Leonard Stirn of Tescott

He Just Builds His Own

by Kenneth Greene

Twenty years ago Leonard Stirn of Tescott decided to build a field cutter. The cutters down at the implement dealers just didn't suit him.

For one thing, they only cut one row at a time, and Leonard thought there was a better way. He got a used two-row corn binder and a stationary ensilage cutter. He cut the feed trough off the cutter and the bundle carrier and knoter off the binder, then welded the two together. He mounted a motor on the frame to run the cutter but left the binder part geared to the tractor power take-off.

This machine with several modifications through the years has been going ever since. Various parts have been replaced, but the binder section is original. The ensilage cutter has been replaced twice and several different motors have been used. The present one even has a starter on it.

Needless to say, this hybrid has made an experienced welder out of Stirn. He is always on the look-out for repair parts but he still hasn't found that "instruction book."

He takes a lot of ribbing from the crew, but they'll admit he's put up a lot of feed in the last 20 years. This machine may have seen its last corn row though; Stirn is dreaming of building a self-propelled job before another silo-filling time.

When Leonard Stirn first built his field cutter, he used trailers pulled behind for the ensilage. Later this was changed to using trucks alongside the cutter. This speeded up the operation considerably.

This year Stirn built new automatic endgates for the trucks. The endgate has arms which are hinged on the side of the truck. Cables fastened to the top of the endgate run over the front of the truck bed on pulleys and have the other end fastened to the truck frame.

When the truck frame raises, the cables automatically pull the endgate up out of the way. This saves considerable time. On long hauls to a trench silo it saves enough time for two trucks to do the job of three with ordinary endgates.

He originally got the idea from Darwin McCall, another farmer from near Salina. Stirn and McCall will soon have plans and a materials list on sale to help anyone build their own.

Year-End Strategy Can Save Tax Dollars

Farmer Green had a fine corn crop this year and received a good price for his hogs, so his income will be higher than usual.

Farmer Brown's wheat crop was poor and he lost money on cattle, so his income will be far below his average.

Both these farmers — and most others — can use smart income tax management now to help themselves financially, says John H. Coolidge, Extension farm management economist at Kansas State University.

Some of the most important decisions affecting this year's income taxes will be made before the end of 1967. That's why December is known as "Tax Management Month."

Because of graduated tax rates, the less a farmer's net income fluctuates from year to year, the less income tax he will pay over a period of years.

Thus, the goal of tax management is to "even out" your annual income over several years. The result will be more dollars left in your pocket after you pay your taxes.

Tax management in the long run is an effort to maximize "after-tax" income and net worth. In the short run, it is an attempt to maintain an annual net income at least equal to the year's allowable non-business deductions and personal exemptions, and yet avoid extremely high taxable income.

It is equally desirable to have a net income which approaches or equals the maximum earnings eligible for Social Security credit, says Coolidge. This figure is $6,000 now, but may be raised by Congress at any time.

Tax management has some limitations, however. If you make decisions and transact business solely in an effort to reduce taxes, your net income after taxes may be lower.

For example, you may make a decision that saves you $100 in income taxes but costs you more than this amount due to a lower selling price for a farm product.

Frequently, there is no conflict between a wise tax decision and a good farm business decision. But when you face a choice, make the one resulting in the larger net income after taxes.

For more information and dollar-saving ideas, pick up a copy of "Income Tax Management for Farmers" from your county Extension agricultural agent.

Judge Rules For Scully Tenants

MARION — Holders of Scully leases in the Marion County area have gotten some assurance that they have more than ordinary tenant rights, according to a decision handed down by United States District Judge George Templar.

The case before Judge Templar involved land being acquired by the federal government for the Marion Reservoir.

Basically the decision affirms a leaseholder's special interest in a Scully lease and his right to share in settlement when the land is acquired in condemnation.

Scully landholdings are most prominent in Marion County but are also in Geary, Dickinson and other G&G area counties.

Sharp Pencil Can Maneuver Taxes

It's that time again. Farmers are approaching the end of another business year when management decisions can have a major effect on the amount of their income tax.

John H. Coolidge, Extension farm management economist at Kansas State University, suggests that farmers sharpen their pencils and bring their business records up to date.

If you make an accurate accounting of income and expenditures before the end of the tax year, it's easy to estimate income and expenditures for the balance of the year.

With this estimate and an evaluation of inventories, you can buy or sell, thereby adjusting taxable income to your best advantage.

If your estimate indicates a probable net taxable income less than the total amount allowed for your personal deductions and exemptions, you will want to consider ways to increase your income.

Personal deductions and exemptions are allowed annually, so any credit for such exemptions not absorbed by current income is automatically lost. Unused exemptions credits cannot be carried over and applied against income for another year.

If you use the cash method, here are several ways to increase income.

— Sell grain or livestock before the end of the year. Sales of livestock in December may be desirable from a tax standpoint, although at lighter weights the total sale price may be lower than if you sell later.

— Cull your dairy or breeding stock and sell before the end of the year.

— Sell any capital items no longer needed in your farm business.

— Collect money due for labor or custom work done.

— If you are eligible, take a CCC loan on as much grain as you want to have in this year's income.

— Pay only half your personal property taxes now.

— Do not buy new machinery. Postpone payment of operating expense charge accounts until next year.

If you use the accrual method, opportunities for increasing income late in the year are more limited. However, you might:

— Do off-farm or custom work for cash wages.

— Buy feeder stock or other inventory property which would increase in value by the end of the year.

— Incur as few deductible expenditures as possible during the balance of the year.

— Include all unsold livestock, crops, and supplies at full value in the ending inventory.

If you want to hold down this year's income, use methods just the opposite of those listed above. Delay sales of grain and livestock until 1968. Purchase feed, fertilizer, and other supplies and pay for them before the end of the year. Pay all charge accounts for deductible expense items.

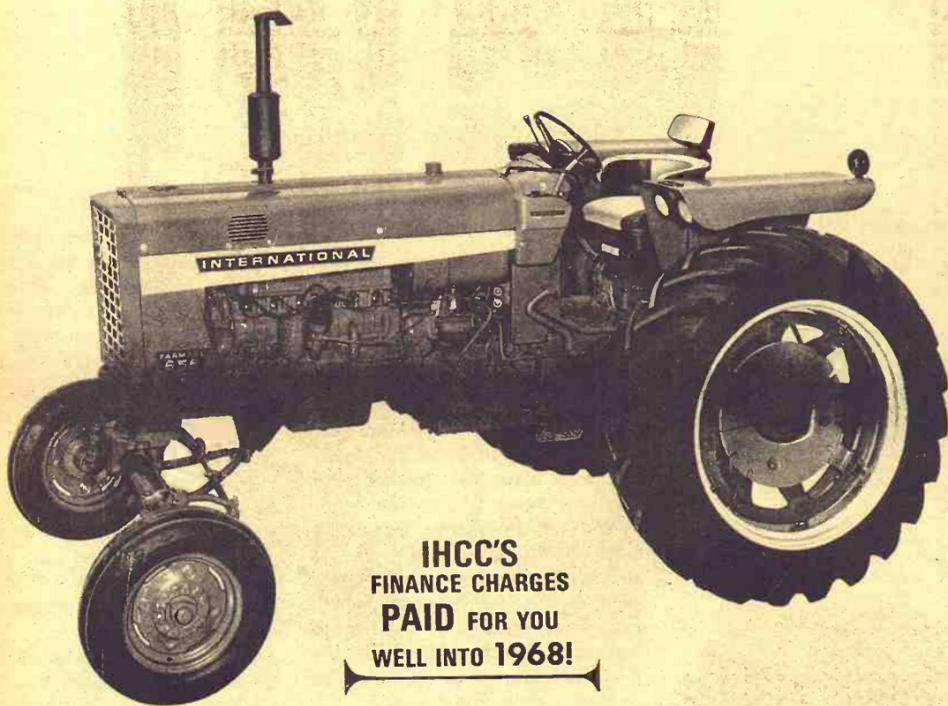

Unless you're quite familiar with tax regulations, you'll probably find it profitable to confer with a tax consultant, Coolidge suggests. But remember that you must take action before the end of the year on purchases and sales.

This is the first big farm tractor with Hydrostatic All-Speed Drive, the drive that provides any speed from 9 mph in reverse to 20 mph forward . . . change on the go, under load or with no load . . . with no clutch . . . and without touching the throttle.

Push the Speed Ratio (SR) control forward to move forward. The farther you push it, the faster the speed—from zero mph to 20 mph. To stop, just move the SR control back to zero mph and have smooth, safe, controlled stopping. To back up, move the control rearward into reverse ratio and pick any speed, zero to 9 mph in reverse.

That's all there is to it! No clutch to use. You're propelled by smooth IH hydrostatic power! At any speed from "9 below to 20 above."

Think of all the clutching and shifting you won't do with Hydrostatic All-Speed Drive. Think of being able to maintain higher average speeds on every job by choosing the exact speed needed every time . . . and changing speed any time, on-the-go. It follows that no matter what the crop or conditions, this Hydrostatic All-Speed Drive provides the ideal speed for getting the most out of both tractor and equipment.

And it's a pleasure to drive. So easy to operate that any driver will get more done—and actually enjoy doing it—with IH Hydrostatic Drive. Farmers who helped us test this tractor say there is just nothing like IH Hydrostatic Drive to speed the work and save wear and tear on the man. Skeptical? A few minutes behind the wheel will make a believer of you.

CO-OP Feeds with Tylan and Sulfa Do It Best!

A fat hog is as outdated as the horse-and-buggy days. Consumers demand good, lean meat . . . and smart producers are increasing their net profit by supplying good, lean hogs. Leaner market hogs bring more money and yield the meaty cuts the consumer wants.

CO-OP Protein Concentrates, Complete Swine Feeds and Pig Feeds won't make a pig leaner, but when properly mixed and fed will make pigs gain fast and efficiently.

CO-OP Feeds are available with Tylan and Sulfa. Tylan and Sulfa work together, increasing weight gains and improving feed utilization in the presence of dysentery and atrophic rhinitis.

The CO-OP Swine Feeding Program will do a good job in your operation. Get together with a CO-OP Feed man and get all the details.

But remember you must take action at the end of the year and sales.

Manage Income To Increase SS Benefits

Farmers nearing age 65 can earn $6,600 this year and still qualify for maximum Social Security benefits after retirement. So they may wish to take action to maximize their income at near this figure as possible. This may increase their income taxes, says John H. Coolidge, Extension farm management economist from Kansas State University. But higher Social Security payments will offset the higher taxes in most cases. Coolidge suggests these ways to increase income:

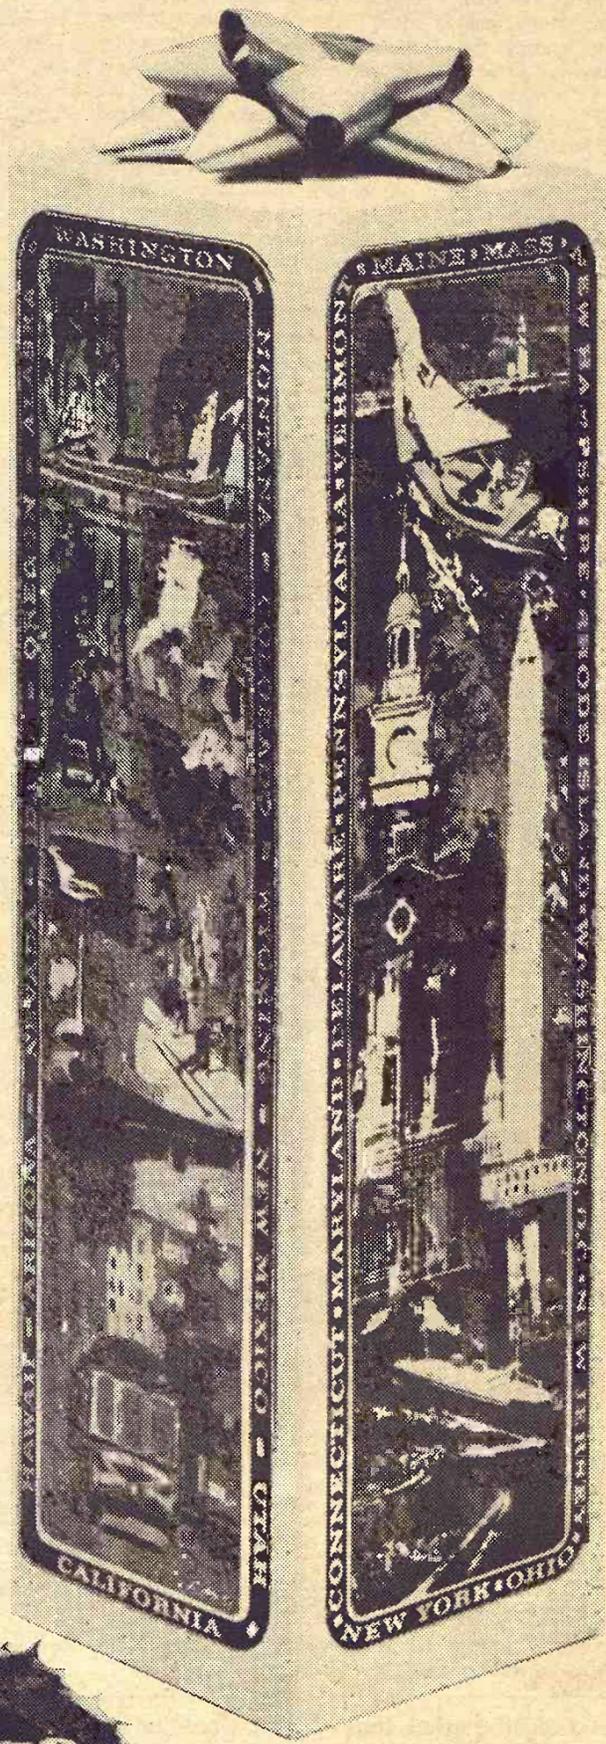

- Intensifying and expanding present enterprises.
- Electing to report sales of forest products as ordinary income.
- Selling more young livestock.
- Doing custom work or other off-farm work.
- Contracting pasturage and services together, so that the income is recognized as self-employment income and not rental income. Net income may also be raised by reducing or postponing expenses. Repairing or painting buildings and fences may be delayed until after retirement. Operating expenses such as liming and fertilizing can be delayed. These expenses will apply against rental income after retirement.

'Weigh When Their Hot'

Officials of the National Livestock Feeders Association are pushing hard for the adoption by the federal government of a proposed regulation controlling packer purchases of livestock on a carcass grade and weight basis. And they are determined the weight shall be taken on a "hot" basis.

Marketing on a grade and weight basis has been done in Kansas the past several years by some hog slaughterers, and there is a growing hope that a similar method for buying can be adopted on a nationwide scale for all livestock.

A national proposal was made some time ago by the Department of Agriculture — and because the proposal drew a certain amount of protest, it became the subject for hearings in mid-November.

Some packers believe the weight should be taken after the carcass has been cooled — but most livestock producers believe the actual hot weight, less a given percentage, for shrink, would provide a more sound basis for the grade and weight purchasing.

In a hearing in Des Moines, Iowa, before the Packers and Stockyards Administration, Charles Phelps, NLFA president from Hastings, Iowa, and Don Magdanz, executive secretary-treasurer of the NLFA, testified that feeders want the hot weight basis adopted.

"The controversy over the hot weight requirement rests clearly between payment on the basis of the actual weights with no shrink allowed and arguments in favor of settlement on a weight basis that is arbitrary and partially estimated," Phelps said.

"Thus it is obvious that packer objections to actual (hot) weights amount to arguments in favor of a procedure allowing for considerable latitude in the weights on which settlements are made. Latitude which can be used advantageously by the buyer," he added.

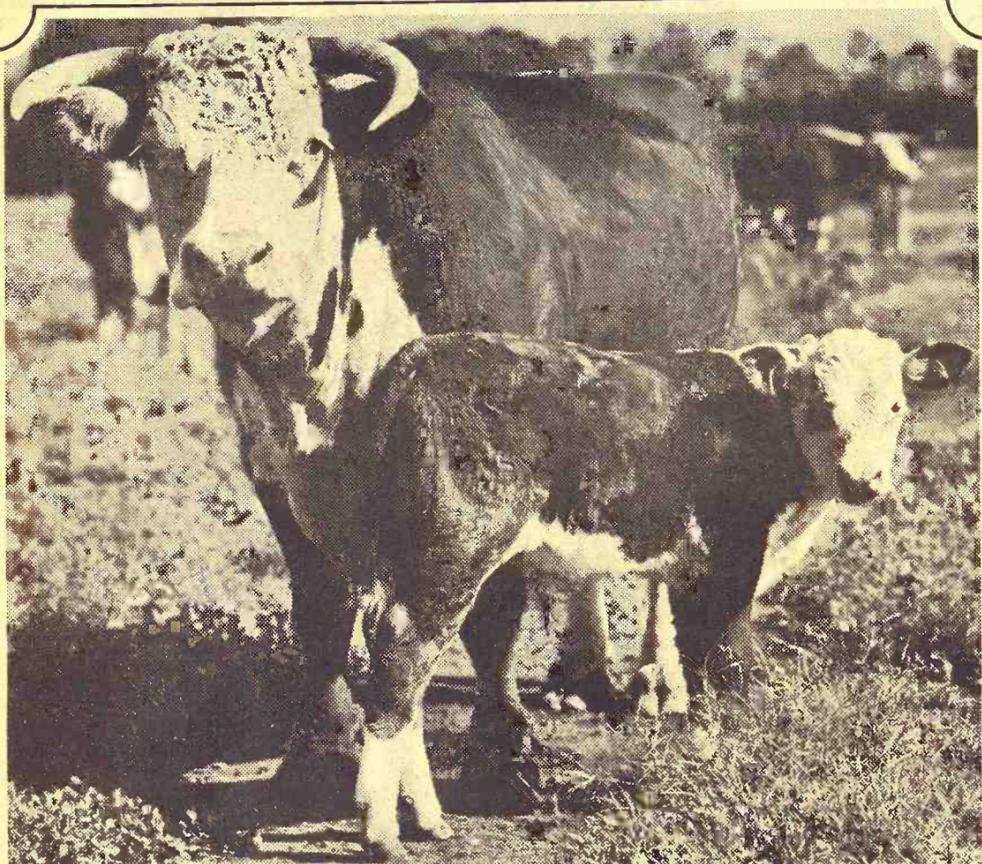

Magdanz and Phelps both pointed out that payment procedures on anything other than actual weights provided operational loopholes for unscrupulous buyers to take advantage of sellers. Furthermore, such practices also are unfair competition for the ethical and honorable slaughterers in the trade, they said.

First-Year Depreciation Cuts Tax

Thinking about buying a new combine or other piece of machinery? Now may be the time to make the move, particularly if your farm income was higher than usual this year.

The additional first-year depreciation provision may make it possible for you to use the purchase of new equipment to reduce your tax liability, says a Kansas State University Extension farm management economist.

John H. Coolidge notes that farmers may deduct 20 per cent of the cost of new or used personal property provided the following conditions are met:

- It has a useful life of 16 years or more.
- It is not acquired from spouse, parent, or child.
- It is not acquired in transactions between certain related partnerships.

Suppose you buy a new combine for $10,000; before December 15. You may deduct 20 per cent of the cost, or $2,000, as additional first-year depreciation. This leaves $8,000 to be depreciated through regular methods.

Say you planned to keep the combine 8 years. Normal depreciation would be $2,000 under the declining balance method during the first year you owned the machine.

One-twelfth of this sum, or $166.67, would be allowable for December. So your total depreciation on the new combine this year would be $2,166.67. The remaining $7,833.33 would be depreciated during the next 7 years.

The 20 per cent first-year additional depreciation is available only if the first-year regular depreciation is taken, says Coolidge. And you must purchase the machine by December 15 if you want to take depreciation on it this year.

HARD MAPLE is the only wood we use to smooth out Jack Daniel's. Any other maple is carried off and we don't care what happens to it.

A Tennessee whiskey tree is a hard maple from high ground. When anything else turns up, we always make sure it doesn't get mixed up with the good wood. For when this maple is rick-burned in the open air, it produces the special charcoal we need for Charcoal Mellowing. That's the process that helps give our whiskey its rare sippin' quality. After a taste, we feel, you'll be glad we have a reject system at Jack Daniel's.

Rocky Ford Now A Park

Rocky Ford, a location on the Blue River at Manhattan of frontier importance, has been given by the Kansas Power & Light Co. to the state of Kansas. The first Rocky Ford dam was built in 1867, one hundred years ago. First it was the power source for a grist mill, and later it was a source of electrical energy. It once served Manhattan and Junction City as well as nearby cities. During World War I it provided electricity for Camp Funston where 60,000 troops were in training. KP&L had owned the plant since 1932.

Make Sure Home Properly Sealed Against Weather

Make sure your home is properly sealed against the winter rain and cold of these blustery winter days. First check the exterior of your home for caulking leaks or areas where cauling is dried out or chipped. Scrape out the old compound and make certain the surface is clean, dry, and free of dust and grease. Clean greasy surfaces with mineral spirits or a similar spirit. Dust off masonry surfaces with a stiff bristled brush. Most caulking compounds should not be applied below 40 degrees or during rainy weather, as these conditions can cause failure of the compound to adhere.

Safety Measure

As a safety measure, always paint the basement steps a light color. Dark red or green might not show dirt so readily but light colors make the steps more visible in subdued light.

Pure Irish Linen Cloth Dresses Up Round Table

Dining-in-the-round has become popular in the last few years and continues to gain new enthusiasts. Searching out old heavy oak pedestal tables in antique shops and auctions has become a challenge. And even those who like a more modern look are favoring the circular look in dining tables.

Table linens for the round table are something to be considered carefully. Pure Irish linen is the preferred choice because of its proven quality and large selection of styles. There are fine embroideries, brightly colored textures, new gay prints or very formal damasks available in a variety of sizes to suit the dimensions of any round table. Then your choice becomes a matter of using a tablecloth or place mats depending on the occasion.

If you decide on a tablecloth, you may prefer one that exposes the attractive carved pedestal base of your antique table. In this case, the easy rule to remember is to allow five to ten inches overhang for a small table, ten to fifteen inches overhang for larger tables. For more formal occasions, combine the modern spirit of the round table with the tradition of a fine Irish linen damask tablecloth to the floor. Or for a very individual touch, use a floor length cloth of one color and place a shorter cloth of a contrasting color over it.

For an informal setting, use place mats. You will find the oval and round place mats very suitable and the contour mats shaped especially for a round table.

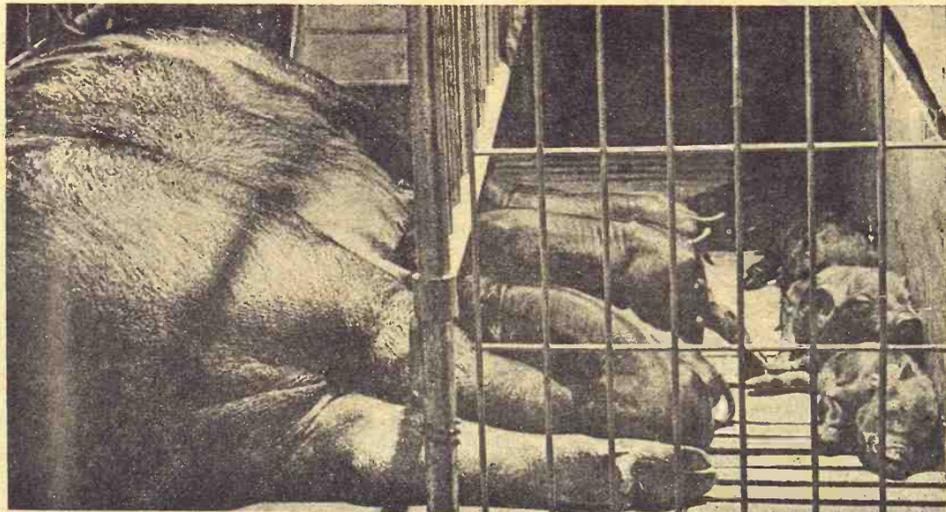

Enjoy dining-in-the-round by setting your table with attractive Irish linen. The added benefits to all homemakers are that Irish linen launders easily and maintains its good looks for many years.

Investment Credit Takes Figuring

Investment credit provides a real tax break for farmers. But it can also be a source of trouble, says John H. Coolidge, farm management economist at Kansas State University. Investment credit allows a credit of 7 per cent on certain investments against your income tax liability. If you buy $20,000 worth of farm machinery during 1967, for example, you get a $1,400 credit against your income tax for the year if you plan to keep the item in your business for 8 years.

Property qualifying for the investment credit includes practically every item you would put on your depreciation schedule except breeding, dairy, or work animals and major farm buildings.

Trouble starts when farmers don't keep equipment on which they have claimed investment credit for the full period of time used in computing the credit.

Coolidge gives this example. Suppose you bought a tractor in April 1963 for $5,000. You expected to keep it for 6 years, so you claimed two-thirds of the investment credit allowed, or $235.

But the tractor wasn't large enough, so you traded for a more powerful one in May 1967, investing an additional $4,500.

Now your taxes are doubly complicated. Since you owned the tractor for only 4 years, you qualify for only a third of the total investment — not the two-thirds you claimed. Thus, you must pay back half the investment credit you claimed, or $117.50, on your 1967 tax return.

Your second problem is to determine the basis for figuring credit on the new tractor you bought this year. The basis for this credit is the amount you paid over and above your remaining cost of the original tractor (in this case, $4,500).

Since there were 2 years remaining of the 6-year life — or one-third — of the original $5,000 tractor, the remaining value might be $1,667. If so, the basis for determining investment credit on the new tractor would be the sum of $4,500 and $1,667, or $6,167. The actual remaining cost on your books would depend on the depreciation method you had used.

If the life of the new tractor is 6 years, you could claim two-thirds of the full 7 per cent in investment credit allowance. This credit in this example would be $287. This figure will be used against your 1967 tax liability. It does not offset any recomputed credit you may have to pay.

Grass & Grain

December 5, 1967

"Don't fail to take advantage of investment credit," Coolidge advises. "It may seem complicated, but each dollar of the credit is a dollar of tax you don't have to pay."

Advise On Handling Farm Hunter Problem

COUNCIL GROVE — A policy of getting tough with careless and destructive hunters was advocated Sunday at a sectional meeting of the National Farmers Union of Kansas.

A resolution to that effect was adopted in the face of a steady increase in grievances which farmers have voiced against some hunters. Representatives from 10 Farmers Union organizations in the Flint Hills area attended. Wilfred Elliott of White City, president of the Morris County Farmers Union, presided.

Elliott said the Farmers Union long has had a policy of cooperating with hunters and that it would be too bad if thousands of acres of farm land were closed to hunting because of what he said was this fall's misconduct by a minority of the hunters.

"Hunter-farmer relationship will have top priority for discussion and possible action at the National Farmers Union state meeting in Salina Dec. 16," Elliott said.

He said suggestions for improvement include:

A request that the State Forestry, Fish and Game Commission do a better job of regulating the applications for licenses.

Refusal of licenses to recorded habitual violators of hunting and fishing laws.

Requirements that all hunters and fishermen obtain permission from land owner or farmer to enter property.

Insurance carried by hunters against destruction to a farmer's person, crop, livestock, family and all his property.

A waiver by hunters and fishermen of all rights to sue a land holder for any injuries they might incur on a farmers property.

with farmers to set aside large areas that could be leased to hunters, and farmers would share in lease fees.

land owner or farmer against destruction.

Willard Jones, state game protector from Herington, said "Most problems are caused by what I call shooters, not hunters." He added that good hunters should not be punished for trouble created by those who shoot at anything.

Jones advocated prosecution of violators and education of farmers "to what their rights are."

Our sale last Thursday was a real active affair, with all classes of cattle selling at higher prices. We had a large run of cattle, with buyers from near and far competing keenly for all classes of cattle. We are expecting a good run of cattle for next week's sale and will have good buyers for all classes of livestock. If you have cattle to sell, please contact some of us at one of the numbers listed below.

These charts provide pertinent information on current farm income and expense data and provide projections into 1968. USDA economists say that net income in 1968 probably will change little from the 1967 level, or just under 15 billion dollars. The net in 1966 was $16.4 billion, highest in history except for the 1948 mark of $17 billion.

CK Ranch Sale Hits $156,640

BROOKVILLE — The CK Ranch fall sale — annually the largest grossing sale in the G&G area — totaled $156,640, with 203 bulls averaging $592 and 181 open commercial heifers going for a $201 mean.

One of the highlights of the sale came when Matt Matthews of Albany, Texas, bid $1060 for a bull. Since Matthews had purchased well over 200 bulls from CK in the past, the Vaniers, owners of CK Ranch, made a gift of the bull to him.

Topping the bull offering at $6000 was a bull bought by Cleave and Joan Murrel, 7M Ranch of Mt. Pleasant, Texas. Two other Texas buyers paid $3000 and $2150 for bulls.

Volume bull buyers included Carl Hopkins, Miles City, Mont.; Arizona-Colorado Cattle Co., Phoenix, Ariz.; X Bar X Ranch, Parkman, Wyo.; Milldale Ranch, North Platte, Nebr.; C & H Plantation, Charleston, S.C.; Fred A. Drummond, Pawhuska, Okla.; Clarence Howard, Ed Howard, Glen Salmons, and Vern McNeal, all of Powder Horn, Colo., and Laurence Phelps, Gunnison, Colo.

The auctioneers were George Morse and Gene Watson.

Peanut Crop

Howard Blubaugh farms in the Kansas river valley south of Burrton. He planted peanuts as a crop this year. The crop didn't turn out too well this year, Blubaugh thinks. He'll try again next year, planting early. Blubaugh has a mind using peanuts as a livestock feed. He doesn't doubt the possibility of sometime raising them for commercial use. He even built a harvester to do this year's crop.

Nip The Mule Dies At 42

Nip, a mule of more than 42 years of age, has died on the Everett Taylor farm north of Solomon. By usual comparison to human age, Nip's lifespan would be like 126 years of human age. For years she was part of a team, Nip & Tuck, shown above. Both were born in 1925 on the Taylor farm, were broke to harness, and finally retired to pasture after being replaced by tractors, except for an occasional parade or bad weather cattle feeding. Tuck died in 1962.

Kocher Herefords Average $310

ONAGA — The annual Kocher Hereford production sale here grossed $15,834, averaging $310 on 51 lots.

The 31 bulls averaged $414 and 20 heifers averaged $150.

In general, demand was good for older bulls but somewhat less on younger calves.

The top bull went for $835 to R. C. Melton of Havensville. A repeat buyer, E. M. Bailey of Silver Lake, paid $650 for another top seller, and Richard Heidel of Manhattan bought one at $600.

Four heifers brought $200 each. Buyers were Gregory Buser, Whiting; Gloria and Linda Brammer, Topeka; and Melvin Swart, Goff.

Buser brothers, buyers of the top bull in the 1966 sale, were the volume buyers at this sale, buying eight heifers and one bull. The heifers were all 1967 calves.

Among the other buyers at the sale were William Wenderott, Alma; Duane Engelhe, Holton; Hal Falkenstein and Marvin Honig, both of Onaga.

George Morse was the auctioneer.

Simpson Ranch In Geary County Leased

JUNCTION CITY — The 5400 acre Simpson ranch in southeastern Geary County has been leased to L. M. McClure, a Tescott rancher, William Grossner, Salina, business manager, reports.

The ranch, one of the largest in Kansas, was purchased by the late Grover Simpson in January 1962 from John Salazar. Upon his death in July 1966, ownership passed to his son and daughter, John Simpson, Salina, and Mrs. Sarah Dean, of New Jersey.

The ranch's 500 head of registered Hereford bulls, heifers, cows and calves were auctioned last week at the Manhattan Commission Co.

Grosser said the Simpson family also owns ranches at Oberlin and Marquette. They have a total of 10,000 acres.

The Marquette pasture has been leased. The Simpsons plan to continue their commercial Hereford and farm operation at the Oberlin ranch, according to Grosser.

WICHITA HOSPITAL RATES UP AGAIN

Record Keeping A Chore?

Are your farm records up to date? The other day I overheard a couple of farmers talking about farm records and income taxes and one remarked, "you know I must be almost two months behind in my recordkeeping." I would imagine this a common situation about this time of year and some record books are probably behind even further.

During harvest and other busy times, a farmer doesn't have the time to sit down to his record book and make the entries as they occur. Consequently, unrecorded bills, checks, and deposits pile up, and cash transactions become harder to remember and some are even lost or forgotten.

Now you can leave your recordkeeping chores to a computer. The Computer-Ease system of recordkeeping gives you complete, up-to-date monthly reports which present valuable information for managing your farming operation. Checks and deposit tickets are easily coded to identify each business and personal transaction. No transactions are lost or forgotten. You receive a 10-month tax summary which enables you to make year end adjustments in purchases and sales. A year-end tax summary facilitates easy filing.

This past year many have profited from this computerized recordkeeping system. It has exceeded our expectations.

We are proud to offer this service to our customers as we all know a good record system is most essential to the successful farm operator.

Allis Chalmers To Merge With Signal Oil

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, which has both sought a merger partner and been sought after in 1967, has finally come up with a corporate marriage.

According to an announcement by the two companies, Allis-Chalmers has agreed to merge with the Signal Oil and Gas Co. Special meetings to approve this action of the boards of directors of the two corporations will be held "as soon as possible."

Natoma, and A. R. Laflin & Son, Crab Orchard, Nebraska, bought two heifers at $500 each.

Volume buyers included LaRosh Brothers, Natoma; Harold Larson, Green; Robert Helget, Alexander, Nebr.; Glen Strnad, Cuba, and John Hall, Forest City, Mo.

10,000 - Head Feedlot Forms At Hays

Add another town that is working to sell stock for a feedlot.

A corporation has been formed in Hays to sell $500,000 in stock to build a 10,000-head feedlot.

The firm will be known as the Hays Land & Cattle Co., and it has bought a smaller feedlot from Murray Eddy, Hays physician, who is one of the officers of the new corporation.

The first 10,000 shares of the corporation, which presumably brought in $100,000, were bought by the directors: Ralph Hunter, G. E. Frazier, Guy Bemis, P. F. Felton, Alphonse Gross, John McMurtie, Vernon Meckel, D. M. Pfeifer, and Eddy.

The feedlot is four miles west and three miles north of Hays.

Glenn Feldman, formerly of Belleville, has been hired to supervise the building and management of the lot.

A New Courthouse For Pottawatomie

Will Pottawatomie County build a new courthouse in Westmoreland? Two out of three county commissioners favor it and presumably a majority of citizens around Westmoreland favor it too. But at least 1460 of the county's 12,000 citizens are opposed to it, signing a petition aimed at staying the construction of the proposed $539,000 replacement for the old courthouse, left, built in the 1880s.

Leading the drive against the courthouse construction is 71-year-old retired farmer Eli Pinet of Onaga, right. Pinet opposes the new courthouse on grounds that taxes are high enough and that citizens really haven't had a voice in the decision.

The commissioners point out that everything has been strictly legal and that a building fund has accumulated since 1960, now amounting to $247,928. The funds, they point out, cannot be used for remodeling the old courthouse or for any other purpose.

At 500 population, Westmoreland is smaller than three other towns in the county: Wamego 2600, St. Marys 1500, and Onaga 900. Despite some obvious temptations to start an oldtime county seat feud, tempers have been held in check with modest exceptions, and the soft-spoken Pinet and his followers have avoided any shouting matches with the commissioners.

The anti-courthouse group admits that thus far it hasn't found much legal argument that encourages them to believe they can stop the Westmoreland construction, scheduled to begin in 1969.

"We are not through," Pinet says with good nature, but with determination. "We are not through until they start tearing it down. If we can't tell them not to build, we may be able to tell them where to build."

That move, never far from the surface in Pottawatomie County, might appear a natural because of Westmoreland's size, but Onaga and St. Marys are unlikely to win a county seat battle for themselves and probably reluctant to help Wamego win it.

Fertilizer Conference At Topeka Next Week

It may be the wrong time of year to apply agricultural fertilizer, but there will be plenty of talk about it at the 20th annual Fertilizer and Agricultural Chemicals Conference in Topeka, December 11-13.

The event is jointly sponsored by the Kansas Fertilizer and Chemical Institute, Inc. and Kansas State University, reports Dr. Larry Murphy, program chairman.

Commercial exhibits in the basement of the Municipal Audi-

Other major activities include the Conference banquet Tuesday evening, the Conference luncheon on Wednesday, and the KFCI business meeting Tuesday afternoon.

One part of this year's program will feature K-State Extension agents who have conducted fertilizer demonstrations as a part of their county educational programs. The participants in this presentation include E. A. Cleavinger, Extension agronomist, KSU, Manhattan; W. E. Cox, Crawford County agent, Girard; Dean Dicken, Extension area agronomist, Hiawatha; Bryce Orr, Coffey County agent, Burlington; and Ted Wary, Woodson County agent, Yates Center.

Auction Assn. Meets At KC This Week

December 5, 1967

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Live-stock marketing leaders from 41 states are expected here Dec. 9 and 10 for the annual Trade Association Assembly of Certified Livestock Markets.

Officers, councilmen and directors of the trade association will spend the two-day meeting planning and working on industry affairs for the coming year.

The nearly 850 Certified Livestock Markets make up a major element of the competitive livestock markets industry which last year merchandised 109.7 million head of livestock at a value of nearly $9 billion.

Kenneth E. Woods, Henderson Sale Company, Henderson, Tenn., will be installed as president of the trade association. He succeeds Ingvard Svarre, Sidney Livestock Market, Sidney, Montana.

H. V. Rockhill, Eureka Auction Sale, Eureka, Kans., will take office as vice president; Jay R. Taylor, Amarillo Livestock Auction Company, Amarillo, Texas, will become treasurer and Morgan Beck, Ontario Livestock Commission Company, Ontario, Ore., will be the new secretary.

After installation of new officers active committees will organize and set to work immediately on initial reports to the board of directors.

According to C. T. (Tad) Sanders, Kansas City, Mo., general manager of the association, discussions throughout the meeting will place heavy emphasis on the development of market devices and their extension to the buyer and seller customers of competitive livestock markets.

Sanders states that Certified Livestock Markets have rapidly become identified with three basic livestock market, business concepts: 1) the expansion of market services to both buyer and seller customers by which fully competitive determination of prices is established; 2) the merchandising of livestock as a product as opposed to the simple sale or trade of livestock as a commodity; 3) the assumption of industry leadership in applying a positive approach in livestock merchandising.

The meeting is also expected to generate considerable interest and discussion of the industry's relationship with the federal government in regard to changes in the structure of livestock marketing under proposals that have been voiced by the Department of Agriculture.

Nearly 100 marketmen and their wives are expected.

Only Fair Wheat Pasture Available

The supply of forage available on wheat pasture in the western two-thirds of the state was rated as poor to fair on November 15, but above the poor rating of a year earlier according to the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Supplies were most favorable in the south central district and other small localized areas.

On November 15, about 15 percent of the seeded wheat acreage had sufficient growth for pasturing, compared with 5 percent a month ago and 11 percent at mid-November a year ago.

About 5 percent of the seeded wheat acreage was being utilized for grazing compared with less than 1 percent a month ago and 3.5 percent a year ago.

Loose and dry topsoil over much of western Kansas had not permitted root development necessary to anchor the plants for pasturing by mid-November.

The acreage required to carry a 400-pound calf through the winter under current conditions averaged 9 acres, compared with 10 acres a year earlier.

Volunteer wheat fields being used as pasture had been eaten down and showed little if any regrowth. Sorghum grain and corn stubble fields were furnishing the bulk of grazing for livestock in the western one-third of the state.

Grange About Petered Out

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The members of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry face some difficult decisions in the immediate years ahead, decisions that could mean survival or doom for their venerable institution, better known as the Grange. They came to this upstate

New York community to hold their annual national meeting, and to celebrate 100 years of service to agriculture and rural America.

The Grange is both the only fraternal farm organization with secret rituals in the country and at the same time a lobby ing rival of other national farm organizations.

Critics in other farm organizations sometimes call it "that fuddy-duddy group" and say it has lost its appeal in commercial agriculture.

Yet while its influence among farmers is probably at its lowest ebb, its prestige in Congress remains high.

And, of all national farm leaders, the master of the Grange, Herschel D. Newsom, is probably closest to President Johnson, who only last week called Newsom a "close friend."

The administration has embraced the Grange because the views of the organization have paralleled administration farm policy. But the Grange has not endorsed all administration proposals. It seeks to keep its independence and worries about getting too close to Washington.

It has maintained to an unusual degree a moderate, non-partisan role, although over its 100 years some of its proposals have been radical and controversial.

The Grange was founded in Washington after the Civil War, in the reconstruction period. Serious political, social and economic problems beset the farmer and the granger movement did much to alleviate them.

But the Grange could not maintain its position over the years. It fostered farm cooperatives but in many areas dropped them or lost control while other organizations such as State Farm Bureaus took them up to build big financial structures and memberships.

A few state grangers still operate cooperatives but not on a level with the Farm Bureau or Farmers Union organizations.

The Grange continues to be underfinanced. Until 1962 it limped along on dues of 50 cents a person. This brought the National Grange into financial straits, causing a reduction in its Washington staff and in its effectiveness in Congress. It dropped its national magazine, its one means of communication with its dwindling membership. But the magazine in a new format has since been restored.

Membership now stands at 621,000. It lost 190,000 members in 1962, when the magazine was suspended. It is still strongest in the northeast, where the first

Here's December Price Forecast

Slightly higher lamb prices are in the offing for December, report Kansas State University Extension economists in their monthly market forecast.

The lamb market should be somewhat stronger during the rest of the year, the economists say. This is contrast to last fall when lamb prices were steady to weak.

This year's lamb crop was down 6 percent from a year ago. Thus, slaughter during the October-December quarter will be moderately below year earlier levels.

The December forecast for other commodities is as follows:

GRADE A, MANUFACTURING MILK — Steady. Prices will be at a seasonal high, but still about 15 cents lower than last year.

HOGS — Steady. Prices may be slightly higher the second half of the month, resulting from a decrease in marketings.

CORN, SORGHUM GRAIN — Steady.

Farmlands' Annual Meeting This Week

About 10,000 delegates representing 1800 cooperatives in 12 states are expected to attend the 39th annual meeting of Farmland Industries, Inc., Wednesday through Friday at the Municipal Auditorium, Kansas City.

Sen. James B. Pearson heads the list of speakers for the 3-day event that includes Herb Plambeck, farm director of radio station WHO, Des Moines, and Monte Reese, Moreland, Okla., former southern region vice president of the Future Farmers of America.

Speakers Wednesday will be Ernest T. Lindsey, president of Farmland; Kenneth D. Naden, executive vice-president of the National Council of Co-Operatives, Washington, and Dr. Don Paarlberg, professor of agricultural economics, Purdue University.

On Thursday, Senator Pearson will speak on "Strengthening Rural America — A National Commitment"; Plambeck, who just returned from an Asian trip, will address the group on "Report From Hungry Countries" and Reese will talk on "When the Wells Run Dry."

In the last fiscal year, Farmland Industries' volume reached a record 367 million dollars, and savings or profits exceed 30 million dollars. About half the saving is returned in cash, and the balance in stock.

Entertainment will be furnished Thursday night by the Lawrence Welk All Stars, and the Swinging Choraliers of UMKC will perform at the women's session.

Wilburn Nelson Buys Hatchery At Manhattan

MANHATTAN — Sale of Manhattan Hatchery to Wilburn Nelson of Morganville, Ks., has been announced by Mrs. Virgil Denz. The hatchery name has been changed to Nelson-Manhattan Hatchery, and the new owner has assumed management.

Nelson has operated the Nelson Poultry Farms in the Morganville area, assuming ownership from his father who established the business in 1929. The Morganville facilities will continue to operate. No change has been planned in the personnel at Manhattan.

The Manhattan purchase included all property at the Hatchery east of the city, including feed mill and growing houses; and the new growing houses between the hatchery and Wamego. The turkey farm was not included.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson reside in Morganville with their three children, a son 15, a girl 11 and a boy 9.

Smith County Taxpayers Argue Value Of Pasture

SMITH CENTER — Rocky pastureland and scarce water make cattlemen in southwestern Smith County believe taxes are too high in comparison with their neighbors to the northwest.

A group of Southwestern Smith County farmers have complained to the Smith County commission that the re-evaluation of their area is too high.

Tax valuation in Smith County was raised 5 million dollars and a total of 18 per cent over last year.

"In many cases, the taxes in southwestern Smith County have increased as much as 100 per cent," said Lewis Sweat, spokesman for the group. "Mine have increased 50 per cent."

Sweat said taxes in the northwest part of the county in many instances decreased this year due to lower valuations.

Southwestern Smith County farmers believe there is injustice in the re-evaluation because pasture land in the southern part of the county is more rocky and rough than the Northern area.

Sweat believes the rocky pasture in the southern area is taxed on an average of $20 an acre more than the pasture in the northern area.

"There is more water available in the Northern pastures," he said. "Not only is the pastureland in Southern Smith County evaluated higher than the rest of Smith County, it also is higher than the pastureland in neighboring Philips and Osborne Counties.

"Osborne County taxes are based on an old evaluation. This means Smith County farms in the Osborne unified school district really do have a heavy tax load."

R. W. Lumpkin, Smith County clerk, said there probably were some individual cases of over-evaluation. However, he said he believes the new valuation is basically fair.

Roscoe Bush, U.S. Soil Conservation Service office manager at Smith Center, said there was some difference in land in the north and south areas of the county.

"The re-evaluation was done by a professional firm, Cole Layer and Trumble of Dayton, Ohio, and this group is familiar with pastureland in Kansas," Lumpkin said.

Lumpkin said that, in his opinion, the southern area had not carried its full load in taxes before the re-evaluation.

'Investment' In College Pays Off

Rates of return on the "investment" in a college education rise.

A new study by economists Melvin Borland and Donald E. Yett, based on 1950 and 1960 census statistics, shows that the higher earning power of a college graduate compared with that of a high school grad is equal to a return of more than 14.8% a year on the cost of college tuition. In 1950, the comparable figure was 12.7%.

The study, published in Trans-action magazine, shows that the investment in the final year of college is the most profitable. Men with less than four years of college could expect to earn over their lives only $42,193 more than high school graduates, compared with $120,659 more for the college graduate.

Dropping out of college penalizes Negroes far more heavily than whites, the researchers find.

Second Runnerup

Carol Sauerwein of Newton was named the second runnerup for National Pork Queen at the annual convention of the National Pork Producers Federation at Louisville, Ky. She won the Kansas title early in October.

NATIONAL GUARD CUTS RECRUITMENT

The Army National Guard, apparently overstrength, will no longer accept recruits without previous military training. It means young men who want to sign up with the Guard so they can avoid two years of active duty in the draft can no longer do so. The Army Guard has 417,300 men on its rolls. The change was made effective last week and applied to all units with only rare exceptions.

Turn To Private Loans For Farm Program

To ease loan demands on the U.S. Treasury, the Agriculture department is turning to private lenders for most of the financing needed for multibillion-dollar price support programs on this year's record farm production.

These private institutions are being encouraged to put up the money by favorable interest payments being offered by the department.

This private funding lessens the department's demands on the Treasury for loan money at a time when the government faces an increasing deficit.

As of October 31, price support loans totaling 1.6 billion dollars had been made to growers on wheat, corn, other grains, soybeans, cotton, tobacco and other crops.

Of this amount, $1.4 billion dollars was provided by banks and other private agencies. The department expects more funds to be supplied by these institutions as farmers seek additional loans on crops being harvested.

The private lenders supply the money by purchasing department-issued certificates of interest covering a pool of the farm products stored under the support loans.

The department is pledged to redeem the certificates at any time, and heavy redemption could force a turn to the Treasury for funds.

To keep private lenders interested in acquiring and holding additional certificates, the department has raised from 5.125 per cent to 5.375 per cent the annual interest rate paid on the certificates.

The volume of loans on 1967 products is expected to run more than 2.5 billion dollars because of record production and relatively low prices. The loan volume last year was 1.7 billion dollars on much smaller farm production.

One Of Many Talking Politics

Former congressman and governor, William H. Avery was given a national 4-H alumni award at Chicago late in November, but he's gotten a larger share of publicity as a likely candidate for the Senate should Senator Frank Carlson retire, as political observers now think he will.

A few weeks ago, with Senator Carlson presumably unbeatable and Governor Docking's popularity high one could hardly find any potential political candidates in the state. Carlson's suggestion that he might announce retirement has changed that. Now, announced or unannounced, these candidacies are in the air: Docking for Governor, Docking for the Senate, Dole for Governor, Dole for the Senate, Crutcher for Governor, Montgomery for Governor, Saffels for Governor, Shriver for Governor, Avery for the Senate, Glee Smith for Governor, Keith Sebelius for Governor.

Some of the proposals are doubtless made of pure air, but if Carlson does retire, Kansas will have lots of political choices to make in 1968.

Pork is the first item eliminated in the diets of diet-conscious people; is not a convenient food, such as hamburger and other products; and it not considered a prestige food, nor a favorite of youngsters.

Of the five cents collected from producers, one cent will go to the National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago, for its meats promotion program. Two cents will be retained by state pork producers councils and two cents by the National Council.

Pork Producers Work Toward Giant Promotion

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The National Pork Producers Council agreed last week to launch a producer-financed pork promotion program that could amount to as much as $4 million a year.

It will be financed by a voluntary five-cent per hog deduction from producers' sales. One council official said the object would be to "correct some mistaken opinions some consumers have of pork."

The officials explained the program was accepted after a survey of consumers' meat preferences in three major cities show-

E. C. Riley Firm Auctioned

Delmar Shoemaker, Glen Elder auctioneer, works for a bid at the auction last week of the NCK Implement Co. at Cawker City. Sold were the assets of E. C. Riley's former farm implement business, taken over last August by James Warren, former Glen Elder bank president when Riley's financial house collapsed. Riley, right, former Cawker City mayor who had built a multi-million dollar business empire from his start as an implement and auto dealer, has been charged in Mitchell and Wyandotte counties with intent to defraud two banks thru fraudulent promissory notes.

Despite the flurry about him, Riley still appears to have much sympathy and support in his home community, and many contend that his creditors have ruined his chances of a comeback because they destroyed the value of his assets or sold them far short of actual value under distress circumstances.

Britain's Cattle Plague Quiets

Britains episode of foot and mouth disease — a maimer of cattle — appeared to be subsiding last week.

Government debate on banning foreign meat imports continued, with no decision in sight. A spokesman for the Agriculture Ministry would only say: "The question of the import of meat is under consideration."

Farming organizations kept up their pressure for a ban.

The total of farms affected in the six-week attack is 1320. The worst previous figures were 1800 in 1923 and 1400 in 1924.

But with more than a quarter of a million animals slaughtered in the drive to stamp out the attack, it was by far the most costly to the nation's dairy, pig and sheep herds.

Already the government has paid out more than $19 million in compensation for slaughtered animals. Private insurance firms expect claims of close to $5 million.

It was costing the British housewife an extra 6 to 12 cents a pound more for her Sunday roast. The Meat Traders' Federation blamed declining imports and difficulties in obtaining home produce for the rising prices.

Moxley Sale Averages $575

COUNCIL GROVE — The Moxley Hall Hereford sale grossed $39,300 with 68 lots averaging $575.

The 48 bulls in the sale averaged $670 and 20 heifers $355.

The top bull at the sale brought $2500 from Dr. Marrow, Rimrock Ranch, Dunlap. Paul Mudd of Gorham was a buyer at $1500, and Nicholas Pickard of Kansas City bought another bull at $1050.

Volume bull buyers were Matador Cattle Co., Wichita, and M Ranch, Junction City.

Bill and Jean McDonald took the top heifer for the Cottonwood Falls ranch at $1025. Glen O'Connor of Richland and Byers Hereford Ranch of Emmett were buyers of other top selling females.

With many local buyers joining the regulars from Kansas and out-of-state, we ran a heavy sale on a cattle market fully 50¢ to $1.00 higher than a week ago. Holstein steers, which had been scarce for several weeks, showed up in large numbers and brought a top of $21.50. The swine market also was an active one, with more than 500 feeder and weaning pigs going through the ring. This is a growing hog market, and you can expect the top dollar when you bring your animals to Junction City. We have packer buyers who will buy all the butcher hogs you bring in.

We are looking for another busy sale this coming Saturday. We could use more heifer calves for supply our buyers' needs; and there's a good demand for Holstein steers. The following is a sampling of the sales made last Saturday:

Set Up 1968 Grain Shipments To India

More than 3 million tons of grain, mostly wheat, will be sent to India during the first half of next year, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman announced last week.

The shipment will equal that sent in the first six months of this year.

Of particular importance to the Great Plains area, including Kansas, is that a substantial part of the 112 million bushels of wheat being shipped will be hard red winter wheat, a spokesman for the department pointed out.

Under PL 480, the United States will ship 3 million tons of wheat and a half million tons of sorghums to India.

The U.S. shipments are being continued to help meet demands of a rising population and help rebuild depleted stocks, officials said, although India is rebounding from two years of droughts and expects record grain harvests this year.

The exact makeup of the shipments and the financing terms are to be worked out in negotiations with New Delhi.

The talks will focus also on self-help programs. Freeman said in a statement: "India is giving high priority to accelerated agricultural development toward the time when food aid would no longer be required."

The subcontinent expects a record grain harvest this year of 95 million tons, surpassing the previous high of 89 million tons in 1964-65 before the droughts.
