

LETTER FROM THE PUBLISHER

Dear Members:

It has been quite a joy to publish this issue of The National Advisor. The vote of confidence from the NAAAA Executive Board and the support from Brian Mand and Lynn Lashbrook went far in keeping my enthusiasm peaked. Also, the NAAAA and the Career Guidance Foundation's Athletic Guidance Center, are to be commended for bringing to fruition a unique partnership. As a 12 year old non-profit educational organization, we at CGF are proud to have contributed to an association and publication whose time has come.

The National Advisor and the NAAAA are uniquely positioned to give direction to the promptly evolving career of "athletic advising". And most obviously, each and every NAAAA member has the opportunity to contribute. Never has there been a greater need for scholarly position papers and published opinions. The time is so right-----our country's colleges and universities, athletes, and our academic advisors need direction. A direction which can only be filled by our members professional guidance. Start now to think about contributing to the next National Advisor.

As a long time member and supporter of NAAAA I stand poised to facilitate the publishing of The National Advisor. My recommendations will be made to the Executive Board in July to even better this publication while simultaneously protecting the integrity for which our members can be proud. Your critical input is solicited and will be received with much appreciation. After all it's your publication.

Sincerely,

Richard Esquibas
Career Guidance Foundation
