits to inhabit his breath, and shrieks as with a trumpet, "BEHOLD A BEAST!"

Such a man may be seen in the street of our cities every day; if rich enough, he may be found in the saloons and at the tables of the "upper ten;" but surely to every man of purity and honor, to every man whose wisdom as well as whose heart is unblemished, the wretch who comes cowering and bleeding from the pillory, and redolent with its appropriate perfume, would be a guest or a companion far less offensive and disgusting.—(Horace Mann.)

LITTLE MARY.
Sitting by my pleasant fireside, listening to the winds as they sweep unceasingly by, and with a moon through the cedar branches without, I was thinking of the many children who read this paper, and I wondered if they all had cheerful homes, bright fires, and kind parents whom they loved, to shield them tenderly from these bitter storms.

Dear children, I believe you are earnest temperance workers in the Band of Hope, and I know that you with your bright young Christian lives, will be the future hope of our country. Ere many years shall have swept into the unreturning past, we, your elders, will have passed from active life and you will have taken your places in the front ranks of christian temperance work, in business, in all the affairs of our loved and glorious country.

While my thoughts were absorbed in your present, and your future lives, dear children, it occurred to me to relate to you a circumstance that came under my own observation, of a sweet little girl whom I knew many years ago. When I was a child, many stories and histories of Scotland fell in my way, and were eagerly read, creating in my childish heart a love for that noble and daring people. I loved to read and think of the powerful clans and warrior chiefs who lived in the mountain fastnesses; of the beauties and grandeur of their rocky Highland homes as portrayed in the descriptions of the word-painter, Walter Scott. In olden times deadly feuds used to exist between bands of clans of this nation of warriors, but times are happily changed there, and it is now the land of learning and religion.

The people are peaceful, and have the name of having the best schools and colleges in the world.

You can see on your maps where this historic country lies. Look at its history; for somewhere among these craggy rocks grand mountains, and beautiful blue lakes, the first few years of little Mary's life were passed. Many wild legends and stories came to the child's ears of the bold acts of her brave and knightly ancestors. But in her secluded mountain home knowledge came, and through them the parents heard of a fertile land, far away, beyond the stormy Atlantic, a land overflung with every choice thing, where numberless broad acres were lying wild and idle for want of strong hands to till them.

So gathering up their worldly treasures the child herself the chief, they embarked for America. After a tedious and stormy voyage, they landed upon our shores, strangers in a strange land. Everything was new to them, and so different from what they had known in their own country; sickness and poverty overtook them, and then came strong temptation to the noble-hearted father, in the hope of the intoxicating cup. The demon met him at every corner, thirsting for his soul. At last he yielded and fell. To the once happy wife and daughter came this heart-crushing sorrow. The young mother soon faded and died, the father, too, in a few short months was laid by her side, and little Mary was doubly an orphan among strangers. The little girl shared the common lot of the poor, the homeless and friendless, carrying with her the opprobrium that always attaches itself to the drunkard's child. Surely a hard fate had fallen upon this gentle young girl.

Thus she lived a few years, until at last her aged grand-parents arrived from Scotland, sought her out and never more did Mary want for home and friends. At school she was a sweet-tempered, obedient, and obliging little girl, dearly loved by every one. She never grew discouraged and was ever hard lessons, but with a kept on studying and trying until the task was accomplished.

When I used to meet her in the school room, I could not forbear laying my hand upon her sunny curls and repeating the sweet name, "Mary." Many years have passed since then, and little Mary is a woman now. And what kind of a woman, do you ask? I will tell you. Her husband, for she is married, has wealth, and she is surrounded by all that is luxurious and beautiful. But her whole soul is absorbed in one object—charity. She devotes with untiring energy the greater part of her time, her talents, and much of her means, to this mission. She is the founder and head of a school and Home for orphan children. It is delightful work for her to gather in the little waifs, clothe and feed them, and enjoy their happiness. No fear for her comes to her as she goes graded into the streets where the most degraded people dwell, and where poverty and filth and evil bear sway. Her loving heart goes out in sympathy for all. In the drunkard's hut, comforting the sorrowing, talking to the little ones, visiting the sick, a helper to all. Yet, with what tenderness, does she care for those unfortunate little children whose parents are addicted to drunkenness and in her unwearied exertions in behalf of these she has smoothed many rough paths for little feet to tread. Is not her life beautiful? Yes, filled full of the most beautiful devotion, carrying energy and happiness wherever her presence can be seen. S. A. W.

I can safely recommend Ely's Cream Balm for the cure of Catarrh. Cold in the Head, of which I have used the first bottle I purchased I find myself cured. Weather Reporter February.

(Prepared by Prof. F. H. Snow, of the University of Kansas, from observations taken at Lawrence.)

This month, although nearly five degrees colder than the February average, has been exceeded in average coldness by four Februaries in the past 16 years, '74, '75, '81 and '82. The minimum temperature, however, was high, having been lower in ten of the preceding Februaries. The rainfall and humidity were nearly normal, the cloudiness was excessive, and the wind velocity was considerably above the average. The peculiar sunset at 6 o'clock of the preceding month was occasionally observed, but had apparently disappeared before the end of the month.

Mean Temperature—58.63 degrees, which is 5.13 degrees below the February average. The highest temperature was 67 degrees on the 25th; the lowest was one degree below zero on the 13th, giving a monthly range of 68 degrees. The mercury reached the zero point but once. Mean temperature at 7 a. m., 21.86 degrees; at 2 p. m., 33.43 degrees; at 9 p. m., 28.41 degrees.

Rainfall—Including melted snow, 1.13 inches, which is 0.20 inch below the February average. Rain fell 4 days and snow on 4 days. The entire depth of snow was two inches. There was one thunder shower. The entire rainfall for the two months of 1884, now completed, has been 2.41 inches, which is 0.13 inch below the average for the same months in the preceding 16 years.

Mean Cloudiness—54.33 per cent. of the sky, the month being 8.27 per cent. cloudier than usual. Number of clear days (less than one-third cloudy), 9; half clear, (one to two-thirds cloudy), 8; clear, (more than two-thirds), 13. There were four entirely clear days and eight entirely cloudy. Mean cloudiness at 7 a. m., 63.10 per cent.; at 2 p. m., 50 per cent.; at 9 p. m., 49.166 per cent. Relative Humidity—S. W., 20 times; N. E., 18 times; S. E., 15 times, S., 4 times; W., twice; E., once; N., once. The total run of the wind was 11,742 miles, which is 841 miles above the February average. This gives a mean daily velocity of 464.89 miles and a mean hourly velocity of 16.87 miles. The highest velocity was 54 miles an hour on the 18th.

Barometer—Mean for the month, 29.158 inches; at 7 a. m., 29.138 inches; at 2 p. m., 29.137 inches; at 9 p. m., 29.145 inches; maximum, 29.469 inches on the 9th; minimum, 28.587 inches on the 14th; monthly range, 0.882 inch. Barometer—Humidity—Mean for the month, 72.3; at 7 a. m., 80.8; at 2 p. m., 56.4; at 9 p. m., 76.6; greatest 190 on two occasions; least 27, on the 2nd. There was one fog.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East Indian missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections; also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing in stamp, name of this paper, W. A. NOYES, 145 Foster's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN.
Yes "The Flying Dutchman" that's the name of it. We mean the new three wheel Sulky Plow that is creating such a sensation and drawing such crowds of people to examine its merits at the Improvement House of G. B. Gould & Co. It is both novel in name and novel in design, and is constructed upon a scientific principle never before applied to sulky plows, by the use of which the draft is so greatly reduced that two ordinary sized horses can easily do the labor where it required three to perform with old styled plows. It is an old saying and as true as ancient that "THE MERCIFUL MAN IS MERCIFUL TO HIS BEASTS." Hence Farmers who have any regard for the welfare of their team will do well to examine this before buying. Also while there you will do well to examine their immense stock of goods just in, which is complete in every detail in their line. All goods warranted and a "SQUARE DEAL" guaranteed. Don't fail to call at their store. Nos. 170 & 172, Mass. Street.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.—And true economy requires the use of pure goods at a reasonable price rather than adulterated at less. De Land's Chemical Baking Powder is absolutely pure and the price is reasonable. It contains only Grape Cream Tartar and pure Bi-Carb Soda.

Supplies waists will be used on the soft, wool dresses of young girls.

Loss and Gain.
CHAPTER I.
"I was taken sick a year ago with bilious fever."
"My doctor pronounced me cured, but I got sick again, with terrible pains in my back and sides, and I got so bad I could not move!"
I shrunk!
From 225 lbs. to 120! I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as sound as a sovereign but weigh more than I did before. To Hop Bitters I owe my life!
Dublin, June 6, '81. R. KETZPATRICK.
HOW TO GET SICK.—Expose yourself day and night; eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised; and then you will want to know how to get well, which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters!
